

GREY EYES HIDE GIRL'S SORROW

Isabelle Pope, Ready to Testify, Scorns "Sentimentalism"

BY ROY J. GIBBONS

CHICAGO, May 28.—The deepest of all the tragedies that have grown out of Billy McClintock's fortune is hidden behind the shadows in two clear grey eyes.

Isabelle Pope, the girl Billy McClintock would have married if death had not intervened, does not care to have the world share her sorrow.

"I dislike being bathed in sentimentalism," she says, "I do not wear my affections on my sleeve for the world to see."

There are no hysterics, there are no tears—except when she lets herself think of the dream that could never come true.

Miss Pope is to testify for the state in the trial of William D. Shepherd, Billy's foster father, who is accused of killing him with typhoid germs to get his fortune.

Will Do Her Duty

She will do her duty quietly and unemotionally, and then she wants to hear no more of it. Shadows of sorrow well in her eyes as she speaks of it.

"I would rather that what I must do were not to be," she says.

"It will be very bitter. Why must everything be picked to pieces again?"

"My only hope is that the trial will be over quickly. I want to be present as little as possible."

"But I want justice done. I will do as they ask. I will tell the truth."

And then she wants to go back to teach in her kindergarten and forget. Forget that she was wed with a marriage license while Billy's life slipped away; forget that the never could become the bride of the man she loved; forget everything perhaps, except that she and Billy were sweethearts from childhood.

MISS ISABELLE POPE.

Will Tell of Death

Miss Pope is just 22. She has been resting with relatives in California ever since the inquest in to Billy's death, when State's attorney Crowe ran on to the chain of circumstances that led to the indictment of Shepherd for murder.

She is to be asked to tell how she came to Billy's home with a preacher and a marriage license, and how Shepherd, she says, kept her from joining the youth until it was too late.

This is expected to support the state's claim that Shepherd sought his ward's money. Had the two been married, McClintock's fortune of a million-odd dollars would have gone to his wife. As it was, it was left to Shepherd.

The girl dreads the trial, knowing how well it will open the wounds that have slowly been healing. But she has one comfort—Billy McClintock's picture.

Always Has Picture

"I always carry it," she says. "Dear, poor Billy. Anybody would love Billy."

"But Billy is gone. I can't say in words, just what I would express. To talk about him and of all this is so, so painful, can't you understand?"

"We would have been in Europe now, on our honeymoon—but this is gone. What can there be left?"

No, there are no hysterics, Isabelle Pope is a thoroughbred, and thoroughbreds do not parade their troubles for the crowd.

But she is only a girl after all. And so the clear grey eyes, that try so hard to look at life bravely and hopefully, fill slowly with tears. Miss Pope turns away so that they may not be seen.

For she does not wear her affections on her sleeve.

Fort Mellon Site Is Marked By Tablet Unveiled Thursday

Indiana. The chiefs, King Philip and his son, Coacochet, made an attack upon the post with 400 Seminoles, on Feb. 8, 1837. The late Maj. Sydney Herbert Lacey, a gifted military writer who obtained data from the War Department of 1837, described the battle as follows:

"Col. William Shelby Harney arrived at Camp Monroe, Feb. 6, 1837, and although ranking officer, he did not take command, but took of the immediate steps to fortify the place against attack from the Indians, then in the vicinity. He was none too soon as the attack came early in the second day after his arrival. It was a desperate assault led by the brave Indian chiefs.

"George R. Fairbanks, says, 'The Indians fought three battles with great steadfastness, unaware that the post had been reinforced.' Charles R. Mellon was killed. Lieut. McLoughlin and 11 others were wounded. 'The Indians' loss was 25.' Captain Mellon and the other soldiers who died at the post were interred near the site now occupied by the new Fort Mellon Hotel.

"Several of the townspeople, who have in recent years passed away, recalled having visited their graves, which were placed so near the lake shore that the waters have long since washed away all traces of them.

"As military records state, 'Fort Mellon to which the name was now changed in memory of Captain Mellon, became the healthiest and most important inland garrison in Florida.' Up to this time no buildings had been erected at Camp Monroe, the soldiers having lived in camps. New substantial officers' quarters were built with all the equipments of a well established garrison with commissary and bakery. About eight two-story buildings were erected, one with a cupola and signals were exchanged with the block house at Fort Reed. During this year the road which lies between the new Fort Mellon and the old one, was cut through the forest connecting Fort Mellon and Fort Brooke at Tampa on which was established a line of forts, Fort Reed, Fort Gatlin, Fort Meade and others. These and others established through the peninsula on lateral roads connecting with the mainline amounted to 50. Over this line supplies were conveyed and deposited at the forts, enabling the troops to penetrate to regions where probably white faces had never been before—the interior of the country between Lake Monroe and the Everglades. The northern end of this road is now known as Mellonville Avenue, and much, if not all of it, is still in use.

