Controversy Over Low Blood Sugar

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 59 years old, 5 feet 5 inches tall with a large frame and weigh 165 pounds. Recently I had a thorough physical examination and tests. A five hour glucose tolerance test showed that I am hypoglycemic and blood tests showed that my cholesterol is elevated to 312 milligrams.

Controversy Over Low Blood Sugar

You can use cabbage, lettuce, broccoli and bulky vegetables of this type and raw vegetables such as carrots, celery, and green beans. You need some cereal and I would suggest a bowl of Bran Buds or All Bran each day to maintain some bulk in your diet. You can reverse the order of your meals each day if you really have had symptoms of hypoglycemia. By that I mean have the meat and vegetables in the morning and at lunch.

FBI Director To Testify At A.I.M. Members' Trial

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa (AP) — FBI Director Clarence Kelley was scheduled to testify today in the murder trial of two American Indian Movement members about his agency's involvement in alleged news leaks that defense lawyers say were designed to link AIM with violence.

Kelley was listed as the first witness of the day in the U.S. District Court trial of two Oregon men accused of killing two FBI agents.

Robert Rolodan, 29, of Portland, and Darrell Butler, 34, of Rogue River, are charged with killing agents Jack Cole and Ronald Williams, both 28, on June 26, 1975. The agents were on the Pine Ridge Indian Reservation near Oglala, S.D., at the time to serve arrest warrants. The FBI has claimed the agents were ambushed.

Kelley was supposed to appear in court Tuesday, but he did not show up. Judge Edward J. McManus ordered the FBI director to be on hand today to explain why he should not be held in contempt of court.

Divorce Laws Criticized

WASHINGTON (AP) — No-fault divorce laws are leaving most women and children worse off financially than they would have been under old laws, according to a report by the National Commission on the Observance of International Women's Year, the reason is that most states have balked at putting a price tag on the economic contribution of the person who has left home and raised the children.

to normal and then mature. Levy said, which would broaden tremendously the animal's survival capability.

Finally, Levy said, the planaria has the power to reproduce asexually as well as sexually. This means that in addition to normal copulation, which involves two organisms, a single planaria is capable of reproducing by itself through biological fission and regeneration.

In this bizarre-sounding process, the animal actually divides itself in half lengthwise and then each half regenerates a companion side to form two new organisms. Asexual reproduction may occur more frequently than copulation, Levy said.

The nematode, on the other hand, is limited to a single, sexual reproduction cycle.

Well, with this apparent Superworm in existence, what's the hold-up? Why not round up a bunch of them and hurry out to exterminate 90 per cent of all the blind mosquito larvae that dare to hatch and swarm along the Lake Monroe water front in and around Sanford?

This is where the ever-hovering Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) comes in. Before any such action can be taken, thorough tests and demonstrations must be performed to convince the EPA, as well as the entomologists themselves, that biological control agent will have no negative effect on the natural order of its target region.

Such projects must be conducted on a large-scale basis, and that means having plenty of control animals and the ability to produce more whenever they are needed. This "mass rearing," Levy said, is the chief obstacle confronting the Lee County program right now.

"To be successful with mass rearing," Levy said, "you have to place your specimens in a suitable environment and provide food for them." The food, in most cases, turns out to be the target organism.

Obviously, the key to a continuous mass rearing program is reproduction. And while the planaria is a durable and highly reproductive creature, it is not a machine. Its reproduction rate is affected by such factors as water content, temperature and light.

Until an entomologist hits upon the perfect parlay of these elements to "trigger" optimum

Davie Sims Seeks Second Term

Veteran school board member Davie Sims today announced his candidacy for a second four-year term.

The 45-year-old South Seminole businessman says administrators and board members made "many accomplishments" during the past four years.

"Many of my personal goals have been realized," Sims said. "Frustrations and disappointments" have also been a part of his job.

In coming years Sims says the Seminole County school system will be faced with problems — all of which can be overcome by sound fiscal management and by keeping students' needs in mind when a curriculum is adopted.

Jewelry, Tractor, Pipe Taken In Separate Thefts

By BOB LLOYD Herald Staff Writer

Sheriff's deputies today were searching for a $21,500 tractor, $18,000 in jewelry and irrigation pipe valued at $3,200 reported missing in three separate theft cases.

All Stalls of Stale Septic Tank Co. told deputies that a 1975 Case tractor with backhoe and front end loader assemblies was taken from the firm's property on SR-427 near the railroad at Longwood.

Jo Vonne Barnes, of Springwood Village Drive, Longwood, reported she fell asleep at her residence about 1 a.m. Tuesday and a jewelry box containing items valued at $10,000 missing.

Deputies said the unlocked residence was apparently entered and the items taken while Ms. Barnes slept. Listed as missing were 20 gold pins and brooches, 10 to 20 bracelets and three gold chains.

Gene Wilkinson, of Orlando, reported two unidentified men fled a citrus grove area of Lake Emma Road, Lake Mary, in a blue pickup truck when approached by a worker on a tractor.

Deputies said investigation revealed 40 sections of five-inch aluminum irrigation system piping, 20 to 30 feet in length, had been removed.

Deputy David Duguid said the missing pipe was valued at $3,200 and was apparently removed by using an axe to split the pipe.

Randy Pittman reported the cart was later found partially submerged in a small pond near the San Jose Center off SR-436.

Cole TV Missing

Lotlie B. Green, of 3301 Orlando Drive, Sanford, reported she returned home to find that burglars had stolen a $500 color television.

Tools Taken

Deputies today reported tools valued at $150 were stolen by burglars who pried open doors to enter the American Produce Exchange (APEX) warehouse and offices on SR-46 east of Sanford.

Thieves Strike

Sanford Police Detective Sgt. William Dube reported thieves made off with a welding machine, battery and a 5-gallon drum of old copper wire, total value $400, from the Auto-Train yard on Perimeter Ave.

Court Upholds Food Dye Ban

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal appeals court has upheld manufacturers of Red Dye No. 2 who wanted to continue using the synthetic coloring, which the government suspects may be a weak cancer-causing agent.

The U.S. Court of Appeals on Tuesday upheld the Food and Drug Administration's 5-month-old ban on Red Dye No. 2, the nation's most widely used artificial coloring for foods, drugs and cosmetics until last year.

The three-judge panel upheld the federal judge who gave the FDA permission in February to ban future use of the coloring.

