Nicknames In Alaska Beginning To Pass

By The Associated Press. FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Jan. 2.—The vogue of nicknames in Alaska has almost passed, but a few old-timers still go about bearing them.

Posthole Pete was debtor for his designation to a legend that in Montana he had been at digging holes for posts and told to go straight ahead. His employer, coming back some days later to see how the digger was progressing, found him some miles off, behind a row of holes leading straight across Montana.

The Outlaw Swede was not a desperado, but had a desperate admiration for such persons, revelling in the exploits of Jesse James and the Younger brothers.

The Seventy Mile Kid was a star ski jumper from Chisnoo. He is in charge of Mount McKinley National Park, and is said to know more about that peak than any other man. The Malamute Kid was a good dog masher. The Sten and a Half Kid limped. The Going Kid was famed for his skill in driving a dog team.

Viceroy Is Given A Royal Welcome Upon Visit To Lucknow

(By The Associated Press) LUCKNOW, India, Jan. 2.—A stately procession of 70 elephants, all gorgeously decorated with ornamental howdahs and trappings, was one of the chief features of the Viceroy's recent visit to this city. British and Indian troops lined the decorated streets as Lord Reading and the Countess passed through the city.

The visit to Lucknow was part of an official and extensive tour of British India, and was marked by the holding of a viceregal Durbar in which Lord Reading greeted the notable citizens of the province in a ceremonial manner in keeping with the traditions which reach back to the early days of Indian rulers. In his address on this occasion the Viceroy expressed sympathy with the victims of the recent floods and gave a brief survey of the national political situation, emphasizing the new responsibilities which have been laid upon the Indian people.

WILL CELEBRATE.

U. in making plans for the celebration, which call for each community to start its own celebration at home and then join in automobile parades that will concentrate at Lakeland.

AT THE MILANE

Sparkling with fun and abounding in all sorts of complicated situations, "Just Married," the Hurtig-Shubert honeymoon farce comedy, which is to be given at the Milane Theatre tonight, promises to be a real treat for Sanford theatregoers.

The original company came south with the play, and it was easy to see how it stayed two years on Broadway and had long engagements in other eastern cities. It is undoubtedly one of the best plays Birmingham will see this season.

All the action takes place on the passenger liner LaFayette, bound from Bordeaux, France, to the United States. Just as the gang plank is about to be hauled down at Bordeaux the passenger list is increased by a dapper young man, temporarily burdened with too much "cognac," or maybe hot rum, and by an infuriated mademoiselle, who has learned that her American sweetheart is aboard, intent on leaving her behind. Other passengers are a young couple just married and a charming girl who is traveling with chaperons and her fiancé. The French girl and the young American proceed to explode many bombshells in the ranks of the whole party and the action gets faster every time the steamer makes a knot.

There is not a suggestive situation in the whole piece. The cast is exceptionally capable and there is a good laugh in every line. Owen Martin, cast as Robert Jones, proved one of the cleverest artists Birmingham theatregoers had enjoyed in a long time. Miss Sylvia De Frankie, as Miss Roberta Adams, was easy to look at and drew continued applause for her clever work.

"Just Married" is just the kind of comedy that should never have to play to empty seats. It provides an evening of delightful entertainment. It is here Tuesday and Wednesday, with a matinee Wednesday.—H. F. B.

HOW LITTLE IT COSTS!
 How little it costs if we give it a thought
 To make some heart happy each day!
 Just one kind word or a tender smile,
 As we go on our daily way;
 Perchance a look will suffice to clear
 The cloud from a neighbor's face,
 And the press of a hand in sympathy
 A sorrowful tear efface.
 One walks in sunlight; another goes
 All weary in the shade;
 One treads a path that is fair and smooth,
 Another must pray for aid,
 It costs so little! I wonder why
 We give it so little thought;
 A smile—kind words—a glance—
 a touch
 What magic with them is

A Strong Indictment

Among the most distinguished men of the nation who are wintering in Florida is Richard H. Edmonds of Baltimore, editor of the Manufacturers Record. Mr. Edmonds has perhaps done more for the South in a commercial way than any other man. The influence of his great paper has been far-reaching. He has interested capital in the South and above all he and his splendid publication has stood four-square for law and order and the best things of life.

