Demotion Advised For Former Prison Chief

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Inmates at Sumter Correctional Institution near Bushnell were abused by guards and the former superintendent should be punished, state Inspector General Ray Lambert says. Wayne Helms should be demoted from his current job on the Department of Corrections headquarters staff in Tallahassee and should not be assigned direct responsibility for and supervision of inmates for at least a year, Lambert said in a report to Gov. Bob Graham.

WORLD

IN BRIEF

Biggest Battle Since WWII Rages In The Persian Gulf

United Press International
One of the greatest land battles in modern history raged in the Persian Gulf today with Iraqi troops fending off Iranian human wave suicide charges in a brutal struggle that could decide the war.

Both sides claimed to have the upper hand in the fighting near the Iraqi oil port of Basra. Each country reported thousands of enemy casualties and hundreds of prisoners.

The stakes in the battle, stretching along a 20-mile front 6 miles inside Iraq were enormous. Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini has vowed to topple the secular government of Iraqi President Saddam Hussein. Other conservative Arab states fear if Iran succeeds, it will be the first step in a drive to spread Khomeini's fiery Islamic fundamentalism through the oil-producing Persian Gulf.

Deer Hunt Off

FORT LAUDERDALE (UPI)—Fish and game officers acting on the last-minute order of a judge stopped today hundreds of angry hunters ready to begin a "mercy hunt" of 2,000 starving deer in the Everglades.

No deer in the hunt area west of Fort Lauderdale were killed after Florida Fish and Game Commission officers in helicopters and airboats rushed to halt sportsmen already camped out in the Everglades, said Lt. B.F. Lampton of the game commission.

"There hasn't been a problem. These guys aren't going out there and starting something (that would upset hunt opponents)," said game officer Rick Lyman. "These hunters got a lot of time and money in this. They're super frustrated at this point."

State officials at first feared they would not be able to stop all the hunters waiting for 6 a.m. when the hunt had been scheduled to start. About 1,000 hunters had been expected to participate in the four-day hunt.

Hunters dressed in boots, baseball caps, army fatigues, overalls, camouflage suits and t-shirts milled around angrily at game commission checkpoints after they heard of the last minute temporary injunction ordered by U.S. District Judge Eugene Spellman late Thursday.

Judge Spellman issued a temporary restraining order stopping the hunt until 5 p.m. Saturday in a ruling handed down at 11:40 p.m. Thursday. The decision, six hours and 20 minutes before the hunt was to begin, stunned officials of the state Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission and drew cheers from a handful of opponents who looked on during a five-hour hearing.

Spellman said that would give him time to appoint a panel of experts to go out into the Everglades and then recommend to him whether the hunt should be held. Spellman was the sixth judge opponents of the hunt had asked to delay it, and the first to do so.

Game officials say if about 2,000 deer aren't killed, the entire herd of 5,500 may die of starvation caused by high water which has forced them to high ground where they have to compete for food.

Opponents said they want to move the deer to locations where food is more plentiful, and added the situation was not as dire as the state had described.

Kenneth Gilliland, an attorney for the commission, had said if the hunt were delayed it could take as long as two weeks to set up another one and that could be "devastating" for the starving deer.

Pruning Poinsettia Produces Flowering Plant

In order to have a compact poinsettia plant at flowering time, it is necessary to prune the plant several times during the growing season. The new growth, after it is 12 inches long, should be cut back, leaving 4 leaves on each shoot.

This operation should be repeated every time the new growths develop until about Sept. 10. Pruning in this manner will produce a nice compact plant with many flowers. Pruning after Sept. 10 may interfere with flowering, as the plants set their buds soon after Oct. 10. Poinsettia scab can also be a problem.

Desmond Hastings

Urban Horticulturist

It is more commonly found on the double red varieties. Scab appears as conspicuous, raised lesions or cankers on the stem or cane. The lesions are usually circular but in advanced stages they combine to form large, irregular areas. In severe cases the plant will lose its leaves when the stem is girdled by the cankers. Cankers may appear also as spots on the leaf petioles.

Scab is most prevalent in rainy weather and scab-intected branches should be pruned and burned as soon as they are noted. The plants should be sprayed with a copper fungicide to prevent further spread.

The time of bloom of poinsettias is influenced by the length of day. Shorter days initiate blooming. Periods of dark, rainy weather in late September and early October often will shorten the days sufficiently to cause the plants to set buds and flower early. Also, temperatures at night influence flowering. The best flowers develop when the night temperatures range from 60 to 62, degrees F. during the first two to three weeks of October.

