Risky Landing Didn't Bother Skipper One Bit

HOMESTEAD AFB (UPI) — Capt. James K. Frank had never landed a jet bomber with crippled wheels before but he said he wasn't nervous at all when he brought a B-47 Stratofortress safely down Wednesday with the wheels only partially lowered.

The landing, without damage to the plane or injury to the three-man crew, ended a nine-hour circle over while the crewmen worked vainly to try to fix a balky landing gear that refused to lower the wheel completely. The B-47 was refueled four times in the air by KC-97 "Flying Gas Stations." Under such care, a Strategic Air Command spokesman said the plane could have stayed up "indefinitely."

Frank, 37, a native of Pittsburgh and a veteran of 11 years in the Air Force, said he wasn't bothered by the risky landing.

Business Briefs

All Setzer and Food Fair supermarkets in southern Georgia, northwest and central Florida began giving Merchants Green trading stamps with purchases Wednesday.

This was announced jointly by Samuel Miller, Executive Vice President of the Setzer's Division of Food Fair Stores, Inc., and Robert E. J. Sanders, Vice President and General Manager of the Merchants Green Trading Stamp Company.

One stamp will be given free with every ten-cent purchase in the supermarkets, it was pointed out. Handy saver books and new color-illustrated gift books will be given to shoppers.

Three modern gift centers are planned in the Jacksonville, Florida area as well as one gift center each in Daytona and Orlando. The Merchants Green Stamp Company will establish gift desks in twenty-three Food Fair and Setzer's Stores to allow customers to redeem their stamps right where they shop. Merchants Green is the nation's fifth largest stamp company and has thousands of stores and other outlets distributing its stamps from Key West, Florida up to Westerly, Rhode Island.

At the same time, Sanders noted that many other merchants throughout the area also will be giving Merchants Green stamps with purchases. This is being done, he explained, so that savers "can quickly and easily accumulate the stamps through the purchase of their every-day needs."

Merchants Green recently announced a plan designed to help churches, schools, clubs, and local service organizations obtain any item through "pooling" of the members' stamps. Such items as school buses, church organ, hospital equipment, or anything not ordinarily listed in redemption catalogs, now can be obtained through a group savings plan.

According to Miller, Merchants Green stamps are being introduced in the Setzer and Food Fair supermarkets as an "added bonus" to shoppers.

"We are happy to add this extra service," said Miller, "for our many loyal customers. The saving of Merchants Green stamps will now enable them to add many useful and valuable items to their households—at no extra cost to them."

WELCOME WAGON

sure-footedness of a Texas quarter horse.

But after a six-state Western campaign swing, Johnson still is withholding an announcement of his candidacy.

There is at least a good chance he will say nothing formally about being a candidate until just before the Democratic convention opens in Los Angeles on July 11—if then.

The Texas Democrat returned to the Senate late Wednesday, tired from his six-day Western trip but obviously pleased with what he found.

During his absence, his presidential hopes were given a lift by two developments.

One was a full-page advertisement carried in 18 major newspapers across the country, urging Johnson to "become an active candidate for the nomination."

The other was an editorial endorsement by the Scripps Howard newspapers, whose 19 editors joined in calling him the "ablest and strongest Democrat available" for the presidency.

Johnson is known to feel that the delegate claims of the Democratic presidential "front-runner," Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.), are somewhat inflated.

Collins, Smathers Loom As Possible VP Hopefuls

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Only Florida, among all the states, can assure its three political leaders that they will get into the act and in front of the television cameras at the national Democratic convention.

Of the three, Gov. LeRoy Collins will have the most important role, the convention post of permanent chairman. He was chosen last week by the Democratic National Committee.

Sens. George A. Smathers and Spessard L. Holland currently are assigned to minor roles at the convention but in Smathers' case, this could change as the convention moves along.

Smathers will go to the Los Angeles convention as the state's "favorite son" candidate.

Present plans call for him to release the delegation without instructions after the first ballot. However, he probably will endorse Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (Tex.) and try to take the entire delegation with him into Johnson's camp. Most of the Florida delegates, including Holland, are favorable to Johnson.

Holland has been assigned (two bit parts). The senior senator will place Smathers' name in nomination and will be a member of the platform committee, as he was in 1956. He can be expected to do all he can to limit any civil rights provisions of the platform.

Smathers and Collins could become even more prominent in the convention once the presidential nominee is selected and the Democrats start looking around for a running-mate. This would be true, however, only if the convention wants someone from the South as it did in 1952 and 1956. Both Collins and Smathers have been mentioned frequently as possible vice presidential candidates, although Collins may have lost some favor with Southern delegates because of his moderate stand on the racial issue. His own state last week picked a strong segregationist, Farris Bryant, over a Collins-endorsed moderate Doyle E. Carlton Jr.

Runaway Brothers Die In Fiery Plane Crash

POMONA, Calif. (UPI) — Two runaway brothers aged 12 and 14 were killed early today when a light plane they apparently stole crashed and burned in a school playground.

The single-engine plane, its engine going full-blast, smashed into the ground at Emerson Junior High School in the heart of a thickly populated residential area in this Los Angeles suburb.

The victims were identified by their parents as Thomas McDonald, 12, and his brother, James,

14. Both boys had run away from their home Monday.

Both of the brothers were in love with flying, friends said. They had attempted to steal a plane several weeks ago but were caught, police said.

Found in the charred wreckage of the Tri-Pacer four-seat craft was the body of the brothers' pet dog.

