

KU KLUX KLAN LECTURE DELIVERED LAST NIGHT BY THE NATIONAL LECTURER

Col. Nolan Told People All About the Klan BIG CROWD OUT

STREETS WERE BLOCKED AND PEOPLE STOOD FOR 1½ HOURS TO HEAR THE STORY

One of the largest and most attentive crowds that have ever gathered on the streets of Sanford was out last night to hear Col. J. Q. Nolan on the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan. First street at the intersection of Park avenue had been roped off by the parking of automobiles across the four sides effectually blocking all traffic strung around the hollow square making a string of electric lights had been hung it bright as day. Into this square promptly at eight o'clock came Col. Nolan in the center of six stalwart Klansmen and accompanied by R. J. Holly, who had been requested to introduce the speaker. Upon a big truck that had been pulled into the center of the street Col. Nolan launched into his subject by telling them that he was a Georgian and had the spirit of the South, of the Klan and of white supremacy ground into him from early youth and he was a 100 per cent Ku Klux. From the launching of the first Klan in ante bellum days the speaker carried his hearers through the struggles of that day—reconstruction days—how the people of the south were forced to take desperate measures to perpetuate white supremacy and how even the Yankee soldiers sent down to keep order in the South joined the Ku Klux and rode with the Southern men to keep law and order and the new order was to preserve those traditions and memories of the old South as well as to perpetuate white supremacy. He paid his respects to the New York World and the editor, Pulitzer, who he characterized as the greatest Annanias of modern times and Hearst of the Journal as the chameleon who changed his spots to suit each city in which he controlled the paper. He said the Klan had been called "nigger beaters" but they were the best friend of the negroes and the negroes were all right if they were let alone, that the best spot in the world for a good negro was Georgia but it was no place for a bad one.

Speaking of the membership he said the front door for applicants into the order was very narrow but the back door was broad and wide and greased skids would carry the undesirable members and scurrilous members out in a hurry and they had no place in the Klan. Members must be Christians first, 100% native born white Protestants and they had nothing against any religious creed or order but they reserved the right to organize since other organizations of a secret nature had the right. They also believe in white supremacy, and stood squarely and firmly upon the constitution of the United States.

He paid a beautiful tribute to motherhood and plead for the old time respect for women, as he expressed it, "put grandma back on the pedestal where grandpa placed her." For the protection and the sanctity of the home of woman's virtue and the Ku Klux Klan is determined that man can never repay the debt of gratitude due to womanhood and motherhood. Mother was symbolized as the picture of Jesus Christ and her purity and sanctity upheld in the plea to place her back on the throne and in the hands of Jesus.

He said that the people who criticized the Ku Klux Klan were either ignorant of the teachings of the order or were disloyal citizens who could not take the oath of true fealty to the government. That the Klan had never taken the law into their own hands except in rare cases and it was their duty to uphold the law and the officers of the law. That they kept hidden in the folds of the white robes and masks, not because they were afraid or ashamed but in order that no one would know them and they could catch violators of the law and report them to the officers. But in the event the officers failed to do their duty they would perform it and put the officers out through the ballot box and the courts.

AGED COUPLE PERISH IN FIRE AT AUGUSTA

HAD LIVED OVER OPERA HOUSE FOR TWENTY YEARS

(By The Associated Press)
AUGUSTA, Ga., March 18.—James A. Tant, 80, and his wife, 45, perished in flames that destroyed the old Grand Opera House here early today. The couple had lived on the fourth floor of the building for twenty years.

Frank Miller, manager of the Southern Enterprises, inc., theatrical concern, owning the opera house building, said the fire apparently was incendiary as he thought the fire started in two places on the ground floor and on the fourth floor.

It's really heart-breaking the way French pride is hurt when nobody will grind the axes.

He took up the immigration question and dwelt at length upon the thousands of foreign-born who are coming over here not to become citizens of the United States but to make money and to carry on the propaganda of anarchy and old world ideas, that the colonies in the various big cities did not assimilate or affiliate with American people, did not even speak our language and the Klan stood for Americanism with all the hyphens knocked out and if he was an Italian or any other nationality let him go back where he came from and that all who remained here must become real 100% Americans or leave and the Klan would see to it.

That nothing in the disarmament line would ever be effective as long as these people in Europe were allowed the latitude of today or were allowed to form a Balkan state in every American city. He likened the foreigner who would not become naturalized to the cuckoo bird who took up other bird's nests to lay her eggs and let the other bird take care of the little cuckoos and when they were large enough they threw out the little birds belonging to the original owner of the nest.

The order is growing not only in the South but everywhere and the Klan knew no north, south, east or west but was for all of America first, last and always. He spoke of the great College of America that the order is founding in Atlanta that will teach religion and American citizenship first, it will be the biggest university in the world and every state in the union will build a building on the grounds. There they will teach the bible and the constitution of the United States as well as the arts and sciences, it will be non-sectarian and no pupil can get a diploma until they are able to recite the constitution of the United States, be Christians and 100% Americans.

In closing he again recited the requisites for becoming a Klansman and said their membership embraced the men of every walk of life from the highest to the lowest and from the U. S. senator, congressmen, judges, officials of all kinds who were "real men" but only real men could belong and he again emphasized the cardinal principles of Americanism, white supremacy, religion and the protection of the homes and the sanctity and virtue of women. At the close of the address he invited all of those present who wanted to join to write their names on a card and hand them to some one on the stand who would see that the Klan received them later. Col. Nolan then vanished as silently as he came with his six Klansmen, going toward the Valdez Hotel and the crowd made way for them without being urged.

