Prayer, Bible Reading Banned In Public Schools

Clark Delivers 8 To 1 Supreme Court Decision

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Supreme Court ruled today that use of the Lord's Prayer and Bible reading as devotional opening exercises in public schools is unconstitutional.

The court's opinion was delivered by Justice Tom C. Clark.

The vote was 8 to 1 with Justice Potter Stewart dissenting.

Clark declared: "The place of religion in our society is an exalted one, achieved through a long tra-

FEC Pledges Full Service Shortly
ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (UPI)—The strike-bound Florida East Coast Railway plans to restore full service as soon as possible, vice president W. L. Thornton said today.

Thornton said the carrier would be happy to see an end to the 147-day-old strike and have the strikers back... "but if they don't return, we'll hire others."

The strike began Jan. 23 in a dispute over a 10.28 cents per hour wage demand, a demand that has since increased.

dition of reliance on the home, the church and the inviolable bond of the individual heart and mind.

"We have come to recognize through bitter experience that it is not within the power of government to invade that citadel, whether its purpose or effect be to aid or oppose, to advance or retard."

"In the relationship between man and religion, the state is committed to a position of neutrality," the long-awaited opinion concluded.

Clark said this neutrality is "clearly and concisely stated in the words of the First Amendment."

The First Amendment says, "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof."

The same prohibition is applied to the states by the 14th Amendment under previous Supreme Court decisions.

The court cited both amendments last year in ruling out use in New York schools of a 23-word non-denominational state-written prayer.

That opinion also was 8 to 1 with Stewart dissenting.

The Lord's Prayer case was brought by a Baltimore mother, Mrs. Madalyn E. Murray, and her son, William J. Murray III, both atheists. They challenged a 1965 rule of the board of school commissioners requiring reading the Bible and recitation of the Lord's Prayer without comment every morning.

The Maryland Court of Appeals upheld the practice on April 6, 1962, by a 4 to 3 vote.

The Pennsylvania case was initiated by a Unitarian couple, Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Schepp, who have two children in Abington High School.

A 1913 state law requires that 10 verses of the Bible be read without comment at the opening of each school day—a practice dating back to colonial times.

According to custom, the Lord's Prayer follows, although the law does not mention it.

A special three-judge federal court in Philadelphia ruled the exercises unconstitutional on Feb. 1, 1962, as a violation of the First Amendment.

Stewart, in a blistering dissent, accused his colleagues of trampling on the First Amendment's guarantee of religious freedom while pursuing an extreme view of its ban on an establishment of religion.

"We err... if we do not recognize, as a matter of history and as a matter of the imperatives of our free government must necessarily interact in countless ways," Stewart said.

Ministers Distressed At Ruling

"Distressed" was the expression this morning of Sanford Protestant ministers when apprised of the U. S. Supreme Court's ruling that Bible reading and saying the Lord's Prayer in public schools is unconstitutional.

"In a speech two or three months ago," said Rev. Ernest Hollick Jr., of Good Shepherd United Lutheran Church, "I predicted this and that it would be one more step toward secularization of our country. I see this as the law of the land... and it means the churches will have to bend down and do the work they are in business to do."

It will focus the religious work in the community into the churches, whereas before it was spread out into the schools.

"This is rather an ironic approach of faith, religious teaching in the public schools, and we will have to accept this ruling as law. I am distressed but it means the churches must buckle down. It is a dangerous precedent and may remove all vestiges of religion from the national scene as far as the government is concerned. I am thinking of the chaplains in the Armed Forces and in the U. S. House of Representatives and U. S. Senate."

Evangelist Bert Brown of the Church of Christ, likewise agreed that the ruling is now law. He pointed out that the constitution reads that Congress shall make no law or ruling which sets religious precedent.

"Public schools were originally started with the religious idea," said Mr. Brown. "The Bible was a text book. So the founding fathers must not have felt religion in public schools was unconstitutional. It appears it is a difference in the understanding of the Bible by the present Supreme Court Justices and the founding fathers."

Other ministers approached withheld comment until they may read the ruling but stated they may then have prepared statements.

Debate Opened On Sex Scandal

LONDON (UPI)—Labor Party leader Harold Wilson today opened an unprecedented parliamentary debate on Britain's sex and security scandal with a statement that evidence of a "sordid underworld" had shocked the nation's moral conscience.

Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, fighting for his political life, was cheered by the Conservative members as he entered the chamber, but the ovation appeared to be less enthusiastic than usual.

Macmillan is expected to win a vote of confidence after the debate over the confessions and resignation of War Minister John Profumo, but it appeared likely he would quit after the furor caused by the scandal dies down.

Wilson, who would be prime minister in a Labor government, received an ovation from his supporters.

New Shopping Center Gets Under Way

Ground For $225,000 Unit Broken

Ground-breaking ceremonies for the $225,000 shopping center of Bellemead Development, Inc., at 27th Street and Highway 17-92 were scheduled for 2 p. m. today.

Taking part in the ceremony were Thomas G. Chalmer, Daytona Beach, coordinator for Bellemead; Leroy Burgess, executive vice president of Florida State Bank, which is financing the project; Francis E. Roumillat Jr., president of the Chamber of Commerce, and other business leaders.

Burgess said the first phase of the new shopping center will contain 23,500 square feet and will house an A & P supermarket and other stores.

Construction by Thomas & Slater, Inc., Daytona Beach contractors, for the first phase is slated for completion by Oct. 1.

Extent of future growth of the shopping center, it was pointed out, will keep pace with the growth of Sanford and Seminole County.

Rains Break Droughts; Floods Roll

United Press International Heavy rains broke droughts and sent flood waters rolling through several western states and in Texas and North Carolina during the weekend.

About three feet of flood water poured into the river channels of Duchesne, Utah, Sunday night, causing minor damage. It was the last of the ravaging waters which took one life and caused thousands of dollars of damage.

A diversion dam burst on the North Fork of the Duchesne River about 10 miles north of Duchesne. A 4-year-old boy was drowned when the tent in which he was sleeping was swept away by mud and water.

The U. S. Weather Bureau said "the heavy weekend rains 'undoubtedly' broke the two-month drought in eastern Colorado. The rains ranged up to an unofficial five to six inches in Jefferson County.

The rain aided parched pasture lands, even if it came too late in some areas to save the wheat. About $10 million worth of wheat already was lost to the dry weather.

Hail pelted up four feet high in parts of Denver and snowplows were used to clear it away. The southern part of the Valley Highway was like a river with water up to 19 feet deep. Heavy snow closed Pike's Peak.

The general rains brought some improvement to crops in Missouri and Kansas, but some farm fields were destroyed. Near Zurich, Kan., heavy hail and strong winds caused 100 per cent crop loss.

Heavy wind, hail and 2.0 inches of rain were reported at Hill City, Kan. Springs field, Mo., got 3.57 inches.

ANNUAL SUMMER CAMP for Salvation Army girls of Sanford opened today at Camp Keystone, Keystone Heights, Fla. Ten girls between the ages of six and 12 left this morning for the camp, where the program includes recreation, craft classes, Bible study, swimming, etc. Each girl was given a physical examination before departure for camp. Dr. Frank Lesme here examines Darlene Baumgardner as Capt. Harry S. Foden, of the Salvation Army, looks on.

