Prisoner Plans To Go Back

By MAX ERKILETIAN
Herald Staff Writer

Clyde Nickelson, just back from an archaeological expedition in Ecuador which included a 73-day stay in five of that country's prisons, plans to return to Ecuador to resume his digging in late summer.

Nickelson, 56, of 2004 Park Court, Sanford, and eight other amateur archeologists, including his sons Tom, 25, of the same address; and Terry 32, Memphis, Tenn.; as well as Beverly Holcomb, 47, Altamonte Springs, returned to American soil Thursday. The group had been arrested Oct. 25 by Ecuadorian special forces who thought they were involved in a plot to assassinate presidential candidate Jaime Roldos and steal artifacts.

The group was cleared of those charges, but convicted of illegal digging. The arrest came following a statement by Richard Abbey, a Memphis based free lance writer. An original member of the expedition, Abbey returned to the United States in late September due to a back injury. He reportedly made a statement Ecuadorian officials thought tied the group to smuggling and the assassination plot.

"We now have a lawyer in Ecuador so the next time we go back we will be sure to do everything legally," Nickelson said today before an afternoon news conference.

In addition to their attorney, a former Ecuadorian defense minister, Nickelson said he has had offers of help from military leaders who have asked him to return.

"One of the investigating military officers has invited us back and has offered us his help," Nickelson said of an air force colonel. In addition, several army officers have also encouraged the Americans to return.

Nickelson said he has warm feelings for Ecuador and its people despite his jail experiences.

The group was based in five different military and civilian jails over the period of imprisonment which included 11 days of "bad treatment." That 11-day period lasted from Dec. 18 to the 29th, according to Nickelson. One of the bad days in jail was Christmas. Nickelson said no one lost track of time and all were aware of Christmas when it came.

"We spent Christmas very quietly," Nickelson commented. Housed first in an army barracks at the Manabi

Cleveland: State Eyes Finance Takeover

Elementary, My Dear Ronnie

A Seminole County man who recovered his own stolen property took his self-denshing one step further and was instrumental in making an arrest in the case.

The incident began Wednesday when Ramon Leo Howard, 31, of 106 Newark Ave. in the Mobile Manor trailer park near Langwood, arrived home to discover a vacant trailer next to his own. Howard took a flashlight, found the rear door of the unoccupied trailer open and when he looked inside he saw his stolen merchandise.

Thursday morning, Howard told sheriff's deputies he spotted a car circling the block several times before stopping in front of the vacant trailer.

A man got out of the car, reached in a rear window to open the latch and the climber inside, Howard reported. He walked into the man came out of the trailer and then Howard stopped him and held him until sheriff's deputies arrived.

Arrested for burglary was Karl Renshigh Jennings, 18, of 285 Woodhill Drive in Altamonte Springs. He is being held at the Seminole County jail in lieu of $5,000 bond.

CLEVELAND (UPI) — The bank holding the largest share of $13.5 million in short-term notes on which Cleveland has defaulted has endorsed Gov. James A. Rhodes' plan for a state takeover of the city's finances.

Mayor Dennis Kucinich, turning over the Rhodes plan, accused the governor of wanting "to put the city of Cleveland on his mental next to his great accomplishment at Kent State," a reference to the 1970 deaths of four Kent State students at the hands of National Guardsmen ordered to the campus by Rhodes.

Kucinich also said a state takeover might create a "cesspool of corruption" like the state-run Ohio Lottery.

Cleveland Trust Co. Vice Chairman Frederick Cox said today the controlling board suggested by Rhodes "could be an important factor in rebuilding investor confidence in the management of the city's finances." Cleveland Trust holds $6 million of the notes Cleveland failed to pay off Dec. 15.

Rhodes said he will soon have legislation in hand for a nine-member commission composed of five state and local officials and four of his own appointees "to make sure that an adequate recovery plan is developed and carried out."

"The last administrative function the state took over was the lottery," said Kucinich.

"The lottery has become a cesspool of corruption where every crooked politician in the state had an opportunity to get his hand in the till."

"It's amazing this could surface more than a month before the people of Cleveland decide on the tax increase," Kucinich added, referring to a Feb. 27 special election on his proposed 0.5 percent increase in the city's 1 percent income tax.

"He's not giving the people a chance."

Rhodes said he would also ask for legislation to keep other cities from getting into financial difficulty. The legislation would tighten restraints on municipal officials and call for greater accountability.

In Shirt Pocket Wad O' Dough Stops The Bullet

By DENNIS FEOLA
Herald Staff Writer

They say money can't buy happiness: But you'll never convince Louis Dritz.

A wad of money saved his life Thursday by stopping a bullet heading directly at his heart. If not for the money, Sanford police said, Dritz would be dead today.

As it is, Dritz was struck twice in addition to the bullet that hit the money by shots fired during a robbery attempt at Kessler's Junk Yard, 110 N. Holly Ave. Dritz, owner of the junkyard which specializes in recycling aluminum, is reported to be in good condition today at Seminole Memorial Hospital.

Dritz, 70, was shot in the left wrist and lower right chest by one of two men who came to the junkyard at 3:28 p.m. Thursday.

Arthur Bryant, 23, was sitting on his porch across from the junkyard when the incident occurred. "I saw two men walk up to the gate with a crate. I think it was full of aluminum cans," Bryant said.

"I heard a machine stop, then I heard a dog barking real loud. Then I heard four shots and two guys came running out and headed in opposite directions. One of the guys was carrying a rifle," Bryant said.

Sanford police believe three shots were fired by a man with a revolver, possibly a .32 caliber. The man with the rifle, Detective Tom Beroosky said was the lookout.

Beroosky said the pair sold about $1 worth of aluminum cans to a helper at the junkyard, Willie Patterson, 62, of Sanford.

The detective said after the sale was completed the men started to leave and then returned and demanded to see the owner.

Dritz met the pair at the center of the junkyard and while Patterson walked away the men demanded change for a $20 bill.

Beroosky said Dritz declined to take out his money and give them the change but the pair refused to leave. Finally, one of the men pulled a revolver and fired at Dritz.

Beroosky theorized the men were going to search Dritz's pockets for money but the shots brought Patterson out to the junkyard and when the pair saw him they ran.

One of the men ran east on Commercial Street and the other ran south on Holly Avenue, Bryant told police.