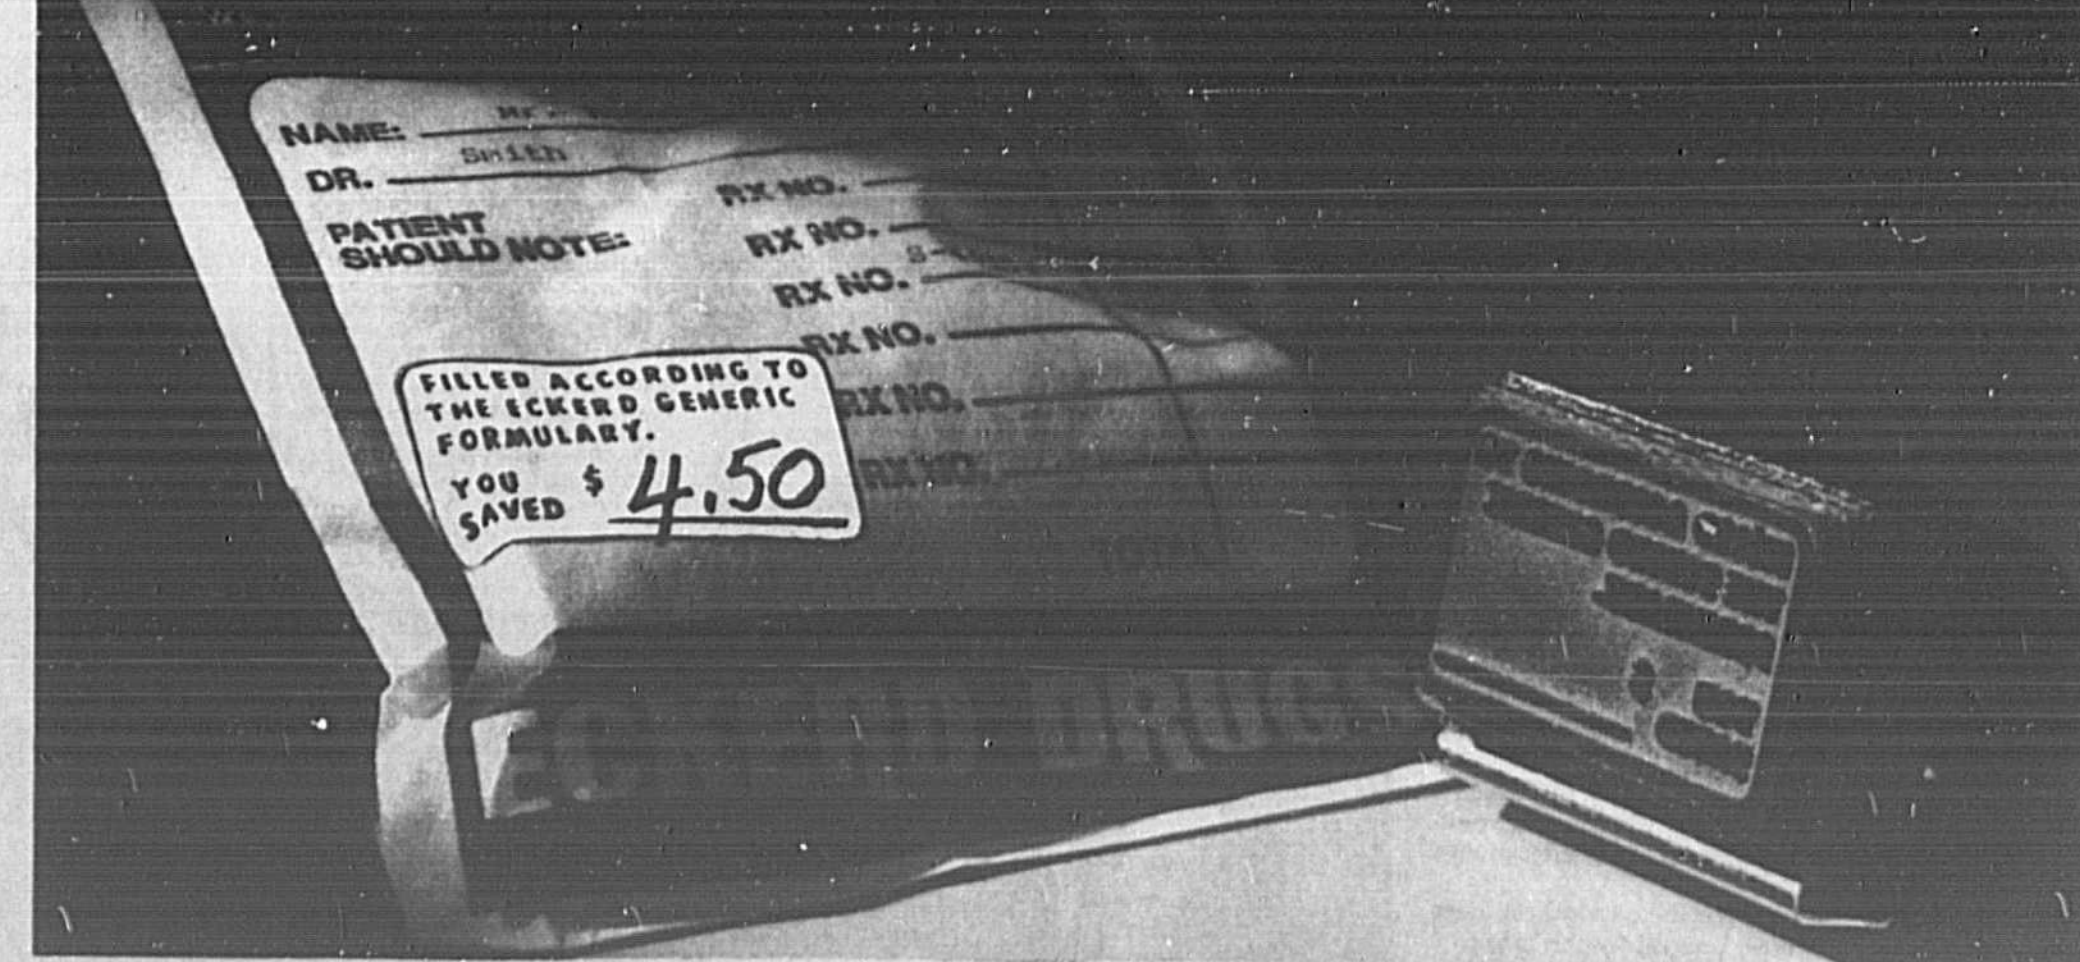

The FDA did not order a recall of products containing the dye already on the shelves.

There was no immediate word from the manufacturers on whether they would appeal to the Supreme Court.

The FDA imposed the ban on the basis of tests that showed that rats fed large amounts of Red No. 2 developed cancerous tumors.

WITH FLORIDA'S NEW GENERIC DRUG LAW, ECKERD'S MAY SAVE YOU MONEY ON YOUR NEXT PRESCRIPTION.

Eckerd's Generic Formulary can save you anywhere from 25 cents to as much as $4.50 on your next prescription.

Eckerd's takes the lead in implementing Florida's new Generic Drug Law in ways that assure you quality, safety and important savings.

The generic drugs we use are chemically equivalent to the brand name but cost much less. We pass the savings on to you. So far only a select number (17 drugs) have qualified for the Eckerd Generic Formulary. More will be added but it is not easy to qualify.

We select our generics only from America's most reputable firms. Each and every one must pass Eckerd's high quality standards. There are generic drugs available that do not meet Eckerd's standards.

Florida's new law says that unless your physician or you request the higher-priced brand name, we must fill your prescription with a generically equivalent drug from our formulary.

So don't be surprised if your next Eckerd prescription costs a lot less — and remember, you'll be saving safely at Eckerd Drugs.

Six Florida Inmates Await Execution

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Today is Leerie Lew Allford's 31st birthday but he has little reason for celebration.

A convicted murderer and rapist, Allford is one of six Florida death row inmates whose cases the U.S. Supreme Court refused to consider Tuesday, clearing the way for their electrocutions.

Atty. Gen. Robert Sherin said the final legal steps were being won leading toward the executions of the six men convicted of murder.

There are Allford, convicted in Palm Beach County; Gary E. Alford, 29, and Clifford Hallman, 28, convicted in Hillsborough County; Anthony Sawyer, 25, and Robert A. Sullivan, 28, in Dade County, and John Spinkelink, 27, in Leon County.

Water Supply Foul

PORT LAUDERDALE (AP) — Two to three gallons of diesel fuel which escaped from a broken pipe was enough to contaminate the water supply to about 180,000 residents of Fort Lauderdale and five area congressional, officials say.

But clean water was flowing through the water mains again Tuesday night and most of the foul odor and kerosene-like taste was expected to go away today, said George Lohmeyer, director of the city's utility department.

Officials estimated that the diesel fuel made its way to the water tanks and was fed early Tuesday to the northern part of the city and the communities of Tamarac, Wilton Manors, Oakland, Lauderdale by the Sea and Sea Ranch Lakes.

Airliner Raid Praised

PALM BEACH (AP) — A retiring deputy director of the CIA says the successful Israeli commando raid that freed more than 100 hostages held by pro-Palestine terrorists in Uganda was "incredible."

"Speaking strictly from a military point of view, I know of no commando-type operation in history comparable to what they just carried out," said Lt. Gen. Vernon Walters, who retires today.

