Collins Proposal For Teachers' $200 Raise May Get Opposition By Senators Seeking $250 Boost

American Officials Look To Early June For Big Four Meet

WASHINGTON (AP)—American officials looked to early June today as the nearest the Western Big Three could meet with Russia at Vienna to restore Austria's independence.

The meeting of foreign ministers for that purpose seemed assured yesterday after Russia suggested it and the United States responded that the idea was under "sympathetic consideration."

In London, Prime Minister Anthony Eden told the House of Commons Russia had received "one of the main obstacles" to an Austrian treaty, and the Western powers were ready to examine the Soviet proposals.

But a date and other details remain to be agreed in some preliminary in Moscow spoke of a meeting in mid-May, but Western sources there said that date would be too early. Secretary of State Dulles' own well-timed schedule for May tended to confirm that impression here.

TALLAHASSEE (AP)—Gov. Collins' proposal to raise teachers' salaries $200 a year went before the Senate today under the sponsorship of the Appropriations Committee.

But a fight was assured as Sen. Melvin of Milton and Hodges of Cedar Key said they would carry to the floor their unsuccessful committee bill for the Florida Education Assn. request for a $210 increase for teachers.

And Sen. Johnson of Quincy and Tapper of Port St. Joe said they would try on the floor to increase the current expense allotment over the governor's figure.

Johnson moved unsuccessfully in committee to get the current expense item, which pays for instructional materials, boosted from $25 to $75.

The FEH bill called for a $104 increase in the current expense item, now set at $300 per instructional unit.

The FEH bill would cost about 20 million dollars for the 1951-57 biennium. The governor's bill would cost 12 1/2 million dollars. It would cost about three million dollars to increase the current expense item by $15 instead of $25.

Melvin tried unsuccessfully after the committee had voted to substitute the Collins' bill for the FEH proposal and introduce it as a committee measure to get the FEH bill's terms restored.

200,000 Gallon Tank Filled To Capacity In 3 Hrs., 50 Mins.

The city's elevated storage tank on Mellonville Ave. was filled in three hours and 50 minutes last night, City Manager Warren Knowles reported today. The tank has a 200,000-gallon capacity.

Knowles said the pressure went up to 100 pounds at 11:15 p.m. and French Ave. When the tank had been filled, the pressure at the base of the tank was 80 pounds, he said.

"This will mean an appreciable increase in pressure in the fringe areas east of Mellonville," Knowles pointed out. He said the pressure in those sections now is approximately 45 pounds.

Knowles said the tank will not be open for operation until reports have been received on the bacteriological tests. Samples taken this morning were to go through the State Board of Health laboratory in Orlando. It will take the laboratory about four days to run the tests.

Filling of the tank started at 10 o'clock last night.

Engineer Dave Newman represented Angus & Associates.

Trust Fund To Get Salk Contributions

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Dr. Jonas E. Salk, developer of the anti-polio vaccine that bears his name, said today that contributions being sent him would be deposited in a trust fund and that none of the money would "be used by me personally."

The University of Pittsburgh scientist said he thought the funds probably would be used in the field of preventive medicine.

His statement early today came after announcement of the fund's last night on the "See It Now" television program of Edward R. Murrow.

LEE CONSTRUCTION CO. IS AWARDED CONTRACT

Lee Construction Co. of Sanford has been awarded a $166,175 contract for the construction of a sewage treatment plant for the city of Deland.

Dairymen Who Favor Commission To Get Chance To Speak Tonight

TALLAHASSEE (AP)—Dairymen who want to preserve the State Milk Commission's price fixing powers got another chance to speak their pieces before the House Public Health Committee tonight.

The committee is considering a bill to do away with the commission's authority to fix milk prices paid by the consumer and another measure which would abolish the commission entirely.

Both bills are opposed vigorously by the dairymen who came here by the score, displaying red identifying ribbons on their lapels.

They jammed into a hearing room to voice their opposition to the bills to the House Committee on Health, Education and Labor, which also is considering the measures. The Bill Commission took no action but said it will give the bills further study tomorrow in the normal course of events.

South Wants Action

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Southern governors demanded yesterday that unions and management take action by Saturday to end the 38-day-old railroad and telephone strikes now crippling commerce in 14 states.

Six governors and representatives of six others met here and a drop of resolutions "insisting upon" arbitration of the Louisville & Nashville railroad dispute, a meeting in the Southern Bell Telephone Co. dispute and an immediate end to both strikes.

Both sides in the telephone dispute promptly accepted the governors' plan for a meeting in Atlanta next Saturday with a committee consisting of Govs. Hugh White of Mississippi, Marvin Griffin of Georgia and Jim Folsom of Alabama.

Officials of the L&N and the striking non-operating unions did not comment on the governors' resolution immediately.

The governors urged the strikers to return to work "with the definite understanding" that the arbitrator's decision would be final and would be retroactive at least until the date they returned to work.

They set "a definite and final limitation, the hour of 11 a.m. EST April 23 for compliance by the parties to the dispute" and said the answers should be sent to Gov. Lawrence Wetherby of Kentucky, chairman of the Southern Governors Conference.

Humphrey Accused Of Violating Rules

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) accused Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.) today of a "distorted and unfair interpretation" in saying Secretary of State Dulles termed the Yalta "agreements" "advantageous" to this country.

Knowland also said Humphrey was guilty of "a violation of the rules and precedents of the Foreign Relations Committee when he gave a spokesman a report on Dulles' secret testimony to the committee yesterday."

Humphrey said Dulles testified "the finds as secretary of state the agreements reached at Yalta have been advantageous to U.S. foreign policy." The senator defended his action in giving this account.

Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala.) who also attended the session, agreed with Humphrey that Dulles said the Yalta agreements as they affected Europe were at the time a "victory" for the United States.

Court Of Appeals Upholds Conviction

JACKSONVILLE (AP)—The U.S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals has upheld the convictions of John L. Cogdill, Jacksonville attorney, and Hardy Joseph Owens of St. Petersburg in a $100,000 swindle.

A federal jury convicted the pair last year of using the mails to defraud in a scheme involving land deals at Miami and investments in Latin America. Owens, a confidence man, was sentenced to five years and Cogdill to two.

The principal role in the swindle was Mrs. Kathryn Louise Platter, widow of an Easton, Pa., physician, who lost $75,000.

War In Gas Prices May Receive Break

ST. PETERSBURG (AP)—There were indications today of an early break in the month-old gas price war in the Tampa Bay area.

Several St. Petersburg retailers put their prices up to 27.9 cents a gallon. At least one was back at 25.9, prevalent before the cuts began.

Most, however, clung to the 17.9 which has been general here for a week or more with one independent down to 14.9.

Tampa prices were generally 18.9.

Murray Is Elected Officer Of Group

MIAMI (AP)—James L. Burnsted of Fort Lauderdale is the new president of the Southeastern Adult Education Assn.

Burnsted is director of public adult education in Broward County.

Frank King, president of St. Petersburg Junior College, was named president of the Florida Section; Fred Murray, Sanford, first vice president; Ethel Therrell, Miami, second vice president; and C. H. Williams, Pensacola, acting treasurer.

Red China Premier Okays Compromise

Postal Workers Pay Raise Faces Second Showdown

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House, apparently in a mood to risk a presidential veto, faced today a second showdown in a month on pay raises for the government's 300,000 postal workers.

President Eisenhower has hindered broadly he will veto any increase larger than about 7 1/2 percent. But House backers of a big raise on March 21 defeated, 302-120, a bill to provide such an increase when it came to the floor under procedure barring changes.

The same bill came back today, but this time opened to an amendment permitting the house to hike the raise to 8 1/2 percent.

The Senate voted a 10 percent pay raise for the postal pay workers and for approximately a million classified civil service workers.