At Daytona Sunday night Mr. Edmonds did not fail to speak up regarding law violators and those who would openly defy the laws of the nation. He characterized the disregard for law by those who would make money or gratify one's appetite as "the greatest menace to the maintenance of the government and the preservation of our constitution."

The bootlegger and the man who makes the bootlegger possible are both put in the same class, by the editor of the Manufacturers Record in the following extracts taken from his strong indictment against violators of the law.

The bootlegger is a criminal who never hesitates to murder anyone who stands in the way of his trade. But the bootleg industry could not live if so-called reputable men did not buy its whiskey. The buyer of the bootlegger's whiskey by giving his approval and financial endorsement to the bootlegger's work becomes responsible for every activity of the bootlegger. Every man who buys or knowingly drinks bootleg whiskey is a co-partner and a co-worker with the bootlegger, and is particeps criminis in every murder committed by the bootleg industry. The co-partner cannot possibly claim immunity for himself, for this co-partnership is willingly entered into, is freely sustained, and all of the bootlegger's activities are made possible only through the co-partnership with the men who violate the prohibition laws by buying or drinking the bootleg whiskey. When two men start out with the definite purpose of law violation of any kind and in their work kill someone who interferes with them, the man who did the actual shooting is the murderer, but the man who helped him, or who held the victim while the other was killing him, is morally equally as guilty even if the law does not punish him in the same degree.

Therefore, the buyer or the drinker of the bootleg whiskey is working directly in co-operation with the bootlegger, not only for the general violation of law, but for the breaking down of all obedience to all law. No sophistry of logic can change this fact.

The time has come when the moral forces of this country must give voice to their determination that the criminal element shall not rule us; that crimes shall be punished; that men of affairs shall not say that because crime is rampant laws against crime must be repealed. The time has come when every Christian in the land, in deed upon every patriot whether he be a Christian or not, there rests a tremendous responsibility to help save this nation from destruction.

The law-breaker must be punished regardless of the power of social or financial or political influence. What does the bootlegger care for a fine of a few hundred dollars out of the tens of thousands he makes? A short prison term does not affright or mortify him. All that he cares for is money. If every bootlegger, as maker or dealer, were fined the full amount of every dollar he made out of his accursed traffic, and in addition was put to hard work in prison for a year or more, we would soon see the end of this traffic. The buyer of bootleg whiskey is on exactly the same plane as the "fence" or receiver of stolen goods, and should also be punished for aiding and abetting the violators of law.

YOU WAKE UP in the morning, and lo! your purse is magically filled with twenty-four hours of the manufactured tissue of the Universe of your life. No one can take it from you. It is unstealable. No one receives either more or less than you receive. Waste your infinitely precious commodity as much as you will, and the supply will never be withheld from you. Moreover, you cannot draw on the future. Impossible to get into debt! You can only waste the passing moment. You cannot waste tomorrow; it is kept from you.—Arnold Bennett.

THE TAXES were indeed very heavy, and if those laid on by the government were the only ones we had to pay, we might more easily discharge them; but we have many others, and much more grievous to some of us. We are taxed twice as much by our idleness, three times as much by our pride, and four times as much by our folly; and from these taxes the commissioners can not ease or deliver us by allowing an abatement.—Benjamin Franklin.

Industry vs Education in Florida
 G. A. Haskins in "The Journal"

Industrial development has ever been the result of persistent scientific research. The commercial progress of a nation is no longer determined by the number of traders engaged in business, but is today measured by the encouragement and active support given to theoretical and applied science in all its varied fields. Communistic states and nations which have ignored these fundamental facts of modern life have found the rich rewards of their own natural resources passing into the hands of others and have been helpless in successfully competing for a share in the proceeds of such progress.

No state has had this lesson taught in more emphatic terms than has the State of Florida. Here we have a Commonwealth naturally endowed with all the inestimable riches of climate and soil, mines and factories, fields and forests, and yet we are permitting the choice prices of our own resources to pass into the hands of our neighbors who are trained in the fundamentals of science to such an extent that they know how to develop these possibilities.