Col. Nolan talked over one hour and a half and the people stood that long in the street to hear what was said to be one of the ablest and best talks that has ever been delivered here upon any subject and the people of Sanford have a true conception now of the precepts and examples of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan.

The Sanford band played some fine music before the speaking and added much to the occasion.

MILLION KLANSMEN TO SEE THAT NEGRO IS RETURNED

HICKORY, N. C., March 18.—Speaking before a large audience in Hickory Thursday night, Dr. Arthur Talmadge Abernathy, of Asheville, lecturer for the Ku Klux Klan, referred to a case in which, he said, Governor Morrison was refused extradition of a negro by Canada and asserted that one million klansmen from Maine to Texas have been pledged to see that the negro is returned to North Carolina for trial. "And this will happen in the next ninety days," he added.

While Dr. Abernathy did not mention the name of the man he said was sought by the authorities of this state, the audience understood him to refer to Matthew Bullock, wanted at Norlina on a charge of attempted murder growing out of a race riot at that place about a year ago. Bullock was recently given his liberty by Judge Snyder, at Hamilton, Ont., where he was arrested when Governor Morrison refused to send witnesses to Canada to testify at his extradition hearing.

Dr. Abernathy had been discussing the efforts he said the Ku Klux Klan were making to assist the officers in enforcing the law. He referred to a case in Asheville, in which he said a negro was sent to the roads through the efforts of the Klan and told of two white women being escorted out of that city by klansmen.

HOUSE MAY VOTE TODAY TO CUT SIZE OF THE ARMY, DIFFERENCE OF OPINION

Big Debate Was Staged Yesterday on This Most Important Question

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, March 18.—A difference of opinion was voiced by Republican leaders in the House yesterday over the size of the army during consideration of the army appropriation bill. No sooner had Chairman Kahn, of the military affairs committee, expressed opposition to any reduction in the enlisted or officer strength than Representative Mondell, Republican leader, declared he approved action of the subcommittee which framed the bill in providing that by July 1, the enlisted personnel of the regular army must be cut to 115,000, and the number of officers decreased to 11,000.

General debate was concluded late yesterday and indications were that the House would reach a vote today or Monday on sections of the bill relating to the size of the army.

With party lines disregarded to a certain extent the House membership appeared to be divided into three main groups—one determined to stand by the committee recommendations, another preparing to demand an army of 100,000 men, while the third was lining up in support of the war department, which requested a pay allowance sufficient to maintain 160,000 men and 13,000 officers during the coming fiscal year.

Republican members were said to be represented in all three camps, while most of the Democrats were expected by their leaders to join the "small army" forces.

During his address to the house Mr. Kahn took the position that it would be "false economy" to order too drastic a cut in the army's size. He read a letter from Secretary Hughes in which objection was voiced to withdrawal of all regular army troops stationed in China, as proposed in the bill.

Mr. Mondell, declaring that the subcommittee which drafted the bill had not gone too far in providing for no more than 115,000 men and 11,000 officers, said he was convinced that efficiency would not be sacrificed, that the force would be sufficient for all peace time purposes, and that it could be quickly expanded into an efficient fighting organization in case of an emergency.

During the debate Representative Harrison, Democrat, of Virginia, declared that Secretary Weeks, after insisting a few weeks ago on an army of 160,000 men, was now showing a willingness to accept a reduction that would bring the enlisted personnel down to 130,000, slightly below the present strength.

Irreconcilables Argue About the Treaty All Day

A STORMY SESSION LOT OF TALK THAT DOES NOT SEEM TO GET THEM ANYWHERE

WASHINGTON, March 18.—Another sustained assault was thrown against the four power Pacific pact by the senate irreconcilables yesterday after the treaty's friends had argued among themselves for an hour as to whether the pact might properly be called an "alliance."

The fight against ratification was carried forward in utrum by Senators France, republican, Maryland; Johnston, republican, California, and Watson, democrat, Georgia, in a series of speeches which occupied the senate most of the afternoon and which drew no reply from the treaty's supporters. Senator Johnson compared the pact with the Anglo-Japanese alliance in an effort to show that both "contain a meaning broader than their words."

In the course of the debate charges of "propaganda" both for and against the treaty were made by the opposing sides but no one produced any direct evidence to support the assertions or asked for any investigation of the influences declared to be at work to control the action of the senate.

The discussion over the application of the term "alliance" took place largely between Senator Willis, republican, Ohio, and Senator Spencer, republican, Missouri, both supporters of the treaty. A speech recently made by senator Spencer declaring the pact to be "an alliance for conference" but not for use of force was assailed by Senator Willis, who insisted that no sort of "alliance" was contemplated and that the speech of the Missouri senator had embarrassed the treaty's friends, Mr. Spencer stood by his definition and his characterization of the foreign relations committee "no alliance" reservation as "ridiculous absurdity."

By Senators France, Johnson and Watson, it was declared that the dictionary definition covering the treaty mattered little and that the real meaning of the four power arrangement must be judged by its practical operation. Mr. Johnson asserted that so far as actual wording went the Anglo-Japanese alliance covered only unprovoked aggression in eastern Asia and India, and that if it really was dangerous to the United States, as argued by supporters of the four power treaty, the reason lay between the lines. Judged by the same process, he asserted the four power pact might easily lead to many dangers in actual practice.

Senator Watson charged that the "money power" was behind the treaty and reciting that Elihu Root, one of the American delegates, was a great corporation lawyer and attorney for the Anglo Japanese bank. He declared Mr. Root could be expected to work for "a better and stronger concert," in the far east.

