Action Ends Seminole 'Smut' Operation Herring Makes Porno Deal

By BOB LLOYD
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole-Brevard State Atty. Abbott Herring has negotiated a settlement that he says virtually cleans up pornography in Seminole.

Herring announced Saturday that Jerry Lee Mable, 31, of Orlando, and Marva Dean Graham, of Casselberry, have signed a cease and desist agreement stating they won't operate outlets for sale of alleged pornographic materials in the county.

Ms. Graham was arrested July 17 on a charge of possession of obscene materials when agents from Herring's office, the Seminole sheriff's department and Altamonte police raided a warehouse at 123 Josiane Court, Altamonte Springs and confiscated tons of materials including movies, projectors, books and magazines.

Officers said the warehouse was being used by Trancon Corporation. Mable, at that time was an officer of the corporation.

Circuit Court Judge Vold Williams Jr. threw out the raid case Aug. 18, declaring the search warrant used was defective. Herring appealed the decision to the Fourth District Court of Appeals at West Palm Beach.

Mable later filed a federal court suit charging Herring, Sheriff John Polk and Altamonte Police chief Justus East with willful and reckless disregard of Trancon's rights. The suit sought an injunction and $10,000 damages.

Herring said Saturday that the agreement entered into by Mable stipulates that the federal court suit will be dismissed upon approval of the court and that approximately 60 per cent of the materials seized in the warehouse raid will be returned to Mable for transportation out of the county.

"The state has returned the materials to Mable, officials said, except for three cartons of books and magazines valued at about $2,000. These will be destroyed by Herring's office."

Herring said, under the agreement, he will drop his appeal of the warehouse raid evidence suppression.

"This is a big step in wiping out pornography in Seminole," Herring said, reflecting that the negotiations through Mable's attorney, Gerald Rutberg of Casselberry, "were probably the prudent thing to do."

At one time Mable had a residence in south Seminole but authorities say he has now moved from the county.

Mable was fined $2,400 by a Federal Court last year for interstate transportation of obscene materials and later charged with probation violation for failure to pay a fine.

He was arrested at Sanford in mid-December on Pinellas County warrants charging he sold or distributed obscene magazines to adult book stores over the state.

Officials said that case is still pending in Pinellas County. Authorities said that Mable, at one time in the past, was associated with the Olympiad Book Store on SR-436 at Altamonte Springs.

Comptroller Opinion Asked By Vogt

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

State Sen. John Vogt (D-Cocoa) has asked Attorney General Robert Shevin for an opinion on the legality of creating an appointed office of county comptroller for Seminole County.

The senator, chairman of the Seminole County Legislative delegation, indicated at a recent legislative hearing, he would like the new opinion to be a formal one on legality and be written in language that any citizen could interpret without the assistance of a Philadelphia lawyer.

Vogt first asked for an opinion when the Seminole County Commission proposed legislation separating the county and finance responsibilities of Circuit Court Clerk Arthur H. Beckwith Jr.

The county's plan is to appoint a comptroller to handle its fiscal affairs, in line with modernization and consolidation of courthouse departments.

What Vogt received from Shevin was "an advisory opinion" on the "County Comptroller — propriety of special law providing for appointment by the board — of county commissioners."

The lead paragraph in the somewhat complicated opinion said, "This is a response to your request for an 'advisory opinion' concerning a proposed special act creating the office of county comptroller of Seminole County and providing for the appointment of the INCUMBENT by the board of county commissioners — presumably, as to its propriety as a practical matter as well as its legality."

At one of the legislative hearings held in Seminole has been suggested that the county plans to name the incumbent, Beckwith, county comptroller.

Resources Council Okays Wekiva Tag

By MICKEY LOCHRIDGE
Herald Staff Writer

The department also has decided to "continue working" on the problem of fish camp owners on the islands in the river in Seminole County, said Delbert Euga, a member of the council on conservation and environment with the department.

Euga said guidelines would have to be worked out in order that the more than 40 well kept fishing camps may remain on the islands in the river, while that 8-mile section of the river receives a "scenic" river designation.

Euga reported the latest developments on the much debated Wekiva River from discussions this week with the organization says the department of natural resources in Tallahassee.

Euga said recommendations on the 4.5 mile segment in Seminole County, from the Wekiva River Haven Fish Camp to the St. Johns River, and the 6 mile stretch in Lake County, from SR 46 to the St. Johns, may be presented to the governor and the cabinet for approval within two weeks.

Requirements for the "wild and scenic" designation provide for no encroachment by man in the area.

Euga, a local environmentalist, said the council will be "in agreement" to retain the well-kept fishing camps in order that they may be used for ranger stations and other state use, if the state has that segment of the river designated as "scenic."

The "scenic" designation allows for well-groomed development, but at present there are several run down camps which must be removed before the designation will be approved, Euga said.

Euga said he "wouldn't even guess" at a date when the developed area of the river would be recommended for designation as "scenic."

He said a lot of work has to be done in the area of scheduling man power to enforce state environmental regulations on the river and that funds must be approved.

Armed Robbery Probed

Two black men, one armed with a .38 caliber pistol, robbed an Exxon Service Station of $200 in Sanford early Saturday morning and fled on foot, according to the Seminole County Sheriff's department.

Sheriff's deputies Saturday were searching for the two men, one identified as his brother and the second man about 18 years old.

Service station attendant Dennis J. Bohula told deputies the two men came from behind the station and told him, "We are going to rob you... put the money in the bag."

The older man pressed the pistol to Bohula's side and Bohula put the money in the cash drawer into the white bag that the younger man was carrying, deputies said.

The two men also stole $5 from Bohula's wallet. Bohula told deputies the two men were intoxicated at the time of the robbery.

Impact Fees On Shaky Ground

By BILL BELLEVILLE
Herald Staff Writer

The future of impact fees—"voluntary" commitments by builders to schools, police and fire and other services—in Seminole County stands on shaky grounds in the face of organized opposition by area builders.

If the builders are successful, other sources of revenue will have to be found to replace the millions of dollars already committed.

Representatives from the Home Builders Association of Mid-Florida have already been talking with individual county commissioners about tossing out the fees, and generally relaxing zoning standards. The Herald has learned.

After Newest Employee Quits Post Fire Chief Rapped By Council

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD — Fire Chief Roy LaBosierra came under fire from the city council in a workshop session after he announced the latest firefighter, hired Jan. 2, plans to quit April 1.

The rapid turnover in the fire department — this will be the third man in little more than three months — was hit by Councilman H.A. Scott, who asked LaBosierra if the men were leaving because they didn't want to work for the city or because they didn't want to work for him.

LaBosierra insisted the conflict was between the city's personnel policy which requires a six-month probationary period before pay raises are given and the state retirement fund policy which requires an eight per cent deduction from salary after only 90 days.

Council Chairman J.R. Grant, saying the fire chief has approached him on many occasions over the past several weeks asking special treatment for firefighters, accused LaBosierra "You don't have the best interests of the city at heart."

refuted LaBosierra's statement that the firefighter was hired under one personnel policy and a new one was adopted afterwards. Mrs. Shomate said the current policy, sponsored by Council member June Lormann and modeled on the Seminole County policy, went into effect Jan. 1 and the new firefighter went on duty Jan. 2.

Grant said the "ditch diggers" in Public Works Department are just as important as firefighters and if the personnel policy were waived for one it should be changed for all or else discarded.

Urging economy, Grant asked LaBosierra to be conservative in the use of electricity in the fire station. "I'm not an L.E.D. I won't walk behind you turning out the lights," Grant said, adding, however, it is not necessary for all the lights in the fire department to be on all day long.

Grant recommended that the city council take over full responsibility for hiring a new firefighter to make sure the city is properly informed about city policy.