Space Pair Go Separate Ways

MOSCOW (UPI)—The world's first cosmonets, a dumpy blue-eyed girl who wore lipstick into space, and Russia's 10th cosmonaut, a confident man in a blue suit, parted ways today.

Their orbits do not coincide and apparently neither will attempt to take manual control and "fly by wire" for a space meeting, the source said.

Persistent but wholly unconfirmed reports said, however, that a third cosmonaut was being prepared to join the couple in space. The reports said it could be a man or another woman.

Valentina completed her first 24 hours in space at 12:30 p. m. (6:30 a. m. EST). Bykovsky was completing his third day.

The two spaceships came within seven miles of one another Sunday night, according to an announcement, but their paths appeared to coincide like that of only on certain orbits and never would actually intersect.

The official Tass news agency said Valentina and Bykovsky have had long communications with earth and with each other. It said they were making frequent reports on their impressions and the progress of their flights.

U. S. Hearing Raid Charges

MIAMI (UPI)—Five Cuban exiles and an American, caught by U. S. customs agents before their bombing raid on Cuba, got off the ground, were ordered to appear at a hearing before federal authorities here today.

The raiders were caught Saturday night while loading dynamite and napalm bombs onto a twin-engine Beechcraft at a remote airstrip on the outskirts of the Everglades.

The objective of the raid was an oil refinery on the outskirts of Havana, according to a spokesman for the group.

San Benton, an American; Miguel Alvarez, Victor Espinosa Hernandez, Rene Espinosa Hernandez and Carlos Hernandez Sanchez were taken into custody for questioning, then released and told to appear at today's hearing.

A spokesman for the group said the Cubans were veterans of "militation teams" trained in Guatemala two years ago, but added the raiders were not affiliated with any exile organization.

"It was simply an operation planned by a group of friends," the spokesman said. "The purpose was to inflict damage on some vital part of the Cuban economy."

NEW YORK (UPI)—The condition of former President Herbert Hoover, 88, suffering from anemia and bleeding from the gastrointestinal tract today was reported slightly improved but still "very serious."

Reds Tighten Berlin Border

BERLIN (UPI)—Communists doubled their border patrols and blocked at least two escape attempts on the 10th anniversary today of the East German "bread and freedom" revolt.

Extra border guard patrols were lined up by East Berlin firemen with barbed wire and crowd-control hoses, apparently in fear of disorders on the anniversary of the June 17, 1953, uprising. The revolt was crushed by Soviet troops.

However, no East Berlin demonstrations were expected.

One man was arrested shortly before midnight in an attempt to get over the anti-refugee wall into the French sector.

No Publicity Stunt For U. S. In Space

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The first American woman in space will be there not because she is a woman, but because she is a fine astronaut and engineer or scientist.

The time when women will be in demand for long space voyages, because of their exclusive biological qualifications, is far in the future. Planning experts say it is a safe bet that women will soar into space long before they venture into the void as prospective mothers of generations borne en route to explore and perhaps colonize distant planets.

In the meantime, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) is recruiting only astronauts who are experienced jet test pilots with engineering or scientific degrees.

Their all happen to be males because in American society only men are trained for such roles. But this will not always be the case.

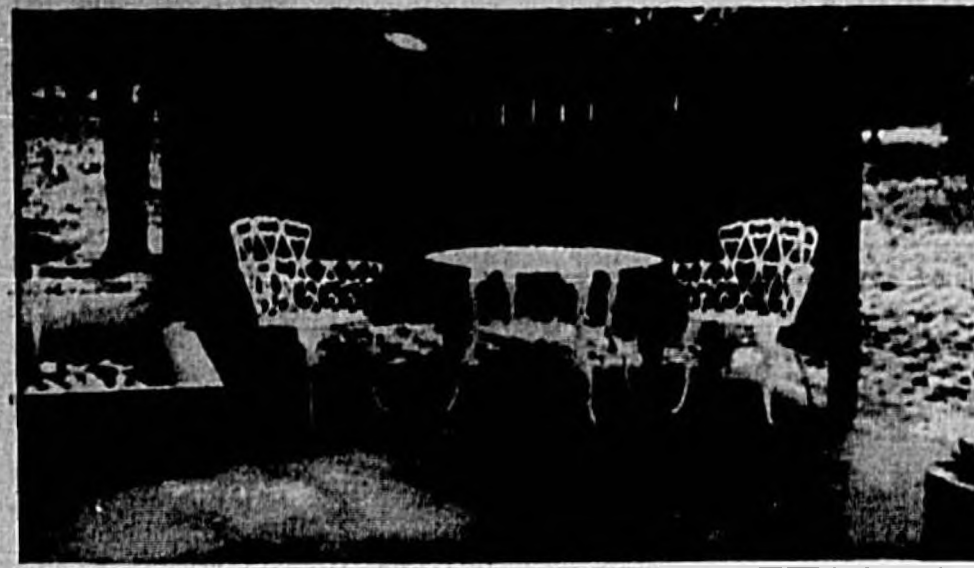

The sex of astronauts will not always be so important in the future as they are in this decade. But up through the Apollo landings on the moon, space flight calls for a lot of muscular endurance.

It is a fact that men are stronger than women. But as spacecraft become roomier and physical endurance less important, women will become more competitive in space.

In psychomotor tests, in which their endurance is not paramount, the two sexes are on a par, as they are in intellect.

Lake Monroe Jottings . . .

By Mrs. H. L. Johnson

Good afternoon. We are sorry that we missed last week but because of the big day in the Seminole County high schools and other important news the Sanford Herald was overloaded.

Well, it can be said now that "school is out" and of course there is a happy bunch of kids now including those who graduated Monday evening from Seminole High. If you didn't get to see the exercises every boy and girl in their caps and gowns were perfect ladies and gentlemen. How proud we parents were of them. Good luck to those who graduated.

I had a very nice surprise from the high school pupils who are riders on my bus. They gave me a wonderful card and they put in some vacation money. They said I needed a vacation away from them and this would help. Thank you boys and girls very much. So this time next week, I along with nephew Stanley Reynolds, will be in Indianapolis, Ind. Stanley will stay there and I will go over to Washington, D. C. to try and see the President for the boys and girls. My brother will retire from the Air Force on July 1st after serving 20 years and I will get to see the ceremony. Then we will go over to Alabama to visit a few days and then he and his family will be our guests for a few weeks. We are very proud of Chris Akers for the award he won in the Future Farmers class at Junior High. Keep up the good work Chris. We also have a smart gal out this way, too. Estaline Allison was one of two in the second grade at Junior High school to have the highest average for the year. Congratulations to you also Estaline. Ted and Glenda Jackson are the brand new parents of a son born this week at Seminole Memorial Hospital. This is their first child. Congratulations to you both. Charles Rabun was one of the high school grads with two honors at school the other day, one in Glee Club and the other for the most outstanding musician. Charles was an usher in the wedding last Saturday of the band director Mr. Cowley, Tolar Rabun, Vonnelle, son Terry, who is also a member of the band, and I attended the wedding.

