Boo if you don't like Halloween!

RUSS WHITE

A few years ago, Pastor Jim Henry suggested to his congregation at First Baptist Church of Orlando to give prayer tracts to trick-or-treaters.

Now, tell me what kid wouldn't prefer a Tootsie Roll or chewing gum be tossed into his or her bag?

Once upon a Halloween, there was a man who gave away some of his baseball cards. Take a handful, he said. Imagine now receiving a 1952 Mickey Mantle rookie card!

There will be a day - probably sooner than we think - when those prayer tracts will be very valuable, too. But kids can get them at church. Halloween is intended to be a party. Trick-or-treating is more American than pumpkin pie.

Neighborhoods used to be a lot safer, of course, and everyone knew all the trick-or-treaters were no matter how well disguised they were.

Today, hardly anyone knows who the children are that come to the door and say, "Trick or Treat." Most of the callers are small fries, escorted by their parents. They come in bunches - three, four, five at a time. The doorbell rings once every 20 minutes or so.

Some of these little ones seem to be enjoying themselves. Others seem very shy - coaxed into the ceremony by parents, who have great memories of Halloween's past. Most of us had good times on Halloween. We liked the treats. We did very few tricks.

It costs $25 or more for each household to buy Halloween treats. Some folks go overboard but most just head to the supermarket and grab whatever they see first. Everyone wants to have enough of a supply. Usually, people have stuff left.

Sheriff Don Ealinger remembers trick-or-treating in Warren, Mich. He was a stuffed pumpkin one year. He said Halloween's were very safe then. The sheriff, formerly known as a pumpkin, now warns people to be careful.

Ruth Hamilton, a delightful 100, says that when she was growing up in Ames, Iowa the boys in town would do some nasty tricks on Halloween. "The older folks were in fear that the boys would knock over their outdoor privies," Mrs. Hamilton said.

"One fellow got so mad that he went into his toilet with a shotgun," she said. "He warned the boys not to come to his place, and to stay away from his privies. He had a two holer, you know. The rich folks had three holer."

There's a message in that.

Airport plans to advance expansion

By Bill Kerns
 HERALD STAFF WRITER

SANFORD - The Orlando Sanford Airport Board of Directors is expected to vote Tuesday on a proposal to advance the plans and specifications for airport expansion.

The 69-70,000 square-foot expansion of the airport is expected to cost from $12-16 million, said Brendan Carmody, president and managing director of Orlando-Sanford International Inc.

"Different people have different crystal balls on how much it will cost," Carmody said. "That's still pretty much up in the air."

He did not give a specific time frame on construction plans.

The Airport Authority plans to build a two-story concourse that will allow passengers to walk in and out of planes without dealing with the weather," Carmody said.

The lower level will be reserved for parking. The upper level of the concourse, which Carmody said is "on the floor level of airplanes," will allow passengers direct access

Model air show comes to Sanford

By Bill Kerns
 HERALD STAFF WRITER

SANFORD - The Sanford Aero Modelers are hosting a model Air Show from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday and Sunday at the SAM Flying Field on Highway 46, eight miles east of Sanford. Plaques will be awarded for the best military fixed-wing model plane, best aerobatics plane, best bi-plane, golden age, and pilots choice.

Food concessions will be available at the site, and there will be a raffle for a free radio system and kit. Spectator parking donation is $2 per car.

"Every rivet of a real plane is duplicated," Lee Dargue, President of the Sanford Aero Modelers, said. "These are real planes, only scaled down to about 1/3 to 1/4 the size of the actual plane. The gas caps and name plates are even real. We have combat type action planes, among other models. Most planes have about a seven to eight foot wingspan, with usually a minimum of 80 inches."

The Air Show will take place on a 5,000 square foot runway. A 900 square foot shaded pavilion will be provided for spectators. Hot Dogs will cost $1. Quarter-pound hamburgers "loaded with all the trimmings" will cost $1.50, Dargue said. Spectators can also buy a can of soda.

The Aero Modelers work with boy scouts and cub scouts. Dargue said he would like to get more youth in the area active in building model airplanes. The group teaches novices about aero dynamics and other principals.

"We teach a great deal of math, science, and electronics," Dargue said. "We make sure kids know why their planes are doing what they do in the air. We teach Ohm's Law, signal strength, the range of the transmitter, and move up from there. This also teaches kids how to deal with frustration, anxiety, and satisfaction in accomplishments. We provide free instruction as well as entertainment."

Planes are controlled using joy sticks controlling the rudder and the throttle on two transmitters. A "buddy box" is used," Dargue said, "to prevent crashes." Whenever a person loses control of the plane, an expert takes control of the plane from a different

Tax collector and clerk pay dividends

By Russ White
 HERALD STAFF WRITER

SEMINOLE COUNTY - The county's tax collector and clerk of the circuit court have turned in more than $4 million in dividend checks to the county and taxing authorities.

With this money added to the county's pot, residents should pay less in local taxes the following year.

Tax Collector Ray Valdes wrote checks to the Board of County Commissioners and two taxing authorities for $3.41 million and Clerk of the Circuit Court Maryanne Morse wrote her largest ever dividend check for $1,076,654.

In the 10 years that Valdes and Morse have been state Constitutional Officers, they have consistently produced big returns.

Valdes, the Treasurer of the Year in Florida for 1998, has returned $24.5 million to the general revenue fund of the Board of Commissioners, Seminole County School Board and St. Johns Water Management District.

