

Homestead Exemption Amendment

By William C. Hedges
President, All Florida Protective Association

This amendment should be adopted, in my opinion, first because it will bring to this state thousands of people with new money who will become home owners here. That is all this state needs to make it the most prosperous state in the American Union. No one can live anywhere without spending money with the merchants, contributing to the state's resources by the gas tax paid by them and in numerous other ways; it would thus give sale to the vacant lots and idle acres in the state the owners have, and which they have been unable, because of taxes on land, to sell at any price.

Second—The large proportion of taxes of this state are now carried by the people who own lands of the state and the tax structure of this state should be entirely remodeled. It was written into the constitution of this state when the constitution was adopted in 1885, when there was nothing else in the state to tax except lands. At that time there were no large utilities companies; only one large railroad; no great department stores; no Sears-Roebuck Company operating in this state and acting as an active competitor to every small merchant in every town and village of this state; no people owning tax exemption bonds and, in fact, they had very little except lands to tax and naturally the tax structure was then formed around the only thing those writing the tax structure knew to tax, and which was land. It should now be remodeled so as to deal fairly with all people, both big and little, great business and small business, utilities companies and home owners and should be so written that the big business of this state carry their just and fair share of the taxes and that the little struggling business and small home owner, the small farmer, be given a fair and decent break in this new tax structure.

To illustrate whether the tax structure now existing needs remodeling, let me tell you that under the present tax structure, if this state needs $60 in money from three classes of taxpayers and the millage is an average millage of $57.90—you would get it this way: If one man has a thousand dollars in cash money, he pays as his total tax 10 cents a year and pays nothing to municipalities as a tax. If another has a thousand dollars in a good note secured by mortgage, or a bond collateral anywhere, he pays nothing to the municipalities for any of the protection afforded him as he pays as his total tax $2.00. But if instead of having a thousand dollars in money or a thousand dollars in a good note or bond or other security, the third man has the same thousand dollars invested in a little home or a little farm, then after paying city taxes he pays for every thousand dollars worth of home or land he owns, $57.90. It can be thus plainly seen that under any such a tax structure this state will not have many new homes or home owners, because they cannot afford to invest in lands and create on those lands homes who for every thousand dollars worth of land and home they must pay $57.90, while the man who keeps his in cash money only pays 10 cents, and the man who keeps his money in mortgage or bonds only pays $2.00.

To me, after an extensive trip covering 65 of the 67 counties of the state, I feel confident of sovereign people of this state will ratify joint resolution No. 2 by putting their cross mark in front of the word "yes" on this resolution and that they will do so by a very large majority, thus giving to the burdened land owners of this state a new faith and a new hope, and by this action will lead this state along the paths of progress and into a larger life.

AGAINST THE AMENDMENT

By Frank E. Jennings
We think the adoption of the proposed Homestead Exemption Amendment would be a step backward in the development of Florida. Our state, our counties and our cities each maintain their governments for the benefit of all the people. Our free public school system is maintained for the benefit of all. When it is proposed to exempt any of those for whom such benefits are maintained from an obligation to contribute to the support of such benefits, it is fundamental that such exemption be based upon the theory of "an inability to pay." This proposed exemption of an assessed valuation up to $5,000 means that most homes in Florida of a valuation from $10,000 up to at least $20,000 or more would be totally exempt, and homes of the assessed valuation of more than $5,000 proportionately exempt from such obligation. Persons who own and maintain such valuable homes are certainly able to pay at least something for the support of government and schools. The amendment thus ignores the fundamental principle of "inability to pay." Being fundamentally wrong, it cannot work to the public good because, when those who are able to pay are relieved from paying, the burden in the end will find its way to the shoulders of those able to pay, and thus you hurt rather than help the growth and development of the state. The unjust also of the proposed exemption defeats its very merit. An exemption of $1,000 assessed valuation would have taken care of 98 percent of the home owners who under any just theory of taxation would be

77,000,000 BOX CITRUS CROP IS EXPECTED BY U. S.

1934-35 Estimate May Be Exceeded Within Only Few Seasons

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—(AP)—The Agriculture Department yesterday estimated orange and grapefruit production in 1934-35 roughly at 77,000,000 boxes and added it would be possible with good weather conditions to reach a production in a few years of 100,000,000 from trees now planted.

During the four years ended with 1934 production averaged 68,000,000 boxes compared with 44,000,000 boxes for the 1924-27 average. The estimate for the coming season amounts to about 46 pounds for each person in the United States.

The report mentioned the citrus marketing agreements as a potential guard against demoralized markets, which might otherwise be expected from the huge increase in production.

The export outlook was regarded as not especially bright, although the department said negotiation of trade agreements might be of some assistance. Increased competition from Brazil and South Africa was expected.

While there have been only slight increases in the orange acreage of the principal production sections, the department said most of the trees were under 15 years old.

Grapefruit plantings have increased greatly and 38 percent of Texas' are not yet bearing age. The forecast for 1934-35 of a production of 20,000,000 indicated a record crop.

Exports of grapefruit amounted to 1,000,000 boxes last season, and the department estimated an increase for next, but said, "from a price standpoint the export outlook is not promising."

Further, even if it were assured that the legislature by state-wide enactment could raise the necessary funds to take the place of that which the counties and cities and shools lose by the amendment, and even if such funds could be legally allocated (which is indeed very doubtful in so far as municipalities are concerned), has the experience of the past justified us in feeling that such a step would be wise? It must not be overlooked that when we transfer the purse string of local self-government to the purse string of the state, we create a problem so complex, so difficult of legislation solution, that no one can pre-empt with satisfactory assurance the result thereof.

