

General Electric Postpones Planned Plant Construction

GAINEVILLE, Mo.—General Electric has "indefinitely postponed" planning construction of a 4 million dollar plant at Wayne, near here.

H. Van Aken Jr., general manager of the communications products division of General Electric made the announcement at a called meeting of the Gaineville Chamber of Commerce.

"In a dramatic industry such as ours," Van Aken said, "there is a constant requirement for flexibility and reappraisal of plans to meet shifting business trends."

"Overall consideration of factors, such as optimum use of present facilities, employes, financing and timing, indicate that construction of a GE plant in Gaineville should not be undertaken at this time."

Van Aken said he was "deeply disappointed" at the change in plans and knew that other top GE executives were too. He said no plans have been made for the land.

Several days ago, the Hudson Pulp and Paper Co. announced abandonment of immediate plans to build a pulp and paper mills at Palatka.

Mrs. ESTER KUFAYVER (D-Tenn.) examines a display in Newark, N. J., that illustrates how a woman, allegedly mixed up in the confidence game, can change her appearance. The Senator is heading a subcommittee investigation of juvenile delinquency. The hearing was told by witnesses that presents, sex and gay night life are used as lures to recruit young girls for confidence game work. (International)

Yule Cheer Through the Ages

In Medieval times, knights and ladies gathered round the Wassail Bowl to toast in the Yule season. Forerunner of today's punch bowl, the wassail was a formidable concoction of hot pungent ale and cider.

American colonists were particularly fond of Eggnog braced with Jamaica or New England rum. In the South it is almost indispensable at Christmas time, and in the North, it is a favorite all through the year. In Scotland they call Eggnog "auld man's milk."

Modern Americans have adopted an international favorite for informal gatherings during the holiday season. Called Kijafa Zaboljone, it's quick and easy-to-prepare.

How To Make KIJAF ZABOLJONE (Serves 4). Ingredients: 4 egg yolks; 3 tablespoons water; 1/2 cup Cherry Klisje (Danish wine specialty). Directions: Beat egg yolks until light; add Cherry Klisje and 3 tablespoons of sugar. Cook in double boiler or hot water, heating constantly until mixture coats a spoon. Set in pan of cold water and continue heating until cold. Sprinkle with nutmeg and serve in ice-cold individual glasses.

FILM ACTRESS Lili Genta, 16, Birmingham, Ala., received court approval in Hollywood, Calif. of a pay raise of $50 a week. She said the extra money will be used to bring her sister to California. The movie starlet explained: "My older sister is in an iron lung with polio back home in Birmingham, and I want to bring her out here and take care of her." Both Lili and her sister, Janet, 24, were stricken by polio in 1946. Lili recovered

3-Year-Old Boy Found Locked In Dirty Room

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. — A three-year-old boy, kept locked in a fifth-seamed room for possibly two years, was under hospital care today. His parents face charges of cruelty to children.

Police went to the home of Grady Hickman, 46, and his wife, Doris, 33, at the complaint of a neighbor and found the couple's three-year-old son, Stephen, locked in an "incredibly foul-smelling" room.

The boy was found sleeping in light underwear on a bedspring without a mattress and was taken to a nearby hospital where doctors examined him.

Police said the neighbor learned of Stephen's captivity from his six brothers and sisters.

A sister, Linda, told officers, her brother had been locked in the room for "a year, maybe two."

Stephen's parents refused to tell police why they kept the boy penned up in the room. The door was wired shut from the outside. Hickman's only comment was "my wife takes care of the kids."

Authorities said they would issue a warrant Monday charging the Hickmans with cruelty to children.

New Polio Stamp

THE THREE-CENT polio commemorative stamp (above) will be placed on sale in Washington, D.C., on Jan. 18, 1939. Portrayed on the stamp are figures of a woman, a boy, a girl, and an emblem, symbolizing the achievement by the American people and the medical and scientific professions in bringing forth an effective vaccine to prevent paralytic polio. Christmas

G is for Christ who was born on this day.
 H is for the hay on which he lay.
 I is for the innkeeper who sheltered them.
 S is for the Shepherds who came to see him.
 T is for the tears they shed for joy.
 M is for the manger in which he lay.
 A is for the angels who sang at his birth.
 S is for the Savior, which is the meaning of Christmas.

Santa was here.

A SCENE THAT WILL BE DUPLICATED throughout the world tomorrow as Santa pays his annual visit to children everywhere. It is scenes like this one that make men everywhere wish each other "Merry Christmas!"

AN EDITORIAL

Herald Staff Wishes All Merry Christmas

The Publisher, Editor, and entire Staff of The Sanford Herald takes this opportunity to wish everyone a Merry, Merry Christmas!

There have been heartaches and problems, there have been breakdowns and slowups, but each day The Sanford Herald has been published in the interest of a more prosperous, a happier, and a bigger Sanford and Seminole County. It is with these thoughts that The Sanford Herald wishes for each and every person in Sanford and Seminole County the Merriest Christmas of all time.

Wouldn't it be wonderful on this day before Christmas—as greetings are sent to each other everywhere—to think about something other than the possibility of war? To believe in all truth that peace had come to this earth.

That there was an end to human greed, envy, malice and hate. That each person, wherever he may be, is secure in his own environment, to do his own will if it be good will.

Today all the things hoped for are far from realization. In these United States we are an anxious people instead of a happy people. While we continue to care for those who suffer we are preparing for the next. Not from choice, but necessity, because hate and greed rule where there should be faith and understanding.

"Man's inhumanity to man makes countless thousands mourn." That was true when Burns said it nearly 200 years ago. It is, unfortunately, true today.

The situation, however, is far from hopeless. It has been the history of the world that the powers of righteousness triumph over the powers of darkness, although years may be required for the achievement of victory.

But it would be wonderful to return to the ways of peace, when life would be more simple and less confusing.

In the commandment that came when into the most humble of settings was born the helpless infant, whom kings and angels came to adore, there is the key to peace in the world. There in that commandment is the magic formula for the alchemy that can change the hatred in men's hearts to friendship, that can transform distrust into faith, strife into peace.

Now, as another Christmas dawns, the peoples of different nations—given faith and good will—can live peaceably side by side.

Kiwanis To Hear Progress Report

The Sanford Kiwanis Club will hear an overall achievement report for 1956 at its noon luncheon meeting Wednesday at the Yacht Club.

The annual President's report is a summary of what has been done by the Sanford civic organization and what accomplishments have been made.

A. L. Wilson, 1956 president of the Sanford Kiwanis Club will give the report at the final meeting of the year preceding the installation of officers for 1957 on Wednesday, Jan. 7.

Already, Ed Shinholzer, incoming president of the group has held his organizational conference where the new slate of officers, directors, and committee chairmen were instructed and advised on the operation of Kiwanis.

NAS Fund Limited To Chest Members

"Local voluntary agencies which do not solicit as members of a Community Chest or a United Fund are not to be eligible for on-the-job solicitations within the Federal establishment under the approved policy and program," Captain Robert W. Jackson, Commanding Officer of the Sanford Naval Air Station told the president of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce in a letter quoting a directive published by the President's Adviser on Personnel Management.

Captain Jackson, in his letter to Clifford W. McKibbin, local chamber of commerce president, explained that contributions from the once-a-year drive at the Naval Air Station for the combined appeal for funds for charitable institutions would be limited to organizations which are members of a community chest, united fund or similar funds.

In a recent directive published by the President's Adviser on Personnel Management, a current list of voluntary fund-raising agencies eligible to solicit within the Federal establishment was issued, he said.

"This list includes 11 national agencies, most of which were supported in the Naval Air Station Sanford Combined Charities Drive of last year," Captain Jackson said.

In the past year the civilian and military personnel of the Naval Air Station raised a total of $4,765.52 in their drive, and

New Snags Develop In U.N. Efforts To Clear Canal

PORT SAID (AP)—New snags developed today in United Nations efforts to begin clearing the Suez Canal.

U. N. Gen. Raymond A. Wheeler, the U. N. salvage chief, had hoped to begin actual clearance today but was faced with Egyptian refusal to accept British salvage crews.

Wheeler, after conferences with Egyptian officials, ordered one group of salvage vessels today to El Qanlara through a passage already cleared by Anglo-French salvage workers.

Need Further Negotiations But actual work appeared to depend on further negotiations with Col. Mahmoud Younes, head of the Egyptian Suez Canal Authority, and Tewfik El Dib, director of the Suez Canal Authority in Port Said.

United Nations sources said Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld remained in close touch with the situation. He stayed at his office all day Sunday in hopes of straightening out the snag over use of the British salvage vessels.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon said today Hungary's fight for freedom has handed international Communism "a mortal blow from which it cannot recover."

Nixon made the statement to reporters at Washington National Airport on his return from Austria, where he personally inspected the plight of Hungarian refugees. He returned convinced that America "must do more" to help the refugees.

Nixon's plane landed at 8:55 a. m. EST, Mrs. Nixon and their two daughters were on hand to give him a joyous Christmas Eve "welcome home."

"We hear a great deal of talk today to the effect that the Hungarian refugees pose a difficult problem for the United States and the free world," Nixon said in his prepared arrival statement.

Soviet Problem "I am convinced, as a result of a first hand study of the situation that the courageous people who fought for freedom in Hungary should be considered a problem only to the Soviet Union."

"As a result of their sacrifice, international Communism has suffered a mortal blow from which it cannot recover. It has been exposed as a gigantic failure. For 10 years the Communists had complete control of Hungary. They concentrated their efforts on the intellectuals, students and the workers. However, it was these three groups who led the revolt against them."

School Situation Serious

The number one issue before the 1957 session of the State Legislature is Constitutional Revision, Senator Douglas Stenstrom and Representative Mack N. Cleveland Jr. explained recently as they commented on the problems coming before them in April.

"I would favor taking up constitutional revision either before the session or during a definite period set aside for such discussion," Senator Stenstrom said. "I am opposed to taking the issue up after the regular session for I think we would then have another extraordinary session which would result in the same fight we were faced with on the reapportionment problem."

Representative Mack N. Cleveland Jr. felt that the first two or three weeks should be devoted to constitutional revision.

"Reapportionment died Nov. 6," said Senator Stenstrom and it is "rather a moot question as to whether or not it will be brought up again in the next Senate."

Then Representative Cleveland, on the long-discussed question said "As a separate problem it won't come up but necessarily it is and will be an integral part of the constitution revision."

Both Senator Stenstrom and Re-

Casselberry Street Improvement Work Nears Completion

By MRS. RAYMOND MORRIS CASSELBERRY—A new mixed-in-place asphalt street, the second street-paving program embarked upon by the town during the past four months, has reached the half-way mark, and according to mayor Junius J. Allen, the job will be completed within the next thirty days.

The street involved is Lake Triplet Dr., from its juncture with Highway 17-92 and extending approximately one-half mile to South Lake Triplet Dr.

Financing for the street improvement work was accomplished through the efforts of mayor-elect Donald Wilson, heading a committee appointed by mayor Allen. Funds for the work were provided by property owners living on the Lake Triplet Drives.

Grading and stabilizing operations were done by J. D. Manley, road contractor who is four-lane highway 17-92, and application

Yule Accident Death Toll Expected To Soar

By UNITED PRESS A Christmas Eve scramble on the highways today was expected to further mar Florida's Christmas holidays by sending the accidental death toll soaring.

However, Seminole County Sheriff J. Luther Hobby reported that there were a few minor traffic violations. "Traffic over the weekend was heavy but reasonably slow," he said.

"People seem to be rather cautious here," the Sheriff commented and again emphasized that arrests would be made in instances where motorists fail to abide by regulations that are intended to save lives.

There was one minor accident early Sunday morning about 3 a. m. on the old Orlando Highway-Florida Highway Patrolman Lawrence Coffman investigated the accident. However, no details are yet available.

"We have had a few excessive speed and reckless driving arrests," commented Deputy Sheriff James Singley in Sheriff Hobby's office. Traffic is very quiet and "we are well satisfied with the traffic situation at present."

A United Press count early today showed 19 persons dead in the state since the long Christmas weekend started at 6 p. m. Friday. There were 13 highway deaths, three drownings and one miscellaneous death.

When the weekend started Friday, 1,148 persons had died on the highways in the state in 1956, compared to only 915 at the same time last year. The nation's traffic death toll climbed relentlessly toward a Christmas holiday record today, and safety experts warned it is "increasingly evident" their estimate of 650 fatalities will be surpassed.

Ned H. Dearborn, president of the National Safety Council, said the toll going into the second half of the four-day holiday is running ahead of estimates. He pleaded with motorists for a "drastic improvement" in their safety habits.

A United Press survey at 4 a. m. EST, showed 352 persons killed in traffic. Another 22 were killed in fires, 6 were killed in plane crashes and 36 died in miscellaneous accidents for an overall total of 416 killed.

The council had estimated 600 persons would lose their lives on the highways during the long holiday. During the three-day Christmas period last year, the council reported 609 persons killed in traffic for the previous record high holiday fatality toll. United Press figures were higher than the council's totaling 521.

Bad weather contributed to the high weekend traffic count, with fog, freezing rain and snow blanketing various parts of the eastern half of the country.

Airlines were forced to cancel flights to many Eastern and Midwestern points, and railroads and bus lines reported a heavy rush of business due to the slippery, murky weather.

Immortality Clings To Name Santa Claus, Spirit Of Love, Good Will

He smiles from the gay little seals you stuck on that package last night. He beams on the story book pages Johnny pats with a sticky hand. He looks from the Christmas windows and peeps through artificial snow.

Wherever you turn you see him and love him—his ruddy face, his shaggy eyebrows, his spiky beard. You love his twinkling eye and the smile that never grows old.

Did it ever occur to you that little Bennie Franklin and small George Washington never saw that beaming face?

But, you say, Santa Claus has lived always—even back to the birth hour of man! Of course, he has. For the spirit of love is ageless, the spirit of good will to child and man. But did you ever wonder who first dipped his pen in immortality to sketch that

In 1844, "A Visit From Saint Nicholas" face for all the young at heart to love? It was just 28 years old. It was a bit of a poem dashed off on the eve of Christmas, 1822, by a minister, Clement Clarke Moore, D.D., just for the fun of his own youngsters.

You see, but a few moments before Dr. Moore had been on his way home after a bit of chat with his old cronies, Jan Duychick, Jan, chubby, jolly and Dutch, with rosy dimpled cheeks and a luxuriant white beard, had been regaling the minister with tall tales of the dutch St. Nicholas.

On his way home, the good doctor, clutching a turkey which was to highlight a certain basket for a needy friend, gazed into the starlit sky. And what do you think he saw? (Yes—it was imagination—you skeptics.) But there, among the Christmas stars, he saw—racing with lightning speed—a glistening miniature sleigh, drawn by eight tiny reindeer. The driver, squat, fat, and rosy, had a beautiful white, flowing beard.

Moore knew on the instant it must be St. Nick who curled his whip over the reindeer and shouted their names to the stars. And so, when Dr. Moore came out of his study that night, Santa Claus was word-pictured on paper, smiling out through the lines of a jingly poem over which little children clapped their hands, a hundred and twenty-three years ago.

But the picture? . . . In the year 1844, somebody drew Santa's picture. He was a tiny elf squatted next to a fireplace, and smoking a wee Dutch pipe. Many, many other artists tried to draw him, but he still looked dried up and skinny—not like our Santa at all.

And then, full forty years later, a rising young artist named Thomas Nast sketched his own notion of Santa. And there he was—big, hearty, full-cheeked and rosy—retaining his pipe-smoking habit and wearing a suit trimmed with fur.

Nast may be remembered for creating the elephant that stands for the Republican party, the donkey that stands for the Democrats. But immortality clings to his name in the living, breathing, real Santa Claus—the Santa we know today.

And so Santa smiles on the seals you licked last night. And his smile kisses sticky fingers that pat the story-book page.

More Blessed To Give

Again the last preparations for the holiday dearest to the heart of every child are going forward, in a happy bustle and rush, in millions of American homes. Santa Claus will ride again, so trees must be decked with colored lights, stockings hung on mantels, gaily-wrapped packages stacked in tiers.

This year, it seems, there is small chance that any youngster will be disappointed. People have been jamming the stores for weeks, buying everything in sight. Nor have the less fortunate been forgotten. Many have given generously to make sure that no one, young or old, will be overlooked.

So it will be a great day, this Christmas, in our own favored land. And if to some it seems that we almost crush the spirit of Christmas under the burden we put upon it, it remains true that it is natural to give it expression in material things.

What we really seek is nothing money can buy. Rather it is the joy of giving. We want to see in the eyes of someone we love as the proof of our affection.

That is an urge that needs no apology even when it is called a higher form of selfishness. It needs only to be strengthened, and given greater scope, to bring on earth some day the peace on earth and good will toward men the heavenly chorus proclaimed nearly two thousand years ago.

Christmas will be happier for all when peoples all over the world can experience in greater measure the truth that it is not only more blessed but far more satisfying to give than to receive.

Drive Safely, Carefully

This day before Christmas—Christmas Eve—of 1956—there is a warning to everyone.

On every side there are dangers lurking—and for the greatest happiness on this greatest of holidays tomorrow there should be no suffering, no tragedy. But each of us must make a special effort, whether at home or in our cars, to observe every safety precaution possible.

To be sure, we have no candles for Christmas trees—but there is a danger when electric circuits are overloaded, pennies put behind fuses, driving a little too reckless, or not watching where we are going.

To make Christmas day a happier day—take every precaution against accidents of every kind.

Spend Christmas Day at home—not in the hospital.

HUNGARIAN CHRISTMAS TREE

Christmas Story

A BIRTHDAY GIFT

The Rev. John W. Thomas, Rector Holy Cross Episcopal Church. There is a story told about a church that put a Manger Scene on Christmas up by the Altar. One day the priest noticed that someone had taken the figure of the Baby Jesus. The police were called, detectives checked every where, and all wondered who would steal such a thing. Of course the figure as valuable, for it had a crown on its head which used to be out and sold.

After several hours, and while the policemen were there, into the church came a little boy with a red wagon. In the wagon was the figure of the Christ Child, safe and sound. Said the boy, "I prayed for a wagon for Christmas, and promised Jesus that He would have the first ride in it!"

Such is the nature of this season of the year. This is Christmas, the birthday of Jesus. All the gifts we get and give are given in honor and in memory of His birthday. It seems to me that somehow, in all the songs and carols we sing at this time of year, that one of us ought to sing, "Happy Birthday, Dear Jesus, Happy Birthday To You!"

And whenever we go to a birthday party, we take a bath, put on clean clothes, and take a gift. As many of us will go through Christmas with no preparation of any kind. To bathe spiritually before going to His birthday celebration is to take some time in quiet to examine ourselves; to honestly look at our way of living and doing; and to confess to Him all that we find wrong. The gift of Himself to Him, offered freely, without pressure is what will please him most.

As you wrap your gifts this Christmas, will you find one there for Him?

GOP Labor Desk Trying To Court Workers' Vote
WASHINGTON (AP)—Republican national headquarters is keeping its labor division functioning between campaigns in a continuing effort to court the labor vote, it was disclosed today.

The GOP National Committee's labor desk will be manned by Robert J. Gormley of Niagara Falls, N. Y., a plumbers' union member who was on the headquarters staff during the 1956 campaign.

He replaces Roy James, director of labor activities during the campaign, who has returned to his job as a Republican staff employee of the Senate Labor Committee.

Gormley's assignment will be to keep a skeleton GOP labor organization alive until the 1958 congressional campaign and to serve as liaison between that organization and the national committee.

Although detailed studies have not yet been made, GOP managers believe they increased their share of the labor vote in the 1956 elections.

The town rented the new Seaman travel-pump pulverizer from the county road department for spreading and mixing the asphalt. The machine, latest type for mixed-in-place operations meters the flow of the bonding liquid, which is churned into the sand-clay mixture in a single operation. A continuous flow of the asphalt is maintained by pumps from a tank truck being pulled ahead of the Seaman machine.