Robbery, Rape Trials To Highlight Court Egg Theft Action Delayed

BY BOB LLOYD
Herald Staff Writer

Circuit Court Judge Robert B. McGregor has delayed sentencing two men convicted of grand larceny of a truckload of eggs until the defendants take polygraph tests.

Donald Ray Channel, 20, of Cassberry, and Earl Wayne Durden, 24, of Leesburg, still maintain they're innocent and didn't steal a refrigerated van loaded with 273 dozen eggs from Mussewhite Eggs Inc., Forest City, on Dec. 11.

Durden claims he just went along for the ride when Channel used a rental truck to deliver part of the eggs to a Tampa firm. The men were arrested the next day when they returned to seek payment of a check from the Tampa egg dealer.

Channel told Judge McGregor last week when sentencing was scheduled in the case that he knew the eggs were stolen but didn't steal them himself.

Chappell admitted that he held up an Altamonte Springs convenience store Dec. 30 and an Orlando drug store on Dec. 26. The two cases were consolidated for trial at Sanford after Chappell waived venue in Orange County.

Question: Are the CONTENTS of your safe deposit box insured?

Answer: Probably not!

True, safe deposit vaults and boxes provide far greater protection than an individual could provide himself. But, if the financial institution where you rent a safe deposit box were robbed or looted, the financial institution, itself, would be protected by insurance, but you would not be. Nor could you collect from the financial institution without entering into costly litigation and proving negligence in court.

FIRST FEDERAL OF SEMINOLE introduces a "first" to central Florida. Effective March 1, 1975 all box-holders who rent safe deposit boxes at First Federal of Seminole will receive a $5,000 Life and Casualty policy—absolutely free—insuring the contents* of their boxes up to that amount. Ford Compromise The Only Choice

President Ford has indicated a willingness to compromise with Congress on energy to meet the nation's economic and energy problems.

By acceding to a "reasonable" request by leaders of the Democratic majority in Congress to delay for 60 days further scheduled increases in import fees on foreign oil, Mr. Ford acknowledged the strength of the congressional opposition to his proposals and the potential for stalemate.

But the President rejected the appearance of retreat by following through on his promise to veto legislation suspending his authority to impose the tariffs by executive action. The challenge to Congress is apparent.

A concerted drive to override the veto could be viewed by an unhappy public as indication of a preference by the Democratic leadership of confrontation over cooperation. To let the veto stand, however, would leave Mr. Ford with the option of restoring the tariff increases if he disagrees with congressional alternatives.

The national interest will best be served by the assumption on both sides of the energy controversy that each is bargaining in good faith.

The President has hinted that a program advanced by House Ways and Means Chairman Al Ullman, envisioning increases in the gasoline tax up to as much as 40 cents, would be acceptable to him. Like the tariff, the tax plan would drive fuel taxes upward and discourage consumption. It would concentrate conservation efforts on the area of greatest effect—the automobile—and relieve the potential for hardship on families who heat their homes with oil.

And Mr. Ford already has endorsed the Democrats' tax cut and rebate bill as a stimulant to a faltering economy.

The recommendations if Democrat Ullman of Oregon, however, have yet to be tested in the mind of Democratic consensus and translated to legislative form.

Perhaps the Ford demonstration of flexibility will spur similar efforts among Democrats of divergent views. The American people, certainly, can expect no less.

One freshman representative reportedly scorned the President's avowed eagerness to compromise by saying, "He's got no choice."

But neither, in this critical period, does Congress.

Not For The Free

Francis G. Knight, director of the Passport Office, has recommended that all American citizens carry a uniform identification card at all times.

Miss Knight argues that the U.S. government is suffering heavy financial losses in Social Security, welfare, food stamps, medical care and poverty programs because people who do not qualify for these benefits—including many illegal aliens—are receiving them. She estimates the loss at $1 billion a year.

Her figures probably are correct. However, more than a waste of resources is involved. The United States of America is an open, pluralistic society which instinctively rejects the thought of reducing each citizen to a cipher or a card. That is the hallmark of a police state.

Moreover, a central registry for identification of Americans in Washington would create still another layer of bureaucracy to an already top-heavy government.

Americans have no problem in identifying themselves or proving their citizenship when they cash a check, get a job or engage in the myriad of activities in which trust has to be established.

The only reason that cheaters are not exposed is that we do not have the will to use the tools that are already at our command.

A Fair Share

Citizens of Israel have received a new bill for the cost of sustaining a free country in the midst of potential enemies. They will pay 57 per cent of their national income to the central government.

The lesson that all free people can learn from Israel is that retaining freedom in a threatening world should not be taken granted. The price in money is very high. In human terms it is cheap.

BERRY'S WORLD

During the past week, this reporter has had the pleasure of working with members of the Sanford Naval Academy's rowing team. The results of that labor are featured in the Seminole magazine today.

I had the misconception that the SNA boys are much like many private school student bodies when I first came to Sanford—either "poor little rich kids" (famed off to private school because they were to much trouble in public school, or mental giants, out of place in public school).

I have learned that the members of the navy rowing team are far from "misfits" of any kind. In fact, the cooperation, consideration and willingness to assist these tired old bones was super-great.

Normally, I try not to be personal in my writing, but stepping out of line I say many thanks to the rowing squad, Coach Tom Frazier and to the entire staff at Sanford Naval Academy.

And good sailing, or should that be rowing, fellows.

That's 30 for today (which means this is the end of this mess.)

THE PRIME RATE IS FALLING! THE PRIME RATE IS FALLING!

Around The Clock

They're making big plans down Longwood-way. There'll be dancing in the streets on April 5 and 6 commemorating their centennial year.

The Central Florida Society for Historical Preservation will stage walking tours involving seven historic homes.

Tours will start at the historical Bradlee-McIntyre House and be conducted at 15-minute intervals from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday and from 1:30 to 5 p.m. on Sunday.

The street dance will occur on Saturday from 8 to 11 p.m. on SR 427, between Warren and Church Avenues. Danny Robinson will set the pace for square and round dancing.

Income from tour and dance admissions will be used toward the continuing restoration of the Bradley-McIntyre house which was moved from Hainesville Springs to the Longwood village square in 1973.

I wouldn't want you to think that I'm writing the federal budget because of my anti-ERA stand (Heaven forbid that thought). However, did you know that the USS Sanctuary, the Navy's only hospital ship and the only Navy ship to which women were assigned as crewmembers will be decommissioned in March 1975.

The decision to deactivate Sanctuary supposedly was made for budgetary reasons.

This action will end the women-at-sea pilot program which was started in November 1972. Over the past two years, 19 women officers and 97 enlisted women have served aboard the ship.

They can say it was budgetary. I have my opinion, however.)

A special 'help' for the parents of students enrolled at the Sanford Grammar School.

The students will be able to purchase their own books at the Book Fair the week of March 17 through 21. Hundreds of books will be on display for sale to parents and friends of students, as well as to the general public for home reading selections.

Hours of the sale will be from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

A most unusual call from Santa Ana, Calif., the other day.

It was from a Judy Sullivan of 2409 W. Edna Dr., that city, who was trying to get word to her husband that she was soon going into the hospital for a serious operation. (It was reported that Gerald Sullivan was in the Sanford area during the month of February.)

The police had been alerted earlier and tried locating the man at an address which turned out to be incorrect.

If anyone has information on Gerald Sullivan or knows where he can be contacted, please alert him to the above.

REPORTERS' NOTEBOOK

Lost: One Attorney For City

Sanford City Attorney Vernon Mize, please come home.

Absent from this past week's city commission meeting, left the duty of reading through a complete ordinance to a breathless Mayor Lee Moore.

