Inflation Climbs, Remains Below Double-Digit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The inflation rate climbed 8.4 percent in May on an annual basis — completing the first three-month string of singledigit price increases since the spring of 1978, the government reported today.

The latest Consumer Price Index figures show the inflation rate for the past 12 months, from May 1980 to May 1981, has dropped to 9.8 percent. The last time the inflation rate dropped that low for the previous year was in February of 1978.

Helped by cheaper fuel and food, the CPI rose a seasonally adjusted 0.7 percent for May, higher than many analysts expected, but still well below rates typical of the past year. If continued for a full year, that would be an 8.4 percent annual rate, seasonally adjusted, the Labor Department said.

The major influence forcing prices up in May was the increasing cost of financing and purchasing a home, which accounted for four-fifths of May's increase.

Despite the increases, May completed a rate triplet — three months of consumer price increases below the double-digit level. That is the first time the rate of price increases stayed in single digits that long since March, April and May of 1978.

"Double-digit inflation as a phenomenon is behind us," Murray Weidenbaum, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, told a press breakfast Monday before the figures were released.

The Consumer Price Index for the month reached 269.0, which means it took $269.00 in 1981 dollars to buy the same amount of goods retail that $100 could purchase 14 years ago.

The current trend began in March, when a 7.5 percent annual rate reflected a slowing of gasoline and fuel oil price hikes. It continued in April, when fuel prices began declining. April's Consumer Price Index rose just 5.1 percent, one of the lowest figures in years.

As recently as February, the index turned in a 12.1 annual rate of increase, far more typical of the past 14 months' performance, nine months of which saw retail prices go up more than 10 percent at an annual rate.

Today's price report was accompanied by another government measure of the real earnings of Americans, showing a disappointing sixth straight month of slight declines.

Music to motorists was the report that in May the average cost of a gallon of gasoline fell another 1.1 cents to $1.37.

Perhaps prompted by lowering gasoline prices, Americans lately have been returning to the gasoline pump with their usual post-Memorial Day enthusiasm. Gasoline sales by refiners are up 33 percent above a year ago, according to the Energy Department. Yet prices continue to be pushed down all along the supply pipeline by the world oversupply of gasoline.

THE OSPREY HAS LANDED

Pilot Bud Rogers, owner of Rogers Aircraft, hooks up his damaged amphibious experimental aircraft "Osprey 2" to a back hoe tractor after making an emergency landing because of mechanical problems Monday. The landing, in a field at Turner Farms off Farmington Road in Osteen, damaged the nose of the plane. It was bashed in when the plane encountered a drainage ditch, but Rogers, who was flying out of Sanford Airport, was uninjured.

County: No New Taxes

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

There will be no new taxes, no new programs and a reduction in the number of county employees in the 1982 fiscal year beginning Oct. 1.

This was the interpretation put on the actions of four county commissioners Monday afternoon who agreed to "hold the line" on spending, said Commission Chairman Bob Sturm today.

Sturm, said he wishes to "provide the same amount of dollars for county government as the current year."

There are several factors affecting the proposed county budget for the coming fiscal year — an increase in the homestead exemption and the elimination of several grant projects, such as CETA and the new county jail.

A tentative budget has been prepared, according to Eleanor Anderson, director of the county's office and budget management team.

She estimates the county's next fiscal year budget at $32,171,673, down more than $10 million from this fiscal year's budget of $42,701,334. Those figures, Anderson points out, do not include the county's budgeting for special taxing districts, such as lighting and fire.

And, the approximately $10 million difference projected for next year's county budget results from elimination of about $6 million in grant monies for CETA projects now discontinued and grant monies used for the new county jail. Another $2 million, she said, won't be needed next year because the county has discontinued other programs.

This fiscal year's property tax rate, which commissioners say they'll attempt to keep the same, maybe decrease next fiscal year, is $5.24 per $1,000 assessed valuation.

The tax rate generates $13,106,978 from this fiscal year's tax base of $1,402,345,545, with the remaining $29,594,356 coming from state and federal funding and other non-property tax sources such as fees.

And, while next fiscal year's tax base will be improved by $184 million in new construction added to the tax rolls, it will be affected severely by the increase in homestead exemptions. Anderson noted this fiscal year's $419,892,419 homestead exemption figure will be increased additionally by $133,864,790 because of the increase from $5,000 to $15,000 in homestead exemptions for residents of Florida who have lived here five years or longer. Hence, Anderson noted, the county's tax base will only be increased by about 2 percent next fiscal year.

The board of county commissioners has scheduled morning, afternoon and evening sessions on proposed departmental budgets all this week, except today.

"It means that the county will have $400,000 less money to operate on in the new year than the current one," Sturm said today. "We have already eliminated six positions in the board of county commissioners' staff departments," Sturm said, noting three positions were cut from planning and one from central services.

"The new tax rate will be the same or less," Sturm said, "despite the increase in homestead exemptions, which will reduce the tax base despite the 10 percent increase in costs due to inflation; and despite the negative effects on the county's budget the state Legislature has had."

County Administrator Roger Neiswender, in his budget message to commissioners last week, said county revenues will drop in the new year from $32.1 million to $30.9 million, urging commissioners to raise the property tax rate by five percent from the current $5.24 per $1,000 assessed valuation to $5.51.

Commissioner Robert "Bud" Feather told colleagues Monday that the people in their vote last year to increase homestead exemptions were also telling elected officials to cut spending and that they want no new taxes.

Commissioner Barbara Christensen has consistently said she would oppose any increase in taxes and Commissioner Sandra Glenn said taxpayers have been giving her the message at homeowners' meetings that they are opposed to any increase in taxes.

Commissioner Bill Kirchoff said today the majority position on the budget — held by himself, Feather, Mrs. Christensen and Mrs. Glenn — is to cut the budget, keeping present programs with some deletions.

"In the past," Kirchoff said today, "we could look at new programs without too much impact on property taxes. With the increase in homestead exemptions that source of revenue isn't there."

Casselberry Golfers Have 'Shocking' Game

By BRITT SMITH
Herald Staff Writer

A 21-year-old Longwood man almost took the Big Bogy on the first hole of the Casselberry Golf Club Monday afternoon when he was struck by a bolt of lightning which knocked two other members of his foursome unconscious.

Carlos A. Garcia, of 103 Brandywine Lane, was in critical condition in the intensive care unit at Florida Hospital-Altamonte this morning with severe burns over much of his right side.

Fellow golfers George L. Bosse, 22, of 3245 Athena Drive, Winter Park; and Joe P. Ditolla, 21, of 810 Van Ness, Longwood, were expected to be released from the hospital later today after being admitted for overnight observations. A fourth player, George Carpineto, 27, of 6967 Alma Ave., Winter Park, escaped injury.

Garcia, a student at the University of Central Florida, and his friends were on the first green at the golf club off Lake Triplett Drive when a bolt came seemingly "out of the clear blue sky" around 3 p.m., Bosse recalled.

He said there were heavy clouds and thunder in the distance, "but on the course it was clear. I don't know where that lightning came from."

"It happened so fast," Carpineto said. "It was clear and all of a sudden I was on my rear end. I was watching a putt and then I hit the ground."

The lightning bolt apparently hit Garcia in the right shoulder and passed through his body and out his right foot, burning a hole in his sock and shoe. The other three golfers were not hit, but were knocked to the ground by the force of the electrical blast.

After the lightning hit, Carpineto said he ran to the clubhouse to call police who in turn notified paramedics.

On the scene in 3-5 minutes, emergency medical technicians worked furiously on Garcia who was not breathing when they arrived. Using a respirator, they restored his breathing and transported him to the hospital where he began to breathe on his own within a half hour.

The brunt of the storm which felled the four golfers was confined mostly to Orange County where trees were uprooted, power lines downed, and homes damaged.

In Seminole County, there were reports of nothing more serious than a few small trees being blown over and a temporary loss of power in the south end of the county. A spokesman for Florida Power Corp. said electricity was disrupted "for maybe a few hundred" residents for less than an hour.

Begin Says Lebanon Threats Were Just A Diversion

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — Prime Minister Menachem Begin revealed his threat to attack Syrian missiles in Lebanon was to divert attention from Israel's planned attack on Iraq's nuclear reactor, Israel Radio said.

The report Monday indicated U.S. presidential envoy Philip Habib, who was rushed to the region on a peace mission May 7, may have been shuttling between Middle East capitals to head off a conflict that was never likely.

Habib, continuing the diplomatic efforts he has sustained with only one break, returned to Beirut Monday for further talks with Lebanese leaders on the missile confrontation.

Begin also told his parliament's Foreign Affairs and Defense Committee Monday the United States has a document backing Israel's contention the Iraqi reactor was meant for military use.

Begin "indicated in the present situation, Israel's intelligence-gathering functions are not impaired" by the batteries of Syrian SAM-6 missiles in Lebanon's Bekaa Valley that have raised fears of a new Middle East war since their installation April 29.

If true, the radio report suggests Begin may be willing to end the crisis over the Soviet-made anti-aircraft missiles, which he had claimed threatened Israeli reconnaissance.

Last Thursday Begin told reporters he was not giving the United States any deadline to end the crisis, but warned it could not drag on indefinitely and Israel would use military means if diplomacy failed.

The report said, "Begin's harsh statements about the Syrian missiles in Lebanon were meant as a diversion from the attack on Iraq before it took place."