The asphalt mixture will be subject to several periodic drying out processes before rolling and sand-seal is applied.

Harold Utley, of Lake Mary, and Harry R. Reutz of Sanford, employees of the Seminole County Road Dept., were operators of the Seaman machine.

Constitutional

In view of the widespread comments from both citizens and state government officials relative to the problem of taxes, Senator Stenstrom said "We appropriated in the neighborhood of 418 million dollars to operate the State government during the biennium of 1955-57."

"The State Comptroller has stated that the 1957-59 income from taxes will amount to approximately 510 million dollars. This will allow us nearly 100 million more to appropriate for state services."

Asked whether additional taxes will be needed to take care of the bulging requests for additional appropriations, Senator Stenstrom said "I would not be inclined to favor any new taxes until it is shown that more than this 100 million more is necessary."

"If we find that more than 100 million is necessary I would favor strengthening the present three per cent limited sales tax in preference to making an across the board sales tax."

"Next to constitutional revision, the next problem of the legislature will be to keep its expenditures within its revenues," said Senator Stenstrom. "and the school problem will be the major problem that the legislature will have to face."

"In the last legislature 40 per cent of the appropriations were for educational purposes. The major problem is classrooms and in my judgment we will have to find some means of providing the children of the state with adequate facilities."

Representative Cleveland felt that "The school situation will be a serious challenge."

As to the possibilities of a new office of Lieutenant Governor Senator Stenstrom said that "I'm inclined to favor the office of Lt. Governor for the principal purpose of providing a clear cut means of accession to the Governor's office in case of the death of the Governor. I do not favor giving the Lt. Governor's office strong powers for if this were done we could very easily end up with two strong factions of State Government battling each other to the detriment of the people."

"The man who succeeds the Governor should be elected by the people," said Representative Mack N. Cleveland, Jr. and there has got to be some better proposal for accession to the Governor's office than what we have now."

(Continued from Page 1) gave $4,575 of this fund to local agencies which are no longer eligible under this new fund-raising directive, it was explained.

The agencies not now eligible include: Seminole County Tuberculosis and Health Association, United Services Organization of Sanford, Naval Air Station Sanford Underprivileged Children's Christmas Party, Seminole County Chapter of the National Association for Infantile Paralysis (March of Dimes), the local chapter of the Salvation Army, American-Norwegian Foundation, Sanford Police Benevolent Association, All Soul's Parochial School, and the local Branch of the Girl Scouts of America.

Said Captain Jackson, "Since I am of the opinion that our Air Station civilian and military personnel desire to continue their support of local charities, I am calling this to your attention at an early date to allow you and other civic leaders an opportunity to provide for a local Community Chest should you so desire."

Several attempts in recent years have been made to bring together all of the local fund raising organizations into a United Appeal or Community Chest city-wide venture. Committees from civic organizations investigated the possibility of creating the one-year appeal with no apparent success.

It is expected, however, that the letter from the Naval Air Station's Commanding Officer will bring various organizations together to attempt either a city-wide or county-wide effort toward a central fund project for charitable agencies.

McKibbin said Saturday that the letter from Captain Jackson had been received but no action had been taken up until the present time.

The city of Port Said was deliriously happy with formal takeover by the Egyptian army and the beginning of the withdrawal of United Nations Emergency Forces from the area.

Plans called for the U. N. troops to be removed within 48 hours but the Egyptians said they said if they wished. Some already have begun withdrawing to the Sinai Peninsula after the Israeli forces, but about 1,800 remain.

Lt. Col. Walter Lundquist, chief of staff of the UNEF who entered Port Said to supervise the withdrawal, said the troops would cross the Sinai Desert in three main columns after the withdrawing Israeli army.

Mrs. Robert Irving Brisson

Impressive Ceremony Unites Ruth Harting, Robert Brisson

In a beautiful and impressive ceremony, Ruth Anne Harting, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis B. Harting, of Orlando, became the bride of Robert Irving Brisson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Gordon Brisson, of this city, on Saturday evening at 7:30 p.m. in the First Presbyterian Church in Orlando.

Dr. William H. Kadel officiated at the candlelight, double ring service, for which the church was beautifully decorated with white mums and red poinsettias. Red candles, trimmed with holly, formed the decorations for the windows, and the chancel part of the church was decorated with red poinsettias, with the communion table featuring two vases of white mums in front of the candles.

Organist was Miss Carolyn Trivett, and soloists were Miss Pat Edington, sorority sister of the bride, who sang "O Promise Me" and "Wedding Prayer" and David Wiseman, a teacher with Miss Harting at Robert E. Lee, who sang the "Lord's Prayer" and "O Perfect Love". Miss Trivett offered a medley of selected bridal music before the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a waltz length gown of imported Irish lace over white bridal satin. The fitted bodice featured a scoop neckline outlined in pearl and sequin pleated tulle, and elbow length sleeves edged in pleated tulle. A wide cummerbund of bridal satin was fastened in front with an heirloom pearl and rhinestone clasp. The skirt was bouffant, and her short mitts were fashioned of the same lace as the gown. Her fingertip veil of imported French illusion was held in place by a cap of lace and tulle, encrusted with pearls and sequins. The third tier of the veil was trimmed with imported Irish appliques in the same pattern as her gown. She carried her mother's white Bible with a white orchid and lilies of the valley.

Miss Nancy Owens, of DeLand, a sorority sister of the bride, was maid of honor and wore a short gown of red chantilly lace over red taffeta, fashioned with a scoop neckline and short sleeves, with a full gathered skirt. Her gloves were white elbow length and she carried a nosegay-effect bouquet of pink roses.

The bridesmaid, Miss Evelyn Howell, of Pine Castle, wore a short gown of aqua lace over pink taffeta. The design was similar to that of the maid of honor's, and she also wore elbow-length white evening gloves and carried a nosegay-effect bouquet of pink roses.

Miss Beth Martin, of Orlando, junior bridesmaid, wore a green taffeta dress trimmed with pink satin ribbon. It featured a scalloped overskirt of the same material and at each scallop a pink rosebud was tied with a pink satin bow.

Best Man was Doyle McWhorter, of Bartow, and ushers were Roger Dobson, of Cocoa, fraternal brother of the groom, Robert McKee of Sanford, brother-in-law of the groom, Johnny McCorkle of Cocoa, fraternal brother of the groom, and Irvin Philpot of Daytona Beach.

Mrs. Harting chose for her daughter's wedding a street length dress of beige lace over pink satin, which featured a scoop neckline and a skirt gathered in the back to form a full sweep. Her accessories were black and she wore a purple orchid.

The groom's mother wore a street length dress of blue lace and matching blue satin, with inserts of blue pleated tulle in the full gathered skirt. She chose matching blue accessories and also wore an orchid.

A reception was held following in the social hall of the First Presbyterian Church, which was decorated with pink roses (sorority flower of the bride) and pink and white camellias. The punch was pink and the wedding cake was white trimmed with pink roses. The two punch bowls, the cake and the silver candelabra were surrounded with pink roses and fern.

Mrs. Robert McKee, of Sanford, sister of the groom, kept the bride's book, Miss Beatrice Thomas, of Jacksonville, and Miss Carolyn Pollak, of Orlando, both sorority sisters of the bride, served punch, and Miss Hope Scott, of Orlando, served cake, Benny Martin, who is a junior in high school and amateur photographer, took colored movies of the reception.

For a wedding trip to Daytona Beach, Mrs. Brisson chose a blue wool sheath dress, with a cummerbund of deep red satin, which formed a long drape in the back. Her accessories were white and she wore red shoes and the orchid from her bridal bouquet. Upon their return, the couple will make their home at 801 Laurel Ave., Sanford.

Out of town guests at the wedding included Mrs. D. R. Brisson, of Daytona Beach,

PEPPARKAKOR
3 1/2 cups sifted, enriched flour
1 1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1 1/2 teaspoon ginger
2 teaspoons cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon cloves
1/2 teaspoon ground cardamom (optional)
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1/2 cup sugar
1 egg
1/2 cup light molasses
Mix and sift first 6 ingredients. Cream butter or margarine; add sugar gradually while continuing to cream. Add egg and molasses. Stir in dry ingredients; thoroughly. Covered, chill overnight. Roll out 1/4-inch thick on floured (about 1/4 of dough at a time). Cut into stars. Bake in moderate oven, 375° F., 8 to 10 minutes. Cool on racks. Decorate as desired. Makes about 6 dozen.

SPRITZ
1 1/2 cups butter or margarine
1 cup sugar
1 well-beaten egg
2 teaspoons vanilla
4 cups sifted enriched flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
Cream butter or margarine. Add sugar gradually, while continuing to cream. Add egg and vanilla. Beat well. Add sifted dry ingredients and mix to smooth dough. Chill thoroughly. Force through cookie press, forming Christmas trees, or cut out in any desired shape. Bake in hot oven 400° F., until set but not brown. This takes about 8 to 10 minutes baking time. Makes about 4 dozen.

Christmas Decorations Combine New, Old For Unusual Effects

To paraphrase an old nursery rhyme "Some like it old, some like it new" when it comes to trimming the tree and house for Christmas.

Mrs. Gordon Sweeney is one who holds with the traditional, and her lovely Canadian evergreen presents a true Christmas picture with its lights, wooden angel figurines and icicles.

Mrs. J. Danforth Wright also uses a traditional tree, beautifully decorated by the children. It holds a prominent place in the Wright's new Florida room, and in the back of the room a huge Santa Claus, holding a light, reigns over the pile of holiday-wrapped packages placed near the indoor barbecue grill. Mrs. Wright's living room has a huge fireplace against a mirrored wall, and in front of this was placed a white Christmas tree covered with tiny balls in all colors. The reflection of the tree in the huge mirror gave a most unusual and lovely effect.

Mrs. Floyd Palmer maintains that greenery and tradition is more suitable for families with small children, so she wisely chose a white tree, which she trimmed with white lights and blue balls. Her entire house carries out the white, silver and blue color scheme, with striking results. The dining room table is all done in silver and white, and on the mantel is a white coral tree, trimmed with blue and silver balls, used with small candles and white reindeer.

In front of the dining room of the H. W. Rucker home is a lovely spruce tree, all trimmed with colored lights, icicles and snow and on the door is a most unusual and beautiful arrangement. Instead of the traditional wreath Mrs. Rucker uses a large hoop, which she wound with red satin, and at the bottom, placed a red satin bow, silvered twigs, bells, pine cones and cedar. The effect is stunning.

It seems that each year at Christmas something new is added to the old and new traditions are born, and every family has its own particular customs and habits for that special day, which after all, is what helps to make it so special.

Conning The News

BY VIRGINIA CONN

What a wonderful Christmas Eve this must be for Roy and Elizabeth Caton and their children! May we all say a little prayer of thanks that Roy is able to be here for this Christmas, and that he has such wonderful friends to arrange such things for him and while we are praying, let us ask for his prompt recuperation that he may continue to be with his family always.

Sorry I missed the last two papers, but my own family was demanding my time, and we took a flying trip to Palm Beach to see Bob's family. At least it is gratifying to me to find that so many missed the column. Since we have been back, I've had to spend much of my time at the hospital with Portia, who carelessly banged up her already broken arm, so I'm still a little short on news.

Terry Price had an Open House Saturday night with about sixty-five attending. Terry served egg-nogg out of a silver punch bowl, and the table was laden with fruit cake and cookies. On the porch a cornucopia spilled golden apples all over the place, and the center piece was composed of cuminquats, tangerines and polietias, carrying out her gold and red theme. Seen among the guests were Cdr. and Mrs. Strickland, Col. and Mrs. Harriman, Rita Bauer, Dot and Dick Mann, Lou and Cy Johnson, Millie and Bill Thomas, John and Jane Miller, Betty Guy, and many other gay people.

Footnote to Terry's party. John King wishes me to announce that he was exceedingly handsome in his gray flannels. They are better for a party than red ones, John.

A lovely party was held Saturday night also at the home of Virginia and John Shaffer. Silver candelabra graced the table, which held an abundance of turkey and ham, besides the silver punch bowl of egg-nogg. A few who were there were Anita and Bob Hadden, Vern and Betty Mountcastle Carl and Jean Tesfeldt the Englands and the Redikes.

Parties planned for Sunday night are those of Betty and Bill Hasslett, Jim and Betty Guy, and Jack and Judy Smith. Incidentally, Judy's mother is here from New Jersey for the holidays. It promises to be a gay week in Sanford. Nearly every one has company or is expecting some. Jo Symes is expecting her mother, Tom Blackburn's mother and father are here from La Jolla, California, and are staying in Louise and Jim Parker's house, while the latter are in Pensacola. John and Harriet Williams are looking for John's mother who will arrive around the 29th.

Many Christmas cards from Navy people who used to live here are flooding the town and they all seem to have one message. "It's not the same, with we were back in Sanford." Can't really blame them, as I was rather glad to get back myself after only two days in Palm Beach. We have grown used to informally here that simply is not known there, and while the town of course, is perfectly beautiful, it is artificial to me, and I'd rather be at home in Sanford. Here there is no room for a snob (except intellectual), and each may be accepted on his own merit. Ah, it's a wonderful place!

And now there is little time left, but on this Christmas Eve, may I wish you every good fortune. Very soon the night noises will hush and the magical moment of the birth of Christ will be upon us. May we think with reverence about his humble birth in a stable, whilst we who are His saints are blessed with all the riches of life. But this year during the silence let us think of those afflicted throughout the world, and pray for them. For suddenly it will be morning and thoughts of others will banish our joy is centered only in our happy children, our families and our friends. Merry Christmas!

Yostful hairdos will be a hodge-podge this year, say hairdressers. Pony tail, bun-back, page boy are three styles that may be adapted to the scheme of the moment. The point is you can do all three hairstyles with the same length hair, and it makes no difference whether your hair is straight or not. The pony tail may be worn to classes, page boy for informal dates, chignon hair style for more sophisticated dates.

DeLand Bulldogs Win Invitational Basketball Tourney; Receive Trophy

Lions Defeat Sanford In Consolation Game

Oviedo basketball coach Paul Miller, who isn't accustomed to being and who has been around high school basketball teams for some years to pick meaning into his statements, had high words of praise for the young and inexperienced Sanford Seminoles after his charges had defeated the scrappy warriors of the first annual Seminole County Invitational Basketball Tournament.

"With no seniors on the team, and big boys to bring around for next year, this Sanford bunch is going to be tough. Their small boys are well coordinated and will turn into fine players. With a lot of individual attention in the height department next year should be a good one for Sanford."

During the game the Seminoles gave the Oviedo Lions unexpected competition in the first half. Ken McMurray with 11 points and Ray Cull Dandridge with 10 points led the warrior tribe with a fine show of marksmanship.

but they were no match for cool headed Carl Fabry, who lallied for 23 points, and feet-footed, high stepping Ferdinand Duda, who followed close with 21 points.

The surprise of the game was the fine showing of Bill Tyre for the Seminoles. In the second half of the game both Claude Hilliard and Joe High, the big boy warriors fouled out, and a heavy lead fell on the shoulders of Tyre. Tyre breezed through for fine ball handling and some keen ball handling to help keep the Seminoles in the game against the roaring Lions.

Like the Seminoles, the Oviedo Lions will have a fine returning club next year.

The Lyman Greyhounds from Longwood, a class B school with only a clay court for basketball, all but turned the first annual Seminole County Invitational Basketball Tournament upside down last week when they matched basket for basket against two of the finest teams in the Central Florida area. In the championship game against DeLand in the finale of the tournament Friday night the scrappy Greyhounds gave the A class Bulldogs a run their money and were leading in the third quarter 21-30 until they lost control of the backboards as their ace rebounder, Ken Miller fouled out. They still gave the high flying Bulldogs, who couldn't miss on long shots, stiff resistance. The DeLand Bulldogs earned their 63-50 victory over the Greyhounds that gave the invited visitors from Volusia County the Sanford Herald Basketball Championship trophy.

The Herald will present DeLand the Championship trophy and the runner-up trophy to Lyman in assemblies at the respective schools after the Christmas holidays.

Until Miller fouled out in the third quarter it seemed that the husky, well conditioned cagers from Longwood would have themselves a victory to match their upset win over Oviedo the night before.

It was a nip and tuck game of see-sawing scores and brilliant defensive work on the part of both teams. It was also a waiting for one of the big boys to foul out and give the other team the break on the rebounds. DeLand sported four nfn over 6 feet on their all senior team. Their rebounders, Bob Connolly and Pete Taylor, both 6-3, outlasted Lyman's Miller with four fouls each and completely controlled the backboards after the mid way point of the third quarter. Ken Allen, the 6-2 fast break rebounder for the Bulldogs, also had four fouls chalked against him at the end of the game. Five fouls eliminate a player.

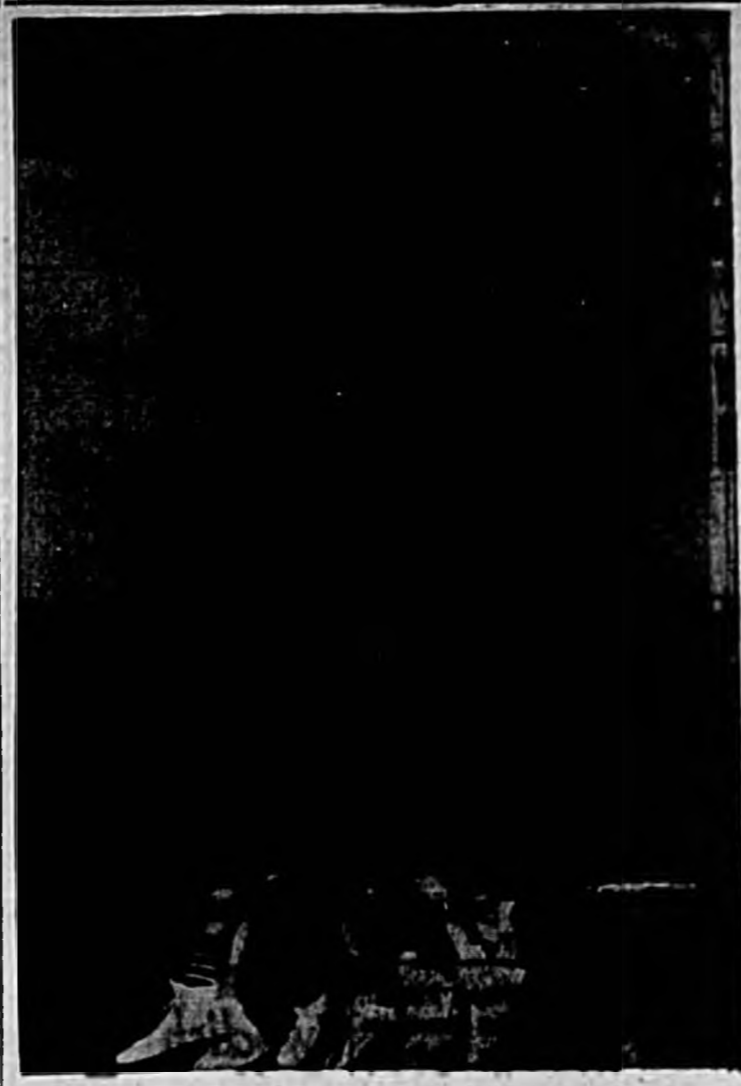

At the end of the first frame the Greyhounds were leading 11-10. By the half the smooth machine from DeLand had moved into the lead 17-22 in a thrilling defensive game that saw the Bulldogs beautifully execute the full court press.

Early in the third quarter the Greyhounds moved into the lead again, but sans Miller they dropped behind 33-35 as the final period began.

In the final frame the Greyhounds moved the ball well against the full court press of the Bulldogs, but they couldn't score on the rebounds and were held to only four points while the 6-11-6 stepping DeLand cage quintet had a field day with an 18 point scoring spree.