Florida is today on a well-defined road toward recovery and stability. Nothing could be more detrimental than the severe disruption of our entire financial foundation which the adoption of the amendment would admittedly produce.

The problem of unemployment and the support of the needy in the state is a serious and pressing one. The federal government, in positive and no uncertain terms, is warning us that unless the next legislature makes a sizable appropriation for this purpose federal help will be withdrawn or greatly curtailed. How, with its obligation facing our next legislature, can we conscientiously throw upon it the necessity of supplying approximately ten million dollars more in addition thereto? Last year the federal government furnished considerable money in many portions of Florida to keep the public school open for a respectable term. If we, by the adoption of the amendment, relieve tens of thousands of our wealthy and well-to-do people from paying any school taxes whatever for the operation of our schools, what right have we to expect any future appeal for federal funds for this purpose to fall on sympathetic ears?

Further, even if it were assured that the legislature by state-wide enactment could raise the necessary funds to take the place of that which the counties and cities and shools lose by the amendment, and even if such funds could be legally allocated (which is indeed very doubtful in so far as municipalities are concerned), has the experience of the past justified us in feeling that such a step would be wise? It must not be overlooked that when we transfer the purse string of local self-government to the purse string of the state, we create a problem so complex, so difficult of legislation solution, that no one can pre-empt with satisfactory assurance the result thereof.

Florida is today on a well-defined road toward recovery and stability. Nothing could be more detrimental than the severe disruption of our entire financial foundation which the adoption of the amendment would admittedly produce.

Have You Lost Confidence In Your LEADERS?

This Is What Senator Fletcher Says:

"I think it would be unwise to adopt the Homestead Amendment at this time for a number of reasons. One is, it would deplete the school fund to a large extent. It would decrease revenue which would have to be made up by some other form or forms of taxation. Eighty-three percent of the people of Florida do not own their homes, 17 percent do. Should the amendment be adopted, the 17% will still be paying taxes on bonds and additional replacement taxes. The 83 percent will be hit directly by whatever replacement taxes are put on. It will fall upon them to make up most of the revenue loss."

This Is What Governor Sholtz Says:

"I requested Bryan Willis, state auditor, some weeks ago to prepare an estimate with the intention of passing it on to the people and I have now received his report estimating that the loss in revenue would amount to $9,123,837.77

"Of this amount the state would lose $934,933.81 as follows:
Pensions, Health, Prison, Tick Eradication.....$687,970.19.
1 mill Schools, 3-4 mills free. Textbooks for schools, $249,963.65.
"The balance of loss in revenue, $8,188,900.96 would be attached to the counties and to cities, towns villages as follows:
To Counties, for
Schools.....$2,423,937.95
For Roads.....731,661.97
For Current Operating Expenses.....1,803,293.65
To one hundred sixty-nine cities, towns and villages reporting.....2,858,329.47
To eighty-five cities, towns and villages not reporting (estimated).....371,667.89
"Mr. Willis advises that that foregoing estimate is based upon the 1033 tax levy against real property, NOT INCLUDING DEBT SERVICE."

This Is What Supreme Court Justices Davis, Whitfield and Terrell Say:

"The proposed constitutional amendment now under consideration in this case, if adopted, must be considered as if it read: '... that all homesteads shall remain liable to taxation and assessments with respect to the outstanding obligations which are in force when this amendment is voted upon.'"

This Is What Supreme Court Justice Buford Says:

"Much could be written and many authorities cited in pointing out other fatal infirmities of the proposed amendment, but as those above mentioned so obviously destroy the validity of the proposal, it becomes unnecessary to discuss other defects and to cite authorities in support of the conclusion that the proposed amendment if adopted by a vote of the electors would be entirely inoperative."

This Is What Former Governor Hardee Says:

"The people of Florida made a mistake when they adopted an amendment to the Constitution against the levy of an inheritance tax. They will make another mistake if they vote for the Homestead Tax Amendment. Bear in mind that our homes cannot be exempted from the payment of those bonds now outstanding. The Wilcox bill, intended to offer a measure of relief to overburdened communities, will become almost a nullity. The passage of this amendment will cripple our schools. It will add a burden to the laboring man who will suffer through the imposition of other forms of taxation."

This Is What Mark Wilcox Says:

"With 150 governmental units in default on the payment of principal or interest I think nothing is so much important as the adjustment of these debts. In scores of communities of Florida these debts must be extended and in many the debts must be reduced. I am convinced that the adoption of the Homestead Exemption will seriously impede the progress now being made toward settlements in many communities and will undoubtedly have the effect of nullifying the Municipal Bankruptcy Act passed by the last Congress."

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

THE GOLDEN RULE:—Whatever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them: for this is the law and the prophets.—Matt. 7:12.

ALCATRAZ

Noon after noon the seabird seeks this rock, He who has freedom of all sky, all shore,

Noon after noon he comes from far clouds flying To perch hereon, as all the noons before.

This crusted boulder, this casual piece of granite, Is the seabird's star in a universe of cloud.

His plot of earth, his verity, his comfort, The one fixed point in fluctuant tides allowed.

Not in wide space his joy nor far horizons, This wildest, freest thing who in unknown

Unbounded oceans of air, oceans of water, Has found but this harsh certainty of stone.

Launched at the ether from daybreak into daybreak, Midway of dawn and dusk his wings decline.