Sanford Appoints 2 To Housing Authority

Sanford City Commissioners Monday night unanimously appointed teacher Eliza Pringle and Sanford businessman Joseph Caldwell to replace Edward Blacksheare and D.C. McCoy on the Sanford Housing Authority.

The appointment of Mrs. Pringle, at Commissioner David Farr's suggestion, to replace Blacksheare was approved by the commission without incident.

However, a suggestion from Commissioner Milton Smith that Teri Buratt of Redding Gardens, be named to the second vacancy was met with strong objections from Housing Authority tenants in the audience.

Hannah Pinkley, of the Sanford Joint Tenant's Council, urged commissioners to name Caldwell and Samuel Wright to the two seats.

Wright formerly served on the Housing Authority.

Mrs. Pinkley said too often in the past the commissioners have named authority board members from the middle class.

"They come into the Housing Authority and don't know the problems of the tenants," she said. To Smith's comment that the city commissioners "wants to appoint someone who is active and has your best interest at heart, Mrs. Pinkley responded, "They all say that and when they get there, they kick us in the teeth."

When Miss Buratt's name was mentioned, a chorus of "No" rose from the audience.

Rev. Jim Eubanks, another Housing Authority tenant, said the tenants "have been suffering for sometime. We need persons with experience on the Authority who have experienced being poor," he said.

Caldwell and Mrs. Pringle are to take office at the Authority's next meeting. According to Gail Fleming, Housing Authority secretary, the next meeting of the Authority has not as yet been set.

Neither Blacksheare nor McCoy could be reached for comment today. Their terms expired in May but both had sought reappointment. Housing Authority members served without pay.

WORLD IN BRIEF

9 More Executed In Iran In New Reign Of Terror

UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL.
Iran's ousted President Abolhasan Bani-Sadr was in hiding today "out of reach" of authorities and mobs howling for his death, his friends said. But authorities executed nine more Iranians by firing squad in a mounting reign of terror.
The latest executions Monday in the former shah's dreaded Evin Prison brought to 32 the number put to death in two days, with Tehran Radio announcing the latest deaths today.
"The people have come, where are you?" shouted Iranians, who surged into the streets, in taunts directed at the former chief of state after his dismissal Monday by Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini.
"Death to America. We support revolutionary executions," chanted the crowds in response to the call by Revolutionary Guards, who executed 23 of Bani-Sadr's supporters Sunday.

The Islamic Revolution Court said, according to Tehran Radio, nine more Iranians were executed Monday, six of them leftists, for participating in clashes Saturday that pitted Bani-Sadr supporters against revolutionary guards.

The other three executed were charged with cooperating with the former regime and helping international Zionism, the court said, announcing the deaths.

The two-day execution toll was the biggest since the first days of the Islamic Republic following Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi's ouster and the crushing of an alleged coup during the hostage crisis.

Call For Self-Censorship

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — The Polish Communist Party warned amid intensified Soviet attacks Solidarity union must curb its liberal press and authorities must crack down on dissidents.

"Words dictated by hostility and hatred, expressions of political nonsense can be read in hundreds of leaflets, bulletins and papers circulating in the country," the Communist Party paper Trybuna Ludu said Monday of Solidarity's publications.

Solidarity must watch what it prints in its largely uncensored press because Poland's situation requires "more responsibility for words" than ever before, the party paper said.

The demands for curbing anti-socialist and anti-Soviet sentiments in the union's publications came after the Communist Party Central Committee replaced its more liberal propaganda boss Jozef Klasa last week by hard-liner Leslaw Tokarski.

Tokarski, writing in the newspaper Perspektywy, said the current situation requires "decisive action against the enemies of socialism." He said "practical steps," not just words, were needed.

Brezhnev Makes Promises

MOSCOW (UPI) — President Leonid Brezhnev today pledged the Soviet Union does not want a confrontation with any other nation in the East or the West.

The 74-year-old Soviet leader appealed to world parliaments in a speech opening a session of the Supreme Soviet to "do everything possible to prevent a new world war" by ending the arms race.

Brezhnev promised the U.S.S.R. has no military designs on any other state, and no intention of dominating any independent nation.
Although the theme of his speech was arms control, the Kremlin leader appeared to be making a guarded reference to Western fears of a Russian invasion of Poland.

Brezhnev wound up his 14-minute speech by reading a draft of a statement to be approved by the Supreme Soviet at this week's session.

"The Soviet Union does not threaten anyone," he said. "It does not seek confrontation with any state in the West or the East. There is no type of weapons it would not agree to limit, to ban, on a mutual foundation by agreement with other states."

Pope Has Inflamed Lung

ROME (UPI) — Pope John Paul II is suffering from an inflamed right lung complicating his recovery from gunshot wounds, but a Vatican official said the pontiff has shown some improvement since being readmitted to the hospital three days ago.

The Rev. Romeo Panciroli, the Vatican's chief press spokesman, also said Monday the pope's temperature was subsiding slowly from a high of 100.5 degrees Fahrenheit.

"Pope John Paul II, who showed signs of inflammation of the right pleura and lung over the past week, is in a phase of improvement," Panciroli said. "The tests carried out at the Gemelli Hospital show a regression of the pulmonary affection."

But doctors treating John Paul, 61, said his unexpected return to the hospital Saturday has had a demoralizing effect on the pope.

They said his appetite was off, that he spent most of his time praying and he was speaking little except to one of his personal secretaries, the Polish priest Stanislaw Dziwiz.

Dollar Drops; Gold Up

LONDON (UPI) — The dollar opened lower on European foreign exchanges today as Eurodollar rates declined in light trading, and the price of gold rose.

Gold opened up at $464.30 an ounce in Zurich from $462.50 at Monday's close, and in London at $465 from $462.50.

Ex-Precacher Pleads Nolo In Sex Assault

By BRITT SMITH
Herald Staff Writer

A 36-year-old ex-preacher pleaded no contest in Seminole Circuit Court Monday to sexually assaulting a five-year-old girl.

Charles Lonnie Earnest, former minister of music at Sanford's Ravenna Park Baptist Church, entered his plea to two counts of committing a lewd and lascivious act on a child in a brief proceeding before Judge Joseph Davis Jr.

Sentencing was deferred pending completion of an investigation into Earnest's background. Earnest would normally be subject to a maximum prison term of 15 years on each count, but because he pleaded guilty to similar charges — fondling three young girls at the church he pastored in Highlands County, Fla. — in the spring of 1977, he could receive up to 30 years imprisonment per count under the Habitual Offender Act.

The local charges against Earnest stemmed from two incidents which occurred between Thanksgiving and Jan. 31 when Earnest molested the girl at the Ravenna Park Church and the offices of Star-line International, at the Sanford Airport, where he was sales manager.

Earnest was subsequently charged with committing additional sexual assaults on an 11-year-old girl and two 8-year-olds, but those charges were later dropped.

In other court action Monday, seven persons were sentenced for crimes to which they had earlier pleaded guilty or been tried. They are:

— Gladys Matos, 32, 213 Elderwood St., Winter Springs, grand theft, three years probation and five weekends in the county jail. Matos was accused of shoplifting $219.48 from the Jefferson Ward's store in the Interstate Mall, Altamonte Springs.

— Linda Roberts, 23, of Oviedo, burglary, three years probation and five weekends in jail. Roberts was charged with breaking into the home of Jerry Kinaley, 937 Shed St., Oviedo.

— Geoffrey William Bunnell, 23, Lockhart, Fla., resisting arrest with violence, three years probation and 10 weekends in jail. Bunnell's wife Brenda, 21, was charged with obstructing a law enforcement officer during the performance of his duty, and was given a one-year probationary term. The pair were involved in a Nov. 30 fight at Spanish Trace Apartments, Altamonte Springs, in which deputy sheriff Terry Huffman was punched.

— Isaac Stephens, 21, Lake Monroe Terrace, Sanford, burglary, five years probation and 60 days in jail. The charges against Stephens stemmed from a Nov. 25 incident in which he broke into 39 Higgins Terrace in Sanford.

— Kenneth Lee Stanley, 18, 11 Helen St., Casselberry, carrying a concealed firearm, three years probation. Police vestigating a disturbance at a local convenience store Sept. 27.

— Daniel Rene Therriault, 31, of Palm Bay, forgery and petty theft, five years probation and a fine of $1,000. Therriault was accused of using a fraudulent credit card to purchase $57.04 watch band from Tammey Jewels of Altamonte Springs.

ACCIDENTAL SHOOTING

John M. Partain thought the .22-caliber rifle he was cleaning wasn't loaded. He found out differently Monday afternoon when he pulled the trigger and shot himself in the hand.

Partain, 31, of 2801 1/2 Park Ave., Sanford, told Seminole County sheriff's deputies that he was cleaning his rifle in the back yard of a friend between 4 and 5 p.m. when the shooting occurred.

Thinking the weapon was unloaded, Partain said he pulled the trigger while his hand was over the end of the barrel. The gun went off and a bullet struck him between the middle and ring finger of his right hand.

He was treated at Seminole Memorial Hospital and released.

CONSIDERATE VICTIM

Someone stole Ralph Willis' motorcycle early this morning, but Willis didn't want police swarming all the neighborhood disturbing the neighbors, so he waited several hours before calling police.