No new word came from the President to a Republican House strategy meeting late yesterday on what shaped up as a hot political issue of the year.

McCarthy Question Still Not Cleared, Says Sen. Watson

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Watkins (R-Utah) said today a $1,056.75 tax refund check produced by Sen. McCarthy in no way clears the Wisconsin Republican of improper conduct charges voted by the Senate.

McCarthy showed the check at two news conferences yesterday. He said it proves his financial affairs have been in apple pie order—and that the Watkins Committee and an earlier Senate group were "completely dishonest" in investigating him.

Watkins, chairman of a special committee that recommended censure of McCarthy last year, commented in a handwritten statement to a reporter:

"The Senate has condemned McCarthy for misconduct toward two of its committees and the Senate itself.

"He has not been purged of contempt.

"No apologies are in order from the Senate committees or the Senate. And as far as I am concerned none will be forthcoming."

East, West Berlin Reach Agreement

BERLIN (AP)—East and West Berlin, which almost never see eye to eye, found a common end today. Neither had any intention of celebrating Adolf Hitler's birthday.

The Fuehrer would have been 66. Ten years ago he had his last celebration—a modest one—in the shell-roofed bunker beneath the Reich chancellery garden which only 10 days later became his pyre.

Though most evidence points to Hitler's death by gunshot suicide and the burning of his body in the garden, the West Berlin courts only recently started proceedings to declare him legally dead.

War In Gas Prices May Receive Break

ST. PETERSBURG (AP)—There were indications today of an early break in the month-old gas price war in the Tampa Bay area.

Several St. Petersburg retailers put their prices up to 27.9 cents a gallon. At least one was back at 25.9, prevalent before the cuts began.

Most, however, clung to the 17.9 which has been general here for a week or more with one independent down to 14.9.

Tampa prices were generally 18.9.

Southside P-TA Meets Tomorrow

The Southside P-TA will meet tomorrow at 8 p. m. in the school auditorium. The class rooms will be open from 7:30 to 8 o'clock so that the parents will be able to meet the teachers and discuss problems and make suggestions.

The business meeting will be held at 8 o'clock and election of officers will take place.

The program will be given by Mrs. Mildred Babcock, county art supervisor and Miss Gene Murphy, music teacher. Refreshments will be served.

Commission Meet Centers On Roads

A contract for making title search of rights of way for the four-laning of U. S. Highway 17-92 was awarded to Title Guaranty and Abstract Co. at yesterday's meeting of the County Commission. The company bid $5 a parcel.

A bid of $10 a parcel was submitted by the Abstract Corp.

Commissioner Otis Fouraker voiced dissatisfaction with the Chamber of Commerce long-range highway planning committee's emphasis on 17-92.

"The Chamber of Commerce," he said, "has taken State Road 46 out of the budget and put 17-92 in its place. We've never agreed to that."

(Rights of way on SR 46 have been held by the county for two years to provide widening of Mellonville Ave. in Sanford to the St. John's River five miles east. The Commission gave it top priority among primary projects in 1953.)

Looking over a State Road Department budget report, Fouraker noted: "I'm surprised none of our secondary projects are listed."

Clerk O. P. Herndon urged that secondary money be used to "build roads all over the county."

During the meeting, the commission laid the groundwork for such a countywide road building program that will use up a $327,167.87 backlog of secondary funds.

If the policy endorsed by the commissioners yesterday goes into effect, the secondary fund will be removed as a possible source for buying rights of way for 17-92.

The commission decided there is a bottleneck in providing the state with necessary rights of way for building secondary roads. The board instructed its right of way agent, John Fox, to find himself an assistant to speed the obtaining of secondary rights of way.

Police Informed Autos Are Rifled Here Last Night

Several automobiles parked in front of the Woman's Club on Oak Ave. were rifled last night, City Police were informed.

Mrs. Roger Harris said she and a friend were coming out of the club when they saw a man standing next to Mrs. Harris' car. She described the man as a young man, about 20 years old, wearing a light-colored shirt and dark trousers. She said the man had been rifling the car since the spring had been removed from it.

Other women who reported their cars had been rifled were Mrs. Broughton Watkins, 1813 Palm St.; Mrs. F. A. Nash, 2137 Princeton Ave.; Mrs. Maxine Dyal, 505 Plumosa Drive. Mrs. Nash said the door of her car was open and papers had been scattered.

Chou supported an Afghanistan resolution on Palestine, but asked that instead of including any reference to the United Nations resolution the conference statement call for a world appeal on the Palestine question.

Seminole Cancer Unit Congratulated

The Seminole County Unit of the American Cancer Society has received a letter of congratulations from the Florida Division at Tampa. The letter, signed by L. H. Peterson, executive vice president, American Cancer Society, reads as follows:

"We do subscribe to a clipping service and I have been watching with much interest the activities in Sanford and Seminole County. It is really inspiring to find so much activity and certainly it should pay off through lives being saved. The unfortunate part is that we do not exactly know how much good we do or how many people are being helped. Nevertheless, we do know that people are being benefited and we must keep pushing along in spite of the fact that we have very little in the way of a measuring stick for our efforts.

"Certainly, with all your activities you are having, your campaign should be a tremendous success!"

Police Protecting Newspaper Editor

KITTERY, Maine (AP)—Police today were protecting a newspaper editor who said he was threatened because he was investigating the police.

Police Chief William H. Nelson assigned a guard to Horace Mitchell of the weekly Kittery Press at the request of selectmen yesterday.

The guard was assigned to Mitchell, although the police chief said he knows "Mitchell is out to get me."

Mitchell said he tried to refuse the protection of Kittery police and planned to hire a York County deputy sheriff for the job.

Doctor Links Smog, Lung Cancer

PASADENA (AP)—Smog is the greatest single cause of lung cancer, says a top research scientist in the field of air pollution and its relation to public health.

"Atmospheric pollution holds the answer to lung cancer more than any other single agent," Dr. Paul Klotz, University of Southern California pathologist, told the National Air Pollution Symposium yesterday.

His connecting smog with lung cancer climaxes more than four years of experiments with thousands of animals under a U.S. Public Health Service grant. Dr. Klotz and his research team conducted the experiments at the USC medical school and the Los Angeles County General Hospital.

The scientist said the study showed that smog "has a prolonged accumulative effect" as a tumor inducer.

"We have no concept of the dosage of smog required," he added. "But I feel that the amount encountered during an ordinary siege in many cities may be too much."

His experiments have all been with animals subjected to artificially created smog.

The pollutant which is the irritant causing the cancer, he explained, is at least one type of hydrocarbon in the oxidized state. Hydrocarbons are found in auto exhausts, industrial emissions and in gasoline vapors, he said.

"In some of the tests the yield was very high."

With the exception of cancer, Dr. Klotz said he and his research team found smog had no permanent ill effects on the health of test animals.

"This contradicts the opinion of some clinicians that smog causes the respiratory system."

Dispute Arises As Pathologists Argue Over Brain

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP)—The brain of mathematician Albert Einstein — left to research — remained the center of a jurisdictional dispute today.

Pathologists couldn't decide where or why they would start their work. To make headway, they agreed to a 10-hour session at the Princeton Hospital and Mortuary in New York City.

Princeton Hospital said the brain wouldn't be taken out of town. But Mortuary hospital spokesmen said it expected that the brain would be delivered there yesterday for study an eventual dissection.

The entire incident was a misunderstanding, said Dr. Thomas S. Harvey of Princeton Hospital staff. He insisted Einstein's brain would remain here.

Mental Health Bill For Public Schools Carries Approval

TALLAHASSEE (AP)—A bill to set up a preventive mental health program in Florida's public schools carried the endorsement today of the House Mental Health Committee.

The measure was voted out as a committee bill last night after a public hearing. There was no opposition.

