Chilly Weather Is Blamed For Area Low Voter Turnout

By DONNA ESTES Herald Staff Writer. The cold weather was taking its toll on the voter turnout in five of the Seminole cities with elections today. Longwood had people standing in line waiting to cast their ballots throughout the morning. Polls in all six cities close at 7 p.m. Longwood City Clerk Ozmie Shomate said that despite the chilling cold, the voter turnout was higher than her original 38 per cent prediction if activity at the city hall council chamber continues throughout the day. Historically in the city, she pointed out, there is a lull during the morning hours after men to go to work, but this is not being seen this year. She attributed the turnout to the hard fought mayor's race between attorney Carmine Bravo, mortgage banker Robert Harris and realtor James (Jim) Lorman. "The people are so concerned about what has been happening in the mayor's office during the past two years," she said. Also on the ballot are: Mrs. Shomate, seeking re-election unopposed to her ninth term in office; city businessman J. Russell Grant, running unopposed for the district three city council post, and a field of five candidates including Gerard T. Connell, Norma Jean Hennigan, Richard Mittleman, Peter Piansi and Robert (Bobby) Widdis vying for the district five council seat. Sanford, with two city commissioners on the ballot, had a light turnout at the city center polling place, but election officials said those showing up usual enthusiasm. City Clerk Henry Tammy's 48 per cent turnout prediction — 2,600 — appeared to be unattainable. On the ballot are A. G. DeLattibusiere, A. A. (Mac) McClanahan (incumbent), Guy Thornton and Stella Woodhouse, for commission seat number three and Delbert J. Egan, E. O. (Eddie) Keith and John G. Morris (incumbent) for commission seat number four. A disappointed Altamonte Springs City Clerk Phyllis Jordahl said a very light turnout was being seen at the city's three polling places — city hall, civic center and Montgomery Road fire hall. She noted portions of the city have been without electricity much of the morning, expressing the hope that the turnout will perk up as the day goes by. An extremely busy campaign effort for the district four council seat between Sandra Glenn and Tom Radloff continued through the weekend. The other council incumbent on the ballot — George Perkins — is running unopposed. Mrs. Jordahl had predicted a 25 per cent turnout of the 5,592 registered voters — 750 to 900 — admitting that figure appears, for all practical purposes, out of sight. In Lake Mary, where the largest turnout in the county at 82 per cent was expected, City Clerk Kay Sussman admitted voters were a little slower going to the polls. "The cold weather has a lot to do with it," she said, adding that hopefully the afternoon and early evening would see a big increase at the city fire hall voting place. The city has 920 eligible voters. On the ballot are Walter Sorenson and Lee A. Wheeler for the mayor's office, being vacated by Margie Hess, who decided to run for a council seat. Lillian Griffin is unopposed for council seat two. Martin Bacon Sr. is opposing Mrs. Hess for seat number three while Ervin (Louis) Blankenship's hold on seat number four is contested by Burt Perinich.