"Some people said the plane was on fire before it hit the ground," said policeman Joe De Moss. "It landed just between the school and about 100 yards from homes."

De Moss said the plane hit with such impact that its wings flattened out, the engine crumpled like an accordion and only the back part of the craft's fuselage and tail were left standing straight up.

Fire spread rapidly through the light plane. Spectators managed to pull the body of one of the brothers out of the flaming wreckage but were unable to get to the other body before the fire was put out.

"Both boys must have been dead even before the flames hit them," said De Moss. "One boy's wristwatch was stopped at 10:10, the time of the crash."

Water Control Meet Scheduled

The Water Resources and Control Committee of the Florida State Chamber of Commerce meets in Orlando June 16 for an all-day conference on Florida's water problems, it was announced today. Harold Cole, executive vice president of the State Chamber, said one of the principal topics of discussion will be the need for new regulations and legislation pertaining to water control and conservation.

Representatives from the U. S. Corps of Engineers, State Department of Water Resources, State Game and Fresh Water Commission, State Legislature, State Department of Conservation and other groups will take part in the session at the Cherry Plaza Hotel. Cole said both state and regional water problems will be explored and an effort will be made to identify the water sheds which relate to conservation and control.

Buried Treasure

HICKSVILLE, N. Y. (UPI)—Steve Fox is counting the days—1,095 of them to be exact.

It will be that long until he can claim legally a buried treasure he uncovered with his bulldozer.

Fox, 40, of Hicksville, was clearing brush and wood from a three-acre plot Thursday when his dozer's blade clunked against a metal ammunition box.

The cover of the metal container popped open and revealed paper and plastic wrapped bundles. Fox climbed down, opened one and found a stack of U. S. currency. He promptly telephoned Arthur Skodnek, of Northport, owner of the plot, and told him of the discovery. Skodnek told Fox to notify Nassau County police.

It took a detective more than two hours to count the money at the police station, because $70,000 makes a big pile of $10, $20, $50, and $100 bills. Police estimated the money had been buried for three years. Serial numbers of the bills were sent to authorities throughout the nation to see if there was any record of the disappearance of such a large sum of money.

DONALD MAX JOYCE, Sanford, was a recent graduate of North Carolina State College in Raleigh, N. C. He graduated with honors from the school of textile engineering.

Japanese Leftist Students Stage New Anti-Western Demonstration

TOKYO (UPI) — More than 2,000 leftist students demonstrated against the U. S.-Japan security treaty stormed inside the gates of Premier Nobusuke Kishi's residence today and smashed four police riot trucks before being beaten back.

The pro-Western Premier was not in his residence when the demonstrators surged past 500 policemen, urged on by fanatical leaders who ordered them to hold a protest meeting inside Kishi's house.

The policemen did not resist the first student charge, but they fought back with clubs when the students attacked a second time. Eighty policemen were injured, five seriously, and student casualties were believed at least as high.

The students, members of the extreme leftist Zengakuren group, seized the police trucks and pounded them into wreckage.

The trucks were part of a formation of 20 guarding Kishi's house. Students tied ropes on two of the trucks and jerked them into the street. They swarmed over them, smashing windows and metal panels and pouring sand and dirt into the engines.

The students then returned and seized two more trucks. The wrecking process was repeated, but this time police charged.

Students swung thick sticks studded with nails. Policemen fought them with truncheons. Rocks flew through the air, some of them striking other students instead of the police.

One demonstrator was hit in the face by a stone thrown by one of his classmates. His nose was smashed. His glasses were shattered. He gasped blindly at his bloody eyes and cried loudly.

Nearby, a policeman and a student fought on top of one of the trucks. They fell together to the pavement and were trampled by the crowd.

"Kill Kishi, kill Kishi," some of the demonstrators chanted.

Collins Favors Spending Limit

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Gov. LeRoy Collins has thrown his support to a plan to limit campaign spending.

Collins said the recent governor's campaign, in which the top two candidates spent far more than the other eight, "points up a need for limitation."

Collins said he agrees with the suggestion by Sen. Scott Kelly of Lakeland that any limitation be flexible and set on a basis of population. He said he does not agree with a proposal that forfeiture of office be the penalty for failing to comply with the limit.

Collins suggested that a board of circuit judges could be appointed to set limitations on spending, hear complaints and punish offenders.

Tougher Task Ahead For Ingo

GROSSINGER, N. Y. (UPI) — Edwin Ahlquist, advisor to heavyweight champion Ingemar Johansson, said today it may take Ingo "a little longer" to beat Floyd Patterson in their return match June 20, at the Polo Grounds.

"I hear Ingemar is in good shape and if that's so he should win," said Ahlquist, after arriving from Sweden. "But I think the fight will go a little longer this time."

Ahlquist said there is plenty of excitement in Europe over the forthcoming bout and noted that ex-heavyweight champion Joe Louis' role as advisor to Patterson "was of interest to all of us."

"We think Patterson might need the help," Ahlquist commented.

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—John Roach, 64, 193-pound former SMU star, has signed his 1960 contract, the St. Louis football Cardinals announced Thursday.

CHARLESTON, S. C. (UPI) — The Cleveland Indians have signed Tyrone Cline, a star pitcher and outfielder at Clemson College, to a bonus contract. Cline, 21, will join the Mobile club of the Class AA Southern Assn. June 8.

Other children will line up on the parking lot behind the educational building and form two lines for the procession march into the auditorium for the joint-worship period.

