Man charged in kidnap attempt

FERN PARK — A Casselberry man jailed June 21 for sexual battery and armed robbery charges has been charged with the attempted kidnaping at knifepoint of a 15-year-old girl June 14.

Earnest Woodard Jr., 25, 1436-D Ash Circle, was charged with attempted kidnaping, false imprisonment and aggravated assault. He was being held without bond for the sexual battery charges.

The girl told Seminole County investigators she was standing outside her apartment on Fern Park Boulevard at about 9:30 p.m. June 14 waiting for a telephone call when a car parked nearby and the driver struck up a conversation with her.

The girl said the man then displayed a knife and told her, "You're coming with me." She said the man then grabbed her and tried to pull her into the car. She broke free and screaming, ran back to her apartment. The man sped off. The girl later positively identified Woodard from a photograph in sheriff's files.

A search warrant served on the man's residence Friday reportedly turned up additional evidence to the crime.

Woodard's previous charges include sexual battery, grand theft of an auto, armed robbery and armed assault.

Fern Park ticket a winner

TALLAHASSEE — A ticket purchased in Fern Park was one of 18 matching all five winning numbers in the Fantasy Five drawing Friday.

Each winner can collect $89,591.20 to share a jackpot of more than $1.6 million, Florida Lottery Secretary Rebecca Paul said.

For results in the Saturday Lotto, Cash 3, and winning numbers for Fridays' Fantasy Five see page 2A.

Beginning August 6, the Fantasy Five game drawings will be expanded to three times a week on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, Paul announced Friday. Until then, the drawings will be on Tuesdays and Fridays.

Neiswender rips GOP

By VICKI DeSORMIER

SANFORD — Even after Friday's Seminole County circuit court decision to force partisan school board elections, school board Chairman Ann Neiswender said there is more to the law suit than bringing partisan elections back to the school board.

The suit called for all members of the board to be removed from office and for new elections to be held for all seats to be contested in November of this year.

Currently three board seats, those presently held by Neiswender and board members Pat Telson and Larry Betsinger, are up for grabs in the fall. Vice Chairman Nancy Warren, member Joe Williams Jr. and superintendent Bob Hughes are not due to be contested until November 1991.

Neiswender, a Republican who is not running for re-election, thinks the Republican Executive Committee is not doing what they say they are.

"It's all politics," she said. "Their agenda is to get the people they want put in office."

Neiswender said she had been so engrossed in the business of the school board that she did not notice the "alternative agenda" of the Seminole County Republican party until they failed to support the SANFORD — Seminole Circuit Judge Kenneth Löffler did not declare the district's non-partisan school board elections unconstitutional, thus the superintendent and the board will not be unseated prior to elections in November of this year and in 1992.

The terms of board Chairman Ann Neiswender and members Pat Telson and Larry Betsinger expire in the fall. Neiswender and Telson will not seek re-election. Betsinger is still undecided.

Those running to fill those seats must run on a partisan ticket.

Supt. Bob Hughes, vice chairman Nancy Warren and board member Joe Williams Jr. are nearing the half-way point in their current four-year terms.

The decision allows them to remain in office until the end of their terms rather than losing their seats and being forced to run again this year.

The St. Johns River Water Management District "water police" were out in force in Seminole County Friday and Saturday, looking for violations of the district's mandatory three day a week watering restrictions.

LAKE MARY — The new Mid Florida Mail Processing Center, 800 Rinehart Road, became fully operational Friday night.

Charles Reed, manager of the facility, said, "For the past several weeks, we've worked up to 90 percent of our full output, but tonight we'll be at 100 percent."

The 340,000 square foot facility, built on 51 acres of land, has been under construction for 18 months. It is designed to handle processing of all mail posted in areas with zip codes beginning with 327. Reed said, "We will also handle bulk business mail from zip code areas beginning with 327, 328, 329 and 347, which includes Seminole, Orange, Osceola and Volusia Counties plus northern Brevard." He added, "By channeling all of this mail through one central point, we've found it is more cost effective, more efficient."

County educators hook up to Tallahassee session Monday

SANFORD — The Seminole County school district will be able to save some money and include many more people in the state discussion of the educational changes brought on by this legislative session. Some district officials aren't sure the savings are worth the hassle.

On Monday morning, July 2, a satellite hook up will allow the superintendent, board members, assistant superintendents, members of the PTA and Local School

Advisory Committees to "attend" a statewide conference conducted by the state Department of Education in Tallahassee without going farther than the Lake Mary High School media center, 655 Longwood Lake Mary Road, Lake Mary.

"Usually this is a conference held in Tampa," explained Dr. Marion Dailey, assistant superintendent for instruction. "There are about five district representatives who go there to talk things over, ask questions and bring the information back."

Dailey said the text provided by the state, is a

Orlando women found in Alaska

SEWARD, Alaska — Rescuers found a missing sightseeing plane on a mountainside after a five-day search and concluded that none of the five people aboard could have survived, the Air Force and Alaska state troopers said Saturday.

An Air Force search helicopter spotted the wreckage late Friday at the 2,700-foot level of a 2,822-foot mountain, but was unable to land or drop a rescue team because of the steep terrain, said Lt. Ralph Scott of the Rescue Coordination Center at Elmendorf Air Force Base.

Passenger Mary Webb, 76, her daughter Ruth Polley, 54, both of Orlando, Marilyn Davis, 67, of Sacramento, Calif., and Tony Newhouse, 83, of San Marcos, Calif., had chartered the plane to see the scenic glacier mountains.

Hovering as close to the wreckage as was safe, Scott said, the helicopter rescue team concluded that the pilot and the four tourists aboard died in the crash.

Defense presented in cop killer's trial

MIAMI — Defense lawyers are expected to begin presenting testimony Monday that Charles Street, charged with gunning down two Metro-Dade County police officers in 1988, was deranged and could not have planned the crimes.

Public defenders said they will not contest that Street killed officers Richard Boleas, 41, and David Stralkowski, 34. Instead, they plan to present experts who will tell jurors Street could not control his actions because of cocaine intoxication.

Street is charged with first-degree murder in the officers' deaths. The defense wants a second-degree murder conviction, which would spare Street's life.

The trial is expected to continue through July.

Garcia released from federal prison

EGLIN AIR FORCE BASE — Former Rep. Robert Garcia, whose conviction in the Wedtech scandal was overturned by an appeals court, was released Saturday from a federal prison.

The appeals court's decision to overturn the convictions of Garcia and his wife clears the way for a new trial for the couple.

The Garcias were convicted last year of conspiracy and extortion and acquitted of bribery and gratuity charges in connection with his congressional activities on behalf of Wedtech, a South Bronx defense contractor.

U.S. District Judge Leonard Sand said he would recommend parole in six months.

Work on roof hampered

FORT WALTON BEACH — Repair work on the roof of a local high school has been hampered because the area is home to a flock of endangered birds, officials said Friday.

The flock of shorebirds is nesting on the east side of the roof. School officials said work on that portion of the roof must now wait until the baby terns can leave the nests, perhaps by the end of July.

The bird is protected under federal and state law. Jeffery Gore, a biologist with the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission, said the eggs cannot be moved because adult terns recognize only the nest. Remove the eggs, he said, and the adults still return to the nest.

Zoo officials halt search for big rodent

WEST PALM BEACH — Zoo officials have suspended their search for one of the world's largest rodents, which has not had the good sense to return home to safe surroundings and celebrity status.

Fatlip, a South American capybara, went AWOL in May after slipping through a hole at the Dreher Zoo. She is worth $300 on the zoo market, while capybara's flesh is coveted by hungry alligators worldwide.

As soon as word got out about the renegade rodent, several people reported sightings.

Fatlip, a 125-pound, 3-foot-tall, vegetarian is harmless to humans.

Aquarium may be paid for by taxpayers

FORT LAUDERDALE — A world-class aquarium could be built and succeed in downtown, but local taxpayers would need to contribute $12 million to $15 million to the ambitious project, promoters say.

State Sen. Tom McPherson, who heads a panel pushing the proposed $55 million aquarium, said he will ask the city, Broward County and the Downtown Development Authority next week for support.

The aquarium would be a major educational tool, marine research center and tourist attraction, said McPherson, D-Fort Lauderdale.

"We have to do something to break the tourist lock of the mousetrap," McPherson said in reference to Orlando's Disney World.

A $170,000 consultant study released this week predicts the aquarium would attract 700,000 visitors a year, including 45,000 Broward County students, and could turn a profit of $500,000 a year.

Hubble woes loom over NASA

By REBECCA KOLBENS
UPI science writer

WASHINGTON — Lawmakers blasted NASA Friday for failing to detect crippling flaws in $1.5 billion Hubble Space Telescope before launch, saying it casts doubt on NASA's ability to handle future high-tech projects like the mission to Mars.

"What does this mean for the rest of the things you want to do? Are we going to keep ending up with techno turkeys?" said Sen. Barbara Mikulski, D-Md., head of the Senate appropriations subcommittee that funds NASA programs. "I think this has seriously hurt the credibility of NASA when they've had so much time and enough money to get it right."

"You want to go more into space, you want to go to Mars. What would we do if we had sent astronauts out and the life-support failed? Say 'Oh, no! We forgot to send you lunch — and oxygen,'" Mikulski said.

Appearing at a Senate hearing, Lennard Fisk, NASA's associate administrator for space science and applications, said he could neither confirm nor deny reports that NASA decided against using top-secret military testing equipment that may have detected debilitating errors in the telescope's vital mirrors prior to launch.

The New York Times quoted industry experts as saying the military system, routinely used to test mirrors on spy satellites, probably would have picked up the problem. The Wall Street Journal also quoted Robert Brown, Hubble's chief scientist from 1983 to 1985, as saying ground-based tests costing a few hundred thousand dollars "could have caught the problem." Brown said he did not know why NASA did not perform such tests.

Fisk once again refused to speculate on how one of the telescope's two light-gathering mirrors ended up ground into the wrong shape. The error — which threw the mirror's curve off less than one-twentieth of the width of a strand of human hair — has prevented Hubble from bringing stargaze to a sharp focus and delayed, probably for several years under the best circumstances, long-awaited pictures of stars at the edge of the universe.

Right-to-die bill becomes law without Martinez' signature

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — A law that became effective Saturday allows people in Florida to take steps to help assure that should they become terminally ill, their death will not be postponed by feeding and hydration tubes.

Gov. Bob Martinez, who last year vetoed a right-to-die measure, allowed a more restrictive version of the bill to become law at midnight Friday without his signature.

Floridians previously could sign living wills to prevent extraordinary medical procedures or drugs from being used to extend life, but patients had no control over nutrition and hydration tubes. Older Floridians have long been concerned about controlling their medical destinies, says one of the bill's sponsors.

"The two things the elderly are most concerned about, and not necessarily in this order, are running out of money before they run out of life, and existing in a vegetative state, helpless and hopeless, waiting for death," said Rep. Jim King, R-Jacksonville.

Young people have also become concerned, especially in the wake of a U.S. Supreme Court ruling against a Missouri couple who sought to have life-support removed from their 32-year-old daughter, who has been in a coma since 1982.

Because Nancy Cruzan did not document such a wish, her relatives cannot act for her, the justices ruled.

Under the new law, a patient must declare in writing that he wishes to have feeding and hydration tubes withdrawn if they are artificially prolonging life.

Fired DOC officials didn't violate policies

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — Three prison officials fired for negligence in the escape of a convicted murderer from a work detail did not violate any specific policies against putting killers in such minimum security programs.

In fact, no such policies exist. "Right off the top of my head, I'm not aware of any," said Wilson Bell, assistant secretary of operations in the Department of Corrections. "Yes, the current system would let a homicidal-type offender back out there under certain circumstances. That's one of the things we're looking at."

Bell said classification officers "have to have discretion. We can't write down everything."

Bell and corrections Secretary Richard Dugger said they are reviewing to see if some of the discretion should be taken away. "I think you'll see some changes as soon as next week," Dugger said.

The corrections department has been under fire since last Sunday, when a grandmother was stabbed to death in a car outside a Tallahassee mall. Charged with the murder of Faye Lamb Vann, 44, of Tallahassee, is a convicted cop killer who had walked away from an outside prison-work program two nights before.

Donald David Dillbeck, serving his 11th year of a 25-year minimum sentence, has a lengthy prison record showing a 1983 escape attempt and an attempted assault in 1984.

The incident sparked a high-profile response from Gov. Bob Martinez, who immediately fired three prison officials and suspended eight others. Martinez also ordered more than 800 inmates with mandatory prison terms yanked off work-release programs and put back under lock and key.

Martinez also blasted the "terrible judgments" of the three he fired.

Broward judge: Order in the bar

United Press International

FORT LAUDERDALE — A Broward County judge called court to order in a local outdoor watering hole, as women in tube tops and bare-chested men drank at the bar.

County Court Judge Susan Lebow went to the Tiki Bar at the request of bar owner Kevin Sharp, the defendant in a criminal noise ordinance case filed by the city after residents complained.

Lebow ruled that Sharp was not guilty because the city had failed to prove he "knowingly and willingly" created a disturbance, and because he had made some efforts to reduce the noise.

At the hearing Friday, the state's witnesses were warned not to drink, a singer warbled under oath, and the judge heard testimony — and music — while seated at a small picnic table under a thatched roof, within splashing distance of the swimming pool.

The judge, her clerk, a bailiff and a court reporter arrived in a white limousine provided by defense attorney Joe Dawson.

Once there, Lebow heard complaints from residents annoyed by what they said is loud, late-night music by guitarist-stager Jimmy Stowe.

Record number of sea turtles wash ashore dead in Nassau

United Press International

JACKSONVILLE — Twelve dead sea turtles washed ashore during a 48-hour period this week in Nassau County, and officials in Duval and St. Johns counties report larger than normal numbers of the dead reptiles.

Since June 1, more than 30 sea turtles have been found on north Florida beaches, leaving state officials and environmentalists with an alarming puzzle on their hands.

"It is very disturbing," said Mary Duffy, president of the Amelia Island Sea Turtle Watch. "It is unusual to have so many at one time — very, very unusual."

Volunteers with Duffy's turtle watch organization began finding the dead sea turtles in Nassau County late Monday, and the turtles continued to wash ashore through Wednesday, she said.

"The high tide washed in all of these turtles and every high tide would bring in more dead turtles," she said.

All but one of the sea turtles were loggerheads, a protected species, she said. The other was a Kemp's Ridley, an endangered species.

Three dead loggerheads have washed up on Jacksonville beaches since Tuesday, Greenpeace volunteer Mort Hanson said.

The daily number drawn Saturday in the Florida Lottery Cash 3 game was 3-9-8.

The winning numbers from Friday's Fantasy 5 drawing were 04, 11, 19, 21 and 17.

Satanic cults topic for law officers

SANFORD — Sanford Police Chief Steven Harriett said he and about 200 other Florida police chiefs learned about crimes related to Satanic worship during the annual Florida Police Chief's Training Conference in Naples last week.

Other topics addressed over three days were police ethics and integrity and narcotics, Harriett said. Police equipment was also displayed and the chiefs had an opportunity individually to exchange information, he said.

The chiefs who attend the annual conference, Harriett said, receive credit for their mandatory state retraining which they must have to maintain certification as police officers.

Police dogs, handlers honored

SANFORD — Sanford police dogs and their handlers are ranked among the best in the southeast United States, Police Chief Steven Harriett reported recently.

Harriett said at a recent national competition in Coral Gables, dog handlers Officer Mike Analey and Officer Ned Golden, and two Sanford police canines, Patrol and Yocha, took third place in a field of 120 canine teams from the southeastern U.S.

"We believe our (canine) teams are special," Harriett said.

Two charged with marijuana possession

LAKE MARY — Two men were charged with possession of less than 20 grams of marijuana after Lake Mary police stopped their car on Lake Mary Boulevard and searched them at about 3 p.m. Wednesday. Marijuana was reportedly found.

