Sales-Tax Increase Sheriff Polk Considers It Essential

By MARK YOGLER Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County Sheriff John Polk declares himself a big booster of Gov. Bob Graham's proposal for a penny increase in the state sales tax. "If I could vote on it and had the only vote, it would be passed today," Polk said this morning. "I think it's necessary. And I've written letters to the 25 legislators I know to support it," the sheriff

Polk joins a growing group of Florida sheriffs who have thrown their political support behind the Graham tax measure, which would earmark half of the proceeds for use by local governments.

Of that amount, 30 percent of the new revenues could be applied to jail construction and operation. And that's what has Polk enthusiastic about the

"We'd be able to get 15 percent of that one cent. And that would mean about $1.7 million for Seminole County that could be used for expansion of the jail, and part of it could go to the jail's operation," Polk said.

"If it (sales-tax increase) is passed by the Legislature, I will recommend that the County Commission set up a special fund for jail expansion and allow the rest of the money to be used for the operation of the jail. In reality, the tax increase would only directly help the jail, as far as the Sheriff's Department is concerned. But there would also be some property-tax relief, and thus more money could go into law enforcement on the streets - and we could accomplish this without having to raise taxes." he said

Polk said the Seminole County jail, which feeds an average of 180 to 190 inmates daily, will have to undergo expansion within four or five years in order to alleviate a potential overcrowding situation. It costs Seminole taxpayers about $1.6 million per year to maintain and operate the jail, according to the sheriff.

By setting aside the money right now for future jail expansion, it would definitely offset the need for a major bond issue," said Polk, "One million dollars will probably bring in about $150,000 a year in interest. And if you compound that and keep adding to the fund over a period of four or five years, you'd probably bring in a million dollars just in interest. It will definitely save the taxpayers money in the long run," he said.

Polk favors the one-cent sales-tax increase over the half-cent hike because "the state needs money too, to operate some of its programs — we'll still get the same amount of money regardless of a half-cent or one-cent increase

"Right now I'm busy preparing two budgets one to be used if the sales tax passes and one if it

SCC Working Out Benefits Plan

By DONNA ESTES Rerald Staff Writer

It will be at least 10 working days before a solution is found for the problems with Seminole Community College (SCC) providing a special semester of classes to help local high school seniors retain their Social Security college student benefits.

Dr. Joel White, SCC dean of instruction, said today that admission applications and transcripts from 54 seniors in four county high schools were received by the college Monday from the Seminole County school office

Under the terms of the federal Omnibus Reconciliation Act of 1981, Social Security benefits - funds received for education after the death or disability of a parent - are to be phased out over the coming four

To be eligible for continued benefits. students must meet two conditions: have been eligible to receive the benefits as of August 1901, and be enrolled in and attending college full time prior to this coming May 1.

Since high school students in Seminole County are not scheduled to graduate until June 16, and SCC classes for the summer semester are scheduled to begin May 5, SCC administrators are trying to set up a special early-summer semester to give county students the opportunity to be in college full time prior to May 1. If the arrangement can be worked out, the students would continue high to college in the afternoons on a delayed college-credit basis.

The special semester, after all the problems are worked out, would begin some time after April 20, the last day of the spring semester at SCC, and before May 1, White said.

The applications received at SCC Monday are from 9 Lake Brantley students, 5 from Oyiedo High, 15 from Seminole High and 25 from Lyman.

included in the packet of information were student backgrounds and information on whether the seniors are eligible for college-credit

White said an analysis must be made on what courses the college can offer. "Once that's done, we'll get school classes in the mornings and go - back to the School Board and provide options to the staff and students. At that time the ball will be in the students' and parents' taps," he said.

> A major problem to be worked out at SCC is whether full-time staff members will be available to teach the courses. While also noted that while most of the students are eligible for academic programs, "We found a few who are not eligible. For those, we hope to provide occupational alternatives 1

While classroom space is available at SCC, it is possible the classes may be held at one of the high schools, White said, noting that principals have offered classroom space so students wouldn't have the problem of transportation to the college.

County Worried Over Rising Cost Of Criminal Justice

The Seminole County Commission doesn't have to explain to taxpayers how thankful its members are that the local court system hasn't handled anything as big as the Wayne Williams trial.

"What if Seminole County should get a case like that? It would be a $6 million expense for the taxpayers," Commissioner Sandra Glenn remarked during a workshop session

The other commissioners agreed, and gritted their teeth at the prospect of the county's footing the bill for such a trial.

Nevertheless, commissioners are quite concerned about the increase in the costs of the local criminal-justice system and the fact that existing resources to cover some of the expenses are inadequate - and thus Seminole County taxpayers each year are in effect tooting the bill for a yet undetermined large sum of money totaling several million dollars.

What does it actually cost local taxpayers to operate the criminal-justice system?

Nobody knows exactly how much.

"I can assure you it's like a chef's salad. It's just everything under the sun thrown in together," said County Administrator Roger Neiswender in describing the task of trying to evaluate the true costs of the judicial system.

"You can't just rely on information from the state attorney, the public defender and the clerks (of courts) and lump it all together," he said.

A judicial-fee schedule study, released by the county's Office of Management and Budget last month, was the first detailed attempt by the county to chart the costs of the judicial system and the effectiveness of various fee collection systems, explained Neiswender. But it fell far short of the study that needs to be done in this area, he added.

Eleanor Anderson, director of the Office of Management and Budget, said she agrees with Neiswender's "chef's salad" assessment.

"There's no way I could determine what the bottom line is," she said today

Even though nebody has a handle on the actual judicial costs, the judicial-fees study details several costs that have commissioners concerned:

- In following a criminal case from the arrest through the trial, the total average cost comes to $1,520.28 per case filed. If Using the conservative figure, it cost Seminole County $714,531.60 to bring 470 criminal cases to trial in 1981. - Since 1977, liens issued in behalf of the public defender's office costing $372,964.13 have been issued in circuit and county the case involves autopsies, psychiatric eximis and expert courts. But only $21,592.96, or 5.8 percent, has actually been collected. The purpose of a lien is to recoup money owed to the public defender's office for representing an individual who had no personal legal representative.

- Civil cases are routinely charged $12 as a filing fee. However, nearly 20 percent of the 2,606 cases filed last year generated no fees, since the people involved were indigent and thus exempt from filing costs. — MARK VOGLER

Shopping Plaza Wins Okay In Casselberry

By TENLYARBOROUGH Herald Staff Writer

The Casselberry city council gave its unanimous approval Monday night to plans for a $2 million shopping plaza proposed for construction at the southeast corner of Red Bug Lake Road and State Road 436.

 Construction of the plaza, which will contain a Goodings supermarket and numerous retail shops, is expected to begin within the next few months, according to Lester Zimmerman of

'A traffic study has been done and we are waiting for the result. However, if that study does not indicate a need for the traffic signal now, I would like to see the developer held responsible for installing the signal in the event subsequent traffic study findings indicate a need for one." — Jim Lavigne the Greater Construction Co., of Casselberry, which is scheduled to develop the 11-acre site. We believe this is a complete site plan you have before you," said City Planner Dale MacMahan Monday night, "The developer has agreed to fence the retention-pond area, provide for landscaping and lighting in the plan, and participate in an agreement to install traffic lights at Sausalito Boulevard and State Road 436 as requested."

A permit from the state Department of Transportation for construction of rights-ofway and a permit for the storm-water drainage are still pending, MacMahan said.

The 46,420-square-foot grocery will be flanked by 55,000 feet of retail space, according to MacMahan. The supermarket is expected to employ about 150 people and will include a bakery, pharmacy, flower shop and delicatessen. Retail tenants will be secured through a leasing agent.

At last week's meeting, county officials had expressed their concern that the plaza would utilize right-of-way space needed for future expansion and widening of Red Bug Lake "County Commissioner Barbara Christensen reviewed the site plan and has approved it," said Council Chairman Thomas Embree, "This is her district, and the county has had input and agrees with the plan."

Councilman Jim Lavigne expressed his concern that traffic at the intersection will increase with construction and use of the shopping plaza, and urged that a pedestrian walkway and traffic signal be installed by the developer.

"A traffic study has been done and we are waiting for the result," Lavigne said. "However, if that study does not indicate a need for the traffic signal now, I would like to see the developer held responsible for installing the signal in the event subsequent traffic study findings indicate a need for one."

2 Armed Men Grab Cash At Sanford Store

Sanford police are investigating a Monday night robbery in which two armed men held up a discount store and made off with an undetermined amount of money.

Employees Doug Lewis, 27, of 191 Windsor Court, and Michael Spandau, 27, of 606 Park Ave., both of Sanford, told police two men entered the Phillips 55 Discount Store, 1201 Airport Blvd., at about & 20 p.m. and forced them at gunpoint into the store's back room, police reported.

The gunmen then rifled the store's two cash registers, taking an undetermined amount of cash, police said.

The clerks told police the men were armed with a 25 caliber automatic pistol und a .38 caliber snub-nose revolver.

"We were fortunate," said Rick McMurray, store manager. "They caught us at a slow time and no one got hurt. They just made the clerks go into the back storage room, and when the two men left the clerks notified the police. No one got hurt,

McMurray said he has not had an opportunity to determine how much money the robbers took. -TENI YARBOROUGH

Smith: Federal Courts Keep Death Row Filled

ORLANDO (UP1) - Florida Attorney General Jim Smith says federal courts are unnecessarily duplicating the state courts in death penalty appeals and show "little respect for the state court system."

Pointing to a federal court's decision Sunday to stay the execution of child-killer Arthur Frederick Goode III, Smith said people facing executions in Florida "are stacked up on death row like cordwood" because of "unbelievable review" by federal courts.

However, the director of a privately funded group fighting the death penalty says the federal courts are simply doing their jobs to see that justice is served.

Scharlette Holdman of the Florida Clearinghouse on Criminal Justice said federal courts are providing the same relief in capital punishment cases that it gave to blacks 20 years ago when "they couldn't get into state universities."