"When secretary of state he was a party to the rape of Korea by Japan," said Senator Watson.

The Georgia Senator also said it was significant that Holland had been denied admission to the four power treaty although, he said, "her insular possessions were larger than the French."

"France was brought in because she has the largest standing army in the world," Senator Watson continued. "England and Japan need those soldiers. Holland has no military strength to contribute."

One of the first results of the four power treaty, Senator Watson predicted would be cancellation of the allied debt to the United States. He pointed out that a place on the new debt commission had been given to Secretary Mellon of the treasury, who he said not only was associated with Wall Street, but was holding his office in violation of the law. He added that "Somebody ought to arrest him and send him to the penitentiary."

AMOS PICKET BOUND TO GRAND JURY WITHOUT BOND

At a hearing before County Judge Householder Wednesday afternoon, Amos Picket, colored, of Longwood, was held to await the action of the next grand jury, for the alleged homicide of Jim Woodson another negro, also heretofore residing in Longwood.

Jim Woodson was killed at Longwood Saturday night while attending an entertainment at some friend's house and Picket is alleged to have committed the deed. The death of Woodson seems to have been the end of more or less continuous negro squabble between the two principals.

Pay your poll tax before Saturday night if you want to vote in the bond election for county roads and the Osteen bridge.

Attend the mass meeting at the Court House Thursday night at eight o'clock.

A new pair of duetors were discovered at this meeting, reference is made to Ralph Wight and J. C. Hutchinson, who evidently had been practicing on Liza Jans and was late purposely that they might show the club how well they could and would sing. They sang.

Dr. Mobley was the speaker scheduled for the day, but for some unknown reason he failed to prepare, instead he and A. Raffeld entered into a collusion whereby Raffeld was enabled to deliver not a ten minute speech, but an oration, entitled, "Americanism." Dr. Raffeld began his oration with "Americanism is not a birthright, but a privilege and an ambition to be lived," after which he held his audience with his eloquent address for fully fifteen minutes. He was much applauded.

Mr. Swope a new member of Kiwanis was present and addressed the club on the necessity of paying poll taxes in order to vote in the bond election April 11th. Kiwanis promised to get all set for the event and to help put it over.

During the luncheon Jimmie Robson, our own Jimmie of Zylphonist fame, delighted the members with several selections on his Xylophone, which had been imported for the

THE KU KLUX KLAN

A friend asked yesterday, "Why don't you say something in the Dispatch against the Ku Klux Klan?" Well, for one reason, we are not old, and we expect to see the day dawn when men who are now denouncing the Ku Klux will be raising their hands to Heaven and imploring God to send the Ku Klux, or an organization similar to it, to deliver them and their children from black supremacy, the boot-leggers, and certain other forms of outlawry that can be reached and punished by secret means.

Where would the South be today had it not been for the old, original Ku Klux, whose first grand dragon was the famous Confederate cavalry leader, Nathan Bedford Forrest. After the Civil war, the South was over-run by Yankee carpetbaggers who offered every form of insolence and insult to the white people of this section. The homes and farms of the people were sold for taxes and many times the purchasers were as black as the shades of hades. Offices were filled by black men who were no more qualified to discharge the duties that devolved upon them than a house-cat. The beautiful commonwealth of Louisiana once had a negro lieutenant-governor. The sheriffs in many counties and parishes were negro men. They crowded the legislative halls in some of the Southern states. The writer of these lines is only forty years of age, yet he remembers seeing in his native state (Tennessee) numerous black and kinky heads in the legislature of the Volunteer State, negro men who could not write, helping to enact laws to govern members of the Anglo-Saxon race.

The Ku Klux came on the scene, and conditions changed. The black man receded and the rightful "heirs of government" again took the reins in their hands. And there those reins must forever remain. Putting uniforms on young negro men during the war, placing them at the steering wheels of expensive automobiles, feeding them upon the kind of "truck" that President Harding handed out at Birmingham, these and other things have puffed the negro to a point where he is about to forget that in the South a negro must keep a negro's place.

In this section, while there are many white men who drink moonshine whisky, the poison is made in most instances by negro men and sold by them or other negro men. The hearts of white women of our acquaintance in Columbus have been made sad and the past week by men they love coming home with hooze on their breath that was made by a negro and secured for them by a negro. Black men making and selling "cat" is a menace to the South. The traffic must be driven out, even if it takes the Knight of the Ku Klux Klan to do it.

We haven't a word to say against them so long as they continue to aid the officers in enforcing the laws, punish white brutes and black brutes, uphold the sanctity of the home and advocate a return to the old-time standards of pure living and sound morality.—Columbus, Miss., Dispatch.

IMPROVEMENTS SPELL PROGRESS

Improvements spell progress. Lack of improvements mean decay. Look at any flourishing city in Florida or any other state and where they are going ahead and making improvements as needed you will see a great city or a smaller city being bulldozed into a greater city. Improvements can not be made without spending money. This is true of private business and enterprises just as it is true of cities. We cannot stand still in business or in municipal affairs. It is the constant improving and going ahead that means success and it is the constant going ahead and improving that makes cities. They either go ahead or they go backward. Let us all get together then in the matter of improving our county and our cities and in the work of improvement take all men into our confidence and have them go with us and not against us for the want of knowing just what is being done or that is contemplated. Improvements are needed in Sanford and in the county of Seminole and the time to make them is now. We must go forward!