Willis, who works for the Seminole County Animal Control office, said he heard a noise outside his home at 99 Exeter Court, Sanford, around 1:20 a.m. and noticed that his 70cc Honda motorcycle valued at $850 was gone.

But not wanting to cause a rucis so early in the morning, Willis said he decided to wait until 6:30 a.m. to call police.

U.S., Australia, New Zealand Tell Soviets: Keep Out Of Poland

WELLINGTON, New Zealand (UPI) — Secretary of State Alexander Haig ended his Asian trip today by joining Australia and New Zealand in warning the Soviet Union to keep out of Poland.

In the communique before Haig flew to Hawaii, the ANZUS partners noted the Soviet Union had been clearly warned of the grave consequences for international peace and stability of intervening in Poland and reaffirmed Poland should settle its own affairs.

The American delegation left for Hawaii, with a refueling stop in Pago Pago, American Samoa. The secretary will spend two days in Hawaii before leaving early Thursday for California and Washington.

But there were two unsettled issues in the two days of talks.

Australian Foreign Minister Anthony Street and his New Zealand counterpart

Brian Talboys said they received "further clarification" from Haig on the U.S. desire that their countries contribute troops to a Sinal peace-keeping force.

But, the ANZUS members postponed "further discussion" on participation in the Middle East force, with both ministers saying they would have to report to their respective Cabinets before giving an answer.

Haig emphasized at a news conference although the United States would participate in the peace-keeping force, it would not be in command. He said the command would be decided by participating nations once the peace-keeping mission was formed.

While there was agreement between the three on the need for a political settlement of the war in Cambodia and the need for the invading Vietnamese forces to withdraw, they disagreed on how best to accomplish it.

Haig has tried to mount steady political and economic pressure to isolate Vietnam and make it into an "international pariah." Australia and New Zealand, according to New Zealand, fear further isolation will only drive Hanot deeper into the arms of the Soviet Union.

Talboys said the fighting in Cambodia raises the risk of the war spilling into Thailand and the "continuation of the conflict necessarily means that Vietnam's dependence on the Soviet Union is likely to increase."

Australia and New Zealand reaffirmed their commitment to increasing defense preparations in the Southeast Asia and Southwest Pacific regions. The council noted American B-52s, based at Darwin, Australia, have begun reconnaissance flights over the Indian Ocean.

'Death Is Too Good For Him'

Angry Fans See Chapman Plead Guilty To Lennon Killing

NEW YORK (UPI) — Fans of John Lennon were not satisfied with a guilty plea entered by Mark David Chapman, who admitted killing the ex-Beatle last December.

"Death is too good for him," said Linda Jones.

"They should send him into outer space without oxygen," said David Weissner.

"Maybe they should let him walk free and let his fans get hold of him," added Ms. Jones, even while admitting her desire for revenge is "so unlike what Lennon taught."

She and Weissner were among three dozen Lennon fans who went to a Manhattan courtroom Monday to see the beginning of jury selection in Chapman's trial.

Instead, they saw the Honolulu resident plead guilty to killing Lennon, whose music and preachings on peace and love made him the idol of millions.

Chapman, 24, protected by a bullet-proof vest and six court officers who surrounded him, was silent as state Supreme Court Justice Dennis Edwards accepted his plea.

The former mental patient, who so revered Lennon he imitated the guitarist's music in his own band, originally pleaded innocent by reason of insanity.

But on June 8, Chapman told his attorney, Jonathan Marks, God visited him twice in his solitary cell on Rikers Island and suggested he take responsibility for his actions.

The attorney said Chapman — who lost 25 pounds because he feared other prisoners poisoned his food — "made his own decision, against my advice ... because of his firm belief he's doing God's will."

He added that Chapman, who is taking mild sedatives, is "deeply religious" and feels "real remorse for Lennon's family."

"I would say he is at peace now," Marks said.

The attorney said he still intends to seek a hearing on Chapman's mental competency. Two hearings have determined Chapman is mentally fit.

In a 45-minute private session before the proceeding in open court, Chapman was asked by Assistant District Attorney Allen Sullivan, who was to have prosecuted the case, whether the decision to enter a guilty plea was his own.

"It is my decision and God's decision," Chapman replied, according to a transcript of the session printed today in The New York Times.

Edwards set sentencing for Aug. 24.

Winter Springs To Consider How To Spend $79,000

Winter Springs residents will have the opportunity to voice their ideas at tonight's city council meeting on how approximately $79,000 in federal revenue sharing funds should be spent.

A public hearing for citizen input on how to spend the federal monies will be the first item on the agenda when the council convenes at 7:30 p.m. in City Hall on N. Edgemon Avenue.

Citizens will also get a chance tonight to comment on proposed changes in the city charter, two of which include a name change from city council to commission, with commissioners serving three-instead of the present two-year terms.

In other action, the council is scheduled to discuss:

— Granting I&W Refuse Service a $1 rate increase to $7 per month.

— A proposed ordinance regulating the sale of alcoholic beverages in bars to prevent patrons from buying drinks just prior to the 2 a.m. cutoff time and remaining in the lounge past 2 a.m.

— Final engineering plans for 118 patio homes in the Hawk's Landing section of the Highlands, and 100 standard lots and 67 estate lots in the Bear Creek development of Tuacawilla.

Con Man Rents Same House To 7 Families

HOUSTON (UPI) — The new tenants were eager to move into the three-bedroom brick home they had rented for $500 a month. Then the other tenants began showing up. And showing up. And showing up.

By late Monday, seven families were known to have fallen victim to an enterprising con man and woman who apparently leased the house to anyone who inquired, then skipped town with more than $6,000 in deposits and rent, leaving many of their victims homeless and penniless.

Two of the families, the Reeves and Cooks, are living in the house.

Bob Ley, the owner, and the Post Wood Homeowners Association, the neighborhood civic group, helped the victims with food and alternative housing. They also kept an eye out for more would-be tenants.

"It's not the first of the month," said Linda Reece, 30, who is seven months pregnant and has three sons, 13, 10 and 5.
"We're wondering how many more people are going to come here wanting to move in. The ad had run a long time. People still call. We've warned everybody who calls."

A couple who presented themselves as John and Sue Walker had leased the one-story brick home from Ley, then offered it for rent for $500 a month, including utilities and access to a pool and clubhouse, in a subdivision about 30 miles north of Houston where the average tenant would pay $500-$600 per month plus utilities.

Jay Reece, 31, came to Houston from Denver, signed a lease after seeing an ad in a local newspaper and expected to move in Saturday.

After the Reeves moved in, Don Cook, 28, a window hanger who quit his job in Cincinnati to move his ailing 6-month-old son, Joshua, to a warmer climate, showed up.

Later during the weekend, the John Letourneau family from Nisway, Minn.; the John Ellispere family from Conception, Mo.; the Jack Martin family of Tulsa, Okla., and the Glenn Zapalac family from Houston showed up, all holding leases.

On Monday, the seventh victim, Otis Patterson, 35, of Houston tried to call the house, discovered the telephone was disconnected, became suspicious and drove out to check. He at least has a job and no family to support.

Each of the victims paid rent and deposits ranging from $400 to $1,200 and never questioned the integrity of the con man.

"There was nothing suspicious about him," Cook said. "He seemed like a down-home country boy."
Harris County Sheriff Deputy Tom Keen said "John and Sue Walker" drove a Cadillac with a Louisiana license plate bought last month in New Orleans under the assumed name of Marcello.

"I'm following up on some possible leads, but I don't have his (true) name yet," Keen said.
Keen said if they are caught, the suspects likely would face a felony theft charge and two to 10 years in prison for each renter they victimized.

Fires Roar Through Napa Valley Wine Area

NAPA, Calif. (UPI) — A huge wind-whipped fire roared out of control through the Napa Valley wine country today, threatening several small towns along the highway linking Sacramento and San Francisco. At least 39 plush homes were destroyed in the blaze authorities said was deliberately set.

State forestry spokesman Nick Fowler said the blaze was sparked by four individual fires set within minutes and miles of each other along the roadway running through the heart of the lush vineyard valley, which provides much of America's choice wine.

The vineyards and wineries, themselves, were said to be in no immediate danger.

Seven people were treated for burns and smoke inhalation suffered in the inferno, which gained in fury as the four brush fires converged late Monday and swept through grass and brush dried by searing 100-degree temperatures.

Reagan Very Popular?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Gallup Poll aside, the White House is pointing to its own public opinion samplings as a rebuttal to suggestions President Reagan's popularity is slipping.

Administration spokesmen are taking great pains to explain away the dark implications of Gallup's early June survey, published during the weekend. The pollster found Reagan's public approval rating down to 59 percent from 68 percent in the last sampling.

Moreover, the public disapproval rating climbed from 21 percent than any previous president so studied at the same time in his term.

White House communications director David Gergen was quick to point to his own poll, conducted by campaign analyst Richard Wirthlin. Not surprisingly, it showed Reagan's approval rating at 69 percent and the disapproval rating down to 25 percent.

No Sign Of Life

PARADISE, Wash. (UPI) — Searchers who found no trace of 11 climbers entombed under tons of glacial ice camped overnight on Mount Rainier in a blinding snowstorm to try to look again today for victims of the nation's worst climbing accident.

"It's like a needle in a haystack type of thing," district Ranger Gerry Tays of the National Park Service said Monday night. "There's a glimmer of hope, but that would be stretching it. We're looking for bodies."

