In Eve of Demands for His Resignation Navy Secretary Reveals Why He Assented to Transfer from His Department to Interior

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—Further efforts to question Albert B. Fall the central figure in the Senate oil investigations will be frustrated by the oil committee. The decision was reached upon the advice of special government counsel in the oil cases, Silas Strawn and Alton Pomeroy. They recommended against permitting Mr. Fall to testify unless he waived immunity.

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—Without discussion the senate adopted Thursday the Walsh resolution directing the interior department to move for the recovery of the section of Elk Hills naval reserve held by the Standard Oil Company of California.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—On the eve of the renewal in the senate of the demands for his removal from the cabinet, Secretary Denby made public Wednesday night an extended statement explaining and defending his course in assenting to the lease of the naval oil reserves.

Asserting that there are involved three basic questions, the naval secretary, answered them all in the affirmative; that the transfer of administration from his department to interior department was legal, the lease agreement was legal and carried out as expressed will of Congress; that they were beneficial to the government, preventing the further loss of millions of dollars worth of oil and greatly increasing the power of the navy to defend the country.

AT THE MILANE

When a fellow takes to washing his neck and combing his hair, there's a girl on his mind, according to mother and the girls; but when he takes to fondling father's razor with an air of loving familiarity and wearing his brother's varsity sweater, then it's a case of just healthy growing, according to father.
Some of these symptoms of advancing adolescence take place in Wesley Barry's latest starring vehicle, "The Printer's Devil," scheduled at the Milane theatre today. The freckled boy wonder of the silver screen takes the part of Eric Hubbard, who in addition to worrying about the afore-mentioned symptoms, works as printer's devil, chief engineer, reporter, janitor and assistant editor of the Briggsville Gazette.
It is a Warner Brothers' classic of the screen, with a supporting cast that is made up of Harry Myers, Katherine McGuire, Louis King, George Pearce, Ray Cannon, Mary Halter and Harry Rottenburg.

Near East Relief Plans Completed By The Committee

Plans for the local Near East Relief campaign, which begins next Monday, are complete. The local committee of which Mrs. John G. Leonard is chairman is confident that the citizens of this community will respond to this appeal.
The Near East Relief has been incorporated by congress to care for the thousands of little Armenian and Greek children left utterly destitute because of war and massacre. The United States, a Christian nation, has hastened to the rescue of the remnant of the first nation to accept Christianity. The situation is unique, a nation of orphan children with no one to help them but friends in this country acting through the Near East Relief.

From the articles of incorporation of Near East Relief, granted by United States congress in October, 1919, appear section 2 which states: The object for said corporation is incorporated shall be to provide relief and to assist in the reparation, rehabilitation and re-establishment of suffering and dependent people of the Near East and adjacent areas; to provide for the care of orphans and widows and to promote the social, economic and industrial welfare of those who have been rendered destitute, or dependent directly or indirectly, by the vicissitudes of war, the cruelties of men, or other causes beyond their control.

"We have visited Armenia and examined the work of Near East Relief at Alexandropol. Without reservation we endorse the splendid results accomplished and urge the American people to continue their support so that the activities may be continued. It would be a calamity if the many thousands of orphan children now cared for should be left without support."—Senators E. F. Ladd of North Dakota and W. H. King of Utah; Congressman J. A. Frear of Wisconsin.

Henry Allen Speaks
I went to Syria, where the Near East Relief was presenting to the government a great institution with 4,000 orphans; it was a school of agriculture and mechanical arts, all equipped and the student body present were given the whole thing and the money with which to run the show. Colonel Plastiras, the head of the revolutionary government who had taken me to Syria, stood before these orphans and said, "Greece cannot be your mother any more for a long time because we have had such dreadful trials upon us, but in America you have found a new mother. My great desire is that you imbibe the American ideas and the American ideals, because then I will know that you will be better citizens of Greece by having imbibed these ideals."

Oviedo Woman's Club
The Oviedo Woman's Club met Friday, Feb. 1, at the Woman's Club rooms with the president, Mrs. W. O. Wolcott, presiding. Very little business was transacted in order that the usually interesting program might be given full time.

The program was an "Afternoon With Kate Douglas Wiggin," and was in charge of Mrs. T. L. Meade. The first number was a song by the club. Then Mrs. Meade gave a very interesting sketch of the life of Mrs. Wiggin; this was followed by a beautiful reading taken from "The Bird's Christmas Carol" and was given by Mrs. W. Luther; Mrs. T. L. Lingo gave a piano solo and Mrs. W. J. Lawton closed the program by a delightful reading from "Timothy's Quest." Delicious refreshments were served by Mrs. C. P. Mariner, hostess for the afternoon.

Come back to me
From longing shore
And wishing sea.

Where love is young,
Fresh paths untrod,
New notes unsung.

Where life is full,
Friends tried and true—
No jarring sounds
Come back to you.

O land of dreams—
A fair sweet home
From open doors
With love I roam.

O land of dreams,
Come back I pray
And cheer my soul

OVIEDO WOMAN'S CLUB

The Oviedo Woman's Club held its regular weekly meeting Friday afternoon, Jan. 21.

