SANFORD - Friday, students at All Souls Catholic School will be helping raise money to support the school's academic and extra curricular programs.

Over the past few weeks students, teachers and a few parishoners from All Souls Catholic Church have been collecting signatures on pledge cards in preparation for tomorrow's walk-a-thon, said Sallie Moore, vice president of the school's Home and School Association.

The students will begin Friday morning by walking from the school at 801 Oak Ave., Sanford, to Ft. Mellon Park on First Street.

No fire at school board

Several firefighting units responded to a call at the Seminole County School Board offices, 1211 Mellonville Ave., Sanford about 5 a.m. this morning, but Sanford Fire Department officials said there was no problem.

Firefighter Dave Bass, who said he was not on duty at the time, but who looked at the report filed by those who were, said that a short in the power lines near Mellonville Avenue and Celery Avenue, prompted the call.

"We didn't have a fire." and Bass.
According to Walter Meriwether, the director of risk management for the school district, there was no problem at the school board office.

Give us a break! PSC urged to OK toll-free Orlando calls

By J. MARK BARFIELD Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY - North Seminole County residents, business owners and government officials raised a unanimous voice Wednesday: We are a part of the greater metropolitan Orlando area so we shouldn't have to pay tolls to call there.

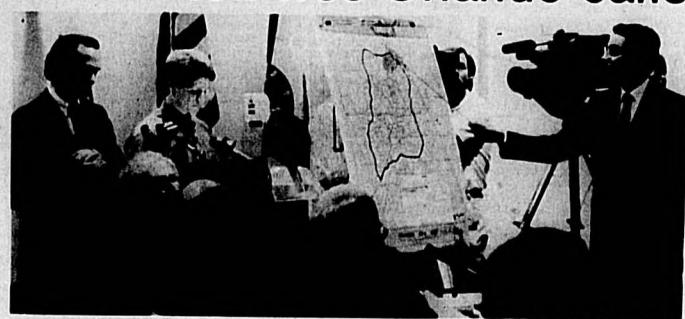

The testimony came during an unusual out-of-Tallahassee hearing conducted here by the Florida Public Service Commission.

The purpose was to consider a request by Lake Mary, Sanford and Seminole County officials who say residents of their areas should not have to pay a toll to telephone Orlando. Instead, the officials say, phone users would pay a flat-fee increase of only 80 cents per month. The officials are also seeking a reduced, 25-cent per call rate to Apopka. Local mayors pledge to withdraw the request if the PSC accepts a higher rate than those paid by Orlando-exchange custom-Arguements and motions by attorneys will continue before the PSC in their regular Tallahassee venue Friday morning. The commission is scheduled to decide the case August 18. The commission will also decide whether to extend flat-rate calling service to the 1,800 Geneva customers.

Students protest budget cuts

SHS teachers, staff back peaceful lunchtime march

Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - The students at Seminole High School are interested in telling lawmakers in Tallahassee that they are not willing to sit back and watch the budget-cutting ax take away their educational future.

A group of those students, with the full support of the staff and administration of the school, were to have spent their lunch hour today marching peacefully around the campus, holding placards and encouraging others to sign a petition they have prepared that expresses their unhappiness with the proposed budget

"This is going to be a peaceful protest," said principal Gretchen Schapker earlier this morning. "It is our intent to let our voices be heard."

Schapker said that the students who organized the protest wanted the legislators to know that they are displeased with the proposals that would cut millions of dollars from school budgets.

"These cuts affect them personally," Schapker said. "They feel very deeply about this."

She added that the petition will be mailed to the Appropriations Committee tomorrow from the school. The students had organized a protest without permission of the school a few weeks ago, but Schapker, fearful that some might "confuse the issues" with the rage being felt across the nation about the Rodney King verdict, called the protest to a halt.

The students willingly agreed to meet with administrators and plan the protest with school approval. Schapker said teachers who had a lunch break during the times of the protest had expressed an interest in participating as well.

"This is something that affects all of us." she said. "I don't know how many teachers will be involved, but they are interested in showing their support."

Lake Mary Mayor Randy Morris provided moments of levity for PSC commissioners and applause from the audience during the 51/2-hour hearing. At one point, foot-tall stacks of telephone books were dropped on the rostrum in front of each delighted PSC member with a resounding "clump."

"For a little more a month, Orlando customers can call all these numbers," Morris commented.

Then, the 11/2 Inch-thick Sanford exchange telephone book was dropped beside the stack with a less convincing "plop." "And that's what we can call."

Morris said. The audience and PSC members laughed and commissioner

Betty Easley commented in de-light Morris was a "silvertongued devil." It was an extraordinary meeting of the PSC, the state agency charged by the Legislature with deciding rates for utility companies. Usually, local public comments are made before one or two commissioners, not the entire five-member board.

But after hearing arguements from Lake Mary officials earlier this year that the Sanford-Lake Mary area has close ties with Orlando, commissioners decided to head south and see for themselves.

The more than three dozen speakers Monday echoed the city's arguements and PSC Chairman Tom Beard admitted afterwards he was impressed by the testimony.

"I think the people I heard from today, if they represent this area as a whole, had a strong sense of community of metropolitan Orlando." said Beard. "I don't have any question in my mind of the sense of community here. It will be one of the factors, one of several though, that I will consider.'