She said Smith and Gov. Bob Graham act as if the federal court system was invented to "keep people from getting executed."

IN BRIEF

Reagan Talks Tough About His '83 Budget

WASHINGTON (UPI) - President Reagan, talking tough about the 1983 budget right up to his departure today for California, gave Congress a week to think about what he might accept as an alternative to his embattled plan.

Reagan was due to leave for Chevenne, Wyo., and a political fund-raiser for Sen. Malcolm Wallop, R-Wyo. From there, he was to fly to Albuquerque, N.M. to assist the campaign of Sen. Harrison Schmitt, R-N.M.

UAW Now Turns To GM

DETROIT (UPI) - The United Auto Workers and the Ford Motor Co. have signed a contract designed to save Ford $1 billion over the next 21/2 years, and union leaders now want to resume negotiations for a similar agreement for General Motors employees.

The Ford contract, which gives union workers job security in return for benefits concessions, was signed Monday by UAW president Douglas Fraser and Ford chairman Philip Caldwell at formal ceremonies at Ford headquarters in suburban Dearborn. It was ratified Sunday after union members approved it by a 3-to-1 ratio.

Testing For Birth Defects

BOSTON (UPI) - Scientists say they have developed the first test that can determine whether drugs given pregnant women will cause birth defects.

Previously there has been no way to determine how drugs affect the growth of a fetus. Drugs such as thalidomide and DES - which causes cancer and reproductive abnormalities in daughters of women who took it to prevent miscarriages - already were in wide use before their dangers were discovered.

'No Place To Raise A Child'

COLUMBIA, S.C. (UPI) - State corrections officials have refused a woman's request to keep her infant daughter in prison while she finishes serving 21 years for armed robbery.

Tax Hike Debate Set For Thursday

"Should We Raise the State Sales Tax?" will be the topic of a debate at the 7:30 p.m. meeting Thursday of the Seminole County Young Republican (YR) Club.

The club is to meet at the Sanford Holiday Inn, Interstate 4 and State Hoad 46. A social hour will begin at 7:30 p.m. James Stelling, YR president, said the sales tax increase is the "number one issue on the minds of Floridians today." He said the debaters will address the questions of whether the state needs an additional $800 million in revenue, and whether real property tax relief can be guaranteed if the tax hike is

Casselberry Woman Dies In Auto Crash

Herald Staff Writer

A 60-year-old Casselberry woman was killed and a New Smyrna Beach man injured when their cars collided in New Smyrna Beach late Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Eddie Iler Roundtree, of Lake Howell Arms Apartments, was killed when she pulled out from Old Sugar Mill Road into the path of an oncoming car on County Road 4118 at about 5:15 p.m. Sunday, Florida Highway Patrol officers said. Mrs. Roundtree died at the scene, troopers added.

The other driver, Hiram Luke, $7, of 18 Bay Drive, was treated for injuries at Fish Memorial Hospital in New Smyrna Beach and released, hospital officials said.

There were no passengers in either car and no one was charged in the accident, troopers said.

Troopers said Mrs. Roundtree drove her 1978 Mercury into the path of Luke's 1979 Chevrolet pickup truck, causing the accident. Troopers said Luke's vehicle was traveling at about 40-45 mph when it collided with Mrs. Roundtree's vehicle, which was traveling at an estimated 5-10 mph.

GROCERY STORE DISTURBANCE

A 27-year-old Sanford man is free on bond today from the Seminole County jail following his arrest Saturday on charges of disorderly intoxication and aggravated assault, deputies Tommie Christian, of an unspecified address, was arrested Saturday when deputies received a call concerning a disturbance at the Midway Grocery store, on Sipes Avenue, deputies said. Upon investigation, deputies found Christian sitting at a table at the store being treated by ambulance workers for a cut on his face. Deputies said Christian became violent and was placed under arrest for disorderly intoxication.

Based on statements from witnesses, deputies also charged Christian with aggravated assault against store employee Willie Brown, 35, of Sanford.

Witnesses told deputies that Christian had threatened to kill Brown with a .22-caliber revolver which he reportedly was waving at Brown, deputies said. Witnesses told deputies that Brown grabbed the gun from Christian and hit Christian in the face with an electrical cord, deputies added.

Christian was taken to the Seminole Memorial Hospital where he was treated and released. He was then taken to the county jail, deputies said.

UCF May Undertake Sinkhole Study

The south Seminole cities of Casselberry and Altamonte Springs are among those designated as potentially troublesome areas for sinkholes by Frank Kujawa, who is spearheading efforts to establish a sinkhole study institute at the University of Central Florida.

Insurance Commissioner Bill Gunter's 42-member Sinkhole Advisory Committee agreed Monday to establish a research institute at UCF primarily because of its proximity to Winter Park's giant sinkhole which developed last May and swallowed homes, vehicles, a swimming pool, and a huge chunk of Casselberry's largest and most destructive sinkhole occurred 16 years ago. The crater gobbled up a home on Northmoor Road and damaged several others as well as a section of the street. About the same time, sinkholes also developed near homes in the Prairie Lake area of Fern Park. Sinkholes in residential areas of Altamonte Springs last year did little damage to homes.

Kulawa (pronounced Kuhava), a member of the UCF Chemistry Department, also listed Orlando, Winter Park, Bartow and Winter Haven as sinkhole-prone areas.

If funding is found, the institute could begin operating the first of next year with a mandate to investigate subterranian structures, forecast sinkholes, coordinate available data, and develop strict building codes in potentially troublesome areas.

The advisory committee made up of engineers, geologists, contractors, insurance executives, bankers, surveyors, government officials and university representatives, will now begin a concerted effort to raise seed money for the project.

"What we want to do now, frankly, is assess what level of financial commitment we can get from the insurance (industry). And trade associations," said Michael Petit, executive assistant to Gunter.

Petit said the committee members will verbally contact industry leaders to solicit funds. If that is unsuccessful, Gunter will request donations through letters that would be mailed to about 300 insurance firms operating in Florida.

"We'restablishing a budget of $150,000 that will come solely from the private sector — insurance firms, construction firms and engineering companies," Gunter said.

"With that conunitment, the university system is willing to become involved with some (subsequent) funding and staff. The amount of that is not determined, but they will know we have a commitment," he said.

Future funding might also come from the 1983 Legislature and, possibly, though a small surcharge on commercial fire and casualty and homeowner insurance policies, Gunter said.

"A lot of people have been working on different technologies for more closely defining the zones of likely sinkhole activitiy," Kujawa said. "Right now we have these generalized

Low Interest Loans: Information Available But Not Money...Yet

There are no funds available yet for Seminole County residents who would be first-time home buyers seeking financial help to purchase single-family homes.

But these potential homeowners will have an opportunity to obtain updated information concerning the mortgage revenue bond program instituted by the county.

Assistant County Administrator Jim Easton said Sam Mazzotta, executive director of the Orange County Housing Finance Authority (OCHFA), will be available to answer questions about the program from 9:30 to 11 a.m. each Thursday in the county administrator's office on the third floor of the County Courthouse in Sanford.

The County Commission last month approved an alliance with the OCHFA in hopes of making single-family housing more affordable to first-time home buyers.

The Commission also passed a resolution that would permit the issuance of up to $40 million in mortgage revenue bonds for single-family housing within the next

Easton said there will probably not be any funds available for several months, so there is no need for Seminole County residents to sign up for the program yet. Any family making a combined salary of $27,750 or less is eligible to participate in the program. The people must be first-time home buyers and also must comply with the eligibility standards to be established by OCHFA at a later Seminole County will not assume any financial burden if there is any default on payment of the bonds. The bonds will be the liability of Orange County.

45 Percent Interest Bill 'Will Die In Committee'

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) - The Senate has passed a bill letting banks and other lenders charge up to 45 percent interest, but House Commerce Chairman John Lewis says the plan will die before hitting the House

The bill will never come out of the commerce committee if he can help it, Lewis said Monday, adding that he has no plans now to even hold a hearing on the legislation.

Girl Abandoned In Glades

MIAMI (UPI) - Police reported no new leads today in the search for two gunmen who killed a 29-year-old man and then abandoned his girlfriend's 4-year-old daughter in the Everglades.

The girl, Connie Badig, barefoot and wearing a thin cotton dress, spent the night alone in the thick mangrove swamp, said Metro Dade County Detective John LeClaire. He said she told him she sang songs to keep from being afraid.

Marlette Started With Herald

Former Sanfordite's Comic Strip Going To TV

Former Sanford resident Doug Marlette, whose widely syndicated political cartoons appear frequently on the Herald editorial page, has had his cartoon strip "Kudzu" tapped for television.

The TV rights to the strip, which appears in 140 newspapers and has been translated into several languages, have been purchased by CBS television for a live action situation comedy. The show's characters are based on Kudzu DuBose and his family and friends from the tiny fictional town of Bypass, N.C.

"Kudzu" is currently in the pre-production stage. Plans call for the production of a halfhour gilot film next month with the series tentatively slated for a 1982 fall debut.

"It is very unusual possibly unprecedented, for a newspaper feature to go into television production within its first year of syndication," according to Beverly Dodd, director of merchandising for the show's production company, Jefferson Communications.

"And considering the sharp cutbacks the networks have been making in the number of scripts they buy for production, we figure they've concluded what we knew all along: "Kudzu" is a winner!"

A further indication of the success and popularity of Marlette's comic strip, which has been referred to as "like a collaboration.

between William Faulkner and Woody Allen," is the fact that it has been produced and merchandised in book form by the Ballantine Company, which put out the "Garfield" the comic cat book.

Marlette said he has read the "Kudzu" television script and is pleased that it is pretty faithful to his strip.

With backing by Emmy-winning Tomorrow Entertainment Productions, which has produced shows such as "The Biography of Miss Jane Pittman," Marlette said he feels he is "in good hands."