The president, Mrs. W. O. Wolcott, presiding. Plans were made for a club house shower to be given Feb. 14, and plans were discussed for a Husband's Banquet Feb. 20.

After the business was finished the meeting was turned over to the chairman of Child Welfare, Mrs.

West, the topic being "Child Welfare." Miss Doudney, the county nurse gave a most interesting talk on hookworms.

Little Miss Virginia Lawton gave a piano solo, then the assembly sang several songs.

Delicious ice cream and cakes were served by the hostesses, Mrs. James Lee, Mrs. MacFarlan, Mrs. Lingo, and Mrs. McFarlan.

PUBLIC NURSE IS A LARGE FACTOR IN SOLVING CHILD WELFARE PROBLEM

Helpful information regarding Scope of Duty of Public Nurse is given Together With Other Interesting Data Pertaining to Her Work.

cases of childhood, because we permit them to be carelessly exposing children to infection and neither observing ourselves or insisting on others observing strict maintenance of the quarantine laws.

The nurse teaches and demonstrates the care of the patient, so that the rest of the family and community may be safeguarded from the further spread of the disease. She also urges immunization wherever possible, for those diseases for which it is provided, such as typhoid fever and small pox.

The tuberculosis problem is particularly one for the public health nurse. This insidious disease is preventable and still here in our own dear country it carries off 150,000 yearly over 12,000 of whom are children. First the finding of the incipient cases and getting them under treatment; the care of the far advanced case; the examination of all contacts, particularly little children who are so susceptible and the education of the whole community to the danger of promiscuous spitting, common drinking cups, common towels, etc., are only part of the nurse work.

There has been much adverse criticism of the nursing profession for raising the standard in the training schools for nurses, and demanding certain educational qualifications for entrance to them; and for the consequent raising of the salary scale but nurses are ambitious to have the qualifications necessary in order to give the highest type of service; just as the medical profession has had to work their way to their present high standard of efficiency. But who of you would, in case of serious illness in the home, or epidemic or disaster in the community, want to ignore the skilled medical man and the well-trained efficient nurse. In time of need one never hears a complaint of the nurse being too well trained; certainly during the war, every one of them was eagerly sought.

Do not forget when the nurse's salary is mentioned, that she also has obligations and while no good nurse puts an exact money value on her services, (for day in and day out, there are so many things she does that no amount of money could pay for)—still you must remember that the laborer is worthy of his hire. Remember with it all the public health nurse is a woman, with a woman's heart big enough to take in every suffering, helpless bit of humanity and give it skilled care and then the pioneer spirit which gives her the courage to blaze the trail to better living conditions for those who shall come after.

And now, I hear you say, "Yes, we want to have a school nurse, or a tuberculosis nurse or a county nurse, but we cannot afford any such extravagance until times are better. We must exterminate hog cholera, cattle tick, boll weevil, or some other evil that has attacked our crops or stocks." But have you stopped to consider which is the most vicious—our children or our hogs or cattle or our agricultural products. Remember that when times are hard and community morals are low, health rooms also take a downward slant, and more than at other times do we need skilled supervision, for the health of our mothers and Now let us go to our nurse and see where she may help these conditions.

The time of emergency is past, and now that we have learned the need for, and the work of public health work, we are loath to give it up. However, because of the precedent established during the war of untrained or slightly trained women doing this work, (and people in general do not concern themselves with the details so much as the results of a piece of work) that not only the laity but many of the medical profession as well, have gotten an incorrect estimate of the Public Health Nurse. They are not sure just what her qualifications should be, and have only a very hazy idea of her job; hence the question of salary commensurate with the services rendered. I wish to briefly give you a word picture of the modern nurse, THE PUBLIC HEALTH NURSE, and what a community or county may legitimately expect of her; and what she can legitimately ask of a community or county. The name "PUBLIC HEALTH NURSE" applies to any nurse who makes the maintenance of health and the prevention of disease her chief work. She may specialize in various fields such as prenatal, maternity and infant welfare; school nursing; medical social service; tuberculosis nursing; communicable disease control; industrial nursing; mental hygiene; she may combine these functions in general service to the county or community.

The making of an efficient public health nurse requires: First, three years in a general hospital training school to give her the scientific knowledge of the body in health and disease, and to teach her the care and feeding of acutely ill persons, invalids and infants; second, a postgraduate course in public health nursing which gives her the theoretical knowledge of all the public health functions mentioned above and third, actual practice under trained supervision, to give her confidence and poise and to help her to develop good judgment and resourcefulness, for she must if she is to be thoroughly efficient, be able to perceive other or ill than physical ills and know where to go for the expert help that will relieve or cure. She needs a strong body, a love of humanity, infinite patience and tact, a sense of humor and a capacity for work, in order to serve all classes from the "big house" in quarantine, to the negro quarters with sick babies and poverty.

The public health nurse must ever be on the alert for the communicable diseases—the so-called diseases of childhood, whooping cough, measles, scarlet fever, diphtheria and many forms of sore throat and acute colds are dis-

BOOK CHATS

By Mrs. Lawrence Brown
Notes on Important Books to be Found in The Public Library.