THE SUNDAY THOUGHT

What a wonderful world it would be if we all followed the Golden Rule not only on Sunday but every day in the week. Not only during church hours but during business hours and every hour in the day. It would be unnecessary to have any other laws in this land of the free and the home of the brave. Those clubs and fraternities and lodges that preach the golden rule to their members are doing a great work and they could do no greater than to constantly instill in the minds and hearts of their members the teaching of the golden rule. Before we act in any capacity, in any business deal, in any of our daily routine of work, before we spoke the angry word, before we struck the blow from which we might be overlastingly sorry if we could just stop to think of the golden rule. Try it!

IRRIAND UPHELD ON HIS POLICY AT ARMS MEET

(By The Associated Press) PARIS, March 18.—The appearance yesterday of Premier Poincare and Albert Sarraut, minister of the colonies, before the joint foreign affairs and army and navy commissions which desired explanations of the treaties and undertakings entered into by France at the Washington conference, brought about one of the stormiest meetings of the commissions in years. M. Sarraut, headed the French delegation in Washington after the departure of M. Briand, then French Premier.

The French delegation to Washington was bitterly attacked, especially because of its alleged failure to be represented at the preliminary deliberations leading up to the four-power treaty. M. Sarraut expressed himself as perfectly satisfied with the result of the Washington conference, as far as France was concerned. He protested vigorously against the widespread report that the French delegates had gone to Washington without preparation. France, he said, was as well prepared as any other power, as had been shown by the results, which he described as perfectly satisfactory.

M. Poincare, on the other hand, was more guarded in his statement. He did not adversely criticize but at the same time he was not over-enthusiastic in his approval of the work done by Premier Briand. When challenged by M. Andre Tardieu, who said France had suffered the deepest humiliation of many centuries by being excluded from the early deliberations, M. Poincare replied:

"I am not the sponsor for the French delegation. I had nothing to do with the shaping of its policies or the naming of its members."

The only exception to the general refusal of the operators, the secretary said, was demonstrated by the Illinois operators. The Indiana coal operators, he said, had tentatively agreed to the joint conference proposals but later had withdrawn its decision.

Must Close Down Forts if the Army is Cut to 115,000 Men

Impossible To Man 290 Posts With Few Men

(By The Associated Press) ST. AUGUSTINE, March 18.—Secretary Weeks plans to tell the senate committee that "it is impossible with a small force to man the 290 posts throughout the United States" in commenting on the action of the house appropriations committee in reporting a bill carrying $270,353,030.07 and providing for an army of 115,000 enlisted men and 11,000 officers. Maintenance of all the posts Mr. Weeks said, if the house committee's figure is to stand would mean that the small number at each post would be reduced to guarding property.

Overhead expense should be cut in the same proportion as the army, if this plan is to be followed, the war secretary declared. "Reduction in the personnel," he asserted, "is especially unwise unless the overhead expense of the army is cut at least the same ratio. It now costs about $2,000 per man per year as against about $1,000 as before the war. I do not know what the present bill contains in detail, but so far as I am informed, it does nothing in reducing overhead expenses, such as maintenance, and repair requirements at many posts which may well be abandoned."

Mr. Weeks said constant requests came to Washington for renewal of equipment and buildings at the army posts but no expenditure of $500 or more is allowed unless personally approved by him.

If Congress wishes to reduce army expenditures, the secretary continued, it should "abolish everything that is not necessary for the military defense of the country." He said he had asked congress nine months ago for authority to dispose of about 100 pieces of real estate. There are in addition, he added, a number of military posts now valueless, many of them scattered through the west, constructed originally for defense against the Indian. Moreover, there are still others, he continued, like Fort Marion at St. Augustine, which contribute in no way to the nation's defense. Fort Marion, however, the secretary declared, should be preserved under the war department and charged up to their appropriation.

Reduction of the army to 115,000 men will necessitate abandonment of many posts, he said, adding if the army is cut to 115,000 men such places will have to be abandoned. "We will have to take troops out of them," he said. "It requires about 45,000 men on the border and in foreign possessions, which would leave 70,000 to garrison the remaining 250 posts. The 70,000 includes aviation, quartermaster corps, medical corps, etc., so that the remainder is only about 50,000 combat troops. This is only enough to act as guards of government property if they are to be divided among all."

"I shall hope to have an opportunity to explain the situation to the senate committee and have with me the exact figures on the distribution of the army if all the posts are to be maintained."

"The army at present numbers about 137,000 but strict selective methods are being followed in recruiting and we are taking only the best men who apply for enlistment. It is costing less than $8 a man to recruit, whereas it usually cost about $100 a man. A personnel of 130,000 enlisted men would leave the army with virtually the same strength it has today. It is the opinion of army heads that this should be the minimum figure." The war secretary said the American army in Germany would be reduced to 2,000 men by April 15. The future policy of the government as to disposition of that number remains to be determined, he added.

Mr. Weeks plans to return to Washington with President Harding on Sunday.

Have you forgotten about tomorrow being Sunday and after church you should enjoy one of those famous Seminole Cafe Sunday dinners? 306-1tc

STATE DRY DRIVES

(By The Associated Press) ST. AUGUSTINE, March 18.—The department of justice is perfectly willing to have the state courts handle violations of the prohibition laws if they will do so; otherwise government machinery will be used, Attorney General Daugherty said in response to inquiries. Mr. Daugherty said the states themselves should act and not depend upon the government but at the same time he was emphatic in asserting that the federal machinery would be used vigorously in states where state action was insufficient. Mr. Daugherty arrived here from Miami yesterday to accompany President Harding to Washington today.

