Longwood police get bugging device

LONGWOOD— The Police Department will no longer have to "beg or borrow" bugging devices from other law enforcement agencies for use in undercover investigations. City Administrator Gene DeMarie got the go ahead from the city commission to purchase a Unitel 121B Recording System for $3,672.

The commission turned down a May 2 request by Purchasing Director Rhonda Ledford for purchase of the intelligence device, which is in this year's police budget.

It, Jack Bisland said the police department had used such a device eight times since January and another time was unable to borrow one.

Shooting victim names suspect

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS— A man wounded by a gunshot reportedly named his assailant before losing consciousness Wednesday afternoon. He is in critical condition in intensive care at Florida Hospital-Orlando today.

Chester Ray Sinkfield, 23, of 704 Citrus St., Altamonte Springs, was found on Magnolia Avenue in rural Altamonte Springs about 1:05 p.m. Wednesday by sheriff's deputies. He was wounded in the chest.

600-lb. inmate on forced diet

SANFORD— A Seminole County jail inmate who weighs about 600 pounds may have no trouble losing weight while he is held without bond on cocaine charges.

Assistant Jail Administrator Robert Fischer said James David Roath, 31, of Altamonte Springs, who was arrested early Wednesday, will eat the same food, in the same quantities as other inmates. He will have to have special jail garb made, since Roath, who stands 6 feet, 2 inches tall, measures 6 feet, 6 inches around the waist.

He is mobile, but is housed in a one-man cell, to keep other inmates from harassing him, Fischer said. Roath had a third count of trafficking in cocaine added to his initial two counts after City County Investigative Bureau agents searched his house early Wednesday and allegedly found more than 400 grams of that drug and more than 20 grams of marijuana. He was first arrested in Winter Springs along with five other suspects.

Feds review Christensen files

By J. Mark Barfield
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD— Information on Seminole County Commissioner Barbara Christensen gathered during a state grand jury investigation is under review by federal prosecutors in U.S. Attorney Robert Merkle's office to determine whether any federal misconduct laws were violated.

Terry Zitek, chief of the criminal division in Merkle's Tampa office, confirmed they received the information, but declined to comment further since the matter is under review.

Christensen said she doesn't think the information involves her directly. "My life is an open book," Christensen said. "I have nothing to hide."

Christensen said the information might be about statements she gave state investigators that her 1984 campaign treasurer, Harry Hagle, had misused her campaign funds. She said she also gave the information to the Florida Department of Law Enforcement.

State Special Prosecutor Stephen Kunz said the information came to light as a result of the state's initial investigation of the county's early-morning decision on Nov. 6, 1985 to purchase the 2,876-acre Yankee Lake property from Heathrow developer Jeno Paulucci.

A Seminole County grand jury in February found the county violated no laws in the purchase, but during its investigation two other matters were uncovered unrelated to the purchase, state prosecutors said.

On April 11, 1988, another Seminole County grand jury issued a "no true bill" on its investigation of Christensen meaning they found no evidence she violated any state laws.

"The matter has been referred to them (federal prosecutors) for determination of any violations of federal statutes," Kunz said. "There was no violation of state laws, but that doesn't preclude any federal laws being violated."