And not missing a chance for the obvious comeback to Moore's indifferent reading, Commissioner Gordon Meyer ribbingly asked, "would you please read it again, Mayor?"

Moore declined the request.

It's a fact. Government in the sunshine has its limits.

A recent luncheon of Sanford City Commissioners at the Holiday Inn turned into a "shoot-or-I-can't-hear-a-word-you're-saying" discussion because the air conditioner in the private dining room was broken and the commission was seated in the main dining room.

And the main dining room was full; full of distractions, full of conversation and full of silverware clinking on the china.

Commissioners, agreeable to the sunshine law, and even representatives of the press found the openness of the meeting carried the sunshine rule to an extreme.

Finances are so bad at Seminole Junior College (SJC) one professor remarked the school may have to take in washing.

At least it seemed that was temporarily the case at a SJC board of trustees meeting earlier this week.

To the board's approval of $3,000 for a washer-dryer combination to go in the gym, one was equipped. "It's getting hard times when you have to take in laundry."

—Ed Prickett

One officer of the court who works in the Seminole County Courthouse at Sanford has found a surefire way to carry his Playboy magazine with him for casual reading. Last week a reporter discovered the magazine had two covers. The outer cover was one that had been removed from a science publication.

Three county fire units last week responded to a south Seminole residence after a report of smoke and the smell of burning rubber at the household.

Firemen reported there was no damage to the house but the resident apparently was red-faced. Seems a bra had jammed her washer and the machines slipping motor belt caused the smoke that filled the laundry room.

WORLD IN BRIEF

North Continues Advance In Vietnam Province

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — North Vietnamese forces today overran another outpost defending the provincial capital of Tay Ninh, 55 miles northwest of Saigon along the Cambodian border.

It was the fourth outpost to fall in the area in the last two days.

Government forces reopened the only overland route to Tay Ninh from Saigon, enabling a large South Vietnamese convoy to reach Tay Ninh with large stocks of munitions and fuel in anticipation of a large-scale North Vietnamese assault.

No Collapse Expected

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Foreign military analysts are saying the Lon Nol regime is in no immediate danger of collapse.

Their view contradicts a claim by Cambodia's exiled former chief of state, Prince Norodom Sihanouk, that without more U.S. aid "Phnom Penh will fall like a rotten fruit."

The analysts say the Communist-led insurgents do not have the troops, the coordination or the motivation to pierce the capital's defenses in the numbers necessary to deliver a decisive blow.

Unemployment Umbrella Repeal Asked

The Florida League of Cities and the State Association of County Commissioners have requested by Seminole County members to put the pressure on the State Legislature to repeal the new law placing employees of local governmental units under the umbrella of unemployment compensation.

The very least the Seminole County governments want is the law amended to place them on an equal footing with private enterprise.

The cities and county government have complained the new law requiring dollar for dollar repayment for paid employees who have been fired, laid off or quit their jobs is costing a fortune. County Commission Chairman Sid Vihlen told the CALNO Council of Local Governments delegates that the new law would "could go toward bankrupting" local government. Vihlen said the county commission sent a resolution to the state association convention last weekend. Altamonte Springs Mayor Norman Floyd joined a delegation from his city joined with other municipal leaders in an action discussion about the problem at the Florida League of Cities convention early this week.

State House of Representatives and Florida Senate leaders were approached and made aware of the problem in grave terms, Floyd said. Floyd said there is little hope the law will be repealed, but the chances are good the law will be amended to provide equity to local governments.

The governmental units' complaint is that private enterprise covers its employees with unemployment compensation by paying a percentage of payroll in the form of insurance while the cities and county governments must rebate dollar-for-dollar amounts paid the employees. In

Man Is Convicted Of Robbery

By BOB LLOYD Herald Staff Writer

James Blaine Whisenant, 26, of Tangerine, is in Seminole County Jail pending a presentence investigation ordered by Circuit Court Judge Joe A. Cowart Jr. after a jury convicted Whisenant of robbery, Mrs. Rene Sistiini, of Orlando, identified Whisenant as the driver of a car occupied by four men who snatched her purse and dragged her 45 feet across a parking lot Jan. 26 at Brantley Square shopping center, Altamonte Springs.

Whisenant and Arthur P. Hatcher, 19, Kenneth W. Hatcher, 15, and Gary W. Hubbard, 16, were arrested 15 minutes later by police at SR-436 and Wymore Road.

Hubbard and the Hatcher brothers were indicted for robbery by the grand jury in the case and are scheduled for trial the week of March 21.

Whisenant took the witness stand and told the jury he was in Apopka at the time of the alleged robbery only to hear the Hatcher brothers later testify that they were in Whisenant's car at the shopping center after they left him at a nearby convenience store.

Judge Cowart ruled that testimony by the Hatcher brothers in the Whisenant trial can't be used against them in their upcoming trial but that it possibly could be the basis of perjury charges against them.

Whisenant's father, 50-year-old Carl H. Whisenant, was attending his son's trial when he complained of chest and back pains and was taken by ambulance to Florida Hospital North, Altamonte Springs, for treatment.

The elder Whisenant told police he has a heart condition and recently underwent back surgery.

In other cases Friday, Judge Cowart accepted a guilty plea to breaking and entering with intent to commit a misdemeanor from Donald Edward Hampton, 20, of 310 W. Third St., Sanford, in connection with a Jan. 29 burglary at Packaging Systems Corporation, 507 Airport Boulevard, Sanford.

Hampton was ordered held in jail pending a presentence investigation. Assistant State Atty. Charles Gordon dropped companion charges in the case of petty larceny and possession of burglary tools.

Mark Edward Dyal, 18, of 505 Plumosa Drive, Sanford, also charged in the burglary, pleaded guilty to possession of burglary tools. Assistant State Atty. Bill Heffernan dropped charges of breaking and entering with intent to commit a misdemeanor and petty larceny against Dyal.

Judge Cowart withheld adjudication of guilt for Dyal and sentenced him to 26 months probation.

In another case docketed for trial last week, the state attorney's office dropped the charge of carrying a concealed weapon against Thomas Evans Tothman, 26, of Roberts St., Longwood.

Judge Cowart withheld adjudication of guilt for Mrs. Leonor Coton, 35-year-old Longwood mother of four, and suspended imposition of sentence on her guilty plea to attempted conspiracy in a drug smuggling case "day to day and term to term" for 18 months "or until it comes to the attention of the court that the defendant may be guilty or suspect of a further violation of state law, whichever occurs first."

Mrs. Coton originally was accused of conspiracy Dec. 12 when narcotic agents confiscated $70,000 worth of cocaine and arrested her in south Seminole county. Her husband, Jose Manuel

Regatta In The Rain...A Unique View

NAVY!

BY GLENN MCASLAND
Herald Staff Writer

It rained, one boat sank, two others collided and two squads didn't even get on the water. Lake Monroe pitched and heaved, forcing those brave enough to try its waters to row madly to keep afloat.

But through it all, the Midshipmen of Sanford Naval Academy prevailed, winning the third annual Parents' Day Regatta.

Paced by the Varsity-4 crew team, the Middies splashed their way past Edgewater and Winter Park despite bad weather, choppy waters and mishaps.

The four-man crew took home the championship trophy with a time of 7:10 across the one mile course. Edgewater was second and Winter Park finished third, losing its rowing shell in the process.

The Winter Park boat sank during the race, but all hands came home safely. The tiny shell began taking water about mid-way in the event, but the Navy crew team was already in command when the accident occurred.

"The loss of their boat didn't have any effect on the outcome of the race," SNA Coach Tom Feaster said. "Our crew had it wrapped up at the time."