SLEUTH UNEARTHS PROOF OF HUGE SCALE AUTO THIEVERY

Florida Covered by Chain of Organized Automobile Thieves—Jacksonville Alleged Clearing House for Stolen Machine

(Tampa Tribune) Existence in Florida of a chain of automobile thieves and "fences" for the disposal of stolen machines, guessed at and intimated for months, has now been definitely established, and within a few days, according to authoritative statements of officials, a series of arrests is to be made that will astound the whole state of Florida.

Ramifications of this organized and co-operative chain of auto thieves, it is declared, extends from Fort Myers to Jacksonville, across the state to Miami on the east coast, and to Pensacola in West Florida. It is said so far, between sixty and one hundred individuals have been positively and definitely identified with the organized business of stealing automobiles, stealing license tags, running the machines to other parts of the country and disposing of them after expert mechanics have so altered numbers, engine numbers, etc., as apparently to make it impossible to identify the stolen cars.

In a score of towns and cities throughout Florida have been found automobile men, garages, chauffeurs, taxi owners and drivers, and even men in other lines of business actively engaged in organized automobile thievery. Probably half a dozen of these have been located in Tampa, camouflaging their real occupation under and behind other and widely different businesses; and this also is true of other cities. Jacksonville, it has been established, is the clearing house for practically all of the automobiles stolen in Florida—the gateway through which the stolen cars, their license tags, engine numbers, etc., altered have been sold to purchasers in Georgia and other states farther north.

Discovery of the widespread organization for stealing and selling automobiles is due to the activities of several of the leading automobile insurance companies of the east; and the story of the actual work of locating the thieves, their operatives, mechanics, go-betweens and salesmen reads like a Nick Carter romance.

For the work in Florida these insurance companies, whose losses from car thefts recently have run into the millions of dollars, employed an expert operative now attached to the Pinkerton detective agency, but formerly a star operative of the United States secret service. Working from Jacksonville down to Fort Myers, down the east coast to Miami, across the state to Tampa, St. Petersburg and up to Pensacola, this operative unearthed evidence of a network of automobile thievery beside which the alleged bootlegging industry of Florida pales into insignificance and drops into the pler class.

The detective traced machines from Tampa, Punta Gorda, Fort Myers, Lakeland and other cities to garages perhaps a hundred miles away, thence to Jacksonville and from there on to the buyers in Georgia and elsewhere. Evidence which he obtained establishes legal proof of the connection of apparently respectable and reputable business men in other lines with the automobile thieves. And upon this evidence, it is stated on official authority, a series of arrests is to be made within a few days that will cause one of the most profound sensations that ever has swept over Florida.

The net has been drawn so closely around the thieves and their agents, lieutenants, mechanics and salesmen, that there is no danger of any guilty individual making his escape. Because of the thoroughness with which the preliminary work has been done and the necessary evidence has been obtained, those in charge of or in touch with the work do not hesitate to make a preliminary statement covering the general facts in the matter.

So carefully has the Pinkerton man done his work, and so closely has his real identity been guarded that he actually has worked with the thieves, has worked in garages where engine numbers were altered and other marks of identification removed, and even has operated with the salesmen whose business it is to dispose of the stolen machines. The detective has obtained indisputable proof of the fact that at least three men in Tampa are closely connected with the statewide chain of automobile thieves, with other Tampans also actively engaged in the nefarious work. The evidence obtained in Tampa has been duplicated in more than a score of other Florida cities and towns.

Examples of the manner in which the operations of the chain of automobile thieves have been conducted, as cited by a detective, indicate the boldness of the work. One such example, occurring in Tampa, was the theft recently of a high grade machine. The actual theft, according to proof in the possession of the detective, was the work of a Tampa merchant in a line of business wholly distinct from the automobile or garage industry. The thief, after stealing the car, stole the license plate from another machine, the property of a Tampa prominently connected with Gasparilla functions of recent years. In a Tampa garage and repair shop an acetylene torch obliterated the engine numbers and an expert workman substituted a new serial number for the original. Then under the stolen license plate the car was run to Jacksonville, where it was sold to a concern in a Georgia city. From there it was traced through the hands of three other parties, to the person in possession of the machine when it was located.

Evidence obtained by the Pinkerton operative working in Florida connects the organization of auto thieves in this state with similar "chain systems" in other states, and it is expected the investigation finally will develop proof of the existence of a nationally organized system of automobile theft and disposal, with perhaps a dozen or more central points for the "clearing" of a sale of stolen machines.

Efforts of the automobile insurance companies throughout the East to run down and break up the organized theft of automobiles has been prompted by the astounding increase of this form of thievery in the last year and a half. According to statements of persons familiar with the Florida situation and with the situation throughout the United States, several of these insurance companies have been forced to the wall in the last few months, because of heavy losses sustained through theft of insured machines. Danger that the entire automobile insurance business might be forced to quit has impelled the inauguration of a nationwide investigation, the results of the sleuthing being similar, it is stated, in many other parts of the country with those obtained in Florida.

Reluctance of courts in the various communities to convict automobile thieves, even when indisputable evidence of guilt is submitted to the juries, has militated against punishment of the thieves in the past, and consequent breaking up of the organized thievery, it is stated. However, those back of the present activity in running down the auto thieves declare that a means has been found of getting around this hitherto serious difficulty, and positive assurance is expressed that the thieves to be gathered in, in the forthcoming closing of the net will find it impossible to escape through the disinclination of local juries to do their sworn duty.