The 10-member search team hoped to make another attempt at finding the bodies today.

Trial Could Last Months

HOUSTON (UPI) — A trial that will decide the genuine heirs to the fortune of the late Howard Hughes may last more than four months, said the judge assigned to try the case.

The trial is scheduled to begin July 13 in Harris County Probate Court, and Judge Pat Gregory said Monday it could run into late November.

Property Taxes On Boats Ruled Unconstitutional

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — A two-year-old law that allows localities to assess property taxes against boats used primarily as residences has been ruled unconstitutional by the 1st District Court of Appeal.

In striking down the law Monday, the three-judge panel ruled unanimously that the Legislature had improperly isolated "live aboard vessels" from other boats for tax reasons only and said this violated the state Constitution.

"The Constitution, although allowing the Legislature to define boats, does not permit defining a boat as a boat except for tax purposes," the appeal court concluded.

Unless overturned by the Florida Supreme Court, the decision could cost coastal counties and cities significant sums in their ad valorem tax collections.

The Legislature enacted the law at the urging of coastal cities and counties reporting dramatic increases in the numbers of live-aboard vessels docked at their shores.

Gunter Urges Bill's Veto

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Insurance Commissioner Bill Gunter says consumers could suffer because of a bill abolishing the eight percent cap on interest rates charged by insurance companies on policy loans.

Gunter wrote a letter to Gov. Bob Graham Monday urging him to veto the measure.

The bill could lead to "substantial changes" in the writing of whole life insurance policies and should be studied in depth before being made law, Gunter said. They are much too complex to be fully comprehended by all involved in one session of the Legislature," he said.

Bonds For Mortgages Sought

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — The Florida Housing Finance Agency hopes to sell $8.3 million in long-term bonds to provide mortgages for four privately developed low-income apartment developments.

The agency's nine-member board, meeting at Fort Walton Beach Friday, approved the bond sale to provide mortgages of:

—$1.4 million for Highland Apartments, a 32-unit development in Jacksonville;

—$1.7 million for Wendi Oaks Apartments, a 69-unit complex in Escambia County near Pensacola;

—$1.5 million for Dixie Grove Apartments, a 54-unit development in Orlando; —And $2.5 million for Cutler Glen Apartments, a 75-unit complex in south Dade County between Miami and Homestead.

Hearing Scheduled Today

Atlanta Police Search Suspect's Home

ATLANTA (UPI) — Authorities today completed their most thorough search yet of the home of accused killer Wayne Williams and seized more of the carpet sources say provides the best link between Williams and the last victim in the slayings of 28 blacks.

During the 10½-hour search as many as 15 officers at one time were looking through the modest brick house that Williams, 23, a free-lance photographer and self-styled music promoter, shares with his retired parents. They took photographs and sent several bags of material and the carpet to the state crime laboratory for analysis.

Williams was scheduled to appear at a preliminary hearing today to determine if there was enough evidence to hold him for a grand jury and whether bond should be set.

Fulton County District Attorney Lewis Slaton, who has said in the past at least 14 of the killings were related, said Monday he didn't "anticipate any surprises" at today's hearing.

Sources have said extensive laboratory tests of carpet fibers taken in a previous search from Williams home proved "99 percent conclusive" in linking him to several of the bodies, but he is charged only with the murder of Nathaniel Cater, the last, and at 27 by far the oldest, of the 28 victims.

Police mounted a second marathon search — considerably more time-consuming than the first month — at Williams' home.

The New York Daily News in today's editions said details obtained by columnist Earl Caldwell from Atlanta police and other sources show Williams was circumstantially linked to the city's homosexual community and was known in areas where a number of the victims were seen before they were slain.

Police suddenly arrested Williams late Sunday — the first arrest in the frustrating series of murders that began in July, 1979. Police sources said the principal reason for the arrest was not new evidence, but the suspect's increasingly erratic behavior.

On three occasions, police sources say, he tried to elude surveillance, leading officers on wild high-speed chases. Twice he dropped out of sight for 10 minutes at a time; once he showed up parked in front of Public Safety Commissioner Lee P. Brown's home, honking the horn of his car and laughing.

Kill White Children, Agent Allegedly Advised

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — An undercover school security agent said white children should be killed in retaliation for the murders of black youths in Atlanta, a lawsuit claims. The ACLU filed a suit in Superior Court Monday, asking for unspecified damages and charging the officer attended the first meeting of the Emergency Coalition for Atlanta Children under an alias and reported to school officials.

At the meeting, the agent stood up and advocated killing white children as the only way to stop the murders of black children, said Michael Balter of the Citizens Commission on Police Repression.

A spokesman for the coalition said the man immediately was told such actions were against the group's policy.

Balter said the man, identified as Ronald Hubbard, attended only one meeting before he was recognized by an acquaintance.

The school board acknowledged there was a security agent by that name on their 320 member force, but denied sending him to spy on any group.

"If he's working undercover I don't know for who," said Richard Green, chief of the school security system.

Green said he had not spoken to Hubbard about the allegations, but said an inquiry will be conducted.

A coalition spokesman said the group was formed to educate the public on the murders in Atlanta, explain how it relates to the "racist climate in this country" and ensure similar crimes don't occur in Los Angeles.

Named in the suit were the Los Angeles Unified School District, Green and Hubbard.

Elderly Couple Beaten; DeLand Youth Arrested

MARIANNA, Fla. (UPI) — A DeLand teenager who escaped from a state-run school for delinquents has been arrested in the beatings of a couple and their son, who were found in their house with "blood absolutely everywhere," police say.

The 16-year-old youth, whose name has not been released, was arrested Monday after wrecking the family's stolen car near Homerville, Ga., Jackson County Sheriff's investigator J.J. McCrary said.

The teen-ager apparently fell asleep at the wheel of the car and crashed into a road grader just hours after Curtis W. Jackson, 63, Jewell Cutchin Jackson, 56, and Richard W. Jackson, 19, were brutally beaten with two shotguns during a robbery attempt at their Marianna home.

McCrary said the youth, an escapee from the Arthur G. Dotier School for Boys in Marianna, broke into the house while everyone was asleep and "everybody went wild" when Richard Jackson woke up and saw him in his bedroom.

McCrary said the youth beat the family members with two shotguns, which were found in pieces in the houses.

"There was blood absolutely everywhere, almost in every room," McCrary said. "There was even blood in the deepfreeze. I just think everybody went wild running and screaming around, grabbing anything they could to defend themselves, and the boy that did this went wild, too."

The Jacksons were all in serious condition in a Tallahassee hospital, he said.

The youth, from DeLand, Fla., had been sent to the school for possession of marijuana, burglary and grand theft, McCrary said. He has been returned to Marianna where he was charged with theft and assault with intent to commit murder.

'Dungeons And Dragons' Straight Out Of Hell?

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (UPI) — An evangelist convinced a popular game comes "straight out of Hell" has sworn to burn every copy of "Dungeons and Dragons" he can buy. The game has been used by ministers in counseling and among gifted students in Hutchinson's public school system.

"When you play with demonic spirits, that's not a game," said Tom Webster, a non-denominational evangelical minister. "When you deal in any way with demonic spirits, they're alive and they've got power."

"Dungeons and Dragons" is a role-playing game that has sold more than 3 million copies nationwide, puts the players in touch with "demonic spirits," Webster said he plans to collect $1,000 to buy the games and burn them.

He has never played the game, but read its rules and decided "Dungeons and Dragons" emphasized evil and called upon the power of demonic forces.

"It refers to casting spells ... it's straight out of Hell ... as you advance higher in the game, you get more into the demonic," he said.

Learning that some ministers used the game in their counseling, Webster said such aids were "like using tiddlywinks to become a better accountant."

Don Snow, a spokesman for TSR Inc., the company that manufactures the game, likened the game to an intellectually elevated and modern version of Cowboys and Indians. "It in no way supports evil," he said. "It rewards intelligence and imagination."

Senators Come Close To Fighting Over Childers

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Majority Leader Pete Skinner of Lake City, one of the legislators closest to Senate President W.D. Childers, almost got into a fight with Childers' enemy Dempsey Barron last week.

Other senators intervened to keep Skinner and Barron from hitting each other after the House ended the special session without the Senate last week, embarrassing W.D. Childers, the Tallahassee Democrat reported over the weekend.

"You killed my leader!" Barron quoted Skinner of Lake City as shouting. "You killed my president! You hurt my president! I'll kill you!"

House members adopted a $9 billion budget last Tuesday night, then adjourned, forcing the Senate to accept it or push the Legislature into a second special session.

The House acted after Childers held up approval of the spending plan, trying to win money for several projects for his hometown of Pensacola, including an industrial park and expansion of the University of West Florida.

Speaker Ralph Haben informed Panama City lawyer Barron, who runs a coalition of 24 Republicans and conservative Democrats, of his intentions. The Barron group was to try to get the Senate to accept the budget, which contained money for the industrial park, but not the UWF expansion, the next day.

The Senate did finally accept the plan and adjourn Wednesday morning.

Skinner stormed into Barron's office minutes after the House had adjourned and the shouting began.

Skinner screamed at Barron and poked his finger in the face of coalition member Pat Thomas of Quincy. Barron and Skinner glared at each other, then were separated by Thomas and other senators.

Skinner told the Democrat later he was joking, but then admitted there had been a serious confrontation. He said the incident was the result of pent-up frustration.

