JAPS ADVANCE IN JEHOI WITH MUCH TROUBLE

Meet Greatest Difficulty With Chinese Resisting Advance; Casualties Listed

PEIPING, Feb. 27.—(A.P.)—Japan's invading armies, advancing with great difficulty across the province of Jehoi to its capital, suddenly shifted their attack today to Chienping.

In the meantime the drive in the south was checked near the Great Wall by the Chinese. Severe fighting occurred there now and Chinese dispatches asserted the defense has not been shaken.

Chihfung, 90 miles south of Jehoi City, is the primary objective of the Japanese as it must be taken before the advance to the capital can continue.

Incomplete casualty lists compiled by the Chinese said the Chinese lost 1000 men and the Japanese 600 in a single battle.

CHINCHOW, Manchuria, Feb. 27.—(A.P.)—Like a giant gate 250 miles long hinged at Shanhaiwan, the Japanese-Manchukuan advance swinging into the Chinese province of Jehoi already has swept across the eastern third of the province.

Shanhaiwan, Chinese city south of the Great Wall where it dips down to the sea, was taken by the Japanese in January after heavy fighting.

At least two Japanese columns of troops have advanced more than 50 miles from the Manchurian border into the northern China territory. The Fourth cavalry brigade, of Major General Kanakubo Mugi, was pushed southward from Kaiou and occupied Hsingtung, 50 miles west of Suifu. From that point he was reported continuing his advance. Lieutenant General Yoshikazu Nishi, driving to the west from Haoyang, was reported approaching Chienping.

(Chinese officials Saturday denied that the Japanese had occupied Kaiou, as reported by military authorities of that nation. Officials of the Chinese national government at Nanking also denied that the Jehoi province had been abandoned to the Japanese, a charge which has been abandoned in the second largest city in the province. Yesterday, however, Chinese communique at Peiping said both Chaoyang and Kaiou had been abandoned by Chinese troops and that both cities were in ruins. Chaoyang was said to be in flames.)

Cold weather prevailed on most of the battlefields. That was said to be the worst enemy encountered by the cavalry of General Mugi, which went into action in the face of sub-zero winds which drove before it desert sands mixed with snow.

However, Gen. Heijiro Hattori, commander of the Fourteenth Infantry brigade, met failure at Chienping resistance where the road from Suifu to Wukung-fu crosses the Manchurian-Jehoi border. General Hattori Saturday was said to have started an advance from Suifu to Wukung-fu.

A mixed force of regulars of Marshal Chao Hsiao-Liang, North China military commander, and volunteers going under the name of the "Blood and Steel Corps" stood off the vanguard of Hattori's forces all day long. Bombing planes from Chichow were rushed to assist in smashing the defenders.

Despite this disarrangement in schedule, Japanese authorities assert that Chinese morale is cracking and that a majority of the fighting units are retreating without resistance. They believe no real battle will be offered by the Chinese before the latter's line of defense stretching from Chihfung to Pinghsien is reached.

New England Hit By Severe Snow Storm

BOSTON, Feb. 27.—(A.P.)—New England today dug out from one of the most severe snow storms of the winter and counted its toll which included at least four deaths. Cape Cod was the hardest hit by the storm reporting an 18-inch snowfall. Provincetown felt the full force. A bus carrying 15 passengers, was marooned eight hours. The Race Point coast-guard station was isolated. Railroad travel throughout the affected areas is greatly curtailed while communication lines were interrupted on Cape Cod. Boston reported a nine-inch snow, Portland, Maine eight and a half, and Rochester, New Hampshire, 13.

SENATE IS FACED WITH COLOSSAL LEGISLATIVE JAM

Upper House Entering Its Final Week With Much Yet To Finish

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—(A.P.)—The Senate is confronted with one of the greatest legislative jams in history as the last "clame duck" session of Congress enters its final eight of 11 big supply bills to be sent to the White House. Republican and Democratic leaders agreed yesterday there was danger of some of them going over into the extra-session of the Roosevelt Congress.

But they still held out hope that all would be threshed out in conference before inauguration day and perhaps time found for action on one or two other major measures, including legislation of beer.

It would not be surprising if Senate Democratic leaders sought a vote on the pending 3.65 percent beer bill this week. They claim to have the votes to pass it and House leaders say it can muster a majority there again, but what President Hoover might do if the bill got to him is a matter of conjecture.

As the Senate and House convene today leaders in the former will be faced with the question whether to go ahead with the Hall-Wadsworth two-year farrelcure moratorium bill, on which debate began Saturday, or return to the unfinished business—the bankruptcy law revision measure.

The navy department appropriation bill also is awaiting consideration, and it is likely time out will be taken to dispose of this bill.