It was so nice and Janice made a most attractive bride. We want to wish them the best of everything in their future life together. Miss Debbie Favor has been a guest of the Tommy Thompsons and daughters Polly and Sue. Deb is from Montgomery, Ala. The Clarence Hittels of Jacksonville were recent Monroe visitors here with relatives. Claude and Mary Hittella's daughter, Linda, another grad, has been the honor guest at several parties. Kathy Behrens gave her a splash party. Opla Dorn and Helen Padgett honored her with a hamburger fry at Helen's home on the Enterprise Rd. Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Sapp motored to Plant City on June 7 to see her parents who were celebrating their 60th wedding anniversary. Now isn't that something. Mr. and Mrs. Knight have nine children and they were all there along with 10 grandchildren and 18 great grandchildren. That is two people who have had a wonderful life together. They are to be congratulated for a just such a wonderful life. A delayed Happy Birthday to Little Clark Stapler. Just think Clark, you will soon catch up with sister Linda.

Word has been received of the sudden passing of Mr. Robert Gidwell who has visited here often. He was a resident of Greenboro, N. C. Our sympathy goes out to the family.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Edwards of Sebring, also former Monroe residents, are here on vacation and are spending it on the Wekiwa River camping. I know they are having a wonderful time.

Mrs. Johnny Pickett of Jacksonville spent last weekend here with her sisters Rena Hawkins and Hazel Chambliss. Tony Baker and Clifford Rathel are home for the summer. They are attending college up North.

Our thought this week is by Cy N. Pearce and goes like this, Tolerance is the ability to slung your shoulder when you've got a chip on it.

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Churchmen and politicians from all over the world, including the United States and Russia, joined today to pay their last respects to Pope John XXIII.

Eugene Cardinal Tisserant, gray-haired French-born dean of the Sacred College, presided over the solemn funeral Mass closing nine days of funeral rites for the Roman Catholic pontiff, who died June 3 at the age of 81.

More than 70 cardinals and representatives of 83 governments and international organizations gathered beside the red-draped catafalque lit by 88 candles and topped by the jeweled papal crown.

Woman 12th Person To Be Placed In Orbit

MOSCOW (UPI) — The launching of a Soviet space woman Sunday made it an even dozen persons in space since Russia's Yuri Gagarin went into orbit more than two years ago.

It also tied the Soviet-American space score at six. The United States had put six men in space to the Soviet Union's four before cosmonaut Valery Bykovsky and cosmonet Valentin Tereshkova began their twin flights.

In chronological order, this is the list of space flights so far:

April 12, 1961 — Yuri Gagarin, Russia. The first man in space, he made one orbit in 108 minutes.

May 5, 1961 — Alan Shepard, U.S. although his flight was suborbital and covered only 302 miles, he became the first American in space.

July 21, 1961 — Virgil Grissom, U.S. his was another suborbital flight, almost identical to Shepard's.

Aug. 6, 1961 — Gherman Titov, Russia. The first man to fly more than one orbit, Titov stayed aloft for 25 hours, and covered 17 orbits.

Feb. 20, 1962 — John H. Glenn Jr., U.S. he was America's first man in orbit going three orbits and staying up for nearly five hours.

May 24, 1962 — M. Scott Carpenter, U.S. He matched Glenn's feat, staying up nearly five hours and completing three orbits.

Aug. 11, 1962 — Maj. Andrian Nikolayev, Russia. Holder of the current space record of 94 hours, 35 minutes. He flew 64 orbits.

Aug. 12, 1962 — Lt. Col. Pavel Popovich, Russia, Nikolayev's "space twin" who completed 48 orbits in 70 hours 57 minutes.

Oct. 3, 1962 — Walter Schirra, U.S. six orbits in nine hours, 13 minutes.

May 15, 1963 — L. Gordon Cooper, U.S. 22 1/2 orbits aboard "Faith 7" for the U.S. space record of 34 hours, 20 minutes.

June 11, 1963 — Lt. Col. Valery F. Bykovsky, Russia. June 16, 1963 — Valentina Tereshkova, Russia, the first woman in space.

Steel Union's Board Meets

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—The 34-man executive board of the United Steelworkers Union met here today to discuss a proposal aimed at achieving a contract settlement with the steel industry without formal negotiation.

The union's 170-member Wage Policy Committee, composed of top international officers and representatives of the rank and file, is scheduled to meet Tuesday to study the proposal. The committee is the union's final authority on contract matters.

The proposal was advanced by the Human Relations Committee, a joint union-management body, which has been meeting informally since January.

The present contract does not expire until next year. However, either side has been free since May 1 to call for a formal reopening of wages talks, vacations and pensions. This clause also permits the union to strike 90 days after formal re-opening.

Those Invisible Waves Of The Future

WASHINGTON—(NEA) — A fantastic electronic war rivalry is secretly under way between the United States and Russia.

It could push the intercontinental ballistic race into the background. Or rather, it could if the two programs were not so tightly tied together.

Electronic warfare is the use of electronically generated electromagnetic waves to disrupt, "spoof" or degrade radar, radio and wire communications, airplane or missile guidance systems, various automatic fuses and other electronic systems on which defense increasingly depends.

The stakes are big. The Russians aim at electronically nullifying U.S. antimissile defenses, degrading U.S. intercontinental missiles and lessening U.S. ability to command and control military forces. They also aim at preventing the United States from doing the same things to them.

Specifically, the Soviet Union's military men hope by research in electronic warfare to be able to:

- So damage by "radio emission" the "electronic detectors" of American missiles that they will either explode prematurely or not explode at all.
- Prevent American planes from effective aerial reconnaissance by interfering with their radio-electronic equipment.
- Make it more difficult for American planes to properly navigate by using electromagnetic waves to interfere with their navigation systems.
- Disrupt the operation of ground-based radio-electronic apparatus used by American troops, thus undermining the U.S. Army's battlefield command and control system.
- Use "radio interference" to disrupt the command and control systems of American anti-missile system and early warning systems.
- Use "radio interference" to confuse the guidance systems of some types of American missiles.
- Be able to spoof U.S. radar, sonar and other warning systems, thus permitting Red missiles, submarines and aircraft to penetrate American defenses.

The Soviet Union also is stepping up sharply its use of electronic intelligence to keep close tabs on U.S. and Allied military forces—especially troop, air and ship movements. The Soviets are understood to be taking a special interest in tracking the big U.S. aircraft carriers.

The U.S. Army and Navy likewise have sizeable amounts of money here and there in their budgets for electronic warfare.

In general, the U.S. program aims are parallel with those of the Russians.

In an area as secret as electronic warfare, it is difficult to tell who is winning. But indirect evidence indicates the United States is ahead of the Soviet Union in this critical field.

Wastebasket Material

As a group this country's newspapers try very hard to present the news in good balance. Generally they are credited with airing all sides of important issues.

Yet in this age of rising clamor from extremists, many conscientious and conservative journals find themselves under attack. Schools, colleges and other disseminators of information also fall under this attack.