Morse has returned more than $5.7 million of profits or "excess fees" generated by her office. This is a 13.1 percent return on investment. The $1,076,654 dividend is the second to top the $1 million level. She turned over $1,027,520 in 1994, and has averaged 8.3 percent returns on investments per year.

Morse said the Seminole County Clerk's Office is one of 47 in the state funded entirely through fees generated in day-to-day operations, without any general taxpayer's support. These fee-based offices are required by law to transfer any surplus to the county at the end of the fiscal year.

The Seminole County Tax Office has been rated in the top three of the state's 67 tax collecting offices since Valdes came into office. Valdes credits his staff, which he says, give courteous and good service.

"When residents come to us, our people greet them with a smile and take care of the needs," he said.

YMCA helps build strong youth from the floor up

By Shari Brodie
 HERALD FEATURE EDITOR

LAKE MARY - The Tomorrow Project will build a strong foundation for youth in Seminole County, from the floor up.

The project is an expansion of the Seminole Family YMCA, which among other things, adds a gymnasium to the existing complex on Longwood-Lake Mary Road.

"We hope to make this a community building, focused on serving the youth of the community," said Ed Thomas, executive director of the YMCA branch.

"We hope to have a lot of opportunities where we'll be able to do programs like midnight basketball, working with teenagers, giving them a positive safe environment. A place where they will feel good about coming, and bring their friends, and hopefully stay out of trouble in the process."

Among the items necessary in a well-equipped gym are backboards and hoops, but Thomas wanted to make sure there was a good foundation, a wood floor, for the health of the teenagers that would be using the indoor courts.

"It's a maple wood floor, it's tongue and groove," said Thomas. The installation system gives the floor bounce. "It will be a very safe and healthy floor."

The expansion project is going well. The floor will be installed last. It is Thomas' hope that it will be paid for by the time installation is completed.

"We had actually purchased this floor over a year ago," said Thomas, because the Y could get it for a good price. "The wood has not been paid for yet. It was purchased on a promissory note. This floor actually cost us $45,000, which we don't have right now."

The YMCA took out a $1.5 million loan for the building, but has looked to other funding sources for equipment and items such as the floor. The "Wall of Light", a glass block wall with etched names of contributors, will pay for part of the cost of the floor, but Thomas hopes to get $25,000 from a Rotary International grant.

Thomas and YMCA building committee chairman Brian Overby are members of the Lake Mary Rotary Club. With the help of President Mike gather at the Seminole Family YMCA. The club hopes to win a grant to help pay for the wood floor being installed in the Y's gymnasium.

McLean, they hope to win funding from the Rotary's "Children's Opportunity Grants."

McLean said there is a pool of $20 million, available to Rotary clubs throughout the country, with a $25,000 maximum for each award.

"(The project) will benefit the children and the greater community of Central Florida," said McLean. "It will enable the Seminole County YMCA to expand its reach of services to a greater proportion of the population, particularly children that may have cultural or economic disadvantages."

Thomas, McLean and Overby will be filing the grant application within the week. Thomas said the installation of the floor should begin in mid-November.

"We can do acrobatics with the planes," Dargue said. "We can turn planes all around in the wind. But, it's also safe."

There is a pond near the air field for floating sail boats and small powered boats, Dargue said. The Aero Modelers plan to build a track for racing model cars.

Dargue said the Air Modelers encourage people who are interested in model airplanes to take a test flight with the group before investing any money in a plane.

"We get a lot of retirees who want to do this as a hobby," Dargue said. "The trouble is, a lot of people buy a plane, a radio, an engine, then drop the hobby before too long. We want you to know this is something you want to pursue before you spend any money. We want to work with people to alleviate any problems."

The group has a club plane novices can use. Membership in the Sanford Aero Modelers is $10 for youth under 14 years old. The price is $20 for youth 14-18, and $100 for adults. Dargue said the group will pay for the cost of youth to join for free when there is a financial hardship. Often, a plane will be donated by members to help out a youth interested in model airplanes, Dargue said.

Adults can pay for membership with installments, Dargue said.

During the initial stage of expansion, there will be six gates added, Carmody said. Final expansion will add a seventh gate. The exterior of the airport will have "pretty much the same stucco finish," as it currently has, Carmody said. The interior will also have the same finish.

The Airport Authority expansion has several packages, Carmody said. There is a "vertical circulation package" that would improve elevator service. There is a "steel package" for purchasing the steel that will be needed in construction, and a "loading bridge package. There also is a "civil package," which would include new ramps, and a "general construction package," Carmody said.

The Orlando-International Airport, Inc., is also planning an expansion that will cost approximately three million dollars, Carmody said.

This planned expansion would enable the domestic terminal to be used by international flights when it is not being used for domestic flights, Carmody said.

The concourse would be expanded, with more waiting space, windows, and improved lighting. "It will be more utilitarian," Carmody said.

The Airport Authority's $12-16 million expansion and the OSI $3 million expansion "are two different projects" that "can be viewed as complementary to each other," Carmody said.

Smoker is tired of slurs

Dear Mary,

I'm tired of the negative slurs and joking "put downs" I'm getting about being a nicotine addict. I smoke because I like it and it helps me keep my weight down. I'm certainly not going to "graduate" on to heroine or cocaine because I smoke. I guess I don't know what an addict really is, but I have this image of a street person stumbling around begging for money which they say they need for food, but then use for drugs or alcohol. Maybe that's too extreme, but I certainly don't consider myself an addict just because I smoke a pack of cigarettes a day.