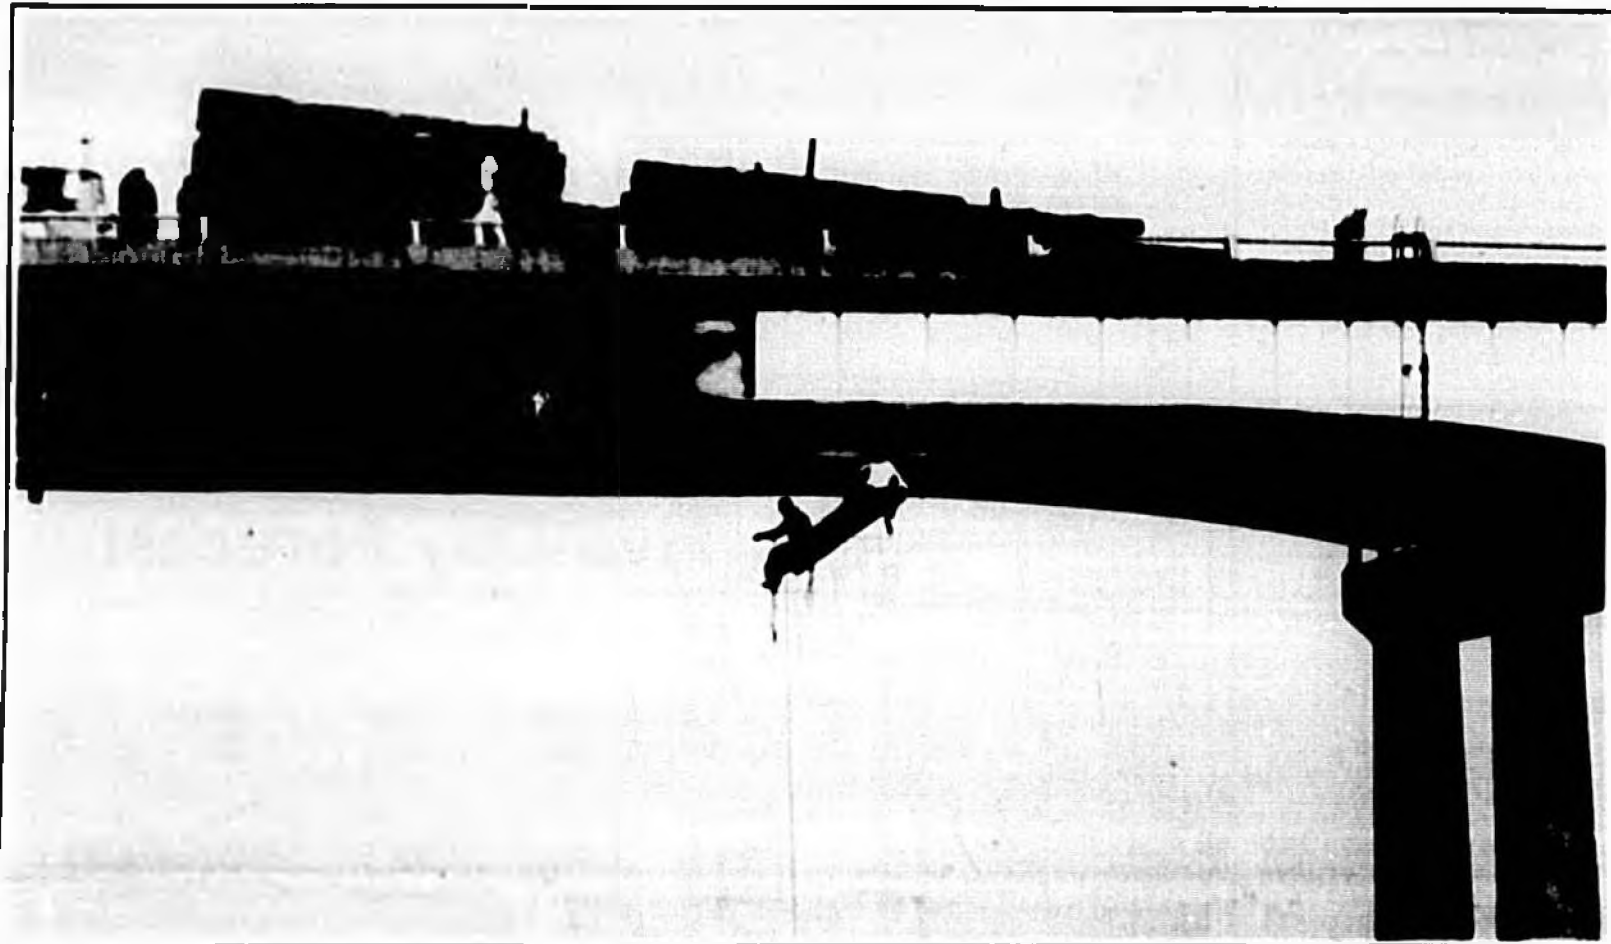

Kunz said investigations of possible public official misconduct are often given to federal prosecutors for review.

Kunz would not comment on the information about Christensen, saying the case is still active.

Although grand jury investigations are secret unless they file a report, Christensen speculated in April the investigation involved a $270,000 broker's fee she received in 1983 for brokering a $12 million, 1,100-acre land sale for the county.

Christensen also speculated the grand jury investigated allegations illegal influence was used to favor friends and campaign contributors and to collect campaign contributions.

Interstate-4 bridge work

Department of Transportation crews working on the I-4 bridge over the St. Johns River replaced some support steel and are now painting the structure. The steel was cleaned and painted with a primer and a final coat of silver paint is now being applied. The crews have been working from early evening until early morning in an attempt to reduce traffic problems. The project is expected to be completed by July 30.

Animal control gets staff Road employees will be transferred

SANFORD— Seminole County Administrator Ken Hooper said Wednesday two road employees will be temporarily transferred to the Animal Control Department to assist overworked employees.

"Every effort is being done to assist Bob," Hooper said of Bob McIntosh, animal control director. "Basically, whatever he needs, we'll give him."

Wednesday morning, an open truck filled with dead animals was parked at the side of the Animal Control shelter at the county's Five Points complex.

McIntosh said the shelter was full Tuesday morning and more animals were brought in, including more than 30 from the Humane Society of Seminole County.

To make room for the tremendous influx of animals, McIntosh said 115 animals were euthanized Tuesday and were placed on the truck and about 235 that were in the shelter's freezer.

McIntosh has been working with a staff rocked by the resignations of five employees during the last two months. The full staff has 15 employees and three of the five vacancies, including the two department supervisors, have not been filled, McIntosh said.

McIntosh said the two road crew workers, expected to start work later this week, would take the pressure off his staff, allowing them to make more trips to the dump during the day to prevent bodies from being stacked in the truck again.

Gator hunt includes 3 areas in Seminole

By Wayne Mize
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD— Three of the 28 regions in Florida to be opened in September to the first legal alligator hunt in the state in 18 years are in Seminole County.

The reptiles were declared an endangered species in 1970. The state's alligator population has swelled to an estimated one million plus since then.

A portion of Lake Harney will be opened for hunting and an area on the St. Johns River located south of County Road 415 and north of State Highway 46.

A portion of the St. Johns River will be opened south of State Highway 46 and north of State Highway 50 in Seminole and Orange counties.

However, it will be no easy task to get an alligator hunting permit. In fact, the odds might be better for a payoff in the state lottery Lotto game.

According to the state Game and Freshwater Fish Commission (GFFC) in Gainesville, only 250 permits will be issued. As of early this week, 4,000 out of the 15,000 applications available have been requested by hunters.

Applications will be accepted by the GFFC headquarters in Gainesville from July 1-15, for the Sept. 1-30 hunt.

The applications include a choice of five of the 28 regions being opened for the hunt.

The 250 hunters will be chosen at random by a computer and the choice of region will be determined on a first-come, first-serve basis, according to Lt. Vinard Hitt of the Central Florida Region office of the GFFC.

Once selected, Florida residents will pay $250 for a license and out-of-state residents will pay $1,000. The hunters must then attend a six-hour training class to study regulations, safety procedures and hunting techniques, according to Hitt.

Hunting hours during the hunt will be from sunset to 1 a.m. when the gators are most active, said Hitt.

Snatch hooks, gigs, harpoons, snares and "bang sticks" will be the tools of the trade for the hunt.

A list of manually operated devices with attached restraining lines have been approved for the hunt by the GFFC. All firearms are prohibited.

Once the gator is secured a bang stick will be used to kill the alligator, according to Hitt. A bang stick, which is normally used by professional hunters on nuisance gators, has a 12-gauge shotgun cartridge on the end that explodes only on impact with the animal.

Each hunter will be limited to 15 gators, each of which must be more than four feet long.

Applications can be obtained by calling the GFFC, toll free, at 1-800-342-4920.

School board approves SHS construction plans

By Carol Rumsey
UCF Intern

SANFORD— Revised construction plans for Seminole High School received school board approval last night. Bids will be advertised for in the next step of what has been a long and laborious process for board members, school faculty and parents.

This is the second time the board has given its approval to reconstruction plans. PDR Architects designed an original plan that seemed to please all concerned. There was just one hitch, the lowest bid which met specifications came in nearly $3 million higher than available funds would allow.

The new plan calls for construction of 13 additional classrooms, six resource rooms, a media center, administration/guidance building and 255 parking spaces. Set for renovation are the cafeteria, dining and kitchen areas, gym and locker rooms, and the auditorium.

At a work session before the board meeting, James M. Dorsey, president of PDR Architects, told board members that either renovation of the auditorium or construction of a six-classroom facility would have to be bid as an alternate in order to achieve a $9.3 million bid. This means if the project receives a lower bid than anticipated, the remaining funds would be used for construction or renovation of the alternate.

Richard Wells, associate superintendent for facilities and transportation, suggested and the board approved removal of the classroom building from the base bid.

"The idea was to try to put as much of the renovation in the base bid as possible, which is what the architects have recommended we do," Wells said. He explained that it seems to be easier for a contractor to bid a price on a single project than the smaller details involved in a renovation plan.

The board-approved plan now calls for four alternates: renovation of the music suite, addition of a multi-purpose room to the existing gym, a six-classroom facility, and paving and landscaping of a central courtyard.