For renewal of endurance, renewal of rapture, To this rock which is his certainty, and mine.

Pre-Election Guesses

It is not alone in Florida that an election is taking place today although in all the shouting and shouting to amend our State Constitution, we may be apt to overlook important contests in other states, most of which lie between New Dealers and anti-New Dealers.

In today's election the Roosevelt Administration is meeting its first test at the polls. It is usual in the middle of a presidential term for the party in power to lose considerable strength in both House and Senate, but this year the outlook is different. Most authorities agree that the Democrats will gain several seats in the Senate and will not lose more than 15 or 20 seats in the House.

Reviewing the political situation state by state, Paul Mallon, a Washington correspondent, on the eve of election seeks to pick the winner. Nothing that a newspaperman can do is more likely to be wrong than his prediction predictions, but it may be interesting in this case to save Mr. Mallon's guesses until after the election just to see how wrong he can be.

This is the way he hopes it now. New York—Senator Copeland will win by a mile and Governor Lehman by a few yards.

New Jersey—Governor Moore will gain a senatorial seat for the Democrats.

Pennsylvania—50-50 on Reed and Guffey in the senatorial race, but Democrats are certain to gain several Congressional seats.

Rhode Island—Democrats expect to pick up a Senate seat here.

Massachusetts—Democrats seem likely to hold what they have.

Maryland—Your old friend, Governor Ritchie, is in a tight spot, but Democratic candidates appear to have the edge otherwise.

Ohio—Democratic Donahey is a cinch in the senatorial race, but Democrats will lose probably two Congressional seats.

Indiana—Very close and doubtful.

Missouri—The Democrats will pick up another senatorial seat here, defeating Patterson, but will lose several Congressional seats.

Michigan—Republican Senator Vandenberg was a certainty until the Democrats started pouring relief funds out there within the last few weeks. It may be close.

Wisconsin—An unknown quantity, with most insiders favoring the LaFollettes by a shade.

Wyoming—Democratic Senator O'Mahoney has been hard pressed and is not so certain as he was a month ago.

New Mexico—There may be an upset here. Good information indicates the Republicans may gain one Senate seat.

California—Sinclair is apparently sunk, but not as deeply as everyone believes.

Colds

If you are susceptible to colds, beware of the man who has one, is the advice of the United States News which goes on to say that a sneezing waiter is a thousand times more dangerous than bad weather, shaking hands with the owner of a sniffling nose is infinitely more risky than walking home in the rain, and a coughing barber can cause you ten times as much trouble as an unforeseen snowstorm.

"These tips from Dr. Frank J. Jirka, Illinois' State Health director," says the United States News, "were reached after a series of studies and showed that no significant relation existed between the prevalence of colds and changes in weather conditions, except mean temperature.

"According to Dr. Jirka the main source of the common cold is the spreading of germs by close contact in the schools, factories and other places of work and recreation. Recent investigations, he states, show that sudden changes in temperature, rainy days, windy weather, 'on' nights, frosty mornings and other weather phenomena have very little to do with catching cold.

"Nor does climate play a particularly important part," he declares, "evidence of which is the fact that epidemics of colds take place almost simultaneously in all parts of the United States, in Maine and California, in Dakota and Florida." Studies show that during a lifetime the average person has at least 100 colds, spending an aggregate of three years nursing these infections.

"The average is two colds per person per year. For this vast volume of disagreeable illness, Dr. Jirka declares, man has his social and business habits to thank principally. Vaccines appear to have some beneficial effect in preventing colds; however, the cause of most colds is an ultra-microscopic organism known for want of a better name as a 'filtrable virus.'"

MAN ABOUT MANHATTAN

BY GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Outside the ranks of recognized political parties in New York are scores of amiable dissenters whose ideas transcend such trivial issues as relief emergency bills and territorial integrity. But they aren't hoodlums or radicals. Mostly they are well-to-do business men with a penchant for airing their personal opinions—trivial and otherwise—in friendly argument.

You run into these persons in almost any restaurant at the noon hour, settling the world's problems over the table cloth, and someone exciting even if they do seem half-brained—as for instance that group of young men down in the financial district who garbled in this wise on a recent day:

"What do you think of the rumor that a brother of the Prince of Wales may become King of Ireland?" asked one young financier.

"I don't think much of it," boomed an associate. "Ireland ought to maintain her identity at all cost. She is small, compact, and will in time become recognized as an adult nation rather than just a runaway child of the British empire."

"Furthermore," he went on, "she's what's wrong with this country. We are too vast, too territorial, too immense. We were all made up of a great thing, it was the British empire, and now it's all gone. The British empire was the only thing that held us together. Now we're all scattered and we're all going to the dogs."

The Commissioner of Agriculture, and the State Marketing Commissioner, operating under Act of the Legislature, Session of 1933, amending Section 1 of Chapter 13809, Laws of Florida, Act of 1929).

This market shall be operated for the benefit of producers and distributors of agricultural and horticultural products, including meats, poultry and fish, and space may also be provided for the grading, processing and distribution of such products.

SUPERVISION Supervision of the construction and operation of the market shall be vested in a board of nine supervisors, three of whom shall be chosen from the Seminole County Agricultural Club, one shall be chosen by the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce, one shall be chosen from the Board of County Commissioners, one from the City Commission, one by cooperative grown marketing associations, one by the independent local distributors, and one by the State Marketing Board. Said Board shall select from its members a chairman and a vice-chairman. A secretary-treasurer may be a member of the Board.