Don't bother giving me the quick lecture on why I should stop smoking. Just tell me what you really mean when you say someone has an addiction.

Not An Addict

Dear Net,

No lectures, just the facts: these are some characteristics of a person who is addicted to a substance:

The person is compelled to use more and more of the substance, even though this heavy use has serious side effects and disrupts their lifestyle and relationships.

The person is preoccupied with getting the substance and may give it higher priority than food, paying the rent, or other basic necessities. Perhaps they stop for a few days or even weeks, but eventually the irresistible urge draws them back to it.

Perhaps it is more accurate to describe your use of cigarettes as a chemical dependency. Simply put you will get unpleasant physical and psychological effects from not having the drug, nicotine.

When we talk about chemical dependency, we may mean anything from full-blown alcoholic or crack addict to the high school kid who drinks a wine cooler on the way to school. My feeling is that smoking a pack of cigarettes a day is a form of addiction, but it is still within our cultural norms. It is just as correct to say that a smoker is dependent on cigarettes for feelings of well-being.

Wife is hot over online chatter

DEAR ABBY: I am a 44-year-old married woman with three children. My husband is a good man in many ways, but has discovered the "joys" of internet chatrooms. I have caught him talking online in the wee hours of the morning and confronted him about it. It's demeaning to me and my children when he speaks to these "ladies" in a provocative way on the Net. He says it's all in fun.

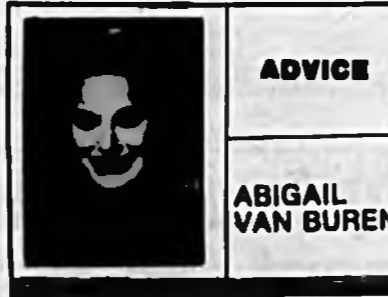

To make a long story short, I figured out his password and found out that he has been having a pretty steamy "affair" with a young lady out West. I feel betrayed and disgusted. I feel that I've been cheated on. He will say that as long as it isn't physical, it isn't cheating.

I don't know what to do. I love my husband; we've been together for 27 years. Should I confront him with my discovery, or wait it out and hope he gets over his fascination with the forbidden?

DISGUSTED IN THE MOUNTAINS OF NEW HAMPSHIRE

DEAR DISGUSTED: Lying to you and carrying on a "steamy" online flirtation is a form of cheating. I don't blame you for feeling betrayed. If the situation were reversed, and your husband discovered you were doing this behind his back, I'm sure he wouldn't be thrilled either. By all means, confront him with what you know. You have every right to demand an end to this dishonesty. Ignoring it won't help. It's time to clear the air.

DEAR ABBY: I have an ongoing problem with my parents and my in-laws. They are in their early 70s, quite healthy and financially sound. My husband and I have three children, the only grandchildren, in grades 8, 9 and 10. With three children actively involved in sports, we are on the run four to six days per week with school/club activities, music lessons, homework, shopping, cooking, cleaning, laundry, and I work outside the home.

ADVICE

We do a tenuous balancing act and time is our most precious commodity. Herein lies the problem:

All four parents have become increasingly hostile toward the reality of our lives, which they insist upon interpreting as, "You have time for everything and everyone but us." We call them at least twice a week, entertain them for all family events and see them often, but they're still dissatisfied. They want us to be available (as a family of five) at least once a week for them to "drop by," for us to "drop by" their homes, plus a sit-down meal with them on Sundays at our home.

Our repeated requests for them to spend time with us by attending one of the children's sporting events have been ignored. I speak for my husband and children when I state that we are at our wit's end with the arguments, hostility, tears and guilt trips. We're tired of apologizing for how we live our lives.

I know they are fans of your column. Any advice, Abby?

Rent-to-own businesses on the rise

"No Credit Hassles!" "No Long-term Commitment!" "No Down Payment!" "Free Service in Your Home!"

Rent-to-own (RTO) businesses are using such ads to attract customers. There are a host of local RTO establishments and a few nationwide franchises, and the number is increasing rapidly.

RTO's are in regulatory limbo because their unique marketing approaches do not fit into the traditional merchandising methods. Are they retailers who extend credit to high risk borrowers, leasing agencies offering long term leases, or are they rental agencies?

Although RTO merchandising has only recently gained considerable attention, it is not a new concept. It originated with an English piano manufacturer who wanted to increase his business by making it easier for customers to buy pianos. He created the "hire-purchase" marketing concept in 1846. This concept has been used for years by music companies in cooperation with band teachers enabling beginning students to rent their instruments. If a student lost interest the rented instrument was returned and payment ceased. If the student continued in the band and kept up the payments, eventually the instrument became his.

The "hire-purchase" or RTO merchandising method has now been extended to the sale of a wide variety of merchandise including things such as furniture, appliances, jewelry, electronics and even office equipment. The use of the RTO concept to sell a wider variety of products has resulted in the development of a new type of retailer who targets a different kind of customer, using a different sales appeal and possibly with a different merchandising objective. RTO's have generated consumer complaints regarding the amount and clarity of rental/purchase information, high prices, severe penalties for late payments, and repossession and debt collection practices. Some consumer groups want more state or federal regulation. RTO's contend they serve a group of customers rejected by other sellers and their actions are reasonable and essential for economic survival.

RTO CAUTIONS
There are certain precautions that any consumer should consider before buying from a rent-to-own (RTO) retailer.

The total cost of ownership through RTO should be compared with the cost of merchandise sold outright. Try to locate conventional credit. Consider lay-away plans, or buy used merchandise from a retailer, garage sale, classified ad or a thrift shop. RTO is a very costly method of ownership.