Sponsors claim the program, if adopted, would be the first in the nation on a statewide basis and would serve as "a blueprint for all America to follow."

Al Block, Tallahassee, chairman of Gov. Collins' citizens committee on public health, said it would save the state money by reducing demands for custodial care.

He said an effective preventive mental health program in the public schools would enable trained teachers to detect abnormalities in youngsters at an early age and apply corrective treatment.

Light Tremors Felt After Heavy Quake

ATHENS, Greece (AP)—Slight earth tremors continued to shake the port city of Volos today after a heavy shock last night killed one person, injured 40 and damaged 80 per cent of the city's buildings.

The area's police chief reported 80 tremors in the past 24 hours. Volos, a city of 15,000, is 100 miles northwest of Athens.

Heavy rains drenched thousands of people spending the night in the streets. The U.S. destroyer Ward, which was anchored in the harbor, sent first aid teams, medicines, emergency power supply units and blankets.

The death was listed first as suicide — until a deputy coroner said the body of the victim was that of a woman.

Las Vegas Gambler Dies From Gunshot

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Arthur Schellans, part owner of the Las Vegas Club gambling casino, died yesterday of gunshot wounds. Detectives are investigating the possibility he might have been murdered.

The death was listed first as suicide — until a deputy coroner said the body of the victim was that of a woman.

Ben Joe Of Osteen Involved In Mishap

Ben Joe, 36, of Osteen, was charged with careless and negligent driving yesterday in connection with a truck accident on Sanford Ave., just north of the 12th St. intersection.

The accident occurred at Talbot's Drive-In Paint and Wallpaper Store, 115 Sanford Ave. Patrolman L. E. Brock, investigating officer, said Joe was the driver of a 1914 Dodge truck which backed into a 1919 Oldsmobile convertible coupe driven by John C. Sheppard, 22, of Lake Mary. The truck was undamaged, but the hood of the car was dented an estimated $30 damage.

Owner of the car was listed as Lt. Leslie E. Lewis, USN-Lake Mary.

The country home of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Reiger, Rt. 2, Sanford, will be the scene of the business meeting during which state officers are to be elected. Bill Kay is general chairman of the convention and in charge of the Saturday evening at the Fort Gallin Hotel will be John Gardner with Mr. and Mrs. Reiger conducting Sunday's dinner-meeting.

Shopping Centers

One of the new merchandising developments which has become popular in sizable cities is the shopping center. Like some other good ideas, this one is being overdone. In one city which already has a number of shopping centers, five more are planned within a three-mile radius of an important intersection. Obviously this is too many, and while some stores may prosper, others will lose money.

Shopping centers indiscriminately established may cause sewage, rubbish and traffic hazards. It would seem wise for would-be participants to make an impartial investigation before committing themselves. They will also run less risk of putting independent stores, not part of any group, out of business.

Economy Is Heading For New High

NEW YORK (AP)—Our economy is heading for a new high today. And this time it's because Americans are buying in record volume for their own personal use and are building for civilian peacetime uses.

The record was set in the April, May and June of 1953. But then the federal government was spending cash at around a $6-billion-a-year clip. Military spending and industrial construction aimed at building up our defense potential accounted for much of it.

Now federal cash outlay has dropped to around $4 billion a year. Much of that 14 billion dollar drop is in defense spending. Civilians have caught up now and are closing the gap.

When the government was pumping all that money into the economy in 1953, the gross national product hit its all-time peak of $174 billion dollars a year during the second quarter. The gross national product is the dollar value of the total output of the nation's goods and services.

Now the Council of Economic Advisors has just told the President that the gross national product rose to an annual rate of $89 billion the first three months of this year. This was a 12-billion-dollar jump over the annual rate of last year, and the best first quarter ever.

With this year's April, May and June quarter giving every sign of topping the mark set in the first three months, a new record may be in the making.

Most significant is the fact that the gains are being made in consumer purchasing and in construction. Every day Americans, bettering their standards of living, have made up for the drop in defense spending which had pushed the economy to its record high during and immediately after the Korean war.

The same trend is shown also in the industrial production index of the Federal Reserve Board. It reached its peak in March, 1953. Then it slumped during the business slowdown which ended six months ago. Now, without much fresh stimulus from defense orders, industrial production has climbed back almost to that peak. It could reach or top it this month.

Consumers have returned to buying durable goods — autos, appliances. They have kept their buying of soft goods — clothing, food, gasoline. They steadily increase their buying of services — transportation, recreation, medical care. In the first three months of this year they were spending at an annual rate of $42 billion dollars a year, an all-time record.

Businessmen building new factories, new office buildings, new stores, and home owners buying new houses pushed total construction spending to an annual rate of $1 billion dollars.

The conservative economists ask: How long can the present record pace of auto buying, of home buying continue?

Few, however, think a turnaround will come during the April, May and June quarter. And the economy seems all but sure of setting a new peak of peacetime production and prosperity.

Group Of Students Purposely Jaywalk

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—A group of 75 West High School students deliberately jaywalked under the eyes of Salt Lake City policemen yesterday.

They cruised the street in the middle of the block after accusing one of the cops of being "curly" when he wrote out 11 tickets for jaywalking. Police took no action.

Two of the 11 who received tickets were teachers at West.

Educating Citizens

Mayor Robert Wagner of New York has organized a committee of outstanding citizens to set up a program of public education for a clean city. For some time the city has been waging an active campaign against littering the streets and in this law enforcement agencies have played a large part.

The New York Times points out that while the use of enforcement agencies is necessary in the campaign the idea of educating the public is the need and advantage of keeping the city clean may have more lasting results.

This is generally true. Enforcement campaigns are bound to run out of steam sooner or later and those who obey anti-littering laws only because of fear of arrest or fines will go back to their bad habits. On the other hand, a man who has been convinced that his civic duty and pride are involved in keeping the streets clean will not need a policeman to make him co-operate. Mayor Wagner's plan is one that could be put to good use in other communities.

One Dispute Settled

In these days of many international emm-quarrel rising over the claims of both countries and the Germans have been at odds, the thing is healing. For nearly a century the Danes, it is good news that one of long stand-tries to the duchies of Schleswig and Holstein on the Danish-German border.

The population was largely German though the government was Danish until 1864 when Prussia and Austria combined to wrest Schleswig and Holstein away. The new owners had trouble with their Danish subjects.

The German defeat in World War I made it possible to hold an election in the provinces, which gave North Schleswig back to Denmark, but still left some minority problems. Now a settlement has been agreed upon between the two countries which is expected to remove all grievances.

Clearing up this old dispute leaves less chance for future friction.

Washington Given More Problems

WASHINGTON (AP)—It might seem Washington would have enough to talk about if it stuck to just a few things, like the Yalta papers, the chance of a Red Chinese attack, or the firing of Edward Corsi from the State Department.

But now a special advisory committee of the President has recommended the government relax its controls on the transportation industry to allow greater competition among railroads, airlines, trucks and water carriers.

What do relaxed controls and greater competition mean? If you owned a railroad you might like it. But if you owned a fleet of freight trucks, competing with a railroad, you probably wouldn't like it at all.

The White House had hardly made the recommendations public before Neil J. Curry, president of the American Trucking Assn., blasted them:

"If the President and the Congress follow the recommendations it will be the biggest step back ward in American transportation history. . . . No independent form of transportation can long survive the unbridled money power of the railroads."

The report, made by a committee of President Eisenhower's Cabinet members whom he appointed last July 12 to "review transportation policies and problems," was released last night.

It will cause talk. Nothing is likely to come of it unless Eisenhower backs it up by sending it to Congress, with recommendations of his own and a detailed explanation of the changes he wants. And then Congress may ignore it.