James Allen Sutter, 27, 1221 John Lord St., Sanford, and Vincent Lloyd Hathaway, 26, 208 First St., Lake Mary, were charged in the case.

When police checked Sutter's vehicle registration it was determined he had three outstanding Seminole County warrants. Sutter was also arrested on the warrants for failure to appear in court for illegal dumping, driving with a suspended license, and possession of a suspended license.

Woman charged with arson

SANFORD — A local woman was arrested for arson Friday night after she set fire to a set of drapes following an argument over cocaine. Tammy Reada Peters, 24, no permanent address, was charged with arson after she was found near the scene. The resident at 1212 1/2 Mulberry St. told Sanford police Peters set fire to the drapes hanging in a doorway and left after the argument. Sanford Fire Department records show the drapes were extinguished without damage to the apartment. Bond was set at $5,000.

Man arrested on cocaine charge

MIDWAY — A local man was arrested for giving a false name and for possession of 74 "rocks" of cocaine after Seminole County deputies found a prescription bottle bearing his name and containing the cocaine.

Leroy Cole Jr., alias "No Neck," 33, no known local address, was stopped by a deputy Saturday at about 12:30 a.m. as he turned onto State Road 46 from Sipes Avenue driving erratically. When asked his name, he told the deputy "Phillip Howard," and gave a birth date of March 21, 1966, although the deputy had known his name was Leroy Cole. A search of the car revealed a prescription bottle bearing Cole's name and containing the cocaine. Cole was also in possession of nearly $1,500 in cash. Cole was also identified by the owner of the car as his daughter's boyfriend. Cole was also charged with driving under the influence of alcohol and for an outstanding warrant of driving with a suspended license. Bond was set at $3,000.

Man arrested on marijuana charge

LONGWOOD — John Kenneth Gordon, 18, 242 W. Palmetto Ave., Longwood, was charged with possession of less than 20 grams of marijuana and a concealed weapon Saturday morning after a Longwood policeman saw him drinking a beer while stopped in traffic on State Road 434. A search of the car revealed a bag of marijuana and a pair of "brass knuckles" in his pocket. Bond was set at $500.

Seminole County DUI arrests

The following persons have been charged with driving under the influence (DUI) in Seminole County:

- Robert Carl Young, 35, 281 Locklow Drive, Sanford, was charged with DUI by a Florida Highway Patrol trooper Saturday at 1 a.m. after he was spotted driving 75 mph in a 45 mph zone on U.S. Highway 17-92 near Flea World. Bond was set at $500.
- Travis Dwayne Hutcherson, 30, 1715 Lake Harney Road, Geneva, was charged with DUI Friday at about 3:45 a.m. by an FHP trooper after he lost control of his car and it turned over into the ditch on east State Road 46. Bond was set at $500.
- John Edward Entingh, 31, 779 S. Wymore Road, Apt. 1, Altamonte Springs, was charged with DUI Friday at about 12:45 a.m. after an Altamonte Springs policeman saw his car weaving at the intersection of State Road 436 and Wymore Road. Bond was set at $500.
- Troy Darren Sittl, 30, 302 Partridge Lane, Longwood, was charged with DUI Friday shortly after 1 a.m. after an Altamonte Springs policeman saw him driving at speeds up to 83 mph in a 45 mph zone of State Road 434. Bond was set at $500.
- Ricky Ray Smith, 29, 229 Loraine Drive, Apt. 102, Altamonte Springs, was charged with DUI Friday at about 10:45 p.m. after an Altamonte Springs police officer saw his car weaving on Westmonte near Douglas Street. Bond was set at $500.
- Jeffrey Joseph Tobin, 35, 3377 Ohio Ave., Sanford, was charged with DUI by Lake Mary police Saturday at about 2 a.m. after he was spotted driving west on Lake Mary Boulevard with no taillights. Bond was set at $500.
- Rhonda Lou Gelb, 35, 302 Rachelle Blvd., Sanford, was charged with DUI after her car almost struck a Seminole County deputy's squad car Saturday at about 2:30 a.m. on S.R. 46. Bond was set at $500.
- Jeff Robert Keyser, 25, 1550 DeLeon St., Oviedo, was charged with DUI Saturday at about 3:30 a.m. after a Seminole County deputy spotted his vehicle moving at 70 mph in a 45 mph zone on U.S. 17-92. Bond was set at $500.

Shaw to begin term as state Supreme Court chief justice

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — Leander Shaw became a lawyer 30 years ago because he saw the struggle for racial equality being waged in the legal system. As Florida's first black chief justice, he said Friday, his "black presence" will further that cause.

Shaw, who wrote the Florida Supreme Court's opinion last October staking out broader privacy rights to abortion under the Florida Constitution, is scheduled to begin a two-year term as chief justice of the state's highest court on Sunday.

There will be no swearing-in, no fanfare. When he reports to work Monday morning, he'll simply move into the chambers occupied for the last two years by outgoing Chief Justice

Raymond Ehrlich.

It's another move from one seat to another on the seven-member bench, but Shaw said he sees it as symbolic to the progress minorities have made in the state.

"I think it means Florida has moved light years from the Florida I knew when I first came here," Shaw said Friday. "When I began practicing law in Jacksonville, there were no black judges, no black state attorneys, no blacks in the city attorney's office."

That was 30 years ago, when Shaw, fresh out of Howard University law school, set up practice in Jacksonville and started taking cases for the NAACP that eventually led to the integration of public swimming pools and public facilities.

Sloop seeks judge seat

By JOHN FERRARI
Herald staff writer

APOPKA — John R. Sloop, 41, of Apopka, has announced his candidacy for Seminole County Court Judge, the position currently held by County Judge Alan Dickey who will resign his post to seek a position on the Circuit Court bench.

"This position requires the expertise of a trial attorney who has tried criminal and civil cases, and I have that experience," Sloop said. "County court is the people's court and has a high volume of cases ranging from infractions to drunk driving cases."

Sloop has served as assistant state's attorney in Lee and

Orange counties, and is a member of the Central Florida Criminal Justice Council, the Missing Children Billboard Campaign and serves on the Civil Service Review Board for the Seminole County Sheriff's Department. He has also served as a director of the Seminole County Bar Association, is a mediator for the Citizens Dispute Settlement Program for Seminole County, and is an arbitrator for the Federal Court. In addition, Sloop has been appointed to the Business Advisory Board of the Seminole County School Board, is active in the Red Ribbon Campaign for the Florida Informed Parents for Drug Free Youth, Inc., and has served as a Director of the Legal Aid Society for Seminole County.

"I give something back to the community with this service," Sloop said. "Working in these volunteer organizations also tells me the needs and wants of the people I serve, and this will help me to be a more effective judge."

Sloop is President and a shareholder of Sloop & Smith law firm, 1221 Lee Road, where he handles civil cases, corporate, real estate and business law. He received a bachelor's in political science and attended law school at Florida State University.

Sloop and his wife, Vicki, have one son, Chris, who joined the United States Marines following graduation from Lake Brantley High School.

The qualifying period for Judicial races begin at noon July 16, and end at noon July 30.

Central Florida attorneys reprimanded by state bar

From staff reports

TALLAHASSEE — The Florida Bar recently reprimanded two Central Florida attorneys, according to a report issued by the bar this week.

William F. Lawless, 994 Douglas Avenue, #100, Altamonte Springs, was publicly reprimanded in a court order dated May 24. He was found guilty of making an agreement prospectively limiting the lawyer's liability to a client for malpractice.

According to the bar, the attorney agreed to represent a man in an immigration matter and was paid $1,600 for fees and costs. Lawless later agreed to return the money to the client and his wife, presenting them with a general release to sign, releasing him and his assistant from any liability in connection with the representation, the bar report said. Lawless reportedly told the clients at that time they had to sign the release in order to get their money. When the clients refused, according to the bar, the lawyer would not refund the money. He has since refunded the $1,600.

Lawless is required to pay disciplinary costs of $1,441. The 57-year-old attorney was admitted to the bar in 1980.

James A. Moreland, 1150 Louisiana Avenue, Suite 4, Winter Park, was publicly reprimanded in a court order dated May 24. He was also placed on probation for 12 months. The attorney was found guilty of failing to act with reasonable diligence and promptness in representing a client; failing to keep his client reasonably informed about the status of a matter; failing to promptly comply with reasonable requests for information and explain a matter to permit the client to make informed decisions; and failing to make reasonable efforts to expedite litigation.

According to the bar, Moreland agreed to handle a civil action in June, 1988 and took some action. Because the client tried unsuccessfully to contact Moreland several times, he dismissed Moreland and hired another attorney to handle his case, the bar report said. In a second disciplinary case, he was retained to continue a case that had been filed by his clients against several defendants in a construction dispute. The clients reportedly had difficulty reaching Moreland and ultimately the case was dismissed due to failure to prosecute.

During the probation period, Moreland must undergo appropriate counseling as recommended by his physician and submit monthly caseload reports to a supervising attorney. He is also required to pay disciplinary costs of $814.

As an official agency of the Supreme Court of Florida, the Florida Bar and its Department of Lawyer Regulation are charged with the administration of a statewide disciplinary system to enforce Supreme Court rules of professional conduct for the 45,000 lawyers who are admitted to practice law in Florida.

Hunters squeal about permits for hog-hunting

United Press International

ORLANDO — Some central Florida hunters are not exactly "hog wild" about a special permit giving a non-profit group for the homeless permission to hunt wild hogs in a state reserve.

St. Petersburg real estate broker John Bailey saw a way to get rid of nuisance pigs on state property and feed the needy at the same time, so he began Hogs for the Homeless Inc., and got help from a state senator.

The dispute began last month when Bailey was given a special permit by the state Department of Natural Resources allowing him to kill wild pigs at the 28,800-acre Tomohatchee State Reserve east of Orlando.

The permit allows the group, which includes Bailey and some hunting friends, to kill an unspecified number of hogs from the reserve as long as all the meat is donated to non-profit organizations such as food banks or shelters for the homeless.

"They're not supposed to keep one hair or one tooth from one hog," said Reserve Manager Charlie Matthews. "It will all have to go to non-profit groups."

Matthews said he is still working on details of how Hogs for the Homeless will conduct its hunts, but he said the group will be closely supervised.

An area hunters group complained Thursday that the permit allows Bailey to take hogs from the reserve any time of the year, and deluged Sen. Curt Kiser, R-Palm Harbor with calls accusing him of using his influence to get his friend the permit.

Kiser said he did not use his influence to get Bailey the permit, and that all he did was tell state officials that Bailey was a responsible hunter when they asked the legislator to vouch for him.

Still, hunters are unhappy about the special permit.

"In the state of Florida, we're hurting bad for public land to hunt on," said Alby Isbell.

McCollum blasts Mandela for Castro, Arafat support

From staff reports

WASHINGTON D.C. — U.S. Congressman Bill McCollum, R-Winter Park, boycotted Nelson Mandela's appearance before a joint session of Congress Tuesday in protest of the South African black leader's support for Yasair Arafat, Fidel Castro and Mummar Qaddafi.

"My seat was empty," said McCollum in a statement, "because I cannot, in good conscience, promote the violence attendant to Mr. Mandela's position. I empathize with him suffering, however, and am vehemently opposed to the repugnant system of apartheid."

McCollum stated his boycott of Mandela publicize his opposition to Mandela's support for the three leaders.

McCollum stated Mandela has been openly tightening relations with Arafat, the Palestinian leader who has been prevented from entering the United States because of his use of terrorism, Qaddafi, the Libyan leader who has financed killings and is suspected of developing chemical weapons, and Cuba's leader Castro, who has sent his own troops throughout the world as Russian mercenaries.

Democracy faces threats in Mexico

Concern over human rights abuses in Mexico is rising amid reports of increasing intimidation and harassment of government critics. In particular, the death threats received by the academic and writer Jorge Castaneda have stirred protests, and justifiably so. President Carlos Salinas de Gortari has taken steps to address the problem, most notably the creation of a new commission on human rights. But more needs to be done.

In the latest of several thuggish actions by government security forces, Castaneda's secretary was held up at gunpoint, interrogated about her employer's work and family, and warned that Castaneda would be killed if he continued to criticize the government.

Castaneda is one of the president's most outspoken critics, but Salinas immediately denounced the intimidation. He also pledged that those responsible would be punished. So far, so good. But this matter is too grave to be resolved so easily. There can be no democratization of Mexico as long as government critics are subject to murder, beatings, death threats and other harassment.

For genuine democratic reform to occur, Mexico must overcome the traditional strong-arm tactics still employed by some chieftains of the ruling Institutional Revolutionary Party. The PRI has virtually monopolized political power in Mexico for the last 60 years.

The threats against Castaneda came only a few days after publication of a stinging indictment of Mexico's human rights record by the New York-based American Watch. The international watchdog group documented nearly 100 cases of torture, murder, political prosecution and intimidation of the press.

Such abuses, including many by the federal judicial police, have become an institutionalized part of Mexican society and have worsened in recent months despite the Salinas administration's efforts to curb them, according to the report. American Watch also concludes that various forms of torture are still used by police at federal and state levels, even though it was made illegal by a 1986 federal law. Confessions are often extracted through torture tactics.

Even more appalling is the report's blunt assertion that human rights activists are deliberately targeted for assassination. As an example, it cites the murder of Norma Corona Saplen, president of the Commission in Defense of Human Rights in the state of Sinaloa. She was gunned down in the street last month. No arrests have been made.

President Salinas must move quickly to end the rising incidence of human rights infringements. His plans for democratizing Mexico stand threatened as long as these abuses continue.

Democrats address school issues

William "Bill" Gilmartin is the Chairman of the Seminole County Democratic Executive Committee. According to Gilmartin the multiple issues invading the consciousness of Seminole County residents are: overcrowded schools; the partisan-non partisan issue to be addressed by the court; single member districting, and the high cost of running for county office.

Gilmartin supported the defeated school bond proposal although he did not agree with the package in its entirety. Traditionally, Seminole County voters have voted affirmatively for school bond proposals. This proposal was defeated because there were too many frills. If the bond issue had focused primarily upon classroom facilities, rather than gymnasiums, parking spaces, satellite dishes and had been less costly, it would have passed. He firmly believes that another bond issue targeting basic classroom facilities will meet the voters' approval.

Gilmartin is convinced that school board members have done a commendable job in spite of the county commissioners. The county commissioners have the responsibility for regulating growth in a manner that will reduce growth problems rather than facilitate them. The county commissioners have been derelict in their duties in managing growth. The commissioners have permitted residential expansion, without fully assessing the impact upon schools. Developers have simply donated a parcel of land and placed the problem of providing an educational facility squarely with the school board. For the past several years the school board has been like a swimmer, fighting valiantly to keep from drowning. Each time the situation seems within their control they are engulfed again by the high tide of growth.

The partisan vs. non-partisan issue relative to school board elections is regrettable. The real issue is who is the best person to serve. The superintendent and the two school board members whose terms do not expire until November 1992 should be permitted to conclude their terms in office.

The two school board members whose terms do not expire are Nancy Warren and Joseph Williams. Gilmartin observed that they ran in good faith and were elected by the voters in good faith. Consequently, forcing them out of office would serve to nullify the votes of the constituents who elected them. Gilmartin wondered if school board elections become partisan would that signal partisan judicial elections?

Single member districting for county elections would empower the residents of the five districts to elect their school board members and county commissioners. Currently, a candidate may lose their particular district but garner enough votes in other districts to win the election. This results in a candidate becoming the representative for his district when he was not elected by the residents of the district.

Another concern voiced by Gilmartin is the high cost of running for county office. The filing fees alone are prohibitive for the ordinary citizen. Filing fees are based upon 6 percent of whatever the salary is for the county office. School board members are paid $19,363 annually and there is a $1,161.76 filing fee. This is subject to change July 1, 1990 because of the pending school board salary increase. The county commissioners annual salary is $39,360 and the filing fee is $2,361.00. Anyone interested in filing for county office should do so between Noon, July 16 and Noon, July 20.

