city if one can find there what is desired, instead of buying the same thing in some other town.

There is a good deal to be said for the doctrine of America for Americans and it turns into a practical policy when Americans stand by each other and trade with each other. It is the case already that United States exports more than ten per cent of its manufactured products while other countries have so narrow a market that they are obliged to sell 15 to 50 per cent aboard in order to dispose of their wares.

That makes a very heavy competition in neutral markets. We are wise, therefore, in buying as far as we can of one another and thus helping to build up domestic industry, keeping wages at home, keeping money in circulation in our own country, instead of sending it abroad.

Those who have been bothered with new shoes can appreciate the following from Walt Mason on the joys of wearing new shoes:

It's hard to seem quite dignified, when wearing shoes fresh from the store; your feet feel hot as though just fried, and all the cords and tendons sore. I'm wearing now new Number Twelves; the dealer said, when they were sold from off his overburdened shelves: "These shoes are worth their weight in gold. From lowest basement to the roof, I do not keep a shoe in stock that does not fit the human hoof, and makes you happy when you walk." The birds are singing on the bough, their songs, no doubt, are pure and sweet, and soulful as the law allows, but I can only think of feet. The trees are clothed in red and gold, they glimmer in the gentle heat, they whisper when the nights are cold, but I can only think of feet. The busy squirrels gather nuts, preparing for the time of sleek.

when snow shall hide the highway's rut, but I can think of naught but feet. The pastor preaches well and long, his sermon is a perfect treat, the choir sends up a throbbing song, but all my thoughts are still on feet. And when my guests entertain, and when I sit me down to eat, I'm meditating on the pain that teeters through my swollen feet. And there are moments when I feel I'd like to be a charger fleet, and have a smith take shoes of steel, and nail the blamed things on my feet.

Of all the sins which the race is subject, write thoughtlessness first. The poet tells us of the evils of ambition—"by that sin fell the gods," he says. But thoughtlessness—through that sin is a human race held down, prevented from arising, and blighted in its own exertions.

It is thoughtlessness for employer for employee that causes strikes, or thoughtlessness of employee for employer. When thoughtlessness is not there, peace prevails and all vexed questions solved.

It is thoughtlessness generally that accounts for the absence of the cook, that has made the domestic servant question a most momentous one. The housewife, kindly in her nature, well meaning and as just as she knows how to be, it thoughtless often, of the comfort of the "help." Her own cares and troubles are many; she has a million things to remember, a thousand vexations with which she has to wrestle every hour of the day. So she is naturally thoughtless of the girl back in the kitchen. She pays the servant what she believes an adequate wage. She furnishes a room—if four barren walls surrounded by a bleak and dreary ceiling can be called a room. She would not mistreat a tramp, this housewife, but she is thoughtless of the servant in that she does not appreciate what it means to toil all day in a gloomy kitchen and ascend a back stair to a cold cheerless room when mirth of childish laughter or of guests illumines all the rest of the house.

The world's work is accomplished, the days come and go, the seasons change, but few of us have ever thought of the ills of those who do the world's work. How many of us, indeed, have ever gotten up before daylight and watched these workers on the way to the factory or shop—leaving home while the gaslight still flickers, returning after dark has again fallen upon the world. How many of us have considered these little tin pails, and the plain food that within them lies? How very few of us who sit about a cheerful table and partake of a steaming meal, realize what it means to feed from the clammy sides of a tin pail?

If, for twenty-four hours, thoughtfulness were enjoined, if all of us who would think of the other fellow's would think of the other fellow's conditions for a single day, if the world knew not thoughtlessness for a few brief minutes, the millennium would be upon us. There would be such cooperation upon the part of the weak and the strong, such a gentle consideration the one for another, such a Godliness of charity for the faults and shortcomings of others, that never again would we have to pray—"Thy will be done in earth, as it is in heaven."

Says a contributor whose character might easily be guessed: "If you let some boys know that they may be able to annoy you, you might as well go and jump into the river, for it is certainly true that there are innocent looking kids with more malicious mischief in their make-up than in half the scoundrels in some penitentiaries."

The statement is true wherein it refers to "malicious mischief." A boy knows nothing about malice; very few, if any boys, are inherently malicious. That they are mischievous is too well known to require further argument, and it is out of that mischievousness that comes the desire to annoy those whom they have found can be annoyed.

In almost every neighborhood you will find some fellow at whom the boys seem to have a special "spite." When bells are to be rung, his is the first to receive attention; when front gates are to be removed, his is removed before any other gate is thought of; when anybody in the neighborhood is to be annoyed, why should not the boys begin upon the person whom they know is annoyed with the least effort?

A boy knows his friends, and respects them and is loyal to them. He also knows his enemies, or supposed enemies. While he may, in the exuberance of his spirits also annoy to some extent his friends, he is going to rub it in on his enemies, and a boy always believes that those persons most easily annoyed are his greatest enemies.

If one really understood boy nature, he would need no further books. His education would be complete. If he could unravel the mental process by which a boy reasons, he could compute the weight of a ghost. But the trouble is, few people ever consider that there is such a thing as boy nature; consequently they go through life ignorant of the most dominant force of the universe. With many people there seems to be a sort of dividing line between boyhood and manhood and, once across the line into the realms of manhood they are unable to find so much as a knot hole in the fence through which they may look back and estimate boyhood. It is such people that are so easily annoyed.

But with others there is no line between the two. They never shed their boyish natures. The mischief of earlier days abides with them and acts as a shield against the pranks of other boys. Boys read into such eyes a friendship which does not have to be spoken. They understand each other—man and boy.

to the newspapers complaining about the annoyance caused by the boys. The half of such people may become whitened, time may plow its furrows about the eyes; the bloom of youth may be brushed off and give place to the ashes of age, but the boy nature cannot be wiped off or concealed. And it is a living shield to trouble and worry, a protection against the ravages of a youthful indiscretion, a glow that warms the body when the breath of the world blows cold.

GOES FISHING; CATCHES GIRL

Little Cincinnati Fisherman Was Very Much Surprised When the Fish Screamed.

Cincinnati.—Freddie Goshorn, aged three, found one of his father's fishing lines. Taking a piece of meat out of the icebox Freddie went fishing.

He cast the line out the front window of his parents' third floor flat. For some time he failed to have any luck and Freddie began to doubt the fish stories told by his father.

Suddenly he got a bite that an old-time fisherman would call a whale. Freddie pulled and the "fish" let out a scream. He pulled again and a second scream aroused the neighborhood.

Freddie never heard of a fish screaming, so he leaned out of the window to have a look. On the end of his line he saw Mary Hall, aged four, residing on the first floor of the building.

Freddie dropped his line. Neighbors cut the line and Mary Hall was taken to the City hospital in auto patrol 3, where the fishhook was cut out of her head.

SNAKES FIGHT DUEL TO DEATH

Big Crowd of People Sees Moccasin Beaten and Eaten by Nonpoisonous Fox.

