Complementing her attractive costume was a white Glammelia corsage interspersed with turquoise baby's breath, n gift from the hostesses. Mrs. Wallace chose a print dress hand-screnned in pastel color tones, Mrs. Jos Columbus Poole, Sr., mother of the bridegroom-to-be, wore a blue silk shantung dress highlighted with matching blue lace trim. Both mothers were presented white Glamnelia corsages from the hostesses. A pink and white color scheme was carried out in the decor and refreshments. Centering the dining room table, which was covered in pink and overlaid with an exquisite heirloom hand-crocheted cloth, was a large triangular arrangement of pastel flowers containing aprays of pink-tinted baby's breath, Accenting the arrangement were three branched lead crystal candelabra with tall pink tapers, decorated with white love birds. Silver tea service graced one end of the table while fruit punch was poured from a crystal bowl at the opposite end. Silver appointments, arranged with a pot pourri of dainty party fare, completed the picturesque Pouring were aunts of the bride-elect, Mrs. C. M. Boyd Jr., Mrs. Russell Wallace, Winter Park, Mrs. Walter Morcom. Windemere, and a cousin, Miss Janet Morcom, Windemere. Assisting the hostesses were Lucia's cousins, Miss Elizabeth O'Neil and Miss Dede Boyd.

The hostesses presented Lu cia with a gift of lingerie for her trosseau. About 90 guests were invited to call during the appointed hours, 3-5 p.m.

In fact the problem already has begun, "In the first six months of this year we picked up 226 runaway juveniles compared with only 298 for the whole of last year," said Joe Anderson, Orange County Juvenile Court Clerk, Walt Disney World is scheduled to open near here

"They're going to be coming from all over the country to see Walt Disney World," he said, 'And because of our climate they won't have to have a place to stay. Plus there are many abandoned buildings they could stay in that can't be patrolled constantly." Lt. Don Van Scoyce, of the Orlando police youth

The runaways are held in the county juvenile home until their parents collect them or make arrangements

If the parents cannot pay the return fares the state welfare department tries to arrange for the juveniles' home state to pick up the tab. If that fails, Florida gets landed with the bill.