CONSUMER FOCUS

Realize that although RTO dealers do not use credit reporting agencies, they do obtain and check information about you. They will ask for information about your employment, such as, who you work for, how long, income, and location. This information will be checked. Also, dealers will ask for the name and address of several relatives and friends. (The company will have enough information to locate you.)

Make sure any contract you are considering signing contains all of the important financial information. This includes things such as cash selling price of the merchandise; if it is new or used; the amount and timing of rental payments; a list of and the amount of other charges, such as deposits, delivery or re-statement charges, late fees and fees to be paid at the end of the contract before ownership; and the total cost of the agreement.

Be aware that you will not own the merchandise until the total amount on the contract is paid. Realize that although you are making payments, you are not building any ownership on the merchandise, and you have no equity in it.

Learn what will happen if your payments are late and the merchandise is repossessed. If there is no grace period, what will happen if a payment is late?

Be sure the contract carries an accurate description of the merchandise and if it is new or used. Do not accept substitute merchandise with the promise it will be replaced later.

Find out who pays for repairs. Also, find out if you will receive a loaner, or if payment stops while the item is being repaired.

Make sure the contract describes conditions under which you may end the rental purchase agreement. Are there penalties for canceling the agreement?

Find out if there is an early purchase option where you may buy the merchandise without waiting until the end of the contract.

Find out if your payment records will be reported to a credit reporting agency (credit bureau).

Before signing, make sure you understand everything in the contract. Ask questions and, if needed, either take a copy of the contract to someone who can help you to understand it or bring this person with you.

Do not sign a contract with blanks. Either mark through them or have them filled in. Get a copy of what you sign at the time that you sign it.

If you do not know the reputation of the company with whom you will be dealing, call your local Better Business Bureau, Chamber of Commerce or Consumer Protection Agency. Find out how long the company has been in business and if there are unresolved complaints against the company.

Comparison shop between different type sellers of the merchandise you are considering. If a RTO company is your choice, comparison shop more than one company if there are more in your area.

There are advantages and disadvantages to rent-to-own companies. The most important question is whether the advantages outweigh the disadvantages. Consumers need to make informed decisions, not decisions made out of apathy or lack of understanding. Consumers do have buying options.

Game of the Week

Tonight: Oviedo at Seminole, 7:30 p.m.:

SANFORD - Two things will be going on tonight at Seminole High School.
First, it's homecoming. That makes this a big game for the 'Noles.
Second, next week Seminole has a do-or-die situation with a huge district match-up against Mainland.
That makes this not such a big game for Seminole.
No one likes to lose, especially to a fellow Seminole County team. It will be hard, however, for the players to give everything they have this week when they know that a loss next week ends their season.
Don't give up on the 'Noles, however, they are playing an improving Oviedo team for pride. There is not a better motivator than pride, so don't expect Seminole to lay down for this one.
Oviedo is coming to town with a renewed confidence after a big win at Lake Mary last week.
The Lions' resurgence started with the emergence of sophomore quarterback Nick Teneckedes, who only took his first varsity snap only two weeks ago filling for an injured Kenny Starling. Starling returned last week and the duo both had big games against the Rams.
Their play, along with outstanding running by Alvin Hudson and Kevin Quintero and pass catching by Larry Grayson and Justin Holmes, give Oviedo a formidable offense.
Not to sound like a broken record, however, but the key to the Lions' success will be if they can stop Seminole's running attack. Only two teams this year have been able to accomplish that. Sounds simple but it's true, stop the run and you stop Seminole.
This should be a good one. Oviedo has to keep the defense inspired, though, if they expect to fare well against the very potent 'Noles offense.

Friday: Lake Howell at Winter Springs, 7:30 p.m.

WINTER SPRINGS - Give Lake Howell credit. When the Hawks took the field last week against undefeated Lake Brantley, it would have been easy to quit early, especially after 21 turnovers in three games.
Instead, the Hawks gave one of the county's strongest efforts of the season, losing in the final 23 seconds after being up by as much as 10 points late in the game.
Christian DeJesus did a lot of everything last week, returning kicks, leading the Hawks in rushing, and playing strong defense. Larry Cummings also had one of his best games of the year in the defensive backfield.
The Hawks are out of playoff contention, but still have a chance to turn around a 1-6 season with three winnable games down the stretch.
Winter Springs is coming off two straight off weeks. The Bears will use this as a tune-up for a must-win situation next week against district rival Cocoa Beach who the Bears must beat to have a shot at playoff competition.
The Bears are playing well considering they are in their first year of varsity football, but youthful mistakes have hurt as expected. Brandon Blake leads a strong passing attack and receiver Greg Iannuzzi is one of the county's best.
This weekend marks the final home game of the year for the Bears and is being celebrated as a Homecoming Game even though the second-year school has no one coming home.

Tonight: Lyman at Winter Park, 7:30 p.m.

WINTER PARK - Any shot of a playoff bid is gone for the Greyhounds who just can't get over the hump.
Quarterback Brian Krause is second in Central Florida in passing despite coach Larry Baker's plan to run the ball as often as possible. The Hounds know how to move the ball, they just have a hard time sticking it into the end zone.
Don't expect Lyman to quit even though they are guaranteed a seventh-straight sub-500 season. The Hounds play every game to the final down.

Tonight: Lake Mary at Ed White (Jacksonville), 7:30 p.m.