DeLand basketball coach John Imgrund said after game, "Those boys were the smoothest and aggressive Class B team we've played. It's a tribute to our boys to have won the game."

Clemson Counting On Charles Bussey For Bowl Contest

By PAUL PHILLIPS
United Press Sports Writer

CLEMSON, S. C. — If anything happens in quarterback Charles Bussey in or before the Orange Bowl game, the Clemson Tigers will have to give up on plans to use even an occasional forward pass against Colorado.

Frank Howard, the Clemson coach, simply can't risk letting anyone else throw the ball. During the entire 1957 season in which Clemson won seven games, lost one and tied two, the Tigers completed only two out of 21 passes except for the ones Bussey threw. Bussey wasn't exactly sensational but his 23 completions in 60 tries at least kept the opposing defenses "honest" when he was in the game.

Handicapped By Injury
Bussey was handicapped much of the time by an injured hand, but in the last two games he appeared to have recovered.

"If Bussey's hand is well like it was in those two last games we played, we probably will do more passing than we did during the earlier part of the season," Howard said.

"We definitely will do a lot of running against Colorado because we have the backs to do that and the linemen who can block."

During the season Clemson gained a total of 2,511 yards but only 346 were on passing, which puts a heavy burden on halfback Joel Walls, the key runner in the ground attack.

Out in front of the runners will be a mammoth line, averaging 200 pounds a man and spearheaded by tackle Bill Hudson, a 245-pounder.

Bears, Giants Clash Sunday For Crown

By EARL WRIGHT
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, N. Y. — The Chicago Bears and New York Giants bitter old rivals who have watched Johnny-come-lately rule the National Football League in recent years, clash for the 1958 championship Sunday at Yankee Stadium.

Neither team has appeared in the title game since 1956, when Sid Luckman led the Bears to a 24-14 triumph over a New York team split by a scandal that needed pro football. An attempt by gamblers to "fix" the game, with two New York players involved, was revealed shortly before that Polo Grounds contest.

The 1956 title game, which may provide record shares of more than $4,000 for each player on the victorious team, will be televised 1:45 p.m. (EST) and broadcast 9 p.m. nationally by NBC. The Bears, who rallied to play a 17-17 tie with the Giants earlier this season, are 3 1/2 point favorites.

Two Olden Clubs
About 10,000 fans will jam Yankee Stadium to watch two of the league's oldest clubs battle for the Lewis and Lee League. Bears — relative newcomers in the pro game — shut the league's other teams out of the championship game from 1900 through 1906.

Things finally returned to "normal" this year. The Bears won the Western Division title for the sixth time and the Giants captured Eastern honors for the ninth time by breaking Cleveland's unproven rookie grip on the crown.

The Bears invade New York with the league's leading ball-carrier, Rick Casares, and top-ranked passer, Ed Brown. The Chicago hushies also have been busy denying charges they played "deliberately dirty football" while eluding division honors with a 19-11 victory over Detroit last Sunday.

"Dirty Football" Charges Edwin J. Anderson, president of the Detroit club, and Coach Muddy Parker of the Lions leveled the "dirty football" charges after a tackle by Ed Meadows of the Bears put star quarterback Bobby Layne out of that game early in the second quarter.

George Halas, owner and former coach of the Bears, called Anderson "a damn liar." Films of the game showed that Meadows, who later was thrown out of the contest by the officials, made a hard, clean tackle of Layne but might have drawn a 115-yard penalty for a personal foul because he hit the Detroit quarterback when he did not have the ball.

The Lions — Bears feud started doubling the output of Sothen's 215-pound sophomore Bo Dickinson. Senders totaled 72 points in 12 touchdowns in six contests. Dickinson scored six touchdowns in nine games.

The individual battle between the two big fullbacks could be the outstanding feature of the post-season scrap. Sanders now back in trim after missing three regular season tilts, gained 528 yards in his six games. His 6.6 average nearly equals Dickinson's 7.3 mark. The latter totalled 670 yards on 93 carries.

Fullbacks Ron Miller and Dave Corley of the Texans also bettered 500 rushing yards. Dickinson's mates, halfback J. C. Arban and Dallas Whitfield, had 380 and 306, respectively.

With these six yardage-minded bullfighters on the prowl, the defensive stalwarts from both units have to be at their best.

back in the good graces of the Orange Bowl people, who weren't too anxious to have them for the New Year's Day game after they suffered a 14-0 loss to Miami in the same stadium earlier in the season. That was Clemson's only defeat.

Other post-season bowl trips have been successful ones for Clemson. The Tigers beat Boston College 6-3 in the 1940 Cotton Bowl, downed Missouri 24-23 in the 1949 Gator Bowl, and edged Miami, 15-14, in the 1951 Orange Bowl.

Despite the fact neither Clemson nor Colorado is rated a top-flight team, the oddsmakers have tabbed their game as likely to be the closest. Colorado is listed as only a two point favorite.

Mississippi, West Texas Roundup

HATTISBURG, Miss.—The Mississippi Southern, who'll meet West Texas State's Buffaloes in the Tangier Bowl the night of Jan. 1, were at their best offensively in the second and fourth quarter and stronger defensively in the fourth during the regular season.

On the defensive side of the ledger, they yielded three touchdowns in each of the first three periods but gave up only one fourth-quarter score. That one late tally resulted in their only loss of the year, to Florida State University by a 20-19 decision.

Offensively, they had 73 points in the second and 56 in the fourth. They got 48 in first-quarter play and 26 in the third period.

Their total of 206 points falls short of that of their bowl foe. West Texas totaled 276 points and was held to less than three touchdowns only twice. On those two occasions they suffered their only losses in nine games, 20-12 to Arizona and 16-13 to Texas Western.

Fullbacks paced the two teams in scoring, with 190-pound junior Charlie Sanders of the Texans doubling the output of Sothen's 215-pound sophomore Bo Dickinson. Sanders totaled 72 points in 12 touchdowns in six contests. Dickinson scored six touchdowns in nine games.

The individual battle between the two big fullbacks could be the outstanding feature of the post-season scrap. Sanders now back in trim after missing three regular season tilts, gained 528 yards in his six games. His 6.6 average nearly equals Dickinson's 7.3 mark. The latter totalled 670 yards on 93 carries.

Fullbacks Ron Miller and Dave Corley of the Texans also bettered 500 rushing yards. Dickinson's mates, halfback J. C. Arban and Dallas Whitfield, had 380 and 306, respectively.

With these six yardage-minded bullfighters on the prowl, the defensive stalwarts from both units have to be at their best.

Chiefs Club Will Hold Revolver Drawing Thursday

John Schirard Jr., president of the Seminole Chiefs' Club, said that the drawing for the 38 Smith and Wesson revolver, donated by Sheriff J. Luther Hobby for the Junior High School Football Project, would be held when the Seminole Chiefs meet at the high school on Thursday night, Dec. 27.

Schirard said, "We sincerely hope that all those who have donation tickets will turn them in to one of the committee officials before Christmas. It would be a shame to have someone miss a chance to win the gun after purchasing a ticket from one of the Seminole Chiefs members."

W. W. Tyre, chairman of the Junior High School Football Project Committee said that plans for an auction, to be held Feb. 16, would also be discussed at the meeting. "The auction will be held so that the uniforms can be paid in full this school year, if possible," Tyre said.

Tyre also stressed turning in tickets. "We want this donation drawing to be a big success," he said, "and the only way we can judge is to know where we stand with a ticket count before the drawing."

Miami Beach's Winter Season In Full Swing

By STAN TAFF
United Press Staff Correspondent
MIAMI BEACH (AP)—This winter vacation capital burst into full activity recently as dozens of big-name entertainers opened at the night spots and supper clubs.

It looks like the biggest season ever—more lavish, more spectacular than anything in the history of sun-bathed Miami Beach. Even greater than the lush days right after the end of World War II when millions of dollars changed hands daily in thickly-carpeted back rooms and the law winked and turned its head the other way. The mint coat, diamond and Cadillac set are out in greater numbers than ever before, more than double the old days, if for no other reason than that hotel accommodations are more than doubled.

Supper clubs and night clubs are waging a fierce price war for entertainers and tourist dollars. Names in lights are being changed so fast that it is difficult to keep up with them. Peter Lind Hayes and Mary Healy at the Fontainebleau Hotel, Abbe Lane and Xavier Cugat at the new Americana, Harry Belafonte at the Eden Roc, the "Ziegfeld Follies" at the Latin Quarter, Cab Calloway at the Cotton Club, Alan Gale at the Versailles, the Vagabonds at their own club, and many others.

The list of stars coming in the next few weeks is even more sparkling: Johnny Ray, Joe E. Lewis, Lena Horne, Georgia Gibbs, Tony Martin, Jerry Lewis, Henry Youngman, Phil Foster, Jackie Miles, Jimmy Durante, Myron Cohen, Gloria De Haven, Larry Storch, Marquerite Piazza, Liberace, Paul Page, Dorothy Dandridge, Red Buttons, Eileen Barton and more.

But there's a big change on the local entertainment scene. Night clubs are fast giving way to hotel supper clubs at the top entertainment spots. Gambling has been relegated to the fly-by-night, floating crap game variety, and of color shows have been toned down, both victims of fairly-strict police enforcement.

Old-Timers Gone
Of the dozen famous night clubs that boomed after World War II only three are really still in the big time. The rest have closed up, switched to burlesque-type shows or drastically reduced their offerings. Gone are such well-known places as Ciro's, the Clover Club, the Colonial Inn, the Brook Club, Club Boehme, Minsky's, Kitty Davis and the fabulous Copa City. What has accounted for the downfall of night clubs is the rise of the hotel supper clubs. Bankrupt club owners will tell you its because of television where you can see a high-price star for nothing, high taxes, over-priced entertainment and the "lir-de-businessman", the traditional mainstay of night spots, who is

Location Of Europe Air Force Pinpoints

By JOHN W. FINNEY
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON — The Air Force—64 years after Christopher Columbus discovered America—has located Europe. Exactly.

Its mapping service has succeeded in pinpointing precisely where America is in relation to Europe.

This seemingly belated discovery may, in some respects, have a far-reaching effect as that of Columbus. It paves the way for man to blast himself off the face of the earth with ballistic missiles.

But short of such holocaust, there will be peaceful gains growing out of the discovery, too. Maps and charts can be corrected.

Navigation in the jet age can be made more accurate and safer.

To Give Awards

The Air Force's discovery was revealed in a routine announcement that an outstanding unit award was being given to the 1370th Photo Mapping Group, and the 1371st, 1372nd, 1373rd, and 1374th Mapping and Charting Squadrons, stationed at Palm Beach Air Force Base, Fla.

The units are receiving this award for "exceptionally meritorious service of national significance" in providing "the first known geodetic relationship between the North American and European continents."

The award, however, is apparently a little premature. A spokesman said it probably will be another year before the Air Force completes all the calculations it obtained in four years of electronic charting.

Until then, the Air Force will be unable to say whether Europe and the United States are closer or farther apart than commonly supposed. And once the Air Force comes up with the exact intercontinental distance, there is a possibility the figure will be classified, this spokesman said.

Worldwide Project

The project is part of a worldwide recharting of the earth's surface by all the military services of the United States as well as by other nations.

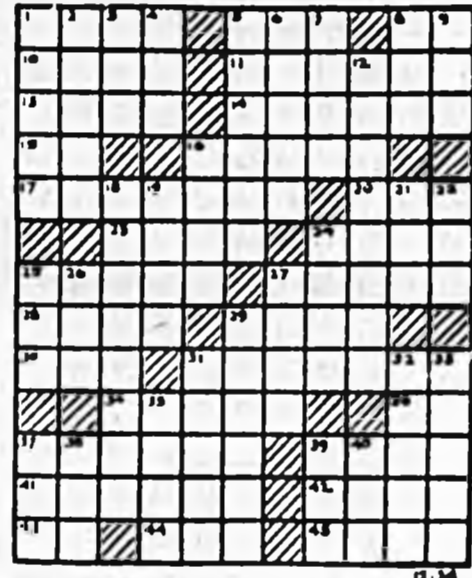

Essentially, the problem is that while there are fairly precise maps of specific areas of the world, the global relationships between these areas remain inexact.

In the course of its survey, for instance, the Air Force found that the Grand Bahama Island in the Caribbean is eight miles out of position according to current maps.

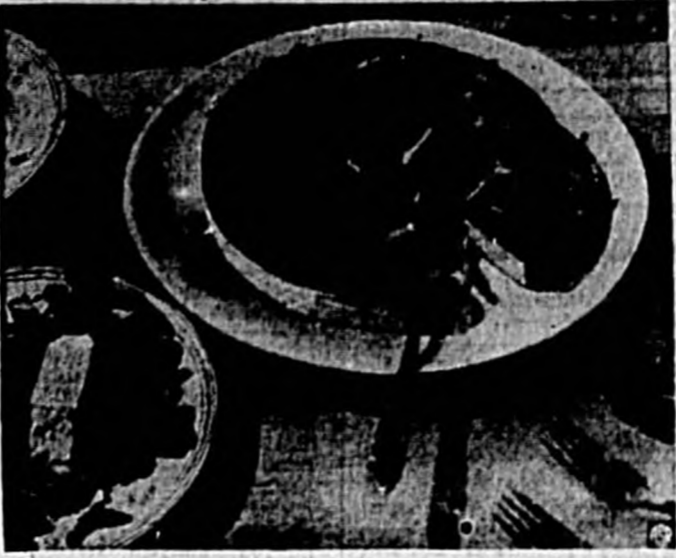

The Army Map Service discovered in South America that some of the Andes mountains were actually two or three miles from where they were thought to be.

A noted home laundry expert gives this advice to keep white nylon tricot slips from graying. Wash in hot water, with soap or detergent suds. White tricot slips should never be worn more than two days without washing, and preferably only one day. Due to static electricity, they pick up an amazing amount of soil, and need hot water, plenty of soap or detergent, and thorough rinsing to keep them white.

Get Acquainted With Oviedo

By MARIAN E. JONES

OVIEDO—"Let's Get Acquainted." Where will be start? First, we must tell you who we are. We are citizens living in the small town of Oviedo, in the heart of the hinterlands of Seminole County—once called by a prominent sportswriter "in the hinterlands of Seminole County." This aroused the ire of those proud citizens of this community.

When confronted with the wrath his statement caused and the ridicule from communities following that statement where our famous basketball team traveled, he remarked: "I'd rather be from the hinterlands and have a basketball team like Oviedo puts out than from the places they come from."

This small town boasted of a population of 2500 on the taking of the last census several years ago, but is growing by leaps and bounds now.

The people here are anything but the "hinterland" variety. They are hustlers. There are so many civic, social and religious activities, not to speak of personal, that dates to schedule certain activities have to be scrutinized and scheduled far in advance in order not to conflict with others.

Mr. Gary is assisted in running the town by several councilmen, including J. Y. Harris, Joe I. Bensley, Karl Daul, B. F. Wheeler Jr., and T. L. Lingo, town clerk.

Many additions and improvements have been made in Oviedo during the recent years, including the paving of the streets and putting up names of the streets.

Gifts of good grooming are much appreciated at Christmas time. Here's one that can be definitely unusual, and it's perfect for giving either to a man or woman.

It's a gift certificate from a good dry cleaner, entitling the recipient to both pressing and cleaning service, to help him keep his clothes neat, trim, spic and span.

Polish Boy Assured American Indians Are Not Locked Up

PHOENIX, Ariz.—Mayor Jack Williams has sent a letter to a 14-year-old Polish boy, assuring him that American Indians are "not locked up in prisons and camps."

The letter was in reply to one written by Jack Ladislav, a schoolboy in Lodz, a central Poland city of about 5000,000 population. Jack asked if "it is true what they are saying and writing in our papers" about the status of American Indians.

Williams wrote that Indians have a choice of living on reservations set aside for them by the Federal government or anywhere in the United States, and that reservation Indians have their own police, laws and economic system.

The youngster's letter, translated by a Polish-born Phoenix resident, read in part: "I am interested in the living conditions of the peoples which are under your care and I am anxious to know if there are still wild Indians in your state, and if they are locked up in prisons and camps like our papers and books and films show."

Mayor Williams said he will send Jack a year's subscription to Arizona Highways magazine and also have a 14-year-old Indian boy write to Jack and "tell him the truth about American Indians."

On a recent day, at the top of John L. Handy's wanted list, were the operating vice president of a transportation company, a printing specialist who speaks fluent French, a woman merchandising director of a cosmetics manufacturer, a vice president in charge of research for a metals company.

But he isn't looking for men who have broken the law. He's hunting for executives to fill high salaried positions in business. And in spite of the fact that boss status is the ambition of most men, good executives are in perennially short supply. That's why more and more specialists like Handy are opening up a new field of business as "executive recruiters."

When top jobs open up—by death, retirement or dismissal—they are usually and ideally filled by bright young men from that company's ranks. Sometimes, however, there just aren't any candidates for such advancement.

Then top management, after filling in its own search or deciding it's not equipped to launch one, is likely to call in a firm like Handy's whose most important if not only activity is manhandling. Most of their hunts involve men—infrequently women—in higher salary brackets. Few will take on a project for less than $2,500 and frequently the tab is much, much larger.

As it works out, executive recruiters are most often called on to fill spots paying more than $20,000 a year and often more than $75,000.

Recently, for example, Handy was called in to find a $30,000 a year vice president to handle industrial relations for a large distiller. He found the perfect candidate—not in a competitor's organization but in a company which made glass containers. The man had only a consumer's acquaintance with bourbon but his background in handling employees, coping with unions and carrying out company policy fitted him perfectly for the job.

Handy, a Harvard man in his 60s who could be type cast into a board chairman's role, says that finding top men for round holes is largely a matter of intense and systematized hunting. Like every good detective, he has developed a large number of dependable tipsters on whom he frequently calls for confidential leads.

Once in a while a man and a position are brought together by sheer chance. One of Handy's associates has been hunting for six months to fill a $30,000 a year spot. The company needed a scientist with a background in atomic research, with a specialty in radio-active isotopes and a sub-specialty in using isotopes in testing detergents. One day an associate was talking to a contact about an entirely different position and learned that an engineer with the exact qualifications had been dropped by a company in the aftermath of a proxy fight.

Within two days, the engineer—to his own surprise—had a new position which paid him considerably more than his old one.

The right men, however, rarely drop into Handy's lap.

Handy, with almost 30 years in the employ recruitment field, can't define the word executive better than anyone else but he has some decided notions about what makes a good executive.

He is fond of quoting a German general's definition of a good officer.

"There are four qualities and he should have two of them," he said. "He should be either industrious or lazy and intelligent or stupid. The best top officers are the ones who are intelligent and lazy—they will delegate work."

Good staff men are intelligent and industrious. There's always a spot for a man who is stupid and lazy. But look out for the man who is stupid and industrious—he's the one who will get you into trouble. I think that, in a way, the same thing applies to executives."

Uoff Seeks Student Union Building

TALLAHASSEE (AP)—Dr. J. Wayne Reitz, president of the University of Florida, told the Board of Control that the university will seek authority to construct a new student union building on the Gainesville campus.

Dr. Reitz said the formal request probably will be made in January.

He said the existing Florida Union, one of the oldest structures on the campus, is "completely inadequate to meet the social, recreational and cultural advantages a union building should offer."

Dr. Reitz said the plan is to borrow the money for the building and repay the loan from its earnings. He said the existing building would then be converted into a campus office and classrooms.

The board authorized Dr. Reitz to proceed with steps necessary to obtain a preliminary $30,000.

Collins Says Need For Revenue Must Be Clearly Made

TALLAHASSEE (AP)—Gov. Collins says it's premature to talk about new taxes now and declared the need for additional revenue must be "clearly established" before he will discuss plans for raising it.

Taking note of recent speculation about the possibility of new taxes when the Legislature meets in April, Collins said the "need for such must be clearly established before I would favor any proposal to tax anybody any further for anything. This cannot be done until after the budget hearing."