"The whole trend in recent years has been to siphon off from television shows for comic strips, but this reverses the trend," Marlette said happily

"I have a lot of confidence. CBS would not invest $400,000 in something if they weren't reasonably sure it could make it."

The character of Kudzu has been described as "innocent as the dew of Dixie" brimming with ' dreams of love and glory while only one thing stands in the way of their fulfillment -

The locale of the strip is the drowsy Southern bamlet of Bypass, which Marlette says is a combination of boyhood memories of Sanford and Laurel, Miss.

The winners, selected from more than 100 applicants, included a first-grader, a teacher at a girls' school, a handicapped member of the Jewish War Veterans, an Eastern Shore unemployment office worker, a reformed drunken driver and a prison inmate.

The first grader, Jacqueline Beth Filtzer, 634, had written Hughes a neatly printed letter that said, "I want the gun stores to get out of business." When she saw Hughes in person, she continued her plea for gun control, Shapiro said.

Last week, however, Hughes announced his corrections secretary had decided not to release the prison inmate Shapiro wanted to bring as his guest.

The governor called Shapiro "rude" for turning the dinner invitation into a contest.

In addition to Miss Filtzer, all of the other "guests" showed up except for the reformed drunken driver and, of course, the prison inmate.

House Rewriting State Insurance Code

House began debate today on a 1,194page rewrite of the Insurance Code which would-affect virtually every insurance policy written in Florida.

A final vote on the measure (CS-CS-HB 607) is due Wednesday.

The Insurance Code is being reviewed by the Legislature this year under the Sunset Act. If it is not re-enacted, it will expire July 1 Although the bill covers most types of insurance, most attention has focused on automotive coverage, particularly the nofault insurance law. The insurance industry has argued in favor of leaving no fault much as it is accident victims.

The House bill would give lawyers insurance rates.

some of what they want while the Senate Commerce Committee, in its version (SB) 466), has sided with the insurance industry, setting up a potential clash between the two houses.

House Insurance Chairman Tom Gustafson said auto insurance premiums would remain about the same under the House version while increasing about 10 percent under the Senate's Insurance industry representatives disputed Gustafson's figures, saying, "The question is not whether expanded litigation will increase costs but how much it will increase costs."

"Disallowing these rating criteria does not mean lower insurance rates. It simply rearranges who will pay the premium," the news service said,

But Insurance Commissioner Bill Gunter said sex, marital status and scholastic achievement "are simply not directly related to the propensity to have an accident."

"Whether male or female, married or single, an A student or a C student, your premium should be calculated on factors over which you have some degree of control and which bear a direct relation to your use of the vehicle," Gunter said.

The Problems Of Illegal Immigration Subject Of Study

(UPI) - Rep. Ron Mazzoli, chairman of the U.S. House Immigration Subcommittee, and Rep. Bill McCollum, the only Floridian member, will made a fourday fact-finding tour of Florida this week for first-hand reports on problems caused by illegal immigration.

Mazzoli, a Democrat from Kentucky, and McCollum, a Republican, will begin their four in Miami Thursday. They will be there Thursday and Friday, go to West Palm Beach and Orlando on Saturday and Tampa Sunday morning before returning to Washington

"I think it's about time that Chairman Mazzoli has the opportunity to see for himself the problems that illegal immigration has brought to our state," McCollum said Monday in Washington

"The people of Florida should not have to suffer as a result of this situation because it is a national problem and one that Congress has to deal with as such," he said. "It affects our social programs, our work force, and the quality of life as a whole in Florida and across the nation."

McCollum said Florida's geographical location and its miles of shoreline make it imperative the state have a topflight immigration operation, both in terms of funding and personnel.

"We must be careful about budget-cutting in this area." McCollum said. "We won't be saving any money in the long run if we cannot get control of illegal immigration into our

The congresmen will meet in Miami with a number of government, immigration, health, education and law enforcement officials and they will visit the Krome North refugee encampment.

They will meet with officials of the U.S. Border Patrol in Tampa Sunday morning and interview some jailed illegal immigrants.

Knowles Sees Lawmakers Working Into The Spring

The 1962 session of the Florida Legislature can be expected to run well into May, Sanford City Manager W.E. "Pete" Knowles has told the Seminole County Council of Local Governments.

Knowles was to have been special guest at the council's 7:30 p.m. meeting Wednesday in Longwood, but sent a written report because he is in Tallahassee lobbying for the city of Sanford and the Florida League of Cities.

In his report, Knowles says legislative work is going slowly on the state budget because legislators have been thrashing out differences in state Senate, House and congressional reapportionment.

He said the extension could run past May unless both Houses move shead quickly.

"The big blow is a current shortfall of $174 million in the state budget," Knowles said, adding that while the state is talking about budget reductions, it is more likely that greater interest will revolve around the proposed one cent increase in sales taxes.

Knowles said the Florida League of Cities' proposal to increase sales taxes by one penny - from four to five cents - with resulting revenues going to city and county government is now "getting a working over by state of-

He said although the League recommended the tax increase carry with it a mandate for property tax relief, the state proposal does not contain that provision.

Knowles said the state now wants half of the one cent increase to go the the state general fund with unrestricted use while the remaining half cent would go to local governments, with 30 percent earmarked for jails.

"This is considered a buy-off of the state's sheriffs to support Gov. Graham in his upcoming re-election race," he said. The remaining 70 percent of the revenue from the second half cent would be split to local government - counties and cities - based on population," Knowles said.

"The state people became real cute in preparing their plan by requiring any city or county to first hold public hearings and pass an ordinance asking for the local funds and also stating what the local funds will be used for," Knowles said. Not surprisingly, "they didn't put the same restrictions on themselves," he added. - DONNA ESTES

The Crisis In Draft Registration

Suppose they gave a war, and nobody came? An estimated 800,000 young Americans born in 1963 have failed to go to a post office to register. their names by Dec. 31, 1981, as required by law. Now the Selective Service, at the order of President Reagan, extended the deadline to the end of February.

The administration is not anxious to arrest 800,000 teen-agers.

Registration was dropped in 1975 by President Ford as a waste of money and revived in 1980 by President Carter in order to send a signal to the Russians of our displeasure over Afghanistan. No American has been drafted since 1973. The current Selective Service Administration budget is $18.6 million, or about $23 for each new registrant.

Why are young men failing to register? Listen to some of the voices: 18-year-old:

I didn't register because I didn't know I had to. President Reagan ran for office saying he opposed registration, then he changed his mind and said it would speed up mobilization. If the president isn't sure about the registration, why should I sign my name on the dotted line? Maybe if I keep delaying, he'll drop the whole thing.

Selective Service:

The new deadline is the deadline. The president changed his mind because the Pentagon convinced him that it was in the best interest of national security. The registration will shave 6 weeks off the draft call. But don't worry, this not a draft, only a registration.

Draft resister:

That's what you say today. Look what's happening in El Salvador. How long before U.S. troops are involved? I don't want to be sacrificed to another Vietnam. I won't register.

Selective Service:

Then you'll go to jail. Failure to register is a felony. If you oppose the government's foreign policy, do it democratically through the vote. But draft evasion will only destroy your life.

,I agree with the need for registration and I know you're serious about the deadline, but how can I convince my son to register? He's 18; he's on his own. This law reminds me of prohibition. It's unenforceable without being draconian, and it's encouraging young people to violate the law. Selective Service:

Let's state the law clearly. Any male born in 1963 who did not register by Feb. 28 is in violation of the registration law. Failure to register carries a maximum penalty of $10,000 and or five years in prison. If a man opposes war on religious grounds he may apply for conscientious objector status. But all 18 and 19-year-olds must register.

This newspaper considers it alarming that such a high percentage of young men should ignore or defy the law. Has the spirit of patriotism fallen so low in America? We don't believe it. Instead, the government simply has failed to convince the public, and especially our young men, of the importance of registering for the draft.

President Reagan, who as chief executive is charged with enforcing the law, can't ignore the problem. He must enforce this law by persuasion or prosecution, or ask Congress to repeal draft registration.

Now that the battle appears over in the Florida Legislature on reapportionment of the state Senate and House of Representatives, the major question facing the members is congressional reapportionment.

The only question separating the two Houses on reapportionment of the entire Legislature is whether senators elected in 1980 should have to run for re-election this year.

Dempsey Barron, D-Panama City, strong man of the upper House, is insisting the senators in question, including John Vogt, D-Cocoa Beach whose district encompasses Seminole County, should not have to run again.

And he's been unwavering in his position. State Rep. Lee Moffitt, D-Tampa, chairman of the House Reapportionment Committee, is just as firm in the position that the entire Senate should run for re-election. Normally the state senator's terms are four years.

If the two sides cannot compromise on the issue, it will probably be decided by the Florida Supreme Court.

The House districting plan calls for Seminole to be split into four districts.

The plan was proposed by State Rep. Robert Hattaway, D-Altamonte Springs. Although State Rep. Bobby Brantley, R-Longwood, proposed a modification to the Hattaway plan, Brantley as a member of the House Apportionment Committee voted in favor of the Hattaway plan. Brantley also voted for the Hattaway plan on the floor of

The plan calls for four House districts with Seminole residents. The Brantley district will have 16,273 residents of Seminole, 13,267 in Lake and 14,920 in Volusia, a portion of Marion and part of Putnam County.

The Hallaway district will include much of Longwood, most of Lake Mary, most of Altamonte Springs and most of Sanford and Forest City.

A third district includes Winter Springs, Casselberry, and Geneva with 1,450 residents from Orange and 17,500 from Brevard.

About 17,932 people around Lake Howell area are being joined with Orange County in Republican Rep. Tom Drage's Orange County district.

The Senate plan splits Seminole into three districts, Areas south of the State Road 436 corridor are to be joined with parts of Orange for Sen. Toni Jennings, R-Orlando; Areas east of U.S. 17-92 generally will be combined with parts of Brevard and Osceola for Vogt and areas west of U.S. 17-92 are combined with parts of Lake County for Sen. Dick Langley, R-No. Lake Minneola.

