School Opens Without A Hitch For 39,351 Pupils

By Angela Woodhull Herald Staff Writer

The first day of school in Seminole County went smoothly, with a minimum of minor problems, according to four principals. Students moved swiftly to their classes. Teachers, bent over their podiums with chalk and ruler in hand, conducted introductory lessons. It was the first day of the school year for 39,351 students-1,289 more students than on the first day last year. Enrollment is expected to increase in the coming and no traffic tie-ups were reported, although there were quite a few parents who just arrived back from vacations and needed to find out where their child's bus stop is located, said Barbara Higgins, area supervisor at the school administration offices. "The phones continue ringing even today," she said.

Seminole County Sheriff's Lt. Jerry Riggins said "everything went great" with all the school crossing guards.

For 987 students, it was the first day in a brand

'Everything went real smooth." said Ted Barker, principal of Greenwood Lakes. "All students were in their rooms within five minutes after the first bell. We gave them the rules and regulations, and then lessons began."

Barker said there was extra emphasis placed on getting sixth graders adjusted to their new routine of changing classes.

About one-fourth of Barker's veteran faculty from Lakeview Middle School transferred with him to the new school, while the remainder of his faculty, with one exception, transferred from other middle schools in the county. Only one new teacher, a science specialist, began her first day of teaching at the new school.

About 100 more students registered at Greenwood Lakes than expected, but Baker said this was not a problem, "We have sufficient space for 1,400 students." he said.

Students at Sanford Middle School were off to 'an excellent start." according to Principal Dan Peiham. About 30 new students registered, but Pelham said this was not a problem. "We

55 Limit Increase Proposed

From Staff and Wire Reports
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two senators who have proposed raising the 55 mph speed limit have President Reagan's endorsement, but one opponent of the proposal says it will leave "blood on the hands of every member of Congress."

Republican Sens. Steve Symms of Idaho and Chic Hecht of Nevada, said their recent meeting with Reagan to discuss their campaign to raise the speed limit on certain roads was productive.

The move to raise the vote has the support of Rep. Bill Me-Collum, R-Winter Park. He said today he voted for a similar bill in the House of Representatives weeks ago that would have allowed raising of the speed limit in rural areas. The bill failed by a close vote, he said.

Sen. Paula Hawkins, R. Florida, has not studied the issue and has not made a decision about it, a spokesman for her office said.

Sen. Lawton Chiles, D-Florida, also has not seen the proposed legislation and has not formed an opinion about it, a spokesman sald.

Senator Symms, quoting from a letter dated Aug. 15, said

Reagan told him:

"I believe that the time has come to restore greater authority to the states in this area. To that end I welcome proposals like reforms that would provide states' enhanced ability to regulate highways within their jurisdiction.'

Symms and Sen. Quentin Burdick, D.N.D., have offered a bill that would raise to 65 mph the speed limits on interstate highways. Hecht also has proposed legislation calling for a 65

Fines and possible court appearances await those who are caught carrying uncaged animals in open vehicles in Seminole County.

The Board of County Commissioners approved a change in the standards of care section of the county Animal and Fowl Ordinance earlier this summer. aimed at removing uncaged animals, especially dogs, from pick-up trucks.

The change was needed to extend the rule beyond the commercial animal transporters. such as pet shops, to govern the transporting of animals by private individuals.

"One of the primary reasons this was added is because animals were getting thrown out of the back ends of pick uptrucks, and being carried without shade and water," Bob Young, a county animal control official said.

A Humane Society investigator agreed. "Dogs have fallen out of the back of trucks that were turning a corner or leaving a stop light," Barbara Woodall said.

Texas Executes Third Killer Within A Week

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (UPI) - Chester Lee Wicker flew into a rage hours before his execution, then quietly went to his death by injection today for choking and burying a college student alive on an isolated beach in 1960.

The lethal dose of drugs was administered at 12:10 a.m. CDT, and Wicker was pronounced dead 10 minutes later. His only words while strapped to a gurney for the execution were, "I love you," spoken to Judith Lamblion. his only personal witness whom prison officials described as a spiritual adviser.

He was the third person put to death in a week in Texas and the 18th since the state resumed executions in 1982. Texas leads the nation in executions carried out since the Supreme Court lifted its ban on the death penalty in 1976. His was the 65th execution in the nation since capital punishment was resumed.

Governors Seek Guard Control

HILTON HEAD, S.C. (UPI) - The nation's governors are headed for a showdown with President Reagan over whether he can send their state national guard units to Honduras for training.

At the closing session of the National Governors Association today, the state chief executives plan a vote on a policy statement saying they have control of their guard units during peacetime.

The statement makes no mention of Central America. but it comes in the wake of disputes between the White House and several governors this summer over sending units to train in Honduras.

On Monday, a top Florida law enforcement official warned the governors that epidemic use of the drug, crack. will sweep through the nation's schools when American children go back to the classroom this fall.

Frontier Still Grounded

DENVER (UPI) - The parent company of Frontier Airlines threatened for a second straight day today to seek bankruptcy protection for the grounded carrier unless a stalled deal to sell it to United Airlines could be revived.

People Express Inc., which owns Frontier, shut down the carrier Sunday and said its subsidiary would file for bankruptcy Monday unless a dispute over pilot pay scales that had blocked a tentative sale to United was resolved.

Talks between United and the pilots union broke off early Monday without an agreement on the issue, and no new sessions were scheduled. But People Express said later in a statement that Frontier would delay filing for bankruptcy until today so it could explore "other alternatives."

IN BRIEF

Judges Approve Action To Hasten Death Appeals

MIAMI (UPI) - A decision by federal judges in south Florida to approve a policy aimed at reducing the time it takes for death penalty appeals to be resolved in court has won praise from the governor's office.

"Any action or change in policies that would bring some expedited treatement in these cases would be applauded by the governor." said Arthur Wiedinger, the governor's assistant general counsel. "If they have placed time limits on it, he would be pleased."

Gov. Bob Graham, a firm advocate of the death penalty. has been frustrated by the amount of time it takes to get decisions on death appeals in federal court, he said.

The new policy requires judges to rule within six months and five days on the appeal of a death row inmate. After that time, a judge would be required to postpone all other cases until the appeal was resolved, said the district's chief federal judge Monday.

Tornado Strikes Cape Coral

CAPE CORAL (UPI) - A tornado that touched down in Cape Coral damaged between 25 and 40 homes but caused no injuries, officials said.