Fuquay, N. C.—A crowd here witnessed a snake fight recently. A king snake and a moccasin were discovered in deadly combat near a spring.

The king snake had the moccasin's head in its mouth when discovered, and the moccasin had its tail tightly twisted around a root on the water's edge, the king snake being unable to loosen the hold so it could finish the job of swallowing its enemy.

Onlookers broke the moccasin's hold from the root, and the two snakes were carried to a clear opening near by, where the king snake made away with its rival by squeezing its life out. Then the king snake swallowed the moccasin and crawled leisurely back to the spring.

ST. JOHNS RIVER PRACTICAL ROUTE

INLAND WATERWAYS WILL RECOGNIZE THIS ROUTE IN THE FUTURE

The meeting of the East Coast Inland Waterways organization was largely attended and Sanford was represented by Hon. C. R. Walker, who represented the Commercial Club.

The East Coast Canal route that winds its way down the East Coast and the original grant of lands from the state was supposed to pay the promoters for all their labor and expenses. Lately it has been discovered that the canal fills up continually especially from Jacksonville to Titusville and realizing that it would not be feasible or a paying proposition the big meeting was called at Stuart on Tuesday for the purpose of obtaining government aid. Senator Bryan, Congressman Frank Clark and other notables were present who made speeches upon the benefits of waterways but did not commit themselves to the East Coast Canal in its present state.

Sanford and all the cities on the St. Johns river while favoring the East Coast canal think it advisable that the river should be used as far as possible, as this great artery of trade and travel is already assured and the government had already expended as far as practicable.

Government engineers have already approved the St. Johns river as part of the inland waterways, the idea being to make the river the upper part of the coastal canal as far as Lake Harney and from there cut a canal through Salt Creek into the Indian river and thus give the people of Florida the benefit of an entire, feasible canal and one that will remain open without the great expense that is now attached to the upper part of the coastal canal above Titusville.

Mr. Walker closed with many of the delegates to the meeting at Stuart and found the majority of them in favor of the St. Johns river as the upper canal and for the purpose of strengthening the idea a meeting of the people of Jacksonville, Green Cove Springs, Palatka, DeLand, Seville, Titusville, Ft. Pierce, Ft. Myers, and Tampa was to be held at 10 o'clock on December 10th for the purpose of forming an organization to push the Inland Canal along the lines that the government will recognize as being the most feasible.

Under present conditions and agitation, the government will not be able to grant much of an appropriation for improving the river and harbor of the route and this being the case the meeting at Stuart was held to show the government employe plans that will demonstrate beyond any shadow of doubt the economy and feasibility of the St. Johns river route in the great inland waterway from New York to Miami via the river and Lake Harney. If the government ever takes over the Florida Intercoastal Canal it will be via the St. Johns river, as this route is practically established and will eliminate all the expense of keeping the canal open that is now experienced in the upper portions of the canal about Titusville and this being the case all of the river cities will join Sanford in petitioning the government to recognize the superior advantages of the St. Johns river above all other routes. Mr. Walker will make his report at the meeting of the Commercial Club next Friday night, December 4th and the club will outline plans for the future regarding this most important feature in the development not only of Sanford but of the state.

Stetson Wins Again Monday The Stetson second team journeyed to Sanford where they played the football team of the Sanford High School, who had promised to think they could make a showing against them. Sanford was defeated without trouble by the score of 11 to 0. At no time were the Stetson boys in difficulty, the ball usually staying in Sanford's territory. Only fumbles and the shortness of time kept the score from being much larger.

Friday Sanford invaded DeLand with the intention of avenging herself, but as soon as the Stetson boys found out what was up they began to show them how easy on them they had been in the first game. When the final whistle blew the score was 11 to 0. DeLand News.

OFFICIAL GERMAN STATEMENT

Berlin, Germany (By wireless to London), Nov. 27.—An official announcement given out in Berlin today is as follows:

"In the western arena of the war the situation remains unchanged. The French opened an attack in the region of St. Hilaire with strong forces. The strength of this attack gradually dwindled and the movement was finally repulsed with heavy losses to the enemy.

"We have made progress at Apremont and there is no change in the situation in east Prussia.

"Our troops under General von Mackensen at Lodz and Lowicz inflicted heavy losses on the first and second, and on a portion of the fifth Russian armies. In addition to many killed and wounded we have in our possession about 40,000 uninjured prisoners, twenty cannon, 150 ammunition wagons and 156 machine guns, while we destroyed 30 cannon.

"In these battles our young troops did brilliantly in spite of great sacrifices.

"We have not succeeded in bringing this fighting to a close in spite of the excellent results already gained. This is due to the enemy bringing up extra strong reinforcements from the east and the west.

"Yesterday we repulsed their attacks everywhere and the final result is still pending."

Be on time tonight at the Rose Ball, as the Grand March will start at nine o'clock.

BROTHERHOOD ENJOYED EVENING

A LARGE CROWD GATHERED AT THE MANSE FOR SMOKER

The lunch and smoker of the Presbyterian Brotherhood class and their guests last Thursday night was one of the most enjoyable affairs of the social season in this city. The Brotherhood class has a reputation for good deeds and the least of these is the habit of making the members and guests feel at home at the social gatherings.

About forty-five gathered at the Manse on Oak avenue pursuant to the call and after they had all been seated Hon. D. L. Thrasher called upon Dr. Williams for a few remarks and the Doctor who is a world traveler and well known missionary was most interesting in his sketches of his travels. He paid the Brotherhood class a very high compliment, by saying that he had not seen such a representative gathering of men in any church that he had visited.

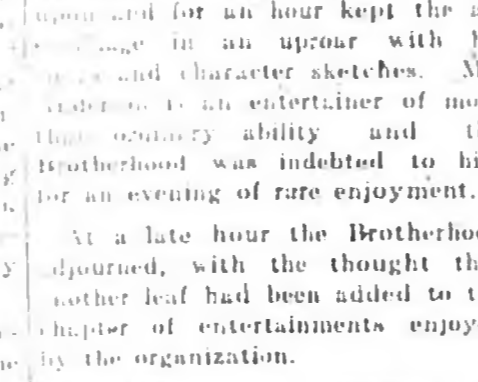

The new president of the Brotherhood, H. J. Minton was called out where the audience could view him and made to talk, as were the vice president, D. D. Caldwell, the secretary, Wideman Caldwell and the treasurer, Edward Lane.

About this time the lunch of smoking members hot coffee, pickles and other eatables was announced and the entire assemblage followed and as the boys took some good music was rendered by Dr. Batt on the violin and Mr. Logan on the piano.

After the lunch a paper was read upon the subject of the Brotherhood and the order of a Y. M. C. A. was followed by a prayer by Dr. Williams and D. D. Caldwell. The meeting closed with a song when the members adjourned to the Manse for a social evening. The meeting was a great success and will be a great work in the future.

The Grand March starts at nine o'clock at the Sanford House to-night.