Invariably the complaint is: "They don't present OUR side." New, to the listeners who did not know what the extremists' stock in trade is, this complaint might have the ring of plausibility.

But a very great deal of what passes for "solid information" among the ultras is a tapestry of untruth, distortion and imagination.

Except as an oddity representing this kind of thinking, no newspaper could print such stuff without abandoning its standards of reliability and opening itself to charges of slander and libel.

No school or college could teach such things except, again, as curious examples of a phenomenon of the times.

For example, no self-respecting purveyor of information would assert that a high Russian officer commands a U. N. world police force. There is no such force.

Not that foreign troops are training in the American South in preparation for conquest of this nation.

These are the fancies of the far right. The far left deals in equally sinister delusions.

Conscientious Americans have enough to do trying to fathom the difficult issues of the age without wasting their mental energies on fabrications and foolishness.

That is why the responsible press gives them their proper place—the wastebasket.

Mandate For Peace

President Kennedy seems intent on restoring the notion of peace as an ideal, and at the same time trying to persuade millions everywhere that significant moves toward it are within practical range.

Peace would appear to need restoration as an ideal. To many it has seemed quite unattainable. To some it has been pictured as virtually undesirable, a status connoting only appeasement, surrender, slavery to communism.

The President declines to accept the idea that peace is beyond human reach. In his major speech at American University, he said:

"Too many of us think it (peace) is impossible . . . but that is a dangerous, defeatist belief. It leads to the conclusion that war is inevitable—that mankind is doomed—that we are gripped by forces we cannot control.

"We need not accept that view. Our problems are man-made—therefore they can be solved by man. And man can be as big as he wants. No problem of human destiny is beyond human beings."

To Kennedy, peace is the "necessary rational end of rational men." But he does not think of it in consequence as only a distant dream. The practical peace he says is within our grasp is based "not on a sudden revolution in human nature but on a gradual evolution in human institutions."

In other words, he foresees no miracle of changing heart in the Kremlin or Peking. The President argues simply that the "self-interest" compulsions toward peace must be as great for the Reds as for everyone else.

"Our most basic common link is that we all inhabit this planet," he said. "We all breathe the same air. We all cherish our children's future. And we are all mortal."

Since this is so, Kennedy contends that the "new face of war," the horrible imperatives of nuclear holocaust, must be as evident to our adversaries as to us—and just as unacceptable.

"It is an ironical but accurate fact that . . . all we (the United States and Russia) have built, all we have worked for, would be destroyed in the first 24 hours."

The President's belief that Moscow understands this as fully as we is the foundation stone on which he would erect a new quest for the ideal of peace.

That search, he indicates, must inevitably produce slow, halting steps, at best, with each necessarily ringed with safeguards. But those small strides can be important when multiplied.

Kennedy acknowledges that the discouragements from Moscow, up to this very moment, are many. Yet he insists that the logic of the world's dilemma dictates that we try again and again.

To yield hope, he says, is to accept the worst, a "strategy of annihilation," an annihilation that could embrace the globe.

Dick West Says

Muzzle A Congressman?

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Last year the allied muzzling of military officers was making headlines. And now there is a big controversy over the muzzling of congressmen.

Of the two, I would say the latter is potentially more explosive.

If you muzzle a military officer, he can always relieve his frustrations by barking at an enlisted man.

But if you bottle up words in a congressman, you get a dangerous fermenting effect, like putting too much yeast in the home brew.

He is likely either to blow his cork or fly three feet into the air and bust.

Oddly enough, the muzzling of congressmen is being carried out by two of their own kind—Rep. Wayne Jones, D-Ohio, and Paul C. Hays, D-Mo. Hays got sore the other day because someone objected to his request for unanimous consent to address the House for five hours. He thereupon began to block similar requests by other members.

Since then, for some activity in the chamber has been pretty much confined to the actual business at hand. There hasn't been an oris silence exactly, but the decibel count is relatively anemic.

When you confine a congressman to the business at hand, you are playing a piano with only one key.

The verbal blockade was further tightened this week by Jones' one-man crusade to curtail the practice of "extending" remarks and otherwise having material printed in the Congressional Record.

Jones pointed out that the cost of printing the record had risen to $90 a page, including a lot of what he called "trash, trips and trivia."

He urged his colleagues to show more restraint and discretion in contributing to the record, which other literary critics have described as the nearest thing we have to a national wastebasket.

And, in case some members lacked the will power to refrain from such embellishments, Jones posted himself as a sentinel to make certain they tapered off.

Needless to say, he and Hays will not be nominated as the two most popular kids on the block.

If you could hear the muffled cries of congressmen with words to disgorge and no place to utter them, it would turn your heart to butter, or at least margarine.

Unless Hays and Jones relent soon, I fear the buildup of gaseous compression will cause our lawmakers to disintegrate.

As an act of mercy, some of us are planning to form an organization called "Verboilities Anonymous" to help them endure the ordeal. Should a congressman wake up at night with a compulsion to talk, we will lend him a tape recorder.

An Audience With THE GREAT COUNSELOR

Dr. Crane's

Worry Clinic

CASE P-467: Freddy B., aged 11, is an adopted child.

His parents failed to tell him of this fact until one of his school pals broke the shocking news.

Freddy and this pal had engaged in a fist fight and the pal had lost.

So, in order to whittle Freddy down to size, the pal shouted:

"Yah-yah-yah, Freddy's adopted. He doesn't have any REAL parents."

This shocked Freddy into speechlessness for a few moments. Then a terrific rage enveloped him, so he chased his pal home in an attempt to fight him once more and make him retract that statement.

When Freddy finally dragged his feet homeward, he casually asked his mother where he had come from.

She blushed in confusion and tried to sidetrack his query. But Freddy persisted. So she broke down and tearfully told him that she and his daddy had adopted him.

But she failed to use the deft method I have often urged upon you readers, whereby you mention that you adult married folks are simply "adopted," too.

For in marriage, you simply select somebody you love and then legally "adopt" that person via the wedding ceremony.

Thereafter, you married couples feel actually closer to each other than you do to your flesh-and-blood brothers and sisters with whom you grew up from childhood.

So inform every foster child that he was purposely chosen because his daddy and mother wanted him because they loved him.

And his selection was legalized via adoption papers just as definitely as was their own "adoption" of each other via the wedding ceremony.

This strategy will eliminate a great deal of secret worry and sullen hostility.

For most of us look upon our parents as blood kin, although they were total strangers till the time they first met and fell in love.

It will serve as a very effective parallel comparison when you cite the fact that marriage is just a form of adult adoption.

But if you delay telling your child the simple facts in the manner outlined above, he may turn on you parents and become hostile.

We psychologists find that adopted youngsters furnish more than their share of juvenile delinquents.

But it is not due to any inheritance of criminal tendencies. For criminality is never inherited!

Delinquency and violation of laws are due to acquired habits, just like piano playing.

If the foster child has not been properly informed he may then turn upon his devoted parents and purposely flaunt his violation of their rules and regulations.

And he may also become a naughty child in school. He often takes almost childish delight in breaking rules. He is an iconoclast.

Freddy turned into just such a school problem child, as I'll explain more fully tomorrow.