Bryant, upon hearing the shots, ran and contacted police. Dritz, after taking the money from his pocket and watching the metal fall to the ground, drove himself to the hospital.

Plop, Plop Fuzz, Fuzz!

BENTON HARBOR, Mich. (UPI) — Kenneth Branson, 18, was sentenced to 30 days in jail for popping two Alka-Seltzer tablets at a local discount store and allowing the evidence.

He had taken 25 tablets from a bottle of 25, dropped them into a glass of water he got in another part of the store and swallowed them. Branson told authorities he asked the store cashier if he could buy just two tablets but the cashier declined to make the sale.

"I know it wasn't right for him to do that," police quoted a friend of Branson's as saying, "but the guy had a headache. What could he do?"

Firm Hired To Check Seminole Schools For Asbestos

Tests will be conducted next week which will finally give Seminole County school officials the answer as to whether there is asbestos in the ceilings of 13 county schools.

The school district has decided to hire an Orlando firm for about $1,500 to take samples and analyze whether the 13 schools do have asbestos which may cause cancer.

"We will be making out the purchase order today and sending it to the firm," said Hugh Carlin, director of auxiliary services for the school district.

Full-Ony Associates Inc. will be paid $800 to take the ceiling samples and $700 to analyze the samples to determine if it is asbestos, according to Carlin.

One of the Seminole school district officials will be looking for it if the asbestos is a "hard" or "soft" type.

If it is determined to be soft, the school district will have to remove all the ceilings at a cost of $100,000, according to Carlin.

If it is determined to be hard asbestos drop ceilings will be installed for an estimated cost of $60,000.

Drop ceilings are in common use and are created by suspending from the existing ceiling a series of vinyl holding a variety of aluminum molding strips to create a frame for a series of square panels. These are then inserted into the pockets to make the drop ceiling.

Recent tests by the state Department of Education (DOE) have found that the hard type asbestos is not hazardous and does not have to be removed.

In the past, Carlin had expressed concern if the hard type was discovered, it would also have to be removed because in the future federal officials would order the removal.

However, Dr. Charles Chic, associate commissioner of DOE said today he has spoken with federal officials who are not requiring the ceilings be taken out if it is found to be hard asbestos.

Additionally, federal government regulations also say it is permissible to put in drop ceilings if the asbestos is the soft type. DOE is recommending removal, in any case, Dr. Chic said.

However, Carlin noted Seminole County has decided to take no chances and if the tests determine there is soft asbestos it will be removed and the drop ceilings installed.

Carlin has noted the drop ceilings will also provide better acoustics and energy saving benefits.

Dr. Chic noted from the interposition his department has made of federal documents the drop ceilings can be installed whether the ceilings are hard or soft.

The difference between the two surfaces deal with how easily it crumbles, according to Mike Caudle, field supervisor for the Orlando firm.

"A soft surface is easily crumbled by any movement across the surface while the hard surface is not easily disturbed," Caudle said. — LEONARD KRANSORF

Iran: Mobs Yell, Premier Pleads For Cooperation

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — Groups of demonstrators demanding Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi leave the country marched in Tehran today with banners saying "Victory is close."

The country's new civilian premier, Shapur Bakhtiar, prepared to name a regency council this weekend to ease the departure of the shah and speed the recovery of Iran's shattered economy.

The capital, shut down completely for the Iranian weekend, was reported peaceful under sunny skies despite the bands of youthful marchers who trekked along empty streets and shouted, "Death to the shah."

Banners carried by the demonstrators had photographs of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, the shah's arch enemy, and lines of inscriptions from the Koran that said, "Victory is close. Tyranny shall be wiped out."

Bakhtiar, premier since last Saturday, Thursday told Parliament a regency council facilitating the shah's departure would be set up in two or three days. He invited his opponents to join his 17-point program to limit the shah's power.

Sihanouk, who was held under arrest for 3 years by deposed Khmer Rouge ruler Pol Pot, decried the "Rommel-type Hitlerite blitzkrieg" of "my poor little country."

SAVAK Burned

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — Thousands of demonstrators today attacked the charred remains of the headquarters of the SAVAK secret police in the southern city of Shiraz and ransacked its torture chamber and jail cells.

Witnesses said an estimated 15,000 persons rampaged through the city, pulled down telephone booths and set bonfires in the streets, on the second consecutive day of violence since Premier Shapur Bakhtiar lifted martial law in the city.

Eight persons were reported killed and at least 14 wounded in shooting which preceded the burning of the SAVAK headquarters.

Moslem opposition and pledged to cut off oil supplies to Israel and South Africa, disband the dreaded SAVAK secret police, "gradually" lift martial law, release political prisoners and bring corrupt officials to trial.

Bakhtiar said he was "confident" of full support from the armed forces and would seek to end strikes crippling the oil industry, airports, the national airline, railroad and public bus, taxi and trucking services.

Tehran's large refinery appeared to be the one of the few to have resumed active production. Five other refineries — in Shiraz, Kermanshah and Tabriz were still "cranking up," the sources said, although workers had returned.

"It will take at least a week for the refineries to start producing anything," said one source.

Production at the world's largest refinery at Abadan, in south Iran, has reached 250,000 barrels a day, still less than half its capacity.

Did Gacy Really Dump Boy's Body Into The River?

CHICAGO (UPI) — Investigators said today they have doubts about John Wayne Gacy's claim that he dumped the body of Robert Piest, the 15-year-old whose disappearance led searchers to a "snake river" in Oregon.

Gacy misled police on the location of Piest's body, it is one of the few discrepancies between what he has told them and facts later learned in the search for the largest number of murder victims attributed to one person in the nation's history, investigators said.

Gacy, 38, a convicted sodomist, told police he killed 32 teen-agers and young men. Police have been unable to find three bodies he said he dumped into the Des Plaines River.

Gacy was mid-cabed discharging when he reported to the Des Plaines police station Dec. 13 for an interview with detectives investigating the disappearance of Piest, police said.

During later interrogations, Gacy, a remodeling contractor, told police he buried 27 bodies on his property and dumped the bodies of Piest and four others in nearby rivers.

Searchers later discovered 27 bodies beneath Gacy's house and garage. Another two bodies pulled from the river were also buried in the woods.

Investigators note Gacy may have buried Piest's body. Gacy's car was extremely muddy and led them to suspect he buried the body away from his house, perhaps in a forest preserve.

