additional cent on the gasoline tax. A committee has been appointed to look for funding. If no nds are available, the subcommittee was told to seek new legislation to provide the funds.

If no funds can be raised, the metropolitan area will be left with what Lee calls the "do nothing" alternative - no beltline, leaving mass transit as it is today and improving only a minimum number of highways. Other alternatives considered by the transportation policy committee were building the full beltline, building just the eastern half - the proposal endorsed by a citizens' advisory group - and building just the western half. The mass transit system will reduce traffic congestion, cut noise levels, conserve energy and diminish air pollution over the do nothing plan, Lee said, citing an 11-year study of the metropolitan area's transportation needs by the regional planning council. Under the metropolitan area's present highway and transit system, by 1990 34 per cent of the roads will have serious congestion problems. The mass transit system will, planners predict, cut that to 26 per cent - slightly ahead of the full beltline's to 28 per cent rating. A combination of part of the beltline and an improved transit system would cut congested

IN BRIEF

Justice Department Probing Hays Staff Worker Scandal

WASHINGTON (AP) - FBI agents are questioning possible witnesses in a Justice Department investigation of the relationship between Rep. Wayne Hays and a woman who claims she was paid $14,000-a-year in government funds to gratify his sexual desires. The public integrity section of the Justice Department's Criminal Division, recently established by Atty. Gen. Edward Levi to look into reports of official wrongdoing, is conducting the investigation, an informed source said

Havs, 64, chairman of the House Administration Committee, has denied the claim of Elizabeth Ray that her duties as a subcommittee staff worker consisted of having sexual relations with Hays.

Hays called Miss Ray "a very sick woman" and accused the Washington Post, which first published her allegations, of conducting a personal vendetta against him. In a statement, he called the article "malicious" and said he was considering filing suit against the paper.

Drug Prices May Drop

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Supreme Court decision allowing pharmacists to advertise the prices of their prescription drugs may mean that customers will pay less for medication, according to a consumer group involved in the case.

Alan B. Morrison, who represented the Virginia Citizens' Council in the case that led to the court's Monday ruling, said, "I would expect that some pharmacy chains will start advertising prices and that prices will start coming down."

The seven-man court majority said consumers have a constitutional right to receive information on prescription drug prices.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) - Sitting next to the casket, Sheri Hardy, 13, Joey, 11, and little Amber, 7, seemed unable to comprehend the tragedy that had befallen them, nor the mysteries of the course their mother had charted to provide for them after her death.

Where did they belong? And to whom? Within hours after cancer victim Linda Joy Hardy was buried Monday, in her 33rd year, her family issued a terse statement saying the three children will remain with relatives despite their mother's wishes that they be adopted by a California couple to whom she gave written

Hazing Victim Testifies

WASHINGTON (AP) - A Marine private who was shot in the hand by a drill instructor during hazing is testifying before a House panel investigating alleged Marine Corps training abuses. Pvt. Harry W. Hiscock was scheduled to testify today before the House personnel subcommittee. Hiscock and drill instructors at the Parris Island, S.C., training base testified at court martial proceedings last February that the instructors forced him to shout obscenities and degrading things while groveling on his hands and knees before he was accidentally shot.

Noise Concern Increases

WASHINGTON (AP) - Although a new Census Bureau study shows that crime ranks sixth among Americans' complaints about their neighborhoods, a bureau analyst says that doesn't necessarily mean people consider the other problems to be more serious.

A census study released Monday showed that in the 1974 annual housing survey, the most frequently cited inadequacy in neighborhoods was noise. Nearly half the households complained about noise, while only about a third complained about crime.

Mrs. Bechtold Again Slated For Court Date By DONNA ESTES Herald Staff Writer ALTAMONTE SPRINGS - Mrs. Jean Bechtold, the Spring Oaks baby-sitter who lost her appeal in circuit court last week to stop prosecution in the city court here, is scheduled to appear again in Municipal Judge Gene R. Stephenson's courtroom Thursday. The charge - operating a day care center in violation of the zoning ordinance - is the same one on which she was convicted some weeks ago and fined $204, plus court costs, on two counts.