LAKE COUNTY SELLS ROAD BONDS

TWO HUNDRED MILES WILL BE PAVED IN OUR SISTER COUNTY

TAVES, Fla., Nov. 27.—At an important meeting of the board of county commissioners of Lake county, held all day Tuesday, bids were received on the $500,000 of bonds for good roads throughout Lake county, for which plans were drawn by the J. B. McCrary Company, Atlanta, and the following bids were received:

John Naveen & Co., Chicago, bids on the whole issue, par, accrued interest and a premium of $5,680.

Sydney Spitzer & Co., Toledo, bid on $200,000 par, accrued interest and a premium of $1,640.

Tilgerson, Walcott Company, Cincinnati, bids on $200,000 on a basis of $97,180 for each $100,000 of bonds delivered to them. Weill, Roth & Co., advised on the whole issue at par, accrued interest and a premium of $6,000.

Figg, Richards & Co., of Cincinnati, R. M. Grant & Co., Chicago, and McNear Company of Chicago, bid jointly on the whole $500,000 issue par, accrued interest and a premium of $11,400.

After long considering the matter and much discussion by the board as to the amount of bonds to be sold at this time, the advertisement having been on bonds on other $200,000 or $300,000, it was decided that the price offered by Figg, Richards & Co., R. M. Grant & Co., and the McNear Company was a very good one and that a total of $511,000 with accrued interest, was accepted by the county board, thus assuring the work of good road construction proceeded at an early date.

The plans for the good work are being carried out by the board and the McCrary Co. of Chicago, who are to construct the roads. The work will be completed in a few months.

The Grand March starts at nine o'clock at the Sanford House to-night.

MERCHANT MARINE FAVORED BY WILSON

PRESIDENT THINKS AMERICAN SHIPS STIMULATE TRADE

Washington, Nov. 26.—An intimation comes from the White House that President Wilson will stress the proposal for a government merchant marine in his message to congress next month. It was announced that the President did not consider that enough ships to meet requirements had taken advantage of the emergency American registry act.

Officials who have kept watch on foreign commerce declare the way for resumption of approximately normal business in export cotton and other non-contraband products was clear of diplomatic tangles provided ships of suitable character could be procured. Vessels now under the American flag but previously German owned, they said, had met with delays while carrying non-contraband commodities only because their bona fide ownership was in question. These delays, however, it was pointed out were enough to hamper restoration of the cotton export traffic.

President Wilson has shown continued interest in his government merchant marine plan during the congressional recess. He has asked repeatedly, it is understood, for the number and character of vessels applying for American registry and discussed the subject with Secretary Rothwell many times. His determination to press the Alexander bill, which provides such a plan, apparently has not been affected by the opposition the measure meets with on its presentation in congress.

Aside from the importance of assuring ships of proper character for the cotton trade, and reports to the department show foreign orders for cotton far exceed available carriers.

The President believes the government should take the opportunity offered by the European war to establish new trade routes for American ships.

Private concerns, he feels, will be slow to engage in such ventures, which probably would not at first be profitable. The government should develop these routes, the officials believe.

Will Have Own Fair Kissimmee, Fla., Nov. 27.—It is understood that opposition will be made to an Osceola county exhibit at the Orlando mid-winter fair this February. A representative from Kissimmee appeared before the county commission at their last meeting and proposed to have an appropriate exhibit and the result that the newly appointed County Clerk J. L. Overstreet and County Attorney W. J. Adams as a committee to take up the matter with the city council, board of trade and the board of trade of St. Cloud. While the majority of the commissioners seemed to favor an exhibit, it has been stated that the matter might not be pushed. As yet the committee has not done anything.

Kissimmee people were gratified over their exhibit last year which took the first prize, and some feel that Osceola county could retire on her laurels. A fair entertainment of some sort to be held here during the mid-winter has been agitated within the last ten months, and many arguments advanced that Kissimmee and Osceola county should have a fair of their own. At a meeting of several prominent citizens held Monday morning this was discussed and approved, and the exhibit for Orlando, on the other hand was not commended. No definite steps have yet been taken toward this matter, but the proposition will quite likely be put before the people in some way or other before many weeks.

The Tampa Times tells of a feature just being planned for the Gasparilla celebration in Tampa in February. The idea is to have the first day of the carnival season, which will be February 12th, Clear day. As Tampa makes millions and millions of fine cigars the inference is that there will be "some smoke" in the South Florida metropolis on that day. The carnival or celebration, as it is called, promises to be a great big affair this season.

THANKFULNESS

The American people have so much to be thankful for this year that it seems ill-advised that any mention should be made of the war clouds over Europe and this season of Thanksgiving and the Christmas and New Year holidays should mean more to Americans this year than ever before.

This point is so well made in a recent article in the Outlook magazine, by Theodore Price, a prominent New York business man and a regular contributor to that publication, on the subject of the effects of the war upon this country, that we quote him "as one having authority."

"Those who will compare the ideals of the youth today with the aspirations of young men at the commencement of the present century will realize the degree in which our National standard of what is most worth while has been changed for the better."

"Fourteen of fifteen years ago the glamour of the great misfortunes created by the formation of the United States Steel Corporation and kindred consolidations deluded many men just commencing life into the belief that great wealth was a guarantee of happiness as well as of social and political power."

"More and more are we coming to realize that happiness is not a matter of money, luxury and self-indulgence, but rather of self-respect, self-restraint and selfishness."

THE ALCOHOLIC MILLSTONE

Under this heading W. J. Bryan in the current issue of his paper, The Commoner has published the following over his own signature. It will be read with interest by all members of the Democratic party, coming from one so high up in the councils of the party as Mr. Bryan: "The Democrats of the nation have an issue to face and they may as well prepare for it. The liquor interests are at bay; they are on the defensive. They realize that they have but a few more years in which to utter upon the woes of their victims, but they are fighting desperately and are willing to hold any party between them and the fire."

At the earnest request of the live merchants of Sanford The Herald will publish a big Christmas edition and the solicitors will call upon you next week.

THE CHAUTAUQUA WILL BE GREAT

SANFORD EXPECTS TO HAVE SOME REAL FINE TALENT.

The people living in the Sanford section should be the happiest in the world for never did the prospects seem brighter for a good season.

The English navy is an active organization. When there is no enemy in sight to blow up the ships they blow up their own just to keep things moving.

Sanford could get a big league team to winter here if the people would wake up sufficiently to offer some inducements. Just another good reason for building a hotel.

The Sanford Chamber of Commerce has accomplished more in a few weeks regarding the Inland Waterways than any individual could have accomplished in a year. This only demonstrates that in cooperation there is results and more of our business men should join the organization that is doing so much for the city.

The A. C. L. officials say that the trains were not paying and that this condition was proven to the entire satisfaction of the Railroad Commission before the trains were eliminated. We know nothing of the railroad's business, but if the trains did not pay no one on the outside can consistently ask that the trains be kept in service.

Crop News From Over the State

O. R. Grosse of Cocoa is making a success of farming under irrigation. He will have some fine egg-plant to ship later.

The orange crop over on Merritts Island are showing fine color. The fruit is well matured and shipments are being made from the different points on the Island. Bean growing is not as extensively carried on as in former years.