Gacy has been charged with seven counts of murder, one for Piest and the other six for the murders connected with identified bodies found on Gacy's property. He pleaded innocent to all seven murders on Wednesday.

Searchers using backhoes and sledgeshammers are taking apart Gacy's garage. "I would like to take everything down if I could and just leave an empty lot," Cook County Sheriff's Police Chief Edmund F. Dobby said after part of the garage was torn down Thursday.

NATION IN BRIEF

December Jobless Rate: First Rise In 5 Months

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's unemployment rate increased to 5.9 percent in December — the first rise in five months — but it remained significantly below a year ago, the Labor Department reported today.

The jump from the 5.8 percent rate for both October and November was brought about partly by increased joblessness among adult men and teen-agers.

But unemployment among black and minority teen-agers, who have suffered continually high joblessness, declined from 36.5 percent in November to 34.9 percent last month.

Nicholas D. Castellano was placed on one year's probation this morning for hitting and choking a political opponent during a Winter Springs court meeting.

The incident occurred Sept. 19, 1978 and Castellano pleaded no contest in October to a first degree misdemeanor charge of attempted battery.

Castellano, 47, told Circuit Judge Robert McGregor he was sorry about hitting 56-year-old Joseph Mueller. He added however, "I think he is an arrogant individual."

"I regret it very much," Castellano said. "It was a momentary reaction. I didn't appreciate his words or asking me to get the chairs. I really can't explain it, I'm very sorry it happened."

Castellano alleged that Mueller has used profane language after Castellano had refused his request to get some extra chairs for people standing during the public hearing.

The public hearing, which drew several hundred people to the city's recreation center was on the proposed deannexation of the Tuscaville subdivision.

Castellano conceded he has a hot temper and McGregor told him to consider it a handicap and learn to control it. McGregor withheld adjudication pending completion of the one-year probation.

Conditions of the sentencing include Castellano avoiding any contact with Mueller. He was also assessed $11 in court costs and will pay $10 to the Florida Crime Victim's Compensation Fund.

THREE IN CUSTODY
Three juveniles, two of them 16, the other 14, were taken into custody by Sanford detectives for sale of marijuana. Detectives said they purchased about five grams of marijuana from one of the youths at 27th Street near the Pine Crest Elementary School Thursday at 8:30 p.m.

WOMAN ASSAULTED
A 21-year-old Winter Park woman told Casselberry police she was assaulted by three men at the barn area of the Seminole Harvest Raceway. Police Chief George Karcher said the woman was taken to the area by a man she met at a local lounge and two other men arrived and sexually assaulted her. The incident occurred early this morning and the woman was treated at Seminole Memorial Hospital.

Who Has Say On Raise?

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — The Legislature has the final word on pay raises, a state appeals court has ruled, even though government workers now have collective bargaining rights.

The 1st District Court of Appeal Thursday upheld the 1977 Legislature's refusal to fully fund an 8.8 percent raise for university faculty negotiated by the Board of Regents and United Faculty of Florida.

It also backed up the BOR's refusal to dig into operating money for the extra $1 million needed to fund the salary package.

The state's public employee collective bargaining law makes all agreements "subject to the approval, through the medium of appropriations, of the legislative body," the court said.

Grand Jury Ending State Fraud Probe

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — A grand jury investigating several matters, including charges that former Assistant Commerce Secretary Joe Hennessy allegedly faked travel vouchers to bill the state out of $2,390, completes its work today, Assistant State Attorney Warren Goodwin said.

Court records show that Hennessy's former secretary and legislative machine for Controller Gerald Lewis, who first raised the allegations, testified before the panel earlier this week.

Lewis turned over to State Attorney Harry Morrison last year evidence allegedly showing that Hennessy and former state Tourism Director Robert Whitley falsified records from overseas economic development trips to collect for expenses they never paid.

Hennessy and Whitley resigned last spring. Lee Ann Burgess, the department's administrator of tourism development, was accused of falsifying travel vouchers and fired, although she was reinstated with back pay recently by the Career Service Commission. Doug Sweden, an aide to then Gov. Reubin Askew, resigned after he was accused of submitting a false voucher.

Hennessy was accused by Lewis of billing the state of $2,390.13 and missing another $10,124 given to him to wine and dine business prospects during business-bunting trips to Europe by Askew in 1977.

Hennessy was advanced $14,500 for a March 1977 trip to Europe, Lewis said. He allegedly deposited $10,500 of it in his personal bank account upon returning to Florida, using the money to pay personal bills. He returned the $10,500 to the state three months later.

Lewis accused Hennessy of falsifying records from other trips to collect for expenses he never paid, or for more than the actual charge. The largest overcharge was allegedly $1,467 for a luncheon at Stockholm, Sweden. Lewis said the receipt from the restaurant was altered to double Hennessy's reimbursement.

Only one of the receipts in this country. Lewis said Hennessy tacked $10 onto the bill for a meal at a Tallahassee restaurant.

The state's public employee collective bargaining law makes all agreements "subject to the approval, through the medium of appropriations, of the legislative body," the court said.

Perseverance Paid Off

We need not have to remind any motorist who — day or night — finds himself bogged down on State Road 46 at the railroad tracks west of U.S. 17-82 how frustrating an experience it can be.

As those trains — passenger or freight — roll, and sometimes, crawl by — you can do as it sits. And sit. And sit.

Well, a giant step was taken to alleviate and eventually eliminate that frustration. Word has come that the Federal Highway Administration has allocated $3.3 million for construction of an overpass at the juncture.

Funding of the effort did not just come out of the blue, nor were the wheels turning from within a vacuum. It took long, hard work and negotiations to achieve the goal. And perseverance.

The big push began about four years ago when the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce and the Sanford City Commission passed resolutions calling for construction of the overpass. Meetings with state and federal officials followed.

Douglas Stenstrom, one of the prime movers in the effort, informs us that it actually began about 20 years ago when petitions toward that end were presented to the state.

The former timetable now is a moot issue. What counts is the future timetable — with bids expected to be let in early 1982 and construction of the four lane structure following later that year.

"I'm proud of the chamber and the chamber's roads and bridges committee," observed Jack Horner, the chamber's executive manager, after hearing the news this week.

"Certainly hope Sid Chase, Bill Bush and Doug and Julian Stenstrom get the recognition they deserve for their work on this."

We agree.