Food Is Canned For Summer Charity Use

More than 150 cans of Seminole County vegetables were prepared and sealed at Seminole High School Saturday morning by four members of the Home Improvement Club, the cans to be stored away with hundreds of others and to be distributed to the county's needy during the summer months.

The cans were a part of the 2000 recently purchased for the Club by the County Commissioners, and all vegetables were donated by Mr. and Mrs. Rex Packard, the latter being president of the club.

During the morning hours, the women also assisted in the curing of a hog which had been donated by Gus Schmah, late Monroe hog dealer. This meat will be months also.

Those present Saturday were Mrs. John Holly, Mrs. M. Matlink, Mrs. J. J. Gut, Miss Mabel Wilson, and a group of persons employed by the Seminole County Welfare Board.

FORD TO BACK 2 NEW BANKS WITH MILLIONS

Ohio Clamps Down On Withdrawals In Anticipation Of Emergency Banking Laws

By The Associated Press
Out of the banking holiday in Michigan there had come today the nucleus of two new Detroit banks backed by the millions of Henry Ford. The new banks, whose capital will consist of $8,500,000, furnished by Ford and his son, Edsel, are expected to open in the latter part of the month.

In Ohio 18 banks in Cleveland, Akron, and Dayton clamped down on withdrawals in anticipation of emergency banking laws to relieve the situation aggravated, according to Ohio bankers, by the emergency in Michigan.

Governor Ritchie, of Maryland, where a bank holiday has been declared, sought the advice of "representative citizens" concerning legislation to be enacted.

Indianapolis banks opened today with withdrawals restricted to five percent of the customer's deposit.

DETROIT, Feb. 27.—(A.P.)—The Detroit Free Press announced last night that Henry Ford had agreed to subscribe for all the capital stock of two Detroit banks to take over the liquid assets of the First National Bank and the Guardian National Bank of Commerce.

The newspaper said that under the terms of the plan every share of stock would be owned by Mr. Ford.

S. C. D. A. R., and the Spanish War Veterans' Auxiliary.

Mrs. H. B. Lewis, chairman of the Welfare Department of the Legion Auxiliary, this morning was generous in her appreciation of the response. "In view of the general conditions as we understand them," Mrs. Lewis said, "I consider this collection marvelous, and I voice the sentiment of all of our workers when I say that every penny was sincerely appreciated."

The following women assisted during the day, Mrs. Lewis said: Mrs. J. C. Henson, Mrs. C. F. Proctor, Mrs. Jimmie Howard, Mrs. Roy Chittenden, Mrs. L. L. ## Roosevelt Bids Farewell To Boyhood Scenes Before Leaving For Inauguration

VIOLENCE OCCURS IN GERMANY AS ELECTION NEARS

Three Persons Slain And Several Hurt In Political Clashes

BERLIN, Feb. 27.—(A.P.)—The death of three persons, suspension of two more newspapers, and a flood of censure yesterday marked the beginning of the final week of the election campaign in Germany. The new Reichstag and Prussian Diet members.

Two persons were shot and killed and five were wounded at Wuppertal when communists fired upon a national procession. At Linden a 15-year-old member of Chancellor Adolf Hitler's youth organization was stabbed to death and another suffered dangerous knife wounds.

Three brown-shirted Nazis, adherents of the chancellor, were wounded by gunfire at Falkenberg and Breslau a man was stabbed in the lungs.

The Rote Fahne, organ of the communist party published in Berlin, was suspended for six weeks, and the Hammer-Volke-Blatt, newspaper of the capital, prelate, Johann Lecht, was forced to suspend for four days under the order forbidding publication of matter considered inimical to the government.

Prince August Wilhelm, fourth son of the former Kaiser, was badly wounded while speaking in Magdeburg, Saxony, considered by the Nazis to be an enemy stronghold. Three planes, bearing the national socialist swastika, circled overhead while the prince spoke.

In a shooting affray at Hamburg six persons were seriously wounded and 11 received slight injuries. Most of the injured were Nazis.

Ubersing in the last week of the campaign, Vice-Chancellor Franz von Papen, Minister of Labor Franz Schuler, Minister of Interior Wilhelm Frick and Hans Kerrl, president of the Prussian diet, addressed audiences in several parts of the Reich yesterday.

Hull Turns Mind To War Debts And Trade Difficulty

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—(A.P.)—The Roosevelt secretary of state, Cordell Hull, turned last night momentarily from the Japanese crisis to other thorny problems of America's foreign affairs, war debts and the way of reviving world trade.