Every other week will see a most interesting review of worth while books to be had at the Sanford Public Library. This is written by the Librarian, Mrs. Lawrence Brown who comes to Sanford from the Orlando Public Library and is a woman of wide experience in the different phases of library work. We are sure that you will enjoy Mrs. Brown's "Book Chat."

"Life of Christ."
This is one of the most important books of the year, written by the noted Florentine philosopher and writer. It is deeply religious in tone, and is a remarkable tribute to the Gospel story, as the author passed through years of denial and unbelief. Its style is simple, vigorous and direct, written to appeal to the every day man and woman. It has been admirably translated by Mrs. Dorothy Canfield Fisher. This is a book to be recommended to all serious minded readers.
Conkling, Hilda.

"Shoes of the Wind."
These charming poems are the natural and gifted expression of the child-poet, Hilda Conkling, who is one of the literary prodigies of the age. They are delicate and unaffected in style, showing the dreams of sensitive childhood, and are equal in form to the work of the adult writer. Should her talent never reach maturity, she has already won a recognized place in the poetry of today.
Post, Emily.

"Fringette."
An authoritative book full of detailed information, by a writer eminently fitted to portray the usages of social life. It is not a mere outline of rules, though it prescribes in a delightful way the approved ethics of formal functions, but also treats in an unaffected and sympathetic spirit the broader side of social life. It is the best work on the subject, and has been rightly called "The Blue Book of Social Usage."
Cather, Willa S.

"One of Ours."
This novel, by one of our most brilliant writers, took the Pulitzer prize last year for "The American novel published during the year which shall best present the wholesome atmosphere of American life, and the highest standard of American manners and manhood." It is essentially a character portrayal, showing the aspirations of the young man who longs for the higher and nobler things of life. He finds the solution in the call to the World War. Like Miss Cather's earlier novels, the book shows the distinction of the artistic writer.
Hoover, Herbert.

"American Individualism."
The theory of American politics is well brought out in this little book, showing that individualism has been one of the leading forces

FREIGHT RATES ON FARM PRODUCTS

BY LLOYD C. BEBOUT

The actual valuation of the American rail lines is a very important item in the construction of fair and reasonable freight rates on farm products as well as all other commodities tendered the carriers for transportation. The ironclad rule of any business is that in order to know whether or not a profit has been made in a certain operation three items must be ascertained; namely, valuation of the instrument, cost of the service, and revenue derived.

The Interstate Commerce Commission in its valuation survey of the American railroads figures in round numbers a total valuation of $22,380,000,000. Such an amount seems to be conservative when the present prices for materials and cost of labor for construction, operation and maintenance are considered. It is contended that this valuation should be decreased about $8,000,000, but standing as it is, we believe the rates for instance on farm products out of the state of Florida could be reduced to a considerable extent and still permit of a fair profit on monies invested to carry on that service.

For illustration, take a shipment of 400 hampers of lettuce selling at destination at $2.00, the freight and refrigeration charge is around 8 1/2 cents in this instance, Sanford, Fla., to New York, N. Y., being almost half of the gross receipts. When all the incidentals are considered the producer does not receive much for his labor.

Several steps should be taken to better existing conditions in the matter of freight charges. The first appears to be a readjustment of the whole rate structure. When rates on farm products out of Florida are placed upon a normal basis a shipper may avail himself of the interstate markets thereby distributing his products over a greater area, creating greater market value. The result will be, larger volume of business and increased revenue for the carriers, better returns to the producer, wider distribution of southern fruits and vegetables, more reasonable prices to the consumers and better control of markets.

The growers do not desire anything unreasonable and the carriers no doubt will be satisfied with a just consideration for their services; therefore, why not get together? Now is the acceptable time for the growers to accumulate all the data possible concerning the transportation and distribution of their products, by making written record of important items for reference at a later date when information is desired by the Traffic League or other organization endeavoring to establish rates consistent with the service performed. It is difficult to prove facts by dim inscriptions recorded on memory's walls, so let us jot down in black and white all data that will assist in working out this big problem. When the opportune time arrives to have a hearing before the Interstate Commerce Commission or any other controlling body, the cold facts in written form will go far to impress our hearers and we may look for favorable results.

Soaking Seed In A Disinfectant

BY R. F. COOPER

We may here apply the old adage "A Stitch in Time Saves Nine." Many truck or garden plants and fruits are often seriously injured by diseases which could be prevented by disinfecting the seed before planting in a 1-to-1,000 solution of corrosive sublimate.

This disinfectant can be prepared by dissolving one tablet in one quart of water. This amount is sufficient for a quart of a pound of seed. Increased amounts can be prepared by mixing in the same proportion.

Seed of different plants require to be soaked in the solution for varying lengths of time, because the seed coats of some are more easily penetrated than others. The following common seed should be soaked according to the time indicated:

Cantaloupe	10 minutes
Cauliflower	15 minutes
Celery	8 minutes
Cucumber	10 minutes
Eggplant	5 minutes
Lettuce	8 minutes
Pepper	5 minutes
Squash	10 minutes
Tomato	8 minutes
Watermelon	10 minutes

This time table has been worked out and is being recommended by G. F. Weber, assistant plant pathologist of the Florida Experiment Station.

