TAMPA — The state health agency has abolished an in-house oversight office that had issued some sharply critical reports on the agency's programs.

But the chairwoman of the Senate HRS committee said the welfare agency misread the Legislature.

Sen. Eleanor Weinstock, D-Palm Beach, said it seems extreme to cut the office because one of the biggest problems in HRS is a lack of evaluation tools.

Lawmakers last spring ordered HRS to cut 45 administrative posts, including 13 in Williams' office, to save $1.25 million for the budget year that started July 1st.

The cuts to the state's $28 billion budget would have been worse, but state officials dipped into agency trust funds to come up with about $215 million and called in an $61 million loan to the Department of Transportation.

The Department of Education was hit hardest by the cuts, losing about $150 million from its move than $7 billion budget.

Education Commissioner Betty Castor said the cuts are not as bad as expected, thanks to a windfelt from the state Lottery.

In approving the budget cuts, the governor and Cabinet approved an Hits plan to close its three regional audit services offices in Jacksonville, $1. Petersburg and Fort Lauderdale.

Yosmite Park: to cherish and conserve

The granite domes and flying buttresses of the Yosemite Valley guard what could well be called the hall of the mountain king. Here in the mountains John Muir termed the "range of light" is found a temple of natural beauty. It is perhaps the grandest spot in all America the beautiful.

Protected by national park status now for a century, Yosemite celebrated its centennial Oct. 1 and looks ahead. An exciting prospect for its future is a proposal that a trust established by environmentalists take over the park's concessions contract in 1993, replacing the private concessionaire.

The Yosemite Park and Curry Co., which has held the concession for 65 years, is responsible to the stockholders of its parent corporation, MCA, for making a profit. It has done that and at the same time provided excellent service to the public in the park. But it has resisted the National Park Service's 1980 plan for the deurbanisation of the valley floor, understandably, because the plan inevitably would reduce the company's revenue.

The new conservation group, the Yosemite Restoration Trust, includes on its board of directors representatives of the Wilderness Society and the Serra Club. It will be dedicated entirely to preservation, not profits.

Of course, it must be businesslike in its operations. It must serve the public and not keep the public out of the park. The concession should be self-supporting. The service should be first-rate and the accommodations affordable. But the overriding aim must be to prevent further environmental damage and to heal, as far as possible, the damage that has already occurred to this sacred place.

Terrorist jamboree

Before ordering his armored divisions to roll into Kuwait several weeks ago, Iraqi strongman Saddam Hussein had already spent months cultivating the most dangerus elements of the Arab terrorist network. Now this moticy collection of cut-throsts has responded in kind by piedging to mount terrorist attacks against "American interests everywhere" if a shooting war breaks out in the Persian Gulf.

three-day terrorist jamboree hosted by Jordan's pusiliantmous King Hussein. The State Department issued a strongly worded statement, rebuking the king for entertaining these international criminals. We hope the Defense Department, in conjunction with the intelligence community, is planning something more punitive if Saddam's thugs carry out their threat. The threat was issued at the conclusion of a

If recent years have taught this nation anything it is that terrorist threats in the Middle East must be taken seriously. Another lesson learned in the 1996 bombing raids against Libys is that striking fast and hard at these killers where they live is one of the most effective ways of curbing their murderous impulses. The "inherent right of self-defense," recognised in international law and the U.N. Charter, shuld drive U.S. policy regarding terrorists. Just as the Reagan administration carried out successful overt and covert operations against the terror network, President Bush should be prepared to smash that network.

In mid-August one foreign intelligence agency estimated there were as many as 1.400 international terrorists in Iraq.

Earlier this year, President Bush com-missioned a panel to investigate and make recommendations pursuant to the Pan Am-bombing that blow 250 passengers and crew out of the sky and killed 11 more persons on the ground. The panel urged that the United States adopt a comprehensive strategy to punish terrorisms and those nations that support them. The time to implement that strategy could be drawing near. strategy could be drawing near.

Import taxpayers to solve deficit

Frantic budgeteers in Washington would be oh, so happy if there were only a magical way to cut the deficit, without raising taxes, without cutting spending — during a time of economic aluggiahness when straight economic growth can't do the job. Curiously, there is a way to do that, in the works now, right in the Capitol, the Everything Else, but the immigrant also draws money from limited in access in the short run, consequently. limited in scope in the short run, consequently ignored by the budgeteers and their projections, but providing a powerful engine of American economic revival through the 1990s.