ABCISION OF HIBISCUS BUDS

The Chinese hibiscus is probably the most popular and widely planted shrub in tropical areas of the world. It is a native of China but came to us by way of Hawaii. There is perhaps no other flowering shrub in existence today that matches it in range, size and shape of flowers and the many combinations of shades of color.

Hibiscus usually have few problems compared to roses. Under certain conditions some varieties of hibiscus either fail to open or drop their flower buds. The degree to which this takes place is quite variable, but, at times, it may noticeably reduce the flowering of affected varieties.

Plants that are unhealthy because of insect or nematode attack or a deficiency of one or more of the plant food elements may drop flower buds prematurely. Injury to unopened flower buds by aphids and thrips can cause bud drop. Poor drainage or excessive drought may cause plants to drop flower buds.

Flower bud drop appears to be a decided varietal characteristic; that is, some varieties under the same growing conditions will drop or fail to open flower buds while other varieties growing nearby consistently open their flowers. Many of the double varieties are more susceptible to flower bud drop than the single varieties.

Campers Add Spiritual Enrichment To Fun Week

Youth pastor Bill Long of the Chuluota First Assembly of God Church, has been "batching" it this week while his wife, Sherry, escorted four young ladies from our area to the denomination's campgrounds near Lakeland.

Enjoying a week of swimming, crafts and spiritual enrichment, and all returning today from an all-around great week are Laura Whiddon of Oviedo, Kathy Shogran and Jamie Venson of Chuluota, and Susi Childers of Geneva.

The mighty men's softball team from Geneva, known as the Geneva Merchants, has done it again. They won the Thursday night Red Bug Park League championship game last Thursday night.

According to Manager Hank Heath "the game was nip and tuck" all the way with the final score 17 to 16.

One of the Geneva merchants who sponsored the team this year, Lalun Tindall, is hosting a buffet Friday evening, July 16, at her place of business, the Leisure Time Bar.

The team will be receiving a trophy for their fourth year in a row win later on this summer from the Metro Orlando League.

Don't forget the final film in a series to be shown by the Lighthouse Youth Ranch, "The Image of The Beast," will be shown free to the public at the community hall Saturday, July

Director of the youth facility, Don Rose, and wife, Connie, say that the ranch has been staying filled to capacity lately. The former Geneva Hotel can house 12 teenagers who are placed by the state in the Youth for Christ owned youth ranch, that is used as a "crisis center".

Connie Rose says, "We have been taking special trips this summer to some of the local attractions like Wet-n-Wild, Disney World, and the skating rink, as well as the swimming pool behind the office of the Youth for Christ organization on Gore Street in Orlando."

Any adults in our community who are interested in volunteering time at the youth ranch may contact Mr. Rose by calling 349-5099.

Lucy Seems Cool, But Sincere

DEAR ABBY: I have a fine 35-year-old son who has been happily married for 11 years to a lovely young woman. They live thousands of miles from me, so we keep in touch by letters and telephone. Our daughter-in-law (I'll call her Lucy) is always respectful and polite to me. Now, here's the rub:

When Lucy writes, she starts off with "Hi." I call this a strange salutation. When she first married our son, she asked if she could address me by my first name, saying she wouldn't feel comfortable calling me "Mother." I said it would be fine with me, but so far she has never addressed me by my first name — or anything else.

Also, whenever they send greeting cards, and incidentally they never forget an occasion, the cards are conspicuously devoid of the word "love" — it's always "special thoughts" or "best wishes." (I'm sure Lucy selects these cards.)

Please understand, Abby, her thoughtfulness is appreciated, but her lack of warmth bothers me. Should I confront her directly? I am reluctant to do so because she can be touchy. I would appreciate your objective viewpoint.

PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: Even though Lucy is not as warm and outgoing as you would like her to be, be grateful that she's thoughtful, polite and attentive. Some people have difficulty showing affection. Count your blessings and don't force a confrontation. Lucy may be cool, but at least she's sincere.

DEAR ABBY: A few months ago I received a package of personalized labels in the mail. With it was a letter asking for a "donation" to a veterans group. I did not order these labels and didn't need them, so I returned

Soon after, another group sent me a box of greeting cards with envelopes to match. With it was a letter asking for a donation. Although they were rather nice, I didn't need them. I didn't want to be bothered rewrapping and mailing them back, and I would have felt guilty using them without paying for them, so I just threw them out. Then I started getting letters from the group who sent them, reminding me that I "owed" it for the greeting cards I did not return.