Pennies, dollars and sense

BOSTON — Over the years, the fiscal years that is, I have developed what might be loosely described as the orthopedic theory of inflation. How much money has to drop before people are willing to bend over and pick it up?

This has been a rather slowly rising economic indicator. On the whole, even people who have money to burn, will stoop to repossess the change that falls out of their hands. The rich may conspicuously consume, but only the prodigate will leave loose change on the ground.

The value of money, after all, is ingrained in us from our earliest lemonade-stand days. It seems wrong to pass an errant coin in the street.

But gradually, I have come to observe the proliferation of unlucky pennies. A growing number of Americans will no longer stoop for Abe Lincoln.

Time and again, I have watched people eyeing a penny that fell between the cracks of their fingers. I have seen them contemplating whether the trip to the floor was worth the price tag. Balancing the cost of the knee joints with the profit to the wallet. And I have concluded that even people who spend their days chasing a buck are now walking away from a penny.

What my orthopedic indicator registers is not only our deteriorating bodies but the disintegrating value of the lowliest coin. The penny is no longer currency. It's a kind of monetary lint that accumulates in your pocket.

These days, cashiers are likely to keep small dishes of them, like mints, next to the registers, so that customers without the right change can help themselves. Banks look at pennies with disdain as if it's beneath them to accept such a deposit. Even children are reluctant to waste their valuable time rolling up pennies at this subminimum wage. They don't even want to pitch the things.

A penny saved may still be a penny earned, but there is nothing to buy with it. Penny candy costs a nickel. The penny bank is worth more than the sum of its parts. The only thing you can get for a penny is another penny. It costs almost seven-tenths of a cent just to make a cent.

All this leads us to the bill that went through Senate Banking Committee hearings last week. It asks the Treasury Department to study whether the dollar bill should become a dollar coin — this time bearing the face of Christopher Columbus rather than Susan B.

Anthony — and whether the penny should be phased out and cash sales rounded off to the nearest nickel.

When the penny question was put before the American people in a poll commissioned by "Americans for Common Cents" (groan) everybody reached for their wallets. Americans worried that prices wouldn't be rounded off, they'd be rounded "up." The majority said it was a bad idea.

They reacted as if the penny itself had some magical control over inflation when it's just another victim. In the past decade nine countries have ditched their lowest coin.

The American penny languishes on our bureau tops because its now worth one-seventh of its original value. It's not only been the victim of inflation but of reverse alchemy: It's gone from copper to zinc.

The survey also recorded that the public thinks the penny is "a historical example of thrift and resourcefulness." But if that's true, the penny belongs in a museum, not a pocket.

In the era when savings-and-loan banks are going belly up, and we're all going to pay more than $2,000 apiece for the imprudence of the owners, the very word "thrift" has gotten a shady reputation. When we're bailing out megabanks, it's a little late to be pinching pennies.

At this rate we will be wheelbarrowing old Aes to the gum machine. We'd be better off melting them into a memorial for the Unknown Unregulated Loan Officer.

The fiscal reality is that the only value of the incredible shrinking penny is for making change. It may be penny wise and politically foolish to say so, but the dollar bill should become a coin and the penny should become a collector's item.

I mean when it's raining pennies from heaven and people are walking around the puddles, you know it's time to change the change.

A growing number of Americans will no longer stoop for Abe Lincoln.

OMB exposure may yield action

WASHINGTON — A funny thing happened on the way to the press last month. We found ourselves being chased by a desperate throng of White House bureaucrats racing to get a job finished before we exposed their procrastination. They didn't make it.

In May we exposed the delay tactics being used by the White House and budget director Richard Darman to avoid what some experts say will be the $1 trillion cleanup of 338 hazardous waste dumps owned by the federal government.

For almost two years, the Environmental Protection Agency has been trying to get Darman and the Office of Management and Budget to approve the final regulations for the cleanup. In addition to the government-owned dumps, there are more than 4,000 privately owned hazardous waste sites in the country.

Congress mandated the cleanup with a law in 1987, but the EPA had the job of writing specific rules for the companies to follow. The rules are written, but Darman is sitting on them.

He mistakenly thinks he can save the federal government some money if he delays, but the price of the cleanup will only get higher with procrastination. Even the private companies that have to do their own cleanup are getting annoyed with the delays because they see the price going up.

OMB officials found out we were nosing around about why the rules were still on the drawing board. They panicked and initiated a full-court press to get the rules out before we published our findings. Sources in the EPA and OMB told our associate Tim Warner how the two agencies burned the midnight oil.

EPA officials were thrilled. OMB was finally getting the job done, even if only to stop us from exposing them. Some EPA officials were so optimistic that they advised us to forget our story because the rules would be published before our column was.

We published, and the rules are still stuck at OMB. It seems that now OMB officials have dug in their heels deeper than ever. EPA officials and members of Congress have realized that Darman's sudden interest in cleaning up the environment was only a sudden fear of publicity.

Sources in the EPA and the OMB told us that approval of the rules is still weeks away. This isn't the first time the environment has suffered from paralysis at OMB. In 1986, it took a ruling from a federal judge to get OMB to move on some EPA regulations mandated by Congress. OMB has also delayed rules on asbestos and radon gas, playing dollars over public safety.

SOMETHING IN COMMON — For some military commanders, peace is a specter worse than war. This attitude is shared by Soviet and American brass. The end of the Cold War threatens both of their empires, so resistance to détente is hardening on both sides.

The Red Army took a battering in Afghanistan, and that hurt their pride and lowered their prestige. The reforms inside the Soviet Union and the withdrawal from Eastern Europe have further diminished their influence. Military cutbacks have reduced the pay and perks for Red Army officers.

The senior military officers have enough influence with Mikhail Gorbachev to get him to consider slowing down his reforms and taking a harder line.

Inside the Pentagon, the story is similar. The brass have been conditioned to get just about anything they want from Congress.

He mistakenly thinks he can save the federal government some money if he delays.

Rule

Leffler ruled quickly on the law suit, filed by the Seminole County Republican Executive Committee, candidate Bill Kroll who is running for the seat held by Nelawender and former candidate Wes Pennington, challenged the constitutionality of the 14-year-old state law that made non-partisan school boards possible.

"I'm very, very pleased with how quickly he moved," Nelawender said yesterday. "I was hoping it would happen quickly. It makes things so much easier for Joe (Williams), Nancy (Warren) and Bob (Hughes)."

She added that she had expected the case to take "a while" and had feared the delay would cause problems for the incumbents and those seeking office as well.

The suit had been amended last week to include the attempt to remove Hughes, Williams and Warren from office. According to Hughes, he and the others were not formally notified of the change to the suit. He said they were told by school board attorney Ned Julian on Tuesday.

"Judge Leffler took the approach that the courts can not do something to shorten someone's term without giving them their day in court," Hughes said. Nelawender said the past delays in bringing the suit to court have been unsettling for incumbents and candidates alike.

"No one was sure how they would have to run," she said. "It was very confusing for everyone."

Last year, the state Supreme Court ruled that a Martin County law which permitted non-partisan elections was unconstitutional. Earlier this year, the Court voided elections in that county and unseated the whole board.

"I think it would have been wrong to go against the will of the voters and remove (Hughes, Warren and Williams) from office," she said.

Hughes thought Leffler had made a "fair and equitable decision."

Both Hughes and Nelawender said they were pleased with the decision, but they would prefer to keep partisan politics out of the board room.

"Education is supposed to be non-partisan," Hughes said. "We have to look out for the children and forget about this Democrat and Republican business."

A referendum will appear on the ballot in November to see if the voters would want to make the superintendent an appointed position, as it is in most districts. Hughes is the only non-partisan, elected superintendent in Florida.

Reunion

Continued yesterday, with license plates indicating attendance as far away as Indiana and Missouri. But the majority of license tags were from Seminole County, proving once again that the men who served here, stayed here.

Some brought scrapbooks of their squadrons, others wore T-shirts with their squadron insignia proudly displayed, and for many, the hairlines were higher and the hair was whiter, but anyone walking into the Fleet Reserve building needed only mere minutes before old friends were once again recognized.

At 2 p.m., one of the highlights of yesterday's activities was the building dedication ceremony, when a plaque was unveiled, in honor of retired Master Chief Petty Officer John Fehr, 302 Temple Drive, Sanford. The plaque had been designed and built by one of Fehr's former shipmates, Bill Clark.

Horace Paul, past president of the local branch, and past Southeast Regional president of the 8-state area of the association made the dedication, citing Fehr's support not only through his membership and leadership but through his physical labors as well. Fehr, who retired in 1968 after 28 years in the Navy, had served as president of the local branch during the 1972-73 term.

In making the presentation, Paul said, "John Fehr has worked tirelessly since 1965 on the fleet's building committee. First to convert the old house to a club and branch home, then to build the first section and now the second section of our new home. There's an old saying that the chiefs are the backbone of the Navy. Master Chief John W. Fehr, retired, has been the backbone of FRA Branch 147 and the Fleet Reservists here in Sanford for many years."

A well-deserved round of applause punctuated the plaque's unveiling, and Fehr received warm handshakes of friendship from his many friends as well as members of the Fleet Reserve Association.

The final event of the three day NAS Reunion was to be held from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. today with a farewell breakfast at the association building. For first time attendees as well as those who have been at previous reunions, it was a memorable gathering, and most said they would return again next year, for another opportunity to relive the good old days at the Sanford Naval Air Station.

Horace Paul, past Southeast Regional Fleet Reserve Association president, presided over ceremonies dedicating the Fleet Reserve Association Building in honor of Retired Master Chief John Fehr, of Sanford. The dedication took place during the NAS Sanford Reunion celebration Saturday.

Water

Sanford by noon Friday. A total of 35 consent orders were issued throughout the day in Seminole County Friday. Saturday numbers were not available Saturday evening.

Pat Frost, manager of the Orlando water district office, said the number of consent orders issued in Seminole County is the highest number of fines imposed in a four-county area where the sweeps have been conducted.

"I'm not sure if it's that we're getting better at doing this or people just aren't paying attention to the press coverage," Frost said. "I thought we'd find almost nobody."

Although Friday was a "no water" day — it was prohibited for any home or business to be irrigating using public or private water supplies — not all sprinkler systems spinning in the heat Friday were subjected to 850 fines.

In Sanford, most sprinkler systems seen operating in Sanford Friday were connected to heat pumps which are air conditioning systems that use water from groundwater wells to cool air. The pumps run continuously as long as the units are turned on so most homeowners use the warm water to irrigate their lawns all the time.

Irrigation using water from heat pumps and such sewage re-use systems as Altamonte Springs' APRICOT are not limited to the three-day watering schedule.

Of the hundreds of homes viewed by district hydrologist Lonnie Noland and environmental technician Allen Baggett only two consent orders were issued.

One was given to Dorothy Little, 1819 Summerlin Ave., for watering her lawn with a sprinkler.

Another $50 consent order was left at a home on Whittier Way in south Sanford at a home apparently belonging to a family named Pyle. About a dozen sprinkler heads spouted cool water in a large area around the lush lakefront home in the secluded neighborhood on Silver Lake.

No one answered the doorbell. "I don't think a heat pump could put this much water out," Noland commented.

"They're doing some major watering," Baggett said. Baggett left a consent order to be signed by the homeowners and a card with his office telephone number along with a sheet listing the watering restrictions.

Baggett said if the homeowner tells him the irrigation system is connected to a heat pump, he would return to investigate before he would consider dropping the fine.

Another stop at 3377 Ohio Ave. revealed a heat pump connected to a hose leading to a sprinkler spreading a thin stream of water in a small circle in the yard behind the home. Baggett left a blue sign with Paul Tobin at the residence assuring civic-minded neighbors the sprinkler is fed by a heat pump and is not in violation of the watering restrictions.

"The water helps recharge the aquifer," Noland said. "A lot evaporates but we consider it a reuse system."

"Keep up the good work," Tobin commented as the water police left.

Education

description of the changes made in the state legislature on educational issues. As always, the state will send four copies of that narrative to each school district.

"The biggest problem," Supt. Bob Hughes said, "is that we have at least 50 people coming to Lake Mary High School and the books won't get in until Monday morning. There won't be any time to make copies for everyone."

According to Dailey, that will make things pretty dull and a bit confusing for most in attendance.

"Sometimes they will say things like, 'You see the changes on page 28' and go on to something else," Dailey said. "If you have the book, you can see the changes on page 28, but if you don't then you don't know what they are talking about."

State officials argue that the disadvantages of the lack of books is compensated by the fact that the state will save close to $26,000 by conducting the discussion via teleconference.

"I estimate this will cost us $3,852 for a four hour teleconference," said Jane Matheny, the DOE's state coordinator of satellite networking. "If we sent 600 people to the convention in Tampa, to use a ballpark figure, and had to pay their travel expenses, hotel, meals and per diem, it would cost in excess of $30,000. This is much more cost efficient."

Hughes agreed, but felt the delay in sending the books would be counterproductive.

"Yes, we'll be saving some money in travel, but we want to have all the PTA and LSAC people there to share with them what is happening," he said, "but they will not be getting the full advantages of the teleconference without being able to see what some of us will be looking at."

Dailey said she has used past conferences to keep tabs on laws nation's fourth largest state. In all, new taxes and fees will add up to $1.5 billion, the largest tax increase in state history.

Florida residents will pay more for cigarettes, gasoline and liquor they consume in bars and restaurants to help finance a $27.4 billion budget that's 20 percent higher than the current budget.

The new alcohol tax levies 10 cents on each ounce of liquor and each four ounces of wine sold in bars and restaurants. It also levies four cents on each 12 ounces of beer sold.

The tax on cigarettes goes up by 10 cents a pack and $1 a carton.

The sales tax on gasoline goes up from 5 percent to 6 percent, which comes out to an increase of about 1.2 cents a gallon.

The state has also been levying a per-gallon gas tax of 9.7 cents, and counties are allowed to levy up to 6 cents more at the pumps.

A 4-cent-per-gallon increase goes into effect Jan. 1 for the 49 counties that already have the local-option tax, and a fractional increase goes into effect for 15 counties that have levied some portion of the local-option tax.

facility employs 350 persons who are already processing 1.8 million pieces of mail per day. "We expect, with our growth, that we'll have three million per day going through here within 10 years," Ricci said.

The manager does not believe the new processing center is going to contribute to any great extent, to the traffic on Rinehart Road. "Only ten percent of our people work during the day," he said. "The rest work shifts between 5 p.m. and 7 a.m., and there won't be any non-postal traffic." The facility is purely a distribution center, and will not handle stamp sales or have mail boxes for postal drops. "That mail," Ricci said, "will continue to go through the regular post offices."

The ultra-modern facility boasts some of the most modern postal service equipment in use today. One computerized machine can sort 35,000 pieces of mail per hour, with two operators, compared to a need for 50 people to sort that much mail by hand. The side a/d rear of the structure contains 63 separate tractor-trailer loading docks, although there will probably never be any occasion on which they would all be in use at the same time.

The building also has an employee lunch room, conference and meeting rooms and both indoor and outdoor lounge areas.

"We have motivated employees here," Ricci said, "and we're doing everything we can to keep them happy and contented."

While the facility is not open to the public, an open house is tentatively planned for Aug. 28, when the people of Central Florida will be allowed to tour the facility that handles the sorting of its mail.

governing other divisions. "It's really the only way of knowing about some things," she said. "I look at the book and see what rules and regulations govern student services, transportation, staff development. Sometimes this is the only way I have of knowing about the other divisions."

Matheny said the value of access given to a broader community base can not be denied, but Hughes and Dailey disagree.