How can you raise revenues without raising taxes when the economy is temporarily frozen? It sounds like a free lunch recipe from a funny farm, It is not. You get more revenues, without raising taxes, if you add taxpayers. How do you get more taxpayers? You can grow them. That starts with conception. It then costs a lot to raise the little critters, and it takes roughly 20 years, a generation, until you get a real producer. Not an immediate help. Or you can import extra taxpayers. That process is called immigration. It doesn't take 20 years. It can start in 20 days if Congress acts wisely.

How does it work? Consider a new immigrant.

That immigrant, typically skilled these days, gets a job. He/she pays taxes. The taxes are spent in several different ways. Suppose we categorize them as follows: Interest on the Past the immigrant also draws money from the Everything Else account — education, welfare, air traffic controllers, etc. Call that part a But interest on Roughly speaking, very roughly, that 60 percent amounts to about $5,000 per immigrant household. Per year. Year after year, compounding. (There are other benefits. It's said that our real estate sector Hence there are "see-through" office buildings and apartment houses, currently near-worthless. Some are owned by the feds because of the S&L mess. But overbuilt is another way of saying "under-occupied." More immigrants would help fill up those under-occupied buildings, making them valuable again.) The United States currently allows in 540,000 legal immigrants per year. The Senate has passed a bill (co-crafted by Sens. Edward Kennedy and Alan Simpson) that would raise the total to 630,000. The House-feet has been been found by Sen British Mor. passed version (authored by Rep. Bruce Morrison) takes the total to 775,000. ## Sexual harassment is no game

BOSTON — As a certified sports-orexic, I face a daily groaning board of games and news with hardly a pang of temptation. The only sport that passes my lips is an occasional baseball, one red sock at a time. Even then, I just nibble.

Despite this deep aversion, it has become clear over the past decade that almost every social issue concerning Americans gets played out on or around a field. Everything except rock-and-roll ends up on the sports pages and

You want to talk about drugs? You want to talk about greed? You want to talk abut race relations? You want to talk about men and women? Tou want to talk about men and women? Tune in to your local sports station and argue abut drug testing on the football field, the undeserving rich on the mound, race relations in the front office, segregation at the golf course. And sexual harassment in the locker room.

The latest of this byeed of sort-of-sports news comes via Lies Olson, the Boston Herald reporter whose treatment by a gang of Patriots gave new meaning to the term "locker-room mentality." This story, well into its third week of life and going strong, began when a group of naked football players, reportedly displayed their parts before the seated reporter. They suggested that she wanted to reach out and touch someone.

In all its nationally publicised permutations (Did owner Victor Kiam call Olson "a classic bitch"? Will the Remington man find his profits shaved by trate women?), this tale has focused more time and space on harasoment than a dozen national surveys.

Moreover, if you doubt that the moral attention of the country has switched from politics to sports, the man appointed to investigate the locker-room incident is Harvard Law School's Philip Heymann. Heymann's last moment in the imelight was as associate special prosecutor for Watergate.

I admit that bingeing on this sports news has left me feeling queasy. For openers, I remain bewildered at the psychology of sexual intimi-dation. Try to imagine a collection of angry women punishing a male invader in their midst by circling him naked, during him to touch them.

I am also fascinated at why these issues get their longest and most heated run when attached to sports figures. It may be simply because sports are truly a speciator event. Every glorious and smarmy moment, the whole business, is played out before fans or their media' emissaries. What happens is public knowledge in a way that behavior in the boardroom or the mine shaft is not.

But I also think that what fans expect from sports — the people and the games — may be contradictory. Two notions that rub against each other and inevitably set off sparks.

As Berkeley sociologist Todd Citiin says, "Everything hangs out in sports. The lid comes off. Sports is the zone where society permits itself to get out of hand." At worst, "people go to the games to throw things and yell."

On the other hand, there is a lingering heroism about athletics. "Every game is a morality play. We want to see the players as being swifter, stronger, more dedicated." adds Gitlin. "In a society that doesn't have leaders it trusts. people actually look to sports figures as carriers of virtue." This is especially true for children.

What happens

when sports are expected to be both "out of hand" and a field of dreams? When athletes are set outside the normal set of constraints and expected to embudy our finest? When the hero flunks his drug test? When the printing name and a cost. est? When the pristine ground is a golf green bigstry? When griding giants harnes a somen in their locker room?