On the eve of Hull's conversations with diplomatic representatives of Great Britain and France, President R. G. Tagwell, one of President-elect Roosevelt's closest economic advisers, reached the capital from New York and held a long consultation with the state secretary.

Something of a stir was caused by the arrival in Washington of William C. Bullitt, whose recent travels also led to reports, subsequently denied, that he represented the Roosevelt administration in war debt conversations.

Capital sentiment appeared generally favorable toward the state secretary's conference. It is expected that Secretary Stimson, in backing up the League of Nations in its condemnation of Japan's military policy in Manchuria.

Smiling but uncommunicative, Bullitt registered at the same hotel occupied by Hull, and would not deny he had come to confer with him, although he insisted there was no significance to his visit.

CITY NATIONAL HEAD RESIGNS FROM HIS POST

Mitchell Feels Criticism Directed At Him In Quiz Might React Against Bank

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—Directors of the National City Bank, today accepted the resignation of Charles Mitchell as chairman and those James Perkins to succeed him.

The resignation of Hugh Baker, president, the bank's security affiliate, also was accepted as was Mitchell's chairmanship of the same affiliate.

Mitchell's chairmanship of the bank's affiliate was a big one of the most colorful of Wall Street's big bankers, returned to Washington after making public his resignation.

He said he was taking the action out of loyalty to the bank following criticism directed at him as a result of misunderstanding of testimony given in the Senate's stock exchange investigation.

Perkins was president of City Bank Farmers Trust Company, a National City affiliate.

A copy of Mitchell's letter of resignation, which was mailed to each member of the board of directors, follows:

"To the board of directors of the National City Bank of New York:

Gentlemen:

"My first loyalty is to the National City Bank of New York, to which I have given the best years of my life, and I am not willing that the criticism which has been directed at me as the result of public misunderstanding of testimony before the Senate committee on banking and currency during the past week shall react upon the institution which I have so long loved and served.

The subjects dealt with in the main to events of the years 1928, 1929 and 1930, which I have passed into history, and chiefly concerned activities of the National City Company, the bank's securities affiliate, which have little or no relation to conditions of the present day.

"As the chief executive officer of the National City Company, as well as of the bank, I personally have been brought under a cloud of criticism from which I conceive that the institution should not be (Continued on Page Three)

President Tigert Decries Slash In Funds For Schools

ATLANTA, Feb. 27.—(A.P.)—A planer, counseled with elements of religion, humanitarianism and revived agriculture was offered by the Southern council yesterday as a cure for the economic and social ailments of the South.

A warning was given against "masses in chasing after material things." That came from Dr. John Tigert, president of the University of Florida. Said he: "I do not know exactly what it is. Some say we are bankrupt, mentally and morally."

"I do not think it fair to put the whole blame on the preachers, although the churches have lost much of its vitality they once had. As a whole, our present calamity is due to materialism."

Dr. Tigert lamented the practice of his state in adopting a yearly budget of $1,000,000 for highway construction and closing about $6,000,000 to schools based on anticipated revenue collections.

"The revenues have not been realized," he continued, "and schools are closing in Florida, but they increased the road budget."

Decrying tendencies to taper off economic stimulus in times of calamity, he said a great calamity struck the South "when they junked and scuttled the University of North Carolina."

His reference was to decreased revenue for that university which he termed one of the oldest and greatest cultural centers of the South.

HYDE PARK, Feb. 27.—(A.P.)—President-elect Roosevelt formally announced yesterday that Henry A. Wallace, of Iowa, and James A. Farley, of New York, two of Democracy's youngest leaders, would be his secretaries of agriculture and postmaster general, respectively.

Wallace, the publisher of a farm periodical, follows in the footsteps of his father, the late Henry C. Wallace, who was secretary of agriculture in the Republican cabinet.

Farley, who was secretary of agriculture in the Republican cabinet, will be secretary of commerce.

Condition Unchanged During Past Twelve Hours But Crisis Is Not Reached As Yet

MIAMI, Feb. 27.—(A.P.)—Failing heart and the inability of oxygen to accomplish its purpose as a respiratory aid heap upon Mayor Cermak's generally heavier condition today and doctors frankly said their hope for his recovery is dimmed.

Mayor Anton Cermak of Chicago continued today without losing ground in his battle to recover from a bullet wound inflicted by Giuseppe Zangara, assassin, and from the diseases which followed. His physicians announced.

They said his condition continues unchanged during the past 12 hours, and that after 2:00 A. M. he had a restless sleep.

Dr. Karl Meyer, heart specialist, frankly stated that the physician's hope for the Mayor's recovery had been lessened by the appearance yesterday of pneumonia but added they saw nothing in the immediate future to indicate that death was near. "We cannot say just now whether the pneumonic condition has spread because a full examination has not been made," Dr. Meyer said.