According to Dorsey, this brings the bid package to $8,728,000. The entire Seminole High reconstruction project includes three bid

Pentagon probe spotlight now focused on Weinberger

WASHINGTON (UPI) — At least one congressional leader is questioning "the diligence and the interest" of Caspar Weinberger as defense secretary with regard to the abuses now emerging in the broad probe of Pentagon corruption.

At the same time, a report today recounts an angry letter from Weinberger to Attorney General Edwin Meese in which he complained last year about criticism of the defense contracting system by Assistant Attorney General William Weld — one of the very men supervising the federal investigation now coming to light.

"I think we have a substantial scandal on our hands here," said Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., after two groups of House and Senate members were briefed privately on Capitol Hill Wednesday by Henry Hudson, the U.S. attorney in Alexandria, Va., who is leading the investigation.

"(Hudson) indicated that somewhere between 75 and 100 contracts were involved and he indicated that the amount of the contracts was probably in the tens of billions (of dollars)," said

Dingell, head of the House Energy and Commerce Committee as well as a subcommittee that has probed defense fraud for years.

Announcing that his subcommittee will open its own investigation into the integrity of corporate management, Dingell noted pointedly that he had approached Weinberger two years ago to tell him classified data "had shown up in the hands of defense contractors without proper authorization."

"No response was made to that by Mr. Weinberger," Dingell said. "It appears that the diligence and the interests of Mr. Weinberger ... did not equal the diligence of Mr. Hudson."

Asked if he was suggesting the former Pentagon chief had been ready to ignore such abuses, Dingell replied only: "I'm saying Mr. Weinberger had the notice from our committee ... and it appears he did nothing most diligently."

Weinberger, reached at home Wednesday, said "I don't really know have any idea what (Dingell's) talking about. We exercised very great diligence at all times. In fact, we were criticized by the (presidential) Packard Commission for over-auditing everybody, for being too diligent in this general area."

Weinberger maintained he had "no memory" of Dingell's committee informing him that classified documents had shown up in the hands of defense contractors. He said, "We pursued everything (sent) through our inspector general."

Yet The Washington Post reported today it had obtained a copy of a letter from Weinberger to Meese, dated Aug. 11, in which the defense secretary protested strongly against testimony offered to Congress by Weld, who led the Justice Department's criminal division until resigning three months ago.

In the "Dear Ed" letter, the newspaper said, Weinberger termed Weld's public statement "that military officials overlook infractions of defense contractors ... most objectionable" and a "diservice to the administration."

Christian Center names director

By Jane Cassalberry
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD— The Sanford Christian Sharing Center Board has voted to hire Interim Director Irene Brown as director for one year at a salary of $200 a month beginning July 1. Brown, a retired banker, has served as volunteer interim director since April 25.

Prior to suspending operations temporarily on Jan. 1, one of the services of the Sanford Christian Sharing Center was to supply layettes, diapers and formula for newborn infants born to indigent mothers at Central Florida Regional Hospital. For the first time since the Sharing Center reopened in its new location at Third Street and Oak Avenue, the program will be resumed on July 1, according to Brown.

Referrals will be made after the hospital social worker has interviewed the prospect. Women's groups from Good Shepherd Lutheran and Holy Cross Episcopal churches, Sanford, and Grace United Methodist Church, Lake Mary, have agreed to sew layettes for the infants and the center will provide formula as needed and a small supply of diapers. Brown said.

In the first two months since the center reopened, 289 clients have been served with food and/or clothing. Eleven churches provided a total of 55 volunteers.

A covered dish luncheon for Sharing Center volunteers will be held Friday at 12:30 p.m. at Good Shepherd Lutheran Church at 2017 Orlando Drive.

The Sharing Center Board is going ahead with plans to construct its own building on a lot it owns on E. 25th Street with financial help from an anonymous donor. According to board president the Rev. Daniel Coy, Blair Kitter has agreed to provide a survey of the site at no cost.

A registered engineer will be needed to prepare a site plan, an architect to prepare drawings of the proposed building, someone to handle the land clearing and, a contractor is needed for the actual construction. Coy is hoping to get offers for help in these areas as well.

Expansion draft today for Charlotte, Miami

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two days after the Los Angeles Lakers confirmed their dominance with a second straight NBA title, the league's two newest teams will begin to build.

The Charlotte Hornets and Miami Heat, who both start playing this coming season, take part Thursday in the NBA expansion draft. Commissioner David Stern will announce Charlotte's and Miami's selections at 1 p.m. EDT in The Loews Summit hotel in Manhattan. The draft will be done in secret.

Charlotte won a June 13 coin flip with Miami and opted to pick eighth overall — after the seven lottery teams — in the college draft. The Heat earned the first choice in the expansion draft and ninth pick in the college draft.

Each existing NBA team can protect eight players. Seven-year veteran free agents, like All-Stars Tom Chambers and Moses Malone, also won't be eligible for selection.

MISL's Strikers terminate franchise

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI) — The Joe Robbie family, unable to foot continuing million-dollar losses of find someone who could.

Wednesday folded the Minnesota Strikers of the Major Indoor Soccer League. The Robbie's, who also own the Miami Dolphins of the National Football League, said they have elected to terminate their MISL franchise rather than post a $400,000 letter of credit at the league's annual general meetings, which began Wednesday in San Diego.

The Strikers averaged 6,876 fans a game during the past regular season and 6,196 during the playoffs. But the club reportedly lost over $5 million over four years.

Soviets upset Italy, advance to finals

STUTTGART, West Germany (UPI) — The Soviet Union scored twice during a two minute span in the second half Wednesday to upset Italy 2-0 and advance to the finals of the European Championships against Holland.

The goals by Gernath Prosvetenko and Oleg Protasov came midway through the second half of the semifinal played in driving rain at Neckarstadion before a crowd of 68,000.

Litovchenko reacted quickly after he had a shot blocked to stab home the opening goal after 61 minutes. Oleg Protasov swept in Aleksandr Zavarov's cross two minutes later.

Wilander chases slam

Cash, Lendl struggle in second round matches

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI) — Mats Wilander is halfway to a Grand Slam. Wimbledon could be his toughest challenge of achieving the tennis milestone if past results are an indicator.

Wilander, the No. 2 seed, has never made it past the quarterfinals at the All England Championships. Today he'll be hoping for an easier time against Canadian Glenn Michibata than his biggest rivals had in their second round matches Tuesday.

Australia's defending champion Pat Cash, a grass court specialist, struggled against Argentinian Javier Frana Tuesday before winning 6-2, 4-6, 3-6, 6-1, 6-4.

Cash, who demolished Frana in straight sets at the Queen's Club tournament two weeks ago, said he felt all right on court, but just couldn't grab the points.

American Jimmy Connors, who survived a match on the graveyard of court No. 2, was to get a crack at center court, when he took on Australian Jason Stoltenberg in the second round of the $4.3 million tournament.