Two major congressional district plans are being considered for Seminole. A plan supported by Hattaway calls for all of Seminole to be joined with all of Marion, part of Lake and all of Alachua County. This plan would pit incumbent Congressmen Bill Chappell, D-Ocala, against Bill McCallum, R-Altamonte Springs, Brantley is supporting a plan prepared by Common Cause, the citizens' lobby which would combine all of Seminole with part of Orange for a district for McCollum.

Debate To Be Avoided?

WASHINGTON (NEA) - Sometime before mid-year Congress will be forced to debate a subject that few members want to see publicly aired, especially in an election year; the possible repeal of several lucrative "perks" that one or both bodies voted themselves last year.

Foremost among them is the special tax break enacted in the waning hours of the last congressional session. Without debate or a recorded vote, both houses passed an amendment allowing legislators to take huge tax deductions for their living expenses in Washington.

Since 1952, members of Congress have been allowed to deduct up to $3,000 for their Washington expenses. Under the new law and subsequent IRS regulations, they will have three options:

- They may deduct $75 for every "congressional work day" with no explanations required. There were 241 such days last year for a total deduction of $18,075.

- They may deduct $50 a day plus the mortgage and real-estate taxes on a second home in the Washington area. This deduction could easily exceed $30,000 annually.

- They may take an unlimited deduction based on "actual expenses" if they itemize and provide receipts.

A member of Congress could most likely wipe out his or her total tax liability by using any of the three methods.

A handful of legislators do not think that they and their colleagues should receive this kind of tax break, especially in a time of soaring budget deficits. Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., and Rep. Chalmers Wylle, R-Ohio, have introduced legislation to repeal the tax break. Only 20 senators and 25 representatives have so far signed on as co-sponsors. Proxmire and Wylie realize that Senate and House leaders, who are not eager to bring up repeal in an election year, will probably try to bottle up the bills in committee. The legislators say they will also attempt to force public floor debates and recorded votes on the issue by attaching amendments repealing the tax break to critical pieces of

The tax break is not the only congressional perk whose repeal may be debated this session.

Also last year, the Senate quietly passed a bill permitting its members to make a new kind of mass mailing to their constituents that could cost the federal treasury $90 million annually.

These "postal patron" mailings would allow a senator to mail a letter or a newsletter to every resident of his or her state four times a year. No individual names would be required on the envelopes; the senator would simply deliver enough copies of the mailing to the Postal Service for delivery.

The start of the new mailings has been delayed pending hearings by the Senate Rules. Committee.

Then there was the rider granting members of Congress automatic cost-of-living pay adjustments each October that was attached late last year to the supplemental appropriations bill. That provision was adopted with little fanfare in conference committee at the urging of Sen. Ted Stevens, R-Alaska, a champion of increased benefits for members

JACK ANDERSON

The Happenings Backstage

WASHINGTON - Most of the important work of Congress is done in its committees. Members devote more time and effort to committee work than anything else - with the possible exception of the eternal quest for re-election.

And committees can be as helpful to a member politically as they are important to the nation. A timely hearing on the right subject can bring the kind of media exposure no amount of money could buy,

The public has only a dim perception of the way a congressional committee operates. Most mysterious of all, probably, is the backstage managing that goes into the production of House or Senate hearings, which often seem to spring full-blown onto the front pages and evening news shows.

Now I can lift the veil of secrecy that covers the careful planning of these attentiongrabbing events. The hard-working staff of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee got together recently to consider a 25-page briefing paper that laid out a proposed agenda for this year's committee hearings. This revealing document was meant to be kept strictly internal, but my associate Dale Van Atta has seen a copy of it.

The purpose of the briefing paper was to identify the issues likely to merit the committee's attention and assess the potential in each. Along with a brief description of the issue, the staff noted the "administration plans" on the subject, than the "SFRC (Senate Foreign Relations Committee) goals," and, finally, what the document calls 'CHP action" that is indicated.

The last entry refers to Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., the well-intentioned but irresolute committee chairman. For while congressional committee chairmen don't have all the dictatorial power they once enjoyed, they still exercise final authority over their committees' agenda. An issue isn't an issue if the chairman doesn't recognize it; conversely, a non-issue can achieve instant importance to a committee if the chairman thinks it's hot stuff.

Here are some of the possibilities the Foreign Relations Committee staff will offer to Percy for his selection;

-U.S. Soviet relations, particularly the Polish crisis. No surprise here, but there's an interesting note under the "CHP action" column: Percy must "balance Illinois-SFRC roles." This acknowledges an important fact of political life: The chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee happens to number among his constitutents the largest concentration of Poles outside the old country. Percy's "Illinois role" is, at the very least, to avoid offending Polish-American voters in Chicago.

-Human rights in Latin America. The fix is in, apparently. The committee staff accepts as a foregone conclusion that the White House will "make certifications required by 1981 bill" requiring the president to attest to progress in human rights by governments seeking U.S. aid - specifically El Salvador, Argentina and Chile. The recommended "CH-P action" is to "support administration unless unforeseen evidence arises" at the hearings the staff proposes. In other words, barring some shocking massacre or dramatic testimony of torture and repression, the committee should rubberstamp the president's certifications.

-"Yellow rain." The use of Soviet chemical-biological weapons in Asia is an important issue that has been given serious attention by the White House. The staff recommends subcommittee hearings.

-Latin America. The staff urges Percy to chair more hearings himself on Latin America than in any other area - apparently to take the ball away from Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., the acerbic, conservative subcommittee chairman.

-Stolen vehicles. Despite the demands on Percy's time, the staff suggested he might want to handle personally the stolen-cars treaty with Mexico. Why? An insider explained that several years ago Percy investigated the international traffic in stolen cars. By right of discovery, he now "owns" the issue.

Hard Times For States

WASHINGTON (NEA) - After treading on thin ice throughout the winter, financially troubled state governments all across the country are in serious danger of losing their tenuous foothold when the first thaw of spring

A combination of adverse economic developments - notably a persistent nationwide recession and a drastic reduction in the transfer payments traditionally received from the federal government - has placed many states in a dire financial position unmatched in recent years.

When the National Governors' Association held its midwinter meeting here recently, the states' fiscal plight was overshadowed by the publicity generated by the debate over President Reagan's "New Federalism" proposals.

The issue surfaced repeatedly, however. We're all scared to death about our ability. to meet the needs of the people we're supposed to serve," said Vermont Gov. Richard A. Snelling, a Republican who currently serves as NGA chairman.

"The governors are very concerned about the cuts (proposed by Reagan) in the 1983 budget. We can't take another hemorrhage like we did in 1982 and 1981," added Utah Gov. Scott M. Matheson, a Democrat who will succeed Snelling in the NGA leadership post later this year.

Some governors said the recession was primarily responsible for the fiscal bind in which they find themselves. Reductions in federal funding haven't hurt, said Mississippi Gov. William F. Winter, a Democrat. "It's the recession."

Others were more critical of Reagan's program reductions. "We're about $450 million short, which is essentially what the feds have cut us," said Wisconsin Gov. Lee S.

Dreyfus, a Republican. The governors balked at Reagan's initial "New Federalism" formulation after an NGA analysis showed that it would cost the states about $9 billion in reduced federal aid and increased state expenses in 1984. Even without assuming that added burden, an analysis prepared by the National Conference of State Legislatures shows that revenue collections this year already are running a substantial 10 percent below original forecasts in three states - Nebraska, Kentucky and Washington. In five other states - Minnesota, South Carolina, Oklahoma, Oregon and Alaska revenues currently are running 6 percent to 9 percent lower than state officials earlier projected. "Perhaps the most drastic indication of fiscal hard times," says the NCSL, "is that 39 states are forecasting 1983 (general fund) balances of 5 percent of less, with 29 of those projecting a balance of 1 percent or less."

At least three states - New Hampshire. Minnesota and Oregon - could conclude the current fiscal year with general fund deficits exceeding 10 percent. States with projected deficits ranging from 3 percent to 9 percent include Connecticut, Michigan, Ohio, Washington and Alaska.

There are, however, a number of notable exceptions to that rule, almost all of them involving states that receive a substantial portion of their revenues from severance taxes imposed on oil, gas, coal and other

He Opposes Housing Financing Authority

Many people have asked, particularly since I am a realtor and developer, why I am so strongly opposed to Seminole County Government's involvement in a Housing Finance Authority. I would like to have may reasons made known: (1) Our population density will be increased creating greater impact. A subdivision lot is normally 20 to 25 percent of the total cost of a house. To be able to offer the lower priced house, you must have a cheaper lot. The only way to have a cheaper lot in high priced Seminole County is to have a smaller lot, By making lots smaller, there will be many more of them, thereby creating a greater density and therefore a greater impact on our traffic, schools and other services.

(2) The highest priced house allowed in the program will be in the $50,000 price range. With the increased homestead exemption now at $25,000, nearly one-half of each new house will be tax exempt and they are the ones creating the increased demand for services for which we other County taxpayers will have to pay.

(3) Seminole County is geographically a very small part of Central Florida. With the housing bond programs already in existence and working successfully so close by in Orange and Brevard counties, I question the need of another for Seminole.

(4) Seminole County growth is already tremendous. From 1970-1980 the population increased 114.8 percent from $3,692 to 179,752, and it is projected to increase by at least another 36 percent to 262,300 by 1990.

(5) According to the Orlando-Winter Park board of realtors MLS which includes Seminole County, the volume of sales increased by twenty three million dollars, from $428,000,000 in 1980 to $451,000,000 in 1981.

(6) The number of housing starts in just the unincorporated area of Seminole County was 1,468 in 1980 and 1,348 in 1981, down only

(7) It is a known fact that the offering of these lax exempt bonds has an effect on the market place, making it more difficult to sell the tax exempt bonds necessary to finance needed important public projects like roads, schools and utilities.

(8) Many people are under the impression that bonds will be sold immediately and that help is on the way. The fact is that the bonds can't be sold now. If people give Reagonomics a chance to work, they may never be sold. In the meantime, many hours of valuable staff time have gone into the project.