The pneumonic crisis is six or seven days' Dr. Walter Hamburger, Chicago heart specialist, said. "It seems to me the patient has been slipping slowly but progressively since Saturday." He said the constantly climbing respiratory rate is becoming a source of alarm.

Cermak continues to be kept under an oxygen tent and intravenous injections of glucose as nourishment are resorted to at intervals.

Imported Bullfrog May Spell Doom Of Cricket Mole

Officials of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce this morning contacted the Extension Department of the University of Florida to find out whether or not it will be possible to import a species of Inland Bullfrogs to this country for the purpose of fighting the cricket mole.

While in attendance at the Seminole County booth at the Orlando Fair last week, H. M. Pappas, president of the trade body, was introduced to D. W. May, former director of the United States Agricultural Station at Mayaguez, Porto Rico.

During a conversation relating to the cricket situation, the subject of cricket moles was discussed, with Mr. May stating that because a type of bullfrog known as Bulla Marinus was introduced into Porto Rico from India, cricket moles had been a most exterminated in that territory. The frogs are said to multiply rapidly, and they feed mainly on cricket moles and other pests.

The bonded debt was reduced because $4,000 in bonds was accepted as payment of delinquent taxes.

Ocoee Defaults To Sanford In Debate

Seminole High School's progress in the Florida Debating League sponsored by the General Extension Division of Florida came to an abrupt halt on the opening day of competition on Friday afternoon.

The team which was to have debated the "negative" side of the problem "Resolved: That intercollegiate athletics as now conducted are detrimental," won by default from Ocoee High School.

But John Coulter and McKeon Higgins, comprising the affirmative team, were losers in their debate on the same subject in a team at Seabrook High School in Daytona Beach Friday afternoon.

ANGLO-AMERICAN AMITY IS HOPE OF ENGLISH DRIVER

Sir Malcolm Campbell Hopes 2 Nations Present United Front

DAYTONA BEACH, Feb. 23.—Anglo-American amity—the presentation of a united front by England and America towards the remainder of the world—is almost as much of a passion with Sir Malcolm Campbell as driving an automobile more miles an hour than he or anybody else ever has driven one before.

And he'd rather "talk politics" as he describes conversation on international relations, than talk speed trials any day in the week. Like all cultured Europeans, he is a racing driver, a soldier, a statesman, or a college professor, he has a comprehensive knowledge of international politics amazing to Americans; and like all British gentlemen, he exercises his opinion not only sensibly and well, but also frankly and with politeness regard for the other fellow's point of view.

He sat in the Princess Isabella lobby and talked for more than an hour about the affairs of the world and you might have believed that it was a MacDonald, a Lloyd George, or a Chamberlain you were interviewing and not a specialist in speed, a man who is primarily a sportsman and the more credit to him for it.

Soberly and with full realization of the meaning of his words—for he served at the front for the entire four years of the war—he predicts another war in Europe, unless a strong entente between the two great English speaking powers of the world can prevent it. He sees France armed to the teeth ready for revenge upon Germany. He sees Italy over-armed, waiting to pounce upon France. He sees Germany with empty factories built with American gold, waiting for another chance to attack France—and really the French have treated the Germans pretty shabbily since the war, you know.

Only a strong British army and navy can keep peace in Europe, he believes, and that though led him into the question of war debts.

"Great Britain can not pay her debt to the United States and keep up the position she must keep up if peace is to be maintained in the world," he said. "In fact if America insists upon full payment of war debts, the whole world will go broke. The mistake America makes is in believing that it is possible for this money to be paid."

His expression became very grave as he spoke of the plight in which the British workman, "the finest fellow in the world," finds himself as a result of the economic crisis.

view in regard to India, he said that it was his belief that the position of Gandhi and the passive resisters was one of ingratitude.

"England has spent men and money galore in India," he said. "It has kept peace there between Mussulman and the Hindu. If England were to leave India to her fate there would be war in a week. Gandhi represents only a small group in India, and it was our mistake to take him seriously from the beginning."

SPIRIT OF FAITH IS STILL HELD BY AGED STEEL HEAD

Charles M. Schwab, 71, Prepares To Put In Hard Day Of Labor

By THOMAS SUGRUE NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—The spirit of optimism and the unwavering faith in America's destiny which carried Charles M. Schwab from the counter of a general store in Braddock, Pa., to the chairmanship of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, shone from his eyes as brightly as ever last Saturday morning when he entered his office at 4 East Forty-fourth Street and prepared to commemorate the seventy-first anniversary of his birth by putting in a full day of hard work.