The school will be conducted each day, Monday through Friday, for three hours from 9 to 12 noon. The Commencement program will be in the church auditorium on June 19, at 7:30 p. m. The school will be financed by the First Baptist Church, and the daily missionary offering made by the children will go entirely to missionary causes.

Close Friends Plan Quiet Rites For Hitler's Sister

BERCHTESGADEN, Germany (UPI)—Frau Paula Wolf lived out her years quietly in a ramshackle house not far from Adolf Hitler's eagle's nest.

The currents of postwar German life passed her by. Germans denounced their Fuehrer and tried his aides for war crimes. Frau Wolf ignored their pliancy and clung to the pride she had felt for Hitler since girlhood.

Tourists and American soldiers climbed over the site of Hitler's mountain retreat and talked about the Nazi party meetings, the showdown talks with war-threatened nations, and the lavish banquets that took place there.

Frau Wolf could have given them first-hand impressions of the life in the eagle's nest. She was there, but no one bothered to visit her house near the Berchtesgaden railway station.

Only the townspeople and a few friends knew that the frail, grey-haired spinster was Hitler's sister. These friends today planned a quiet funeral for Paula Wolf, who died Wednesday at the age of 61 after a long fight with stomach cancer.

It was a characteristically unobtrusive end for a woman who lived in rented rooms while her brother rose to power.

MONTREAL (UPI) — The Montreal Alouettes of Canada's Big Four football league Thursday announced the signing of Curry Juneau, former Mississippi Southern defense end.

The church bus, driven by W. L. Harvey Jr., will be used to pick up children who wish to attend Vacation Bible School and have no other means of transportation. Happiness Through Health

Something Can Be Done For Asthma (By DR. F. LEO KERWIN)

There has been much study of the causes and cures of asthma but with little success until Chiropractic began to investigate this affliction. Asthma is a condition of excessive constriction of the bronchial tubes and congestion of the mucous membrane lining the tubes. It has been found that spinal irritation brings this condition about.

Chiropractic regulates and brings back to normal the nerve supply to the bronchial tubes by adjusting the spine where the nerve supplying this area is impaired.

One of a series of articles published in the public interest to explain and illustrate the practice of scientific Chiropractic, written by Dr. F. Leo Kerwin whose office is located at 201 S. French Ave. and his telephone number is FAirfax 2-7442.

Aluminum Foil Good For Cooking, Baking, Serving

By MYRTIE WILSON "If dishwashing is getting you down, one way to save on it is to cook, bake and serve in aluminum foil," says Bonnie B. McDonald, Assistant Economist in Food Conservation. Food cooked in aluminum foil is delicious and easy to do for a camping trip, meal in your patio, or on a picnic.

Vegetables, fruits and meats can be "pressure cooked" in their own juices this way with only a bit of bacon, butter, seasoning or shortening added for moisture and flavor.

Tips for best results: Use heavy duty foil. Wrap carefully with food in center. Add butter or fat (this is unnecessary if meat contains normal amount of fat) and seasonings. Fold edges until tight against food. Then double the layer around the food by repeating the process with another piece of foil, if ordinary foil is used. Place directly on a bed of hot coals. If bread is served, it may be buttered, wrapped in foil and placed where it can warm on edges of grill or in oven a few minutes before other foods finish cooking. Cooking time will vary, of course, with the type of firewood, wind strength and other factors. Serve directly from the wrap, doing away with a dish or plate.

Lilleboes Honored At Farewell Party

The lovely Grove Manor home of Mr. and Mrs. Laubach was the setting for a "Bon Voyage" party for Lcdr. and Mrs. M. L. Lilleboe. Co-hostesses were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bifney.

A yellow and lavender color theme was carried out in decoration, using arrangements of yellow mums, yellow candles in brass holders and fringed gold and white cloths on both the serving table and tea cart. Dainty and tasty delicacies, mints and coffee were served to the guests. Beverages and hors d'oeuvres were served prior to the dinner. Mrs. Lilleboe was charming in a blue dress with a yellow rose corsage, a gift of Mrs. Laubach.

PENTECOST SUNDAY

First Pentecostal Church Of Longwood, Florida
561 Orange Street

REV. E. RUTH GRANT, MINISTER

Acts 2:4 And when the day of PENTECOST was fully come, they were ALL filled with the HOLY GHOST, and began to speak with other tongues as the SPIRIT gave them utterance.

Acts 2:27-30 . . . when they heard this, they were pricked in their hearts and said unto Peter and the rest of the apostles, "Men and brethren, what shall we do?" . . . REPENT AND BE BAPTIZED, EVERY ONE OF YOU IN THE NAME OF JESUS CHRIST FOR THE REMISSION OF SINS, AND YE SHALL RECEIVE THE GIFT OF THE HOLY GHOST. For the PROMISE is UNTO YOU, and to YOUR CHILDREN and to ALL that are afar off, even AS MANY AS THE LORD OUR GOD SHALL CALL. Acts 5:32 And we are WITNESSES of these things; and so is the HOLY GHOST, whom God hath given to them that obey him.

Acts 10:45 . . . because that on the GENTILES also was poured out the gift of the HOLY GHOST. For they heard them SPEAK WITH TONGUES, AND MAGNIFY GOD.

Acts 1:5 JESUS said . . . but ye shall be BAPTIZED WITH THE HOLY GHOST . . . YE SHALL RECEIVE POWER AFTER THE HOLY GHOST is come upon you; and ye shall be witnesses unto ME . . . unto the uttermost part of the earth.