As for the celery I might say that I have some nice plants out in the school garden that the seed were soaked for 30 minutes in a bicarbonate of mercury. If you are interested I will be glad to show you what we are doing in the school garden. I will be out there on Tuesdays most every week.

ON THE JOB AT LAST

WOODROW WILSON NEW YORK TRIBUNE

DAN DOBB SAYS

One handicap about being poor is you get shot instead of being sued for breach of promise. The only hard thing about saving a dollar is you have to keep on saving it every day. We can't decide whether to buy an auto or use the money as a final payment on a new suit. It's easier to get the wrong phone number than the right one because there are more wrong ones. An ideal husband is a man who gets his weekly pay every night. Talk may be cheap, but cheap things don't pay. Being a movie star's husband must be a nice life, but there is no future in it. When a man with but a single idea gets there he hasn't enjoyed the trip very much. After everybody gets well educated there will be nobody left to do our work for us. Married man tells us he is assistant head of his house. Light words often carry more weight than heavy ones. Too many people will give three cheers for something they won't give anything else for. A Cleveland girl robs drug store. It's a wonder the clerk didn't offer her something just as good when she demanded money. Plans are under way to enable farmers to stay in debt 16 months every year instead of only 14 months.

Disappointing but Not Discouraging

It is indeed unfortunate that a man holding the position that William H. Anderson held, should betray the confidence of his friends and take unfair advantage of his position. The conviction of the Superintendent of the New York Anti-Saloon League, on a charge of forgery carried disappointment to thousands of supporters of prohibition. In fact the downfall of this conspicuous leader may for a short time hinder the work of the organization he represented and make it necessary to do over considerable of the work that had already been accomplished. But just because Anderson could not withstand the temptation does not prove that the Anti-Saloon League is corrupt. In every organization, both good and bad, are found many members who are untrue to their profession and who cast reflections on their fellow members, thereby hindering them in their work. Because the Superintendent of the New York Anti-Saloon League held such a conspicuous position we hear more about his downfall. And because he was connected with an organization that is accomplishing wonders in enforcing prohibition, the liquor papers and the brewing element are trying to make a mountain out of a mole hill. Judge Tompkins, who presided at the trial of Anderson impressed the jurors that neither the Anti-Saloon League nor prohibition was on trial. Individuals may fail a great cause but the cause continues to march on. Anderson sold his honor for a handful of silver. But because a trusted servant betrayed it, the Anti-Saloon League will not fail. Every day we hear of men proving false to honor and yet honor lives. The fact that there are regrets and disappointments over the wrecks of life and character goes to prove that the hearts of the majority are sound. The Anti-Saloon League is accomplishing a great work. Prohibition means more on account of the work of this organization. While the downfall of one of its leaders is to be regretted, the work of this great organization will continue to go on and the liquor interests will continue to feel the effects of its presence in the land.

As Brisbane Sees It

Private and Public. Strange Coincidence. H. Johnson and Mr. Curtis. Good Horse, Bad Cow News. Copyright, 1923. WOODROW WILSON'S body is to have a private funeral on Wednesday. It will rest finally in the crypt of the great Episcopal Cathedral now, building at Mount St. Albans in the northern section of Washington. Woodrow Wilson's real funeral, the tribute paid to the spirit that is not dead, spreads actually over the whole world and his is "a public funeral" in the real sense of the word. The moment they are dead, men begin to settle into the place that history reserves for them. Today with radio, telegraph, newspapers, history works rapidly. Its judgments are as erroneous as in the past, probably, but they are more quickly rendered. ALREADY, FROM all over the world, Woodrow Wilson's history begins to be written. Lloyd George says, "He was a glorious failure, sacrificing his life for his ideals." Maximilian Harding says, "Wilson is the heroic Hamlet of American history." HIS SON-IN-LAW, McAdoo says, "Taken all in all, he was perhaps the greatest man America has yet produced." Others, going not quite so far, give him place beside George Washington. In all expressions that come from Europe you detect an undertone of grudging praise. But all the words are polite. NEW YORK ladies have gone all the way to Washington "to inaugurate a campaign to outlaw war by constitutional amendment." It's a pretty idea, but if they do put into the Constitution an amendment forbidding war, let's hope it will work better than the amendment outlawing whiskey. YOU CAN'T outlaw war—because you can't outlaw human nature. But you can do much to prevent war. The most important thing for the United States is to avoid mixing or meddling in European affairs, making itself responsible for the quarrels of Europe. WHEN SWEDEN officially expressed its lack of confidence in the League of Nations, demanding a strong Swedish army on the ground that the league can do nothing to prevent weaker nations from oppression, you realize how important it is for us to keep away from that futile league.