Whale Limit

Conservationists, and those whalers who can be beyond 1979 profits, will be heartened by the International Whaling Commission's decision to limit the 1979 North Pacific harvest of sperm whales to 4,800 animals — a 41 percent reduction from 1978's limit of 8,444 sperm whales.

This sharply reduced quota will guard the sperm whale species against the fate of the blue, humpback and right whale, already hunted to the brink of extinction.

We are pleased to note that in 1978 the IWC asserted a measure of independence from the whaling industry, which lobbied against any reduction in the 1978 quota.

The U.S. government has classified the sperm whale as an endangered species since 1970. Consequently, Washington favors a total ban on the harvest of sperm whales.

The IWC's scientific committee disagrees, although the committee acknowledges "critical gaps in our understanding of whale populations."

Prudence demands that quotas err on the side of conservation in the absence of proof that a higher limit will not threaten the survival of the species.

The curtailed 1979 harvest will admittedly do little to alleviate the financial plight of the world's two remaining deep-sea whaling fleets, those of Japan and the Soviet Union.

But hunting the sperm whale into extinction would put these fleets out of business permanently.

The IWC wisely chose between short-term and long-term interests. The commission must now ensure that its inspection program is adequate to oversee Japanese and Soviet compliance with the 1979 limits.

And people are going to smoke publicly. If no ashtrays are available, they use the floors and on occasion, I have been ducted into expensive planters.

Back in the "old days," public places were equipped with spittoons — and in more refined atmospheres with brass cuspidors for old-timers to spit the juice from that wad of tobacco — instead of using the floor or sidewalk.

That's more than I can say for Orlando's ultra-modern Bob Carr Auditorium. When we attended the opening night of Carol Channing in "Hello, Dolly," during intermission, many high society theatre patrons, dressed to the nines, were grinding lighted cigarettes in the carpeting because no ashtrays were available. Again, gorgeous expensive plants were fertilized (or stunted) with generous portions of tobacco.

When I tell you, there are many conditions far more offensive than tobacco smoke, I am not talking through my hat. You see, I'm a smoker, and sometimes a non-smoker. And when I go on a "two-smoking" kick, I'm quick to sound off to smokers about that nasty, costly, smelly habit.

You could say I'm exactly like the person who eats or drinks too much. We can take it or leave it ... but our addiction demands that we take it, generally speaking.

So, for whatever it's worth, I would much rather have the air polluted with a smoke screen than be in a close spot where godawful halitosis, nauseating body odors, funky perfumes and shaving lotions and maybe obnoxious language permeate the air, which in any language, just plain stinks.

Non-smokers can be self-appointed martyrs (remember, I have been there).

Just recently I attended a gathering (outside Sanford) of 20 persons. Before the dinner got underway, several had downed a little sip or two. A woman across from me lit up a cigarette to be severely admonished by a woman who obviously had nipped a little too much.

I have been in this situation before and stay prepared. I humbled in my handbag, dragged out a small incense cone, and lighted it on a saucer.

The fragrance of the lighted cone emitted a delicious aroma, along with a trail of smoke. You could have heard a pin drop around the table.

Finally, a demure little lady whom I later learned was a non-smoker said, "My, what a delightful air-cleanser. Smoke is not necessarily an air pollutant."

Political protesters (non-smokers) shut up, the smokers happily puffed, and everyone appeared to enjoy the rest of the evening.

The Buck Stays At The Top

By DON GRAFF

Not all of us are alon-rans in the race with inflation.

In top executive ranks, there generally is more than enough extra in paychecks these days to cover the increasing cost of even high-style living.

The information comes from a Conference Board survey of the highest-paid officers in nearly 1,500 companies. According to the returns, the base salary of your typical chief executive officer in a manufacturing enterprise has gone up some 20 percent in the last two years.

Salary, however, is far from the whole story. Most firms (to take manufacturing again, 63 percent) now pay year-end bonuses to top executives. These also have been rising, in relation to base pay. For our manufacturing man, the typical bonus hit 46 percent of salary last year.

Adding up the odds and ends of income, the median total compensation for manufacturing's top men was $241,90 last year. This is the top of the executive line. Increments during the same period in current income totals for other major business categories were less but still substantial — up 18 percent to $184,000 in retail trade, 18 percent to $125,000 in utilities, 17 percent to $107,000 in commercial banking, for a few additional examples.

The second highest-paid executives are earning between 67 and 82 percent of No. 1, depending upon the type of business, and third-ranking officers between 55 and 63 percent.

Executive ranks also frequently amass perks to other means of easing the strain on the personal exchequer. An increasingly popular perk is the use of "Stock Appreciation Rights." This can't lose market maneuver permits and executive to relinquish a company stock option, receiving cash equal to the stock's appreciation from the time the option was granted.

In the light of these affluent circumstances, those farther down on company payroll pecking orders where the administration's wage guidelines really pinch may be reinforced in a long-held suspicion about the executive suite: When times get tough, the bucks tend to stop there.

One answer to an inflation-strained household budget is two paychecks, a major factor in the rapidly increasing numbers of working wives in the labor market... which may also be a factor in increasing corporate awareness of the working wife.

According to a survey by Merrill Lynch Relocation Management, Inc., more firms are offering job-finding assistance to wives of transferring executives. The aid, reported by the firm, includes help in finding housing, transportation, and other services.

As long as Carter has two strong advisers in the diplomatic field, there undoubtedly will continue to be rivalry for his attention. It all depends on whom Carter chooses to listen to at any given time.

It's heart-breaking," Bordley said upon learning the Reds had drafted him.

Joe Brown, the Reds' chief of scouts, admitted Bordley had told the Reds he preferred signing with a West Coast team, but Brown added he considered Bordley the best prospect available in the draft and felt an obligation to Cincinnati fans to try to sign him if he could.

"We're going to make him a fine offer," said Brown. "For his part, Bordley said: 'We've had a lot of tragedy here at home. I could have played for the California Angels. They were willing to work things out for me and I was ecstatic.'"

Listening to Bill Bordley, it is easy enough to see his side of it, but there is another side as well, and in the end this all could wind up the same place as the majority of baseball's major problems do: either in court or in Bowie Kuhn's hall.

To begin with, the recent stream of drafting players that "knock-out" contracts has been in effect since 1968, which means approximately 1,400 players have been selected, and in all that time the system has never been challenged legally.