The Sarasota Strawberry Association crop of berries looks very promising. Eleven acres in one field makes a beautiful sight. A packing house will be completed in time to handle the crop in an up-to-date manner.

Jack Cone has a fine tomato field on Sesta Island, just below Sarasota. His crop was not hurt in the recent cold snap. He has seven acres from which he will start shipping next month.

Plant City shipped 35 cars of oranges and grapefruit last week. The packing houses are all busy at full capacity now and the movement will continue free for some time.

Strawberry prospects around Lake and Plant City are bright. The cold weather may keep the fruit back a few days, but the fruit will be here very soon now. The Dover growers have ordered 400 refrigerators to move their fruit.

Fort Myers report says that vegetables from the Islands will continue to come in. The cold did no damage last week. The citrus fruit movement is now getting in full swing for the season.

At Orlando the packing houses are all busy. Full forces are working and the fruit is good color. Prices are reported satisfactory and indications point to a good season.

Lake county road bonds sold at a good price last week and this suggests the return of prosperity. The county commissioners, at their meeting in Tavares, considered a number of bids that had been made on the bond issue of $500,000 for good roads, and accepted that made by a number of firms together of $511,000 and accrued interest. The Lake county board has plans for making and improving roads already existing to the extent of about 200 miles. The sale of bonds will make it possible to begin the work very soon. Lake county will get back in value many times the price paid for improving the highways.

The Marion Sumter fair is now in full swing at Ocala, and from all accounts is proving a big success. Splendid exhibits have been placed and Ocala is filled with visitors. The program for fair week is the best ever planned and is filled with interesting events of various kinds. Special attention has been given to preparing a fine racing card and this feature has attracted unusual attention. The fair lasts through Friday and the railroads are expecting to have record breaking crowds for Ocala all during the week.

Money. If you make money your god it will plague you like the devil.—Henry

The Sanford Chautauqua will be one of the greatest attractions ever presented in the city and the date has been definitely decided upon, the opening day being Monday, February 8th. This is the first Chautauqua held in Sanford in many years and from the list of extra fine talent secured there will be no question of the success of the Chautauqua. Mr. C. Rucker Adams was asked for a partial list of the attractions and sent the following letter to The Herald: Mr. Holly, Editor of Sanford Herald: Sanford, Florida:

Dear Sir—According to promise I am sending you a list of the talent we will present at the Sanford Chautauqua Assembly to be held the week of February 8th in your city. For music and entertainment of the highest class no better array of talent can be found from private party or bureau in public work. Opening with the orchestra of six brass pieces, and presenting one of New York's favorite sopranos as soloist with the orchestra, the first day's music is assured. Following the next day we have a trio, an excellent violinist who renders true notes from an old violin in a masterful manner. Her natural gift has been improved by study abroad with the masters. She is accompanied by a reader of splendid ability and a soloist who has won honors wherever heard. The third day the entertainment is in the ever popular and enchanting line of magic, which is presented by one who stands high in his work and his assistants are ever ready to assist in the mysterious manipulations. The fourth day we have a contralto soloist, whose splendid voice and oriental beauty gives her the natural accompaniment for the solos from the "Garden of Allah," which she has sung in Egypt in the Garden with the artist as accompanist, also a style of Gypsy, oriental and songs of similar type. She is a pupil of Sanger of New York and her public work has been very successful. The fifth day one of the best male quartets in the Lyceum of Chautauqua work. The last day a splendid harpist with a reader who ranks A No. 1, as child impersonator.

As lecturers, men of national reputation, Adna W. Moore of Birmingham, Ala.; Jas. H. Shaw of Bloomington, Ill.; Lou J. Beauchamp of Hamilton, Ohio; Mrs. Ida B. Cole, of Chautauqua, N. Y.; Miss Meddie O. Hamilton, Chautauqua, N. Y.; Dr. Stanley L. Krebs, Psychologist at Swarthmore, Pa.; Boris Weil, former scientist of Union City, Ind.; and Miss Maude Willis of New York as interpreter of a great play. The morning hours will be filled by Bible studies conducted by a student of the Word of God, a series of health lectures by Mrs. C. Rucker Adams, or the literary course by Mrs. Cole.

Thus we will have presented a series of educational advantages that will fill every lover of good, clean entertainment full of approbation of the splendid Chautauqua program for our town.

This is just a sketch of the talent as contracted for and we will give you more definite announcement of the work of each artist as the time advances nearer to the session time. Trust this will make plain to you the great value of the program arranged, and thanking you for all your kindnesses, I am, Sincerely yours, C. RUCKER ADAMS.

Great Play at Imperial

In "Stop Thief," a farce by Carlyle Moore, absent minded people who cache valuable articles and are then unable to remember the hiding places, a peculiarly condoned under the cloak of kleptomania, are so realistically characterized that the events leading up to the final denouement form a series of laughing climaxes that are as unconventional as they are thrilling. The cast includes Bert Leigh, Miss Hazelle Burgess, Miss Edna Oliver, Miss Latimore, Miss Forrest, Helen Acker, Dale Devereaux, Edward Lawrence, Paul Linton, Edwin Pye, Clyde Smith, and the original Gaiety Theatre, N. Y. scenic production.

Robins in Profusion. Apparently the most abundant bird in the United States east of the Mississippi river is the robin, with an average of about fifty pairs to the square mile, or a hundred million robins in the eastern United States.

ABOUT PEOPLE AND EVENTS BEING A RESUME OF SANFORD UP-TO-DATE Communications for this Column Should be Marked "Society Editor", or Phoned to Mrs. R. A. Terheun, Phone 203. Missionary Dime Social The Methodist church held a very delightful dime social at the home of Mrs. L. R. Phillips, Thursday afternoon, with Mrs. Phillips and Mrs. H. J. Wilson hostesses. There were present about thirty-five members and friends of the society. The ladies brought their fancy work and sewing and enjoyed a pleasant informal social hour together. Mrs. T. S. Newton sang several delightful selections and Mrs. L. R. Phillips read the "Romance of Missions" from an old magazine dated years back, that was a most enjoyable feature of the afternoon. Cake and tea were served by the hostesses. The social was held under the auspices of the social service department of the society.

Priscilla Club The members of the Priscilla Club were hospitably entertained by Mrs. A. E. Hill Thursday afternoon. The club meets twice a month and is one of the most delightful organizations in the social life of Sanford. On this occasion, a very amusing chewing gum contest afforded an hour of fun and frolic for the ladies and dignified ladies chewed gum with the enthusiasm of school girls. After chewing the gum a required length of time they were furnished the name of an article that should be modeled from the plastic gum. It is said that marvins in statures, dogs, monkeys, cats and all sorts of animals were so realistic as almost to breathe the breath of life. Mrs. W. W. Long carried off the honors with a true to life model of a "turtle," diamond back at that, and was presented with a cut glass silver mounted pepper and salt shaker. Dainty refreshments were served and the pleasant afternoon proved to be one of the most enjoyable in the history of the club. Mrs. Hill's guests were Mesdames W. W. Long, W. T. Johns, Eldridge, Roberts, Easterby, Purdon, Hurley, Fred Williams, Gillon, H. H. Hill, Milteer and N. H. Garner and Misses Wheeler and Bessie Long.