"Talk now of what new taxes may be imposed is premature and I will not become involved in it. Such talk closes the door, so to speak, on opportunities to avoid new taxes and this I am not prepared to do."

The governor last month told weekly newspaper editors at a press conference it is "entirely possible" the state will need new revenue to continue its progress but declined to be specific pending a report from a citizens' committee which is studying Florida's tax structure.

The Cabinet began budget hearings Dec. 17 on an estimated total of 600 million dollars worth of 1957-59 fund requests from state agencies and departments—a new record.

Anticipated tax revenues for the coming biennium are unofficially set at between 500 and 520 million dollars. If all budget requests should be approved as they stand—which is highly unlikely—it would mean up to 100 million dollars in new revenue would be needed.

Butter Cream Log Good Holiday Dish

One butter cream log, made with a base of chocolate cookies and a variety of nuts, will serve 12-16 persons at any holiday party to be it a family gathering or a buffet party.

Chocolate Log
1 cup sweet butter
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
2/3 cup shelled almonds
2/3 cup shelled walnuts
4 Chocolate Cookies
1/2 cup chocolate bits
1/2 teaspoon pure vanilla
Cream butter and blend in sugar. Separate eggs and add yolks one at a time to the butter, beating until mixture is foamy. Grate nuts and cookies and add together with melted chocolate bits and vanilla. In a separate bowl beat egg whites until stiff and fold into the chocolate mixture. Pour into loaf pan (1 1/2" x 4 1/2" x 2 1/2") which has been greased and sprinkled with flour. Bake for approximately 1 hour in a 350° F. oven. Cool and turn from pan.

Cut a small piece lengthwise from two top edges to get rounding effect. Cover ends, top and sides with mocha butter cream and sprinkle with confectioners' sugar.

Mocha Butter Cream
1/2 pound sweet butter
2 cups confectioners' sugar
6 tablespoons water
2 tablespoons instant coffee
Cream butter. Dissolve coffee and sugar in water. Add liquid gradually to butter, stirring until ingredients are completely blended. Use a cake decorator to spread butter cream on chocolate log.

THE BOY SCOUTS. After all U-Boy Scouts have one objective and that is to train boys for citizenship and to help mould stronger characters. This is the idea of the oath and law—and all the program works toward it. Much of it, happily, is designed for the out-of-doors, where boys find great adventure as did the pioneers.

Banks To Soon Pay 3 Pct. Interest

WASHINGTON (AP)—Starting Jan. 1, federally insured commercial banks may pay 3 per cent interest on savings accounts and certain other deposits.

The government has authorized the increase from the current 2 1/2 per cent ceiling in a move aimed at spurring savings and making available more money for capital investment.

The increase applies not only to savings accounts, but to time deposits and certificates which run longer than six months. Those between 90 days and six months now may carry 2 1/2 per cent interest, up from 2 per cent.

The Polioette
Attracted by the beauty of a wild plant, Dr. Joel Polioette, first U. S. Minister to Mexico generations ago, sent cuttings back to his South Carolina plantation where they thrived vigorously and, eventually, gave all of us the familiar Christmas plant which perpetuates his name.

Your polioette may last until next Christmas and even afterward, with care. When the leaves begin to dry, cut off one-half the growth, put it in the basement, water it every few weeks. Plant outside in June in partial shade; bring inside in early September, keep at 64 degrees.

Why Down Chimney?
Why is Santa pictured as coming down the chimney? One story goes back to pre-Christian German and Hertha, goddess of the home. At the winter solstice, which is about the time of Christmas, families kindled a fire of fir boughs inside their homes, and the goddess supposedly descended through the smoke to bring them good luck.

The legend carried over into old England, where, Santa was credited with coming down the chimney to clean it of soot so good luck could come in.

An apple, sprayed with gold is a glittering and novel holiday for a glowing green or red Christmas candle. Use in pairs, or singly for table or mantle decorations.

Less Workers Idled By Work Stoppage During October

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Labor Department said fewer workers were idled by work stoppages beginning in October than in any corresponding month since 1948.

The department's statistics bureau also said that preliminary estimates showed a marked improvement in the situation over October a year ago.

The bureau said 325 stoppages beginning this October idled 130,000 workers compared with 431 new stoppages in October 1953 directly affecting 214,000 workers. Including stoppages that began earlier, there were 525 in effect in October, idling 190,000 workers for an estimated one million man-days. In October 1953, the department said, there were 654 stoppages in effect, idling 292,000 workers for 2,410,000 man-days.

Universe May Be Expanding At Slower Rate

WASHINGTON — Tentative evidence was reported that the universe may be expanding at a slower rate.

The challenge to the concept of astronomers that the cosmos will forever continue to balloon out into an unrefined void was "retained" in the annual report of the Carnegie Institution of Washington, a private research body.

It said studies made by astronomers at Carnegie's Mt. Wilson and Palomar observatories in California suggest that the universe may be an "oscillating" thing—like a toy balloon that is repeatedly blown up, partially deflated, then blown up again.

This tentative conclusion is based in part on studies of stars a thousand billion billion miles from the earth and racing outward at speeds exceeding 90,000 miles a second.

The Carnegie astronomers said their "still too crude" observations, if confirmed, would mean that "the expansion of the universe will eventually stop, and contraction will set in."

Other astronomers said if the concept proves to be sound, such oscillating of the universe would take place gradually over billions and billions of years.

They said the Carnegie report constitutes the first observed evidence, however tentative, to support the theory of an oscillating universe, which is not a new one.

Still another concern held by some astronomers is that the universe is a steady thing—one that never has expanded or contracted as a whole, although individual star systems within it may do so.

Astronomers generally define the universe as including matter, energy and space. Many say it is expanding to some degree. They concede they have no present answer to the question of what "space" can expand into.

Dr. Carl P. Haskins, president of Carnegie, said confirmation of the Mt. Wilson-Palomar data "may allow conclusions of a fundamental and far-reaching nature about the geometry of space, and about the mean average density of matter in the universe."

Scientists Are Trying To Develop Meat Tenderness

WASHINGTON — The Agriculture Department is trying to develop steers that will produce more tender steaks.

The department said that research shows that meat tenderness is inherited in animals and can be passed to succeeding generations through selective breeding.

Scientists also are trying to develop a quick, reliable test for tenderness that can be used on live animals.

Most of the experiment, conducted so far at the department's research center at nearby Beltsville, Md., have been with rabbits.

Aside from inheritance, factors found to influence meat tenderness in animals include age, sex, management practices and fatness.

Movie Industry Code Revised

NEW YORK — Movie industry censors have revised the movie code for the first time since it was adopted in 1930.

New standards, stricter in some senses and more lenient in others were announced by the Motion Picture Assn. of America, the movie industry's self-imposed censoring board.

Eric Johnson, president of the MPPAA, in announcing some 29 changes, said the new code "is already in effect—Hollywood has been advised."

Johnson and Ken Clark, vice president of the association, said it was not possible to "characterize or sloganize" the effect of the revision. Johnson said, however, he thought the code was "more flexible" than the older one.

The new code permits the treatment, "within the limits of good taste," of such subjects as abortion, the kidnaping of children and the illegal traffic in and use of narcotics.

At the same time, it adds "thou shalt nots" in the form of mercy killing, blasphemy and double meanings.

Under a general section entitled "sex," the new code specifically bans "open-mouth kissing," adding this to a section that already forbids "lustful kissing, lustful embraces, suggestive posture and gestures."

WASHINGTON — A new Pentagon plan to consolidate direction of its transport planes will remove from Air Force control at least three and possibly up to 14 wings of aircraft.

The Defense Department announced creation of a "single manager" system calling for the pooling of an initial total of 717 troop and cargo carrying planes now operated by Military Air Transport Service, the Air Force and the Navy.

Eventually, the Pentagon expects to enlarge this fleet to 2,000 planes by drawing on an available total of 4,000 Air Force and Navy transports.

Officials disclosed that the new order has direct impact on the Air Force's unit structure.

At the outset, three heavy wings of C124 type planes will be removed from Air Force control and turned over to the unified agency which will be headed by Secretary of the Air Force Quartermaster.

The transportation officials said the Defense Department also has "under study" a proposal to remove medium transport wings from Air Force control. The Air Force presently has 11 such units.

This brought into focus recent reports of plans to shorten the target for Air Force strength below the 137-wing total which Congress had authorized by next summer. Present strength is 131 wings.

The reduction in wing strength apparently will accompany a cut in the number of aircraft in some combat wings, like bombers. The argument presented for this reduction in aircraft strength is that nuclear firepower makes possible delivery of a vastly greater amount of destruction with fewer aircraft.

In effect, the new air transport plan tightens the control sought in the original 1947-48 order which created MATS. At that time some of the airlift planes of the Air Force and Navy were brought into the combined operation.

Harvest of oranges and grapefruit continues slower than last year but harvest of tangerines is ahead of 1955.

Cranberries were found by the Pilgrims near Plymouth Rock. Their original name was cranberries because they were a favorite food of cranes.

Size Estimates Of Citrus Crops Practically Same

LAKELAND — Government estimates of the size of Florida citrus crops for December were practically unchanged from November.

The monthly report of the U.S. Department of Agriculture trimmed 200,000 boxes off the tangerine estimate, making it an even five million boxes. The drop resulted from estimates of freeze damage late last month. That still is six per cent above last year.

Oranges stayed at 95 million boxes, grapefruit at 35 million and limes at 400,000.

The department said citrus crops other than tangerines escaped the cold weather with only light damage to new growth in some low areas.

Crabapples were found by the Pilgrims near Plymouth Rock. Their original name was crabapples because they were a favorite food of cranes.

SOVIET OFFERS GREETING CARD

AN OFFICIAL GREETING CARD for 1956 has been issued in Moscow by the Soviet Union post office showing a white-bearded gentleman with a pack on his back and a striking resemblance to that old capitalist, Santa Claus. The government prefers to call him "Grandfather Frost" and clothes him in blue. The written sentiment at the bottom translates into "New Year Greetings." (International)

TO ALL OUR FRIENDS AND CUSTOMERS

As another year rolls around we express our thanks for your past patronage and wish you all . . . MERRY CHRISTMAS!

Hi-Fi Parties Make Big Holiday Hit

AP Newsfeatures
Hi-fi parties are expected to be all the rage at Christmas and New Year's. The idea is that the young group may close themselves off in a room with their Hi-Fi while Mom, Dad and other members of the family entertain in another room. It'll be fun, say young moderns just to sit around and listen.

One young girl always entertains her group at a party in her own room. A couple of husky young men arrive early enough to rearrange the furniture so there is plenty of seating space for all. That way, she says, the family can entertain too.

Corn may be popped in an electric popper and hot dogs can sizzle on a borrowed electric broiler. If food is going to be in full use, she can cook everything in advance or serve cold things such as salad and sandwiches with a hot drink if she prefers.

The lovely thing about Hi-Fi is that it brings out the joyous tones of Yuletide carols. The clarity that a good Hi-Fi set and proper acoustics affords can put young people in the mood for pretending they are really at a concert.

Good Christmas records include "Santa Claus is Coming," "White Christmas," "Jingle Bells" and traditional English carols such as "God, Rest Ye Merry Gentlemen."

Carol parties are becoming so popular that one of the large recording companies has included a group of old Spanish carols this year for a change of pace. "Fum, Fum Fum" is another, and "Hacia Belen"—a Spanish patter song that recounts the arrival in Bethlehem of a donkey laden with chocolates and gyp-sies.

France and Germany contribute old carols such as "Here Mid the Ass and the Oxen." The Robert Shaw Choral has recorded masterpieces of Haydn, Mozart and Beethoven. Perry Como includes the old recitative, "The 12 Days of Christmas" in his group in which there is lighter music too — "Winter Wonderland" and "Frosty the Snowman."

George Beverly Shea, the internationally known gospel singer and tenor Mario Lanza are represented also in long-play players of Christmas carols.

The envelopes that hold the Yuletide recordings are, almost as Scottish kilts have usefulness other than clothing. When the belt is removed, the swirling plaid can be used as a blanket for sleeping.

popular with young people these days as the recordings, they are so beautifully ornamented in many instances with Kolachrome winter scenes appropriate to Christmas.

Krick Tells Of New Forecasting System

DALLAS —Dr. Irving P. Krick meteorologist of Denver, Colo., told city officials of what he called a radical new weather forecasting system which he said will soon permit accurate daily weather forecasts "for several years in advance."

The city of Dallas recently canceled a weather modification contract with Dr. Krick. He met with city officials to discuss the new system.

He said his visit with city officials was purely informative and that he made no definite proposal of price offer.

City officials would not comment on the plan.

"By spring," Dr. Krick said, "we will be able to tell you when and where it will rain in Texas next year, and about how much."

"We are on the threshold of a dependable method of projecting the weather day by day for several years in advance," he said.

He said the forecasting would be done with the aid of electronic computers now being set up in his Denver laboratories.

"The atmosphere has a system of pressure waves," he said. "It was humanly impossible to know what these would do until we had computers."

"We do know," he said, "that the rhythms are persisted and real. Our hypothesis is that nature is ordered."

"We are now getting solutions to the year 2054," he said.

He said it would be impossible to predict "isolated local thunderstorms."

New Heat Process To Develop Photos On Plastic Told
WASHINGTON —The Army Signal Corps announced development of a new heat process to print photographs on plastic which will be resistant to the fogging effect of atomic radiation.

The Army Signal Corps laboratories at Ft. Monmouth, N. J., developed the process from a discovery made by the Ferro Chemical Co., of Bedford, Ohio. The Army said the technique would be of particular military value in "hot" areas where atomic attack had left lingering radiation.

In producing the print, an aluminum plate coated with a vinyl is placed under a negative, then exposed to ultraviolet light for five seconds. The light rays burn into the plastic an image which is brought out by baking at 320 to 350 degrees.

She said that all is well when she plays the piano in a restaurant, but is not permitted to sing because the restaurant is then liable for the 20 percent tax.

Rep. Moody Says New Taxes May Be Needed Next Year

TALLAHASSEE —Rep. James Moody of Hillsborough County, who will be chairman of the House Appropriations Committee for the third time in 1957, says new taxes may be needed next year.

He said he doubts the predicted state income of about 310 million dollars from present revenue sources for the next two years will be sufficient to balance the budget.

Moody, who has a reputation among legislators of being as tightfisted with the state's money as if it were his own, said he hasn't heard "any widespread objection to new taxes."

He indicated present sources of income would be severely strained if forced to finance the governmental expansion needed to cope with Florida's population growth.

Moody held out little hope of salary raise to Florida's school teachers. He said he didn't think they should expect a pay boost during the 1957 legislative session and declared lawmakers should concentrate on the critical need for new school buildings.

He described as "unrealistic" at present a suggestion by a committee of the Florida Education for a teacher with a college degree should be $4,200 a year. The recommendation, which will be offered to the FEA convention for endorsement in March, did not say the salary should be provided in 1957 but did urge it as quickly as possible.

W. Holden Movies' New Box Office King

HOLLYWOOD —William Holden is the movies' new king of the box office, one of the rare times that an actor of his sort has won the coveted award.

Usually, the people who buy tickets applaud performances by such as Holden, Spencer Tracy and Fredric March but they make box office champions of famed screen personalities such as John Wayne, Martin and Lewis or a Shirley Temple.

In the trade, Holden is known more as an actor than as a personality. That means he has the knack of submerging his own personality into the role he portrays. The personalities of previous champions are so fixed in the public's mind that producers seldom let them deviate.

Holden started his climb into the select box office list two years ago when he won the Oscar for his performance of the heel war prisoner in "Stalag 17." The 38 year old veteran of 17 years in the movies placed seventh in 1954 and fourth last year.

The rest of this year's list, based on a poll of theater men, included some familiar winners and four new ones. The runners-up follow, in this order: John Wayne, James Stewart, Burt Lancaster, Glenn Ford, Martin and Lewis, Gary Cooper, Marilyn Monroe, Kim Novak and Frank Sinatra.

It's the first time for Lancaster, Ford, Miss Novak and Sinatra.

Satellites To Carry 'Subsatellites'

WASHINGTON -- Some of the earth satellites which will be launched in the 1957-1958 International Geophysical Year will carry "subsatellites," it was announced today.

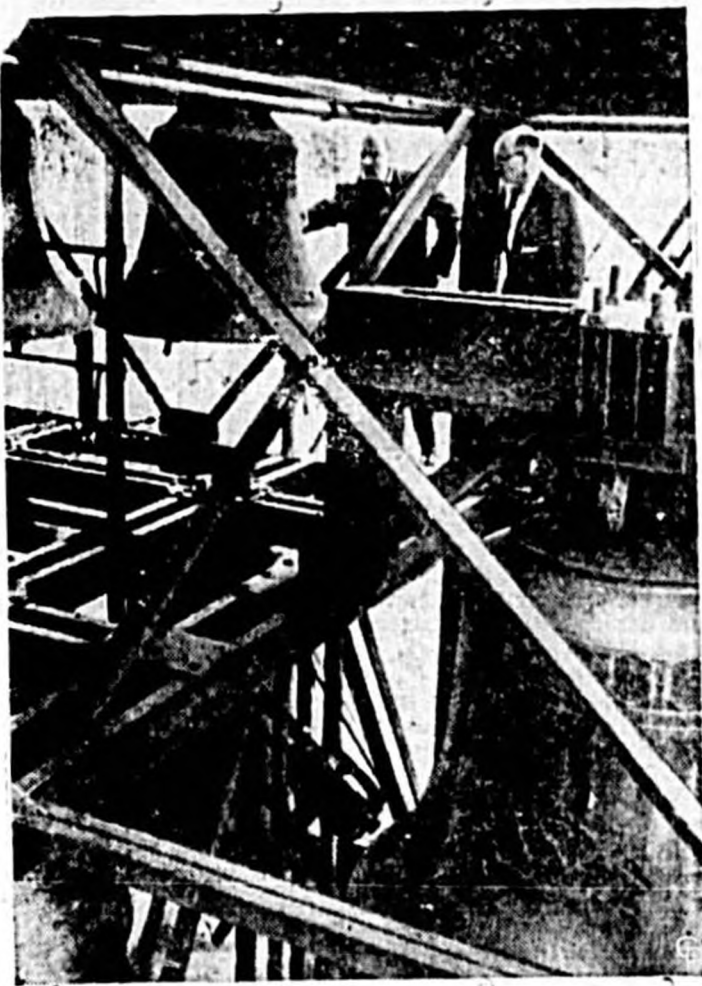

The National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics said the subsatellites, weighing only 10 to 15 ounces, will be inflated automatically after being ejected from a rocket booster. This booster will be the third and last of the series designed to send the main satellite to its maximum altitude some 300 miles above the earth.

In its announcement, NACA said the subsatellite "will be especially valuable in measurement of the density of air in the extreme outer limits of the earth's atmosphere and in determining the satellite's drag."

The subsatellites will be inflated to a diameter of 24 inches, the same as the satellite itself. The NACA credited William J. O'Sullivan Jr., aeronautical research scientist at the NACA's Langley, Va. Aeronautical Laboratory, with originating what it called "the novel manner" of subsatellite construction.

Larger subsatellites, which would be visible to the human eye while aloft, may be built for later uses, the announcement said. O'Sullivan said information to be obtained by visual and radar observations of the subsatellite from the ground will have a bearing on the design of future satellite vehicles, long range, rocket-boosted gliders, and intercontinental ballistic missiles.

Pecan Snow Balls Will Brighten Your Cooky Tray

A must for a festive platter of cookies is Pecan Snow Balls. They're so easily made and so well liked by all.