The Issue

The topic before the Public Service Commission Wednesday was whether Seminole and Orange County are essentially one large community. If they are, then residents throughout Seminole County should be able to call friends and businesses in "Downtown" without -paying a Sanfort and Lake Mary residential customers now pay $9.50 a month and can call 238,177 numbers without a toll. Business cusotmers pay $25.75 per month for the same service. Orlando residential customers can call 530,526 numbers without an additional toll to the basic $10.30 residential charge. Orlando business customers pay $28 for the service.

According to Southern Bell documents provided to the PSC, there were about 36,000 customers in the Sanford exchange, which includes Lake Mary, during a sample month of July 1991. During that month. 184,855 calls were made from the Sanford exchange to the Orlando exchange. Nearly 40 percent of the customers called Orlando two times or more during the month.

In turn, 244,204 calls were made from the 244.511 Orlando-exchange customers to Sanford-area customers. About 10 percent of the callers made two or more calls during the month.

The 1,839 Geneva customers made 8,465 calls to Orlandoexchange numbers. Nearly 42 percent of the customers made two or more calls. The Orlando customers made 11,464 calls to Geneva. Less than one percent made two or more calls.

Phone users' positions

Local officials say Sanford and Lake Mary customers should pay the same rate as Orlando customers. They say the current calling area of 238,177 numbers should include the 244,511 Orlando numbers for the same rate as Orlando customers. Sanford customers now pay $9.50 per month, compared to the $10.30 rate paid by Orlando customers. who can call 530,526 numbers.

The main local arguement is central Florida is now one large metropolitan area.

"I recently commented, and it was met with laughter, that there will soon come a day when Orlando people will want and need to call people in Sanford, Lake Mary and Geneva," said Sanford Mayor Bettye Smith. "I believe the time is here. We are separated from the rest of the metropolitan area of Orlando by telephone calling rates."

"No one is going to tell the people of Sanford and Lake Mary that they are not a community of interest to Orlando," said Lake Mary Mayor Randy Morris. "(Southern Bell) is trying to jam down our throats and they're trying to jam down your throats Southern Bell's view of reality."

Businessmen commented the tolla restricted their ability to reach their many customers in Orlando or to expand their trade southward.

Lake Mary contractor Larry Dale said his subcontractors often have to drive south two or three miles to make a 25-cent pay phone call and avoid long-distance charges.

Margaret Smith of Sanford. owner of The Answering Service. said she knows of 20 to 25 Orlando physicians that practice in Sanford that want to use her telephone message service, but she has had to reject them because the tolls, especially for call-forwarding, are prohibitive. Residents said the tolls are simply too expensive. Oscar Redden III, of Lake Mary, said he works for the U.S. Postal Service in Orlando. As a result, his monthly telephone bill averages $150.

'We have busses out here folks." Redden said. "It's not the boondocks." Sanford Community Development Officer Charles Rowe told Public Service Commission members Wednesday one cityassisted contractor accumulates calls he needs to make to Orlando, then drives south to Longwood to make the calls from a pay phone at a quarter a call. Rowe said one city client on a fixed income finds it cheaper to write a 29-cent letter than to call to make her medical appoint-

Southern Bell's position

Southern Bell officials acknowledge there is a growing connection between north Seminole County and the greater Orlando area, but not enough to warrant the rates.

"I don't think there's any question of a growing sense of community, said Larry Strickler after Wednesday's teleplione service hearing at Lake Mary Chy Hall.

Strickler in the Seminole County area manager, for Southern Bell.

'But the city's resolution (for the toll-free service) put us in a position where we couldn't endorse it," said Strickler. "They want to increase the local service to Orlando and have the customers not pay for it. There's no free

Southern Bell officials said they estimate they would lose between $2 million and $3 million each year in lost tolls by accepting the Lake Mary position. Strickler said additional costs will be incurred to reconfigure switches and other equipment to expand the serv-

"There's a perception that local calls are free calls," he said. "They're not. Our Orlando group is based on the number of numbers in that area."

Southern Bell officials, and United Telephone officials, say there just are not enough calls to warrant the extended services. United Telephone provides telephone service to Apopka and Longwood customers.

Southern Bell, in pre-hearing testimony, stated the Public Service Commission usually decides a community of interest exists when at least 50 percent of the customers in one area calls another area twice or more each month. Actual call rates are about 40 percent or less, they stated.

Under questioning by United Telephone attorney Alan Berg Wednesday, United Telephone vice president Bruce H. Reynolds anid about 80 percent of the multiple calls from Apopka to Sanford are made by only 10 percent of the 20,000 customers in that exchange.

"There is no justification to expand service," said Reynolds.

The PSC Staff Position

Public Service Commission staff, in a January 23 memo, say a community of interest has developed between north Seminole County and the Orlando area to warrant eventual flat-rate service. The staff found calling rates were actually closer to 55 percent if all of the current basic and special-rate services offered by Southern Bell were included.

However, PSC also acknowledged Southern Bell would have expenses with the service change and would lose revenues. PSC regulations allow utilities to maintain reasonable profit margins.

Under the 25/25 plan recommended by the staff, the current rate of $9.50 per month for residents and $25.75 for businesses would be increased by 25 percent and a regrouping fee would be added to result in new rates of $12.67 per month and $34.44 per month. The increase would allow Southern Bell to recoup expenses and lost revenue income for three years, then the rates would be lowered to the Orlando-area rates.

PSC staff originally recommended polling Sanford- and Geneva-area customers on the plan, but PSC commissioners decided to skip that stage and proceed to the hearings.

