HOOVER PLANS TO EASE TASKS OF PRESIDENT

President-Elect Will Have Several Secretaries To Carry On Incidental Details Scorns Handling Minor Problems Believes Burden Upon Executive Should Be Made Much Lighter

By George R. Holmes International News Service Staff Correspondent LONG KEY, Fla., Jan. 31.—Herbert Hoover is planning a number of innovations in conducting the executive business of the government when he takes over the reins of the White House on the fourth of March. One of these involves the office of secretary to the president, always an important post, and one that has become increasingly so in recent years with the steady increase of the executive burden.

Instead of one secretary, as at present, Mr. Hoover would like to have at least two or even three, with a clear division of duties and no overlapping of functions to complicate the services of the president. Mr. Hoover's plan is to have a chief secretary to handle the general correspondence and a number of assistants to handle the more specialized work. He also plans to have a number of secretaries to handle the more routine work of the executive branch.

Griffin Is Acquitted Here Wednesday On Possession Of Still W. A. Griffin, arrested 19 days ago in connection with a dry raid, was acquitted Wednesday afternoon in County Court on a charge of possession of a still. A charge of possession of liquor was delayed until the next term of court, K. P. Rozzelle, who represented the defendant.

Griffin was arrested on Jan. 11. A 100-gallon still was seized and 20 gallons of liquor and 16 bars of "back" were confiscated. Griffin was tried in court on a charge of possession of a still and liquor and was found guilty. His attorney secured a new trial on the contention that the two charges should have been separated.

The defendant was freed yesterday because of inability of the prosecutor to prove that the still was the property of Griffin. The defendant did not take the stand in his own behalf.

PLAN OF NAMING MOST VALUABLE PLAYER IS VEXING

Predicament Of Two Stars is blamed on Unpopular Custom

By Davis J. Walsh International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—There are allegations being made today that baseball is beginning to regret the moment of weakness in which it lent its auspices to the project by which players are rewarded at the end of a season because they were detected in the act of being valuable to their employers.

In any case, they are blaming the most valuable player awards for the fact that Mickey Cochrane, of the Athletics, and Freddy Lindstrom, of the Giants, are definitely listed among the holdouts of the 1929 off season.

They say Cochrane wants $1,000 extra for consenting to associate himself further with the Philadelphia ball club and it must be conceded that this is a lot of money, even if he doesn't get it. However, the fact that Cochrane became ambitious concurrently with the award of the league prize may be a mere circumstance, as quite probably is the case with any demand Lindstrom is sponsoring.

Both had big seasons and undoubtedly would have been commended to extensive notations, even if nobody ever had heard of a player who actually was valuable.

According to his testimony, the ball club loses both ways by transference, first, in money, which is always first, and second, because somehow the player seldom reacts favorably to the honor that has been bestowed upon him.

Anyhow, the magnates are sure they have made a big mistake with the whole business and why they didn't figure that out in the beginning, I can't tell you.

RAILROADS GIVE SPECIAL RATES TO BATTLE IN MIAMI

Mid-Western Lines To Help Dixie Roads In Transporting Fans

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 30.—(INS)—Railroads of the Mid-West today joined with carriers of the South and Southeast to make it easy for fight fans to attend the Sharkey-Stribling bout on the night of Feb. 27.

W. F. Carey, vice president of Madison Square Garden, who is co-operating with Jack Dempsey in the fight arrangements here, was notified by R. J. Thompson, passenger agent of the Atlantic Coast Lines, that the road to a rate of a one-way fare of 25 cents would apply also throughout the midwest.

Dempsey was chuckling today over the synopsis of a story published in a Chicago newspaper, and written by a New York correspondent stating that the champion was willing to hand here to protect money he had invested with 15 cards.

"I had no money invested here here after Tex's death was to do everything I could to protect his investments for Mrs. Rickard and Rickard's baby."

"However," Dempsey continued, "I have a $12,500 interest in the fight between Sharkey and Stribling. When Mr. Carey and I went to Boston to sign Sharkey, Jack laid out for a $100,000 guarantee. The Garden of Eden had set the limit at $75,000, but I had so much confidence in the success of the venture I offered to split the difference with Mr. Carey. He agreed, and we each added an equal $12,500 to complete the guarantee for Sharkey's demands. Since that time the Garden has relieved me of that investment."

"It is ridiculous to say that my money I have in imperiled. That is impossible. I have an established trust fund that will provide me with all the money I will ever need."