"The way I see it, the Reds cannot be faulted for having drafted Bordley, who now goes back into the next draft in June if he doesn't sign with them."

"We came in here to see if we could state a point and that's what we did," said Coach Bobby Krumm. "The fans have to be patient with us. We're in a five-year building process and we're having some problems this year. They're down on me and the team but we've been giving them their money's worth in effort."

With Bob Dally playing a slugging penalty and Detroit removing goalie Rogie Vachon to get a sixth starter on the ice, Ljubo Jelic took the puck past goalie Bernie Parent for his second goal of the game.

In other games, Boston defeated Minnesota, 4-4, Buffalo hammered Washington, 6-

2, and Vancouver handled St. Louis, 4-3. There were no games scheduled in the World Hockey Association.

Brus & North Stars 4: Rick Middleton and Bobby Schick scored third-period goals to give Boston 53 points, most in the NHL.

Sabres & Capitals 2: Second-period goals by Jim Schoenfeld, Don Luce and Rene Robert carried Buffalo.

Canucks & Blues 3: Jim Gillis led 12:15 of the third period broke a 3-3 tie and Chris Oddifone scored a goal and assisted on the three others, leading Vancouver to a victory over St. Louis.

Peer, Bill Bordley

NEW YORK (UPI) — Your heart has to be made of stone not to feel something for Bill Bordley.

But I don't feel the Cincinnati Reds should be cast as villains for doing what they did.

The secondary phase of draftees is made up of only those who did not sign with the clubs which selected them previously.

Bordley was one of these, having declined to sign with the Milwaukee Brewers after graduating high school in 1978 although they had offered him better than $100,000.

On Tuesday, the Reds drafted Bordley in the secondary phase and he called it "probably the worst day of my life."

He had hoped to be drafted by the California Angels as he could be closer to home, which is Rolling Hills, Calif., and the reasons he offers certainly are compelling.

"I put George back in because we were aware of the arena roster," Moore acknowledged. "I really don't like to do that sort of thing but he had 40 in three quarters. We waited until the last five minutes."

The Reds' bench started the final quarter and when Gervin returned with 5:33 to play he scored six in the final 4:40 for Kansas City.

In other games, Detroit dominated Portland, 10-1; Kansas City held off Golden State, 9-8; and Seattle edged Phoenix, 10-9.

Pistons 104, Trail Blazers 101: M.L. Carr scored 23 points and Bob Lanier added 18 to help Detroit snap a six-game losing streak. The loss was the third in a row for Portland.

Kings 94, Warriors 89: Otis Birdsong, who took scoring honors with 24 points, scored six in the final 4:40 for Kansas City.

A jump shot by Jack Sikma and four free throws by Gus Williams in the last 29 seconds helped Seattle increase its first-place in the Pacific Division.

Gervin Hits 52 For Arena Mark

By United Press International

Apparently the attention paid to high-scoring George Gervin does not arouse resentment in his teammates.

On the contrary, they seem eager to help him when they can.

"They sacrificed and gave the ball to him," said San Antonio Coach Doug Moe after doing what they did.

The Spurs swamped the San Diego Clippers, 140-111, on the strength of Gervin's 52 points Thursday night. "He (Gervin) does a lot for the team and they appreciate it."

The 52 points amounted to a HemiFair Arena record, and though Moe understandably didn't place too high a priority on setting new marks, it was almost impossible for him to keep Gervin from achieving one.

"I put George back in because we were aware of the arena roster," Moore acknowledged. "I really don't like to do that sort of thing but he had 40 in three quarters. We waited until the last five minutes."

The Spurs' bench started the final quarter and when Gervin returned with 5:33 to play he scored six in the final 4:40 for Kansas City.

Kings 94, Warriors 89: Otis Birdsong, who took scoring honors with 24 points, scored six in the final 4:40 for Kansas City.

A jump shot by Jack Sikma and four free throws by Gus Williams in the last 29 seconds helped Seattle increase its first-place in the Pacific Division.

2, and Vancouver handled St. Louis, 4-3. There were no games scheduled in the World Hockey Association.

Brus & North Stars 4: Rick Middleton and Bobby Schick scored third-period goals to give Boston 53 points, most in the NHL.

Sabres & Capitals 2: Second-period goals by Jim Schoenfeld, Don Luce and Rene Robert carried Buffalo.

Canucks & Blues 3: Jim Gillis led 12:15 of the third period broke a 3-3 tie and Chris Oddifone scored a goal and assisted on the three others, leading Vancouver to a victory over St. Louis.

McEnroe Wins By Default, But He's Not Complaining

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jimmy Connors was limping, the bewildered crowd was gasping, and the forlorn tennis officials were groaning.

What was supposed to be the decisive, nail-biting, final day of the round robin competition on Friday was reduced to a series of meaningless exhibitions.

And out of all this gloom, teenage rebel John McEnroe was beaming.

The contrasting moods were brought about with startling suddenness Thursday night when Connors, the defending champion, was forced to default from his match against McEnroe because of a swollen and painful foot. McEnroe had won the opening set, 7-5, and was leading the second, 3-0, when Connors stated that he would rather win by finishing a match, but winning is better than losing."

"I was really uncomfortable from the beginning," said Connors, who revealed that his left foot has been troubling him for more than a week.

McEnroe was jubilant with his first ever triumph over Connors in five meetings, in spite of the circumstances.

"I'm happy," said the 19-year-old New Yorker. "A victory over Connors is a victory over Connors. I won it. I'll take it any way I can get it. I would rather win by finishing a match, but winning is better than losing."

Dr. Norman Rudy, the attending physician, said Connors first came to him with the ailing foot Tuesday night.

"Jimmy has a hemorrhage under a combination blister-callsous under his foot," Rudy said. "Wednesday we removed some blood from under it and it satisfied this morning and it was worth the cure. But it's a significant blister and very painful."

Under new tournament rules, Connors is automatically disqualified from the rest of the Masters, a situation which would have disturbed him except for the fact that Rudy says he probably won't be able to play for another two weeks.

POLYGLYCOAT LUSTERIZING SEALANT

Polyglycoat is not just a polish, glaze, or wax. It is a liquid sealant providing a lustre surpassing that applied to your Toyota at the factory. When Polyglycoat is applied to the surface of an automobile, it penetrates the pores of both the paint and chrome to seal out the damaging effects of sun, wind, rain, salt and road abrasives that can make your car look old before its time. And it even makes your Toyota easier to wash. The best sealant available, Polyglycoat is guaranteed for 3 years.