EGG PLANT AND PEPPERS SHOW ADVANCING PRICES

Celery market eased up quite a little bit during the past week which resulted in rather light movement from this section. The Sanford district have been cutting quite heavily which resulted in most of the northern markets having liberal supply. Most sales were in the buyers favor, especially throughout the eastern markets. New York and Philadelphia were selling preferred sizes mostly from $2.00 to $3.00 per crate. More strength appeared to be with western points, which took on more celery than is usually shipped at this time of the year. At the time of going to press there appeared to be a stronger feeling as large shippers contend wire inquiry was much better. At present f. o. b. prices range from $1.40 to $1.65 on three to six dozen sizes. Some buyers are taking it on freely anticipating a sharper demand through the northern markets this coming week.

Fancy peppers took a further increase during the last few days, a number of markets quoting sales from $5.50 to $7.00 on fancy stock. Choice and inferior peppers are selling from $2.00 to $3.00 less. Sanford section had a very large acreage planted to late peppers and some buyers seem to think that if no misfortune overtakes the crop now being started there will be a very liberal supply and prices will no doubt range low, during May and June.

Tomatoes have not been moving at attractive prices, which is probably due to heavy movement from the East Coast, and heavy shipments via steamer from the Bahama Islands. New York market reports frequently acknowledge receipt of heavy cargoes being brought in on Old Dominion steamer. Tomatoes in six basket containers range from $2.00 to $3.50 on preferred sizes. By the time that our crop is ready to move it is expected that there will be little competition from the East Coast and islands now producing.

A close survey of the state would indicate that a very small acreage has been planted to egg plants, and it would now appear as though what few are being grown should move at a reasonably good figure. Acreage being planted to late egg plant through this section is lighter than usual and none of the large shippers are anticipating a very heavy movement. At the present time Cuba and the Isle of Pines are shipping the crop which is equaling Florida prices ranging from $2.00 to $3.50 on northern markets.

Usually dry weather has caused weakness in an occasional field, and can especially be attributed the cause of heavy movement from Sanford. The rain which visited this section

New England Male Quartet Here at Chautauqua

The New England Male Quartet, which appears here at the coming Redpath Chautauqua, has established a reputation throughout the entire country—a reputation earned through its first-rank vocal attainments and originality in entertaining.

An exceptionally harmonious blending of voices is the feature of the vocal ensemble. This splendid harmony is equally gratifying in the songs from the classics and in the rollicking music of popular airs. In addition to a wealth of vocal features, the program is rich in capital character impersonations and amusing monologues. This is essentially a high-grade singing organization. It can be depended upon to please any audience.

SOLDIER BONUS BILL HAS TWO NEW FEATURES FOR CONFERENCE CALL

Fordney Files Majority Report and Discussion Will Follow

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, March 17.—There were just two developments yesterday in the soldiers' bonus muddle. One was the filing by Chairman Fordney of the ways and means committee of the majority report on the compromise bill which was estimated to cost the government a total of $4,098,710,350. The other was the circulation of a petition by Representative Lineberger, of California, a former service man, for a conference of house Republicans for next Tuesday evening to discuss the bonus legislation.

Mr. Lineberger announced last night that there were sixty signatures to the petition, or ten more than the number required under the rules for a conference call.

Chairman Fordney declared emphatically that it still was his determination to bring the bill up Monday under a suspension of the rules, if that could be done, and if not, to call it up Tuesday under a special rule if such a rule could be obtained.

Speaker Gillett is due to arrive here today from Florida, one day ahead of the original schedule, and at that time the question of whether the bill will be taken up Monday probably will be settled. Mr. Fordney said the conference with the speaker would be in "perfect harmony" and that if Mr. Gillett held against a suspension of the rules he would proceed with plans to bring the measure up under a special rule.

The chairman went on to say that it was not his desire to limit debate; that if the measure were taken up under a suspension of the rules he would ask unanimous consent for two days of discussion which would throw the final vote over until late Tuesday. Should his request be denied, debate would be limited to forty minutes under the house rules.

The estimate in the majority report that the total cost of the bonus would be $4,098,710,350, was based upon the assumption that 70 per cent of the 4,468,199 veterans who would be eligible for compensation would accept adjusted service certificates; 2½ per cent vocational training and 10 per cent farm and home aid and 7½ per cent land settlement aid. The remaining 10 per cent would be paid in cash after passage of the bill under a provision requiring veterans whose adjusted compensation would not exceed $50 to accept cash.

Total costs under the various options of the bill were estimated as follows: Cash payments, $10,000,000; certificates, on account of deaths, $577,571.00 and on account of maturity, $3,154,350; vocational training $52,325,000; farm and home aid $180,000,000 and land settlement $112,000,000.

The greatest cost in any single year was estimated at $3,154,350 in the fiscal year 1924 when the certificates then outstanding would mature. The costs under all other options except the certificate would cease the report said in 1927. The last payments under vocational training would be in 1925; under farm and home aid in 1926, and under land settlement in 1927. After that time the only cost each year until the year of the maturity of the certificates would be payments of account of deaths of holders of certificates.

The cost in the fiscal year 1923, the first year after the bill came into operation would be $74,270,000, the report said.

The report said no provision had been made for raising revenue to meet the first year's cost because a majority of the committee was satisfied that "no new taxation or special provisions are needed until after expiration of that fiscal year" it added that any estimate of government expenditure for 1924 and the amount of revenue needed on account of the bonus "would necessarily be very inaccurate at this time."

WOULD LET ALIENS STAY

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, March 17.—The house passed yesterday a resolution under which approximately 2,400 aliens admitted temporarily to the United States prior to March 7, in excess of the 3 per cent quotas of the restrictive immigration law, would be permitted to remain in this country permanently. The measure now goes to the senate.