House leaders deny that Barron came up with the idea of the Tuesday night adjournment, saying they had been considering the action for several weeks.

Barron pulled the same trick on the House when he was Senate president in 1976, forcing House members to accept a budget which they believed didn't adequately fund education.

Supporters of Barron and Childers feuded throughout the session, with the Barron group finally gathering enough votes to control Senate action on big, controversial issues.

Earlier last Tuesday, Childers was involved in a shouting match with House Appropriations Chairman Herb Morgan of Tallahassee and Rules Chairman Sam Bell of Daytona Beach over an engineering school for UWF.

Morgan says he stormed out of Childers' office after the president ran across the room, "rolled up his sleeves" started staring him in the face.

Childers and Barron almost got into a fist fight on the Senate floor several weeks ago.

Compassion And Common Sense

The refugee barometer has always been a telling measure of the international climate, whether placid or tumultuous. And with 12 million persons currently seeking sanctuary outside their homelands from the storms of war, oppression and political turmoil, the barometer is registering crisis conditions.

Helping to care for refugees has been the kind of moral responsibility the United States has traditionally accepted with grace and generosity. In the six decades since World War I, Americans and their government have contributed vast sums to refugee relief programs and opened the nation's doors to successive waves of the persecuted.

In the process, the country has been immeasurably enriched materially and spiritually. Moreover, the striking humanitarian example set by the United States has helped to establish standards of decency now firmly established in international law.

The world's present refugee crisis demands no less from the Reagan administration. Helping to ease the plight of refugees by granting sanctuary to some and material assistance to others must remain an essential component of national policy.

Fortunately, the administration seems to agree. William R. Smyser acting director of the State Department's Bureau of Refugee Programs, recently reaffirmed the administration's commitment to provide a fair share of international refugee aid and to continue assisting in resettlement programs for those refugees who have little or no prospect of returning to their country of origin.

Among other things, that means the United States will continue to accept substantial, but certainly not indigestible, numbers of Vietnamese boat people and other Indochinese refugees. We support and applaud this decision.

Existing resettlement programs for Vietnamese, Cambodian and Laotian refugees have been remarkably successful in integrating these newest Americans into the mainstream of their adopted country. Similar successes have been recorded in resettling Jewish refugees from the Soviet Union, as well as lesser numbers of displaced persons from Africa, Latin America and the Middle East.

The Carter administration approved entry of some 200,000 political refugees, two-thirds of them Indochinese, during its final year in office. The Reagan administration has yet to forward its own recommendation to Congress, but we think a comparable number would be appropriate.

We also think that both Congress and the administration should continue to provide states full or nearly full reimbursement for refugee resettlement costs.

Generous as the Reagan administration is evidently prepared to be, it also recognizes that the world's most serious refugee problems, including that in Southeast Asia, cannot be solved by one nation alone.

France, Canada and Australia have resettled large numbers of Indochina and contributed significantly to refugee relief programs in the countries bordering Communist Indochina. Japan, which accepts few of the boat people, has agreed to pay fully half of the costs of maintaining refugee camps in Thailand, Malaysia, Indonesia and the Philippines.

The administration is continuing to lobby nations able to provide either financial assistance or resettlement opportunities. That pressure must be sustained.

An enduring solution to the current refugee crises in Asia, Africa and Latin America depends upon political developments not now in prospect. In the meantime, the United States will serve itself and others by maintaining a refugee policy composed of equal parts of compassion and common sense.

The Reagan administration appears to be forging just such a policy.

O-Twins are better than no Twins. With that idea in mind, the Evening Herald will begin detailed coverage of the closest game to major league baseball now being played. Orlando's Twins have already captured the first half Eastern Division title in the Southern League.

Monday night they began the second half of the season at Savannah. They return home Friday for a long home stand which runs through July 7.

During the homestand, there are two interruptions. One is the Southern League All Star game July 6 at Savannah. The other will be of more interest to local fans.

Wes Rinker, Sanford's baseball crusader, will bring the O-Twins to Sanford Memorial Stadium for a July 4 battle against Knoxville. The "Firecracker Special" will be preceded by an All Star game between a Five Points League All Star team against the DeLand All Stars at 9:15 a.m. The Twins go at it at 11 a.m.

"This is the best hitting team we've had since I've been here," boasted 18-year veteran General Manager Bob Willis about his Twins who won the division by 6 1/2 games.

Willis sees many of his ballplayers as future big leaguers and maybe sooner than he may wish, since the Minnesota (AAA) affiliate—Toledo—is wallowing in sixth place, 11 games behind the leader.

Another assurance that the O-Twins are for real is that when Calvin Griffith needed pitching help for his parent club, he didn't go to Toledo, but reached down for left-hander Brad Havens from Orlando.

Havens responded with a three-hitter in his first start, but lost the decision because of inadequate bat support. "I wouldn't be surprised to see some changes made," observed Willis about the major league's third worst team (17-39, .304, 17 games back). "We've got some guys here that can really play."

Indeed, the O-Twins are an awesome sight for a pitcher to behold. Outfielder Randy Bush leads a quintet of Twins hitting .299 or better.

Bush is whacking the ball at a .318 clip. He has 10 home runs and 50 runs batted in. Third baseman Garry Gaetti is right behind at .315, 14 homers and 52 RBI.

Scott Ulger, a hard-hitting first baseman, is also hitting .315. Ulger leads the team with 58 runs batted in and has walloped 12 round trippers.

Shortstop Rod Booker has not hit a home run, but has a .299 batting average. Leading the club in home runs is catcher Tim Laudner with 17, which ties him for the Southern League lead. He has driven in 41 runs.

Steve Douglas is the club's leadoff hitter. The right-handed swinging outfielder is batting .308 and has shown flashes of power with three homers in the last nine games.

Center fielder Andre David has been in a slump of late which has tumbled his batting average to .244, but he is the Twins best defensive outfielder and has 34 RBI.

Outfielder Scott Halberg is the fifth O-Twin in double figures for home runs. He has 10 along with 40 RBI. The Twins are ahead of the Southern League record for round trippers. They have deposited 83 beyond the fence. While the hitting definitely overpowers the pitching, the staff has put together some pretty good records, even though the earned-run averages leave something to be desired.

Steve Mapel has been the most consistent starter with 10 wins against two losses. His ERA is 4.09. Ted Kromy is 6-3 with a 4.02 ERA. Bob Konops is 5-5 with an earned-run mark of 4.02.

Scott Gleckel has been the hottest starter lately since his move from the bullpen to take Havens' spot. The smooth left hander pitched a two-hit shutout a week ago. St. John's University product Frank Viola has turned in two impressive stints. His 2.79 ERA leads the club. Gleckel is giving up 2.89 runs per nine innings.

Opening Pandora's Box...

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Although the Israeli air attack on an Iraqi nuclear power plant has provoked an intense and protracted international debate, one of the most important questions raised by the incident has received little attention.

The issue is one so terrifying that until this month it has been almost unthinkable — the designation by one country of a hostile nation's commercial nuclear facilities as strategic military targets.

The unique circumstances surrounding the Israeli mission provide an excuse for those whose head-in-the-sand approach to such problems involves little more than the wishful assumption that they will disappear if ignored.

That's because the object of the Israeli raid, the Osirak commercial nuclear facility outside Baghdad, was still under construction when bombed and was not scheduled to begin operations until later this year.

Although more than 25 pounds of highly enriched, weapons-grade uranium was on the site at the time of the attack, that element poses little danger in terms of dispersal in the environment leading to radioactive contamination.

The process of nuclear fission, necessary to produce energy from such a reactor, also releases dozens of "daughter products" — many of them isotopes known to be lethal in even the most minute quantities.

"Under such circumstances (if the plant had been operational) no government of Israel could contemplate bombing the reactor," the attackers explained.

But Israel has, in fact, opened a Pandora's box that never again can be closed. It is now possible — if not probable — that at some future time a desperate nation will bomb or sabotage another country's operating reactor and cite the Israeli precedent as partial justification for its action.

That danger is more than hypothetical because throughout Europe — an especially likely locale for the outbreak of a future war — more than 100 commercial nuclear power plants already are in operation and almost twice that number are under construction or being planned.

The Atomic Industrial Forum, an industry promotional organization, boasted earlier this year of "the extent to which nuclear energy is advancing abroad" although there has been virtually no growth in the United States in recent years.

In France alone, five new reactors began operation last year, with a new nuclear power plant scheduled to come "on line," every two months throughout the early 1980s.

The world's first full-scale fast-breeder commercial power station — the 1,200 megawatt Super Phenix reactor — is being built by a French-German-Italian consortium on the banks of the Rhone River east of Lyon, France, near the small town of Creys-Malville.

ATTILA, DON'T LISTEN TO THOSE NASTY SENATORS. I THINK YOU'D BE PERFECT FOR THAT HUMAN RIGHTS APPOINTMENT.

She Hates New Smyrna

After living in Florida for the past 13 years and having visited New Smyrna Beach numerous times, having rented a beach house for vacations, reuniting friends and relatives from up North of NSB, I will NEVER set foot on that beach again. No, please don't cry! The injustice of the NSB Police Force has brought about this action.

My son is a law abiding individual. His car was stopped on the beach, he was pulled from the car, (car searched illegally) no drugs found, and thrown in jail in DeLand on a minor charge. It took me until midnight on Sunday to get him released.