JACKSONVILLE - Rams fans don't have to worry about this one.
If they pull this game out, after a three-hour bus ride, it would be the upset of the year, maybe for the entire state.
Ed White is a state power which has an excellent chance of getting to Gainesville for the state finals.
The Rams are looking to lick their wounds after a demoralizing rout at the hands of Oviedo which, for all intents and purposes, ended their playoff hopes. Lake Mary was supposed to host Ed White for Homecoming last year, but the game was canceled due to inclement weather.
Lake Mary still has hopes for a .500 season even though its final three games are on the road against monster opponents.

Oviedo bests DeLand in district final

By Kellie Werner
HERALD STAFF WRITER

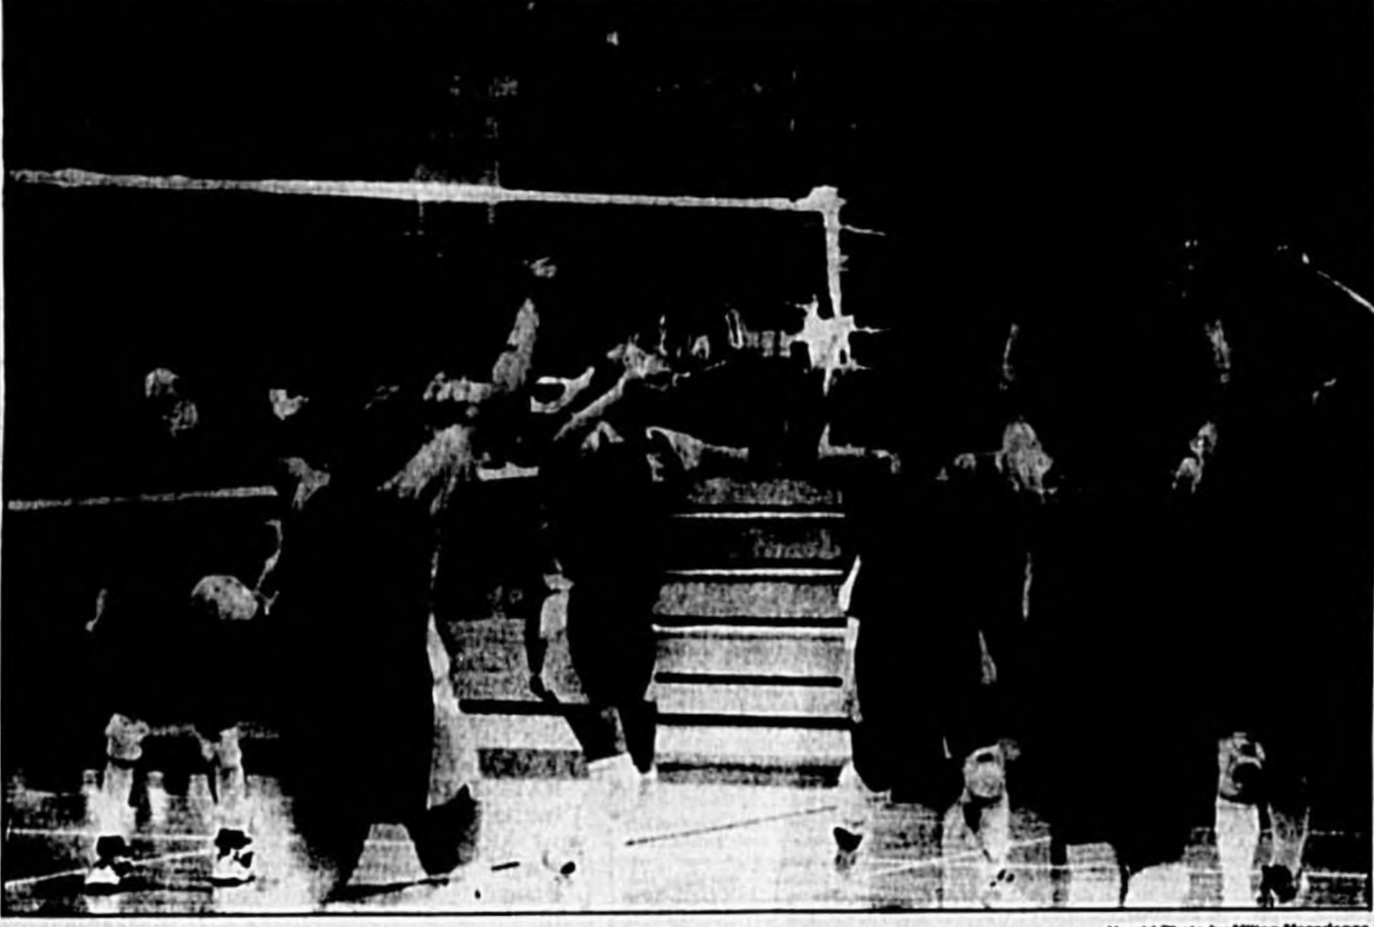

LAKE MARY - It was a big night of volleyball at Lake Mary High School Thursday night.
After winning semifinal matches earlier in the evening, Oviedo and DeLand met in the Class 6A-District 3 championship game and duked it out in three games before the Lady Lions took the match, 15-5, 10-15, 15-7.
"We played very well tonight," first-year Oviedo coach Anna Hollis said. "Our team sometimes has trouble staying up and our mood can change quickly. Tonight, though, they held it together and played six really tough games."
The long night of volleyball began with DeLand ousting Lake Mary, 17-15, 3-15, 15-7.
The Lady Rams were up 12-8 late in the first game when things took a turn in DeLand's direction, but the Rams came back to give the Bulldogs a taste of their own medicine in the second game.
DeLand, who systematically dismantled Lake Howell the night before in straight games 15-2, 15-2, ended Lake Mary's season early, however, with the 15-7 win in the final game of the match.
"Right now I am dealing with my ego problem because I hate to lose," said Lake Mary coach Cindy Henry. "This was a fitting end to our season, however, as our nemesis all year has been inconsistency. When we are good, we are real good. Otherwise, we are real bad."