McHENRY HANGED AT WASHINGTON TODAY COULD NOT STOP IT

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, March 17.—John McHenry, age twenty-four, was hanged in the District of Columbia jail today for the murder of a Washington detective and automobile dealer. Efforts to obtain a commutation continued to the last moment, but failed, President Harding having refused to intervene. An attempt to prevent the hanging today was made by the local branch Sons of Irish Freedom, who said the execution today would be desecration of feast day of Ireland's Patron Saint.

BIG DIVERSITY FLORIDA CROPS IS EVIDENT

ELIMINATION OF UNSATISFACTORY LABOR AND UNNECESSARY EXPENSES IS PROGRAM

(By The Associated Press) GAINESVILLE, March 18.—Greater diversity of crops is evident in the state's agricultural activities so far this year with a more than well balanced program of cultivation and fertilization and the elimination of unsatisfactory labor and unnecessary expense, according to the Federal Bureau of Crop Estimates here. Weather conditions have been generally favorable for early truck crops and preparation for the state's big staple crops, with farm work everywhere progressing on schedule time.

There has been a general increase in the acreage planted to the major truck crops in their usual territory which has been further augmented by the tendency of the average farmer to include a limited acreage of one or more of the truck crops in his farming operations this year. Plowing and the general preparation of ground for planting was seventy-two per cent complete on March 1, somewhat more than the usual percentage at that time. Spring planting, was slightly behind last year but about up to the average for March 1.

The condition of the citrus fruits and early prospects for the season of 1922-1923 are closely related just at this time to the crop now being harvested. For oranges, including tangerines, prospects were declared to be almost ideal. The 1921-22 crop was comparatively light and more than the usual percentage is off of the trees at this time. The vitality of bearing trees is above average, early growth and bloom are good and physical conditions, cultivation, spraying and fertilization have had careful attention.

The grapefruit situation, while generally favorable so far as bloom, growth and physical conditions, are concerned, is complicated by the volume of fruit from the 1921-22 crop still on the trees.

The acreage in Irish potatoes this spring is estimated at 25,000 as compared with 17,000 acres last year and 23,000 in 1920. The largest increase is in the Hastings territory, including St. Johns, Putnam and Flagler counties, but a general increase has taken place all over the state wherever the crop is grown commercially. The conditions of the crop on March 1 was 91% of normal compared with 90% a year ago and 70% two years ago.

Florida farmers have plenty of corn in their cribs to last until the new crop comes in, forty-two of last year's crop, some 4,600,000 bushels, remaining on the farms on March 1st.

Production of oats last year was low and much less than the usual quantity remains on the farms at this time. Ten per cent, 53,000 bushels, was all that farmers had on hand on March 1. A year ago the stock on hand at this time was 125,000 bushels and two years ago 96,000 bushels.

Condition of pineapples on March 1 was unusually high, 90% of normal, compared with 82% a year ago and 76% in 1920.

AMERICA SHOULD INSIST UPON PAYMENT OF BILL FOR KEEPING SOLDIERS

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, March 17.—Declaration that the United States should insist upon payment of its bill of $241,000,000 for keeping American soldiers in Germany was made in the senate today by both party leaders, Lodge and Underwood, and by Borah. Underwood also urged appointment of American representative on the allied reparations commission.

WOMAN BURIED ALIVE IN AN INDIAN MOUND

TALLAHASSEE, March 18.—Miss Emma Boyd, a vocal teacher at the Florida State College here, was buried alive while searching for historic relics in an Indian mound, seven miles from here yesterday.

Recently Miss Boyd, it is understood and other young women of the college had engaged workmen to excavate the mound, and while the men were still engaged, Miss Boyd, accompanied by two other curio hunters went there yesterday. While standing in one of the clearings lateral earth suddenly gave way and buried her. Physicians who arrived after the body had been recovered said her death had been caused by suffocation. Miss Boyd was a native of Iowa, and had been a member of the college faculty for four years.

OPENED WORLD OF ANCIENTS

Frenchman in Year 1822 Succeeded in Deciphering Hieroglyphics on Egyptian Monuments.

As there is always a centennial in prospect, we are now about to reach that of Champollion's deciphering of Egyptian writing. The announcement of this discovery was, in fact, made in 1822.

Champollion had spent more than twenty years trying to plumb the secrets of hieroglyphics. He finally found it with the discovery of an inscription in Greek carved in hieroglyphic characters. The word that appeared most often in Greek was the name of Ptolemy, to whom the stone had been raised. Champollion, therefore, searched for the hieroglyphics which corresponded with this word. What signs had the value of "P" and "t" and "o"? In addition to superhuman patience, a genius for divination was called for.

First light came from the letter "I" by comparison with certain signs appearing on a monument to Cleopatra. But this was only one step forward, as Egyptian writing was composed of alphabetical characters, syllabic signs and ideographic as well as determinative symbols.

Thus it is easy to imagine the time required before Champollion opened the world of the ancients to the researches of science—a world which is still more or less of an enigma to the student.—From Le Petit Parisien, Paris.

WAVE OF RELIGIOUS FERVOR

"Revival" Along the East Coast of England Is Most Remarkable of Recent Years.