Osage Indians Turn To Farming As An Alternative Should Oil Income Vanish

STILLWATER, Okla., Jan. 30.—(INS)—The Osage Indians of Oklahoma, made rich through the discovery of oil on their land, are turning to farming as an alternative should the "black gold" cease to flow.

"Some day it will go and there will be no fat checks from the Great White Father," is the way Kah Wah Sippy Ah-ta Ny (Black Horse Rider), more commonly known as H. H. Tapp, sums up the situation facing his tribe, whom he has made one of the richest in the world.

Already he has taken up the pursuit of diversified farming and he is active in urging his "brothers" to do the same. He is known as one of Oklahoma's most prominent stockmen and farmers. Under his influence, other Indians of the tribe are setting up their homesteads in Osage County and are becoming interested in cattle breeding, fruit growing and farming.

"I want the Indian to show his White Brother that he can farm successfully," Tapp, Chief, said. "When we can no longer draw the checks, I want us to be able to Henry S. Johnston, suspended governor of Oklahoma, already facing eight charges in a court of impeachment, has been made the subject of three new allegations. The position of an Oklahoma governor is almost as insecure as that of a Chinese war lord.

A Tampa judge has ruled that a doctor crowing at night is no nuisance to public health. Now that this callous and question has been settled, which little boy in the street can tell us why an automobile fire always blows out when the fellow is in the biggest hurry to get to some place?

Tampa's city hall clock went on strike the other day, ringing 12 times at three o'clock and 23 times at four o'clock. Bet the old time clock got a peek at one of those good-looking girls who parade down Main Street in the afternoon. It became so excited it had to stop its expressions of pleasure and indignation.

Property developments in the vicinity of Palm Beach, winter home of the rich, are continuing on an extraordinary scale. Recently S. W. Simpson, New York financier, paid a half million dollars for a tract.

Mr. Knight's statement should be read by all citizens of Florida and particularly by members of the Legislature. It sounds a note of caution which is all-important at this critical period of the state's readjustment and recovery.

The Big Fight

From a beginning which variously augured ill for its success, the Sharkey-Stribling fight at Miami Beach some weeks hence has advanced from the doubtful column into the ranks of certain winners. Conceived in the shrewd brain of the late promoter, Tex Rickard, the proposed boxing extravaganza was looked upon at first as a result of a lapse of Mr. Rickard into one of his seldom weak moments.

With the death of Mr. Rickard, whose ability to lure the public to his ringside has been the inspiration of many lesser showmen, the critics easily foresaw the demise of the Florida flistic contest. But what was predicted to be a funeral turned out to be an entirely different thing, what with the appearance of Jack Dempsey upon the scene with the information that he was going to step into Mr. Rickard's shoes and manage the fight.

Certain of occupying a sizable portion of the seats will a contingent of Georgians who are always ready to support to the limit any of their athletic idols. Eager to see their pride take the measure of the Boston gob whose home town is not very popular in the cracker state, Georgians will drop their hoes and plows to watch the big event.

The outcome of the battle is doubtful but we predict the probable winners in the following order: Miami, first; Dempsey, second; Sharkey, third and Stribling, last.

Taxation

No issue in the State of Florida is more paramount at the present time than that of taxation. It is the magnet which all eyes are attracted and it is upon this that the Tampa Tribune writes interestingly as follows:

"In an illuminating statement to the public, which we print this morning, Peter O. Knight discusses the question of taxation in Florida and offers suggestions of value and importance just at this time, when there is statewide agitation on the subject. Mr. Knight insists, as he has insisted for years, that Florida has the simplest and best method of taxation of any state in the Union. Believing this, he takes the position, that there should be no change in the present system. No new forms of taxation should be adopted but Florida should 'sit steady in the boat,' and adhere to its established attitude against unnecessary and annoying levies.

"Mr. Knight shows that the proposition to use state funds for paying the bonded indebtedness created by the counties during the boom period, which has been industriously advocated in certain quarters, is clearly unconstitutional, prohibited by Article IX, which especially forbids the levying of any tax by the state or the use of the state's funds or credit for the benefit of any chartered company, nor for paying interest on any bonds issued by such chartered companies, or by counties, or by corporations. Even without the constitutional prohibition, however, Mr. Knight holds that this expedient should not be adopted, because the assistance that the state could reasonably provide would be infinitesimal as compared to the needs of the respective counties. It would not materially help the counties, and would only unduly and unnecessarily burden the state and destroy its reputation throughout the country."