"I am," he said resolutely, "an optimist by nature, and even now, in this serious state of the world when we do not know from one day to another what is going to happen, I remain an optimist."

"The world has never been in worse shape, yet my belief in the future of America as the leading manufacturing nation of the world is unshaken. Something unseen and prophesied, which will put us back on our feet. It always has and it always will."

And this faith, he added, seeming to repeat from a lesson in childhood, is based on fundamentalism's that cannot be shaken.

"We are endowed in this earth beneath us with all the good things of God, in richness and plenty, and we are boundlessly richly in youth and energy. We cannot fail; no nation with such equipment has ever gone down in defeat. Something will happen."

His simple office was quiet and bare of adornment. Mr. Schwab was sitting near a window, bathing in the warm sunshine and discussing some matter with his lieutenants and colleagues when the few reporters arrived. He jumped to his feet and hurried across the room, laughing and putting out both hands.

NATION'S PRESS IS CRITICIZED BY AGITATED SOLON

Representative Says News Gallery Gets New Free Services

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—(AP)—Some members of Congress don't take any too kindly to stories the newspaper correspondents have been writing about free shaves for senators and running capitol restaurants at a loss.

While debating the question of economy on the House floor Representative Underhill (R. Mass.), who is retiring from Congress voluntarily, pointed to the press gallery and said:

"We have been criticized by the press all over the country for what? They say we have free meals and free shaves. They know we do not have any such thing. But the press gallery has a superintendent; it has an assistant superintendent; it has a messenger, and I think a janitor, furnished to them by the government free. All of their stationery is given to them, yet the press would crucify us because we run a restaurant at a small deficit. Senators, but not House members, do get shaves free; the deficit for the House restaurant last year was about $10,000, that for the Senate nearly three times that much."

Underhill said there were other expenses that could be cut. For instance: "I call your attention to the excessive number of pages and copies that we find all over this capitol. I call your attention to the fact that we have a House library clerks. I call your attention to the fact that we have a House library in the congressional library; that we have a library in the clerk's office, and recently another library has been added to the fourth floor of the House office building. I call your attention to the gratuities that are given here year after year to the employees of this House because they are a favored class who come here. And when an effort is made to get rid of them you say that they have given years of valuable service and they cannot be let go; that their services are invaluable. Yet when there comes a change in the administration everyone of them goes out. I call your attention to the committee hearings. Do you know that there were 10,000,000,000 pages of committee hearings published in the last session of Congress? The committees go wild."

New York Doctor Faces Indictment For Counterfeiting

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—(AP)—Dr. V. Gregory Burian, New York heart specialist, must go to Chicago to face an indictment charging possession of counterfeit money, Federal Judge Alfred C. Cox ruled yesterday. The physician, who says he was innocently involved through professional services to a patient, was given until Monday to appeal the order and paroled in his attorney. The government charges that he possessed $90,000 in counterfeit bills in Chicago last Dec. 10, and that he is a principal in an international plot.

Meanwhile federal agents continued their search to locate the source of the counterfeit bills, said to have been the best imitation ever uncovered in this country. It was reported here that the bills had been traced to Russia, but W. H. Moran, chief of the secret service, said in Washington yesterday: "We have no evidence that Soviet Russia or its representatives have any connection with this counterfeiting."

It had also been reported that Dr. Burian was a Soviet agent. Moran said he believed the fact that Burian was a Russian by birth, though a naturalized American, might have led to that report. As so created in the East was Enrique Dechew, known as "Count" Von Dechew. Federal agents said Dechew admitted handling the bills but thought they were genuine. He returned willingly to Chicago and is now awaiting trial.

Lee Plans Suit To Recover Fees For Liquidation

(Continued from Page One) pression, of course, is what is termed 'split fees' I intend to run the state's business as a business man run their. When I hire a lawyer I'll find out his fee before he starts work, instead of merely telling him to send me a bill.

Having worked at the law business myself I believe I can find ways to save money in litigation. Nobody ever told me to go ahead with a case and then send a bill without asking for some idea of the cost. An economical method is to pay a retainer's fee with the understanding that a certain sum will be paid if the case is won."

A bank with $50,000 capital, the bill will provide, will be also required to hold $50,000 in approved securities, the comptroller explained, Mr. Lee means government bonds or securities approved by a state commission or department.

