Milkshakes

School Board Votes To Put Them Back In Lunchrooms

Milkshakes should be back in the lunchrooms of the 42 public schools in Seminole County within the next two weeks as an a la carte item. The price of the 12-ounce beverage will be 40 cents, up from the 30 cents charged during the 1980-81 school

The Seminole County School Board voted 4-1, with member Nancy Warren casting the only negative vote, Wednesday night to provide the popular drink again to the students at the elementary through high-school levels.

Mrs. Warren voted to oppose reinstitution of the a la carte item after D.K. Kirkpatrick, assistant director of food services for the school administration, agreed that the 12-ounce milkshakes have no more nutritional value than eight ounces of milk. He said the only difference in the two is that the milkshakes have sugar added.

Kirkpatrick said today that a choice of chocolate and vanilla milkshakes will be available. He said equipment to make the shakes will be delivered to the various schools in about two weeks.

Seminole County school children bought about a million milkshakes in the school lunchrooms during the 1980-81 school year, Kirkpatrick said - nearly two-thirds of them with their lunches. The students had the option at that time of choosing whether they wanted eight ounces of milk or a 12-ounce milkshake. While the shakes cost the food service about 29 cents each and the milk about 15 cents, the shakes were served with meals last school year and the deficit in cost was made up from the a la carte sales. The School Board refused to reinstate the choice, saying one food service should not make up a deficit in the other.

The food service last spring decided to discontinue serving milkshakes this school year and ordered milkshake machines removed from the schools.

The board Wednesday night asked food-service personnel to submit a report at the end of 90 days showing whether the milkshakes are making or losing money. If the shakes are losing money, the board agreed, it will consider raising prices

However, Board Chairman Bill Kroll noted the sale of milkshakes a la carte should bring the food services a profit of 11 cents each, or about $35,000.

Kirkpatrick said the availability of milkshakes, especially on the middle and high-school levels, might cause a further decline in the sale of lunches to school students. He said secondary students might drink only milkshakes for lunch.

Kirkpatrick noted that 12.2 percent fewer students are buying meals in the lunchrooms of the public schools in Seminole. He cited a combination of reasons for the decline, including the economic situation, increases in lunch prices, new federal guidelines on low-income families eligible for free and reduced-price lunches, and the fears of parents that the quantity of servings and quality of the meals might be reduced.

He said the attempt by the U.S. Department of Agriculture to reduce the size of portions and substitute soybeans and other items for meat in the meals had failed.

In the first month of this new school year 7.3 percent fewer students bought the full-price 185 cents for elementary students and 95 cents for secondary students) lunches; sales of reduced-price lunches dropped by 32.9 percent compared with the same period last year, and those participating in the free lunch program declined by 12.6 percent.

Kirkpatrick said the sale of milkshakes a la carte might cause the situation to deteriorate more - DONNA ESTES

Pacts Ratified

Herald Staff Writer Contracts between the Seminole County School Board and the Seminole Education Association (SEA) and Non-Instructional Personnel of Seminole, Inc.

(NIPSCO) have been ratified. Board members, with broad smiles all around, Wednesday night voted unanimously to approve both contracts. "I'm just delighted," member Pat Telson said.

The official signing of the contracts was delayed, however, because the board's chief negotiator, Ernest Cowley, is in Europe on vacation.

School Superintendent Bob Hughes announced that the SEA teachers union membership earlier Wednesday voted overwhelmingly to ratify the contract. which calls for an overall increase in teachers' salaries of 8.49 percent. The vote of the teachers was 1,277 for ratification and 105 against.

Negotiators for the school administration, led by Cowley, and for the SEA and NIPSCO, led by Ron Boethe, SEA executive director, came to an agreement Sept. 10.

The contracts call for increased benefits and salaries to the teachers and non-instructional personnel of $4.46 million annually.

Pay raises granted teachers range from 8.49 percent for beginning teachers (from $10,600 annually to $11,500) to 42 percent for one teacher. That teacher, who has not been identified by either the school administration or the teachers' union, will receive a pay raise from $15,526 to $21,735 annually because of her 15 years of service in the school district

The teachers' union originally had asked for a base salary for beginning teachers of $12,417 and a complete change in the administration's pay plan for teachers.

The increases are retroactive to Aug-24, the first day of the new school year for teachers. The contract provides pay raises and additional benefits to the school district's 2,000 teachers totaling $3.8 million. The NIPSCO contract, retroactive to July 16, calls for 8.49 percent annual pay raises plus incremental yearly increases and other benefits totaling $660,858. About 500 school personnel, including custodians, maintenance workers and others, are represented by NIPSCO, A breakdown of the added costs of the increases, $369,693; fixed costs (social security, retirement), $64,431; in-cremental increases, $144,635, with fixed costs of $21,300; additional insurance costs, $55,800, and additional uniform costs, $5,000 The base salary for new teachers was increased 6.49 per cent and annual increments were increased by four to eight

The contract grants teachers an additional day of personal leave. They had been getting three days of personal leave

The contract also commits the school administration to work toward limiting class sizes in kindergarten to third grade to 25 district-wide. The average class in those grades is now 27.

2 Special-Education Students Expelled

Two Lake Howell High School specialeducation students charged with assaulting an assistant principal and possession of six marijuana eigarettes on campus were expelled by the Seminole County School Board Wednesday night. Ralph Ray, public information officer for the school administration, declined to name the students or give their sex or age today.

The board voted 4-1 Wednesday night, with member Nancy Warren casting the only negative vote, to expel two students for possession of marijuana and an assault on an assistant principal at the school in recent weeks. The assault occurred in the current school year.

Board attorney Ned Julian Jr. said the students had possessed six marijuana cigarettes and that when an assistant assaulted by both students. The students were both charged with assault and one was charged with possession of marijuana.

The board voted to expel the two despite a warning from Julian that the action violates federal law. He said the federal law says in part: "In no event shall a handicapped student be excluded from educational services." Julian said the federal law puts the burden of due process on the school board.

After the vote, Board Chairman Bill Kroll told Julian to be prepared to defend the board if necessary.

Ray said today School Board policy forbids releasing information about students without the prior approval of

The grand jury handed down the sealed indictment Wednesday, but no arrest warrant was issued. Circuit Judge S. Joseph Davis Jr. has been asked by Chief Assistant State Attorney Chris Ray to withhold the warrant until a later date.

Legal sources speculated Higginbotham was not arrested in order to spare the county the expense of paying his medical bills. Seminole County Sheriff John Polk this morning noted that if a suspect is arrested while undergoing treatment, the person technically becomes a prisoner. Restaurant Robber Gets $, Necklace

An armed robber took approximately $4.5 cash and a gold chain and pendant valued at $200 when he held up the Red Lobster restaurant at 800 E. Altamonte Ave., Altamonte Springs, Monday evening.

Witnesses told police a man entered the restaurant about 9:21 p.m., pulled a small revolver and demanded the cashier give him money.

Police said the cashier at first thought the man was kidding and the robber got irritated with her when she did not respond immediately to his demands.

After realizing the gunman was serious, the cashier gave him approximately $425 in cash which he placed in a black leather clutch purse, police said.

According to police, the man also took a gold chain with an Italian horn pendant valued at $200 from Thomas Cooper, 23, of 127 Masters Blvd., Winter Park, who was in the restaurant at the time of the incident.

Witnesses told police the gunman fled on foot. Police had made no arrests this morning in connection with

BURGLARIES

Someone broke the glass out of a south window at Veola Quinn's residence, 57 Shenandoah Village, Sanford, and took $656 in cash and jewelry, police said. The incident occurred sometime between 8 p.m. and 11:30 p.m. Friday.

In an unrelated burglary, thieves netted $347 worth of goods in a Friday break-in at the Elmer MacAteer residence, 2509

According to police, someone entered the home through an unlocked west bedroom window between 7:20 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. They escaped with several pieces of jewelry, a rifle and $92 in change.

ARRESTED AND AWOL

An Altamonte Springs man was arrested Saturday at 3:00 a.m. by Casselberry police and charged with burglary, grand theft, loitering and prowling. Police also said the man is wanted by the U.S. Army for desertion on Aug. 15, 1980.

For New Animal Shelter

Society Loses Donation, Keeps Lease

By DARLENE JENNINGS Herald Staff Writer

The Seminole County Humane Society's lease with the county remains intact today despite loss of a $200,000 donation which would have been used to construct a new animal shelter on county-owned land.

The society was in danger of losing the $1-a-year lease with the county after Thomas Van Zandt retracted his $200,000 offer to the society for the new shelter.

Under the terms of the previous contract with the county, the shelter was responsible for having "sufficient (funds) to design, construct and complete the new facility..." However, this provision was struck from the contract during Tuesday's public hearing.

Humane Society public-relations director Pauline McDonald, said Tuesday the society is receiving donations daily for the construction of the shelter.