Sexual bully-

These morality plays set the terms for arguments about the rules and who is required to live by them.

In the Olean case, the fane who boosed her in the stadium last weekend sempled like ticket holders at an Andrew Dice Clay concert. There are more than a few ugly closers — "She saked for it" — in the autumn air.

But these are jeers of losers. Sexual bullying now has a name and a cost. It's against the rules.

What of the nervous Victor Kiam, the risor man who wanted his own football team and got a locker room full of trouble? Somebody should have told him that times have changed since he first helped market the zipper Playtex girdle. We're all breathing a bit more freely new.

Jockism has no place in sports

One woman reporter being sexually harassed in a team locker room after a football game and two being barred — all in the past 30 days — does not forebode a national epidemic. The three incidents, however, do reveal the tip of a sexist iceberg that signifies an attempted return to the days when women were honored in the kitchen and applacided in the bedroom. That any woman reporter should be forced to deal with exclusion from locker rooms in 1990 is constitutionally unacceptable at best and morally alimy at worst. The only remaining question is: Why? Women have been entering basketball, hockey, baseball and football locker rooms since the 1978 federal court decision guaranteeing women reporters equal ac-

Regionalism cannot be blamed - the Cincinnati Bengals, the New England Patriots and raity of North Carolina Tarheels — reflect a regional eclecticism. Post-game depression offers no answer. The Bengals lost, but both the Patriots and the Tarheels won.

Far more disturbing were the coaches' defensive comments. The Cincinnati coach, Sam Wyche, whose major claim to civilized conduct is his mastery of the knife and fork, boasted that he would resign before he would "allow women to walk in on 50 naked men." Having been warned twice in the past two years about banning reporters. Wyche should be fired or at least encouraged to resign. Any football coach who is squeamish about women reporters interviewing the men in his charge (who have the option of donning towels) either has some psychological dissonance with which he cannot cope or the Constitution is an alien document to him.

All these incidents seem to be claused by

Constitution is an alien document to him.

All three incidents seem to be clouded by four unsubstantiated presumptions: (1) Women reporters do not have the same rights as male reporters.

(2) Women reporters have never seen naked men before. ("if you don't mind seeing what you might see, feel free to stay," said the North Carolina conch, under the delusion that the marries mass mass never have had an

North Carolina coach, under the delusion that the woman reporter may never have had an affair or bathed her baby brother).

(3) Big. flesh- tearing behemoths who claw, crunch and sack opponents with a vergeance on the gridiron will collapse in mouselike timidity at the sight of a woman reporter in the locker room.

(4) The wives of the players will be upset by women reporters interviewing their husbands en deshabilite. (Which is a remote possibility, assuming the women reporters all look like en desnabille. (Which is a remote possibility, assuming the women reporters all look like Kim Basinger, Janet Jackson or Julia Roberts — and the husbands are prone to philandering, which many are.) If integrity among journalists were in abundance, all would refuse to cover any event where a colleague is married because of race, gender or sexual participance.

But the ever-lurking passion for an exclusive story forces the triumph of expediential ethics over the mutuality of collegial respect. At the same time, it is no accident of history that all three events occurred within the last 30 days. This nation has entered a dark age of excessive moralism. Photography shows are barred because of putative pornography. Lyrics are barned because of sexual suggestiveness. Television shows have been graphy. Lyrics are banned because of sexual suggestiveness. Television shows have been attacked because of bawdiness.

And Neanderthalic jockism in the locker room has suddenly reared its multiblemished head. Outside of the selective censorship of a journalistic colleague's right to practice her profession is the more fundamental issue of disrespect for women.

The three inreveal the tip loeberg.

County selects land-purchase panel

Horald staff writer

SANFORD — Seminole County commissioners named a nineperson committee that will select environmentally-sensitive lands for purchase should voters approve a $20 million bond rendum in November.

Environmentalists said the appointments, which viewed as m-political, would be critical to voter approval of the referendum.

"It's very important to the voters that this committee have validity," said Philip Wick, vice president of the Friends of the Wektva River. "We recognize without that, this will go down."

"This is a qualified group of people," said Polly Miller, natural resources committee chair-man for the Seminole County League of Women Voters. "This to not a political committee. The board of county commissioners should be commended for their nelection.