An operating or executive committee comprised of three members of the Supervisory Board shall be named by the State Marketing Board with authority to act for said State Board. The State Marketing Board will also name a representative of said Board to act as ex-officio member of this committee.

The term of office of this Supervisory Board shall be for such time as is necessary to complete the construction of said market and its operation until such time as in the opinion of the State Marketing Board such Supervisory Board should be abolished or reorganized and in any case the term of office for a member of this Board shall not exceed one year, excepting by re-election.

The State Marketing Board reserves the right to alter or discontinue the provisions under which this market is operated at any time.

The Supervising Board shall be responsible to and act under the general direction of the State Marketing Board.

The Supervising Board shall have charge of the operation and conduct of the market. They may recommend a manager but such appointment must be approved by the State Marketing Board. They may employ, with the approval of the State Marketing Board, the necessary help or assistance required for the satisfactory operation of said market. They shall set the time of the opening and closing of the market and designate the hours said market shall operate. They shall have charge of the rental of stalls or space and the collection of fees for same.

The Manager and Secretary-Treasurer shall furnish satisfactory bonds to the State Marketing Board in an amount to be specified by said Board. All money collected by said Board (Supervising Board) shall be placed in a bank designated by the State Marketing Board and all payments or withdrawals made by check and such checks must be authorized by the State Board and signed by the Secretary and countersigned by the Chairman and Vice-Chairman of the Supervising Board.

Each person, firm, association, or corporation utilizing space for the sale, barter, exchange, or storage of farm produce must first have received a written permit from the manager and such permit will entitle the person, firm, association, or corporation to occupy such space, privilege, or concession as is therein designated, provided, however, that not more than four 11 ft. spaces shall be granted to the holder of a permit, and that under no circumstances shall the purchaser of a stall or stalls, space, privilege, or concession rent, sell, or convey in any manner his rights or privileges to another party, without the written consent of the Supervising Board.

WHOLESALE MARKET ONLY No person shall buy or sell at this market farm produce except at wholesale and by standard containers, dozen or weight in any amount which according to regular practice would be considered as wholesale quantity.

Each person, firm, corporation or association occupying stalls, space or privilege on the market will be required to keep such stall, space or privilege in a sanitary condition at all times.

All complaints must be submitted to the Supervising Board in writing. Appeal from the decision of the Supervising Board may be made to the State Marketing Board where matters of policy or finance are concerned.

The State Marketing Board shall have the authority to remove any member of the Supervising Board upon complaint and proof of claim that such member is incompetent or otherwise disqualified.

Vacancies occurring on the Supervising Board shall be filled by appointment by the other members of such Board from the group represented by the vacating member until an election as hereafter specified shall have been called and the member so chosen duly qualified.

These rules and regulations may be altered or amended at any time, subject to the approval of the State Marketing Board.

PURPOSE The purpose of this market is to provide facilities for the centralization of farm produce for market.

Ownership, and control of all finances of this market, shall be vested in the State Marketing Board, composed of the Governor,

Thomas Announces "Good Neighbor" Policy Is Lauded By Daniel Roper

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 6.—Three further monetary reforms of revolutionary nature are going to be the big problem of the next Congress, possibly blocking all other legislation until they are accomplished, Senator Elmer Thomas, of Oklahoma, said last night.

Enumerating the measures he will introduce, "and fight for until they are passed," Thomas predicted:

1. The government will take over the federal reserve system, purchasing the $187,000,000 federal reserve stock now held by other banks.

2. Further devaluation of the dollar to the legal limit. This would mean removing an additional 10 percent of the gold content, or cutting the dollar to 11 plus grains of gold.

3. Calling in all of the nine separate kinds of money now in circulation, and issuance of one kind of paper money against the metal, gold and silver reserves.

"As the federal reserve system now exists," Thomas said, "it is a failure. It has been dominated by its policies by the big bankers. Three banks in New York, the Chase National, National City and Guaranty Trust, can almost dominate its policies.

"They have run it to their own advantage, practically cornering the money power. Congress is going to break this. We are going back to the Constitution, which gives Congress sole authority to coin money and regulate the value thereof.

"When the government takes over the federal reserve, and it will be done, we will seek to have it administered by a non-political board, comparable in wisdom and authority to the United States supreme court. It will be the supreme court of money.

"Regarding further devaluation, I can force it, and I certainly am going to do it, regardless of how the President regards the bankers or big business. The President was mistaken when he tied the dollar to 16 grains of gold last summer.

"The Governor is expected to call all sheriffs to start a concentrated drive against vagrants. The high way patrol will aid in checking entry of vagrants at the state line.

The Governor said many of the vagrants are accepting employment at one-half and one-third of the pay received by all-year residents.

Saved By Roosevelt, Negro Determined To Defeat DePriest

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—The old South may yet have its revenge on the Northern Republicans who were stigmatized in Reconstruction days as "carpet baggers."

Sylvester Harris, the negro farmer from Columbus, Miss., who last spring spent his last $100 to telephone President Roosevelt—and got personal presidential action to save his farm—arrived in Chicago Friday night to fight the Democratic cause against Rep. Oscar DePriest, negro A. Republican seeking re-election.

"Certa' I 'e a Democrat," said Harris, as local Democrats pumped his hand. "Mistuh Roosevelt done me a turn and now I 'e goin' to help."

The Democratic plan is to have Harris tell his story nightly to DePriest's constituents.

