BRIEFS

Armed robbery

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Seminole County sheriff's deputies are investigating the armed robbery of a man on Jackson Street near Altamonte Springs at approximately 4 p.m. yesterday. Sheriff's spokesman Ed McDonough said Leslie Ramery, 39, of Winter Springs, and his 14-year old son had just left a friend's house and were walking on Jackson Street when an unidentified black male ran up to Ramery and pulled two gold chains from around his neck. McDonough said Ramery chased the robber down DePugh Street to a house at 1218 DePugh Street, where several other black males attacked Ramery hitting him in the head with a shovel and their fists. Ramery was taken to Florida Hospital in Altamonte Springs for treatment of his injuries, which were not believed to be serious.

Local political candidates wave their primary colors as they run

By NICK PFEIFAUPE
Herald Staff Writer

The primary election is less than two weeks away. Tuesday, Sept. 3, at which time local area registered voters will have a very lengthy ballot to consider. In order to better inform people of who is running for election to which position, Section B of today's Sanford Herald, entitled Primary Colors, features biographical reports on a number of candidates. Because of space limitations, those not listed today will be contained in tomorrow's edition of the Sanford Herald. Our endorsements begin today on Page 4A. For most of the races, local citizens, especially those who have been residents for a number of years, will easily recognize many candidates by name. Some names to appear on the ballot however, may be unrecognizable. Most of these are candidates for Circuit Court Judge, 18th Judicial District. The circuit judge races will be determined by See Primary, Page 5A

School choice: Changes coming

By VICKI DeBORNIER
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — Choice. Nothing is more important, recent research has shown, to the successful education of young people than to give them and their parents some sort of choice in where they attend classes and what subject areas they will emphasize. It is being proposed that Sanford schools, in an effort to bring both choice and cultural diversity to their campuses, become a series of magnet schools, drawing students from all over the district to study at magnet centers. Seminole County, still operating under the constraints of court-ordered desegregation, has developed the choice plan to create a more creative plan for a racially mixed population in areas where the number of African American

Dole pounces on new youth drug report

By MARCY GORDON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Presidential contender Bob Dole has pounced on a new report showing teenagers' drug use rising from 5.3 percent to 10.9 percent, putting the Clinton administration on the defensive in a campaign issue that has been building for months. The Republican nominee, on the campaign trail in Kentucky, called the government report released Tuesday a "national tragedy," while his GOP allies and surrogates ired blistering salvos. "There has been a well documented and complete failure of public policy... The Clinton administration, for whatever reason, is cavalier, unengaged and unconcerned about illegal drugs," said William Bennett, who was national drug control policy director under President Bush. Republican National Committee Chairman Haley Barbour charged the administration "has repeatedly sent signals to young people that illegal drug use is no big deal." The White House and administration officials expressed concern about the growing drug use by young people and said it shouldn't be used to score political points. "This is a bipartisan issue. These are all of our children," said Donna Shalala, secretary of the Department of Health and Human Services, which produced the National Household Survey on Drug Abuse. Shalala and Barry McCaffrey, the current national drug czar, appeared at a Boys' and Girls' Club in Washington to put a positive face on the news as they released the survey and a second report showing that visits to hospitals for drug-related emergencies also are up. Drug use was well below the peak levels of the late 1970s, Shalala told reporters. But she added, "While the vast majority of young people do not use illicit drugs, increasing numbers are reaching for drugs and risking their futures. And that's wrong." The survey found that drug use among 12- to 17-year-olds rose from 5.3 percent of those surveyed in 1992 to 10.9 percent in 1995. There were 22.2 million Americans in that age group. ## Crooms students' Magical Mystery Tour

Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — Come along for the Magical Mystery Tour! An experimental class took to the road this morning, leaving Crooms Academy, making its way to Walt Disney World and learning all along the way. The Rolling Classroom is a cooperative effort between the school and Disney with each side reaping the benefits, according to Nancy Hagerty, a counselor at the school. This is not a pleasure jaunt, however. These teens are involved in the serious business of learning about business. Our students get the benefit of not only learning about the work world on the bus, but also the practical experience of working at Disney," Hagerty said. "And Disney gets some good, hard workers." The teens selected for the program have been through a rigorous selection process for the opportunity to take part in the class. The top 34 candidates were nominated by their teachers from a job skills class last year. A stringent application was completed. There were face-to-face interviews with school and Disney officials. And there was a psychological examination done over the phone. "It was some honor to be selected for this," Hagerty said. "And these kids know it. They were strutting around campus after they were chosen. They are very proud and the other students are proud of them." Principal Karen Coleman said the students are being prepared for employment and for academic success. See Crooms, Page 5A

Preparing to board the bus that will be their rolling classroom, DCT teacher Tom Sweeney and students Michelle Peacock, April Teemer, Shawn Tillotson, Joe Caldwell, Tracy Nelson, Eric Manor, Nick Markle, Reggie Lowery, Latosca Dickerson, Michelle Forrest, Nicole Reeves, Shelby Hughes, Beth Eaton, April Toothe, Sabrina Barthell and Samantha Ellison, left Crooms Academy this morning for jobs at Disney World.

Six charged in bomb threats

JACKSONVILLE — Two Navy men, two former sailors and two civilians have been charged with making bomb threats that cost taxpayers $1 million in work stoppages at Jacksonville Naval Air Station.

Charged were Marshall S. Mayo, Justin P. Thompson, Bubba L. Matter, Sherric Tatum, Craig DeJaynes and Rick S. Alcorta, all of Jacksonville.

DeJaynes, a Navy postal clerk second class, and Alcorta, an airman apprentice, are being held in the base's brig, said Stuart Johnston, a Navy spokesman.

Thompson and Matter were discharged from the Navy earlier this year for misconduct, said Assistant U.S. Attorney Mark Devereaux.

Between April 22 and July 31, more than 20 bomb threats were made to the Jay Beasley Hangar, where about 5,000 people maintain planes for five anti-submarine squadrons, Devereaux said.

Each time a threat was reported, the hangar was evacuated and bomb-sniffing dogs were brought in. No bombs were found, said Johnston.

"We react very seriously to any bomb threat. We never take them lightly," Johnston said.

The six, who were arrested Aug. 14, will be arraigned in federal court in Jacksonville on Friday.

Two injured in crash

DORCAS — A small private plane apparently lost power and crashed while practicing landing approaches at a grass airstrip in this rural Florida Panhandle community, injuring both occupants.

Their injuries were relatively minor, said Okaloosa County sheriff's spokesman Rick Ford.

Robert D. Fannon, 41, of Valparaiso and Air Force Capt. Robert J. Orris, 28, of Hurlburt Field were reported in stable condition at North Okaloosa Medical Center in nearby Crestview.

Fannon is a civilian instructor with the Eglin Air Force Base Aero Club and Orris was taking flying lessons during off-duty hours. Orris is attached to the 19th Special Operations Squadron and undergoing non-pilot aircrew training at Hurlburt, said Capt. John Paradis, a base spokesman.

They had just flown over the small landing strip Tuesday in a single-engine AG-5B American General Tiger when the engine sputtered and lost power, Ford said.

The plane went down about 300 yards past the end of the runway, hitting a barbed wire fence, he said.

Boy finds mother shot

HAVANA, Fla. — A 5-year-old found the body of his murdered mother after getting off the school bus at the insurance office where she worked.

Peggy Cook was fatally shot in an apparent robbery Monday at the insurance offices of state Sen. Pat Thomas in this small town north of Tallahassee, investigators said.

Her little boy called 911 but later told adults at the police station he "knew it was too late."

Mrs. Cook's body was found on the floor behind her desk in a small house that serves as the offices of Pat Thomas & Associates. She had celebrated her 39th birthday two days earlier.

Havana Police Chief John Talion said drawers and cabinets were searched but he didn't know how much might have been taken. There were no suspects or witnesses to the shooting.

Mrs. Cook was working alone when she was shot.

Mrs. Cook had worked for the agency for about 10 years.

"She always set the standards for us," Thomas, D-Quincy, said. "Whenever we were talking about personnel, we'd say 'If we could get somebody like Peggy' — always super bright, a pleasant smile for everyone."

Atlantis ready for launch

CAPE CANAVERAL — Outfitted with new rocket boosters, space shuttle Atlantis was sent back at the launch pad in preparation for a mid-September flight to the Russian space station Mir.

NASA astronaut Shannon Lucid is awaiting Atlantis' arrival at Mir. The shuttle, moved back Tuesday, will drop off Lucid's replacement and bring her back to Earth following a six-month station stint — the longest space flight ever by an American.

Liftoff is scheduled for Sept. 12.

Last month, NASA moved Atlantis from the launch pad back into the hangar to protect the shuttle from Hurricane Bertha. Soon afterward, shuttle managers delayed the Atlantis docking mission by 1 1/2 months in order to replace both solid-fuel rocket boosters.

Hot gas had seeped into booster segment joints during Columbia's launch in June because of a new, more environmentally safe adhesive, and NASA did not want to take a chance flying Atlantis with the same kind of glue. The two new boosters on Atlantis contain the reliable, old-style adhesive.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

Bad vacation has good ending

By The Associated Press

NEWBURGH, Ind. — The Kinney family vacation started bad, got much worse and — finally — ended on a happy note.

The roof of the family's van started leaking even as they left their home in southwestern Indiana on July 13. A copperhead snake tried to join them for lunch at a rest stop. The motel was out of towels.

Once the family reached Daytona Beach, 12-year-old Noah Kinney suffered sun poisoning. The van overheated and spent two days in the shop. Noah's father, Cliff, was given a $136 ticket for passing a garbage truck.

Things had to get better. Or maybe not.

When the family left Daytona Beach on Day 6 of their vacation, young Noah rode with a family friend, Debbie Duke, and her two sons from the motel to a nearby gas station. The Dukes had taken a separate van, and the families had followed each other all the way from Indiana using walkie-talkies to communicate on the long trip.

"My dad got gas and went in to pay," Noah recounted. "I was begging him for candy, so on his way out, he gave me some money to get some gum. I was in line getting the gum, and I looked out the window and saw the vans drive off."

"I just paid for the gum and went outside and started waiting."

He wasn't worried. His father had dropped his mother at a nearby mall to buy some T-shirts, and Noah thought his father planned to pick her up then return for him. But when he saw the families' two vans again, he knew better.

"I was out there waiting, and I saw the two vans come by," he said. "They stopped for a second at the light, and then turned right and went down the highway toward Orlando."

He waited for a while, then walked to the mall where his mother had been shopping. Then he returned to the gas station.

"I was pretty freaked," he said.

The gas station clerk noticed him and asked to help. Then she called police.

Meanwhile, Noah's parents and the Dukes talked calmly using the walkie-talkies, clueless that Noah had been left behind. Each driver apparently thought the boy was in the other's van.

At the hotel, Noah's older brother complained that Noah wasn't helping unload the van. It wasn't until later — as the families planned a trip to Universal Studios — that they realized Noah was missing.

Debbie Duke confessed that Noah didn't ride with her from Daytona Beach. The Kinneys wondered whether Noah had been abducted, rather than abandoned, at the gas station.