The Alternatives

Southern Bell customers are now offered a hodge-podge of services to try to reduce the expense of calling Orlando-area numbers for those residents and business owners who call there frequently.

We have tried to accommodate the needs of the people of north Seminole County who call Orlando frequently." said Larry Strickler, Seminole County area manager for Southern Bell. "We don't think people who don't call Orlando should help pay for those who do.

Public Service Commission staff have recommended a "25/25" plan which would increase residential and business rates by 25 percent in addition to the regrouping rate. The result would increase current rates to $12.67 for residences and $34.44 for businesses.

Other options include a 25cent plan, which would simply do away with current per-minute tolls in favor of a flat 25-cent per call toll, regardless of the length of the call. A similar service was recently provided to Sanfordarea customers to the Orange City exchange.

SANFORD — Most Sanford residents and officials know of the Shiloh Cemetery, located at the rear of the City's Evergreen Cemetery on W. 25th Street. No one however, knows who owns the property.

Sanford Parks and Recreation Director Mike Kirby, who is also in charge of cemetery operations commented, "People keep asking us why we don't do something about the Shiloh Cemetery. The problem is," he added, "we don't know if it's ours to control."

City Manager Bill Simmons agreed. "The city has no records or deed to show that we own or have control over the property. We don't even know if it has been annexed into the city."

He commented, "We have always thought it being located in the county, but the county says it's within the City of Sanford. Yet, neither of us can prove it."

"If it was indeed annexed."
Simmons said. "The next question is, who signed the annexation papers, and where are they?"

Seminole County Property Appraiser Bill Suber said, "According to our records, it is owned by the First Shiloh Missionary Baptist Church." He added, "But being a cemetery, it is tax exempt, so there is no one we have listed who might pay taxes on the land."

The Rev. Harry D. Rucker of the First Shiloh Missionary Baptist Church says it's all a matter of confusion. "They're not really talking about the Shiloh Cemetery." he said. "The church owns that. What they really mean are the many individual grave yards owned by a number of different families." He added he was referring to small yards, not sites.

The Rev. Rucker explained. "The land that is the real Shiloh Cemetery was given to the church back in 1965 or 66 by a social club called Friendship and Union Society, who found they were unable to continue operating the cemetery."

Rucker added, "What the city is looking into. I think they will find, is really known as the Pace/Jackson Cemetery, not the true Shiloh Cemetery.".

Seminole County Sheriff's spokesman George Proechel said, "It's definitely in the county's jurisdiction, and the sheriff's office takes care of all calls out there, whenever they are reported."

Sanford Police Chief Steve Harriett said, "Based on our maps, we consider the area as

Contest Rules

The object of the contest is to match all the baby pictures to the correct "grown-up" picture in each ad.

Three tips to get you started:

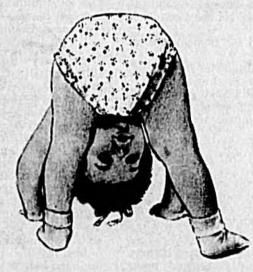

1. Look at all the baby / grown-up pictures for distinguishing features. Check out those big eyes, that curly hair, those cute double chins!

2. Read the clues...new ones will be added each

3. Still stumped? Visit each business, where appli-cable. Each advertiser has their baby picture displayed, just to help you win!

Once you've decided who each baby is, write their name beneath the picture. Next, clip the entire form and mail or bring in to the Sanford Herald office. Just one correct entry per family, please. All entries must be received by June 4, 1992. Winners will be chosen at random drawing from all correct entries received. Employees of the Sanford Herald, and their immediate families, are not eligible

• Bonus • All correct entires receive a complimentary 1 month subscription to the Sanford Herald newspaper. Already a subscriber? Congratulational We'll extend your subscription for 1 month from your current expiration

Rebuilding

More than $1 billion. That's the price tag put on the reconstruction job necessary in Los Angeles following the citizens' rampage.

Peter Ueberroth, chosen by Mayor Tom Bradley to head the rebuilding effort doesn't know where the money will come from, other than he thinks it should be a mixture of public and private funds.

The emphasis should be on private.

Even if a city, state or federal governments had an extra $1 billion to spare, the rebuilding of Los Angeles should still be primarily a community responsibility. The destruction last week was not an act of God or of war. It was not caused by hurricane, earthquake or foreign invasion.

The causes of the problem are rooted in Los Angeles, primarily in relations among ethnic groups and in relations between the police and the population.

Underlying it all is the failure of the welfare system to give the underclass the motivation and opportunity to escape their lives of

In terms of public resources for the physical rebuilding, the riots couldn't have come at a worse time. The city of Los Angeles has a deficit close to $200 million this year; California's state government raised taxes to close this year's budget difficit and faces another deficit next year: the federal government is $400 billion in the red this year.

Ueberroth is the right man for this job. The man who made the 1984 Los Angeles Olympics a financial success, largely through private fundraising, today faces a new kind of challenge. The task in 1992 is not to renovate the city's sports facilities, but to renovate whole city blocks, leveled as though hit by

The people of Los Angeles can do it. As the smoke-eleated and the embers died, they came out with brooms and buckets to start the cleanup. Just as they are showing their heart in cleaning up the mess, they will show it in rebuilding, though the job facing them is

It is a task for citizens at every level. Los Angeles is the nation's largest manufacturing center which means the corporate community has a large stake in reconstruction. But so do small businesses and private citizens. If Los Angeles is to remain a thriving center of manufacturing, the service industry, entertainment and tourism, each resident has a role to play in rebuilding.