The report, one of the most poorly written to come out of the White House, is full of special jargon which might be understood by transportation specialists but not

Bullfighting Compared To Boxing

MADRID (AP)—Leaves from a touring notebook: Bullfighting now has become a big business. That is what is wrong with it. Nobody wants to take a real chance of getting killed, but they all want to make a killing out of it. The only honest one in the ring is the bull.

The cash customers complain they never know when they will get a good show for their dough. The aficionados yearn for the good old days here, just as the fight fans back home sigh for the time when Jack Dempsey, Benny Leonard and Mickey Walker were in their prime.

They sigh for another matador like Manolete, a legend of bravery and skill. Manolete was fatally impaled on the horn of a bull in its death lunge after he had delivered a mortal sword thrust. Because "he killed the bull and the bull killed him" he has become an immortal in Spain's bullfighting annals.

"At the time Manolete went into the ring he was worth $3,000,000," one aficionado said. "Young matadors today don't want to risk his fate. They want to get rich quick and retire or become a movie star. Bullfighting now has become a big business. That is what is wrong with it. Nobody wants to take a real chance of getting killed, but they all want to make a killing out of it. The only honest one in the ring is the bull.

Although soccer is a far more popular sport than bullfighting here, it would be a mistake to conclude that the art of bullfighting is on the way out in Spain.

The true aficionado may grouse about the decline in the quality of the matadors, but the sport still draws him.

It draws tourists, too. It is estimated that tourists make up at least half the gate at bullfights in Madrid.

Many a cynical aficionado suspects a great deal of trickery goes on in his national sport, and that a good manager has more than one way of keeping a promising young matador from being messed up by a brave but ignorant bull.

"Naturally, a bull can't be bribed," said a veteran ring observer. "But there are other ways to fix a fight. If a bull is particularly big and strong, it might be possible to arrange to have a few heavy sandbags dropped on his back the morning of a fight."

"Of course, you don't want him to take all the starch out of him. The object is just to slow him down a bit."

on horseback quads him repeatedly with a stick. The number of times he counterattacks, in spite of his wounds, is registered in a book.

If he shows excessive bravery and never enters the fight ring, he is shown cowardice, he goes to the slaughterhouse right then, and fetches a price of only about $75.

Bulls with physical defects, such as broken horns, are fought at the age of three as "novillos."

A prime fighting bull at four or five brings $750 in the Madrid ring. But in less than half an hour after he goes into that ring, magnificently and ferociously alive, the mules drag him out dead. Even if he gores the matador he gains no reprieve. Another matador merely comes in and finishes him.

In some Latin American countries the life of a brave bull is sometimes forgiven. That rarely if ever happens here. Good bulls are scarce in other lands, but there are 243 bull raising ranches in Spain.

To me the most inhuman thing about the whole spectacle isn't merely the fact the bull is slain—it is that the crowd often jeers as its carcass is dragged off, because they feel it didn't put up a good fight.

For the life of me I can't see how a human being can boot at a bewildered animal in pain, fighting blindly to the death in a game the rules of which it cannot possibly understand.

TV NOTEBOOK

By BOB BENNETT

This summer a nation will be exposed for the first time to a diabolical dilemma for which they have had little or no basic training. The nation in England and the upcoming problem is the advent of commercial television.

It seems that the citizens of the misty isles have never before had to just with airborne buxsters who come into their homes by radio and television and their reaction to this phenomenon should be interesting to watch. The reason that the English have consented to experiment with this New World idea is to provide more than the one TV channel now in operation.

Under the law authorizing commercial TV, advertising agencies whip up commercials, and firms with a product to sell make up programs. However, the two are not allowed to get together—not cricket, y'know. This would lead to some mighty interesting weddings of sales pitches and programs but, all in all, we dare say that John Bull will be treated to better TV fare than he has yet enjoyed. After all, there has to be a loaded sponsor at hand to pay the freight for a talent-loaded show. By the way, we feature a fine line of DUMONT TV sets at BOB BENNETT'S TV which are loaded with the finest electronic advances in the field of television. Being is believing, of course, so drop in at BOB BENNETT'S TV, 800 East 27th St., and see for yourself.

Man's Instinct About Clothes Usually Right

By DOROTHY ROY
Associated Press Women's Editor

A lot of American men look as if they dress in the dark.

One of the reasons, says Peter Knize of New York and Vienna—a man who makes clothes for such diverse personalities as Marlene Dietrich and the Shah of Iran—is that most of their clothes are selected by women.

That's an understandable opinion for a man who's in the business. But Knize, one of the founders of an exclusive and expensive tailoring firm, points out most men seem to know by instinct what's right in clothes.

"If you leave men alone, they will look fairly decent most of the time," says Knize. "That is, most men, I'm not speaking of the ones who wear horse-blanket sport coats and unpressed slacks to business. I'm talking of the average American businessman."

"His instincts about clothes generally are right. He may be inclined to be ultra-conservative, but that's better than going overboard the other way."

"The real trouble starts when the little woman decides he will look cute in a pink shirt and an orange tie, buys them for his birthday and weeps if he doesn't wear them."

"Knize insists to keep the feminine influence out of his male customers' wardrobes, but he admits that even in his shop most of the ties are bought by women.

"Since they insist on buying them anyway, we try to educate them a little," he says. "Actually some women are getting much better in their tastes, after these years of training. But even the ones with the best taste would be doing their husbands a favor if they let them dress themselves."

All this doesn't mean Knize discourages women customers. Far from it. He makes many suits for women, including the glamorous Marlene and the spectacular Carol Channing. It's only when they start trying to run the sartorial lives of their husbands or men friends that he objects.

During a recent New York visit by the Shah of Iran, Knize made $25,000 worth of clothes for him—and that doesn't include things bought by the queen.

"He wanted to select a few things to fill out his wardrobe," says Knize casually. "Suits, vests, topcoats and the like, you know."

One of his favorite customers is song writer Cole Porter, who has in his wardrobe more than two dozen fancy vests made of everything from flowered silk prints to rich brocades. Says Knize:

"He wears them with his evening clothes, instead of the usual white night suit. He likes them. And they suit him."

Knize believes American men are becoming more clothes-conscious, and reports he has sold more full dress suits in the last three months than in the last three years.

Oscar Levant Getting Ready For Quiz Show

HOLLYWOOD — Oscar Levant, the bad boy of music, is getting ready to go back to his first love—the quiz show.

The sad-eyed pianist is starting to revive his career after nearly three years of virtual inactivity. He recently did a film at MGM, "The Cobweb." Now he has made a sample film of a proposed quiz show for TV. It's called "Tell It to Oscar" and features him as a roving Emcee, pianist and wit. The show is being peddled to sponsors now.

"It's a good show," Levant said candidly. "Not like most of the quiz and panel programs on TV. Most of them are pretty set-up affairs."

Levant has led a stormy life the past three years, including liffs with symphony conductors and musicians' boss James Petrillo. The latter suspended him for failing to appear for Canadian concert dates, but later lifted the suspension.

"Nobody knew how sick I was," said Levant, who has never underestimated his troubles. "I had a heart attack."

"I gave up smoking two and a half years," he commented. "But I had three nervous breakdowns during that period. So I said to xxx with it." He now smokes liberally and is back on his fabulous quota of coffee.

Levant was lunching in a small Italian cafe near the heart of Hollywood. He ordered a corned beef sandwich, which he nibbled at, and a dish of lasagne. "But to look like a man, I took one bite and left the rest. 'Pretty, isn't it?' he said.

That reminded him of a story: "Gertrude Stein owned 80 picasso's, you know. When she arrived in New York one time, reporters asked her what she thought of modern art. Imagine being asked such a complex question! She merely replied: 'I like to look at it.'"

The Palm Circle of the Sanford Garden Club enjoyed an outing Friday in Eustis. Miss Reba Harris and Mrs. Olive Williams, owners of the Garden Barn, welcomed them for a picnic lunch and tour of their acres of tropical bushes, trees and plants.