Compatriot John McEnroe, playing at Wimbledon for the first time since 1985, takes on another Australian, Wally Masur. McEnroe holds a 3-0 record against Masur, two of those victories on grass.

Tuesday proved a day for near misses for several top seeds.

Ivan Lendl, the No. 1, dropped the first set against Australian Darren Cahill before rallying to win 5-7, 6-2, 6-4, 6-4.

American 16-year-old Michael Chang played a blistering first set to unsettle seventh-seeded Henri Leconte, but the Frenchman pulled through 2-6, 7-6 (7-3), 6-2, 6-2.

The New Jersey-born, California-based youngster used precise groundstrokes to keep Leconte at bay in the first set, but as the match progressed he appeared to tire and his shots became wayward.

Leconte had a hard time finishing him off. The Frenchman missed five break points against Chang in the seventh game of the fourth set as the American held serve. But Leconte held his own serve in the next game, and broke Chang in the ninth for the match.

"He's good — for 16 years old," Leconte said. "He has a good mentality. He just goes there and says 'I've nothing to lose.'"

"He has good potential for playing well. He has to improve his serve, for sure. He has to work, but at this stage he's a good player."

Leconte said it wasn't his own game at fault in the opening sets.

"The first two sets he played

just unbelievably. I haven't seen anyone return my serve for two sets like that," said Leconte. "All over the place, winners, backhands, forehands."

Clash of the champs

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI) — Tuesday morning, barring an unlikely draw, either Mike Tyson or Michael Spinks will remember what it feels like to be a loser.

Neither has experienced the sensation as a pro, which is the biggest reason they each will earn a record purse Monday night in their heavyweight championship bout.

One of the reasons neither has lost a professional bout is that they both have learned well from their last losses as amateurs.

Spinks said he learned never to take an opponent lightly. Tyson said he learned losing is painful, even if he didn't get hurt during the fight.

Spinks' last defeat came against Ruffat Ruskiev of the Soviet Union in 1976. He avenged the loss later that year in the Olympics to win a gold medal.

"My last loss was due to my staying up late," Spinks said. "I saw my brother Leon beat the guy and I took him lightly. I lost it barely, but rested and came back and won on first-round knockout."

"Since then, I always took my opponents seriously, no matter what anybody said about them."

Tyson's last two losses came to Henry Tillman in 1984, in the U.S. Olympic Trials and Box, Oils, and cost Tyson a spot on the Olympic team.

"The last fight I lost was in the amateurs," Tyson said. "I won that fight and got screwed. It's a whole different world now."

Tyson can attribute his loss to amateur rules. Head gear, scoring that awards a jab as much as a knockout punch, and three-round bouts favor boxers over sluggers like Tyson. But Tyson's losses were no easier to take when he was an amateur. And, he says, he learned from them.

"Face it, I'm a sore loser," Tyson said. "I hate to lose, and I fight so hard to win. That's more important than money and wealth. Maybe it's my ego."

"The threat of losing psyches me up. Anyone who threatens me with losing is in trouble."

Tyson never got a chance to avenge those defeats against Tillman. Both turned pro after the Olympics, but Tillman turned out to be a journeyman who has his hands full with club fighters, let alone champions.

Tyson, 21, has won all 34 pro bouts, 30 by knockout. Those last seven were title fights, netting Tyson the World Boxing Council, World Boxing Association and International Boxing Federation championships.

Spinks, 31, is 31-0 with 21 knockouts and has held the undisputed light heavyweight and IBF heavyweight crowns.

At a news conference Wednesday, Spinks was presented Ring magazine's title belt. Ring recognizes Spinks as champion because he defeated Larry Holmes and has yet to lose.

Donald Trump, who paid $11 million for his Trump Plaza Hotel and Casino to host the Tyson-Spinks fight, called it a "monster event." Hotel officials say the fight is 1,400 seats short of a sellout. The record live gate will be $12.8 million if all 21,500 seats at the Convention Center are sold.