Ueberroth, who recently completed a somber report about California's economy, knows the limitations of local government. The Bush administration has offered $600 million in federal aid, primarily from the Pederal Emergency Management Agency and the Samall Business Administration, which, in the circumstances, sounds like electionyear generosity.

Rebuilding Los Angeles today will not be as easy as in 1965, following the Watts riots. which didn't do as much damage. If the tab reaches more than $1 billion, the city may need to explore creative ways of financing, such as a temporary sales tax, like those sometimes used to finance highways or sports

The bad news is that the hangover from its terrible binge is just beginning and is going to hurt. The good news is that the organism is fundamentally healthy, has formidable resources and convalescence shouldn't take too

WILLIAM A. RUSHER

Roots of the permanent underclass

If there's one thing almost everybody agrees on diligent hunt for the errant policies while craftily concerning the Los Angeles riots, it is that there must be no attempt to fix the blame for them. President Bush says so, because he must appear statesmanslike and above such mundane considerations as politics. The Democrats and their liberal allies in the media say so, because they are rightly terrifled of what any serious discussion of the responsibility for this disaster would do to their reputations and their policies.

Yet if we are not permitted to examine the true roots of this tragedy, we will learn nothing from it. Must nearly 60 people die, and 3,000 be injured, and almost a billion dollars' worth of property damage be done, without this country learning anything from the experience because we are too tactful to suggest that anybody was responsible for the policies that led to it?

Most of the people directly responsible -Lyndon Johnson and the congressional Democrats and liberal intellectuals of the 1960s - are dead now anyway. Besides, it's only fair to credit them with the best of intentions. But what keeps today's liberal Democrats from acknowledging the historical truth is the fact that they are still wedded, albeit rather uncomfortably, to those disastrous policies of the 1960s.

Say that to a liberal apologist, however - Mark Shields, for example - and he will instantly go into the old broken-wing trick, leading you on a the truth. What policies can you possibly be talking about, he will ask. Surely not Head Start (one of the few liberal programs that is supposed to have succeeded, though even that is debatable? rent malignant form it is a child of Lyndon Johnson's Great Society and his celebrated War on Poverty. Its basic idea must have seemed, to the liberals of the 1960s, pure bottled compassion. It simply called for giving monthly payments to every needy woman who had children to raise and no man to support her.

What did not become apparent for some years was that this amounted to subsidizing unwed mothers - and, as Jack Kemp has pointed out. "When you subsidize something, you get more of it," Worse yet, if by any chance there was a man in a poor household. AFDC amounted to an order to him to vanish, so that the woman could qualify for those payments.

The result, quite simply, was the destruction of whatever family most blacks had. The girls began having more and more babies out of wedlock - 63 percent of all black births. according to the most recent figures. The boys, growing up without a father-figure on whom to model themselves, took to the streets, and to violence: today, one young black male in every four is officially in trouble with the police.

It is estimated that this country has spent $2 1/2 trillion - that's right, I said trillion - in the last 25 years, trying to cope with the multiple consequences of poverty. Does anybody think we got our money's worth? I can think of only one group that did: the powerful black Congressmen and their patronage appointees in the welfare agencies, through whose hands the money trickled down to the needy, converting the latter into a permanently dependent underclass.

JOSEPH SPEAR

A primer for handling leaks

I am sorely disappointed in Peter E. Fleming and the United States Senate. Since last fall, they've been promising us a blazing shootout' at the congressional corral, but when they get to the point where the guns are drawn and the lead is about to fly — all we get are a couple of fizzies and a piop.

We ought to sue them for nonfeasance or

Surely you recall the name Peter E. Fleming. He's the New York lawyer hired by the Senate to unearth the fiends who leaked Anita Hill's charges that she had been sexually harassed by Supreme Court nominee, now Justice, Clarence Thomas.

Oh, the Republicans were so upset. We want a Leak Probe, they said. OK, responded the opposition, but only if we get a Leak Probe, too. We want to disinter the dogs who leaked all that foul stuff about the ethics investigation of the Democratic senators who did favors for S&L swindler Charles Keating.

And so Peter E. Fleming was brought aboard. He hired a staff of investigators. interviewed 200 people, pored over who-knows-how-many documents, subpoenaed four reporters and demanded their sources (which they did not give him), spent several hundred thousand dollars — and a few days ago filed a 171-page report that said he had found nothing.

After all that ballyhoo and threats of a constitutional showdown, we get nothing. We ought to demand our money back.

Truth is, it would be a waste of time. You see, there's a rule in the secret Leak Probe Manual used by public officials which says: "It is not expected that Leak Probers will actually find leakers. Leak Probers are expected to flutter about and make noise, sparing no expense, until public anger subsides. They are then to report no progress and close the case."

Here are just a few of the other rules in the manual:

1. "The more vital it is for the public to know something, the more flerce should be the reaction when it is leaked."

When The New York Times disclosed in 1969 that the United States was secretly bombing Cambodia, for example, Richard Nixon and Henry Kissinger inveigled PBI Director J. Edgar Hoover into installing wiretaps on the telephones of 17 people. including seven members of Kissinger's staff.

In response to the famous Pentagon Papers leak, Nixon and his minions set up the White House plumbers team, which enjoyed a short but merry career of plugging leaks through various means, legal and illegal.

