

Tom Sharkey Says Police Kept Him From Winning Heavyweight Title; Mack, Barrow Differ On Infields

By DILLON GRAHAM
AP Features Sports Editor

NEW YORK, June 16.—Sailor Tom Sharkey says the police kept him from winning the world heavyweight boxing championship fight with Jim Corbett in San Francisco, June 28, 1895, while he was still in the Navy, and in New York in 1898. Each time the match was stopped by the police, "I was the unluckiest man in the world with Corbett," reminisces Sharkey. "I could have been champion in 1895 except for the police. The first time I fought him was in the old Mechanics Pavilion in San Francisco. I floored him in the first round. He was a clutch one. He'd hold me in a clinch and say to the referee, 'Why don't you make this man quit hitting?' The referee jumped into the ring and stopped it. In the fourth round, it was called a draw and there I was, way out in front on points.

"In New York, the police stopped it in the ninth round. Honest John Kelly, the referee, gave me the decision on a foul and called all bets off. Corbett wasn't champ then.

"In 1897, when Corbett lost the title to Fitzsimmons at Carson City, Nev., I put up $10,000 to fight the winner but got the run around. I had won from Fitz on a 7th round foul the year before, 1909, when I also boxed Sullivan a three-round exhibition.

Sailor Tom had 54 official fights from 1893 to 1904 and lost to only four men, twice to Jefferson, twice to Gus Rubin, whom he kayoed once in 27 seconds of the first round; once to Fitzsimmons and to Pete Everett. He was never knocked out but was stopped twice, by Fitzsimmons and Rubin. He won his first 18 bouts by knockouts, 11 of them in the first round.

Sharkey laughs now over the only match he lost on a foul—to Pete Everett, a miner and local favorite in Cripple Creek. He knocked out Pete with one punch as the bout opened. The referee turned away. "I rushed over to him and said why don't you count that man out?" Pete wins on a foul," he said. "Like I do, does." I hit him on the jaw," I said.

"The referee pulled out a .44 gun and said, 'I said Pete wins on a foul.' I looked at the gun and said O.K. 'You win.'"

Sharkey, now living in San Francisco, is hale and hearty as he approaches his seventieth birthday. He is a government patrolman at the San Francisco Port of Embarkation.

NEARLY 30 years after he broke up his famous $100,000 infield, Connie Mack still regards that quartet as just about the best in baseball history.

"It was the best infield I ever had," Connie says when conversation turns to the combination of Stuffy McInnis at first base, Eddie Collins at second, Jack Barry at short and Frank Baker at third. "There were two outstanding infields" the sage of Shibe Park declares. "The other was the Chicago Cubs' Chance, Evers, Tinker and Steinfeldt. There has been a lot of discussion over which was better."

The infield that cost Mack $100,000 label after their antics on the diamond had brought the A's four championships and two world series triumphs during the 1910-1914 era. If the foursome had played a decade later, in Babe Ruth's day, it probably would have been known as the million dollar infield.

Connie explained to our Philadelphia operative, Ted Meier, that he was able to get the four for practically nothing because there

A.E.F. Gasoline Is Released To Ease Crisis

100,000 Barrels Distributed But Little Effect Is Noticed

NEW YORK CITY, June 16.—One hundred thousand barrels of the gasoline stored in New York for the use of the armed forces were released for civilian use during the last week in an effort to alleviate the serious shortage in this area, it was disclosed yesterday at the New York regional office of the Petroleum Administration for War.

The release gasoline, which was taken from reserve stocks that could be replenished before ships had arrived to transport it overseas, was apportioned to a number of large gasoline distributors so that it would go through the regular trade channels. Nearly all of it had been moved by yesterday.

Although the 100,000 barrels or 4,200,000 gallons, represents nearly one-third of the daily allotment in June for the entire seven-state Eastern area, it had apparently had little effect up to today upon the retail gasoline supply in New York.

Louis Kimmel, business manager of the Gasoline Merchants of Brooklyn & Queens, Inc., 4710 Clarendon Road, Brooklyn, said that three-quarters of the association's member stations were closed Saturday, and would remain closed over the week-end.

Sixty inspectors of the Office of Price Administration, assisted by police, were out Sunday looking for unlicensed drivers, they will continue their scrutiny of announced that in the twenty-four-hour period ended at midnight Friday, sixty motorists had been questioned by police and registration numbers of 378 automobiles were taken for investigation by the O.P.A.