Consumers Warned Of Rip-Offs

The three biggest consumer rip-offs in Florida now are "auto repair, mobile home sales and service, and condominium and home construction and sales" according to Lee Rumbley, consumer services coordinator from the Department of Agriculture in Tallahassee. Ms. Rumbley, speaking at a "Personality Breakfast" at the Sanford Civic Center today, admitted that all three of these complaint areas are overstated by swindling pools sales when summer rolls around. The Department of Consumer Services processes more than $60 complaints a month from consumers throughout the state, Ms. Rumbley said. As one of 11 agencies of the state Department of Agriculture, Consumer Services is concerned with the regulation and control of most products sold in the state. "We've come a long way since 'caveat emptor' (let the buyer beware)" in protecting the consumer from improper business practices," Ms. Rumbley said. If products are found to be faulty, the department has the choices of "confiscating the product, confiscating and levying fines, ordering the business closed or obtaining a stop sale order," Ms. Rumbley said. Essentially, though, the role of the department is to "investigate and to arbitrate" complaints between consumers and businesses. One sales technique that has resulted in numerous complaints which prompted a department investigation is the advertising and selling of an "electricity saver." The product is a small black box that plugs into the wall outlet and reportedly "smooths out the peaks" of electrical operation. But, nothing on electricity." Another source of complaints is a vending machine sales operation that preys on retirees with a "nest egg." The retirees are approached with the pitch that after an initial investment, they need only to "collect their" money from the machines. Placement and servicing of the machines according to the seller, will be handled by them. Several hundred thousand dollars have been lost to this particular "come-on," she says. Most unethical businesses entice the consumer into giving up their money by promising something for nothing, Ms. Rumbley declared. "If a deal seems too good to be true, she said, it usually is." With the enactment of the new state "Little FTC Act" last year, consumers in Florida have become the most legally protected buyers in the nation. But that protection is based on the consumer being aware of the laws and being willing to report a complaint. Complaints or questions about unethical business practices or false advertising can be sent to the Department of Consumer Services in Tallahassee. Or slighted consumers can call toll free on the state Watts line by dialing 1-800-342-2176. Ms. Rumbley also stressed the role of the "crooked" consumer in affecting honest businesses. "Five billion dollars were lost last year to shoplifting," she said, "and at least one business has determined that shoplifting has raised their prices by 15 per cent." "It's a social as well as legal problem, and it's something that's always passed along to the consumer in the long run."

County To Ponder Safety Measures For Pupils

In anticipation of requests for bike paths, crossing guards, and flashing safety signals for children who have their "courtesy buses" revoked by the school board, the county commission today scheduled a workshop session with the board to determine their plans. The state Department of Education has left the question of courtesy buses — providing bus transportation to children who live less than two miles from their school — up to the individual county boards. The Seminole County School Board, according to its Transportation Route Manager Roy Wright, is "Evaluating the need for buses to certain schools and eliminating courtesy buses from those schools that don't need it." In the past, Wright said both the board and the schools have determined if children will receive the buses. Only those buses decisions made by the board will be kept intact, Wright said. In addition, the board will determine whether "there is a heavy traffic pattern which the children have to cross in order to get to the school," in considering the maintenance of the buses. Heavy traffic patterns have been recognized along state roads 435-434, and I-92, Wright said. The board is re-evaluating the safety of the path, which runs along Howell Branch Road. Their complaints have prompted the board to consider running another path through a nearby pasture area to keep the children off the road. Wright said the board will review those schools that have overloaded buses for areas beyond two miles, and rearrange their transportation courtesy buses to those schools. No state funding is available for courtesy buses or alternate safety measures. Commission chairman John Kimbrough, who requested the board's session, said he expects the board "to be approached for crosswalks guards, and safety lights" for the area.

Senate Panel Thwarts HEW Probes

WASHINGTON — An investigation by the Health, Education and Welfare Department of more than $30 million in frauds and other riffs has been thwarted by the pinch-penny Senate Appropriations Committee.

Economics-- In One Lesson

The average American, listening to the babel of voices trying to "explain" economics to him, may be forgiven a certain feeling of desperation. Following, therefore, is a no-nonsense description, in layman's terms, of what everybody needs to know about economics. There is more to the subject if it interests you, but a firm grip on these few basics will take you far.

A confidential report provided to the Senate Appropriations Committee by HEW complains that "adequate investigative capability has been thwarted by the pinch-penny Senate Appropriations Committee."

At present, 81 major criminal cases involving at least $17.5 million are backlogged in the files of HEW attorneys while the ingenious fast-track artists who perpetrated the frauds are living like kings on the taxpayers' money.

Another 100 cases have not even been opened although NEW has respectable leads they could follow if they had the manpower. The theft from the taxpayers in these cases cannot accurately be estimated, but it may total another $10 million to $30 million.

The locales of the frauds and thefts range from small towns in Texas to the biggest metropolises. The pitifully small HEW investigations staff has found hints of $3 million in Medicaid cheating by as many as 100 New York doctors.

In Los Angeles, Cleveland and Boston, leaders reach close to $5 million. In Chicago, across-the-board frauds are believed to exist in health aid programs and embezzlement has been discovered in HEW grants.