Dade County. Since Klaus no longer had a recognizable center, the merged system was given a new name instead of being declared a rejuvenated Klaus.

When Klaus weakened to a depression and was on the verge of being gobbled up by a Cuban storm front, it was a combination that whipped up the surf and prompted flood warnings on

Florida's Atlantic coast. Flood warnings were in effect from Daytona Beach south to Jupiter Inlet. A flood watch was issued for Cape Canaveral north to Savannah, Ga., and from Jupiter Inlet south to the Florida

Keys. South Florida was pelted by sporadic thunderstorms and forecasters said Klaus could dump 5 to 10 inches of rain on the drought-stricken peninsula. Ocean breakers of 7 to 10 feet pounded the Atlantic beaches Tuesday, and forecasters warned that beach erosion could threaten piers.

Tides, already abnormally high due to astronomic conditions, were expected to rise another 2 to 3 feet. A few hardy surfers defied the warning flags and took advantage of the swells, but the beaches were otherwise deserted.

Klaus weakened and was downgraded to a tropical de-pression at noon when its winds dropped below the 39 mph tropical storm threshold.

"What we've got is a very confused altuation. We've got a low pressure area over Cuba absorbing Klaus." said Bob Sheets, director of the National Hurricane Center in Miami. "This (new) system is going to dominate." 9500

"Yours has been a most successful apace mission in the continuing search for answers to make the world a safer and better place to live. Here on the Earth, we strive to ensure the same results. We salute you on a job well done — and happy landings," the message said.

Officials said Tuesday Richards and company had chalked up a near- perfect flight, a welcome shot in the arm for the beleaguered space agency after a summer of repeated shuttle launch delays and near- constent criticism over problems with the flawed Hubble Space Telescope.

The astronauts accomplished the primary goal of the 36th shuttle mission, NASA's first in nearly six months, when they successfully deployed the nuclear-powered Ulyases probe Saturday on a $750 million flight over the poles of the sun.

While Ulysses is not equipped with a camera, and while its orbit will never carry it closer than about 120 million miles to the sun, its instruments will give astronomers their first threedimensional glimpee of Earth's star, its complex magnetic field and the tenuous solar wind.

To get into the required polar orbit, Ulysses' $67 million threestage booster fired the craft toward distant Jupiter Saturday for a 1992 flyby that will utilize the planet's titanic gravity for a course- changing boost down, out of the plane of the solar system and back toward the sun. If all goes well, Ulysses will begin a four-month page over the sun's south polar region in May 1994. A similar pass over the north polar region is planned for 1995. As of Wednesday, the 807pound probe was nearly 2.5 million miles from Earth, hurtiing toward Jupker at more than 91,000 mph relative to the sun.

Elated European Space Agency officials said the spacecraft was working flawlessly. setting the stage for a series of small rocket firings next Monday and Tuesday to fine-tune its course toward Jupiter, more than 510 million miles away.

Discovery's flight was NASA's first in more than five months because of clusive hydrogen fuel leaks that grounded the shuttles Columbia and Atlantis in May. July and September. Atlantis has since been repaired, but Columbia remains grounded.

At the Kennedy Space Center in Florida, the leak-plagued Columbia was hauled on launch ped 39B Tuesday and back to a rocket assembly building to protect it from rain and high winds associated with the remnanta of tropical storm Klaus.

Rostenkowski, Bentsen enter budget spotlight

By STEVE GERSYEL United Press International

WASHINGTON - Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-III., a tough big-city pol from the streets of Chicago, and Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D.Texas, a patrician country club millionaire, moved into the spotlight Tuesday as the battle of the budget moved to a new, critical stage.

As autocratic chairmen of the House Ways and Means Committee and the Senate Finance Committee, respectively, they, and members of their panels. have been charged by Congress with writing the bulk of the budget agreement.

And under terms of the budget resolution approved by Congress, they have to complete their work by early next week. an excrutiatingly short time for putting together a sweeping taxbill as well as adjusting Medicare, the health insurance program for the elderly.

In all, the committees will be responsible for cutting the deficit by $18 billion of the $40 billion required in flecal 1991 and by $194 billion of the $500 billion over five years.

The budget resolution adopted by Congress over the weekend gives the panels few specific instructions. It does, however, suggest the committees stick close to the agreement worked out by President Bush and congressional leaders and killed by the House.