Handling the duty for Navy in the Varsity-4 event were Charles Dickens, bow; George (Bo) Hamrick, Ron Hunt, Mark Bassett and Barney McCord, coxswain. The group won the state championship for SNA last year. However, not everything went Navy's way as the school watched Winter Park take the Varsity-8 crew event.

Winter Park completed the one-mile rowing test in 5:16, while Sanford was second at 5:28 and Edgewater a close third at 5:29. Winter Park was 2 1/2-lengths ahead at the finish and Navy nipped Edgewater by three-quarters of a length.

The Varsity races began at 38-39 rowing strokes a minute, settled to 32 and 33 strokes in the body of the race, and sprinted at the finish with 38 to 39 strokes per minute.

"It was an average performance for this time of the year," Feaster said. "I think the kids turned in a good day. I had to use Dickens, Hamrick, Hunt, Bassett and McCord twice, both in the four and eight-man races, which made a difference."

Winter Park posted a victory in the junior varsity eight race after Navy and Edgewater collided during the race. Both were disqualified.

The Winter Park time was a slow 6:15 for the mile.

Another mishap occurred when the University of Tampa crew squad notified Feaster they would be unable to make the event because of a conflict.

As a result, Florida Tech withdrew from the regatta because there would be no college division competition.

"It was just one of those things," Feaster said. "The Tampa coach had a class that he couldn't get away from and therefore the team was unable to be here."

Prior to the regatta, SNA's new dock was christened. The dock was dedicated in the honor of Col. E. R. Daniels, who is the senior Marine instructor at the academy. Daniels was responsible for rebuilding the dock after it was destroyed in a storm last May.

Mrs. Daniels poured champagne on the dock and her husband drank a toast during the ceremony while J. P. Wiegars, chairman of the board of the Bernard MacFadden Foundation—which supports SNA, and Burch Cornelius, SNA headmaster, watched the proceedings.

More than 100 persons witnessed the race and attended the dedication program.

National Champ Vaulting Through School; SJC Devastates Miami Dade In Track Meet

By TOM KEYSER
Herald Sports Editor

Manny Wetherbee watched it rain Friday. He figured there would be no track meet between Seminole Junior College and Miami-Dade North.

Then it stopped raining and the sun snatched the water from the dips in the track, the infield and the plant box at the pole vault.

"I normally psyche myself up all day," Wetherbee said. "But today..."

Then Miami Dade didn't bring any vaulters. There was no competition for the national junior college indoor pole vault champion. Wetherbee won by default.

His win was one of 11 for Seminole Junior College Friday as the SJC Raiders trounced Miami Dade 89-56 in a dual meet at the Lyman High School track.

Miami Dade was ranked the No. 1 dual meet junior college team in Florida. The meet was SJC's only Seminole County performance this season.

Wetherbee won the national title last weekend in the National Indoor Junior College Track and Field Meet at St. Louis. He vaulted 15-feet, four-inches.

"It was a great thrill to win," Wetherbee said. "But I was not pleased with my height. I wanted the national record (15-feet, 9 1/2-inches)."

"The Nationals was a big meet, but I left a lot to be desired. I didn't vault hardly at all before the Nationals and the plant box was a little screwed up."

"If I don't vault nearly every day I have a tendency to lose my form. If I worked only once a week I'd never make it."

Wetherbee has vaulted 16-feet, 1/2-inch in a meet and 16-feet, two-inches in practice. He wants to reach 17-feet, at least 16-feet, six-inches, this year.

"I cleared 164 about two weeks ago," he said, "but when I came over I caught the pole with my nose. It almost ripped my nose off."

"Some people there told me I cleared the bar by about six inches. That's what makes me think I can jump 17 feet."

A month ago, Wetherbee set the Auburn Invitational record at the Auburn Invitational. He leaped 15-feet, 7 1/4-inches.

He was third in the national indoors and fourth in the outdoors last year. He will compete in the national outdoors at Houston later this season.

"I'm kind of vaulting my way through school," Wetherbee said. "My parents aren't rich. FSU (Florida State University) has promised to make up what the government won't pay, up to a full scholarship, next year. Unless something drastic happens to me in the next month or two, I'll go to Florida State."

Pharres Rolle, formerly from SJC, is vaulting at FSU. He and Wetherbee have been competing against each other since the Orange County Junior high school track meet.

Pharres Rolle, formerly from SJC, is vaulting at FSU. He and Wetherbee have been competing against each other since the Orange County Junior high school track meet.

"We've been right at each other's tail the whole time," Wetherbee said. "But I have never beaten Pharres in a big meet."

"I visited FSU the weekend before the Nationals and asked Pharres if he'd mind if I came to FSU next year. He told me I'd better be prepared to be No. 2."

"Manny has the potential to be a better vaulter than Rolle," said Jerry Hoek, a former All-American vaulter at SJC. "Manny is taller (6-2) and twice as fast. And height and speed are so important."

"I would never say that Manny could be a better vaulter than Pharres," SJC Coach Terry Long said. "They are completely different vaulters. Manny is capable of jumping higher than he has and so is Pharres."

While Wetherbee worked out with Hoek at the pole vault, his SJC teammates were de-droning Miami Dade.

Don Merrick, Seminole's world-class sprinter, set an SJC record in the 200-yard dash with a lightning-fast time of 20.7, which is two-tenths of a second off the national junior college record.

Merrick, who runs with the perfect grace of a slow motion love affair, also won the 100-yard dash in 8.4 and competed on SJC's winning 440-yard relay and mile relay teams.

Merrick, who runs with the perfect grace of a slow motion love affair, also won the 100-yard dash in 8.4 and competed on SJC's winning 440-yard relay and mile relay teams.

"He's still several weeks away from running his best," Long said of Merrick. "He ran superbly in the 440 relay and the 100, which he ran against a tough wind."

"Considering the rain all morning, the wind and the fact everyone was depressed thinking we wouldn't run, I'd have to say overall we performed satisfactorily."

"The outcome may be misleading because we scored in some places where we didn't perform particularly well."

Seminole's Eli Thorne won the triple jump, was second in the long jump, won the 440-yard dash and competed on the winning relay teams.

Seminole's Mike Ross won the shot put, Ed Esch Long said of Merrick. "He ran

Battery Life Of Heart Pacer

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB — About a year ago I was assaulted in the street, about 9 a.m. on a Monday morning at our post office. I struck him back and knocked him down. He was a tall man, about six feet and weighing about 200 pounds. I had experienced a heart attack before this happened. My doctor called it atrial fibrillation.

I was perfectly calm and serene at the time I resisted him and knocked him down. When I arrived home the reaction set in. The emt result was I landed in the hospital and was ultimately operated on to install a pacemaker.

I would deeply appreciate it if you could inform me how long it takes before I need new batteries for this pacemaker.

DEAR READER — Heart pacemakers have been an important addition to the treatment and management of heart disease. They are highly successful in maintaining regular heart action.

The first one was implanted in 1958 and since then more than 130,000 have been implanted in the United States alone. As of 1972, 90,000 of the people who received pacemaker implants were still alive. Considering the amount of underlying heart disease in these cases, that is truly a remarkable record.

The biggest drawback to the pacemakers is the short life of the batteries. You can estimate that the lifespan of the batteries in most current pacemakers is only two to three years. There is quite a spread on this and individuals with pacemakers should be under the supervision of a heart specialist or a heart clinic. They can test you from time to time and advise you when you may need to have your batteries changed. It is very important that you have this kind of supervision and should establish this at once.

There has been considerable news coverage about the new nuclear batteries that could last longer than the patients. These hold great promise for the future but are considered still in the investigational phase and are not generally available yet.

As a matter of interest, the range of price for the different models of pacemakers available is currently from $800 to $8000.