"For a time in the summer of 1837, the war was thought to be over. Removal of the Indians to the West had begun, when again in the night the Red Man slipped off from the shipping places and committed atrocities greater than ever before. Thirty Indian leaders who had come into Fort Mellon to trade were seized by the commander, Lieutenant Hanson. Soldiers as many as 8,000 were soon distributed throughout the peninsula of the state; and by 1840 inducements were offered by the government to settlers of rations for six months and some degree of protection to persons settling in the vicinity of the forts. In payment for services to the government, land warrants were issued, known as floats, which gave the privilege of locating on any government land desired.

"To Alex. Vaughn, whose father, A. J. Vaughn, had enlisted at Fort Mellon in December 1837, we are indebted for many interesting stories and for a list of some of the first citizens of the interior or peninsula Florida, and where they located. For the first six months they were established at Tusavah, on the south bank Lake Jessup. Mr. Vaughn secured homestead on which is now the county farm. Vincent Lee, whose daughter Mr. Vaughn married, moved to Fort Gatlin. Henry Potter secured a home on the site of Judge J. Wolf Tucker's home. Hiram Potter secured what was later George W. Wolf's home. Mr. Poole acquired the tract known as the Gabbett Place and Mr. Beck the place now known as the Beck Hammock.

"On December 26, 1834, the peninsula of Florida was divided into three counties with Mosquito on the east, and Alachua on the west, both as far north as Charlotte Harbor, and the southern end of the peninsula including the keys constituted Monroe county. New Smyrna was the county site of Mosquito county until 1823, when it was changed to Enterprise. On Jan. 30, 1845 the name of Mosquito county was changed to Orange county and a month later on Mar. 3, 1845, Florida had entered statehood.

"On July 16, 1845, Mellonville, which had been changed from Fort Mellon, became the county site of Orange county and one of the government buildings was temporarily used as a clerk's office. Arthur Ginn was appointed to the office. In 1841 Dr. Algernon S. Speer removed from Georgia to Fort Mellon. He secured two tracts of land on which he planted orange groves, one of which bore the great freeze of 1836, became the most famous grove in the state, the Sweet Grove; and the other on what is now Shell Bank Farm. He placed two steam boats on the river, the largest of these the "Hancock," being the first passenger steamboat plying on the upper St. Johns between Fort Mellon and Palatka.

"In 1845 Mr. John Hughes brought from Georgia his large family and slaves. He was a soldier of 1812 and made a valuable citizen in those troublous times from his experience and knowledge of Indian habits. He constituted himself a vigilance committee to watch the savages and was usually informed as they never entered claim for land due him in payment for former military services, but after moving to Florida he floated his claim on a tract of 160 acres on the Wekiva River now known as Markham. His homestead was a tract of land now Sanford Heights and his old home is now occupied by his grand-daughter Mrs. G. W. Spencer.

"About 1841 W. W. Woodruff, grandfather of F. L. Woodruff and Mrs. C. C. Woodruff, settled the property known for years as the Orange House near Fort Reed and now the new subdivision of Oak Hill. In 1839 a one-story log house was erected on Mellonville Avenue on land a gift of A. J. Vaughn, for use as a church-house, in which the Methodists, Episcopalians and Presbyterians held services from time to time. In 1858 the Indian war being over the camps were broken up and the troops marched away.

"Fort Mellon had been the first military station in the interior of Florida, perhaps for the reason of its situation at the headquarters of the St. Johns River, making easy the transportation of the army and its supplies to the interior; and doubtless Mellonville owed its continuance after the withdrawal of the army, to the fact, that it was the natural gateway of supplies for the population of South Florida. United States Mail was brought by steamer from Jacksonville. Mellonville was the distributing point and from there it was sent out by horseman or bark.

"The year 1866 ushered in the first glow of a new era, which included all Florida. In the great readjustment, which was beginning in all the states north of us, it was a simultaneous impulse, attention seemed fixed on Florida. The world heard of her orange groves and her balmy climate. Many persons in the South-Virginia states, disturbed and unsettled in the plantation life in which they had been reared, turned to new vocations. These from the north sought health, climate or investment; each represented a more refined and cultured class than is usually found among the settlers of a new territory. It soon became the fashion that no visit to the state was complete without the St. Johns River trip. The Hancock had ceased to run and was replaced by a large and well equipped steamboat, the "Darlington," which made weekly trips to Jacksonville. Who of us that remain of the citizens of that time, have not a vivid recollection of the interest which centered around that day—Monday afternoon—the one excitement of the week—the one link with the outside world—and the opening of the mail bag!