"Over a distance of this size, a distance of this enormity, it was truly an extraordinary operation and it showed an absolutely superior intelligence," Walters told a civic club Tuesday. "Military, it was just incredible."

Pair To Inspect Swamp

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Two Cabinet members want to see for themselves what will happen to the Big Cypress Swamp if more oil wells are allowed and long roads are permitted to the wet lands.

Treasurer Philip Ashler and Education Commissioner Ralph Turlington will arrive as a group to be flown next Monday to the Collier County area by the state Natural Resources Department, officials said Tuesday.

Turlington has expressed reservations about allowing construction of roads to wells in a new area which companies want to explore for oil.

Death Warrant Task 'Tough'

JACKSONVILLE (AP) — Former Gov. Farris Bryant says he sympathizes with a governor, placing your signature on a death warrant.

"It's a soul-searching experience," Bryant says. "It's the toughest time for a governor, placing your signature on a death warrant."

But, he said, it is the law and the governor is sworn to administer the law. Askew will file the warrants as a result of last week's Supreme Court ruling that upheld Florida's death law.

Huff Prosecutors To Rest

FORT MYERS (AP) — Prosecutors said they would call 13 witnesses before resting their case today in the grand larceny trial of C. W. Huff II.

Huff's lawyers obtained a change of venue to Fort Myers after arguing that publicity over legal problems of Huff's wife would prejudice his case in Palm Beach County.

Huff's wife is Nadine McArthur Huff, 39, widow of millionaire dairyman Charles McArthur. She was convicted of first-degree murder in his death in 1973.

Prints Tied To Suspect

SEBRING (AP) — An FBI agent has testified that the fingerprints of accused masked bandit Larry Marshall are the same as those found in a house that was ransacked near Sebring.

Defense attorneys said they expected to rest their case today, the second day of trial.

Marshall, 37, is charged with breaking, entering and robbery at the Highlands County home of J. L. and Ruth Whittington during a rash of attacks on rural families in Central Florida last winter.

Optometrists To Advertise?

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Rep. Gene Campbell says he will sponsor a bill next year to try to stop optometrists from hiking fees on eye examinations when patients want to go to a cheaper place to buy the glasses.

Campbell, D-West Palm Beach, said Tuesday that the extra-fee practice isn't fair to consumers.

"Competition is the answer to stopping that," he said. "I will introduce a bill next year to allow optometrists to advertise their prices, too."

Ex-Mayor Faces Sentence

RALEIGH (AP) — A former mayor of Hallandale will be returned to North Carolina for sentencing in a case in which he pleaded guilty to possession of 22 tons of marijuana.

John David Steele, 52, was arrested in Orlando, Monday and ordered removed to North Carolina in a hearing Tuesday.

Steele, the alleged leader of a multimillion-dollar marijuana smuggling operation, had been sought on a federal bench warrant since May.

One Florida Governor Had A Vision And Won Key Post

By BERT COLLIER
Herald Services

Gov. Sidney J. Catts was unique among those who occupied that office, but, despite his unorthodox methods and demagogic ways, he left his mark.

"America for Americans, first, last and forever," he trumpeted.

The Miami Herald, in an editorial typical of many others, said Catts' candidacy was based on religious hatred and democratic destruction. But Catts took this and all opposition in stride. Without any organization or staff he began touring backroads in a T-model Ford with a new-fangled loud speaker mounted on top. Wherever he could get more than two people together he would break into his spiel, seasoned by years in country pulpits and camp meetings. He struck a chord deep in the minds of his rural audiences and ever touched before.

If his opponents thought of him at all it was to condemn "this foolish upstart." But Catts was gaining strength daily. A Delray newspaper warned that those who thought Catts a joke might find the joke on them.

All Florida was stirred by this extraordinary Democratic primary. Some 20,000 more voters went to the polls than ever before. As the long count began it was quickly apparent that Catts and the highly respected state comptroller, William V. Knott, were the leaders. Final figures indicated Catts a victor by about 300 votes and the Democratic state committee reluctantly certified him as its candidate.

With such a slim margin, it was inevitable that Knott would contest the count. Knowing the machine politicians were solidly against him Catts announced he would run in the general election regardless of the outcome.

Catts' enemies feared the worst. But as the bitter campaign echoes died away, he turned to the business of the state. He took charge with an unexpected firm hand. He guided a prohibition amendment through the Legislature. He got a compulsory education law, as well as the first aid for mothers of dependent children, a pioneering venture in social legislation.

He was a vigorous leader throughout World War I, raising a pair of hogs on the lawn of the governor's mansion to dramatize the need to produce more food.

January 2, 1917, dawned cold and rainy. Crowds watched the inaugural parade under sullen skies. Palm Beach County entered the prize-winning float.

As Sidney Catts took the oath of office and turned to address the throng, a ray of sunlight pierced the clouds and spotlighted the speaker.

To the new governor it was like a benediction. He launched into what the Ocala Banner called "A highly tropically perfumed, flamboyant speech."

Many Prefer Peace, Quiet In Retirement Years

'Adult Only' Communities Appear To Be Thriving

By DAVID POWELL
Associated Press Writer

DEERFIELD (AP) — When Henry Peck retired 10 days following the sun, enjoying the company of his friends in an adult-only community.

They visited a half-dozen retirement communities and chose Century Village East, a condominium development with 6,000 residents, 150 organized activities, lavish facilities — and no children.

"I personally prefer it (without children) because I want some peace and quiet," said Peck, a 65-year-old retiree from a Veterans Administration job in Washington. "My son is grown, and I want to be with people with whom I have a common interest, my own age group."

Sitting in the living room of their apartment in this development 3 1/2 miles from the Atlantic, the Pecks agreed their move from Silver Springs, Md., with four other couples turned out well.

"The developers have given us everything they promised," Peck said.

Like the Pecks and their friends, thousands of older Americans are choosing to spend their later days in developments that exclude children, and sometimes offer facilities and organized activities designed especially for retirees.

Government and senior citizens group officials say no one has kept track of how many adult-only communities have been built, where they are concentrated or how fast the trend has developed in recent years.

"It's one of those significant figures that no one has ever compiled that I know of," said a spokesman for the American Association of Retired Persons in Washington.

But older Americans find them anyway, from the 35,000-unit Sun City in Arizona to the Terrace Trailer Park in Alhambra, N.M. Many such developments are in the burgeoning Sunbelt so attractive to those who want to escape from the cold climate and urban decay of the North.

George Bergmann, president of Century Village East Inc., which developed and now manages the 762-acre Deerfield Beach complex, said one selling point of his development is the ban on youngsters.

"Under the terms of our condominium declaration we have no one living here who has children under the age of 18," Bergmann said. "But we do allow children to visit 30 days a year in increments of two weeks, so it isn't as rigid and stiff-necked as it sounds."

Henry Paparazzo, president of Heritage Village, a 2,500-unit adult-only community in Southbury, Conn., traced the notion of children policy in part to developers' marketing strategies. Paparazzo said the reason Heritage Village is successful — there are only six vacancies — is that "more specialized housing developments are gearing themselves to particular markets."

"There are swifter apartments and family complexes, and in others residents prefer not to have playgrounds outside their windows," Paparazzo said.

Eventually, Smith and McAdoo withdrew to keep the party from splitting into two permanent factions and, on the 10th ballot John W. Davis, a little-known Wall Street lawyer, was chosen as the party's nominee to campaign against Republican incumbent Charles Coolidge. His running mate Charles W. Bryan was equally unknown to most people who may not have been aware that he was governor of Nebraska and a brother of more famous William Jennings Bryan . . . and usually wore a skull cap.

Before Bryan's nomination he was ignored by delegates and others in the arena as he sat in a small room near a refreshment stand reading a Bible. "I'm pretty sure he was reading a Bible,"

Ally, even today, people over 30 look old. Most of the delegates appeared quite old to me. "Maybe because old Madison Square Garden wasn't any more than a few years old, it was probably long older when they're sweating and uncomfortable."