Meanwhile, send for the booklet "Facts About Pregnancy and Foster Children," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents.

Be sure every family with an adopted child has a copy!

Political Notebook

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—President Kennedy's commencement "remarks" on world peace at American University in Washington were directed to other audiences than the one which heard him.

To all college graduates just starting out on their chosen careers, it was a message of inspiration. War and annihilation are not inevitable. Peace and world rule through law are attainable if human beings put their mind to it. This theme made the President's foreign policy statement important.

To Russia's Chairman Nikita Khrushchev and the Communist Party Central Committee which convenes in Moscow June 18, President Kennedy's speech was a challenge:

"Change your ideology from world conquest and domination, to an effort to end the arms race and devote its massive sums to combating ignorance, poverty and disease.

To extremists who in recent months have been voicing loud opposition against suspension of nuclear testing and a test ban treaty, the President made a clear statement of his determination to work for both, as first steps toward general and complete disarmament.

To the American leaders in Congress who only recently made a sorry confession that they did not know what American foreign policy was, the President recited its major objective.

It is an answer they should have known, for it is fundamentally the same policy that guided the Eisenhower administration and the Truman administration, too.

In re-examining American policies on the Soviet Union and the cold war, the President gave two main objectives:

" . . . persevere in the search for peace in the hope that constructive changes within the Communist bloc might bring within reach solutions which now seem beyond us."

" . . . convince the Soviet Union that she, too, should let each nation choose its own future, so long as that choice does not interfere with the choices of others."

The President's opponents are sure to rail against both of these approaches as appeasement or surrender. But the President did make clear his insistence on American security:

"We can seek a relaxation of tensions without relaxing our guard . . . the United States will make no deal with the Soviet Union at the expense of other nations and other peoples."

The President's announcement of a unilateral suspension of atmospheric nuclear testing is not the first such offer. President Eisenhower made a similar announcement in 1958 for the general moratorium on testing, which the Russians broke.

American risks in suspending tests now are considered much less than they were five years ago. Detection techniques have been greatly improved and there is little chance that the Russians might try to resume secret testing in the hope that they could get away with it.

Undersecretary of State W. Averell Harriman will head the United States mission to Moscow for test ban talks with the British and Russians in mid-July.

This may throw the United Nations disarmament talks at Geneva into recess. These negotiations have been going on since last January, with little evidence of progress.

But out of these talks has come agreement between the United States and Russia for establishment of the "hot line" between Washington and Moscow.

Cooking equipment and heating head the list of causes of farm fires.

Unemployment, Slums Blamed For Unrest

NEW YORK (UPI) — A Negro integration leader said Sunday there is danger of racial violence flaring against white Harlem merchants, landlords and rent collectors this summer.

James Farmer, national director of the Congress of Racial Equality, declared: "I think there is a real possibility . . . or a real danger that there might be violence not only in Harlem in New York . . . but in Harlems throughout the country this summer."

Farmer, on a radio program, said that in New York City the main Harlem problem is unemployment and the second is slums.

Farmer said Negro unemployment in Harlem is 2 1/2 times as high as among whites, mainly because a large percentage of Negroes are unskilled and automation is forcing them out of jobs.

He said tenement slum problems become more pressing during summer months. Because of this, he said, "I think there is a real danger of violence this summer."

Farmer emphasized that his organization is opposed to violence and has training programs to teach non-violent methods.

Locals Take Three

Sanford American Legion, accepting an 0-0 tie with Ormond Beach in the season's opener, continues to clobber all opposition with an unbeaten record. Sanford won three games over the weekend.

The Campbell-Losing Post team defeated DeLand Legion in a doubleheader Saturday and Apopka Sunday to remain undefeated in Legion competition.

Sanford topped Eustis twice, Ormond Beach twice, DeLand three times and Apopka once to stand at the top of the league.

Sanford won the first game with DeLand Saturday by the score of 8-4 behind the six-hit pitching of Hobdy Johnson, with Billy Higgins doing the receiving. Sanford got eight runs on six hits and heads-up base running.

In the second game Jimmy Courier pitched a one-hitter, with Red Jansen doing the catching. That one hit was a slow roller down the third-base line. The final score was 5-1.

Sanford got five runs on four hits while DeLand could only cross the plate once on one hit and an infield error.

Sanford tackled Apopka here Sunday and won handily 9-1. Don Smith pitched his third victory of the season, allowing one run in three hits.

Following is the Sanford schedule for the balance of the season, barring some last-minute changes and with (*) marking home games and () marking away games:

Apopka, June 19 (); Palatka, June 21, two games (); Ocala, June 22, two games (); Daytona Beach, June 23, two games (); Orlando, June 24 (); DeLand, June 25, two games (); Palatka, June 29, two games (); Orlando, July 4 (); and Eustis, July 8 ().

The best way to hit a wave is at an angle, just as it is with a boat. Otherwise you run the risk of being dumped.

After you have hit enough crests to gain the feel of taking them properly, you will find that you will almost automatically jump slightly when you hit the top. This takes some of the weight off the skis and softens the impact.

Hitting rough water is thrilling. You might compare it to taking tiny jumps on a horse, preparatory to tackling real big fences and obstacles.

Once you have gotten used to it, you'll find it becomes more and more enjoyable, but please remember not to try it until you have first gained the mastery over the skis that makes you feel completely at home during smooth sailing.

RIDING ROUGH water or taking waves can be a lot of fun.

Written for NEA

Riding rough water or taking waves is not recommended for novices but it can be a lot of fun once you have gained the mastery that gives confidence.

It is much like crossing the wake of the tow boat. Head forward a little and flex the knees a trifle more than for smooth water skiing to absorb the shock.

SAN FRANCISCO—(NEA)—Coach Red Hickey of the San Francisco professional football club is optimistic that Mike Lind may be the answer to the 49ers' almost constant search for a big fullback.

"Good size and speed," reads the report on the recruit from Notre Dame. "Tough, hard runner with excellent moves, both to the outside and inside. Can run over people. Great desire. Can block for passer. Good lead blocker on wide plays. Good hands. Dangerous receiver on swing patterns."

Palmer Takes Thunderbird On Extra Hole

HARRISON, N. Y. (UPI)—In a sudden death playoff Sunday, Arnold Palmer won the $25,000 first prize in the Thunderbird tournament by tallying a par three on the first hole against Paul Harey.

Marked by a series of errors both players completed the 72 holes tied at 277.

Palmer missed an easy three-foot putt on the final hole which would have given him the title.

On the 100-yard extra hole Harey hooked his tee shot to the base of the bunker. He then chipped six feet past the hole and missed the par putt.

Palmer winged his tee shot on the green 15 feet short of the cup and left his first putt three feet short and then put it in.

The win placed Palmer in second place in the professional money winners with $66,645, right behind Jack Nicklaus. He is now the favorite to cop the U. S. Open title from Nicklaus at Brookline next week end.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: The school just called to tell me that they were going to keep my boy back. That means he will have to take the fifth grade over again. I asked if he would have the same teacher next year and they said yes. I told them they were making a big mistake because if she couldn't teach him anything in one year, she sure couldn't do it in two. What do you think of a school system like that?
HIS MOTHER

DEAR Mother: Don't assume that your son's failure to pass was the teacher's fault. If a pupil is willing to learn, ANYBODY can teach him. If he's not—NOBODY can.

