ATLANTA, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Rum Row, that movable mart for illicit trade in forbidden beverages, is now more or less firmly established in Southern Waters. Present activities there are so extensive that it is believed the trade includes most of those former operators, who managed to escape the sharp shooting coast guardsmen's campaign to break up flourishing business of New York, Boston and Atlantic City shores.

Episcopal Church Budget For Next Three Years Named At $18,000,000

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 13.—(P)—The program for the next three years in the Protestant Episcopal church calls for a budget of $18,000,000, of which $13,500,000 is for the maintenance of existing work. Lewis B. Franklin, vice-president and treasurer of the National Council, today submitted the program to the general convention of the church, now in session here. Receipts for the budget in the last three years have been more than $1,000,000 a year below the new figure, Mr. Franklin said, but rather than reducing the budget the council recommended the removal of several items that would make for a reduction of $1,200,000.

During the last three years the church has given a larger amount of money for missionary work than in any similar period, Mr. Franklin reported, but the total deficit of the Missionary Society is still $1,040,954.74, with a possibility of its increasing an additional $400,000 by the end of 1925. This deficit was mostly accumulated prior to the time the National Council took over the Society's work in 1920.

"In the same time, however, the endowment fund of the Missionary Society has nearly doubled, and now amounts to $9,500,000," Mr. Franklin continued. "This increase is largely due to the response of the appeal for Japanese relief."

The total giving for all church purposes increased from $24,000,000 in 1919, to $39,000,000 in 1923, the report declared, although gifts toward the regular operating budget showed a decrease that in two of the last three years was less than the expense.

The budget for the next three years allows for these items:

New construction in mission fields at home and abroad, $4,500,000; salaries of more than 2,000 missionaries throughout the foreign field; appropriations for universities in Tokyo, Shanghai and Wu-chang, for scores of secondary schools and for many hospitals, and for work among the negro

Development Briefs

OCALA—A telephone inquiry of a messenger boy regarding the rate on a message called out the fire department here. The lad called his office. Central gave him the wrong number. The fire chief answered the call. "Where are you?" he asked quickly. The boy thought it was his delivery clerk. "At the Maxine House," he answered. The fire apparatus came pell mell.

GAINESVILLE—Citizens of the western section of Alachua county have given up the idea of a division of the county, and are now working for good roads, Senator J. H. Colson declared.

WEST PALM BEACH—Irate citizens threaten suit against the city when the municipal government removes a number of towering sycamorph trees from Hibiscus avenue. Threats of "injunction" were heard.

JACKSONVILLE—R. R. Hough, of Fort Myers, reports to the Jacksonville police that a certified check for $41,450 was either lost or stolen while he was en route on a Pullman, from Lakeland to Jacksonville.

PUNTA GORDA—Church services of fifty years ago, and those now held, were enacted at the fiftieth anniversary celebration of organization of the Peace River Association of the Baptist Church. Hymns and sermons, as they were sung and preached fifty years ago, and those of the present day, featured the gathering.

FORT MYERS—Origin of the word "Caloosahatchee" which is applied to one of Florida's rivers seems much in dispute. George Burnham declared the word is Indian, meaning "beautiful river." It is superfluous, he said, to use "river" after it. O. K. Pomeroy, of Fort Myers, declared "Caloosahatchee" means "Spaniard's creek."

JACKSONVILLE—Two young women, Misses Anna Farber and Evelyn Berger, clerks in the immigration department at Ellis Island, New York, arrived here on a hike to Miami. They wanted to see what it is all about down here in Florida, they said.

AVON PARK—Found: A subdivision for the poor man. A Jacksonville man is preparing to begin a development here for anglers. Millionaires, he said, will be lured. Houses to cost not more than $1,000 each will be erected, he said.

ST. PETERSBURG—Folks in the municipal court of Judge W. F. Way recently saw a little "orphan" that most anyone would be glad to "adopt." It was a bottle of "Old Kentucky" liquor. No one, of course, claimed it. It was displayed as evidence in a liquor charge against a trio.

JACKSONVILLE—Members of the editorial staff of the Jacksonville Journal are assuming the role of detectives. They are trying to find the person or persons, who left an urn containing the ashes of Captain Nels Lybeck, of Lybeck's island, who died some time ago in the office of the city editor, Mrs. Lybeck disclaims any knowledge of it.