The agreement also placed a $10,000 limit on deductions for home interest payments, would have created a new tax credit for investments in small business and saved $60 billion from Medicare - half by cutting payments for hospitals and doctors, and half through increased premlums and deductibles for beneficiaries. The budget resolution approved reduced the Medicare provision to $60 billion.

Not contained in the original agreement, however, was ar. increase in the tax rates for the wealthlest Americans that the committees are certain to consider - either with or without a reduction in the capital gains tax. Democrats want the top tax rate to, at a minimum, climb from 28 percent to 32 percent.

Bush, who has fought against higher taxes for the wealthy as hard as he has battled for a cut in the capital gains tax, said today the White House would stay in touch with Rostenkowksi, Bentsen and the ranking Republicans on the committee and "discuss with them what we can expect. I want them to know it."

No two members could, on the basis of the background, be The original agreement, the more different than Rostenkowki and Bentsen.

Bush says problems abroad preferred over deficit woes

By MORMAN D. SAMPLE United Press International

WASHINGTON - In a rare bit of public introspection, President Bush acknowledged what many have long believed: that he prefers the challenge of foreign policy to the dirty work of domestic issues like the budget.

"That's about right." Bush said Tuesday at a news conference when told he does not seem to "have as much fun" dealing with domestic concerns like the deficit debacle as in tackling diplomatic problems like the Persian Gulf crisis.

Bush tried to explain that away as a manifestation of the post-war adage that partisanship stops at the water's edge" and that the American people tend to trust their leaders more to face threats from abroad than problems at home.

In foreign affairs, patriotic inatincts overcome political divisions, he suggested, while in Close advisers have noted on repeated occasions how comfortable and engaged Bush seems in foreign policy dis-cussions and how, in meetings on domestic affairs, which have been relegated to secondary status in his administration, his interest and patience can wane.

That has been borne out by polls giving him far stronger marks for leadership on such issues as the gulf crisis and East-West relations than in exhorting the nation to action in such areas as education, the domestic policy, he is forced to environment and the deficit.

Business leaders pessimistic about slowing economic trend

United Proce International

NEW YORK - Business executives' confidence in the U.S. economy sank in the third quarter to its lowest level since 1980, a private business research organization said Wednesday.

The Conference Board said its measure of business confidence fell to 40 for the quarter, as opposed to 48 in the first quarter and 48 in the second. A reading below 50 indicates that pessimists outnumber optimists.

The decline in the confidence rating more than crased the modest improvement experienced in the first half of the year, the board said.

The survey, covering about 1,000 chief executive officers and other top executives in 25 sectors of the economy, also found that nearly 70 percent of the respondents thought eco-nomic conditions have worsened over the past six months. Barely improved.

The survey also found that almost half of the business leaders anticipate further weakening in the economy during the next six months. Only 15 percent expect the economy to improve.

Executives responding to the survey prior to the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait were as pessimistic as those reponding after," noted Jason Bram, associate economist for the Conference Board's consumer research center.

"This suggests that the Middle East crisis has had little effect on business leaders' spirits. Either way, it's clear that business leaders' confidence has dipped."

Although respondents in all sectors reported weakness. banking and financial executives were the most negative about current conditions and expectations for the next six months. Executives in the utilities and insurance industries were the

A's one win away from sweep

OAKLAND, Calif. — Willie Randolph, playing because of an Injury to Walt Weiss, delivered two RBI singles Tuesday and Terry Steinbach scored a run by knocking the ball out of catcher Tony Pena's glove, moving the Oakland Athletics within one victory of a third straight World Series with a 4-1 decision over the Boston Red Sox.

Randolph capped a two-run fourth inning and prolonged a two-run sixth, rallying Oakland to a 3-0 lead in the best-of-seven American League playoff. With a victory in Game 4 Wednesday (3:15 p.m. EDT), Oakland can wrap up its second playoff sweep of Boston in three years.

Never has a major-league club rebounded from a 3-0 deficit to take a postsesson series. Such a rally seems all the more improbable against Oakland, which has outscored Boston 17-3 in the three games.

Oakland has set a major-league mark with 20 league championship series victories. It has also won nine straight postseason games, while Boston has lost a record seven straight in the playoffs.

Reds on the brink

PITTSBURGH - Chris Sabo broke out of his postseason alump with a two-run homer and Eric Davis snuffed an eighth-inning Pittsburgh scoring threat Tuesday night to bring the Cincinnati Reds within a victory of the World Series with a 5-3 triumph over the Pirates in Game 4 of the National League playoffs.