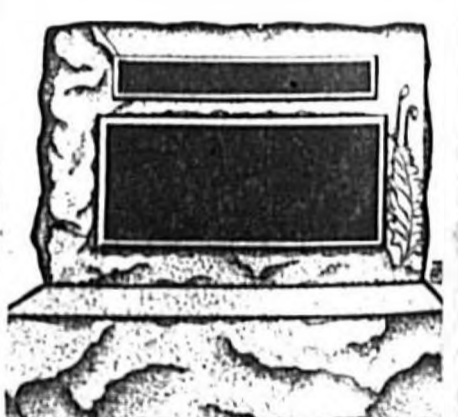

Travel Club Meeting The members of the Travel Club of the Methodist Sunday school were very delightfully entertained by Miss Nellie Evans Thursday night with a large number present. After the regular business session plans for the Christmas bazaar were discussed and an hour spent in working upon articles for the bazaar to be held in December. Refreshments were served and a pleasant social hour enjoyed by those present.

For Mrs. Puleston Mrs. D. L. Thrasher entertained Tuesday afternoon with a charming little bridge party, in honor of Mrs. S. E. Puleston. There were two tables of bridge, Mrs. Geo. D. Bishop making top score and winning a very lovely hanging flower basket. A delicious salad course was served. Enjoying Mrs. Thrasher's hospitality were Mesdames S. E. Puleston, Geo. D. Bishop, W. E. Watson, A. P. Connelly, S. E. Barrett, B. W. Herndon and F. J. Gonzales.

Oyster Roast at Woodland One of the jolliest affairs of the season was the oyster roast and turkey dinner at Woodland Park Wednesday night, given by the "It Belta Me Club." This popular club is famous for its hospitality and always carries a full hamper of good things to eat of course, although it is whispered that six times were tucked away in one corner to make limeade for the thirsty crowd. Roast oysters and limeade is a queer combination when one stops to think about it but Felix Frank, the club umpire said so. To the honorable position of umpire the dignified gentleman elected himself and looking quite fierce and dangerous, stated that he would call any couple "out" who were caught spooning. W. J. Thugpen, the club steward for does he not run a hotel? provided the most delicious turkey cranberry sauce and all the rest of the trimmings and oysters by the barrel, for it is a well known fact that the members of "It Suits Me" love the cat to too. The umpire led a strenuous life for several hours, for Billy Hill and Clarence Mahoney, not content with being stag performers at a dance, played for the honors of the oyster-eating contest. It was all right until 100 oysters slipped down their throats but just her, Dr. Fain, who was keeping tabs on J. D. Roberts' stomach, announced that J. D. made top score at 175. Felix lost his nerve and made a dash for the barrel, and the last seen of him he was after eating but one oyster. The oyster-eating contest, for Felix would rather eat than think. The gay party of young people went out in automobiles early in the evening. Dancing was enjoyed until a late hour, and the oyster-eating contest, voting it one of the best and grandest affairs ever. Those in the party were: Misses Olga and Gretchen Schultz, Mell Whitney, Florence Frank, Laura Fish, Elizabeth and Anna McLaughlin, Saidee Williams, Annie Higgins, Charlotte Hand, Belle Smith, Messrs W. J. Thugpen, Felix Frank, Osborne Herndon, S. M. Lloyd, Billy Hill, H. T. Marks, E. M. Galloway, Billy Laffer, L. P. McCuller, Clarence Mahoney, J. D. Roberts, Arthur Nowell, Ernest Housholder and Dr. Fain.

BIG LEAGUE TEAM MAY COME HERE

WANT TO WINTER IN SANFORD IF PROPERLY ACCOMMODATED HERE

Can we take care of a big league team for the four weeks of spring training and have the hotel accommodations for them?

This is the question that is agitating the minds of the fans and the members of the Commercial Club today. A few weeks ago the editor of The Herald wrote to manager of the largest teams of the big leagues and asked him to look over Sanford as a spring training camp. The president did come here very quietly and looked over the grounds and now writes that if the hotel can furnish twenty-five or thirty single beds with the suitable accommodations, he would be pleased to use Sanford as a spring training camp.

As this team is high up on the list and would carry a bunch of sporting writers this city would benefit greatly through having the team winter here and Sanford could also become the permanent winter training quarters for the team. The president stated while here that Sanford with a few changes would make an ideal training camp and the boys would enjoy their stay here immensely.

He now writes that the hotel must have suitable beds and the ball park should have hot and cold water and the grounds be in first class shape. The ball grounds are all that could be desired and the hot and cold water could be added, but the hotel with the thirty single beds will probably stump us unless our public spirited citizens come across and solve the question.

If any one can suggest anything, or if the Sanford House can put in some beds in one portion of the building, we can get this big team and all the emoluments that go with it.

HOW A FIGHTING MAN OF THE LINE LOOKS ON BATTLE

Indifference Shown in Story of English Sergeant.

WITNESSES LITTLE OF STRIFE

Writer Tells of Wounded Soldier Who Even Did Not Know How He Got Injured—"It was a 'ell of a charge."

London, England. The sergeant was cross. He was distinctly cross. At first he seemed disinclined to take up the role of wounded hero of the great war, which several of us had pressed upon him, writes Herbert Casey in Chicago, Daily News.

"Don't get too badly near me," said the sergeant. "First thing you know you'll be stepping on my sore foot. And then I'll jolly well bash the man as does it."

But there are ways of mollifying wounded heroes, and a British soldier could never be convinced that he could be the slightest drag upon convalescence. He had just returned from France, where he had been wounded in a battle with the Germans. His wound was not serious. He hoped to be back on the fighting line in a month.

"Where was the battle in which you were wounded?" some one asked.

Then was revealed the fashion in which a fighting man looks at a battle—much as an ant would look at a sand bed. He could only see the little grains of sand immediately before his eyes. Of the strategy involved, of the numbers in conflict, of the general plan of battle, he knew no more than he did who stayed at home.

Didn't Know What Happened. "All I know is they were fighting hell over," he said, "Morin's you'd wake up to 'ear them same guns going. Everywhere they were at it—all around. Sometimes the Germans seemed in the rear of us and sometimes we were in the rear of the Germans. I don't know what happened. We were somewhere in Belgium."

The troop of cavalry to which he belonged had not been engaged during the first day of the big battle. Three or four times it had been ordered here or there.

"Just like we'd be going out to exercise our 'orses like," said he. "We never got near the Germans. Sometimes we'd see 'em and they'd see us, but both of us went on about our business."

He saw the wounded brought back from the front. It was pretty tough, he said, to stand in ranks and watch wagons full of groaning, cursing, screaming men file past. The worst of it, he thought, was to watch the blood drip through the seams of the wagon beds. The undergear of some of the wagons grew to a dark, dusty purple. When his troop was ordered on scouting duty the man took it as a relief.