(9) The program is structured in such a way that it does not help the truly needy (those with incomes under $25,000).

(10) Government influence in our lives should be reduced as much as possible. I have been an elected official now for nine years and I have yet to find a government sponsored program that does not cost those taxpayers that have the ability to pay. Those that have money, pay. Those that don't, receive. You and I know that any healthy American with planning, saving, sacrifice and work can be one of those that has. That is what our freedom is all about and why so many have died to preserve this opportunity for all Americans. Government must not continue to be asked to do all things for all people. Individuals must be encouraged to do things for themselves.

These are the main reasons why I voted against the Seminole County government sponsored Housing Finance Authority, Every decision I have made I have made with a conscious effort to determine that the outcome was in the best interest of the majority of our citizens. In my opinion, this just simply helps too few people at the expense of all the other County residents. "There is no free lunch."

weather. In the other, base hits fell all did." over the field.

At Sanford, Lake Brantley second baseman Brian Wright made a brilliant diving catch to end the game and preserve a superb pitching performance by righthander Tommy Novak as the Patriots numbed Seminole, 1-0, at Memorial Stadium.

At Lake Howell, Apopka pushed across three runs against senior Billy Stripp and Lamar Chandler blanked the normally hard-hitting Silver Hawks on five hits for a 3-0 victory. Apopka is 4-2 on the year.

At Lyman, senior Rick Humphery draw to close a 13-3 Greyhound victory over DeLand in a game which was called after five innings due to the 10-run rule.

"It doesn't matter if it's 100 degrees or zero degrees when Brantley and Seminole get together, it's always a good ball game," informed Patriot manager Sam Momary. The victory was the third straight for Brantley after dropping the first four of the year.
Novak, a stylish senior, was in top form. He fanned 10 Tribe hitters including center fielder Alton Davis three times. Novak allowed just four hits and was in trouble just once.

That came in the fourth inning. After Greg Hill popped out, Freddie Howard reached on a bases on balls. Howard took off on the next pitch and left fielder Greg Register slapped a perfect hit-and-run double down the right field line.

Howard rounded third base where manager Bobby Lundquist waved him toward home. The throw came in off line and was cut by first baseman Scott

Howard however, slammed on the Frigid temperatures greeted the brakes and reversed himself to third and opening of the Five Star Conference with him went the Tribe's only chance to baseball season Monday. In two county score, "In his judgment he didn't think he cases, the bats were as cold as the could have scored," said Lundquist. "I

With runners on second and third, Novak got tough. He fanned Litton with a curve ball on the outside corner, then blazed a fastball past third baseman John Polk to get out of the inning.

While Novak was setting down Seminoles, junior righthander Hill was having just as easy a time with the Pats' bats. Hill came into the game with nine and two-third hitless innings including a no-hitter in his last starting assignment.

For four innings Monday he kept his streak intact to push his hitless string to 13 and two-thirds. In the fifth it was ripped a two-run double to left center to snapped when Billy Green blooped a hit which Register dove for and almost caught in left field.

Hill then wild pitched Green to second. Joe Mincey dropped a bunt in front of the plate which catcher Brett Von Herbulls pounced on. Green hung up between second and third before finally breaking for third.

Von Herbulis, though, threw the ball in the dirt for an error allowing Green to advance. Mincey reached first on the fielder's choice.

With no one out, Hill caught leadoff man Billy Powers looking for the first out and then got Brennan Asplen to line out in short left field as Register made a nice Wright, however, ripped a rope into left center to score Green with the only run of the night. Hill finished the inning, but gave way to Tracy Walker for the final two. Hill struck out nine and walked three in his five innings of work.

Sanford had a chance to tie the game in the seventh when Litton singled to lead off the inning. Paul Griffin dropped a perfect bunt to move Litton to second Right fielder Terry Russi, though, popped up to first base to bring Von Herbulis to the plate in a "do or die" situation. Von Herbulis hit a soft line drive which Wright speared one-handed as he dartred toward right field to complete his dual hero's role for the evening.

"I thought it was going to drop in," said Lundquist after the game. "We're just not getting any consistent hitting from the top of our order," In addition to Davis' three strikeouts, Walker has gone hitless in his last 13 at bats.

Hawks Are 5-Hit

Like Seminole, Lake Howell had a lot of trouble scoring runs on Monday. Howell, who has won the Five Star two years in a row, fell to 4-4 for the year.

Sophomore Billy Lang banged out two hits. The .545 hitter singled and stole two bases in the second inning for Howell's biggest threat.

Apopka dropped Stripp to 2-1 for the season on RBI singles by Scott Bruhl in the second, Raoul Herrara in the fourth and Mike Justice in the seventh, Bruhl's hit was assisted by Hawk center fielder Doug Chiodini who let the ball roll under his glove for an error allowing the run to

Lyman Rips Rood

While three of the county teams had trouble putting the aluminum to the horsehide, Lyman's Greyhounds continued to roll over the opposition.

Righthander Kevin Brubaker shackled DeLand on six hits to run his record to 3-0 and keep his earned run average at a sparkling 1.76 for the season.

Mike "Duck" Sawyer led the hitting entourage against righthander Kevin Rood with three smacks including a double and two runs batted in. Kenny Brown, John Reich, Torn Perkins, Lee-Jenkins and Humphery had two hits Brown doubled and stole his 12th base. Reich plated three runs, Perkins had two as did Jenkins and Humphery, who hit two doubles. Lyman put a five-spot on the board in the second and added six more in the third.

Junior hitting sensation Todd Marriott took the collar in three at bats. The Hound center fielder had 12 hits in his previous 15 at bats. His average dropped to 500 from 628.

Wednesday, Lyman, 6-1-1, travels to Daytona Beach to take on the Bucs. Lefthander Pat Burkhart, 1-1, will go after the Greyhounds second conference

Squeeze Lifts JV's

In junior varsity baseball action Monday, Seminole's Andy Griffith squeezed home Bill Schab from third base with the winning run in the bottom of the seventh inning as the Tribe JV nipped Lake Brantley, 7-6.

Seminole, 2-t, received solid pitching from righthander Chad Braden, 2-0. The Tribe held a 6-2 lead going into the late innings, but the Patriots rallied to tie it, setting the stage for Griffith's gamewinning bunt.

Coach Dave Mosure's squad takes on the Lyman junior varsity at 3:30 p.m. Wednesday at Sanford.

The Greyhounds, meanwhile, used a one-hit, five strike out performance by Clint Baker to edge Bishop Moore, 2-1.

Derrek Kivernois had a double for the 2-0 Greyhounds on Ron Baker.

Valenzuela Makes Pitch, Dodgers Back From Table

By United Press International Apparently, the Los Angeles Dodgers wouldn't touch the best pitch Fernando Valenzuela felt he had to offer.

Negotiations between the Dodgers and Valenzuela broke off Monday with the team announcing they have renewed the 1981 contract of the holdout Cy Young Award-winner:

"We have tried hard to sign Fernando and we have made a number of very fair offers," said Dodgers' President Peter O'Malley in a statement released by the "Many proposals were exchanged and considered, but we were unable to persuade Fernando's representatives how unrealistic their demands are. Our only alternative is to renew Fernando's contract."

A first or second-year player's contract can be renewed - that is extended for a season without the player's signature -between March 1 and March 10.

"We expect Fernando to honor the contract which is now in effect and to report immediately," said Dodgers' Vice President Al Campanis. The Dodgers had reportedly offered Valenzuela, who was paid $42,000 last season, about $300,000 per year. That, they said, was more than twice as much as they had ever paid a second-year player.

DeMarco said Valenzuela did not know the salary at which his contract had been renewed and would not decide what action to take until after receiving the but they throw hard."

contract, probably today. Although he refused to disclose how much Valenzuela will be paid this season, Campanis said it will be the largest salary earned by a second-year player in major-league history.

A Dodgers' spokesman said that although the renewed contract is binding. "The door is still open for negotiation."

In St. Petersburg, Fla., it took George Foster just one swing of the bat Monday to turn heads at the New York Mets' training camp. Foster made his first appearance in St. Petersburg, Fla., and belted the first pitch he saw about 400

The St. Louis Cardinals, who also practice in St. Petersburg, had three players from the Dominican Republic still working on their visas. Although 40 players took part in a three-hour workout, infielders Jose Gonzalez and Rafael Santana and pitcher Joaquin Andujar were not expected to be in camp. until today.

At Mesa, Ariz., Chicago Cubs Manager Lee Elia defended his much-criticized pitching staff, saying he was "excited" about his players.

"I'm still excited about the arm strength of our pitchers," Elia said. "I think they need some work on the basics, more than five games for them last

At West Palm Beach, Fla., reliever Elias Sosa reluctantly reported to the Montreal camp, leaving shortstop Frank Taveras as the only missing Expo. Sosa asked if he could check in on March 15 because he is playing in the Dominican Republic, but was ordered by President John McHale to report on March 1, Taveras has yet to receive a visa to leave the Dominican Republic.

At Winter Haven, Fla., the entire Boston Red Sox squad began spring workouts for the first time as a unit.

At Bradenton, Fla., Pittsburgh

Manager Chuck Tanner ran his squad -53 players - through its first workout of spring training. Enrique Romo arrived at camp Monday, saying he had visa problems in his native Mexico. The Pirates also announced the signing of outfielder Jose Rodriguez and first baseman Eddie Vargas.

At Fort Lauderdale, Fla., John Pacella, hoping to win a spot on the New York Yankees' pitching staff, signed a one-year contract.

At Miami, Manager Earl Weaver said the Baltimore Orioles roster in overloaded with pitchers and outfielders, which could influence a trade for another. infielder.

At Yuma, Ariz., new San Diego Padres" Manager Dick Williams greeted his full squad of 47 players and put them through a four-hour workout.