Kindergarten Graduation

The air was filled with gaiety, admiration and applause as parents, grandparents and friends watched the graduation exercises of the All Souls Kindergarten, held recently in the social hall of the Catholic Church.

The hall was decorated with white floral arrangements and graceful peach branches highlighted with handmade bird cages. The table holding the diplomas was centered with the statue of the Infant Jesus banked with fern and gardenias. The traditional graduation doll added a holiday spirit to the occasion. At the magical hour of ten, with glowing cheeks and sparkling eyes, the tiny graduates, wearing blue tasseled caps and white bows, marched two by two down the center aisle to the front of the hall.

"Miss Anne" (the teacher) led the class in an opening prayer and directed the program of quartet and group singing, square and folk dancing. Sweet voices filled the air and caps bounced as nimble feet kept time to the lively music of a polka; the dance of Hansel and Gretel and the old-fashioned square dance. Musical selections featured were "Good Morning," "Prayer Song," "The Frog," "Robins Return," "The Teapot Song," "The Irish Lullaby" and "Paradise."

Cameras clicked and applause was loud as the children proudly went forward to receive congratulations from Father Richard Lyons. As he presented the diplomas, tassels were quickly moved from left to right. The class presented Miss Anne Amann, teacher, with a pink rosebud corsage and a nosegay of gardenias. On behalf of the parents, Mrs. Brooke Smith and Mrs. Albert Poulter presented her with a black and sterling silver salad set and thanked her for her devotion, interest and work with their children. Those assisting were Mrs. Leo Zok, Mrs. S. Androsko, Mrs. William Elling, Mrs. D. Krug, Mrs. J. Dollar, Mrs. Edwin Ryan, Mrs. W. Mahany and Mrs. W. L. Roche.

Kennedy, Johnson Campaigns Get Big Demo Boost

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The presidential campaigns of Sens. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) and Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) each moved ahead an important notch today. But there was no real political surprise in either development.

Kennedy stepped up the pace of his front-running bid for the Democratic nomination with a glowing endorsement from Michigan Gov. G. Mennen Williams. Williams' declaration appeared to mean that Kennedy would go into the Los Angeles convention with most, if not all, of Michigan's 51 votes.

Johnson's late-starting presidential buildup took clearer shape with establishment of a Washington "Citizens-for-Johnson" headquarters. Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.), Johnson's chief mentor, forecast that the Senate leader would have "at least" 500 votes on the first convention ballot.

Williams issued his announcement for Kennedy after a conference with the young Democrat at Mackinac Island, Mich. In Washington, Sen. Philip A. Hart (D-Mich.) took notice of Williams' action and said: "I'm all for it."

Johnson, who just returned from a six-state western campaign tour but has painstakingly declined to make a formal announcement of his candidacy, said of Rayburn's announcement: "I think any man would be deeply touched by such an expression of confidence from respected and devoted friends."

LUCKY LENSMAN Henry Walt, loaded down with cameras, gadget bags, and meters seems quite overcome by this preview of pulchritude at Sarasota's Lido Beach Casino where the spectacular press, radio, and television picture and interview session of the Miss Florida Pageant of 1960 will be held. Actually, Henry personifies members of these public services who are invited to Sarasota's first annual "Press Safari," during Pageant week as guests of the Sarasota County Chamber of Commerce and the Miss Florida Pageant. Rockefeller Heads Toward Plains

NEW YORK (UPI)—New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller set out today for the Great Plains on a campaign swing that was intended to aid the election of a North Dakota Republican but could serve to stir interest in a presidential "draft" movement for himself.

The 51-year-old governor planned an all-out effort on behalf of Gov. John E. Davis, who seeks election to the U. S. Senate in a special June 28 election.

Rockefeller has scheduled a full day of "folksy" campaigning at Fargo, N. D., with a street tour, visits to shopping centers and two "live" television appearances designed to expose him to as many voters as possible.

The multi-millionaire told New York Republicans last week that he would accept the GOP presidential nomination if the July 23rd convention offered it to him. This announcement was seen as a means of showing off his "availability" for the top place on the ticket this November, while attempting to steer clear of any challenge to Vice President Richard M. Nixon that could draw resentment.

Rockefeller has recently conceded that the vice president is the "likely" GOP nominee, but has refused to endorse him and thus eliminate any chance of competition for the post.

In addition, Rockefeller argued, the interest of the general public could be diverted somewhat away from the Democrats by the "threat" of competition within Republican ranks.

Notice to RETAIL MERCHANTS
If you make installment sales, you should be licensed under the new Retail Installment Sales Act. Send your $5 license fee to Ray E. Green, State Comptroller, Tallahassee.

Many Violating License Laws

Sales of the licenses required since the first of the year of all retailers who make installment sales have been far below expectations, and it is now apparent that many merchants are unwittingly guilty of violating the law. Out of some 10,000 estimated to be subject to this particular provision, less than 2,500 have thus far applied for licenses, the state comptroller's office reported.

Florida's Retail Installment Sales Act was passed by the last Legislature, and became effective January 1. In addition to its licensing provision, it sets a limit of 10 percent per year on interest which may be charged on the principal balance, and requires contracts to contain certain features for the protection of the buyer. Willful violations of this law are punishable by fines of not exceeding $500, it was pointed out.

The department, at final oral arguments to determine what should be done about the scandal-tainted case, also asked the commission to throw out applications from WKAT Inc., and North Dade Video, Inc.