"In 1866 the government buildings had been removed and Mellonville now had but one house, a store kept by Mr. Doyle and Mr. Brantley, sons-in-law of Dr. Speer. It might tax modern department stores to show a greater variety of articles than contained for there was no other store nearer than Tampa. In 1866 came Aaron Cloud, who planted large nurseries of orange seedlings, and William Humphrey, whose sons are still citizens of this county.

"The close of the Civil War brought Alexander Mann and Charles G. Evans, who in 1870 built the first hotel. Prior to 1867, there was no practicing physician or surgeon in Orange county, in fact between Palatka and Tampa. In that year Dr. A. C. Caldwell moved with his family from north Carolina and settled on Mellonville Avenue. He had given up the practice of his profession but on account of the needs of the people soon found himself taking night-trips all over Orange and into the adjoining counties, once going to within 15 miles of Tampa.

"In 1868 Maj. J. N. Whitner came Col. B. F. Whitney and his son Capt. B. F. Whitney, Jr., and planted groves on Silver and Lake Jessup. This and the following years many of the people long identified with the settling of Fort Reed and Sanford came. A. H. Grinen, Capt. R. H. Marks and his brother, Maj. M. R. Marks, Dr. A. D. Bruce and family, Messrs. Holland and Nichols, the Dickens, Telfords, Coates, Finegans, Harb, Deane, Haydens, Randolphs, Robinsons, Browns, Ingrams, Cramerons, Goodrichs, Judge E. K. Foster, Frank Forster, and many others.

"In 1869 Judge J. W. Tucker came to Fort Reed and in 1870 purchased from General Finegan about 50 acres of the Levy Grant and erected the first buildings, a wharf and packinghouse near the foot of Palmetto Avenue, and his home on Third Street, where A. J. Reed and Sanford now resides. The year 1870 proved a marked period in the annals of Sanford. Then came Connecticut Gen. Henry S. Lyman Bank was founded with its "first brick building in town." Three years later it developed into the First National Bank. In quick succession came Tuxberry and Fernald, later the George H. Fernald Hardware Company and now the Ball Hardware Company. Chase Brothers Packing house, now Chase & Company, the J. N. Whitner Co., Lord's Jewelry Store, now McClain's Jewelry Store, Sanford Loan and Trust Company, Bank, W. T. Deane's Furniture Store, T. J. Miller & Son, the Fibre Factory and others and then the fire.

"But the fire only cleared away the old wooden buildings and Sanford arose in brick. In February 1838 was held a county fair which was attended by President and Mrs. Cleveland, Emma Abbott was engaged to sing at the "Old Opera House" under a guarantee of $5,000 for one performance. The fair was a great success and Orange county contained a happy and contented people. Humanity held out a reasonable prospect of large demand for their products, as the national population increased and became educated to their use, with assurance that a profitable culture of citrus fruits was necessarily limited to South Florida.

"A possible recurrence of such weather as had frozen orange trees in 1836 gave them little concern, being counted the one liability to disaster, against many in other business enterprises. Thus, buoyant with hope, their contentment expressed satisfaction for the present and bright anticipation for the future, when, lo! the great freeze of Feb. 1835 came. Terrible indeed were the consequences. Within three days the main occupation and source of supply of three-fourths of the people of the state had been swept away. From necessity many people left the state, and to those who remained many hardships and privations ensued. While a terrible calamity at the time, it was a blessing in disguise to the state, for up to that time most of the population was engaged in the raising of citrus fruits and with this gone, at least for a time, they were compelled to turn to other methods of livelihood.

"Here in Seminole was perfected the wonderful system of sub-irrigation and drainage. This coupled with the natural facilities of the water protection from the northwest, the artesian wells and the hardpan, has made Sanford the largest vegetable shipping point in the world. On Apr. 13, 1913, the Florida legislature, through the efforts of Mr. Forrest Lake and others, passed the bill which again divided Orange county and our Seminole county was formed. Today Sanford has grown until Mellonville is within the corporate limits and will be only a short time before Fort Reed will be included and a larger and still better city will arise."

Two Kinds Of Motorists

From everywhere in the country comes word of the increase in automobile travel. Hundreds of thousands of people are dashing here and yon—especially "yon"—on their quest for a summer vacation trip. And it is that word "quest" which offers a nucleus for a few paragraphs regarding the benefits of these summer trips.