In Atlanta, frauds and embezzlements in grants, student loan frauds, cheating on health and rehabilitation programs and other crimes by supposedly respectable businessmen, social workers and health program directors may total $5 million.

fraud artists. Most of the unit's cases are investigated in cooperation with the FBI.

Footnote: Harley Hix, staff chief for the Senate Appropriations Subcommittee on HEW, stoutly defended his recommendation to deny HEW more investigators. His cuts have nothing to do, he insisted, with the fact that his wife, Ruth, works for one of the HEW offices now under investigation by the HEW sleuths.

The lack of OIS (HEW's Office of Investigations and Security) investigative personnel," the document reads, "precludes development of a complete study and adequate administrative inquiry to locate all matters of fraud."

Yet, the Senate committee knocked off 12 slots for HEW's investigations unit and specified that "no funds shall be used to expand the HEW 'internal security' unit."

Actually, the Senate report is a cheap shot in more ways than one. The "internal security" unit also has been called a "plumbers unit" by suspicious Senate staffers. In fact, it is neither. Our investigation shows it is staffed by veteran government investigators, some of whom were hired during the Truman era.

Short-handed as it is, the HEW investigations unit has obtained three indictments and has recovered $1.3 million in federal funds from WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford will soon be able to tap his pipe in style. The Naval Research Lab is filling a presidential order for 80 ash trays for Air Force One and its back-up plane. Each cast-aluminum ash tray is about eight inches in diameter and costs the U.S. taxpayer $50.

MASKED IDENTITY: A mysterious federal intelligence unit is buying thousands of dollars worth of masks and face molds from a California make-up firm.

The purchases so far include $1,500 worth of "custom sculptured" nose molds, $4,000 in "latex appliances" for four facial types and $4,200 in artificial face molds. The details masks include scars, bald heads and other lifelike details.

When the order was first placed, the firm was told the odd Halloween assortment was for the FBI. But a spokesman there earnestly insisted the bureau knew nothing about the purchases. At the postal boxes in Washington, D.C., to which masks and bills were delivered, a clerk let slip that "those are all CIA boxes."

The payments were made to the firm,

WORLD IN BRIEF

Guerrilla Chieftain Slain By Mexican Army Troops

MEXICO CITY (AP) — A five-month hunt by 20,000 troops ended with the death of legendary guerrilla chieftain Lucio Cabanas in a battle in the mountains of southern Mexico.

The army said 10 other guerrillas died with Cabanas on Monday, another 17 were killed in a shootout Saturday, and two soldiers were killed and five were wounded.

Cabanas, about 36, had become Latin America's best known guerrilla since the death of Che Guevara. Thin, swarthy, with dark hair and dark eyes, he was teaching sixth grade in a village north of Acapulco in 1967 when he fled to the hills after a minor school controversy ended in bloodshed.

He became a follower of another teacher-turned-rebel, Genaro Vazquez Rojas, and took over the band when Vazquez died in an automobile accident in 1972. He published a manifesto saying he sought a "socialist government" for Mexico and claimed his guerrilla war in the Sierra Madre del Sur was a continuation of the 1910 peasant uprising led by Emiliano Zapata, who was betrayed and killed by the army.

Executions Expected

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) — More executions of Ethiopia's former feudal leaders are expected in reprisal for terrorist bomb attacks in Addis Ababa.

The ruling military council blamed supporters of deposed Emperor Haile Selassie for explosions at noon Monday in the city hall and in a downtown hotel. The official casualty count was 13 injured, but witnesses said at least six persons were killed and dozens were injured.

DR. L. E. LAMB
Reader Asks For Pointers
DEAR DR. LAMB - We are hearing so much about syphilis today, I wish you would give me a few pointers. Is old age syphilis and the syphilis young people have the same disease?
I have heard something about a rash, is that so?
DEAR READER - Syphilis is a contagious disease, and the same germ causes it in all age groups. Even if you are 100 and are exposed to the germ, you do not have immunity you may develop the disease.
People often think of syphilis as a disease of young people, but it is important in today's free, uninhabited society to remember that age is no protection. Older people are far more active sexually than used to be appreciated. With the lessening of prejudices against older people, there have been some further changes in sexual behavior which increase the chances of venereal disease in this age group.
The chance is the same in all ages. It is a small sore and commonly appears on the sexual organs, not the buttocks. It occurs only once in the first few weeks of the illness and does not occur again. It is painless and does not itch. If you have a rash and it itches, it is not syphilis. The rash that occurs later in untreated syphilis doesn't itch.
Some people who have had untreated syphilis develop an immunity and in effect, the disease is cured by the body's own defense mechanism. These