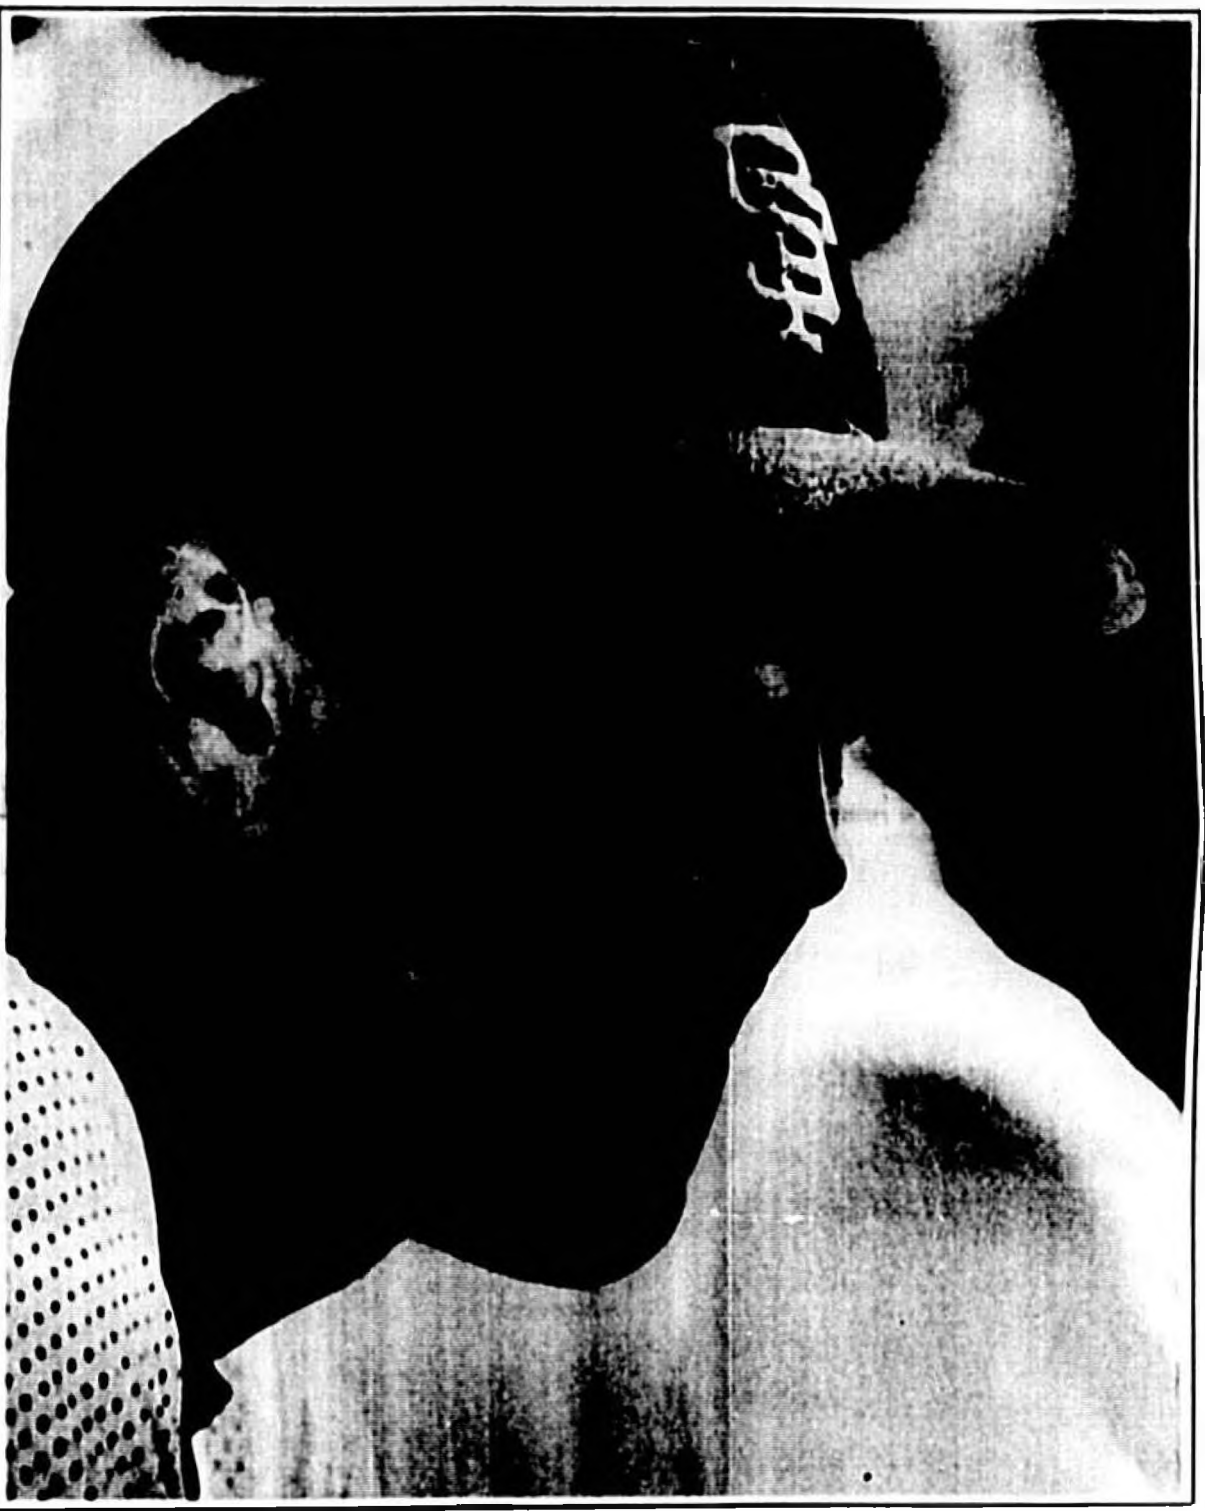

Shelly Finkel, the closed circuit coordinator, also predicted a record gross despite conflicting reports about closed circuit sales around the country. Finkel said pay TV systems are selling much better than closed circuits.

He estimated about 12 percent of the five million homes in the United States with pay TV capabilities will order the fight.

He also predicted the bout will net about $70 million, and close to $40 million more when money from delayed TV and foreign TV rights are added.

Spinks will earn $13.5 million and Tyson will receive everything over $18 million net. If the fight generates $40 million as Finkel predicts, Tyson will receive $22 million.

The fighters' purses will break the record set in the Ray Leonard-Marvin Hagler bout April 6, 1987 when Hagler received $15 million and Leonard $10.8 million.

Big night

Will Clark of the San Francisco Giants had a night to remember Wednesday as he stroked a home run and two doubles and drove in seven runs, including the game-winning runs in the bottom of the ninth, in San Fran's 8-7 victory over the San Diego Padres. For a look at Wednesday's baseball results, see Page 9A.

TOP TEAM BASEBALL

MOUNT DORA — At first, it looked as if the Top Team Tournament game between the Oviedo and Altamonte Seniors Wednesday night would never get started. Once it began, though, it seemed like it would never end.

Actually, it still has not ended.

The game was originally scheduled for a 7 p.m. start at Eustis but a rain delay prevented it from starting on time and ended up causing a location change. The game finally started at 9:30 and was called at 11 (curfew), with only three innings completed.

The final four innings of the game will be played tonight at 6 at the Altamonte Springs Eastmonte Complex. Altamonte was allowed to play at home after winning a coin toss.

Bubba Fore came up with three runs batted in and registered seven strikeouts to lead ping down a bunt and reached safely on an error. T.J. Hamilton then walked to place runners on first and second. After an out Kevin Morro ripped a ground rule double to left field to score Guifreda. Jeff Ostle then walked and after the second out of the inning Jay Kane walked to score Hamilton and knot the score at 2-2.

Oviedo then erupted for six runs in the top of the second inning to gain control of the game. Brian Hart led off with a walk, after an out, Mayhood walked to place runners on first and second. After the second out Fore drilled a pitch to right field for a triple. Kohn then walked stole second and scored off a double by Ambrosio. Mike Williams followed with a double to bring home Ambrosio. Williams scored the final run of the inning when Altamonte pitcher T.J. Hamilton turned around and sent a perfect shot

Olympics: Sponsorship bonanza

By WILLIAM D. MURRAY UPI Sports Writer

The mineral value of a single Olympic gold medal rolling out of the South Korean Mint will be around $400 on the world market. However, in the mahogany-lined offices of corporate America the price is much higher.

wanted to do something to distinguish ourselves from Pitney Bowes. Friden Alcatel chose just one facet of a four-tier system available to a corporation that wants to become financially involved with the Olympics.

American corporations, sparked by a nationalistic spirit and advertising realities, have invested over $250 million into the Olympic movement. There are official U.S. Olympic credit cards, postage meters, hamburgers, airlines, soft drinks and automobiles.

On the first tier are team sponsorships with the monies collected going directly to the individual sport's governing body. Among this summer's hottest and most expensive properties have been the team sponsorships for volleyball, gymnastics, basketball, swimming and track and field — the high-profile Olympic sports.

There definitely is more interest than ever before in Olympic sponsorships, said Lesa Ukman, head of Chicago-based International Events Group, which tracks the sponsorship industry. The goal of the companies is the same whether it's a big league corporation like Hilton Hotels or Friden Alcatel, a Hayward, Calif.-based postage meter manufacturer.