"It was odd, now," said he, "to watch the water wagons that used to sprinkle London's streets come jolting up with water for us. They took your mind from the fellows that 'd been 'urt. And the buses. When I got my 'urt, I rode to the rear in a Charing Cross bus, that maybe the old woman used to ride in every morning when she went down town. Hum, aren't it?"

Ordered to Mount. His troop was sheltered behind a hill he said, where the shells couldn't get at them. It was hot, and most of the men were standing by their horses. They had loosened the girths and opened their own tunics. He was concerned about his own horse.

"Old Ydraulic," he said, "got to lathering bad that morning. I feared the ole beggar were going to be sick."

A staff officer came up in a perfectly matter-of-fact way and gave an order to the commanding officer. The word to mount was passed along. It was obvious that another scouting expedition was on foot. The sergeant heard one of the men in the ranks say to a comrade that one of these days they'd get badly well caught by the sausages going around this way careless like. He reprimanded the speaker.

"E was just a cornerboy in London," said the sergeant. "I could tell what sort 'e is directly I laid eyes on 'im. They always ave more strat'egies than ole K himself."

The troop took the long hill at a walk. The warm, tired men lolled in their saddles until the sergeant made them straighten up to save the backs of their horses. They were distinctly not interested. Half a dozen of these expeditions had been unfruitful. They had seen nothing of significance in the movements of the enemy.

"Hall at once," said the sergeant in a louder tone. "He sounded the charge."

When the Clash Came.

The men took the crest of the hill at a gallop. The first of the troop were already bearing down hill toward a company of German lanciers who were on level ground not a hundred yards away. The noise of battle which filled the air for 75 miles on either side had masked the approach of each from the other.

"It was a 'ell of a charge," said the sergeant in disgust. "We didn't 'ave no chance to get into proper formation or nothing. We just beat it down that hill, 'ell for leather. My pore ole Ydraulic, he planted them forefeet 'ad every jump. He bally near shook me hout of the saddle."

It was just a disorderly gallop of mounted men upon an equally disorderly other group of mounted men, the sergeant said. On his way down hill he remembers that his knee was bruised against the saddle of the man on the right. He wanted to button his tunic, which had been flying open, but abandoned that as impracticable. Some one behind him had lugged-out a revolver and was shooting. It annoyed him excessively.

"Me being a sergeant like," he said, "it would look bad him I was to be shot in the back by one of my own men. Wouldn't it, now?"

So he sat on his horse in that yelling, swearing, sweating rout, and kept his saber up in the first position—which is a guard—and wondered how he would dodge the sausages' lances when the collision came. The guards he had been taught in saber school seemed absurdly ineffectual. Ten feet away from the other line he and a big German sergeant, profuse of winks, seemed to get each other's eye. But some one got between them.

Saved by the French. "I 'it 'im"—referring to the unlucky other fellow—"in the 'ead with my sword. 'E cussed like anything in Dutch. I 'ard 'im."

The two troops passed through each other in some miraculous fashion, although they were scouring dancing. Halting to re-form, they saw a French mounted battery bounce over a hill, swing into position, with the dust of the hillside rising in huge clouds from the scoring wheels, and the gunners leap from their seats and begin to whet the muzzles toward the Germans.

"So we got under the 'ill again," said the sergeant. The Frenchies had took over our show. They was giving them sausages what for almost before we was under cover. So that night I was sent to the rear and come on 'ome with this hole in my foot."

"But how did you get your wound?" asked one.

"I don't know," said the sergeant.

LIKES THE PRISON STEAKS

Swindler Grins When He Is Rearrested—Says Federal Meals Are Exceedingly Good.

Chicago. Clarence A. Kohl grinned and shook hands cordially with government officers who rearrested him, as he was being discharged upon completing two years imprisonment at Leavenworth penitentiary.

"During that two years I tasted more tenderloin and sirloin steaks than I ever expect to see while at liberty," explained Kohl upon his arrival in Chicago.

The prisoner said the federal prison at Leavenworth was the best boarding house he ever had patronized, and that it was also a first-class place to room.

Kohl was arrested in Chicago more than two years ago and convicted of having used the mails to defraud. He had operated a mail order grocery. While awaiting sentence, he jumped his bond. Then he committed the same offense in Pittsburgh and was sentenced to two years imprisonment. Now he is awaiting sentence for his former misdeeds. He was also known as C. Alvin.

FICTION APPEALS TO FORGER

He Used In His Many Operations the Names From Mrs. Southworth's Novels.

Des Moines, Ia.—A forger with a taste for Mrs. Southworth's novels, who has been passing bogus certified checks on a Boone bank, has just reached new York, according to information received from Burlington by P. W. Hall, secretary of the Iowa Bankers' association. One of his checks was sent to the Burlington bank by a bank in New York for collection.

The forger uses the names of characters in Mrs. Southworth's novels in his operations. About ten days ago he passed two checks on Des Moines merchants drawn on the First National bank of Boone. The checks were made out to Richard Wainwright, Jr., by Richard Wainwright, Sr., who, he said, was his father. He had stamped "legitimized" across the face and forged the signature of the cashier of the Boone bank.

NEW YORK BARS CHICKENS

It's the Feathered Ones, However, to Which Health Department Offers Objections.

New York. Except in sparsely settled sections of the city chickens are soon to be banished from New York city. The department of health paved the way for this action by approving an amendment to the sanitary code making it unlawful for any person to maintain chickens within 75 feet of a neighbor.

The new regulation will also require that all chickens be confined in coops or pens, be thoroughly washed and disinfected each year.

During the past year 8,500 permits were issued to persons in the greater city to raise chickens. The number of chickens represented by these permits is something like 200,000. In Manhattan borough only 200 permits were issued and there were probably no more than 1,500 chickens in this section of the city.

Daily Thought

I cannot praise a faculty and cloistered virtue unexamined and unbreathed, that never with a vent and sees her advantage. Her advantage of the race, where that immortal part had to be reared or not without dust and heat. Milton.

FOOTBALL PLAYERS SPARKLE IN POLITICS

Burnett of Yale Practicing at Tackling.

That college football is a fitting training for a political career seems to be indicated by the number of college players who have succeeded in getting high positions in the state and nation.

The election of Blair Lee as United States senator from Maryland recalls to mind the long list of former players who have won public recognition of similar nature. Lee, who was a famous "forward" at Princeton in the late seventies, playing the position of "next-to-end," now known as tackle followed the footsteps of many other Princeton, Harvard and Yale football players.

Robert Bacon, late ambassador to France, was an old Harvard captain and halfback; James S. Harlan of the United States interstate commerce commission is an old Princeton forward; Lee McClung, late treasurer of the United States, a former captain and halfback; William H. Lecky, recently assistant attorney general of the United States, an old Harvard center; H. S. Thompson, first assistant attorney general of the United States, and William W. Roper, surveyor of the port of Philadelphia, both Princeton ends; ex-Congressman Lucius N. Littauer, a linesman for the Crimmon; Gifford N. Pinchot, late under secretary of the Interior, a Yale end; and his successor, the present incumbent at Washington Chief Forester Harmon S. Graves, a former back for the Blue.