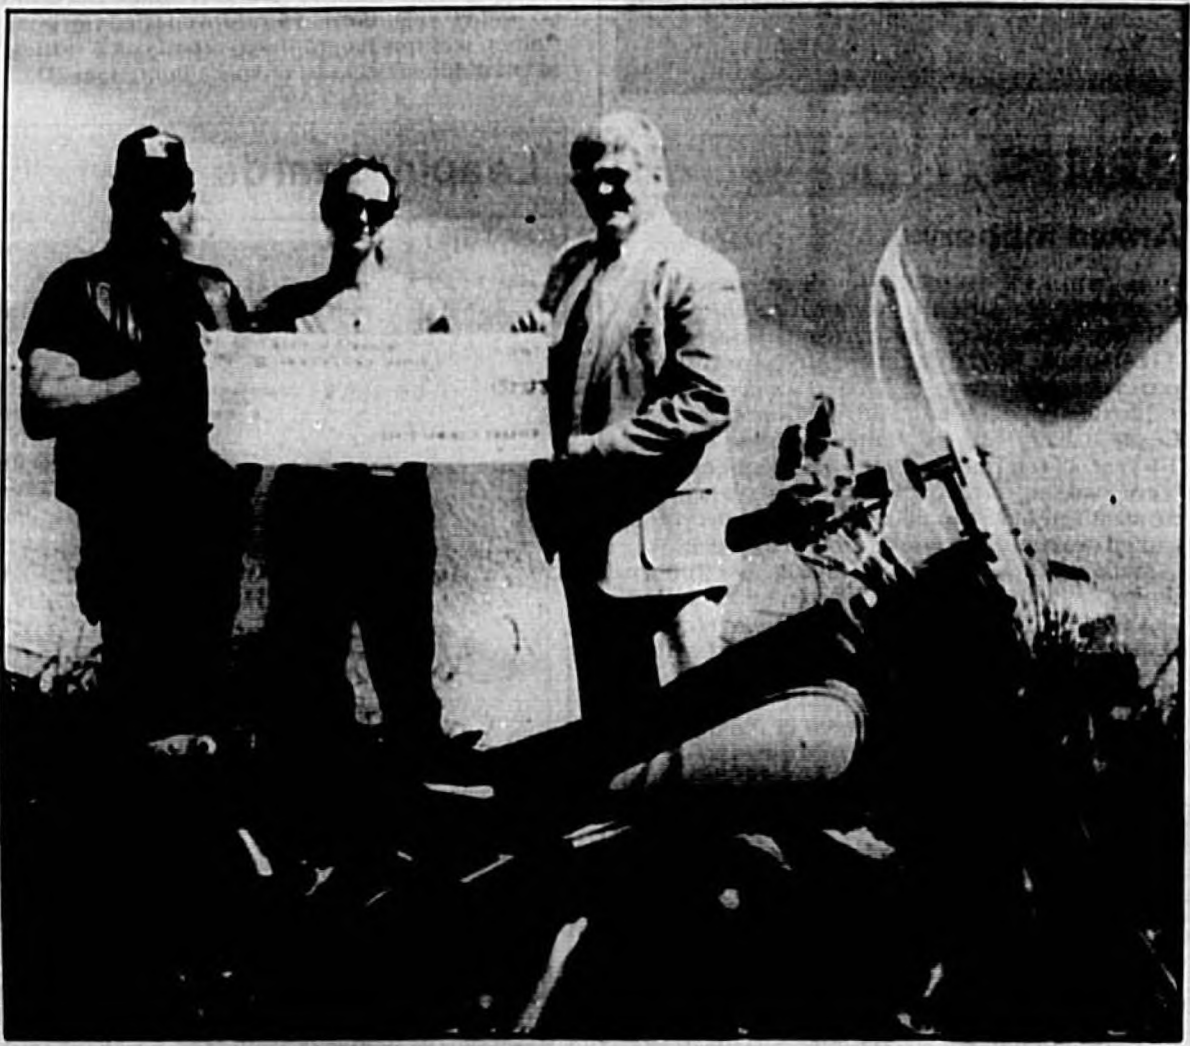

Cliff Kinney finally called police: "I'm in Orlando," he said. "And I think I've left my son in Daytona."

Members of the ABATE motorcycle organization recently collected $3,772.75 to help the Humane Society of Seminole County with their various animal rescue operations. The Humane Society recently moved into their new headquarters, but still needs help with the day-to-day operating expenses to keep the animals alive and healthy.

Robert Jamin, ABATE's events coordinator, joined Nancy Jamin, the group's treasurer, in presenting their donation to Bruce Johnson, the executive director of the Humane Society.

Fla. man's death is still a mystery in NY

By The Associated Press

VICTOR, N.Y. — A preliminary autopsy has failed to determine why a man died after being arrested for his bizarre behavior outside a friend's home.

Clark Alfred Eily, 46, was pronounced dead at F.F. Thompson Hospital in Canandaigua shortly after his arrest around noon Monday.

Eily, of Siesta Key, Fla., was visiting his brother in Victor, about 20 miles southeast of Rochester, when he went to a nearby acquaintance's home Monday morning.

After he arrived, he went in the backyard and began acting strangely — running around naked and hitting his face on his knees, state police said.

When police arrived, Eily was placed on the ground lying face up, and a sheriff's deputy who arrived on the scene noticed soon afterward that he was not breathing.

While an autopsy conducted Tuesday by Monroe County Medical Examiner Dr. Nicholas Forbes did not find the cause of death, Forbes ruled out the possibility that Eily asphyxiated because of the position he was placed in by troopers, state police Maj. David Christler said.

Cuban team baseball player defects to U.S.

By BOB DOMMIGUEZ
Associated Press Writer

MIAMI — Another Cuban baseball player abandoned the country's national team today for a chance to play in the major leagues.

A spokesman for Miami sports agent Joe Cubas said second baseman Jesus Ramon Valdivia and other players contacted the agent from Guatemala City saying they wanted to defect.

Cubas flew there from Miami today and picked up the 21-year-old player, who plays on Cuba's "B-team," said spokesman Rene Guim. The team was playing in an invitational tournament run by the Guatemalan government.

Valdivia, who also plays shortstop, defected at 2:10 a.m. "They are still in Guatemala

City ... plans are incomplete," Guim said. "Joe is waiting for the business day to open in Guatemala to then determine what political asylum he is going to try to seek for this young man — whether through the American Embassy or one of the other countries."

No other players defected as of early today.

Guim said Cuba divides its national team into A, B and C clubs.

"Playing on the B team and C team doesn't mean they are not great ball players," Guim said. "In all probability he is an excellent ball player with major league potential. Cuba is so rich in great baseball players. You can't put them all on the A team. They split them up."

The Cuban Olympic won the gold medal in the Atlanta Games.

POLICE BRIEFS

Auto theft

Seminole County sheriff's deputies arrested Karen D. Garrison, 28, of Orlando early Tuesday. Officers were called to a motel in the 2700 block of Orlando Drive in Sanford regarding a suspicious vehicle with a Georgia license tag. Officers found the vehicle, a 1988 Chevrolet, which they found had been listed as stolen with the Suwanee, Georgia police department. The driver of the vehicle, identified as Garrison, was arrested on a charge of grand theft auto.

Traffic stops

Two persons were arrested early Tuesday as the result of a traffic stop in the 1100 block of State Street in Sanford. Both persons in the vehicle were found to be wanted on active warrants. Dexter Laverne Williams, 28, of 46 Castle Brewer Court in Sanford, was reportedly wanted on five separate warrants including those for failing to appear for driving with a suspended license, failing to appear for possession of cocaine and failing to appear for driving with a suspended/revoked license. The other person in the vehicle, Veronica Ann Jackson, 28, of Orlando, was also wanted on a warrant for violation of probation on a previous conviction of sale of cocaine.

Damon Deon Hillery, 24, of 1985 Sipes Avenue, was stopped by deputies in the driveway of his home Sunday. He was charged with driving with a suspended/revoked license.

Curtis Allen Hedrick, 31, of Titusville, was stopped by Sanford police at Katherine Court near U.S. Highway 17-92 Tuesday. He was charged with driving under the influence.

William Clayton Dreyer, 41, of Lake Monroe, was stopped by Casselberry police in the 2400 block of U.S. Highway 17-92 in Casselberry on Monday. He was charged with driving under the influence, possession of an open container, operating a motor vehicle without seat belt, no proof of insurance, and having a cracked windshield.

Double problem

Richard Bernard Taylor, 25, of 1011 W. Sixth Street, Sanford, was arrested by Sanford police Monday in Edward Higgins Terrace. He had reportedly been issued a trespass warning for property of the Sanford Housing Authority. He was charged with trespassing after warning and resisting an officer without violence.

Also Monday, Taylor called police to his residence to report that it had been burglarized in his absence. A VCR said to be valued at $298 was said to have been stolen.

Sanford police reports

A burglary was reported Monday at Hamilton Elementary School, 1501 E. Eighth Street in Sanford. Items taken included a TV set, a fire extinguisher, and $15 worth of candy, for a total estimated loss of over $500.

A 22-year old Sanford man called police early Tuesday. At approximately 1:20 a.m., he said he was exiting from his vehicle in the 100 block of Seminole Gardens, when he was approached by a man with a semi-automatic handgun. He said the man took $20 from him, and removed an AM/FM/CD stereo unit and a pager from his vehicle for a total worth of $570. He said the man then fled on a bicycle.

Hit hard by school enrollment boom

By BOB ROCHMANN
AP Education Writer

WASHINGTON — Thirty-three states, mostly in the West and Southeast, will feel the brunt of surging school enrollment, which this fall is expected to eclipse the record number of postwar baby boomers who packed the nation's classrooms in 1971.

California is expected to see the largest growth in students — 1 million more within the next 10 years, according to a state-by-state forecast of enrollment released Wednesday by the Education Department. Other states facing escalating enrollments include Texas, Washington, Georgia, Virginia, North Carolina and New Jersey.

"It's such a juggling act," said Stella Shelton, a spokeswoman for the Wake County Public School System in North Carolina, where enrollment is projected to rise from about 86,400 students this year to more than 101,400 at the turn of the century.

"What it means is that we have classes in the media centers, classes in multipurpose rooms and classes that are larger than the state believes is a good idea," she said.

The 108-school district is using 500 mobile units for classrooms. Twelve more schools are to be built during the next three years and additions and renovations are being made to 35 others, she said.

Student populations, however, are expected to fall in the District of Columbia and 17 states, including Maine, North Dakota, Iowa, Wisconsin and South Dakota.

An estimated 51.7 million students will head to class this fall at public and private elementary and secondary schools, the Education Department says. That tops the 51.3 million baby boomers in school in 1971.

And U.S. school enrollment is forecast to continue rising, to 54.8 million by 2006.

"Some will certainly look at this rising wave of students as a liability, but in the long run, they are a tremendous asset to our nation — if we educate them well," Education Secretary Richard Riley said.

Elementary school enrollment began to rise in the mid-1980s as the children of about 76 million baby boomers — born between World War II's end and 1964 — headed to school.

That second generation of baby boomers is now moving through high school. However, elementary schools have continued to feel enrollment pressure because the number of births in America, bolstered by immigration, has remained steady during the past four or five years.

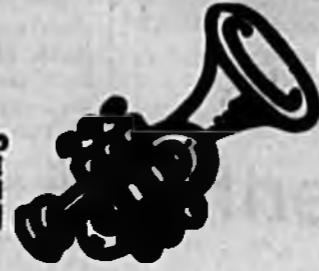

"School systems in America's gateway cities, including New York, Los Angeles and Miami, have been the first to feel the direct impact of new immigration patterns," Riley said.

"What makes this growth trend different from the surge in the late 1980s is that this current growth trend is a long, slow, rising wave and we see no immediate falloff," Riley said.

To meet the demand, an estimated 190,000 more teachers and more than 6,000 more schools will be needed by the 2006-07 school year.

As the young people who make up the baby boom echo approach their teen years, they will begin to fill up high schools.

Health insurance made easier

WASHINGTON — One day after approving a 90 cent-an-hour raise for minimum wage workers, President Clinton is signing legislation that will make it easier for Americans to obtain health insurance.

The bipartisan legislation the president is signing today, which passed the Senate unanimously and the House with only two dissenting votes, effectively ends the practice of denying insurance coverage on the basis of pre-existing conditions.

It is the second of three bill signings this week designed to highlight Clinton's presidency in the days before the Democratic National Convention, which begins Monday in Chicago.

"A minimum wage increase, portable health care, pension security, welfare-to-work opportunities — that's a plan that's putting America on the right track," Clinton said Tuesday. "We have made this a real season of achievement for the people of America."

Kevorkian attends another suicide

PONTIAC, Mich. — Hours after his lawyer defended him for attending the death of a woman who was in pain but not fatally ill, Dr. Jack Kevorkian helped a Texas woman with Lou Gehrig's disease commit suicide.

Kevorkian was alone when he brought the body of Louise Siebens, 78, of McKinney, Texas, to Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital around 10 p.m. Tuesday, said Dr. Bob Aranosian, director of the emergency room.

She was declared dead about 10 minutes later. The medical examiner's office was to examine the body today. Police Sgt. Terry Morris said detectives were investigating.

Ms. Siebens, a former typist who was a widow, had been living in a nursing home. Kevorkian attorney Geoffrey Fieger told The Oakland Press.

Democratic National Convention

CHICAGO — At the Democratic National Convention, people won't have to look far for the union label in this blue-collar bastion with more than one of every four delegates members. Labor's gaze, meanwhile, will be focused on keeping Bob Dole out of the Oval Office come the fall.

"It's going to be a great opportunity to contrast what the Clinton White House has done with what Bob Dole would like to do with the country," said Steve Rosenthal, the AFL-CIO's political director.

"This is going to be a great opportunity for the Democrats to make it clear that they stand with American working people."

With not a whiff of controversy expected at the Democratic convention next week, union leaders see the meeting as a chance to gather their forces and underscore labor's agenda for the fall elections.

Ross Perot's stand-in running mate

DALLAS — Ross Perot has listed his former IBM boss as a "stand-in" running mate. His presidential campaign insists that doesn't mean James S. Campbell will be No. 2 on the Reform Party ticket, although four years ago the Texas billionaire's stand-in stood with him through the fall.

Campbell's name showed up Tuesday in official papers the Perot campaign sent to the Federal Election Commission, seeking $29.1 million in public financing for his White House bid. Perot would qualify because he won 19 percent of the national vote when he ran for president in 1992.

Campbell, 60, also was listed as holding a place on state ballots in the West until after the convention Sunday when Perot was nominated by Reform Party members. Perot's former boss and friend had said he was doing a favor by lending his name to the ballot drive.

For Seminole County sheriff: Joe Becker

Sheriff Don Ealinger has set the fight against crime in Seminole County on the right course, but there comes a time when we must move beyond shiny helicopters and hydroponic lettuce.