DEAR ABBY: I saw a man on a train reading a book entitled "DEAR ABBY," and he sure seemed to be getting a big kick out of it. I suppose you wrote it. Send me the book and if it's any good I'll send you a check.
HAROLD

DEAR HAROLD: Send me the check and if it's any good I'll send you the book.

Jacoby On Bridge By Oswald Jacoby

The unusual no-trump is a new convention and it is still in a state of change. Every expert uses it in some fashion, but they disagree on the exact method. All agree on one thing, though. It is intended to show a two-suit hand.
 This particular two no-trump opening showed a heart-club two-suiter. Probably North did not have quite enough to force his partner to the three level, but unusual no-trump auctions go out of their way to use the bid.
 East's three diamond call was a strictly competitive. South jumped to five clubs because he expected to make that contract, and was willing to play a slam if North wanted to continue.
 At this point West came up with a perfectly outrageous double. West was looking at

We The Women: By Ruth Millett

I'm painfully shy and nervous when I am left at a large party with someone I've never met," a young wife writes.
 "My husband has a new job in his old home town, and many parties have been given for us since we came there to live. My shyness makes me awkward and embarrasses my husband. Is there any way I can get over it?"
 Of course you can overcome it. Do some "boning-up" before you go to a party.
 Ask your husband who is likely to be there, and get him to tell you something about those you'll probably meet. Store those facts away in your mind.
 Then think up several general remarks you could make to anyone, even a complete stranger.
 You don't have to think of anything witty, or profound—just something to get you over that tongue-tied feeling and give you a chance to show that you are a friendly person.
 And if you should find yourself feeling self-conscious because you are all alone in a crowd, look about you and you'll find someone looking equally uncomfortable.
 That's the time for one of those "general" remarks you have tucked away in your mind. Then ask a question or two and before you know it you will have a conversation started.
 The other person will be grateful to you for singling him out, and go away remembering you as a gracious person.
 Don't fool yourself into thinking that the socially adept persons who go from group to group making light chatter are smarter or more amusing than you are.
 Either they know people well enough to feel at ease, or they are making themselves behave in a sociable manner.

Statewide Liquor Net Smashed

JACKSONVILLE (UPI) — Federal and state agents smashed down on a moonshine gang whose operations ran from Central Georgia to Miami this weekend and arrested 20 persons.

Agents also confiscated 20 cars used to transport the illegal alcohol and said they expected to arrest another 20 or 30 persons connected with the gang in the near future.

Agents said the gang had "one of the largest statewide distribution systems ever uncovered by the State Beverage Department."

They said about 2,000 gallons of moonshine were imported into the state by the organization each week.

Agents said charges against the gang ranged from possession of illegal alcohol to grand larceny to illegal possession of narcotics.

R. H. Jones, a state beverage agent from Daytona Beach, exposed the operation after he had worked his way into the organization and risen to the number two man in the gang.

Jones, who described his four months of undercover work as "hair raising," said the main distilling operation was in the area of St. George, Ga.

Beverage agents withheld specific information on the operations of the gang pending further arrests.

POTASH

Originally, potash was obtained by leaching, or running water through the ashes of burned wood and boiling down the solution in large open kettles. The residue, a white solid, was called potash because it was made from ashes in pots.

Kennedy Advised Against Trip

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Europe next week despite advice to the contrary. The President plans to be in West Germany and Berlin June 23-26, in Ireland June 29-30 and in Italy July 1-3.

Many misgivings about making the trip at this time have been expressed. But Kennedy, who entered office believing presidential diplomacy was to be avoided, is determined to make the trip for the very reasons given that he should not go.

Critics of the trip have pointed out that West Germany and Italy are changing governments, and a new Pope is being chosen in Rome, England is in the midst of a government scandal. Only in Ireland is the government stable.

In addition to troubles abroad, opponents of the trip say, new racial violence could break out anytime at home, requiring the President's presence.

White House sources say Kennedy is well aware of all this, but believes it would be disastrous to cancel the trip because of problems that have arisen in Europe since he scheduled the visit.

No Budget Balancing In Sight

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — State lawmakers have used up half the time allotted for an extended session, but they were no closer to balancing the budget today than when the regular session ended.

With the House and Senate apparently deadlocked on a plan to finance the $607 million general appropriations bill, there appears to be only two alternatives, and they will be considered today.

One proposal by Rep. J. J. Griffin would cut appropriations to about $278 million. If this bill is approved, however, it would chop many services, salary hikes and new funds that state agencies claim they must have.

The other alternative would be to adjourn the session until a special conference committee can unshar the tax dilemma.

It appears the Legislature isn't likely to push taxes high enough to raise the $170 million needed to finance spending. Rep. William O'Neill said all the taxes approved in the lower chamber so far still fall about $30 million short of spending.

House Speaker Mallory Horne, after seeing a $56 million proposal to increase auto license tags rejected last Friday, met with legislative leaders to discuss alternative proposals.

Horne said if the proposal to cut appropriations is defeated, he would push for a legislative recess until a House-Senate committee can arrive at an acceptable tax program. He said he has already discussed this proposal with Senate President William Curryway.

"I'd either like to see the House support an appropriations cut, or back off it. I sure don't want the Legislature to hand a bad check to the Cabinet Budget Commission to work out," he said.

"Flippy the Gae" is becoming famous. So much so, there's a price on his head now. For the last couple of weeks The Herald's sports page has recounted that "Flippy" lives in a pool at Herb and Adah Sutton's Wekiva River Haven. And further, that "Flippy" has had a running game for two years with an Orlando fisherman. This fisherman is not interested in an other fish but "Flippy." And "Flippy" has won every round. Herb Sutton reports now that he had a 'phone call last night from Peter Kurch who has been reading about "Flippy" and has offered a $10 cash reward to the fisherman who lands the big gar.

Trial is under way in Circuit Court to complete the condemnation proceedings of two years ago for right-of-way on the already improved Highway 436 East. Suit involves two pieces of property not yet settled.

Receipt of mail from throughout the United States is nothing unusual, according to Georgia Ball at the Chamber of Commerce, adding all of them want information about Seminole County and Sanford. But this one properly addressed to the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce, at its proper post-office box number, stumped Mrs. Ball. It was from Indonesia and, like all others, wanted information.

Due to "last minute" request in the "Miss Flame" of Seminole County beauty contest, Longwood Firemen decided over the weekend to extend the contest entry deadline until Friday of this week.

Cdr. Robert M. de Lorenzi will be relieved of command of Detachment 8 of VAH 11 in ceremonies at 10 a. m. next Monday at the Naval Air Station. He will go to the Navy post-graduate school at Monterey, Calif. Cdr. Frederick Garnett Jr., new operations officer of VAH 3, will succeed de Lorenzi.

It seems a shame that the Lake Mary Fire Dept., which serves practically the whole northwest end of the county from Sunland to Paola, couldn't interest more than one entry. Come on, girls, the department needs your support, and turn-about is fair play, you know.