The late Gov. William E. Russell of Massachusetts was a halfback at Harvard; Gov. George R. Carter of Hawaii, once a guard at Yale; Everett J. Lake, the great Harvard halfback lieutenant governor of Connecticut, and the famous W. H. Corbin, affectionately known as "Pa," the present commissioner of taxes for Connecticut, once a center for Yale. John C. Bull, the great Pennsylvania halfback, is attorney general of the state of Pennsylvania.

A recent mayor of Harrisburg was Vance McCormick, the old Yale quarterback; a late assistant justice commissioner in New York was Bert Hanson, the old Yale guard, and there is "Big Bill" Edwards, an old Princeton player, late New York street cleaning commissioner.

GILLETTE TO COACH BATAVIA

Former Wisconsin Football Star Has Been Secured to Coach Indiana High School Eleven

Eddie Gillette, former Wisconsin football star and former Indiana high school coach, has been secured to coach the Batavia high school eleven. Gillette will be expected to develop a winning team.

Gillette began his football career while a pupil at West High and became a member of the varsity team.

came one of the most remarkable football players in the West. Later he went to the University of Wisconsin, where he made a reputation as a player, and held the position of captain in his senior year in college.

Too Bad About These Old Men.
 It is quite true that youth must be served. When they are about seventy-four years old Wilding and Brookes, the great Australian tennis players, should be fairly easy for a pair of hustling youngsters. This year has been a great one for the serving of youth. Look at poor old Brookes and Wilding, and at poor Mathewson and Plank and Bender. It's a downright shame to send these tottering shells up against the virility and stamina of frisky youth. Something should be done about it at once.

Tough on Wambsgans.
 The only way Wambsgans of Cleveland can get his name into the big league papers is by doing something to break into the story proper. His monicker is so abbreviated in the "box score" that he has to look for the short-stop position to find himself.

Davis Boosts His Reputation.
 By defeating Battling Levinsky at Buffalo recently "One Round" Davis has boosted his reputation as a boxer about 100 per cent.

Tampa Men Give Strong Testimony

Taylor Medicine Company, Tampa, Fla.

Gentlemen: I have suffered for years with rheumatism. I have had it all over, in my arms, fingers, lower limbs and through my body, and only those who have had rheumatism can imagine what the suffering is—I have taken every medicine that was ever recommended to me, and I had a doctor to tell me that there was no cure for my disease, but I commenced using TAYLOR'S BEST BLOOD MEDICINE and I can truthfully say that I am a perfectly well man. Those rheumatic pains have all passed away, and TAYLOR'S BEST BLOOD MEDICINE CURED ME, and I sincerely recommend it to all sufferers of rheumatism. I am now fifty-five years old, and feel as young as I did at thirty-five. With best wishes,
 ARTHUR D. LYNN.

Taylor Medicine Company, Tampa, Fla.

Dear Sir: I contracted rheumatism at Punta Gorda, Florida, at which place I was engaged in overhauling the Punta Gorda Hotel, and for eight months I suffered with pains all over—every bone in my body ached and I felt tired all the time. I was treated by three different physicians and only had temporary relief. And, as I was getting worse all the time, I decided to try TAYLOR'S BEST BLOOD MEDICINE. I have taken two bottles and I feel a different man. I haven't a pain and I have no dull feelings. I feel like an 18-year-old boy, and I attribute my young feelings to TAYLOR'S BEST BLOOD MEDICINE. Yours truly,
 W. D. WIGGINS.

HANGERS FOR CLOTHES

SIMPLE AND EFFECTIVE SCHEME OF DECORATION.

Little Shapes Marked on the Wood and Then Treated With Ebony Stain in Manner Described Will Be Satisfactory.

There is no need for one's clothes to look crumpled when hangers to put them on can be had for one penny each. They are just in the raw state. It is true, but they can be simply and easily decorated in the following way. Make a few simple shapes on the wood, such as squares, little rounds, or diamond shapes; purchase a bottle of ebony stain, mark the shapes in with pen or brush and stain the background with the ebony. A bottle of the stain can be bought cheaply, and one bottle will decorate many hangers. If once going over is not sufficient, when the first coating is quite dry, do it again, then leave to dry thoroughly for a few days.

Purchase a little white hard spirit varnish, and brush it over the hanger; the effect is beautiful and the article will look as though made of ebony and inlaid with ivory. If a poker machine is to hand, the shapes can be marked in with the poker point and the whole of the background dotted in with the poker, or the background can be ruled out in squares and filled with lines going alternate ways. The hanger is then varnished over in the same way as the stained one and left for a few days before being used.

Before decorating these articles, they should be first of all well sanded down until the wood is quite smooth. The hangers can also be decorated by twining ribbon round and round and putting a small scent sachet at either end. Hangers decorated by the poker or stain are excellent to give to the men folk as presents; they are fine coat-hangers. A set of six or more hangers would go very well at a bazaar, for they are necessary articles and the novel manner of treating them is very attractive.

Plain, Tailored Utility Coats

THE long, protecting "rain or shine" coat, made to meet the exigencies of travel or life in the out-of-doors, is cut on simple lines.

One of the most practical of these coats is pictured here. It hangs straight on the figure. The needed fullness at the bust line is provided for by two small plaits on each shoulder. This is taken up from the swell of the bust down in a stitched-in plait at each side of the front, the plaits extending below the normal waist-line for at least six inches. The coat is open at the throat, but without revers. The neck is finished with a small sailor collar and the sleeves with turnback cuffs. Bone buttons are used for fastening and as a decorative feature on the cuffs.

Coats of this kind are made with skirts to match. The ladies, severely plain and straight, are worn with blouses of thin wash silk, pongee or sheer wash fabrics. These coats and skirts require firmly woven rainproof goods in quiet staple colors. Either can be worn without the other, and the coat is designed to do duty wherever a separate coat is needed. In some of the new models these

KNOWS THE ART OF DRESS

Whether in Street Costume or Evening Regalia, French Woman is Never Fussy.

The French woman of assured social position dislikes any mode that will link her with the demi-mondaine. She permits herself to view all the novelties that the couturiers have gathered for the new season. She is entertained, amused, perhaps a little tempted at times to swerve from the monotonous in dress fabric and in linings, but her innate sense of refinement and her horror of appearing as one of the untutored crowd, sartorially speaking, save her from dress indiscretion.

By day she is elegant to the last degree, as only the true Parisienne can be, in sable hues; by night she is transformed into an exquisite butterfly, her lithe figure lightly veiled in delicate gossamers of ethereal hues or brilliant in exotic chromatics. She is chary of jewels in the daytime, but in the evening her nude shoulders and softly coiled coiffure are resplendent with diamonds or enriched with strands of pearls. But whether in trotteur costume or in full evening regalia, madame is never fussy in her habiliments. In this respect the women of other countries have much to learn.