We believe Joe Becker, who has challenged Ealinger for his job as the chief law enforcement official in Seminole County, has the drive, the ideas and the plans to make a real difference in crime fighting in this county.

Unlike many candidates seeking office, Becker does not simply list problems he finds with Seminole County's sheriff's office. He has concrete solutions that have been carefully researched.

While the current sheriff has taken some steps toward what needs to be done, Becker has specific plans that we believe could make great strides in law enforcement in Seminole County.

Ealinger's accomplishments in law enforcement, especially during the last six years as sheriff, are laudable, but expensive.

While programs such as the Tactical Air Operations helicopters which have found marijuana plants and a suicide victim are fine showpieces, they are unnecessary expenses burdening the county. We believe Becker is correct in his plan to work out an agreement (one he has already discussed with Orange County Sheriff Kevin Beary) to use that county's equipment on an ongoing basis in exchange for a deputy who is paid by Seminole County to work on its helicopter team.

In order to put more deputies on the street in an effort to beef up neighborhood policing, Ealinger has dissolved specialized units which focused on crimes involving burglary, gangs and pawn shops. DUI is an escalating problem as well. While overall crime is down in the unincorporated regions of the county, the felony arrest rate is way down, too. Becker also has plans to institute a Truancy Interdiction Program, designed to alert parents and educators to potential problems with youngsters before they become bigger problems.

The sheriff has made some changes for the better during his tenure, but they are not enough. We need seasoned leadership in Seminole County, a market plan that is fiscally responsible and addresses the county's dwindling felony arrest rate.

We believe Joe Becker has the management experience needed for this job. A retired Navy captain with three bronze stars earned for service in Vietnam, Becker also has worked with law enforcement. We feel he is willing to stand up and make sure the changes that are needed are made in the most efficient way possible.

Amer. retirees building in Mexico

AJAJC, Mexico — More than two years after the controversial NAFTA agreement lowered trade barriers between the United States and Mexico, at least one American import is thriving here: people.

A large expatriate community of Americans has put down roots in this scenic town on the shores of Lake Chapala, where the cost of living is low and the golf season never ends.

Not long ago, many Americans here flaunted their wealth, ignored the local culture, refused to learn Spanish and had little contact with the local populace except to employ them as maids and gardeners. That has changed — radically, and for the better.

U.S. Embassy officials told our associate Dale Van Atta during a recent visit that American expatriates have made a concerted effort in the last decade to reach out to their Mexican neighbors.

"Sure, some still don't learn to speak Spanish, since they're part of mostly English-speaking communities, but that doesn't mean they don't help out where they can, and attend Mexican festivities and functions," a U.S. Embassy officer in Mexico City told us.

All told, there are between 350,000 and 400,000 Americans who live part time or permanently in Mexico. They cluster in certain areas: the coastal areas of Baja California; the resort community of Cuernavaca outside Mexico City; and the high mountain village of San Miguel de Allende in central Guanajuato state.

"Everybody has a home there," laughed Guanajuato's governor, Vicente Fox, in an interview with us. "Beautiful homes in San Miguel. Very strong, sophisticated prominent people come there. I meet there with (U.S.) Ambassador (Jim) Jones, with Lady Bird Johnson and with Ted Turner. You come down to relax. You buy an old home there, and you rebuild it." The largest group of Americans living outside the United States — about 40,000 — are clustered in the corridor between Lake Chapala and Guadalajara.

Expatriates have made a concerted effort in the last decade to reach out to their Mexican neighbors.

Mexico's second-largest city which sits 35 miles to the north.

Authorities cite three primary reasons for the migration, which has been increasing in recent years.

There is the weather, which is internationally recognized as among the most perfect on Earth. The Lake Chapala-Guadalajara area enjoys year-round temperatures in the 70s, broken only by a scattering of afternoon downpours during the rainy season.

Then there is the low cost of living, which is at least 25 percent cheaper than in the United States. The difference was much greater 20 years ago, but the gap is closing. That's partly because the influx of Americans has caused housing and rental prices to rise.

Nevertheless, Social Security and pension checks stretch much further in Mexico. In the communities along the lake, Americans can live high off the hog on $2,000 a month, which buys a beautiful three-bedroom home with a lake view, a swimming pool and domestic help. Live-in maids, cooks and gardeners average about $5 a day. Socialized health care, even in quality hospitals in Guadalajara, comes to less than $250 a year.

Conservatives in San Diego

SAN DIEGO — My rating of the events here last week on a scale of one to 10: The bubble-headed media gets a three, the goody-two-shoes GOP convention gets a seven, heroic Bob Dole gets a nine.

The so-called mainstream media, certainly the networks, are almost hopeless. Was Dole's speech "above expectations," or "below expectations," or (Mama Bear) just about at expected expectations? Was the whole San Diego convention nothing more than an "infomercial"? What percentage of the delegates were black? (Without asking what percentage of Republican voters are black.) What percentage of the delegates were millionaires? (Income or assets? Including the value of pension plans and homes? What percentage of the journalists qualified?)

The first three days of the convention were overflowing with goo and goodness. My gracious, what an inclusive party! Women, blacks, Hispanics, handicapped people, young people, rock 'n' roll, the macarena. (Did the GOP lose the Glenn Miller vote?) In fairness, after the media mugging the GOP received in 1992 at Houston, and after about $70 million to $100 million of unanswered Democratic attack advertising during the last year, the Republicans had to demonstrate that they were not white male sealots intent on starving old people and trashing single mothers. Fact is, they will accept most any vote.

Only Dole offered serious substance. I do not know why his acceptance speech did not dwell more intently on the two magic words of American politics — "liberal" and "conservative" — but those words were what the address was about. And about time.

Dole says America has made a wrong turn. (Unstated, but you know it was engendered by muddled liberal thinking.) He asks: "After a decade of assault upon what made America great, upon supposedly obsolete values, what have we reaped? What have we created? What do we have?" And he answers: "What we have in the opinion of many Americans is crime and drugs, illegitimacy, abortion, the abdication of duty, and the abandonment of children." He calls what has happened "the virtual devastation of the American family," which, with a 33 percent illegitimacy rate, is not an overstatement.

He says that the American people were "gravely insulted" in 1992 by Clinton and his party, trumpeting that "It's the economy, stupid." He says, "All things do not flow from wealth or poverty.... All things flow from doing what is right." In short: Values matter most, to recall the title of a wonderful book.

He has some conservative ways to get Americans on the path of doing right once again. School choice (i.e., "opportunity scholarships") is one way to get some discipline back into our school system and to help the disadvantaged.

Regarding crime, he notes that the root cause of crime is criminals, that they have been coddled by liberal judges, and that he would "work with the nation's governors to abolish parole for violent criminals all across America."

Having put economics where it belongs, in second place, Dole says that conservative thinking and policies can make Americans richer. Just as the government didn't help much in the values arena, Dole says it's not helping much on the economic front. He says: "You shouldn't have to apologize for wanting to keep what you earn. To the contrary, the government should apologize for taking too much of it."

Dole says it has been liberal taxing, spending, and bungling that has restrained growth in the economy, and hence his proposal for a so-called "supply-side" tax cut. "Supply-side" is a pejorative term for "incentive." A tax cut, says Dole, will let Americans keep more of their money while stimulating investment and growth, which make up for 27 percent of the lost tax revenue. A modest cut in the rate of increase of government spending will keep down governmental scheming and balance the budget.

Dole and the Republicans will make the case that, unlike a similar initiative in the Reagan 1980s, this will not balloon the deficit. Why not? Unlike the 1980s there will be a Republican Congress to make the spending cuts stick, there will be a line-item veto for President Dole to use, the tax cuts are less, and the deficit, in any event, is at a much lower proportion of the national economy.

All this, says Dole, will redress a situation in the Clinton administration (and in the Democratic Party) where "a corps of the elite who never grew up, never did anything real, never sacrificed, never suffered, and never learned... have the power to fund with your earnings their dubious and self-serving schemes." A word he uses to describe the elite corps is "permissive," a gem of a word not heard much since Spiro Agnew left town. (Yes, Virginia, bad men can use good words.)

Conservatives, says Dole, can do it better than those liberals.

The first three days of the convention were overflowing with goo and goodness.

Endorsement: Larry Furlong for school board

With no incumbent in the District 4 seat of the Seminole County school board, there is promise of change regardless of who is elected to fill the spot currently held by Larry Strickler, who chose not to run again.

As a result, the position is now being sought by former County Commissioner Larry Furlong, and businessman Wes Pennington.

We believe Furlong has proven his commitment to the young people of Seminole County both through his voting record on the commission and through his personal actions, including using his own money to finance scholarships for students at all the district high schools.

Pennington has professed his desire to do all he can for the students, but has not acted on his words.

We believe when it comes to the young people in our schools it must be a case where actions speak louder than words.

The position of school board member is one of the most important public offices in the county. Members of that body are responsible for helping us form our most precious resource: our children.

Service in that office requires the utmost attention to every detail in addition to enthusiasm for the work.

Pennington was so enthusiastic to serve on the board six years ago, that he attempted to qualify for a seat that was not open at the time. We can not risk careless errors like that when it comes to our children.

Furlong has proven his commitment to students through volunteer hours in the schools both as a parent and as a member of the community serving on the PTA, various committees and as a Dividend.

As a member of the county commission, he made sure the school board and the county were linked in efforts which would benefit students directly.

Pennington's political affiliations have been tied strongly with the Christian Coalition, an organization known for exerting its extremist influence on governmental bodies and, as a result, on the citizens of the community. Strong Judeo-Christian values are a necessary part of this community and the operation of the school board, we believe, but they must reflect the community standards and beliefs not just those of one group.

Furlong has shown an understanding of the needs, requirements and problems of the school district. Through his commitment he has already effected change and, if elected, we believe will continue to do so.

Pennington lacks a basic understanding of the issues, including the operation of charter schools which have been approved by the legislature and which must be addressed locally.

We believe Pennington to be an honest, capable business man who could serve the school district well as a member of the Business Advisory Board. But the man for the job on the Seminole County School Board is Larry Furlong.

Primary

 the total vote of both Seminole and Brevard counties. As such, many of the candidates are residents of Brevard County, and little known locally except for limited campaign literature and some posting of signs. The Herald today focuses on races involving local candidates seeking positions on the circuit court bench. Tomorrow, Brevard-based candidates and a county judge race will be featured. All judicial races are non partisan.

Almost all of the candidates to be voted on during the September primary are Republicans, with no Democratic opposition. Therefore, the victors as the result of the primary, will be automatically elected without opposition, and not even appear on the November General Election ballot.

In multiple candidate races, if no single candidate receives more than 50 percent of the total votes cast, the candidates receiving the two highest percentages of votes will compete in a runoff, or second primary. That is scheduled for October 1.

For races with both Democratic and Republican candidates, the winner would be decided at the Nov. 5 general election.

Seminole County has approximately 60,000 registered Democrats and 90,000 registered Republicans. There are slightly less than 20,000 voters registered as Independents or have other designations.

Seminole County Election Supervisor Sandra Goard says the number of registered voters has drastically increased lately. She attributes the increase to what is known as the "Motor Voter Bill," which became effective on Jan. 1 of 1985. The bill allows for people to register to vote at places other than at the courthouse registration office.

Goard said in the past, her office had handled approximately 200 voter registration requests per month through the mail. Since the law went into effect, Goard said her office is averaging 2,000 registrations per month.

Some officials received no opposition this year. They will be automatically re-elected and not appear on any ballot. They include:

- Clerk of the Circuit Court — Maryanne Morse
- Seminole County Commissioner, Dist. 3 — Dick Van Der Weide
- Supervisor of Elections — Sandra "Sandy" Goard age group last year and 20.7 million in 1992, according to government figures.

Previous surveys have shown teen drug use was at its lowest in 1992 after a decade of decline.

The new survey of 17,747 people, including 4,565 in the 12-to-17 age group, showed levels of drug use were about the same among white, black and Hispanic teens and among teens from different economic backgrounds. It also found:

- Monthly use of LSD and other hallucinogens increased from 2 percent to 4 percent of 12th-graders between 1992 and 1995, and from 2.8 percent to 4 percent between 1994 and 1995.
- Cocaine use among 12- to 17-year-olds rose from 0.3 percent to 0.8 percent between 1992 and 1995. The rate for

- Seminole County Tax Collector — Ray Valdes
- County Court Judge, Group 2 — Don Marblestone
- County Court Judge, Group 3 — Fred Hitt
- Soil & Water Conservation Dist. Supervisor, Group 4 — James M. White

1994 also was 0.3 percent. —Marijuana use among teens jumped from 3.4 percent to 8.2 percent in the 1992-95 period and from 6.0 percent to 8.2 percent between 1994 and 1995. In 1994 alone, an estimated 2.3 million people started using marijuana.

—There were about 10 million beer, wine and distilled spirit drinkers under age 21 last year. Of the total, 4.4 million were described as binge drinkers, including 1.7 million described as heavy drinkers.

- The total number of occasional cocaine users — all ages — last year was 2.5 million.
- Drug use among adults did not change.