Caribbean Cruises Offers Winter Bargain Tours

ONE OF THE MANY EXCITING SIGHTS YOU'LL SEE ON YOUR CENTRAL AMERICA TRIP

Now that the cooler weather has invaded Central Florida, why not go south to warmer climes for instance to Central America? Now is the best time to visit the beautiful, exotic countries of Central America; see them cheaply before they become popular, according to Judy Schlenk of Caribbean Cruises Travel Agency, located in the Winter Park Mall. Judy is enthusiastic about an eight-day, seven-night tour to Guatemala, utilizing jet flights to and from varied means of transportation within the exotic country. Antigua, Guatemala (where the market is fantastic), Lake Atitlan, Guatemala City, Tikal, Peten, and the City of Flores (called "the city in the lake") are all on an itinerary that gives you ample time to enjoy all the sights, sounds and scents of this beautiful country. Panama as well as Guatemala may be visited on a Pan Am tour that gives you 8 days in these colorful countries. Panama City, the Canal Zone, Taboga Island, San Blas Island, as well as a complete tour of Guatemala are offered in this package. Jungles, mountains, Mayan temples and ruins, volcanoes, pyramids and modern cities blending the new and the old make up the exciting, ever-changing panorama offered to you at a bargain price. Guatemala and Costa Rica are covered in another 8-day tour and enticed by Judy, two weeks in Guatemala, Costa Rica and Panama is another low-cost package tour available. Nearly any combination of Central American countries you may desire are yours at bargain rates from Caribbean Cruises Travel Agency. All of these tours are escorted, all-inclusive and planned to give you the most enjoyment for your money. "No longer is summer the only time to travel abroad to Europe," says Judy. "Europe from November through April, is the latest rage — airfares are the year's lowest, hotels are less crowded, seats to the best shows are easier to get, and shops are full of the latest fashions." "The climate in Northern Europe is mild compared to Chicago. Further south, it's hot and sunny in Morocco, mild and pleasant in Spain, Portugal and Italy. And prices, while admittedly higher than a few years ago, are still considerably less than most vacation places," Judy continues. A compact 8-day vacation in Europe makes off-season travel so appealing that you'll want to squeeze one of these one-weekers into your schedule, even if you've been thinking you're too busy to break away, or even if you've already had your vacation. Judy also recommends special group tours of the Holy Land, which started in October and will continue into next year, enabling you to witness the celebration of the Holy Year in the spots where it all happened. For those people who like a more leisurely form of travel, an ocean cruise is a most pleasant and relaxing way to make your journey as enjoyable as possible. Whether you plan to take advantage of the travel bargains to Central America, a leisurely ocean voyage to any Caribbean ports, a fast air tour of Europe, or even an around-the-world extravaganza, Caribbean Cruises stands ready to help you with your plans. Drop in and see Judy and John soon. — ADV.

He can do most of over 30 years experience in auto and aircraft maintenance work, which makes him superbly qualified to work on your car. Besides his experience, he has studied automotive theory and has attended a factory school and taken refresher courses. Bob is a retired government worker who had the idea to start this unique type of business years ago before anyone else thought of it. Bob lives in Longwood with his wife, Dorothy, and their three children. Dorothy will answer your call for an appointment. Kar-Tune's motto is "we bring the garage to you," and will "go anywhere" in Seminole County. Bob does work on high performance as well as regular cars. The work done by Kar-Tune is guaranteed and they make follow-up calls to make sure that you are satisfied with the work. The appointments are made for your convenience and Bob likes to take time to explain to you what he is doing and why. No work will be done without you knowing about it and what it will cost. There's none of the uncertainty you have with places where you take your car in, never knowing whether they put in new parts or merely clean up your old ones, and then get hit with a big bill that flattens your pocketbook. So give your car that tune-up it needs to give you better performance and better gas mileage. Give Kar-Tune a call and let them bring the garage to you." — ADV.