I am not an insensitive person, and I give to charities of my choice, but I resent getting unsolicited "gifts" in the mail and then being dunned when I don't send a donation.

Just what obligation does a person have when something arrives in the mail that was not ordered?

J.S.

DEAR J.S.: None. Unsolicited items that arrive in the mail become the property of the recipient. They need not be acknowledged or returned.

Getting married? Whether you want a formal church wedding or a simple, "do-your-own-thing" ceremony, get Abby's new booklet. Send $1 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped (37 cents) envelope to: Abby, Wedding Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.

RUSTY GATES

Leonard Lucas (left) and Todd Revels (above) are two of the most feared sluggers in the Little Major League. Sanford Nationals' dynamic duo, however, has its off days too as can be seen by these two rusty gate swings. Revels, who hit four home runs in the recent Sub-District Tournament won by the Nationals, and Lucas, who clobbered four, hope they have more swing and less rust in Monday's District 14 battle against the Sanford Americans at 8 p.m. at Fort Mellon Park in Sanford.

Clock Strikes Midnight For 4 First-Round NFL Picks

United Press International
According to the NFL Players Association, four first-round draft choices won't be going to camp for the summer.

The association maintains there will be no more individual negotiating by players after last night's expiration of the Basic Agreement and unsigned rookies aren't eligible to report to training camp.

Unsigned veterans can accept only an offer tendered before the deadline, or an automatic 10 per cent pay hike.

Five first-round draft picks came to terms Thursday, leaving just four No. 1 picks without signed contracts.

The New York Giants signed running back Butch Woolfolk of Michigan, the Miami Dolphins signed guard Roy Foster of Southern California, the Chicago

Bears signed quarterback Jim McMahon, the Tampa Bay Buccaneers signed Penn State guard Sean Farrell, and the Seattle Seahawks signed defensive lineman Jeff Bryant of Clemson.

The four unsigned players are Stanford running back Darrin Nelson (Minnesota), Penn State guard Mike Munchak (Houston), Mississippi State defensive end Glen Collins (Cincinnati) and Southern California running back Marcus Allen (Oakland).

McMahon reluctantly signed a three-year contract with the Bears.

"I'm not happy at all," said McMahon. "It's the only option I've got. If I want to be in camp, I've got to sign."

The Giants also signed veteran strong safety Bill Currier and St. Louis signed rookie defensive ends David Galloway and Rusty Guilbeau and rookie tackle

Football

James "Tootle" Robbins, the Cardinals' only unsigned player is veteran safety Ken Greene, who has asked to be traded.

Seattle also signed veteran running back Theotis Brown and tackle Dennis Boyd and extended the contracts of quarterback Jim Zorn, guard Edwin Bailey, tight end Mike Tice, fullback Dan Doornink and defensive back Kerry Justin.

Washington signed tight end Don Warren and rookie cornerback Vernon Dean and Dallas signed its No. 2 draft pick, linebacker Jeff Rohrer of Yale, leaving veteran defensive end Ed Jones as the club's only holdout.

Denver announced the signings of three veterans, including nine-year guard Paul Howard. Also signing were running back Dave Preston and center Billy Bryan, who were both in the option year of their contracts.

San Diego signed free-agent Harold Jackson, 36, a 15-year veteran wide receiver.

New England came to terms with veteran free-agent wide receiver Carlos Pennywell.

Minnesota signed eight 1982 draft choices but failed to reach agreement with Nelson, whose agent says he will probably play for another team. The draft choices who were signed included tackle Terry Tausch of Texas, linebacker Greg Storr of Boston College, linebacker Kirk Harmon of Pacific, safety Bryan Howard of Tennessee State, wide receiver Gerald Luceur of Temple, guard Curtis Rouse of Chattanooga, and running back Hobson Milner of Cincinnati.

The Vikings also announced they have also signed two veteran free agents, leaving two draft picks and one veteran free agent unsigned. The three unsigned players, are Nelson, draft pick Jim Fahnhorst of Minnesota and veteran quarterback Steve Dils.

The Vikings signed veteran tight end Bob Bruer and safety Walt Williams.