The vote was 3-2 in favor of the amended lease with the society, with Commissioners Robert G. "Bud" Feather and Bill Kirchhoff casting the "no" votes.

Feather said he was opposed to the amended lease because the taxpayers could lose close to half a million dollars in uncollected taxes from the site because the land will be off the county's tax roll for 60

Feather estimates the value of the land to be $100,000.

"We simply did not have ample time since Monday's meeting to get the tests done and have the results in time for the Oct. 14 meeting," Anderson said.

In previous council sessions, council members told Anderson they would like to have the recreational land donation in one parcel of land, rather than the firm's proposal of two land donations. The council asked Anderson Monday night to provide it with reports from Jammal & Associates concerning the fill dirt that will be used to fill in the muckland on the proposed land donation site. According to earlier reports by City Engineer Ken Ehlers, the land donation site is three to six feet deep in muck.

Haig: 'Hands Off Egypt'

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The Reagan administration, in a staunch response to the assassination of Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, is warning "external forces" against trying to manipulate and exploit the situation.

The stern words were voiced Wednesday by Secretary of State Alexander Haig, who pledged U.S. support for the government of Egypt. The warning was specifically directed at Libya, but Haig said, "The Soviet Union knows our position, our friendship and our relationship with Egypt."

More Defense Budget Cuts?

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Republicans on the Senate Appropriations Committee want to Juggle President Reagan's proposed second round of budget cuts by digging deeper into defense and adjusting cost-ofliving increases for benefit programs.

Committee chairman Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., said the GOP members agreed they want to cut fiscal 1962 defense spending by more than Reagan's proposed $2 billion, but set no specific figure. However, staff sources said the Republicans, meeting privately Wednesday, informally agreed to a $4 billion figure.

Halting Arms Race In Europe

Europe, the tragic battlefield of two world wars. does not want to become the nuclear battleground for a third world war between the U.S. and the U.S.S.R.

The Soviet Union, invaded twice by Germany in this century, and by France in the last, wants to protect itself from future invasion by using Eastern Europe as a buffer zone, and aiming medium-range missiles at Western Europe.

The United States, pledged to defend NATO allies from a communist onslaught, but anxious to prevent a Soviet-U.S.confrontation, wants to base missiles with nuclear warheads, aimed at the Soviet Union, in Western Europe.

From this thicket of memories, fears and strategies, Secretary of State Haig and Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko emerged recently with a proposal to continue arms talks for medium-range nuclear weapons in Europe, In Geneva Nov. 30.

We wish the negotiators well. A shadow falls over this latest initiative — the shadow of past wars, of broken alliances, of violations of arms accords. But the alternative to an arms limitation lagreement in Europe, enforced by verifiable inspections, is an arms race that leaves all parties vulnerable to nuclear conflict, and may tear apart the U.S.-West European alliance.

The prime force pushing Europe away from America is the perception, especially among West Germans, that nuclear weapons stationed on their soil make them targets of a Soviet attack.

The U.S. promised NATO that it would enter arms negotiations, when it convinced NATO to accept stationing Cruise and Pershing missiles in Europe. This pledge must be backed by a real commitment to negotiate.

But if Moscow wants America not to deploy its missiles, but insists on keeping its own in place, the U.S. must not unilaterally disarm.

The Soviet fear that Western Europe is about to invade in the U.S.S.R. should be laid to rest by reason, as the ghosts of past invasions disappear under present realities. But if the Soviets' real purpose in provoking a European arms race is to sow discord in NATO, the U.S. must counter the Soviet military threat, while not alienating our

That is no easy tightrope for us to walk. To preserve NATO, the Reagan administration should accompany bilateral talks with the Soviet Union with frank and sensitive consultations with our European allies.

The ghosts of two world wars may awaken cleaders in the night. But unreasonable fears of invasion should not keep negotiators from finding a way to prevent the nightmare of a third war.

TV Prime Time

All three television networks have approached the Federal Communications Commission hoping for relief from the "Prime Time Access Rule" a move that would allow a full hour of network news each night.

The rule was established 10 years ago. It returned a half hour of peak TV time to local stations in the 50 largest television markets to encourage local production and programming.

The whole thing has been a dismal failure. Prime time offerings include such mindchallenging programs as "Family Feud" and "Tic Tac Dough."

Network news programs were 15 minutes in length until 1963 when CBS and NBC adopted the half-hour format. Four years later ABC joined them with 30 minutes of news:

If the FCC agrees, NBC says it can offer an hour long "Nightly News" next fall. Officials of the other two networks say the hour-long format is under active consideration for CBS's "Evening News" and ABC's "World News Tonight."

More news would please a vast number of television watchers. However the chief reason the FCC should drop the rule is that government doesn't belong in the business of regulating TV programming on the commercial stations. The sooner it ditches its arbitary controls, the better it will be for the country.

BERRY'S WORLD

PRivar remember, Morn and Ded, we want this blockade of a nuclear plant kept PEACEFUL!"

There are those who have managed to ride out the storms of life together and remain married for a half-century or more and they deserve special recognition and congratulations.

At any rate that is the rationale behind a Golden Wedding Jubilee planned for Sunday, December 6, by the Senior Citizens Committee of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce and the city of Sanford Recreation Department.

The gala event will be held at 2 p.m. in the Sanford Civic Center to honor all couples who have been married to each other for 50 or more Applications are available from the chamber of commerce office at Sanford Avenue and First Street, Plans which are still imcomplete call for entertainment such as cloggers and Barbershop quartets, gifts and refreshments.

The public is invited to attend and applaud the guests of honor, said Bob Daehn, Senior Citizens Committee Chairman. "We hope to make this an annual event," he added.

Who said Latin is a dead language? It's alive and well and living at the University of Central Florida (UCF). Seniors at area public or private high schools who plan to attend UCF may compete for tuition scholarships made possible by the newly-established Cianey Latin Prize.

In order to be eligible for the top three scholarships of $1,000, $700 and $500, students who will enroll in UCF in 1982 must score well on the semi-annual SAT Latin test, and submit a 1,000-word essay on "The Value of Latin Study."

In addition to the three top awards to UCFbound students, merit awards of $100 will be presented to students who demonstrate excellence in the SAT and essay. Merit winners are not required to attend UCF.

Students competing for the top three prizes must be fully qualified to attend UCF with a minimum SAT of 850 and a 2.5 overall grade point average in high school, said Dr. Nancy McGee, chairman of the Cisney Latin Prize advisory committee.

The competition was made possible by a donation to the UCF Foundation, Inc., by Mrs. Gladys Claney Trismen, of Winter Park, a Foundation director and long-time supporter of High school seniors interested in competing for the Cisney prizes should contact school guidance counselors for arrangements to take the SAT achievement test in Latin. All applications, complete with test score and essay, must be received by April 1, 1962. Winners will be announced in May.

Seminole County League of Women Voters is sponsoring a panel discussion on Juvenile Justice on Friday, Oct. 16, at 7:30 p.m. at Storer TV, State Road 434 and Sand Lake Road, Altamonte Springs. By JANE CASSELBERRY

Arming Of The Saudis

WASHINGTON - Anybody who hasn't been hiding in a cave for the past six months has heard about the AWACS aircraft, but very few people are familiar with FAST packs, AIM-9L missiles and KC-707 tankers.

The inclusion of those items in the "Air Defense Enhancement Package" the United States plans to sell to Saudi Arabia has been almost completely ignored amid the flerce public debate over President Reagan's proposal to sell the Saudis Airborne Warning and Control System aircraft.

But those sophisticated military components merit closer attention because their transfer to the Saudis would represent the violation of an explicit commitment the Defense Department made to Congress three and a half years ago.

In May 1978, when the proposed sale of 62 F-18 jets to Saudi Arabia was endangered by a possible congressional veto, the Defense Department offered written assurances that the Saudis had agreed to specific "prohibitions and restrictions."

To ensure that the planes would be used exchaively as interceptors (a defensive weapon) rather than as fighter-bombers (an offensive weapon) the Saudia were not to be provided with FAST packs, AIM-9L missiles, multiple ejection bomb racks or KC-135 aerial refueling tankers.

Many of those promises now are in the precess of being broken because the arms package that contains five AWACS aircraft worth $5.8 billion also includes:

- Fuel and Sensor Tactical packs, conformal fuel and equipment pods that attach to each side of the F-15 to more than double its combat radius (from 450 miles to 1,000 miles) and enable the plane to carry heavier bomb

In addition to extending the plane's range and andurance, each FAST pack pod can carry 4,400 pounds of air-to-ground ordnance. The Saudis are paying $110 million for them.

- 1,177 AIM-9L Sidewinder air-to-air missiles, whose state-of-the-art features include improved warhead lethality, advanced guidance systems and enhanced resistance to jamming. They will cost the Saudia $200 million.