When journalist Daniel Schorr obtained a secret congressional report in 1976 on the sins of the CIA, the House Ethics Committee which had never investigated a congressman - launched a seven-month probe of the leak. The Ford administration also proposed fines and jail terms for anyone who leaked intelligence information.

"Charges of 'leaking' are wonderful diversionary tools and are most effectively employed with a great display of honking and the flapping of wings."

The show put on by the senators at the Thomas hearings are a good example. They were caught redhanded sitting on an explosive bit of news but managed to put off public exami-nation of their indiscretion by appointing Fleming and publishing his non-findings half a year

When Spiro Agnew was caught taking kickbacks and payoffs from contractors, he vehemently denounced the leaks. then served subpoe-given to wearing ridiculous-looking wige and using voice modulators. In his official non-findings, Peter Fleming imparted a timeworn truism:

"The media views leaking from a different perspective. It may be fairly said the American media is addicted to leaks. It argues that leaks are essential to fulfilling its obligation as a public watchdog."

MARTIN SCHRAM

Col. J.V. Brennan: true propagandist

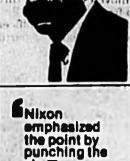

It was the springtime of our discontent, 1970, and America was tearing itself apart. President Nixon had just announced that he'd sent troops into Cambodia, widening a war we wouldn't win — and ripping new-wounds at home that would take a generation

And in the White House, an eager-to-please military aide, Marine Col. Jack V. Brennan, sent a memo to Nixon's secretary, Rose Mary Woods - ostensibly for posterity, but knowing it would reach The Boss.

We've now come to see Brennan as a networker in a lucrative 1964 deal to supply Saddam Husseln's troops with new uniforms — a deal studded with d i s g r a c e d middlemen: Spiro Agnew, John Mit-chell, Nixon and Romania's communist dictator Nicolae Ceausescu. We'll get to all that — but first. a look at a young networker perfecting his craft:

"May 4, 1970 "TO: Rose Woods ' FROM: J.V. Brennan

"On the day following the president's historic speech ... I had the privilege of being in his company for most of the afternoon. I was so moved by the spirit. determination, dedication and patriotism which he conveyed that I feel obliged to record the mood for history. May I humbly submit this:" There followed nine paragraphs - part sycophancy, part pop-psych novella — about a ride on the presidential yacht, Sequoia, with Nixon, wife Pat, daughter Julie and David Eisenhower, and presidential pal C.G. "Bebe" Rebozo. Mainly, it was about Nixon's repeated obsession with a special ceremony he wanted when they passed Mount Vernon:

"He told me he wanted the National Anthem 'blasted out.' He wanted it to be heard! He emphasized this point by punching the air with his closed fist."

The memo notes Nixon effected a "deliberately gruff" voice to ask: "As a Marine, do you approve of what I said last night?" Brennan called the speech "one of the proudest momenta of my life," adding: "I only wish I were over there to help carry out what you've ordered."

Nixon responded: "I do, too. I think I'll resign and we'll go together." Eventually, they did — they went to Nixon's Elba in San Clemente: Brennan was his chief of staff.

In 1980. Brennan left Nixon to join convicted Watergater John Mitchell, Nixon's ex-attorney general, at his consulting firm. Global Research. There he got involved in the deal to sell Saddam's troops uniforms. Details were revealed recently in D.C.'s Superior Court, and reported by The Washington Post: Brennan. who succeeded the late Mitchell as Global's president, sued to recover uncollected commissions on two contracts totaling $181 million.

Initially, a European-based company, Pan East, heard Iraq wanted to buy uniforms. Needing someone with connections in Baghdad, Pan East contacted Agnew, Nixon's vice president, who resigned without convenience with the contact of t testing evidence that he took kickbacks. Agnew's consulting firm referred Pan East to Mitchell — and collected $797,000 in commissions.

Today, Brennan knows better than to quit his new day job — one most Washington insiders don't even know he has. His new business address: 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue. His title: director of administrative operations in the Bush White House. It's strictly a non-policy job, Bush's press office says. Unless, of course, Jack Brennan chooses to humbly submit a memo or two. just for posterity.

campaign finance laws by making nearly $83,000 to two firms owned by Randy Morris, who was paid as Sturm's advertising consultant.

Sawyer contended the payments should have been made directly to the television stations and sign makers that provided the goods and services.

Sawyer, who supported Morria's 1990 mayoral opponent Jim Lormann, said she made the complaint to assure public officials follow the law.

"If Mr. Sturm decides to run again, he needs to clean his act up," said Sawyer. "Mr. Sturm has said he would do it again. That, to me, is an elitist attitude. Jeff Richardson, elections attorney, said the election law requiring campaign payments to be made directly to the end recipient was "open to in-terpretation." Richardson stated confidentiality rules and declined to comment specifically on Sturm's case.

There is a question of applicability here," said Richardson. "But it behooves them to be sure.

According to Sturm's 1990 campaign finance reports, a total of $87,651 was paid to Morris's two firms. Image Engineering and Morris and Associates, prior to the October 2, 1990 primary run-off. Of that amount, Sturm indicated in his finance reports that $5,000 was paid to the two firms for "consultant services" or "consultant retainer."