In the event that the bank examiner finds paper that will mean a loss, the bank would be notified through the comptroller to buy the paper back. Should it fail to comply the state department would then have the authority to sell securities to cover the loss and would assess the stockholders to cover the loss. This $5,000 worthless paper on $50,000 capital would mean a 10 percent loss. The Amos Explains Fees

TALLAHASSEE, Feb. 23.—(AP)—The payment of $1,184,160 to attorneys representing closed state banks was described today by Amos as a "large sum," but he added it was spent "for the protection of the depositors." Published reports on the payments made to attorneys and based on the records in the office of Comptroller Lee, Amos' successor, were answered by Amos today in a lengthy statement, which said in part a "great deal of important complicated litigation in both the state and federal courts became involved in the liquidation of 148 trusts throughout a seven year period. The litigation was necessary to recover and convert the assets into cash as well as to protect them. All of this was done for protection of the depositors' interests. Many troubles were legal questions were settled by the courts of last resort, even in the supreme court of the United States, paving the way and minimizing the legal expenses of liquidations thereafter."

Scare The Rich

One of the most amazing recommendations for relief of the depression which have come before the Senate Finance Committee was advanced last week by a Utah banker who proposes to bring back prosperity by "frightening those of our people who possess wealth."

It is difficult to conceive of anything which Congress, or anybody else, could do which would frighten the rich any more than they are already frightened.

Those who could, have gradually converted their holdings into cash. Despite Michigan and Maryland flurries, the banks of the country are fairly bulging with cash.

Without a doubt, "those who possess" wealth have it within their power to do a great deal toward restoring prosperity. It is estimated that every dollar of cash has a potential credit value of ten dollars.

However, we doubt if much credit will ever be extended until confidence is restored. You cannot frighten investors into making loans. The more you scare them, the more they conserve their assets, keep them liquid, hoard their cash.

Such testimony as the Utah banker gave before the Senate Finance Committee is exactly what has got them scared.

Leprosy

Probably because its prevalence has been chiefly confined to backward tropical countries, leprosy, ancient scourge of the human race, has not received its share of efforts in the scientific campaign against diseases.

The Leonard Wood Memorial, which is dedicated to the eradication of leprosy and which was named after the former governor-general of the Philippines because of his deep interest in the disease and his efforts to wipe out the manace in the islands, is one of the many undertakings along this line.

Whereas progress of treatment has been slow, with practically no "arrested cases" having been released up to twenty years ago, since that time increasing numbers have been set free from many institutions throughout the world.

The discovery of chaulmoogra in the treatment of leprosy is attributed to a Burmese prince and his consort who were stricken with the disease. Driven into exile by their horror-filled people, the couple were forced to live in the open wilderness of the back provinces of Burma and to rely upon the country for their food.

In their place of refuge there grew a tree having a large green nut, to which they turned in their extremity for food. After eating the nut they discovered that their ailment seemed to improve, so the story goes, and this led to the employment of the oil carried in the nut of the chaulmoogra tree as a treatment for the disease.

Literature is filled with such harrowing tales of leprosy that the very mention of the word usually sends a cold chill up and down one's spine, and it is probably the prevalent dread of the curse that has made progress so slow in seeking its cure.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH "CHRIST JESUS" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, Feb. 26.

The Golden Text was from Hebrews 11: 2, "God, who at sundry times and in divers manners spake in time past unto the fathers by the prophets, hath in these last days spoken unto us by his Son, whom he hath appointed heir of all things, by whom also he made the worlds."

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "My sheep hear my voice, and I know them and they follow me" John 10: 27.

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "By the word of Jesus, the heaven and the earth were created in the beginning of the Christian era, but

LOMBARD URGES 'VOLUMOCITY' IN AID TO BUSINESS

Economic Expert Talks On Stabilized Control Of Currency

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—Stabilized control of money that would permit the working out of a social-economic system in which "the maximum increment of goods, services and human satisfactions would be equitably distributed among the members of society in proportion to the value of their respective contributions to the common welfare," is advocated by Norman Lombard, economic consultant and formerly executive vice-president of the Stable Money Association.

Speaking at a luncheon meeting of the Western Universities Club on Tuesday, Mr. Lombard declared that the control of "money-like instruments" should be balanced by the needs of business as determined by the "volumocuity" of the circulating medium. "Volumocuity," he explained, was the measure of volume and velocity of currency in circulation—the two factors on which he held, prosperity depends.

"There is a widespread feeling that the volume of credit in use is insufficient," Mr. Lombard said. "This is due to the fact that bankers are reluctant to lend, because safe loans are scarce, and business men are reluctant to borrow, because they do not see an opportunity to profit."

"If business men had confidence that prices were not going to fall further or that they would rise, they would borrow and thus expand the volume of credit in use. In view of this widespread lack of confidence in the future of the price level, inflationists now urge an increase of purchasing power in some form other than money and bank credit, thus bringing about a rise in the price level which would cause the business man to borrow and the banker to lend."

"I am not an inflationist, but I believe that the price level should be raised through monetary means to such a point as will be equal to the average of prices at the center of gravity of the existing debt structure and kept there through control of money-like volumocuity."