Some Relief In Sight

Taxpayers, patient and long suffering, are to get immediate relief in the form of a twenty-five per cent cut on income taxes payable this year, if reports emanating from Washington are correct. The House Ways and Means committee have reported favorably on such action and it is believed that this provision will be adopted without a fight. Reducing taxes next year and this year are two different matters and taxpayers will heartily approve the present plan to make the reduction effective on last year's taxes due March 15 of this year. It is estimated that a twenty-five per cent reduction would mean a saving to taxpayers this year of $225,000,000. This proposal has the approval of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon. Another interesting phase of the tax reduction fight is the effort to make the rich pay a just proportion of the taxes. Representative Darrow declares that these taxes were evaded "during the war to make the rich pay but now they are not paying." He also comes out with the statement that he is satisfied that the great majority of former service men would fare better in actual dollars and cents as a result of a sound revision of the taxes than they would by a bonus. The American taxpayer is not especially interested in any set "plan" or "system" of lowering the taxes but he is demanding, and demanding justly, prompt and decisive action that will give immediate relief from the present burdens.

Making State Safe For Developers

There will be submitted to the voters of this state at the next general election a constitutional amendment forbidding for a term of 25 years, any levy or collection of income and inheritance taxes by the state of Florida or its political subdivisions. It was no mere play to the gallery that caused the late legislature to recommend the submission of this amendment to the people. Upon the matter of incomes, there may be bare argument pro and con. Upon an inheritance tax there can be none pro, unless the proponent is willing to admit that the government has a right to take away any part of an inheritance, it has the right to take all. Undoubtedly, the same power to take ten per cent of any inheritance left to heirs of a decedent exists to take 90 per cent or 100 per cent—it is all a matter of how much the taxing power thinks the people will give up without too strenuous opposition or rebellion. Many states, gone wild over the opportunity thus presented to add to their tax income, have placed such a burden on the heirs of the dead that the life long work of the decedent and the admittedly good and proper spirit of leaving something for those who come after him, is nigh to being strangled. They have listened to the strenuous cries of those who have nothing. And anything, and never will have anything, that money is the worst thing a man can leave his son. Such a tax puts a penalty on frugality, parental love, and desire to help the family, and places a premium on that doctrine of socialism, which declares for an equal division of property regardless of right and regardless of work. So heavy is this burden become in many states, that men are seeking other states to which they may remove and live their last days, and converting their property in such taxed states into property in non-taxed states.

MY FAVORITE STORIES

By IRVIN S. COBB. Two Northerners traveling in the mountains of Kentucky had gone for hours, without seeing a sign of life. At last they came to a cabin in a clearing. The hags lay in their mud holes, and a clank of a mule grazed round and round in a circle to save the trouble of walking, and one lank man whose clothes were the color of the mule, leaned against a tree and let time roll onward. "How do you do?" said one of the Northerners. "Howdy." "Pleasant country." The native shifted his quid and granted. "Lived here all your life?" The native spat pensively. "Not yet," he said laughingly.

At least it is his credit that it was not a strawberry shipment are moving from Lakeland and growers are getting good prices. Strawberry culture is making many a Florida grower rich. McAdoo will appear Friday before the Senate oil investigating committee, at his own request. It is quite in contrast to the business fall and Sinclair have not to testify. It is interesting to note that, in the recent rise in the price of oil, comes an announcement that John D. Rockefeller will build a new tenement houses in a New Jersey city. Road builders of the state are making a three-day conference at Tallahassee. There will be an opportunity for an exchange of ideas and the meeting should be most profitable one. Men in politics who would "give their shirts" to a friend in need are always particular as to the friendship of the shirt they give, sometimes it turns out to be the shirt—New York Tribune. Party feelings are laid aside in hour of sadness. It should be creating to read what the New York Tribune, a leading Republican paper, has to say about Woodrow Wilson in an editorial noted on this page. Approximately two and one-half billions of dollars are available for work on state roads during the next year. If one third of this amount ever finds its way into pavement, tourists will find it easy in Florida next year. The supreme court of California ruled that the King James version of the Holy Bible is neither a religious nor denominational book, which gives a death blow to the argument of those who would have the Bible barred from the public schools for such reasons. If anyone doubts the sentiment of Sanford for a municipally owned electric light plant, just ask a sunbather after he has opened his bill for the past month. It is a "take something more than the ordinary" argument to convince that he is not paying too much. Frank Jennings made substantial gains here last week. His impassioned hearers as being both earnest and capable. If the same results are in evidence at other points where he has appeared, his nomination is practically assured. Plant City Courier. Another mine disaster! This time the history falls out of a all pond and the miners working far below are drowned like in a trap. It may be impossible to avoid such occurrences, but it is frequency is beginning to be us wonder if they are not more or less to negligence.

Attorney General Harry Daugherty in making his eulogy to Wilson said, "I never made any personal attack on him, and cannot say that he has done to me." Mr. Daugherty's words of laud will mean more to Woodrow Wilson's friends by having taken a position.

There is scarcely an editor in the country who has not during the past two or three days written in the highest terms of Woodrow Wilson. He has been eulogized practically every paper from the States to Mexico. This is, naturally we like to see it. But much better, how much happier the last days of Woodrow Wilson would have been, if some of these words had been written by his death.