- Eight KC-707 serial tankers capable of in-flight refueling of the F-15s and other jets purchased from the United States. Differing only alightly from the prohibited KC-135a, they will cost the Saudis $2.4 billion.

Although Saudi Arabia has an indigenous population of only 5.6 million (another 2 million foreigners are temporary residents) and a military force of fewer than 200,000 men, that country has been arming itself in recent years at a terrifying rate.

Military material already delivered or on order from the United States includes 110 F-SE jet fighters, 3,500 laser-guided bombs, 1,500 cluster bombs, 660 AIM-9P Sidewinder air-to-air guided missiles (less sophisticated than the AIM-0L) and s00 Maverick air-toground guided missiles.

That list also includes M-60 battle tanks and Tow anti-lank missiles as well as Hawk, Redeye, Dragon and Harpoon missiles. Great Britain has provided Red Top missiles and 200 Tornado ground attack aircraft.

Jogging Shoe Still Strong

By LeROY POPE UPI Business Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) - The tremendous vogue of the flamboyantly-striped running shoe, star of the $2 billion-a-year athletic shoe business, won't peak for another five years,

Most of the shoes, worn by joggers and just about everyone else, are imported and range in price from $10 to upwards of $60.

Many of those who wear them insist a good running shoe is the most innovative and about the most comfortable footwear ever designed. They say that ought to influence the future of the whole shoe business.

But President John O'Neil of Converse Rubber Shoe Co. of Wilmington, Mass., and Cameron Anderson, president of Woolworth's Kinney Shoe subsidiary, doubt if the running shoe ever will cause big changes in dress shoes. Anderson said it is more likely there just will be a wider shift to wearing casual shoes where design has been influenced by the jogging shoe. O'Neil, who has been in the canvas and athletic footwear business for 40 years and has seen hundreds of fashions come and go. says the running shoe's popularity eventually will level off and even diminish but that won't halt the steady overall growth of the athletic shoe and canvas footwear business.

Anderson agreed. He pointed out that Kinney has made a huge investment in its 300unit chain of Footlocker stores that handle premium priced athletic shoes. The popular priced shoes are sold in the regular Kinney

O'Neil said there already seem to be signs of a shift by youngsters, the big market, from the jogging shoe back to the older and somewhat cheaper basketball shoe.

"Like any business dependent on style," he said, "one year's 'in-line' can become today's

Running shoes have made a lot of money for a lot of people in many countries — Japan,

Korea, Taiwan, Germany, other European countries and the United States. The West German Adidas Co., maker of all kinds of casual and sportswear, has done enormously well with running shoes, although it now has been topped by Converse and by Nike, Inc., of erton, Ore. Nike is run by Philip Knight, a former varsity runner at University of Oregon, and his ex-coach, Bill Bowerman. Knight conceived the idea of going into the running shoe business while he was a student at Stanford's graduate business school.

He reasoned that the Japanese probably could do in running shoes what they had done in automobiles, radios and cameras. So in 1964, he and Bowerman managed to sell $8,000 worth of Japanese running shoes. In the fiscal year ended last May 31, Nike's sales were $458 million. Nike now makes 136 models of athletic shoes for every known sport.

Two brothers, Adi and Rudolph Dassler of the tiny German town of Herzogensurach, created both Adidas and Puma, which now are glants and bitter global competitors in the athletic shoe business.

Other important American firms engaged in the design, import and marketing of athletic shoes include Sears Roebuck, J.C. Penney, K-Mart, New Balance of Boston, Athletic Attic of Jacksonville, Pla., Brooks Shoe Manufacuring Co. of Hanover, Pa., and Specs International of Avon, Mass.

Athletic Attic is run by Marty Liquori, who was an Olympic middle distance runner and a television sportscaster.

Not surprisingly, getting champion athletes to use and endorse your shoes is a big part of the business.

Converse's O'Neil can boast that every U.S. Olympic basketball team has used his shoes since 1936 and that such stars as Magic Johnson, Larry Bird and Tiny Archibald wear them on the court now. Chris Evert Lloyd wears custom-made Converse tennis shoes.

Lots Of Luck To New Nation

The last thing Central America would seem to need is one more economically sub-standard, politically fragile country.

Yet that is what it has just gotten in Belize. In case you're drawing a blank at this point, Belize is a New Hampshire-sized piece of real estate squeezed in among Mexico. Guatemala, Honduras and the Caribbean Sea. It was long known as British Honduras, having become a possession of the crown more or less by accident some three centuries back when shipwrecked British seamen settled down to stay. If Belize is short on territory, it is even more so on population. The sailors did not do so well at multiplying and today the territory is the home of fewer people than Salt Lake City. Most of them don't want to be independent. Which gives the country a certain distinction in an era when nationhood is the goal toward which every other dependent territory and ethnic minority strives.

The reason is Guatemala, which ever since its own independence has claimed Belize by right of inheritance from Spain. The Guatemalans have never recognized the British title.

Belize, given the choice, would much prefer to be British and, knowing it could never keep the neighbors out if the British withdrew, has made it very clear it would like them to

Once they get the hang of something, such as dismantling an empire, the British are not easy to stop, however. After granting Belize internal self-government in 1964, they prodded it gently but steadily toward full independence.

To see Belize is to know why the British are relieved to withdraw but to question why the Guatemalans want it. It consists of humid lewland along the coast and much of the rest is thick jungle. It is as economically unfavored as any country in the region. It exports fruit, sugar and molasses, ending most years with a trade

Pre-independence efforts to reach a settlement came to nothing - following which the Guatemalans virtually severed relations with Britain. So the British will continue to maintain a military presence for a time. They are also extending financial aid. Guatemala, a military dictatorship engaged in a sputtering civil war, and the economy are only the most immediate threats, however. Most of newly sovereign Belize's other near neighbors are in straits that range from difficult to dire.

El Salvador's civil war is full-blown and bloody, threatening to spill over into its neighbors and attracting the interest and intervention of outside powers. Honduras, another military regime, could be next on the list for civil strife. Costa Rica has severe economic problems and its touted democratic system is beinning to fray a bit. Panama is in an uncertain interregnum following the death of strongman Gen. Omar Torrijos Herrera.

And a short distance across the Caribbean la Cuba.

It's not the sort of scene to fire the leaders of a new and very small country with enthusiasm for the future.

U.S. Defense Worse Than Reported

WASHINGTON - Last week, with much fantare, Defense Secretary Campar Weinberger released a 90-page assessment of Soviet Military power in hopes of persuading the American public and our NATO allies that the Russian war machine posses a serious threat to Western security.

But Weinberger didn't reveal the whole story, for some reason. A top-secret decument obtained by my associate Dale Van Atta shows that the situation is even worse than Weinburger described it.

The document is the current Military Posture Statement prepared by the Joint Chiefs of Staif. It was the principal source of Weinberger's public report.

Some of Weinberger's omissions were miner, such as his description of Soviet longrange air forces as "more than 800 strike and support aircraft," when the Joint Chiefs' report puts the number at 674 deployed at 26 airfields throughout the Soviet Union.

Some were more serious. For example, referring to the Sovieta' electronic jamming and interception techniques, Weinberger did not add this ominous appraisal by the Joint Chiefs: "They (the Russians) can monitor and counter U.S. radar and communications signals from ground, air, naval and space platforms." That pretty well covers the field, and the Russians obviously know they have this capability. But Weinberger chose not to disclose this to the American people and our European allies.

At another point, the defense secretary made a brief reference to the Russians' ability to reload their intercontinental ballistic missile launchers. But he omitted the Joint Chiefs' admission that our intelligence agencies have so far been unable to come up with important details of the Soviets' reloading capability. "The time required to refurbish and reload ICBM launchers is not known, nor is the survivability of the sile launcher or key logistics and support functions," the secret posture statement

Антин в таком выправления выправления в принципанти выправления выправления в принципанти в принципа

One of the most disturbing sections of the Joint Chiefs' report concerned anti-ballistic missile defense. Weinberger didn't even touch on the subject in his public report.

As I reported last May, the Russians have been feverishly developing their ABM system, despite the strict limitations of the 1972 U.S.-Soviet ABM treaty. The United States, meanwhile, has let its ABM program

The secret report notes that the Soviets are continuing work "on an ABM system - the ABM-X-3 — which could be deployed rapidly to defend large parts of the Soviet landmass." This suggests a significant mobility that has no U.S. counterpart.

In addition, the Joint Chiefs reported, the Russians have huge phased-array radar networks under construction that would spot and zero in on incoming missiles for floviet ABM interceptors. They even pispeinted the four construction siles — Pechara, Sary Shagan, Lyaki and Clenegorsk — and warned that work at the last-named sile "may now be complete," or will be early next year. "Another large phased-array radar recently was identified under construction north of Moscow," the Joint Chiefs reported, "Although it is too early to determine its function with confidence, it probably is designed for bettle management of the Moscow area BMD (ballistic missile defense) system.