It was not the first time Dole and the Republicans had attacked the Clinton administration on the sensitive drug issue, which the White House has made a priority. Now that Dole has formally become the GOP nominee, the accusations could have a sharper impact.

In recent months, Republicans have used the alleged drug use by some White House employees to imply that the administration is soft on the issue. At least 21 current or former White House aides have been subjected to heightened drug testing because their background security checks showed drug use recent enough to prompt Secret Service security concerns.

Earlier this month, McCaffrey implored politicians from both parties to stop trying to make an issue of whether an opponent has used drugs.

A report from the Drug Abuse Warning Network, also administered by HHS, showed emergency room visits since 1992 rose 96 percent for marijuana, 58 percent for heroin and 19 percent for cocaine.

Change

 students outnumber the court ordered limits set 25 years ago.

More importantly, school Superintendent Dr. Paul Hagerty said, the students will have more of an opportunity to be successful.

"We don't have all the answers yet, but we're working on it," Hagerty said Tuesday in a phone interview from Tallahassee. "We will have to report back to the judge for the desegregation order, but we believe this will work well for all the students of Seminole County."

Hagerty said the district hopes to increase academic success through programs such as the math and technology magnet school proposed for Goldsboro Elementary School.

It will cost between six and seven million to refit the school as a technology, math and science center, but it will serve students from all over the district, Hagerty explained.

Twelve elementary schools, including the new Elementary School F (the as-yet unnamed facility which will be constructed near Airport Boulevard and Old Lake Mary Road), would be collected into what Hagerty calls a "choice zone."

"We're creating a 'choice zone' of schools," Hagerty said. "It will consist of 12 schools that are a prototype for choice. We want public schools to be able to offer more choices to students in the northern sphere of the district, including students from schools like Hamilton and Heathrow."

Hagerty said he hoped the program would offer students "far more flexibility in letting kids transfer from one school to another to allow choices and options."

He said current attendance zones would not change, but students could apply to transfer into any of the dozen schools.

When Elementary School F opens next year, the attendance zone for Goldsboro will be split into two, Hagerty said. Those who live from 25th Street north will have first preference to go to the new school.

The transfers would not be guaranteed. The district promises to keep a close eye on the populations of each school to ensure that schools do not become overcrowded or that minority populations do not become skewed. "We want to make people aware of the majority-to-minority desegregation order that has been in place for 25 years," Hagerty noted. "If you are in the majority of race you can transfer to a school where you are in the minority. This will apply throughout the choice zone."

Midway, Idyllwild, Hamilton and Pine Crest elementary schools will also have added areas emphasis in their curricula. Pine Crest will put an emphasis on "character education" (learning to treat others as one would want to be treated); Midway will emphasize the fine arts; Hamilton will emphasize communications and reading; and the emphasis will be on social studies and foreign languages at Idyllwild.

"We will make sure the students at all these schools can read and read well," Hagerty said. "The different emphasis will be in reading through the arts or reading through social studies."

The proposal will be presented to the school board for their approval during their Sept. 10 meeting.

Celery City Revue: Show must go on, even if it's sold out

By MIKE PFEIFFER
 Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The show must go on, even if it's sold out. Because there are no more tickets available for several performances of Celery City Revue, the Ritz Theatre Players have announced an added performance.

This Sunday, Aug. 25, in addition to the matinee at 2:30 p.m., the added performance will be a twilight matinee beginning at 8 p.m. The decision to add the extra presentation was made during a meeting Tuesday night, after it was determined that shows scheduled for this Friday night and the Sunday matinee had been completely sold out.

Key Bartholomew, at First Street Gallery where the production is being staged, said there are only a few remaining tickets for this Saturday evening's performance, and tickets are also available for next week's performances on Aug. 30 and 31.

Tickets are $10 for adults, $9 for children and seniors.

The Celery City Revue is written and directed by Frederick Rogers, on the theater staff at the University of Central Florida. It features musical selections in a cabaret-like setting, with songs of the World War II and big band era sung by Morgen Aiken and Fred Buber, both from prominent musical families in Sanford.

Mary Rose Gray, who appeared in the first Ritz Theatre Players presentation of "I Do, I Do," stars in the production, along with newcomer Donna Doe, from Mount Dora.

Performances are held at First Street Gallery, next to the Ritz Theater, at 207 Magnolia Avenue. The gallery is also featuring an exhibit focused on the celery growing years of Sanford and Seminole County, with many items in the displays provided through the courtesy of the Museum of Seminole County History and local families prominent in agriculture.

On the job at Disney, they will be required to dress professionally, Hagerty said. Young men are to be in shirt and tie and young ladies must wear dresses and stockings, she said.

"One of our young men did not even own a shirt and tie," she noted. "He'd never had the opportunity to dress that way."

The school social workers made sure that no one was excluded because finances prevented them from getting the appropriate clothing, but the professional attitude was up to the students.

"And, at that, they are doing wonderfully," she beamed.

The students will earn their full seven credits for the school year while they continue to work and earn a salary above mini-

Natural lifestyle cooking for you

By SUSAN WENNER
Herald Staff Writer

MAITLAND — The famous phrase "you are what you eat" is the point that Mark and Ernestine "Teenie" Finley are trying to impress upon one and all through their cooking seminar that will soon be coming to Central Florida. They will be uptinked by satellite from Orlando to 35 cities in Florida and in 326 cities across the United States teaching all interested parties the fine art of cooking healthy meals.

Appearing locally at the Sheraton Orlando North Hotel, Interstate-4 and Maitland Boulevard, 600 N. Lake Destiny Dr., on Sunday, Aug. 25 from 8 to 9 p.m., the couple will conduct "A Natural Lifestyle Cooking Seminar." They are committed to teaching the public how to make "great breakfasts, guilt-free desserts, get adequate protein without meat, make balanced meals and homemade bread" with only a $15 registration fee which includes free samples, a cookbook and handouts for six classes.

The seminar is a free service to the community. Beginning at the Sheraton, the seminar will continue four additional weeks at 10 locations around the city and as far away as Mt. Dora. Between 500 to 1,000 are expected to attend.

According to Jean Carlson, seminar coordinator for the Sanford classes that will meet as follow-up after the initial seminar, "besides practical demonstrations, you'll get good-tasting food samples and have time to ask questions. The seminar will help people with their health. People are dying because of what they eat and what they don't eat."

She continued by saying, "They will be live Sunday evening. People will be told where to go to continue the classes. There is no additional charge for the classes. The next five Sunday evenings will be done with video at the various locations. After the class you can sample what's been shown. She (Teenie Finley) makes it (cooking) look so simple."

The seminar is also sponsored by the Seventh-day Adventist Church and is written television IIV. IIV has aired on WFTV-TV for years and currently is on WCPX-TV. Florida Hospital will also participate.

Mark Finley is the director/speaker of it is Written International Telecast with a viewing audience of more than 15 million around the world. The couple have conducted the classes for the last 25 years to thousands around the world. At a meeting in Europe the seminar drew a standing-room only crowd. Recently in Chattanooga, Tenn., 700 people attended the "Natural Lifestyle Cooking Class."

The Finley's say, "A healthful meal should be both attractive and great tasting. There's no reason why healthy food should be uninteresting or unappetizing."

Being concerned over the high rate of degenerative diseases, they added, "Heart disease, cancer and strokes are the number one killers in our society, but they're largely preventable."

Recent scientific data indicates that a low cholesterol, low sugar, high fiber diet goes a long way to prevent these major lifestyle killers.

The anti-cancer diet, for example, includes an abundance of whole grains, fruits, nuts and leafy green vegetables. The emphasis in the seminar focuses on holistic health and the effects of thinking processes as well as physical health.

In commenting on the class, Teenie said, "I find vegetarian cooking exciting. Variety is the key and there is nothing more exciting than learning how to create many attractive food combinations of delicious foods. By the judicious combinations of many plant foods, meals can be prepared as well as being adequate in quality and the quantity of protein."

"During this class you will learn how to make your meals colorful, and this will be one way of assuring variety. You will learn how to make your vegetarian food tasty. You will learn how to cut down on meat without offending your family members in short, you will learn a healthier lifestyle that will contribute to your well-being and longevity for years to come."

Mark Finley added, "One of the most frequently asked questions concerning vegetarianism is that of adequate protein. People are concerned that without the use of meat they may not get adequate protein. The purpose of our classes is to show how you can get adequate protein without the use of meat. The fat in your diet, the sugar in your diet, how to increase the fiber in your diet and how your overall health can be markedly better. The testimonies of thousands of people attending our classes is that they feel better, their health is improved, and that their weight is down, their energy level is up and their resistance to disease is higher."

Girl who battled bulge now battles wolves

DEAR READER: I'll be on vacation between Aug. 18 and Aug. 31. Don't panic — I've selected some of my favorite letters from past years to fill the gap. I hope you enjoy them.

DEAR ABBY: I don't know if you remember me or not. I wrote to you a year ago about my weight problem, and you gave me some really good advice. I went to Overeaters Anonymous. So far I've lost 55 pounds, and I'm still losing. But now I have another problem.

Since I've got a pretty good figure, guys have started noticing me, and Abby, I can't handle it. I'm 18 and never dated before because I was such a mess, but with guys paying attention to me all of a sudden, I'm a wreck! I hated being fat and ignored, but at least I wasn't harassed by dudes trying to get me into bed. All the guys I know are after only one thing.

My girlfriends say if I don't put out on the first date, I shouldn't expect a second date. Please help me. HARASSED IN ST. PAUL

DEAR HARASSED: Your girlfriends are wrong. Hang on to your high standards and say goodbye to the dudes who try to rush you into bed. There's something worse than being ignored — it's too much attention from guys who are after only one thing.

DEAR ABBY: "No Names" wrote, "My fiancée and I fight and argue every time we see each other, but whenever I suggest calling off our Christmas wedding, she cries and carries on, saying she'll be humiliated before her friends."

You said, "Call it off anyway!" You are absolutely right. I know. I learned the hard way. My fiancée and I were both 21. We fought constantly. Several times he suggested we call off the wedding, or at least postpone it for a while, but I insisted on going through with it because I didn't want to face the embarrassment of having to tell people that I wasn't getting married after all.

Today, after two years of a miserable marriage, I am five months pregnant and in the process of getting a divorce. Obviously, we never should have gone through with the marriage in the first place. I hope "No Names" takes your advice. TOLD YOU SO IN DALLAS

DEAR TOLD YOU: Thanks for the reaffirmation. A broken engagement is usually embarrassing, sometimes humiliating and always painful. It can also be costly. But it's not nearly as painful and costly as divorce — especially if there are children to consider.

DEAR ABBY: Concerning inappropriate questions asked of a widow at the funeral of her husband, I think mine tops them all:

At the funeral of my 67-year-old father, my poor grieving mother was approached by an officer of the burial society to which my parents belonged, and instead of offering her solace, he asked, "Would you please give me a deposit on the grave next to your husband so I can reserve it for you?" VIVIAN OF BAYSIDE HILLS, N.Y.

DEAR VIVIAN: Your story takes the prize. In species.

DEAR ABBY: I am expecting a baby in about three months and have been very careful not to smoke, drink or even consume caffeine during my pregnancy. I hope to continue to give our baby the most healthful environment possible after he (or she) is born.

The problem is my mother-in-law. She is a heavy smoker, and I would prefer that she not subject our baby to her secondhand smoke. Studies have confirmed the theory that babies who have been exposed to secondhand smoke have a higher

ADVICE

INCIDENCE OF RESPIRATORY ILLNESS.
My mother-in-law smokes one cigarette after another and she's anything but gracious when she's told her smoke is bothersome or irritating.
After our baby comes, my husband and I intend to ask her to please step outside if she wants to smoke. But what if it's raining or dark outside?
MRS. S., PARKDALE, ORE.

DEAR MRS. S.: If it's raining, give her an umbrella. And if it's dark, give her a flashlight.

DEAR ABBY: I need advice on how to handle a well-meaning friend who continually asks me how much money I spend on things I wear and also purchase for my home. I find this very rude on her part.

She has been a good friend for many years, but her questions about the cost of everything are really getting on my nerves. How do I get my point across without losing her friendship?

DEAR NO NAME: Try this (with a smile, of course): "I will forgive you for asking, if you will forgive me for not answering."

IN BRIEF

Cubs 8, Marlins 1

CHICAGO — Florida pitcher Mark Hutton walked four of the first five hitters and hit the 11th, helping the Chicago Cubs to an eight-run win over the Marlins. Kevin Foster (4-2), who was called up from Iowa before the game, gave up two hits, struck out two and walked one over five innings. The Cubs sent 13 batters to the plate in the 11th as Scott Burrell, Dave Magadan and Mark Grace walked, and Sammy Sosa was hit to force Burrell. It was Sosa's 100th RBI of the season. Luis Gonzalez walked to score Magadan, and Sandberg greeted Chris Hammond with a double, scoring Grace and Sosa. Two outs later, Foster tripled, scoring Sandberg and Jose Hernandez. Burrell singled his second at-bat in the inning, driving in Sosa, and scored on Grace's single. Pinch-hitter Craig Grebeck hit an RBI single to win the Marlins' fifth.