"At this time we have 25 to 40 homes involved," said John Wilson, who is in charge of disaster preparedness for Lee County. "Roofs have been blown off and a lot of screen porches are no longer there. We only have three families that were displaced."

Weather service officials said the tornado touched down about 6:45 p.m. Monday and lasted about 15 minutes.

in the suit filed in Washington federal court Monday, the recommendations of an Aug. 4 report based on an investigation into Hastings' conduct by a five-member panel from the 11th Circuit Court of Appeals in Atlanta were made public.

The report recommended that Hastings, Florida's first black federal judge, be impeached on grounds that he is guilty of bribery charges of which he was acquitted in 1983 and charges of improper conduct.

Hastings was acquitted in 1983 of conspiring with Washington lawyer William Borders Jr. to solicit a $120,000 bribe.

But after the acquittal, a judicial complaint was filed alleging that Hastings was guilty of bribery conspiracy and that he also was guilty of improper conduct as a federal

The report recommends that the Judicial Council, the second highest review body in the federal judicial investigative system, should "determine that Judge Hastings in fact engaged in the conduct upon which he had been tried and acquitted and that his defense was fabricated to avoid conviction."

It also recommended dismissal of other allegations that Hastings' law clerks leaked information and that Hastings solicited money from a convicted felon.

The Judicial Council will begin action on the committee's report this week and the Judicial Conference will meet Sept. 15, the newspaper said.

Hastings' lawsuit argues that the law which governs the judicial investigation should be struck down because it interferes O'Kelley of Georgia.

The suit also seeks a restraining order to

Soviets Believed KAL 007 Spy Plane

Article: U.S. Termed Inhumane Shooting It Knew Was Mistake

Korean airliner 007 was a U.S. spy plane on a reconnaissance magazine.

A spokesman for the magazine said the article presents conclusive evidence of the Soviets' misconception as well as suggests that U.S. authorities knew quickly that Soviet bungling led to the attack, but chose instead to press for political advantage by calling it "an inhumane Soviet attack on an unarmed civilian airliner.'

The Soviet pilot who shot down Korean Airlines flight 007 in 1983 failed to make visual identification of the plane, and blunders and unsophisticated equipment led officials to think the craft was a U.S. spy plane, the magazine reported.

The article said that in a series of equipment and command blunders, the Soviet pilot disobeyed orders and shot down the airliner without making visual identification before attacking. The New York Times reported Sunday.

"Oh, my God! ... The target is destroyed," the Soviet pilot radioed back to the ground command that had ordered him to visually identify and fire a warning shot if necessary, according to messages intercepted

The Benefits Of Engagement

Constructive engagement, we might call it, had the phrase not been previously employed (now disemployed). Whatever it's called, the agreement announced recently between the Soviet Union and the United States on educational, cultural and scientific exchanges is welcome news. Engagement, making an effort to know and understand - and appreciate - another culture is, almost without exception, constructive. Engagement dispels fear and ignorance, which are often precursors to engagement of the destructive

One of the accords signed - all of them grow out of the Reagan-Gorbachev talks held last November in Geneva — provides for the first exchange of high school students between the two countries. In another educational program. American teachers of Russian and Soviet teachers of English will switch places for up to 10 months. Another program calls for lecturers in history, economics and culture to change places.

In medicine, the University of Alaska at Anchorage and the Soviet Ministry of Health will study the health problems of adaptation common to Alaska and Siberia.

Cultural exchanges include 62 Russian prerevolutionary paintings from galleries in Moscow and Leningrad coming to several museums in this country and 65 American paintings from the Smithsonian Institution and other collections going to the Hermitage in Leningrad and the Pushkin Museum in Moscow. A Metropolitan Opera-Bolshoi Opera exchange is also a possibility.

J. William Fulbright, the former senator from Arkansas whose Fulbright Exchange Program celebrated its 40th anniversary just recently, once noted that exchange programs "can help shift U.S.-Soviet rivalry from nuclear weapons to education" and "thus minimize chances of nuclear war." It's not necessary to approve of the Soviet system or to condone its foreign policy to believe that the senator is right. Engagement of a cultural, educational and scientific nature will be mutually constructive.

Heart Knows

The comic strip of the late Al Capp featured Lower Slobbovia, a bleak, cold country. Immediately upon the birth of their children. Lower Slobbovian parents placed them on the official waiting list to leave the country. The list contained the names of everyone in the

That was an imaginary country. The real Lower Slobbovias are the communist nations, all jammed with people dying to get away. Consider the fact that the two largest refugee groups in Florida are Cubans and Nicaraguans from the Western Hemisphere's only two communist nations.

Consider also the Berlin Wall, constructed to keep people from escaping from communism into freedom. It seems axiomatic that communist takeovers are invariably followed by mass exodus of the population.

The latest escapees are a pair of Soviet high-wire performers who defected from the Moscow Circus road show while it played Argentina. Nikolaievich Nikolski and his wife Bertalina, both in their mid-30s, communicated with U.S. authorities in Buenos Aires and received hastily arranged U.S. visas.

Now in Miami. Bertalina said, "We are happy, very happy to be here."

The Moscow Circus is world renowned. Its performers are first class, popular with the Soviet public and economically secure. Why leave all that to start out again in a new. unfamiliar land?

Perhaps because it is in the nature of human beings to be drawn to liberty even as it is in the nature of moths to be drawn to light. Communism stops liberty from being exercised; it can't stop the human heart from longing for it. It can never do that!

We Should Be Clearing Air On Smoking

Our national attitude toward smoking seems to combine Mark Twain's meteorological punditry and President Reagan's apartheid servility. Everybody talks about the weather." observed Twain. "but nobody does anything about it." Reagan mouths platitudes about apartheid, but avoids anything that will antagonize South Africa.

The U.S. Surgeon General's massive documentation tying smoking to lung cancer proves that it's time to crack down on smoking, even if it means financial grief for the tobacco industry.

If two friends of mine who live 1,100 miles apart have their way, that "misfortune" couldn't come soon enough.

Both are former chain-smokers fighting for their lives in a game whose odds favor their deaths. The game involves the tobacco industry's triple play: smoking to lung cancer to death.

Sam, a brilliant writer and an incorrigible recidivist, has spent 37 of his 55 years in prison. Currently, he is in a federal prison hospital in Springfield. Mo.. receiving chemotherapy treatment for carcinoma of his left lung.