At Lakeview Nursing Center Christmas Bazaar Is On

A SAMPLE OF THE DELIGHTFUL ASSORTMENT OF CHRISTMAS GIFTS Available now at the Lakeview Bazaar

The annual Christmas Bazaar now in progress at the Lakeview Nursing Center, 919 E. 2nd St., Sanford, gives you a unique opportunity to purchase many unusual Christmas decorations and gift items at prices that will pleasantly surprise you when you see them. The articles offered for sale have been made by the residents of the nursing center, utilizing the equipment and supplies of their large crafts room, and are the results of months of diligent work. There are imaginative Christmas wreaths, snow globes, Christmas tree decorations, dolls made from bottles, stuffed animals, pillows, decoupage items, quilts and rugs; all waiting for your selection. While there you will have the opportunity to look at a nursing facility that the administrative directors of the Center, Mrs. Virginia Michalowski and Miss Susan Contreras, feel is the best in Central Florida. There are about 45 experienced employees using the most modern facilities, to ensure the smooth, efficient operation of the 105 bed nursing center. If your idea of a nursing home is that of a place where patients just sit around listening to their arteries harden, then you will be pleasantly surprised by what you see. Lakeview is proud of its fully equipped therapy room where Mrs. June Miller, activities director, is a vivacious, outgoing person whose job it is to see that patients do not feel that they "have nothing to do." Activities at the Center are planned to be fun-filled and creative; to brighten the resident's lives. Movies, both in the Center and outside, are available, as are Bingo games and pizza parties. A monthly birthday party, complete with ice cream and cupcakes for all residents, honors those whose birthdays fall in the current month. Church services, both Protestant and Catholic, are held weekly. Large, well-kept grounds surround the Lakeview Nursing Center, which is aptly named since it commands a spacious view of beautiful Lake Wiedner. Drop by the Lakeview Nursing Center this week and take advantage of the Christmas bargains at their bazaar, and while you're there, take a good look at the facility where the best in nursing care is available. — ADV.

Regulation Chairman Wants Limit On Liquor Discounts

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Chairman Richard Pallot of the Board of Business Regulation wants to limit the discounts that liquor distributors can offer to stores. Pallot says the state's "retail liquor" law governing discounts in the liquor business conflicts with a federal law. Meanwhile, Charles Jackson, state business regulation director, said today's board meeting probably would result in a month-long postponement in naming a new state beverage director. Also on the agenda were regulations of the Business Regulation Department's rules and regulations in keeping with a law revising state agency rule-making powers. Pallot contended that state discount law should conform to federal rules in providing for discounts on volume liquor purchases only in the amount of actual savings to the distributors. In other words, if a dealer saves $50 by selling so many cases of whiskey to a liquor chain, then the discount cannot exceed $50. Officials say the present law allows the dealer to sell the whiskey at any discount price he chooses so long as he offers the same discount to all customers. The change proposed by Pallot would prevent distributors from taking a loss on some items, with the expectation of making up the difference on other sales. That presumably would reduce the possibility of substitute prices at liquor stores. Four patrons are under consideration for appointment as state beverage director: J.P. Mangan, former St. Petersburg police safety director; Brenton O'Brien, an official of the Alcohol Tobacco and Firearms Bureau of the U.S. Treasury Department in California; and two state employees whom Jackson would not identify.

JOHN SCHLENK What do you want on a vacation? Probably a certain amount of relaxation, a time to be quiet, some good food, perhaps a few nice places to shop, and perhaps something — a new idea, a bit of knowledge you did not have before — that will last you longer than anything else. A tour of the Caribbean can give you all the comforts you expect on a vacation, as well as a cultural view impossible to see anywhere else, a vision of a lost civilization, the Maya, to be seen in some of the most breathtaking ruins in the world. ## McClanahan, Morris Are Re-elected Incumbent Sanford city commissioners A.A. McClanahan and John G. Morris won new four-year terms Tuesday as 26 per cent of the city's 7,011 voters cast ballots over the city in an afternoon session today at city hall.