There wasn't a current "youth movement" then to have more young people seated in the state delegations. And there wasn't a Women's Lib drive for equal rights and representation. The ladies had just recently been given the constitutional right to vote.

Proportionately, there were as many citizens of the "aging" population then as now. In 1924 no one had thought up the name Senior Citizens.

1924 Demo Convention In New York A Wing-Ding

By HAROLD BLUMENFELD
The Herald Service

When the Democratic party meets July 12 in Madison Square Garden to nominate its candidate for president of the United States it is undoubtedly going to be a political wing-ding like the last time they got together in New York City 52 years ago in 1924.

That was pretty much of a battle royal and all that was needed in the old sports arena was to set up a boxing ring on the speakers rostrum so that the two leading contenders could slug it out face-to-face. I was 19 then, a budding journalist, and I attended almost every session. Not that I was a political pundit. I filled one of the seats in the press section which had been virtually vacated by the big-name political writers as the poll of delegates took nine days and 103 ballots.

Neither Alfred E. Smith, then governor of New York State, nor William G. McAdoo, son-in-law of Woodrow Wilson and former secretary of the Treasury, the two primary candidates, could bring in the two-thirds number of votes then necessary for nomination.

Each roll call began with the same old-fashioned ritual. Twenty-four votes for Underwood. And during the marathon balloting, more than 50 more names were put up for the nomination. Even to me, a political-reporting neophyte, it was awfully monotonous and boring.

Eventually, Smith and McAdoo withdrew to keep the party from splitting into two permanent factions and, on the 10th ballot John W. Davis, a little-known Wall Street lawyer, was chosen as the party's nominee to campaign against Republican incumbent Charles Coolidge. His running mate Charles W. Bryan was equally unknown to most people who may not have been aware that he was governor of Nebraska and a brother of more famous William Jennings Bryan . . . and usually wore a skull cap.

Before Bryan's nomination he was ignored by delegates and others in the arena as he sat in a small room near a refreshment stand reading a Bible. "I'm pretty sure he was reading a Bible,"

Ally, even today, people over 30 look old. Most of the delegates appeared quite old to me. "Maybe because old Madison Square Garden wasn't any more than a few years old, it was probably long older when they're sweating and uncomfortable."

There wasn't a current "youth movement" then to have more young people seated in the state delegations. And there wasn't a Women's Lib drive for equal rights and representation. The ladies had just recently been given the constitutional right to vote.

Proportionately, there were as many citizens of the "aging" population then as now. In 1924 no one had thought up the name Senior Citizens.

In the summer, more than the temperature goes up. Here's something you can do about it.

You've probably noticed that the temperature isn't the only thing that rises in the summertime. There's also your electric bill.

The cold hard fact as to why, is your air conditioner. Your air conditioning costs could very well account for half of your summer bill. For example, last year the average electric bill in April came to about $24.75. That average bill increased to $41.23 in July.

In short, your summer bill increases primarily because you use more electricity to keep cool.

But there are some things you can do to help keep your bill down while the temperature goes up. First and most importantly don't overcool. Set your thermostat as close to 78 degrees as is comfortable for you.

Weather strip your doors and windows. It's amazing how much warm air can seep in through even the slightest crack.

Shade your windows with awnings, shutters or reflective film.

Use light colors on your walls and roof to reflect the sun. The lighter the color the less the heat. The less heat the less your bill during the summer months.

Shade your air conditioning unit with shrubbery, but don't block the air flow. That way it'll operate more efficiently. At FPL we'd like you to know what can happen to your bill during the summer, because we'd also like you to know what you can do about it.

Remarriages Common In Florida

JACKSONVILLE (AP) — Almost half the people getting married in Florida have been at least once before, state health statisticians reported Friday.

The latest analysis of statistics available shows that 41 per cent of all persons marrying in Florida last year were in a second marriage, up from 37 per cent in 1974.

"An often-asked question regarding marriage is 'Does remarriage mean a higher divorce rate?' said Dick Downes, chief statistician with the Division of Health. "Not surprisingly, we find that singles prefer singles and divorcees prefer divorcees."

More than one marriage in five involved two divorced partners in 1974.

He said the rising remarriage trend is probably due to the declining duration of marriage.

"In 1964, the median duration of dissolved marriages was 6.8 years," Downes said. "By 1974, the period had dropped to 5.5 years."

Basic statistics for 1975, not yet analyzed, show a decline in the state's marriage rate for the second straight year. It is the first time since 1952 for consecutive annual decreases.

The wedding rate for 1975 was 10.1 per 1,000 population. Just two years earlier it was 11.4.

"Although the largest age group in Florida is population, 15-19, it is just entering the marriageable ages, its impact is being offset by large numbers of older persons moving to Florida," Downes said.

The number of dissolutions of marriages in 1975 rose to a record 7.3 per 1,000 population.

Downes said Florida trends generally parallel those for the nation.

The state has kept statistics on marriages and divorces since 1927.

"Both rates hit a low point in 1952, the middle of the great depression," Downes said. "Both rates peaked in connection with World War II, marriages in 1945 and divorces in 1946. They are a reflection of political and economic history."

My Running Seems To Be A Deep, Dark Secret

Betty Armistead To Seek Florida Cabinet Post

By JOHN VAN GIESON Associated Press Writer TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Betty Armistead, a 35-year-old divorcee from Rockledge, says it's time the word got out that she's running for treasurer of the insurance commission.

"My running seems to be a deep, dark secret," she said. Mrs. Armistead said she will qualify soon as a Republican candidate for the Cabinet office. Also seeking the Republican nomination is Jeff Latham of Davie, who was defeated by former Insurance Commissioner Thomas O'Malley in the 1974 election.

It was revealed in Latham's prior campaign that he once served time in a school for delinquents and had accepted Ku Klux Klan support, but Mrs. Armistead said his conduct is of no concern to her.

"I'm running for the job, I'm not running against somebody," she said. "Somebody's morality or immorality is their problem, and I'm not going to discuss it."

"I've been honest for 53 years, and if I live another 53 years, I intend to be honest for another 53 years," Mrs. Armistead said.

A physical therapist who served in the Women's Army Corps as an officer during World War II, Mrs. Armistead said she has worked for the past two years as a sales representative for a life insurance company.

She has been active in Republican politics, but her experience in elective politics has been limited to three terms on the Rockledge Elections Commission.

Mrs. Armistead said political involvement is an old tradition in her family.

"My grandmother, Charlotte Elizabeth Grose, in 1920 was the first woman to register in Florida as a Republican," she said.

"I think the best thing women can do for their country in this Bicentennial year is run for an office, what with all the scandals in Washington and Tallahassee," she said. "We need to bring some honesty and integrity back into politics, where certainly it's been gone for a number of years."

No woman ever has been elected to a Cabinet office. Beverly Dozier was defeated in a 1974 race for secretary of state, and Lola Trammell lost a 1964 race for education commissioner.

Dorothy Gilson served six months as secretary of state in 1974, but she was appointed by Gov. Reubin Askew following the resignation of Richard Stone, who ran for the U.S. Senate.

Mrs. Armistead, meanwhile, says she is working on ideas for lowering insurance rates, but "I'll probably not talk about those until after the first primary."

"It's hardly shocking news, but 'IGNORANCE IS CRAZY,'" she said.

The Chamber of Commerce has reported that Florida legislators are business oriented. Ten of the 49 senators had perfect records on a Chamber survey of 10 issues it considered important. Nine other senators with the Chamber on most of the issues but missed one or two roll calls. Ten of the 10 sided with the business point of view every time were: Sen. W.D. Childers, D-West Palm Beach; Tom Gal-

len, Bradenton; Mattox Hair, D-Jacksonville; Vernon Holloway, D-Miami; Julian Lane, D-Tampa; David McChair, R-Tampa; Walter Sims, R-Orlando; Jon Thomas, D-Fort Lauderdale; Alan Trask, D-

Fort Meade; and John Ware, R-St. Petersburg. Sen. Harry Johnston, D-West Palm Beach, had the worst record from the business perspective, and he was "right" 60 per cent of the time.