"All I got 'o do is tell the folks what happened," Harris said. "Ain't no Republican president ever done what Mistuh Roosevelt done."

Doumergue Cabinet Out Of Danger Again

PARIS, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Premier Gaston Doumergue's emergency cabinet was again in danger of overthrow last night, but its opponents, seeking to curb what they fear as impending dictatorship, were on the horns of a dilemma.

Former Premier Herriot's radical socialist cabinet followers were apprehensive on the one hand of renewed civil riots if the government is upset, and on the other of the wrath of their constituents if they support Doumergue.

WORLD'S FAIR
BDS IN BLAZE
E LIGHT, NOISE

Large Undertaking
Of Most Successful
Ever Undertaken

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—(AP)—A Century of Progress rushed into the last mad hours of its existence tonight with the same gusto that made it the most successful American fair.

Conceived in a boom era, born in the depths of depression, it matured in a period of recovery effort and grew to giant stature. The sixteen millionth patron of the 1934 season was admitted, bringing to more than $8,500,000 the number of visitors who entered the grounds since the fair was opened May 28, 1933.

The farewell was a pyrotechnical spectacle worthy of a show which will be remembered for its brilliant color and daring illumination.

A single movement on the drums of Holloway's midnight band led out all the exposition lights for a second; then the show again away again in an array of fireworks, flickering in darkness at last when the bells chimed at three o'clock in the morning.

The remains were dissected, an aftermath that will last months. Throughout the day preceding the Holloway's high jinks, cannon boomed, trumpets blared, whistles shrieked and bells rang. The din grew in volume and worked to a crescendo marked by a dazzling display of fireworks.

President Rufus G. Dawes of the fair corporation, Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago and Governor Henry Horner of Illinois, headlined a half-hour program in formal farewell to the exposition.

At its conclusion Dawes pulled a lever which turned off every exterior light at the fair, locked every turnstile, and loosed the first bomb of a bombardment of 500,000 pieces of fireworks.

Coming on Holloway's, the occasion brought out a galaxy of magicians and through the evening there were costume contests, a parade and scores of celebrations.

Attendance for the two five-month seasons neared 29,000,000. The 1933 show counted 22,565,259 admissions. Of the grand total an estimated 15,000,000 came from outside Chicago.

ROLLINS HOPES
HIGH FOR WIN
OVER MIAMI 11

WINTER PARK, Fla., Nov. 6.—Football stock at Rollins has taken a decided jump, upward, as a result of the recent work of Dave Schrage, Tar halfback, and fans are hopeful that the fleet-footed Chicago boy will reach the peak of his form next Saturday night in the game with Miami at Tinker Field.

Schrage has been slow in getting started this season, a sprained ankle early in the season making it impossible to display the power and dash which characterized his play in 1931 and last year.

VOTERS WERE DECIDING ON
57 BILLS TODAY

(Continued From Page One) amendment to permit payment of pensions to retired teachers. Looking back at Maine's prohibition repeal in the September election anti-prohibitionists were counting on at least a majority of the seven states voting on the question today to go over to their side.

Liquor is now legal in twenty-eight states, excluding Maine, which will join the column as soon as a regulatory law is framed. South Carolina, which with North Carolina were the only states to vote against repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, also has started toward legalization. Voters in the primary there gave advisory consent to passage of a state liquor law.

Constitutional amendments proposing repeal of state prohibition were being voted on in Kansas, Florida, South Dakota, Nebraska, Idaho and West Virginia, while Wyoming will conduct a referendum on retention or repeal of its dry law.

In addition there was a referendum in Massachusetts cities and towns on whether to permit sale of hard liquors, or wines and beer. Of the twelve states to vote on tax proposals, five proposed state income levies, that in Louisiana range from 2 to 6 percent on individuals and a flat 4 percent on corporations.

Michigan, Montana, Texas and Washington were voting on income levies. Florida will extend its fruit and sunshine battle with California to embrace the motion-picture industry, one of its constitutional amendments proposing exemption from taxation for fifteen years of motion-picture studios.

Arkansas was balloting on a proposal forbidding new taxes or an increase in existing levies, except by a three-fourths majority of the Legislature in an emergency. It also will hold a referendum on reducing the penalty for non-payment of taxes from 10 to 3 percent and giving delinquent 3 years in which to pay without penalty.

Besides the income tax, Michigan was counting a proposed gasoline levy of not more than 2 cents a gallon. Amendments in Ohio would limit the gasoline tax to 3 cents, restrict the use of such funds to highways and related projects, and exempt licensed motor vehicles from the general property levy.

Minnesota was to determine whether its Legislature should be empowered to exempt household goods and farm machinery from taxation, while an Oklahoma proposal would permit cities and towns to levy a tax for pensioning peace officers.

Oregon was voting on a 200-mill tax limitation; Texas authorizing the Legislature to impose occupational, poll and income taxes, and West Virginia on requiring women to pay a head tax now paid only by males.

Several states were considering the power question in various phases, Oklahomans being asked to make an amendment requiring utilities to obtain permission of the corporation commission before merging with or buying other utility companies.

Oregon was deciding in a referendum whether to authorize the state to vote bonds for state-owned power districts.

In addition to repeal, Nebraska was balloting on creation of a one-house legislature, an old favorite of Senator Norris, and legalization of pari-mutuel horse race betting.

Massachusetts also was conducting a referendum on pari-mutuel, the vote in each county in December for the county alone.