"The Soviets have been deploying and testing an ARM-X-I system at Sary Shagan for over 15 years. Primary efforts appear to be devoted toward development of a discrimination ability, rather than operational deployments."

Finally, the secret report points to recent activity around Moscow as evidence that "d launcher replacement program is underway." The ABM treety permits 100 launchers around Moscow; in 1970, there were 64, but last year this was reduced to 22. This clearly suggests that the floviets are planning to replace Moscow's missile defense system with improved ABMs.

Alpha Nu chapter of Alpha Delta Kappa, an honorary sorority for outstanding teachers, held the pledge initiation luncheon at Aggie's Restaurant in Sanford.

The ceremony was conducted by the officers, Mary Lib Dunn, Leah Benner, Blanche Rucker, Hazel Flynt and Jan

The new members inducted were: Deana Baird, Hazel Madden and Bette Waterhouse.

The week of Oct. 11 is Alpha Delta Kappa week. The sorority members will be conducting various projects in their particular schools to acquaint those in the education field about the activities of the group.

On Oct. 10, the area chapters will meet at the Langford Hotel in Winter Park to celebrate Founder's Day.

Dividends Workshops

The Dividends School Volunteer Program will hold a series of workshops at the Altamonte Civic Center for interested parents and community people who wish to have further information about specific programs in Seminole County schools. There is no charge for the workshops and they are open to the general public.

On Friday, Oct. 9, from 9 - 11 a.m. a training workshop will be held for those interested in helping with the kindergarten screening program in the public schools.

Volunteers are screening all kindergarten students in the areas of eye-hand coordination, language learning, and gross motor skills. The individual screening takes about 20 minutes for each child and a team of volunteers is needed for each school to help in this area. Volunteers must be trained to administer the screening.

On Monday, Oct. 12, a series of workshops will be held from 9 a.m. - 1:30 p.m. at the Altamonte Civic Center. For information call the Dividends office, 834-8211.

Symphony Offers Free Film

The Florida Symphony Orchestra has produced a 10minute multimedia presentation entitled, "The Living Symphony," Funded by a grant from Red Lobster Inns of America, the program presents a behind-the-scenes view of the orchestra and the musicians and explains the uniqueness of a symphony concert and the symphony's contribution to the community.

The program is now available free of charge for local organizations. The symphony is also looking for volunteers with audiovisual experience to help with this project. Call the Florida Symphony office (841-1280) to reserve a date or offer assistance.

Crooms Claws Kowboys, 5

By GEOFFREY GIORDANO

Herald Sports Writer Remaining undefeated, the freshman Crooms Panthers downed the Osceola Kowboys by a whopping 51-6 Wednesday night at Seminole High School.

Crooms, who won last year's contest 18-6, dominated the game totally on the ground, with the running skills of Deron Thompson, Donald Grayson, Brian Brooks, Bryan Debose, and Fred Brin-

"We all did a lot better tonight, but we still had too many penalties," remarked Panther coach Bill Klein. "Everyone did a great job and played much better."

Crooms took an early 8-0 lead on its first drive of the game. Thompson found some running room from his 34 yard line. and turned the play into a 66-yard touchdown. After two flags on the extra point attempts, quarterback Jo Jo McCloud took the ball into the endzone for a twopoint conversion, on the same play that won last week's game against Lake Brantley.

Crooms' defense, truly inpenetrable throughout the game, added to its score when defensive tackle Jerry Walsh recovered Osceola quarterback Keith Overton's fumble, and took it 33 yards for the TD. Panther kicker Donald Grayson's point was short and the Panthers carried a 14-0 lead into the second quarter.

This would have been increased by at least six points, when a Clifton Campbell 60-yard run was called back because of a blocking below the waist call against the Panthers, Later in the first, Debose picked off an Overton pass and zipped into the endzone from 50 yards out, but that play was also called back on account of a defensive pass interference in-

The Panthers made up for the lost scores at the beginning of quarter two. Campbell sped downfield to another touchdown, this time for 30 yards. He was aided by guard Scott Larson, who threw the final block that cleared him for the score. Gayson's point was again unsuccessful, however, and Crooms went up to a 20-0 margin.

Campbell was to come through for Crooms again later in the period. With 10:07 left in the first half, he took the ball 29 yards for yet another Panther score. Grayson put the ball through the uprights this time for a 27-0 lead.

Panther onslaught of perfectly executed running plays. Their impotent offense seven-play, 68-yard drive, mostly on the Halftime arrived and Crooms still led, 27-0, after destroying Osceola in the first two periods. And they weren't through.

The third period opened with Thompson flashing down the field for 53 yards and a fifth Panther TD. Grayson could not make the one-point conversion, due to

Now, the score stood at 33-0, and the Kowboys needed to get their offense rolling if they were to try to rally against the swarming Panthers.

But nothing they did netted many yards, and they were forced to punt time after time after time.

Crooms was pouring it on, continuing to come up with fantastic ground yardage. And, with 7:26 left in the third period, the sixth Panther touchdown was registered on a 40-yard gallop by Grayson. Another bad snap killed the extra point, but it made no difference. because Crooms was in front to stay. Osceola showed a faint spark of hope,

By now, the deflated Kowboys had lost when, with 4:23 left in the third period, hope, not being able to withstand the Overton put the ball over the goal line from one yard out. This culminated a had difficulty in moving the ball since the feet of running back Mike Holt, who gained 65 of those yards in five straight

The Kowboys' one score was negated several seconds later, when McCloud, performing on special teams, returned their kickoff 70 yards for a seventh Crooms six-pointer. Grayson's point was blocked this time around and Crooms stood comfortably in the lead, 45-6.

The Panthers picked up their final score when Brinson took the ball into the end zone from 10 yards away, Grayson again missed the point, and so the score was set at the final 51-6.

"We were the better team tonight," said Klein, "and if we keep improving, we'll be a good team, because they (Osceola) weren't as good as Lake Brantley."

The Panthers take on Lyman Tuesday and will find out how much they may or may not have improved.

Apopka's Arnell Lykes looks for running room that hasn't been there this year.

Posey 'Lykes' Apopka Problem

By SAM COOK

Herald Sports Editor Apopka halfback Arnell Lykes is not Coach Jerry Posey lykes that. He would lyke to see it continue for one more Friday.

Specifically, this Friday, when Posey takes his undefeated (1-0) Five Star Fighting Seminoles into Blue Darterland for a key Conference clash. The Tribe is Seminole has one conference victory over Lake Howell. Lake Brantley clipped Howell last week to move to 2-0 in the Five Star. The Patriots nipped these same Blue Darters, 3-0, the second week of the season.

Brantley bottled up Lykes (27 carries for 69 yards), who was a breakway threat at any point on the field last year, Last Saturday Posey and his assistants scouted Apopka, who dropped Daytona Beach Mainland from the top of the conference, 10-7. The Bucs had lost their quarterback, Marty Edwards, with an injury prior to the game.

Lykes, though, wasn't a factor. Posey would like to keep it that way, "He's not the same runner he was last year," Posey said Tuesday night. "They're giving him the ball as much (close to 30 times a game), but he's not getting the Posey went on to say that after Lykes' big year as a junior more teams are keying on him, thus making his yardage harder to come by.

Lykes' slow going, however, hasn't been for lack of effort. Coach Chip Gierke has tried about every conceivable way to break the 5-foot-10 speedster loose.

"They've been running him inside and outside," said Posey. "Sometimes they pitch him the ball deep and he moves laterally looking for a hole. I still think Seminoles running as well as last year and Seminole some teams get keyed up for his reputation."

While Lykes is Apopka's main man, the Darters have two more dangerous players. Defensive back Keith Bridges is a superb defender and valuable on kick

Mike Harris, another defensive back dangerous when he gets his hands on the pigskin. Mark Seelig has been the big man on the kicking team. His foot has provided the margin of difference in both Apopka victories. The Darters nipped Colonial, 17-14, on a Seelig kick.

booted Lake Howell in three overtimes three weeks ago and nailed Edgewater in the fourth extra period two weeks ago this Friday. All the Seminoles are healthy with the exception of defensive-offensive tackle

Posey's Tribe, meanwhile is coming off two straight wins. Senior Alan Cahill

David Williams. The 6-foot-5, 205 pounder is still suffering from back spasms. He probably won't suit up.

While the Seminole's 41 points against the Eagles is a bit deceiving since 20 of them came in overtime, the 21 points in regulation is not. A cranked-up offense with Lenny

Sutton rumbling for 190 yards from his fullback spot and quarterback Jeff 1.1tton having his best day as a Seminole puts Sanford in solid shape conference and district-wise. "I like our chances," Posey assisted about the district championship, "Some team could go undefeated, but more than likely it will come down to two or three teams like it did last year."