Seven house members opposed the Chamber more often than they sided with it, likely targeting themselves for business opposition. They are Reps. William Andrews, D-Gainesville; Alan Becker, D-Miami; Gene Campbell, D-West Palm Beach; John Conditine, D-West Palm Beach; Joe Gersten, D-Miami; Ed Healey, D-West Palm Beach; and Barry Richard, D-Miami.

Perez 'Back' After Draw Against Aguirre

Olympics Ruling Expected Saturday

MONTREAL (AP) — While one member of the International Olympic Committee (IOC) calls for the cancellation of the Montreal Games, Lord Killanin sits tight and weighs his alternatives. Killanin, the unflappable Irishman who heads the IOC, said Tuesday he will make no move on the explosive Taiwan situation before Saturday, when a meeting of the IOC's nine-member executive board is scheduled to convene. He also said he would have no further statements on the affair before Saturday.

Horset set pulls 'em home

Jones, Matlack Head N.L. Staff

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — San Diego Padres and New York Yankees pitcher Jim Palmer expressed displeasure over what he called "ridiculous" selections to the American League staff by Boston manager Darrell Johnson, passed over for the midsummer classic. "It's a little upsetting that this is the way the All-Star pitchers are chosen. I think this may be the reason the National League wins every year," said Johnson, who carries a 12-11 record. "Who cares? I certainly don't."

Hairy Plan

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The new $6.5 million Olympic-size swimming pool at the University of Texas is billed as the "most sophisticated facility of its kind in the world." It is so sophisticated that the locker rooms have 24 hair dryers mounted on the wall. Palmer went on to call Johnson "an idiot" for selecting three relief pitchers among the nine-man bullpen. Johnson, when asked about Palmer's statement Tuesday night, said, "Who cares? I certainly don't."

McBride OK

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Tests conducted on ailing St. Louis outfielder Mike McBride have disclosed no serious injuries, the Cardinals announced Tuesday night. But Dr. Stan London, the club physician, found a severe irritation of a joint in McBride's left knee and recommended treatment consisting of medication and therapy. McBride, hobbled since he was first sidelined May 15 by a shoulder injury, has missed 26 games but is still batting .342.

Ross Defends Title

ORLANDO — Sanford's Victor (Taco) Perez battled back from a first round knockdown Tuesday night at the Orlando Sports Stadium to earn a well-deserved draw with Alphonso Aguirre, in a 10-round brawl that stole the thunder from Mad Dog Ross' impressive win over Sammy Ruckard. A looping left hook, midway through the initial stanza, drove Perez through the ropes and forced referee Mike Quarry to give him a standing eight-count.

From that point on it was a give-and-take slugfest between the two middleweights, with each man hurt repeatedly in every round. Aguirre, from San Antonio, Texas, was cut over and under the left eye for most of the contest, but the rubber seemed to spur him on, rather than hamper him.

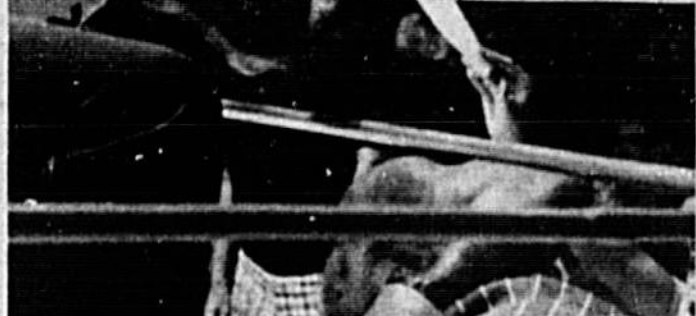

Going into the ninth, the local fighter was trailing on all the official scorecards and seemed on the verge of going down to defeat, possibly by a knockout. It was at this point that Perez reached down and came up with something extra that allowed him not only to finish the fight on his feet, but have Aguirre close to the canvas.

It was during the next to last round that Don White, Aguirre's handler, got into a grappling match at ringside with Stadium director of boxing Bruce Trampler. The fighters in the ring, actually stopped fighting and watched the two combatants go at it at ringside. The outside ring match was also deemed a draw, except that White lost two teeth.

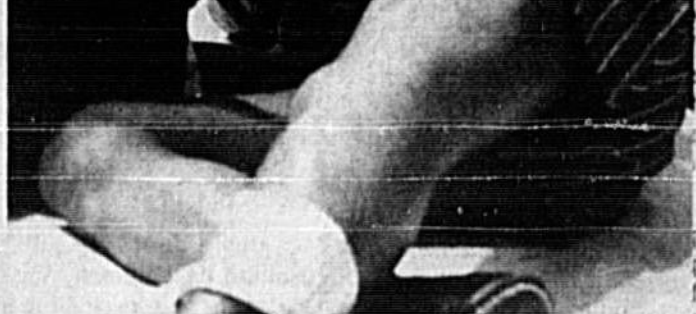

Questioned about the scuffle, Trampler remarked, "I'll find way to go over and ask White to get-up-and he started pushing me." White had been causing trouble since the beginning of the Perez-Aguirre fight and had the fans in an uproar with his ring-side antics. When the Perez-Aguirre fight ended the crowd stood and cheered for both over three minutes. "Normally I am not satisfied with a draw," Perez said after the fight, "but I can find no fault with this one. It was really a tough fight and I feel the decision was fair."

'Get up' yells Clark as fallen foe

Geddis being revived by trainer

Melbourne's Frankie Santoro had an easy time of it with outclassed Frankie Valdez and took him out in the third round of their scheduled six-rounder. In amateur action, Seminole County was able to split even in four efforts, as Hurricane Hayden and Alan Dalton won their matches while Rocky Sweet and Mike Monks lost narrow decisions.

Fidrych 'Satisfied'

By The Associated Press He talks to baseballs. He looks like a TV kid's show character. He's "satisfied" with his $16,500 salary. He doesn't have a telephone. It's the stuff legends are made of, and 21-year-old Detroit Tiger rookie phenom Mark "The Bird" Fidrych added another chapter to his phenomenal story Tuesday when he was named to the American League's All-Star pitching staff.

"When he bats the mound, he's trying to get the dirt down and get on his own solid footing," Fetter said. "That makes it tougher for the other pitcher to mold his own mound." "And when he pitches the ball, he's not pointing at it. He's just trying to set up a groove in his own mind. These antics show he's really concentrating."

The rube of Northboro, Mass., just about single-handedly pulled more than $1,000 fans to the Tigers' home game against Baltimore Saturday night. Fidrych showed the audience what he came for — and got his first shutout, 4-0. The All-Star berth comes as he leads AL pitchers with a 1.60 earned run average. "I didn't bring all these people here," Fidrych said after one game. "But he keeps a chart on his locker listing attendance at each home game. He's pitched."

Fidrych makes the major league minimum of $16,500. His supporters figure he's worth more. A Michigan legislator even introduced a resolution asking the Tigers to up the Bird's salary. Fetter wouldn't discuss a possible raise Tuesday. "Don't worry," he said. "We're going to look after his welfare, come hell or high water. That's our business."

Blues Ink Top Picks

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The top three choices of the St. Louis Blues in the National Hockey League draft were signed multi-year contracts with the team, it was announced Tuesday. Center Bernie Federko and wingers Brian Sutter and John Sprake will report to the Blues' training camp here Sept. 15. General Manager Emile Francis announced the signings. "Federko was a first-round choice and Sutter and Sprake were both second-round picks."