Caring Martin Hears Boyer's Plea For Support

For three months now, Clete Boyer has been going through his own private little hell, the worst mental torture you could possibly imagine. By nature, the stocky, darkhaired coach for the Oakland A's and former third baseman for the New York Yankees, isn't overly emotional. He doesn't let himself get too carried

One day three months ago, though, he could hardly control himself. He was back home in Missouri for his father's funeral. That was the day he learned the truth about his brother, Kenny.

"It was Dec. 1, the day we buried my father," Boyer pinpointed the date over the phone Sunday from Phoenix, Ariz., where the A's are training this spring. "That was the day I found out my brother had cancer. He wouldn't tell anybody because he knew my Dad was so sick. A friend of Kenny's told me for the first time what was wrong with him, and so help me, I could hardly stand up."

You would have to understand the relationship between 50-year-old Ken and 45-year-old Clete Boyer to appreciate fully the genuine warmth and affection each has for the other. It far transcends the good feeling you find among a majority of brothers.

"He has been 'my big brother' all my life," said Clete, swallowing hard and finding it rather difficult to speak at times. "I guess I admired him. . . envied him. . . for being such a great athlete. More than his being a great athlete, I admire the way he has handled himself all his life."

Both Ken Boyer and Clete Boyer came along a little too soon to make the kind of salaries big league baliplayers get today. Neither of them is that well off. Above all, his brother's lilness has been preying heavily on Clete's mind, especially coming so soon after the death of their father, Vern. Ken Boyer was a special scout for the Cardinals last year. He was to Rae Smith this year but now that has my saddest. turned out to be impossible and Joe Frazier was named manager in his place last week. Boyer is in Mexico taking treatments now. What was nagging Clete was that he was aching to help his brother but didn't know

The other day in Phoenix, he went to Billy Martin, a close friend for years as well as his present boss.

"I just can't sit here," he said to him. "I gotta do something. Kenny's so proud, he won't ever tell anybody he can use help. But he can. And I'm gonna try to help him. We don't want anybody feeling sorry for us, but the time comes when everybody needs a little help. Maybe I could put on a dinner or something like that for him. Would you help me, Billy?"

Would he? In a second. Without telling anybody what he had in mind, Billy Martin sat down after a workout last week and wrote a letter in longhand. When he finished. he called Clete Boyer and read it to him. The letter said:

"I have never asked in my lifetime for a favor for myself or anyone else.

"If you did not know it, Ken Boyer has cancer. Consequently, because of all the doctor bills, he has become very short of money. He does not know what his brother, Clete Boyer, is doing on his behalf.

"Whatever is in your heart to contribute on behalf of Ken Boyer, we would appreclate. We are having a benefit dinner at 6:30 pm, March 28 at the Ramada Safari Resort in Scottsdale, Ariz...

Plans call for the sale of 1,000 tickets for the $50-a-plate dinner on March 28.

"Nobody can ever tell me again people don't care," says Clete. Everybody is so anxious to help Kenny - officials, players, scouts. There must be some way in the world I can thank all these wonderful

He called Ken in Merico the other evening and talked to him about plans for the affair. He also told him how much he loved him.

"Now I'm trying to show him," his kid brother said.

Raines Laughs Off $50,000, Griffith Seconds Move

After Sanford's Tim Raines laughed off the Montreal Expos' first $50,000 offer, the two sides got down to

Not a lot of us could laugh at 50,000 bucks for about nine months work, but a lot of us didn't have the year that Raines had by baseball standards.

He batted .304 and stole 71 bases in 88 games. Raines made an appearance in the All-Star game, helped the Expos to their first division championship and was named the National League Rookie of the Year by The Sporting News.

When all the negotiations were over, Raines agreed to terms to a contract which could be worth as much as $350,000 for one year. If he breaks the stolen base record, makes the All-Star team, is voted the most valuable Expo and plays 150 games, he will earn his 350 G's.

All of these things seem possible, if, of course, he avoids injury. He didn't during his first year. While sliding Raines broke a finger, "I played with the injury," he is quick to point out. "I hope I can just avoid them this year."

Raines insisted all winter that he would sign just a one-year contract. Lately, however, the Expos had hoped to sign him for two years.

Raines, though, knew this would be a big mistake and so did another gentleman that's been in the national pastime from the bottom to the top.

Calvin Griffith, who started his career as a batboy and is now the owner. of the Minnesota Twins, spoke to the members of Wes Rinker's Dugout Club Wednesday night over steaks at Sanford Memorial Stadium.

The venerable 71-year-old Griffith doesn't try to hide his contempt concerning player agents, but he vehemently points out that a young man in Raines position should not lock himself in.

"A young ball player is a damn fool to sign a long-term contract," explained Griffith. "Let me tell you a story about Tony Oliva."

Oliva was a sweet-swinging lefthanded hitter back in the mid-sixties' beydays of the Twins. After a pretty good year, Oliva came to Griffith and told him he wanted a two-year contract for $85,000 the first year and $90,000 the second

"Why the $5,000 difference the second year," inquired Calvin.
"Pride," replied Oliva.

Griffith maintains he went on to tell Oliva that he was crazy to sign a two-year contract. He pointed out the advantages that a good year might bring come negotiating time next year.

Oliva, nevertheless, was steadfast, And Griffith, never known to throw a whole lot of that green stuff around, inked the personable Cuban to the twoyear pact.

Wouldn't you know it? Oliva won the American League batting title the next season. Of course, he wanted to renegotiate. "No way," the Twins' boss told him.

Now, Raines was in a similar position. Syd Thrift, a baserunning expert, told one of our columnists, Milton Richman of UPI, that if Raines stays healthy, he can steal 150 bases. This total would completely shatter the existing mark of 118 by Lou Brock. If Raines signed for two years, he would probably look pretty pitifully at that second year of his two-year pact.

If he goes crazy on the basepaths and at bat this year, Montreal will have to reach deep into the vault next year to satisfy their budding superstar.

And, if the Expos don't want to part with the dollars, then Raines goes to arbitration. There's not many arbitrators who will rule against a guy that steals over 100 bases, as long as his demands aren't too excessive.

Contract talks seemed to dominate most of the questions during Griffith's talk Wednesday night. He was asked how he could pay third baseman John Casting, who had back fushion over the winter and is doubtful for the year, upwards to $200,000?

"If you don't give it to him, you lose him," replied Griffith, "We're gambling that he's going to be all right in

Griffith feels pretty good about his backup third sacker if Castino doesn't come around

Gary Gaetti, who clubbed nearly 40 home runs for the Orlando Twins last year, is ready to assume Castino's openspot. "One blow and he can win a ball game for you," chirped Griffith.

If Gaetti fits in, don't be surprised to see Castino move to center field. The ex-Rollins standout has always been a versatile athlete. He went to the Tars on a basketball scholarship.

Griffith was asked about the arbitrator which ruled in Twin right hander Roger Erickson's favor and gave last year's 3-8 hurler a $115,000

· "The arbitrators are not baseball educated," replied Griffith, "That's what worried me more than anything, A good player, who deserves his money, will get turned down and a guy that had a year like Roger will get a raise. It makes no sense."

He was also asked about the Fernando Valenzuela squabble where the portly LA left-hander has threatened to sit out the season rather than play for the Dodgers' offer of $300,000 to

"I think the Dodgers are doing the right thing," said Griffith, "You've got to realize this guy is still a second-year player and has had just one great

Griffith took it one step further by pointing out that Tom Seaver (14-2), and not Valenzuela, was the best pilcher in the National League last year. "The managers and general managers should pick the award winners," argued Griffith. "They are more bonest than newspapermen."

Griffith talked about his young ball players which the Twins seem to produce better than anybody in baseball, Gaetti, catcher Tim Laudner, shortstop Lenny Faedo and first baseman Walt Hrbek were the ones be is counting on to carry the Twins this

When pressed about where the Twins will finish, Calvin took his first defensive stance of the night

"That's pretty hard to say," he replied. "I don't think anybody in the division improved themselves that

"Hell, we're as good as anybody. We're 0-0 right now."

HIT-AND-RUN - Someone brought up the name of Howard Cosell during the baseball discussions Wednesday and Griffith reached back in the past for this one.

"Howard Cosell, Howard Cosell," Calvin repeated. "I remember when we went to New York and Howard would have to wait outside the nirport to catch. rides. Now look at him."

Where are those hit-and-run drivers when you need them? Just kidding Howard, Ha, Ha,

Torchy Gets Wish, Knights, Mocs In Different Regions

Central Florida University basketball coach Torchy Clark isn't afraid to tell anyone that the Sunshine State Basketball Conference is the best in Division II.

He feels that there's no sense in the two best tearns in the country - Florida Southern and his Knights -"beating each other out in the regional." Well, thanks to the Knights' two-point loss to Biscayne in the championship game of the Sunshine State Conference Saturday, Clark will get his wish to prove UCF's worth.

The Knights picked up their usual post-season bid Monday and will play in the South Central Regional at Central Missouri State at Warrensburg, Mo.

UCF, 21-6, takes on Missouri State, 20-8. Tennessee-Martin, 19-10, plays the host school in the other roundon Thursday. The winners meet Friday.

Hal Wissel's Moccasins, meanwhile, host their own regional with Biscayne, an upset winner over FSC on Friday, playing Livingston, 19-9, and Northwest Missouri State taking on the Mocs.

The eight regional winners will advance to the quarterfinals on March 12 or 13 at sites to be determined. Quarterfinal winners will meet for the national finals, March 19-20, in Springfield, Mass.

Sanchez Lifts Rowdies, 2-1

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI) - Hugo Sanchez scored in the second half of a 15-minute mini-game Monday night to give the Tampa Bay Rowdies a 2-1 victory over the Tulsa Houghnecks and the Atlantic Conference title in the indoor season of the North American Soccer-League.

The Roughnecks had won the regulation game 4-3, forcing the mini-game to break the tie for the title. The Rowdies now advance to the league charnpionship series at San Diego Wednesday night.