That gasoline war down south of Seminole County has spread into the Fern Park, Longwood, Altamonte Springs and other Seminole southern points, which are classed by the petroleum distributors as in the Orlando area. One Sanfordite reported purchasing gas at eight cents cheaper than usual at Fern Park. Sanford distributors are hoping it doesn't reach here because, as one put it, "it doesn't really help anyone but can break the dealer, and then he can't pay his bills."

L.T. CDR. CLIFF THOMPSON, of VAH-5, mans his A-5 Vigilante to become the first "Savage Son of Sanford" to fly the Mach II aircraft.

Squadron 5 To Fly Mach II

Heavy Attack Squadron Five, holder of the 1962 "E" for being the most outstanding heavy attack squadron in the Atlantic Fleet, has been selected to be the next Navy Squadron to fly the Mach II Vigilante.

Commanded by Vdr. L. H. Sette, a veteran Vigilante pilot, the Heavy Five "Savage Sons of Sanford" will begin transitioning to the Vigilante immediately.

At present there are several pilots and bombardier-navigators undergoing transitional training with Heavy Attack Three, Heavy Attack Wing One's training squadron.

Lt. Cdr. Cliff Thompson, Savage safety officer, became the first of his squadron to fly the Vigilante, and was followed closely by Lt. Cdr. Jim Olson. Maintenance personnel are attending various familiarization schools preparatory to converting to the Vigilante.

Heavy Attack Squadron Seven was the first group to convert to the Vigilante, on Jan. 25, 1962. This squadron now is on its second cruise with the Vigilante in the Mediterranean. Heavy Attack Squadron One converted to the Vigilante last June 22.

VAH 7, VAH 4, and VAH 3 all are assigned to the Sanford Naval Air Station.

$9,000 Lost As Truck, Train Hit

There was no personal injury but damage was estimated at $9,000 in a train-truck collision at 10 a. m. today at the Highway 436 crossing east of Forest City, according to Trooper Bill Stringfield.

An ACL freight train with three engines pulling cars loaded with limestone was proceeding over the crossing, Stringfield reported, when a truck driven by Joseph T. Koon, Orlando, approached.

The trooper said Koon, in attempting to avoid an accident, skidded the truck. A dragline on the truck broke its moorings and hit the third engine of the train, tearing the cab off the engine.

Koon was charged with failing to have his vehicle under control, Stringfield reported.

Engineer John R. Weaver, Sanford in the engine cab, escaped injury.

Legislature Hopes It Can Quit Tonight

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — The Legislature, after whipping the controversial automobile tax increase to sudden passage, began today to tie up loose ends of its $170 million plus tax program in hopes of quitting late tonight or Wednesday.

Only major bills left for final action are the big sales tax broadening measure and a bill increasing the state tax on beer, wine and whiskey.

A joint conference committee went to work Monday night to reconcile differences in the sales tax bill, designed to raise from $13 million to $83 million over the biennium, depending on which provisions are ultimately adopted.

Both houses reconvene at 10 a. m.

Senate debate on the House-passed alcoholic beverage tax increase bill is expected to be heated.

The Senate Finance Committee has recommended that the Senate go along with the 15 per cent overall increase provided in the House bill rather than the 30 per cent raise voted by the Senate.

But to make up the difference in revenue, ranging from $21 million to $23 million, the Senate was asked to reduce by about 60 per cent the amount of tax reduction voted by both houses for manufacturers of whiskey made from citrus products.

The Senate committee also recommended that the house be asked to recede from an amendment taxing beer sold on Florida military bases.

Boat Owners Get Extension

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — The cabinet today extended for one month until Aug. 1 the deadline for registration of boats in Florida.

Handolph Hodges, head of the state board of conservation, told the cabinet that a new law effecting boat registration has passed the legislature but hasn't even reached the governor's desk yet.

He said the one-month extension would give boaters some leeway in getting their craft registered on time.

Russian Pair Still Orbiting

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet cosmonaut Valery F. Bykovsky zoomed into his fifth day in orbit today, breaking all time and distance records for manned space flight.

The 28-year-old jet pilot, trailed by cosmonaut Valentina Tereshkova, topped the record of 94 hours 22 minutes set last August by cosmonaut Andrian Nikolayev at 5:22 a. m. EST.

Informed observers said the Soviets apparently were going for new endurance records to study such factors as the effect of weightlessness on the human organism.

Valentine, the 28-year-old bachelor girl who became the first woman in space last Sunday, was well beyond the American space record of 22.9 orbits set last month by Maj. L. Gordon Cooper.

Bryant Vetoes Materials Bill

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Gov. Farris Bryant vetoed a bill today to require all Florida officials to specify use of Florida materials in state, county and municipal road construction.

The Governor said much of Florida's industrial expansion was started by distributors moving into the state. "If we discourage distribution facilities, we discourage industrial growth," Bryant said.

Clergy Reaction To Prayer Ruling Differs

United Press International

America's clergy differed today in their reaction to the Supreme Court ruling banning compulsory Bible reading and recitation of the Lord's Prayer in schools.

Protestants and Jewish leaders were divided, while Roman Catholics generally urged support of the ruling.

In Los Angeles, an attorney for the American Civil Liberties Union said he would file suit to challenge the phrase "under God" in the Pledge of Allegiance as a violation of the First Amendment.

The National Council of Churches said the decision was a "reminder . . . that teaching religion is the responsibility of the home and the community of faith, (church or synagogue), rather than public schools. Neither the church nor the state should use the public school or compel acceptance of any creed or conformity to any specific religious practice."

Evangelist Billy Graham, crusading in West Germany, said he was "shocked" at the Supreme Court decision.

"Prayers and Bible reading have been a part of American public school life since the Pilgrims landed at Plymouth Rock," Graham said. "Now a Supreme Court in 1963 says our fathers were all wrong all these years. In my opinion, it is the Supreme Court that is wrong."

A Roman Catholic educator, the Rev. William J. Kenely, S. J., professor of law at Loyola University in Chicago, said "reading of the Bible, recitation of prayers and the conduct of religious exercises in public schools infringes on the free exercise of religion on the part of dissenting parents."

The president of the Central Conference of American Rabbis, Albert G. Minda, Minneapolis, Minn., said, "We are gratified to learn of the decision. . . . We believe they will strengthen the voluntary religious life in America."

A Jewish theologian, Rabbi Seymour Siegel of Jewish Theological Seminary in New York, said "I number myself among those who believe that it is desirable within the dictates of the Constitution to find some way to ease the influence of religion felt within the schools of our nation."

In Indianapolis, Ind., Catholic, Protestant and Jewish religious leaders issued a joint statement urging support of the court's decision.

Progress Made On Rights Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said today a "large area of agreement" had been reached with Republicans on civil rights legislation. But he said there is still sharp disagreement over President Kennedy's desire for a law banning segregation in privately owned public facilities.

Mansfield made the statement after he and other Democratic congressional leaders met with Kennedy to discuss the administration's civil rights program, scheduled to go to Congress Wednesday.