"It feels weird not to be going to the playoffs. In 10 years, we have only missed once and that was six years ago. The girls are real upset and I am too. I'm sad because I wanted to win and my ego is injured."
The next game of the evening pitted top-seeded Oviedo against Lake Brantley.
The Lady Patriots put up quite a fight and took Oviedo to three games. The Lady Patriots stepped up to the task and refused to hand Oviedo an easy win although they did eventually concede, 15-5, 11-15, 15-6.
Despite each team playing a three game match and then outlasting an hour break between games, neither DeLand nor Oviedo showed any signs of wear when they took the court.
Oviedo shot out to a quick 9-1 lead in the first game thanks to strong serving by Lindsey Combs and Brittany Kauss. Brook Asby and Nicole Broome manned the net better than border patrol guards all night and DeLand could not come back from the early deficit.
DeLand proved it belonged in the championship match in the second game. Down 5-0 early, the Lady Bulldogs scratched and clawed their way out of the hole with almost perfect passing shots. The score remained at a 12-8 DeLand lead for six service possessions before the 'Dogs finally pulled out the win.
The third game was all Oviedo. Either they were utilizing every player on the team to earn

Bears win first district championship

WINTER SPRINGS - A lost contact lens and nightmares of last year almost cost the Winter Springs girls volleyball team its first district title.
The Bears settled down and pulled out a 15-8, 11-15, 15-8 win over a game Melbourne Central Catholic to claim the Class 3A-District 13 title as expected.
What wasn't expected was the difficulty the Bears, second-ranked in the state, had in winning.
The title means the Bears, who beat Bayside Prep, 15-0, 15-2 in the semifinals, will host the first round of regionals Tuesday against a yet-to-be-determined opponent. The title also means that, due to a scheduling fiasco, Winter Springs will be paired in the same bracket as the other top three teams in the state - number one Berkeley Prep, number three Pine Crest and number four Cardinal Mooney.
If the Bears get through that juggernaut, the school's first state title is a realistic possibility.
"The most important thing is to get through regionals," coach Kim Vach said.

Vach almost saw her team not get through districts. The Bears struggled throughout but the steady serve of Katie Griffin, who notched 21 of the team's 42 points from the service line, kept the Bears on some big rolls.
"I had it going well tonight," Griffin said. "We were all thinking about revenge from last year."
That's where the nightmares come into play. Last season, the Bears were upset in the first round of regionals by MCC and when things started to go the wrong way in the second game, Griffin said everyone was thinking back to last year.
Then, it didn't help when setter Gretchen Naruta lost a contact lens that had the entire Winter Springs team on their knees searching the court during the second game loss.
"When Gretchen's contact lens came out, we just fell apart," Griffin said. "It was weird."
But the Bears had the talent to make several comebacks.

Senior Steelers win title

By Deon Smith
HERALD SPORTS EDITOR

SANFORD - What difference a couple of weeks can make.
For most of the season the Senior Division of the City of Sanford Recreation and Parks Department Youth Flag Football League looked like a battle between the Seminoles and Cornhuskers.
But when the smoke had cleared the Steelers had closed the season with a four-game winning streak to win the championship and the Broncos came on to win their final two, while the Seminoles lost their final three games and the Cornhuskers their final two.
In the Majors Division, the Falcons continued to play flawless football and has clinched the championship heading into tomorrow's final game.
The only division with a race still going is the Minors, where the undefeated Gators and once-beaten Rattlers will square off in the final game.
In Minor Division results, from October 17th, the Rattlers edged the Bengals 8-6 and the Gators blanked the Golden Knights, 28-0, and from Oct. 24th, the Rattlers whitewashed the Golden Knights, 19-0, and the Gators shutout the Bengals, 28-0.
In the Major Division, from Oct. 17th, the Cowboys nipped the Bears, 6-2, and the Falcons topped the Jaguars, 6-0, and from Oct. 24th, the Falcons ripped the Cowboys, 22-8, and the Bears stopped the Jaguars, 14-0.
In the Senior Division, from Oct. 17th, the Steelers squeaked past the Seminoles, 13-12, and the Broncos won a tie-breaker with the Cornhuskers after the two tied 6-6 after regulation, and from Oct. 24th, the Steelers trimmed the Falcons, 20-6.

In the other game at Pinhurst Park, Matthews Associates edged Sanford Central Baptist Church, 10-8.
Beer :30's comeback win proved to be very important as K&K upset Blake's Boys, 13-12, in one game at Chase Park, but Blake's Boys rebounded in the second game to thump Headrick Feed, 21-9.

With Thursday's decisions four teams are within a game of the lead with three teams, Beer :30, Blake's Boys and Headrick Feed, tied for first at 6-2 and Matthews Associates just behind at 5-3. K&K (3-5), Central Baptist (2-6) and the Regulators (0-8) round out the standings.