Pecan Snow Balls
 1 cup sifted enriched flour
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1/2 cup lard
 1/2 cup sifted confectioners' sugar
 1 cup ground pecans
 1 1/2 teaspoons vanilla
 Confectioners' sugar
 Sift together flour and salt. Cream lard with 1/2 cup confectioners' sugar until light and fluffy. Add sifted dry ingredients and ground pecans to creamed mixture. Mix well. Add vanilla. Shape mixture into balls about size of a walnut and place on a cookie sheet. Bake in a slow oven (300° F.) for 30 minutes. Roll in confectioners' sugar immediately. Yield: 24 balls.

SNOW SLIDES
 DENVER—Nine shells from a 75mm howitzer sent two heavy snow slides crashing down from Loveland Pass over U. S. 4 yesterday, just as highway engineers in tow.

The Colorado Highway Department's avalanche control unit had feared the snow packs might break loose on their own.

The two slides put six feet of snow on a 150-foot stretch of the transcontinental highway but it was blocked only 30 minutes.

Administration Is Restudying U.S. Policy On Missiles

WASHINGTON — The Eisenhower administration is reported to be preparing to put new stress on the desirability of control for long-range missiles in forthcoming United Nations talks on disarmament.

Renewed U. N. negotiations on the long-stalemated question are expected to begin early next year. In preparation, the administration has undertaken a restudy of U.S. policy which, officials said, has resulted in no basic changes.

Informants said the major principle has been approved by President Eisenhower after study by the Defense, State and other departments.

The prospect that the next few years will see the development of intercontinental missiles capable of carrying atomic or hydrogen warheads, it was said, has led to a conclusion that new emphasis should be put on this type of weapon.

Accordingly, missiles will be added specifically to the list of weapons which this country will advocate should be made subject to limitation and control of an international arms agreement.

There is little real hope, however, that any U.S. emphasis on long-range missile controls will have much effect in dissolving the main obstacle which has blocked effort at an effective arms reduction agreement for the past 10 years.

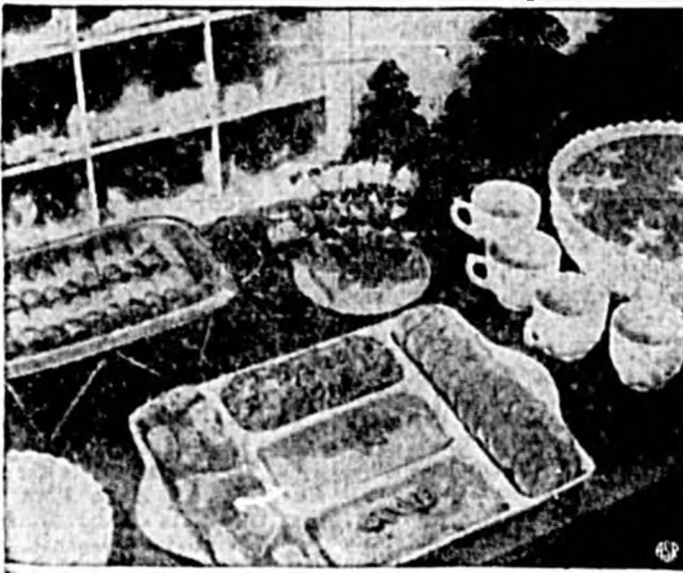

This is Western insistence on some limited system of inspection as contrasted with Soviet Russia's refusal thus far to open her territory to international inspection teams.

Some slight hope has been generated here by the latest proposal from Soviet Premier Bulganin for an aerial inspection system to extend approximately 500 miles on each side of the Iron Curtain.

The hope is that this may indicate some lessening of Russian objections to the "open skies" proposal which Eisenhower made at the Geneva summit conference in 1955. He recommended that Russia and the United States open their skies to mutual aerial inspection.

Administration insistence on some form of aerial inspection remains unchanged, officials said.

Canned Meats As Party Appetizers

Many appetizers and dips for holiday parties can be achieved easily with canned meats. Deviled and potted meat spreads (packed in 2 1/2 to 6-ounce cans) include: bacon, corned beef hash, deviled ham, liver, pork, tongue. These are ready to use right from the can or they may be moistened for easier spreading with sour cream or cream cheese.

Vienna sausages, open-end sausages favorites all year long, are excellent at the buffet table when served with a mustard dip. Thinly sliced luncheon meat, spread with cream cheese, can be cut in bite-sized ribbon sandwiches.

Tiny beef meat balls or cocktail wieners are other appetizer suggestions from the canned meat shelf. And for sandwiches there is the ever-popular canned ham, boned and ready-cooked.

PARTY MEAT DIPS

Prepare ham and tongue dips by combining ingredients listed below; use liver paste directly from cans. Arrange dips in divided dish or Lazy Susan and garnish with thin slices of stuffed olive, pimiento stars, Santitas or other Christmas cut-outs. Serve with potato chips and crisp crackers.

Ham Dip:
 2 small cans ham spread
 1/2 cup sour cream
 1 1/2 tablespoons pickle relish

Tongue Dip:
 2 small cans tongue spread
 1 3-ounce package cream cheese
 2 tablespoons horseradish

VIENNA SAUSAGE WITH MUSTARD SAUCE
 1/2 cup mustard
 1/4 teaspoon Tabasco
 Combine mustard, Tabasco and molasses and heat. Serve on Vienna sausages or frankfurters.

LUNCHEON MEAT RIBBON SANDWICHES
 1 can (12 ounces) luncheon meat
 1 package (3 ounces) cream cheese
 1 tablespoon drained horseradish
 Sweet pickles

Cut luncheon meat in 12 thin crosswise slices. Combine cream cheese and horseradish; spread between meat slices using three slices for each stack. Chill. To serve, cut each stack crosswise into 1/2 inch slices; cut each slice into thirds. Insert toothpicks and top with pieces of pickle.

YIELD: 72 appetizers.

Guide To Evaluate Drinking Drivers

SACRAMENTO, Calif. — California Highway Patrolmen are getting a guide to evaluate drunk drivers.

The new enforcement aid—a 41 page illustrated booklet—classifies the drinking drivers in six stages of intoxication according to the amount of alcohol in the bloodstream:

1. Dry and decent—None to .005 per cent.
2. Delighted and devilish—.005 to .015 per cent.
3. Dizzy and delicious—.015 to .02 per cent.
4. Dared and dejected—.02 per cent.
5. Dead drunk—.04 per cent.
6. Dead—.05 per cent.

Governor Urged To Name Republican Among 9 Judges

TALLAHASSEE — State Republican Chairman G. Harold Alexander called upon Gov. Collins to name some Republicans among the nine district appeals judges he will appoint next year. Collins replied that party politics had nothing to do with the appointment of judges, but he would be glad to consider recommendations from any source. Alexander sent a copy of his letter to Collins to key Republican workers over the state and said he thought consideration should be given to appointment of some Republican judges "in recognition of the tremendous gains made by our party in the recent elections."

"Further, Republicans will pay their portion of the cost of the courts and the salaries of the judges and the governor may well follow the precedent set by President Eisenhower who recently selected a member of the Supreme Court of the United States party," he said. Collins wrote Alexander that judicial appointments should be made on a nonpartisan basis and he would ask neither Democrats nor Republicans for recommendations.

"On the other hand, if any individual or political group volunteers any recommendations, such will be given the consideration I feel it deserves in the light of the qualifications of the persons recommended to serve as judges," he said.

The judicial amendment ratified in the Nov. 6 general election set up three district appeals courts of three members each to help speed justice and ease the work load of the Supreme Court. The amendment provides that the governor shall appoint three judges for each of the districts some time in June.

By WAYNE HARBERT
SACRAMENTO, Calif. — California agriculturists, faced with the possibility their Mexican labor pool south of the Rio Grande may dry up, have reached across the Pacific for help from Japan.

State officials said today more than 500 Japanese men are working in California's vegetable fields and orchards, with the possibility they can stay as long as three years and go home with a million yen each. That's about $8,000.

Mexico informed the United States last winter its own agricultural and public works development would cut down the number of farm laborers who could come north.

Arrangements were made to bring in not more than 1,000 Japanese workers. The first plane load of 60 landed here in September.

By January, said Edward F. Hayes, chief of the farm placement section of the State Employment Department, there will be about 800.

A college graduate and aspiring poet from Hokkaido in the first contingent went to work in an onion and celery field.

"So far it is much like home," Iase Yasuda, 23, was quoted by an interpreter.

But with this principal difference: "At home men work in the field from dawn to dark. Here they keep track of hours worked." Hayes said the Japanese are "very hard and conscientious workers."

California had an autumn peak of about 105,000 Mexicans working on the land. It wasn't much of a fall-off from last year. Just how many Mexicans return next year, Hayes said, will help determine how many Japanese will be sought. He doesn't expect the Japanese ever to come in the same numbers as the Mexicans.

The Japanese, like the Mexicans, are guaranteed the same pay given Americans for doing the same work. They get at least 25¢ cents an hour of cultivating in Monterey County, for example, and $1.25 an hour for knocking down and picking up Sacramento Valley almonds. All are prohibited from working in packing houses or processing plants.

College Student Doing All Right Despite Hardships
DENVER — Thomas Lyle Blunt is doing all right despite his lack of a high school education and the fact he was hospitalized 2 1/2 years with tuberculosis.

Blunt is a junior majoring in psychology at the University of Denver. He entered the school in 1951 as a freshman. Since then he has been hospitalized half the time with tuberculosis.

Born in Lyon County, Iowa, Blunt attended elementary schools in Iowa, Missouri and Oklahoma. He passed up high school "because times were hard" and worked instead on farms and at an Omaha, Neb., packing plant. He also spent 32 years in the Army.

Blunt's college grades have been "uniformly high." Now he has been named to Phi Beta Kappa, national scholastic honor fraternity.

Blunt, incidentally, is 60.

THE TEACHERS. In this day and time, most of us are spending less time in our homes and with our children, with the result that more of our children's foundation is left to the teacher. Since he or she wields a mighty big influence on the lives of our youngsters, it's a pretty good idea to know them better, and help them at home.

YOURSELF. It's ironic that after all is said and done, we never take a good look at ourselves, and sometimes we really don't know ourselves as we should. This week is a good time to double check with the idea of individual betterment. When we ask ourselves how we may correct some fault or make some self improvement, then we may be on the way to some real improvement.

Lincoln was the first great friend doing deeds of great merit for thousands of people, often doing deeds of great merit for unknowns without their realizing it. Countless stories have been told of his high regard for his fellow men and his actions proving his belief.

Flamingo Winners Will Be Honored
MIAMI — (FNS) Winners of Hialeah's Flamingo race will be permanently honored with completion of the "Flamingo Fountain," a new project under construction.

The water display will be located in the center of the large plaza behind the newer section of the grandstand, with vertical jets and side sprays. Eight walks will converge on the fountain. Around the stone base will be mounted bronze plaques inscribed with names of Flamingo winners since the race began in 1926. A contingent of pink Flamingoes will be part of the project, with new, more elaborate quarters including a wall fountain and large wading pool surrounded by shrubbery and water plants. They will be at the west side of the plaza, which will have a balustrade on three sides instead of one this winter.

President To Tour Drought Areas In Mid-January

AUGUSTA, Ga. — President Eisenhower will tour drought areas of the Midwest and Southwest in mid-January.

Announcing this, Eisenhower's vacation headquarters said there has been no decision yet on the specific states to be visited.

But White House press secretary James C. Hagerty listed among areas hardest hit by drought problems: New Mexico, southern Colorado, southern Kansas, Missouri, Oklahoma, Texas and Arizona.

Hagerty said Eisenhower will travel over the drought-stricken regions by plane and also confer in the areas with local officials. He added the trip will last "several days."

Hagerty said today Eisenhower will make the tour in mid-January, with specific dates to be set later.

Hagerty announced these other developments:

1. The President will confer with the American ambassador to France, C. Douglas Dillon who will start back to his Paris post shortly after reporting to Eisenhower.

2. Eisenhower accepted the resignation of Carter L. Burgess as assistant secretary of defense in charge of manpower, personnel and reserves.

Burgess also is resigning as a government member of the commission on government security.

In Washington Burgess was reported by aviation sources to have accepted the presidency of Trans World Airlines.

The presidency of TWA has been vacant since the death of Ralph Damon last January.

Christmas Holly Expression Of Good Will, Friendliness
Holly branches are part of the Christmas scene. Even before there was a Christmas the ancient Romans found that the shiny, prickly green leaves and red berries of the holly tree were ideal festive adornment for the halls where they celebrated their feasts of Saturnalia.

Holly came to be considered sacred by many because its beauty was greatest at a time when most other trees were barren. Evil spirits and witches hold powerful sway in the legends and folklore of all peoples and they account for holly's present position as a doorway decoration. It was placed over entryways and windows in the belief that its thorns would ward off these unwanted visitors. Regardless of legendary spirits, one thing is sure, Christmas holly is here to stay as an expression of the friendliness, good will and joy of the season.

Here's a melody of good wishes for all our friends that sings out: MERRY CHRISTMAS, everyone!

Maybe if we knew doctors better and understood their problems we wouldn't be quite so impatient when we have to wait our turn in the ante room — or lie in a sick bed at home swaking a home call. Even patient is a personal problem and different ones can't be sorted willy-nilly. It's a methodical job—and one that sometimes goes 24 hours a day for the weary "doc."

OUR MERCHANTS. Maybe you need credit, so it certainly is a good idea to get to know your merchant and let him know you. But more than that, knowing your merchant means that you establish a personal contact that carries over into business transactions. You will find, too, that your merchant carries stocks far more extensive than you know and if he knows you, he can operate his firm so as to please you. It is probably true you see more of your merchant than almost anyone other than the family — so you ought to know him better.

TO OUR LOYAL FRIENDS:

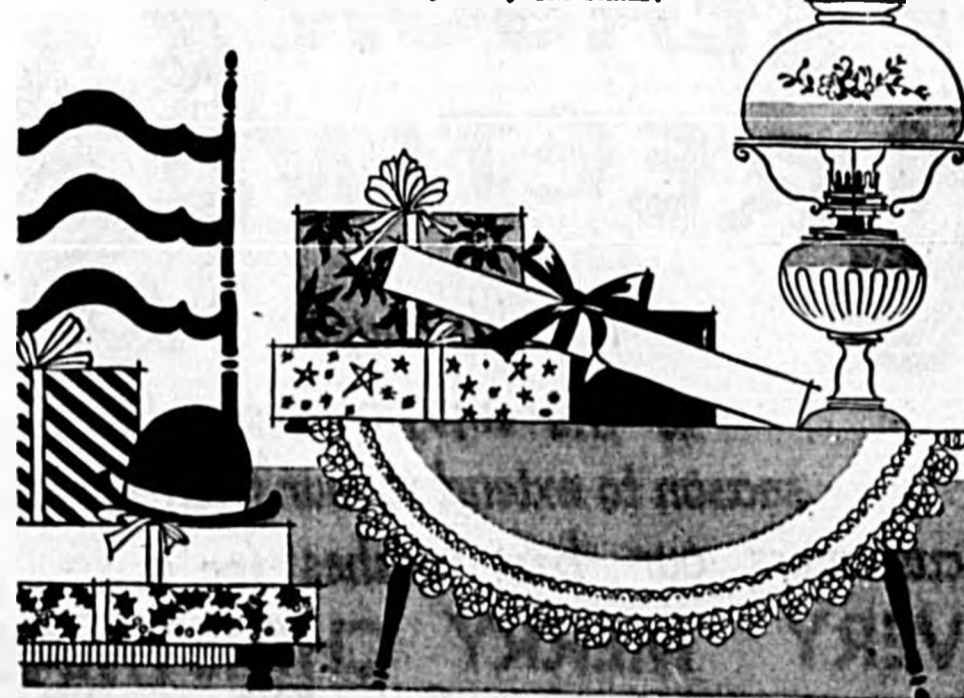

In this busy old world, it may often appear that we neglect or forget those we hold dear,

But at Christmas time, we take this space to say

That we value your friendship each and every day!

To each of you... A Very Merry Christmas!

Northeast Air Command's Future Operations Told

WASHINGTON (AP)—The present Northeast Air Command, being dissolved after Jan. 1, will operate thereafter under the Air Defense Command and the Strategic Air Command.

The big command covers eastern and northeastern Canada and Greenland. The Defense Department announced last July that it was to be abolished and has disclosed details of future operations of its facilities.

The department said that "this change is a part of the Defense Department's effort to simplify and strengthen its entire defense structure by orderly and economical realignment of assigned defense tasks." Shifts in command include bringing the Far East Air Force headquarters back to Hawaii.

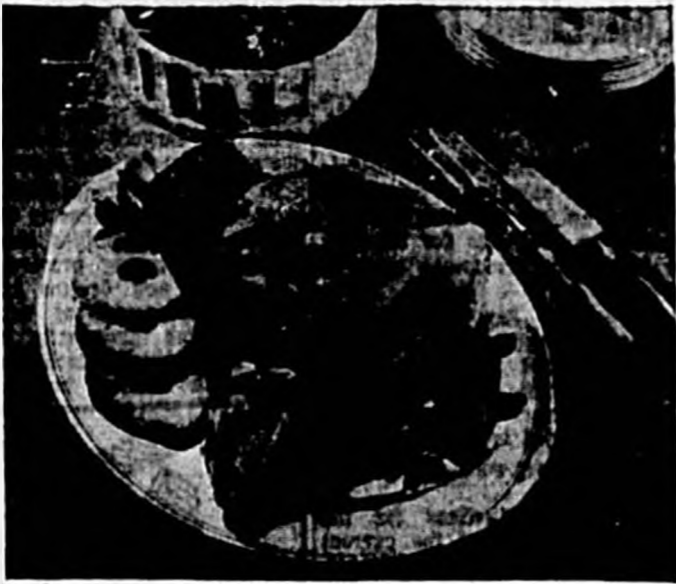

The new plan for the Northeast Command, the department said, "will make air defense and supporting forces more responsive to the needs of continental air defense and also will provide SAC with more efficient control of the facilities which it uses."

But fields such as Goose Bay in Canada, Harmon in Newfoundland and Thule in Greenland are staging bases for SAC bombers.

The Air Defense Command will be responsible for planning and supply support in the eastern region of the Distant Early Warning Line. It will also be responsible for other warning systems which go into operation later.

Panama Canal Having Navigation Troubles

By EDWARD S. KITCH
CHICAGO (AP)—Has the Panama Canal outgrown its bristles? With attention focused on Suez, the 42-year-old "big ditch" is having navigation troubles of its own. Two major proposals are being aired to increase traffic in outmoded lock facilities.

The first advocates improvement of the existing canal by completing the third locks and adding a summit terminal lake near the Pacific end similar to the Gatun Lake at the Atlantic end.

The second plan calls for construction of a practically new level Panama Canal, with large tidal locks at each end to shut out the sea. This is the oft discussed "sea level project."

In its 1957 winter issue, "Ships and the Sea" magazine discussed the prospects for a major canal overhaul.

The canal has become one of the world's most vital arteries of trade. Rock slides, cave-ins and limitations of the narrow 110-foot locks have heightened demands for action by Congress and the U. S. Army Engineers. A major rock slide in 1954 cost three million dollars in revenue. It is estimated that converting the 50-mile canal into an ocean level passage would cost $4,800,000,000.

In 1906 President Theodore Roosevelt recommended the present locks and locks canal, overruling the sea-level canal favored by the International Board of Consulting Engineers. Congress adopted Roosevelt's proposal but the argument never died.

Many canal zone officials and some Pentagon brass still contend that if a major overhaul is in prospect, the sea-level job should be done.

Advocates of the sea level plan scored a round in 1947 when Joseph C. McHaffey, then governor of the Canal Zone, endorsed it in belief that the canal would be made safer from bombing attacks. His report was presented to Congress by President Truman without comment and no action was taken.

A trip through the Panama Canal from the Caribbean Sea begins at Colon, then through the Gatun Locks, Gatun Lake, the Gaillard cut of the continental divide, through Pedro Miguel Locks, Miraflores Lake, Miraflores locks to the Bay of Panama at Balboa and the Pacific.