THE TWO BEST ESTIMATES

JOHN TEMPLE GRAVES IN PALM BEACH POST. On the mighty flood of comments which the world will bring to this desk on Woodrow Wilson, dead, stand first and foremost in fairness in force and in fine intelligence. One of these, enjoying the salient advantage ground of distance, and the greatest name now left in history, bears the signature of David Lloyd George the mighty comrade and counterpart of the dead president who grappled side by side with him in the great world issue which rests the immortality of each. The other comes with peculiar grace and generosity carrying the high opinion of William Jennings Bryan, who left the Wilson cabinet under a difference but was great enough never to lose the discrimination and justice of his admiration for the president. There is nothing, so far, sounder in the public prints; and both deserve the widest dissemination. Says Lloyd George: "Woodrow Wilson is surely one of the great figures in history—the central figure in history. His name will be carried to his own glory and the permanent benefit of mankind. The tragedy of it all is that Woodrow Wilson's failing was his inability to subdue personalities—his refusal to give up personal animosity. This weakness caused his failure to realize his ideals during his lifetime and in the end it was this weakness which doubtless contributed to his death. If the president had been willing to sacrifice personal prejudice to obtain the general support of his people at home, he could have realized his League of Nations' ideal by this means, it is certain, in view of the concessions which the European powers would have made to the American desires for changes in the league plan. But Mr. Wilson could not overcome his failing. Last year when I visited him in Washington he still was as bitter as ever against his opponents. Mr. Wilson can trample on great men but not little men—there are too many of them. But after all, Mr. Wilson was a conscientious in politics. But Mr. Wilson never seemed to withstand political pin pricks. They hurt his proud, sensitive nature. Yes, it was the mosquito bites, it was those things inflicted by politicians, that broke him and hastened his end. He sacrificed his life for his country and freedom as surely as Lincoln did. Even more discriminating and satisfying in a way are Mr. Bryan's generous words which cannot fail to take their permanent place in history. Mr. Bryan said: "No president except Washington and Lincoln was ever confronted by problems as great, and no president ever brought to their solution greater intelligence, patriotism, courage—these three qualities without which statesmanship is impossible. To these he added sympathy with the masses. "His first administration brought victory and embodied in law more economic measures than were ever secured in the same length of time. During this administration also our nation was linked to three-quarters of the world by 30 treaties that made war almost impossible between the contracting parties. He led the nation through its greatest war and mobilized its vast resources more quickly and more efficiently than such a task has ever been accomplished by any other executive in any age. His efforts to abolish war by confederation between nations was as noble an effort as was ever made by man and his failure to accomplish his purpose cannot dim the glory of that effort." There were no two men who knew better than these. One was in his World cabinet. The other in his Wilson cabinet. Both had differed; but both had agreed, and both knew him, motive and method, to the core. When the final judgment of history is written it will not be found to differ from the composite estimate of these two great contemporaries. Wilson's great colleague at the peace table has in mind better than any other the difficulties of opposition and temperament which he had to combat, and did engage; and Bryan retains better than any other contemporary who has spoken, the record of achievements which really must be credited to Wilson in those strenuous years. And these are the things which history undoubtedly wishes to know. Lloyd George and Bryan have made notable contributions to the truth of history. We note them, anyway.

EVENING BRIDGE CLUB ENTERTAINED.

One of the most delightful of the many social affairs of Wednesday evening was the bridge party given by Mrs. George A. DeCottes at her home on Magnolia Avenue. The guests were the members of the Evening Bridge Club. Exquisite pink roses and freshias were lavishly used in the various rooms where the card tables were placed. Delicate pink and white tulle were used for keeping scores and after a number of spirited games of bridge, prizes were awarded. Mrs. R. A. Newman holding high score among the ladies, was given a telephone screen, while the men's prize a late book, went to E. F. Housholder. After the awarding of the prizes, Mrs. DeCottes served a tempting salad course, with scalloped oysters and coffee followed by a sweet course. LAKE MARY

The supper given Tuesday evening by the Epworth League of the Methodist Church of Lake Mary at the home of Mrs. W. H. Musgrave was a decided success. The League served delicious supper. Then a pleasant evening of music and recitations was enjoyed. A pleasing feature was a chorus, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Evans, Mr. S. W. Sewell, Mrs. Rola Ewing and others singing old time songs with Mrs. Sewell as accompanist. Master Charles Sewell sang a solo. Those giving recitations were Charles Sewell, Miss Elma Bridges, Mrs. Sewell, Norman Snow and Billie Maggrave. There were several guests from Sanford. Everyone seemed to enjoy the evening very much. The League wishes to thank all those that helped to make the evening a success. Hunting a nickel on the floor will reduce your bay window. The height of fashion is always found in the price. SOUSA'S BAND TO BE AT DAYTONA BEACH ON FEB. 18