6, 12, 18 MONTHS POLYGLYCOAT SEALANT RENEWAL

At intervals of 6, 12, and 18 months, customers should bring their Toyotas back to the dealer for a first-class, professionally applied Polyglycoat renewer at no extra cost. This renews surface silicones that are lost due to normal (exposure) wearing process.

POLYGLYCOAT RUST PROOFING SHIELD

To protect your investment in your new Toyota we rustproof your car in all places where rust can get a start such as seams, cracks and crevices, boxed-in areas and enclosed support sections, where water and moisture collect. What's more, if damaged, it heals itself by flowing over and shielding the exposed metal area. Polyglycoat Rustproofing Shield, rated no. 1 by independent laboratories in a comparison of 7 leading rust preventatives, is guaranteed for 7 long years with the best guarantee in the business.

POLYGLYCOAT INTERIOR PROTECTION

This quality stain repellent offers complete protection for vinyl and cloth as well as carpeting in your car against any spills such as cola, ice cream, chocolate, etc. This product maintains the beauty of your car's interior and keeps vinyl soft, leather like and new looking.

POLYGLYCOAT UNDERCOATING

This process not only is an undercoating but a sound deadener against road noise. It is also an undersealant offering superb protection against road salt, chemicals and stone bruises. Your car runs and rides quieter.

Pope Speaks Out Against Abortion

By CHRISTOPHER P. WENNER VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Three months into his papacy, Pope John Paul II is embroiled in a controversy over Italy's abortion law that threatens to undermine his popularity as well as his stock among the country's leading politicians.

The 58-year-old former Cardinal Karol Wojtyla of Poland, who became the first non-Polish pope in 45 years last Oct. 16, has come under heavy criticism in the aftermath of several speeches condemning abortions as immoral and praising doctors who refuse to perform them.

Although John Paul's recent declarations on abortion are only marginally different from those of his predecessors, they have coincided with a stepped up anti-abortion campaign by some of the most powerful prelates in the Roman Catholic church.

Cardinal Giovanni Benelli of Florence began the flurry of Vatican activity last month by denouncing abortion as "legalized homicide" that has "obliterated the Italian state in becoming a killer."

John Paul wasted no time in picking up Benelli's lead, saying "countenance those who violate the sanctity of marriage and destroy life conceived in the womb."

But the pope edged ahead one step, enough to turn the matter into a political issue. "I want to express my sincere admiration," he told a Catholic action group, "for all health workers who follow their conscience and resist, daily, the enticements, pressures, threats and physical violence so as not to stain that right that presupposes all other human rights — the right to life."

Italy's abortion law, passed last May 18, permits cost-free abortions in the first 90 days of pregnancy for any woman over 18 years who says childbirth would endanger her physical or mental health.

But a key clause in the law permits doctors the right to refuse performing an abortion on grounds of conscience. Government figures indicate 70 percent of Italy's gynecologists and 50 percent of its nurses claimed conscientious objector status once the law took effect.

The figures show that while nearly 27,000 legal abortions were performed last year, thousands of objecting doctors helped encourage what is a still-prosperous clandestine abortion trade.

John Paul is re-igniting the flames of a battle he thought was already won, said Radical party deputy Marisa Galli, an ex-nun whose party drafted the original abortion referendum.

Even the ruling Christian Democratic party, which fought alongside the Vatican against abortion and divorce laws, declined to join the church's new campaign.

"The party fought and lost two battles," said Christian Democratic party President Flaminio Piccoli, "and now it must accept the verdict of the majority. Laws are laws."

For the first time since his election John Paul has become fodder for caricaturists. A leftist newspaper published a cartoon of the pope pushing Italian President Sandro Pertini out of his chair and a mass circulation magazine depicted him talking about human rights while leading conservative Italian prelates.

Vatican Radio, reacting to the fuss, took time out to "clarify" John Paul's remarks, insisting the pontiff was addressing "moral and not political issues."

But veteran church observers noted the pope's abortion statements had definitively ended the three-month honeymoon between the Vatican and Italy's political leaders.

Associate To Be Installed

Rev. Daniel L. Consla will be installed as associate pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Sanford, Sunday, at a 7:30 p.m. service.

The service will be performed by a commission appointed by the presbytery, including Rev. H. Paul Lepp, Associate Presbytery Executive for Church Development, who will deliver the sermon.

A Church Night Supper will be held at 6 p.m. in Fellowship Hall to celebrate the occasion.

Originally from Kittingham, Pa., Consla did his undergraduate work at Westminster College (Pa.) and his professional preparation at the Princeton Theological Seminary, from which he holds a Master of Divinity degree.

He has traveled wide and was the compiler, editor and a major contributor of the Synod of the Trinity's Youth Ministry Program Package.

His wife, Jertilyn, is a graduate of Westminster College and has taught music in the public schools and is an ordained elder. Mrs. Consla was raised in Bonton, N.J. They have been married for 10 years and have two daughters, Susanna, five, and Elizabeth, two. They reside at 2016 Elizabeth Court.

Relative Won't Return Aid

QUESTION: I have helped a member of my family for years, but now when I need help, he ignores me. I am hurt and angry inside about this. Is it wrong for me to expect help from him?

ANSWER: You cannot expect the one you helped to meet your needs now. God is your Source of help.

God said, "Cast thy bread upon the waters: for thou shalt find it after many days" (Ecclesiastes 11:1). The wave you cast your bread upon may not be the one upon which it returns. It may be a new wave, whichever way it returns on, toward the family member whom you feel has failed you. He is your Source. This means the one you help may not help you, but God, who is the God of the harvest, will cause someone to help you.

It is said of Jesus that He "went about doing good" (Acts 10:38). The good seeds you have planted in helping another is an expression of your deep desire to do good and to be like Jesus. They are a demonstration of your inner self being on God's side. An attitude of ill will toward the family member whom you feel has failed you can rob you of the joy of this position.

It helps me to feel better in a situation like this when I can get quiet enough to remember a

DEAR DR. LAMB — I read your column about skim milk being high in calcium. The nutritionist who was talking to that woman in your column was trying to tell her that calcium from milk cannot be properly absorbed without the cream. I wish they would outlaw skim milk and 2 percent fat milk. It does no good for the adult either. You cannot fool Mother Nature. She put that fat in the milk for a purpose.