Matthew, a successful Philadelphia investment banker, recently had half of a cancerous lung removed.

The triple play is an equal-opportunity lethality: Sam is white, Matthew is black.

"I may have to say goodbye." Sam wrote me from his prison bed. "Like Yui Brynner, maybe I also want to write a living testimonial against the use of tobacco.

"If there is a single case against smoking or the ingestion of tobacco in any form. It does not lie in the possibility that it may shorten life, for death is the undeniable end for us all, but in the intense physical and psychological trauma of lung cancer and the positive knowledge that we might have prevented it."

Matthew agrees. A few days ago, we sat on his front stoop and he showed me the eight-inch scar across his back.

"I have been a heavy smoker all my life." Had he stopped? "I'm dumb, but not stupid. Of course I have. Had he been cured of the cancer? Matthew smiled wryly. "We'll know in six months." We're such a nation of hypocrites. If mind-altering marijuana is outlawed, why shouldn't life-destroying eigarettes be treated similarly.

Belatedly, various assaults have been mounted against the murderous weed: - The Army now prohibits smoking in Army facilities, vehicles and aircraft, with the exception of specially permitted smoking areas: The National Academy of Sciences has called for a ban on cigarette smoking on all domestic flights:

- The Federal Trade Commission has charged that the R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. illegally misrepresented and understated the health risks of smoking in its advertisements:

More than 100 product-liability lawsuits have been filed across the nation against elgarette manufacturers:

- Several enlightened representatives want to ban all cigarette advertising.

WASHINGTON WORLD

Third Term Effort

By Arnold Sawislak

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Suddenly we are starting to hear talk about repealing the 22nd Amendment. which limits presidents to two terms. It is probably a good idea, but it is complicated, if not doomed, by the motives of its current supporters.

Led by Rep. Guy Vander Jagt. chairman of the House Republican ccampaign ccommittee, and Max Hugel, a New Hampshire businessman, the new campaign is being put forward as a way to keep Ronald Reagan in the White House for four more years after 1988.

The president says he favors repeal of the two-term limit, but not for himself. Some people believe him and some don't, but the very idea of changing the basic ground rules of politics in a way that could benesit a particular politician distorts the debate over the issue of a limit on presidential service.

Changing the Constitution to permit an incumbent president to stay in office beyond the time permitted when he was elected smacks of what used to be called Banana Republic politics. — the kind of tactic used in Haiti by the Duvaller "presidents-for-life" - or the arrogant "boss rule" games still played in some American cities.

If the 22nd Amendment is to be repealed, it should be effective only after the incumbent president has left office. In point of fact, it is likely that a repeal amendment probably couldn't be ratified in time to benefit Reagan, who leaves office in 28 months under the present arrangement.

Constitutional amendments require approval by two-thirds maforities in both the House and Senate and majority approval of both houses of the legislatures in 38 states, a process that frequently takes most of the seven years Congress usually provides for ratification.

Reagan might be long gone from Washington before the two-term limit could be repealed and, if by chance, a Democrat or a liberal Republican is elected president in 1988, Vander Jagt and Hugel might be far less enthusiastic about Junking the two-term limit.

Putting the Reagan issue aside, there are some good arguments for repealing the two-term limit.

The first is properly advanced by the Vander Jagt-Hugel campaign: The people should be allowed to elect a president as many times as they wish.

Members of Congress and with most other elected officers at the state and local levels may serve as many terms as they can win and there is no logical reason to limit the president.

Examining Underclass

CHICAGO (NEA) - Children play in curbside pools of fetid water, jobless young men lotter on refuse-strewn sidewalks, stores stand thandoned behind intimidating from gates and graffiti-covered walls curse the outside world.

This is North Lawndale, a predominantly (97 percent) black, overwhelmingly poor (more than half of its residents receive some form of public assistance) community on Chicago's West Side almost five miles southwest of the city's downtown "Loop."

James D. Squires, editor of the Chicago Tribune, aptly characterizes North Lawndale's populace as typical of the "underclass that is... hopelessly trapped in the urban centers of Chicago and other large cities of the nation."

Squires notes that "neither the existence of this group nor its circumstance is news." Indeed, in 1966. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. temporarily moved into an apartment in North Lawndale to call attention to the area's chronic problems.

"What is new and significant," says Squires, "is that over the last decade this group appears to have gained political and social acceptance as a permanent fixture of the world's most advanced society without much understanding of, or concern about, the consequences."

Recent years have produced a spate of studies of teenage pregnancies, illegitimate births, infant mortality, violent deaths and other aspects of life among the poor urban blacks who face the terrifying prospect of being permanently trapped in society's underclass.

The extent of their deprivation has been quantified using every imaginable statistical measurement.

Thus, we know that more than 30 percent of all black families - but fewer than 10 percent of all white families — live in poverty.

Median family income is for whites but only $15,400 for blacks - and $8,600 for the 44 percent of all black families maintained by women alone.

National unemployment rates are about 16 percent for blacks compared with 6.5 percent for whites. Among black teenagers, the jobless rate routinely exceeds 40 percent.

In an effort to look behind those numbers, the Tribune mobilized more than two dozen editors, reporters and photographers to produce a series on "The American Millstone" - a reference to the heavy burden that grinds down or pulls under not only poor urban blacks but the rest of the populace

The series, published last year. focused on North Lawndale, a community of 61.650. It found a subculture spawned by racism and poverty that inevitably lead to pathological behavior — often in the form of random or predatory violence in the streets, schools and public housing projects.

The community's 31/2 square miles are "populated in large part by brutal gang members, single mothers, pimps, prostitutes, drug dealers - and children whose chances of escaping the urban jungle are overwhelmingly diminished by the negative role models who dominate their environment," the Tribune reported. Resolving North Lawndale's problems, the newspaper concluded. will require acknowledgment of the situation by politicians who long have avoided the issue,

Mountain Illness A Mystery

By Larry Doyle UPI Science Writer CHICAGO (UPI) - Few Illnesses

are as odd as this. • It attacks the strong but not the weak, and almost always on mountain tops. Simple oxygen can cure it, but only if the person stricken can get down from the mountain fast enough. It can kill or it can just cause a headache. Acute mountain sickness has been known since at least 32 B.C. A Chinese official. Too Kin. wrote about "The Great Headache Mountain" probably in Afghanistan, a place where "men's bodies become feverish, they lose color, and are attacked with headache and vomit-

Medical authorities now know more about mountain sickness, but not much, says Dr. Drummond Rennte, of Rush Medical School in Chicago. We know what the treatment is, which is basically get people down, rest them, (and) if you've got oxygen, give it to them," Rennie says. "Beyond that, It's something of a mystery." Mountain sickness usually strikes about a day or two after a person ascends too high (above 14,000 feet) too fast. About one or two people out of 100 people are susceptible to lt, though it's nearly impossible to predict which ones. In rare cases, somebody with mountain sickness will die from it. But most puzzling about the illness is that although it often shows up as a severe cardiac problem called high-altitude pulmonary edema (HAPE), it usually only attacks those with strong, not weak, hearts.