Don't bet against Seminole as being one of those teams.

Irresistible Greyhounds Face Grenadiers

By JOE DeSANTIS Herald Sports Writer

Lyman's Greyhounds against Colonial's Grenadiers.

A Friday night case of the immovable object meeting the Lirresistible force.

Bill Scott's Greyhounds provide the force with a high-powered passing attack while Colonial's giant-sized defense provides the immovable object when Lyman hosts Colonial.

"Outside of being mountains, chey're really big," says Greyhound Coach Bill Scott.

Colonial's defensive line tips the scales at 215 and 220 pounds at the ends and 265 and 225 pounds at the Jackles. Plugging the middle is a 6'3" fackles. Plugging the middle is a 6'3" 240 pound middle linebacker.

The only way to combat their size to try to use our speed against them," points Scott.
"We want to get the running game going and continue to pass well, we'd like to get the balance back in our offense."

A week ago against Del.and,

A week ago against DeLand, quarterback Jerry Axley provided the balance of victory by finding six different receivers for over 240 yards passing to lead Lyman over the Bulldogs.

"Jerry is throwing really well and the pass blocking has been exceptional," compliments Scott, "But we'd still like to get back to a 60-40 balance between passing and running." Lyman had just one vard net rushing against DeL and and six yards against Winter Park. The Greyhounds hope to be able to spring Vince Prealey loose against a large, but relatively slow Grenadier defensive squad.

In Colonial, the Greyhounds will be seeking their second win of the year against a Metro squad and hope to boost their record to 4-1 on the season.

"Considering we start nine juniors on offense, overall I'd have to say that I'm pleased with the weekly improvement in just about all of our game areas," says Scott.

"Last week against DeLand we kind of got off to a sluggish start in the first half. I was a little worried about that coming off the big win against Winter Park. But the kids really picked up the pace in the second half and played a whale of a ball game."

In posting a current 3-1 showing, the Greyhound coach feels his relatively young club has quietly been doing some of football's intangibles justice.

'We have had a few breaks so far this year," points out Scott. "But our players are starting to make some breaks too. Against Delland we came out in the second half and caused a couple of big fumbles with some pretty good licks.

"That helps... but what helps more is if you go on and take advantage of those breaks. I'm pleased with our efforts because we've started to capitalize on breaks and take advantage of other team's mistakes. That's what we have to continue to do against Colonial too."

The Greyhounds will be a little healthier this week with the return of tackle-fullback Gene Allen and Jeff Acker.

"We should be about 90 percent for Colonial," Scott said.

If the Greyhound-Grenadier confrontation comes down to specialty teams play, Scott has to feel optimistic about the improvement in the kicking game, thanks to the leg of Chris Tscheider.

"He started to come on against Winter Park and gained some confidence in his kicking," said Scott. Last week against DeLand Tacheider hit two field goals to help Lyman draw back into the game.

In other count action Friday, Take Brantley hosts Winter Park, Seminole is at Apopka, Oviedo entertains Lake Weir, and Trinity Prep goes to Jacksonville Episcopal on Saturday. All kickoffs at at 8 p.m. except Trinity's 2 p.m. starting time.

HOUND'S BARK - Junior quarterback Jerry Axley picked up the Burger King offensive Player of the Week award for his awesome showing against DeLand.

Yankee Gamble Pays Off, Re-Born Oscar Rips Brewers; Walling Whacks Dodgers

By United Press International Let's just say the New York Yankees went to sleep in early August and left their alarm clocks set for October.

After snoozing through the second half of the baseball season, the Yankees awoke in familiar autumn style Wednesday night, beating the Milwaukee Brewers 5-3 to take Game 1 of their bestof-five American League East divisional series.

In the other post-season games, Oakland edged Kansas City 2-1, Montreal knocked off Philadelphia 3-1 and Houston blanked Los Angeles 1-0 in 11 innings.

The Yankees' winning scenario was a familiar one. Falling behind early, they used an outstanding defensive play to keep them in the game, a sudden burst of power to take the lead and a stingy bullpen to nail it down

Ron Davis, who relieved Ron Guidry in the fifth, retired eight in a row to gain the victory and Rich Gossage pitched the eighth and ninth to get the save. Moose Haas was the loser.

"It wasn't that way much of the time in the second half (of the season)," said Davis, referring to the Yankees' sluggish play. "Hopefully, we'll be able to get five or six or seven good innings out of our starting staff and then we'll be able to come in."

With the Brewers leading 2-0 in the fourth, Haas walked Reggie Jackson. One out later, Oscar Gamble, who had three hits, drove a homer over the rightcenter field fence. Bob Watson followed with a single and Larry Milbourne beat out an infleld hit. Then Rick Cerone doubled to drive in both runners and make it 4-2.

Mini Playoff

The Yankees got one more in the ninth when Jerry Mumphrey scored on shortstop Robin Yount's error.

For his part, Gamble was happy just to be in the game. He entered the game in the midst of an 0-for-27 slump.

"I was worried about getting in the lineup, but when I got up it was a new season," Gamble said. "This season, 1 haven't hit 'em until tonight ... you start all over in the playoffs."

At Kansas City, Tony Armas drilled an eighth-inning double through the legs of Kansas City third baseman George Brett to score Dwayne Murphy from second base to give the A's a 2-0 lead in their Murphy opened the eighth with a single against loser Mike Jones and took second on a sacrifice bunt by Cliff Johnson. Armas then stroked his fourth hit and second RBI double of the day. He had doubled in the first following a twobagger by Johnson.

"We've just got to keep playing the way we've been playing — the way we've played all year," said Armas, who is 5for-8 in the first two games of the series. 'We are a good team.'

Kansas City scored its run in the fifth when John Wathan, U.L. Washington and Willie Wilson strung consecutive two-out singles.

plays to capture Game 1 of their National League East series with the world champion Phillies.

Montreal got RBI doubles by Gary Carter in the first, Chris Speier in the second and Warren Cromartie in the fourth to turn back Steve Carlton.

Steve Rogers survived a shaky start, scattering 10 hits over 8 2-3 innings. Jeff Reardon got the save. Keith Moreland homered to open the second for the Phillies' only run.

"We did the kind of things on defense you have to do to win in a post-season game," said Expos' shortstop Speier, who teammed with second baseman Jerry Manuel on two double plays and also made a leaping catch of a Pete Rose liner in the eighth.

At Houston, pinch-hitter Denny Walling stroked a baseloaded single with two outs in the bottom of the 11th to score Phil Garner with the game's only run and lift the Astros, giving them a 2-0 lead in their NL West series.

Garner led off the 11th with a single off loser Dave Stewart — the victim in Game 1 as well - and Tony Scott followed with a single, sending Garner to third. Terry Forster replaced Stewart and retired Jose Cruz before the Dodgers brought in Tom Niedenfuer, who walked Cesar Cedeno intentionally to load the bases. One out later, Walling hit a single out of the reach of Dodger right fielder Derrel Thomas to drive in Garner and make a winner of reliever Joe Sambito.

"I was charting the outfielders for the last few innings," Walling said. "I told one of the guys that they (the Dodger outfielders) were playing shallow. Reardon Quiets Philadelphia Bats was on the line. It could have easily blown up in the Montreal Expos' faces right then and there, and nobody knew that better than Jim Fanning, which was why he automatically turned to bearded. monastic Jeff Reardon — the man the Expos call "Our Saviour."

Working out of the bullpen, Reardon has been that for the Expos since they got him from the Mets for Ellis Valentine on May 30 and he saved them again Wednesday in damp, chilly Olympic Stadium when he came in for struggling Steve Rogers in the ninth inning with two on and two out and got Manny Trillo for the final out that nailed down a 3-1 victory over the World Champlon Philadelphia Phillies in the National League's Eastern Division playoff opener.

Reardon is quieter than a mouse sleeping on a piece of cotton. He never says a word. He's so silent and meditative most of the time that Expos' first baseman Warren Cromartie, who has come up for nicknames for at least a half dozen of his teammates, immediately hit on one for him. "Yak,

"It's the perfect name for him," said Steve Boros, one of the Expos' coaches. "When Jeff came over to us from the Mets, we thought he was so quiet because of his newness here. Then we found out he's just that quiet naturally. He has been loosening up a little, though. No matter what, he's the one who has turned our ballclub aroung."

as Montreal's manager a month ago, agrees with Boros completely.

"He has yet to fall since I've been the manager," observed the Expos' grayhaired pilot, "He has been our Bruce Sutter out of the bullpen and between him and Woodie Fryman, it gives us the 1-2 punch we never had before."

"Look at him," Claude Raymond, the former Expos' pitcher who now does their games throughout Quebec for CKAC Telemedia, said to a newsman in the winners' dressing room. "With that beard of his, he looks exactly like Jesus Christ, and he certainly has been our saviour."