DEAR READER — I am afraid you are expressing an opinion, not a fact. Your opinion isn't supported by the facts. You're absolutely wrong about the idea that you have to have fat to absorb calcium.

Calcium absorption is affected by the blood calcium level. If you have a lot of blood calcium you may not absorb much from the digestive tract. But, if your body needs calcium, the basic mechanisms in the wall of the small intestine change and you'll absorb a greater proportion of the calcium that is in your food.

The only advantage of whole milk over fat milk is that it increases your calorie intake, if that is what you want to do. Also, it increases your total fat intake. Worse, about half of butter fat is saturated fat. Individuals who need to limit their fat intake, and particularly their saturated fat intake, often do a great deal better on fortified skim milk.

As I pointed out in my earlier column, fortified skim milk contains more protein and it's milk protein so it's good quality. To give you some facts based on the U.S. Department of Agriculture data, I am sending you the Health Letter number 7-2, Milk Products: Good and Bad.

Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped self-addressed envelope for it. Send your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. Just to make your day complete, you might like to know that the American Heart Association's most recent position concerning children and diet to prevent heart disease recommends that all those children who are found to have high fat and cholesterol trouble should be put on a corrective diet.

In their overall report they also see no danger in modifying the diet for children to limit the cholesterol and saturated fat intake. If you translate those observations to milk, you'll find that what the committee is saying is that the relative absence of cholesterol and saturated fat in fortified skim milk is not harmful and for children with a higher risk factor for developing heart disease, it is recommended.

The committee that drew up the report for the American Heart Association pointed out that 80 percent of U.S. infants are fed on formulas that contain very little cholesterol and a high portion of polyunsaturated fat as opposed to saturated fat. The committee observed that there had been no long term adverse effects from using such a formula. They also observed that children who had low cholesterol levels either through diet or on the basis of inherited characteristics appear to be perfectly healthy and have perfectly normal development.

So, long live fortified skim milk — for its improved nutritional quality, namely increased calcium (which certainly is absorbed if needed by the body) and its increased good quality protein without overloading the system with fat, in particular saturated fat and cholesterol.

HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL
For Saturday, January 13, 1979

YOUR BIRTHDAY
January 12, 1979
This coming year you may become involved in a project or enterprise with a person whose abilities you truly respect. You will gain from this association, both intellectually and materially.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
Being self-sufficient is enviable, but you may carry it to extremes today and fail to act in proper harmony in a situation calling for teamwork. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in 1979 by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter, Mail $1 for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 480, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth sign.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)
You do not perform well under pressure today, so don't leave important tasks till the last minute. Take charge of your duties or they'll take charge of you!

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
Spend today with persons you sincerely enjoy instead of being with those you feel obligated to entertain. If you're with the latter, no one will have a good time.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
Trouble could remain on the domestic scene today if you allow it to. Try to stay calm if there's an incident. Don't let your temper gain the upper hand.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
In your haste to get things done today you could find yourself running around in circles. Take the time to organize your activities.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
Your carelessness in filing receipts or records of your material transactions could result in a loss today. Pay special attention to these details.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
Don't let a hothead upset you today and good you into a confrontation. Walk away. Arguments never solve anything.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
More than the usual amount of tact and patience may be called for today in your dealings with coworkers. Why not set the example?

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
A bully type could spoil the fun for everyone today. If you know such a character, don't include him in your social gatherings.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
Normally you rely upon tact and grace to achieve your aims. Today, however, you may do things in a way others find unbecoming and abrasive.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 22)
Make suggestions to associates if you must today, but be very careful that you don't do so too forcibly. Unnecessary ugly incidents could result.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
Be wary of joint venture involvements today that place the greater burden on you, both physically and financially. The load must be shared equally if it's to work.

WIN AT BRIDGE

Should I have passed at three hearts?" asked the student. "Or was I just unlucky?"

"No, you shouldn't have passed at three hearts," replied the Professor. "In one sense you were unlucky. Without a spade lead you would have wrapped the contract up, but in the main sense you just misplayed the hand. Four hearts was a cinch."

The student should have left trumps alone and led a diamond at trick two. East would win and lead back a spade, but the student would have been in complete control. He would win in his own hand and discard dummy's last two spades on his king and jack of diamonds. Then he would go after trumps and nothing could hurt him.

Sanford Museum: Filled With Memories, More

Text and photos by Tom Netsel

The Henry S. Sanford Library Museum, a memorial to the city's founder, is more than just a memory.

The contents, some more than a century old, some dating back several centuries, reveal a preservation of culture existing long before the birth of General Sanford and the city bearing his name.

Records indicate that plans for the present library museum date back to 1891 when General Sanford died in Derby, Conn. At that time Mrs. Sanford was inspired to bequeath her husband's library of more than 5,000 volumes to the city of Sanford as a memorial.

Mrs. Sanford's proposal was outlined to her family, the city of Sanford and in her will at the time of her death in 1901. However, negotiations for the memorial were not initiated until the early 1950's.

At that time, the Sanford's only surviving daughter, Carola Sanford Dow, began extensive correspondence with Mrs. Frederick T. Williams of Sanford in an attempt to execute the terms of her mother's will.

With the help of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Roumillat II and Sanford architect Elton J. Moughton, an exact replica of General Sanford's library in Connecticut was built on the present site on East First Street and dedication ceremonies were held on Feb. 8, 1957.