FUTURE FLORIDA BUSINESSWOMAN: Capers today...career tomorrow!

Today, it's a game of "hunt and peck"... tomorrow, a promising career. When this young lady is ready to take her place in Florida's business world of the future, what career will she choose?

Today, Florida businesswomen are engaged in hundreds of productive, interesting careers—in manufacturing, marketing, sales, advertising, design, aviation, agriculture—even politics. Practically no phase of Florida business is closed to women. Under our system of free enterprise, women are welcome in business and industry for their important contributions as employees, managers and owners.

But what about tomorrow? Will this girl be free to choose her own career? Or will she be a statistic in the files of some socialistic bureau...told where to work, how much she may earn, and when she may rest? She can have all the opportunities we have now, and more; but only if we preserve our system of free enterprise. It's the obligation of today's businesswomen and men to guard against socialistic trends in our government. Such trends are already hampering our record of progress under the free enterprise system which has raised our nation's productivity to the highest levels the world has ever known.

Just as free enterprise has helped American business and industry achieve record heights in productivity...so has it helped Florida Power & Light Company keep pace with Florida's rapid growth — building new plants, new substations, new lines to provide more and more electric service as fast today and in the future there will be more and more power available for HAPPIER FLORIDA LIVING...ELBETTERGALLY!

Repotting Helps Indoor Plants

When an indoor plant's foliage begins to turn yellow—particularly when it previously has been healthy, growing in the same environment it may need to be shifted to a larger pot.

If possible, do your repotting in the spring—the time most plants are most actively growing. With this vigor, they can recover more easily from the shock of being repotted.

Clay pots are best for growing house plants. They admit moisture and the vital aeration, through their porous walls.

Soak a pot 24 hours before you use it so that it won't harmfully absorb moisture from the soil around the plant's roots.

Give the soil mix just enough moisture to make it barely hold together when you try to ball it in your fist. This prevents soil packing too firmly in the pot.

Water when the potting operation is completed to settle the soil, and to insure that the soil particles will be in close contact with the roots.

Finally, set the repotted specimen in a shady place for a couple of days to prevent loss of moisture. That's all there is to repotting your house plants!

Summit Spectaculars May Have Become Too Big For Their Britches

By LYLE C. WILSON
WASHINGTON (UPI)—These summit meetings may have become, as the saying goes, too big for their britches.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon was saying earlier this week that the summit spectaculars are not for the United States. We should move away, Nixon suggested, from the kind of summit meeting Nikita S. Khrushchev has been promoting.

The vice president's idea was that the United States should move away from such flamboyantly staged affairs back toward the United Nations. Back, even, to the traditional methods of diplomacy when ambassadors represented nations abroad and heads of state remained at home.

The United States had its first and experience with summit spectaculars about 40 years ago when President Woodrow Wilson went to the Versailles peace conference to wind up World War I. Wilson was the greatest, most beloved man in the world when he arrived in Paris for that conference.

Our World War I allies—the British, the French and the Italians—did him in. The Versailles treaty laid some of the main foundation stones for World War II. There were no Russians at Versailles, so it could have been worse.

World War I and its aftermath made the American people isolationists. That is, they wanted to insulate themselves against the big bad world and live happily ever after behind the bulwarks of the Atlantic and Pacific. When President Harding's Ambassador George Harvey returned from his tour of duty in London, he summed up the isolationist point of view when newsmen asked him what should be U. S. policy toward troubled postwar Europe.

"Our policy should be," Harvey replied, "to stay at home. Let Europe stew in its own juices."

Summit conferences were resumed, however, in the Hoover administration, in a quiet, modest way not at all like the spectaculars which developed when FDR began getting together with Stalin, Churchill and, sometimes, Chiang Kai-shek.

The Hoover summit pattern was fixed on Oct. 6, 1929 when President Herbert Hoover sat down with Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain. They sat down on a log in a valley of the Blue Ridge Mountains of Virginia.

"On the 6th," Hoover wrote in his memoirs, "at Rapidan Camp we went down the creek and on a log threaded out the points as yet unsettled in the proposed naval agreement. We felt that Japan would go along, but we did not believe we could obtain the agreement of France or Italy."

It was as simple as that. Rapidan Camp was the 1929 Camp David. There was no press room, no radio, no telephone. The nearest newsmen, including your correspondent, were at Panorama Lodge a good 10 miles away. That summit conference could have exploded without shaking the world, or, even, disturbing the grubs on the underside of the conference log.

Neither President nor Prime Minister was seeking a propaganda loud speaker on the banks of Rapidan Creek that afternoon. What they were seeking was an end to the worldwide naval race which they and others feared would trigger World War II. Perhaps today's world leaders should go sit on a log.

Oviedo Church Improvements Set

A decorating committee of the First Baptist Church in Oviedo has made recommendations for improvements in the auditorium. New doors, paint and replacement of the choir railings are the desired projects. All of the old doors and railings will be sold on a bid basis. The church pews have also been recommended for replacement. The church wishes to do the entire auditorium in Colonial design.

Summer Vacation

The Longwood Civic League will not hold any more monthly meetings this season, Mrs. Garland Shaw, chairman said. The scheduled meeting will be held on the first Tuesday in October, she added.

Services Set

Holy Communion service will be held at the Longwood Christ Church Episcopal for the occasion of Whit Sunday, the day of Pentecost. The spring intergathering of the United Thank Offering will be received at the 9 a. m. service.