Getting a Line on Him. "What do you do with that rope you carry around on your saddle?" asked the cowboy. "Why, when a tenderfoot comes this way I use it in trying to get a line on him," replied the cowboy.

Thirteenth-Century Fire Prevention. One wonders what fate would have overtaken the captured starter of fires in thirteenth-century London. For after the blaze of 1212, which lasted ten days, swallowed up part of London bridge, and was the cause of over 1,001 deaths, every precaution was taken against fires. For instance, all builders of houses were ordered to roof them with tiles, shingle boards, or lead, and to stop an outbreak any house could be pulled down. Thus, Mr. H. B. Wheatley on the safeguards: "For the speedy removal of burning houses each ward was to provide a strong iron hook with a wooden handle, two chains, and two strong cords, which were to be left with the bed of the ward, who was also provided with a good horn loudly sounding." And, moreover, every householder was ordered to keep a barrel of water before his door.—London Chronicle.

Don't Be a Grouch. The old Connecticut farmer had the right idea. A group of his cronies were talking at the usual corner store about the best way to die. A great many theories were advanced. Finally the others turned to Zak and demanded his opinion. "Wall," said he, "I ain't redy ter die jist yit, out if I had to pass in, the checks I'd jist like 'a have somethin' tlekle me to death an' die a laughin'." It doesn't cost any more to be pleased than to be grouchy. But it means a lot more pleasure to all concerned.

coats are cut with a flaring skirt set onto a shorter bodice in the style of the Russian coat. Others, of heavier fabrics, are cut double-breasted, in long-waisted designs having an inverted plait at each side to give a slight flare to the skirt part. In these the sleeves are large and straight with turnback cuffs. Turnover collars that may be brought up snugly and tightly about the neck make this a warmer garment than open-throated models. This is best for the automobile. One of the most modish of coats belongs in the redingote class. It is constructed with an easy-fitting long-sleeved jacket to which a plaited skirt is set on. This terminates at each side three inches, or a little more, from the front of the jacket, to which it is attached under a belt of folded satin. There is a rolling collar of velvet and narrow cuffs of it, both finished with a silk braid. The jacket is fastened with large barrel-shaped buttons at the front. When a skirt to match any of these utility coats is needed it is cut in the straight-line style and the requisite fullness given with inverted plaits.

A BIG BALL TEAM WILL WINTER HERE

PROPER ACCOMMODATIONS MUST BE PROVIDED AT ONCE

Many business men have become interested in the idea of having a big league team winter here...

The length of time that the club would be in your city for training purposes would be about three weeks...

probably about March 7th and leaving there about March 26th or 27th.

There are many advertising advantages that can be derived from a visit of one of the leading clubs of the country to your city.

Your climatic conditions will naturally be talked of and advertised if the club leaves there in good shape.

Your training facilities and your city will be spoken of by our players probably where such talk might be of great benefit to you.

Ball players meet a great many people and visit a great many cities during a season and they do not fail to talk.

The fact that one of the leading clubs of the country train in your city would place the name of your city in the columns of practically every newspaper in the United States.

It would give you such representation in the papers as could be obtained in no other manner and at no cost.

Who knows what you would gain in the advertising there.

As the representation would always appear on the sporting page of the newspapers, the only part of the paper that is read by practically everyone who has a home, it would give you such advertising as could not be purchased for any amount of money.

These are other points that would appeal to you. You might be interested in the fact that your city is mentioned in the program of our morning as a proposition that would position you to go to our city for our training trip in 1915.

There is no doubt but what the citizens of Sanford recognizing the value of the advertising will see that the team of some other town.

Has a Kick

Until last evening I was pleased to think I had located every line of garden hose stretched across the sidewalk between down and up town.

I had, but another resident, evidently trying of the irascible courtesies of city life, or maybe becoming engrossed in war lore, to mistake his own identity for that of a German, this layer had chastised himself with the incognitables.

Some of our citizens are thoughtlessly maintaining these stambling blocks for the rest of us to experiment with. I suggest that they either forget to put the hose-out, or remember to pull it in.

VITAL STATISTICS RECORDED HERE

THE WOMAN'S CLUB WILL LOOK AFTER THIS IMPORTANT MATTER

Sanford, Fla., Nov. 30, 1914. Editor of The Herald.

Dear Sir: It was with much pleasure and interest that I read Dr. Q. J. Miller's communication in the issue of The Herald, I am glad to find that we are as a people waking up to the importance of "birth registration."

For I find upon inquiry that we have not been as careful in observing the laws or rules governing this feature of an important measure.

It is my duty to state however that pursuant to a request from the Child Bureau of the Department of Labor at Washington, a committee on birth registration was appointed by the Welfare Department of the Women's Club, whose duty it will be to keep in touch with the local physicians and midwives and cooperate with them in securing the registration of all children born in Sanford or its nearby vicinity.

Mr. R. M. Mason is this committee, has the unique distinction of being a government employee without pay. For her report will be made direct to the Child Bureau at Washington.

As a committee member, Mrs. Mason is sure that physicians will be greatly appreciated. I take this opportunity of commending Dr. Miller for his work in this matter.

REGIONAL BANKS OPEN FOR BUSINESS

TODAY MARKS AN EPOCH IN AMERICAN BANKING CIRCLES

The opening of the twelve regional banks provided for in the Glass-Owen currency bill following months of careful preparation and organization, is an epoch-making event in American history.

The far-reaching benefits of the new currency law are recognized by bankers and business men in every section, and regardless of political affiliation, they look forward to this new law as a boon to the business interests of the country.

On November 16, 1914, the twelve regional banks provided for in the new currency law were opened for business under governmental control and this should mark the inauguration of the greatest era of prosperity in our country.

The law under which these banks were organized is made up of all the best features of the banking systems of the entire world and when it is put into effect it will banish forever that specter of financial panics, the unwarranted panics.

Never again will Wall Street or any other combination of capitalists be able to manipulate American financial conditions and to create small panics and depressions.

The opening of the new banks will mean that the country will be able to deal with its financial affairs in a sane and logical manner, and that the specter of financial panics will be banished forever.

President Fahey of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, who will call at the White House during the week, is expected to urge carrying out at once a provision for the examination of conditions abroad with which American exports will have to compete.

President Wilson has been busy for more than a month on the Trade Commission appointments. He is understood to have decided in Joseph Davis, Commissioner of Corporations, whose bureau will be merged into the new commission, and Mr. Fahey is said to be a probable choice for one of the places.

Chairman Sparkman of the House Rivers and Harbors Committee will discuss with the President the framing of the next Rivers and Harbors bill. The President is understood to be desirous that only emergency projects be provided for.

Conferences will be held during the week with Henry Vanddyke, Minister to Holland, and Henry Wang, former Ambassador to France. It has been reported that Mr. Vanddyke is bringing a message from the Queen of Holland proposing a plan for peace negotiations to be held at a neutral location.