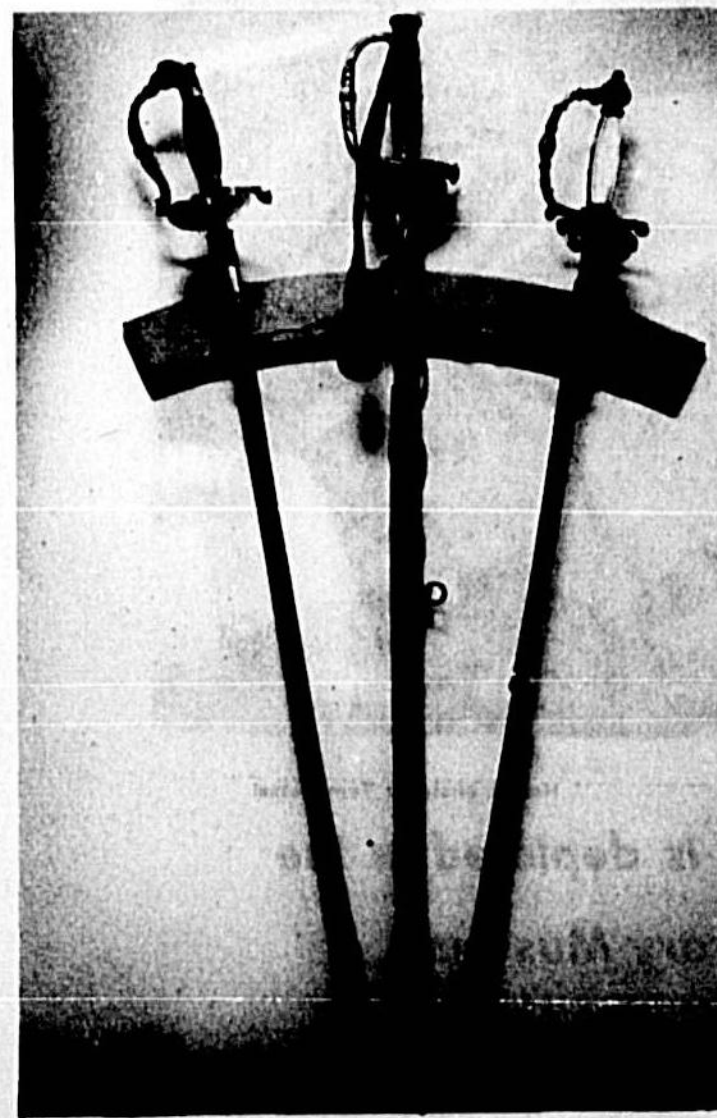

BUST OF GENERAL HENRY S. SANFORD

With the acquisition of furniture, paintings, and personal effects of the Sanford family, the one-room library was expanded with the addition of two wings in 1974.

The west room contains the family's personal effects, which include artifacts and furnishings from the Sanford's residences at Castle Maillard and Castle de Gingelom near Brussels, Belgium, where the General was U.S. minister.

The east room is reserved for rotating exhibits which update and preserve the history of Sanford.

The library museum is open to the public from 2-5 p.m. on Sundays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

Quinn: 'Goodbye' Was Hello

Quinn Cummings is 11 years old, lives in the Hollywood Hills with her mother Jan, a dog, cat and two hamsters, reads about a dozen books a week and is the newest member of the "Family" cast. She plays 11-year-old Annie Cooper Lawrence, adopted by the Lawrences after the death of her parents.

The brown-eyed, brownhaired youngster made her motion picture debut playing Marsha Mason's precocious daughter in Neil Simon's "The Goodbye Girl," for which she received an Academy Award nomination (Best Performance by an Actress in a supporting Role).

Quinn's father, the late Sumner Cummings, died in 1977 while Quinn and her mother were on location in New York City. It was the final day of filming on "The Goodbye Girl."

Quinn was walking and talking before she was a year old. Her introduction into entertainment came at age 8 when a neighbor of the Cummings family, the late cinematographer James Wong Howe, was impressed with the youngster's brightness and personality. He felt she was a "natural" and hoped to use her in his next film.

Howe spoke to an agent friend who interviewed Quinn. Two days later, the little girl was doing her first commercial and in quick order did eight more, plus 13 episodes of the TV series "Big Eddie."

She advanced into serious acting, performing with Charles Durning in the highly acclaimed Public Broadcasting System's "Visions" presentation, "The Dancing Bear."

Other guest appearances included an episode of "The Six Million Dollar Man" and the ABC Television movie, "Intimate Strangers" with Dennis Weaver and Sally Struthers. She also appeared in an episode of "Family" titled "Lifetime" in which she played a lonely child who formed a strong attachment to Buddy (Kristy McNichol).

WILLIAM MCKINNEY

Familiar Face, But...

Acting is a good job. That's the way one actor looks at it. His name is William McKinney and he has been in dozens of things you've seen.

He has one of those faces you would instantly recognize, although his name may not yet be familiar to you.

Down the years, Bill McKinney has had to do some other things besides acting to support himself.

That's because lately he has become a protégé of Clint Eastwood and he's been in Eastwood's "Thunderbolt and Light foot," "Outlaw Josey Wales," "The Gauntlet" and the new Eastwood release, "Every Which Way But Loose."

Ask Dick Kleiner

DEAR DICK: I always wanted to be a star since I was seven. Now I'm 12 1/2. When I was 7, I sang every night, after supper, on my swing set. My mother said I might get to go to Hollywood and become a star at 18.

It's a wonderful and terrible dream, that dream of becoming a star. Never give it up, but you should realize that very few people make it.

DEAR DICK: David Niven has always been one of my favorite actors and I like his books very much.

Niven has a home in Switzerland, a home in France and a home in Bora-Bora. He lives very nicely—and his money (until he turned to writing recently) all came from movies.

Goodbye Football, Hello -Well, You Can Name It

Monday Night Football is over; all the college bowls are played out; all that remains is the granddaddy of pro ball, the Super Bowl, which airs on NBC, Jan. 21.

NBC offers "Super Bowl Saturday Night" on the 20th, a pre-game shakedown hosted by O.J. Simpson. On Sunday, they'll feature exclusive coverage of THE game from the Orange Bowl in Miami, Fla.

Diehards will clutch the pigskin until Jan. 29, however, when ABC covers the all-star exhibition game, the AFC-NFL Pro-Bowl from Los Angeles.

But once the football season really ends, what's an armchair athlete to watch? You could go down to the local rink and watch the kids skate around. Or, try switching your allegiance to basketball, hockey, bowling—or golf.

NBC is airing a comprehensive schedule of Saturday afternoon college basketball games through March 3. For professional basketball, consult your local listings for local teams.

Hockey, like basketball, doesn't garner the ratings that football and baseball do. In most Northern states, however, local stations carry the area team. Avid ice fans can follow their favorites right up to playoff time, when networks' interest is finally piqued.

Bowling starts rolling in January. ABC Sports has 16-weeks of Saturday afternoon tournaments stretching from Jan. 6-April 21, with the "Professional Bowlers Tour."

The Jan. 20th feature is the $100,000 Ford Open from Mel's Southshore Bowl in Alameda, Calif.