Greenville 6, Orlando 5

GREENVILLE, S.C. — Randall Simon's go-run homer in the bottom of the ninth lifted the Greenville Braves to a 6-5 victory over the Orlando Cubs in Southern League play. Orlando jumped out to a 4-0 lead, behind some runs from Steve Walker and Dan Kolowski. But the Braves' Simon responded in the bottom of the fourth with a solo shot that put Greenville on the board. The Braves tied it up in the seventh on a growing error, an RBI single by Ron Wright and a sacrifice fly by Simon. The Cubs' Jason Maxwell homered in the top of the ninth to give Orlando a brief 5-4 lead before Simon sealed it for the Braves.

Birmingham 3, Jacksonville 2

MOOVER, Ala. — Eddie Pearson's single in the eighth scored the winning run as Birmingham rallied to edge the Jacksonville Suns 3-2 in Southern League play. The Suns took a 2-0 lead in the third. Keith Sney singled and Tom Schmidt followed with a double, sending Kimsey home. Schmidt later scored on a single by Luis Garcia. Birmingham tied the game in the seventh. Craig Wilson reached on an error, Glen Garcia was hit with a pitch and Mario Valdez scored to score Wilson and DiSarcina. With two out in the eighth, Wilson reached on Sney's choice and DiSarcina singled him to score. Pearson then hit a bad-hop single over the second baseman's head to score Wilson.

Woods leads Amateur

CORNELIUS, Ore. — Seeking an unprecedented third straight U.S. Amateur title, Tiger Woods shot a 5-under-par 67 on Pumpkin Ridge's Witch Hollow course to top the 64 match-play qualifiers. The 20-year-old Stanford star had a 7-under 66 total on the Witch Hollow and Ghost Creek courses. He will open match play against J.D. Lanning of Fort Collins, Colo. Earlier, Woods seemed to end speculation that he would turn pro this week when he confirmed he had accepted an invitation to play in the World Amateur Team Championship. Oklahoma State's Bo Van Pelt, the son of former NFL linebacker Brad Van Pelt, shot a 70 on Ghost Creek to qualify second at 138.

NFL cuts down to 60

Kickers Matt Bahr and Lin Elliott and punter Robb Stark were waived as National Football League teams cut to 60 players. Bahr, 40, was beaten out for the job with New England by Adam Vinatieri, a free agent from San Diego State. Minnesota cut Elliott, leaving the job to Scott Steen. Stark, whose 1,103 punts are the second most in NFL history, was cut by Pittsburgh. The 37-year-old played with Indianapolis before joining the Steelers last year as a free agent. Others cut included running backs Garrison Hearst (Arizona) and Johnny Johnson (San Francisco), quarterbacks Gino Torretta (San Francisco) and Dan McGwire (Miami), and defensive back Shawn Gayle (San Diego). Also, the NFL increased Indianapolis fullback Roosevelt Potts' drug-related suspension from four games to 16 and suspended Baltimore defensive tackle Larry Webster for a year.

Lions to leave Silverdome

DETROIT — The Detroit Lions, who have played 21 years at the Pontiac Silverdome, will return to Detroit in a new downtown stadium. The $225 million stadium will be built adjacent to a planned Detroit Tigers ballpark. The Lions said they will not break their Silverdome lease, which runs through 2004, but said a buyout could be explored.

Raiders' Thorne a Jr. College Academic All-Amer.

By BEAN SMITH
Herald Sports Editor

SANFORD — Who says athletes can't be good students? While it was not the best year on the courts or on the fields for the Seminole Community College athletic program, it was an awfully good year in the classroom for the athletes.

Paced by Chris Thorne and four Seminole County high school graduates, the Raiders placed 15 athletes on the All Mid-Florida Conference Academic Honor Roll.

Thorne, a 6-foot-1, 205-pound sophomore infielder from St. Cloud, was one of five players from coach Jack Patellas' baseball team to make the All Mid-Florida Conference Team.

But that would not be all for Thorne as he was also named a National Junior College Athletic Association Academic All-American after accumulating a 3.64 Grade Point Average on 74 credit hours.

Other baseball players making the All Mid-Florida academic squad were Martin County freshman outfielder Ryan Oladwin (3.30 GPA), Spruce Creek freshman Christopher Thorne, a sophomore from St. Cloud, accumulated a 3.64 Grade Point Average on 74 credit hours to earn National Junior College Athletic Association Academic All-American honors.

FIGHTING SEMINOLES HARD AT IT

Florida, Taiwan now 2-0

By JEFFREY BARN
Associated Press Writer

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. — Jody Posey hit a three-run homer Tuesday night and Panama City, Fla., beat an erratic Cranston, R.I., team 6-6 in the 50th Little League World Series.

In Tuesday's other preliminary games, Taiwan beat the Dominican Republic 9-0; Moorpark, Calif., defeated Marshalltown, Iowa, 7-3; and Canada edged the mostly American team from Saudi Arabia 3-2.

Panama City (2-0) scored six runs in the first inning on Posey's second first-inning homer of the series, two bases-loaded walks and two errors by Cranston second baseman Jake Basinga, who was replaced by Lew Colby.

Cranston's Tom Michael walked and scored in the top of the first and hit a solo homer in the third before about 18,000 people at Lamade Stadium.

In five innings, Michael and reliever Michael Luke walked eight, with four scoring. Cranston (1-1) wasted a chance to clinch a spot in Thursday's semifinals with a win.

Taiwan's Yang Chia-chen struck out 12 batters, allowed only one hit and hit a 240-foot homer against the Dominican Republic in what likely was a preview of Thursday's international semifinal.

The Dominican Republic plays Saudi Arabia at 11 a.m. EDT Wednesday, while Cranston plays Marshalltown at 2 p.m. Taiwan plays Canada at 5 p.m., and Panama City plays Moorpark at 8 p.m.

Wednesday's games will determine the top two U.S. and top two international teams for the semifinals. The championship game is at 3:45 p.m. Saturday.

Taiwan (2-0), which has a team in the series for the 21st time in 28 years, scored four first-inning runs and a 4-foot-11, 95-pound Hsieh Chin-hsiung hit a two-run homer and an RBI single.

Hsieh, who is batting .750 in the series with three home runs, weighs half as much as the heaviest player in Williamsport — 188-pound Jody Posey of Panama City, Fla.

Juan Castillo had the only hit for the Dominican Republic (1-1), a single to right in the fourth. Yang's pitches were recorded at 78 mph, the fastest at the series since Sean Burroughs also threw 78 mph in 1993.

Earlier, inspired by the memory of a drowned player from their hometown, Moorpark beat Marshalltown as Erik Johnson struck out 13 batters and Aaron Garcia hit a two-run homer.

Johnson's fastball was measured at 70 mph and, considering the 46-foot distance from the mound to home plate in Little League, that is the equivalent of a major league fastball in the low 90s.

"Our No. 5 to No. 9 batters just could not get around on him," Marshalltown manager Brad Clement said. Those five batters struck out eight times in 12 at-bats.

Marshalltown pitchers intentionally walked Johnson twice, but the strategy backfired. He scored the first time, was thrown out at the plate the second time and threw harder because he was mad about the walks.

"You know, it bugs you, especially when it happens twice. And when I'm mad, I pitch harder and I pitch more accurate," Johnson said.

Moorpark players have been honoring Little League infielder Joel Burchfield, who drowned Jan. 31 while trying to cross a drainage ditch in the Southern California town.

"We know he's right there with them when they go out on the field," said Joel's mother, Laura, who traveled to Williamsport with the team. Joel's father, Dan, pitches Moorpark's batting practice.

Moorpark players wear black wristbands with Joel's No. 15, and touch a banner bearing his name before each game.

"When we get down, Joel helps us out," center fielder Aaron Garcia said. "We believe in Joel, and we go out there and play hard."

Green, Mitchell want to return

By Glenn Feldman
Associated Press Writer

DAVIE - The Miami Dolphins tight end situation took another unexpected turn Tuesday when coach Jimmy Johnson said he is considering bringing back either Johnny Mitchell or Eric Green.

After announcing cuts the team made to trim the roster to 60, Johnson said he met with agents of both players.

"I got to have some reservations when it doesn't work out the first time, but by the same token I don't think you should completely block it out and not give a guy a second chance," Johnson said. "It's only something we are looking into and discussing."

An overweight and overpaid Green was cut before training camp began. Then the Dolphins signed free agent Mitchell, who abruptly retired two weeks later.

That forced Johnson to move fullback Keith Byars to tight end to compete with former Raider Terry Cash.

For Johnson - who has been preaching work ethic all camp - to even consider bringing back the two players shows how concerned he is about the position. Green missed 39 practices last season.

"I will do whatever it takes to help this football team," Johnson said.

Drew Rosenhaus, Green's agent, said his client has lost weight and is ready to play. The former Pro Bowler caught 43 passes for 499 yards last season.

Mitchell showed up at Dolphins camp at 8 a.m. Tuesday. "He says he's ready to go, fired up," Johnson said. The coach refused to say whether the former New York Jet's retirement was a ploy to get out of training camp in humid South Florida.

Johnson will huddle with his assistants and decide if and when either of the players come back. He didn't give a time table.

There were few surprises in the 15 players waived outright by the Dolphins on Tuesday. Rookie cornerbacks Kirk Pointer and Dorian Brew were let go.

"Both players showed they can play in this league," Johnson said. "Neither one showed us what we wanted on the special teams."

Quarterback Dan McGwire was also waived, but he could be back if current third stringer Mike Buck has a bad game Friday against Tampa Bay.

Two offensive guards were waived to injured reserve: Kevin Brothen (knee) and Bert Weidner (ankle). Weidner played in 12 games last season while Brothen spent last season on injured reserve.

In other Dolphins news, the running back situation is taking shape with rookie Karim Abdul-Jabbar taking a slight lead over Jerris McPhail, Irving Spikes and Bernie Paramelec.

Abdul-Jabbar, a former UCLA standout, had 26 yards on 11 carries in Miami's 24-17 win over Minnesota on Monday.

Johnson said he wants to see more of McPhail, a rookie out of East Carolina, as a first-down running back against Tampa in the final preseason game on Friday.

"I think Friday night is going to be an interesting night for these running backs," Johnson said.

The Dolphins late Monday confirmed they traded running back Terry Kirby to San Francisco for a conditional 1997 draft choice.

Johnson also said kicker Joe Nedney has the edge over Pete Stoyanovich after his performance against Minnesota. Reportedly, Minnesota, Jacksonville and Kansas City is talking to the Dolphins about acquiring Pete Stoyanovich, Miami's kicker for the past seven seasons.

"After last night, Joe has to have the edge," Johnson said.

Sheriff's candidate, incumbent Don Eslinger, has been a resident of Seminole County since 1978, and was appointed as sheriff in 1991. The appointment was made by the governor, on the recommendation of retiring Sheriff John E. Polk.

Eslinger originally joined the department as a communications specialist, and rose through the ranks to the top position within 13 years of service.

One year after his appointment as sheriff, he was elected to continue in that position by the voters of Seminole County.

Eslinger is running on his past record. He says his points of achievement include neighborhood policing, district service centers, increasing the response time for calls, reducing the crime rate in the unincorporated areas of the county which saw a drop of 25 percent in the past 10 years, and various improvements made at the John E. Polk Correctional Facility. He has also established various crime prevention and support programs some specifically designed to help the most vulnerable of the population, children, abused spouses and elderly.

He states with pride that he has been able to hire more deputies and improve deputy salaries without an increase in the county millage rate for taxation.

His educational background includes colleges and universities in Michigan and Florida, and schools and courses offered by a number of law enforcement training operations including Florida Department of Law Enforcement, U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration, U.S. Department of Justice National Academy of Corrections, and others, including being a graduate of the F.B.I. National Academy.

He was recently named as chairman of the Board of Directors of the Florida Sheriffs' Association, and was re-elected to another two-year term as the administrative overseer of the association.

In his re-election campaign he says, "The mission of the Seminole County Sheriff's Office is to reduce crime and the fear of crime in Seminole County so that you and your family can be secure in your neighborhood, in your business district, and on your school grounds."

Under his leadership, he says the "Seminole County sheriff's office has been re-engineered to provide superior service and protection to Seminole County citizens into the 21st century."

Sheriff Eslinger was married in 1978, and has two sons, ages one and four.

By NICK PFERPAMP

Republican Joe Becker is seeking election as Seminole County sheriff in the September 3 primary. The matter will be decided at the primary level, as there is no Democratic opposition.

Becker says he is running for the position, rather than against the incumbent. The reason, he says, is because he is better qualified for the job.

In his campaign literature, he says from 1990 to 1995 the Sheriff's Office budget has increased from $22.7 million to $33 million per year, an increase of 45 percent, compared to the average inflation rate increase of 3.5 percent during the same time period. "Spending is out of control," he says.

He also says in the past four years, the crime solving rate for violent crimes such as murder, rape, burglary and robbery has plummeted an alarming 35 percent.