William "Bubba" Paris, a 6-foot-6, 295-pound tackle from Michigan, signed four one-year contracts with San Francisco. Paris was the 49ers' No. 2 draft pick.

The New York Jets signed their No. 2 draft pick, tackle Reggie McElroy of West Texas State and tight end Tom Coombs of Idaho.

New York also signed freeagent cornerback David Dumars from Southeast Louisiana. The two left unsigned are safety Darryl Henthill from West Texas State and guard Tom Carlstrom from Nebraska.

Los Angeles signed Barry Redden, a running back from Richmond who was the team's first pick, to a series of three 1-year contracts Thursday.

University of Pittsburgh's Darrell Gissendanner has signed a free-agent contract with the Steelers.

In another development, Houston placed quarterback Kenny Stabler on waivers, saying the 14-year veteran no longer fit into the team's offensive scheme.

Houston will go with Gifford Nielsen and rookie Oliver Luck at quarterback this season.

Clampett Fires 67, Leads By 2 Strokes

TROON, Scotland (UPI) — The wind got up and cold spread through the fingers and most of the 150-strong field at the 111th British Open championship had cause to regret predictions of an easy ride over the 7,667-yard Royal Troon course.

After the sun beamed benignly during practice, the weather changed capriciously for Thursday's opening round of the $450,000 tournament, turning the back nine holes into a painful sting for some of the favorites.

At the end of the day, Bobby Clampett, a curly-haired Californian appropriately sporting knickers, celebrated his British Open debut at the top of the leader board with a 5-under-par 67, while the chances of former champion Jack Nicklaus (77), Lee Trevino (78) and Tom Weiskopf (79) went blowing in the wind.

"To be quite honest, the round I played today is definitely in the top five rounds I've ever played," said Clampett. "It was a very difficult day, and for me it was kind of a phenomenal day."

But Tom Watson, bidding to become the first man since Trevino in 1971 to complete a U.S. and a British Open double in the same year, was poised ominously in second place at 69, alongside South African Nick Price.

"I started off shaky with three or four bad drives," said Watson. "I kept myself very calm out there and made more than my share of putts. A 69 at Troon is a very good score today. I'm happy about the way I played, except for a few drives, and I'm happy the way

I scored."

Behind them, deadlocked at 70, came three Europeans — West German Bernhard Langer, last year's runner-up, Irishman Des Smyth and Scotsman Ken Brown.

They were a stroke ahead of seven players including three former winners — 52-year-old Arnold Palmer, who won the first of his two British Opens on this same course 20 years ago, 1976 title holder Johnny Miller and Sevy Ballesteros of Spain, who won the title in 1979.

Also at 70 was American Craig

Stadler, leading money winner of the U.S. tour with $320,000.

"At one point the fingers on my left hand got a little numb from being cold," said Palmer, who wore a bright tartan hat he referred to as being "a wee gift."

The key to Clampett's success lay in his performance on the difficult back nine which the 22-year-old Californian covered in 35, 1 under par.

In fact, only four other men — Price, Stadler, Langer and Paul Way of Britain — managed to better the 36 par for the last nine holes.

Dr. Lamb

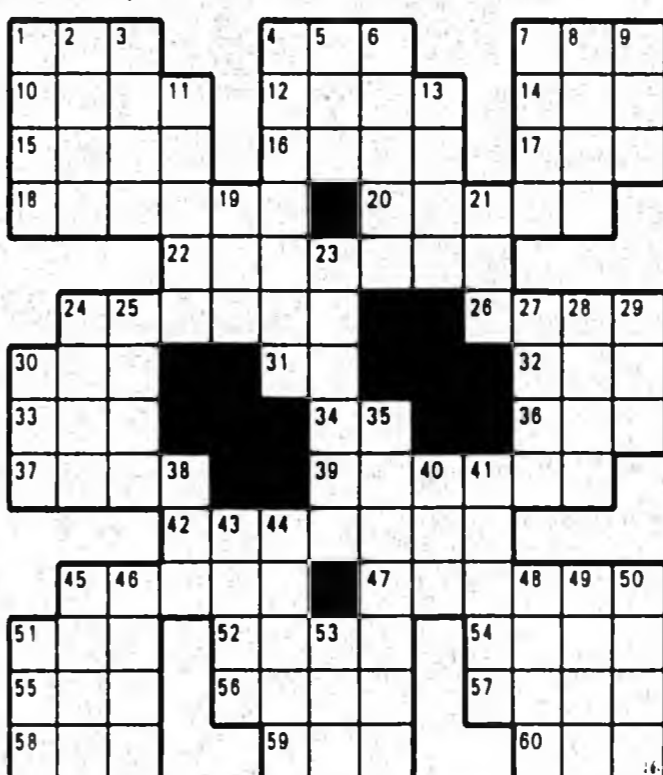

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 46 years old and have a fibroid tumor. My uterus has been large for more than a year. I don't have any trouble with pain or anything as yet, only my period lasts longer than it used to — eight or nine days. Is this from the fibroid tumor and the large uterus or my age?