Florida and last week unveiled a brand new weapon to an already-loaded arsenal. team played in a trance at times and running backs Lanier Bush and Arnold Celeste had below-par games for them. The defense never looked inspired, but Lake Brantley was still able to win on talent.

West Orange is no better than a .500 team so this one shouldn't be too difficult for the Patriots, who are celebrating Homecoming. For the record, Lake Brantley plays only nine game this season, so next week's home game against Oviedo will be its last until playoffs.

Upsala church craft show is upcoming

By Susan Wanner
HERALD STAFF WRITER

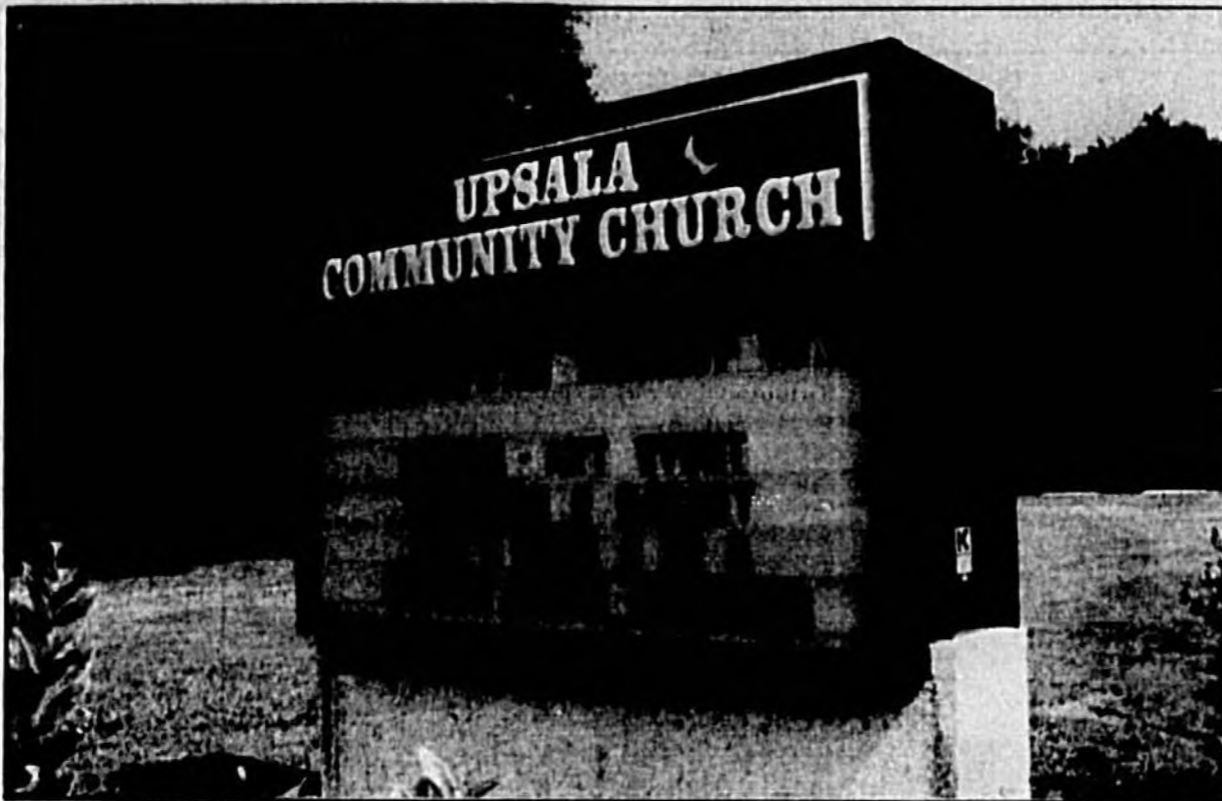

SANFORD - Upsala Community Presbyterian Church, 101 Upsala Road, will hold its Annual Craft Show on Nov. 7 from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The congregation is well-known for its historic chapel on the grounds.

The event, sponsored by the Dorcas Society, will host the day with over 33 crafters, lunch and "a day of fun." Numerous community members gather yearly at the show to renew friendships, gather Christmas gifts or ideas and enjoy day of food and special contacts.

According to Avis Ray, president of the Dorcas Society and organizer of the event, crafters will bring such items as paintings, plastic canvas, crochets, cross stitch, stuffed toys, quilts, dolls, porcelain plates, wood work, numerous hand-crafted clothing and more. A young man will be available to draw caricatures and another gentleman will show his wooden furniture. "Another lady will have a lot of angels and ornaments for sale," said Ray. "There will be a lot of Christmas things to buy."

A lunch of hot dogs, baked beans, potato salad, cookie and soft drink will be available from approximately 10:30 a.m. until "the food runs out or the people quit coming" and will be offered on a donation basis.

Baked goods will also be on sale. Goodies such as cakes, cookies and possibly pies will tantalize the taste buds and include reasonable prices.

Ray added, "The Ladies Dorcas Circle put in two air conditioning systems and helped with missions with proceeds from last year. We try to use proceeds to benefit the church and its activities and help with repairs. We'd like to try to fix Shea Chapel. We just got a new steeple."

Another member of the church, Joyce Brown, shared, "We help with the altar and the church in the Dorcas Society. We got new air and we help the youth group. There are times that the ladies help various individuals that are in need. This is the major fundraiser for the Dorcas Society."

The church is located on the corner of Upsala Road and 25th Street (46A) in Sanford. For more information call Avis Ray at 321-5595.