Becker claims that the increased spending and the plummeting crime solving rate show that neither the tax dollars nor the sheriff department's assets and priorities have been utilized in the most critical area...crime fighting. He said the current management style is simply too wasteful and misguided.

Becker's background in law enforcement includes service as a commander of a military police unit at a naval air station, a deputy with the Seminole County sheriff's department, and a police officer/pilot with the Maitland police department.

He is a retired U.S. Navy captain and an experienced fighter pilot.

His educational background includes schools in military justice, management, budget control, purchasing and leadership.

He obtained a bachelor's degree from Millsaps College, and is a Police Academy graduate from Seminole Community College.

Married for 20 years, he is the father of three.

Among several promises being made during his campaign, Becker pledges to "establish financial responsibility and stop wasting tax dollars, eliminate all intimidation tactics, fear of reprisal and mismanagement, make neighborhood streets, business and schools safer by enhancing specialized patrols, and establish and implement citizen involvement programs.

Becker qualified to seek election by obtaining 2,308 signature petition cards from citizens, which placed him on the ballot for Sept. 3.

Bob Goff races to finish line

By VICKI BOGGS
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — Flipping over three times in a speeding stock car will jar a little humility into anyone. But it can also teach you a lot about human nature.

School board candidate Bob Goff said his burgeoning career as a stock car driver has taught him about team work, about compromise and about working hard to get what you want, but accepting defeat gracefully when it comes to you.

Goff, who is seeking the District 3 seat currently held by Nancy Warren, said he is ready to take over the position on the school board and fight, from the underdog position, for what he sees as right for the students.

"I know I will be in the minority for at least a couple of years," he noted of the board's philosophy, "but I'll keep voting the way I believe."

Goff said when he began racing two years ago he knew little of the sport except that it allowed him to keep an eye on his older daughter who was dating a driver.

"But racing is like a family," he said. "Everyone looks out for everyone else."

When he flipped his car on the straightaway at New Smyrna Speedway recently, he said other drivers and their crews rushed to the scene to be sure he was all right. They then took the time to help him retrieve his windshield and other parts from the track and to effect some repairs.

"It was something else," Goff said. "These were competitors and they were giving me a chance to get back in the race."

The divorced father of two is roommate to a fellow racer in a house in Altamonte Springs. While they compete on the track they are pretty good friends at home.

"Racing really is a big family and we all do what we can to help each other out," he said.

It's that spirit of cooperation he hopes to bring to the school board.

"We are all working toward the same goal: helping the kids," he noted. "We have to be willing to listen to each other and find the things that will be best for the kids and to admit defeat if we have to."

Nancy Warren: Advocate for kids

By VICKI BOGGS
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — She's a single mom who works in education, currently earning her master's degree and who has served on the Seminole County school board for 16 years; Nancy Warren said she is committed to children and to their education.

Though her own children are grown, Warren said, she has not stopped being an advocate for the children of Seminole County.

"I feel that I should act as an advocate for children, especially those who do not have adults who do that for them at home," Warren said. "It's not just something I do at work."

Warren will earn her master's degree in educational leadership from the University of Central Florida in December.

She works at the Community Coordinated Child Care (4C) as the agency's School Age Child Care Coordinator.

"Between work and homework and papers and my work on the school board and various committees, I don't have time to do much of anything else," she said of a schedule that is jammed packed almost every day. "My one luxury is that a friend and I go for a walk around Crane's Roost Park (in Altamonte Springs) and to breakfast at Denny's on Saturday mornings."

The rest of her time, she said, is spent dealing with children and children's issues.

She has been appointed to serve on the District 7 Juvenile Justice Board, the Healthy Start Board of Seminole County, the DARE Advisory Board of Seminole County and the Model Technology Schools State Task Force.

She jokes that her daughters who are 21 and 24, sometimes don't recognize her when she comes home after a long day of work, school and meetings.

"But it's what keeps me going," she said.

Warren said she believes her commitment to the students of Seminole County is evident through her continuous service on the school board and on other boards and committees.

"I think I have proved I can care for the students and the education they receive in Seminole County schools," she said.

Larry Furlong

Larry Furlong: Family

By VICKI BOGGS
Herald Senior Staff Writer

FERN PARK — Larry Furlong says he loves history and learning about how the past affects the present and the future.

The candidate for the District 3 seat currently held by Larry Strickler, who is stepping down after a single term, former county commissioner Furlong is currently completing his application to join the Mayflower Society.

"It was pretty easy to track my father's side of the family to Ireland. My father's parents immigrated from there," he said. "My mother's family, I've finally tracked down came over on the Mayflower. They fought in the Revolution and those who lost homes and what-have-you were given property in Western Connecticut (Ohio) and were some of the early settlers there."

Furlong said that despite the hard work involved in a genealogical search, he found the process both fascinating and relaxing.

"I've always loved history and this is another aspect of it," he said.

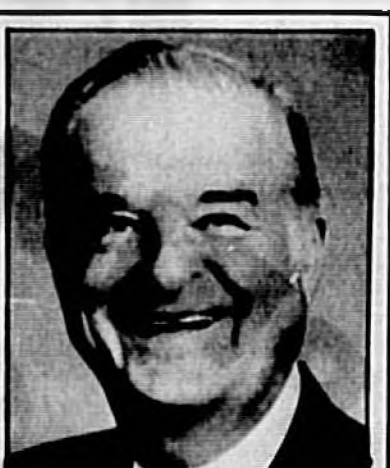

A graduate of Ole Miss, he is involved in trying to revive the college's alumni association in this area. It was at that school that he met his wife ("my fraternity sweetheart") Emily. His older daughter, Katie is a sophomore at her parents' alma mater.

Their younger daughter, Mary, is a sophomore at Lake Howell High School. She has yet to make specific college plans.

For many years, Furlong could be spotted easily as he toiled around in town in his 25 year old green Volkswagen "Bug," a car that Katie now drives most of the time.

When he took the job as a salesman for Fidelity National Title Insurance Company of Pennsylvania, he found he needed something bigger to drive clients to lunch.

"So I had to give up the Bug in favor of a 'Benson's Boat,' but I still get to drive the other one sometimes," he noted.

Wes Pennington

Books suit Wes Pennington

By VICKI BOGGS
Herald Senior Staff Writer

Wes Pennington has two loves in life, he said: his family and his books.

An avid reader, the candidate for Seminole County school board in District 4, said he collects books that deal with American History — his favorite subject.

"But I don't want anything that was published after 1900," he said.

It's not that he is not interested in the history of the country since the turn of the century. He is very interested, he noted, but the works of history that have been produced since then "have a different sort of slant to them," which he sees as skewed.

"It is fascinating to see the difference," he said.

He has other antiquarian books as well, including a 17th century history of the Catholic church.

Pennington said he has always loved to read, but struggled with the skill at first when he was taught to read by his father using the "whole word" approach that is so popular in education today. When he was introduced to the phonics method of reading, he ceased to have trouble.

He believes that schools need to place a renewed emphasis on reading so that all children learn to read and can find greater success in all their endeavors, but he believes that the phonetic method has to be reintroduced into the classroom or there will continue to be students graduating (or worse yet, dropping out) without the ability to read simple instructions.

"I think this is the most important job of educators today," he said. "We have to give the students the ability to read."

Pennington said he loves to read to his grandchildren. "I have five and eight-ninth grandchildren," he said, explaining that the sixth grandchild is expected in September. "They are all very special young people."

Pennington, 65, hopes he'll be able to help all the youngsters of Seminole County with his business experience.

One Democratic primary on ballot

Feather cares about the people

Robert G. Feather, known by many as "Bud" is seeking the Democratic nod to run against Congressman John Mica in the November General Election. Feather is seeking the 7th District Florida seat in the U.S. House of Representatives.

Feather has been campaigning for over seven months, having first announced his candidacy in early January.

Feather, born in Northfield, Minn. is 50 years of age. He has 10 children including step-children, and six grandchildren. He resides in DeLand and has an office in Longwood.

Politically, he describes himself as an "independent, conservative, Democrat," but added that he cares more about the well-being of the American people and citizens of Central Florida than he does about partisan politics.

He said one of his aims is to reduce taxation for the working families, those making less than $100,000 per year. "Trickle down economics didn't work," he said. "I want bubble up economics."

Regarding his promises, he stresses four points: "I really care about our future. I really care if our children are being cared for. I really care if our parents are being cared for. I really care if our grandparents are being cared for."

Feather's previous political activities include serving eight years on the Seminole County school board, and as a Seminole County commissioner for four years.

He has also been a member and officer with the Seminole County Property Appraisal Board and Metropolitan Planning Organization.

He has served on the board of the Seminole County Expressway Authority, Seminole County Port Authority, Economic Development Commission of Mid-Florida, and East Central Florida Regional Planning Council.

He also lists membership at present in over 15 organizations in Central Florida dealing in such areas as senior citizens, health, political activities and school organizations.

Stuart: Common sense

By NICK PFERPAMP
Herald Staff Writer

Only two Democratic candidates will be on the primary election ballots in Central Florida for the Sept. 3 primary. They are George Stuart Jr. and Robert G. "Bud" Feather. They are running for the U.S. House of Representatives, representing Florida Dist. 7.

The winner will face Republican incumbent John Mica during the November General Election.

George Stuart Jr., one of the Democratic candidates seeking election to U.S. House of Representatives, Dist. 7, has vast political experience. District 7 encompasses portions of Seminole, Volusia and Orange counties.

Stuart is a former Orange County state senator, Orlando

City Council member, and has served the State of Florida as Secretary of the Department of Professional Regulation and the Department of Business and Professional Regulation.

Stuart, born in Orlando, and his family, have deep roots in the Central Florida area, with the family owned office supply company, George Stuart, Inc.

When he opened his campaign headquarters in Deltona, daughters Kathryn (17) and Caroline (14) and son George L. (9) were on hand. Stuart's wife Betty and eldest daughter, Ann Elizabeth, while not on hand for the event, are also actively involved in the campaign.

Regarding his run for office, Stuart observed, "This campaign is about bringing the same common sense approach to solving the nation's challenges as I successfully used to serve Central Floridians as a state senator. I will work with anyone from either party to solve these challenges, balancing the budget while ensuring affordable, quality health care, safeguarding Medicare, protecting the security of pensions, improving education and protecting our environment."

Kirby Moncrief: Champion of families

By JEFF HUNT

Circuit Court Judge Kirby Moncrief wants to continue his fight for families.

The candidate has been a champion of them for over 25 years and says he does not want to stop now. That is why Moncrief, who was appointed 10 months ago to a newly created judgeship by Governor Lawton Chiles, is running for re-election against challenger Ken Lester.

"I see it as a continuation of helping the community," Moncrief said. "(And) after 25

Experience. That's what Ken Lester says he can bring to the circuit court bench if elected for seat 21.

The 43-year-old Longwood resident who is running for judgeship against incumbent Kirby Moncrief likens appearing before a judge to going to a doctor for surgery. First one would want to see the doctor's diploma showing specialized training. Then one would ask if they had any experience to do whatever type of operation the individual needed.

Lester says the name goes for appearing in front of a judge. One wants to know that judges have the experience to appropriately carry out the duties they are entrusted with. And Lester says that his record shows that he has been there and knows what he is doing.

"I don't think anything surpasses experience," Lester says. And experience he has. The Boone High graduate has practiced law since returning from Vietnam and earning his B.A. and master's from Florida Tech University, now UCF, and Juris Doctorate from the University of Florida.

He has practiced family law in both Florida and federal courts for more than 15 years, handling mostly divorces before becoming involved in criminal, business and juvenile cases. In that time, Lester held the positions of assistant city attorney for Altamonte Springs and chairman of the 18th Judicial Circuit Grievance Committee. He is also

Marlene Alva brings experience as judge

By JEFF HUNT
Herald Staff Writer

What do you do when you have been involved in our nation's court system for the last 19 years, four of those as a county judge and eight as chief assistant public defender? If you are Marlene Alva, you run for circuit court judge.

The lifelong resident of Orlando is attempting to make the change from Seminole County judge to circuit court judge, running against Nancy Alley, because, as she says, our courts have a "black eye" as far as citizens are concerned.

Thus, to have a greater impact in changing that image, Alva feels she can do more good in circuit court where judges are faced with felony criminal cases, juvenile crimes and civil cases where damages exceed $15,000. Currently, as a county judge, she only deals with civil cases where damages are less than $15,000 and misdemeanor crimes.

"I feel that it's important that the public is confident in the law," Alva said.

Therefore, to do her part, she plans to restore good case management techniques, make herself available more often in order to expedite the court's process and minimize delays by watching continuances.

However, beyond just making changes, Alva plans to do more of the same: more listening and more serving justice, just as she says she has always done.

"If everyone can agree that the case was handled fairly and that everyone was heard, then justice is served," Alva said.