My gynecologist doesn't speak of any danger but I am concerned. What will happen if my uterus stays large? Is there anything that the doctor can give me to make the swelling go out of my uterus? If I were to have surgery would this be a partial hysterectomy or a complete one? Would a partial hysterectomy reduce my sex desire?

DEAR READER — Your gynecologist probably has a real good idea about the real cause of your increased bleeding and you should ask him about it. I presume you did mention it to him. If not, go right back and find out about it.

The bleeding could be from the fibroid. When they are just under the lining of the uterus they can cause increased bleeding. But you could have bleeding from other causes or from a change in hormone balance at your age.

Your doctor may not have said anything about the fibroid because they usually shrink when a woman goes through the menopause. He may want to see if that happens in your case before making a decision on what needs to be done.

For Saturday, July 17, 1982

YOUR BIRTHDAY July 17, 1982
Your financial picture should become more steady and secure this coming year. Your growth won't be gigantic, but you will move ahead before your next birthday.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You will be helpful to others today, but you will prefer that it's your idea rather than theirs. However, when asked you'll reluctantly assist them anyway. Predictions of what's in store for you for each season following your birth date and where your luck and opportunities lie are in your Astro-Graph. Mail $1 for each radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You could suffer some minor inconveniences today when another holds you to a promise you make in a weak moment. Smile and carry on.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You can accomplish your purposes today, but perhaps not on your first efforts. However, if you want something strongly enough you'll try again and succeed.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Take serious situations seriously today, but don't let them overwhelm you. You can handle whatever needs doing, provided you don't get uptight.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Conditions could be similar today to those which once caused you a problem. However, if you think your moves through carefully you'll not repeat the mistake.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If you are involved in an activity with friends today where shared expenses are an element, don't let petty points become issues. Pay the extras with a grin.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) This is another one of those days when you may not be able to rely upon anyone but yourself. Rather than seek helpers, do what needs doing alone.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) If you are working today put your full attention on your work, but if you are playing devote your mind to having fun. Don't try to mix one with the other.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Should you feel inclined to gamble on situations today, don't take chances on things which others control, only on that which you personally direct. Even then, be careful.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Immediately smooth out any minor disagreements that you may have today with your mate. If attended to promptly, nothing more will come of them.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Even though you may be reluctant to do so, this is a good day to square-up accounts with someone who is indebted to you. It can be handled tactfully.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You're good at sorting things out for others today, but you may not be as competent in managing your personal affairs. Use the same skills in both areas.

covers East's seven and you lead a diamond. Unfortunately for your peace of mind, East wins that diamond and leads ace and deuce of trumps. West chucks a heart and a diamond. The opponents have their three tricks and you need the rest. You can ruff one diamond in dummy and get rid of the other by either taking a club finesse or playing three rounds of clubs and dropping the queen.

Can you count the hand? A nearly positive affirmative is the answer. West probably started with 3-1-5-4 distribution. Do you see a squeeze if that is the case?

Just play three rounds of hearts, ruffing the third one. West will discard on the third heart. He won't be able to chuck a diamond since that will allow you to ruff one diamond in dummy and set up the other one so he will chuck a club.

Now East and West are each down to three clubs. Just play ace-king and a third club and you will ruff out the queen irrespective of which opponent holds it. Dummy will score the final tricks with his remaining trump and the last club. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Got A Little Extra Time? — Volunteer

By MICHEAL BEHA
Herald Staff Writer

Volunteering — it's a part of the American way of doing things.

Whether it's taking a group of Girl Scouts on an overnight outing, helping a 4-Her finish his first project, or showing a group of grade school kids around the zoo, volunteering is part of virtually everyone's life.

It provides the volunteers with a good feeling of giving. And for the recipients, it provides much-needed services that might otherwise be impossible.