"HEY EVERYBODY, we can swim now!" This is the story behind the big smiles on the faces of these children who have just completed the Red Cross Water Safety Course at the Naval Air Station pool. The broadest smiles, however, belong to Mrs. Lily Buckler, rear row, left, and Mrs. Peg Horner, right, instructors of the "pint-sized" class, who are extremely proud of their young charges. The swimming course consisted of two weeks instruction at the NAS pool for the following members of the class; Robert Ashby, George Ackley,

Court Strips Monitors' Power

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U. S. Court of Appeals Thursday tentatively stripped part of the power from the chairman of the monitors' board set up to keep tabs on the Teamsters Union.

The action involved Martin F. O'Donoghue, whose removal has been sought by Teamster President James R. Hoffa and who has been seeking Hoffa's ouster from union office.

In a sharply divided 2-1 ruling, the court said District Judge F. Dickinson Letts gave O'Donoghue too much power to deal with the board's administrative affairs.

School Awards Presented By DAR

The annual awards given by the Daughters of the American Revolution have been presented by Mrs. F. E. Roumillat, representing the Sallie Harrison Chapter.

The awards are given for good citizenship and outstanding achievement in American History. At Seminole High School, the honors were given to Sandy Wood and Peggy Price. In the eighth grade department, Donna Beard was the winner.

Lyman High School students Jimmie Ozier and Carolyn Judy got the awards for history and good citizenship. Susan Stanko, of the eighth grade in Oviedo, was given both the history and citizenship awards.

Other winners were Jerry Culum, Pinecrest School and Patrick Nulty of All Souls School.

Star Is Reluctant

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Gov. Buford Ellington had a tough time proclaiming "Dairy Month" Tuesday when a prize-winning cow first refused to enter the Capitol elevator and then had to be scooted across the slick, marble floors to the governor's office.

Longwood Gets New Fire Alarm

The pull box fire alarm switch recently purchased for the Longwood area was installed Wednesday.

The switch will be located by the town's water tower, next to the railroad tracks.

"A red light which can be seen for more than 1,000 feet will rest on a high pole above the switch," Claudio Layo, fire chief said.

The light and the switch were installed for the convenience of the residents without the use of a telephone. Layo added.

Secretary Of Agriculture Branches Out To Become Movie Producer

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI)—I have a rather elastic imagination which usually stretches far enough to take in anything that might happen along Independence Avenue.

But for some reason, the vision of Ezra Taft Benson as a motion picture producer fails to come through to me.

Try as I might, I am unable to connect our good, grey agriculture secretary with anything as frivolous as the cinematographic arts.

Yet I have before me concrete evidence that Benson's department is in the movie business in a big, big way. The indications are that it outproduces most Hollywood studios and that Benson could be ranked as the Cecil B. DeMille, or at least the Walt Disney, of the Cabinet.

The department's activities in this field are set forth in Agriculture Handbook No. 14, a lavender colored document, titled "motion pictures." It lists 268 films that the department has produced for the edification and enlightenment of the public.

In line with the Hollywood formula of offering something for everybody, the films range from simple animated cartoons, such as "Adventures of Junior Ralldrop," to sweeping dramas, such as "The Rise and Fall of the Meddy."

The latter is described in the handbook as "a dramatic presentation of a successful all-out campaign to eradicate the Mediterranean fruit fly, the world's worst pest of citrus."

Anniversary Set At Pinecrest Church

Sunday is the third anniversary for the Pinecrest Baptist Church. The day will be celebrated with a dinner on the grounds after the worship service.

Special program of talks, worship and music will follow the dinner.

Everyone is invited to attend.

Church Outing

The Luther League of the Good Shepherd Church will have a monthly outing in Rock Springs this Saturday. Leaving the church at 9 a. m. the group will stay for lunch and a dinner.

For movie-goers who like the stark, realistic approach, I would recommend "Fungi Snare and Destroy Nematodes" which "demonstrates under the microscope how certain fungi catch and devour nematodes."

For sports fans, the department offers "Block that Termite" and for those seeking sex thrills it has "Transplanting Hen's Ova" and "Realm of the Honeybee."

All the films are available for private screenings and at the first opportunity I plan to invite a group of my friends in for a home showing of "Stubble Mulch Farming" and "Hay Is What You Make It."

It ought to be an enchanting evening. I wouldn't be surprised if Benson wins next year's academy award.

Job Opportunities Asked For New Graduates

The Sanford office of the Florida State Employment Service has asked consideration by local businesses of the talents of graduating seniors of the high schools.

The office manager, Mr. D. B. Hahn Jr., pointed out that many of the graduates will be looking for full time jobs and he urges that they be offered opportunities here at home so they will not have to seek employment elsewhere.

"If you are in a position to provide a job, remember our local youth. Remind your friends to look first in Seminole County when there are openings in their businesses for young people," Hahn asked in a Chamber of Commerce bulletin.

The Employment Service has applications for work from many youths who desire to stay in their home county and offers its services to businesses in interviewing and introducing aspiring employees.

Seminole County surely ought to utilize all the talent these young people possess, and some of them have shown great potentials.

Who Would Take Charge In Security Emergency?

By HOLMES ALEXANDER
WASHINGTON — Professor George Kennan, former ambassador to Russia, was in town recently with a question that seems academic today — but tomorrow may be actual.