Daring Football Expected; Anything Can Happen, Says Bible

AP Features

AUSTIN, Tex.—There will be no danger of over-coaching in college football next season. So says Dana X. Bible, the veteran University of Texas mentor, who takes the view that the boys will not have much time for athletics and "we certainly will not go through long drills on fundamentals."

"There is a big question as to whether the military groups will have time to take part in inter-collegiate athletics," he said. "If they do have some free time, we certainly should not use all of it to hard grind. We shall have our practice short, snappy and as interesting as possible."

But he thinks the same will have a lot of color. "You can bet about expect anything to happen," Bible commented. "In other words, it will be more or less wide open—rather daring."

He also anticipates good attendance at games played in the thickly-populated areas.

"There is plenty of money in circulation and I think these games will be well-attended," he explained. "But there is not going to be the intense interest of other years, and with the people wanting to co-operate in regard to travel and with rationing of gasoline, time, etc., I don't believe people from a distance will come to the games."

He thinks attendance will hold up at Austin, Houston, Dallas and Fort Worth but says "I would imagine places like College Station (where Texas A. and M. is located) and Fayetteville, Ark. (site of the University of Arkansas) would be pretty hard hit."

Bible definitely believes football should be carried on in wartime. "I just don't believe there is any training with the exception of military tactics that prepares a boy more perfectly for the armed forces than a vigorous competitive program," he asserted.

One spokesman said, "We have lost $45,000 in the last six weeks. Beef has been costing us about 27 cents a pound and we sell it at 23 cents."

Labor Leaders Urge President Roosevelt To Veto The Anti-Strike Legislation

WASHINGTON, June 18, (AP)—The War Labor Board decision on the soft coal wage dispute is expected today and informed sources say it will leave up to litigation the issue of partial-to-partial pay. The bulletin is expected to say in effect that the board is passing up for a ruling on the issue and that if the miners feel they have a case they may turn to the courts.

Call It Wicked

The three leaders said the legislation "is a wicked, vicious bill, it is the worst anti-labor bill passed by Congress in the last 100 years."

They said the bill would virtually destroy unions and minority rights, violating the guarantee of free speech, and encourage strikes.

An analysis of the bill containing these assertions was signed by AFL President Green, CIO President Philip Murray and David H. Robertson, president of the Brotherhood of Automotive Workers and Engineers, an independent union.

Don't Forget REMEMBER Father's Day

A Great American Sits on a Pedestal This Sunday

In time of war you like to think that the country is made up of men like your Dad. And to a great extent the hearts and souls of our greatest heroes are the result of their fearlessness and high principle and honor—the part that men like your father are taking in defense work in our nation's position of leadership in the armed forces—all add up to certain victory. You can do the honors for Dad this Sunday! It is his turn to sit on a pedestal. And it is your chance to show him how proud you are of him and the things he stands for.

O'Neal, Holman Bitterly Oppose Food Subsidies

Farm Leaders Say Demands For Roll-Back Are Indefensible

WASHINGTON, June 15.—Strong opposition to subsidies to effect a roll back of food prices was voiced by agricultural organization representatives this week before the Senate Banking and Currency Committee at hearings on legislation to extend the life of the Commodity Credit Corporation, which would handle the subsidy.

Both witnesses—Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, and Charles W. Holman, secretary of the National Co-operative Milk Producers' Federation, attacked O'Neal's support of the subsidy plan. Mr. O'Neal, who suggested an amendment prohibiting C. C. C. funds to be used for subsidies, said "demands of organized labor for subsidies to roll back prices are indefensible."

He pointed out that figures published by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics show that despite the increase in the cost of food, the average non-farm family is paying a smaller percentage of its income for food than at any time in the last 10 years, due to the fact that wages have increased more than food. He added that labor's support of the subsidy program is but "a thinly disguised effort to secure another unwaranted increase in wages—this time at the expense of the public treasury."

Senator Francis Maloney, Democrat of Connecticut, challenged O'Neal's opposition to subsidies by asserting that in the past farmers had no objection to subsidies, "so it must be only when it might hurt them that they oppose them." To this Mr. O'Neal replied that prices were so low during the depression that a subsidy was necessary. Discussing the national food situation, Mr. O'Neal went on record in favor of placing all food production and price control in the hands of War Food Administrator Chester C. Davis.

More picturesque in speech in presenting his opposition to subsidies was Mr. Holman, who described the roll back and subsidy policy thus: "While the drums of inflation roll out the grim dirge of waste, we now witness the great crucifixion of American agriculture." His attack on labor's support followed the same line presented by Mr. O'Neal. He testified at a hearing last week by William F. Olson, president of the American Federation of Labor.