In support of this statement the writer has only to remind the reader of the condition which exists today in our phosphate industry, our fruit industry, and our fertilizer industry. A partial survey of the principal chemical industries of our state revealed the fact that not more than eighteen per cent of the technically trained men employed by these companies are native Floridians and a much smaller per cent received their training in Florida schools. This is only typical of the condition that is prevalent in every industry in our midst which requires a high technical training as a prerequisite for the successful direction of the enterprise.

We are facing this condition today because our people have not come to a full realization of the importance of this phase of our educational activity. This indifferent state of mind on the part of the public has resulted in inadequately equipped institutions for the teaching of the highly specialized branches of science and, in a way more disastrous and deadly, has offered no inspiration to the young men and women of the state to enter such a field of promise and development. There are indications on every hand that such a period of lethargy is passing and the opportunity is now before the science teachers of the state to impress upon the public the necessity of more liberal support and to inspire within our students the desire for active participation in the future development of the resources of our great Commonwealth.

In order to accomplish this desired result the following urgent needs are facing us at the present time:

First, a more active and effective organization of all the science teachers of the state.

Second, a more intimate contact between our institutions and our industries.

Third, a more effective method of keeping the public in touch with scientific thought and progress.

In the brief space allotted for this article it is impossible for the writer to discuss these suggestions in detail. However, it should be said that there is evidence of a general realization of the opportunity that is before us in this field of endeavor. The recent step taken by Dr. William J. Husa, of the University of Florida, toward effecting an organization of the chemists of the state is an attempt to meet the situation and his efforts should receive the most hearty support from every person interested in the development of chemistry within our borders. It is to be hoped that this movement will serve as a nucleus about which all the scientific forces of the state may rally and from which will radiate an enthusiasm and a power that will touch every industry, inspire every student, and enrich every community.

THIS IS a Leap Year and you have an extra day. "Again the shadow moveth o'er The dial plate of time." It moves rapidly. Hurry. A new year to the young is so exciting, they have no time for advice. It bores them. To the old it is a dreary warning, reminding them of things attempted and many failures.

But at least it is a new year. Many hours are in the 366 days. An idea born in the fraction of a minute, worked out with determination, might give you a place among the people of the earth worth while—if that interests you.

SOLEMN NEWSPAPERS print pages telling us that business is prosperous, the new year most promising.

As we survey this little rolling ball, to which we are tied, Paris to Pekin and from Pekin to Rome, we can say with the hundred and forty-seventh Psalm:

"He hath not dealt so with any nation; and as for His judgments, they have not known them. Praise ye the Lord."

BUT GOOD times will not last forever. Time writes in the sky above you. "This is your chance." It won't last. The Persian warning, that you know by heart, fits this season.

"The moving finger writes; and having writ, Moves on; nor all your piety nor Shall lure it back to cancel half a line, Nor all your tears wash out a word of it."

Dr. Baldwin, scientific consultant of the public schools in Cleveland, tells how much depends on environment. Darwin and Lincoln were born on the same day. If the two infants had been exchanged there would have been no Darwin and no Lincoln. What a man can do is determined by his native equipment (what his father and mother can give him at birth). What he does is determined by the circumstances of his life.

BORN LIKE Lincoln, in a frontier cabin, with a dirt floor, no windows, no school or library within reach, Darwin, with all his genius, would have been always a quiet farmer probably.

Born as Darwin was, thoroughly educated in science and literature, Lincoln probably would have been unheard of, the great power that enabled him to carry through the Civil War, with its burdens, going to waste, as he lived a quiet life on his modest inherited fortune.

AN ANIMAL in the jungle starts to track and kill another, succeeds, and is happy and proud. Frank Madej, of Bridgeport, started out to track his wife, who had left with another man and his three children. He found her, shot her down with two bullets, fired three more into her body as she lay on the ground, felt her pulse to make sure she was dead.

Then he told the police that he would like to have it put in the papers. He wished all his friends to know that she "didn't get away with it."

MILLIONS WILL say, "Ha, he did exactly the right thing," proving that millions are also beasts of the jungle.