NOTICE Sealed bids will be received by the Board of County Commissioners on November 3rd, 1925, for clearing right of way and hard surfacing with clay, to a width of nine feet and eight inches in depth loose measurement the following described roads:

Beginning at the Church corner one half mile South of Paola and run South one mile.

The Board of County Commissioners reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

Mexico City Shine Artists Charge Big Rates To Strangers

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 13.—(P)—The newcomer in Mexico City usually is stung once before he discovers that 20 cents, not $1.50 is the proper price for having his shoes shined.

A band of more or less gentle grafters operates in the Alameda, a beautiful park in the center of the city, where every visitor is known to stroll. He is almost certain to sit on one of the many benches and just as surely as he does he will be surrounded by a flock of boot-blacks clamoring for his custom. The shine completed, the boy is given 10 or 20 cents, but he demands $1.50. The visitor registers astonishment. The boy insists.

The boy, by now reinforced with such of his companion produces an "official card" showing that he is a "duly authorized" shiner of prices of the "Syndicate" of shoe-shiners of the Alameda includes $1.50 for "special shine." A special shine consists of an extra dab of something that looks like varnish.

Generally the victim hands over $1.50, charges it up to experience, and thereafter visits the Alameda only for fresh air.

German Entrance To League Now Apparent

LOCARNE, Switzerland, Oct. 13.—(P)—Agreement was practically reached today on condition of Germany's entrance into the League of Nations and delegates to the security conference now hopefully predict the success of the conference. They believe the allies have produced the solution of German league membership question, which Chancellor Luther and Foreign Minister Stresemann believe they will satisfy German public opinion and at same time safeguard friendly relations of Reich with Russia.

Army, Navy Charged With Wasting Money

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—(P)—The Army and Navy were charged today by Chairman Madden of the House Appropriations Committee with squandering millions of dollars in purposeless spending orgy in aircraft development in testimony before the president's air staff board which resumed hearings after a recess several days.

Mr. Madden declared technical development of aviation could no longer be "safely" left to two military services if the United States was to take its place "among countries of world in air."

IN IS VATING

Both houses discussed prayer book revision at today's session. The form of the burial service aroused debate in the House of Deputies.

The last convention voted to eliminate the rubric provided that the office "was not to be used for any who lay violent hands upon themselves" at this convention was necessary and opposition at once developed to eliminate this part of the instructions to priests. The deputies finally voted to retain the rubric in the prayer book and if the action is reconsidered the formal burial service will be withheld from persons committing suicide.

Bishops Nominations

Eight bishops were placed in nomination by the House of Bishops this afternoon for presiding bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States of America. From the eight will be elected tomorrow a bishop to act as presiding bishop and president of the council.

Those nominated were: Bishop Charles H. Brent, Western New York; Gardner Murray, Maryland; Edward Thomas F. Gallor, Tennessee; John Gardner Murray, Maryland; Edward L. Parsons, California; William Cabell Brown, Virginia; Alexander Brown, Pittsburgh; James DeWolf Perry, Rhode Island; Hugh Latimer Burleson, North Dakota.

Army as a step looking toward establishment of a department of national defense, also opposes both of these projects as "unneeded."

Against Separate Corps

He declared neither the separate corps nor the defense department proposal, favored by the air chief could "be justified on any grounds whatever," as there was "no possible separate responsibility, separate mission, or separate theatre of action which can be assigned to a separate (air) force."

General Patrick, who appeared before the board for the second time denied charges by Chairman Martin B. Madden of the House appropriations committee, that the Army had "squandered millions of dollars" in a "reckless" expenditure of money in aviation experimental work. He asserted much of this work was necessary to determine what should not be done.

CABINET PLACE TO BE FILLED BY DWIGHT F. DAVIS

His withdrawal from public life was viewed.

In his letter of resignation the retiring secretary made it clear that his proposal caused by sufferings of the last months had in no way dimmed his keen interest in public affairs and particularly in the problems of the war-department.

"I should no longer hold an office I can not adequately fill on the question," he said "explaining that it would be some months before he could hope for complete recovery of his health."

In reply, President Coolidge found difficulty in expressing the full measure of his regret at the loss of a trusted adviser and a personal friend of many years.

"In the well-earned leisure that private life will afford you," he wrote, "I trust you will fully regain your strength and find time to continue your interest in the well-being of our country. The administration of your office has been such that you will go down in history as a great secretary of war."

Mr. Weeks devoted considerable time and thought to the preparation of his farewell statement, making it a renewed pledge of his faith in the military policies worked out for the nation and defense officers and men who are to carry them on.