"Congress is not to blame for the present currency situation, nor are the bankers to blame for it. It is our own fault, because we do not understand conditions and tell Congress what we want. What we need is education on monetary problems, intelligent monetary legislation and scientific monetary administration."

The tall, genial Farley, 44 years old, has been regarded a certainty as postmaster general. He managed the Roosevelt campaign for the nomination and for election. He will continue as chairman of the Democratic national committee and as state party chairman.

Seated in his library upon his return from church, Mr. Roosevelt made the announcements to news-Cornick, publisher of the Chicago Tribune, were dinner guests at the Hyde Park estate yesterday.

Wallace, 44 years old, comes from a Republican family but he was an active supporter of both Alfred E. Smith in 1928 and Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1932.

His father, who died while still in office, was known to be at odds with his fellow cabinet member, Herbert Hoover, in the Harding and Coolidge regimes on questions of policy.

Mr. Wallace conferred last week in New York with the next week's papermen without comment. Both Farley and Wallace are well known.

Like yesterday, the President-elect invited Homer Cummings, of Connecticut, and Mrs. Cummings, another of the Roosevelt campaign leaders, to be regarded as the likely next governor general of the Philippines. With a smile, Mr. Roosevelt said he was going to discuss "agony" with Cummings.

ident and is now actively at work in the formulation of policies. He is regarded by Mr. Roosevelt as one of the leaders in bringing about a substantial agreement within organized agriculture on legislation for the first time in history. He is also regarded by the President-elect as representative of agriculture generally rather than of one particular group.

Mr. Farley is probably one of the closest intimates of the President-elect. He is in frequent consultation with the next Chief Executive and to him has been entrusted the enormous task of pulling over the possibilities for appointments in the new government.

It is expected that with Farley presiding over the huge post-office organization from Washington that national Democratic headquarters, will be moved to the capital from New York.

The House has virtually a clean slate and aside from acting on many of the last-minute secondary bills sent over from the Senate is expected to mark time until sine die adjournment at noon Saturday.

Its judiciary committee will act on a resolution notifying the Senate that the House has impeached Federal Judge Harold Louderback, of California, because of his conduct in receivership procedure and appointing House managers to conduct the prosecution before the Senate sitting as the jury. Only three of the 11 appropriation bills have been sent to the

ONCE OVER

THE great American inclination is to look things over. Nothing is either good or bad to the open-minded, until it has received that quick, interested appraisal which we have deftly named the "once over."

We are continually looking over new political leaders and ideas, new acquaintances, new faces, new actors and writers. And by the same token we are constantly called upon to pass judgment on a great variety of merchandise—from soap to sedans—which is presented to us through the advertisements in the in the daily newspapers.

People who follow the advertisements know that through them they can find out more about articles, values, and the wise spending of their money than they could discover in any other way. New products, new improvements in merchandise, new uses for established articles, are constantly being brought before them.

Advertising makes it possible for you to get exactly what you want, to get full value for every penny, and to be sure of receiving the greatest possible satisfaction from everything you buy.

Read the advertisements regularly, and get the important news they bring you every day!

FORD TO BACK 2 NEW BANKS WITH MILLIONS

(Continued from Page One) Ford and he would reserve the right to name his own board of directors and the officers of the two new institutions. The story said Mr. Ford also reserves the right to merge the two proposed new institutions, if he desires. The newspaper said that bank officials, laboring since Feb. 11 to bring about an agreement whereby normal banking functions could be carried on, were loathe to comment on the changed aspect of the situation. The announcement came at the end of a day of conferences during which bankers discussed tentative plans for the circulation of scrip in the city. Also coming out of today's conference was an announcement that the First National Bank of the Guardian National Bank of Commerce had accepted the terms for a loan from the Reconstruction Finance Corp., under which the First National will receive $54,000,000 and the Guardian National $24,000,000. Directors of the two banks announced that the loans would enable them to pay depositors a check of $100 each on Feb. 11, the last day of normal banking in Michigan. As this was made public officers and branch managers of the Detroit Savings Bank prepared for the resumption of normal commercial business at that institution Monday. Under plans previously announced the First National Bank and the Guardian National Bank of Commerce will be the nuclei about which the two new banks will be formed. The Free Press said that the capitalization of the new bank to be financed by Mr. Ford out of the First National Bank will be $5,225,000 and that of the bank to take over the Guardian assets $2,265,000.