Cincinnati's triumph gave the NL West champions a commanding 3-1 lead in the NLCS. The best-of-seven series resumes Wednesday night in Pittsburgh. A Cincinnati victory would send the Reds to their first World Series since 1976, when they swept the New York Yankees.

Sabo. just 2-for-12 at the plate in the playoffs coming into Tuesday night, produced a sacrifice fly for a 2-2 tie in the fourth inning and then smashed his two-run homer in the seventh which gave the Reds a 4-2 lead.

Pittsburgh's Jay Bell hit an eighth-inning leadoff homer to make it 4-3. But, the Pirates gambled and lost later in the inning. With one out. Bobby Bonilla doubled just over center fielder Billy Hatcher's glove, high off the center-field wall. The ball ricocheted off the wall and left fielder Davis, alertly backing up the play, gunned down Bonilla at third.

Barry Bonds kept the inning going with a single and a stolen base, but Randy Myers struck out Sid Bream to end the threat.

The Pirates' "Killer B's" - Bonds and Bonilla - have been swatted so far by Cincinnati pitching. Bonds has just three hits in 14 at bats, while Bonilla only three hits in 15 at bats.

Where the Hawks soar

Lake Howell holds on to share of first

By PHIL SMITH Herald Correspondent

WINTER PARK - On Tuesday night, the Lake Howell Silver Hawks solidified their footing in the upper echelons of Seminole County girls

Michelle Harris registered 14 service points and had the matchwinning dink to lead the Silver Hawks to an emotional 15-2, 10-15, 15-0 victory over the Lake Mary Rams Tuesday evening in a key Seminole Athletic Conference con-test at Lake Howell High School.

The victory gives Lake Howell a share of first place in the SAC along with Oviedo. Both the Silver Hawks and Oviedo Lions, who will meet on Thursday, Oct. 25, have 8-1 conference records. Lake Mary is now 7-2 in the SAC.

This is a very important win." said Lake Howell Coach Jo Luciano. whose team handed Oviedo its only SAC loss on Sept. 27. "Lake Mary and Oviedo are both well-coached teams. We've been waiting and working hard for quite a while to be able to play on their level."

Not only does the victory have an impact on the conference race, it also has a bearing on the seeding for the 4A-District 9 tournament, which will be played at Lake Mary High School beginning Wednesday, Oct.

With Oviedo, Lake Mary and Lake Howell all in the district, two of the three teams will probably play each other in one semifinal for the right to play the third in final (should the tournament progress according to the seedings). It goes without saying that the top-seeded team should have a definite advantage.
On Tuesday night, Lake Howell defeated an unusually disorganized Lake Mary team by hanging together and repelling the Rams' heavy hitting attack.

"We had good team unity to-night," said Harris, who also added three blocks, two kills and two aces. 'We played together really well.'

The Silver Hawks also benefited from strong performances by setter Joanna Abbott (six service points, even assists), Diann Lowe (10 ☐ See Hawks, Page 3B

SANFORD - Seminole High School continued to struggle Tuesday night as the Seminoles dropped a 15-13, 15-11 decision to DeLand in a Seminole Athletic Conference girls volleyball match at Bill Fleming Memorial Gymnasium. The loss left Seminole Coach Beth Seminole jumped out to a 13-5 lead in the first game but were unable to keep up the momentum.

"We didn't play well as a team," said Corso. "DeLand didn't want to win this match. They didn't even have a setter and still beat us."

Despite the frustration with her team. Corso still felt that setters Lynn Guy and Christie Oliver and front line players Charlene Guy and Melody Brorup had good matches. "Charlene had several good hits," said Corso.

One bright spot for the Seminoles is the news that Megan Hay may be back next week from her knee

Now 2.9 overall and 0.9 in the conference, Seminole will have a week to recover from the loss before traveling to Winter Park next Tuesday to take on the Silver Hawks of Lake Howell High School.

"We couldn't have done it without the setters," said Lewis.

But the wheels came off for Lake Mary in the third game as Harris turned a 1-0 Lake Howell lead into a commanding 9-0 Bilver Hawk advantage by serv-ing eight consecutive points. Lowe capped the victory by serving the final six points.