"It kills very young, very fit people and it's a very shocking thing to watch a superfit climber die right in front of you, like I have," Rennie says. The reason weaker or less fit people don't get it, he says, is probably because they don't exert themselves.

"Exercise is certainly an important part of this illness," he says, listing mountain climbing and cross country skiing as risky activities for the development of mountain sickness.

'It rarely happens in downhill skiing." he says, "because I hate to say it, but that's not very much exercise at all."

Recently, researchers have been able to find out more about what occurs during mountain illness, though not what causes it.

Dr. Robert Schoene and colleagues at the University of Washington in Seattle studied the lung fluid of six people with HAPE and discovered the fluid was filled with large blood proteins.

Ortega Alienates Latin America

By Jack Anderson

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic - The leaders of two hostile nations. Nicaragua's President Daniel Ortega and El Salvador's President Jose Napoleon Duarte, had a brief encounter the other day in the Dominican Republic.

Both were there for the inauguration of Dominican President Joaquin Balaguer.

Ortega supports the Salvadoran rebels who want to overthrow Duarte. They have often resorted to terrorism; once they even kidnapped his daughter. Accusing Ortega to his face. Duarte called on him to stop supporting the rebels and allow Central America to live in

As Duarte later described the conversation to me, Ortega demanded evidence: he asked for proof. Duarte said he could cite between the two countries.

Then he told Ortega about a telephone call that the rebels had made to a Dominican bishop.

The call not only came from Nicaragua but was traced to a high-security area where the rebel operations center is located. Duarte

The Salvadoran president also recalled his negotiations with the rebel leaders after they kidnapped his daughter.

They repeatedly interrupted the negotiations to clear their next moves with the Ortega regime, interruption, he added, by saying: 'Let's find out what Managua thinks about this."

In response, Ortega urged bilateral talks to settle the differences

A military solution may be necessary in Nicaragua, he conceded, but a diplomatic solution would be preferable. He likes ex-Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's plan to seek a settlement at the superpower level.

Fitness Equipment World Can Equip Your Home Gym

The trend today in the fitness movement is for people to buy their own equipment and install a private gym in their home. Fitness Equipment World at Flea World, Sanford, has the body building equipment you need to start your own home gym and at prices you can afford.

Fitness Equipment World, located in G-67 and G-69 in the air-conditioned Gold Building, sells quality equipment at extremely competitive prices because of low overhead. They are open Friday, Saturday and Sunday from 9 a.m. to 5

Co-owners L. "Chris" Christensen and his son-in-law Roy McKinley opened the shop at Flea World 12 weeks ago. They have all types of weight training and physical fitness equipment. If you don't see what you want just ask and they can usually get it for you.

"We have achieved a degree of success in helping men and women install their on equipment and are a source of supply for additional equipment as the individual decides to expand," Chris said. "It ties in with the health fitness movement and is more than a passing fad. They even have weightlifting teams in Florida high schools."

Roy has five years experience in the fitness business and Chris was a businessman in Illinois for 20 years before moving to Florida.

Their weights are unique in that they all have a baked polymer finish to increase rust resistance. Rust is a common problem in Florida. They offer everything from complete weight sets to individual pieces of equipment as required. They have

Blair Insurance Agency Gives Personal Service

The folks at Blair Agency, Sanford, regard their clients as "family." They are not just numbers to Steve Blair, office manager of the Blair Insurance Agency, or his mother, Genie Blair, owner and founder of the agency.

In fact, the agency's business philosophy is expressed in the motto which appears on their letterhead - "Personalized service is our busicustomers can depend on. The fact that it works with 18 different companies enables the Blair Agency to shop around for the best deals, tailored to the needs of their customers, Steve said. The agency was founded by Blair's mother, Genie Blair, in Sanford 15 years ago and she remains actively involved in all aspects of its operation. Considered an expert in the insurance fleid, Mrs. Blair was for a time the only woman licensed in both real estate and insurance in the state early in her career in Sanford.

Blair said he also specializes in helping drivers who have trouble getting insurance due to too many tickets or accidents.

But drivers with tough records aren't the only ones who will benefit from Blair Agency services. Drivers with stainless histories will like the services and the savings they get at the agency. Blair said.

They will like dealing with the Blair Agency staff, which is trained and educated to give their clients the best service. And because the agency isn't a high volume agency. Blair says it treats each customer in a special way.

United Finds Asian Skies Less Friendly

By David R. Schweisberg TOKYO (UPI) - Six months after United Airlines took over the Pacific routes of Pan American World Airways, its expanded service in the Far East has earned a reputation as a traveler's nightmare.

The airline has been plagued by canceled flights and late arrivals. Passengers complain that harried air crews, poorly trained ground staff and endless airport lines have made United's Asian skies less than friendly.

"It's a mess." said Sandra Gamo, deputy director of the Tokyo office of the U.S. Travel and Tourism Administration. "Their service is really

United, the world's biggest private-sector carrier, was unusually candid in acknowledging that company forecasts of what was involved in its first real foray overseas fell far short of the actual

Airline executives contend the worst is over. but they admitted that United, by entering a highly competitive market tail first, has created its own biggest obstacle: an image of unreliability.

"We were very ashamed of our performance." said Colin D. Murray. United's North Pacific region vice president. "Now we're digging ourselves out from the hole we made at the beginning. The good news is, we think we're

United said it hopes to capitalize on its 164-destination network and its Apollo computer system, through which passengers can book flights, hotels, cars and even show tickets from their starting points.

United plunged into the Asian market with great fanfare last February after it bought route rights and 18 jetliners from alling Pan Am, the Orient pioneer, for $750 million.

The ambitious purchase - the biggest airline deal in history - turned United overnight from a token Far East competitor of Japan Air Lines and Northwest Airlines Into a major player with 80 weekly trans-Pacific and regional flights serving 13 Asian cities.