Another $82,651 in payments were made to the two firms for other designated purposes. A $9,425 payment was reported made to image Engineering on Aug. 1, 1990 for "C.V. - T.V. time and production." On Aug. 29, Morris and Associates was paid $13,514 for "materials, labeling and postage."

Morris said it is standard advertising agency practice to make payments to the agency for television time and other goods and services obtained by the agency for the client. Sturm said said the vendors that provided the services were hired by Morris's firms, not his campaign. Morris said he and Sturm discussed which vendors would be used and some recommendations came from Sturm.

In a April 21, 1992 letter provided by Sawyer, Richardson wrote that following a preliminary investigation, the division concluded "there is probable cause to believe that a willful violation ... has occured."

The letter also states the matter would be forwarded to the Elections Commission for Sturm said he has not been notified of a hearing.

Astronauts rescue satellite

By HARRY P. ROCENTY Associated Press Writer

CAPE CANAVERAL - Endeavour's astronauts released a communications satellite early today after a historic three-man spacewalk that rescued both the $157 million craft and NASA's can-do reputation.

The astronauts grabbed the satellite by hand in unison Wednesday, held it in place for 14 hours and spent several hours more attaching a rocket designed to lift it out of the uselessly low orbit in which it was stuck for two years.

The rocket was to be fired this afternoon when the shuttle was thousands of miles away. The Intelest-6 satellite was to be sent to a working orbit 22,300 miles high.

NASA today said Endeavour would remain in space until Saturday — for a total of nine days - to give the crew an extra day of

The mission had already been extended one day to accommodate the rescue effort after two failed earlier attempts, in which a. single astronaut tried to snare the satellite with a 15-foot bar instead of his gloved hands.

A miswired rocket had left the satellite in the wrong orbit. Wednesday's spacewalk the first by three people - was the last charice for Endeavour to retrieve the satellite. The shuttle did not have enough fuel for a fourth try.

"Got it!" shouted Pierre Thuot. At Mission Control in Houston, flight controllers applauded.

"Houston, I think we got a satellite," said commander Dan Brandenstein, whose precision steering put Endeavour only a few feet below the intelast as it whizzed around Earth at 17,500 mph.

After they grabbed it, the astronauts held the drum-shaped satellite steady for 90 minutes, one full orbit of Earth. Then, with Akers keeping both hands on, Hieb and Thuot attached a bar that allowed the satelite to be grappled by the shuttle crane. The crane lowered it to the rocket and it was bolted on.

Later, it took several tries to release the satellite-rocket combination, but Intelsat ultimately floated away slowly over the Pacific.

"You've made the agency proud today," Mission Control told the astronauts.

Coonrod said the employees would be paid a "severance package," but didn't know the details of the termination benefits.

Coonrod said customers shouldn't get the impression Federal Trust took over the thrift with the intention of closing the

Insurers: Decrease car rates

Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE - Some of the state's largest automobile insurers have asked regulators to let them decrease their premiums. Industry executives cite fewer accidents as the reason.

Last year, automobile insurance rates in Florida rose 3.5 percent, down from increases of 5.3 percent in 1990 and 6.4 percent in 1989.

Industry executives say fewer people are traveling because of the recession. They also cite increased technology such as air bags that have made driving safer.

The state's largest insurer, State Farm Mutual, had a slight decrease in its rates approved by the state Department of Insurance in March. State Farm. which insure 1.67 million cars in Florida, lowered its average rates by $2 a year, from $616 to $614.

"We've experienced a reduction in claims," said Ron Koepp. assistant regional personnel manager for Nationwide Mutual. an Ohio-based company with its Florida operations based in Gainesville.

Nationwide, the state's fifthlargest auto insurer, has filed for a 1 percent decrease in the rates it charges 212,000 Florida drivers. This would be the company's second decrease — it reduced rates 3.9 percent in August - in the last 12 months and third in four years.

The company's average annual premium would decrease from $632 to $622 if it is approved.

Government Employees In-surance Co., or GEICO, also has a pending rate decrease before regulators. The insurer, the third largest in Florida, wants to decrease its rates for 343,000 cars by 0.4 percent. That's about $2 a year.

"Obviously, that's good news for consumers," said Dave Pushman, regional vice president for GEICO's office in Macon, Ga., which handles the Florida market for the Washington, D.C., company. "Overall, accidents are down a bit."

Federal court backs off in redistricting

By CURT AM Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE - A trio of federal judges is loosening its grip on Florida's legislative re-districting plans following their approval by the state Supreme Court.

"It's time now for the federal court to recognize we have a validly adopted plan," said House Reapportionment Committee Chairman Peter Rudy Wallace, D-St. Petersburg. "At this point, the federal judges should not be involved in drawing plans."

A few hours after the Florida court ruled 6-1 Wednesday in favor of the plan crafted by Democratic leaders, the threejudge federal panel canceled its scheduled hearings on how to draw its own legislative plan. U.S. Circuit Judge Joseph W.

Hatchett said the panel would consider May 27 whether it should do anything further on the legislative districts. The panel retained control of crafting the 23 congressional districts, which it intends to adopt May

Because the state Supreme Court agreed to conduct a fullfledged hearing on any new Voting Rights Act challenges that the legislative plan fails to give blacks and Hispanics sufficient seats. Democrats say further federal review of those plans is unnecessary.

Camp applications available

OCALA — The Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission is currently accepting applications for its two summer youth camps.