In the afternoon Miss Harris gave a talk on the value of earthworm-turned mulch and natural methods of plant care. Mrs. Williams presented slides of flowering trees that offer year round color, which if planted now by Garden Clubs, would result in miles of beauty along Florida highways. In her display of shrubs, interest centered on the Hawaiian Wooden Rose (Impatiens tuberosa) with its golden blossoms which dry to a delicate wooden texture, as if hand-carved from thin Honduras mahogany.

Grotesque and humorous driftwood effects came under discussion; various selections of dried leaves and palm grasses were demonstrated in making arrangements—the focal points of interest in each being the picturesque Wooden Rose.

The May luncheon will be held at the French Restaurant in Orlando, followed by a tour of some of the local nurseries.

Local Garden Club Plans Flower Show To Bring Beauty

Spring will really be bustin' out all over at the Sanford Garden Club Show to be held on April 28 and 29 at the American Legion Fair Building. The theme of this year's show is "April Gave A Party" and special exhibits will feature April showers and the new beauty they bring to our Florida gardens.

The artistic arrangements with Mrs. C. W. Baker as consultant will use the old fashioned material as well as the very up to date young moderns all set for the April party given in honor of the popular Miss Hibicus and her friends.

Exhibits will include "Round the Maypole," "Young Moderns at the Party," "Rain, the unwelcome guest," "Summer coming in" using beach material such as driftwood and shells featuring hibiscus. "The old folks who would not stay home" with dried materials. "Senior Day Frolic" and "Sweet Sixteen's party dress" for all white flowers. Just for fun there will be "April Fool" using any material but with opposite sides different. The "Easter Parade" will show corsages and hats made or decorated with flowers and accessories.

Fruit and vegetables will be descriptive of "April in Paris" and dried material for the "End of the Party". There will be table arrangements suitable for coffee in the kitchen.

The junior division will be divided into three sections covering potted plants and specimen blooms, kitchen "critters" and button gardens made of fruit and vegetables as well as flowers.

The horticultural division of the show with Mrs. H. H. McCaslin as consultant will be given over to potted plants and specimen blooms. All horticultural specimens must have been grown by amateurs for at least three months and will be judged according to their perfection.

Barry Sullivan Getting More Than His Share

HOLLYWOOD — It's lucky that Barry Sullivan isn't allergic to work. Because he's getting more than his share these days.

Sullivan spends his days at Columbia Studios in "Queen Bee." His nights are devoted to acting in "Crime Mutiny Court Martial" at the Huntington Hartford Theater in Hollywood. When does he find time to sleep? That's a good question.

The actor, looking none the worse for his grueling schedule, describes his current life during a brief rest on the movie set.

"The day starts at 6:30 in the morning," he related. "I have to be at the studio early because they must apply a scar to my face for this role. I work all day, then at 6 o'clock grab a steak at the Brown Derby. I live in Beverly Hills, but I can't spare the half hour it takes to drive home and back to Hollywood. Especially with the traffic at that hour."

"After dinner, I walk across the street to the theater and take a 45-minute nap. Then I go on and to the play."

"The show's over at 11:15, but I can't just rush home. People come backstage to chat. I thought that would be all over after opening night. But every night is like opening night. For instance, the other night there were Fred MacMurray, Bob Stack, Lenore Coffee, the writer, and several others. I thought everyone from Hollywood had seen the show in New York."

"What with changing from his costume and greeting the well-wishers, Barry is lucky to get home by midnight. Then he must arise at 6:30 again."

"I've been thinking of taking a hotel room in Hollywood," he said. "That would save me a half hour of traveling time. But I gave the idea up."

His contract with Columbia is unusual. It provides that he must be free from film duties on Wednesday and Saturday, when he plays matinees at the Hartford.

Miss Betty Moore, popular bride-elect, was honored with a breakfast Tuesday morning at 9:30 a. m. by Mrs. George Stine in her home.

A Hogarth Curve composed of magnolia blossoms and gardenias was placed in a wedding bowl in the living room and other flowers were used to bring out the spring freshness.

On the bride's table a centerpiece was made up of a bride doll surrounded with white orchids and love birds and suspended over the table were two white silver wedding bells with clusters of lilies of the valley. At each place were miniature bridesmaid dolls of pastel cake tins.

Upon arriving the honoree was presented with a corsage of a white orchid and a place setting of her crystal by Mrs. Stine.

Palm Circle Visits Eustis Garden Barn On Friday Outing

The Palm Circle of the Sanford Garden Club enjoyed an outing Friday in Eustis. Miss Reba Harris and Mrs. Olive Williams, owners of the Garden Barn, welcomed them for a picnic lunch and tour of their acres of tropical bushes, trees and plants.

In the afternoon Miss Harris gave a talk on the value of earthworm-turned mulch and natural methods of plant care. Mrs. Williams presented slides of flowering trees that offer year round color, which if planted now by Garden Clubs, would result in miles of beauty along Florida highways. In her display of shrubs, interest centered on the Hawaiian Wooden Rose (Impatiens tuberosa) with its golden blossoms which dry to a delicate wooden texture, as if hand-carved from thin Honduras mahogany.

Grotesque and humorous driftwood effects came under discussion; various selections of dried leaves and palm grasses were demonstrated in making arrangements—the focal points of interest in each being the picturesque Wooden Rose.

The May luncheon will be held at the French Restaurant in Orlando, followed by a tour of some of the local nurseries.

If you want a fine-flavored pot of tea, use water that is boiling furiously. Water that's "very hot" won't do!

On the wretched-iron "what-not" in one corner of the room was an arrangement of bride's hibiscus while the tables on the porch were centered with arrangements of gardenias. A Hogarth Curve composed of magnolia blossoms and gardenias was placed in a wedding bowl in the living room and other flowers were used to bring out the spring freshness.

On the bride's table a centerpiece was made up of a bride doll surrounded with white orchids and love birds and suspended over the table were two white silver wedding bells with clusters of lilies of the valley. At each place were miniature bridesmaid dolls of pastel cake tins.

Upon arriving the honoree was presented with a corsage of a white orchid and a place setting of her crystal by Mrs. Stine.

Local Garden Club Plans Flower Show To Bring Beauty

Spring will really be bustin' out all over at the Sanford Garden Club Show to be held on April 28 and 29 at the American Legion Fair Building. The theme of this year's show is "April Gave A Party" and special exhibits will feature April showers and the new beauty they bring to our Florida gardens.

The artistic arrangements with Mrs. C. W. Baker as consultant will use the old fashioned material as well as the very up to date young moderns all set for the April party given in honor of the popular Miss Hibicus and her friends.

Exhibits will include "Round the Maypole," "Young Moderns at the Party," "Rain, the unwelcome guest," "Summer coming in" using beach material such as driftwood and shells featuring hibiscus. "The old folks who would not stay home" with dried materials. "Senior Day Frolic" and "Sweet Sixteen's party dress" for all white flowers. Just for fun there will be "April Fool" using any material but with opposite sides different. The "Easter Parade" will show corsages and hats made or decorated with flowers and accessories.

Fruit and vegetables will be descriptive of "April in Paris" and dried material for the "End of the Party". There will be table arrangements suitable for coffee in the kitchen.

The junior division will be divided into three sections covering potted plants and specimen blooms, kitchen "critters" and button gardens made of fruit and vegetables as well as flowers.

The horticultural division of the show with Mrs. H. H. McCaslin as consultant will be given over to potted plants and specimen blooms. All horticultural specimens must have been grown by amateurs for at least three months and will be judged according to their perfection.

Barry Sullivan Getting More Than His Share

HOLLYWOOD — It's lucky that Barry Sullivan isn't allergic to work. Because he's getting more than his share these days.