"What is the advantage if the people we invite aren't getting all the information they need," Dailey said.

IN BRIEF

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Welch wins 10th straight

TORONTO - Just like his teammate Dave Stewart the previous night, Oakland Athletics' pitcher Bob Welch was dreaming of a no-hitter Saturday.

But only for one batter. Junior Felix opened the first with a single, ending Welch's bid to match Stewart's feat. Welch was still good enough Saturday to pick up his 10th straight victory and improve to 13-2, however.

He allowed four earned runs while striking out five and walking one over 6 2-3 innings. Welch leads all major league pitchers in victories this season.

The Athletics got to Dave Stieb, 10-3, for six runs on four hits in the second inning as Stieb was shelled for the second straight outing. He lasted just 1 1-3 innings, facing 11 men while allowing six runs on four hits and three walks.

In his previous start Monday against Boston, Stieb allowed six earned runs without getting an out. His ERA has ballooned from 2.26 to 3.39 after his last two starts.

AAU BASKETBALL

Texas 11-and-Under Champs

OVIEDO - Southwestern Texas, behind 18 points from Tamisha Patton and 11 from Chastity Myers, defeated Southeastern Tennessee 50-41 to claim the championship of the 1990 AAU Junior Olympic Girls' 11-and-Under Basketball Tournament at Oviedo High School Saturday.

Texas went through the tournament undefeated, while Tennessee got to the finals through the losers bracket.

The difference in the game was the free throw line where Texas hit 14 of 24 while Tennessee converted 5 of 7.

The game was close until the fourth quarter with Tennessee holding two point leads at the end of the first quarter and at the half and the game being tied at 30-30 entering the final period.

Also in double figures for the team from Bedford, Texas was Tiffanie Bowen with 10. Also scoring were Shilah Hudson with nine points and Shanda Urban with two.

Sunday Watson was the games high scorer for Tennessee with 23 points. Also scoring for the Oak Ridge based club were Jessica Burnside (12 points) and Crystal Cox, Tiffany Krantz and Ashlee Reagan (two points each).

YOUTH BASEBALL

Baseball class offered

SANFORD - Florida Baseball Schools will conduct a five day Summer Baseball Class, August 6-10 for boys 9-12 and 13-and-Up. Time of the class will be from 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. each day.

The class will include classroom instruction as well as field practice on all baseball fundamentals. Cost for the class will be $125. A drink and snack will be furnished each class day.

GOLF

Junior clinic offered

OVIEDO - The Ekana Golf and Country Club of Oviedo will offer a Junior Golf Clinic on Wednesday July 25, Thursday July 26 and Friday July 27.

The clinic will run from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. all three days and will cost $30.

Instructors for the clinic will be Tim Allen, Steve Matton and Tim Powell.

For more information call Tim Allen - Golf Professional at 366-1211

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Reds break Mets streak

NEW YORK - After ringing up 11 consecutive victories, Dave Magadan and the New York Mets were finally brought back to earth by the Cincinnati Reds.

Joe Oliver doubled home two runs in a three-run eighth inning Saturday, helping Cincinnati snap New York's season-high winning streak with a 7-4 victory.

The Mets, who have won 11 straight four times in franchise history, were looking for their club-record 12th straight triumph. Mets right fielder Darryl Strawberry also had a career-high 18-game hitting streak ended.

New York took a 4-3 lead into the eighth, when Jeff Musselman, 0-2, relieved starter David Cone. Musselman walked Paul O'Neill leading off, but got pinch hitter Billy Hatcher to force O'Neill at second.

Pinch-hitter Luis Quinones singled Hatcher to third, and Hatcher scored on Ron Oester's infield hit for a 4-4 tie. Wally Whitehurst replaced Musselman and surrendered a double to left to Oliver, making it 6-4.

Summer Track Series starts at Lake Mary High

From staff reports

LAKE MARY - Starting tomorrow and for the next four Mondays, track athletes of all ages and skill levels will have the opportunity to do their thing at the 10th annual Lake Mary Summer Track Series.

Held at Don T. Reynolds Stadium on the campus of Lake Mary High School, the Track Series will feature four field events and seven running events in 14 different age groups. Weather permitting, the meets will be held on July 2, 9, 16, 23 and 30.

"When I was at Lake Brantley, Coach Charley Harris and I ran a track camp for a week every summer," said Lake Mary Coach Mike Gibson, founder and organizer of the Track Series. "We culminated every camp with a meet that Friday night.

"When I came to Lake Mary, I wanted to do something that would involve the kids all summer. Through the Track Series, we've had good results. A lot of our athletes have come out of that series. We've had some pretty good kids come through the program, not only from our school but from other schools in the county."

Each meet will begin at 5 p.m. with competition in the field events: long jump, shot put, discus and triple jump. Then, somewhere between 6 and 6:30 p.m., the running events will begin: 50-yard dash, 100-meter dash, mile run, 440-yard dash, 880-yard run, 220-yard dash and two-mile run.

Ribbons will be given to the top three in each age group of each event, male and female. The age groups are: 5-and-Under, 6-7, 8-9, 10-11, 12-13, 14-15, 16-17, 18-24, 25-29, 30-34, 35-39, 40-44, 45-49 and 50-and-Over.

"We generally start off with about 50 people at the first meet," said Gibson. "By middle of July, get up to around 100 people. In the past, we've started the meets during the last two weeks of June. But this summer, we decided to concentrate on the five Mondays in July."

There is a $1 fee for each competitor to cover the cost of the ribbons. For that $1, each competitor may participate in as many as five events. There is no admission fee for spectators. Also, volunteers are being sought to help run the meet.

For more information or to volunteer to help with the meet, call Coach Mike Gibson at 333-2370.

Heathrow hosts triathlon

Apopka's Cuddeback first in Orlando Sports Festival race

HEATHROW - For the second year, the Arvida community of Heathrow was the scene of the Orlando Sports Fest Triathlon, sponsored by Track Shack, 1322 N. Mills, in Orlando. Participants from all over Florida, several from out of state and a few overseas entries proved their mettle by completing the triathlon which began at 7:30 a.m. with a one third mile swim, followed by a 12 mile bike race down Markham Woods Road, and concluding with a 3 mile run from the Heathrow Raquet Club to the Heathrow Country Club.

Yesterday's event was actually the second in a four part series that began at the University of Central Florida on May 26. The third event will be July 14 at Turkey Lake Park, with the finale at Seaworld on August 18.

32 year old Jeffrey Cuddeback, of Apopka, who has participated 3 times in the Ironman competition in Hawaii, finished number one overall in the men's division, with a time of 53:59. Second and third in the overall men's division were Eddie Hensley of Winter Haven and Mark Schuler of DeLeon Springs.

Kitty Sokoll, 32, of New Smyrna Beach, who participated in the Grand Prix Iron Man Competition earlier this year, finished number one in the overall women's division with a time of 59:39. She was followed by Valerie Kenney of Fort Pierce and Barbara Helping of Vero Beach.

One of the local favorites, 14 year old Hunter Kemper of Longwood, came in seventh overall in the men's division with a time of 57:08.

In addition to the top three in the overall divisions, prizes and trophies were given for separate age group winners.

To prove age is not a barrier, Track Shack officials reported that the oldest entrant in yesterday's event was Ed Root, of Ormond Beach. Root is 83.

In all, officials at Track Shack, sponsors for the event, estimated over 300 people participated in yesterday's Triathlon, and at least that many spectators watched as the athletes participated in the grueling event.

Over 300 triathletes hit water for the first leg of the Orlando Sports Festival triathlon at Heathrow on Saturday.

Adcock Roofing defeats Academy in Buddy Lake

From staff reports

SANFORD - On a night where every mistake proved costly, Adcock Roofing gave a lesson to mistake-prone Florida Baseball School Academy, posting a 10-9 win in Buddy Lake Summer League action at Sanford Stadium.

Not only did Adcock (Seminole High School's summer team) pull out the win, but the game marked one of the few times this summer that the entire Adcock roster was intact, many key players returning to the fold after playing in the Colt All-Star State Tournament in Tampa last week.

While there was plenty of offense in the first three frames, the score was 1-1 going into the fourth inning. The Academy scored in the top of the first as Mark Bellhorn doubled, stole third and scored on Pete Arcomone's sacrifice fly.

For Adcock, Anthony Roberts drove home Steve Wilbur (who had walked) on a line drive to center field to tie the score in the bottom of the third inning.

Adcock's first big rally came in the fourth as Rick Eckstein and Scott Ferguson led off with walks. W.L. Gracey followed with a nice bunt single down the third base line to load the bases. Ray Adcock then drove in Eckstein and Wilbur plated Ferguson with singles.

After Gracey scored on a pass ball, Dave Eckstein drove home Adcock for a 6-1 lead.

But Adcock's lead proved no safer than a lead at Wrigley Field with the wind blowing out.

The Academy cut the lead to 6-4 in the fifth inning as Bellhorn walked, Pete Arcomone tripled and Chris Huff singled. Then, in the sixth, the Academy exploded for five more runs and a 9-6 lead. After Coy walked and Stokes singled, both scored on Bellhorn's single. Arcomone and Hanshaw inflated the lead with a pair of RBI singles.

But in its hall of the sixth, Adcock

Ex-Dodger teammates Stewart, Valenzuela toss same-day no-hitters

United Press International

NEW YORK — Fernando Valenzuela watched on television as Dave Stewart completed his first no-hitter, then pitched his own first no-hitter a little more than three hours later.

After watching Stewart Friday night, Valenzuela told his Dodgers teammates, "You watch a no-hitter on TV, now you can watch a live one."

"But I never thought I'd do it," Valenzuela confided after blanking St. Louis 6-0 at Dodger Stadium.

Watching Stewart pitch Oakland to a 5-0 victory in Toronto, Valenzuela saw a pitcher he is familiar with. Stewart and Valenzuela broke into the major leagues together on the Dodgers' 1981 World Championship team and were two of the game's premier pitchers of the 1980s.

But until Friday night, neither had thrown a no-hitter. And their dual efforts made for the first time in 73 years two pitchers threw nine-inning no-hitters on the same day. It was the first time no-hitters were thrown in each league on the same day.

"It hasn't sunk in yet," Stewart said Friday night. "I keep looking at the scoreboard, but it hasn't sunk in yet — maybe in a couple of days. Maybe it's good that it hasn't sunk in yet, otherwise I'll start thinking that I can do it all the time."

Despite their status as former teammates and two of baseball's best hurlers, Valenzuela and Stewart are different pitchers. Valenzuela, 29, is a stocky left-hander who lit the majors on fire at the start of his career and appeared washed up two years ago because of a tired throwing arm.

Stewart, 33, is a tall, menacing righty who started out as a short reliever and never hit his stride until joining the Athletics in 1987.

As a rookie, Stewart was used primarily as a late-inning reliever, long before transforming himself into one of the most effective starting pitchers in baseball. Valenzuela, the diamond-in-the-rough discovery plucked from the Mexican leagues in 1979, used his mastery of the screwball to become baseball's overnight pitching sensation.

Valenzuela won his only start against the New York Yankees in the 1981 World Series, while Stewart made two brief relief appearances. Valenzuela sat out the Dodgers' 1988 World Series triumph over Stewart's A's, while Stewart was 0-1 in two starts. Stewart came back last year to go 2-0 in Oakland's four-game sweep of San Francisco in the World Series.

Valenzuela's prime came early in his career, when he produced seven consecutive double-digit victory seasons as a strikeout artist with a flair for dramatic performances.

Stewart is currently enjoying his most productive years after wading through several stagnant seasons early in his career.

Once a journeyman who demonstrated limited ability with three teams before latching on with Oakland, Stewart has joined baseball's elite — ringing up three consecutive 20-win seasons — while threatening to deliver a fourth this season.

Stewart, 10-8 this season, the winningest pitcher in the majors since 1967, improved his career record to 111-80 with his 5-0 masterpiece over the Blue Jays at the SkyDome. Valenzuela, 6-8 this season, is 134-106 lifetime.

Valenzuela used an inside fastball to complement a baffling change-up in confounding the St. Louis Cardinals in the Dodgers' 6-0 victory, coming just three hours after Stewart threw his gem in Toronto.

The last time two pitchers threw no-hitters on the same day was on May 2, 1917, when Cincinnati's Fred Toney threw a 10-inning no-hitter, and opposing pitcher James "Hippo" Vaughn threw one for 9 1-3 innings.

Stewart's no-hitter was the fourth in the major league's this season and the third in the American League this month. Randy Johnson of Seattle and Nolan Ryan of the Texas Rangers threw no-hitters in June, and Mark Langston and Mike Witt collaborated on the season's first no-hit game in April for the California Angels.

The four no-hitters in June are the most ever in the major leagues in one month.

Edberg, Chang to square off in fourth round

United Press International

WIMBLEDON, England — Stefan Edberg and Michael Chang, showing the mettle of champions, Saturday advanced to a fourth-round Wimbledon meeting with five-set comeback victories.

Chang, the 1989 French Open titlist, rallied from a two-set deficit to defeat Australia's Mark Kratzmann, 3-6, 4-6, 6-4, 6-2, 6-2. The American is 6-1 in five-set matches for his career and has won four times despite dropping the first two sets.

Edberg, the 1988 Wimbledon champion, raised his game at the crucial moment, winning the only break point of the fifth set to overcome Israel's Amos Mansdorf 6-4, 5-7, 3-6, 6-2, 9-7.

"Always, the top guys will play better on the big points," said Mansdorf, ranked 34th. "The difference is a slight mental difference."

In the fifth set, Edberg and Mansdorf easily held serve through the first 14 games, never facing a break point.

The most memorable match in the brief career of 18-year-old Chang also had been a great comeback, when he recovered from a two-set deficit to beat Ivan Lendl in the fourth round of last year's French Open.

"Whenever you have the slightest chance, you can't give up," said Chang. "You can't count yourself out."

The American, whose baseline game is best-suited to slow surfaces, is obviously learning the subtleties of grasscourt play. Against Kratzmann, Chang began drilling his groundstrokes at increasingly sharper angles.

Monday's Chang-Edberg pairing will be their first meeting since the 1989 French Open final.

Lendl, Wimbledon's top seed, split two tie-breaker sets against hard-serving American Bryan Shelton, ranked No. 128, before the match was suspended due to darkness. Lendl took the first set at 7-6 (7-2), then lost the second at 6-7 (4-7). The match will be resumed Monday. At Wimbledon, Sunday is the traditional day off.

Because of a bomb scare on Centre Court, Saturday's final match was halted for 25 minutes and then suspended as light failed. Patrick McEnroe and Jim Grabb were leading former champions Robert Seguso and Ken Flach 6-1, 3-4 when play was stopped.

Ninth-seed Jim Courier of the United States became the ninth upset victim of the men's draw, losing to wild-card entrant Mark Woodforde of Australia, 7-5, 5-7, 7-5, 6-4. With the pretournament withdrawal of No. 8 Aaron Krickstein, this has been one of the toughest Wimbledon draws for seeded men. Not since 1981 have as few as six seeds made the round of 16.

On the women's side, second seed Martina Navratilova overwhelmed Karin Kachwendt of Luxembourg 6-1, 6-1. Navratilova, who has lost only nine games in her three matches, is seeking a record ninth Wimbledon singles title but claims her pursuit of history is not an obsession.

Fourth seed Gabriela Sabatini, the talented Argentine whose potential remains far greater than her achievements, advanced to the round of 16 with a 6-4, 6-2 victory over Catherine Tanvier of France.

In other matches involving seeded players, No. 7 Katerina Maleeva downed Ann Devries of Belgium 6-2, 6-0; No. 11 Natalia Zvereva outplayed Gretchen Magers of the U.S. 2-6, 6-2, 6-4, and No. 14 Judith Wiesner downed Peru's Laura Gildemeister 6-2, 7-6 (7-5).