"We do not want to find more sources of revenue," Mr. Knight insists. "The more sources of revenue the Legislature finds, the more extravagant the state government will become."

"It is certain that all varieties of taxation schemes will be submitted to the coming Legislature. Public sentiment throughout the state should make itself so impressively heard that the Legislature will not allow itself to be persuaded to adopt any radical measures. Of all the times in its history, Florida needs now to maintain its equilibrium, to keep a level head and to ignore, as dangerous and disturbing, all half-baked proposals to change its system of taxation or its system of government."

"This does not necessarily mean that some changes in the method of distribution of revenues would not be desirable. Although it appears hopeless to effect it, there is a strong sentiment for the abolition of the present distribution of one cent of the gasoline tax equally among the counties, or of an amendment to that provision which would make the distribution fair and equitable. Opposition of the smaller counties which profit by the present unjust distribution of this fund doubtless will make it impossible to get any change in this law through the Legislature. This item of state revenue should either be more equitably distributed, or it should be devoted to other purposes, of greater benefit to the people as a whole. This would not mean any change in the state system of taxation and would not impose any additional taxation, but would merely provide a more equitable and beneficial plan of applying this revenue to state needs."

Mr. Knight's statement should be read by all citizens of Florida and particularly by members of the Legislature. It sounds a note of caution which is all-important at this critical period of the state's readjustment and recovery.

FARM WASTE IN NEWSPAPERS

The circulation of this country they would have sufficient influence to prevent the passage of a bill to prevent these wastes in the making of paper and thus prevent the loss of the money of every citizen.

Florida Paragraphers, recently assembled at Avon Park, showed their large-handedness by spending wit and wisdom on each other which would bring a pretty price in print. The Literary Digest should at least have an observer on hand.

A movement is on foot in Florida to prevent the price of automobile license tags from exceeding at any time the price of the automobile licensed.

There is opinion to the effect that Jack Sharkey is being propped up with publicity to make him seem worth knocking down by Stribling at Miami. And that Mr. Sharkey is quite reconciled to both the propping up and the knocking down. Not that he wouldn't like Stribling if he could.

It may make sense to Tampans but to those outside the city limits Tampa politics these days seem unintelligible as Professor Einstein's first and second theories.

Hamilton Holt and his Republic of Culture at Winter Park are writing history on the run. The faculty list at Rollins reads like a catalogue from the Hall of Fame. The Cameo among Colleges grows more luminous, outstanding, enlightened and alert each year.

Gadly do we join the Sanford Herald and the Tampa Tribune in praising the Wall Street Journal for its praise of Florida. To show our gratitude we forgive it for the many paragraphs and extraordinary points of view that occasionally burden its front pages.

Fort Pierce has its "Man in the Iron Mask" in the person of William S. Vane, elected to the United States senate but not yet asked to have a seat.

If Major Sumnerall is the great living Floridian and John Gorrie the great individual in Florida's history, who is the greatest living American? Whoever he is, he is probably in Florida at this time. The visitor roll these days reads like "Who's Who in America."

Senator Fletcher voted for and Senator Trammell against the confirmation of Roy O. West as secretary of the Interior since Secretary West will have only about thirty-four days in office, it may be that Senator Fletcher thought so short a term not worth voting against and that Senator Trammell thought it not worth voting for. Mr. West would need some what more than thirty-four days to go down in history as either a great or villainous secretary.

"Without any intention on my part to become involved in politics," says Malie Martin, secretary to the governor of Florida, "here I am today, having accepted not exactly a political appointment but dangerously near that point this breaking a resolution which not only I but my father ahead of me lived. My ambition and determination are to give my state, through Governor Carlton, four years of service such as will warrant the Governor to issue at the end of his administration an honorable discharge after faithful service." Bravely spoken, and sincerely too.

And the move he is sponsoring to have the government make tests for such utilization of products of the farm not at present utilized as a profit. Recently he proposed that tests be made with rice straw to determine whether or not newspaper paper might be made on a commercial scale from this material. At present a certain kind of paper used in packaging is turned out from the straw although white newspaper has not been made from straw, so far as we know.