AMERICAN CANCER SOCIETY "I've never had cancer. But I'd be crazy to ignore it. I know many cancers can be cured if they're detected early. But you've got to know the warning signals. Change in bowel or bladder habits. A sore that does not heal. Unusual bleeding or discharge. Thickening or lump in breast or elsewhere. Indigestion or difficulty in swallowing. Obvious change in wart or mole. Nagging cough or hoarseness. If one of them appears, see your doctor right away. The odds are you don't have cancer. But only your doctor can tell you that for sure."

Bicentennial Costumes Are Trophy Winners

By DORIS DIETRICH
Herald Correspondent

The great fashion eras from the past 200 years were represented in the Bicentennial Costume Contest hosted Sunday by the LTD CB Radio Club in Fort Mellon Park, Sanford. Five categories were judged on eye appeal and authenticity.

Mr. and Mrs. Ron Caballero and sons, Randy and Bruce of Altamonte Springs, won the trophy for the Colonial Era. Their colorful attire was made by Mrs. Caballero.

Winning top honors in the Antebellum and Civil War era were Anna Lea Heard and Chip Johnson as Gen. and Mrs. Henry S. Sanford. The couple performed earlier during the Bicentennial celebration at General Henry S. Sanford Museum-Library, with Foreman Heard portraying Ben Franklin.

In the Gay Nineties category, Mrs. John Harrison was awarded first place. Her white embroidered dress, hat and jewelry were original heirlooms handed down through the generations.

The Sanford Jayceettes entry, Jennifer Bass, took the trophy in the Roaring Twenties segment. Her costume was a white and black above-the-knee creation complemented with a black bow, shocking pink sequined headband and matching pink hose.

Wearing a red, white and blue hand-crocheted outfit and carrying a matching parasol, Kimberly Hudson was awarded the trophy in the Fabulous Fifties division.

Sanford Pilot Club members dressed in colorful early pioneer fashions operated a Country Store during the festivities. Appearing in a body during the contest were Virginia Wood, president, Florence Korgan, Sue Stevenson, Elsie Farley, Diane Marshall, Irene Weible, Adlyn Wolfe, Betty Sandage and Mae Pawlson.

In another contest Kathy West was crowned Bicentennial Queen by popular vote. She received a jeweled tiara and an engraved trophy.

21 Century Project To Continue

Project 21st Century Woman at Seminole Community College will continue to offer courses during the coming year, albeit with some changes and modifications, according to project coordinator, June Gordon.

All courses will carry at $10 registration fee. Previously, most were free. Ms. Gordon explained that because Title I "seed" funds have been discontinued, the charge for courses has become necessary.

Starting September, the project through Community Services will offer Assertive Training for Women; Women Interested in Future Education (W.I.F.E.); Women in Management; and Assertive Training for Men and Women.

Counseling and some testing services will be available to women free.

For information or reservations, call June Gordon at the college.

More On How Mother's Day Originated

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: In a recent column, you stated that Anna Jarvis, the originator of Mother's Day, was from Philadelphia. Please retract your statement. She was from Grafton, Va.

PROUD WEST VIRGINIAN DEAR ABBY: I've had an avalanche of protest from proud and true West Virginians since the column appeared, and I offer the following:

Miss Anna M. Jarvis established Mother's Day to honor the memory of her mother, Mrs. Anna Reeves Jarvis, of Grafton, W.V.

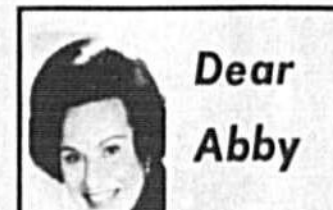

Over the years, Miss Anna M. Jarvis sent more than 10,000 carnations from Philadelphia, where she lived, to be placed on her mother's grave.

On May 10, 1908, the first Mother's Day service was held in Grafton at a little Methodist church, which has since become a shrine.

Although Mother's Day was established to honor Mrs. Anna Reeves Jarvis, her daughter, who conceived the idea, was in fact from Philadelphia.

You may need a Philadelphia lawyer to determine whether Miss Jarvis's legal residence was Grafton or Philadelphia, but I'm betting on Philadelphia.

DEAR ABBY: Where did the absurd practice of tipping waiters begin? It is ridiculous to be expected to add between 15 and 20 per cent to the bill just in Grafton at a little Methodist

Fresh-is-Best Vegetable Salad has lively taste

Gelled Gems Good For Restricted Diets

When food is dull, a lot of fun goes out of life. Yet what alternatives do you have on a sodium-reduced diet? There is a way that you can enjoy the ting of tasty flavor in food, and still not break the rules.

Use unflavored gelatin to help you capture exciting flavor in dishes that are reduced in salt. Here's a tasty, a lovely-looking Fresh-is-Best Vegetable Salad made in a gelled mold. In place of mayonnaise, yogurt and unflavored gelatin together create rich creaminess and tangy flavor for the sodium-reduced diet.

With gelatin, specialties such as this offer more variety. Three different vegetable combinations can be used with the same basic salad mixture, or take your choice — or make all three at different times for a lively lift in a monotonous diet.

Most vegetables are low in sodium but this is not always the case. Beets, celery, artichokes, spinach, carrots, and kale are high in sodium, and should be avoided in you are on a low-sodium diet. Be careful to use vegetables in fresh form since canned and frozen vegetables are usually processed with added salt.

When it comes to dessert, it's often difficult to keep to a salt-reduced level and still get good taste. Unflavored gelatin solves the problem with such fabulous desserts as Mocha Mousse in Minutes which is salt-reduced, yet very rich and satisfying. The mousse lives up to its name: it's made in minutes right in the blender with very little effort. Chilled in individual dishes, this mousse is elegant enough for a party, or, simply spoon it from a bowl for the family. Another idea: put the mousse in a salt-free baked pie shell to achieve a festive effect often missing in reduced sodium diets.

To lower the calories in this mousse, substitute egg whites for the cream and reduce the sugar.

FRESH-IS-BEST VEGETABLE SALAD

1 envelope unflavored gelatin
2 tablespoons sugar
1 cup boiling water
1 container (16 oz.) plain yogurt
1 tablespoon white or cider vinegar
1 to 2 tablespoons finely chopped scallions (green onions)

1 cup shredded cucumber and 1/4 cup shredded radish
1/2 cup each chopped cauliflower, green pepper, and tomato
1/2 cup each chopped tomato, fresh mushrooms, and cooked fresh green beans

MOCCHA MOUSSE

2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
1 cup water
1 cup coffee, heated to boiling
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup semi-sweet chocolate pieces
1 cup ice cubes (about 6 to 8)
1/2 cup (1/2 pt.) heavy cream, whipped
In 5-cup blender, sprinkle unflavored gelatin over water; add hot coffee and process at low speed 2 minutes. Add sugar, chocolate, vanilla, and ice cubes (one at a time) while processing at high speed until ice is melted. Let stand 7 minutes or until mixture is slightly thickened; fold into whipped cream.

Spoon into individual dessert dishes, 3-cup bowl, salt-free baked pie shell, or tart shells; chill until set, about 1 hour. Makes about 4-1/2 cups, 9 mg. sodium per 1/2 cup.

Variation: Substitute 3 egg whites, stiffly beaten and reduce sugar to 1-3rd cup (17 mg. sodium); 118 calories; 1 mg. cholesterol per 1/2 cup.

Low Cholesterol Salad Creates Creamy Illusion

Cholesterol-watchers who have switched to a prudent diet often miss the rich creamy dishes they used to enjoy. However, with special recipes such as Creamy Crunchy Chicken Salad, a reduced-cholesterol diet is still possible within the bounds of a cholesterol-lowered regime.

In medium bowl, mix unflavored gelatin and instant chicken flavor broth; add boiling water and stir until gelatin is completely dissolved. With wire whisk or rotary beater, blend in milk, oil, vinegar, mustard and pepper; chill, stirring occasionally until mixture is consistency of unbeaten egg whites.