The Ocala Youth Conservation Camp is located on Lake Eaton in the Ocala National Forest 20 miles east of Ocala. The Everglades Youth Conservation Camp is located in the J.W. Corbett Wildlife Management Area approximately 15 miles west of West Palm Beach.

Both camps are co-educational, available to boys and girls between the ages of 8 and 14.

Fishing, swimming, canoeing, archery, hunter education, hiking and nature crafts are some of the activities provided for campers. Every program stresses outdoor skills and conservation practices with emphasis on responsible use of natural resources. All camp activities are supervised by trained counselors.

Both camps will operate for eight consecutive one-week sessions beginning June 21. The last day of camp is August 15. Each one-week session begins on Sunday and ends the following Saturday. A camper may register for one week only at a cost of $100.

Many camp scalions are alreadyfilled. However, the Everglades camp still has openings for beginner girls (8 and 9 years old), intermediate girls (10 and 11) and both expedition and hunter education girls (12 to 14). The Ocals camp has openings for beginning girls (8 and 9) and hunter education girls (12 to 14).

For more information and applications, call the Commission's office in Ocala at (904) 732-1225 or in West Palm Beach at (407) 640-6100.

Pirates walk by Cardinals

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — George Beasley drew three walks and scored four runs to help the Moose Lodge Pirates hand the Knights of Columbus Cardinals their first loss of the season, a 14-11 setback, Wednesday night in Sanford Recreation Babe Ruth Baseball League play at Sanford Memorial Stadium.

The victory vaults the Pirates (10-1) into first place of the National Division, a half-game ahead of the Cardinals (9-1). They are followed by the Hungry Howie Cubs (4-7) and the Templeton Roofing Cubs (1-11).

Tonight's 5:45 p.m. contest at Sanford Memorial Stadium pits the Woodmen of the World A's (4-6) against the Kiwanis Club Orioles (5-6).

On Saturday, the Orioles play the Security National Bank Blue Jays (3-8) at 8 a.m., the Pirates tangle with the Expos at 10 a.m., the Rotary Club Royals (8-4) play the A's at noon and the Cardinals square off with the Cubs at 2 p.m.

On Wednesday night, the Cardinals led 1-0 and 8-8 before the Pirates scored four runs in both the bottom of the fourth and fifth innings to knock off the league leaders.

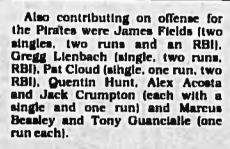

The Cardinals were their own worst enemy as the Pirates scored their last eight runson just one hit. Cardinal pitchers walked a total of 15 Pirate hitters, 11 in the final two innings. A Pirate was also hit by a pitch to load the bases in the fourth inning.

Ring him up

Not only did the Moose Lodge Pirates take advantage of almost every opporunity provided them by the Knights of Columbus Cardinals Wednesday night, they made several key defensive plays to keep the Cardinals grounded. The first came in the top of the second inning, when the Cardinals' Graig Stevens (No. 18, sliding) led off with a single and tried to steal second base. But Stevens was cut down on a perfect throw from catcher George Beasley to shortstop Quentin Hunt.

It's official

Sanford-Lake Mary Chapter of veterans from the U.S. Merchant Marines became official recently, when the local charter was signed at the Sanford American Legion. Members are concerned with legislation affecting veterans and are currently focused on a congressional bill that would correct the cut-off date for eligibility for veterans status from August 15, 1945 to Dec. 31, 1946, the cut-off for all other services. Currently, 166 legislators support the bill, which will pass with 218 sponsors. Seated, from left: Harry Taylor, Emie Eckman, who drove from Connecticut to attend the meeting, Claude E. Jones Jr. and Lowell Parrish. Standing: Bob Swanson, Joe Schumann, Harry Syvertsen, Bill Bruner, David Eslick, H. Doug Stevens and Chuck Shoemaker.

Love is sweet in ripeness of life

62-year-old retired lieutenant colonel in the U.S. Navy (female Navy nurse). The brother of a close friend recently lost his wife, so they invited me to dinner and brought a gentleman along. Al was a widower and I had never been married. We hit it off right from the start and soon became a steady foursome. This happened in August, and by November Al and I knew we were in love. We were married in December. He is 68.

No sex, as he had prostate surgery and radiation, but I adore the man, and we give each other back rube. I am kissed. hugged and told that I am loved more times a day than I can count. His hearing is poor — hearing aids don't help his kind of deafness - but Al doesn't need to hear to know that I love him.

For Valentine's Day, he bought me a white orchid cornage and took me to dinner. I will love this man and will care for him happily as long as the good Lord lets me. We love our God and each other, and I just wanted to share my good fortune with you because I consider you a friend. Blesch in San Diego

DEAR BLESSED: What an 'upper" your letter is! You are both blessed to have found each other. May God bless you for many years to come.

DEAR ABBY: I went to the grocery store today and my purchases came to $8.21, so I gave the cashier one $5 bill. three $1 bills, a quarter and a

The cashier looked puzzled. Then she said, "I have to give you something back, don't !? How much should it be?'

Abby, I had to tell her I wanted a nickel back. She said she was new on the job and wasn't used to making change. This is not the first time I've had to tell a cashier how much change to give me.

Some cash registers are so sophisticated nowadays, the cashiers don't have to know how to add 2 and 2. I mentioned this to the manager of a supermarket, and he told me that nobody has to know how to add and subtract anymore there are machines that do it for

I am not against progress, but when a college graduate can't add a column of four figures without running for a calculator. there is something wrong.