The third locks-terminal lake plan calls for a wider set of locks at Gatun, a new set of locks at Miraflores and abandoning the locks now at Pedro Miguel Locks would enable a summit terminal lake near the Pacific end of the canal to match the ship anchorage of Gatun Lake near the Atlantic end.

Foreign Artists' Popularity Grows Among Americans

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Since World War 2 Foreign artist—particularly Europeans—have infiltrated American record shops in increasing numbers.

Practically unknown here a half dozen years ago, some are now almost as familiar as a Como, Crosby or Lombardo.

One of the better known foreign voice imports is Caterina Valente, an Italian singer and actress who rose to popularity in Germany. Decca sold more than a half million records here of her "Malguena," "The Breeze and I" and "Granada."

Two other German imports are big sellers for Decca in America. Helmut Zacharias, a musician trained in the classics but mak-

A Christmas Wish
I like to think that there will be On Christmas Day, around each tree,

A feeling of the presence of The Child God sent us with His love:

That there, beside each girl and boy,

He'll be, and sharing in their joy.

I like to think that, all the while, The gifts unfold, I'll see Him smile;

And that He'll hear our caroling, And know it's for the thanks we bring.

To God the Father, for His birth, To be among us on the Earth,

O, may our Christmas time be gay;

But let's remember it's His Day—

Let's find a place for prayer in it.

And so have Jesus share in it. —Cary Helm

Then there was the Army rookie who, while the rest of the boys were happily decorating the barracks on Christmas, said sourly, "Phooey on Santa Claus. Twenty years ago I asked him for a soldier suit—and NOW I get it!"

"And an angel if the Lord stood by them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them— And the angel said unto them— behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy." —St. Luke 2:9, 10.

"For who hath nought to give but love
"Gives all his heart away,
"And giving all, hath all to give
"Another Christmas Day."
—Charles W. Kennedy

It is pointed out that such anchorages are essential when fog halts ship traffic in Gaillard Cut. They would also increase the reservoirs that stabilize the level of the canal.

Under the locks-lake plan, the main channels of the canal would be widened and straightened. The water level of the canal between the locks would be increased from 85 feet to 92 feet above sea level.

The controversy over the merits of the two plans may wax hotter in 1957, but the sea-level project has strong backing. In May 1956, John S. Seybold, retiring governor of the canal zone, said he believed a sea-level canal at Panama was inevitable. The National Rivers and Harbors Congress convention in Washington, D. C., in May also urged the conversion of the canal to "ocean-level."

Engineers estimate that a sea level cut would be at least 108 feet deeper and four times longer than the present Gaillard Cut.

Columbia Records has found a favorite in a 23-year-old French conductor, Michel Legrand in his long playing album "I Love Paris."

Carols Are Sung For Many Years

According to the Bible story of Christmas, the first carol was sung by a chorus of angels from Heaven—the "Gloria in Excelsis"—"Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men".

and the earliest songs were usually accompanied by some sort of dance movements. Others seem to think the word stems from the same derivation as "chorus".

St. Francis of Assisi is reputed to have conducted a Christmas service singing the Gospel and giving the sermon, and is credited for the first significant carol. The ballad type of carol, now considered by musical writers as the true carol, is the folk song type, handed down from generation to generation.

Regal Crown Roast of Lamb

Can you imagine a more beautiful or appropriate meat for your Christmas dinner than Crown Roast of Lamb? Fashioned as it is from rib sections of the young lamb, the delicate-flavored meat is tender and juicy.

Buying pointers: Order several days ahead. Allow 2 to 3 ribs per person. Your meat dealer will shape the needed rib sections into a crown, removing the meat from the ends of the rib bones. Ask him to grind the lamb trimmings but not to put the ground lamb in the crown.

To prepare for Roasting: 1. Use part of the ground lamb, browned, to add to your favorite bread stuffing. Or use for hamburgers or breakfast patties. 2. Sprinkle all over with salt and pepper, dashes of garlic salt. Place rib ends down in uncovered roasting pan. Insert roast meat thermometer between ribs into center of thickest part of meat, being sure it does not rest in fat. 3. Wrap stuffing in heavy aluminum foil and place in a shallow pan.

To Roast: Place lamb and stuffing in 325 degree F. (slow) oven. Cook until the roast meat thermometer registers about 172 degrees F. The meat will be juicy, full of fine flavor, and slightly pink. It will take around 3 hours. Because of its shape, it cooks more quickly than other lamb roasts. About 1/4 hour before lamb is to be served, remove from oven. Pour fat from pan. Turn roast rib ends up and fill cavity with the stuffing. Return to oven to finish roasting.

To Serve: Place crown roast on warm platter. Put a large ripe or green olive, with stuffing removed, on each rib end. Serve with gravy made from the drippings, buttered broccoli, and Cranberry sauce crushed, 1 cup pineapple juice, 1/2 teaspoon spearmint extract. Blend with rotary egg beater until smooth. Pour in freezing tray of refrigerator. Freeze. Serve immediately.

Bible Is Described As World's Finest Journalistic Effort

GAINESVILLE—The director of the University of Florida's School of Journalism and Communications described the Bible as the world's finest journalistic effort and nominated three biblical writers or all-time Pulitzer Prizes.

Ras Welmer, speaking at an opening meeting of the General Extension Division of Florida's religious news reporting work shop at the UF campus, told ministers and church lay workers that the Old and New Testaments were composed "by greater reporters and editors than we are."

He singled out for individual recognition three biblical writers:

1) The greatest journalist—Moses, because the ten commandments resulted from "the best editing in Journalism";

2) The best reporter—Luke, whose "story has the characteristics of the best reporting—clear, vivid, truthfulness, facts in due proportion, human interest, and a touch of the writer's personality";

3) The best editorialist—Paul, "who wrote letters that are worth reading by all men, whatever their theology."

Welmer also paid tribute to three unknown biblical scribes; the war correspondent who wrote Judges, the feature writer who recorded the love story of Ruth, and the rewrite men who gathered the Proverbs of Solomon.

Popular Mince Pie Has Colorful Background

Lo and behold the mince pie! Ten noble holiday desserts, one of America's longtime favorites, claims an ancestry rich in religious and historical significance. Some of the interesting highlights from its colorful background discovered by research of familiar holiday foods are presented here.

Its close tie with Christmas dates back to the time when mince pie was made up of the choicest products of the East, symbolizing the gifts of the Wise Men to the Christ Child. In its original form the pie assumed the shape of the manger. Oftentimes, mincepie was covered with a latticed crust which represented the hayrack of the Stable of Bethlehem.

At first these Christmas pies were called shrid pye; that is, shredded or minced pie. And there was an old saying that you would have as many happy months in the coming year as you had tasted mince pies at Christmas time. That still sounds like a wonderful reason for eating all the pie you want!

According to legend mince pies were always an appreciated item. In olden days they had to be watched very carefully after baking on Christmas Eve for fear thieves would make off with them. Today this same problem often exists, though the thieves are usually members of the family—"oh boys"—and some not so small, who snatch just a little piece at a time until there may not be enough left for a family to make plenty of pie!

The pie in the photo is baked modern style, topped with a lattice crust. For this or a two crust pie, a recipe for double crust is recommended. This one is fool-proof, even for novices. Because of the vegetable shortening used, the dough can be handled as much as you like without the crust's flaky goodness being affected.

PASTRY FOR DOUBLE CRUST PIE (9 inch)

- 2 cups sifted enriched flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 3/4 cup shortening
- 4 tablespoons water

Combine flour and salt in mixing bowl. Cut in shortening with pastry blender or two knives until mixture is uniform and very fine. Sprinkle water over shortening mixture, a tablespoon at a time, tossing lightly with a fork. Shape into a ball with hands. Divide into two portions. Roll each portion to 1/8" thickness on floured board or pastry cloth. Line pie plate and trim with scissors 1/4 inch beyond edge of plate. Roll out other half of dough to a diameter of about 10 inches. Cut 3/4 inch pastry strips and weave across filling about 1/4 inch apart. Trim ends even with lower edge of pastry. Fold bottom edge up over strips and flute with fingers or fork. Bake in hot oven (425 F.) 10 minutes, then lower temperature to 350 F. and continue baking for about 25 minutes.

MINCEMEAT FILLING

- 2 1/2 cups (28 ounce jar) mincemeat
 - 3/4 cup chopped tart apples
- Combine mincemeat and tart apples; lace filling in pastry lined plate. Top with lattice crust as above.

Let Junior "erase" his board with a sudsy cloth to keep chalk dust from flying around the room. Soap or detergent suds are safe for both the blackboards made of real slate and the wooden boards specially treated to serve blackboard purposes.

New clothes hampers covered with washable quilted plastic are suitable for bedroom or studio, not just the bathroom. These can be had in hassock shape to double as a seat.

Christmas Day Is Celebrated Twice In Puerto Rico

First-time holiday visitors to Puerto Rico, Uncle Sam's Commonwealth in the Caribbean, often are surprised to find it celebrates Christmas twice.

Or, perhaps more properly speaking, the island extends the Yule season well beyond the dates observed on the mainland. In Puerto Rico, the Christmas season begins Dec. 23, usually with strolling musicians playing rhythmic and typically native carols.

They play at the entrance to private homes, serenade you in hotel dining rooms or even while you are window shopping.

Culmination of the holidays here is Jan. 6, when all of Puerto Rico observes the traditional Three Kings Day (Epiphany).

Throughout the Commonwealth and in virtually every community, the Plazas are gayly decorated, usually with elaborate replicas of the nativity scene.

Christmas Eve is traditionally devoted to the special Mass at historic San Juan Cathedral, where thousands gather for the midnight services that usher in the holiday season.

Another widely-observed fiesta is the Patron Feast day of San Sebastian Street in San Juan, from Jan. 13-23, marked by a series of colorful parades and street dances in Old San Juan.

But perhaps the most interesting ceremony typical of the Commonwealth is the annual "asafrá" or sugar harvest which starts in January and continues through June.

Visitors can see the harvest in operation almost anywhere on the island as thousands of cane cutters bring in the sugar for processing at the centrals. The big event takes place Feb. 2nd, when bonfires light up the countryside to celebrate the harvest season.

State's Sales Tax Collections Take Jump In November

TALLAHASSEE—Florida's November sales tax collections jumped up 22.3 per cent over November a year ago for the biggest monthly percentage increase ever.

Comptroller Ray E. Green reported that receipts of $7,703,494 were $1,685,884 higher than for November 1953. It was the biggest percentage jump since the tax was levied in 1944.

The receipts were for October sales. Sales tax collections for the first five months of the current business year total $36,147,212. This is $5,794,186 more than for the corresponding period a year ago, or a 19.1 per cent increase.

November gasoline tax collections amounted to $7,566,613, an increase of $890,452 or 13.1 per cent over last November.

Gasoline tax collections for the first five months of the business year totaled $37,824,303, up $4,013,394 from the same period a year ago.

Sales tax receipts go toward general governmental operations. Gasoline tax revenues are used for highway purposes.

American Children Have More Cavities Than Other Youth

SAN ANTONIO, Tex.— "American children have the dirtiest mouths in the world," according to Dr. Maury Massler, head of the children's dentistry department of the University of Illinois College of Dentistry.

This is paradoxical as American mothers spend so much time keeping their children's bodies and clothes clean. Massler told the Southwestern Dental Assembly.

He said the average child in his city has 12 cavities by the time he is 12, whereas the average child in southern Italy has less than one at the same age.

He said 98 per cent of American children at age 12 have mouths without fillings, while 98 per cent of the children in southern Italy reach 12 without needing fillings.

He said there are two main reasons children of other nations have fewer cavities: "They end each meal with fruit, nature's toothbrush, or in the case of Mohammedan children, they wash out their mouths with water; second, only American children are allowed to eat sweets between meals."

Glass Bubbles On Tree Industry In Europe, Japan

The fragile bubbles of glass, which are so much a part of the decorations of the Christmas tree, are largely a cottage industry in Europe and Japan.

In the tiny villages that cling to steep mountainsides in eastern Europe whole families share in the manufacturing process. Special shapes and designs are the exclusive property of families, the patterns frequently dating back for centuries unchanged.

Using a bunsen burner, the father carefully blows the thin glass tubing to the desired shape, with the aid of an iron mold. His son removes the hot ornament to a cooling table. Next the mother silvers the inside, and the daughters apply painted designs.

Mechanical methods, developed in recent years by American glass manufacturers, may soon bring doom to this picturesque little industry.

The design of the Christmas Seals that fight TB changes every year. Each sheet of the 1954 Seals represents a parade of boys and girls carrying the Double-Barred Cross, trademark of the National Tuberculosis Association and its 3,000 affiliates.

Did You Know?

Did you know: In the early days of the nation postage for a one-sheet letter cost up to 25 cents? The present 3-cent rate for letters is the same as it was in 1861? Congress in 1797 provided that all letters and packages to George Washington could be mailed free to him for the remainder of his lifetime. And on April 3, 1880 the franking privilege was given to Martha Washington—she being the first Presidential widow to get the privilege. This started a legislative custom that has extended to this day. In 1813, to encourage vaccination, Congress provided then for free mailing of vaccines. The danger and drama of building the nation's airmail service was highlighted in 1931 when Congress authorized an Airmail Flyer's Medal of Honor. These—and hundreds of other interesting and useful facts—are contained in a new publication issued by the Post Office Department, Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield announced today. The comprehensive 128 page booklet containing many tables and covering postage rates from the nation's early days until today is entitled "United States Domestic Postage Rates 1789-1954." It is available from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington 25, D. C. at 45 cents a copy. The first white girl born in New England was Elizabeth, daughter of Pilgrims John Alden and Priscilla Mullens. Her grave is in Little Compton, R. I.

Christmas Holidays Reported To Be Most Deadly Time Of Year

Christmas Carols Bring To Mind Real Meaning Of Event

Nothing puts you in the mood, and reflects the spirit of Christmas, as much as Christmas carols.

Whether you hear them for the first time this year sung by a choir, over the air or a family group, they bring to mind the real meaning of Christmas. A non-religious song, "I'm Dreaming of a White Christmas" by Irving Berlin, brings back fond memories to almost everyone. Ever since the first Christmas carols have been an integral part of this joyous holiday season. According to the Bible story of Christmas, the first carol was sung by a chorus of angels—the "Gloria in Excelsis"—"Glory to God in the highest."

The early settlers in America brought many of the old European carols to this country. "Adeste Fideles", long a traditional hymn, has an unknown origin.

"Away in a Manger", Luther's hymn, came to us from Germany. "God Rest Ye Merry Gentlemen" from England and the lovely "O Holy Night" from France. From Austria came "Silent Night, Holy Night". Americans too, have contributed to our rich heritage of Christmas songs. In 1849, Edmund H. Sears, a Unitarian minister, composed "It Came Upon a Midnight Clear."

"We Three Kings of Bethlehem Are" was composed by Dr. John Henry Hopkins, Jr., an Episcopalian rector. Perhaps the best known and most beloved of all American carols, "O Little Town of Bethlehem" was written in 1868 by Phillips Brooks, a young Episcopalian minister. A trip to the Holy Land was his inspiration for the carol. The gay holiday song, "Jingle Bells", has been popular for almost a century and was composed by another American churchman, John Pierpont.

For the children, there are several catchy Christmas songs such as: "Santa Claus Is Coming to Town" and "Rudolph, the Red-Nosed Reindeer."

Be Careful When Hanging Star On Top Of Tree

CHICAGO—Don't risk seeing stars when you try to hang a star on the top of your Christmas tree.

This warning comes from the National Safety Council, because Christmas accidents contributed to the 14,000 deaths from home falls last year.

Use a sturdy stepladder, place it as close to the tree as possible, and be careful when you reach for the farthest branch.

The Council points out that the holiday season brings many fall hazards—placing decorations, toys unthought, boxes and wrappings laid "temporarily" on stairs, slippery walks outside.

Another danger of the holiday season is fire. "The Christmas tree, filled with natural pitch and resin, is one of the most combustible objects known," the Council says, "and it can burn so quickly it is almost impossible to extinguish the flames by ordinary methods. In case of fire, call the fire department immediately."

To help prevent Christmas tree fires, the Council offers eight simple precautions:

1. Buy a fresh tree. Be wary of trees sold as "fireproof." And don't attempt to flameproof Christmas trees with chemical solutions.
2. Keep your tree in a cold place until ready to use it. Before setting up the tree, saw off diagonally at least an inch of trunk and place base in water-containing holder. Keep water reservoir filled.
3. Locate tree well away from fireplace, radiators, television sets, powerful electric lights and other sources of heat.
4. Use only electric lights, and be sure they bear the Underwriter's Laboratories label. Check wires for defects and loose sockets before putting on tree.
5. Too many light circuits on one outlet may overload house wiring and blow a fuse. Reduce the load if this happens, or connect part to another circuit outlet. Never increase size of fuse, or substitute a penny for a blown fuse.
6. Be sure ends of metallic ledges or other decorations do not dangle into light sockets where they can cause a short circuit and flash fire.
7. Do not operate electric trains or other electrical toys, which may spark, under tree.
8. Take tree down when needles start to fall. Dispose of old trees in fire-safe areas outdoors—never in furnaces, stoves or fireplaces, because they burn with almost explosive violence.

CHICAGO—Afraid of the dark?

You need not be afraid, of course, the National Safety Council says. But the Council adds that it's wise to have a healthy respect for the dark if you are driving a car.

The reason is simple—you must see danger to avoid it. Last year more than half of the 38,300 fatal traffic accidents occurred at night—and during the Christmas holidays, which the Council says are the most deadly time of the year, 75 per cent of the fatal accidents happened during the dark hours of 3 p. m. and 7 a. m.

Santa Claus Legend Began In Turkey

For over ninety years, we have pictured the traditional Santa Claus as a rotund jolly elf with snowy beard and mustaches, dressed in red and white. This image of Santa Claus has been dear to the hearts of youngsters since 1863 when it first appeared.

But have you ever wondered where the legend of Santa Claus began?

About 1800 years ago, a young boy named Nicholas lived in what is now part of southwestern Turkey. Even as a boy, he was known for his piety and generosity. Later he became the Bishop of Myra.

There is a famous story of how Nicholas found a poor nobleman who could not afford dowries for his beautiful daughters.

Secretly on three different nights, Nicholas tossed a bag of gold through the windows of their home. Then the daughters were able to be married.

Down through the centuries the story of St. Nicholas was carried to other countries and when unexpected gifts appeared, they were attributed to him.

"Saint Nicholas" came to America through our early Dutch settlers. Later the name was changed to Santa Claus.

The picture of Santa Claus as we know him, was created by Thomas Nast to illustrate Dr. Clement Moore's famous poem, "The Night Before Christmas".

The drawings which Nast made to illustrate this epic poem show Santa as the now-familiar figure. Nast drew Santa Claus as a jolly gentleman, dressed in red, wearing cap and boots and carrying a huge pack-full of toys and treasures. . . and this is the jolly old elf we know and love so well.

Because of the rising toll, a "Back the Attack on Traffic Accidents" campaign, launched this month and continuing through 1957, will emphasize night driving hazards during December. Emphasis also will be on speed, drinking drivers and pedestrians and pedestrian hazards, all of which increase the Christmas holiday toll, the Council said.

The "Back the Attack" campaign, inaugurated because of the to encourage stepped-up enforcement by public officials, and to stimulate acceptance of enforcement by citizens. "Drive safely yourself," said Ned H. Dearborn, Council president, "and prevent the one accident you can control—the one that involves you. Then get behind a community attack on this problem. Back your officials to the hilt in whatever needs to be done to stop this carnage."