I work for a living, so of course I cannot hire a lawyer. I hope his Judge is more lenient and understanding than the NSB Police Department.

I have always had respect for people in authority but these Gestapo type arrests are undermining all that. Give a few people some authority and they go berserk with power. There is no wonder the young adults are more aggressive now and daring. There is no more respect for police, which is a sad situation.

Everybody I come in contact with are being informed and warned of the conditions at NSB. Maybe some day with the help from NBS Police Force tactics we can turn NSB into a "Ghost Town" and charge admission.

Survival Plan

We believe that we are compelled to make changes in the Social Security System if it is to survive. We further recognize that it is an extremely complex question: actuarially, politically, and socially. We strongly recommend that Social Security be returned to its original concept: i.e. a floor to provide old age retirement income. This we can afford if we do the following:

Eliminate disability payments; discontinue any payments to youngsters over 18 unless they are unable to support themselves because of physical or mental disability; make the Social Security participation universal in this country, specifically all federal employees, including the Congress of the United States.

We hope that in the coming months that Sen. Lawton Chiles will bear these points in mind as he attempts to salvage the Social Security System.

Little League Slurs

It's easy to see from the letters to the Editor that jealousy abounds in the Little League!

However, it isn't fair to pick on Eddie Korgan, who happens to be an excellent ball player, and not only that, but he is also a very good dancer, a member of the Sanford-Seminole Ballet Guild. Both activities take plenty of practice, more practice than most kids are ever willing to spend on anything.

If people want publicity for their children in the paper they should simply talk to the paper's photographer, and not throw slurs at individual kids or specific teams.

Going Out Of Business

"This is a rare announcement by a federal government agency," begins a release from the Civil Aeronautics Board.

And that it is. The CAB is announcing its request to Congress to put it out of business as the regulator of the airline industry as soon as possible.

The airlines have been undergoing gradual deregulation, as you may recall, since the mid-70s. The first major steps were elimination of federally fixed fare schedules and allocation of routes in the expectation of stimulating competition and, as a consequence, service to the public.

That it did, and both the traveling public and the airlines enjoyed a couple of heady boom years. There also some problems, such as the loss of service by smaller communities, that are still being resolved.

But essentially deregulation worked. So well that the CAB, scheduled under the original legislation to shut down Jan. 1, 1985, wants its termination to be advanced by possibly as much as two years. Its remaining responsibilities are to be transferred as rapidly as possible to other agencies; for example, consumer protection regulation to the Department of Transportation and policing of questionable trade practices to the Federal Trade Commission.

Ironically, the move to speed up the closing down comes as the airlines themselves are running into rough economic weather. The bloom was off the boom sometime back with increasing energy costs absorbing much of the additional revenues generated by lower fares and more passengers.

But the problems are not ones that are susceptible to solution through regulation. On the contrary, in the CAB's opinion, it believes that going out of business itself is the best means of removing some of the industry's burdens.

It may be right. It certainly is right about this being a rare event.

With the process already well advanced in airline operations and under way in trucking and communications, the deregulators may be getting ready to tackle another big one: electric utilities.

The possibility has been under examination unofficially for a number of years, according to a Wall Street Journal report, and now is going official with a study in the Justice Department's antitrust division.

The utilities were originally brought under the regulatory roof to protect consumers from price gouging and to encourage expansion of service and efficiency realized through large-scale operations as a result of government-authorized territorial monopolies.

The arguments for deregulation are now pretty much the same. Encouragement of smaller, localized operations is seen as one way of getting around the immense costs of updating and expanding generating facilities, of using increasing costly fuel more efficiently and eventually giving the consumer a price break.

He could certainly use it.

'Pro-Smoking' Push Revealed In Report

WASHINGTON — The tobacco companies' long, deliberate campaign to undercut government warnings on the hazards of cigarette smoking has been astonishingly successful, according to internal industry documents that have been suppressed by court order.

The Federal Trade Commission recently reported that the health warning on every pack of cigarettes is ineffective, and the industry's own studies support this conclusion. But a federal judge acceded to the tobacco companies' request that documents subpoenaed by the FTC be locked up. The section of the agency's report that discusses the documents has also been withheld from the public.

My associate Tony Capaccio has seen the suppressed material. One document in particular illustrates just how ineffective the government's many warnings about cigarettes have been. It is a 1977 survey by the firm of Yankelovich, Skelly and White for the Brown & Williamson Tobacco Corp.

Here are some of its findings: — Nearly one-fourth of the nation's cigarette smokers do not believe that smokers die younger than non-smokers.

— Twenty-two percent of the general population, including 32 percent of smokers, were not aware that smoking increases the risk of any type of cancer.

— Twenty-three percent of the population (and 38 percent of smokers) believed the statement, "They still haven't proven that smoking causes lung cancer."

— Thirty-eight percent of the population (and nearly half the smokers) did not know that smoking increases the risk of heart disease.

— A particularly reprehensible feature of the cigarette companies' multimillion-dollar advertising campaigns has been their accent on youth — devious means to hook young people on the smoking habit.

For example, a 1975 ad plan prepared for Brown & Williamson suggested these ways to attract "starters" to smoke Viceroy cigarettes:

— "Present the cigarette as one of the few initiations into the adult world."

— "To the best of your ability, relate the cigarette to 'pot,' wine, beer, sex, etc."

— "Don't communicate health or health related points." The word "Don't" was underlined for emphasis.

The suppressed section of the FTC report has this to add: "B&W documents show that it translated the advice on how to attract 'starters' into an advertising campaign featuring young adults in situations that the vast majority of young people probably would experience and in situations demonstrating adherence to a 'free and easy, hedonistic lifestyle.'"

Another example of the cigarette makers' deliberate targeting of young people is this quote from the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company's secret "Salem Annual Marketing Plan" for 1977:

"Through the association of Salem and its brand styles with emulatable personalities that are compatible with the aspirations and lifestyles of contemporary young adults, this important target segment will be attracted to the brand."

Four Seminoles Grab Honors At Wilkes Basketball Camp

Four Sanford basketball players took top honors at the Glenn Wilkes Basketball Camp held at Stetson University in DeLand last week.

Chris Brewington was named "most outstanding." Brewington played for Bill Payne's varsity team last year, but quit the program when he was demoted to the junior varsity. He will be a senior next year.

Crooms sharpshooter Steve Alexander won the free throw contest and was named to the All Star Team. The 5-foot-10 blond gunner will be a sophomore next year.

Marvin Butler, Payne's stocky point guard, took away the most awards. Butler, who will be a senior, won the "best defensive" award and the "hustle" award. He also picked up a T-shirt for the "muscle man" award.

Six-foot-six Stuart Smith grabbed top honors in the "hotshot" contest along with winning the rebound contest.

Jackson Lifts Rich Plan 23-4

Rich Plan's Eddie Jackson slammed two home runs Monday night as the Plan crushed Burger Chef 23-4 in Sanford Men's Softball League action at Pinehurst.

The two circuit clubs moved Jackson to within one of leader Fred Aiken for the home run championship. Aiken leads the league with 18.

In the other game, Oviedo Auto Parts nipped Sunniland 5-4 to move into sole possession of second place behind Rich Plan. Sunniland meets Rich Plan Wednesday night to conclude the season.

McEnroe Loses Cool, Calls Umpire An Incompetent Fool

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI) — The battle for Evonne Goolagong Cawley's undefended crown begins Tuesday, when the women make their first 1981 appearance at the $650,000 Wimbledon Tennis Championships.

Three former champions, a bevy of pigtailed teenagers and some formidable East Europeans are among the contenders for the vacant throne Goolagong isn't defending because she has had her second baby since winning at Wimbledon a year ago.

The charge is led by two-time champion Chris Evert Lloyd, who starts her campaign against Australian qualifier Chris O'Neil. Hana Mandlikova of Czechoslovakia, 19, whose No. 2 seeding caused a stir, opens against France's Corinne Vanier, while Californian Tracy Austin, 18, begins her fourth quest for a Wimbledon title against another Czech, Iva Budarova.

Martina Navratilova plays American Joyce Postman in her opening-round match.

Also going into action is 16-year-old fifth seed Andrea Jaeger of Lincolnshire, Ill., who faces Australian Nerida Gregory, and 14-year-old Kathy Rinaldi of Jensen Beach, Fla., the youngest player to compete here in 75 years, who plays South African Sue Rolinson.

If the women can provide the excitement and drama that characterized Monday's men's play, Wimbledon's second-day crowd will be in for a treat.

It was second-seeded John McEnroe, 22, who caused the biggest controversy of all in his No. 1 court clash with fellow American Tom Gullikson.

Umpire Edward James awarded two penalty points against the fiery Douglaston, N.Y., left-hander for abusing him and tournament referee Fred Hoyle, but McEnroe still ousted Gullikson, 7-6 (7-5), 7-5, 6-3.

In the second set, McEnroe hit the umpire's chair with his racket and James told him, "I must warn you for abusing your racket. Please desist."

Two games later, there was another call against McEnroe, who shrieked at the umpire: "You can't be serious. You are an incompetent fool, an offense against the world."

He is sure to face a hefty fine from the Association of Tennis Professionals.

Sweden's defending champion Bjorn Borg began his bid to become the first man in a century to win six successive titles. He beat American left-hander

Peter Rennett, 7-6 (7-2), 6-3, 6-1, upping his record consecutive winning streak to 36 matches.