She said today the decision given by Circuit Court Judge Kenneth Leffler ordering her to stop baby-sitting is being appealed to the Florida Supreme Court in Tallahassee. "I'm trying to stay out of the Altamonte court because if I go back there again I'm going to jail," Mrc. Bechtold said today. "The judge told me if I ever appear back in that court on the same charge I will be incarcerated. I'm not looking forward to that at all." She said she is currently baby-sitting two children, the number city officials have said she can watch at a time and remain within the law. "My kids (those she was babysitting) are scattered among other baby-sitters in the

"I was making $60 a week, taking care of six children. Who was I hurting?" asked Mrs. Bechtold. "They were all Spring Oaks children. They still come to my house after their mothers are home from work to play with my children.

"The city says I can baby-sit two children, but that, three children would constitute a day care center. That's utterly ridiculous. If something happens to my next door neighbor who has five children I can take care of only two of them for her," she said. Mrs. Bechtold complained that others in her subdivision, north of SR-436, are operating full-fledged business in the development from a fence business to a garage nursery. "Those are real businesses. There are others who take in sewing, teach piano, teach ballet and baton and nothing is done about them," she said.

"Homes are being sold out of a sales office in the subdivision. Income tax is being done in another home and one woman is baby-sitting 15 pre-school children. City officials have said that no one has complained about those businesses," she said.

"I guess you have to keep your fingers crossed and hope to God your neighbors like you. Mayor Norman Floyd said recently that officials have been heeding the law which requires a follow-up on all complaints filed. He said both oral and written complaints were filed against Mrs. Bechtold, requiring city action.

He said officials, sworn to enforce the law, must do so and that citizens do not have the right to pick and choose which laws they will obey.

Livestock Industry Loses $123 Million To Insects

GAINESVILLE (AP) - Insects, mites and ticks took a $123-million bite out of Florida's livestock industry in 1975, say University of Florida entomologists Philip G. Koehler and Jerry F. Butler. They have reported that external parasites are the most serious threat to animals and the most costly for the industry. Feeding on animal body tissues, blood, skin and hair, parasites cause reduced weight, weakness and vulnerability to disease in beef and dairy cattle, poultry, horses and household pets. Koehler, who visits counties with large cattle operations to demonstrate treatments of infested animals and methods of pest control, said the horn fly and cattle tail louse are the two most prevalent pests on Florida cattle ranches.

Dr. Lionel Blackman of West Palm Beach, author of a shock therapy handbook for doctors, said that "with a good psychiatrist giving the treatment there's no reason there would be any memory loss" relating to the trial.

Castro Letter Says Cubans

Are Pulling Out Of Angola STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) - Fidel Castro has written Swedish Prime Minister Olof Palme that Cuban troops are being withdrawn from Angola and half of them will be out by the end of 1976, an official of the Swedish Foreign Ministry said today.

The Swedish official said Palme gave Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger a full report on the letter from the Cuban prime minister. Castro's letter gave no indication when the second half of the Cuban force would be withdrawn, the official said. He reported that Palme received the letter just before Kissinger arrived in Stockholm Sunday. The U.S. government estimates that Castro, at the urging of the Soviet government, sent about 15,000 troops to the former Portuguese African colony to fight for the Marxist Popular Movement (MPLA), With Soviet arms and the help of the Cubans, the MPLA defeated two Angolan nationalist factions backed by the United States and South Africa.

Haun's findings about the ereaved showed the main things said to them that were most helpful were good memories about the deceased and values in his or her life that were really appreciated.

"Also mentioned as helpfu were religious comments on the strengths of the deceased or the help of God in the bereaved's own life," said Haun, a minister of the Christian Disciples of

"Many times people say, am afraid I'm going to say the wrong thing or I don't know what to say.' And people coming in after the death seemed almost afraid to mention the deceased by name.

"But if you know something good, say it, because the sorrowing want to ventilate their hurts," he continued.

He found it takes no great ability to do the right thing with the bereaved because they are not particular about what is said or done, as long as it is

The bereaved tended to say the people they remembered most favorably were those who came quickly as soon as they heard of the death. Haun found the sorrowing didn't feel people had to stay very long. But many said friends came and stayed until relatives got there.