ARMY AVIATOR THRILLS CROWD IN FINAL RACE

Carl Gunther of the Fifth Observation Squadron was caught in a wing strut by the buckle of his parachute as he started to make an exhibition parachute leap. He struggled hand over hand up the parachute rope toward the plane, but the buckle controlling the opening string tore off and he fell.

His emergency parachute opened after he had fallen about 800 feet and he made the ground in safety.

Lieut. E. E. Harmon, attached to the office of the Chief of the Army Air Service in Washington, flew a Huff Daland XLB with an 800 horsepower motor to victory in the Detroit News Race. His average speed was 119.91 miles an hour.

Second place was won by Lieut. C. S. Schilt, of Hampton Roads, Va., in a navy Douglas DT-4 of 667-horsepower whose average speed was 118.15 miles. Lieut. K. E. Wolfe of McCook field, was third at 113.58 miles an hour in an Epyclic C-7 plane with a 400 horsepower motor.

West Virginia Lady Says That She Was in a Serious Condition, But Is Stronger After Taking Cardui.

Huntington, W. Va.—"I was in a very weak and run-down condition—in fact, was in a serious condition," says Mrs. Fannie C. Bloes, of 1964 Madison Avenue, this city.

"In my left side the pain was very severe. It would start in my back and sides. Part of the time I was in bed and when up I didn't feel like doing anything or going anywhere.

"Life wasn't any pleasure. I was very pale. I was nervous and thin, and so tired all the time.

"My druggist told me that Cardui was a good tonic for women and I bought a couple of bottles. I took two bottles, then I noticed an improvement. I kept on and found it was helping me. I have taken nine bottles. I'm stronger now than I have been in a long time."

Cardui is made from mild-acting medicinal herbs with a gentle, tonic, strengthening effect upon certain female organs and upon the system in general.

THE WOMAN'S TONIC

DID you and your wife ever plan a dinner party for ten--- and just as you invited your guests to sit down to the table, did you, after looking out through the window—ever see three or four seven-passenger automobiles pull up to the curb with fifteen or twenty additional aunts, uncles and cousins—and then in dismay—DID YOU EVER WONDER HOW FAR THAT SPLENDID REPAST SPREAD OUT ON THE TABLE WOULD GO AMONG THIS ADDITIONAL COMPANY, UNEXPECTED AS IT WAS?

That is just what has happened in Miami!

FOR THE PAST THREE YEARS the building program of Miami has been earnestly and consistently endeavoring to keep up to the demands year by year increasingly placed upon it but it so happens that, apparently all at one time, a great many more people decided that Miami was the place to come to, without realizing, of course, that a great many other people were thinking the same way at the same time.

AND SO MIAMI is earnestly trying to supply the needs placed upon her by this avalanche of visiting Miamians who must appreciate just what a tremendous load this is to carry and who will bear with Miami under the present conditions.

BUILDING STREETS, sidewalks, installing electric lights and water and building homes, apartments and hotels, is the part that MIAMI SHORES with 50% of its entire property within the City of Miami, is doing toward helping to take care of the tremendous influx along with other developers of the Greater Miami section, and the result will be sooner than it was ever dreamed—a greater and more beautiful Miami.

Insanity Pleas

The case of W. B. Cole, wealthy cotton manufacturer of North Carolina, who was tried for the murder of W. W. Ormond, one time suitor of his daughter, is ended. Cole pleaded "transitory insanity" as a part of his defense, and escaped penalty on that count.

The world at large seems to be rapidly approaching that stage of civilization when all a murderer has to do is to plead insanity, in any one of its multitudinous forms to escape any penalty whatsoever. This plea formerly was reserved exclusively for only the most wealthy of the country. Nowadays almost anyone can get off by it.

Harry K. Thaw was probably the first to use the plea with any degree of success. But he tried it in a more backward age when it required several years for him to get out of the insane asylum after escaping the chair.

Loeb and Leopold belong to this same backward class although they admitted they weren't exactly insane. They were just suffering from peculiar suppressions, complexes and inhibitions. So it probably won't take them as long to get over their trouble as it did Thaw.

Russell Scott thwarted justice through a little different plea. He wasn't insane at the time of his crime. Neither did he have any of the minor derangements of mentality which afflicted Loeb and Leopold. He was quite all right then, but his attorneys decided that he went crazy later waiting to be executed.