There are two kinds of motorists. The one has in mind getting somewhere; the other makes the trip part of the pleasure of the vacation time. The first one goes tearing along the road, taking all sorts of risks, seeing nothing of the country through which he is passing, his sole idea being to get to his destination. And when he reaches his destination he presumably has the summer pleasures he went after so strenuously.

The other motorist travels along as the spirit moves him. He gets all the enjoyment possible out of the trip itself. He stops at comfortable hotels en route. He takes little side trips to points of interest. He has all sorts of interesting experiences on the way to the place he has selected for his summer's vacationing. And even though he has used up many days on the road, he usually feels amply repaid for them in the memories he has stored away.

Of these two kinds of motorists you are privileged to make your choice. You may prefer to be included in the numbers that think an automobile is merely a contraption to get you somewhere. You may derive your best pleasure from forcing your car to its utmost endeavor; and are still in that youthful-minded class who like to boast of the distance you made in a minimum number of hours.

But the other class will smile to themselves and think their way is best. The motorist of the leisurely kind will speed his car to get to a good hotel before nightfall, so he can have his choice of accommodations. He will speed through uninteresting country, and loaf along through sections that please him. It all depends upon what a summer vacation is supposed to be, and what is the best way to get the most out of the motor trip which nowadays heads the list of summer vacation methods.

From one small town in Kentucky twenty families that have never made a practice of going away in the summer have set out in various directions in their flivvers and their heavier cars to see the United States. Some of those travelers will dash along the roads, trying to get somewhere and will see nothing as they go. Some of them will not go far in miles but will travel around the world and back again in the richness of their experiences.

This surely does make an interesting "nucleus" for automobile talk without a doubt. If you happen to go some place in your car this summer, take stock of the various type of travelers. Some of them set their faces in funny grim lines, hand on to their steering wheels with taut muscles, and go hell-bent, lickety-split along the highways, endangering other people's, as well as their own, lives. And a day ahead of their schedule reach their destination where they put in their stated vacation weeks, and then set out for home, hell-bent, lickety split!

And on the highways in the United States today are hundreds of thousands of motorists who can pretty well be classified in one group or the other, with extremes in each that are equally failing to get what they could get out of their summer trips. There's a whole lot, however, in viewpoint.

"The Boy Sitting Next To Willie"

That old story of the fond mother who entrusted her little boy, Willie, to the school teacher with the injunction, "If Willie is naughty, just whip the little boy next to him, and it will frighten Willie into perfect obedience" is often recalled. There are fond mothers in Sanford who are rearing their children on the principal that the neighbor children are the ones that should be punished for the sins of their "Willies," or "Marys" as the case may be.

Children are often forbidden to play with certain children because those alleged naughty children corrupt their morals and their manners, when six times out of a dozen, there is just as much danger of the alleged good children corrupting their playmates, as the other way around.

Perhaps the greatest need is that sense of universal parentage which now and then is found in the hearts of fine men and women. A good mother should feel keen interest in the welfare of the children in her neighborhood. She should want them to be healthy, happy youngsters, quite good enough for her children to play with. She should be more on the alert to see that her children bring no harm to other boys and girls, than she is watchful of the harm that other children might bring to her own family.

Too often the selfishness that directs a mother to look after her own boys and girls to the exclusion of other people's children is the selfishness that is found reflected in unadmirable characteristics that will linger throughout her children's lives. The little prig who is taught to consider himself better than the boys across the street is often possessed of detestable traits of character—traits that are vastly more deplorable than the temporary "badness" of the ill-mannered, rough-and-tumble youngster with whom he is forbidden to play.

The mother who is big enough to make a place in her heart for all children seldom has to worry about her own children going wrong. Her home is a rendezvous for merry youngsters, and there she deals with them on that fair and square basis that every honest boy and girl admires, and is willing to abide by.

Poor little "Willie" being taught the problems of life by a mother who could ask if an innocent child be punished for his sins has many a counterpart in this world. Even in Sanford there are parents who are working grave injury upon the characters of their children under just such idiotic conceptions of love and devotion!

SHAME ON THE man of cultivated taste who permits refinement to develop into a fastidiousness that unfits him for doing the rough work of a workaday world. Among the free peoples who govern themselves there is only a small field of usefulness open for the men of cloistered life who shrink from contact with their fellows. Still less room is there for those who deride or slight what is done by those who actually bear the brunt of the bay; not yet for those others who always profess that they would like to take action is only the conditions of life were not what they actually are.—Theodore Roosevelt.