And to continue serving justice from the circuit side, the 43-year-old woman says that she will continue to use her many years of experience in the courtroom. After graduating with a B.A. in Psychology from Florida Tech University, now UCF, and a J.D. from Stetson University's Law School, Judge Alva went to work with the State Attorney's Office in Brevard County. She later moved to Tallahassee where she was a legal adviser in criminal cases for the Florida Department of Law Enforcement.

Alva then moved back to Central Florida where she went to work as an assistant public defender from 1981 to 1984. She was subsequently raised to chief assistant public defender where she continued to work until 1992. That year, Alva was appointed county judge, the first woman in Seminole County, after she ran unopposed.

As county judge, Alva set the standard not only for other women to follow, but all judges. She was top-ranked among all judges in Seminole County in 1992 and 1996, ranked first among all county court judges during her first four years on the bench by the Seminole County Bar Association and ranked as one of the top three state and federal judges in Central Florida in 1996 by the Central Florida Criminal Defense Attorneys Association.

Alva's views helped her achieve these commendations by her peers. She does not believe that more taxes and more prisons are going to rectify the nation's crime problems.

"Just warehousing people doesn't get to the solution of the problem," Alva said. "I think it's important ... that we focus mainly on treatment and rehabilitation in the juvenile court's system while (the criminal) is still amenable."

When not sitting on the bench, Alva likes to hit Magic and Tampa Bay Buccaneers games, for which she has season tickets, or catch a movie. However, her favorite pastime is to walk her two chows, Elvis and Ozy, on her two acre spread in Geneva.

Nancy Alley: The next logical career step is to circuit judge

By JEFF HUNT
Herald Staff Writer

Nancy Alley wants to take the next step.

The former General Master for the 18th Circuit is hoping to make the transition to circuit court judge with a win in the Republican judicial primaries for seat 2 on Sept. 3. She faces Marlene Alva, who resigned her seat as county judge to run for circuit.

"I do really enjoy the practice of law," Alley said. "And I think I can do a good job."

As General Master, Alley acted as a hearing officer who ran her own courtroom and ruled on up to 60 cases a week which would normally clutter circuit court judges' dockets. Her findings were then passed on to a judge who actually handed down the ruling and sentence. And although defendants had 10 days to appeal their sentence, her ruling is final.

Alley hopes this demonstration of precision thinking and unbiased ruling will convince voters that she is prepared for the job of circuit court judge. However, being general master is only the beginning of her experience. Alley has run her own private attorney's practice since 1983 where she handled civil litigation, juvenile probate, family law and bankruptcy. She was also the first female president of the Seminole County Bar and on the board of governors for the Florida Bar. In addition, Alley is an instructor for the Florida Institute for Legal Assistants and an American Arbitration Association panel member. She received her juris doctorate from Villanova University School of Law after getting her B.A. from the University of Mississippi.

Alley is also active in her community. She is the legal counsel for the Greater Seminole County Chamber of Commerce, and a member of the Private Business Association of Seminole, Tigar Bay Club, Winter Springs Rotary Club and League of Women Voters. She is also on the Girl Scout Committee and was voted Lake Howell High School's NJROTC Outstanding Booster of the Year.

The Oviedo resident feels that this courtroom experience and community involvement have taught her well and will allow her to do an impeccable job as circuit court judge. And as a judge, Alley does not plan to institute any drastic reforms, only to be swift in her rulings, tough on first time criminals, especially those convicted of drug crimes, and even tougher on repeat criminals and those who violate their probation.

"It doesn't make sense to give

Daryl McLain: Cowboy corrals votes

By RUSS WHITE
Herald Staff Writer

Corralling votes shouldn't be too tough a problem for former rodeo cowboy Daryl McLain, the Republican incumbent Seminole County Commissioner District 5.

Proud of the fact he rode a horse before he could walk, McLain was a bulldogger, team roper and saddle bronco rider for 10 years on the Florida and Georgia rodeo circuit.

He excelled at rodeo and says he has excelled also the past four years as the county commissioner. Naturally, he is eager to stay in the saddle for the next four.

A life-long resident of the county, McLain knows the territory, and is deeply concerned about its present and future. He's a Seminole High School and University of Central Florida graduate and successful business leader.

As a child he was into

ballet and then bulldogging. "Peer pressure moved me," he says. Later he was a banker and is now in insurance.

McLain, 47, was born in Dallas, Texas, during a three-month stay there by his parents—one more reason to call himself a cowboy and wear a cowboy hat and boots.

I've got a dozen pair of boots - size "11," he says. "I'm a 7 1/4 in hats."

His stats as commissioner are what count the most, however.

"I've worked hard," he says. "I've delivered as I promised four years ago. I've fought tax increases and I've tried to keep our county government lean and efficient. I've fought to protect the quality of life for all our residents."

McLain's chief concerns are the county's building programs, stormwater management, and balancing the tax base and the economy.

He's particularly fond of Sanford and sees it as "very vibrant" in the future. He can remember when 80 percent of the people in the county were from Sanford. That number is now 10 percent.

"What's good for Sanford is good for the county and what's good for the county is good for Sanford," he says, vowing never to forget his roots.

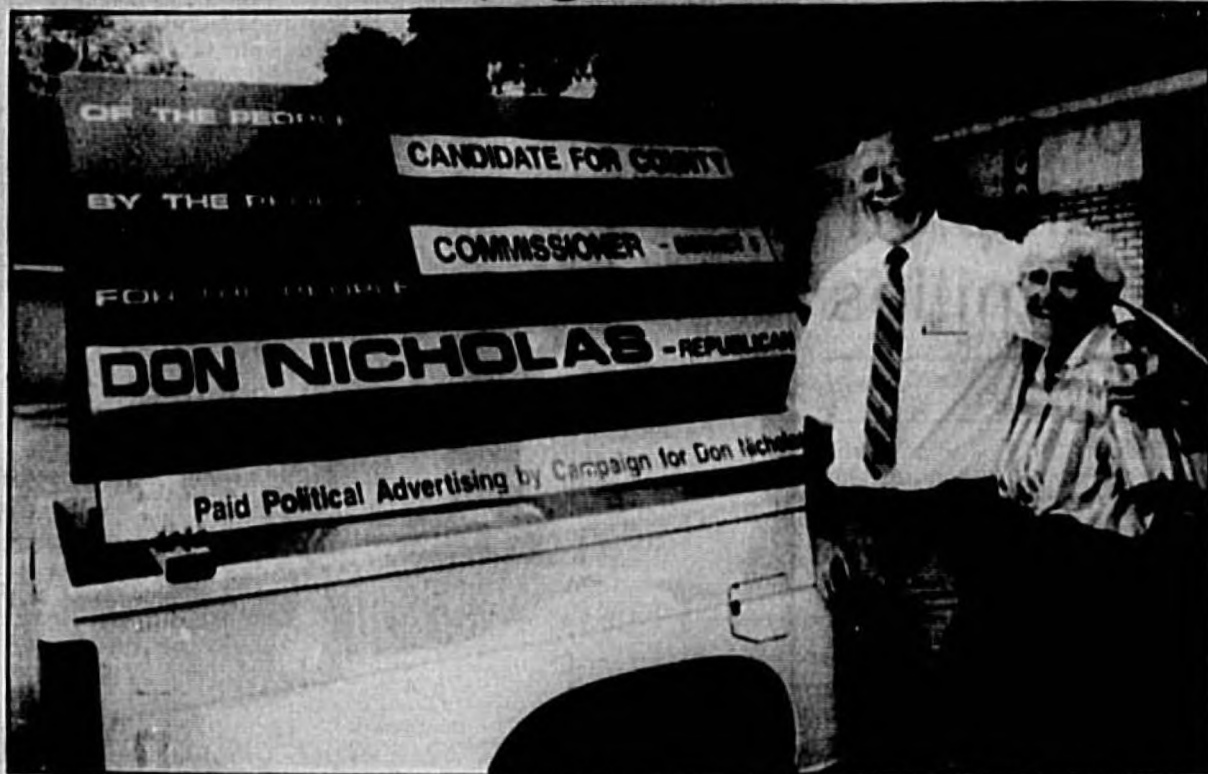

McLain says his grandfather came to Sanford in 1906 and was a cattle farmer. Hence his horseback riding before he could walk. It was a close-knit community that for a long while didn't like outsiders.

Doing his chores as commissioner take up 90 percent of his time according to McLain, who founded his own Seminole County Insurance business 15 years ago. "Fortunately I have a business partner who allows me the time."

McLain and his wife, Barbara, have been married 28 years and have two children - Charlie (16) and Mandy (13). McLain met his wife while they were students at UCF.

McLain is a past president of the Friends of the St. Johns River and Rotary Club and a past director of the Chamber of Commerce.

He was twice elected as Chairman of the Seminole

Don Nicholas and his favorite campaign worker, his mom, Mildred.

Don Nicholas: The man with the flag can shoot straight

By RUSS WHITE
Herald Staff Writer

Don Nicholas, candidate for Seminole County Commissioner District 5, says the record shows he is "very competitive and a straight shooter."

As a senior, Nicholas was the center of attention as Seminole High School's most valuable basketball player.

He holds the school record for most free throws attempted in a game - 21. And he made 16 of them.

"I could take Shaquille O'Neal's place," Nicholas says "and play for a lot less."

Instead, Nicholas is challenging Republican incumbent Daryl McLain in the District 5 commissioner's GOP primary.

At 6-foot-five and possessing plenty of drive, Nicholas, 47, is an imposing figure in his rookie year in the political arena as he was as a Civic activist Jean Metts wears on of her many hats.

Jean Metts uses her head as more than showcase for hats

By RUSS WHITE
Herald Staff Writer

What's a woman who has 100 hats and a true love of community to do when she hears a call to duty?

The answer for Jean Metts was simple—throw one of the hats into the political arena.

And that's just what Metts did less than three months ago when she announced herself as a candidate for Seminole County Commissioner District 5.

"I felt it was my time to run," she said. "Time to work for all the people."

A former registered nurse and a resident of the county for 40 years, Metts already has spent much of her time in a score of volunteer programs. She is the current and founding executive director of Seminole Volunteer Enterprises, Inc. and chairman of the Code Enforcement Board.

"She is a champion for the underdog," says Morris Metts, the candidate's husband for 42 years. "If Jean sees something that isn't right, she changes it. She's a great motivator. She has always cared deeply for community."

Morris, a train engineer, and Jean came to Florida 40 years ago for his work. Their children, Tamara (41), Mark (36), Scott (36) and Todd (33), grew up here. When Jean Metts announced her run for office, two of her sons set out at 6 a.m. the next morning to put up campaign posters.

Metts says she borrowed $8,000 for campaign costs.

Those closest to Jean Metts, her husband, their four children, four grandchildren, good neighbors in Lake Monroe and friends at Central Baptist Church in Sanford affectionately refer to her "Big Red."

Among the campaign slogans they have penned for her are: "Get Ahead, Vote Big Red." and "Don't Be Mean. Vote for Jean."

This year they applauded when she was the recipient of the J.C. Penny Golden Rule Award for outstanding individual community service.

To be sure, Metts is a woman of many talents, homemaker, nurse, community worker, singer, director and accomplished musician. She's particularly proud of her contributions to a singing group known as "Glitz."

And, of course, she is THE hat collector.

"My oldest hat is 41 years old," she says. "Cost $21, a fortune back then. It came from J.C. Penny's. White straw. It's in a box, and labeled just like all the others."

Laughing, she says, "As much as I like hats, I don't want anyone to think that all my head is used for is to sit a fine hat on it. I consider myself a person of integrity, someone who cares very much about making life better for all those around me. I like working for others."

Metts lists her county priorities as: transportation, environmental issues, senior

Paul Lovstrand: Red-hearted with a green thumb

By RUSS WHITE
Herald Staff Writer

Paul Lovstrand says he is 75 percent Norwegian, 25 percent Swedish and 99.9 percent sure he should be the next Seminole County Commissioner District 5.

Let's begin with the name.

"Originally it was Loostrand," he says. "But no one in America could pronounce it (Loo-strand). So my father changed it to Lovstrand and eventually an 'e' was added and it was Lovstrand."

"There's a story my great grandfather used to tell about that Loostrand itself was a gift from the King of Sweden ... that there were so many Swedes named Hendrickson that the king awarded his most loyal followers with new names," he says, exhibiting a quick and dry sense of humor.

Winning the commissioner's job, is Paul Lovstrand's immediate concern for approval.

A former commissioner and mayor of Longwood, and self-employed in insurance, stockbroking and real estate, Lovstrand, 59, says he wants the job because he would be far more efficient as the commissioner than the Republican incumbent, Daryl McLain.

He says he is disturbed about the amount of money spent on campaigns and the apparent influence that political contributions can buy. "The evidence," he says, "is shown in the large advantage that incumbents have in fund raising."

Daryl McLain has $70,000 to spend," Lovstrand said. "I have $8,000."

Judge For Justice

Q: Why does the public seem to have so little faith in the judicial system and what can you do from the bench to improve the image of the courts?