But it remained for the wealthy North Carolinian to perfect the insanity plea. He doesn't claim to be insane now, as the others did. He says he is quite all right now, but was insane only at the time when he committed the crime. Of course you can't hang a man who kills another when he is crazy, and you can't put a man in the asylum who is perfectly sane now. So there isn't anything else to do with Mr. Cole except to turn him loose.

But somehow it seems to us that insanity should be punished quite the same as any other crime when that insanity takes a criminal form. As the New York World says, "The idea that an insane person should not be punished is a survival from the day when we regarded punishment as entirely retributive."

In speaking of the case of Harrison Noel, youthful New Jersey murderer, the World continues:

A man did wrong, he deserved to be punished, but if he did not understand he did wrong, it is illogical to punish him. We have learned a lot since we conceived that idea. We have learned that every person is somewhat insane; there is no such thing as a perfect mind. We have learned that a plausible case of serious insanity can be made out for every murderer; the mere fact that he killed, it has been argued, is sufficient ground for affirming that, for the time being at least, he was out of his mind. Thus we trod a hopeless circle, and there are examples aplenty of how absurd the results might be.

It is not for us to say whether W. B. Cole was justified in the murder of his daughter's sweetheart, whether it was self-defense or not, but of this much we are fairly sure, Mr. Cole knew perfectly well what he was doing when he fired the gun. He was no more insane than he was at any other time in his life, any more than you or any the rest of us.

Dangerous Truck Drivers

The Miami Tribune tells a very humorous story about a man who was run into by a truck. "The victim," says the Tribune, "explained that when riding in his work in company with his wife he stepped out of his own car and was immediately knocked down and bruised by a truck. Rising in a somewhat dazed state, he attempted to get to the sidewalk, when the same truck, as though infuriated by the first sight of blood, bore down upon him again, and the second blow made him a subject for the Jackson Memorial Hospital.

Ordinarily trucks are content with knocking a man down once without making a second attempt to grind his bones to pieces. But no doubt this particular driver had had so much experience with merely knocking pedestrians down that he got no thrill out of that whatever. He must back off and make another plunge before the game assumes any interesting proportions for him. It is all very funny—especially for the victim in the hospital.

It is reported to us that a certain oil truck, driven at a high rate of speed and "hogging" the road, missed hitting a small open car with three women in it, only because the women braved the palmettos in preference to the onslaught of the truck. Had they attempted to maintain their right to half of the road, the truck would have crashed into them and with its superior weight would have completely demolished the smaller car.

Such conditions are deplorable. Trucks are necessary to the business of the city, and are becoming more and more so every day, but business managers should exercise extreme care in selecting drivers for them. Trucks with their huge bulk can wreck the average automobile with little danger, if any, to the life of the truck driver. Unless the right kind of men are secured to handle them, trucks are a distinct menace to all who use the roads.

"MY COUNTRY, right or wrong," is a thing that no patriot would think of saying except in a desperate case. It is like saying, "My Mother, drunk, or sober."—G. K. Chesterton.

THE PRESENT is the living sum-total of the past.—Carlyle.

MY FAVORITE STORIES

By IRVIN S. COBB

There used to be a character in George Creel's town in Missouri, a transplanted Kentuckian, a self-appointed colonel and a veteran of Shelby's command, who was a born orator and an inspired romancer. One sunny afternoon he was holding forth to an attentive and sympathetic audience upon the part he had played in the war between the States. It was rather to the main reasons that he was one of the main reasons why the Confederacy endured, against odds, for four years. He progressed to where he was enriching history with an account of the first engagement in which he had participated.

"Gentlemen," he proclaimed, "envisage the scene. There we most part with nondescript weapons, with flint lock muskets, with scythes, with axes, even with cudgels. We are underfed, half shod and ragged, yet inspired by the dauntless resolution and splendid valor which sustained the Southern heart. Over the slope and straight against our line come pouring the Northern hordes, those relentless invaders of our beloved Southland, lusty and strong and equipped with every appliance for conducting warfare that modern science can provide.

Flying Machines—Retail. The Ladies' Intellect. Turning Pink in England. A Fortunate Bishop. BY ARTHUR BRISBANE (Copyright 1925)

COMMANDER JOHN Rodgers, good sailor, says commercial aviation should have strong government backing and a subsidy.

Grant the subsidy by all means, if needed, but it won't be needed, for men that make things go are now interested.