Both commissioners had prepared for runoff campaigns, but they were re-elected in each case with more votes than the total garnered by their opponents.

In the race for commission seat three, McClanahan had 900 votes, while contractor Alfred DeLattibeaudiere got 361. Part-time reporter Mrs. Stella Woodhouse had 292 and auto dealer Guy Thornton took 250 votes.

Morris regained commission seat four with 652 votes. Clothing salesman E.O. "Eddie" Keith was second with 599 and retiree Delbert Euga garnered 199 votes.

The returns are unofficial until city commissioners canvass the returns and count 20 absentee ballots in an afternoon session today at city hall.

McClanahan and Morris will be sworn in for their new terms Jan. 7.

McClanahan, who came within 10 votes predicting his vote gathering strength, said, "I'll continue to represent all the people to the best of my ability and spend the time necessary to do the job."

"I'm really happy I'm not in a runoff," the retired Navy officer said. "I was all geared up for a runoff campaign, however."

Morris, too, was ready for a runoff, and noted 19 of his four-eight-foot political signs—plywood, posts and all—disappeared Tuesday from locations over the city. He estimated their cost at $400.

DeLattibeaudiere, sporting an imitation straw campaign hat with the words "Win, Win," congratulated McClanahan on a good race but told bystanders, "They haven't heard the last of me yet."

Thornton said he's not bitter about being defeated in his first bid for office. "But I am disappointed at the low voter turnout. I will work with the city commission in any way I can," he said.

Thornton said he has no plans to run for a commission post in 1976 but said such a decision, "depends on what happens later on."

Keith said he plans to seek a commission seat in the next city election. He called his initial effort encouraging and noted, "I had a lot of wonderful people who voted for me."

Mrs. Woodhouse said she was the victim of "dirty" campaign practices, but declined to explain, saying "maybe it will come out later."

"I ran what I thought was a dignified campaign, with a few dollars. Never once did I stoop to the dirty practices I was subjected to. I wish to thank those friends who voted for me."

As an interested citizen, I will continue to expound on the problems facing Sanford, though I doubt I'll run again," she said, in a prepared statement.

Sanford's next election will be in December 1976 when seats held by Mayor Lee Moore and commissioners Gordon Meyer and Julian Stenstrom will be up for election.

2 Newcomers Post Triumphs

CASSELBERRY—Casselberry residents Tuesday elected Sal Orlando, Charles Sizer and Charles Glascock to council, and approved use of fluoride in their drinking water.

Sal Orlando, senior engineering technician and member of the city's planning board led the four-man race for three council seats with 703 votes. He admitted he was "very surprised" at the outcome. As soon as he takes office at the first council meeting in January, Orlando says he will try to make "city hall more accessible to the citizens" by having administrative offices stay open a few hours later one day out of the week. To compensate, they could close earlier another day, Orlando said.