Perez Tops Orlando Card

By LOUIS SAPIAS Herald Staff Writer Thursday at the American Legion Hall in Orlando, Sanford's Victor "Taco" Perez will get an opportunity to break his record by winning the main event. He is featured in a 10-rounder with Chicago's "Bad Bobby" Crawford.

Perez had never forgotten the apparent injustice of the ref's hasty decision. "Along with Joey Venturi, I can't think of another fighter I would like to fight other than the main event," Perez said. "In both cases it went into the record book as a KO and neither one could beat me on the best day he ever had."

heavyweight Bob Bobic, considered by many to be a much better fighter than his famous brother, Danny, was knocked out of several good payoffs with the loss to Ballard. The win was the 13th in 15 fights for the Jacksonville youngster. It was the first time he fought in his home state.

Seminole Knocks Off Seabreeze

The Seminole High School baseball team won its third game in a row and six of its last seven with a seventh-inning 5-4 Seabreeze at the Sanford Memorial Stadium.

With two out, Ned Raines smashed a triple to rightfield and scored when the relay baseman misplayed the ball. In the fifth, Seabreeze added another run in the fourth, Tim Raines walked, stole second, advanced to third on Robert Smith's infield out and scored on an error.

Seabreeze committed seven errors and Seminole six. Many of the mistakes were due to wet conditions at the stadium after Friday's early afternoon downpour.

South follows with the eight. A review of the bidding shows that South must hold three spades and six hearts. He has played three minor suit cards and his unknown card will be either a low club or the four of diamonds.

You are slightly annoyed when you note that North really should have bid four spades, which would have left the South hand exposed. Then you make the right play. What was it? You lead the deuce of diamonds, because you know your fine partner would have led the queen of diamonds, if he held five cards in that suit so as to hold the lead and play a club himself.

Reality Of Death, Widowed Shatter Golden Year Dreams

By JEAN PATTESON
Women's Editor

Bobby Stamper feeds Tinker, Freckles: life must go on

"You plan for retirement with the expectation of living through it. We located a nice retirement home in Sanford, thought our dreams of the Golden Years had been fulfilled, only to experience how death and widowhood can shatter realities."

As she spoke, Mrs. Harold (Bobby to her friends) Stamper fought to control her voice, but she could not keep her eyes from misting over.

It is almost two years since her husband died, but the hurt is still raw. After 28 happy years with a loving husband, one grieves a long time.

"I am adjusting to widowhood," Mrs. Stamper declared with a brave, bright smile. But she admits it hasn't been easy.

"You don't run from these things," she explained. "Even if you flew to another country, the deep, sad feelings would still be there. It's just a matter of time..."

Mrs. Stamper is not alone in her battle to find relief from the aching hurt, or in her struggle to get her life back on an even keel with no partner at her side. The odds are five-to-one that the average American wife will outlive her husband, and she can expect close to 10 years of widowhood.

And like most of these wives, Mrs. Stamper found herself unprepared for this difficult adjustment to life alone. Compounding her problem, is the fact that she and her husband retired to a new town, far from lifelong friends and family, hoping retirement would start a new chapter in the adventure of their lives.

The couple was married in Miami in 1945. For most of the intervening years, Mrs. Stamper worked as a cashier in a drugstore and her husband was a bus driver.

With pride she lifted a framed series of Safe Driver Awards from Miami Transit Authority, a ten-year pin and a gold watch, regarding them fondly. Her husband was a wonderful man, she said; he would do anything he could to make her happy. "I can't understand couples not getting along," Mrs. Stamper said. "We never had a cross word in all our years together."

They started making plans for their retirement well ahead of the happy days of count-down before Harold Stamper's 62nd birthday and his last day at work.

"We always thought we'd stay right in our same home with its big double lot and shady yard, so breezy and nice, but over the years the neighborhood became run down and crowded, and we decided to leave Miami altogether and find a small, peaceful town somewhere on the East Coast," Mrs. Stamper explained.

Her grandsons lived in Daytona Beach, so for a year she subscribed to the Daytona Sunday newspaper, reading the home ads, and having her daughter-in-law look over likely prospects. But while reading ads, she also read about the new shopping malls, the proposed truck route through the city center, and concluded that before long Daytona would be as busy as Miami.

So she took her map and checked population figures against well-located towns. Sanford struck her fancy: close enough to her grandchildren in Daytona and Orlando, not far from the ocean and a little off the beaten track.

She started taking the Sunday Herald and her husband, her sister and brother-in-law drove up to check them out. The third home, a small dove-grey block house (since painted bright green) at 102 May Rose Drive, was perfect. After a brief long-distance consultation with his wife, Stamper put down the deposit.

He made three more trips up to Sanford before they sold everything in Miami and set off to make their retirement dreams come true. When they moved in on Jan. 30, 1973, it was the first time Mrs. Stamper had seen the house. "But my husband was right—he always knew what I liked. The house was perfect for us," she recalled her first impression.

Tragedy struck two months later, to the day. "And us not even unpacked yet," sighed Mrs. Stamper.

Her husband fell ill, was whisked off to a hospital and underwent surgery. A day short of a week later, he died.

"It's been hard to decide what to do," Mrs. Stamper admitted. "I thought about moving again, but I don't want to go back to the big city."

"Then I thought how happy my husband was with this place; how much he wanted to do here. I've decided to make this my home."

"Besides," she added, her face brightening, "there're the dogs. How my husband loved his dogs, and this is a good place for them with a large fenced yard and a room

As if or cue, the little grey poodle lifted its head from Mrs. Stamper's lap, and a black spotted dalmatian and matching spaniel appeared at the back door, yapping for attention.

Ministering to her husband's pets, she felt closer to him and somehow soothed by the small activities of getting them food and opening the door for them to run in the yard.

Life goes on, and I go on with it, the scene seemed to say.

Prepare For Life Alone

The odds are pretty high the average American wife will outlive her husband by a good many years. Being prepared for this sad time of bereavement and readjustment is half the battle toward starting a new phase of life without one's accustomed partner at one's side.

Knowing the problems one must face and learning how to deal with them, can be of immeasurable help during this traumatic period, according to a free guide prepared for persons in the 55-plus age group by the American Association of Retired Persons-National Retired Teachers Association (AARP-NRTA).

The "Widowhood Guide," which discusses preparation, bereavement and money and household management, points out that all widows and all experts agree on the need for a husband and wife to prepare together for the death of one spouse.

Such preparation includes full knowledge by both husband and wife of the location and amounts of available financial resources, such as bank accounts, stocks, real estate, insurance policies and survivors benefits, as well as the names of legal and financial experts used by the family in the past.

The Guide strongly advises against any drastic changes in lifestyle during at least the first six months of widowhood, when the widow or widower will experience different "phases of grief."

According to the Guide, the survivor first experiences a period of shock and detachment. Then shock passes. The reality of death begins to intrude into the self-protective cocoon. You begin to feel, and to hurt. It may be the purest pain you have ever known. So give yourself time, a lot of it.

Before making any major changes, the widow or widower should take complete stock of monthly income and expenditures, the Guide suggests. Crucial decisions should be made with the help of a professional.

Also included in the Guide are useful tips (particularly for widowers) on managing a single household, such as procedures for meal preparation, buying and storing food and homemaking.

The Widowhood Guide is one of a series of free "better retirement" booklets published by AARP-NRTA. With a combined membership of nearly eight million, the Associations are the nation's largest organizations dedicated to helping older citizens achieve retirement lives of purpose, dignity and independence.

For a free copy of "Your Retirement Widowhood Guide," write to: Widowhood Guide, AARP-NRTA, P.O. Box 2400, Long Beach, Calif. 90801.