In the past women probably have rendered service to the human race by leaving such men as Madej the proud killer, going off with some other man a little less murderous

The Biggest Thing on Earth
 The Asheville Citizen

The biggest thing on this earth is the Government of the United States. It is the wizard of modern civilization. It is the wonder of all time and the hope of the future. It is the most magnificent war engine, the most powerful peace influence and the most amazing depository of wealth which the brain of man and the favor of God have ever put together.

Most impressive of all its wonders is the variety of the things it does for you, the average citizen. In Washington it owns and operates storehouses of miraculous things which, in the time of Confucius, Moses, Alexander the Great or Cagliostro, would have held the inhabitants of the earth entranced in wonder or paralyzed by awe. Its machinery for taxation, so adjusted and finely operated that it levies tribute on, or knows the whereabouts of, every dollar in the land, is a commonplace to you. So is the system by which it spends its taxes for the welfare of you and your family. So is its army; its whole fighting organization. So is its diplomatic service. But it has in Washington a machine which measures and registers the force required to crush a concrete bridge and the pressure needed to break an egg. It maintains gardens where careful experimentation shows how many specimens of the flora of the globe can be made productive in the United States. It has stations given up to the breeding and cross-breeding of the beasts of burden of other climes. It operates a bureau in which tests are made of the purity and nourishing quality of food brought to your table. It touches helpfully and constructively your life and the lives of your neighbors in countless ways.

You would be the last person to deny that in return for all these things, it deserves your allegiance, your loyalty and your love. But what are you giving it? This is a good question for you to ask and answer for yourself here at the eve of a new year. Law-breakers reported, laws honored, its taxes paid without evasion, its requirements met with enthusiasm—these are a few of the things which it has a right to expect of every man.

Glove Fights in Prison
 Detroit Free-Press

How to maintain discipline in prison has always been a perplexing question, and everything from moral suasion to the paddle has been proposed for an answer. The warden of the eastern penitentiary of Pennsylvania thinks he has a new solution for a part of the problem, and he has put it into operation.

Whenever two prisoners under his charge quarrel, he lets them fight it out and supplies the ring, the glove and the officials necessary to an orderly settlement of the difficulty according to the code of the squared circle. Recently two fights were "pulled off" under this system. In one, a Negro made a white gunman from New York quit. In the other, the fight lasted half an hour and ended in a knockout. The whole prison population was permitted to be present to applaud the winner, hiss the unpopular contestants, and enjoy a good time generally.

One of the deputy wardens explains that the system is valuable because the prisoners are satisfied with it and now refrain from "pulling their knives" when they become involved in controversy.

All of this sounds fantastic, but it appears to be simple matter of and producing another family with less of the killing instinct in it.

INSIDE, THE Tut-Ankh-Amen tomb looks like a chapel of solid gold. The Pharaoh of 3,000 years ago is shown wearing wine to variegated wine to the goddesses.

It's the old idea that still persists: If you want anything, offer something first. In very early days, bloody human sacrifices were offered. More civilized Egypt of Now we offer money, but it is always something. Ignorant human creatures imagine that the Ruler of the Universe is placated with gifts from insects that dwell on this planet.

FRANCE HAS given up all hope of the Dixmude, great dirigible taken from Germany after the war. All her men are believed dead, and you read with amazement that all France is furiously indignant, demanding an explanation of those deaths. Contrast the calmness with which we take such things in this country.

"THEY ARE dead? Well, then, they are dead." That's our attitude.

If De Sota Were Methusala

It is interesting to wonder how De Sota, discoverer of Espiritu Santo Springs, would feel if he were still alive today and could see the magnificent development now going forward at the spot where he disembarked.

Three magnificent buildings are planned for this location. A pavilion where Espiritu Santo mineral water will be bottled for national distribution is now under construction. This pavilion will be fitted to supply visitors with every comfort. A modern resort hotel will house the guests of Safety Harbor.

The building illustrated above is the Sanatorium. It will be completely equipped as a center of medical skill and will have every facility for the correction of physical and nervous disorders.