Within weeks, however, United was fighting just to keep planes in the air.

The 11 Boeing 747s, six Lockheed L-1011s and one DC-10 sold by Pan Am needed "substantially more" refurbishment than anticipated to meet United's standards, Murray said. Their interiors had to be gutted, fuselages repainted and an array of minor mechanical problems repaired.

"Pan Am did not shortchange on safety," Murray said. "But they had shortchanged on supplies, spare parts, engines. Laying hands on all that was difficult."

Each plane took six weeks and $3 million to modify.

The 2,700 Pan Am air and ground employees hired by United needed lengthy retraining courses, which are still under way. Ticketing, maintenance and other ground operations had to be upgraded.

Charles Novak, United's corporate communications manager in Chicago, said United also added several new features to its Pacific service, including inflight interpreters for Japanese, Korean and Chinese speaking passengers.

Meanwhile, flights came in late or not at all. leaving frustrated passengers at departure gates. The problems were especially acute in Tokyo, the hub for most of United's Asian flights.

"United tookover an ongoing business and obviously there has been a transition period of refurbishing aircraft and facilities to United standards and training personnel to the company's methods of doing business," Novak said. "This transition period is nearly completed."

According to the Japanese Transport Ministry, a staggering 35 percent of United's flights to and from Tokyo were scrubbed in May. The figure dropped, however, to 15 percent in June and only 2 percent in July.

Novak acknowledged the cancellations but disputed the peak figure.

There were incidents of alreraft substitutions and cancellations — as is done on a routine basis by the world's airlines" Novak said. "But cancellations at Tokyo's Narita Airport from May through July at no time ran more than 6 percent for a month and generally no more than 3 percent

Murray said delays of more than 30 minutes now have dipped to an acceptable level of under 10 percent, but even a small sampling of travelers turned up persistent complaints.

An American businessman boarded a U.S.-bound flight to find his first-class ticket worthless because the plane had no first-class service on the trans-Pacific leg, the trip's longest

A Tokyo-based journalist whose dinner flight to Taipet was three hours late said United failed to offer even beverages to waiting passengers. When she checked in at the Taipel booking office, the clerks, unable to find her return confirmation, asked if she knew her "computer number."

United's problems come at a time of expanding competition in the more than $2 billion-a-year Pacific air market. In line with an ongoing overhaul of the U.S. Japan civil aviation accord. additional airlines are being allowed to open routes to challenge Japan Air Lines, the trans-Pacific leader, and Northwest and United.

The nightmarish months so far have not seriously cut into bookings, although Murray said the average flight load in Asia, at around 65 percent of capacity, is below United's fleet average of 70 percent.

"The cancellations are the big problem," noted an industry analyst. "The more you're obligated to cancel, the harder it is to lure people back.

Travel agents, however, contended many Asian passengers have only been sampling United and travelers from America are loyal because of its lucrative Mileage Plus bonus program.

Coaches Decelerate Emphasis For SCC Run

Saturday's 11th annual Summertime Seminole Jamboree at Seminole Community College will give coaches a chance to see many of their runners in a race atmosphere before the 1986 season opens on Sept. 13 with the Lake Mary Invitational.

The meet will start with a 440 yard fun run at 9:30 Saturday morning. followed by a half mile fun run. The girls' 14-18 two mile run will then be held with the boys 14-18 three mile run will be held following the girls race. An open race, following the boys' event, will be held. The fee for all runners will be $3.

The Seminole County coaches say they will all be approaching the meet from a practice-oriented angle. The meet, originally scheduled for Sept. 6. was moved up a week, causing a few problems for the area coaches.

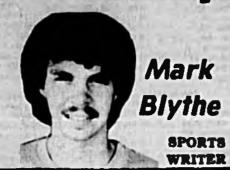

"I'm not making any of my girls run in the meet if they don't want to." Lake Howell coach Tom Hammontree said. "It's a fun run and we just want to have fun with the meet."

While many coaches feel the same way, others are having problems getting enough runners to fill out an entire team. Jobs and and late vacationers are leaving coaches wondering what their team will actually look like.

'I'm taking only those who want to run." new Seminole High School girls coach Cindy Branum said. "Some have been working out with the boys team so they'll be in shape, but our first official practice started Saturday."

Branum was still unsure of what the team consisted of, but after leaving a successful program at Orlando Bishop Moore High, she is looking for her team to be competitive within the area.

Lake Mary coach Mike Gibson is approaching the meet with a "low key attitude." "It's too early to tell anything from this meet and it probably will not determine who my varsity will be." he said. "There will be so many runners from around the state running that I may only run two or three girls so the others aren't discouraged.

"I'm looking to be competitive, I know Lake Howell is very strong and Lake Brantley will have a lot of depth but I hope to be competitive."

Lake Brantley has a team consisting of 30 girls who have been participating in an informal running schedule since the beginning of July. Coach Mary Littlebrant said she is using the jamboree as a tuneup.

"It's up to the girls," she said. "If they want to run they will, if they're tired or hurt they won't run. I'm just using it as a warm up meet to see where the girls are at this point."

Lyman coach Fred Finke and Oviedo coach Ed Bolton are having their teams approach the meet in the same way. Both will be looking at where their front runners are, but are basically more interested in their youth getting a meet under their belts than anything.

"This is a fun meet and it's too early to get excited on where you place in the competition." Finke said. "The beginning isn't half as important as the end. If the kids want to form a team and run together thats fine, but it's too early to tell what anybody is able to accomplish we'll run for fun that's what the meet is geared for."

Lake Mary boys coach Mark McGee is approaching the meet "very casually." "I'm not too sure what my team will look like until this week as many of last year's runners are still working or on vacation," he said. "Having only one week to warm up for this I don't expect any kind of miracles. I hope they'll be competitive but I'll look at the effort not the time."

Lake Howell coach Joe Corso is having the same problem with kids still out working or on vacations and will use the meet as a practice."I'll use the meet as a time trial though it is still too early to make any decisions on who will make up my varsity." he Seminole coach Sid Blackwell will send in a very young team and is hoping for a good effort from them.

"I'm not forcing any of them to run, yet the meet will give me an idea where we stand." he said. "We're very young, we have no seniors and are looking for a strong fifth man. We've been doing well and hope a few more freshman will come out and help the

Improved Jai-Alai To Open Wednesday

By Sam Cook Herald Sports Editor

The new, improved Orlando-Seminole Jai-Alai Fronton in Fern Park will open its doors Wednesday night at 7 with a product assistant general manager Santi Echaniz said is expected to generate more winning among the bettors.