The Council offers the following suggestions to help reduce night driving accidents:

1. Slow down. Don't regulate your speed by posted limits alone. Remember, speed must be governed by conditions, and darkness is a condition that calls for caution.
2. Have your car checked frequently. In darkness, immediate response of the vehicle is a must. Double check all lights.
3. Be alert. Keep a constant watch for pedestrians and for vehicles with dim lights or no lights at all. emergency traffic situation, seeks
4. Don't wear tinted glasses at night. The advantage they offer in reducing glare is more than offset by the dangerously reduced vision.
5. Use headlights properly. Use upper beam only on rural highways when no approaching car is within 1,000 feet. Use lower beam when oncoming car approaches, when you are overtaking another car, and when driving in cities and residential areas.
6. Dim your lights, even though an oncoming driver fails to dim his. Trying to get even by blinding him is risking your neck. Maintain control of your car by looking at the right shoulder of the highway.
7. Be sure your lights are on before you pull onto a lighted street at night.
8. Never sleep on the travelled portion of a roadway at night. If you must stop, pull completely off the roadway, leaving parking and dome lights on. Carry flares for use in emergencies.

LAKELAND—Florida's future Miss Americas line up for the annual Santa Claus Bowl queen contest, scheduled in Lakeland Dec. 24, as a highlight of a football contest between boys from Chicago Ill., Washington, D. C., Ft. Lauderdale, and Chickasha, Okla. Beauty contestants from each Florida city will have an opportunity to vie for the queen's crown. Winner will receive a trophy and a $50 wardrobe.

Economic Welfare Of World Receives Much From Holiday

Perhaps in the spirit of old Scrooge, many of us are inclined to "bah, humbug" the Christmas holiday and complain that it's all too commercial!

But yet, "too commercial" may be an overstatement. It is too wrong, once a year, to make the dominant theme one of giving, rather than receiving.

Each year, as the lights of Christmas trees twinkle on a wintry night, do we stop to think of the millions who have gained employment through the Christmas shopping industry?

Economically, no other holiday or festive season contributes so much to the welfare of the world. Christmas has hardly passed into the new year before thousands are at work on toys and myriads of other Christmas specialties for the next year.

Christmas, and the spirit of Christmas, has endured wars and great chaos through centuries, as a time of joyousness and happiness, and giving has always been an important part of the festivities.

GM Official Called 'Mr. Automobile'

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

Dear girls: If you would like a kitchenette, vanity table or bottle warmer built into your next automobile, just write to Harley J. Earl, vice president in charge of styling, General Motors, Detroit, Mich.

The affable, 6 foot 4 dean of motor car design, who has been dubbed "Mr. Automobile," says all he wants to know is what the ladies want in an automobile and, by gum, he'll give it to them. In New York for the opening of the automobile show, Earl relaxed for a few minutes and chatted about recent discoveries in his business.

Cooler Shade Under Palms

Air conditioners are going to be installed in palm trees in Florida. Gilbert Edwards, 31-year-old developer, is building homes for retired people at Fort Lauderdale.

His 34-acre tract includes a three-acre tropical garden shaded by tall palms. Edwards plans to hide air conditioning units up among the palm fronds and give them enough capacity to cool bench areas 60 feet in diameter around each tree.

The trees will be kept denuded of coconuts in deference to silverhaired skulls.

Estimate Of '57 Biennium Told

TALLAHASSEE (AP)—Comptroller Ray E. Green estimates that exacting sources of revenue will produce $104 million dollars for operations of the state government and new buildings during the 1957-59 biennium.

The preliminary estimate compares with about 600 million dollars in requests for funds from the various state agencies.

The Cabinet Budget Commission on Monday will start the task of paring the requests to fit the anticipated income.

Green said general revenue taxes are expected to produce about $68 million dollars. He expects the general fund to have an unencumbered carryover of about $74 million dollars but he said this carryover is left as an unappropriated cushion against months of lean tax collections.

The comptroller said that if a tight money market caused a drop in new construction work in the state, the anticipated revenue from the sales tax, the big producer, would fall short. But if the sales tax shows the "unexpected and unprecedented" increase it did for October the revenue will be greater than now forecast.

Green said he would make another estimate in January or February.

Each of the noses on the face statues of Washington, Jefferson, Roosevelt and Lincoln atop Mount Rushmore in the Black Hills of South Dakota is longer than the entire face of Egypt's Sphinx.

mobile, just write to Harley J. Earl, vice president in charge of styling, General Motors, Detroit, Mich.

"I've designed more than 30 million cars," said he, "and it wasn't until a couple of years ago that I realized how much I could learn from women. This was at a shindig in New York, where about 300 newspapermen from all over the country were present. I invited them to fire questions at me, and boy, did they fire. I never had to answer so many things so fast in my life."

"Since then, I've been listening to the remarks women make about their cars, and a lot of the changes in the 1957 automobiles are the result of this listening."

Earl spoke with admiration of the women designers now on the staff of each of the General Motors cars. Said he:

"We have one woman doing interior design for each of the cars, along with four men. Well, did you ever see a girl with four brothers? She bosses them all. It's the same way in our plant. These girls think of all kinds of things that never occur to men, and they get them through too."

Things Are Taking Shape For Jan. 21 Inauguration Rites

WASHINGTON (AP)—The lady atop the Capitol dome has had her joints caulked.

The Capitol has been washed painted.

The "Battle of Lake Erie" is back on its wall inside the Senate wing of the Capitol, the big painting having been cleaned and restored.

"Things are taking shape for the Jan. 21 inauguration ceremony on the east steps of the Capitol.

Congress appropriated $215,000 for the necessary accoutrements to the Capitol and its grounds for the second inauguration of President Eisenhower. That includes a special roofed platform with wooden Grecian columns, and 15,700 seats in front.

The 150-year-old center part of the Capitol was given its 31st coat of paint this fall. Its regular painting every four years has been timed to coincide with the inauguration.

The younger, 100-year-old Senate and House wings of harder stone are washed every two years. The District of Columbia Fire Department did the job last month.

Congress appropriated $63,000 for the painting.

That money also face-lifted the lady atop the dome—the 1914-foot high bronze statue of freedom. She was recaulked entirely, repainted and given new platinum tips.

RECALLS IKE'S MEMORY STATED ISLAND, N. S. (AP)—Professor Willis Hinman of Wagner College here likes to talk about President Eisenhower's phenomenal memory for names.

Hinman, head of the department of Greek and Latin, served as Lutheran chaplain at Camp Colt, Gettysburg, Pa., during World War I. Eisenhower, then a major, was stationed at the same base.

"I admired him because he made a point of learning the names of every man he spoke to," recalls the professor.

Besides teaching at Wagner, Hinman serves as pastor of St. Johns Lutheran Church at Summit, N. J.

Octopus in the Fair Pipes, Motors Take Over Feed Problem

By IRA MILLER
Farm Electrification Bureau

Gravity flow pipes connecting storage bins to electrical equipment are rapidly becoming part and parcel of many a farmer's churning setup. Fanning out in all directions, they give work areas of granaries an octopus-like appearance.

operates in conjunction with a floor dump conveyor which receives small grain from feed wagons. Scooping is out because front ends of wagons are tipped up by a hoist to allow grain to flow out of end gates.

The above picture, for example, shows a Virginia Cattle feeder who has turned over practically all of his feed processing jobs to mechanical equipment—and the ever-present pipes. Machinery and building cost him $4,700, but they save him thousands of dollars each year in time and non-existent labor costs.

The granary has eight bins. Ear corn is stored in side bins and shelled corn, barley and oats in overhead bins. Since the floors of side bins slant toward the front, ear corn flows out of bottom gates for movement by portable conveyor to the shelter. Shelled corn is moved to one of the 500-bushel overhead bins by stationary elevator—the same elevator which also conveys barley and oats to adjacent bins. The unit openings—closed by spring lock doors when not in use. Ground or crimped grain is re-elevated through a blow-off pipe attached to the grinder. It is deposited in overhead bins not used for storage of whole grain. Gravity flow pipes are connected to all bins so that whole grain can be dropped to the corn sheller, grinder or crimp-er, and also permit re-elevated ground feed to be dumped into feed carts. Gates at the bottom of the pipes control the flow of grain.

Electric power is plentiful and is used economically. A 5 horsepower motor operates the crimp-er, as well as the floor dump conveyor, stationary elevator and wagon hoist. The grinder and corn sheller are operated by the same 7½ horsepower motor.

Radiation Exposure Limit May Be Set Up

By FRANK CARRY
WASHINGTON (AP)—Recommendations for what would be the first radiation exposure limits ever set up for the population as a whole have been drafted by a unofficial watchdog committee.

The same group, the National Committee on Radiation Protection, has also drafted recommendations for what would amount to new and sharply reduced limits on radiation exposure for the nation's half million workers in atomic and similar plants.

This was reported by Dr. Lauriston S. Taylor, chairman of the committee and a National Bureau of Standards scientist, in a report prepared for delivery later this week to a meeting of the American Nuclear Society. He amplified in an interview.

Taylor said the intent of both actions is to assure that exposure to radiation from all sources—including atomic bomb fall-out, products of atomic energy plants, and medical and dental uses of x-rays—does not go beyond a point of "acceptable risk" from the genetic or hereditary standpoint.

The committee he heads is sponsored by the Bureau of Standards. It is made up of representatives of the Atomic Energy Commission, the Public Health Service, American Medical Assn., and other professional and industry groups. It has no regulatory power but its recommendations in the past have been widely followed.

The unit by which radiation is measured is the roentgen. Taylor said the new recommendations are:

1. For the population as a whole—a limitation of 10 million roentgens of man-made radiation—delivered to the reproductive organs—for every one million persons in the population from conception up to age 30.

That would mean an average limit of 10 per person. But Taylor stressed that individuals who might receive an amount in excess of that would not necessarily be exposed to any "significant" genetic hazard. Moreover, he said, not all radiation received by the body necessarily goes to the reproductive system—for example, in an X-ray examination of the teeth, less than one thousandth of the radiation used reaches the reproductive organs.

He added that the dose delivered to the reproductive organs may range from none at all for a few types of radiation exposure to virtually 100 per cent for some other types.

2. For workers in atomic and other radiation-producing plants—a formula under which at no

acc. would the total accumulated radiation dose to the reproductive organs be allowed to exceed the person's age, minus 18 multiplied by 5. Age 18 is the minimum for starting work in such plants. Under the formula, for example, a worker would be allowed no more than 60 roentgens up to age 30.

Taylor told a reporter, "There is reason to believe that the new recommendations will be incorporated into safety regulations of the AEC, individual states and industries, and that any changes or limitations of operations deemed necessary to keep exposure of the population as a whole within the limits recommended will be made."

Taylor said his committee believes that "reasonable limiting of atomic weapons—this is, at the present rate of testing—could continue indefinitely" without exceeding the radiation limit recommended for the population as a whole.

Council Warns Against Hurricane Driving

CHICAGO—Are you a hurricane driver?

You are if you drive 75 miles an hour or more the National Safety Council said today.

For at the pace, warned the Council, you can destroy yourself and anything in your path as quickly as a hurricane.

"The U. S. weather bureau considers winds of 75 miles and over of hurricane proportion," said Ned H. Dearborn, president of the Council, "and motorists should remember that a car driven at the same speed is propelled with the same destructive force."

Because of the emergency traffic situation, with its rising toll, Mr. Dearborn said a year-round "Back the Attack on Traffic Accidents" campaign, being launched this December, will continue through 1957. The purpose of the campaign is to encourage public officials to step up the attack and to stimulate citizens to back the attack on traffic accidents.

During December campaign emphasis will be on speed, drinking drivers and pedestrians, night driving and pedestrian hazards.

Speed was a large factor last year in the 600 Christmas traffic deaths, the Council said. Driving too fast for conditions or in excess of the speed limit was a factor in 85 per cent of the fatal accidents, compared with an annual average of 35 per cent.

At high speeds the human body becomes increasingly vulnerable, the Council said. If an accident occurs at 50 miles an hour or more the victim is eight times more likely to die than if he had been injured in an accident at 20 miles an hour.

"Speed not only increases your chances of having an accident—it decreases your chances of coming out alive if you do have one," said Mr. Dearborn.

To determine a safe speed the Council said, drivers must take into consideration:

1. Weather and visibility. Fog, rain, snow, bright sunlight, or darkness are caution signs that should be heeded.

2. Mechanical factors. Engine power, ability to hold the road, and efficiency of all mechanical parts have a definite bearing on selection of a safe speed.

3. Physical factors. Whether a road is rough, smooth, hilly, flat, curving or straight are considerations that should influence speed.

4. Personal factors. The driver's physical and mental condition and the speed at which he can safely control his car are important factors.

Design Important To Home Owners

By DAVID G. BAREUTHER

DESIGN is a fancy word, but it stands for something that is very important when you plan to build, buy, or remodel a house. It can save you money, give you comfort and spare you a lot of headaches, backaches and heartaches.

Design has become so important to the value of a house that mortgage lenders are boning up on all of the things this word stands for. The United States Savings and Loan League has published a handbook on design to help its 4,300 member lending institutions know what kind of a house is a good risk for a loan.

Building costs have been going up so far that many home builders have been cutting down on room sizes in order to keep their homes in competitive price ranges. Shrunk houses are not good investments for a home owner or a mortgage lender. So why solve this dilemma with better design?

The spouses of this study got opinions from some 50 architects across the country on good and bad design for houses of all architectural styles. They found that good design can give you more for your money in seven ways: in space, materials, land, equipment, architectural styling, color schemes and individuality among your neighbors.

GOOD DESIGN in a house has little to do with region. "Home planners in Maine," says the handbook, "are asking for much the same thing as are those in Texas, California or Illinois."

Traditional prejudices about home design will continue to exist, of course; but the trend is away from localism.

"Design in housing starts with the family unit, its physical needs and social requirements; the interrelation of eating, working, recreation and sleeping patterns as these center in a house."

"Design is related to the economic life of the buyer. As well as to his psychological needs. The well-designed house offers something more than mere physical comfort—a sense of fitness, good taste, coziness plus freedom."

"Tomorrow's house (which is really here already) uses space not so much as 'room,' each with a single fixed purpose, but as area. One room may contain a number of areas—for group living, recreation, dining and even food preparation."

IF YOU ARE remodeling a house, which you consider poorly designed for today's way of life, you might like to consider what mortgage lenders list as the seven main parts of good design. Here's the gist of what the handbook says:

1. Space. This means planning floor area for maximum livability, for a flexible arrangement for your family's living habits, good traffic circulation through the house and ample areas.
2. Style. It may be Cape Cod, Colonial, moderns ranch, split level, or whatever; but an attractive, natural enclosure which expresses the space honestly.
3. Siting. This means orienting the house for maximum light and air and exploiting the natural contours of the land.
4. Materials. Use them for a smooth and satisfying harmony of texture, color and mass. Avoid a hodge-podge.
5. Comfort. Be alert to the electrical way of life. Have a wiring system that is adequate for light conditioning, air conditioning and other marvels.

The Best Of Holiday Fare — Christmas Cream and Fragrant Coffee

The holiday season brings forth the best of spirits, the warmest hospitality, and, naturally, the best in food. When it comes to festive fare, the Christmas dessert should be the best and best of all. One such dessert is our elegant Christmas Cream, a beautiful white molded ring filled with all sorts of colorful candied fruits.

Christmas Cream, garnished with cherries and surrounded with glowing tapers, is really a centerpiece in itself. In addition, the cream should go down in recipe files as a wonderful dessert experience. It combines a number of our favorite Christmas ingredients in a new and delicious gelatine ring which takes a minimum of time and trouble to make.

If you have a busy holiday schedule, but still want to turn out your culinary best, you can easily make this regal Christmas Cream ahead of time. It is a perfect light dessert to go with fragrant coffee after a gala meal. It can also be served at coffee-hour when friends drop in for a holiday visit. Coffee and

Holiday Season Good Time To Have Polio Vaccine Shots

WASHINGTON — U.S. Surgeon General Leroy E. Burney has suggested that families use the holiday season to arrange polio vaccine shots for all persons under 40 who have not had three injections.

"This Christmas, as thoughts center on children, should be used by parents to arrange for vaccination of children who have not yet received the full three shots," the head of the Public Health Service said in an interview.

"Vaccine protection of unprotected children may mean that some will be around happy and well at future Christmases who otherwise may be crippled or killed by polio."

"And parents and others under 40 years of age should arrange their own protection. I personally have seen instances in which both parents in an age span between 22 and 23 years, have been stricken, and one or both crippled for life."

"Vaccination could be the means of insuring many future happy Christmases for families who otherwise may become involved in tragic illnesses with severe economic consequences."

"The shots need not be taken during the holidays, but the appointments for them could be made."

Dr. Burney talked against a background of these latest statistics:

The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis estimates that 43 million persons have received one or more shots of vaccine but that only 2,700 million have received the recommended three doses. Twenty-six million are estimated to have had two shots.

There are an estimated 85 million persons in the group most susceptible to polio—those under 20 years of age and expectant mothers.

Manufacturers as of Nov. 30 had almost 22,000,000 doses of a shipped vaccine in stock, and millions more are in the hands of doctors and in trade channels.

Zimmerman Inventor Of Platform Flying

LANGLEY FIELD, Va. — As a young aircraft engineer, Charlie Zimmerman dreamed of the day when man could fly by mounting a small platform and like a skier.

"One of those crazy ideas," recalls Charlie. The patent office agreed to submit his first idea of a flying platform in August 1943.

Patent officials took one look at the drawing—particularly the platform pilot in a man from Mars helmet—and set the application aside.

"They didn't think it would work," says Charlie. "And they would only grant patent on things that would work."

Despite the skeptical attitude of the patent office, Zimmerman kept on his idea of every available spare minute in his garage. He was convinced that man could fly by standing on a "skier" equipped with a thrust equal to the combined weight of the man and the machine.

After several years of puzzling Zimmerman built a platform with a tubular framework and powered it with two small target drone motors. To drive two contra-rotating propellers, in a test one day he managed to get the device about three inches off the ground.

Armed with evidence of this achievement, he went back to the patent office and in March 1947, finally won his patent.

The venture had cost him $2,400 in legal fees and earned for him the honor—and perhaps someday the fame—of fathering a new field of aviation: platform flying.

Zimmerman at the time was working for the government, as a researcher at the Langley Aeronautical Laboratory, a multimillion dollar installation of the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics (NACA).

Zimmerman's flying platform project was just about dead when suddenly it caught the interest of Paul Hill, assistant chief of Langley's platform research division.

He put the laboratory's facilities at the inventor's disposal and suggested a means of testing the basic principle behind the project.

In 1953 Hill built a platform with a small helicopter rotor turned by jets of compressed air in the tips of the blades. The office of naval research became interested and awarded a contract to Hiller Helicopters of Palo Alto, Calif., a firm that earlier had expressed an interest in Zimmerman's plans.

About the same time, with the approval of Hill and Zimmerman, designer Lewis McCarty Jr. built a somewhat different type of flying platform for Delacour Helicopters, Inc. McCarty used a large helicopter rotor, 50 feet in diameter, as the source of the thrust and demonstrated in tests that a completely inexperienced civilian could fly his machine with only a few minutes instruction.

The Army has ordered a dozen of each type platform and in tests at Ft. Rucker, Va., has had them as high as 50 feet. Zimmerman's made eight flights already and are military realities. He believes that if world conditions keep the focus on preparedness his one-man flying machines should be in plentiful supply in about five years. And he is convinced that they have a tremendous peacetime potential.

"If I were a businessman, and I know I'm not," said the 66-year-old government scientist, "I would try to develop the platform myself commercially." A scientist, writer Zimmerman might do just that.

Tradesmen Once Used Symbols

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (PT)—Time was when a shopkeeper didn't depend on words to convey what he had to sell. Instead, he used signs and symbols.

The time was the 18th century, a period when many could not read.

Samples of colonial tradesmen's ingenuity in identifying their shops with distinctive signs are preserved in this restored colonial capital.

Among the most colorful salesmen in the 18th century were the apothecaries or colonial druggists. Some used the familiar mortar and pestle symbol to identify their shops, but others displayed the horn of the mythical unicorn or a rhinoceros.