"Helpful things done were simple things like answering the door, straightening up the living room, doing the dishes or taking care of the children things anybody would be able to

"Then after the funeral was over, the bereaved appreciated simple things such as people ining them out to eat, calling them on the telephone, stopping by and saying 'Just wanted to see if you wanted to go and play cards or do something else this afternoon."

After the funeral was over. the bereaved needed some help. They begged people not to forget them, to let them talk about the deceased and show their emotions.

Most of the bereaved said they had a hard or extremely hard time adjusting to the death experience. The degree of adjustment difficulty experienced depended on the relationship of the deceased and heir level of religious orient-

Those losing a child tended to have a more serious adjustment difficulty than those losing any other relative, including a mate. This finding differs from earlier research. The bereaved with a higher level of religious orientation reported easier adjustment to the death experience.

Among suggestions the bereaved gave to help others face grief after death of a loved one were developing a meaningful religious faith, keeping busy and remembering the good

They also suggested making uneral, business and family arrangements in advance: inderstanding various stages of grief they will experience, and accepting death as a normal part of life.

Contrary to much current literature, Haun found most people in his sample openly discussed death in their childhood nomes, without reluctance or hesitation on the part of their arents.

Most of the bereaved prefer burial for disposing of their bodies. While funeral directors objected to donating one's remains to science, many clergy saw nothing wrong with it.

Over 95 per cent of the bereaved felt very positive toward the funeral director, saying they felt no serious pressure to buy or do anything and would recommend the funeral home to others or use it again them

Over 90 per cent said the saw more value in funerals now than before their bereavement experience, mentioning most often religious values and the opportunity for friends to offer the family comfort in their sor-

Over 60 per cent of the funeral directors wanted the casket open at the time of the funeral, compared with almost 80 per cent of the clergy who wished it to remain closed. Haun found the bereaved almost evenly divided between wanting the casket open or closed.

Pendulum Swings In Right Direction

A young man gets out of college and goes to work, and the first thing he discovers is that he has been shortchanged in verbal skills.

He is told to write a report. It is a simple report and requires no great amount of ability. Yet, the struggle is long and the product is poor. With improper training in English, he has a burden on his shoulders that he might throw off at a later date, and he might not.

Somebody has played a mean trick on this young man and his generation. He has been allowed to muddle his way through his educational experience with the belief that denying oneself a proper background in grammar, in a phrase from the "now generation," is "not all that bad." (Ya know?)

Young men and women who have come through recent schools have moved into a world of commerce facing a sad irony: life is full of reports and the person who can report the best probably will go home with the best job. The problem is that down through the years of elementary, junior high and high school, the old methods of teaching English have been tossed aside.

We have been allowed to grunt and groan and mumble instead of practicing elocution. The years of the sixties were filled with protest and one form of protest was against the Establishment. It began with expletives through the bull horn and worked its way into the frenzied chant of a crowd in tur-

Facing Reality

In a step toward whipping inflation, the government and the trade unions in Great Britain have agreed to limit pay increases to 4 pounds or about $7.32 a week.

Acceptance by union leaders of ceilings even more rigid than the 6-pound lids imposed last year is an acknowledgment of economic reality. The alternative was to price their members out of jobs and further aggravate the country's crippled economy.

But the new government headed by Prime Minister James Callaghan also made some tax concessions to the workers, complicating a budget deficit already at $22 billion and compounding the burden of public debt. And government leaders are being warned to cut spending if past sacrifices and those asked of Britons in the future are not to be in vain.

RAY CROMLEY Carter's Disturbing Goodness

WASHINGTON - For some months now ! have had a feeling of unease about Jimmy Carter. But nothing I could put my finger on.

In the past few days I have read a biography by the man himself, and I now know what gave rise to my unease. Nowhere in its 154 pages could I find an admission of a single fault.

Well, maybe three but listen: He confesses that perhaps in his student days at the Naval Academy, he didn't always do his

But he immediately cancels that admission by noting he was in the top 7 per cent of his class. And on page 139 he lists "A fault; I don't know how to compromise on any principle I believe is right..." Then he adds "But maybe this is a time on matters of principle, for an absence of in existence today management fulfilled employes' needs, there wouldn't be any need for labor unions. The reason labor unions have the power they have today management didn't fill the needs. Labor unions abolished the sweatshops yesterday and gave the worker an even chance to have his voice heard and the opportunity to earn a decent wage. In the process, however, union chiefs garnered great political power - in addition to great wealth.