Echaniz, an excellent player who has serves as the player manager the past few years before moving to assistant general manager, said three format changes will debut Wednesday night as Orlando-Seminole begins its 26th year.

• Different pairing procedure. A blind draw will be used to pair the seven players per match. Prior, matches were determined by the player manager who tried give every team an equal chance of winning.

This might have been fair, Echaniz said, but it wasn't conducive to the bettors since the No. 1 and No. 2 positions are the most appealing for the players while No. 6 received less floor time in the Spectacular 7

In that format, No. 1 and No. 2 open the contest with the winner advancing to play No. 3, etc.

"It will not be possible to have the best frontcourt players and backcourt players as a team in more than one game and in the advantageous positions such as one and two," Echaniz said. "This will make it easier for our customers to win more often."

 Classification of players. Taking an idea from the highly successful greyhound business, the Jai-alai performers will be placed in three classes - A. B and C - according to ability.

"After the first full week of jai-alai, we will advance two frontcourt and two backcourt players to the next higher class," Echaniz said. "The advancements will be based on percentage of in-the-money finishes. We will also move four players down a class, using the same procedure.

The ranking system, Echaniz said, will inspire better performances. "This we believe will make for better all-around play,' he said. "After all, no one wants to be demoted."

Singles, Doubles, Triples, A third addition will be offered in the ninth game on Tuesday. Friday and Saturday when triples — three players on a team - will be played. "This will provide different shots and more excitement," Echaniz said.

The bettor will also have another big win opportunity in the eighth and 10th games where a twin-trifecta will be introduced. "This wager has gone over big in other frontons." Mutuel Manager James "Buzz" Bussard said. "We're sure it will do the same here."

Atano, who was assistant the past couple of years, moves into he players manager job.

Top returnees include backcourter Mendi, frontcourter Arra, frontcourter Eduardo, backcourter Javier, frontcourter Charola, frontcourter and wins champion Galla and backcourter Laca. Two new frontcourters. Pardo, from Hartford, Conn., and Dana, an American rookie frontcourter, who will make his debut Wednesday.

Nelson Lauds Letterio, Reddington Bisceglia Likes Wainwright, Line

By Scott Sander Herald Sports Writer

Now that the Seminole Athletic Conference high school football teams have five days of hittirg under their belts, coaches are starting to get an Idea of what to expect when the opening games roll around.

At Lake Mary, coach Harry Nelson said that he has been happy with the way his Rams have been playing.

'We have looked very good so far." Nelson said. "I am very happy with the way our practices have been going." Nelson said that he plans to run a multiple offense behind a very solid offensive line. "We will do a litte bit of everything." Nelson said. "Our offensive linemen are holding their blocks really well and if that continues we should be tough." Nelson went on to say the offensive leader is senior quarterback Shane Letterio, "Shane is the head of our spider," Nelson said. "Everybody else is the legs. Shane is a natural leader and has done a fine Job so far." On defense the Rams will be playing a five-man front, led by defensive tackle Robb Reddington. "Rob can play anywhere on the line," Nelson said. "He is very quick. '(Linebacker) Matt has done a good job," Nelson said. "We have some depth at linebacker this year. Nelson that there are still a number of positions that are still open. "We don't have a set line up yet," he said. "There are still quite a few positions to be won or lost."

Nelson went on to say that he team will be in good shape. "Too many people are worried about conditioning." Nelson said. "If a team practices hard then the conditioning takes care of itself."

At Lake Howell, coach Mike Bisceglia said that has been pleased with his teams practices. 'So far I am very happy with the effort our kids are putting in." Bisceglia said. "We have picked up where we left off after spring practice and I am very happy so far.'

Bisceglia said that the Silver Hawks scrimmaged their first day of hitting. "Most teams will do an "Oklahoma" drill which tells the coaches who the hitters are," Bisceglia said. "But we know who our hitters are and didn't want to waste our time so we have been scrimmaging.'

Lake Howell will hold its annual Silver/Grey game on Friday night at 6:30. Admission is free. Bisceglia said the scrimmage will be an offense vs. defense format.

"It will give the kids a chance a play in the stadium," he said. "It will be good for them to play in a game-like atmosphere."

On offense, the Hawks will be running the veer. "We have been looking really smooth." Bisceglia said. "We have some work to do but I have been pleased so far."

Leading the Silver Hawks is senior quarterback Mark Wainwright. "Mark has been doing a fine job so far," Bisceglia said. "He is learning his reads well."

Report: Ex-Redskin Smith Has AIDS

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Jerry Smith, a receiver for the Washington Redskins during the 1960s and 1970s, is suffering from AIDS. The Washington Post reported in its Tuesday

Smith, who caught 421 passes for 5,496 yards and 60 touchdowns in 13 NFL seasons. is being treated for acquired immune deficiency syndrome at discussed his plight with the newspaper because "maybe It will help people understand.

Football

Holy Cross Hospital in suburban Silver Spring, Md. The Post

Jim Graham, director of the Whitman Walker Clinic In Washington, which treats and counsels homosexuals, told the Post, "This disclosure destroys The 43-year-old Smith, who is the stereotype that AIDS is a to be inducted this fall to the disease of drug addicts and Washington Hall of Stars at hairdressers. AIDS does attack Robert F. Kennedy Stadium, all manner of people."

'If I go free agent and if there is collusion, then they'll know. You can't tell me 26 teams don't want to have me on the club.

— Tim Raines

Expos Can Live Without Dawson But Not Raines

Tim Raines is ready to say his goodbyes to teammate/best friend Andre Dawson. He said recently he's sure Dawson won't be in a Montreal uniform next

When the subject turns to Raines' whereabouts, though, the Expos' superstar leftflelder is a little more evasive. Raines said he is not sure if he will be playing north of the border a year hence.

become a free agent at the end of this season, has been rumored to be headed for either Chicago or Detroit. The White Sox were ready to give up Bruce Tanner and Joel Davis, a pair of promising young pitchers. It's presumed the Tigers are also offering young arms. "Andre knows he's going," Raines said. "He knows he won't be around here (Montreal) next

The Expos aren't too far from contending. The loss of Dawson would be felt, however. He's the leader and still carries a potent bat and an excellent throwing arm. Montreal would need to get some quality in return, not just on the mound but in the outfield.