Kennan raised a point, previously aired in this column, as to the flexibility of the Constitution in grave, genuine emergency. Is there any Constitutional authority for the naming of a take-charge individual to assume almost complete control of national security? Kennan, on the faculty of the Institute for Advanced Studies, Princeton, N. J., came to the point little obliquely. This is what he said:

"In my view there should be some senior official in the executive branch of the government who could act as the president's principal executive for all matters affecting the national security and, indeed, our relations with the outside world generally. This would include military as well as other matters.

In the Roman Republic, the name for this sort of all-purpose actioner was "dictator"—a word that has fallen into abuse through loose usage. Kennan did not cite anything in the explicit language of the Constitution, although he might have argued that the chief executive himself is constitutionally regarded both as a "presiding officer" in peaceful affairs and as commander-in-chief—"first in war, first in peace." But we no longer expect a president to lead the troops in battle.

Kennan, looking past the Constitution to some other authority, told the Senate Subcommittee on National Policy Machinery that there was a certain historical justification "regarding the secretary of state as something of a take-charge office. This post holds, in Kennan's words, "a certain primacy in all matters of external relations, including the national security."

Why the secretary of state? Well,

Kennan said, the State Department is "the keeper of the Great Seal of the United States." The title of the office—secretary of state—"suggests that the office is not limited merely to the conduct of foreign affairs."

In other words, Kennan sees a possibility that the president may, with the advice and consent of the Senate, name something like a first minister. This person would have responsibility for what is now the State Department, the Defense Department, the Central Intelligence Agency and the Federal Bureau of Investigation, so far as the FBI relates to internal security.

It was a daring, if subtly-delivered proposal which left at least one senator—Karl Mundt of South Dakota—open-mouthed with anxiety. Others might well have been equally alarmed had they sensed the full impact of what Kennan was saying. All republicans get in trouble when they start looking to a fix-everything man. In fact, they often cease to be republicans at all.

But there is certainly the germ of a good idea in the Kennan testimony. Conceivably the secretary of state, who is ranking member of the cabinet, could stay home from international travels and acquaint himself with the whole range of affairs that relate to national security. He might, if he were a person of gigantic powers and dedication, like DeGaulle of France, make himself the guardian of national security as long as he kept the confidence of the president and the senate.

This idea, although a long way short of dictatorship, will seem alarming to Americans—and it should be. We do not want anybody who even resembles an indispensable man—but before we dismiss the thought of a wholly preposterous one, we should remember that every country in desperate trouble will take desperate remedies. Nothing is stronger than the will to survive as a nation.

There is something else to remember—namely, that a perfectly normal remedy is at hand in the 1960 elections. If we can nominate and elect an extraordinary man (major qualification: leadership) there would be no need for unusual measures such as George Kennan seemed to have in mind.

But if we choose a weak, peace-loving, apologetic president—who knows?

New Uprising Against Reds Reported In Western Tibet

(The following dispatch comes from a veteran UPI correspondent who has just completed a three week tour of Tibetan border areas by horse and mule-back.)

By A. K. DAR
PARO, Bhutan (UPI)—A furious new uprising has broken out against the Chinese Communists in western Tibet, informed sources reported today.

The revolt is so serious that thousands of Red Army troops have been withdrawn from the borders of India, Sikkim and Bhutan to cope with it, the sources said.

The reports, collected here from both official and Tibetan refugee sources, said the new uprising started in the Beekhar Dzong area of western Tibet about the middle of May and was taking a heavy toll of Red Chinese.

Several refugees recently arrived in this tiny Himalayan state on the southern border of Tibet said they had seen 10 to 15 trucks loaded with the bodies of Communist soldiers pass through the trading town of Gyantse.

It was believed here that Nationalist Chinese elements had helped spark the outbreak of fighting.

Buddhist monks of the Shigatse monastery—seat of the Panchen Lama—also were understood to be encouraging the freedom fight, the refugees said.

The Panchen Lama himself—installed in power by the Chinese after the flight of India of the god-king Dalai Lama—was reported under deep suspicion by the Communists although they were not known to have taken any steps against him.

Guerrilla fighting has existed year-long in the eastern section of the captive nation, but the western portion previously was believed to have been "pacified" by Red occupation troops.

Chinese forces stationed in frontier areas to back up the Peiping regime's various territorial claims now are considerably reduced as the Communists attempt to reinforce the troops engaged against guerrillas, the reports said.

At least 150 Tibetan refugees entered Bhutan last month—the largest number in many months—and more than 300 were reported to have sought refuge in North Sikkim.

The two states are unable to accommodate more than a few hundred displaced persons. There is also the fear that the influx of refugees may give the Peiping regime an excuse for an attack on its tiny neighbors.

"To live, to laugh, to dance, to love—that is the Tahitian way of life," says my SPAL booklet, "Introduction to Tahiti and Other Isles of Enchantment."

Our morning starts when the little brown girl knocks on the door of our little grass shack. She brings grapefruit the size of a soccer ball; the French croissants and the steaming black coffee.

She sits on the edge of a chair and swings a bare foot. Her hair hangs to her waist. We have the morning language lesson:

"Mauru—thank you."
"Oa au—happy."

We have a gay time in Paradise. I think Spence Weaver, who owns the new Hotel Tahiti, is not getting much work out of the help this week.

There is too much work anyway. The thought of work exhausts the Tahitian. And, though jet planes are due here soon, it will be a long time before modern demands will get the Tahitian into long gear.