Ford is manufacturing planes, and in New York Rodman Wanamaker, in his big store, began last week retailing Ford flying machines, $25,000 apiece; first come, first served, with every prospect of lower prices later.

MR. WANAMAKER will hang on to the Ford flying machine business. His store had, long years ago, the exclusive agency for Ford automobiles, just starting, in all New Jersey, Long Island, New York City and a great part of New York state. But automobiles took up much space, so the agency was dropped.

WHAT DO you think that agency would be worth today? Ten million dollars a year would not buy it.

Nathan Straus owned a hotel that didn't pay. He said afterward, "If anybody offered me the finest hotel in the world for nothing, I would insult him."

Mr. Wanamaker probably would say, "If anybody offered me any price to buy my Ford flying machine business from me, I would insult him."

THE LEARNED ladies of Smith College seek to "co-ordinate woman's interests." In other words, they want "to reconcile a normal life of marriage and motherhood with a life of intellectual activity, professional or otherwise."

What trouble is there about such a reconciliation? Intellectual activity stimulates the brain, and the woman with the best brain has the best children.

AN INTELLIGENT woman in professional life can give children affection, which is more important than food. She can let somebody else do the cooking and wash the clothes just as well.

EVERY WOMAN ought to have children, and every woman ought to have an intellectual life.

No woman ought to work merely for money, the meanness of all the many occupations. But every woman should be engaged in "intellectual activity," and most of them are, fortunately. You don't have to be a female lawyer or doctor, to be intellectually active.

ENGLISH WOMEN of rank and fashion, and many with money but without rank or fashion, "are turning pink." That means they are joining the Socialist Labor Party, following in the wake of Lady Cynthia Mosely, daughter of the Marquis of Curzon. If she runs for parliament on the Socialist ticket there must be something in it.

THAT HAPPENED in America. Mrs. Oliver H. P. Belmont, formerly Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, and Mrs. Clarence Mackay, now Mrs. Joseph Blake, "went in" for female suffrage when it was new. They lectured and urged, and many estimable suburban ladies joined for fashions' sake.

All very old. When Parmentier introduced the potato vine into France the potatoes grew, but nobody would eat them. They were queer, from America, and, therefore suspicious.

The noble ordered his nobles to wear potato blossoms in their buttonholes to make them fashionable. That changed the situation. When the nobles wore the blossoms, the common people ate the potatoes.

BISHOP WILLIAM Montgomery Brown, of Arkansas, in his old age, is to be deposed. That, probably, is just. If he doesn't agree with other bishops they have a right to part from him.

In one way the aged bishop is to be congratulated. In the year 1925 he will not be compelled to appear barefoot, dressed in sackcloth, with a cord around his neck.

He will not have to kneel down vowing that he "retracts, abjures and abhors his heresy." And he will not be told that he can take his choice between rejecting, adorning, abhorring and being burned alive.

We do unpleasant things still, but we do them less unpleasantly.

AS THE new week begins, Allies and Germans are gathering on some kind of League of Nations, or agreement, not to cut each other's throats. Germany will come into the league. Good luck and more power to them.

May they have their league, may it be the most successful and may they have it to themselves.

We already have our league over here; 48 United States that do not attack each other, rob each other, fight each other, or hate each other. We need no better league than that.

Or, if we do need more, it would be clout and friendlier relations with our neighbors south and north of us on this continent.

LITTLE EARTHQUAKES are felt in Maine and New Hampshire. And one middle western state has had its nineteenth earthquakes in a short time. All of which means nothing. The earth has been settling down for a hundred million years. It will shiver and shake more or less probably for a hundred million years, but don't let that worry you. It is a solid old earth, and its strength and resistance to strain are what they would be in a 647 of 1848.

MRS. FRED DAIGER IS HOSTESS TO MEMBERS SOCIAL DEPARTMENT

The first meeting of the Social Department of the Sanford Women's Club, marking the opening of the Club's social season, was held Tuesday afternoon, when Mrs. Fred Daiger entertained most delightfully with a Cafeteria Bridge Luncheon.

Stately goldenrod and Brown-eyed Susans, so symbolic of this season, were used with pleasing effect in tall pedestal baskets and banked en masse. Suggestive of the Harvest was the mantel, banked with goldenrod and centered with a large "Horn of Plenty" filled with various fruits.

In true cafeteria style was the large auditorium with its many small tables centered with bud vases holding exquisite rose buds.