Good news, bad news for spinal pain

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm 88 years old and have been diagnosed with advanced osteoporosis, causing multiple vertebral fractures. I have constant pain and use Fosamax daily. Will these fractures ever heal? I have been told by two back surgeons that with the exception of progressive paraplegia, any attempt at reconstruction would require extensive, futile surgery. Is my spine ever going to improve?

PETER GOTT, M.D.

DEAR READER: You are in an unenviable position. Because of extensive osteoporosis, the spinal bones have begun to fracture, causing pain and disability, even though you are already being treated for brittle bones.

The bad news: No, your spinal fractures are permanent. The good news: You can be helped. To begin with, you have been prescribed Fosamax, the only anti-osteoporosis pill that can reverse the process and even strengthen your bones. Hormones and other drugs cannot do this; they only arrest the disease or, when given early enough, prevent it. If you continue to use Fosamax, in a year or two bone density studies may show substantial improvement in your bone-calcium level. While this will undoubtedly prevent further fractures, it will not — unfortunately — affect the fractures you already have. In this instance, the bones have literally been crushed and are unable to reconstruct their original shapes, unlike bones elsewhere in the body.

In the second place, you might benefit from a program of aggressive rehabilitation, administered under the supervision of a physiatrist (an M.D. specialist in rehab medicine). Using a combination of active and passive exercises, pain medication, muscle strengthening, ultrasound therapy and other techniques, these professionals could — in all likelihood — reduce your pain and improve your independence. Of course, nothing in this world is guaranteed, but I urge you to ask your physician for a referral.

Surgery is probably not an option. I agree with your back specialists who stated that an operation is dangerous and chancy, unless you develop unmistakable signs of nerve compression or deterioration.

I am sorry to say that you reflect an increasing problem in this country: the consequences of osteoporosis. If you had received therapy years ago, you might not be in the straits you are today.

important for women after menopause and women with a family history of osteoporosis. If the test shows normal bone-calcium, fine. Repeat it in a year or two. If it shows significant demineralization, however, immediate steps should be taken to avoid the very complications that you are experiencing.

The bottom line is that osteoporosis is preventable. It can occur even in physically active women in their 50s. Women in their 80s are almost certain to have it. Early diagnosis is crucial.

WIN AT BRIDGE

Not sometime — It's now or never

By Phillip Alder

Would Thomas Jefferson have made a good bridge player? Perhaps not, because in a letter to George Washington on May 16, 1792, he wrote, "Delay is preferable to error." That is often true, of course, but at the bridge table, delay can be an error.

By way of example, take this deal. You reach four spades. The defenders cash their two club tricks, then switch to diamonds. How do you continue? Also, what do you think of the bidding? Some players would open that East hand with one diamond because they don't like the rebid after a one-spade response by partner. That is not my style. I prefer to bid my longest suit first. (I would rebid one no-trump over one spade, cauliflower-shaped skin growth and all.) With South looking at six winners and a decent seven-card suit, his three-spade overall is "text-book." Yet a Young Turk would bid four spades. West wants to act, but is just too weak. Opposite a Young Turk, North should pass. But facing a more conservative bidder, four spades is a reasonable gamble. North has fit and controls (aces and kings).

You start with nine tricks: seven spades, one heart and one diamond. You must establish dummy's heart nine for trick 10. And you must head that way without delay, before drawing trumps.

Win with dummy's diamond ace, cash the heart ace, and ruff a heart high in hand. Return to dummy with a trump, ruff another heart high, cross to dummy with a trump, and ruff a third heart high. Finally, play a spade to dummy's king and cash the heart nine, discarding a diamond. Dummy's trumps are vital entries.

HOROSCOPE

Your Birthday

Saturday, Oct. 31, 1998

The success you're hoping for in the year ahead lies in your ability and desire to get along with those you encounter. If you treat all with consideration and friendliness, even strangers will offer a helping hand.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) It could turn out to be one of those days when you may have a great deal of difficulty coordinating and consolidating your efforts. Don't let pent up frustrations make things worse. Trying to patch up a broken romance? The Astro-Graph Matchmaker can help you understand what to do to make the relationship work. Mail $2.75 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 1758, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10156.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Waste-fulsness on your part could permeate throughout your being today, undermining your well laid out budget. Unless you're careful, you'll have to live with future shortages.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Not following through on a promise you made to someone in your family or a close companion could cause some bitter consequences for you. It may be more than you bargained for.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Negative thinking on your part could distort your logic and destroy the very things you have going for you today. Problems you encounter will come from having a self-defeating attitude.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Be extra careful not to get yourself financially involved in a business or commercial dealing with someone or a group you know little about today. Your loss could be big and permanent.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) There is a strong possibility you could find out that you've been either deceived or fooled by someone you trusted today. To know the truth will be a blessing in disguise.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Although a friend will be well-intentioned, his or her advice may be way off the mark and could lead you in the wrong direction.

Don't delude yourself.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Get away fast if you find yourself involved with someone whose behavior borders on unethical, amoral behavior today. This individual could draw you into an awful mess.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Seek out good counsel today if you have any important or legal questions to consider. Don't kid yourself into thinking you understand the ramifications, for you could get yourself in hot water.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Correct mistakes immediately, no matter how difficult they might be to rectify. To attempt to sweep them under the rug could create an insoluble situation for yourself.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) It's not your nature to be inconsiderate, so don't fall victim to that today. Even if you believe you're expelling a little white lie, it could snowball out of proportion.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Generally you're very considerate and fair to others, but dissatisfaction about something today could cause you to step out of character and take things out on your family.