Raymond wasn't trying to be funny or sacriligious. The fact is Reardon does bear a striking resemblance to the Christ figure and the quiet way he conduct's himself adds to that illusion. He's mortal, though.

Reardon, who has allowed only four earned runs in 36 innings during his last 21 appearances for a 0.99 ERA, was nervous when Fanning summoned him in to pitch in the ninth with Trillo up, Luis Aguayo, running for Keith Moreland, on second and George Vukovich on first. Having spent the rest Fanning, who replaced Dick Williams this was the first playoff game in which he had appeared.

Gary Carter, the Expos' catcher, tried to calm Reardon a bit by talking to him before he pitched to Trillo, the Phillies' dangerous .287 hitter.

"Don't try to overdo it," he said to Reardon. "Just have some fun."

Reardon did overdo it somewhat on his first two pitches to Trillo. He overthrew the ball both times, running the count to two balls and no strkes but then leveled the count to 2-2 with a pair of called strikes, the second of which Trillo checked his swing.

"I wanted to throw a curve ball on the next pitch but I saw (left-handed hitting) Del Unser in the on-deck circle and I knew if I didn't get Trillo, I'd be taken out and Woodle would be brought in." Reardon said. "Not that I'm saying anything against Woodie, but I wanted to get Trillo out."

He did with the help of rookie Terry Francona playing left field. Francona made a nice catch of Trillo's liner not to for from the left-field wall, Fanning wasn't that sure he would have brought in Fryman to replace Reardon had Trillo gotten on.

"I saw Unser in the on-deck circle, too, but if Trillo had gotten on and I had brought Fryman on, Dallas Green might have switched to (Garry)

Managers, you see, are also thinking, and Jim Fanning thinks he has a real saviour in Jeff Reardon, who has saved seven games so far, including Wedof his big league career with the Mets, nesday's, in the slightly more than two months he has been with Montreal.

Fighting Seminole Football 'Reserved' Tickets On Sale

Do you want a seat in front of a champion? Well, the Seminole High Fighting Seminoles are currently lodged in a tight fight for the top spot in the Five Star conference with the Lake Brantley Patriots.

games at a special $17 price. Home games remain with Lakeland Kathleen (Oct. 23), Lake Brantley (Oct. 30), Lyman (Nov. 6) and Spruce Creek (Nov. 20).

The Seminole High School athletic department is offering the remaining reserved seats for four home

Reserved seat tickets may be purchased from Business Manager Gay Alling at 222-4352 (ext. 232) from 7:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the high school.

Tribe JV Trips Brantley

Seminole High's Junior varsity volleyball team picked up its fifth victory in eight outings Wednesday night by sweeping two matches from the Lake Brantley JV, 15-11, 15-11 and 8-15, 15-11, 19-17 at Seminole High School.

Excellent serving by Susanna Huaman, Arlene Jones and Toni Washington along with some stout defense from Jill Janak eased the Tribesters past the Patriots in game one.

Huaman again had some key serves and Debbie Alderman's sets and defensive coverage enabled Seminole to outlast Brantley in the wild 19-17 finale. The junior varsity travels to Lake Mary Monday for two games beginning at 3:30 p.m.

Lake Howell's volleyball team won the game it wanted Thursday (Oviedo), but lost the second contest to Calonial 15-11, 15-11 at the Silver Hawk gym.

"Wesyon our grudge match," confirmed Coach Jo Luciano, YWe really wanted that one after they blew us out earlier this year." Howell used the solid serving of Julie Geesaman and Christy Scott along with some fine spikes from Jane Yearick and Kathy Barma to drop the Lady Lions 8-15, "We didn't start screaming or yelling after the first match," pointed out Luciano. "We knew we had played well, so we could get them. "In the second game, we made crucial mistakes at crucial times. We had a 13-12 lead in the first match and the serve, but blew it with a net violation."

Lake Howell hosts Apopka and Daytona Beach Mainland in a Five Star conference match Tuesday. The Hawks are $-3 in conference.

Shepherd Drops All Souls

Jeff Lower's second goal of the year wasn't enough Wednesday as All Souls School dropped a $-1 soccer game to Good Shepherd of Orlando.

All Souls travels to St. John's Vanney Saturday.

TORONTO (UPI) - No one had to tell will be to help determine who the new field Bobby Mattick that it was time to step down as manager will be," Mattick said. "That will manager of the Toronto Blue Jays.

In a move that surprised no one, Mattick announced Wednesday he was making a switch from the field level to the front office to accept the position of executive coordinator of baseball operations with the American League

Mattick, who at $5 was the oldest manager in major league baseball, says the generation gap played the pivotal role in his decision.

"I really think we need a younger man for the job," he said. "I don't like to admit it but that's what it came down to. I'll be 66 in December and that's just too old to be running around trying to control all these young guys.

"Towards the end of the season, I could see that things were moving away from me," said

Mattick, who declined to be more specific. "I didn't take the buils by the horns and move in to take control like I should have." Club President Peter Bavasi, who emphasized that no frontoffice pressure was Bavasi has a general idea of what the Blue Jays will be shopping for:

"A man with some major league experience who still has lots of enthusiasm and will be able to get the most of our blend of veterans and young people. We've got a list of about 10 or 12 and we will be sorting through that, and between now and the World Series some others liked to dine on time at the Norwalk Aquarium Fish Hotel, but if his food was late it was no problem. He'd come and get it.

"Oh, if he got hungry he'd just move the top cover of his tank and stick out two tentacles. If he didn't get the food then, he'd say, 'I better go look!' Then he'd be out of the tank," said Peter Falcione, the proprietor.

Falcione's guest was the smaller variety of octopus, about as big as a soccer ball with tentacles 18 to 24 inches long. Its owner had trained the octopus to look for food itself, Falcione said.

His own pet, a 12-year-old gourami he calls 'Janet," bangs the top of her tank with her head when she's hungry. Then Falcione offers the fish something tasty and she sticks her head out of the water and takes it. And he's careful. She has no teeth, but jaws like razor

Tanks are available yearround at the Fish Hotel either on the European or the modified American plan. The European plan calls for one daily feeding and the American for whatever food the customer specifies. The staff is also available to "fish-sit" in people's homes.

Customers bring a water sample from their home tank to the Fish Hotel, which Falcione analyzes. Then he sets up one of 32 tanks or rooms for his guest with precisely the same chemical balance. Poor water quality, he says, is an invisible fish killer,

Falcione's hotel business started as a

NORWALK, Conn. (UPI) - The octopus courtesy to customers in 1951 when some hobbyists left their pets at his tropical fish store when they went on vacation. Now the hotel is often booked solid, especially during school vacations, and over long seasonal holidays.

> Falcione says there are similarities between his hotel and the conventional, but there are differences, too. Nobody steals his towels. The ashtrays are safe. And his guests don't flirt with the chambermaids.

> The most costly stay, including shipping and handling, involved an executive being transferred at company expense from Connecticut to Los Angeles. He arranged for the Fish Hotel to ship his four-tank aquarium after he arrived last February.

> The shipment had to be held up for six weeks until spring because Kennedy International Airport personnel require ground temperature to be above 55 degrees for tropical fish shipments. The total bill came to $1,000.

> The longest a guest has stayed at the Fish Hotel was six months. A little girl with a 10gallon aquarium and 20 small fish telephoned Falcione and wanted him to put them up for the six months she and her family expected to be in Florida.

"She didn't have but $60 or $70 in fish," Falcione said. "It would have cost $250 for six months. I told her to let me speak to her father, He said no. Then the little girl comes into the store with all these fish. I told her, 'Your father said no." The kid points to a woman with her and says, 'Grandma says it's OK.'"

Fans Of Soaps Neglect Health

Television addicts - particularly those who watch a lot of soap operas - are more likely to believe medicine is magical and let their health care habits slide, a study said today.

"Our research has found ... those who watch more television are more likely to be complacent about eating, drinking and exercise," said the team from the Annenberg School of Communications at University Philadelphia.

The decade-long study, reported in the New England Journal of Medicine, said television reinforced the stereotype of an all-powerful doctor and frequent viewers of television are more likely to have "high confidence" in doctors than infrequent viewers.

"Television may thus contribute to a syndrome in which high levels of confidence in the medical profession seem to justify 'live-for-today' attitudes ... and lack of interest in prevention," the study said. "If any problem arises, the doctor will surely provide the Frequent viewers also have poor nutritional knowledge and behavior, the study found. "The cultivation of complacency, coupled with an unrealistic belief in the 'magic of medicine,' is likely to perpetuate unhealthy lifestyles and to leave both

ART— Viewed By An Artist

By HELEN M. HICKEY Artist, teacher and gallery OWDER

Art can't be defined in a few simple words. Art is many things to many different people and the more artists I meet and talk with, the more I realize this to be

Art is, of course, an expression by the artist of his or her inner feelings about something personally seen, Imagined or experienced in some way. Even the nonobjective works have had their beginnings in the artist's mind, suggested undoubtedly by something in the world around us.