Speaker John W. McCormack announced that the civil rights program will include a new bill to provide training and vocational education.

North Warmer; South Wetter

United Press International

Heavy showers soaked the Southland today and summery air pushed northward into the Midwest.

The heaviest rainfall during the night occurred in the Southwest. More than two inches fell at Corpus Christi, Tex., Naval Air Station.

Earlier, more than four inches hit Laredo, Tex., and Morgan City, La., ran its 24 hour total to seven inches.

Showers dumped lesser amounts across the South from Texas to the Carolina coast. Rain also fell in North Dakota, Nevada, Wisconsin and Pennsylvania.

Fair skies will be the rule across most of the nation today, the Weather Bureau said, but isolated thundershowers will sweep the Southland, and Upper Great Lakes states and plains.

Cleveland Acts In Behalf Of County Groups

Formal request that the State consider locating one of two and possibly both proposed state universities in Seminole County has been forwarded by Sen. Mack N. Cleveland Jr. to Baysa M. Harrison Jr., chairman of the Board of Control at St. Petersburg.

Senator Cleveland's letter of request to Harrison reads: "Senate bills 123 and 407 authorizing the establishment of a state university or a branch of an existing state university and the establishment of the University of Florida engineering college, respectively, in East Central Florida are now law and I would like to express my sincere appreciation to you, members of the Board of Control and especially your most capable executive director, Dr. J. Broward Culpepper, for the active support and close co-operation in accomplishing the passage of these two bills."

In his request for consideration of Seminole County locations Cleveland said:

"In behalf of the citizens of Seminole County, Board of County Commissioners, Sanford City Commission, Seminole County Chamber of Commerce and the legislative delegation, please accept this letter as a formal request that Seminole County be considered as the site for both the new university or branch of an existing state university and the extension of the University of Florida engineering college and at the appropriate time we will submit to the Board of Control such information as may be required in connection with the board's study and deliberations relating to the selection of a site for these two facilities."

The Board of Control will meet Friday and will discuss these two schools but no decision will be made at that time.

Sen. Cleveland said today that Dr. Culpepper "does anticipate discussion but expects the board to proceed carefully so that everyone will get a chance and that any decision arrived at in the future would be based on the criteria furnished. He does anticipate quite a battle among all counties concerned before the site is determined."

Cleveland quoted Dr. Culpepper as saying that the board might possibly set up an advisory group or a planning board among the seven counties involved.

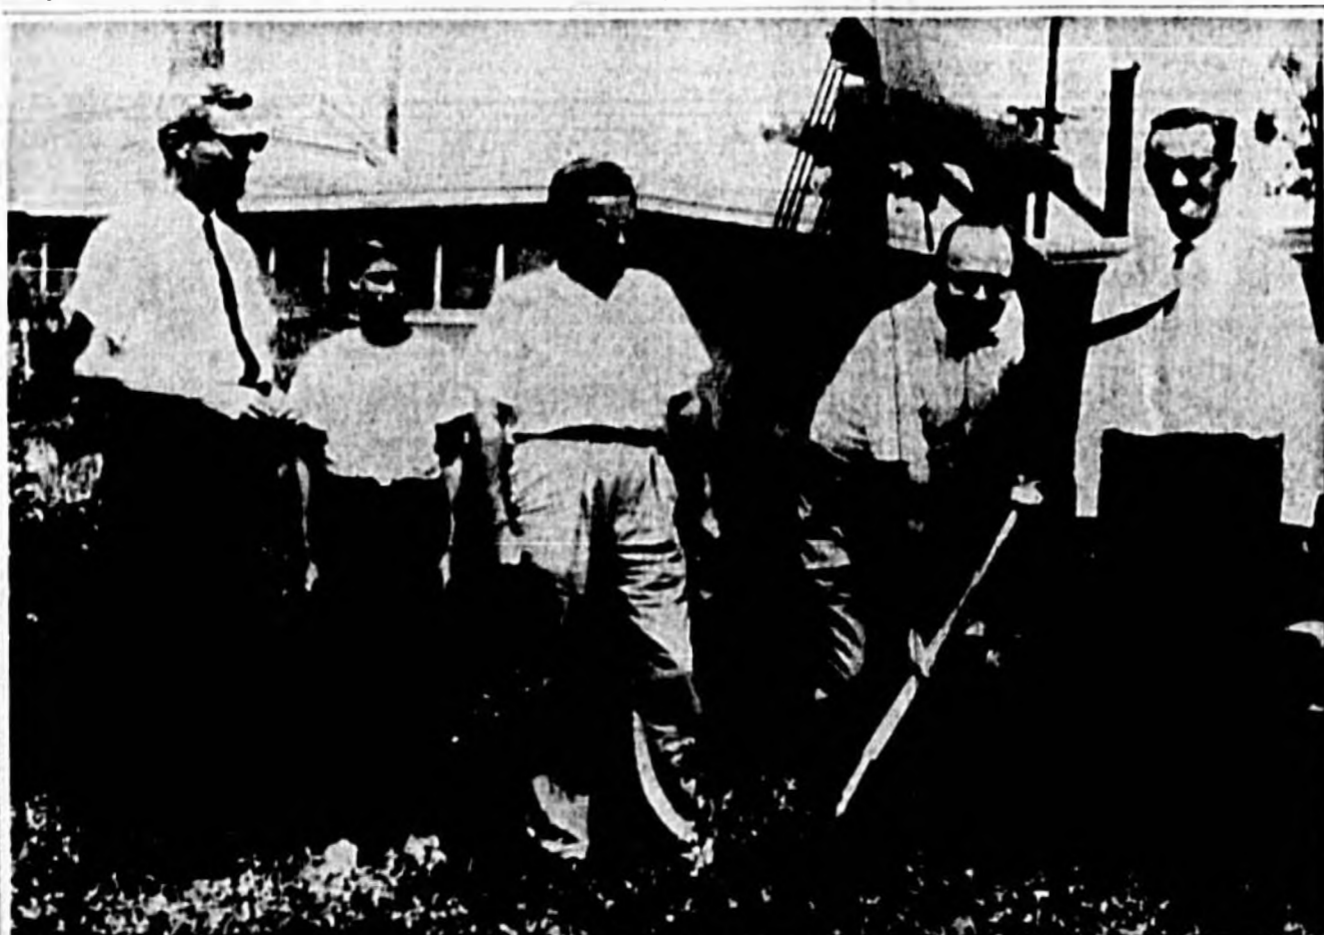

As to the final selection of the sites, Dr. Culpepper stated that after all presentations of sites had been submitted to his office, members of his staff would "weed out" those sites which were obviously inferior and that after narrowing the field down to three or four sites a majority of the Board of Control, acting as a site committee itself, would personally inspect the remainder and ultimately make the final decision.

Seminole County already has had a feasibility study made for locating a state school here, has had an engineer working with the firm making that study and, further, has had several offers of land for a school site. A brochure will be prepared outlining Seminole County's best points for having a school situated here.

Members of the Chamber of Commerce study committee, County Commission, City Commission and legislative delegation will meet Saturday to finalize plans for presenting Seminole's bid to the State.