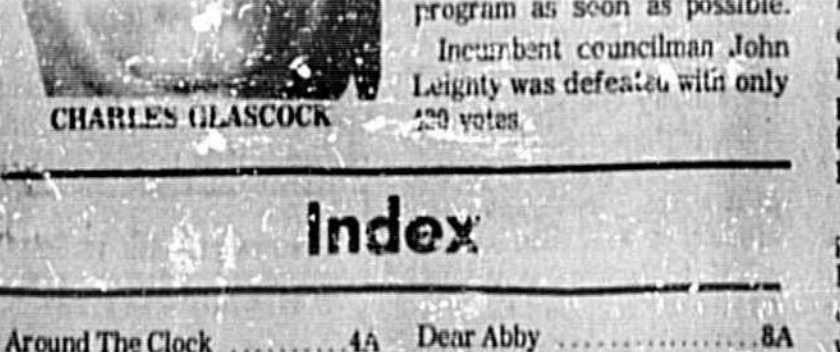

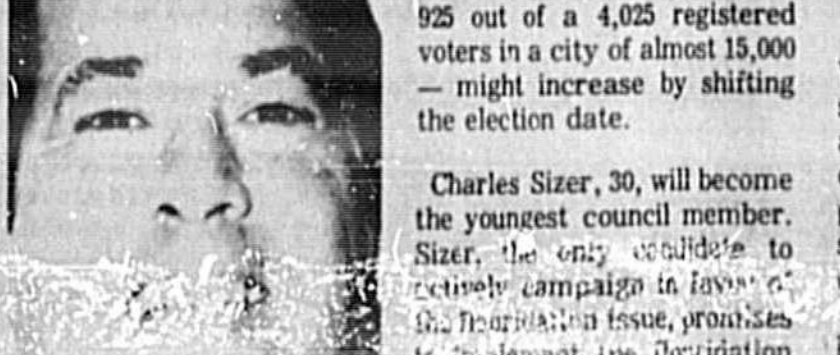

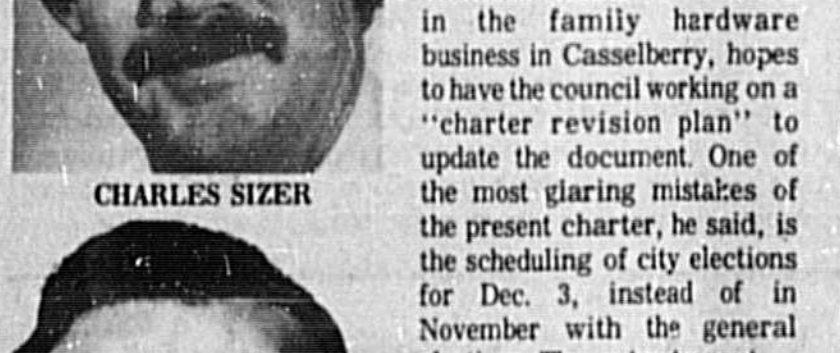

Orlando says that most working people don't have a chance to get to City Hall during normal 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. five-day-a-week operating hours.

Incumbent Charles Glascock, second in the field with 631 votes, felt that "the people of Casselberry took a good look at the candidates" and voted accordingly. Glascock, who had not spent a cent on his campaign until last Saturday, had been the only candidate in the county to do so. On Saturday, Glascock said, "I took some old wood and made 18 signs. It cost me $20."

Glascock, a retired army lieutenant colonel who is active in the family hardware business in Casselberry, hopes to have the council working on a "charter revision plan" to update the document. One of the most glaring mistakes of the present charter, he said, is the scheduling of city elections for Dec. 3, instead of in November with the general elections. The voter turnout—925 out of a 4,025 registered voters in a city of almost 15,000—might increase by shifting the election date.

Charles Sizer, 30, will become the youngest council member. Sizer, the only candidate to actively campaign in town, is a student in front, proposing to implement the Bicentennial program as soon as possible.

Incumbent councilman John Leighty was defeated with only 269 votes.

ALTIMONTE SPRINGS—Voters Tuesday elected a second woman to city council and gave an overwhelming vote of confidence to the man appointed to the governing body six months ago to fill an "emergency" seat.

Erica Glenn, also tagged herself a "mother and homemaker," during her campaign for the council seat held by Dan DeFerman, polled 65 per cent of the vote to defeat former councilman Tom Radloff.

Two-thirds of the voters pulled the lever for George Keyser, even though he was unopposed for the office to which he was appointed last June. He filled the unexpired term of Don Myers, who resigned.

The new councilmen will take office Jan. 7, 1975.

Only 23.2 per cent (835) of the eligible 3,592 voters cast ballots at the city's three polling places.

Lormann Wins Mayor's Seat

By DONNA ESTES Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD—The Lormann name was made again in this city Tuesday as voters elected the third member of that family to city government.

Setting a record, at least for the Central Florida area, James (Jim) Lormann, son of the late Mayor A. R. Lormann and incumbent Councilmember June Lormann, was elected mayor of his community of 8,300 persons.

Believed to be the youngest mayor in the area at 23, Lormann made plans at a victory party last night to ride with his mother and wife, Marcia, in the Sanford Christmas Parade, Thursday. He will attach to his car the same flag—a blue field with one star bearing the word "mayor"—that his father had used year after year in the parade.