Sullivan spends his days at Columbia Studios in "Queen Bee." His nights are devoted to acting in "Crime Mutiny Court Martial" at the Huntington Hartford Theater in Hollywood. When does he find time to sleep? That's a good question.

The actor, looking none the worse for his grueling schedule, describes his current life during a brief rest on the movie set.

"The day starts at 6:30 in the morning," he related. "I have to be at the studio early because they must apply a scar to my face for this role. I work all day, then at 6 o'clock grab a steak at the Brown Derby. I live in Beverly Hills, but I can't spare the half hour it takes to drive home and back to Hollywood. Especially with the traffic at that hour."

"After dinner, I walk across the street to the theater and take a 45-minute nap. Then I go on and to the play."

"The show's over at 11:15, but I can't just rush home. People come backstage to chat. I thought that would be all over after opening night. But every night is like opening night. ## CHAPTER EIGHT

ANDRUS woke up in his room in the Yonkers hotel at precisely 4, a clock somewhere in the vicinity struck sonorously. He was stiff and sore and every bone in his body ached, but his head was slightly better. He put his feet on the floor, started to get up, and sat down abruptly on the edge of the bed. Recollection, unaccountably, was there in his mind, full and complete, without his having made the slightest effort. The thing he had tried to remember the night before, or rather about it, morning, had sprung full-fledged into his brain.

When he fell over the cliff and landed a few feet away from Midway, his body there had been no whisky bottle and no smell of whisky. After a piece of the cliff fell on him while he was bending over the dead man and he had come to, the smell of whisky was strong about the broken bottle littered the ground. The bottle, poised somewhere up there on the cliff, must have come down with the side of rock.

He got up and began to dress. His face hadn't improved any. His left eye was a mere slit, his lips were puffy and out of shape, and various bruises were turning a nice shrunken yellow. The first thing to do was to get out, get some coffee, get something to eat, and try to find out whether there was any news about Brodsky, whether his body had been discovered. After that, go down to New York and get a change of clothes and have the woman in his head looked at. It didn't feel good. He overshot was hung over the back of a chair. He put his hand into the right-hand pocket in search of cigarettes, and found a small, round, flat thing. He let the coat fall and stared at a large spot on the worn rug.

The silver flask was gone. It must have dropped out of his pocket when he took that fall over the cliff. His initials were on it. It would almost certainly be found near Brodsky's body. . . . and the police know about the flask; he had called them about it. . . . and Susan Dwight knew, and that Casey woman. . . .

The news about the warrant for Andrus' arrest reached the Palmham house on West 125th Street at 10 o'clock that afternoon. Harry Letting was the one who brought it. Harry was taking Susan out to dinner and he was late. Just before he arrived Susan was waiting for him impatiently, standing at the big curved window at the end of the living room. Behind her, Regina, Frederick and Edith were discussing the hospital drive.

And then Barry walked in, letting the hall door slam behind him. He pulled up just over the threshold, his hands in the pockets of his overcoat, his shoulders hunched, and told them the police were looking for Andrus, who seemed to have disappeared. "They think he killed that fellow Brodsky over there in the woods last night."

Complete silence. Regina broke it. She was stunned. "No," she cried, and stumbled up off the couch and out of the room and up the stairs.

Susan followed her. But her door was locked and she wouldn't open it. "I'm all right, I just want to be alone." And when Susan said, "Regina, let me in, please let me in," Regina said sharply, "Oh, go away."

Susan went slowly along the hall to the dining room. Regina was still in love with Andrus. Roger's death had made it impossible for her to marry him, but she still loved him. . . . Downstairs, Barry was miserable and contrite. "I'm sorry, Susan, I'm a wretched fellow, I shouldn't have blurted it out like that, but I never thought—I mean, I didn't know Regina was still fond of Andrus."

Frederick's big face was congested with blood. "Don't be a fool, Lofting. Of course Regina isn't fond of the fellow, it was the shock."

Presently Frederick and Edith went. David Redgate came hurriedly in as they left.

He knew about Andrus. "I don't know what the police have got on him but they seem pretty certain." He drew Susan into the dining room with him and shut the door. "I was sure that there'd be trouble when Andrus came back here. Now, what I came for was to warn you."

"To warn me?"

"Yes. You're in this deep enough now, don't get in any deeper."

"What do you mean?" Susan said sharply.

He told her about Farr. "Farr's the medical examiner, you know, and he was just with me. Farr remembered your questions about Brodsky yesterday afternoon and one of the policemen on the scene, a Sergeant Dupasse, noticed Farr's interest and got it out of him later. Dupasse was in charge of the investigation into Roger's death. He knows Andrus' connection with this house, and that he was out of jail and had come up here, and put two and two together."

Susan said slowly, thinking of Andrus and everything she knew about him, thinking of him on the train and again at the station, his eyes, his mouth. "I don't believe Andrus killed Michael Brodsky."

She hadn't meant to say it, but she actually formed the words until they were out. Once they were out she found that the conviction back of them was absolute.

David brushed her statement aside. "Just tell Dupasse what you know, and let Dupasse get on with think. Tell him you met Andrus at the station and he asked about Brodsky and that was all."

A quarter of an hour later Sergeant Dupasse arrived.

"I won't keep you long, Miss Dwight."

Dupasse was a shortish, thick-set man with a dark, oily skin, a big nose and solemn black eyes. His manner was considerate. Susan disliked him at once.

"Will you tell me why you suspect Mr. Andrus of killing that man, sergeant?" They were in the little book room behind the dining room.

Dupasse remained standing. He looked at her thoughtfully. "Pretty girl. Well, maybe not pretty as you look at it, but she had style. She was snubbed, definite, there were no fuzzy sides."

He outlined the situation briefly, said Susan about which they search for Brodsky, his visit to Brodsky's cabin, his fingerprints all over the place, about the meeting of the two men up there in that lonely spot in the back. Andrus' silver flask had taken among the rocks at the foot of the cliff. The set-up had revealed that Brodsky had been beaten over the head with a heavy piece of wood with bark on it. Such a piece of wood had been found close to the scene of the crime, a twelve-inch length of cordwood, tough hickory. There was more to it than that. Cordwood cut by the same saw in the same lengths was stacked outside the cabin from which Andrus had come. In short, Brodsky's death wasn't the result of a drunken brawl, it was cold-blooded, premeditated murder. If they needed anything else which they didn't have, pieces of a broken whisky bottle were lying around the body—and Andrus had bought a bottle of whisky in a liquor store on North Broadway two nights earlier.

"The same brand?" Susan asked quietly.

Dupasse said it was a cash transaction but that Andrus' purchase corresponded, nearly enough in price. "Now, Miss Dwight, Dr. Farr got the impression that you were very much interested in Brodsky, that you know Mr. Andrus pretty well, and you'd been seeing him in his car at his aunt's place in Hastings, and he isn't at his New York apartment. Do you know where he is—or might he be?"

"I do not," Susan gave the sergeant a succinct account of her two meetings with Andrus, on the train and momentarily at the station, on Friday afternoon. "But if you're trying to tie up that bottle of whisky Mr. Andrus bought on Wednesday with the smashes near the dead man, you're wrong. Mr. Andrus didn't know that Brodsky had paid the silver flask until late Friday afternoon."

"He was a pretty cool customer. The nurse had been with her at the station, maybe the nurse could tell him more of what had actually gone on between them."

"Yes, I'll get Mrs. Casey for you."

Lost Birthright Of Jefferson May Be Found By Archeologist

LINCOLN, Mass., (AP)—The one birthright of Thomas Jefferson may be found this year by a unique archeologist who uses slender steel fingers to ferret out the secrets of the centuries.

Jefferson, who authored the Declaration of Independence and became the nation's third president, was born at Sawdust, his family home near Charlottesville, Va.