Powerful union chiefs today are courted by Presidents in addition to a host of lower-echelon politicians. Bosses are wooed for the funds they can contribute to a campaign and for the votes they promise candidates in quest of the Holy Grail of political office.

Today, the average worker is faced on one hand with a wealthy boss, and on the other with a wealthy union leader - both of whom more than likely frequent the same posh after-hours clubs for en-

Imagine what it'll be like when public employes across the state are members of a labor union. The political clout will be tremendous. Politicians seeking office will be courting teachers' unions, as well as the traditional chiefs of industry in hopes of securing votes and-or campaign funds.

In Seminole County, however, something is happening that's just a little bit different. Commissioners here are attempting to fulfill workers' needs before labor unions get a foot in the door. One example is county government's new merit award system. For the 700 county workers, the merit system means rewards, for the most part, will come to those workers who consistently put out a better-than-average product.

Copeland has been rebuilding his team over and over and this year he will be returning nine seniors as starters. There will be only 35 or 36 players on the coming varsity, but Copeland is happier than he has been in several days. "In size we will be the biggest team I have ever had," he said. "We will be short on depth because we're still rebuilding, but we'll surprise some people if we get through the season without injury."

Friday night the Greyhounds get a chance to test their strength, playing two quarters in a jamboree at Lake Brantley in which all Seminole County teams will participate

Copeland is happy so far about the coming season. "We will be able to run the ball this coming season," he said. "We have a lot of young boys who can play. Out of the 35 or 36 who will be on the varsity, every boy will be capable of playing varsity ball. There were 112 out for varsity and junior varsity, and the varsity group will be big and strong," he said. The Greyhounds' starting line will average almost 220 pounds per man.

"Danny Williams will be returning at split end. He's 6-2 and 175. Our quarterback will be returning, too. He's Bob Burkhart, 6-2 and 175," he said. Herb Felder will also be returning as a starter. Last

Copeland thinks he has two of the best tackles in the area with Rory Stone, 6-4 and 230, and Mark Kendrick at 5-11 and 270. "We want to get Kendrick's weight down just a little bit," Copeland said. "If we get some fat off of him, it will increase his speed to go with his quickness."

Rick Bennett (205) and Kern Sweat (195), both starting guards, are returning. "If I've got a college prospect that's a sleeper, it's him," Copeland said, pointing to 6-3, 200-pound Barry Swearington, returning center. According to Copeland, Swearington is the leader this year in hustle and determination.

Wyman Jackson is back at running back. At 5-7 and 160, he's the smallest of returning starters. Ben Ansley, a 175-pound sophomore-to-be, will be at fullback and Stan Balabanski at wingback will round out the backfield. Kendrick and Ansley will be the only non-senior starters.

"Last year we were 3-7 because we did not have any consistency," Copeland said. "Last year we got beat in some close ball games that could have turned the season around for us. But the beauty is that we'll be playing the same boys this coming season and they'll remember the games," he added with a smile.

"It's hard to get a winning spirit in a very young ball club on the road, like we had for a schedule last year with our first three games away," Copeland pointed out. "This year our first three games are at home and we open against district champion Oak Ridge, who we want very badly," he said.

"I think we're going to look sloppy this Friday night at the jamboree, but that's not my concern for spring football. I don't try to polish up during spring." Copeland got a far-away look in his face, "We're capable of winning. I don't want to predict, because anything can happen. But, if we don't get anybody hurt. . . we could surprise a lot of