At the Central Florida Zoological Society, for example, volunteers make up an integral part of the staff. Thirty-six people currently serve as docents at the zoo, taking groups on tours, participating in the zoo's outreach programs, and serving as goodwill ambassadors.

The docents' training consists of a seven-week course in basic zoology. After that, they must take three examinations — two written and a tour they lead — to qualify, Tom Williams, the zoo's education director said.

Most of the zoo's current docents are women. "They come from all age groups and very different backgrounds," Williams said. The youngest docent is 18 years old, although Williams said he can use anyone over 16 years of age.

Besides tours, docents are also involved in the zoo's animal encounter programs.

"We take some of the critters to public areas," he said. "That way people get to see a skunk up close and personal and see that snakes aren't really slimy."

About 150 people work as volunteers at the Central Florida Regional Hospital (CFRH), according to hospital spokesman Kay Batholomew.

Included in those duties are staffing the hospital's information desk, running the gift shop, moving patients to and from the hospital's X-ray and CAT scanning rooms, patient contacts, and recovery and emergency room assistance.

Volunteers man the information desk from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., delivering flowers, directing visitors, giving out patient information, and answering phones.

The patient contact, or "sunshine" service is offered Monday through Saturday from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. and includes delivering mail to patients and watering plants as well as offering them traditional items such as candy, toilet articles, and writing paper.

The hospital's volunteer services are expanding since the opening of the new hospital.

One new service is volunteer assistance in the recovery room to keep the information desk posted on the condition of patients and to transport them back to their rooms. Mrs. Bartholomew said the volunteers donate a total of 28,000 hours annually at CFRH.

Where do those volunteers come from? They can be found just about anywhere, but very frequently from the Retired Service Volunteer Program (RSVP).

RSVP acts as a referral agency for volunteers aged 60 and over.

"Our volunteers work at 49 public service agencies and schools throughout the county," Joan Madison, RSVP's executive editor, said.

"We have about 350 volunteers in the program," Mrs. Madison said. "Our volunteers work about 7,000 hours per month."

The oldest volunteer is 89 years old and there are 30 who are 80 or older.

"There is one thing we have different from a referral agency," she said. We keep tabs on our people. We provide transportation for them and have regular get-togethers."

Mrs. Madison said the volunteers provide necessary services to many agencies that have been hard hit by the federal budget cuts and the curtailment of the Comprehensive Employment Training Act programs.

In addition to helping those agencies, the volunteers also receive something special.

"Volunteering gives our people a reason for living," Mrs. Madison said. "It adds a spark to their lives."

Live Reporting Thrives On ABC-TV News Set

DEAR DICK: This question has tormented me for some time. Whenever I watch the news on ABC, I notice what appears to be a bustling newsroom in the background. Are those people placed there to create an impression of studious journalism, or are they really working? STILLMAN GROVER, Kalamazoo, Mich.

A bit of both. News programs have to have a set of some kind, and they also have to get the news somewhere. ABC combines both of those necessities and uses an actual newsroom as a set. But it is a practical newsroom and the people you see are really going about their jobs of gathering news.

DEAR DICK: On a recent magazine there was a picture of Brooke Shields and she was wearing a wedding band. Is she married and, if so, whom to? SUSAN MICKELBORG, Lethbridge, Alberta, Can.

Brooke is still single.

DEAR DICK: My sister and I were trying to remember some of the TV series that Hope Lange played in. My sister said she played the mother on "Gentle Ben," but I said she didn't. WILLIAM D. MILLER, Vancouver, Wash.

Hope was only on two series — "The Ghost and Mrs. Muir," from 1968 to 1970, and "The New Dick Van Dyke Show," from 1971 to 1974. Beth Brickell was the lady on "Gentle Ben."

DEAR DICK: Some of my girlfriends and I used to be (maybe still are) fans of Tony Franciosa. We knew he was married to Shelley Winters at one time. Why didn't she mention him in her book? C.B., Bay City, Mich.

Be patient. Shelley's first book only took her up to a certain point in her life. The next book will, she says, bring her up to the present, and Tony should be included in that.

DEAR DICK: My brother and I had an argument about the character on "Love, Sidney." I want to know if Sidney is supposed to be gay. My brother said he is a gay, but I think he is not. Who is right? JAN CHAPMAN, Monett, Mo.

Your brother is right, but they are soft-pedaling that aspect of the show. In fact, it may be phased out entirely soon, but it was an integral part of the original concept of the show.