A religious "revival" has commenced among the fisher people on the east coast, from Grimsby to John o' Groats, says the Manchester Guardian. It is difficult to say where the revival originated, but its effects are most noticeable in the villages on the south of the Moray Firth and the Aberdeenshire coast north of Aberdeen. Observers say the revival is much more extensive than that led in Wales in 1904-5 by Evan Roberts. Prayer meetings, lasting many hours, are held nightly, the mission halls generally being full. The kinemas and public houses are in consequence nearly empty, and some of the former have had to close down. Strangers and fellow villagers are systematically stopped in the streets and asked if they have been saved. Even motorists in some villages are held up by the more fervent. One serious aspect of the revival is its effect on the minds of the people. Already six persons, mostly young men and women, have been removed to hospitals and institutions for the insane, and in the event of the revival continuing much longer this number may, it is feared, swell.

Term "Cabaret" Is Old. "Cabaret" has come to be regarded as a recent addition to the English language—a word which, from its form and pronunciation, is evidently French.

As a matter of fact, the term was originally of Gallic origin, but it is by no means modern, having been widely used in England during the sixteenth century as a synonym for tavern. There was nothing musical about the cabarets of this period, and the only amusement they afforded was that which the travelers furnished.

While used by Bramhall in one of his works published in 1655, it passed out of the language soon after that time and did not return until about the middle of the eighteenth century. At this time, however, its stay was brief and its popularity limited and, not until the dancing craze struck the world a few years ago, was it resurrected in its present sense.

Not as Bad as It Seemed.

The fierce-looking visitor from Belgium entered the toy shop, and gazed frigidly at the assistant, who hurried to her side.

"I want," she said with a strong accent, "ze naked Edward."

The poor man blushed and thought wildly of his wife.

"Er—um, would you mind saying that again?"

"Ze naked Edward," persisted the customer. "You have them in ze window."

"Great Bath buns," gasped the assistant. "We'll have the police here in a minute! Come outside and show me."

Once outside she pointed excitedly. "Zere you have him—what you call ze Ted dy bare."—London Tit-Bits.

Chinese Bezique. Chinese bezique is booming in the London clubs just now. Chinese bezique is a development of the old game of bezique. It is played with six packs of 82 cards each. The scoring runs into high figures. Bezique and double bezique score as at the old game, 400 and 600, respectively. But it is possible to get treble bezique, which is worth 1,500 points, and quadruple bezique, which counts 4,500. Four aces of trumps score 1,000 points, and the winner of the last trick of the game gets 250 points.

Once our navy is reduced, the little fellows will outgrow the suspicion that "gob" is short for "gobble."

After a man sacrifices his health to make money, it must be a great consolation to know he has enough to hire the best specialists.

The first annual bench show of the newly organized Orange County Kennel club is on the fair grounds park, with 200 dogs from various parts of the country competing for the ribbons in the various classes divided into twenty-six sections. The throngs that attended the opening day evidenced that the sportsman of the surrounding country are still keenly interested in the propagation of canines of class and their achievements. While dogs of the hunting strain largely predominate, there is a liberal showing of other classes, with Pekinese and Bostons ranking next in point of entries.
George G. Herring of this city took six prizes with his pointer dog, Paul Biggers had the dog in charge and said the show was a good one in every particular.

HOLD WIFE FOR MURDER AT DELAND

AUTHORITIES BELIEVE SHE WAS ACCESSORY WITH NEGRO

DELAND, March 18.—Mrs. Alice E. Shields was remanded for trial on a charge of murder in the first degree, following a preliminary hearing here yesterday before a justice of the peace growing out of the killing of her husband early last month.

A negro, Pete Smith, arrested shortly after Shields had supposedly met his death from ambush while returning with Mrs. Shields from DeLand to St. Cloud, near here, at night, is charged with the actual killing.

Circumstantial evidence at yesterday's hearings was to the effect that Mrs. Shields conspired with the negro to effect her husband's death. It was brought out that she was driving the car at the time and that she suddenly brought it to a stop in the road to avoid striking an obstacle. Shields alighted from the machine to remove the obstruction and was shot through the head with a shotgun. His head was virtually blown to pieces.

Mrs. Shields was arrested several days ago when Assistant State Attorney Mott acted upon a communication from the "Committee of Investigation, Ku Klux Klan," offering a solution of the affair.

The Shields formerly lived at Wichita, Kans.

FELLSMERE BANK IS SHORT SOME $36,000

(By The Associated Press) FELLSMERE, Fla., March 18.—The state bank of Fellsmere failed to open for business yesterday, C. H. Piffard, president of the institution announcing that the board of directors, because of the discovery of a shortage of approximately $36,000 in the accounts of B. D. Atkinson, the cashier, had deemed it advisable to close it pending reorganization.

Atkinson died in a hospital in St. Augustine February 24 of injuries received when he fell under a train at Sebastian while attempting to board it to go to Jacksonville on a business trip.

Mr. Piffard stated that he first discovered the discrepancy in the accounts of the cashier and that when he called it to the attention of Atkinson the day before he was fatally injured, the cashier could not explain the shortage.

The state comptroller at the request of the bank officials sent an examiner here and Mr. Piffard stated that the examiner had confirmed the shortage of approximately $36,000. The bank is capitalized at $25,000, and the last statement showed the deposits to be $107,000.

OFFICIALS SEIZE LIQUOR, MAY HAVE TO SURRENDER IT TO ORIGINAL OWNER

(By The Associated Press) MIAMI, March 18.—Customs officials seized 505 cases of fine wines and liquor aboard the palatial yacht Patricia here today. The yacht is said to be owned by James Schoen, millionaire member of the New York Yacht club. A guard was placed aboard. Schoen telegraphed Attorney General Daugherty to order release of liquor. He claims the same liquor was seized a year ago by prohibition agents in San Francisco but returned to him because he purchased it before prohibition amendment became effective.