Charlie Fancutt, an Australian from Brisbane listed 194th in the ATP world rankings, caused the biggest upset of the day by outgunning No. 4 seed Ivan Lendl of Czechoslovakia, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4, 1-6, 6-3, in a twohour, 15-minute marathon.

"I can hardly believe I've won at the moment," the 22-year-old Fancutt said. "Lendl's got a great forehead on clay, but he's slower on grass."

Eric Fromm of Glen Head, N.Y., sprang another upset in this 95th edition of the world's top tennis tournament when he dismissed Yannick Noah of France seeded 13th, 6-4, 6-3, 6-3. Soon after that Victor Pecci, the No. 11 seed from Paraguay, fell to a crushing 7-6, 6-0, 6-0 defeat against Texan Bill Scanlon.

Ninth-seeded Argentinian Jose-Luis Clerc very nearly became another casualty, surviving a match point to win a five-set marathon against Chilean qualifier Alvaro Fillol, 3-6, 6-3, 2-6, 6-4, 8-6, while 1971 champion Jimmy Connors of Belleville, Ill., came through easily against Californian Dick Stockton, 6-1, 6-2, 6-4.

SINCE BILL TILDEN BROUGHT AMERICA ITS FIRST MEN'S WIMBLEDON SINGLES CROWN IN 1920, THE U.S.A. HAS ONLY GONE SIX OR MORE TOURNAMENTS WITHOUT ONE JUST TWICE.

JOHN McENROE ALMOST ENDED OUR CURRENT SWIOTOUT STRIKING AT FOUR, BEFORE LOSING TO BORG IN WHAT EXPERTS HAVE CALLED WIMBLEDON'S GREATEST FINAL MATCH EVER.

NOW HE WILL TRY TO KEEP IT FROM REACHING SIX.

'MAIN MAN'

It's doubtful whether Tim Raines (right) is saying "he taught me everything I know," about Sanford Memorial Stadium operator Wes Rinker. Tim's "main man," however, does run Raines through the paces every morning with an assortment of ground balls, fly balls and batting practice at his Florida Baseball School. Raines, Montreal's flashy left fielder, reciprocates by helping with Rinker's camps, currently running all day at the stadium. Tonight, Tim returns to his Junior League play ground, where he will throw out the first ball for the city series between Raines' old team Knights of Columbus and Kiwanis. Action gets underway at 7:30 p.m.

'Paper Favorite' KOC Meets Kiwanis Tonight

For only the second time in the last half-dozen years, two teams will tangle for the Sanford Junior League championship beginning tonight at Chase Park.

A City Championship series is held in the Sanford Junior League only when different teams win the two halves of the season. Most of the time the same team wins both halves, but this year was an exception.

Knights of Columbus won the first half with a 9-0 record, but defending champ Kiwanis posted a perfect 10-0 record in the second half to set the stage for the best of three championship series.

Tonight's game gets underway at 7:30 p.m. and Montreal Expos star Tim Lincecum will be on hand to toss out the first pitch, just as he did last week for the Little Major League city championships.

But tonight's game may bring back some fond memories for Raines, since he once played for Knights of Columbus in the Sanford Junior League. Raines is in Sanford sitting out the players strike. Through the first 55 games of the season, he stole a major league high 50 bases and batted .322, seventh highest in the National League.

Knights of Columbus, which had one game rained out in each half, is 16-2 overall for a slightly better winning percentage than Kiwanis, which is 17-3.

On paper, the Knights appear to be the favorites. In addition to having a better won-loss record, Knights of Columbus has a higher team batting average (.282 to .276) and boasts the top two pitchers in the loop.

Glenn Landress of Knights of Columbus posted the league's best pitching record at 7-0, while teammate Fred Miller, 8-2, led the league in pitching victories.

Bruce Franklin paced the Kiwanis pitching staff with a 7-2 record, while Orion Waldo was 4-1 and Alvin Jones was a perfect 3-0.

Theron Jaggons led the Knights in hitting with a .405 average and also led the team in hits with 17. Lee Frederick batted an even .400, while Miller hit at a .371 clip. William Carr batted .333 and Landress finished with a .319 batting average.

Landress led the team in home runs with three, which was second highest in the league. Jo Jo McCloud (.195) had a pair of homers. The entire Kiwanis team, on the other hand, managed just three round-trippers.

Kiwanis was paced at the plate this season by Bruce Franklin, who batted a sizzling .451. He also led the team with 23 hits. Bryan Debose hit .347, Mike Wright batted .339, Kevin Smith hit at a .333 clip and Waldo batted .291.

Knights of Columbus is coached by Alvin Whitted, while Ray Bronson and Tony Brooks coached Kiwanis.

The second game of the tournament is slated for 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, with the third game, if needed, at 7:30 p.m. Friday.

the completion of the best of three series.

Defending champ Kiwanis and Knights of Columbus will battle for the championship this year. Knights of Columbus won the first half with a 9-0 record, while Kiwanis went 10-0 in the second half. Overall, Knights of Columbus was 16-2 and Kiwanis was 17-3.

Tournament games get underway at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday and Wednesday. The third game, if needed, will be played at 7:30 p.m. Friday.

Rich Plan Sponsors MVP

Sanford-based Rich Plan of Florida will sponsor a Most Valuable Player Award for the Sanford Junior League City Championship Tournament which opens Tuesday at Chase Park.

The giant trophy will be presented to the tournament's outstanding player at

Probation Says Judge

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Ron Simmons, Florida State's bruising noseguard who is bound for the Cleveland Browns, pleaded no contest Monday to a charge of buying stolen property and was given a year's probation.

Simmons, one of five Seminoles accused of buying television sets and stereos stolen from a department store by a former Seminole player who worked on the loading dock, was advised by Leon County Circuit Judge Charles Miner to work with community recreation programs during the year.

"I'm going to strongly suggest to you that you share some of the great talent you have with youngsters who have not been similarly blessed," Miner said.

But the community work was not made a necessary part of the probation. Miner withheld adjudication so if Simmons completes the probation successfully, his criminal record will be clean.

DAY 12

Moffett 'Change Of Heart' Cancels Negotiations

NEW YORK (UPI) — As the first midseason baseball strike in history enters its 12th day, there is no movement on either side to reach a settlement.

Federal mediator Kenneth Moffett had announced striking baseball players and representatives of club owners would resume negotiations today, but the meeting was canceled without warning several hours later.

"I just had a change of heart," Moffett said in explaining the cancellation. "I needed more time to think about some things. I might do something in another day or two."

Earlier Monday, Moffett had helped avert a threatened strike by the nation's air traffic controllers and he hinted things weren't getting any better in the baseball strike by telling reporters: "One for two isn't bad."

Negotiations broke off last Friday when both sides met for only 10 minutes.

"I would say the mood is somber and I don't see any glimmers," said Mark Belanger of the Baltimore Orioles, one of the negotiators for the Players Association.

Hallberg Error Costs O-Twins

First baseman Lance Hallberg booted a slow-bounding ground ball and then threw it past pitcher Gary Serun allowing two runs to score and handing Savannah a 3-2 victory over the Orlando Twins Monday night at Savannah.

The miscue spoiled a fine pitching performance by starter Steve Mapel, who carried a 2-1 lead into the ninth inning on Tim Laudner's 18th home run. Laudner is second in the league.

Overstreet Snubs Dolphins, Signs With Alouettes

MONTREAL (UPI) — David Overstreet, the fourth U.S. player of all-star caliber to sign with the Montreal Alouettes since multimillionaire owner Nelson Skalbania purchased the team in February, says passing up a deal with the NFL's Miami Dolphins was not a hard decision.

"I had to consider what would be the best benefit for both sides," the first-round draft choice from the University of Oklahoma said Monday after signing a two-year Canadian Football League contract.

"Miami offered me a contract but it wasn't what I wanted," said Overstreet, a 22-year-old running back drafted 13th overall by the Dolphins. "I'm very pleased to have signed with Montreal. They are a class organization and this is a great opportunity for me."

Overstreet, a 6-foot, 207-pound running back, finished his college career with a 7.2-yard average per carry and earned several all-star selections.

The terms of his contract were not disclosed, but Overstreet said that he will make more money in two seasons as an Alouettes player than he would in five with the Dolphins.

In Miami, the signing apparently came as a shock. Bill Davis, director of personnel for the Dolphins, said that he was told of the signing by Overstreet's agent.

"Jerry Argovitz informed me that David Overstreet has signed with Montreal. Before this, I felt negotiations were going smoothly," Davis said. "We had had two face-to-face meetings and we had talked several times on the phone. Although we were far apart financially, I had every confidence we

Miss Westbrook, Kevin B. Foster Exchange Vows

Shelley Irene Westbrook and Kevin Brian Foster were married June 8, at 2 p.m. at the Presbyterian Church of the Covenant, Sanford. The Rev. Roderick Thompson performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Westbrook, 2739 Country Club Road, Sanford. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Eunice Foster, Route 3, Sanford, and the late Regina Foster.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose for her vows a white satin gown featuring a lace-filled sweetheart neckline and lace inserts on the long sleeves. A lace and pearl headpiece secured her fingertip veil of illusion. She carried white carnations, and daisies showered with satin streamers.