"We thought this would be one of the best opportunities for us to get a higher visibility in the marketplace," said Michel Rapoport, CEO at Friden Alcatel. "Olympic sponsors become well known."

Friden Alcatel is among the smallest of the 52 USOC sponsors, who each paid $1 million and more in cash and services for the right to use the Olympic rings symbol. The company's annual sales of $100 million puts it a distant second to Pitney Bowes, which commands nearly 90 percent of the postage machine market in the United States.

Not that the USOC has totally turned its back on the national teams this year. In fact, Moran says, a sport like fencing received $1.3 million in cash from the USOC and that does not include uniforms and the use of the Olympic training facility.

70,000 greet champion Lakers

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Some 70,000 jubilant fans turned downtown streets and City Hall into a sea of purple and gold Wednesday in celebration of the Los Angeles Lakers' second consecutive NBA championship.

BASKETBALL

"It's party time once again!" Magic Johnson said. "It's party time with the Lakers!" Veteran center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar told the cheering fans "We couldn't have done this without you. Give yourselves a hand and enjoy the party."

At least four people suffered injuries in connection with the parade and the City Hall rally. Fire officials estimated 70,000 people along the parade route. About 30,000 crammed the City Hall square for a 30-minute ceremony, during which Mayor Tom Bradley stated to overwhelming applause "L.A. loves the Lakers. You are the greatest."

Spectators climbed trees and light poles and sat on building ledges hoping to glimpse the players. One fan held a sign that read, "Champagne Tastes Better Than Lamb Beer."

Atlanta Classic minus 'big names'

MARIETTA, Ga. (UPI) — Chip Beck says the absence of most of the "big names" won't affect overall play in this week's Atlanta Golf Classic. Coming on the heels of the U.S. Open, the $700,000 Classic attracted only two of the top nine money winners on the PGA Tour — No. 3 Beck and No. 4 Lanny Wadkins — and virtually none of the Tour's better-known foreign players.

GOLF

The Atlanta Classic begins its four-day run Thursday over the hilly, 7,007-yard Atlanta Country Club course. The weather is expected to remain hot and dry with only a slight chance of afternoon thunderstorms later in the week.

KING BEERS REPEAT

WILMINGTON, Del. (UPI) — In her first few years on the LPGA Tour, Betsy King wanted nothing more than to win a golf tournament in front of family and friends.

WILMINGTON

Seven years went by, however, and King could never manage a victory in either the Lady Keystone Open or the McDonald's Championship, the two Tour

For an average cost of $13.7 million each, the nine companies (Coca-Cola, Visa International, 3M, Federal Express, Eastman Kodak Co., Time Inc., N.V. Philips of the Netherlands and Brother Industries) have the "global" rights to market their wares as official products of the Seoul Olympics.

"I think the program reached its objectives," said Robert Prazmark, the vice president of Olympic marketing for ISI Marketing Inc., the international firm handling TOP. "We had to overcome a number of major obstacles and really define what is meant by global marketing."

"We think the program was just what we were looking for," he said. "It's the reason we are involved for the first time."

"A percentage of the money we collect goes to each national Olympic committee," Prazmark said. "It's impact on the USOC may not be that dramatic, but it definitely has a positive effect on a nation like Botswana."

"We are trying to develop a joint sponsorship program for 1992 where a company would sponsor both the USOC and a team," Moran said. "It's been tough on some sports to raise money."

Not that the USOC has totally turned its back on the national teams this year. In fact, Moran says, a sport like fencing received $1.3 million in cash from the USOC and that does not include uniforms and the use of the Olympic training facility.

Through their magical play, the Lakers proved they were worthy of repeating as world champions," the governor said in a statement. "I'm certain the rest of the NBA is green with envy. They certainly are the Kareem of the crop."

"We have had no reports of arrests or problems," police Sgt. Jim Leinen said. However, about 15 minutes before the players addressed the crowd, a group of fans to the south of the podium were pushed forward, knocking over water-filled crowd control barrels.

Susan Casas, 31, of Montebello, Calif., said she fell and several people landed on her. "They hurt both my legs," said Casas, who was crying. "I couldn't breathe. They knocked over the barrels and people landed on top of me. They just didn't want to back up."

Fire Department spokesman Jim Wells said a man taking pictures from a tree broke his leg when he fell. A woman with sutures had to be hospitalized when her wound split from the crowd shoving her against the stage. Another man was hospitalized for observation after complaining the day's excitement brought chest pains, Wells said.

With a total purse of $500,000 and a first-place prize of $75,000, the McDonald's is one of the most lucrative stops on the Tour.

And while King has not yet won the Lady Keystone, which is played in Hershey, Pa., she finished seventh in the event last week, four shots behind the victorious Shirley Furlong.

The 144-player field will be cut to the low 70, plus ties, at the end of the second round.

Bridesmaids want versatile dresses

By Helen Burgraf
Newspaper Enterprise Association

The second-biggest problem with being "always a bridesmaid and never a bride" is buying one of those often pricey bridesmaids' dresses.

"It always costs more than you think it will," says Karla Hausman, a 30-year-old New York City executive who recently was a bridesmaid for the sixth—and she swears last—time. "Of the six dresses, all were custom-made," she says. "One was a pink silk copy of the Princess of Wales' wedding dress and cost about $350, not including the accessories or shoes. I've never worn any of them again."

Most bridesmaids are too polite to tell the bride they don't like the style of the dress she's chosen for them—nor should they. However, if price is a real concern, prospective bridesmaids should let the bride know; she in turn should be understanding if a friend can't be in the bridal party for financial reasons. But behind these etiquette guidelines, there's always been plenty of whispering and even teeth-clenching.

In recent years, however, manufacturers have offered bridesmaids' dresses that are stylish enough to be worn again as party dresses. They are taking their cues from current fashions—most recently, with pouts, bubble skirts and floral print.

Some are even breaking a taboo and offering bridesmaids' dresses in black, the most popular choice for evening dresses, but traditionally shunned for weddings because of its connotation of mourning. "For an evening hotel wedding, black is great—why not?" says Vivian Dessy Diamond, vice president and designer at Dessy Creations, which has manufactured bridesmaids' dresses for almost 50 years.

One reason for this change is that bridesmaids, like brides, are older and less willing to tolerate Bo Peep styles. While no separate figures exist for bridesmaids, the industry reports that the average bride today is 23 years old—up from only 18 in the 1950s.

"In general, bridesmaids' dresses the last couple of seasons have become much more sophisticated than in the past," observes Michele Piccione, vice president of design for Alfred Angelo, a Pennsylvania-based manufacturer of bridal and bridesmaids' apparel. For instance, she notes, the strapless, bustier look currently popular in evening fashion "has filtered into the bridesmaids' market." While black bridesmaids' dresses remain something of a rarity, black and white dresses have become relatively popular.