Girl Netters Crush DeLand

Seminole High's girls tennis team regained its winning form Monday, crushing DeLand, 5-2, in Five Star Conference action at DeLand.

Winners included Angle Barley, Patti Edgemon and Tracy McNeill in singles, while Barley-Edgemon along with Susanna Huaman-McNeill swept the doubles. The Tribe boys lost a 6-1 decision.

Buccaneers Select Fontes

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI) - Wayne Fontes, defensive backfield coach for the Tampa Bay Buccaneers since they joined the NFL in 1976, was named defensive coordinator Monday by Coach John McKay.

Fontes, who will continue to serve as coach of the defensive backs, succeeds Tom Bass, who resigned over the weekend to become defensive coordinator with the San Diego Chargers.

Metro: 3 Teams To NCAA?

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) - To hear some Metro Conference coaches talk, the league may send three teams to the NCAA tournament no matter what happens at the Metro tourney this week. The Memphis State Tigers, ranked 13th in the nation last week, won the regular season Metro title and are a shoo-in for the NCAA.

Louisville coach Denny Crum, whose squad finished second to Memphis State despite a slow start, thinks his 18-8 club should get an NCAA Invitation because of their tough schedule. If the unexpected happens and those two teams are upset, the automatic berth in the NCAA would go to the winner of the tournament.

That's the scenario for the seven-learn competition that begins Friday at the Mid-South Coliseum.

The Tigers are the odds-on favorite to reach the finals on their home court and Louisvile, playing in the opposite bracket, is expected to oppose then in the championship match-up. Memphis State has been invincible at home, winning all 16 games. The four Tiger losses, including two defeats against Louisville and Tulane, came on the road.

The first-round tripleheader opens with Tulane playing Florida State. Louisville is next on the court against St. Louis followed by Virginia Tech and Cincinnati in the nightcap.

Memphis State takes on the Virginia Tech-Cincinnati winner Saturday after the victor in the Tulane Florida-State game battles the Louisville-St. Louis winner.

The championship will be decided Sunday before a national television audience with coverage provided by CBS. All three rounds are advance sell-outs.

SEC: Smart Money On 'Cats

ATLANTA (UPI) - The smart money will McWhorter insists money was not the be riding with Kentucky in this week's Southeastern Conference basketball tour-

Louisiana State has more speed - as it showed last Saturday when it all but ran-Kentucky off the court at Baton Rouge, Alabama has more muscle, and Tennessee is more reliable. But this year's tournament is being played on Kentucky's home court in Lexington's Rupp Arena and the Wildcats haven't lost there in 31 games dating back more than 25 months ago.

Coaches at the other nine SEC schools complained, with no success, about this year's tournament being played in Rupp Arena instead of the more neutral Coliseum in Birmimgham, Ala., where it was held the previous three years after being revived following a 26-year hiatus.

"I don't like the fact we're playing on the home court of a league team," said Sonny Smith, whose Tigers knocked off the Wildcats by two points (83-81) in overtime at Auburn after losing to them by 12 (83-71) at Lexington.

"I don't think any team should have an advantage like that. But it's good for our league to play in Lexington from a financial standpoint."

Tickets to the SEC tournament sell for $50 (there are no single-game ducats) and a sellout is expected. That adds up to $1.15 million and when you throw in the broadcast rights and program revenue, it makes a pretty sweet pol.

Even those schools that are having trouble putting together winning athletic programs find belonging to the Southeastern Conference financially rewarding. They get a piece of the action whenever an SEC football team goes to a bowl or appears on television - and that's

This year, for example, SEC teams played in the Sugar, Cotton, Peach, Hall of Fame and Garden State bowls.

But costs being what they are, even the schools drawing in the big bucks can always use more. Most people figured LSU's athletic program was paying its own way until Athletic Director Paul Dietzel was canned for being too far over his budget.

'We Are A Family'

He's 'Father' To Three Boys And A Catholic Parish

wearing a sweaty blue T-shirt as he works on a van with fancy. murals adorning the side panels. A motorcycle and several bicycles stand in front of the garage.

No one would guess at first glance that he is a priest.

Yet, he is the Rev. Lionel Harnish of St. Rose of Lima Catholic Church. And his three adopted sons make him one of only a handful of Roman Catholic priests in the United States who are also fathers.

Harnish doesn't see himeslf as a radical. "I don't want to be a mayerick," he says. "I don't mind being different; there's nothing wrong with that.

"I don't want to be a rebellious-type person, not in the sense of one who kicks up his heels and tells a superior to go whistle. You can't do that when you're raising a kid."

Harnish adopted his first son, Martin, in 1972. Martin is now

Eight-year-old Gregory was adopted six years ago, and 7year-old Joe joined the family three years ago.

Martin and Gregory are black; Joe is Korean.

Harnish says that his superiors did not try to stop him from adopting the children although the church "would prefer you wouldn't be encumbered by this type of obligation. "It's part of my private life," he says, 'and as long as it didn't interfere with my work, they didn't object."

Harnish insists that having a family doesn't detract from his work. And he points out that other priests have avocations that take time away from their congregations.

"I can't golf worth beans," he says. "I swing and the ball just sits and smiles back. My whole recreation centers on the

"I know priests whose hobby is raising dobermans and poodles. They spend as much time and attention on that as other people spend raising children. I'd a lot rather put my salary to a person than some animal." Harnish says that having a family helps him to empathize with his parishioners, especially other single parents. "I know what it is to sit up and worry about a kid that's sick or a kid that's in trouble with his teacher at school." he explains. The boys also help Harnish in a more personal sense.

"To a certain extent these kids fulfill the void of companionship," he says. "You can love your congregation in a very Christian sense, but it's not like when you kneel beside a bed and tuck (your son) in."

Harnish and his sons arrived in Herron slightly more than a year ago after having lived on Bois Blanc Island, which is off Chebovgan, Wisc.

The move meant quite a change for the family, since only 80 people lived on the island during the winter and their nearest neighbor was 10 miles away. The boys attended a one-room school that had only seven students.

While the boys have been able to meet more people here and to benefit from additional educational opportunities, there have also been some unpleasant experiences, such as being called names at school for the first time.

"These little kids don't deserve that kind of treatment," says Harnish, "It (the prejudice) has to come from the parents, since it's never something ingrained in the kids. It hurts

"But my kids have got to find out the world isn't a bed of roses. Even rose gardens have got thorns. What I say is, be proud of what you are.'

Harnish is quick to point out that for the most part the boys have been well-accepted by their classmates and by the Harnish met with members of the congregation before he assumed the post to make sure they would take him with the kids. They did, although he doubts the vote was unanimous in

But he thinks the initial uncertainties have been resolved. Parish members continually bring the family dairy products and fresh fruits and vegetables from their gardens. "If that kind of generosity is any indication, they must be satisfied," he says.

Housekeeper Marcella Martell - who the boys call "Aunt Marcie" - prepares meals and helps to look after the family.

She had her own apartment in the rectory, "She's been tremendous for them," says Harnish. "She hollers at them for not picking up their socks off the floor or for taking a cookie into the living room." Harnish comes from a family of five children, of which he was second oldest. So, he got a lot of experience looking after his younger brothers and sister. That instilled in him a love of all children. He takes pains to become friends with the younger members of his congregation. "I don't ever want to have a child be scared of me," he says.

When you dress in vestments, you can scare them.' Harnish's files contain several newspaper clippings about other priests who adopted children, before and after he did.

Earlier this year, a Chicago priest called a big press conference when he adopted a black son. He said that he adopted the boy to "demonstrate" the need for homes for black children and that he was the first priest to have adopted a

Recession Puts Squeeze On College Students

United Press International

More and more college students are being forced into parttime jobs - and sometimes out of school altogether - by a worsening economy and skyrocketing education and living

"I would definitely say more students work now," says Bill Brake of Emory University's placement office in Atlanta. "I wouldn't want to isolate just the cost of education. Students have to live while they're in college. So, they work to help meet

Faced with these prospects, many of today's students are finding it ever more necessary to juggle jobs and books. It takes longer to get a degree, but it also requires them to accept responsibility perhaps earlier than the average college student did to years ago

"I think today's college-age person has the mental capacity and ability to handle it," Brake says of the effect the situation has on a student's academic standing and social life. "The great majority, I think, handle it in stride." At Memphis State University or Georgia State University in Atlanta, school officials say it's not unusual that 75 to 85 percent of the student population holds down a part-time job of 15 to 20 hours a week. The percentages vary at other colleges and universities across Dixie.

'Basically, I need the money - I couldn't afford to go to school without working," says Steve Tishman, a 21-year-old University of Florida sophomore who works 20 hours a week as a drug store clerk.

UF officials say about 8,000 undergraduates and 2,400 graduate students work part time in the Gainesville area. Tishman supports himself and also receives Social Security and Veteraus Administration benefits because his father died of a military-related disability.

"When they cut Social Security, I'll have to start worrying," he says

Bruce Carillon, 21, a senior business major at the University of Tennessee in Knoxville, needs the Social Security benefits to get his degree. His parents died in an auto accident nine years ago and relatives couldn't afford to finance his college

"That money there, it's all I've got," Carillon says. "I've got to make that stretch month to month to pay the bills. I know some people - a lot - who live off it. They pay their room and

Students are eligible for financial aid under the $2.3 billion federal program if one of their parents is dead, disabled or retired. Beginning May 1, the government will start reducing those Social Security payments by 25 percent. By 1985, all payments under the program will have stopped.

Students left without financial aid or otherwise in need of part-time employment at UT's Knoxville campus have some consolation, though.

They can look toward the 1982 World's Fair for help from May through October. Fair promoters plan to hire between

1.500 and 2.000 students for a variety of odd tobs. "I think every student who wants a job will get a job," says David Adcock, who heads the fair's campus job location

Elsewhere in the South, college students looking for parttime work to help pay for their educations - or just to provide extra spending money - are finding the competition tougher.