It remains to be seen if they will ever compete on a level with the Mets, but they do have a fine young club. Raines, third baseman Tim Wallach. shortstop Hubic Brooks and reliever Jeff Reardon are bonafide stars.

Center fielder Mitch Webster. first baseman Andres Galarraga. pitchers Floyd Youmans and Tim Burke and catcher Mike Fitzgerald are all capable performers who could blossom.

Bryn Smith's return to form and a healthy Charlie Lea would give them a solid staff. Reardon and setup man Burke were the finest one-two punch in the N.L. last year and could be again in

But the Expos could play without Dawson. Could they, however, play without Raines? That's a question they probably don't want to find out. It was generally accepted that they had to unload one of the two salaries and it makes more sense to hold on to 26-year-old Raines instead of 32-year-old Dawson.

But what if they traded Dawson, intending on signing Raines and Tim upset the applecart by going free agent? That would be a devastating blow, losing two all-star outfielders in one fell swoop.

Raines said last week that he doesn't "think much about free agency." He's too busy batting .333 and having the best season of his career. "I feel if I get the opportunity, if it goes that far, I might go for it," he said. "Right now, I'm kind of indecisive."

Raines, who previously wanted a five-year contract, has reduced his terms. He said he now wants a three-year deal worth between $5.5 and $5.8 million. "I want what Fernando (Valenzuela) got for three years," he said. "I guess maybe if they come up with a contract I like, then I'll sign."

Sam Cook SPORTS

Money and length of pact. Dawson, who like Raines ean however, may not be the bottom line on as to where Raines plays next year. The Major League Players Association and the owners are still going to war on the charge of owner collusion. The owners fired the arbitrator, reportedly because they felt he was going to rule against them.

Collusion or whatever, last year's free agents went hungry. which was peculiar. Kirk Gibson, a highly talented right fielder for the Detroit Tigers. might well as left his phone off the hook.

The players charged the owners with conspiracy. The owners, though, said they were just practicing good business sense. After years of throwing good money after bad, they were taking a more judicious approach to signing free agents.

Raines and agent Tom Reich find the situation rather amusing. They know they're sitting on a potential bonanza with Tim's abilities. They just wonder whether the purse string will pop open when Raines - along with Tiger hurler Jack Morris for one - hit the open market.

"If I go free agent and if there is collusion, then they'll know." Raines, who will be 27 on Sept. 16. said. "You can't tell me 26 teams don't want to have me on the club.'

Raines, although surprised Gibson didn't get a flood of offers last year, said Kirk's oft-injured status may have scared clubs away. "That's the difference between me and Kirk Gibson." Raines said. "I average 150 games a year. They know I'll be playing every day."

Raines said there were several reasons to stay in Montreal. "This stadium is suited to my game. The ball gets in the corner and rattles around." Raines, who leads the N.L. in triples with 10, said about the astroturfed Olympic Stadium. "I hit well here. You never know what you're going to do when you go someplace else."

He did, nevertheless, point out the advantages of playing elsewhere, such as climate and contending. "I like San Diego and Los Angeles for the weather and Atlanta because it's close to home," Raines said. "I'm not getting any younger. Time is running out as far as getting to the playoffs.

"All those teams I mentioned need a leadoff man. Being in Montreal and on a losing club tends to hurt you. Unless you're in California or New York, losing teams don't get the recognition."

McEnroe: Temper, Temper

NEW YORK (UPI) - One of the big concerns for John McEnroe as he enters the most critical phase of his comeback is tocontrol his temper.

He has said repeatedly that at age 27, and now with a family, he feels he has matured enough to keep tennis in perspective and to behave with more dignity.

Much to his regret, though, it is a problem McEnroe may not have to contend with at the U.S. Open. Quite possibly, he could be gone before he gets the chance to explode.

McEnroe was scheduled for his opening-round match today against Paul Annacone, a fellow New Yorker who is ranked 20th in the world. Although McEnroe defeated him last week at the Hamlet Challenge Cup In Jericho, N.Y., Annacone is a strong, young player capable of producing an upset.

Should McEnroe get by Annacone, he still faces a formidable fight simply to reach the quarterfinals. His second-round opponent could be Aaron Krickstein, with a projected third-round match against Bobo Zivojinovic, who carried Ivan Lendl to five sets in the Wimbledon semifinals. In the fourth round McEnroe could get eighth seed Henri Leconte, a semifinalist in both the French and Wimbledon this year, with a quarterfinal duel against Lendi. the defending champion and No. I seed.

Even before the draw was announced. McEnroe, who is seeded ninth, predicted he wouldn't win a fifth Open championship this year.

"On any given day now, I feel I can play with the top guys," he said. "But realistically, I don't think I have the consistency to win seven straight matches at the U.S. Open."

In the three tournaments he has played since returning from a six-month sabbatical, McEnroe has minded his manners reasonably well, although there has been an occasional reminder of his explosive temper. At Stratton Mountain, Vt., McEnroe hit a photographer with two balls before a practice session.

"What happens is, something snaps inside me and I just have to make my point." McEnroe said in explanation. "I look at it as a one-on-one individual thing with that person, not thinking at the time, stupidly not thinking that it is going to get blown up."

Now that he is married and has a child, McEnroe contends that being the world's best player doesn't carry the same weight for him as it once did. At the same time, his passion for perfection drives him toward being the best he can be.

"I expect myself to be a better tennis player, that's my goal," he said. "If that means being No. 1, then that will happen. One of the reasons I got away from tennis is because my life is more important than my tennis. I am willing to forego being No. 1 to be happy. So that is where I stand as far as that goes. As far as being No. 1, that's not the most important thing at this point.

"Taking six months off isn't the best way to help your tennis game. It may have been a mistake for my tennis, but not for myself. I have my priorities in order and I feel better as a

Another newlywed, Hana Mandikova, was given the privilege of opening play on the Stadium Court at 11 a.m. EDT today against Marie-Christine Calleja of France. Mandilkova is the defending women's champion although she is seeded No. 4.

Lendl, winner of his first Open crown last year with a straight sets victory over McEnroe, is due to follow McEnroe on Center Court against Glenn Layendecker.