Seven years ago, Lynn Bonner Pitts and Terry Banta started a company to make bridesmaids' dresses specifically designed to be wearable again outside the wedding chapel. The secret of Currie-Bonner, their Atlanta-based company, top-quality fabrics, including many designed for upholstery, such as heavy chintzes and moires. "To keep prices down, on the assumption that the dress probably won't be worn again, many other companies use inexpensive fabrics," Pitts explains.

Despite stylistic breakthroughs, some brides find choosing bridesmaids' dresses to be almost as difficult as choosing a husband.

With today's return to traditional, formal weddings, a bride is apt to envision dresses that are festive and sometimes virginal.

The bride's mission is further complicated by the fact that the dress's style and color must be flattering to several young women, presumably including a range of figures and complexions. (Pregnant bridesmaids aren't unheard of; overweight bridesmaids are so common that last year Alfred Angelo extended its size range up to 34.)

Underwater music to make sea sing

FLORIDA KEYS — The coral reefs at Looe Key National Marine Sanctuary will become the backdrop for an undersea symphony aimed at snorkeling and scuba diving enthusiasts on Saturday, July 9, at the 4th Underwater Music Festival.

Three hours of commercial-free music, selected by divers to specifically enhance the underwater experience, will be broadcast by WWUS Radio.

Special underwater speakers will be placed on five boats located at strategic points on Looe Key reef, located five miles south of Big Pine Key.

"When music is broadcast underwater, it seems to come from all directions," said Bill Becker, news director for WWUS. "Because the sound is traveling five times faster than it does in the air, it has an unforgettable effect."

Musical styles to be played during the broadcast include island music, reggae, classical, new age, contemporary and even a few choruses of "Songs of the Humpback Whale."

Divers participating in the Underwater Music Festival may charter space aboard boats from a number of dive operators in the Lower Keys. Visitors and residents with their own boats can launch at several public ramps in the area.

Summer's jewelry is bold for working women

By Mary Martin Niepold
Newspaper Enterprise Association

As varied as her moods are the kinds of jewelry a woman can choose this summer. From the classiness of pearls and chains to the delicacy of flowers or Duchess of Windsor remakes, a woman can express her whims and update her wardrobe with jewelry.

Even career women are enjoying the new freedom of self-expression with jewelry in the office. Gone are the days of "dress for success," which dictated modest gold studs, or, at most, a short strand of pearls. Today's working women can embellish with bolder personal statements at the ears, throat or lapels.

Embellishment, in fact, is one of fashion's strongest trends, now and in the fall. Echoing the overall feeling of femininity in clothing are collections of jewelry that dazzle, with large clusters of colored faux gems, tiny grosgrain bows on plastic hearts, jangling geometric combinations of gold and silver, rhinestone-studded emblems and anchors, dramatic chokers — and the more ropes of pearls and chains, the better.

"Pearls have been strong for several years now," observes Pamela Fields, vice president of marketing for The Limited Stores, "but this year they're more in the news than ever." Coco Chanel loved to wear rope on top of lake pearls, and her influence is especially strong this season, when even a single strand of pearls on a crisp white T-shirt looks chic.

The Duchess of Windsor, who definitely influenced many of today's popular estate remakes, also liked pearls. At Sotheby's recent auction of her estate jewels, Calvin Klein paid over $1 million for her two-strand pearl necklace. Other, more accessible pearl choices this summer might be pearl bar pins, earrings or a another of pearl-faced watch, which The Limited offers for $75.

According to Barbara Raleigh, director of design at Tifari, there are three major jewelry trends this summer. "First, there is the very feminine look, with aspects of floral and nature themes. Second are the modern, geometric looks, and third are updated classics, chains and gold tailored pieces, which are not as trendy as the others."

Tifari, like other major jewelry houses and upcoming designers like Italy's Angela Caputi, stress the use of chokers and short necklaces this summer. Many fashions, particularly those for late day, feature open, sometimes dramatic necklines.

"With the emphasis up this season, we felt shorter necklaces and shorter collar styles were more important than longer lengths because of the open necklines," says Raleigh.

"All the designers were doing deco-ettes and portrait necklines," explains Elyse Kroll, executive director of Accessorie Circuit, a trade exposition of accessories designers. "So, we see chokers and long chains."

Dangling earrings is another category for the fashion-minded this summer. Randy Allen, designer for the R.A. Jazz line of custom-designed jewelry and belt buckles in silver, gold and gems, creates geometric shapes.

Frequently, they are interplays of triangles and circles in earrings that gently move with the body. His dangling silver triangle "Star Trek" earrings (one only) has almost become a trademark for actor Gregory Hines.

Whatever the mood of the jewelry, it's one of the least expensive ways to update any wardrobe. And with the ever-increasing costs of clothing, it's certainly one of the smartest.

Tell us about your vacation—good, bad, or ugly—in contest

Some vacations are really a "trip."

After seeing the sights and sounds of the Big Apple, you spent the night among derelicts at an airport, grounded due to a snowstorm.

Or there was the time your luggage caught up to you in Europe once you were set to leave again.

Or, amid your dreams of camping out in the great outdoors, it rained all week, making it impossible to cook your food.

On the other hand, you may have had a "Fantasy Island" type of vacation experience—moonlit and romantic, adventurous and thrilling, unique and mysterious.

We at the Sanford Herald see those memories worth preserving on paper. In celebration of summer, we invite our readers to tell us about "My

Believe-It-Or-Not Vacation."

In entering our contest, follow these instructions: Type or print clearly your name, street address, city and daytime phone number at the top of your entry. Then write your vacation experience, good or bad, without embellishing beyond the truth. There is no length limit, but the Herald reserves the right to edit as necessary. Mail to Vacation, c/o The People Editor, P.O. Box 1657, Sanford, FL 32771. Deadline for entries is noon on Monday, Aug. 1.

The top winners in the categories of best and worst vacations will have their experiences featured in the Aug. 14 edition of the Herald. Photographs should not be mailed, but winners will be asked permission to reprint any available photos from their vacation.

DEAR ABBY

Relative's last remains don't remain very long

DEAR ABBY: The letter in your column about the cremated remains showing up in a regular box reminded me of this story. Nobody (outside our family) will believe this, but it's true: Our father requested cremation, so we followed his wishes. The urn we ordered did not arrive in time for the funeral service, so we brought a lovely container from home. Actually, it was a Chinese rice bowl. (We had service for 12.) We had Father's remains placed in that bowl temporarily until the urn arrived.

After the service, we brought the bowl home and placed it in the cupboard. That very day, we had a new cleaning lady who spoke very little English.

You guessed it: When we went to get the bowl, she had already cleaned the kitchen and thrown the contents in the garbage can! My brother and I ran out to the alley behind our house, but it was too late. The garbage man had already collected our garbage, and hauled "Dad" away.