Each painting, drawing or sculpture will differ depending on the sensitivity of the artist and his ability to put his ideas into a visible form.

As a teacher, I know that everyone has some degree of talent and can learn to apply and develop it if they wish. Art can be a most fulfilling, absorbing and exciting thing. The endless variety and challenge it offers keeps the artist and viewer from losing interest.

An artist can be guided by family, critics, teachers and buyers, but above all an artist should listen to that inner self for that's where the real answer lies. Art is or should be a very individual thing.

President's Message

By EDDIE SENKARIK Art Association President On behalf of the Sanford-Seminole Art Association and the Downtown Business Association, welcome to the Ninth Annual Fall for Art Festival. Again this year it is our pleasure to present a show bigger and better than before.

To the many artists visiting our show, we welcome you as our guests. Our thanks to you for sharing your talents with us and with the visitors to our show. We hope you find this to be a successful show and an enjoyable stay in the Sanford area.

The members of the Sanford-Seminole Art Association are proud of their efforts in bringing the Fall for Art Show from a oneday Saturday show nine years ago to a two-day major art festival. This show has continued to grow each year in popularity and has earned a name in the Central Florida area.

If you will, please permit us to boast a moment. Our association is made up of artists representing practically every phase of art. Some very well known for their art work and others quite interesting in their various media. Our members range from talented high school students, to a nationally acclaimed wood carver, and to several senior citizens who are consistent award winners at art shows. This is our association, made up of business men and women, students, teachers, professional people, homemakers, and retired citizens.

Thanks to you who are planning to visit our show.

THE SHAPP SH

We know you'll enjoy it because we know the art work that will be there. Stop and talk to the artists. You'll be surprised how friendly they are and how happy they are to talk to you.

Thanks again to our visiting artists. Enjoy our parks and lakefront.

We are anticipating a good show this year - good crowds, excellent entertainment, and hopefully good weather. All of us who have had a hand in bringing this show to you are looking forward to a fun-filled weekend for everyone. Please come join us.

Sanford, Florida - Friday, October 9, 1981

Bill "Wimpy" Wimberly cranks up his ham radio in preparation for a conversation with . . . just about anybody in the world who also has a powerful radio set. Wimberly has been a "ham" for most of his 65 years. He can teach you how to become a "ham," too.

Want To Be A Ham? --- Try Amateur Radio

When Ma Bell tells us in all those TV commercials to "Reach out and touch someone," most of us think about picking up the telephone and making a call.

But Sanford's Bill "Wimpy" Wimberly can "reach out and touch someone" and he never has to touch a phone. He doesn't have to go through an operator if he wants to talk to someone halfway around the world, say in some exotic spot like Pago Pago. And his "calls" don't cost him a direct

If you hadn't guessed by now, Wimberly is a ham. A ham radio operator, that is. To hear Wimberly tell it, ham radio is the greatest thing to come along since toothpaste.

He's not alone.

Across the country, nearly one million enthusiasts have switched on to ham radio broadcasting, most of them in the last five years or so.

And many of these "hams" live in Seminole County. If you want to get involved, there's the 100-member Lake Monroe Amateur Radio Society to help you along.

But be advised, one session with these "hams" may be enough to get you hooked on the hobby, which has been known to drain many an enthusiast's pocketbook and tax his patience.

Part of the attraction of ham radio operation is the technical expertise demanded. Wimberly warns that putting together a radio from scratch takes a bit more manual dexterity than assembling one of those crystal sets you might have built back in grade school.

"You could probably get a transmitter and receiver that would work pretty well for $200 or so," Wimberly says. "You can also get them fresh from the box ready to go for about that. It just depends on how involved you want to get."

Wimberly has gotten VERY involved. He has a setup worth about $3,000 that can put him in touch with someone on the other side of the globe.

Therein lies much of the lure of ham radio. "What other hobby brings the world into your home?" Wimberly asks. "I've talked to doctors, lawyers, ditch diggers — all over the world. Friendships are made quickly," he says. Why, just exchange "handles" (radio names) and "you're already on a first-name basis. Some 'hams' go on to meet personally, and some have even gotten married."

Broadcasting on a ham radio is a lot like fishing, Wimberly says. Your lure is a CQ (general call), which you cast out from the rod, which is a radio antenna. "You never know what kind of 'fish' will strike at your bait," he says. "You never know whether you're going to hook someone down the street or around the world."

Then there's the fascination of being able to "send my

...Anybody Can Be A Ham, Really

voice through the air without wires. It's really quite fun," Wimberly says.

But Wimberly is not your usual ham hobbyist who got into amateur broadcasting as a way of killing a few hours on weekends. He traces his interest back to when he was nine and his stepbrother, who was an electrician, gave him a handful of tubes and wires and challenged him to make something out of it.

"I did and I'm still at it 55 years later," he says.

He became a professional along the way. "I graduated from school during the depression and radio was one of the best paying fields I could get in so I did," Wimberly recalls. "I was a broadcast engineer at Texas, North Cafolina, and Florida radio stations for most of my life, so I come by my radio interest naturally."

These days, Wimberly's interest tends more toward public service than just hamming it up for fun. He is a member of the Amateur Radio Emergency Service Net (ARESN), a nationwide organization providing needed communication capability during times of disaster.

"During Hurricane David which hit a few months ago, ARESN members were tracking its course and were ready to help out with emergency communication if it hit here," Wimberly said.

"During natural disasters we help locate missing persons or others like truckers who are out of touch and their families need to talk to them," he says.

"I'll get a call from a ham operator in Colorado or someplace who'll ask me to pass along a message to someone in this area. Or, I'll be a relay man passing the word farther down the line to someone else."

If all this has piqued your curiosity, Wimberly teaches a class on amateur radio broadcasting at Seminole Community College through the school's Leisure Time program. The next class is Nov. 2. For more information, contact SCC at 323-1450.

Broadway Sequel; Winters' Next Book

NEW YORK — When a film runs hot they make sequels, like "Superman Two." Now Broadway is copying: There will be a "Sophisticated Ladies Two" . . . Dinah Shore made it to see Shelley Winters in Neil Simon's "Gingerbread Lady" in Chicago. Shelley, meanwhile, is working on her second autobiography.

Red Buttons is to be spokesman for the American Home Shield Corp., insurance for the home... They tell me there will be a stock issue shortly called Youngman Oil & Gas and another called Berle Oil Products. I should mention that Henny Youngman was the one who said it... A British publisher, Mac Millanof London, paid over $100,000 for Norman Mailer's "The Egyptians" without seeing one paragraph.

Yves Montand is onstage in Paris after two decades—and he's a sellout. The French love their oldies...Liza Minnelli will jazz up the Diplomat Hotel in Florida on New Year's Eve...A note from Sylvia Miles from London says she's playing James Mason's wife in a film but she doesn't say what film...Sha Na Na wants it known that it celebrates its fifth year on TV this fall.

I'm just back from Australia where I bumped into Zaa Zaa Gaber at the Sebel Townhouse in Sydney and Alaa Alda at the Melbourne Hilton, but I missed Sammy Davis at the Sheraton in Perth. I got back just in time for the Studio 54 opening, the El Morocco opening and the annual Our Town party. Good to be home . . .

Jaclyn Smith in the title role of "Jacqueline Bouvier Kennedy," affects the tweedy look on her arrival in Washington, D.C., as the Inquiring Photographer of the Washington Times-Herald.

SATURDAY

Christine Ebersole is the latest addition to the repertory company of "Saturday Night Live." airing every Saturday night on NBC.

Richard Pryor, Gene Wilder Team Up Again

NEW YORK—Odd couple Richard Pryor and Gene Wilder, who paired for "Stir Crazy," team again in Columbia's film, "Traces," to be directed by Sidney Politer... Ernest Borgnine is looking to stay at home and do a weekly TV series... Cicely Tyson's looking to convince execs that talent has no color. "If a great black role comes up they think of me," she said a while back, "but not if it's just a great role. I want to broaden my base of opportunity."

Carol Lynley: "One wonderful thing about actors is they don't go around talking about other people."

Bo, Linda Are Step-In-Laws

Ask Dick Kleiner

By DICK KLEINER

DEAR DICK: I read your column every week and I was wondering if you could tell me if Linda Evans, the beautiful star of "Dynasty," and Bo Derek are related to each other. MARK SMALARY, Roseville, Mich.

They are what you might call step-in-laws. The only relationship is that they share a husband. Bo's husband, John Derek, is Linda Evans' ex. Another of his former wives is Ursula Andress. They all look remarkably alike.