Other developments on the food front included statements by War Food Administration officials to the effect that the price of wheat is 41 per cent of the base price and beef for military use and limited export purposes may be relaxed as soon as other controls over slaughter can be made effective.

President Roosevelt signed a bill authorizing the C. C. C. to sell an additional 50,000,000 bushels of government held wheat for feed. The bill, a revision of the limitation contained in the 1943 agriculture appropriation act, provides that the wheat shall not be sold at less than the parity price of corn at the time of sale. It further requires that in making additional adjustments in the price of wheat, the minimum price shall not be higher a specific area than the country-wide average parity price of corn.

Although the Office of Price Administration's food problems occupied the spotlight today, the problems continue to simmer. The subject of MPRSS, controlling prices and grades of rayon hosiery was brought up for further hearing by a subcommittee of the House Interstate Commerce Committee.

Dr. Bernard F. Haley, chief of the O. P. A. textile division, defended the agency's hosiery regulations on the basis that "innovations" had sent prices skyward. Price increases, such as had been in effect prior to the issuance of MPRSS, were ineffective, he said.

Blick Market In Corn Roams Fields By Truck

Grain Men Say Drivers Search Mid-West For High Price Crops

CHICAGO, June 15. (AP)—Truck drivers, roaming the Midwest in an unprecedented hunt for corn, are buying the yellow grain at higher than selling prices and selling it profitably to farmers who need it to feed livestock, members of leading grain firms said this week.

That is one reason, they said, why not as much corn is needed as is coming into marketing terminals, threatening, in the words of the Corn Industries Research Foundation, a complete shutdown in the corn-raising industry within the next 30 days.

A shutdown in corn refineries would affect such industries as textile manufacturing, papermaking, aluminum and steel foundries, brewing, candy manufacturing and innnumerable others which utilize derivatives of one of America's most important grains.

The existence of an illegal market in corn, grain men said, is common knowledge among the trade. The Baldwin Elevator Company, of Decatur, Ill., commenting on the situation, said:

"There probably never was such a storm of truckers roaming over the Illinois highways staging a veritable corn 'bitch' on country elevators as in recent weeks. Now they are contacting the growers direct. With truckers being the privileged characters as to prices they can pay for corn, it does not look as though there will be a normal corn movement through regular channels even after producers have caught up with their wheat."

Reporters to grain firms indicated similar situations in other corn belt states.

Meanwhile, major markets are getting the corn they need. The amount of the maize in principal marketing centers at the start of this week was pitifully small as compared with last year. The figures for three major terminals:

This Week	Year Ago
Chicago	400,000
Bushels	1,470,000
Kansas City	700,000
Mississippi	757,000
Business	4,598,000
	4,758,000

It is practically impossible to enforce corn sellings at every farm point in the American grain belt, grain men said. The transactions are not officially recorded as they are in marketing terminals and the only persons who know about them are the buyer and the seller.

Local Farmers Asked To Increase Poultry

Seminole County poultrymen are asked by the government to produce approximately 310,000 dozen eggs this year, an increase over 1942 production of less than one percent, the National Poultry Defense Committee estimated today.

The county goal is based on the increase suggested for Florida by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, explained Committee Chairman Hobart Creighton. Because of Florida's relatively high egg production in 1942, the state is asked for one of the smallest increases in the country, well below the national average increase of 8 percent.

"Poultry farmers are working harder than ever in all-out war production," Creighton said, "continuing the fine job they did in this county last year helping to supply civilian military and lend-lease needs. Also two developments during last year have resulted in larger laying flocks on most farms today."

"First, egg prices as shown by purchases of the A & P Tea Company, one of the largest buyers which paid $740,895 last year for 1,774,690 dozen Florida eggs, were so favorable the farmers saw an unusually large proportion of potential layers. Second, raising pullets, as Fall weather conditions in 1942 were good for was generally mild and the average hatching date was early."

Those factors point to increased egg production," Creighton explained. "If an improvement can be made in the farm skilled labor situation and if farmers can get enough protein in feed, there are critical shortages of protein ingredients because imports have been cut so drastically. Even soybean oil meal is not being processed fast enough to meet demands. These are major problems facing the industry."

Florida poultrymen, who produced a total of 17,888,000 dozen eggs in 1942, are asked for 17,613,000 dozen this year as their share of the national egg goal of 4,780,000,000 dozen.