Fine Work Offstage
Gives Tar Visions
Of Victory Saturday

WINTER PARK, Fla., Nov. 6.—Football stock at Rollins has taken a decided jump, upward, as a result of the recent work of Dave Schrage, Tar halfback, and fans are hopeful that the fleet-footed Chicago boy will reach the peak of his form next Saturday night in the game with Miami at Tinker Field.

Schrage has been slow in getting started this season, a sprained ankle early in the season making it impossible to display the power and dash which characterized his play in 1931 and last year.

Saturday's game is Dave's last crack at the Hurricanes. They carried him off the field in Miami last year collapsing after playing like a Trojan and doing all that he could to stem the tide of defeat. Dave has a score to settle with the Miami lads. And Saturday night he might do it.

Schrage emerged from the doldrums in the Oglethorpe game when he starred along with Mobley and Chakales in keeping the Tar with the Petrels most of the way. Last Friday night, against Southern, Schrage was an important factor in the Tar victor going away for some nice gains and playing head-up football all the way. His 80 yard punt at a crucial point in the contest was one of the highlights. A great money player, Schrage is a good boy to have around against teams of the calibre of Miami.

Sarasota Plan
Of Refunding
Is Validated

(Continued From Page One) funding bonds after Nov. 5 until the Homestead Amendment had been tested out by the supreme court, indicating that the agency was desirous of getting the validation ordered prior to election day.

The supreme court, on a confession of error by the county, reversed the previous validation order in line with its decisions in the Citrus and Bay county cases, where it was held refunding bonds to be issued without the approval of the freholder electorate of the taxing unit must carry no additional pledge, and be based solely on the "full faith and credit" pledge of the original bonds.

Sarasota county's original plan pledged the gas tax revenue, delinquent tax revenue and other funds to the refunding. The plan validated last night carries only the "full faith and credit" pledge.

Jackson County
Begins Probe Of Negro Lynching

(Continued From Page 1) Twenty-First Judicial Circuit, notified Governor B. M. Miller yesterday that a special session of the grand jury had been called at Breyton for Nov. 19, in compliance with the governor's request for an investigation of the removal from the Breyton jail of Claude Neal negro, who later was lynched in Florida.

In his call for the special session of the grand jury, Judge Hare said it was "For the purpose of a thorough investigation of the removal of the State of Alabama have been violated by any person connected directly or indirectly with the prisoner from Florida was forcibly removed from the State of Alabama and lynched."

The negro was removed from the Ecambia county jail at Breyton by a mob of more than 100 armed men, who took him back to Greenwood, Fla., near the spot where he killed Lois Canfield, young white girl.

New York, which now has oral hearing, will consider the same issue in the next legislature.

Railroads Told
To Cut Costs,
Improve Service

(Continued From Page One) have been slipping badly and are in danger of continuing to slip, the co-ordinator added. "It should be said that if the business of the country were to increase at a sufficiently rapid rate in the near future, and along with it the traffic of the railroads, the apparent sacrifice on the part of both labor and investors might become inconsequential."

Eastman emphasized that motor-vehicle, water and air transportation are here to stay. He said the railroads must cut their costs and improve their service to meet competition and that there must be unified governmental regulation of all transportation "in staying off a general demoralization which certainly threatens it if it is not already here."

The co-ordinator said he thought a survey which has been under way for months had shown or would show the railroads could lower operation costs and improve service by such economies as unifying terminal facilities and pooling cars in interline service; by using trucks and buses to supplement or replace rail operation, and by utilizing Diesel-electric engines and other modern equipment.

J. F. "Battle Axe Bill" Curry, officer for the Church of God in Florida, has returned to Sanford for a short visit to announce that the recent convention in Cleveland, Tenn., attracting 8435 registered delegates, "was the biggest thing we've ever had." Mr. Curry said that about 15 Sanford persons were in the crowd and that he and they did everything possible to boost Florida and particularly Sanford. A feature of the convention was a parade of about 1000 automobiles, he said.

Faced with an emergency that required immediate and expert attention, FEHA Regional Administrator O. P. Swope at Orlando turned to officials and employees in the Seminole County set-up last week, and, as he reported in Orlando yesterday, they came through with flying colors and with credit to both the state set-up and themselves. The Folk county organization had not responded to the program mapped out for it, Mr. Swope announced.

County Okeys Homestead Act, Local Option

Voters Nearly Five To One In Favor Of Exemption Measure; 1508 For, 308 Against

68 Percent Of Qualified Voted

Oviedo, Chuluota, Lake Mary, Forest City Turn Down Liquor

Two-thirds of the qualified voters of Seminole apparently want to live in tax free houses where they would be free to drink beer, light wines or even hard liquor, and to eliminate waste in governmental operations by reducing the number of circuit judges, the number of grand juries called into session and by setting up uniform provision for the operation of similarly sized cities and towns.

Further, they would let the people of Duval county decide whether or not they wanted to consolidate their city and county government.

That, in effect, is what 2000 of the county's 2978 qualified voters said at the polls yesterday.

They voted nearly five to one in favor of the Homestead Exemption Amendment. The vote was: for exemption, 1508; against exemption, 308.

They voted nearly three to one in favor of repealing the state prohibition amendment. The vote was: for repeal, 1090; against repeal, 413.

They voted nearly two to one in favor of selling liquor in Seminole county. The vote was: for selling, 1048; against selling, 551.

As far as the Homestead Amendment was concerned, the city voters' five-to-one approval was matched by the same kind of endorsement around the county. The vote in the two city precincts to take 1931 for the amendment and 111 county precincts totaled 557 for the amendment and 118 against it.