MY FAVORITE STORIES

BY IRVIN S. COBB

Over in France the average doughboy had a gorgeous confidence in his ability to speak the language of the country. In a Norman village, one day a perplexed looking private, who had not been abroad very long, approached a seasoned campaigner of the A. E. F. and asked the latter if he spoke French. "Sure I speak French," said the veteran. "What's the matter?" "Here's what's the matter," said the green soldier. "The Frog that keeps that shop yonder across the street sold me some post cards, and I gave him a ten franc note, and now he's holding out part of my money on me. I wish you'd come on over there with me and straighten the thing out and make that guy hand me what's coming to me." "Sure I will," said the other. Moved by compassion, a friend of mine trailed behind them, arriving just in time to hear the following dialogue between the linguist and the storekeeper. "Parlez vous Francais?" "Oui, oui, monsieur." "Then, why the hell don't you give this here boy his right change?"

The Romanoff Jewels. Manna at 9 to 1. Ford's New Plan. $250,000,000 a Year. By ARTHUR BRISBANE (Copyright 1925)

TO PROVE its solvency the Soviet Government invited all foreign representatives to inspect the $500,000,000 Romanoff jewel collection, still intact. The envoys, having carefully studied the piles of diamonds, pearls, rubies, gold and platinum, are supposed to have said, like Mr. Warfield at Weber and Fields: "My boy, your WORD is sufficient."

BOLSHEVISM keeps the jewels, including a miniature railroad train, studded with big diamonds, as a horrible example and proof of Romanoff extravagance. BUT IT'S what the Czars DID that counts, not what they spent. The great Peter spent all that Russia had and borrowed more. But he CREATED RUSSIA and was a first-class investment.

MANNA WON the Derby at 9 to 1. Steve Donoghue rode the horse, winning his sixth Derby. All that means more to seventy per cent of Great Britain's population than all the other news of the week put together. In this country we don't devote such intense nation-wide interest to any race. We save that for a prize fight.

HENRY FORD will use United States ships, if he gets them, to take cars South and around into the Gulf of Mexico and bring fruit and vegetables back to the North. That programme would be welcomed by millions. It would help to solve one problem of distribution and develop the great producing regions of the South as they should be developed.

Henry Ford's route, of course, should be extended through the Panama Canal to the West Coast. That would not please transcontinental railroads, but they could make it up somehow. LORD BRADBURY, formerly British member of the Reparations Commission, says France could pay $250,000,000 a year on account of her debts, to be divided between England and the United States, and that regardless of the amount France may receive from Germany.

FRENCH STATESMEN, who know more about France's financial position than any Englishman can know, declare such payment is impossible. At the present rate of exchange, $250,000,000 would be five thousand million francs a year, which is the amount took as the price of French defeat in 1870.

The worst feature of the discussion is the fall in the French franc. AMUNDSEN HAS been missing six days and the President expresses willingness to send one of our dirigibles to look for him. If disaster has happened to the courageous explorer, it is probably too late now to save them. Looking for human beings painfully climbing over ice hummocks near the pole would be like hunting a half dozen ants in a big hay field. But, at least, the nation can try.

CONGRESSMAN FISH, from New York thinks the President ought to prosecute Otto H. Kahn, reported in Paris to have said things about the American "debt note" displeasing to the Administration. Congressman Fish means well, probably. Mr. Kahn also, and as to prosecuting Kahn, there is a paragraph in the Constitution about free speech that perhaps would interfere with that.

THE AMERICAN Medical Association, holding its 76th annual convention, decides that alcohol is essential in the treatment of diseases and that doctors should be allowed to prescribe for patients as much as they choose. Many citizens feel that same way, but would like to do their own prescribing. But prohibition enthusiasts, sincere and determined have different views. And it won't be easy to change those views.

MESSRS. FALL, Doherty and Sinclair have been re-indicted for conspiracy by a Grand Jury in the District of Columbia. If you find anybody anxious to bet that Mr. Fall will go to jail for selling the people's oil lands and taking secret payment for the sale TAKE THE BET. We don't jail the really big criminals in this country. Little criminals, yes. It's a dangerous country for them, if they're caught.

JUST IN PASSING BY R. J. HOLLY

Several people have been discussing the half holiday on Saturday afternoons instead of Thursday and it seems to appeal to the majority of the employees and employers. Why not try it for three months this summer and see how it works?

Some of my friends in the rural districts said they would be lost if they could not come down to the city on Saturday nights to shop. They could do all their shopping Friday nights and then have Saturday night for the theater and for cold drinks, etc. Closing Saturday at noon would not mean that every place in Sanford would be shut up entirely.