ASHES TO ASHES IN ATLANTA

DEAR ABBY: I am writing after reading the letter in your column about the woman's aunt's remains arriving by regular mail. It wasn't funny at the time, but I had to chuckle when I recalled the memories of my father's cremation a few years ago.

After his death, my two sisters and I decided to have Dad cremated and bury his remains in the Veterans Cemetery. The funeral director asked if we would like to carry the cremains or have them transported for an additional fee to the cemetery. We immediately said, "Have them transported!"

We then proceeded to make arrangements for the time and date of the funeral service, which was to take place the following week.

Imagine our surprise when we arrived the day of the service only to discover that the mail was running late, and our "father" had not arrived in that day's mail—and would probably arrive on the following day. We had no choice but to proceed with the funeral service anyway—without the cremains. My sisters and I just looked at each other and cracked up when one said, "Isn't this just like Dad? He was always late for everything!"

THREE SISTERS IN CALIFORNIA

DEAR ABBY: The letter about the cremated remains brought back a funny memory. I had only one sister, whom I loved very much. We shared a lot of laughs. She was living in Ohio when she died. I was in Missouri. She was to be buried in the family plot in Arkansas after cremation.

The remains were sent to my house by mistake. I was canning tomatoes when the mailman arrived. My 5-year old granddaughter ran out to the mailbox. She came in and said, "All there is a box. Can I open it?"

She took it out on the back porch and in a minute she had it opened. She made a face and said "Grandma, why would anybody send you a whole box of gray sand?"

I grabbed the box and said, "My God, that's Aunt Grace!" I dropped the box and most of the "sand" on the ground! We gathered up as much of the "ashes" as we could and put them in a more sturdy box and sent it to Arkansas.

I went out and bought a rose bush and planted it on the spot where the ashes had spilled. It really grew, and to this day, it is known as the Aunt Grace rose. Why must most people take life so seriously?

Mrs. Roy Davis, of 203 Colonial Way, weeds her garden, the recipient of the Garden of the Month honor for June by the Garden Club of Sanford. In the Davis' neatly landscaped yard, a profusion of caladiums, petunias and impatiens encircle the crape myrtle, and spider plants, begonias and daisies surround the home.

Physician can trace cause of twitching

DEAR DR. GOTT: My husband of almost 35 years is a competent person whose profession requires that he attend meetings a lot. When he sits, involuntary jerking occurs about 10 times a minute. People avoid sitting next to him. I've noticed that at night he jerks all the time and has heavy night sweats. He's also gone to sleep while driving. What tests would you recommend?

by the healer, her cataracts might progress to the point where surgery would be difficult or her vision permanently affected. To give you more information about current health fads, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report, "Fads! Vitamins and Minerals." Others who would like a copy should send $1

DEAR READER: Your husband appears to have developed ties, involuntary muscle twitching. These nuisances usually are harmless and may be related to stress and fatigue. Of course, some neurological disorders, such as multiple sclerosis, can begin as twitching. Therefore I think it's important for your husband to make an appointment with his doctor. After appropriate examination, the doctor probably will order laboratory tests to complete the investigation. Which tests the doctor orders, I'll leave to him or her — but clearly, medical attention is appropriate under the circumstances.

I don't know where the night sweats fit into the picture. Falling asleep during driving is most commonly the result of fatigue. Perhaps, while waiting for this appointment, your husband ought to recharge his batteries by declining some meetings or taking a short vacation.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My daughter has cataracts. An alleged "healer" has recommended she take a course of vitamin B2 — 250 pills of 100 milligrams each over 100 days — to dissolve the cataracts. This is phony, isn't it?

DEAR READER: You bet it is. Cataracts cannot be dissolved by vitamins. The real danger in this situation is not the quackery of vitamin therapy; rather, the use of an ineffective treatment may delay your daughter in seeking valid and appropriate care from an ophthalmologist. Cataracts, even in young patients, usually can be treated successfully by surgery. If your daughter were to wait the three months suggested

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby
Just as a chorobolite can hardly be expected to refuse a candy bar, or a nicotine addict an after-dinner cigarette, so a bridge player in a no-trump contract cannot refrain from attacking his longest suit. It was not surprising that South, after playing low from dummy and winning the jack of hearts, led his nine of diamonds, attacking dummy's long suit. With luck, diamonds might split 2-2 with the ace onside. When West played low, declarer took his best shot — he rose with the king. East won the ace and played back a heart. Now another diamond cleared the suit, but the defenders took three more heart tricks to beat the contract.

This is a deal in which declarer has an alternative before he commits himself to going after diamonds. To give himself an extra chance, he should win the first trick with dummy's heart ace and then should play A-K-Q of clubs. If that suit splits, declarer can play ace and a spade, giving up to the king, but assuring four clubs, three spades and the ace and king of hearts for nine tricks. If the clubs do not split, declarer should play a diamond to the king. The king of diamonds might even win the trick. If so, declarer can switch back to spades to guarantee the contract.

Lesson: Do not always attack your longest suit when playing no-trump. There may be a safer way to make your contract.

James Jacoby's books "Jacoby on Bridge" and "Jacoby on Card Games" (written with his father, the late Oswald Jacoby) are now available at bookstores. Both are published by Pharos.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...
By Bernice Bede Osol YOUR BIRTHDAY JUNE 24, 1988

Of your own volition, you will make some major changes in your social life in the year ahead. Soon you will be surrounded by the types of friends you've always desired.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If your faith in your basic beliefs and concepts may start coming under fire. Challenges won't work to your detriment, instead they'll spur you on to success.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Something propitious could develop for you today through a person with whom you have strong emotional ties. What can be done together can't be done by either alone.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Something which you and your mate have been wanting can be acquired if both make it a priority. Move forward together.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Do not leave for tomorrow matters that can be concluded today. You have the wherewithal and reserve to apply the finishing touches.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Conditions in general pertaining to several areas of your life are starting to look more hopeful. Envision positive results and work diligently to achieve them.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Start raising your sights a bit higher where financial and career goals are concerned. Your potential for success is expanding; capitalize on this trend.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your faith in your basic beliefs and concepts may start coming under fire. Challenges won't work to your detriment, instead they'll spur you on to success.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) As of today, greater harmony should begin to enter into situations where there has been recent discord. This is a time to start mending fences.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your greatest possibilities for personal gain in this period will be from enhancing arrangements you already have underway instead of trying something new.

(C) 1988, NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.

Restrain your speculations to "sure things" today and avoid calculated risks. It looks like you could be lucky if you operate along traditional guidelines.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) If your determination is strong enough today, you should be able to achieve any realistic objective to which you set your mind. Zero in and get along.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Shifting conditions and changes tend to favor you today, even those that will be authored by persons other than yourself. Flow with events.