DEAR DICK: Could you please tell me what happened to Abby Dalton, who was one of the stars on "Hollywood Squares" about 10 or 15 years ago. I never see or hear anything about her. S.J.B., Trenton, N.J.

You'll be seeing her this season as a regular on the new CBS series "Falcon Crest." Abby, who starred on several TV shows, working with people like Jackie Cooper and Joey Bishop, was out of the business a few years to raise children. But she's back and as beautiful as ever, Maybe

DEAR DICK: We are having a discussion and need you to straighten us out. My husband says that Mery Griffin and Mike Douglas are brothers. Is that true? VIOLA HEMOND, Ventura, Calif.

No. No relation whatsoever.

DEAR DICK: I saw a recent movie starring Lana Turner. I would like to know if she is still living. If not, when did she die? JON JACOBS, Bloomington, Ind.

Lana is still very much with us.

DEAR DICK: About five years ago, Judd Hirsch, who plays Alex on "Taxi." had his own detective show. It only lasted one season. Can you please tell me the name of that show? JEAN ROCHEBORN, Marshileld, Wis.

That was "Delvecchio." Curiously, Hirsch's supporting team on that show consisted of Charles Haid and Michael Conrad, who are both now on the "Hill Street Blues" detachment

DEAR DICK: I would like some information on "The Virginian." I have not seen the star of that show for a long time. Is he still acting? And what is his name? I am a shutin, 64 years old, in a wheelchair, and I like to watch movies on TV. DAISY M. SMITH, Bettendorf, Iowa.

Your memory is very good, "The Virginian" ran from 1962 to 1971 and James Drury played the title character. He is still acting, although competition for roles in Hollywood is keen, and it's a tough business.

DEAR DICK: Several years ago, I saw a movie in which Tony Randali played Hercule Poirot, Agatha Christle's detective. He was the best Poirot I've seen, but I can't recall the name of the movie. Can you help? CAREN SIMDARS LORENZ, Battleground, Wash.

The picture was "The Alphabet Murders," from 1966. But I differ with you -- I think Randall is good at what he does, but playing Poirot isn't what he should do. Albert Finney gets my vote as the top Poirot.

DEAR DICK: We recently saw James Cagney on an NBC program and my wife says he lives in Beacon, N.Y. I say he lives close to Beacon, but not in Beacon. Would you please clear this up for us and tell us what town he lives in? LEON AND JENNIFER DACOSTA, Port St. Lucle, Cagney's official residence is Stanforville, Dutchess County, N.Y.

DEAR DICK: I have a bet on this question. Who was the leading lady in "The Other Side of Midnight?" My Iriend says it was Jane Seymour, but I say it was someone named Marie. JUDY KALITTA, Mount Clemens, Mich.

You're much closer. Her name is Marie-France Pisier, although a good case could be made for the fact that the part Susan Sarandon played was really the leading female October 9

Is The 3-D Craze Making A Comeback?

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) - It has been almost 30 years since we had our last 3-D attack. Back in the early '50s, thousands of us trooped to the theaters, put on those silly glasses and watched a few totally inept movies - "Bwana Devil" and "House of Wax" were the prime examples.

In the interim, there have been a few vague attempts at making 3-D products, but, largely, the gimmick was forgotten. However - brace yourself! - it appears to be back.

Now showing in many theaters around the country is a western called "Coming at Ya!" It stars Tony Anthony, Gene Quintano, Victoria Abril and Ricardo Palacios.

"The star of the movie," says Gene Quintano, "is 3-D. We made the picture to introduce the process, that's all.'

Quintano was co-writer and co-executive producer of the film, as well as one of the stars. In the film, he plays one of the bad guys and he looks like a mess - unshaven, slobby, dreadful. He is, however, goodlooking, neat, clean. Shows you what 3-D (dirty, disheveled and dreadful?) can do.

Quintano says that he and Anthony, an old friend, have been 3-D nuts since the "Bwana Devil" and "House of Wax" days. They often mused, idly, about what went wrong with the system and why it died out as suddenly as it had developed.

"What went wrong," Quintano says, "is that there were all sorts of problems with those early 3-D systems. To make those movies required two cameras, and that was expensive and time-consuming. To show them, theaters had to have two projectors also expensive.

"And the projectors had to be in perfect synchronization, and, all too often, they weren't. So it just sort of died out."

Quintano and Anthony decided to see if they could bring it back. They looked at equipment from all over the world. In the end, Quintano says, they "married certain advances from various places."

The system they developed - they call it "Dimensionscope" - is an attachment to a standard motion picture camera. Thus, there is little restriction to a camera's normal flexibility. ("We can't zoom yet, but we're working on it.")

They can use slow motion, and do. In "Comin' at Ya!," there are slow motion 3-D shots that are intriguing.

eyes, Mike Hammer, in "Mickey Spillane's 'Margin for Murder,' " a new motion picture for television to be broadcast Thursday, on Charles Hallahan, Cindy Pickett and Donna Dixon also star in the action drama Meeker. which features a return to the acreen of the nononsense, no-holds-barred type of detective. Mike Hammer, dedicated to law and order, relentlessly pursues the villains.

In the script by Calvin Clementa Jr. (taken from a story by Alex Lucas based on characters created by Mickey Spillane), Mike Hammer's best friend is killed in an auto accident while driving Hammer's car. Hammer forces an immediate autopsy. The results bear out his suspicions: His friend died as a result of a very professional beating, one administered over many hours.

Reluctantly accepting help from his friend Pat Chambers, the police captain, and, of course, his invaluable girl Friday, Velda, Hammer begins the search for the killer, it is a search that to high-level leada

Kevin Dobson, who is starring this season in the title role of CBS' series "Shannon," appeared as Detective Bobby Crocker in the long-running hit "Kojak." Since that time, he has starred in a series of motion pictures for television. He also starred as Barbara Streisand's fireman husband in the feature film "All Night Long."

Charles Hallahan, who plays Pat Chambers, is a veteran of the prestigious San Francisco American Conservatory Tpeatre.

Daniel Haller directed the Hamner Productions, Inc., drama, for executive producers Robert Hamner, Jay Bernstein and Larry Thompson and producer Alex Lucas.

Wagner's role

"The part has everything!" says Lindsay Wagner. "I age 30 years, and there's a complete change in smuggling, low-level my character, from sweet, politics, the glittering world naive teen-ager to murof disco and a trail of sudden derous, powerful career deaths.

Miss Wagner is speaking

Kevin Dobson stars as the sold. The character first of a poverty-stricken girl's toughest of fictional private appeared on television in a rise to wealth and power is set in Texas, played against the background of real events of the time.

Miss Wagner fascinated with seeing herself change in appearance over the 30-year span. She went from 17 to 48 years old in five separate

"It's a strange feeling to be there before I've really arrived," she says.

PBS series

"A Town Like Alice," a six-part dramatization of Nevil Shute's romantic bestseller, launched Mobil Masterpiece Theatre's 1981-82 season on PBS Sunday.

Starring Helen Morse and Bryan Brown and filmed on location in Australia, Malaya, Scotland and London, "A Town Like Alice" tells the story of two prisoners of war, Englishwoman Jean Paget and Aussie soldier Joe Harman, whose romance begins during the Japanese takeover of Malaya and ends in the vast Australian outback.

Shute is known to American audiences as the author of "On the Beach."

Bette's battle

Two-time Oscar winner Bette Davis stars in "Family Reunion," a four-hour NBC miniseries about a New England school teacher.

The drama, which also stars J. Ashley Hyman, Davis's grandson - in his screen debut - will air on NBC Sunday and Monday.

Renee is the star of that film. "Spetters" was directed by Holland's leading movie man, Paul Verhoeven. It was Verhoeven who directed the most successful Dutch film yet, "Soldier of Orange," which starred Rulger Hauer. From that film, Hauer was catapaulted to international stardom -- he appeared with Sylvester Stallone in "Nighthawks." And Renee Soutendijk hopes the same thing happens to her, that she can use "Spetters" as a stepping stone to bigger and

RENEE SOUTENDIJK

She's a little thing, probably not much over 5 feet tall. She wears her golden hair close-cropped. She has blue eyes and a saucy smile.

At 24, she's an experienced actress, probably Holland's biggest movie-TV-stage star. And she has another asset for international work - she speaks English impeccably. There is only an intriguing hint of an accent and she could probably lose that if necessary.

Soutendijk is pronounced Sow'-ten-deck. She might have to change that for work here, simply because nobody outside the Netherlands knows how to pronounce it.

In "Spetters" - a Dutch slang word that means many things, such as "hot shots" or splatters of grease from a frying pan Renee Soutendijk plays a ripsnorting sexpot. Because of that, reviewers all over the world are calling her the next Bardot or the next? Monroe, depending on their cortipular dream girl.