Henry Ford Has Optimistic View On Birthday Eve

Predicts Plenty Of Work For All After War Is Over

NEW YORK, June 15. (Special)—In one of his rare interviews, released today in the July issue of the Woman's Home Companion, Henry Ford, who will celebrate his eightieth birthday on June 30, scans the future of America and pronounces his opinion on a variety of topics ranging from the industrial outlook and new inventions to the importance of a happy marriage.

To anxious mothers and wives who wonder how we are going to find jobs for all the boys when they come back from the war, Mr. Ford, who has just resumed the active presidency of his company, offers the comforting assurance that "unless we are much more foolish than I think we are, this country will find a way to bring back into productive employment after the war without much of a break." Which leads logically to his broader view that, "If we handle our post-war affairs properly and heed the voice of experience, there need be no unmanageable postwar depression."

This faith in the future of American industry, Mr. Ford explains, is founded on the credo that "the more people employed at fair wages, the larger market for the products of industry," and on his belief that the machine age is just beginning. He feels that the machine has been a great civilizing force. "Machines save men's energy and time. They have lightened men's burdens and have brought more economic equality between men than ever existed."

But more machines don't mean unemployment and loafing. Although Mr. Ford acknowledges that work never has been popular he says, "You can bank on this—there is no future without work. Efforts to construct a workless economy are doomed to fail. More and more kinds of work will be developed. There will be new inventions. Not, he points out, that there's any pressing need of new inventions at the moment. Mr. Ford maintains that "we are way behind in the task of completing and refining the inventions we already have. Nothing invented in the last fifty years has yet attained its final form or been made easily obtainable as it should be."

Along with the predicted upsurge of postwar industry, Mr. Ford hopes to see the process of industrial decentralization get under way. "There is little reason any more," he maintains, "for the masses to be crowded in cities. They might just as well move out into the country."

"All that we have learned by concentration of work can now be adapted to decentralized work. For twenty years our company has been moving various smaller departments out into the country. With the exception of a few industries, the average industrial employee can just as well have a country home with a city wage. And I know of no better servant for any family than a modern American village."

A man who has one foot in industry and the other on the soil is about as secure as he can be in this world!

Talking particularly to the wives and mothers of America, Mr. Ford dwells at some length on the more personal aspects of successful living such as the importance of religion and of affection between husband and wife. He feels that "anyone who lives happy thinks long enough finds he has a religion. A great reader of the Bible himself, Ford deprecates that "people don't read the Bible enough nowadays, and makes interesting average statements. "During the first World War, Woodrow Wilson and I took a pledge together to read a chapter of the Bible every day. I have kept my pledge and I understand that he did until his death."

Much of his gobsmack in the industrial world Mr. Ford attributes to his happy marriage. Every ward but wouldn't back up. So we took it back to the shop and started over. A few days later early one morning we took it out again. And it worked! It went forward and backward too! "Except for the day we were married, that was the happiest day of our lives."

72 Boys Return From Two Weeks At Camp Winona

What was described as an ideal two weeks outing, was enjoyed during the past two weeks by 72 boys from Sanford, DeLand, Orlando and Ocala, who under direction of H. E. Morris, rounded out a well balanced program of sports and recreation at Camp Winona at DeLand Springs.

This marked the 17th annual program of this type put on by the Sanford Chamber of Commerce, which was designed to enable boys to take care of themselves in the open.

Seven Seminole High School boys acted as counselors. They were: Pete and Al Brock, Billy Fleming, Hugh Whitehall, Ray Fox Jr., Billy Herndon, and Jerry Dornmy.

During the two weeks outing, nine boys passed the senior life saving test, and 18 passed the junior test. In addition, eight boys learned to swim. In life instruction, 41 boys passed National Rifle Association tests.

There was much boating, and more than 50 fish were caught, one of them being heavier than five pounds in weight. Other enjoyable activities were shuffle board, pingpong, checkers, archery and sitting around the camp fire, telling stories, Mr. Morris said.

Effort Made To Salvage Subsidy Plan

Hill Leads Move To Restore 35 Million Cut From OPA Funds

WASHINGTON, June 21, (AP)—With some indications of at least partial success, the administration took hasty steps in the Senate over the week-end toward salvaging the food subsidy program left hanging on the brink of oblivion by a House revolt against the price rollback.

Acting Democratic Leader Hill of Alabama said strenuous efforts will be made to restore $35,000,000 in OPA funds cut off by the House and to lift a restriction on use of OPA money to finance the administration of subsidy payments.

There was less hope in administration quarters of restoring $35,000,000 to the OPA budget for OWI's domestic operations, and OWI Director Elmer Davis said he'll quit if the Senate concurs with the House in abolishing these homefront activities.