Irene Collins attended the bride as maid of honor. She wore a coral colored satin gown fashioned along the princess silhouette with a lace-trimmed sheer floral print cape. She carried daisies and carnations dyed to match her gown.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Jean Wyatt and Mrs. Joan Gramkow, sisters of the bride. Their gowns and flowers were identical to the honor attendant's.

Craig Foster served his brother as best man. Ushers were Hay Morris and Gary Thompson.

The reception was held in the church social hall.

Following a wedding trip to St. Augustine, the newlyweds are making their home in Sanford. The bride is a secretary for American Building Products, Altamonte Springs. The bridegroom is plant manager at Robert Hunt Corporation, USA Branch, Orlando.

MR. AND MRS. KEVIN BRIAN FOSTER

Daughter Has Death Wish For 91-Year-Old Mean Mom

DEAR ABBY: Please tell those readers who write in and wish that their dear departed parents were still with them that I will be glad to trade my 91-year-old, childish, vindictive, contrary, mean, ungrateful mother for their dead relatives.

Your bereaved readers are fortunate that their loved ones passed on while still in possession of their true personalities; they left pleasant memories behind them and they are rightfully missed.

My mother has lived 20 years too long. She is not the same person she was, and by the time she dies, I will be glad to see her go, because her present self is not at all attractive, and is in fact hardly bearable. In a few more years, her abusive and unkind conduct will have erased all the good memories of the years before she changed.

Your bereaved readers should thank God for taking their relatives while they were still lovable human beings for whom one could shed a loving tear.

LOVES HER BUT HATES WHAT SHE'S BECOME

Dear Abby

DEAR LOVES: I know yours is a heavy cross to bear, but is it possible that your 91-year-old mother once cared for a childish, vindictive, contrary, mean, ungrateful child — namely you — for several years? Apparently she didn't abandon you when you were abusive, unkind and not at all attractive. Think about it.

DEAR ABBY: This is for all those people who refuse to give cash as a wedding gift: Our daughter and her husband struggled through years of poverty earning their college degrees. When they graduated, neither had any savings, although our daughter did have all the necessary cooking and housekeeping items.

Their most appreciated gifts were those from their practical friends and relatives who gave them money. After years of commuting by bus to classes and work, they were finally able to make a down payment on a car.

Most of their wedding gifts — pottery, wok pans, ceramics, pictures, trays, glassware, wine racks, knick-knacks, etc. — are still stored in my attic. All these are items for which they have no space and little use, and don't even remember receiving.

I am so worn out after six years of moving and cleaning all these dust collectors, I am tempted to haul the whole lot to Goodwill.

Unless the couple is already on easy street, no gift at all is better than one that ends up stored in Mom's attic. And registering isn't the answer either — they got four Crock Pots!

What do people have against giving money?

TIRED MOM IN MANITOWOC, WIS.

DEAR MOM: Maybe they don't want anybody to know how much they spent. Getting married? Whether you want a formal church wedding or a simple, "do-your-own-thing" ceremony, get Abby's new booklet. Send $1 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped (35 cents) envelope to: Abby's Wedding Booklet, 2060 Hawthorne Blvd., Suite 6000, Hawthorne, Calif. 90250.

Rotary Sets Ladies Night, Installation

The Rotary Club of Sanford-Breakfast will hold its Installation of Officers — Ladies Night ceremonies at Jerry's Restaurant, Sanford, Airport, Thursday, beginning at 7 p.m.

For several years it had been the feeling of some Rotarians that there was the need for a Rotary Breakfast Club to accommodate those Rotarians who for various reasons could not make the Monday noon meeting at the Civic Center. In October 1979 a group of Rotarians, forming the nucleus of the organization, received authorization from the Rotary Club of Sanford and the District Governor to form an overlay club. The request to form an overlay club (breakfast) was approved by the Board of Directors and District Governor and a request was submitted to Rotary International for a charter to form the Rotary Club of Sanford-Breakfast.

A charter was granted on Dec. 11, 1979. Anthony J. "Tony" Russi has served as president of the newly formed Rotary Club since it was issued its charter by the Rotary International.

Officers to be installed on Thursday are: J.S. "Red" Cleveland, president; Lee Wheeler, vice president; Duane Harrell, secretary; and Ernie Cavallaro-treasurer.

Carlton E. "Gene" Colley, Governor, District 698, Rotary International, will participate in the installation ceremonies.

A native of Miami, Florida, Colley was elected governor of the newly-formed District 698 at the international Convention in San Paulo, Brazil. He first joined Rotary at the Hialeah-Miami Springs Club in 1968 and served that club as secretary and director.

In 1975, when the Colley family moved to Central Florida, he joined the Orange County East Club, serving as secretary, director and president. He has served the District as a member of the finance committee, redistricting committee and as extension counselor. He became a Paul Harris Fellow in 1979.

Colley's business background includes 15 years in the savings and loan industry in Miami and 10 years in the mortgage banking field. He has been President of the Florida Home Mortgage Company since 1975.

He and his Rotary Ann, Pat, have one daughter, Doreen, and currently reside in Winter Park.

HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

For Wednesday, June 24, 1981

YOUR BIRTHDAY June 24, 1981
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Friendships could be greatly enhanced this coming year by demonstrating how kindness and consideration are the answers to handling any leaty situations that might occur.
CANCER (June 21-July 23) Don't muddy the waters any worse than they already are if everyone is pulling in different directions in your home today. Let time settle things. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the year following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph, Mail #1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 23) Be wary of whom you talk to today. Someone who is butting into your business could take your words and twist them so as to cause you unpleasantness.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 23) Before making any significant cash outlays today, sleep on it. Tomorrow you may find that bridge you bought doesn't exist.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) There may be no way for you to avoid the front lines today. If retreat is impossible, dig a deep trench and use all the ammunition you have.
SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Someone could make you feel quite insecure about your work or career today. Instead of going to pieces, double your efforts. Prove him wrong.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Friendships could be jeopardized today if you put material considerations above good will. Don't let anything transpire where money might be an issue.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Associates must be handled with extra tact and diplomacy today. If you alienate them, they might turn and work against you.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Double-check all facts and figures today. You could have to explain your work. You won't want any mistakes credited to you.
PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) It's best to avoid any money-related matters with friends today. If things don't work out, either you or your pal could wrongfully feel taken advantage by the other.
ARIES (March 21-April 19) Avoid getting into any arguments or debates today, especially with any member of your family. A serious rift not easily corrected could result.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You may have to confront challenge or resistance from co-workers today. If possible, sidestep any unpleasant issue. Tomorrow will be a better day to tackle the situation.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20) It may appear that someone with more material worth has enticed a friend away from you. Don't get uptight. The situation will be short-lived.

Early Detection Still Important

DR. DR. LAMB - Four years ago I was operated on for cancer of the colon. It had not spread to my glands or anywhere else. The surgeon took three feet of colon out to make sure he got all of it. I wore a colostomy bag for a while which he then removed. I have my regular checkups which include a blood test and barium enema. I have had scans which are OK.

One sign of colon cancer is an unexplained change in bowel habit. And I would like to emphasize to all that cancer of the colon and rectum is still the second most common cause of cancer deaths in both men and women. Many of these can be detected with a rectal examination and still others by an examination of blood in the stool. Don't neglect to have these important examinations. They can save your life.

DEAR DR. LAMB - Is it true that vegetarians have, as a statistical average, a lower rate of intestinal cancer, heart disease, arteriosclerosis and high blood pressure than omnivores (meat-eaters)? DEAR READER - For the most part. But as you have stated, that is a statistical average and there are many exceptions. The correct way to express this is that vegetarians tend to have many of these medical problems as long as 10 years later in life compared to the rest of the population. One reason is that vegetarians are usually leaner. Obesity is a major factor related to problems that cause heart and vascular disease. However, some vegetarians are fat; if you eat too many calories that will happen. And some have inherited tendencies for high cholesterol levels or high blood pressure just like other people.

DEAR DR. LAMB - Is it true that vegetarians have, as a statistical average, a lower rate of intestinal cancer, heart disease, arteriosclerosis and high blood pressure than omnivores (meat-eaters)? I have included the seven signs of cancer that everyone should know about in The Health Letter number 14-B, Cancer: A Fact of Life, which you asked for. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Many such people are health conscious and make a bigger effort to stay active physically. A lot of them don't smoke, which leads to fewer cases of lung cancer. The Seventh Day Adventists have a markedly lower rate of lung cancer, which has been attributed to their not smoking.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

Here is a real old time freak hand. It was played in the summer of 1932 in an exhibition at West Point. Lieutenant Alfred Gruenther, who was a math instructor there and who had become the best and most popular bridge tournament director in his spare time, persuaded a bunch of expert players to give an exhibition at the Academy and this was one of the hands.

Bridge hand diagram showing North, South, East, and West cards.

When young Oswald Jacoby, who sat South, failed to bid at his first turn there was a slight gasp from the audience. When he bid six clubs at his second turn a senior officer's wife said in a loud whisper, "That's one of his famous psychics." It wasn't psychic. Jacoby wouldn't mind going down any number of tricks undoubled. He could always run to diamonds if clubs got doubled and he was setting up a defense against a potential spade grand slam.

The late Charles Lochridge, sitting West, did not bother to double six clubs and simply bid six spades. Then when Jacoby bid seven diamonds, he knew that a club would be opened by North and ruffed by South if seven spades were bid, so Charley had to double seven diamonds and settle for a mere three-trick set.