John Philip Sousa and his band of 88 men, on his 31st annual tour, will appear at the auditorium at Daytona Beach on Monday, Feb. 18, it was announced Thursday. Two concerts will be given, one in the afternoon and one at night. That Sousa is the best-beloved of all present day conductors is indicated that the majority of men who will appear with the famous bandmaster during his 31st annual tour are men who have been with him for more than five seasons. The average length of service of the 88 men in the band is about eight years, and there are several men who have been with the March King more than 20 seasons. The esteem in which he is held by bandmen over the country was indicated upon his last visit to Shreveport, La., where a director of a rural band drove more than 150 miles in his "flier" to greet Sousa. Often as many as a dozen local band leaders may be found on the stage following a concert. John Philip Sousa gave his first concert at the head of the band which bears his name on Sept. 12, 1892. This season is the 31st during which he has headed his organization, and the 15th in which he has gone from coast to coast. During his career Sousa has raised his baton over his band for more than 10,000 concerts—an average of more than 300 concerts a season.

Passion Play Stove Tells Story of Bible

Anton Lang Explains Religious Meaning of Beautiful Hand-made Pottery Design and Tells History of Its Making—Compares It With Modern Heating.

PASSION PLAY STOVE AND ANTON LANG. This stove was secured by the American Radiator Co. for a special historical collection for the record sum of $1,000.

By ANTON LANG

Stoves, I think, may be a curiosity in America. I say this because of the questions people ask me about my Passion Play stove which attracted so much attention in New York, at the beginning of our United States tour. I told that there are stoves in this country, only they are made of iron, and not like our stoves of porcelain tiles that help to keep us warm in Oberammergau when the Alps are covered with snow. So it is not surprising that people in New York wonder at my stove; because in New York people live in great community buildings heated by steam. Most heating in American towns and cities and in large country homes is through central heating plants. America is very modern, very quick to invent and use such wonderful conveniences. America could not turn back to the stove any more than it could change its electric trains to horse teams.

But my stove is the kind of stove that is our substitute for your radiator. It does not have a firebox, but takes the fire from a fireplace on the other side of a wall. One room you see has a grate and the fire is brought into the stove from this grate through tile pipes, coming in below and passing out below. This is in principle like the "drums" you place here on stove pipes when the pipes pass from one room to a room above. In Oberammergau we use stoves as an ornament in the house and make them in color with pictures and reliefs.

The Passion Play stove was designed by Herr Walter von Ruckteschell and myself after the Passion Play of 1922. We worked on a plan to tell the story of the Play and the story of Christianity. I molded the clay and painted, glazed and fired the tiles.

The stove rests upon the symbols of the four Evangelists, as they are described in the Apocalypse. The lower three panels are from the Old Testament and the upper three from the New Testament. The first panel is the origin of Cain, the first crime in the world; above is Jesus washing the feet of Peter, the first act of service. In front the lower panel shows the fall of Adam and Eve; above Christ on the Cross, atoning for their sin. The third lower panel is Adam and Eve driven out of Paradise; above, the last supper, when Christ gave of his own flesh and blood to his disciples. At the corners are the four apostles who did most to spread Christianity—Peter, Paul, James and the other John. A dove with an olive branch in its mouth is the symbol of the Holy Spirit and of peace. Jesus, holding out his arms to us and asking us to come to him, stands above.

The stove took eight months to model and build. It was a work of love. The color scheme makes use of blue-green and cream-colored tiles, with gold decorations and trimmings. The base reliefs and statues are of pure white porcelain. The above stands about 12 feet high.

and evening, at the Lutheran church. The meadow larks and mocking birds are singing again and the martins are back in their old nests. They seem to think spring has come. A number of children enjoyed Saturday afternoon with the little folks at Behr's grove. Little Elizabeth Hirschi has been

Mrs. Volie Williams entertained the members of her class of which she is the president and Dr. Deaton, the teacher, at her home last Friday, Feb. 1. Strawberries with whipped cream, iced cakes and coffee were served for refreshments. Mr. and Mrs. Noah Fry, Grandmother Bengston and Miss Eunice Tyner were Sunday guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. O. Tyner while Emil Magnusson spent the day with his sister, Mrs. J. E. Lundquist.

HOLDOUTS SMALL IN NUMBER NOW

(By The Associated Press)
 CHICAGO, Feb. 7.—Major baseball clubs prepare to enter their spring training they are finding themselves with almost a complete roster of players signed up. Exceptionally few holdouts are listed.

The Cincinnati Reds have one of the largest lists of unsigned players with four still to affix their signature to contracts. The purchase of Carl Mays, from the Yankees and Tom Sheehan from St. Paul has bolstered the Red pitching staff.

Manager McGraw of the Giants had Weyland Dean, Louisville star twirler, as one of his principal purchases.

The Philadelphia Athletics has acquired Max Bishop of Baltimore, a shortstop; Paul Strand, Salt Lake chief slugger, and Simmons, Milwaukee outfielder. By recent player swaps, the Boston Red Sox and Cleveland have cleared up most of their uncertainties.

Slater has disposed of the Urban Shocker case for his club removing its principal trouble while the St. Louis Cardinals have arranged terms with Jeff Pfeffer, their only regular whose return was doubtful.