On the men's side, No. 11 Guy Forget also survived a five-set match, eliminating Michael Stich of West Germany 3-6, 7-5, 6-2, 4-6, 6-3.

Italy, Argentina advance to World Cup semifinals

United Press International

ROME — Italy rode on the back of Salvatore Schillaci Saturday and defending champion Argentina relied on good fortune to keep their appointed World Cup semifinal date in Naples.

The Italians and Argentinians will battle Tuesday, with the winner returning to the World Cup final. Italy won in 1982 and Argentina in 1986.

The quarterfinals conclude Sunday when England plays Cameroon in Naples and West Germany battles Czechoslovakia in Milan.

A 37th minute goal by Schillaci, his fourth of the tournament, and goalkeeper Walter Zenga's fifth successive shutout gave Italy a 1-0 victory over Ireland in front of a 73,303 crowd at Rome's Olympic Stadium.

In Florence, Argentina was held to a scoreless two-hour stalemate by Yugoslavia before winning a penalty shootout 3-2, despite a failed attempt by team captain Diego Maradona.

"The gods seem to be on the side of Argentina," said Maradona, whose penalty miss seemed destined to end in defeat for the South Americans before his teammates came to the rescue.

Maradona half-hit his penalty try, which was easily stopped.

"I felt great disappointment and tremendous anger," Maradona said.

"It is quite rare that I miss a penalty. Of course, we can all miss a penalty shot, but lucky for me, the goalkeeper saved me."

After Italy's success over Ireland, bookmakers in England installed the host nation as a 5-4 favorite to win the trophy a record fourth time.

Schillaci, a 25-year-old Sicilian with only one international appearance before exploding on the World Cup scene, kicked home a rebound after Roberto Donadoni's fierce drive had been parried by Irish goalkeeper Pat Bonner.

Nicklaus shoots to Senior Open lead

United Press International

PARAMUS, N.J. — Jack Nicklaus, Lee Trevino and Gary Player, three of the great names in golf, put themselves in position for a grand finale to the U.S. Open Senior Championship.

The trio, winners of 140 U.S. tournaments among them, will start out the final round Sunday with a single shot separating them.

Nicklaus, igniting a hot round with an eagle on the fourth hole, collected four birdies on the back nine Saturday to surge into the lead after three rounds. He stands one shot in front of his long-time rivals.

Nicklaus, winner of two of three events on the Senior Tour, started the day five shots behind Trevino, but more than made up the gap with a 5-under-par 67 to equal the day's low score in hot, humid conditions.

This put him at 9-under 207, one stroke better than Trevino, Player and Jim Dent with one round remaining at the Ridgewood Country Club.

"I'm not paying attention to who's out there," said Nicklaus, winner of four U.S. Open crowns. "I'm paying attention to myself. If I shoot a good score then they'll have to beat me. That's all I can do."

"I said yesterday five shots is nothing. Certainly one shot is less than nothing. There's at least five guys who have a pretty good chance of winning the golf tournament. Shots can change hands very quickly."

Trevino, complaining "I didn't have a very good day on the greens," predicted Nicklaus would shoot 68 Sunday, adding "I will need 5 or 6-under."

Trevino lost the lead he had held since opening day when he bogeyed the final hole as he stumbled to a 73. Player, seeking his third Senior Open title in four years, produced a 68 while Dent shot 72. Dent was handicapped by eight stitches on his right forefinger, the result of slamming a car door on his hand in the morning.

"We've had many battles because we all have won so many championships," Player said, referring to Nicklaus and Trevino. "We always seem to be battling each other. I'm looking forward to tomorrow very much."

Nicklaus, asked if his duel with Trevino and Player brought back memories, replied, "I've played enough golf with Lee and Gary that if you're talking about echoes it will echo about 400 times. We've played that many rounds."

Miller Barber, a three-time winner of this championship and the "old man" among the leaders at 59, followed up his 68 of Friday with a 67 and was three shots off the lead at 210.

Don Bies, with a 67, was alone at 211 following two consecutive rounds without a bogey, and admitted he had no realistic chance of making up five shots on Nicklaus.

Orville Moody, following his second successive 69, was in a group at 213 with Bob Charles (69), Charles Coody (72) and Harold Henning (75).

came clawing and scratching back. Tony Mills reached on an error and Dave Eckstein walked before Roberts singled in Mills. Then Academy pitchers illustrated just how deadly walks can be, issuing four consecutive free passes.

First, Jason Bender walked to load the bases. Rick Eckstein's walk then scored Dave Eckstein and Ferguson's walk brought in Roberts with the tying run. Gracey's walk capped the rally, scoring Bender for the winning run.

Rick Eckstein retired the Academy in the seventh for the victory, Roberts making a long, running catch from deep center field on a fly ball to shallow left field.

Jon Eltonhead pitched four quality innings, only giving up one run, before getting rocked for three runs in the fifth inning on a walk and a pair of hits. Rick Eckstein ended up getting credit for the win, pitching the last two innings.

Adcock, which was scheduled to play the Lake Brantley Patriots in a Buddy Lake League game at the Stadium on Saturday, will not play again until next Saturday, facing the Academy again in a 2:30 p.m. Lake League game at the Stadium.

Cross, Director of the Stetson University Small Business Development Center (SBDC), will present "How to Develop a Business Plan" from 9 a.m. to noon on July 13 at Stetson University SBDC Office, 349 E. Michigan Ave., DeLand. The basics on how to start your business right and keep it on track will be discussed.

Reservations are requested. For more information call (904) 822-7338.

Chamber luncheon set

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — The Greater Seminole County Chamber of Commerce will present its annual legislative luncheon on July 6. Invited speakers will give a review of this year's events in the capital and answer questions from the Chamber membership.

Speakers will include: Senator Toni Jennings, Senator Bud Gardner, Senator Dick Langley, Representative Frank Stone, Representative Stan Bainter, Representative Art Grindle, and Representative Tom Drago.

The luncheon will begin at 11:45 a.m. at the Park Suite Hotel in Altamonte Springs. The cost is $13 per person. Reservations are required and can be made by calling the Chamber at 834-4404 by July 3.

Wells election announced

Billy H. Wells, agency manager at The Principal Financial Group in Maitland, has been elected President of The Central Florida General Agents and Managers Association for 1990-91. He was also appointed to The Board of Directors of Florida GAMA.

Ground breaking held

HEATHROW — Arvida's Heathrow broke ground recently on the new neighborhood of Lexington Green, to be built by Waltham Homes, an Arvida affiliate. The new community will feature 45 homes with pre-construction prices starting at $179,900.

Overlooking the first and tenth holes of Heathrow's championship golf course and located within walking distance of the Heathrow Country Club, the homes of Lexington Green will feature 1,000 to 2,300 square feet of living space.

According to Mark Ambach, Arvida's Project Manager of Lexington Green, the homes will include numerous unusual standard features such as ceramic tile roofs, sunken Roman tubs, extensive landscaping packages, elegant master bedroom retreats, fireplaces and of course, vaulted ceilings.

Waltham Homes is currently building in the Heathrow neighborhood of Lexington Green and Willowbrook Village, as well as Arvida's Weavere, located in Southwest Orlando and River Hills, located in Tampa.

United to double daily flights

ORLANDO — United Airlines announced it would double to 22 the number of daily flights out of Orlando International Airport. "Orlando continues to be enormously popular for tourists, and these flights are designed to meet the increasing demand for travel here," said Chairman Steven M. Wolf. The Chicago carrier said that starting Sept. 5, it would boost from 11 to 22 the number of daily outgoing flights at Orlando. One of the new flights is to be a non-stop to San Francisco, the first non-stop flight there from Orlando. The changes announced Wednesday would make United the No. 3 carrier at Orlando. Delta is now No. 1 with 72 daily flights. USAir is second with 51.

Racal-Milgo awarded contract

SUNRISE — Racal-Milgo, a communications systems and service supplier, was awarded a multimillion-dollar contract to supply electronic equipment to Deutsche Telecom, a West German telephone company. The contract, worth "in excess of $5 million," was signed by Racal-Milgo's West German sales subsidiary, Racal-Milgo GmbH, said Racal-Milgo spokesman Jack Hillhouse. Racal-Milgo will provide Deutsche Telecom with 10,000 PAG modems, which provide specific direct connection capability and interface to German telephone lines.

Dividend declared

MIAMI — The board of directors of Knight-Ridder Inc., the parent company of The Miami Herald, declared Thursday a dividend on its common stock of .33 cents a share. It is payable July 23 to shareholders of record as of the close of business on July 13.

Restaurant completes sale

FORT LAUDERDALE — QSR Inc., a Florida chain of fast-food restaurants, said Thursday it has completed the sale of 32 of its Taco Viva Mexican Restaurants to F.D.R. Taco Viva Inc., a Fort Lauderdale company, for $2 million in cash and notes. QSR Inc. will concentrate on expanding its Mr. Submarine/Miami Subs division, which has 19 restaurants.

Arvida offers home sales incentive

LAKE MARY — Arvida Company, a real estate development company, has launched a sales incentive program for full-time registered realtors in the Central Florida area, designed to sell homes in the Heathrow and Weavere areas.

The program started June 22 and is to run until June 23, 1991. It is called the "Gold Club" program.

In addition to paying realtors and brokers 100 percent commission on three percent of the purchase price of a home without contingencies and with a ten percent deposit, those selling 25 or more homes in the year will receive a 1991 Jaguar, according to a press release.

For 15 homes the award is a 1991 ES250 Lexus. Other awards for 10 and less include a screened swimming pool, SeaRay 17 foot boat, 45 inch big screen TV, Rolex watch, Ping golf clubs and many others.

Anne Prince Saunders, vice president of marketing and sales for Arvida, said in the press release. "There could soon be a lot of new Jaguars on the Central Florida roads."

David Guy, president of the Central Florida Division of Arvida, said in the press release. "With prices in the low threes ranging from $145,000 to the millions, and with our new family-oriented community of Weavere starting at $199,900, we feel we have a wide enough selection to make this goal easily achievable."

Arvida Company, now in its 32nd year of business, has communities in Georgia, North Carolina, California and Texas in addition to those in Florida.

State's jobless rate fell

UPI report

TALLAHASSEE — Florida's jobless rate fell half a percentage point in May to 5.4 percent, according to the state's labor analysts.

The state figure is still above the national unemployment rate for the month of 5.1 percent, the analysts said, but the May report includes encouraging news.

For instance, only two of the state's 67 counties had double-digit jobless rates for the month — Hendry with 13 percent and St. Lucie with 11.4 percent.

At the low end of the scale, eight counties had rates below 4 percent. Lowest of all was Monroe with 2.6 percent, followed by Alachua and Liberty at 3.3 percent each.

Labor analysts said the jobless rates in 27 counties were at least a full percentage point lower last month than they were in May of last year.

NCNB names bank president

United Press International

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — The president of NCNB's General Bank in a move designed to improve services to bank customers in seven states.

NCNB chairman Hugh McColl announced that Kenneth Lewis, now based in Texas, assumes a new national position combining all of NCNB's 936 branches, consumer and commercial banking in one organizational structure.

"Ken Lewis' broad background, especially his consumer and commercial banking experience in Texas and Florida, prepares him well to head NCNB's General Bank," said McColl.

"This is another move to best serve NCNB's customers regardless of where they are," said McColl. "Combining oversight responsibilities for NCNB's branch network, its consumer banking and its commercial banking means our organization is shaped around the customer and not shaped by geographical boundaries across the areas where we do business."

Reporting to McColl, Lewis, 43, will be based in Charlotte and have responsibilities for all such businesses in Texas, Florida, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Maryland and Virginia.

William Middlemas, president of Southeast Banking, and Robert Lane, general banking executive in Texas, will report to Lewis.

McColl said.

In related moves, James Sommers retains responsibility for NCNB's national Trust, private banking and securities businesses and will report to Lewis. Brad Iversen will report to Lewis and will become marketing executive for the General Bank.

Catherine Bessant assumes national Community Reinvestment Act responsibilities for the General Bank. Ralph Carestio, specialized lending executive, and Joseph Musolino, Dallas vice chairman, continue to report to Lewis.

Lewis will move to Charlotte by the first of next year. All other officers and staff will remain in their current geographic locations, McColl said.

Since August 1988, Lewis has served as president of NCNB Texas. In addition to other duties, Lewis has been responsible for all consumer, commercial, real estate and energy banking activities for the Texas bank.

Prior to joining NCNB Texas, Lewis was president of NCNB National Bank of Florida. He also has served in NCNB's U.S. Division and NCNB International Bank in New York. Lewis joined the bank in 1969 as a credit analyst in Charlotte.

Lewis is a native of Meridian, Miss., and earned a bachelor's degree in finance from Georgia State University in Atlanta. He also is a graduate of the Stanford University Executive Program.

'Days of Thunder' hits $3.4 million in its first day

United Press International

LOS ANGELES — "Days of Thunder" starring Tom Cruise, Paramount Pictures' chief hope for a summer blockbuster, raced away with a solid $3.4 million in ticket sales on its first day of release, the largest weekday gross for any movie this year.

The film, on which Paramount spent an estimated $40 million, drew an average of $1,466 per screen in 2,307 theaters when it left the starting line last week.

Paramount has been aggressive in promoting the movie, with an ad campaign highlighting Cruise, perhaps the most bankable star in Hollywood.

Wednesday after the county revoked its operating permit, said H.G. Spencer Smith Jr., the company's owner.

"All I know is that it was in response to last Friday's activities," Spencer Smith said in reference to a search conducted by police and county investigators.

The illegal dumping is "something we try not to do," Spencer Smith said.

The plant applies zinc coating to metals used in boat trailers and road signs, Spencer Smith said.

The metal is cleaned using an acid solution. The waste that results from the process includes acid and metal, Stilwell said.

Plant closed for dumping toxic waste

United Press International

MIAMI — Dade County environmental officials have shut down a metal-working plant, alleging that employees were dumping toxic metals and acids into the ground near a drinking-water well field.

Environmental officials videotaped a worker dumping the waste into the ground at the plant operated by U.S. Manufacturing and Galvanizing Corp., which is near an area from which a backup county well field draws water.

Prosecutors are conducting a criminal investigation of the dumping. Assistant State Attorney Joseph Rosenbaum said.

County officials said they do not know if any damage has been done to the well field, which already shows some low-level contamination.

"We can't discount the possibility that they have contributed to the problem," said Joe Stilwell, enforcement chief for Dade County's Department of Environmental Resources Management.

Groundwater samples taken near the plant after one of the dumpings in February showed that lead levels increased 2,000 percent within 14 hours of the waste being dumped, according to an affidavit filed by investigators.

The plant was shut down

Improper use of fireworks hazardous

Study shows injuries remain high despite annual warnings

Despite nationwide public education efforts by ophthalmologists, fire departments and numerous medical organizations, the American Academy of Ophthalmology reports that improper use of fireworks continues to cause thousands of needless accidents and eye injuries each Fourth of July.

In 1988 the Academy, through the Eye Injury Registry of Alabama, asked ophthalmologists in Alabama to report fireworks eye injuries observed during a seven day period before and after the Fourth of July. Eleven cases of serious fireworks injuries were reported resulting in one enucleation (removal of eye) and one case of permanent legal blindness in an injured eye.

The results of this study are similar to a study by the American Academy of Ophthalmology in 1985, the first nationwide survey of ocular fireworks injuries over the Fourth of July.

It's evident that educational efforts to prevent fireworks eye injuries have been ineffective," said ophthalmologist C. Douglas Witherspoon, M.D., co-director of the Eye Injury Registry of Alabama and member of the Academy's Eye Safety and Sports Ophthalmology Committee. "Other studies over the last seven years in Alabama and across the country show a steady or slightly increasing incidence of fireworks eye injuries. A significant number of fireworks injuries are also reported during each New Year's holiday."