DEAR DICK: I was born in Vermont and I would like to know the name of the lake where the movie "On Golden Pond" was filmed. MRS. HOWARD MCGOVERN, Ventura, Calif.

Networks Clamor For Royal Love Story

By KENNETH R. CLARK
UPI TV Reporter

NEW YORK (UPI) — Time was when the average biographer at least waited until his subject had died before he started spelling out the details of his life, but that was before television. Now the subject barely has time to grow up.

Britain's Prince Charles and his "Lady Di" were married less than a year ago, but two American networks already are racing each other to get their story on the tube.

ABC is tooling up for "Charles and Diana: A Royal Love Story," with David Robb and Caroline Bliss in the title roles. Not to be outdone, CBS is working on a Hallmark Hall of Fame presentation to be titled "The Royal Romance of Charles and Diana."

CBS at least has the edge in terms of off-camera authenticity.

Hallmark's Lady Diana Spencer is Catherine Oxenberg — a real-life distant cousin to Prince Charles since, through the lineage of her mother, Princess Elizabeth of Yugoslavia, she is related to the royal houses of Great Britain, Greece and Russia.

Christopher Baines, a relative unknown who resembles a compact model of the Prince of Wales, will portray Charles, with Stewart Granger, Dana Wynter, Olivia DeHavilland and Ray Milland in the roles of his various close friends and relatives.

But the soul of the CBS effort is producer Linda Yellen who has been running her film crew through its paces at various luxurious English-style mansions on New York's exquisitely wooded and manicured Long Island for the past month.

"This has been one of the most complex films to put together that I've ever done," she said. "It has three times as many locations as a normal TV movie, three times as many speaking parts because of all the servants and relations and what not, and there are millions of dollars worth of furnishings which we rented. "It's great fun for all of us because it's giving us a taste of a lifestyle we've never been exposed to."

When Linda Yellen calls a film "complex," she knows what she's talking about. She also produced the controversial Holocaust movie, "Playing for Time," which roused a storm of protest from the Jewish community when PLO activist Vanessa Redgrave was chosen for the starring role.

Ms. Yellen weathered that one to critical acclaim, and so far, there have been no similar rumbles of protest from Buckingham Palace.

"They've not been in contact with us," she said. "We wish they would be. We mean this as a kind of present with great love to the royal family. They've captured our hearts. I don't think we've gotten so excited about a political family since the Kennedys."

Down a stately hall in the nearly deserted 78-year-old mansion which was providing the film crew with a choice of 30 royally furnished rooms as sets, the movie's Prince Charles was rehearsing a scene with his diminutive Lady Di.

The scene brought out the fan as well as the impatient biographer in Ms. Yellen, who admitted she stayed up all night last July 29 to watch the real Prince Charles wed the real Lady Diana in ceremonies televised live from London.

"There's something about her, even though she's English, that seems real American," she said. "She's kind of gutsy and speaks her own mind. She's only 20, but she's brought about changes already and I think everybody's rooting for her."

If the Nielsens join the rooting section next fall, that will be satisfaction enough for Ms. Yellen.

After all, the genesis for a sequel was born June 20. Given the frantic pace of television, it's never too early to start thinking about a star for the title role in something called "Son of Charles and Diana."

It wasn't Vermont, or else you might have recognized it. It was shot in and around Winnepesaukee Lake, N.H.

DEAR DICK: I recently saw the 1960 movie "Midnight Lace," with Doris Day and Rex Harrison. John Gavin was also in it, but I did not see his name listed in the credits. Did he use a different name then? Also, is Lorenzo Lamas of "Falcon Crest" the son of Fernando Lamas? CYNTHIA HALL, Rock Hill, S.C.

In the credits I have for "Midnight Lace," Gavin's name is listed third, right after Miss Day and Harrison. And, yes, the Lamas boys are father and son.

We recently watched a show with Marty Robbins. Is Marty Robbins his real name? Where is he from? And can you tell me if he was in the 3812 Q.M. company stationed with the First Army in France, Germany and Belgium during World War II? MRS. JUNE WHITFIELD, Neillsville, Wis.

Marty Robbins — that's his real name — was born in Glendale, Calif., and grew up in Phoenix, Ariz. During World War II, he served in the Navy.

The oldest road in the US is the El Camino Real, which was established in 1581. It runs from Santa Fe to Chihuahua, Mexico and is today known as Highway 85.