At 1 o'clock a delicious four course luncheon was served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. W. D. Gardiner, Mrs. A. W. Epps, Mrs. Braxton Barrett, Mrs. J. B. Coleman and Mrs. Mildred Peabody.

Following the luncheon, the game of bridge was enjoyed. Scores were kept on purple and gold tallies, the color motif of the afternoon. After a number of progressions, scores were counted and the prize, an unusual hand painted flower holder, was awarded Mrs. W. J. Thigpen, the high score holder.

Mrs. Daiger was assisted in receiving and entertaining her guests by Mrs. W. Theodore Langley and Mrs. Ernest McGowan Galloway.

Plans For December Bazar Made Monday By Pipe Organ Club

The Pipe Organ Club met Monday afternoon with Mrs. Leslie Bryan at her home on Palmetto Avenue. Mrs. Bryan and Mrs. L. E. Estridge were hostesses. There was a profusion of wild flowers in vases and baskets, the color scheme of purple and gold being carried out in both the decorations and refreshments.

The meeting was a most enthusiastic one, and plans were completed for the bazaar, which is to be held at the home of Miss Martha Fox on Dec. 4 and 5. Miss Fox has many new and interesting features for this year's bazaar, among them being a special table of ladies' handkerchiefs, one of baby clothes, one of preserves and candy, and a miscellaneous table. Many lovely articles were given out to be made for the bazaar.

Mrs. A. K. Rossiter selected a very able committee to assist with a program to be given at the Church Thursday afternoon. The Club was pleased to welcome on its roll Mrs. Mitchell, a former member, and Mrs. Seig, a newcomer.

Following the meeting, delicious refreshments were served. Next Monday the club will meet with Mrs. Francis Bolz on Magnolia Avenue. Mrs. R. A. Winston will assist as hostess.

"THEY'LL HAVETO BEAT JOHNSON" IS HARRIS' RETORT

Youngful Manager Has Plenty of Faith in Barney in the Final Game, McKeechie Declares "We've Got 'Em"

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 14.—(AP)—"They'll have to beat Johnson. The word came from baseball's youngest manager, Stanley Harris of Washington, in the clubhouse after Pittsburgh had tied the World's Series Tuesday.

His smile, the victory smile, was still there. Around him leapt men were gloomy, bemoaning their ill-luck, but Barney's class was carried across the dressing quarters to a locker where stood a tall, silent man, deliberately donning his street clothes.

"Yes, they'll have to beat Johnson, and then we'll admit they are the better club."

"Will he be able to pitch? Able or not he'll be in there throwing and they'll have to beat him, believe me, there will be 20 other lads they try to get past him. That's about all I can say. They'll have his right leg in a right, his left in a right, his right in a left, his left in a right. He's only had two days to beat Johnson."

Senators Determined Determination had supplanted confidence on the faces of the other Senators. Words were not requests of substantiate their manager's statement that Old Barney would have good men and true behind him to win the series.

Get 'Em on the Run Above the din came the voice of McKeechie, shouting to the world that the Senators were on the run. "We've got them," he managed to stammer between bursts of laughter. "Bring on another. We're hitting now and they can't stop us."

"Why, yes, if it matters, I might as well say that I will pitch either tomorrow or Johnny Morrison tomorrow. We have to have it. I said last night that we'd beat such a squad of hitters. Yes, the World's Series is ours."

Over in the crowd, head streaming with water from the cool showers, stood the newly crowned king of Forbes Field, Little Eddie Moore.

Back Of A Good Name

Rarely in manufacturing history has a name entrenched itself so firmly in the confidence of the entire world as the name Dodge Brothers.

Everywhere and to everyone this name means but one thing: a product built honestly of the best available materials and sold at a just price.

Behind this product, this price and this enviable reputation lie certain impressive and fundamental facts.

So important is a knowledge of these facts to the motor car buyer that Dodge Brothers, Inc., have determined to publish them, from time to time, until every newspaper reader in America may be presumed to have read them:

Dodge Brothers, during the past eleven years, have built and sold more than one million four hundred thousand motor cars—and more than 90% of these cars are still in service.

This record requires no comment. It stands impressively alone in motor car history.

It has never been Dodge Brothers policy to build yearly models. When an improvement is discovered, it is made at once.

Constantly Improved But No Yearly Models is familiar the world over.

Dodge Brothers build one chassis and only one. This policy materially lowers manufacturing cost. It also enables Dodge Brothers engineers to concentrate their entire time and thought on the betterment of this one type.