Introduced by H. J. Lehman, himself a former Representative, who thanked him for the time he had given the people of this county in the Senate and who said he had done an excellent job as chairman of the Appropriations Committee, Senator Housholder said that everyone who attends a legislative session thinks that one is the best and that he too is doing his best.

The cigarette tax, he said, was the only important tax imposed upon people at this session. The Legislature felt that the people had enough burdens to bear at the present time with the war and did not want to keep adding any new taxes but this one tax had to be levied to offset certain other losses in revenue to the state.

He said that he had gone to the Legislature with the hope of saving sufficient money to avoid levying any new taxes, and as a result the Appropriations Committee had agreed to make certain cuts in the budget.

However, when the budget got on the floor members of every department which had been cut appeared in force and saved money for the state and at the same time helped supply men for other more important jobs.

Mr. Mann made a short talk in which he emphasized the cooperation between the House and Senate and with the other branches of state government and said that the bill would be passed.

He declared that attendance at a legislative session is an education for everyone and that the first time he read a bill he would think it was a pretty good bill.

Mr. Mann said that he would like to see the bill passed and that he would like to see the people of the state benefit from it.

CREW ESCAPES UNHURT IN AFRICAN BOMBER CRACKUP

Tactics Of Big Bombers Attacking Germany Shown

AAF Features MIDLAND, Tex. When you read another German industrial center, you can be pretty sure it happened like this:

The biggest planes, four or more flying together at an altitude between 25,000 and 35,000 feet. Each formation covered a space about the shape of the area it was to bomb, but somewhat larger.

The planes were probably "staggered" with two of them flying exactly abreast of each other or at the same precise level.

Even though one particular factory might have been the prime objective, each bombardier did not try to lay his "eggs" right down the smokestack.

The leading plane aimed for the center of the target and the others dropped their bombs in coordination.

Big Bombers Need Altitude Combat has proved it advisable that the big bombers, comparatively slow and offering large targets, must seek high altitudes where anti-aircraft fire and enemy fighters present least danger.

For this reason, as well as because of their range and load-carrying capacity, they are used against industrial installations, docks and large ships. They seldom attack hostile ground forces.

Fighters cannot escort the heavy bombers on long-range missions. So the Liberators and Fortresses operate in large numbers and in the staggered or stepped-up formations for protection as well as for maximum effectiveness.

From whatever direction an enemy plane appears the crews of our bombers can train their sights on it.

Bombing Attacks Continue Against Airfields And Cities Of Island Of Sicily

The German broadcasts said the massing of invasion forces in the Mediterranean theater coincided with the Allied communique announcing heavy aerial attacks by the British and American air forces against the narrow seas at the straits and ports of Sicily and surrounding areas.

Rebels Allied quarters, however, denied rumors of an Italian peace mission.

Appeal Is Made To Public To Assist In Observer Posts

An appeal for persons to volunteer three or four hours observation each week as AWA Observers at the Luke Monroe Post, was made by Mrs. S. E. Goodspeed, chief observer.

Allied military censorship, which confines itself to questions of military security, permitted the raising of a reported road but undertook no responsibility as stated on page three.

The appeal, which apparently originated among the French civil population, named Marshal Pietro Badoglio, former chief of staff of all Italian armed forces, King Prince Umberto and even King Victor Emmanuel as conspirators.

Allied military censorship, which confines itself to questions of military security, permitted the raising of a reported road but undertook no responsibility as stated on page three.

There are no good reasons why there should be any trouble in manning this Post in a community as large as Sanford, she said.

There are Post in communities with ten percent of our population able to run without trouble. These Posts are needed now as never before and will be for some months to come perhaps much longer.

"It doesn't seem that a request for three to four hours each week as a duty to one's country is too unreasonable, when so many are being called upon for far greater sacrifices," she added.

The excuse offered by some that they are buying War Bonds is just a little worse than no excuse. These Observers are buying bonds and they are working so that those bonds will be good.

"Many other excuses are offered just as weak as this one; some are too old at sixty and yet, too observers, man and wife, past seventy, have served at Luke Monroe since the Post was built without missing a single night. Others say they are far too busy. There is a lady here in town who works 15 hours each day in a restaurant; finishes her day about 10:00 P.M. and is at the Post from midnight to 6:00 A.M. going to work at 7. She has failed to have transportation on a few occasions and has walked the three miles to the Post and returned the following morning. It would seem that there would be enough men and women working eight hours each day or less in the community to make such a sacrifice unnecessary.