'J's' there are in "emergency"! Little kids can't even tell time on an old-fashioned watch with numbers because most watches are digital now. I am 63 years old, but I think American technology has come too far too fast. I'm no old fogey, but I don't want a machine to do all my thinking for me.

What do you say, Abby? 'DOC' IN FARIBAULT, MINN. DEAR 'DOC': Amen, brother.

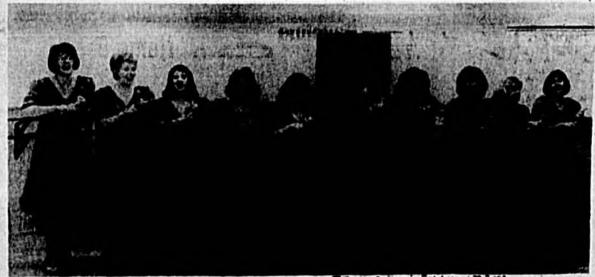

DEAR ABBY: After seeing all those limericks in your column. I decided to send mine. I entered it in a limerick contest last year and won.

EATERY LEON, SEATTLE DEAR KATERY: I begged my readers to stop sending limericks, but yours is irresistible...so I'm sharing it:

Reducing dangerous cholesterol levels myself trying to do what is right. My cholesterol level was 489 about two years ago. Questran and Lopid were taken to no avail. Mevacor brought it down to 285 for a year, so the doctor doubled my dose of Mevacor and Questran. My last results reveal a level of 400. Can stress be doing this? I've resorted to vitamin C and ntacin and a weight-watcher's diet, but I'm very discouraged.

DEAR READER: You seem to have a serious problem with excess cholesterol. You probably inherited this tendency. Unfortunately, you have not re-sponded satisfactorily to the standard treatment for this disorder: diet and medication.

Medical fauthorities recom-mend serum cholesterol levels of 200 milligrams per 'deciliter or lower, depending on age. Yours is clearly too high. This places you at risk for heart disease and Fortunately, there are many drugs to lower cholesterol. Some of these are brand new. Ask your doctor about this. If she is uncertain how to proceed or has run out of options, request a referral to a metabolic laboratory in a teaching hospital. The nature of your elevated cholesterol needs to be identified and categorized. Then metabolic specialists can prescribe appropriate therapy.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm a 67-year-old female diagnosed with morphea. What is it? Is it life-threatening, and how can it be treated?

DEAR READER: Morphea is an unusual skin condition in which part of the skin itself and. sometimes, the underlying tissue are replaced with scar, leading to white or pinkish patches, bands or lines. The cause is unknown and there is no treatment.

Some experts believe that morphea is a form of for related

Last year at the Sunday Times tournament in London, the World Women's Pairs and Teams champions from the United States, Karen McCallum and Kerri Shuman, were slated to play. However, Shuman had to withdraw at the last moment, so McCallum teamed up with Sally Horton, a World Women's Teams champion from Britain. Whisky Company, McCallum and Horton revived their overruffed, discarded a heart. partnership. Lack of practice But declarer exited with a worked against them in such a strong field, but Horton played today's hand perfectly.

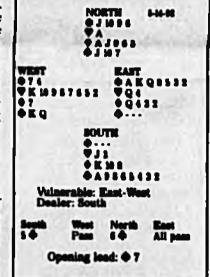

Horton opened with the maximum pre-empt, five clubs. In response, McCallum decided that they were unlikely to make exactly 11 tricks. Either the hands would fit well and they would make a slam, or they make a game. This made the forher contract. six-club bid logical.

West, trying to find a safe lead. opened with the spade seven. Declarer ruffed and cashed the club ace. Needing to find the diamond queen for her contract. Horton embarked on a journey of discovery. She played a heart to dummy's ace, ruffed a spade in hand, ruffed the heart jack in For this year's event, also the dummy and ruffed another sponsored by the Macallan Malt spade in hand. PROBABLY

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your most substantial rewards today are likely to come from situations in which you face the greatest challenges. Don't let obstacle awareness cause you to chicken out.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) In order to be successful today, you must be singularly devoted to one type of activity. It could be either all work or all play, but don't attempt to mix the two.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) An unusual shift in conditions today could prove to be a bit mystifying. If you're unable to perceive its direction, it might hamper your success.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) An endeavor you're presently involved in requires more knowledge than you possess. Seek counselors, but he absolutely certain they know a lot more than you do.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) If you're enterprising today, you might figure out a way to gain a substantial return from a source that is not the one from which you earn your daily bread.

SCORPSO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Try to work from an organized agenda today. If you don't have proper guidelines, there's a chance you could merely spin your wheels and accomplish BACITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec.

21) Something of substance is coming to you, but as of now, you haven't been able to put it in your pocket. Today's hap-penings behind the scenes might help to break the logiam.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan.
19) Remember who you are and why you're there, and you'll be able to deal successfully with a large group today. Don't be intimidated by a lot of strange faces. AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)

Your probabilities for achieving an important objective look good today, provided you have a continuity to your efforts. Don't operate in a piecemeal fashion. PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)

Protect your interests today, but don't do it in a way that could inconvenience others involved in the endeavor. Heing too selfserving will be detrimental for

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your luck will be proportionate to your industriousness today. The harder you strive, the more likely you'll be rewarded for the efforts you expend. (C)1992, NEWSPAPER EN-TERPRISE ASSN.