By 1985, all cars may be required by law to achieve an average of 27.5 miles per gallon.

Stars Who Stand Up For A Cause

Programs heavily spiked with rough stuff have spawned a plethora of studies — with more in the works — citing television as an inciter of violence. Is there a flip side to the question of television's influence? Countless actors and actresses hope so and take to the home screens occasionally to speak out for causes they cherish.

Ina Balin's cause is for the children left adrift by the Vietnam war. Because she was a participant in the rescue of a plane-load of children as the Viet Cong advanced on the orphanage where she was working as a volunteer, she wrote a book, "The Children of An Lac."

She cheered the day it was signed as a CBS movie but said, after the first showing: "It was good, but not enough. The movie should be seen again." Now it will. "The Children of An Lac" gets its repeat performance Saturday, July 24 on CBS.

Betty White, known for her acid wit on the "Mary Tyler Moore" reruns, shows up as her true self on the talk-show circuit, championing love, respect and decent treatment for animals. She campaigns for good zoo conditions as well as humane projects to alleviate the lot of abandoned pets.

John Hillerman of CBS's "Magnum, P.I." says: "Adjusting to the death of her husband, Allen Ludden, certainly hasn't been easy for Betty. But she's kept up her work for animals and, as a friend, I'm certainly very proud of her."

His usual audiences know big George Kennedy as the rugged individualist in the "Airport" movies or more recently as the host of ABC's "Counterattack: Crime in America." But viewers saw a new side of him when he went on the televised "Hour of Power" religious service to speak for his pastor and friend Dr. Robert Schuller, the program's founder. Kennedy affirmed what Schuller has been saying — viewer donations are off alarmingly. Kennedy also founded a funding group of his own for the cause.

Schuller, of course, is a familiar face on television. In addition to "Hour of Power," originating from his church, The Crystal Cathedral in Garden Grove, Calif., he is a frequent guest and panelist on talk shows, discussing how some "religious" programs are not what they purport to be.

Invariably he is introduced as "the only main-line Protestant minister whose services are televised around the world" (175 stations plus the Armed Services Network). An accredited seminary graduate, he is an ordained minister of the oldest denomination in the United States. The Dutch Reformed Church. The church pays the only salary he needs, he says, and the donations for "Hour of Power" are for air time.

Cable Courses Improve Systems ... To A Degree

By ANNFERRAR

America's booming cable television industry is constantly outgrowing its shoes. Cable-system operators are screaming for skilled technicians and engineers to wire their franchises while cable networks are crying for creative programming people and efficient administrators and managers. As the number of national satellite-delivered networks increases, so does the need for personnel. Right now salaries — and opportunities — are high. In view of this, the University of Cincinnati is offering a degree program in cable TV management. Donald Langley, director of the course, has said that "job prospects for cable TV are better than for any other industry in the country. The industry is growing tremendously. There are about 40,000 people working in cable TV. Projections show another 200,000 will be added by 1990.

"The (cable) manager has to address a great variety of workers — artists, technicians, and so on, plus deal directly with the public. The manager must have a lot of knowledge about the technology ... and the ever-changing laws governing cable."

The university's two-year associate-degree program is geared toward middle management. A one-year certificate is also available for those interested only in the technology aspect. For more information, contact the university of Cincinnati, Office of Information Services, M.I. 65, Cincinnati, Ohio, 45221.

Now that "Star Trek II — The Wrath of Khan" is sweeping theaters across the country, its predecessor, "Star Trek — The Motion Picture," is being shown on HBO through July (check listings). Unlike No. 2, which will genuinely entertain you, even if you hated the original TV series, No. 1 will promptly put you to sleep, even if you loved the series. No. 1 has no heroes, not even Capt. Kirk comes out looking good — and no discernible plot. The bald-headed alien woman is the only thing this flick has going for it.

Polanski The Actor

NEW YORK — Cher's shot at Broadway cost her $2½ million. For the "Jimmy Dean" show and the credibility she wanted as an actress, Cher canceled six months of bookings. Come July it's back to singing... Roman Polanski iced his directorial career to continue strictly as an actor in Europe — for now anyhow... Donna Pescow's attempting musical theater. She'll try her hand and throat at "Promises, Promises" in Pittsburgh.

Bob Hope canceled his Canadian fishing trip to crown his 21-year-old golfing godson, Nathaniel Crosby, with the U.S. Amateur Award.