A. Michael Bress:

The perception that the public has little faith in the judicial system may be based on the ever increasing case load, inefficient management of those cases, ineffective administration of time and the appearance of impropriety or influence in the judiciary. I would begin each work day on the bench, handling the docket, at 8:00 a.m. and leave the bench at or after 5:00 p.m., to complete whatever outstanding work that remained. I would allow attorneys to handle docket sounding by filing a pleading instead of requiring their attendance and the attendance of the defendant. I would participate in plea negotiations to expedite cases. I would strictly avoid the appearance of influence or impropriety in all activities as I have in my campaign by refusing support and campaign contributions by practicing attorneys. I would perform my judicial duties with honor, impartiality, candor, fair play and diligence. I would uphold the integrity and independence of the judiciary.

years (of practicing law), I was certainly ready for a new challenge."

And what better challenge than helping families, Moncrief said, because they have been having more troubles in recent years and need more help than ever when they come before the court.

"Parents take the easy way out and the kids pay for it," Moncrief said. "That's why you need to help the kids as much as possible."

To do his part, Moncrief, who deals almost exclusively with custody cases, has formed an educational committee to develop a film or pamphlet to explain the procedures in obtaining a guardianship. This, Moncrief says, will let attorneys and their clients know what is going on and can help them better prepare. Moncrief also gives seminars on new family rules which change from time to time and often cause confusion.

In addition, the Sanford resident takes full advantage of the guardianship program that the district provides. This is where a volunteer is appointed to a child and keeps tabs on him or her for the court, allowing a judge to obtain a report on the effects of a case on children from someone other than the parents. This in turn allows Moncrief to decide what is best for the child.

"If there's two good parents, it's an easy decision. If there's one good parent and one bad parent, it's an easy decision. It's when there's two bad parents, you find yourself saying 'Lord help me,'" Moncrief said.

However, Moncrief's efforts for children and families do not stop at the courthouse. He works extensively with the Easter Seal's program, Camp Challenge, a camp for disabled children and young adults, and has been the director of the Salvation Army. He is currently the director of the Seminole Work Opportunity Program, a sheltered workshop for the disabled, and a deacon for the First Presbyterian Church of Sanford.

Moncrief learned the value of helping others while helping his own family. He had to drop out of Mercer University during his sophomore year to run the family restaurant because his father had a heart attack.

"I think that had a great deal to do with teaching me how to deal with people," Moncrief said.

Then after being honorably discharged from the Army and getting married, he worked two jobs so he could go back to school at the University of South Florida and receive his B.A.

Moncrief continued on at the Florida State School of Law where he obtained his Juris Doctorate before going into private practice. Since then he has become the Seminole County Board of Realtors Board attorney, general counsel and director of First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Seminole County and attorney for the Seminole Delegation.

them another chance." Alley said, emphasizing that it would be her job as a judge to punish and teach discipline. This she said would instill fear of retribution into criminals to keep them from continuing their wrong ways.

Moncrief is also on the Sanford Planning and Zoning Commission as well as the Airport Zoning and Planning Commission. Moncrief has been married for 31 years to his junior high school sweetheart, Lynda, a victims' advocate with the state attorney's office, and the two have two daughters. When not in the office, Moncrief enjoys running three times a week and playing with his two mixed breed golden retrievers.

Nancy, who reads adventure fiction away from work, has been married for 22 years to a U.S. Navy captain in the reserves and has two children: Jeff, a senior at Lake Howell High School at Winter Springs, and Marion, 10, a Tusawilla Middle school student.

Nicholas

teenage basketball hot shot 30 years ago.

"Don has always been very competitive, determined to be a winner and to be on top, says his favorite campaign worker, his mother, Mildred Nicholas of Sanford.

"I wasn't sure about his entering politics," Mrs. Nicholas said. "Too much dishonesty in it all; many people think that it's all crooked. But when I asked him, 'are you sure?' he said, 'mother, I feel led to it.' And this I know must be true. Don is close to his Lord."

A 23-year career in education administration--he is the purchasing agent for Seminole County Schools--Nicholas feels has prepared him to work with government regulations and funding. He also says he learned the value of hard work and earning from when he worked for 80 cents an hour in his dad's laundry business. "I'll spend government money the same way I raised and am spending my campaign money--with good common sense," he said. "I'll get the job done and have plenty to spare. I'll make better use of tax dollars."

For his campaign for the commissioner's position, Nicholas is counting on an all-American image. His posters depict the American flag. They are strategically erected through the county, especially on Satsuma Road, where he grew up.

Nicholas met his wife, Beth, as a student at Murray State. They have been married 26 years, and have two sons, Joe, 23, and John, 20. Beth proudly tells people that she's married to Don Nicholas, "the man with the flag."

How devoted to be to God, family and country? On the occasion of their 26th anniversary, Nicholas took his wife to a Christian Coalition forum at Northland Community Church.

The next night the "man with the flag" took his wife to dinner.

Lovestrand

To be sure, the two men are not in a mutual admiration society.

McLain, Lovestrand says, has been attacking him for a previous political donation, one for $95, that came from an adult entertainment source. "I made a mistake, an honest mistake," Lovestrand now says. "I wish I gave it back."

"The irony is that I've never tasted alcohol ... never had a beer or a mixed drink. My mom and dad didn't allow it ... and I was taught to stay away from it. Yet I'm accused of being soft on this sort of thing and on adult entertainment establishments. It's just not true."

He and Gail Lovestrand have been married 34 years, attend Community Alliance Church of Winter Springs and have two children, Louis (28) and Nina (25).

Lovestrand is a graduate of Houghton College with a BA degree in business and economics. He says he has signed the "Contract with the County" and agrees in all its specifics. His platform, he says, is based "on my record of austerity versus the liberal tax and spend record of Daryl McLain."

Should the people elect someone else, Lovestrand said he'll pull the weeds from his garden.

"Politics have taken me away from my garden," he says, "and after this I'll always have my garden to tend again."

Lester

the past-president of both the Seminole County Bar Association and Seminole County Legal Aid Society.

However, Lester's involvement carried over into his community, too. In addition to owning several small businesses in Central and South Florida, he has been an adviser to the chairman of the Florida Senate Select Committee on the Juvenile Justice Reform Bill and the special adviser to the chairman of the Florida Senate Committee of Corrections, Probation and Parole for 1992-93. In addition, he was the adviser to the chairman of the Florida Senate Select Committee on tourist-related crime in 1993.

Now Lester is looking to further serve his community by taking his years of experience in the courtroom and putting them to use on the bench. And he is looking to be most aggressive in the sentencing of criminals found guilty of violent crimes. "If they're violent, I just don't have the same regard for that individual," Lester says. "And if they're not getting the message ... then you need to use a stiffer rod."

He also thinks that requiring criminals to complete their high school education by receiving their GED or going to trade school as part of their sentencing will give that person the tools to deal with life on the road of the straight and narrow.

"It gives people goals... and a sense of self-respect," Lester says.

However, above all, Lester says that it is his goal to be fair.

"I think I can make a difference," Lester says. "But I know I can't change everything in one big swoop."

The judicial candidate and his wife, Dorothy Sedgwick, an assistant state attorney who specializes in prosecuting homicides, live on five acres in Longwood and raise horses. They have two children, Kenny and Alexandra.

Metts says that she felt the call to run in mid-June when an elderly aunt whom she had cared for passed away. "I don't think it's too late, do you?" she asked her husband.

Morris Metts nodded for her to go for it.

"I know I jumped in late," she now says. "But what had the others done so far that I wasn't able to do? I've made my pitch. I've made new friends and I know I have many, many old ones.

"Last week, a woman came to me after the Christian Coalition forum and began to talk. She wanted especially to know how long I had been married."

"When I told her, Morris and I had been married 48 years, she smiled and said, 'That's all I need to hear...I'm voting for you.'"

And it appears so will many others.

Too much sugar is no sweet deal

DEAR DR. GOTT: I am sure you are a very busy man, but I have a serious problem and only you can help me. I use 5 pounds of sugar, just for myself, within four to five days in my coffee, along with heavy cream to lighten it. I drink nine cups of coffee a day. Is this habit dangerous to my body?

DEAR READER: As I have written many times before, moderation is the key to good health and happiness. Anything — even water — will cause illness if consumed excessively. Thus, my answer to your question is an unqualified "Yes!"

A pound of sugar a day is clearly too much. It will severely stress your metabolism and is going to give you a truckload of extra calories that you don't need. Moreover, such an extreme intake of sugar could lead to diabetes as you grow older.

I recommend that you address your "sugar addiction" with your family physician, who will probably refer you for dietary counseling. For example, the doctor will suggest a strategy to help you reduce your consumption of "empty" calories by cutting back on the sugar and substituting a non-caloric sweetener, such as Nutra-Sweet.

To give you more information, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report "Weight Control Through Calorie Control." Other readers who would like a copy should send $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2017, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10156. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm a 74-year-old woman who has been shrinking in height. Why does this happen to some people and not to others? At this late stage in life, is there anything that can be done to alleviate the condition?

DEAR READER: Actually, we all shrink as we age; it's just more noticeable in some people than in others, especially in the presence of poor posture.

The reason for this shrinkage is age-related dehydration of the intervertebral discs; that is, the discs between our spinal bones lose water and become thinner. Consequently, we lose height.

In addition, compression or crush fractures of the vertebral bones, a common consequence of osteoporosis, will aggravate the situation.

If you have osteoporosis, you may be able to reduce or retard the rate of bone destruction by exercising regularly, consuming about 1,500 milligrams of supplemental calcium daily, using prescribed estrogen, and considering Fosamax — a new calcium-building drug for the treatment of osteoporosis.

MEDICINE
PETER GOTT, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm a 39-year-old male, 6 feet 2 inches and 220 pounds. I'm very athletic. A year and a half ago I had laparoscopic surgery to remove my gallbladder, and I still suffer tremendous pain. My doctor has no definitive solution. Do you know why I'm still having this excruciating pain?

DEAR READER: No, I don't. Ordinarily, after gallbladder surgery the patient is symptom-free. Therefore, you will have to investigate more unusual causes of abdominal pain.

To start with, you'll need blood tests and an ultrasound examination. Then, depending on the findings, your physician may refer you to a specialist, either an internist or a gastroenterologist.

Although it's conceivable that your abdominal pain could be the result of chronic muscle strain from your strenuous activity, the doctors will want to test your internal organs, such as the pancreas, kidney and bowel, all of which can cause pain under certain circumstances and would require specific therapy depending on the condition.

Check it all out

By Phillip Alder

Marcus Aurelius Antoninus, who was a Roman emperor during the second century A.D., wrote, "Blot out vain pomp; check impulse; quench appetite; keep reason under its own control." That is appropriate for bridge players — though some are rather pompous.

In today's deal, how might impulsiveness be fatal?

There was no point in North's going through the Gerber routine. With 18 high-card points, he knew they were missing at most one queen or two jacks. So North jumped straight to seven no-trump, expecting partner to claim at trick one. However, after the diamond lead, South saw that the mirror distribution left him needing four club tricks. South decided that if either opponent was long in clubs, it would be East, as West presumably had long diamonds. So, South immediately cashed dummy's ace and queen of clubs. When East discarded, South shook his head ruefully and conceded one down.

"What was the hurry?" asked North. "Why not cash your other nine winners first? Here you learn that West began with two spades, two hearts and five diamonds. He must have four clubs. Then you can show off by playing a club to the king and taking a second-round finesse through West."

"Sorry, partner."

That comment from Marcus Aurelius Antoninus was written in his "Meditations," about which the Chambers Biographical Dictionary comments, "Few books have had such a potent charm. ... His sentences reveal the loneliness of his soul, but they show us that he did not allow himself to be embittered as well as saddened by his experience of life." It makes one want to read the book.

our Birthday
Thursday, Aug. 22, 1986

Favorable changes could be in store for you in the year ahead, especially in regard to your social life. The improvements you experience could benefit another family member as well.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) This will be one of those days when you feel you have a lot to talk about with others. This will be good if you don't attempt to dominate the conversation. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2.75 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 1758, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10156.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If you have an argument with a family member today, don't discuss it with others. This domestic crisis will be resolved eventually.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Someone you dislike might be getting too friendly with a buddy of yours. Explain the situation to your friend before this goes any further.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Do not put a friend in an embarrassing position today by asking in front of others to borrow something that you know he or she doesn't want to lend.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Try to do something fun today instead of attempting to do something to further your personal ambition. It will be time to take a break from the rat race.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Try not to let your ego get out of control today, especially if you have to compete against acquaintances. Do not make life a win-or-lose situation.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Information you receive from insiders should be taken with a grain of salt. These people might just like to hear themselves talk.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Think before you speak today. Otherwise you might make comments that a sensitive friend might find offensive, even though this was not your intention.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) If a friendly competitor beats you in a social sport today, it could be because he or she has been practicing or taking lessons while you were relaxing.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Family disagreements should not be aired in front of outsiders today. Arguments could make companions feel extremely uncomfortable.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Partnership arrangements might not work out as well as you anticipated today because neither you nor your partner will exercise sound judgment.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) It might be wise to shelve a complex commercial deal temporarily today. However, if you must work on this endeavor, try to be patient and careful.