The home was burned in 1770, shortly after construction had been started on the Jefferson home, Monticello, a mile or so away.

Monticello has long been a shrine. Now the Thomas Jefferson Birthplace Memorial Park Commission wants to restore the state's birthplace. And to help do the job, the commission has hired Roland Wells Robbins, who calls himself an "historical investigator."

Robbins, a sometimes poet, painting contractor and—during the depression—window cleaner, has gained a wide reputation as an early American archeologist since being led into the field by curiosity.

Ten years ago he left a tennis game to follow a pilgrimage commemorating the 100th anniversary of the building of philosopher Henry David Thoreau's famed hermit cabin at Walden Pond, near Concord, Mass.

Robbins was amazed to find that no one knew exactly where the cabin had stood. Thoreau's own writing contained contradictions on the site.

A stone cabin ostensibly marking the spot had not been started until 25 years after the original building had been destroyed. And there were doubts as to whether it was on the right spot.

Robbins undertook, by deduction and his own unique methods of investigation, to learn the exact site of the cabin. He succeeded in uncovering physical evidence of the building; and in so doing he stepped into a full-blown career in American archeology.

The first step in the Robbins method of investigation is to lay out as specifically as possible the area in which a lost settlement or structure is believed to have stood.

Then his steel "fingers" are brought into play. They are slender rods of varying lengths, driven into the ground at carefully plotted intervals to feel for artifacts or buried foundations.

The behavior of the rod as it is being driven into the ground holds great significance for Robbins' trained hands.

Contact with a stone or similar object brings a shock that tingles throughout the arm. A softer, yielding resistance may indicate a buried foundation beam. A board tells its own story through softer resistance, then penetration.

Once an object has been encountered, its contours may be outlined through further probing with the steel shafts.

It is a method which Robbins feels is greatly superior to the trench digging that accompanies most archeological explorations. He digs, too. But only after digging has been indicated by the quicker and simpler rod explorations.

Robbins maintains that while structures may vanish from the surface of the earth, some evidence is almost always left underground. It may be only the deeper foundations of a building; or tools, artifacts, perhaps objects that fell long ago into some forgotten cellar.

In seeking such evidence, he uses not only his steel rods, but hatchets, shovels, putty knives and a thorough knowledge of soil structure.

Robbins' most extensive undertaking was a five-year study that outlined the structure of America's first iron works at Saugus, Mass. The iron works flourished in early Colonial days, but fell into ruin nearly three centuries ago. It was the training ground for ironmasters who spread throughout the colonies, and is recognized as the parent of America's vast steel industry of today.

The American Iron and Steel Institute has paid 175 million dollars for its restoration.

When Robbins arrived in the area he found only a tangle of weeds, brush and riverside marshes. Faded manuscripts provided only meager clues as to where the mill had stood.

In the months that followed, Robbins' probing picked out remains of blast furnaces, bellows, water wheels, forges and thousands of other relics of the ancient mill.

As each article was found, its location was carefully plotted and photographed. Thus the overall picture of the iron works emerged.

Robbins' knowledge of archeology, like his technique, is almost wholly self-taught. He was manager of an employment bureau until the depression all but eliminated jobs in 1929. He then found himself among the unemployed.

A succession of jobs followed, and he was managing a house painting concern at the time he decided to enter historical research on a full-time basis.

Robbins, his wife, Geraldine, and their three children live in Lincoln. Mrs. Robbins does much of the literary spade work that precedes her husband's field investigations. Much of her time is spent in searching historical records.

A stone cabin ostensibly marking the spot had not been started until 25 years after the original building had been destroyed. And there were doubts as to whether it was on the right spot.

Robbins undertook, by deduction and his own unique methods of investigation, to learn the exact site of the cabin. He succeeded in uncovering physical evidence of the building; and in so doing he stepped into a full-blown career in American archeology.

British Instinctively Know Yanks

LONDON (AP)—The stranger was puffing on a cigar and wearing a wide brimmed hat and flamboyant sport shirt.

"How do you like it over here, Yank?" the pub keeper asked.

"How did you know I was an American?" the stranger countered.

The bartender only smiled.

The English find it easy to recognize "the Yanks" even without such obvious trademarks. The same is true over the rest of Europe. For one reason, it's good business for Europeans to recognize American tourists. Coming up is the biggest American tourist invasion in history.

Transatlantic visitors are Britain's biggest net dollar earner. This summer's estimated deposit will run up to 115 million dollars—about 45 million of this going to British ships and airlines.

The English find a different type of American coming over on vacation these days. The rich executive is the exception rather than the rule. Thousands are ex-GIs who served here during World War II.

Favorite attractions are much the same, however. Changing of the guard at Buckingham Palace is still the best show in London—and free. Nor has the Tower of London lost its lure. And as always, there's Shakespeare's Stratford-on-Avon.

Paris is still "Gay Paree" but French travel agents regard Americans first and foremost as sight-seers of historic places. They spent about 90 million in France last year—nearly a quarter of the country's dollar income. The harvest is expected to be richer this summer from 500,000 visitors.

West Germany stands to benefit perhaps more than any other country. A million Americans are expected this year—surpassing the 985,000 of 1934. They will spend hundreds of millions of dollars, augmenting the 200 million the American troops stationed in Germany contribute annually to the country's economy.

Italy is another favorite for Americans, with about a million expected this year. Many come to visit the Vatican.

Four years ago Spain counted only 30,000 American tourists; this year it expects a half million. In 1934 Americans spent about 300 million dollars there—significant when it is realized that Spain's total dollar holdings were only 125 million.

In Switzerland some 150,000 American visitors are expected to spend well over the 34 millions they spent in 1934.

Gooney Birds Must Bid Farewell

HONOLULU, (AP)—Uncle Sam is finally going to try to get rid of the gooney birds on Midway Island—without killing them.

Midway, tiny speck in the Central Pacific, is a major refueling point for transpacific military flight. The human population is a handful of military personnel. The gooney population is an estimated 24,000.

The gooney bird is a clumsy farm of albatross that reaches a wing span of seven feet. He is a hazard to planes, crashing into them or getting caught in propellers. Last year gooney birds caused 10 plane accidents, some serious.

The Defense Department asked the Fish and Wildlife Service to do something about it. Two wildlife experts, passing through Honolulu, recently outlined their plan.

Philip A. DuMont of the Washington office, who wouldn't talk of killing the birds, outlined the strategy this way:

"We'll try stealing their eggs, or shooting paint at them, or blasting tape recordings at them."

DuMont said kidnapping the gooney eggs might encourage the parents to nest on other islands. Shooting paint at them with a spray gun—besides making Midway an unhappy habitat for gooneys—would help in tracking them to new homes if and when they move.

"As for the tape recordings," he said, "we're thinking of broadcasting the gooneys' distress signal which might frighten them away."

DuMont gave the gooney distress signal—a soft, lingering "Aahh."

DuMont said it's probably true the gooneys are worthless to mankind for that—"you can't blame them for that—it would be a pretty barren world if you eliminated everything you didn't like."

And there is another reason for not resorting to gooneycide: The Audubon Society, which is dedicated to birds, is very concerned.

"In fact," said DuMont, "we had to clear with them before coming out here."

April's Showers Are Getting Bolder

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

More April showers and thunderstorms hit broad areas in the northern half of the country today. Most of the Southern section of the nation had generally fair weather.

Thunderstorms continued during the night in parts of Missouri, Illinois, Eastern Iowa and northward across parts of Wisconsin and Minnesota. The wet bolt extended eastward into the northern Appalachians. Showers also were general in the Dakotas in connection with a storm center in the area.

Strolling In Sanford

The City Zoning and Planning Board will meet at 7:30 p. m. today in the Commission room at City Hall.