Young males continue to represent the majority of those injured. Bottle rockets, the small explosive rockets launched from a bottle, remain the most dangerous type of device implicated

Guidelines to prevent fireworks eye injuries

• Be sure each firework has a clearly printed manufacturer's name, address and cautionary label. A firework lacking this information is very likely to be illegal. Never attempt to make your own fireworks.

• Never allow children to handle or ignite explosive fireworks. Adults should closely supervise children's use of relatively safe fireworks, such as sparklers.

• Always wear glasses or safety goggles when setting fireworks. Spectators in noncommercial fireworks settings should also consider the use of protective eyewear.

• Do not put firecrackers in bottles or tin cans or under clay pots because these objects can shatter and propel fragments into the eye.

• Do not throw sparklers into the air or wave them near another person's eyes.

• In case of an eye injury, do not press, rub or touch the eye; seek immediate care at a hospital emergency room.

in eye injuries. Witherspoon reported, accounting for 80 percent of the eye injuries in the Alabama study.

"It's also alarming that 40 percent of last year's victims were bystanders," Witherspoon said. "The most seriously injured patient, the only female in this study, was a bystander watching a bottle rocket. Her right eye was removed."

South Seminole Community Hospital expected to add two new programs

By ROSE PFEIFFER
Herald staff writer

LONGWOOD — Two new medical programs: a skilled nursing unit and an outpatient gall bladder surgery procedure, are expected to begin in the near future at South Seminole Community Hospital, 555 W. State Road 434, while one new service, computerized drug dosage, is already underway.

The hospital has filed a certificate of need for the skilled nursing unit, with the Florida Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services. The project will include a 15-bed unit which would accommodate patients needing short-term, acute nursing procedures and physical therapy after hospitalization.

"There is a shortage of nursing home beds in Central Florida, especially for Medicare patients," states Mary Jack, Chief Nursing Officer. "We saw a need and are seeking to fill the gap." she added. The unit is expected to receive approval and be in operation within six months.

For the gall bladder surgery, two staff doctors are presently attending instruction which will enable them to perform what is known as Laparoscopic Cholecystectomy, a procedure which permits the extraction of the gall bladder by dissection and removal through a small incision. This procedure is said to revolutionize gall bladder surgery and greatly reduce pain and recovery time. Sandy Rayburn, Director of Surgical Services at the hospital said, "We will be one of the only hospitals in Seminole County performing this procedure."

The revolutionary new computerized medication dosing service is already being used at South Seminole. Called the Pharmacokinetic Dosing Service, it reduces the variables in prescribing commonly used medications which could have an adverse affect if given in improper dosages.

FULL LENGTH MIRROR BLUES
A healthy mind in a healthy body is a universal ideal that we all try our best to achieve. But a glance in a full-length mirror may tell a different story. Poor posture with sloping back and protruding stomach not only affect your personal appearance, they affect your health as well.
Not everyone can be as active as they want to be. If your work requires you to sit at a desk most of the day, you may suffer from lack of exercise. Overeating can put undue strain on unused muscles and back. So can poor posture. These things, combined with lack of exercise, may lead to back pain and nervous tension. Instruction in how to maintain good posture can be helpful. So can tips on how to eat a well-balanced diet without gaining unwanted pounds. So can treatment to correct any misalignments in your spine that may be causing aches and pains and other signs of tension. If your body is operating at 90%, why suffer in silence when you could be functioning at 100%.

Jessica and Joelene Moore

Sisters chosen as finalists

Jessica and Joelene Moore, daughters of Michael and Susan Deir, have been selected as finalists in the 1990 Miss Florida National Pre-Teen and Pre-Teen Petite Pageant, to be held in Lehigh Acres July 14.

Jessica, 8, will compete for the pre-teen title. The contest is the only one affiliated with the Miss National Teen-Ager Scholarship Pageant.

Joelene will compete in the Pre-Teen Petite Pageant, the official state pageant for the Miss National Pre-Teen Petite Pageant to be held in Orlando in November.

Winner of each contest will receive a savings bond, crown, sash and her transportation and full sponsorship to the 10th Anniversary National Pageant to compete with other state winners.

Miss National Pre-Teen has teamed up with "Just Say No" against drugs, and works very hard to promote this worthwhile program.

Cultural Arts award won

Helen Griffith, from Lake Mary, won this year's State Cultural Arts, Clothing and Textiles Award for the Extension Homemakers. She was competing against participants from 67 counties.

Helen is interested in the arts and in preserving heritage skills. She has taught workshops on how to recycle old blue jeans to groups including home economics classes in high school and to workshops for the Library System. She taught programs on using patternless patterns, sweatshirt design, tatting, and quilting this past year. Over 1,614 people were reached through her workshops. She continues to teach workshops. In the fall she will be giving a program on Seminole Indian quilting techniques for the Extension Homemakers.

Zoo turns 15

The Central Florida Zoological Park turns 15 on July 4. At 11 a.m. cake will be served to zoo visitors while supply lasts. Visitors may also view displays of the zoo's history highlighting the Sanford Zoo which was in downtown Sanford.

Other anniversary related activities include a baby white tiger cub on display along with other animal guests from the Columbus Zoo on July 21 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

There's glamour in the pulpit

Woman breaks church's century-old tradition

By DORIS DIETRICH
Herald columnist

SANFORD — The First Methodist Church has come a long way since it was founded here in the 1870s. During those lean pioneer days, a trailblazing, Bible-totin' circuit rider carried and delivered the Lord's message. Traditionally, the church pastors have all been men.

But today, more than 110 years later, there's glamour in the pulpit.

The Rev. Doris Jean "Jeanie" Davis is the first woman pastor of Sanford's First United Methodist Church. She was recently assigned by the Florida Methodist Conference as associate minister to the Rev. J.U. "Jean" Guerry who took command of the pulpit on June 17.

In fact, Davis may be the first woman pastor assigned on a regular basis to a Sanford church. The Rev. Freddie Smith, pastor of the Central Baptist Church for 18 years, can't recall another woman pastor serving a Sanford church.

A number of churchgoers, who had not met the new woman preacher prior to her first service, seemed pleasantly surprised that the new associate minister "is so pretty."

Yes, she's pretty, has endearing charm and is the epitome of femininity.

As Davis sat, robed in a long white alb enhanced with a pale pink scapula, listening intently to Guerry that first Sunday at First Church, the sun filtered through the colorful stained glass window onto her flowing blond hair. The serene setting might have been a staged scenario for an unrivaled Hollywood or Broadway production.

But Davis is not in a make-believe world of tinsel and glitter. She's where she belongs and that's in the pulpit. She was born to minister. "I got called and He wouldn't let go of me," the attractive minister said.

Born in West Virginia in 1946, Davis claims she was first "called" at age 11 when she was attending a Methodist youth meeting. She affirmed that she had the "overwhelming feeling" that she was supposed to be in the ministry. At age 22, she said she was called again, but again did not respond. In the late 1970s, she was an active lay person in her church, but "that was not quite enough," she said.

Davis was considerably uncomfortable and could find no peace.

One day she said she was on her hands and knees pulling weeds in the garden at her home in Rockledge when the Lord spoke to her again. She tried to make the Battle waged to save home

SANFORD — The world is a fast moving one but there is a season, reason, and a time for everything; a time to get, a time to love, a time to care for others, a time to share and a time to give and speak out.

A group of community-minded people, The Concerned Citizens Committee, has organized to share, care and speak out for the needs of the residents of the Good Samaritan Home, Sanford. This congregate living facility houses elderly, some homeless, with no known relatives. But they share one common need, the need to be loved and cared for.

These residents are going to be homeless if other concerned citizens don't share and care enough to help raise the critically needed $123,000 to keep the Internal Revenue Service from putting it on the auction block for overdue employment taxes.

The Concerned Citizens Committee in an attempt to raise money to help pay this indebtedness, has appealed to local ministers to consider a Good Samaritan Home Day in their churches during July.

Volunteers will canvas Seminole County and the Deltona and DeBary areas for citizen support. On July 28, a banquet will be held at the Sanford Civic Center, at 7 p.m. to benefit the home. A special program is being planned. Share with the Good Samaritan family by giving donations, pledges and purchasing a ticket for this worthwhile affair. Won't you lit

Couple finds adventure in each new day

LAKE MARY — Ray Fox of Lake Mary has worn many hats in his lifetime and each one with a title befitting his earnest endeavors.

This second generation Floridian joined the Navy as an enlisted man during the Second World War.

After the war ended, Fox entered Auburn University in Alabama.

Upon graduation he reentered the Navy during the Korean War and attended Aviator's School for his flight training in Pensacola where he met Pat, his wife, and earned his wings. During his Naval career, Fox served aboard aircraft carriers and pulled duty at the Sanford Naval Air Station from 1960 to 1963. Sanford is his birthplace.

Fox and Pat have three grown children and one grandson. Their eldest son, Tri, is presently in Korea as a guest lecturer. Earl, the youngest Fox son, lives in Lake Mary and has assumed full operation of the family business, Fox Distributors.

"A wagon jobber and strictly wholesale," says Fox.

The Foxes live in a two-story house overlooking the lake in a peaceful setting on a quiet road that is the picture of serenity. Their house was built in 1922 by Astronaut Allen B. Sheppard's maternal grandfather.

Of their home, Fox says, "I bought it in 1961 when I was stationed here. I always kept it because the children think of it as their first real home and they love it."

When Fox retired from the Navy as a

Grieve over lost loved one

By KELLEY MITCHELL

SANFORD — The death of a family member or friend brings on a rush of devastating feelings. Sorrow, loneliness, abandonment and sometimes anger and guilt are involved in the grieving process, one of the most painful emotions in a person's life.

Dealing with the daily routine and memories of those precious moments spent together will become the hardest to face.

"People too often think that by not talking about their loss, the grieving will go away. Just the opposite is true," says Alan D. Wolfelt, Ph.D., a clinical thanatologist — a psychologist who specializes in death and grief recovery — and adviser to Cox-Parker Carey Hand Funeral Home, Winter Park, Colonial Carey Hand Funeral Home, Orlando, and Brisson Funeral Home, Sanford.

"The more one can enjoy the memory, the more one can honor and celebrate the one they have lost.

"As much as possible, friends and family should help the grieving person verbalize his or her emotions and feelings," he said.

People who have suffered the loss of a family member or friend pass through many levels of grief recovery. Typically, says Wolfelt, mourners encounter certain common feelings, although at different times and to varying degrees.

"While there is no one way to grieve, there are common feelings most people who are grieving will feel," Wolfelt said. "At times one will want to block it out and other times sudden anger and irritation will take over.

"There will also be times of sadness; and that's all right unless it gets so bad that it becomes immobilizing," Wolfelt added.

Friends sometimes assume that the grieving process should be over in six months and that the mourner's life should be back in order. That is a common myth, Wolfelt said.

Wolfelt emphasized that friends can best help mourners by stretching out their concern over the long term. Cards, telephone calls and short visits over the long term are very beneficial. It is important to remember an anniversary or a birthday, as these are difficult times.

In recent years, seminars have been set up for the bereaved to provide fellowship, gain understanding of the grief process, learn daily coping techniques, ease emotional adjustments and to become familiar with community resources, such as financial, legal, social, educational, home maintenance and volunteerism, to assist in rebuilding their lives.

Baldwin-Fairchild Cemeteries and Funeral Homes was instrumental in starting the Central Florida Chapter of The Compassionate Friends, says Sally Koepke, Community Programs Director for Baldwin-Fairchild Funeral Home. The Poet, world-traveler turns 90

When Mary L. Wilson was born on June 21, 1900, women activists were unheard of. But as the years moved on, Mary did her sisterhood proud through numerous channels including her whimsical poetry which she wrote with a philosophical, amusing and sometimes militant flair.

In her 80th year, Mary published her fourth book of poetry, "Lights Along the Shore." This title was inspired by the lighthouses that dot both coasts of Florida, giving directions to navigators.

Mary earned her BA degree from Elmira College in New York and her MA degree from the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor. She later taught high school English for six years.

In 1929, Mary had the uncontrollable urge to travel after she received a small inheritance. So she set out on her own for Europe and blew all her wad. But it's just as well. Had she banked her money, she would have lost it in the crash of 1929 when the bottom fell out of the stock market.

While she was living it up in Europe, a letter was awaiting her at every port from Dr. John Wilson, who was later entomologist at the then Central Florida Experiment Station in Sanford.

The couple were married in 1931 and spent 35 years in Sanford. Mary now makes her home in Orange City where she is still active in the Florida State Poets Association Inc. and the National Federation of State Poetry Societies Inc. She has also been published in "World of Poetry Great Contemporary Poems."

Mary was a supportive proponent of the Nineteenth Amendment of the U.S. Constitution, allowing women the right to vote, which was ratified in 1920. During her later years, she and Katie Jackson were the first two women deacons in the First Presbyterian Church.

Active in the Sanford community, Mary won numerous ribbons for her roses at the Sanford Garden Club flower shows. She was also employed by Sanford Housing Authority.

In celebration of her 90th birthday, Mary was the guest of honor at a reception held in fellowship hall of the First Presbyterian Church on June 23. Her favorite color, lavender, was carried out in the decor.

As the guests entered the hall, they were greeted by Katie Jackson and Joyce Mikkola. Sitting at the registration table were Mary and her daughter, Virginia Powell. The smiling guest of honor wore a white and blue corsage to complement her blue pantsuit.

The registration table featured an arrangement of iris in a vase Mary handpainted in her younger days. Also on this table was a lovely photograph of Mary taken in a canoe many years ago.

The refreshment table held an arrangement of lilacs and violets and the tiered birthday cake was appropriately embossed in lavender frosting with the inscription: "Happy Birthday, Mother."

Bonny York, the honoree's daughter, conducted a delightful "This is Your Life" program. She started at her mother's birth and went through the milestones which included her seeing Halley's Comet and watching the Wright Brothers during their pioneer flying days. She read the family's favorite poem about their father going fishing, written by Mary.

The program ended with Mary's grandson and his wife, David and Gina Powell, singing two of Mary's favorite hymns, "Trust and Obey" and "Amazing Grace" with David providing guitar accompaniment and leading the traditional birthday song.

Assisting in serving refreshments were Patricia Patnick, punch, and Fran Morton, cake.

Mary's third daughter is Peggy Anderson. There are nine grandchildren and five great grandchildren.

She's True blue

Friends from Central Florida turned out to honor Arolyn True on her 90th birthday last Sunday at the Lake Mary CIA building. Although she is hearing and visually impaired the vivacious birthday honoree is still "as sharp as a tack."

Arolyn has been living in Lake Mary for 62 years and is the mother of two daughters, Natalie Williamson, Daytona Beach, and Charlotte Basham, Concord, Calif.

Mary and Leroy Anderson arrived early for the gala celebration. Mary said, "It was lovely. The flowers were so pretty and the food was delicious."

Mary belongs to the PEO Sisterhood of which Arolyn is also a member.

Among the PEO's joining Arolyn were: Margaret Vitale, Ruth Lee, Jo McDaniel, Mary Nancy Terwilliger, Camille Moreland, Vera Williams and Elsie Mero.

Arolyn is also a member of the Sallie Harrison Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution. Among the DARs attending the celebration were: Frances Lyon, Betty Steffens and Lourine Messinger.

Ministers honored

The First United Methodist Church honored its two new ministers at a reception Sunday, June 24, following the 11 a.m. worship service.

A long line of members and guests formed to welcome and hug the new ministers and their families.

On his first Sunday in the pulpit at First Church, the Rev. J.U. Jean Guerry asked members to raise their hands if they are members of the EOH — Eternal Order of Huggers. Nearly everyone confessed they are hooked huggers.

Forming the receiving and hugging line with the minister were his wife, Pat, and the Rev.