Many stores would adopt the policy of allowing the clerks to take turn about on Saturday afternoons—such stores as drug stores and cold drinks and cafes for instance—and they would be open just the same as they are now on Thursday afternoons. Closing Saturday afternoon would not be different from closing on Thursday. It would only be on a different afternoon.

Sanford is getting a lot of good advertising from the Florida State League from the very fact that a city of this size has enough pep to support a team. And in supporting the team not enough business men are interested in this project. A ball team means business in all lines and just a few of the business men should not be called upon to do it all. Of course a few of us are soft enough to give it all but we get tired at times.

Every team in the Florida League cannot be a winning team and just because we happen to be the cellar chumps just now is no reason for laying down on the job. I get just as much kick out of our team when they are tail enders as I would if they were down in front. Certainly they are playing good ball even if they do have their off days. None of us are perfect all the time, if you know my meaning.

Riley Fletcher Berry, one of the most prominent and one of the best writers in the state is making the Florida Trucker popular with thousands of readers all over the south. Some of the Sanford folks could subscribe for the Trucker and help it along. It is published here and is doing a lot for this community as well as the rest of the state.

If you have not already given your bit for the American Legion Endowment Fund you should give it today. Never mind what you think about the government doing this and that, what I think about the government would not look well in print but that does not help the maimed soldiers and their families just now when they need help. We have been depending upon the government for this held and they have failed and meantime these soldiers and their families are suffering. Don't forget that.

Memorial Day today and our flags are out denoting this event that means so much in the memories of those men who fought in the various wars and so little to those who never went forth to do their duty to God and country. How easy it is to forget about the men who have really done something in their time and how easy it is to remember about those men who have done nothing but get all the emoluments in this life.

I am not going anywhere this summer except to take a few side trips for a few weeks at a time. Sanford is too busy for me to leave and then it is so delightful here all during the summer months that I would be foolish to try for a better place in which to spend the summer. So you will find me and many other whiling away a half holiday on our beautiful lakes in and around Sanford all this summer.

Again it will be profitable for our people to stay here this summer and rake in some of the shekels that will be made here in real estate. There are more people just now buying real estate than there were all winter. This sounds strange but it is true and there will be twice as many people here during the balance of the summer as there are now and they are buying Sanford property. Why go away?

Maybe you do not care for a band, maybe you do not think it has its place in the community but I really believe that a city without a good band is a dead city. You cannot have much life, you cannot have a celebration, you cannot have a real ball game without a good band and our concerts are enjoyed by everyone—even by those who have never given a cent to the band. So for my part I want to say that our band should be an integral part of the city and we should have it all the time.

"DAISY BANQUET" IS GIVEN FRIDAY NIGHT BY ENGINEER BROTHERHOOD AND INTERNATIONAL AUXILIARY

At the Woman's Club Friday evening the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and the Grand International Auxiliary held their annual banquet celebrating their twentieth anniversary with a "Daisy Banquet."

The attractive club auditorium was never lovelier. The balcony rail and mantel were entwined with fern and great baskets of daisies were placed about the room in artistic arrangement.

Each of the tables was centered by a crystal basket filled with daisies and fern, with a bit of yellow tulle tied to the handles. Upon the stage a small locomotive painted by Byron Stevens and bearing number 954 of William Shelby's engine, was placed, honoring the member whose service has covered the greater number of years.

Mrs. Minark received the guests at the door and Mrs. L. M. Telford had charge of the register. Receiving were: Mrs. Alfred Lilla, president; Mrs. Fannie McConnell, past president; William Shellie, past chief and J. C. Aycock, chief.

When the guests had assembled John Courier, Jr., George Moyer and G. C. Goddard, Jr., of Lakeland, came upon the stage and blew a loud blast from a whistle and announced the banquet served.

Ten dainty little costumed maidens, who are daughters of engineers, served the delicious banquet which was thoroughly enjoyed by the 150 present. Many original songs and impromptu speeches were given during the meal. The Mero Orchestra gave a delightful program during the banquet. The following splendid program was given:

Response to welcome address was given by B. F. Shelly. Short but interesting talks were given by T. L. Dumas, H. R. Stevens, W. S. Parker, Mrs. W. L. Barber and W. G. Hodges.

Toasts were given by Mrs. L. M. Telford and Mrs. M. E. Moyer. Mrs. Robert Glenn rendered a beautiful solo.

Twelve small daughters of engineers in daisy costumes gave a beautiful drill and dance and Arline Goddard delighted the audience with a reading. John and Pete Schirard gave a splendid cornet duet. R. E. Griffin gave a much enjoyed reading.