Fold in chicken, celery, and relish; turn into 5-cup mold and chill until firm, about 4 hours. Garnish, if desired, with imitation bacon bits. Makes about 4 main dish servings, 55 mg. cholesterol each.

Calories — 360 per serving. Sodium — 585 mg. per serving.

BANANA NUT PARFAITS

Chicken is at the top of the list for cholesterol-watchers because of its low fat content. And here's a tip: try to pick smaller broiler-dressers which contain less fat. In preparing the chicken for this salad, simmering in water will extract the most fat, although roasting is a good alternative.

Another cholesterol-lowered dish, Banana Nut Parfaits, uses unflavored gelatin to make a light, pudding-like dessert with a festive look and taste. People on restricted diets long for milkshakes, and it takes only 30 minutes to an hour to set. As with many blend 'n' gel desserts, it is best eaten the same day.

CREAMY CRUNCHY CHICKEN SALAD

2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
2 envelopes Chicken Flavor Capsule
2 cups boiling water
1 can (12 oz.) evaporated skimmed milk
1/2 cup polyunsaturated vegetable oil

1 tablespoon vinegar
1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
1/2 teaspoon pepper
2 cups cut-up cooked chicken
1/2 cup thinly sliced celery
1-3rd cup sweet pickle relish
1/2 cup unflavored gelatin and instant chicken flavor broth; add boiling water and stir until gelatin is completely dissolved. With wire whisk or rotary beater, blend in milk, oil, vinegar, mustard and pepper; chill, stirring occasionally until mixture is consistency of unbeaten egg whites.

Fold in chicken, celery, and relish; turn into 5-cup mold and chill until firm, about 4 hours. Garnish, if desired, with imitation bacon bits. Makes about 4 main dish servings, 55 mg. cholesterol each.

Calories — 360 per serving. Sodium — 585 mg. per serving.

Cook Of The Week

Summer Specials: Good Eating, Calorie Saving

Barbecues and buffets, picnics and parties on the patio are the order of the day and evening during warmer months. You can still be Cook of the Week and queen of the kitchen, and have more time out for fun with these seven easy, nutritious summer specialties.

One way to get extra milk benefits in your meals is to use instant nonfat milk for your cooking. It offers great versatility in recipes and at the same time is economical and convenient.

Try it in Summer Time Ham Roll-Ups. The delicate mustard sauce adds extra nutrition to the dish. It's a great main meal dish that's good for brunch and lunch, too.

Do-ahead salads and desserts are a plus for the summer season. Individual Three Bean Salads make enough servings for a party or a buffet. Make them early in the day and refrigerate until party time. Or whip up a Cooling Cantaloupe Mold. It combines one of summer's best flavors with budget by mixing liquid instant nonfat milk with whole milk for a richer tasting beverage at a lower cost.

cool, refreshing flavo... ready to be enjoyed at a moment's notice. Stretch your milk budget by mixing liquid instant nonfat milk with whole milk for a richer tasting beverage at a lower cost.

package: Cultural Swiss cheese

24 (about 1 1/2 pounds) hot cooked asparagus spears

3 tablespoons butter

3 tablespoons flour

1/2 cup Carnation Instant Nonfat Dry Milk crystals plus water to make 2 cups

1/4 teaspoon salt

1/4 teaspoon white pepper

1 tablespoon instant minced onion

1 tablespoon chopped parsley

1 tablespoon prepared mustard

Stack two ham slices. Place cheese slice on top of ham. Lay about 4 asparagus spears in center. Roll up and secure with toothpick. Repeat for other five rolls. Melt butter in medium pan; add onion, parsley, and mustard. Stir in flour. Gradually stir in liquid instant milk, vinegar and hot pepper sauce. Add mayonnaise. Beat with rotary beater until smooth. Whites until stiff. Fold into gelatin mixture. Combine ice water and instant milk crystals in small mixing bowl. Beat until into gelatin mixture; spoon into individual salad molds. Chill until firm. Place lettuce on serving plates. Top with one tomato slice. Unmold each salad onto tomato slice.

INDIVIDUAL THREE BEAN SALADS (Makes 18 to 12 1/2-cup servings)

2 packages (3 ounces each) orange gelatin

1/2 cup boiling water

2 cups (1 medium) pureed ripe cantaloupe

1/2 cup ice water

1/2 cup Carnation Instant Nonfat Dry Milk crystals

2 tablespoons lemon juice

Melon balls

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Cut cantaloupe in half; remove seeds and rind. Cut up fruit; place in blender jar and blend. Stir into gelatin. Chill until mixture mounds from spoon. Beat with rotary beater until blended. Combine ice water and instant milk crystals in small mixing bowl. Beat until soft peaks form (1-1/2 minutes). Add lemon juice. Continue beating until stiff peaks form (3-4 minutes longer). Fold into gelatin mixture. Pour into 6-cup mold. Chill until firm, 2 to 3 hours. Serve with assorted fresh melon balls.

MINT SODA VELVETY CHEESECAKE (Makes 2 1/2 to 4 cups)

1/4 cup chocolate syrup

2 envelopes (1 envelope) unflavored gelatin

1 cup sugar

1/4 teaspoon salt

2 egg yolks

1/2 cup Liquid Carnation Instant Nonfat Milk

2 cups (1 pint) cottage cheese

1 package (8 ounces) softened cream cheese

5 tablespoons lemon juice

2 teaspoons grated lemon rind

2 egg whites

1 sliced, ripe, medium banana

2 cups coffee ice cream

1 cup cold liquid Carnation Instant Nonfat Milk

Combine all ingredients in blender jar. Blend until thoroughly mixed. Serve at once.

FRESH STRAWBERRY SLUSH (Makes 8 cups)

1 1/2 cups halved ripe strawberries

1-3rd cup Carnation Instant Nonfat Dry Milk crystals

1/4 cup sugar

2 tablespoons water

15 slightly crushed ice cubes

Combine all ingredients in blender jar. Blend until thoroughly mixed and ice is finely crushed. Serve at once.

CHOCOLATE BANANA COFFEE SHAKE (Makes 2 cups)

1/2 cup chocolate syrup

1-3rd cup Carnation Instant Nonfat Dry Milk crystals

1/2 cup carbonated lemon-lime soda

4 scoops mint chocolate chip ice cream

Combine chocolate syrup, instant milk crystals and lemon-lime soda in blender jar. Blend until thoroughly mixed. Place 2 scoops ice cream in tall glass. Pour half of chocolate mixture slowly over ice cream. Repeat for second glass. Serve at once.

"What's with Good Neighborly?"

BY PETE DANIEL

You've probably noticed a few things different about this week's ad. First of all, there's the "good neighborly" business. We're saying, for the first time, that Fairway Markets is a good neighborly place to shop. But we're saying it, finally, because other people have been telling us to say it for quite a while. Other people like customers.

They've said we're not too big and not too small. They've said we're not too care about them. And they've said that "caring" means a clean, neat store, good quality... top quality foods, fair prices. And a smile. They've said, "I know me when I walk in." I guess we think that's what it's all about. If that's "good neighborly", that's just fine. Good neighborly... that's us, okay?

Presidential Hopefuls Differ Candidates Face Off On Energy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Do you prefer controlled or uncontrolled oil prices and imports? Mandatory or voluntary energy-saving standards? Federal back-up or federal break-up of big energy companies? Take your choice and look closely at this year's presidential candidates.

The energy policies of Democratic contender Jimmy Carter differ sharply from those of President Ford and his rival for the Republican nomination, Ronald Reagan.

For example, Carter favors oil price controls and import quotas, mandatory energy conservation standards and trimming the power of large energy companies.

Ford and Reagan favor an unregulated oil market, more voluntary energy conservation steps and federal support for energy companies.

Carter has more faith in solar energy, less in nuclear power, than Ford or Reagan.