The government's tax collecting agency, joined with the justice department in investigating the stock sale by which Mitchell told the Senate investigators he avoided paying an income tax three years ago. An internal revenue agent working in conjunction with the Senate committee was in New York over the week-end checking up to determine whether the stock sale was a bona fide transaction. The banker, known throughout the world as chairman of the great National City's bank board, testified that in order to avoid paying an income tax in 1929 he sold 18,000 shares of the bank stock to a relative at a loss of nearly $2,300,000, and later bought it back. The revenue agent was understood to be working under a subpoena from the Senate committee and may be called before the investigating group to present his findings. Meanwhile, the criminal division of the justice department was undertaking a study of the testimony before the Senate committee in the National City and the recent Inault investigations to determine whether there was ground for prosecution under the national banking laws. Victor Schoppelle, vice president of the National City Company, security affiliate of the bank, probably will be the first witness today as the Senate investigating committee resumes its investigation. Mitchell will be on hand and probably will be called again.

MACHINE THEORY OF TECHNOCRATS IS HIT BY EX-KING

Former German Emperor Gives Views On Unemployment

DOORN, The Netherlands, Feb. 25.—Wilhelm II, former Emperor of Germany, reflecting in the solitude of his banishment upon the American discussions concerning technocracy, has arrived at the conclusion that the technocrats are wrong in conceding the supremacy of the machine. The rule of the machine, he believes, can and must by international agreement and co-operation be broken by the same human mind which called the machine into being. Only then can the problem of unemployment be solved. The former monarch's views were carefully laid down in the form of a letter written to his friend T. St. John Gaffney, of Summit, N. J., formerly American Consul in Berlin.

U. S. Post-Office Faced With Loss Of $100,000,000

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Feb. 27.—As a result of a shrinkage in the volume of postal matter under the present 3-cent rate, the Post Office Department is faced with a loss of $100,000,000 in 1933, according to Representative James M. Mead, (D.), of New York. This shrinkage will force a return to the 2-cent rate by July 1, he holds.

Mr. Mead, who is chairman of the House committee on Post Office and Post Roads, speaking at the eleventh annual convention of the New Jersey Federation of Post Offices, Atlantic City, said that the anticipated shrinkage in revenue this year was based on figures contained in the report of the department last October indicating that 5,000,000,000 fewer letters will be posted this year than were in 1932.

Eventual reduction to 1 cent for "drop" (local) letters in two or three years also was envisaged by Mr. Mead in his first public statement on the subject following nearly a year's study. He recently introduced a bill in Congress for a return to the old 3-cent rate. It is now pending before the House Ways and Means Committee. The bill calls for a universal 2-cent rate. The present Administration, he said, desires 2 cents for local matter and 3 cents for non-local.

"I find myself unable to accept the thesis of the supremacy of technics, for it was the mind of man that created technic. Hence, it is this human mind which will find ways and means of effectively meeting the excesses of technics, in other words, of turning technocracy into a blessing for the working man."

"If people are to live together, it is imperative that the individual fit himself into the scheme of things and that the individual business or undertaking be coordinated with the human community. This cannot be accomplished without a certain compulsion. . . . Why, I ask myself, should not the use of the machine, which today endangers our whole economic life, also be regulated by certain laws, so that its planless, inorganic multiplication and use, which have created so much mischief, may cease?"

"Has the machine a creative factor of value, the right to crowd

out the equally creative factor man, who is actuated by a deep ethically feeling? The answer can only be determined 'No'. A certain legal restraint will, therefore, prove unavoidable, and the only question will be that of how to do it. In that connection, I personally believe that this problem can be solved only on the basis of international agreements."

U. S. Post-Office Faced With Loss Of $100,000,000

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Feb. 27.—As a result of a shrinkage in the volume of postal matter under the present 3-cent rate, the Post Office Department is faced with a loss of $100,000,000 in 1933, according to Representative James M. Mead, (D.), of New York. This shrinkage will force a return to the 2-cent rate by July 1, he holds.

Mr. Mead, who is chairman of the House committee on Post Office and Post Roads, speaking at the eleventh annual convention of the New Jersey Federation of Post Offices, Atlantic City, said that the anticipated shrinkage in revenue this year was based on figures contained in the report of the department last October indicating that 5,000,000,000 fewer letters will be posted this year than were in 1932.

Eventual reduction to 1 cent for "drop" (local) letters in two or three years also was envisaged by Mr. Mead in his first public statement on the subject following nearly a year's study. He recently introduced a bill in Congress for a return to the old 3-cent rate. It is now pending before the House Ways and Means Committee. The bill calls for a universal 2-cent rate. The present Administration, he said, desires 2 cents for local matter and 3 cents for non-local.

Other resolutions adopted asked the restoration of automatic salary increases, seniority in the advancement of workers and a change from the semi-monthly paydays to a weekly basis.