"... the average American wife can expect close to 10 years of widowhood, and the odds are five-to-one that she will outlive her husband. Yet millions of widows (and widowers) are totally unprepared for this difficult adjustment to life alone."

They perform with love and care, said director Anna Lea Heard of the Fellowship Players before the curtain rose on the opening night performance of the Easter drama, 'Take This Cup'.

And she was right. The Players' performance moved me to tears.

'Take This Cup' portrays the events during the last seven days of Christ's earthly life. It is a drama of much agony and many sorrows. But mostly, it is a drama of joy, for in the end love triumphs. In a thrilling final scene, Christ, played with deep sensitivity by Tom McDonald, is risen again and appears to be transformed, almost ethereal, as he ascends into heaven.

Throughout the play, the lighting, sound and other special effects, produced by technical director Foreman Heard and his skillful crew, ran smooth as well-oiled machinery.

Judas, powerfully played by Chip Johnson, towered over the rest of the cast as an agonized individual, torn between love of his Master and determination to free his nation from the yoke of Rome.

Martha McDonald, as Mary the Mother, brought tears to the eyes of her audience as she played the part of a simple, earthy Galilean woman filled with mother-love and a deep awareness that somehow her son was not as other men.

Reed Fraasa played the ruthless Caliph with a calculating shrewdness that was in strong contrast to Keith Walker's thoughtful portrayal of the humanitarian Pilate. Martha Hardeck gave a pleasing performance as Claudia, wife of Pilate.

In fact, each and every member of the youthful cast performed with a fresh enthusiasm and depth of feeling often missing when adults take to the stage.

For all they are amateurs, their attitude is professional. Final performances are Saturday and Sunday at 8 p.m. in the First United Methodist Church Fellowship Hall, off Park Avenue, Sanford.

Stuffed 'Pets' Don't Cry

Don't give your children baby rabbits, chicks or ducks for Easter, urges the American Veterinary Medical Association (AVMA). Not only is it cruel to give these animals as gifts, in many states and cities it is illegal.

Rabbits, chickens and ducks are farm animals; they rarely survive in the home. A young child's enthusiasm over the new pet often results in unwitting cruelty as legs are broken and wings crushed. If the animal dies or is injured, it is a traumatic experience for the child. If the animal survives, it generally ends up in an animal shelter.

Because so many thoughtless rabbits, chicks and ducks are given as gifts, shelters are unable to handle them and most have to be destroyed. Even if the animal should live to maturity, and may cause serious housekeeping and health problems. Many are disease carriers. The National Center for Disease Control in Atlanta and other public health authorities warn that children and adults in close contact with these animals may be exposed to salmonellosis, a severe gastro-intestinal infection. While the disease is rarely fatal, it requires medical treatment, often including hospitalization. In addition to the family, other pets in the household may become ill.

Because of the problems surrounding Easter 'Pets,' the AVMA suggests that you give youngsters stuffed toys instead. Easter and the coming of spring should be a time of joy and rebirth, not a period of physical illness, psychological trauma and the needless deaths of young animals.

Care Costs Are Tax Deductible

By The Herald Service JACKSONVILLE, Florida — Eligible Florida taxpayers may reduce the federal income tax by deducting the cost of care for children, disabled spouse or other dependents.

Charles O. DeWitt, IRS district director for Florida said today. Taxpayers with adjusted gross incomes of $18,000, or less may be able to deduct as much as $400 a month for household and dependent care expenses. Those who earn more than $18,000 a year must reduce the deduction by 50 cents for each dollar over $18,000. Mr. DeWitt said.

To qualify for this deduction, according to Mr. DeWitt, taxpayers must be employed on a substantially full-time basis, must provide more than half the cost of maintaining a household for a dependent under 18 or a disabled spouse or dependent of any age, and must make the payments to persons other than relatives or dependents.

Mr. DeWitt pointed out that this deduction may include household expenses paid for the usual services of a housekeeper, maid, or cook.

Dolly Dimples Diets

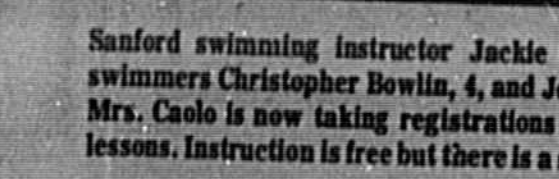

Twenty-five years ago Celesta Geyer pledged to join the Easter Parade, which she did. The tremendously unusual aspect of this pledge was that Celesta Geyer, known in the Guinness World Book of Records as Dolly Dimples, had cheated death by losing more weight than anyone in the world.

After a heart attack which felled the Fat Lady, she was given the last rites with no hope for survival. During her long night of suffering and prayer, she asked God for a chance to live. The next morning, the amazed doctors told her that she had to diet or die.

In 14 months Dolly Dimples lost 401 pounds. When she reached her goal of bringing her weight down from 688 to 190 pounds, she marched in the Easter Parade. She went on to reduce to 112 pounds.

Today, 25 years later, Dolly is acclaimed and reported in the Guinness World Book of Records as the 'World's Champion Dieter.' No person has been so successful, not only in taking off so much weight, but also in keeping it off — in her case, for 25 years.

Real Estate Investments

BY LARRY SAXON

I own a large apartment building and the time has come to make some repairs, and maybe pretty the place up a bit. What yardstick should I use as to where I spend the money I've saved for this purpose?

A.N. Experience has taught me to be very careful in the application of funds on an investment building. Many people actually waste money under the impression they are maintaining or improving their property.

I recommend my clients stick to the following rules: (1) Never allow maintenance programs to accumulate. Take care of them on a regularly scheduled basis.

(2) Make all repairs promptly. Good tenants are lost through indifference. When considering expending money on any other item, ask yourself:

(1) Will it justify increased rents? (2) Is it necessary to maintain competitive rent schedules? (3) Will it actually increase the value of the property? (4) Is it absolutely necessary?

Money uselessly spent on an investment property may reduce your income taxes that year, but by only a fraction of the amount of money spent. So

Tourism Boom May Exceed Record

Weather Has Effect On Home Market

The shirt-sleeved weather we've been enjoying here in Florida has definitely had its effect on the home market. The desire to get away from the snow, sleet and ice storms in the north has brought a tourism boom which the experts say might even exceed the record year of 1972.

And, with most of the 25 million or so travelers entering the state eventually seeing the Central Florida attractions, these northerners have also enjoyed our weather.

In fact, many of them have liked what they've seen so much that they've decided now is the time to locate that piece of ground or buy that retirement home.

Consequently, Realtors and brokers throughout Seminole County are reporting that February brought an increased amount of traffic into their offices and the result was increased sales.

In fact, one Sanford Realtor says that his business in February turned out to be not only the best month in the last half dozen or so but actually the best February on record during the past three years. Other subsequent reports indicate the same thing has happened in other real estate offices.

The last official report issued by the Department of Commerce of the State of Florida indicates that no less than 7,700 new residents are being recorded each week. Mind you, that's better than 1,100 new citizens of Florida each day. To be sure, they've got to have homes and apartments. And, we imagine that if there were more moderately priced houses available you'd see a terrific increase in the number of new residents each week.

LOWER COST? Is it possible to reduce the cost of new homes to the consumer? The Sanford City Commission will make a decision Monday afternoon to find out if there is anything it can do to affect cost reductions.

During the Commission's 4:00 o'clock meeting tomorrow, builders, developers, contractors, plumbers, electricians, masons, carpenters, and what have you have been invited to be present and come forth with any ideas they may have on how the cost of construction can be reduced not necessarily for the benefit of the builders, developers or the contractors but for the consumer.