On the local option question, the margin was slightly different. In the city, the voters were nearly three to one in favor of local option, but in the county the margin was reduced to about 3 to 2 in favor.

The total local option vote in the city was 707 for and 294 against; in the county it was 341 for and 260 against.

On the First Amendment—to reduce the number of judicial circuits in the state to 15, allowing one circuit judge for each 50,000 population—they voted approval by 1213 to 160, or nearly eight to one.

On the Fourth Amendment—to reduce the number of grand juries and give the prosecuting attorneys the right to indict any person for any other than a capital crime—they voted approval by 920 to 272, or nearly four to one.

They voted three to one in favor of classifying towns and cities by population to make uniform provision for their incorporation, governmental jurisdiction, powers, duties and privileges. The vote was for, 823, against, 273.

Voters Of Nation Assure Roosevelt Another Two-Year Right-Of-Way For New Deal

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—(AP)—The single rational certainty emerging from the congressional margins yesterday was that President Roosevelt won right of way for the New Deal for two more years.

In a sense the actual balloting was but the passing of a known horizon. Ever since the Maine results in September, the tallying of those Senate and House majorities for the Democrats had been about taken-for-granted, even by innumerable Republicans.

Now the event was over. Far ahead gleamed another horizon, with the figures "1935" beckoning.

Far from resting back, the Democrats—through Chairman Farley—already had announced the New Deal was going the same as ever. He mentioned the relief and Public Works policies especially.

And Chairman Fletcher for the Republicans said that party's national platform was unchanged.

RED CROSS ROLL 'DICTATOR' LONG CALL DRIVE TO OPEN ON SUNDAY

Local Volunteer Workers Planning To Enroll 700 Members

Volunteer workers for the Seminole Chapter of the American Red Cross are making plans now for the annual Roll Call membership campaign which opens on Sunday, Nov. 11, according to a statement today by Mrs. A. W. Knox, chairman of the local chapter. The quota assigned to this chapter is 700 members, and Mrs. Knox says there is every indication that the goal will be reached, if not passed, during the roll call campaign.

A gain in membership was reported by the national organization for last year. Mrs. Knox said to-day "The organization did not suffer a serious loss in members at any time during the period of stress, such decrease as occurred was checked last year, and the response to the roll call this year is expected to be well up toward the pre-stress figure."

"Immediately after President Roosevelt was inaugurated in March, 1933, the Red Cross pledged its support and the use of all its facilities, and ever and over again the federal government has called on the Red Cross for cooperation. Disaster relief and relief and rehabilitation for veterans and soldiers and sailors are a permanent national responsibility of the Red Cross.

"In addition to this permanent service there has been close affiliation between the Red Cross and various Federal Emergency Relief activities during the past year. Red Cross chapters gave information as to emergency set-ups and administration; boys and war veterans were enrolled in Civilian Conservation Corps camps and in the ranks of Civil and Public Works forces.

"First aid was taught by the Red Cross on CWA and PWA projects, and is now being taught in CCC camps to lessen accidental deaths and injuries; public health nurses have worked to prevent illness and malnutrition in the homes of the needy and home hygiene instructors have taught girls and women (Continued On Page Three)

MORRO CASTLE FIRED BY EXPLOSION IS HINT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—(AP)—The possibility of an explosion of contraband munitions aboard the Morro Castle caused the fire which swept the liner and resulted in the death of 134 persons is mentioned in the report Dickerson M. Hoover has made on the tragedy.

Hoover, assistant director of navigation and steamboat inspection, said yesterday his report on the disaster also reviewed other possible causes of the blaze, among them incendiaries, spontaneous combustion and defective electric wiring.

2 Negroes Qualify For Offices In Atlanta

ATLANTA, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Two negroes yesterday qualified as independent candidates for alderman and school commissioner of the city of Atlanta.

Maeco Blackbear, a life insurance district superintendent, opposes Almerman W. Guy Coleman, Democratic nominee for another term from the first ward.

Dr. E. M. Sheppard notified Mayor Key he is running as an independent against School Commissioner H. J. Landers.

110,000 Acres Of Land Long Used By Local Hunters Closed To Trespassers

ORLANDO, Nov. 7.—E. C. Bess is bounded on the east by the beachside game preserve and on the west by the Morro castle. The three tracts, now closed to hunters and sportsmen, are the Orange and Ocala counties, the largest game preserves in Florida.

"I have to follow in the law," said Bess Monday. "I am sure all my friends will understand my position exactly and that they will help me in every way to protect the land." Bess says he says that the 110,000-acre tract is under fence and had been posted on all sides and at all entrances.

It was pointed out that the instructions would serve to establish a large game preserve which would prove beneficial in later years.

All the lumber companies' property lies in East Orange county and northern Ocala county. It is said to be one of the most beautiful sections of Florida abounding in lakes, streams, virgin timber and rare vistas of scenic beauty.

MERRIAM WINS OVER SINCLAIR

Defeated Author Of EPIC Plan Charges That Thousands Of Votes Were Stolen

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Upton Sinclair's bid for the governorship of California with his "EPIC" plan has failed. Charging that thousands of votes had been "stolen," the former Socialist who won the Democratic nomination conceded the victory of his Republican opponent, Acting Governor Frank E. Merriam early today with a letter of a recall movement.

With the defeat of Sinclair went glimmering some of Florida's hopes for the immediate capture of part of California's vast movie industry.