The night wasn't without its bright apots for Lake Mary. Penny Powell and Marti Citarella both played well along the back line for the Rams. But except for the second game, Lake Mary couldn't get its attack going.

Lake Howell, on the other hand, was getting everything it could out of Lewis, Harris, Jennie Yearick and Abbott.

In the past, playing against the Silver Hawks was like playing a backbased. No matter what you sent at them, the Silver Hawks would send it back. But they had trouble mounting any serious, sustained offense of their own. This season, with Abbott setting Lewis, Harris and Yearick, Lake Howell bas an attack to so with Howell has an attack to go with its defense.

Now 18-3 overall, Lake Howell will play at DeLand on Thursday evening. Lake Mary, 16-3 overall, has a chance to make the BAC race even more interesting when it plays at Oviedo on Thursday. A Ram victory this Thursday and an Oviedo win on Thursday and an Oviedo win on Oct. 25 over Lake Howell would result in a three-way tie for the SAC champtonship.

In Tuesday night's junior varsity match, Lake Howell rallied to pull out a 15-5, 10-15, 16-14 victory. # When do toddlers learn to talk?

DEAR DR. GOTT: le it normal for a 2-year-old not to talk? She's very active, huma a few tunes and enjoys looking at books, yet er language is unrecognizable.

DEAR READER: Some children are slow to talk; they are perfectly healthy but appear to learn verbal skills at their own rate. Because of this wide variation in normal children, I defer a specific answer to your question. The toddler you mention should be examined by a pediatrician to determine whether her speech pattern is normal or should be cause for concern.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Can you explain why I would have increased indigestion and chest tightness since having a mastectomy and receiving a series of radiation treatments for breast cancer? Sign me tired and depressed. DEAR READER: Radiation treatments affect normal tissue as well as abnormal cells. Therefore, inflammation and scarring of normal structures often result from this therapy.

In your case, I suspect the doctor administered radiation to one side of your chest. Since the purpose of this treatment is to kill cancer cells — especially those that have spread to lymph glands — the specialist probably had to use a fairly large "portal," meaning that he or she had to irradiate the lymph glands in the center of your chest, in addition to the cases in your avilla funder. to the ones in your axilla (under-arm). This also irradiated your heart, lung and esophagus.

The normal heart is quite resistant to X-ray treatments, which seldom cause cardiac damage. However, pulmonary tissue is more sensitive; a condition called "radiation pneumonitis" can result, in which normal lung tissue becomes temporarily inflamed and trritated, causing tight or difficult breathing. This usually resolves with time or can be treated with cortisone.

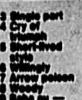

The esophagus, too, is very sensitive to raditation, and it's almost impossible to avoid exposing it during chest irradia-tion. This causes esophagitis, inflammation of the delicate lining, leading to heartburn, beiching and difficulty awallow-

Declarer's amouth play, combined with a difficult decision for a defender, created a favorable result for South in today's deal. Although some might not open the North hand (only 11 working high-eard points), it looks right to me. South pushed a little when he bid over the two-heart raise. North drew from a raise. North drew from a wellspring of optimism when he jumped to four hearts. When south won the see of diamonds, he realised that there would not be enough tricks if he played straightforwardly by drawing three rounds of trumps. The defenders would continue diamonds and eventually make two diamond tricks, two clubs and a spade. So at trick two declarer played the nine of clubs declarer played the nine of clubs — four from West, small from dummy, and the king from East. Perhaps East should have read West's club four as the top of a doubleton, but he was worried that West might have held J-8-4 and mistakenly failed to cover the nine-spot. So he switched to the king of spades. Declarer now won dummy's ace, drew trumpe and continued with the jack of was take two club tricks and a spade. At the other table North passed originally. He later made a takeout double, but South only competed as high as two hearts. and West was allowed to play and make three diamonds. Perhaps this makes a case for weak opening bids when the rebids are easy.

SANFORD - Cook of the Week Karen Wetherhold, a Sanford resident and a 16-year-old Seminole High School senior, plans to attend a veterinary school after gradua-Wetherhold is on a work program from school where she gets on the job training with horses by working at the Flying Unicorn Ranch in Sanford.

While Wetherhold "dearly loves horses," she also enjoys fishing and cooking. Often, she and the whole Wetherhold family fish in a pond at the ranch. She has plans for her latest catch, a 2-pound base.

