BITHLO is the Midway Station—the only railroad station touched by the great Orlando-Ocean Boulevard between Orlando and the East Coast. Bithlo is suburban to no other city. It is distinct. Consequently, by all the laws and lessons of economy, it must grow and keep on growing. BITHLO, by reason of its geographical position—situated in the heart of East Orange—must serve that vast area of fertile trucking, farming and citrus lands NOW thrown open to investors and developers who knew, and who have been waiting only the advent of the new highways now penetrating the locality to let them into the fortunes securely vested there.

When the East Coast Highway is completed on over the St. Johns River to the Atlantic, about July, Bithlo will mark the traffic lines from either end. Aside from the bright future assured for the town through agricultural developments, it holds a master key of comfort and attraction for the tourist-being likewise in the heart of almost vir gin hunting and fishing grounds. It is only a few miles from the St. Johns River, the tributaries of which in that community abound with fish

A new era of the development is on in Bithlo, and TODAY is the time to investigate the commanding possibilities evident on every hand.

For a short time only, we will continue to sell lot s in Bithlo at prices which prevailed before the Ocean Highway opened the town.

— AN ENGLISH COTTA GE TYPE OF CHARM The English cottage type is becoming very popular for the small American home, and when one wants a home that is a little different from the ordinary run-a home of character and distinction-no mistake will be made in selecting a house of the type.

Of course, one cannot entirely forget the plan in seeking picturesque exterors. A proper relation must exist between the most economical and the most prac tical plan, and the idea, picturesque exterior.

This calls for thorough study on the part of the architects, every detail must be given due consideration nothing is to be extravagant, yet the house is to be artistic and unusual.

The house shown herewith is a successful attempt to solve this problem. The sketch of the exterior shows a house of unu sual charm, while the plans are econnomical and liv-The construction is of stucco on frame, the roof is slate, the half timber work is hand-adzed to give an antique effect.

The front door opens into a comfortable vestibule, which has a coat closet adjoining. From the vestibule one obtains a fine vista across the living room and into the sun porch beyond. The living room is large and has a fireplace with built-in seat and bookcase.

The dining room centers on the living room, giving a spacious effect to the interiors. A toilet room connects with the hall. This is a real convenience.

A generous sun porch, a den or bed room, and a convenient kitchen are also provided.

On the second floor are two bed rooms and a bath. A cellar extends under the entire house,

Women Rowers Shock Thames Spectators

LONDON, May 16 .- Some members of the Skiff Rowing Associa-tion are shocked at the costumes, or lack of them, worn by women at regattas. At the annual meeting of the association it was announced that complaints had been received of several rowing women wearing too scanty attire, being stockingless, with shorts or skirts only reaching half-way down the thighs.

There is apparently no objection while the girls are in the boats, but when walking about the tow path or in the enclosure more clothing should be adopted.

We were thinking about writing an editorial the other day on scandal mongers when we ran across this one in the Houston Post, which is so peculiarly applicable to our situation here that we might even, if so inclined, reproduce it as one of our own.

CONGRESS WILL adjourn, by agreement with President Coolidge, on June 7. Then will begin the real business of politics—getting elected again. It hasn't been a pleasant session of Congress with its Teapot Dome, its selling and stealing of the naval oil reserves and its other features, and you will be glad to see the session die.

IN BALTIMORE, A FARMER named Meyerly is said to be plowing up a good wheat field with a sub-soil plow, having been told there is gold in his land. He won't find gold, but if he plows deeply enough and plaws his wheat under. he will improve his soil and increase his farm's value.

IN THE SECOND PART of Faust, Goethe tells of the farmer plowing deep because under the emperor's law he was allowed to keep all buried treasure "turned over by the plow." That was probably an ingenious scheme to make the farmer plow deeper, make his soil richer and thus be able to pay heavier taxes. There is too much thin scratching of the earth in this country.

There is a growing sentiment in Tampa to combine the city and county governments. This sentiment is growing in other counties. It is a business like plan for consolidation of city and county offices with the idea of better service at less cost.