High film executives had declared before the election that should Sinclair win, the industry would move to Florida.

Florida's bid still was strong, however, due to the passage of a Constitutional amendment exempting studios from ad valorem taxes for 15 years.

Governor Merriam, Iowa born, said his victory was "one of Americanism over radicalism," while Sinclair, author of the widely denominated "End Poverty in California" campaign, retorted, "We are going ahead and ending our program."

Upton Sinclair, Democratic candidate, reiterated yesterday that if he is defeated by Frank E. Merriam, Republican candidate, (Continued On Page Five)

Former Sebring Bank Head Heads For Jail

SEBRING, Nov. 7.—Chester A. Skipper, former Sebring banker, yesterday was ordered committed to the state penitentiary by the judge of the trial court in the July of last year on conviction of embezzling funds of the suspended Highlands county bank.

Commitment papers were issued yesterday morning upon receipt of the state supreme court's mandate in the case, but Skipper was out of the county and not expected here until last night when he will be taken into custody. Sheriff Schumacher said it had been reported previously Skipper would make last minute moves to evade the prison sentence, but had not done so late yesterday.

7 AMENDMENTS WIN APPROVAL AROUND STATE

JACKSONVILLE, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Florida voters in their general election swept statewide proposals to alter 7 years of bond day law, exempt homesteads up to a value of $5000 from taxes, and approved five other changes in the State Constitution.

The proposals also gave a hearty vote of support to the New Deal by repealing all Democratic nominees for national and state offices. They were unopposed on the ballot.

A total of 100,000 votes from complete and unofficial figures for the ballot that all seven amendments were voted.

In total returns late this afternoon for the Homestead Amendment, victory at the polls in yesterday's general election.

On the basis of complete and unofficial returns, only two counties, Gadsden and Jefferson, were checked against the Amendment.

The "No County" vote: Duval county, for, 11,500, against, 4,000; Marion county, for, 2,700, against, 577; Orange county, for, 100,000, against, 251; Palm Beach county, for, 2,900, against, 212; St. Johns county, for, 6,800, against, 1,200; Volusia county, for, 4,800, against, 1,400; Alachua county, for, 1,200, against, 200; Leon county, completely for, 1,110, against, 200.

The exemption vote was the largest vote in the election, running ahead of the ballots for recall and all other amendments.

The vote on the remainder of the amendments this afternoon: Bond, 857 precincts of 1284 for, 29,421 against, 21,000; Judicial recruiting, 776 precincts for, 67,211 against, 2,843; Grand juries, 776 precincts for, 59,017 against, 21,831; uniform city county governments, 776 precincts for, 29,000 against, 20, (Continued On Page Five)

Little Change Anticipated In Securities Prices On Street As Result Of Off-Year Vote

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Wall Street brokers have been talking widely about a post-election rise in securities prices, but if the stock market conforms to the November chart line of past off-year elections, the bullish hopes will remain unfulfilled.

Neither will the market, in event of history repeating itself, show any bearish reaction to the day's voting. For the story told by the charts, which show all of its upward and downward curves and safe wise movements for the last 34 years, is one of negative response to all elections except the quadrennial national election.

The theory that the market might show improved action after the counting of the votes was largely fostered by the frequent repeated observation in trade quarters that business had been showing hesitancy and uncertainty pending outcome of the election.

On this basis the brokers have argued that whatever the voters' approval of the New Deal, trade could be counted upon to show a (Continued On Page 2)

CODE VIOLATION CHARGED AGAINST LEESBURG FIRM

LEESBURG, Nov. 7.—A petition for an injunction to restrain the Walling Gate Company, Leesburg, from alleged violations of the code for the lumber and timber product industry was filed in federal court today by John W. Holm, U.S. attorney for the southern district of Florida.

The petition charges that the defendant is now selling and offering for sale large crates at Leesburg, Fla., provided by the defendant and having clearly marked and containing their intention to use the crates in violation of the code.

Such crates, it is alleged, constitute an unfair trade practice, giving the defendants an unreasonable advantage over competitors and demoralize legitimate commerce.

Holm presented the petition today. The practice will result in injury to the industry and will tend to defeat the purposes and objectives of the NRA.

Fletcher Says Bank Laws Now Are Okey

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Chairman Fletcher of the Senate Banking Committee, said yesterday he saw no reason why any drastic changes should be made in the banking and currency exchange control laws by the next Congress, and unless a positive agreement is reached over the measure, legislation should be postponed.

After mentioning the Bank and Securities Act of 1933, the Securities and Exchange Act of 1934, the RFC and mandatory legislation housing and home owners' loan measures Fletcher said:

"My idea is we had better see what the experience of the administrators has been with reference to these acts before trying to change them. We had better go on with the laws we have without undertaking to pass drastic reform measures which would change the whole system under which we are acting."

PRESIDENT MAY RESIGN

GIBHALTER, Nov. 7.—(AP)—President Nicolo Alcalá Zamora of Spain, it was learned on highest authority, may soon resign the office to which he was elected in 1931 after a republic was proclaimed, and great changes may take place in the nation's government in a few days.

Pittsburgh, Pa. (AP)—Long the nation's citadel of Republicanism, has gone entirely Democratic.

Returns from yesterday's national election in which Democrats generally triumphed over a whittled Republicanism showed that Joseph P. Gurney, Pittsburgh oil man had been sent to the Senate by Pennsylvania and George H. Lodge, former Maine Gov. to the House had been elected in 1934.