In a mid-western town a few weeks past a dirty paper of considerable circulation was printed on white newspaper made from cornstalks. It was said the paper was of excellent quality and color and that it handled well mechanically. There is certainly reason to hope, in view of the advances made by industrial chemistry, that rice straw may find such a use in the future.

Foolish Questions

Reporters can be nuisances, even while they are striving to gather important knowledge for the sake of the public. Especially this is true when they propound such queries as were hurled at Thomas A. Edison at Jacksonville the other day.

One of these, written on the back of an envelope, asked the foolish and impertinent question: "How long do you expect to live?" Mr. Edison smiled and answered: "Oh, a few more years."

This was a gloomy thought to bring up before a man nearing his end year and it is something that no man can answer. A youth may expect to live half a century longer and die the next day. Age may be the end to be just around the corner and linger on for years. Death is very uncertain. No one can predict when it will come—not even an Edison.

But in the case of this genius, the matter is extremely important to the people for the inventor is still working to benefit mankind and aid progress. His would be an irreparable loss.

An inquisitive reporter, perhaps the same one, asked whether he finds his mind as active as ever. Mr. Edison said he could see no difference. As though a man might admit that he was growing feeble mentally, or that the wonderful mind of Edison had weakened.

These are nonsensical questions and they might anger the subject if he was not accustomed to them.

Bobby Jones Is In Line To Become President Of U. S. Golf Association Shortly

Election Would Be Fitting Climax To His Athletic Career Which Has Seen Him Attain Highest Honors

By Davis J. Walsh, International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, January 31.—

Having been benefited almost beyond all reason, both by what the young man has done and by what he has been, the United States Golf Association plans to repay at least part of the great debt it owes Bobby Jones by making him its president in the not distant future, the writer is advised today. The discovery was made coincident with the annual announcement of sub-committee for 1929, the signal feat of which is the fact that Jones already a member of the general executive committee, is named in three elections.

The indication is rather close, therefore, that the impressive success that has fallen to him, the great victor, is following him inevitably in his more or less recent foray into the administrative side of golf. This final success, it seems, is only the beginning of the story.

It is my information that Jones is in line to go "up" to one of the vice presidencies of the association on the 1930 ticket or, at the worst, not later than the following year. Then, if all goes well—which I fear means that if the association still is as capricious in its admiration—, will place him in nomination for the presidency within four or five years.

him. That he will be elected to the presidency of the association is a matter of course, says a golf expert here.

With Jones' name on the list, it is only a matter of time before he will be elected to the presidency of the association, says a golf expert here. Jones' name is on the list, it is only a matter of time before he will be elected to the presidency of the association, says a golf expert here.

This is the opinion of a golf expert here. Jones' name is on the list, it is only a matter of time before he will be elected to the presidency of the association, says a golf expert here.

Sanford Quintet To Play Tough DeLand Outfit Friday Night

By Jack Peters

Capt. George Fried, heroic rescuer, says: 'Reach for a Lucky instead of a sweet.'

"A N. S. O. S. from the 'Florida'! We change our course. We on the 'America' strain to arrive in time to rescue the men on their sinking ship, 350 miles away. Through the icy, freezing storm and high seas we plunge on—all speed ahead! Then the night-time rescue, the search lights, the whirling waves, the manœuvring to get near the 'Florida'. Finally, the 'Florida's' crew coming off one at a time, pulling themselves through the water on the line our men had thrown them.

"These 32 men, dazed, many half clothed, needed reviving after their long exposure. Hot coffee, food and Lucky Strikes—these gave new life to many of them and we on board the 'America' crew and passengers alike, found after the strain and struggle that there was nothing quite so comforting and relaxing as the inviting, toasted flavor of Lucky Strikes.

"Playing this game with 'Davy' is ever fascinating, ever thrilling. And you who follow the sea must be ever ready for adventure. Ours is an active life, demanding nerve control and physical fitness. In my health program I have found that Luckies are most important not only because they provide a respite for frazzled nerves and an exhausted body but because whenever I crave anything which is over-fattening, I say to myself, 'Reach for a Lucky instead of a sweet'. In the toasted flavor of Luckies, I get complete satisfaction. And I find that toasting, by removing the irritant, protects my throat."

Note: Authorities attribute the enormous increase in cigarette smoking to the improvement in the process of cigarette manufacture by the application of heat. It is true that during the year 1928, Lucky Strike Cigarettes showed a greater increase than all other cigarette brands. This surely confirms the public's confidence in the superiority of Lucky Strike.