D. Jean Davis, associate minister, and her husband Mike and their two children, Michelle and Jeff.

The Guerrys arrived in Sanford from the First United Methodist Church in Davie, near Fort Lauderdale. He has been in the ministry since 1954 and served as a pastor of the First United Methodist Church, Orlando. He was also chairman of worship in the Florida Methodist Conference from 1980-84. Pat is a talented organist.

They have two daughters, Sheryl Rose, New York City, and Elizabeth "Libby" Giostra, North Miami Beach. There are two grandsons.

WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Eric Bryant

Bambi Jo Harasti weds in Longwood ceremony

LONGWOOD — Bambi Jo Harasti and Eric Bryant are announcing their marriage today. The wedding was an event of Saturday, February 10, 1990 2 p.m., at the Church of the Annunciation, Longwood. Father Reginald Deaton officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Harasti, Altamonte Springs. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. V. Edward Bryant, Winter Park.

The bride, given in marriage by her parents, was escorted to the altar by her father. She chose for her vows a white satin gown fashioned along the bouffant silhouette. The fitted bodice, featuring a sweetheart neckline accented with schiffli lace, was lavishly embellished with hand-sewn pearls and sequin clusters and waterfall pearls on a basque waistline. The satin puffed sleeves, accented with seeded pearl medallions and matching sequins, terminated in calla points. The bodice back was gracefully accented with eight strands of pearls. The scalloped full skirt, enhanced with sequins, pearls and Alençon lace inserts, elaborately cascaded into a sweeping cathedral train bordered by tuxedo pleats.

A halo embellished with waterfall pearls held her tiered fingertip illusion veil. She carried a bouquet of fresh white roses, lavender roses, brevardia, and white freesia accented with white pearls flowing from the cascade.

Katy Harasti Ortiz of Los Angeles, paternal aunt and godmother of the bride served as matron of honor. She wore a plum taffeta/velveteen tea-length gown featuring a V-neckline and full bouffant skirt, on-the-shoulder sleeves and a deep V-waistline accented at the back with a full taffeta bow.

Bridesmaids were: Debbie and Lynn Harasti, cousins of the bride; Kismimmee; Lisa Krtek of Eden Prairie, MN., family friend; Barbara Weaver, Longwood and Sylvia Golden, Oviedo, friends of the bride. The attendants wore off-the-shoulder gowns identical to the honor attendant's and each carried a nosegay of dried flowers dramatically enhanced by preserved red roses given to the bride by the bridegroom during their courtship. The nosegays were further accented by white lace and satin and pearl-looped streamers. Holly Mulholland of Casselberry, cousin of the bride, was the flower girl. She was presented in a miniature bridal gown. A wreath of ivy, pearls and dried flowers encircled her head. Adding to the Victorian theme, she carried a white wicker basket filled with rose petals.

Dale Wagner, Sanford, friend of the groom, served as best man. Usher/groomsmen were: Gregory Bryant, brother of the groom; Winter Park; Jeff Hankins, Winter Springs; Scott Frick, St. Petersburg; Mark McKim, Norcross, GA; and Greg Sica, Lake Mary, friends of the groom. Ringbearer was Joseph Marcum, Lake Mary.

Soloist was Mrs. Helen Meenecke accompanied by organist, Mr. John Rosnick.

The couple honeymooned in Hilton Head, and are making their home in Heathrow.

Beloved lady honored by family, friends

In 1900, the year Arolyn True was born, genteel ladies received many guests, whom they entertained with witty conversation and sumptuous food and drink.

Arolyn, resplendent in a jewel-toned dress, pearls, and a hothouse orchid corsage, was every bit the charming genteel lady, perched on her Victorian parlor chair, as she greeted over 100 family members and friends who attended her 90th birthday party last Sunday.

Although she is legally blind and suffered a stroke last year, Arolyn never tired during the three hour event held at the Community Improvement Association (CIA) Building.

"Oh, it's just lovely. So many friends! I didn't know the party would be this big," she said.

Arolyn's daughters, Natalie Williamson of Holly Hill and Charlotte Basham of Concord, Calif., organized the bash for their mother, the lady who started the first Girl Scout Troop in Lake Mary.

"She always set such a wonderful example for us. She was always doing things for people, so we decided to do something for her and invite the people from the community she loves. The community loves Arolyn, too. Lake Mary Mayor Dick Fess presented her with a proclamation that names June 24 Arolyn True Day in the city. Her birthday is officially July 5, but Arolyn was not opposed to a double celebration.

"The party was scheduled for a time when everybody could be here," Natalie explained. Fess said the next city commission meeting actually falls on Arolyn's birthday, and she will be honored again for her contribution to the city: millstones with historic value that she and her late husband, Robert, donated to Lake Mary.

"She is a fine lady," Fess said. Arolyn's son-in-law, Gordon Williamson, elaborated.

"She is vivacious, intelligent and a wonderful mother-in-law," he said. Other family members attending include: Steve and Susie Dix and their two children, from Cocoa Beach; Marty and Linda Dix, Tallahassee and Robert and Pat Greenwood.

Great-granddaughter, Alexa Dix, assisted Arolyn in greeting the guests. The charming little miss in the wide-brimmed straw hat said her great-grandmother "is so nice."

The food table was laden with two cakes, punch, and assorted finger sandwiches and sweets. Arolyn, known for her cooking, helped prepare the food, assisted by Dorothy Leslie.

After weeks of preparation, Arolyn already has the menu for her 100th birthday handled. "It will be catered!" she said.

League Woman's Club in Longwood, announced that the Maxine McGrath Memorial Library, established and maintained by clubwomen, will be closed July and August for renovations.

"The clubhouse, where the library is located, is over 100 years old and is a great asset to Historic Longwood," Emily said. Built of rough-hewn lumber and batten board, it is considered one of the oldest buildings in Longwood. In the early 1900's, along with the hotel, it was the center of social life for the entire area.

Librarian Blanche Kissane is the authority to consult on the uncommon subjects covered in the interesting volumes.

"The library is small but contains a wealth of knowledge and interesting volumes - many older, some original and a number of uncommon books," she said.

The Central Florida Society for Historic Preservation has loaned the library several books on the restoration and preservation of older buildings. These are available to interested persons of Seminole County for use in the library.

For additional information, call Hazel Mason, assistant Librarian, at 830-6269.

Children helped

Longwood area Sertoma Club recently received a $1,500 matching grant for its innovative program to help autistic children. Sertoma Foundation representative presents the check to Longwood Sertoma Club President Carmine Bravo, right. The program trains autistic children in speech and language, academics, social skills, and physical development. Longwood area children have made dramatic improvements. Some are now attending normal pre-school and kindergarten classes.

usual excuses, she said, but, this time, the Lord wouldn't take "no" for an answer.

In 1981, when she was 35, the Administrative Board of the First United Methodist Church, Cocoa, voted to affirm her as a candidate for the seminary. At last, her peace and tranquility were restored.

The family would have to make extreme sacrifices for Davis to enter Candler's College of Theology, Emory University, Atlanta, including separating her and the two children from husband and father, Mike. She completed the 3-year course in two years and received a master of divinity degree in 1986. But what a struggle!

While his wife was in the seminary, Mike stayed behind in Rockledge as the breadwinner and kept the home fires burning. He visited her and the children when he could get away. "Mike has always been supportive," Davis said. "He knows better than to mess with God," she laughed.

But answering her call to the ministry threatened the cohesive family structure that, thankfully, never came unglued. When Mom and the kids packed up to go to Atlanta, the debts were caught up, but after two years, the family didn't exactly come out smelling like a rose even with Davis attending the seminary on a partial scholarship. They are still paying back some of the debts that were incurred at this time.

But nobody promised them the venture would be easy. "We (the family) made a pact we would support her in her ministry," Mike said. Before she went to the seminary, Davis helped put her husband through school by working six years for Pan Am at Cape Canaveral.

Since Davis entered the ministry, leaving the family home and moving around has been trying for all of them. While she served as associate minister at Grace United Methodist Church, Merritt Island, the Davises lived in their Rockledge home for two years. Then Davis was assigned to her own church, Wesley United Methodist in Jacksonville, for the next two years before coming to Sanford. Ordination is on down the road.

Fortunately, Mike's job has moved with him. He is employed as a sales representative by King Sales Co., Jacksonville, and is actually closer to his territory since moving to Sanford.

Admitting that he really enjoys hearing his wife preach, Mike said, "She's informative. She brings a woman's view into the ministry."

Michelle, 18, and Jeff, 16, are very proud of their mom and proud to have been a part of the struggle that put her where God wanted her to be. Both consider themselves normal "kids" and wouldn't have it any other way. They are carrying on the same degree of normalcy as before Mom became a minister.

Jeff, a sophomore at Seminole High School, said being a PK (preacher's kid) has not cramped his lifestyle. Hoping to enter the chiropractic field, Jeff said his mother's decision to become a minister has enhanced his well-being. On top of that, he said his mom is very liberal and not at all strict. He has no problems with his friends by just being himself. One of the pitfalls of being a PK, he said, is having to move and leave close relationships behind.

Michelle, a lovely dead-ringer for her mother, enjoys selling jewelry and has done some fashion modeling. A freshman at Seminole Community College, Michelle could be headed for a career in constitutional law. But she's not sure.

Davis does not consider herself different and being in a traditional man's role is all in a day's work to her. "I was called by God to do a job," she said. "And that's what I'm going to do."

Sure, she misses being mommy and wife and all the amenities of home, but she is embraced by a sense of peace that she is following His orders.

In discussing abortion, Davis quotes from Isaiah: "I knew you before you were formed in your mother's womb." She added, "We are seeing a deficit of greats. We're due for some." She's concerned that abortion may have wiped out many future greats on the par with Einstein and Beethoven. "What have we lost already?" she asked.

Davis advocates that a woman should have the right to choose, but with medical, psychological and religious counseling. She does not see abortion as a means of birth control. "We're being destructive," she said. She feels that being enveloped by so many destructive forces predates the need for a great revival, and she hopes the Methodists spearhead this evangelical movement.

At First United Methodist, Davis has a personal mission of "broadening the understanding of women in the church." She believes women should have a louder voice in the church and plans to lead them in a united direction for all.

But most of all, she "really likes to preach," she said. "It is an awesome, humbling experience to stand there and carry the message from God."

For the Doubting Thomases who may be caught up in an aura of skepticism that a woman can't fill a man's shoes, forget it. Davis doesn't even try. She always kicks off her shoes before entering the "holy ground," as she puts it, surrounding the pulpit.

Davis will add a totally new dimension to the church. She's filled with warmth, love, charity, ideas and the gospel. Don't expect her to get all fired up and violently pound on the pulpit or dramatically point an accusing finger. That's simply not her style. But she will triumphantly get the message across in her own inimitable brand of Christian discipleship.

And that's the gospel.

The Concerned Citizens who have volunteered their time and effort for this project have also had the privilege of experiencing the need and use of the Good Samaritan Home and would like to share their cares and concerns:

She knows that these people would not survive anywhere else. "I know the facility is affordable. No matter what your status or income, you will not be turned away. Where else would they get religious services conducted everyday?"

Strickland, whose husband, Millard, was a patient for over four years, expressed how good it was to have him close by so that she could visit.

Fannie E. Miller's grandmother lived at the home. She states that "the Home provided assistance to her family at a time when our need was critical. Other families with elderly members who need care have been able to look to the Good Samaritan as a refuge. To lose such an institution would only add to our nation's long waiting list for overcrowded and sometimes inadequate facilities."

Lover won't trade darkness for light

DEAR ABBY: For four years, I was in love with a married man. He's very handsome, well-to-do and a wonderful lover. I was single, and still am. We had to sneak around to see each other because if his wife caught him, she'd take him to the cleaners. Their marriage was in bad shape when I met him, so it's not as though I broke up his home. I can't count the times he moved out after a fight. But he always went back — "money" or "the kids" were his reasons.

Well, she finally gave him a divorce. I thought, "Hooray, now we don't have to sneak around anymore." Wrong! He still says it's not wise for us to be seen together in public.

Why? He's not married anymore, Abby. I can't understand this. He doesn't give me a reason; he says, "It's better if we're not seen together in public."

When I mention marriage, he says, "It's too soon." Abby, I love him and have never looked at another man since he came into my life.

What would you do if you were in my shoes?
BAFFLED IN BALTIMORE

ADVICE

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR BAFFLED: I'd run like the devil was after me — then I'd start to wonder who the other woman was.

DEAR ABBY: Why do the news media report that someone is "elderly," when age has absolutely nothing to do with the news item? Example:

On television: "Hotel fire in Miami claimed many lives. Most were elderly."

In the newspaper: "A house at such-and-such an address is on display for its artistic decorations. It is owned by an elderly woman."

Abby, are elderly people different or less valued than other humans? Talk about discrimination! Elderly people pay taxes, spend money to keep the economy going and make doctors richer. So, does being elderly make them less of a citizen?

I suggest that the media just report the news and leave out the word "elderly." What do you think?

OFFENDED

DEAR OFFENDED: Sorry you're offended; there's no need to be. Describing someone as "elderly" is not intended as an insult or put-down. It merely gives the reader more information about the person referred to in the news item. And in some cases, were it not for the age, it wouldn't be newsworthy. Example: "15-year-old girl to wed elderly man." The story went on to say that the groom was 78 years old. A news item simply stating that a 15-year-old girl was getting married would not have been newsworthy.

Advancement in your chosen field of endeavor is likely in the year ahead. You might be assigned responsibilities others avoid. They will test your mettle, but also reward you.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your organizational abilities could be a shade or two sharper than usual today, so use this to your advantage. Starting with priority projects, begin to put your affairs in order. Cancer, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $1.25 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) In order to bring things to a successful conclusion today it will be up to you to guide the endeavor step by step. Don't leave end results to chance.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your powers of observation could be especially sharp today and this is well and good, provided you don't point things out to others which they would rather not see.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your possibilities for personal gain look rather good today. In fact, if you're involved with a group and something fortuitous develops, you might be the one who comes out best.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Taking pride in what you do is an admirable quality, but being proud purely for vanity sake is something else. Be able to distinguish the difference today.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You'll operate more effectively today if you do not call attention to yourself for your intentions. If outside influences get involved in your endeavor, they could throw you off course.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Being a loner today isn't likely to measure up to your expectations. Although you might think you'll enjoy a little solitude, you'll be much happier participating in activities with friends.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) An important objective can be achieved today if you have total dedication. Don't start questioning your convictions, because it could grind you to a halt.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) This is a good day for involvements that require a creative touch and a dash of imagination. Throw the switch if you've got a bright idea you want to spotlight.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Being inflexible today could definitely work to your disadvantage, especially if you're involved in a joint venture. Strive to be open-minded and intellectually mobile.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) In matters where you allow your feelings to dominate, your judgment could suffer today. Keep emotions out of your decisions and view things from a logical perspective.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your greatest feelings of gratification today are likely to come from situations where you are truly being of service to others. Don't be reluctant to put yourself out a bit if a pal needs help.

Evaluate possibilities for putting one or more of your creative ideas to work in the year ahead. You possess the potential to originate an enterprise that could be very rewarding.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If you have to make decisions today that affect others as well as yourself, let your compassionate instincts guide you. Sometimes softness represents true strength. Major changes are ahead for Cancer in the coming year. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today. Mail $1.25 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) The requirements of those you love are likely to take precedence over your own interests today. In situations where you feel truly needed, no sacrifice will be too great.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your ability to view things from an unprejudiced perspective could find useful expressions today. You might end up being a middle person in several arrangements.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You're entitled to do something nice for yourself occasionally so why not make this one of those days. If conditions warrant it, splurge on yourself a bit.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You won't have to make any special efforts today to attract attention to yourself. Whether you walk into a room full of people or just walk down a quiet street, you'll be noticed.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Instinctively today you might feel it is better to give than to receive. Interestingly, however, your unselfishness may enable you to take in more than you give out.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Realistic hopefulness is the greatest gift you have to give to others today. You can help friends envision things as they could be and not just as they are.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Instead of seeking counsel from associates today regarding career matters, tune into your own intuition. Your hunches could be extremely revealing and helpful.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) The valuable lessons you learn today may not come from books but from personal experiences. Put this knowledge on file, so that you can access it for a constructive use later.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) In joint endeavors today be more supportive than assertive. If you encourage your counterpart to use his or her best abilities, mutual benefits will result.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your greatest asset today is your spirit of cooperation. A willingness to work with others will stimulate a similar response from persons with whom you'll be involved. Togetherness succeeds.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Involvements that challenge your imagination and creativity could be the ones you'll find most pleasing and rewarding today, especially if you're working with a nimble-witted cohort.