For example, the City of Sanford does not require developers to put in sidewalks. However, if a developer expects his homes to be sold under insured financing by the Federal Housing Administration he must put in sidewalks a minimum of four feet in width. The City of Sanford says that if sidewalks are constructed they must be five feet in width.

Another example is the question of standing curbs versus the Miami type curb. FHA will accept the lower cost Miami curb but the City for the past several years has been insisting on standing curbs.

These are but two possible questions which may be discussed at length during the Monday forum at Sanford City Hall. There will be others. If you are involved in the construction trades and have any ideas that might help reduce the cost of housing to the consumer you are invited to attend.

Says City Manager Warren E. Knowles.

If you haven't yet visited the expanded General Henry S. Sanford Memorial Library since its recent re-opening let us suggest you do so in the very near future.

LIBRARY The City of Sanford has completed two new spacious wings which makes the library capable of housing all of the General's library furniture, books and other artifacts.

Mrs. Hortense Rounillat, immediate past chairman of the library's Board of Trustees, has been associated with the library since 1934 when she first served as secretary for a committee in an effort to make the library a reality. Last week Mrs. Rounillat handed the gavel to Mrs. Ruth Swinney who will serve as chairman of the board for the 1975-76 term.

Mrs. Margaret Vitale was elected vice chairman and Attorney Edwin Shinholser will continue to serve as treasurer.

A new sonar alarm system is being installed by the City of Sanford. However, the library is still in need of a few items to complete the expansion program and it does not have the funds in its current budget to provide them.

The library needs about a dozen chairs and at least two glass display cases. Should you have some chairs which might be suitable please contact Mrs. Vitale. If you should know of any display cases which might be available the Trustees of the library would appreciate any information you may have. The library, which now is also a museum, is situated at 520 East First street. By the way, City Manager Warren E. Knowles was recently browsing through some of the books in the library and found one autographed by Abraham Lincoln.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of two articles dealing with the efficient operation of air conditioners.

BY ANDY LANG The Herald Staff

An important consideration in the purchase of a window or wall air conditioner is its size. If the unit is too small for a room, it will not cool sufficiently. If it is too large, not only will it waste electricity, you may find that it will not properly control the humidity in the room, which has a definite bearing on your comfort.

The cooling capacity of an air conditioner is expressed in British thermal units, designated as BTU. A British thermal unit is the amount of heat required to raise the temperature of one pound of water one degree Fahrenheit. When used in connection with an air conditioner, it refers to the amount of heat that is removed.

While the number of cubic feet of space to be cooled roughly determines the size of the air conditioner that should be used, there are many other factors involved. In purchasing a unit, find the cubic feet of the room (length times width times height) and then tell the dealer whether the room is generally sunny, how many members in the family generally will be in the room, how many windows and doors there are and how well insulated the house is.

From these factors and the answers to other questions he will ask you, he can consult a chart that will enable him to recommend the proper size.

If an air conditioner is placed in a room where it is exposed to the sun a considerable part of the day, it will not operate at its efficiency. Any home-made shade or other device that will keep the sun off the unit all or part of the time will save you money.

Housing Activity On The Upswing?

NEW YORK (AP)—Housing activity is generally thought to respond almost immediately to an increase in the availability of mortgage money. But a housing economist says this year this might not be so.

"The current depression in housing is the result of much more than credit shortages and restrictive borrowing terms," Saul Klamman told a meeting of mortgage men here last month.

"Mounting inflation and deepening recession have created increasing imbalances between housing costs and consumer incomes," said Klamman.

He said both builders and buyers are inhibited now by "the four Cs," or caution, concern, confusion and constraint. To overcome the inhibitions, he listed five keys: 1. Increased availability and better terms on mortgages.

2. Moderation of increases or actual declines in prices and costs. 3. A halt to the erosion of consumer incomes and confidence.

4. A quick and significant tax cut and a sensible energy package. 5. Reduction in the level and price of housing inventories.

While forecasting a slow upturn for the housing industry beginning in late spring, Klamman said the year as a whole will be characterized by "depressingly low numbers," with the number of starts likely to total no more than 1.25 million in 1975. "Normal" is close to two million.

He said in the longer run basic changes are needed if the industry is to be rescued from its roller-coaster existence, in which booms and busts follow each other.

A structural reform of savings institutions is necessary. It would mean broadening the investment and service powers of thrift institutions, which now cannot offer checking accounts or other services of commercial banks.

Deposit interest rate differentials also will have to be rechecked, he said. Savings banks traditionally have been permitted to offer a slightly higher rate than commercial banks on savings accounts.

Through the use of certificates of deposit and other devices, the commercial institutions have reduced the advantage held by savings banks and, as Klamman sees it, have made significant inroads into the personal savings business.

He maintains this has had an adverse impact on the supply of mortgage credit, since commercial banks are not committed, as are savings banks, to the home mortgage market.

Greater flexibility in the mortgage instrument also was called for by the economist. Among his suggestions was the development of variable interest rates — rates that would rise if interest rates in general rise.

Home lenders argue that in today's unstable world it is almost impossible for them to foresee the turns in interest rates for 20 or 30 years ahead, and thus makes them reluctant to commit themselves to fixed rates.

Klamman also urged a tax exemption for interest earned on savings accounts, claiming this would channel a greater flow of household savings into thrift institutions, which then would lend it out to homebuyers.

"Just as the production of overpowered, gas-guzzling automobiles will be sharply reduced in the years ahead, so also should the production of unnecessarily large, land-consuming housing units be cut off in the future," he said.

Polly's

DEAR POLLY - I put toothpaste on some oil and grease stains that were on my nylon windbreaker. I scrubbed it in with an old toothbrush and put the jacket in the washer. It came out minus the spots. - ANITA.

DEAR POLLY - During these days of conserving both money and paper products, I use wash cloths for everyday, table napkins. Watch for a sale and buy six or eight matching ones that are different from those you use in the bathroom. These cloths come in great colors and patterns, are easily laundered and require no ironing. They are most convenient for wetting and wiping a child's face or a spill when the meal is over. - ELENA.

DEAR POLLY - When making fruit pies roll a piece of waxed paper or foil to look like a drinking straw. Put this in the center of the pie and the juice will bubble up in the "straw" instead of running over in the oven. - TILLIE.

DEAR POLLY - I do chores that require little thought during my favorite TV programs. Baby and me eat lunch while one serial is on. I fold clothes during another. When baby naps, I leave my chores and do what happens to be my favorite thing at that time. Those couple of hours a day are very special to me. - SHIRLEY.

DEAR POLLY - When my older child passed her old loose-leaf notebook down to her little sister to use for school this year, complaints filled the air until I covered it with a scrap of stretchy, double-knit fabric. On it I embroidered a "smile" face and added buttons for eyes. I used contrasting color yarn to whip the edges together, so now little sister is very proud of her new notebook. - C.L.

MAKE A NEW NOTEBOOK FROM A USED ONE

DEAR POLLY - Use wet, fine O-steel wool covered with a non-abrasive cleanser to scrub ceramic tile and glass shower doors. The really cuts the scum and does not scratch, nor does it take hours as some methods do. I do not advise this for plastic tile. NEVER use an abrasive scouring powder. - BEVERLY.

Vogt Bids To Save Rosenwald Funds

State Senator John Vogt has leaped into the fray to try and save Seminole County $67,000 in school funds lost because of the black boycott at Rosenwald Elementary School.

The Cocoa Beach Democrat said today that he will exhaust all means to retrieve the funds for Seminole, and if all else fails — he will propose a general bill to the legislature and try to "make it retroactive" to cover the Rosenwald boycott.

"The legislature might be amenable to providing another basis for recounts when a school district has little control over the situation," Vogt said.