If these symbols seem odd emblems for a druggist, historians point out that the horn of the legendary unicorn was once thought to possess medicinal or magical properties, particularly as an antidote or preventive for poisons.

Some apothecaries used the horn for drinking cups. Others ground horns into powder and used it as a drug. Although alleged to be from unicorns, the horns actually were obtained from the male narwhal found in Arctic waters.

Tailors used the golden fleece, a lamb, or an article of clothing as the central object in their signs.

There were fairly standard signs which are still used in this modern era of neon and bright lights. A striped pole indicated a barber and blood-letting, a horse's head signified a blacksmith or farrier, a golden ball mean a gold and silver merchant, and a woman's head frequently marked a milliner's shop.

Colonial grocers used three sugar loaves to designate their stores.

These 18th century businessmen and craftsmen wanted to make certain prospective customers got the picture—even if they couldn't read.

Satellite Program Is Reported On Schedule

WASHINGTON—The creators of the earth satellite say they think they'll meet the target date set for launching artificial little moonlets into the lower reaches of space.

Dr. John P. Hagen, director of the "Vanguard" satellite program for the Navy, told newsmen "we are essentially on schedule in the project."

The White House has asked the U.S. military and civilian scientists be ready to send up satellites during the International Geophysical Year beginning next July.

A dozen satellites are planned by the United States to be used in delving into the secrets of high altitudes, from a height of 200 to 1,500 miles.

Dr. Joseph Kaplan told an Ohio University audience in Athens he believes the first of the satellites will be launched about Jan. 1, 1958, Kaplan, chairman of the U.S. National Committee for the Geophysical Year, said "it will be a good percentage" if six of the satellites turn out successfully.

Hagen insisted that "we are no scientific program and has an in any way racing with Russia," which also is participating in the nounced plans to launch its own earth satellites.

1957 Tangerine Queen Chosen

Hagen made the comments to newsmen who toured the naval research laboratory where work on the project is being done. The idea is that three powerful stages of rockets will carry a 20-inch metal sphere high enough to go into an orbit around the earth at 18,000 miles an hour.

The sphere will be crisscrossed with instruments and automatic radio transmitters for sending data back to earth.

How long the first satellite will stay aloft, depends on how high it can be fired, Hagen said. If it reaches a level of about 200 miles, it could continue whizzing around the earth in an elliptical orbit for about a year. How long it should come only once.

Its life aloft might be only an hour or two. Then it would fall into the thick atmosphere and burn up like a meteor.

Prototypes of satellites are being made here, but the actual spheres which will be used are produced by the outfit firms of Brooks and Perkins.

Big Year Predicted For County In '57

By J. MARION BARMAN SR.

One of the biggest years in the history of Seminole County came virtually to a close with the celebration of Christmas.

Top figures in retail trade were reached this year with unprecedented trading in local stores. New highs were attained as shoppers reached their buying spree climax Monday evening wiping out stocks of toys and Christmas gifts that had been stacked high on the shelves of Sanford stores.

However, as the 1956 "top year" comes to a close, merchants, businessmen, car dealers, professional people, industrialists and agricultural leaders look forward to 1957 and its predictions.

Analysts on the national level have predicted even newer highs in every phase of American business—and local businessmen are beginning to share the same view.

They say "Seminole County has more to look forward to in the coming year than it has ever had in any one twelve-month period."

The nucleus for the 1957 outlook came early in 1956, say Sanford business leaders, when French Ave. was opened as a throughway, the Seminole Memorial Hospital was officially opened and dedicated, Sanford streets took on a new and improved look, and more than one million dollar sewer and water expansion program was completed. In addition, the near million dollar 17-92 four-laning project got underway.

Sanford and Seminole County citizens, along with their Boards of Commissioners, took on a "talking and planning" stage, looking into aggressive progress in the city and county's economy.

National and state analysts have predicted that Sanford's urban population would reach a whopping 50 to 60 thousand by 1963, and it is well on its way. Some predict that population figures will top even the mathematical totals which have been set as goals.

Sanford and Seminole County can look forward, in 1957, to the four-lane approach to Sanford from the north by way of a causeway from Volusia County and a re-routed 17-92 in the limited access inter-state system; the completion of the 1792 four-laning project from Five Points south; the letting of a contract for the four-laning of SR 46 from the river to Mellonville Ave.

Read Plans

In the planning stage during the 12-month period ahead will be the complete revamping of roads for Seminole County looking forward to a modern highway system from every direction with the possibility of a short route for midwest and eastern travelers and tourists through Central Florida into Sanford and then on to Miami. Tourists, say some new road enthusiasts, will be looking for new short routes to replace the highly taxed turnpikes and high speed areas which divert them from the beauty spots of the State.

Navy Growth

The Navy has played an important part in Sanford and Seminole County's growth with the strength of the local Naval Air Station increasing which in turn brought hundreds of families to live here. 1957 is expected to reveal new plans for the multi-million dollar expansion program and move to the Osceola Base. This in turn will bring an influx of civilian trades labor to the area as well as additional increase in military personnel. Political and military officials say that the Sanford Naval Air Station, in its new location, will be one of the major bases on the East Coast.

Immediate Completion

Southern Bell Telephone & Telegraph Co.'s one-and-a-quarter million dollar new dial system headquarters building on Laurel Ave. at ninth St. is expected to turn Sanford and its area "dial" on the target date of March 17. Huge crews of engineers, cable and plant men are working feverishly to meet the deadline of the proposed date. Hundreds of applicants for telephone service are waiting for the new system to go into operation.

In addition to the Sanford dial exchange, Southern Bell Telephone & Telegraph Co. will, in all probability, complete its DeBary building which ties in with the local office.

Biggest Development

One of the biggest developments which continues to be the "top item" on the agenda for 1957 is the "docks and terminals" project along the St. Johns River in Lake Monroe from the Lake Monroe Bridge on to Sanford. The proposed terminals and docks would turn the entire area from West First St. north to Lake Monroe into an industrial zone that would, under even mild conditions, mushroom into the biggest freight distribution centers in Florida.

Home & Commercial Building

Homebuilding will take on new goals for 1957 with the expected increase of personnel at the Sanford Naval Air Station. Developers are already planning the construction of 75 new homes immediately in one subdivision with many others to follow. Rumors have been circulating that a one-thousand home development will be started in the near future. However, details have been kept under cover and negotiations have not yet reached an announcement stage.

The expansion of the south section of Seminole County is expected to hit unprecedented highs in 1957. Already dozens of platted developments have been treated with homebuilding already hitting fast strides which are expected to accelerate in the coming 12 months.

Already hanging fire for several months is the announcement on the expected construction of several modern supermarkets and shopping centers in the Sanford area. With new acquisition of property this added commercial building can get underway during 1957.

Another commercial building which will come to a probable 30-thousand dollar figure is expected to be announced soon after the first of the year.

Annexation & Population

Approval of a bill by the Seminole County Legislative delegation for annexation by petition will start the acquisition of new city limit lines early after the bill's passage this spring. The already estimated population of 20 to 22 thousand will begin to soar as the limits of the city are extended.

Every community in the county is expanding and expanding fast. Oviedo is growing, Altamonte Springs is taking on a "new look", Lake Mary, Casselberry, Longwood, Geneva, and Lake Monroe are all adding new homes in the countywide growth.

Agriculture Important

New fast freight service, expanding motor truck lines, water freight, and the possibility of air transportation for Sanford and Seminole County create new plans and bigger goals in the field of agriculture.

The Sanford State Farmer's Market continues to top last year's over-the-platform loadings. Diversified crops and scientific truck farming are adding new and better varieties for northern, mid-western and western markets. Citrus is beginning to be a big industry for the county as new roads are built for access to groves. Cattle is claiming a more and more important role in the county's economic pattern.

New York Giants in Sanford

Completion of the New York Giants' huge dormitory building for their farm system is expected in early or mid January, Director Carl Hubbell and his staff will move in shortly after the turn of the year to get plans underway and in readiness for the 1957 baseball training season.

Also nearing completion is the Mayfair Inn Annex under construction adjacent to their already plush and overflowing winter resort. This attraction will bring an additional number of visitors to Sanford for the winter season.

The success of the Mayfair Inn's $15,000 PGA Tournament is expected to bring an announcement on the planning and construction of a new, plush club house for their new-famed Mayfair Inn Country Club and golf course where the Third Annual Mayfair Inn $15,000 PGA Open will be held.

U. S. Most Disastrous Yuletide Weekend Told

Top News In Brief

CAMP KILMER, N. J. — Thousands of Hungarian refugees celebrated Christmas with the pageantry of their homeland and an American style Yule dinner.

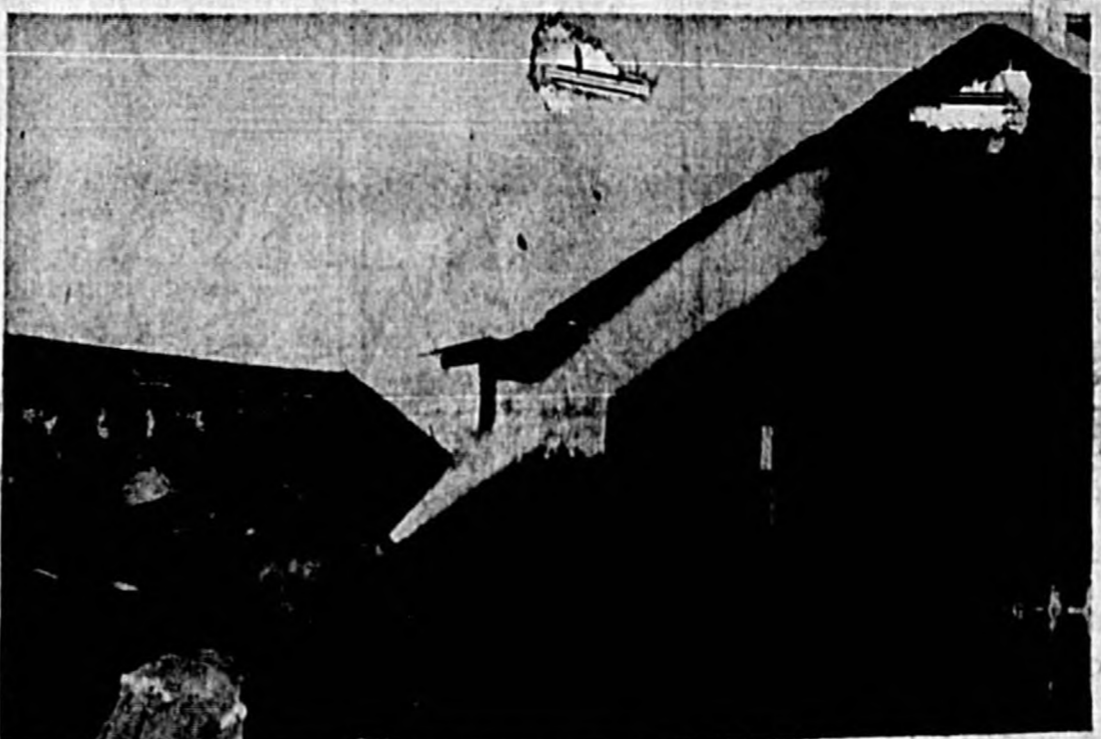

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower is expected to ask Congress to make the United States a haven for "lost" refugees—not only from Hungary, but from other Communist-controlled nations as well.

MOSCOW — A new seven-man "brain trust" began mapping today an economic program aimed at eliminating admitted mistakes and speeding the Soviet Union to its vowed goal of industrial superiority over the United States.

SANTA ROSA, Calif. — Dispatches from American reporters abroad frequently have more influence on U. S. foreign policy than reports from the ambassadors themselves. Frank H. Bartholomew, president of United Press, said today.

VATICAN CITY — Pope Pius XII calling for a strong alliance against the Russian war machine before it is too late.

"Sad reality forces us to set forth the terms of the struggle in clear language. If we kept silent, we would have to fear the judgment of God."

County Has 1 Accident Yesterday

By UNITED PRESS

The nation's most disastrous Christmas weekend on the highways ended today with traffic deaths soaring well above National Safety Council estimates for a new all-time holiday record.

The council's prediction of 800 deaths was surpassed Tuesday shortly before the fatality count ended at midnight as a crush of motorists headed home from Christmas outings.

The toll also was well above the previous high mark of 600 deaths for a holiday, set during last year's three-day Christmas weekend.

The traffic toll for a similar four-day non-holiday period at this time of year would be about 420 persons killed, according to the council.

661 Traffic Deaths

The United Press tally showed 661 persons were killed in traffic during the Christmas holiday which began at 6 p. m. Friday. In addition, 47 persons died in fires, 9 in plane crashes and 100 in miscellaneous accidents for a total of 832 accidental deaths.

California led the nation with 72 Illinois with 54, Texas 40, Ohio 33, Michigan 30, New York 25 and North Carolina 21.

Ned H. Dearborn, president of the National Safety Council, expressed "bitter disappointment" with the record highway carnage.

"We had hoped our pre-holiday warnings might cause drivers to take extra care and use more (Continued on Page Four)

Crazed Gunman Kills Girl, Driver On Bus

CLEVELAND, Ohio — A crazed gunman, ordered off a bus for allegedly molesting an 18-year-old girl, shot and killed the bus driver, the girl and wounded five passengers in the Greyhound bus terminal here today, before he was killed by a Cleveland detective.

Georgiann Kartzke, 19, of 317 25th St., Fort Easton Va., and bus driver Leo Almerico, 49, of 1222 West 69th St., Cleveland, were dead on arrival at St. Vincent Charity Hospital.

Homicide detectives said the pair was shot at the entrance of a Pittsburgh-to-Cleveland bus by a still unidentified Negro assailant. The gunman, who went berserk after Almerico ordered him to leave the bus on Miss Kartzke's complaint, was shot down by Detective Sgt. Michael Sirkot after the gunman had wounded five persons in a gun battle inside the terminal.

Detectives said the five wounded suffered only superficial wounds.

Police said Miss Kartzke had complained to passengers and the driver that the assailant had been annoying her. Witnesses told officers the driver had the girl sit in the front of the bus with him and told the man to leave her alone or get off the bus.

Witnesses told police the man left the bus then whipped out a .32-caliber automatic pistol and fired at the driver and woman before fleeing the bus, which was parked outside the Cleveland Greyhound terminal.

Police said the assailant shot the five others inside the terminal. The driver was able to enter the terminal before he collapsed and died. The girl died inside the parked bus.

Farewell Party Given At SNAS For Cdr. Colee

Commander H. C. Colee, Executive Officer, NAS Sanford, was honored at a Farewell Party given aboard the Naval Air Station last Friday.

Stations personnel prepared and served a "beautifully" decorated 20 pound cake which bore the inscription "Good Luck" Commander Colee. A personal touch was added by two homebaked cakes prepared by Mrs. Carolyn White, Secretary to the Commanding Officer and Head of the Party Committee.

Captain Robert W. Jackson presented Commander Colee a Silver Chalice as a Hon Voyage gift from the officers, civilians and crew of the Sanford Naval Air Station.

Attending the party were all personnel located in the Administration Building who are assigned to the station.

CofC Coffee Club Postpones Session

The Seminole County Chamber of Commerce Coffee Club, scheduled to be held the fourth Thursday of each month, will be postponed tomorrow because of the holiday season.

Next Coffee Club program, according to John Krider, the C of C manager, will be held on the last Thursday in January to which all Chamber of Commerce members and new business people are invited to attend.

Families Evacuated As Fire Sweeps Area

MALIBU, Calif. — Hundreds of families were evacuated from their homes in this famed movie colony area today in the path of a blaze that consumed more than 2,000 acres of brushland and burned at least 25 structures in the Santa Monica Mountains.

Luxurious homes of many film personalities dot the beach area, but it was not known immediately whether any of them were among those destroyed.

Flames were visible from Los Angeles and the San Fernando Valley as they spread in every direction and at one area leaped across Pacific Coast Highway.

Nearly 300 Los Angeles County and city fire fighters, aided by local cities and forest camp crews, were thrown into the fighting.

Popular Resort

The fire area is near a popular movie star resort area east of the old Richard Dix ranch and is populated by many movie personalities. It was the scene in 1933 of a 5 million dollar blaze that razed more than 100,000 acres.

Evacuation of residents in Newton, Ramona, LaTigo and Trancas canyons began at dawn. Sheriff's deputies of Los Angeles and Ventura counties were aided by the California highway patrol.

Wind Whips Area

Gusty morning winds whipped the flames in the tinder-dry area and the U. S. Weather Bureau predicted the winds would continue, coupled with low humidity. The season's total rainfall in this area has been less than one-half inch.

An emergency shelter was established and Red Cross officials alerted to the situation. Residents also were taken to lifeguard and fire stations at Zuma Beach.

DeBary Resident Edgar M. Bishop Succumbs Tuesday

Edgar M. Bishop, 47, died at Seminole Memorial Hospital at 11:05 a. m. yesterday following a short illness.

Mr. Bishop was a resident of the Bary at 10 Palmira Rd. where he had lived for three years.

He was born in Wrightstown, N. J. Feb. 10, 1899. He was a retired locomotive engineer with the Pennsylvania Railroad. He was an employee of 21 years.

Bishop was a member of the Moose Lodge of Trenton, N. J. and of All Souls Catholic Church of Sanford.

Mr. Bishop is survived by his widow, Mrs. Edith L. Bishop, DeBary; mother, Mrs. Mary A. Bishop, Mt. Holly, N. J.; and two sisters, one living in Mt. Holly and another living in Canada.

The rosary will be recited for Mr. Bishop at 7:30 p. m. tomorrow night at Brison Funeral Home. Funeral Mass will be held at 9:30 a. m. Friday morning at All Souls Catholic Church with the Rev. Fr. Richard Lyons officiating.

Burial will be in All Souls Cemetery.

Brison Funeral Home is in charge.

Singers Entertain Mayfair Inn Guests On Christmas Eve

Thirteen members of Seminole High School's Glee Club entertained Mayfair Inn guests Christmas Eve night with Christmas Carol singing.

Joylynn Davis accompanied the young singers at the organ in the lobby of the Mayfair Inn.

Those singing were Kay Jenkins, Donna Fleischer, Linda Anderson, Juanita Wynn Dottie Metts, Nellie Pickens, Linda Smith, Jane Worden, Pete Nash, Robert Carter, Roni Russi, Henry Cannon, and Brantley Schirard.

A huge Christmas Tree in the center of the large lobby was used for Santa Claus Headquarters as he paid a brief visit to hotel guests and their children. Hundreds of gifts were distributed.

6 Room Goldsboro Dwelling Destroyed By Fire Christmas

A six room frame dwelling in Goldsboro was destroyed by fire Christmas morning when sparks from a defective flue is believed to have ignited the tinder-dry home.

The fire was discovered shortly after 9 o'clock yesterday morning by Fannie Fields, daughter of the occupant of the home who is in Georgia. The daughter saw smoke pouring from the back door of the house. She awakened her husband who was asleep in a room adjacent to the one in which the fire started.

"The fire department got here mighty quick," Fannie Fields said yesterday at the scene of the blaze, 1807 West 16th St. while hundreds of curiosity seekers watched the flames gut the entire home.

No estimate was placed on the amount of damage.

Funeral Services Are Set Thursday For Mrs. Woods

Mrs. Thelma Catherine Woods, 42, passed away this morning at the Seminole Memorial Hospital following a short illness.

Mrs. Woods made her home on Lake Jennie, after coming to Sanford 23 years ago from Dalton, Ga.

She was a member of Ebenezer Methodist Church.

Survivors include her husband, J. E. Woods; one son, Fred Edward Woods, and one daughter, Miss Lucy Jo Woods, all of Sanford; mother Mrs. L. E. Gilbert, Dalton, Ga.; one brother, Fred Gilbert, Sanford; and three sisters Mrs. Lucy McGhee and Mrs. (Continued on Page 4)