A fancy drill was given by the G. L. A. ladies in costume. Following this Mrs. Fannie McConnell, past president, brought in a great bowl of punch on a daisy banked tea cart. She was followed by Mrs. M. Minark, bearing the lighted candles as the symbol of the "light of truth." Mrs. Alfred Lilla came next with a tea cart upon which was placed a birthday cake of many tiers with four tiny candles. Arranged about the cake were tall lighted tapers placed to represent the star and crescent, which compose the emblems of the organization.

After the cake was cut and punch was served, Mrs. Robert Glenn and Mrs. Middleton sang, "The End of a Perfect Day" and the entire assemblage sang the parting song, "Goodnight."

Much credit is due Mrs. Lilla, president, Mrs. Robert Howell, chairman of refreshments, Mrs. L. M. Telford, chairman of decorations and Mrs. M. Minark, chairman of the program and for the splendid meeting which was perfect in every detail.

The smaller details in the table decorations were also in green and gold.

The hostess served hot waffles, chicken sandwiches, ice cream and cake to the following young ladies: Miss Dorothy Mero, Miss Olive Russell, Miss Nan Paxton, Miss Carol Stone, Miss Gertrude Bunge, Miss Laura Lehman and Mrs. W. T. Brumley.

For The Kiddies OUR ICE CREAM

When the guests had assembled John Courier, Jr., George Moyer and G. C. Goddard, Jr., of Lakeland, came upon the stage and blew a loud blast from a whistle and announced the banquet served.

The World Shall be Established

millions now living will never die

Shifting of governments has been the history of the world; and much suffering has resulted from the thoughtless unconcern of Powers — jealous craft, plotting for control of the world.

Professions of peace are now rampant, plans are afloat promising stability. Yet there comes to light a ceaseless, untiring working to create weapons of destruction—aircraft, poison gas, cruisers, bombs, liquid fire.

Designs against neighbor nations, which are really plans of annihilation, lack the promise of stability. Yet the prophecies revealing present tendencies show that peace, permanent peace, will follow the confusion, distress and reeling perplexity of our world.

CELERYMEN DROP DOUBLE BILL TO TAMPA SMOKERS

Visitors Win First By Bunching Hits, and Second by Taking Advantage of Errors Piled Up by Locals

Lady Luck must have thought that winning a 14-inning game on Thursday was enough for Nish Carter's Celery Feds, for yesterday afternoon the mix was "sitting pretty" on Sanford's shoulder and both games of the double header were dropped to the Smokers, the first by a score of 3 to 1 and the second, which went only seven innings by a score of 2 to 0.

In the final game Cusack pitched an almost perfect game, allowing only one hit and passing only one batter to first. Errors paved the way to both scores of Tampa. In the second, Weik got two bases on an error at third base and then stolen third; Huggins went out; Cooper walked and Snead went out to right field; Pittman, who was running for Weik scoring on the out. Jessmer was safe at first on Cusack's error, but was thrown out at second. In the fifth inning Estrada made two bases on error of Cusack and scored on a single by Huggins.

In the first game Snowden allowed 11 hits and four of these were bunched in the second inning for two runs and in the third inning a double and a single were responsible for another score for the Smokers. With the exception of these two innings Snowden kept the hits well scattered and was steady in pulling himself out of holes. In the fifth inning with a man on third and no outs, he retired three Smokers in a row.

Sanford's lone run for the two games was made in the fourth inning of the first when Abell hit for two bases and scored on a single by Bailey.

Cooper, who pitched both games for the Smokers yielded 10 hits during the sixteen innings he worked, five in each of the two games.

CHAMPS WIN 7 TO 3 FROM BOSTON BY FAST PLAYING

Morgridge is Given Perfect Support; Athletics Take One From Yankees 6 to 4; Detroit Defeats Chicago

WASHINGTON, May 30.—Turning in five double plays the Senators' infield provided air tight support yesterday behind steady pitching by Morgridge and the champions took the first game of the series with the Boston Red Sox, 7 to 3. Boston made a belated rally in the ninth to score two runs but Morgridge had enough in reserve to shut off their last bid.

Score by innings: Boston 010 000 002—3 10-3; Washington 023 101 00x—7-12-0. Batteries: Zollmer, Ross, Fuhr and Pleinich; Morgridge and Ruel.

PHILADELPHIA, May 30.—Wanninger's error in the eighth inning yesterday paved the way for two Philadelphia runs that broke a 4 to 1 deadlock and gave the Athletics a victory over the Yankees, 6 to 4. The clubs were scheduled to play a double header but rain caused the postponement of the second game.