He referred to the state's refusal to grant a request by School Supt. Bud Laver for a recount at Rosenwald where some 211 blacks missed classes for three weeks — one of which was the state's official full-time equivalent (FTE) audit week.

And Laver, who this morning received a letter from Florida Education Commissioner Ralph Turlington turning down Laver's plea for a recount at the school, said, "We will try every way possible to get the money returned."

One method Laver will employ is a thorough check of absenteeism in all the county's schools to determine if a second countywide count would reveal a five per cent discrepancy — the magic figure spelled out by state regulations.

However, Laver said the possibility of hitting the magic five per cent number is slim. "I doubt it," he said. The school superintendent will also recontract Turlington's office on his original request.

Basically, Turlington's letter to Laver says an alternate count would have to show at least a five per cent discrepancy district wide before a recount could be made.

But Vogt, chairman of Seminole County's Legislative Delegation, said $67,000 "is a lot of money. If you can afford to miss $67,000..."

Vogt also said he felt the Seminole delegation would be amenable to a general bill which, if passed, would save $67,000 in education funds for Seminole schools.

In essence, Vogt's proposal — should it become a necessity — would allow a county a recount without the five per cent proviso — if certain conditions prevailed during that time the FTE audit was accomplished.

For example, the boycott at Rosenwald was beyond the control of county school officials. Under the Vogt proposal, a recount would be admissible at any district where such conditions prevailed.

Turlington suggested that Laver appeal to the legislature, or "simply consider this FTE count as lost."

In a letter on March 5, Laver told Turlington that the cost to Seminole County is estimated to amount to $57,000 — which is no insignificant sum.

Turlington said he was in "sympathy" with Laver's plight, but had no authorization either by law or by state regulations to allow a recount at Rosenwald.

The state does not count money to counties based on the number of FTEs or fulltime students enrolled in that district's school system.

And at Rosenwald, some 211 blacks missed classes during the week the count took place. Thus, the county was penalized for each student who failed to show up for the count as required by state regulations.

The boycott was in response to a school board decision to close Rosenwald, which is near Altamonte Springs, and turn the facility into a center for handicapped children.

That decision also was responsible for a three-day countywide boycott of Seminole's 5,000 blacks. Estimates place the number of blacks absent from classes at 85 to 90 per cent during the three-day maneuver.

All along, Laver has been "optimistic" that Seminole would be allowed its full share of funds. He was still optimistic today.

Laver said he will be in contact, however, with Turlington's office today to see if he can convince Florida's education commissioner to reconsider his latest decision.

Rasooli To Resign As Casselberry Chief

ARRIVE EARLY
The Sanford Pilot Club has jumped the gun on the Easter Bunny this year, and already well into its campaign to sell Easter candy to raise money for scholarship funds. Adorning each box of candy is the hand-painted face of a laughing clown, a demure lady or a cheery rabbit. Making their selection from the candy on sale at Sanford Dry Cleaners on Palmetto Avenue, are Andy Griffiths and Orsley Leach. and replaced with a paid chief. Rasooli accused Grier of trying to "bulldoze" him into resigning and showed up at one meeting with his attorney. He was prepared to fight any move to oust him, Rasooli said.

At one time, council had proposed cutting budget appropriations for three paid firemen and an inspector and using that money to hire a chief.

But, council changed its mind and hired a chief. Rasooli has been chief of the 40-man force about four years. Before that, he was a captain. Six firemen are on the city's payroll fulltime, with the remainder of the force made up of volunteers.

Grier also proposed and council approved the motion to amend the ordinance which created the fire department. The amendment includes a paid chief.

Rasooli said he would like to switch from a volunteer to a fulltime status — with a paid chief.

Rasooli said his resignation will end the feud once and for all and that he hopes the new chief will begin his duties as soon as possible to ensure a "smooth transition."

Rasooli said money is budgeted for a paid chief as of April 1. Rasooli's new job encompasses sales of color picture tubes throughout the U.S.

Also at tonight's meeting, council will discuss a summer fee schedule for the recreation department and will hold a public hearing on the budget.

Utility Threatens Court Action Customers Urged: Pay Bills

Utility customers caught in the battle between Seminole County and General Waterworks will be better off if they pay their bills — even though the rates haven't been sanctioned by the county, according to an official of the firm.

"We plan to take the matter to court," General Waterworks manager Russell Schmidt said today, "because we don't feel the rates they allowed are fair."

Schmidt said it is "obvious his firm will go in the red with the rates that the county approved. General Waterworks is continuing to bill their 2000-plus county customers at rates that triple monthly water and sewer bills, even though the county issued an order two weeks ago that rolled back the unauthorized rates."

County Utility Control Director Bill Dale said the county is expected to take legal action today to uphold their opinion. The utility head said the court will be asked to roll back the rates and to grant the partial increases after April 1 — both measures were spelled out in the Board decision.

Waterworks officials claim the county did not act on a September rate request by them within the time allowed by the court.

Schmidt said today that it will be "business as usual" with the non-payment of bills. "If the bills are not paid, we will treat them like any other account," Schmidt said.

If the court chooses to overrule the rates, the customers will be granted rebates, Train declared.

Train said he expects the court to uphold a statewide legally declared "fair rate of return" — 13.354 per cent.

Southern States Seeks Increase

Southern States Utilities is asking the county for higher rates for their water and sewer system which operates in one certified sewer area and in six certified water areas in Seminole, Tuesday at a 7 p.m. county commission meeting.

The requested rates will hike monthly water bills from a $7 minimum for the first 10,000 gallons to $10 for the first 10,000 gallons. The fee of 40 cents for every 1,000 gallons in excess of the minimum rate is asked to be raised to 70 cents per 1,000 gallons.

The monthly sewer rates would increase from a flat $12 to $25.50.

The relatively old utility system which operates in one certified sewer area and in six certified water areas in Seminole, seems to be substantially in compliance with county utility regulations, according to Utility Control head Bill Dale.

Under the county utility ordinance, a firm must meet compliance standards in order to be eligible for a rate increase.

Dale said utility consultant Harold Hartsock has been analyzing the fiscal operation of the firm and will report his findings to the Board Tuesday.

Also during Tuesday's day session, Rep. Bob Hattaway will explain to the Board a bill that he has proposed for state rule and was presented to the county legislative delegation.

Hattaway's bill would require at least five of the current 13 judges in the Eighteenth Judicial Circuit to reside in Seminole County. Presently, only Dominick J. Salfi and Volie A. Williams Jr. live here, while the others reside in Brevard.

Thieves Take Boats, Motors

John M. Hughey Sr., Hughey Lane, Geneva, reported a $228, four-horsepower outboard motor was taken from his home.

Deputies said thieves apparently sawed through a chain to paddle away with a 14-foot aluminum boat at Oakland Shores Civic Association on Lake Shore Drive. The $300 boat was owned by Leon Grunden of Maitland.

J. C. Lee, of 1033 Tulane Ave., Altamonte Springs, reported his 12-foot aluminum boat was taken from Lake Howell off Red Bug Road.

Four explosive hand grenade simulators were turned over to sheriff's deputies by Casselberry Police after they were discovered at a lake on Eagle Circle, Sterling Park.

Deputy R. A. Newshutz said a 15-year-old Keith J. Ryan found a fifth simulator and another youth reportedly pulled the pin and tossed the simulator into the lake where it detonated.

Ryan's parents notified police after the youth brought home a second simulator, deputies said.

A pistol, stereo equipment and a set of auto shock absorbers, total value $434, were missing after a weekend burglary at M and M Auto Parts, W. St. A., Sanford, according to deputies.

Virginia R. Lederman, of Chuluota, reported two wrist watches, a stick pin and a bottle