Both the Chicago White Sox and Cubs report their rosters in almost complete shape.

Star Golfers Enter Florida Tournaments

(By The Associated Press)
 ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., Feb. 7.—Golfers from many parts of the North and East are expected to participate in three tournaments to be played on the St. Augustine links during the next 60 days. The eighth annual spring tournament will open Feb. 10 and play will continue through Feb. 20. After that will come the women's third annual tournament, Mar. 5-8, which will be followed by the Florida winter championship tournament Mar. 18-22.

Wilfred Reid, professional in charge of the course which was one of the favorite places of recreation for the late President Harding during his visit to Florida, pronounced both greens and fairways in almost flawless condition. He has recently negotiated the 18 holes in 69 and followed that with a 71 on an unusually windy day.

Mrs. Ella K. Manning of Cincinnati, state champion, and one of the crack women golfers who visit St. Augustine, has announced her intention of entering the women's tournament in March.

TEACHERS EXAMS WILL BE GIVEN TO MORE THAN 1,200

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Feb. 7.—Approximately 1,200 teachers and prospective teachers in Florida's public schools will take the February examinations for state teachers' certificates, it is indicated by requests for sets of questions so far received at the office of the state superintendent of public instruction. The examinations will be held at the county seats throughout the state, instead of Tallahassee as was recently erroneously stated in a dispatch sent out from the capital city.

The questions will go out to the county superintendents on time, it is stated, and every effort is being made to simplify the examination so that there will be no occasion for any dissatisfaction on the part of the examinee.

At the close of the examination the county superintendents will forward to the state superintendent all examination papers which will be graded by a state grading committee with all the dispatch possible, and the examinees will be notified of the result, and those who merit certificates will receive them within a short time, it is stated.

The subjects required for the various grade certificates follow:

Third Grade: Orthography, reading, arithmetic, English grammar, composition, geography, U. S. History and constitution, physiology and theory and practice of teaching.

BARROW TURNS DOWN THE OFFER OF CLARK GRIFFITH TO MANAGE THE WASHINGTON SENATORS THIS YEAR

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—An offer to manage the Washington Senators this season made by Clark Griffith during the American League session in Boston Wednesday, was turned down by Edward G. Barrow, business manager of the Yankees. It was learned today. Details of Griffith's offer were not revealed, but it was understood Barrow declined to accept because as a stockholder and secretary of the franchise and addition business duties, he desired to retain his connections here.

Washington is the only major league club without a pilot. Since Donnie Bush was released, the names of Eddie Collins, White Sox second sacker and Kid Gleason, former White Sox manager, have been mentioned for the post, while it also was intimated that Griffith, himself a managerial veteran, might take over the active reins in addition to his duties as club president, if unable to find a capable field general.

Barrow has had wide experience as a baseball manager and executive. He piloted the Detroit Tigers in 1903 and 1904 and led the Boston Red Sox in 1918, 1919 and 1920. His 1918 club captured the last American League pennant Chicago has had and defeated the Chicago Cubs in the world's series.

Rumors

Notes: There are exemptions allowed on third grade towards a second on the following subjects (provided the average on these subjects is equal to that required for second grade): Orthography, reading and physiology. Exemptions from a second to a first may be claimed if the general average for a second grade is equal to that required for a first grade. If not then only such subjects may be counted that have a grade of 85 per cent.

ACTOR FIRST TO USE PSYCHOANALYSIS

Elsie White, Noted Singer, Explains Reactions

New York City.—"Psychoanalysis was discovered by the first actor way back in the Garden of Eden days," declares Elsie White, who wonders why everybody acts as if all these "fams" they talk so much about nowadays are something new.

"Believe me, if you couldn't dive down into unconsciousness and subconsciousness, you wouldn't get very far on the stage," she points out. "You've got to catalog your audience to see whether you speak their language or not, and before long it's no trick at all to do it successfully. People's eyes give them away almost always.

"I am singing one song now that I call the emotional test—'Every Night I Cry Myself to Sleep Over You' it is named. It is not really as plaintive as the title sounds, but for all that it certainly goes down into folks' hearts and pulls out what's there.

"The woman whose husband has the lodge habit, the young girl who is in love with a married man and the mother whose son is on the wrong track—as I sing I look out and see each one react. The sentiment in the song and the sound of a sympathetic voice combined with melody which brings memories constitute a complex probe than a psychoanalyst could ever devise.

Address

Out-of-Date

Yards that measure only 35 inches and 15-ounce pounds are out-of-date. Advertising has put them clear out of business.

Manufacturers who advertise must give value, because they have a good name to protect. Manufacturers of well known products and the merchants who sell these products often value the names at millions of dollars. They cannot afford to jeopardize the worth of these names by selling any but good goods of full measure and fair price.

A merchant or manufacturer cannot afford to advertise merchandise that will not give service. The penalty of such tactics is too heavy.

You can bank on this. Advertised goods must be as advertised. That is why it pays to deal with advertisers and to buy advertised products. The advertising is your protection.

Read the Advertisements in this Paper It Will Pay You.