Score by innings: New York 000 130 000—4-10-1; Philadelphia 030 010 020—6-10-0. Batteries: Hoyt and Schanz; Rohmel and Cochrane.

PITCHER INJURED CHICAGO, May 30.—Detroit defeated Chicago, 13 to 9, in a slug-fest match here yesterday. Cobb's strategy almost cost him the services of one of his pitchers, when he removed Daines in favor of a pinch hitter and then sent Johnson to the mound. Johnson was hit hard, and before he retired the side in the ninth inning, was knocked out by a line drive off Felt's bat. He was removed to a hospital. Barrett's home run with two on base was a feature.

Score by innings: Detroit 010 161 001—13-22-1; Chicago 010 300 005—9-14-1. Batteries: Johnson, Cole, Daines and Woodhall and Bassler.

BROWNS BEAT INDIANS ST. LOUIS, May 30.—The St. Louis Browns beat the Cleveland Indians by winning yesterday, 7 to 4, in the final game of the series. George Siler got three hits, including a triple in the fourth inning, which scored two men.

Score by innings: Cleveland 201 100 000—4-9-1; St. Louis 001 310 208—7-13-0. Batteries: Roy, Miller and Myatt; Davis, Gaston and Severied.

LAKELAND SPLITS DOUBLE BILL ON ITS HOME GROUND

Five Inning Game Protested By Saints Manager; First Contest Went Eleven Innings, Two and Half Hours

LAKELAND, May 30.—The Highlanders dropped the first of a double header, 6-5, and won the second here yesterday. The first game was a two hour and a half battle which went eleven innings, while the second was called in the fifth because of darkness, with the Highlanders on the elong end of a 4 to 2 score. Manager Block protested the second game after it was over, due to the fact that it was in the sixth when called with Lakeland at bat.

BILIOUSNESS

Retired Minister Tells How He Keeps in Good Form With the Assistance of Black-Draught.

West Graham, Va.—The Rev. Lewis Evans, a well-known retired minister, now past 80, living here, has a high opinion of Black-Draught, which he says he has taken when needed, for 25 years. "For years I had been suffering with my liver," he says. "Sometimes the pain would be very intense and my back would hurt all the time. Black-Draught was the first thing I found that would give me any relief. My liver has always been sluggish. Sometimes it gives me a lot of trouble. I have suffered a lot with it—pain in my side and back, and bad headache, caused from extreme biliousness. "After I found Black-Draught, I would begin to take it as soon as I felt a spell coming on and it relieved the cause at once. I can recommend it to anybody suffering from liver trouble. A dose or two now and then keeps me in good form."

Made from selected medicinal roots and herbs, and containing no dangerous mineral drugs, Black-Draught is nature's own remedy for a tired, lazy liver. NC-169

Reading Character

HOW, ED. WALTHAM, Secretary Hudson Essex Co., Sanford, Fla.

Dear Ed: You've heard the old story of the farmer who drove to town and left his boy in the wagon while he peddled the apples. "Now, don't open your mouth, son," he warned, "and nobody will find out you're a fooler."

While the father was away a man came up to the wagon and asked the boy the price of the apples. Remembering the admonition of his father, the boy made no reply. Again the man asked, and again the boy was silent.

"Fool," you are a fool," the provoked man said as he strode away. "Pat" the boy told his father when he returned, "I didn't say a word and a man found out I was a fooler!"

In these modern days there are many ways to judge character—by what you say, by what you don't say, and even by what you write. Some experts claim they can tell the kind of person you are by your handwriting. Is soon as I heard that I began to use a typewriter and sign my name with a rubber stamp.

Yes, Ed, these handwriting experts claim they can tell by the way you do your job whether your favorite is the kind of man you are. The way you cross your legs plainly tells them whether you prefer your Scotch or your Irish whisky. And the loops of your letters, above and below the line, indicate whether you can tell the truth in a high-class trial or whether it would require six.

These things are getting too stuffy for me. An expert can analyze your tracks in the mud and tell what you had on your mind. The shape of your nose, the curve of your forehead, the bulge or cove of your nose—every little feature has a meaning in the high-class trial or whether it would require six.

Our inner selves are so completely disclosed in the modern character study that the claim of a bathing girl in a beauty contest, and I know that's some complete.

Seriously though, Ed, there must be something to all this. I know you can tell a whole lot about a man by the kind of automobile he drives. If he drives an Essex coach you can bet your bottom dollar he's got a high-class, hard common sense, with a highly developed appreciation of values and of sex appeal.

Yours, Ed