Declarer was unlucky. Not that four hearts was such a great contract. Many times declarer would have to lose two tricks with today's trump-suit combination. But the trumps did behave well. The bad luck that declarer experienced was that West, on opening lead, did not hold Q-J-10-x of spades. With that holding, West would have led a top spade. Instead, West led the king of clubs, and that was enough to set four hearts. Declarer won the ace and played ace and a heart, but East won the king and played queen and a club to give West a ruff. What clues did West have that helped him find the bold lead of the club king? First of all, the opponents' bidding indicated that East held a few high cards. (Remember, North had only invited game with two no-trump.) Next, a lead of a spade or a diamond was not particularly attractive. Finally, if the king of clubs was successful, it would almost surely set the game contract. Partner needed only the club ace. If he lacked the club ace, he might have the queen plus a quick trump entry (either ace or king). If West himself held more high cards, it would have been riskier to lead the club king. But East was marked with about 8-11 high-card points by North's invitational bidding. Justifying the lead.

 sessions are run by bereaved parents for bereaved parents and their surviving children, and is a national, non-profit organization available to everyone, regardless of cause of death or age of child, according to Koepke.

The group meets the first and third Tuesday of every month from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Central Christian Church, 250 W. Ivanhoe Blvd., Orlando. In addition to the sibling group that meets the first Tuesday of the month, a Special Friends group meets the third Tuesday of the month. This is designed to address many of the "forgotten mourners," best friends, fiancées, co-workers and significant others.

A general bereavement group, sponsored by The Compassionate Friends, is held every other Thursday morning from 10 a.m. to noon at the All Souls Catholic Church, 800 E. Oak St., Sanford. The group is open to the newly bereaved.

Commemorative programs are also provided annually to address special occasions and special interest groups, such as Hope For The Holidays, Service of Remembrance, All Souls Day, Easter Sunrise Service, Memorial Day, POW/MIA Day and Veterans Day.

Other support groups available in Seminole County are as follows:

Widowed Person Services holds a support group at the Lake Island Recreation Center, 450 Harper St., Winter Park, on the first and third Wednesday of each month from 1:30 to 3 p.m.

WINGS (Widowed in Need of Group Support), a satellite of Widowed Persons Services, sponsors a session for younger widows, many with children still at home. The groups meet the second and fourth Wednesday of every month from 7 to 8:30 p.m. at the Fellowship Hall, First Presbyterian Church, 225 Interlachen Ave., Winter Park. Separate support groups are available for elementary aged children, teenagers and adult children whose parents have died. For information on all support groups sponsored by Widowed Persons Services, call 649-9209 24 hours a day.

Hospice of Central Florida recently began a support group which runs in eight week cycles. The group meets at the First Christian Church, South Sanford Ave., Sanford, every Tuesday morning from 10:11:30 a.m. For information, please call Bill Criss at 875-0028.

St. Mary Magdalen Catholic Church, 861 Mattland Ave., Altamonte Springs, holds its support group for bereaved every Thursday evening from 7:30 to 9 p.m. in the St. Mary Magdalen school library. For information, call Sister Carleen at 831-1212.

Dr. Wolke features a newly produced video tape and booklet entitled "Working Through Your Grief," designed to aid area residents during their recovery from grief. The video and booklet are offered free to the public through Cox-Parker Care Hand Funeral Home, Winter Park, Colonial Care Hand Funeral Home, Orlando, and Brisson Funeral Home, Sanford.

Murder in Florida's frontier

Killing Mr. Watson
 By Peter Matthiessen
 (Random House, 346 pp., $21.95)

On Oct. 24, 1910, just days after one of the worst hurricanes ever blasted ashore in Florida, and in a place where the Everglades delta and the Ten Thousand Islands stretch out to meet the Gulf of Mexico, a band of his neighbor-settlers gunned down Edgar Watson.

From this sketchy historical incident Peter Matthiessen has created a stunning and overwhelming novel, an evocative and brilliant story that is one of the best works of fiction in recent years.

The book has the feel of a historical examination. Matthiessen uses the techniques of oral history, with infrequent intrusions of material from historical accounts and spare comments on veracity from the contemporary historian-author. In so doing, he vividly recreates turn-of-the-century Florida, every bit a frontier then as the Wild West.

The people are poor whites, blacks, Indians, mulattos, outlaws on the run, most struggling to make a living, to bring a decency and order to their lives and community. At their center stands Watson, fearsome legend — the murder of Belle Starr was attributed to him — friendly neighbor, prosperous farmer, ever elusive.

"Say what you like about Mister Watson," Mamie Smallwood observes, "he looked and acted like our idea of a hero." But heroes can breed resentment as well as respect, fear and envy as well as emulation.

IN BRIEF

Lyman auto repair team finishes sixth

LONGWOOD — Robert S. Davis and Edward S. Schwarz, a two-member automotive repair team from Lyman High School, 1141 S.E. Lake Ave. in Longwood, recently placed sixth in the national finals of the Plymouth-AAA Trouble Shooting Contest in Washington, D.C.

Schwarz and Davis took top honors at the state competition at Daytona Beach in May.

At the national competition, each student was required to take a written examination on automotive service and repair a deliberately bugged 1980 Plymouth Voyager mini van.

Speed and accuracy of the repair as well as written test scores determined the final team placements.

More than $1.5 million in scholarships were awarded during the 1990 competition.

Three locals in Stetson Class of '90

DeLAND — Kendal Lynn Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald W. Jones of Sanford; Janet Irene Hauck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard F. Hauck of Sanford; and Teresa H. Markle, daughter of Nancy Huckabone of Sanford and Ernest Huckabone of Cocoa, recently graduated from Stetson University.

Markle, who received her bachelor of arts degree in art magna cum laude is a graduate of Seminole High School, 2701 Georgia Ave. in Sanford.

Hauck who received a bachelor of arts degree in elementary education, also graduated from Seminole High School.

Jones, who received a bachelor of arts degree in English with a minor in psychology was a graduate of Lake Mary High School, 655 Longwood-Lake Mary Rd. in Lake Mary.

Planetary scholarship offered

PASADENA, CA — The Planetary Society, the largest space-interest group in the world, is currently offering 20 scholarships worth $2,500 apiece.

The H. Dudley Wright International Student Contest, "Together to Mars", is designed to "inspire and to encourage creativity in the next generation of space scientists and engineers. It is open to any student born in 1973 or later who will be no older than 18 years old in 1992.

The international contest calls for a written report, between 3,000 and 10,000 words, dealing with subjects ranging from life support systems for human missions to Mars to analyses of materials that will withstand the radiation hazards of interplanetary space. The reports may be supplemented with diagrams, models or videotapes, but must be able to stand alone.

In addition to the scholarships, each of the winning entries will receive a fully-paid trip to Washington, D.C. with his or her teacher or mentor to attend the World Space Congress in August of 1992.

Final selections will be made in the fall of 1991.

For more information, write to "Together to Mars", in care of The Planetary Society, 65 N. Catalina Ave., Pasadena, California 91106.

Stiffey makes deans list

JEFFERSON CITY, TN — Sandra L. Stiffey, daughter of George and Jeanette Stiffey of Sanford, was named to the deans list of Carson-Newman College for the spring semester.

To be named to the deans list Stiffey, a graduate of Seminole High School, had to earn a grade point average of at least 3.5 on a scale of 4.0 and take at least 12 credit hours of classes.

Rabaja graduates with honors

ADA, OHIO — David R. Rabaja, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. Robert Rabaja of Altamonte Springs, recently graduated with honors from the Getty College of Arts and Sciences at Ohio Northern University. Rabaja, who graduated cum laude, earned his degree in biochemistry with minors in chemistry and sociology.

He was a member of the student chapter of the American Chemical Society and Psi Sigma Sigma, the psychology and sociology club.

Pizza to help schools

SANFORD — Seminole County public schools will be helped by money raised through a fundraising effort held recently by the five local Hungry Howies pizza restaurants.

Selling 2,286 slices of pizza for 50 cents apiece, the stores donated all the proceeds ($1,143) to the Foundation for the Advancement of our Community Through our Schools (FACTS).

The Hungry Howies' fundraiser brought $27,146.90 to schools across the state.

Reed elected vice chair of SREB

ATLANTA — Chancellor Charles B. Reed of the state university system of Florida has been elected vice chairman of the southern Regional Education Board.

Reed was selected by the board of governmental and educational leaders from the SREB states during their recent annual meeting. He also serves on SREB's Commission for Educational Quality.

Summer programs abound at UCF

ORLANDO — There are several programs happening this summer at the University of Central Florida.

The Center for Multilingual and multicultural studies will have an on-going intensive English program for international students preparing to attend a college or university in the U.S.

There will be three programs offered by the Center for Executive Development: "How to Prepare and Use an Annual Marketing Plan", which begins July 18; "Train the Trainer", a three-part seminar which begins on July 23 with a program called "How Adults Learn"; and an executive training session for health care professionals called "Effective Nursing Management" which will begin on Aug. 27.

There will be an accounting class beginning July 7.

A real estate pre-licensing school will begin July 7 and another session will begin on Aug. 11.

There are also several athletic camps, art and music classes and college-level classes for high school students offered throughout the summer.

Discount offered by National Geographic

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The National Geographic Society (NGS), in conjunction with the Department of Education's Office of Educational Technology has agreed to reduce the cost for any Florida school that chooses to join and participate in the National Geographic Kids Network.

The NGS Kids Network is a series of telecommunications-based curriculum units in science and geography for fourth through sixth graders.

Computer software, lesson plans, and printed materials have been field tested by hundreds of classrooms across the country and have been revised on the basis of classroom experience.

The Florida DOE has been observing many schools that have field tested prototypes of the program or purchased materials and recommends the use in Florida classrooms.

Teachers are being encouraged to look at the program.

For more information, call Don Gage at 202-857-7090.

WINTER SPRINGS — Jerry Klein's office is long, narrow and crowded.

The Seminole County school district's director of transportation has been on the job for less than two weeks. Though technically he doesn't start until tomorrow.

Already he is faced with a scattered mess of computer printouts, "Post-it" notes and newspapers. Somehow, though, it all seems to have a purpose. Klein can reach into the middle of the pile and extract the information he needs with barely a glance.

"I've got it all right here," he said leaning back from his seat at the conference table and reaching onto his desk to pull out a paper.

Outside his door, 300 sparkling yellow buses await drivers and routes for the new school year.

Klein who worked as a router for the Metro-Dade County Transit Authority before entering the field of school bus transportation, said with a smirk that he "knows a little about routing."

Klein has come to Seminole County from Dade County where he was operations coordinator for that school district's transportation department. There, he worked with a $35 million annual budget and administered 1,600 employees.

Still, he thinks coming to Seminole County will be a "challenging" experience.

"The chance to direct the whole department for the district will be exciting," Klein said.

students than the 27,000 who take the bus here on a fleet triple the size, Klein said he thinks he will still have plenty of work to keep him busy.

"I have to familiarize myself with everything here," he said. "I'm starting from scratch."

When Klein was first introduced to the public at a school board meeting last week by Supt. Bob Hughes, Hughes ribbed him about leaving a larger district to come to smaller, but expanding, Seminole County.

"We think that a person who could get buses through the streets of Dade County could certainly get them through Seminole County," Hughes said.

"I think so," Klein retorted. Assistant superintendent for transportation Richard Wells joked that, at least, Klein would no longer need his gun permit in Central Florida.

That lighthearted spirit is encouraging to Klein. He said there is a relaxed feeling amid the professionalism in the district.

Klein said he has been impressed with the personnel in Seminole County. The mechanics, drivers, dispatchers and support staff are all, according to Klein, professional and friendly.

"You couldn't ask for better people," he said.

Klein acknowledged there have been problems in the Seminole County school system's transportation department, but he said that what is in the past will not effect the future.

"We are going to move into the future and get things done right," he said. "We're not going to worry about the things that went on before."

He added that he has confidence in a staff that can do their jobs and still have fun.

Klein has a bachelor of arts degree from the University of Florida in English with minors in communications and broadcasting, but never pursued career goals in that area, though he is certified in the state of Florida to teach English and science at the secondary level.

He said he has held various jobs from air traffic controller to systems analyst for the Federal Aviation Administration before going to work in the transportation field.

"I just like transportation," he said.

In addition to his B.A., Klein earned a bachelor of science degree in accounting from Florida International University and a masters of business administration degree from Embry Riddle University.

Klein takes his work with the transportation of school children seriously. He has taken various continuing education courses in the supervision of transportation departments and the ever-changing routing procedures.

"It's really challenging to work the routing puzzle out," he said.

Starting over with the Basics

LAKE MARY — The Back to Basics Academy, a private school which has been in operation for two years in the Wildwood Center on C.R. 427 in Longwood recently broke ground on their new 6,400 square-foot facility in the Victoria Square shopping center on U.S. Highway 17-92 in Lake Mary.

During a private ceremony, a group of students, plastic shovels in hand, turned over the first shovels of dirt on the new school last weekend.

The new facility will include a 3,900 square foot classroom building and a 2,500 square-foot playground.

The grand opening ceremonies have been scheduled for Aug. 11 and will include appearances by Patches the Clown and an on-location broadcast by children's radio station WPRD ("the Imagination Station").

The school, which will serve students from pre-kindergarten through third grade, has space available for 72 students. Director Barbara Smith intends to keep the student-to-teacher ratio at 12 to one.

In addition to daily classes to be taught on the regular Seminole County school calendar from 7:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., the school offers remediation and private tutoring for students after school and on weekends.

The school more than quadrupled its enrollment following the first year of operation. This next year in the new center Back to Basics Academy will have more than three times the space as it had in the past, but Smith said there will be no problem filling the available spaces.

Smith emphasized that the academy was not a day care center, that there are classes taught which emphasize basic learning skills and help teach youngsters self-esteem, proper social skills and self-discipline.

The new school will include a state-of-the-art playground with a Fibar System cushion surface as well as an area for sand and water play and a garden.

There are currently summer programs available at the Longwood location.

Getting the word out about Pre K

By VICKI DeSORMIER

SANFORD — For some reason, the people who need it the most aren't getting the word about the pre-kindergarten programs available to four year olds in the Seminole County school district.

"We're looking to get the word out to the parents of our educationally disadvantaged youngsters," said Pat Clark, a Pre-kindergarten resource teacher and coordinator of the early intervention program in Seminole County.

Educationally disadvantaged children are, according to Clark, those who are living in poverty, those living with only one parent, those living with a poorly educated mother, those who have language problems or who are from non-English speaking homes, those who are living with teenage parents, those with emotional problems or physical handicaps and those who may have experienced racial or ethnic prejudice.

"These parents are less likely to read the newspaper or to watch television news programs," said Clark. "We have to find other ways of reaching them."

Clark said that she found the "mountains of literature" they have distributed in the past to be "less than effective" because the people they most want to help are the least likely to want to or know how to read pamphlets.

She said that short, informative fliers seem to be the answer to some of the division's communication problems.

"We're working on putting some fliers up in Landtronats, doing PSAs on afternoon television and getting the word to top 40 and popular radio stations," she said.