Mary White, director of student employment at the University of Mississippi in Oxford, says "there are definitely more students looking for part-time Jobs." About 10 students a day come by her office looking for work, but she says Ole Miss isn't able to help most of them.

She says the recession and government aid reductions are the major problem.

"Hard times," Ms. White says simply. "They find it more and more difficult to cover expenses, and federal aid is about to go down.1

"There are jobs to be had, but not as many as there are students looking," says Lorraine Moore, coordinator of student employment services at Florida State University in

And because the brunt of the federal student aid cuts won't be felt until next school year, she predicts "a mad scramble" among FSU students looking for summer lobs.

"It's really going to be dog cat dog," she warns.

Her father, who died recently, left enough insurance to pay for part of her education. She also has $2,500 in federally insured loans to pay for her schooling each year, but works because "the loan money went faster than I thought it would."

Like many of her counterparts, Miss Palmer finds work often conflicts with school assignments, "because I'm too tired to study when I go home." "Working often interferes with my study time, but I have just learned to make every minute count," says Tony Butt, 25, a junior architecture major who works 25 hours a week at the UF bookstore in Gainesville

Butt's tuition and books are paid for by his parents, "but I pay for everything else,"

Mike Caveness, a senior zoology major at North Carolina State University in Raleigh, hopes to attend medical school. He works 16 hours a week as a lab technician. He says he has to do

"Economics is the only thing I can say," he explains. "I had to have money to attend school and working was the only way. I thought it would be an easy semester, but it's not working out."

At The Citadel, a military college in Charleston, S.C., cadets are prohibited from working outside the school. They have a strictly disciplined life, and school officials believe outside employment would detract from that. "There's too much for them to do," says Lt. Col. Richard Clarke. "They're up at 6:15 a.m., they go to bed at 11 p.m. and their day is full. Most of their weekends are tied up, too," But for some College of Charleston students, "a parttime job gives them discipline and they really do better," says Dr. Frank van Aalst, the school's dean of career development, A College of Charleston survey three years ago indicated 63 percent of the students held a part-time job.

"I think the change that is coming is that this is a more accepted pattern than it used to be, particularly with students and their parents," van Aalst says. But, he admits "the faculty is suspicious that it detracts from studies."

For some students, part-time work isn't a necessity and it doesn't affect their studies. It just helps provide needed extra-

'Sound Of Music' Fills The Air

Maybe we have another "Von Trapp" family emerging in our area.

The "Heise Girls," Stacy, Amy, Becky, Kelly, Jenny and Leslie, played several beautiful pianosolos at a private recital held by music teacher, Miss Joy Adams at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ray

At the end of their solos, the Heise Girls surprised everyone with a group singing number they had worked out themselves.

Deanna Hanlee, a senior piano student entertained with "Hello Again," a Neil Diamond favorite, plus concerts from Tchaikovsky.

Kevin and Heather Reid, ages 6 and 8 played piano duets, as well as separate numbers. David and Rebecca Senefo also honored the audience with piano performances.

Guitarist was Leslie Kough, dressed in the country music style and playing the same.

Eighth graders of Teague Middle School are presently meeting with the counselors of Lake Brantley High School to prepare them for the coming year of advancement. Also, hope you were able to be at the Science Fair recently held at

Your Automobile The More You Drive It.

The Less It Costs You NEW YORK (UPI) - For both business assumed for so many years before gasoline firms and individuals, calculating the cost of owning and operating an automobile on a perthe auto rental and leasing company which follows such matters closely. Noting that income tax forms and the policies of companies on reimbursing employees for the use of their cars normally are on a per-mile basis, Hertz says people should know a lot more about the costs than most do. The company recently issued data on how to calculate such costs in connection with its annual study of driving costs.

It explained there are two kinds of costs, fixed, which includes depreciation, interest, insurance, taxes and license fees, and the variables such as fuel, lubricants, repairs, tires, batteries, etc., bridge and tunnel tolls, and washing.

It's the fixed charges that cause the confusion. For example, if you're paying $500 a year interest on your installment payments loan that's only two cents a mile if you drive the car 25,000 miles a year but 10 cents a mile if you drive only 5,000 miles.

This can mean the cost of driving a typically equipped 1981 compact car for four years can vary from 77.51 cents a mile for the car driven 5,000 miles a year down to 25.4 cents a mile for the car driven 25,000 even though the chap who drives the greater mileage actually pays out $6,363 on his car during the year against $3,875 for the other fellow.

The fixed charges vary greatly as a percentage of total costs but usually run to twothirds or three-quarters. Therefore, per-mile costs can be made to appear higher or lower by artificially raising or lowering the assumed annual mileage.

prices rose so much. Average annual mileage of fleet cars also has dropped, to 20,492 from mile basis can be a tricky, says Hertz Corp., 23,927 in 1978. This has had the effect of raising per-mile costs.

The cost of owning and using a wellmaintained car goes down sharply as it gets older because the drop in fixed charges more than offsets increases in repair, fuel and maintenance costs, the Hertz data shows. Drivers often don't realize how much the cost of running the old bus has gone down, Hertz said, since for a variety of reasons, most people use a car less as it gets older. They may acquire a second car and use the older car less, for example. This runs up the per-mile cost of the old car but the Hertz study says that is a distortion, that the true total cost of owning and operating a car normally continues to decline the longer

If a car is kept 10 years, Hertz said, the normal expectation is that it will be driven about 12,500 miles the first year and that will drop to 4,391 miles in the tenth year. For a compact car, the real total cost per mile will fall from about $7.99 cents in the first year to 22.85 cents in the tenth year.

But the whole problem for the individual owner is a lot more complicated, Hertz said. Too much depends on first price, the dealer discount, the trade-in allowance, the interest rate on the loan and how the depreciation schedule is set up to be compatible with the car's intended use.

Finally, Hertz said, there is no real way to determine the costs accurately without conscientiously keeping detailed records and even then you won't find out for sure how much the Hertz said average mileage for a family car car has cost you either per-mile, or in dollars has dropped to 8,224 from the 10,000 that was per year, until you sell it or junk it.

them for any disharmony,

With one-half of all of today's children expected to be part of a remarried family, either as a child or an adult, by 1990, Dr. Colvin thinks schools should be doing something about it.

"While we barely prepare members of our society for the eventuality of marriage and parenthood, we virtually ignore the possibility of divorce and stepfamily formation," she said in a weekend interview.

She said Leon County, in updating its school curriculum, is considering courses that would deal with family problems, including child abuse and stepfamilies.

Such programs, she said, would help children that have the problem without harming those that live in the so-called "nuclear family" headed by a biological father, mother and children.

"Children that don't have the problems can relate the information to other parts of life," she said.

The programs also should deal with the single parent family, she said.

Because mothers traditionally have retained custody of the children in divorces, there are more families with stepfathers than stepmothers so kids tend to view it as almost normal, she

"But as more and more fathers get custody, the stepmother is corning into her own and ... it seems important that we develop ways to help steplamilies in their struggle to achieve satisfactory family relationships," she said.

good. We are 70 years of age. Will such an aid help to prevent further deterioration of my hearing? After all, prevention would make it worthwhile but otherwise it would not seem to be necessary.

DEAR READER - Most people in your age group will have some loss of hearing for high frequency sounds. The loss may not be great enough to interfere with normal hearing for conversation.

No hearing aid will prevent loss of hearing. I don't know what the salesman actually told you but if he told you that I would recommend not dealing with him. Hearing alds serve only one purpose, to improve your exisiting hearing. In fact if a poorly fitted hearing aid is used to amplify sound to a great degree it could cause noiseinduced hearing loss.

I don't think anyone should buy a hearing aid who has not had an examination by a physician or an audiologist.

An audiologist has a masters degree with five to six years of college. If he is certified by the American Speech-Language-Hearing Association he will also have had supervised experience. He may provide bearing aids for you. But a straight hearing aid salesman may not have these qualifications. Some have only a few days or a few weeks training before getting their license. That is why many people end up with a drawer full of unusued hearing aids.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 16-8. Your Vital Hearing, 50 you will know what can be done Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

DEAR DR LAMB -Recently I was diagnosed as having thyroiditis and am currently taking Synthroid I'm 26 and gave birth to my first child nine months ago My doctor explained that my body is producing too many antibodies which are killing the thyroid cells. He said I would be able to have another child without any risk to it from the Synthorid. Do you agree with this and do you consider thyroidthis to be a serious condition? Right now we're working on adjusting my dosage because I still feel fatigue a lot of the time

DEAR READER -Sounds like you have a fine doctor One cause of low thyroid function is destruction of thyroid gland tissue from your own intinune system (there are other causes, too). The Synthrold merely replaces the thyroid hormone your normal gland would produce.

If you don't get enough thyroid you are less likely to get pregnant. And if you are properly regulated to provide the optimal amount of thyroid hormone you certainly should be as likely as other mothers to have a normal pregnancy.

Law thyroid function can be and is one of many causes for fatigue but most fatigue is caused by other factors.

WIN AT BRIDGE

Vulnerable: North-South Dealer: South North East West

INT Paul D61 Pass Opening lead: $7

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

In 1939 Ted Lightner won the Spingold with Oswald Jacoby, Bob Macpherran, the late Howard Schenken and Jimmy Majer. He played throughout with

The Lightner slam double had been in use for a few years by this time. Today's hand shows it at its most effective use. Ted sat East and doubled six hearts to ask Jacoby to lead one of the unbid suits. The double would have been disastrous if Ossie had led a club, but Ted knew that his partner would be trying to lind Ted's void suit and would almost surely hold many more diamonds than clubs.

Sure enough, Ossie had no problem. He led a diamond. Ted ruffed and returned a spade for a one-trick set. Schenken and Maier bid the heart slam at the other table, but East and West saved at six spades down two, so the Lightner double had gained only 500 points for its inventor.

It is worthy of note here that Lightner was sure that his side would collect a spade trick since North had used Blackwood on his way to the heart slam. (NICKEPAPER ENTERPRISE ASEN.)