WASHINGTTON by Ed Koferber

BISMARCK, N. D.—It was 3:30 a. m., but already the sky reflected a faint smudge of salmon pink. This was in Pierre, S. D., and the dawn of another day in this strange manhunt for delegates.

The sagging silhouettes coming down the plane steps against the airport light were the new bearers accompanying the master hunter, a man still hunting without a license.

Ahead of the reporters was the long creature in 16 gallons of Texas hat, the Senate Majority Leader, Lyndon B. Johnson, who'd been outrunning us west to north to east and west again the last 48 hours.

He was out there in the cold, windblown darkness pumping a hand. The man behind the hand was a governor—Ralph Herstein, a Democrat and a rather good influence on 11 delegate votes.

The big Texas hunter had bounded out of his plane with the bounce of a Texas jackrabbit. He hadn't slept in 18 hours. By contrast, the past 48 hours I'd been taking green energy pills to keep myself alive.

This was less than halfway through a "long weekend" which which already had taken us once-and-a-half across the country. We still had the entire width and another half of it to go before hunter Johnson returns to the Senate in Washington.

From Pierre the delegate-hunting expedition turned north into the upper acres of what was just recently Sen. Hubert Humphrey's exclusive game reserve.

But it was a long day in South Dakota—press meeting, a closed-door session with a large number of the 22 half-vote delegates, a trek by helicopter to a new dam, and a buddy-buddy talk with the state's chief executive—the pattern the senator used in Idaho and Washington and most likely would as we headed to Nevada and California.

You ask the big Texan, now getting seriously hoarse, how he manages to keep this pace. "Talkin' and meetin' people," he says and he sort of smacks his lips, "I thrive on it."

He likes people—and delegates are people. And, like the good hunter who leaves no bush unflushed, the senator, as far as I could see, has left no delegate unhandshaken.

Oddly enough, the potential bag is often comparatively small. Take the arduous expedition to Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, where 13 delegates from the northern half-vote, had been flitting with Senator John F. Kennedy and Stuart Symington.

Inside an old, white-stuccoed building, the home of VFW Post 889, the senator held 100 seats at bay in a raw-floored second-story dining room after a macaroni and cheese lunch. This Westerner from the South stroked them with words of a story-telling huntsman of old, and they purred. The senator put as much heart into his talk as he did when he addressed his own high school in Johnson City, Tex., a week ago.

It was like this whenever he went. Those Western delegates—those that may make the difference in July—were caught in the sights of this man's patron-siveness.

Three Minutes A Day

Six million dollars in the bank is quite a record for any 1-year-old child.

One girl in New Jersey found that the bank had credited her for that big sum when she made her weekly $1 deposit under the school's banking program.

She gave her 10-year-old brother her bank book and asked him: "How much have I in the bank now?" All he could say was "Wow!"

The figures showed a balance of $3,999,999.50.

A grateful bank manager was happy the youngster did not take the amount registered in her bank book too seriously, especially since her mechanical error had been made in the posting machine.

It is a wise person who is not affected by a false or inflated estimate of where he stands physically, economically or spiritually.

Check your own record from time to time. Make sure that you are neither deceiving yourself nor being deceived about your true worth before God and man.

WORRY CLINIC by Dr. G. W. Crane

CASE E-477: When Danny was 7%, I made the following observation.

During the summer months, we would live at our summer home on the farm in Indiana.

When we first bought the farm, we couldn't get occupancy of the farmhouse until the following year. But we wanted an immediate place to live.

So we located an obsolete railroad passenger car, which used to be a buffet and club car. It was all mahogany lined and rather attractive, especially after Mrs. Crane had fixed it up.

Then we bought a refrigerator freight car, which we set at right angles to the passenger car, and which we used as a bunk house.

Although our five youngsters were near enough in age to be playmates, the younger ones still like bedfellows in the form of dolls or stuffed monkeys, teddy bears and the like.

When I went to bed in the bunk house, I noticed that David had Raggedy Ann tucked under the covers beside him, while Danny had Raggedy Andy.

Danny usually was the first child to awaken in the morning. I noticed him arise, lean over the side of his bed and carefully tuck Raggedy Andy into a cardboard box under his cot. Then he placed the lid on the box and hopped out of bed.

He neatly made his bed and then slipped out of the bunk house without waking the others.

I had often played possum while observing this typical morning ritual. When David later awakened he also placed his Raggedy Ann in her box under his cot.

Children not only enjoy live pets, such as puppies or kittens, but they relish having toy pets, like woolly lambs, monkeys or dolls.

Many a child who is afraid of the dark, will also be much more relaxed if you give him a toy doll or pet as his bedfellow.

The children seem to look upon the latter as companions and a good substitute for an adult parent in the room.

As they focus attention on the needs of their toy pet, they thereby forget self and are also more inclined to keep their hands occupied with the latter.

Moreover, it is very common for children to crave some soft, fuzzy or furry object against their cheek before they will relax and fall asleep.

From time to time I have previously described cases of babies who pull a handful of fuzz off the wool blanket or insist on holding a corner of the latter against their cheek before they will drift off into slumber.

This habit may be an offshoot of early infancy when they were bottle fed. The bottle is often wrapped in a blanket or other cloth cover to keep it from sliding around, so the child apparently becomes "conditioned" to this cloth against the cheek as a prelude to relaxation and sleep.

Don't make fun of a child, therefore, for wanting his toy pets on the pillow beside him at night.

They relax him so he can sleep more soundly. And many children keep up this habit into the teens.