"I'm going to cook it for a friend, after cleaning of course," Wetherhold's mom taught her to cook. "She can cook anything and it's all from scratch. The first thing she taught me to make was a cake. Not from a box. we never use box cakes." Wetherhold said.

Wetherhold said she used to fix dinner every day after school. She'd get home at 3 p.m. and by 5 p.m. when everyone came home, dinner would be ready. A typical meal would be meatioaf and mashed potatoes.

People think that meation is just meat. I put whole, hard-cooked eggs in mine, One in each end of the loaf. Wetherhold smiled and said.

Now that Wetherhold is a working woman, she has less time to prepare family meals. While she was being interviewed, her father was fishing and her mother was on the phone trying to find out whether the family would be home for dinner.

"That's mom, cooking up a storm," she said with a de-lightful giggle.

PRESN FILET OF FISH

First, catch a fish. Scale it by running a blade against the scales. Cut off the head behind the gills. Slit open the abdominal cavity and remove all contents. With a sharp knife, run the blade along the side of the fish while holding the tail. Avoid the dorsal fin but cut close to the bone and rib cage. Do the same with both sides. This fish is best cooked on the grill outside.

Salt and pepper with garlic salt and flour on both sides of filets. Put aluminum foil over grates on grill. Smear butter on foil, set fish on sizzling butter until golden color. Don't overcook. You really have to watch it cook. Serve with country fries.

hassles Summons try juror's patience

DEAR ABBY: This is another one of those "I never thought I'd be writing to Dear Abby" letters. However, because of your response to a letter concerning jury duty. I felt an obligation to set the record straight.

bet the record straight.

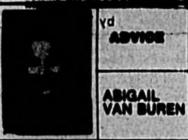

Obviously, you have never been summoned to jury duty. If you had, I doubt that you would have answered as you did.

Being summoned is one thing: serving is another. You can sit around for a month waiting to be impaneled; then you have to deal with the defense, the prosecutor and judge, who sak you secutor and judge, who ask you more questions than they ask the accused.

After the trial is finally over and a verdict is reached, the judge either reverses the decision or throws it out.

This kind of treatment makes people want to serve on a jury? Not me!

DEAR BEEN THERE: I agree with Judge Boldt, who wrote: "Jury service honorably performed is as important in defense of our country. Its Constitution and laws, and the ideals and standards for which they stand, as the service rendered by the soldier on the field of battle in time of war.'

I rest my case.

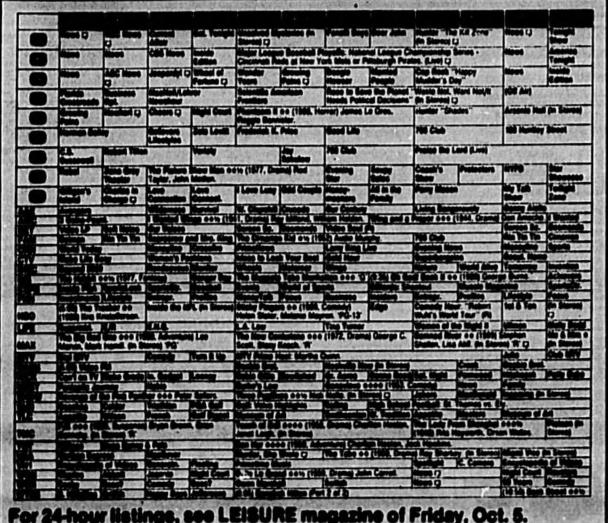

DEAR ABBY: I really like this guy. We were going out for a while, then this great guy moved. I really want to get in touch with him, but I don't know

His father lives near me. Should I ask him for his son's address? If so, should I do it in person or on the telephone? I don't know the man personally. Abby, please advice me.

DEAR NEEDS: if this guy had wanted to keep in touch, he would have left his address and written to you, since he knows yours. Therefore, it's safe to assume that he isn't interested, so contacting his father would he a big mistake. (In this day and age, if you ask a father how to t in touch with his son, the

Family favorite back on culinary scene

Food is fashion, and as hemlines rise and fall, so such tried-and-true family favorites as pot ples are back on the culinary scene. Today's mini skirt is not identical to those that set trends 20 years ago. Nor are today's pot pies exactly what grandmother served - except for their flaky crusts.

Chefs who are practitioners of new American Cuisine are elevating pot pies with nestalgia as part of the return of comfort foods, yet the pies of today are lighter than those of the past.