All three favor removal of interstate natural gas price regulation, but Carter would make it temporary — a five-year test of the theory that it would bring forth new gas supplies as producers claim.

All three also favor greater reliance on coal, but Carter questions Ford's push to develop federal coal in the west as a move that might short-change the existing coal area of Appalachia.

After two years in the White House, Ford has spread his energy views all over the public record.

As former governors of Georgia and California, respectively, Carter and Reagan had neither Ford's ... federal resources nor his responsibility to develop national energy policies.

But Carter has developed a fairly comprehensive and specific set of energy policies, including an original proposal for a World Energy Conference to foster international cooperation in energy research, investment, data-gathering and conservation.

Reagan's published energy views have mainly been general attitudes, illustrated by criticism of policies already enacted by Ford and Congress. He shares Ford's "free-market" approach, but seems to feel it should be even more free than Ford would demand.

Here is a run-down of major energy issues as viewed by Ford, Reagan and Carter:

—Oil Prices: Ford urges an immediate end to oil price controls, but he signed legislation permitting only a gradual phase-out.

Reagan says Ford should have vetoed it.

Carter says prices of U.S.-produced oil should be controlled, at least $3 per barrel below world prices set by the OPEC foreign oil cartel.

—Oil Imports: Ford has made the reduction of oil imports a policy goal but wants to rely on rising prices and eventual improvement of U.S. production to stem the flow. He wants to see Arab oil embargo but has not predicted a U.S. reaction.

Carter proposes a quota system to limit oil imports to their present levels; this could create domestic shortages, and Carter says fuel allocation and rationing plans should be kept on standby status.

Carter says a new cut-off of oil shipments to the ... United States would be "an economic declaration of war" and that he would "instantly and without further debate" suspend U.S. exports of food, weapons, spare parts, oil drilling rigs and oil pipes to the offenders.

Reagan apparently has not taken public positions on these issues.

—Energy conservation: Ford prefers voluntary measures but signed an energy act mandating automobile mileage standards; Reagan said he would have vetoed it and blames such moves on "elitists, some of whom feel guilty because Americans have built such a prosperous nation."

Ford has proposed building insulation standards and tax credits.

Carter wants mandatory conservation standards for major appliances, automobiles and buildings; revision of electricity rates, a ban on promotional advertising and standby excise taxes on selected fuels.

—Energy ownership: "I support legal prohibitions against ownership of competing types of energy, oil and coal, for example," says Carter, who also would consider splitting oil production and refining from marketing activities.

Ford opposes any attempt to break up oil or energy companies.

Reagan apparently has taken no public position on this issue.

—Campaign contributions: "I will not accept contributions from political action committees controlled by major oil companies," says Carter. Ford and Reagan, asked the same question by a citizens' consumer group, said they would accept such contributions.

Airport Authority Approves Budget

By KRIS NASH
 Herald Staff Writer

The Sanford-Central Florida Airport Authority today approved a budget of nearly $16 million for fiscal 1977, a 20 percent slash of more than $11 million from the appropriation the authority has operated under the past year.

The five authority members attending the meeting voted unanimously to adopt the projected package of $15,400,000 and send it to the Sanford City Commission for final approval.

The budget, which goes into effect Oct. 1, includes an $850,000 appropriation for completion of a construction and lighting project originally begun in 1974.

The project — which would be funded primarily by state and federal grants — involves the building of a north-south taxi-way and a new patrol road at the facility plus installation of high-intensity lighting on the taxi-way and on some existing runways.

Authority members John Mercer and Scott Burns questioned the proposed reduction of the airport's building repair and maintenance allotment from $45,000 to $30,000, saying they were not sure the latter figure would properly cover necessary upkeep on various airport buildings.

On another front, panelist Herbert Moreland said he feels the facilities and services maintained by the airport's fixed-base operator (FBO) are "deteriorating rapidly."

As examples Moreland cited a recent plunge in the number of monthly charter flights handled by the airport from 19 to nine, and the closing of the airport's restaurant and flight food catering service.

Dr. Robert Rosemond, the authority chairman, agreed.

"It is appalling to me and ridiculous," Rosemond said, "that this airport doesn't have a place where a person can get a cup of coffee. That's one of life's pleasures."

The Airport Inn restaurant was closed May 31 on the orders of FBO Henry Wight. Wight terminated the restaurant's lease three months early because he said the facility's electrical bills were excessively high.

Members of the authority directed Cleveland to investigate the possibility of bringing in a consulting firm to examine the present FBO situation at the airport.

Carter Is Concerned Over General Election

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — Jimmy Carter, who is virtually assured of the Democratic presidential nomination but says he's worried about the general election in November, was at home today to confer with two more possible running mates.

Carter stood on an airplane seat, with his wife's arm clasped around his waist.

"We're trying to prevent a realization of that concern by a very careful, very methodical, very thorough analysis and planning, polling and organization, trying to put together every possible capability for a victory in November. I think I'll win," he said.

Carter's vice presidential drama continued Wednesday with the candidate's announcement that Rep. Peter Rodino of New Jersey, chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, is being considered as a potential running mate.

He denied press reports that Sen. Frank Church of Idaho had been eliminated from vice presidential contention and that he hadn't get along with Church.

"I've never been with Sen. Church more than seven or eight minutes in my life," Carter told reporters. But those minutes "were very pleasant and I enjoyed them," he said.

They are kind of worried about it, and I am, too.

Park Fee Issue Swamps Canoes, Rowboats

By ED PRICKETT
 Herald Staff Writer

The Seminole County Commission's lack of a decision on what to charge residents using county parks has left canoes and rowboats high and dry at Lake Mills Park.

Director of County Development John Percy maintains park officials can begin renting the boats and 15 campsites as soon as the county commission decides on a fee schedule.

At last Tuesday's meeting the commission postponed a decision. Percy has suggested $1 an hour for boat rentals and $2-a-night for campsite rentals.

The commission has made no decision because county commissioners have mixed emotions about what to charge — if anything.

Commissioner John Kimbrough says he is opposed to charging county residents fees for facilities that were constructed with taxpayer money.

Commissioner Harry Kwiatkowski agrees, for the most part, with Kimbrough.

Commissioner Richard Williams is solidly behind initiating some type of user fee. In fact Williams says some fees outlined in Percy's latest proposal should be higher.

County Commission Chairman Mike Hattaway occupies a middle-of-the-road position. Hattaway favors fees for after-hours lighting at tennis courts and ballfields, but the chairman opposes a fee system for other services residents have already paid for.

Kid-Parent Ruling Irritates Ford Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal ban on school-sponsored "mother-daughter and father-son" events irritated President Ford so much that he ordered it rescinded. But a women's group says such functions perpetuate sexual stereotypes and should be eliminated.

Ford ordered a study to determine if single-sex social events violate federal sex discrimination laws, as alleged by the civil rights office of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

White House spokesman Ron Nessen said Wednesday that Ford was irritated when he read of the ruling banning single-sex school events.

The HEW ruling was in response to an inquiry from the Scottsdale, Ariz., public schools, which sponsor father-son banquets and mother-daughter teas. Scottsdale officials wanted to know whether the events violated the laws prohibiting sex discrimination in public schools.

Officially, the ruling issued last week was suspended pending research by lawyers to determine whether Title IX of the Civil Rights Act is violated by such events.

Nessen said that if it is found that the law is being violated, Ford would immediately send legislation to Congress to change the law.

The National Organization for Women took opposition to Ford's stand.

"We are watching Title IX being nicked and dimed to death," charged Lynda Weston, a NOW staff member.

Dividing the sexes for school-sponsored fashion shows, softball games, banquets and breakfasts is a tradition in many communities.

"What happens is you get the girls together with the mens and you have teas and awards for sewing and fashion shows. You get the boys and dads together and you have community leaders come in and give rousing speeches," the NOW official said.

"Other opponents argue such affairs are unfair to children with only one parent.