Wimbledon champion Martina Navratllova, the No. 1 women's seed, is scheduled to play Andrea Holikova of Czechoslovakia in the featured evening match starting at 7:30 p.m., followed by fifth seed Yannick Noah against American Scott Davis,

Davis Blasts Keep Reds' Hopes Alive

United Press International The Cincinnati Reds are replacing the San Francisco Giants

as the only team with a chance to restore life to the National League West race. Cincinnati beat Pittsburgh 5-4

Monday, remaining eight games behind first-place Houston. Though tied with the Giants for second place, the Reds look like. the more dangerous of the two clubs. They have won seven of their last eight and they have a cornerstone player in Eric Davis.

"He has a lot of talent," Pittaburgh starter Rick Rhoden faced him before and that is always tough. I didn't know how to pitch him."

Davis hit a first-inning. three-run homer to give him 20 homers on the season. He became only the third player in major-league history to hit 20 or little. more home runs and also steal 60 or more bases in one season. Rickey Henderson and former Cincinnati Red Joe Morgan.

"That's tremendous company to be in." said Davis. "It's good happened."

Police Remove Asylum-Seekers From U.S. Embassy Gate

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UPI) — Police hauled away a sobbing, impoverished family clinging to the U.S. Embassy gate in a bid to seek asylum, an embassy spokesman said.

The father, calling for help and shouting his life was in danger, "threw himself onto the embassy gate and held on" Monday before a policeman and two men in civilian clothes pulled him away. U.S. press attache Alberto Fernandez said.

The man and his wife, who were accompanied by five or six of their children, all under 10-years-old and including an infant, sobbed when their efforts failed, Fernandez said.

He said the policeman and two other unidentified men "jumped on the man and forcibly pulled him off. He even tried to hold on with his foot."

Autonomy Planned For Moslems

SINGAPORE (UPI) - The Philippine government has tentatively agreed to grant limited autonomy to a Moslem region of the southern Philippines and to an enclave of tribal insurgents in the north, officials said today.

The disclosure was made by Philippine Embassy officials in Jakarta during President Corazon Aquino's two-day visit to mostly Moslem indonesia — her first journey abroad since taking power in the civilian-backed military revolt that toppled Ferdinand Marcos six months ago.

After leaving Indonesia, she flew to Singapore today and told business leaders that her country's financial situation had improved. She called for them to bolster investments in her nation.

in Jakarta, a Philippine Embassy official said a committee helping to draft a new Philippine constitution is working on the conditions for autonomy in the south in a bid to end the 14-year-old guerrilla war waged by Moslem separatists there.

Karpov Settles For Draw

LONDON (UPI) - With only one game left in the London leg, the odds are champion Gary Kasparov will carry at least a one-point lead to Leningrad for the second and deciding half of the world chess title competition next Challenger Anatoly Karpov is running out of time, luck and perhaps stamina in his bid to wrest back the crown he lost to 23-year-old Kasparov last November after a reign of 10 years.

In the 11th game of the 24-match, $915,000 championship Monday, Karpov let an early advantage with the white pieces slip through his fingers and had to settle for yet another draw - the eighth of the competition.

With two wins under his belt, the champion holds a 6.5 lead in the duel. A victory counts one point, a draw one-half point each. Karpov has won but once.

The 35-year-old challenger needs two more victories than Kasparov in the 13 games remaining to regain the title. If the two are deadlocked on points at the end, Kasparov retains the championship.

City staff came out against approving the apartment operation, and Mercer moved the recommendation be supported. Mercer has expressed opposi-

Cat Health Month

Be Kind To A Furry Friend

Special To The Herald

Recent studies revealing high incidence of feling leukemia, rables and other serious health problems among cats has prompted the American Veterinary Medical Association to launch Cat Health Month, a September campaign aimed at making cat owners more aware of the health needs of their pets. Feline celebrity Morris the Cat will serve as national "spokeacat" for the

According to Dr. Arthur Freeman, executive vice president of the AVMA, cats are now the most popular pet, yet their health care is lagging because they are burdened by what he terms the "feline mystique."

"Cats are seen as secretive, independent and aloof, with the result that most pet owners think cate can take care of themselves," he said. "But statistics prove they're wrong."

Dr. Freeman said that the most recent research suggests that as many as one in three household cats are carriers of feline leukemia - a contagious, incurable virus that attacks a cat's immune system, making it susceptible to many other diseases. At the same time, while only 4 percent of the nation's cats are vaccinated against rables, more cases of feline rables than canine rables were reported last year.

"Despite these statistics, other studies show that only 47 percent of cat owners ever take their pet to a veterinarian. compared to 74 percent of dog owners," Dr. Freeman said. "It's not that people care less about cats, it's just that people don't realize cats' health needs. Dogs tend to let you know when they're feeling bad. Cats, on the other hand, may look and act reasonably healthy while suffering from an illness."

Cat Health Month, he said, is intended to address this problem through a nationwide public education effort including televised public service announcements, public appearances by "spokescat" Morris, posters and educational brochures distributed by veterinarians and available through the

"The fact is, many feline diseases - feline leukemia, 'distemper,' rabies, respiratory illness - can be prevented with vaccines. These should be administered after a kitten reaches the age of two months, when it is no longer receiving the natural antibodies provided in its mother's milk," Dr. Freeman said. "These vaccinations do not provide protection indefinitely, however, and adult cats need annual check-ups and booster vaccinations to insure immunity."

The overpopulation of cats in this country. and the resulting need to euthanize millions of homeless cats each year, is another problem to be addressed during Cat Health Month.

"Neutering is an effective way to end this tragic waste and should be considered for any cat that is not being used for professional breeding purposes," Dr. Freeman said. "Ideally, this operation should be performed when the cat reaches six months of age."

September was chosen as Cat Health Month because it is the time when kittens born during the peak feline breeding season of late spring or early summer are due for their first check-ups and vaccinations.

In honor of Cat Health Month, Morris the Cat is sharpening his claws and digging into his third publication, "The Morris Prescription: A Guide to Cat Health Care." The free brochure is available through veterinarians or by writing to the Cat Health Month Information Desk. 211 East Ontario Street. Suite 1300, Chicago, IL 60611.

Good Nursing Homes Result Of Caring Staff

DEAR ABBY: With regard to Kirk Douglas' tirade against nursing homes, the staff and residents of this nursing home want to say, "Bull!"

Granted, there may be some pretty bad nursing homes in this country, but there are far more good ones than the kind that Mr. Douglas described in his letter. DEAR READER - Your mother should know. Tell your teacher to lay off. The oldfashioned treatments work just fine for most minor ailments. If the bed-rest/hot-drink therapy becomes ineffective, see a doctor for alternative treatment.