Huffing and puffing went hand-in-hand with Super-Athlete competition last weekend at the Seminole High Stadium, where Randy Brown was crowned overall champion in the third annual event sponsored by the Rotaract Club of Sanford. $300 was raised for the athletic department and Boostera Club. Other winners were Donald Washington (6-8 grades), Ricky Wells (9-12 grades), Brown (19-26 years Gregory Me old), Ken Kroog (27-35), Roger Crocker (36-49) and Gib Blake (50-over). Ford Holds Off Reagan; Carter Increases Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS The heaviest presidential primary day in American history is over with President Ford holding off Ronald Reagan on what might have been a big Reagan day and Democratic front-runner Jimmy Carter increasing his delegate lead. There were six primaries on Tuesday, three in Southern or border states and three in the far West, areas that are the cornerstone of Reagan's Sun Belt strategy. But Ford managed a split in the popular vote, winning as expected in Oregon and beating Reagan by narrow margins in ennessee and Kentucky. And while Reagan's bigger wins in Nevada, Idaho and Arkansas gave him a net gain of 20 delegates on the day, the President still leads, 779 delegates to 642 Carter won Arkansas, Kentucky and Tennessee, but lost air traffic controllers, the people who guide airplanes in and out of Church also won in his home state of Idaho. Impact Fees Center Of Controversy

Taxpayers May Get $5 Million Bill

By ED PRICKETT Herald Staff Writer

After an emotional debate over impact fees, the Seminole County Commission Tuesday voted to ask Florida Atty. Gen. Robert Shevin for an opinion on whether Planned Unit Development (PUD) zoning classification is legal.

The issue centers on the legality of the county's collection of a $310-per-unit impact fee from area developers and builders. At stake is some $5-million in promises, slated for repairing old schools and for the countywide fire district.

Commissioners John Kimbrough and Richard Williams maintain taxpayers will be required to pick up the $5 million tab if developers and builders are released from promises made two years ago. County Atty. Thomas Freeman said he will write Shevin, but Freeman said, "I will ask Kimbrough to draft the question."

At one point in the meeting, Commission Chairman Michael Hattaway had to gavel the commissioners to silence. Then he called a recess as Commissioner Sid Vihlen Jr. demanded the commission rule on a request for a plat approval from a South Seminole land developer. As Vihlen attempted to drive home his opinion, Hattaway told the commissioner, "All you're doing is clouding the issue." Vihlen attempted to secure a ruling after developer Everette Huskey demanded one more motion after three or four similar attempts failed.

Huskey challenged the commission's ability to govern after commissioners refused to grant him a plat approval on 32 units Huskey owns in Sweetwater Oaks Freeman has ruled that collection of impact fees without a county ordinance is illegal. And, two weeks ago Huskey asked for the plat approval after refusing to pay the impact fee. Williams offered to make a test case out of the Huskey incident to determine if PUD zoning is legal. Huskey was the first developer to ask that fees be returned on PUD in addition to conventional At Tuesday's meeting Huskey offered to pay the fee. He said the county's refusal to grant the plat approval is "putting me out of business." Huskey also complained to the governor's office and threatened to file a lawsuit against the commission. But Kimbrough said Huskey found a "legal oophole" and intends to renege on earlier promises to pay the $310 per unit fee.

"You've already withdrawn commitments on conventional zoning. What makes us think the same thing wouldn't happen on PUD?" Kimbrough

Then Commissioner Harry Kwiatkowski asked if the commitments Huskey made in Sweetwater were voluntary or mandatory. "If it's mandatory I'm in favor of Huskey paying," Kwiatkowski said Williams said he believes the PUD commitment is mandatory. PUD zoning is different than conventional in that commitments are drawn up and are on file at the county courthouse, whereas conventional zoning promises are verbal. Kimbrough's contention was that if all fees an illegal, then the commission would be out of order to address itself only to the Huskey issue. He said the county needs a ruling to determine if PUD zoning is legal. If it's not, Kimbrough said all PUD should rezoned back to its original classification. Freeman also ruled that Huskey shouldn't be allowed to put the promised impact fees in a escrow account Vihlen made a motion to exempt Huskey from payment of the fees, but it failed to get a second. Then he made a final motion to put the fees in escrow. That failed also.

Oviedo High Teacher Challenges Principal By JEAN PATTESON

Herald Staff Writer

For the past year, Oviedo High School French and Spanish teacher Carol Edwards has received outstanding evaluations. But her teaching contract has not been renewed for the coming year.

"In my opinion, I can find a better Principal Keith Stone in the pink slip Mrs. Edwards received April 29. Stone also said Tuesday in a telephone interview that if an ap-