For years, the resources of these springs lay dormant, almost as De Sota had found them. Now they are being developed with activity that De Sota, with all his adventurous imagination could not have conceived.

There is an opportunity for you to share in the profits which Espiritu Santo Springs Incorporated will obtain from six sources. Your investment will help in rendering a very necessary service to your fellow men. The demand for this pleasure and health resort insures a profit from your investment.

SIDE DRAPES

The side drape was never more fashionable than it is at the present moment. The dress sketched shows the tendency of smart frocks to be slightly fitted at the waist, a tendency emphasized by the little horizontal pleats on one side just below the long shawl collar. The side closing is more popular than ever.

The prize for high score, a hamper of oranges and a box of dainty handkerchiefs, was won by Mrs. W. J. Thigpen. The men's prize, also a hamper of oranges and a box of handkerchiefs, went to W. W. ### SOUTHERN PART inclusion in the separate territory for which they pray of said drainage area of Prince William Sound and Copper River and the territory east thereof or any part of it if it be the desire of the people thereof and of congress.

Lively agitation for a separate state for South Alaska began last summer when the late President Harding, on his return to Seattle, said in his last address, six days before his death: "Alaska is destined for ultimate statehood. In a very few years we can well set off the Panhandle and a large block of the connecting southeastern part as a state."

Scott C. Bone, governor of Alaska, said recently that the desire for statehood was "perfectly natural and logical, based on the arguments of proponents of division of the territory that southeastern Alaska's resources and interests are different from those of other sections."

Another argument brought forward for division of the territory was stated in one of the memorials, as follows:

"This separation has become necessary for the development of the resources of the first division. There are no geographical, business or personal ties between our division and the second and fourth divisions.

"Notwithstanding that they each have only a small and scattered and steadily decreasing population, and combined contribute only 7.7 per cent of the revenues of the territory, they each have the same number of senators and representatives in the territorial legislature as are permitted for the first division. Through their combined representation they have continuously and unjustly taken for their own use large portions of the revenues collected in the first division, and at each succeeding session of the legislature they endeavor to impose, and through their combined efforts often succeed in imposing, new and additional taxes upon our fishing, mining and other industries, while at the same time they protect their principal industry of placer mining."

The assessed valuation of the incorporated towns in the Panhandle division is $10,971,000, and the estimated value of improvements in the unincorporated villages and towns and on the farms is $6,000,000.

In the Prince William-Copper River area proposed as part of the territory and state of South Alaska, the assessed valuation of the incorporated towns is $1,991,798, with improvements outside these places put at $2,000,000, besides investments averred as follows: Mining, fishing and other industrial plants and equipment, $5,000,000 in addition to the investments in the Kennecott, Latocche and other mines along the Copper River and Northwestern railway, and this railway and the coal and oil development in the Katalla district, $40,000,000.

In the Panhandle, according to one of the memorials, are the following tangible blocks of wealth:

"Municipal schools - and other municipal investments, $523,000."
"Banks - invested capital, $725,000; deposits, $6,624,000. Of the latter sum, $1,262,000 are saving accounts."

"The fisheries in 1920 represented an investment of $34,078,784 and employed 12,605 persons. In that year 82 canneries packed 2,225,011 cases of salmon valued at $13,384,967. In 1923 64 canneries operated with an estimated pack of 2,550,069 cases valued at $14,530,000."

ADAIR PROTECTED First Mortgage BONDS on Real Estate

Property Value and Amount of Loan

The first Adair Mortgage Loans, made over half a century ago, were popular among the investors of that period because they knew that the property held as security was always worth double the amount of the loan.

Adair Protected Bonds—the modern, scientifically developed real estate mortgage—are a vast improvement over the original Adair mortgages, but the good old fashioned safety principle of limiting the loan to a safe proportion of the true value of the property is an even more important feature of these securities today.

You may purchase these bonds, created and recommended by the South's Oldest Mortgage Investment House, with full assurance that the accumulated knowledge of 58 years' experience in this field has protected your investment at every step.

Offered in units of $100, $500 and $1,000. Our improved partial payment plan makes this great investment opportunity available to saver investors; each payment draws interest at 7%.