Gerard T. (Jerry) Connell, a relatively new resident—he has lived in the city only 18 months—and director of research and development at Martin Marietta, was elected to the district five city council over four opponents.

J. Russell Grant, a long-time resident and city business man, was given more than 550 votes, although running unopposed.

And popular City Clerk Onnie R. Shomate was given more than 600 votes of confidence, although running unopposed for her ninth consecutive two-year term in office.

Lormann said he planned to follow in his father's footsteps with first person service to the people of the community. "No problem of any citizen will be too small to get my attention," Lormann said, thanking the people of the city "for the opportunity to serve."

Mrs. Glenn and Perkins Capture Altamonte Springs Council Seats

preserving the city's natural environment, beefing up the police and fire departments and encouraging more citizen input into city government.

Mrs. Glenn's new colleagues, Mayor Norman Floyd, Perkins and Councilman Cal DeVries, plan to celebrate and give congratulations. Councilman Helen Keyser, who had supported former councilman Radloff, was the only elected official that was not present at the party.

Mrs. Glenn said today she feels no bitterness toward Mrs. Keyser for opposing her election, noting she and Mrs. Keyser are members of the same church. "Helen and I have been friends a long time, and we have worked together on many projects," she said. "I'm sure we can continue to work together."

The election results were canvassed immediately after the polls closed.

Mrs. Glenn said after her victory that the "fantastic people" who worked in her campaign were the major reason for her success. "It was a good election and my opponent worked very hard, too," she said, adding that the job has "just begun."

Hess Upset In Lake Mary

By JOHN SPOLSKI Associate Editor

LAKE MARY—A "new broom" swept clean when 56 per cent of this city's 982 voters elected newcomers Walter Sorenson as its mayor, and Lillian Griffin, Martin Bacon Sr., and Burt Perinchieff as councilmen Tuesday.

Sorenson defeated Lee Wheeler by 68 votes, 304 to 236. Lillian Griffin was the highest vote-getter in her unopposed bid for seat no. 4 with 487 votes. Bacon tallied 308 votes to 220 votes in the race for council seat no. 3, and Perinchieff amassed the largest margin of victory over his opponent, Irvin Blankenship, 334 to 206.

There are 20 absentee ballots which will not affect the outcome of any of the races. The absentee ballots will be counted today.

A total of 543 people voted. When his son's victory was announced, Mrs. Lormann burst into tears, saying this was far better than her own election a year ago.

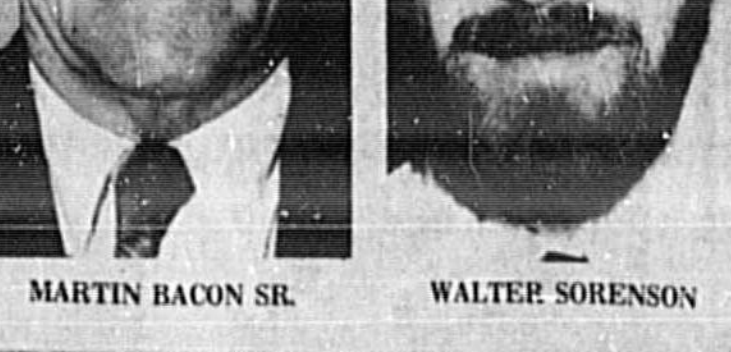

Of the 1,854 registered voters, 44 per cent—809—cast ballots. The election was canvassed today. The new officials take office Jan. 6.

"19 times greater—but that much rewarding, too." Gaining top priority according to Sorenson will be implementation of a land-use plan for Lake Mary. "We've got to have one before we can even talk about items such as parks or anything else. Insofar as annexation is concerned, I'm going to judge each application on its own merits."

The new mayor readily recognized limited resources as the biggest problem confronting this one-year-old city. "I'll say this," said Sorenson, "there won't be any increase in taxation. Before that ever happens, we'll go to the public with a referendum and let them decide if the projects they're considering are worth the extra expenditures to them via increased taxes."

Bacon exuded confidence on his victory. "I felt I was going to make it all the time. The neighbors sought my entry and I believed them when they said they'd support me in this election." He pledged his cooperation to the mayor and extended this time around were