Possibly Fatal Blow Is Pointed At Collins' Plan

TALLAHASSEE (AP)—A Senate committee dealt a possibly fatal blow to Gov. Collins' ambitions for constitutional revision at this session of the Legislature yesterday, but Collins said he wasn't throwing in the sponge.

In quick succession the Committee on Constitutional Amendments slapped down Collins' two proposals for rewriting Florida's basic law.

The action gave Collins his first bitter sting of defeat on a major issue this session and the governor said the blow "makes me sick deep inside."

He said in a statement: "We will continue to fight on the floor of the Senate and in the House committees and on the floor of the House. We will fight every where honorable men and women can fight for law reform and for a better state."

"We are not willing to assume that eight senators can continue to defeat the will of a majority of the Senate and of a majority of the people of Florida."

U.S. To Consider Troop Withdrawal Sources Indicate

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—The United States will seriously consider withdrawing all but humanitarian support from free South Viet Nam should Premier Ngo Dinh Diem's politico-religious opponents gain control, American sources reported today.

They said Gen. T. Laurin Collins, President Eisenhower's special envoy now on his way to Washington, will tell Congress and the administration that in his view neither the Binh Xuyen society nor the Cao Dai and Hoa Hao religious sects are capable of uniting the country against communism. They have formed a coalition demanding the Premier's resignation.

Dog Track Revenue Subject Of Meeting

TALLAHASSEE (AP)—A subcommittee of the Senate Finance and Taxation Committee will sit down at 3 p. m. today with Racing Commission and dog track representatives to hear their views on proposals to increase the state's dog track revenue by 1 million dollars.

The subcommittee was appointed by committee chairman James of Florida after a two-hour hearing last night on two separate, but almost identical, proposals to take more money from the dog tracks.

Board To Consider Naming Teachers

Reappointment of present teachers will be considered by school trustees at a meeting Monday in the office of Superintendent of Schools R. T. Milwage. The meeting will begin at 4 p. m.

No new teachers will be considered for appointment at that time, Milwage said.

Bobby Wiederhold Entrant In Contest

Seminole High School Freshman Will Participate In FFA Event

Bobby Wiederhold, a ninth grader at Seminole High School, will be among 74 students from six schools who will participate in sub-district contests to be held here tomorrow under Future Farmer of America sponsorship.

The program will begin at 9:30 a. m. at Seminole High. It was announced by W. B. West, the school's vocational agriculture teacher and sub-district FFA chairman.

The various events will include public speaking, parliamentary procedure, softball, horseshoe and tractor driving contests, sweetheart contest, and band, quartet and harmonica events.

Winners will enter the district contest at Leesburg. Schools participating, in addition to Seminole, are DeLand, Pierson, Umatilla, Eustis and Tavares.

Bobby Wiederhold is Seminole's entry in the public speaking contest. He will also be a contestant in the soil conservation speaking contest.

Judges will include R. F. Cooper, school trustee; Bonner Carter, Farm Bureau official; Roy Wiggin, soil conservationist; Heny Britt, tractor dealer; Ernest Cowley, SHS band director; and Jim Sargent, soil conservationist.

1st Degree Murder Verdict Returned Against B. Brooks

The Orange County Circuit Court grand jury yesterday returned a first-degree murder indictment against Sanford fruit nicker, in the shooting death of his estranged wife.

Brooks was charged with shooting his wife, Mrs. Frances Brooks, 25, in front of her mother's home on the old Winter Garden road. He is also charged with assault to murder his wife's mother, Mrs. Helen Carter, 45, who is in "good" condition at Orange Memorial Hospital in Orlando.

Quick Divorce Bill Okayed By Senate

TALLAHASSEE (AP)—A Senate-approved bill to abolish quickie Florida divorces by requiring a year's residence for those who would break marriage bonds was rejected 8-2 today by a House committee.

Only Chairman Sweeney of Volusia County and Rep. Williams of Seminole County supported the measure. Present law requires only 90 days' residence.

The proposal to extend the residence requirement was made by the State Assn. of Circuit Judges and recommended by Gov. Collins.

Rejection by the committee means a two-thirds majority of the entire House would be necessary to put the bill on the calendar.

Florida State Bank Is Receiving Center

Minister Rebukes Red 'Colonialism'

DeLand Woman Slain, Two Others Wounded

DELAND (AP)—A woman was slain last night and her common-law husband and a son wounded in a shooting that climaxed a family argument, Deputy Sheriff Hardie Daugherty reported.

Coroner Wallace Smith said Mrs. Inez Metts Brooks Chase, 32, apparently died instantly of a .12 gauge shotgun blast. Harry Clifford Dreggora, 50, was in poor condition at Fish Memorial Hospital, part of his jaw and chin blown away; and Albert Metts, 16, had a wound in the left hip.

Deputy Daugherty said he learned the argument started in the six-room slab house where the couple lived with eight children by previous marriages; that when Dreggora grabbed a gun to shoot young Metts, his mother stepped in the way.

Dreggora admitted shooting her and then the boy as he ran from the house, Daugherty reported. The deputy said it was not determined whether Dreggora picked up another gun and shot himself or if someone else had shot him.

Leonard Metts, a 15-year-old brother of the wounded youth, was in custody of juvenile authorities for investigation, Daugherty said.

Sanford Dentists To Attend Parley

This city will be well represented at the annual meeting of the Jacksonville, April 23 to 27. Sanford dentists planning to attend the convention are Dr. H. W. Rucker, Dr. A. W. Epps, Dr. A. W. Epps Jr., Dr. Jack C. Morrison, and Dr. Harry S. Woodruff.

Hundreds of dentists from throughout the state who are to attend the meeting will be devoting practically all of their time there to lectures and demonstrations on some of the latest advances in the profession as presented by nationally known authorities. The benefits of these learned lectures are then passed by the dentists along to their patients in their daily practices.

The state dental organization is one of the oldest and largest in the south. Founded 71 years ago by 10 pioneer dentists, it now has more than 1000 members.

Vice-Governor Says Greatest Problems Are Private Armies

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Private armies, not communism, are his country's greatest problem, says the vice-governor of South Viet Nam.

Cao Thai Bao made no attempt to underestimate the Communist threat to his country, he said. But he pointed to gunplay in Saigon recently as a more immediate threat.

"There are 40,000 well-armed and trained fighting men in South Viet Nam belonging to three private armies," he said in the interview.

"Two containing 35,000 men are religious organizations. But the third is political. It's this army of 5,000 men under former regular army Gen. Le Van Vien that's attacking the administration," said Bao.

Senate President Considers Measure

TALLAHASSEE (AP)—Senate President Turner Davis says he considers a rival tax consolidation measure proposed by Gov. Collins unconstitutional.

He issued a statement criticizing the administration bill on the eve of House committee hearings tonight on the two measures.

Davis said his bill providing for consolidation of major state tax collecting agencies under the comptroller "much, much better than the proposal offered by the governor."

He said he hadn't analyzed Collins' bill but "I have serious doubts that the governor's plan would be held constitutional if it ever met serious legal challenge."

JURORS GIVEN LEEWAY OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—The Oklahoma Criminal Court of Appeals has ruled that liquor drinking by jurors during a trial recess is not grounds for a mistrial unless they get drunk.

Chinese Premier Disturbed

Sir John Speaks At Closed Meet

BANDUNG, Indonesia (AP)—Prime Minister Sir John Kotelawala of Ceylon denounced "Communist colonialism" at the Asian-African conference today. Red China Premier Chou En-lai, obviously disturbed, immediately demanded time to make a reply.

Sir John, appearing before a closed session of the Political Committee, demanded that the conference declare itself against all forms of colonialism, including Communist domination of satellite states in Central and Eastern Europe.

Delegates said that as Sir John finished Chou leaped to his feet and demanded that the Ceylon Premier's statement be circulated to all delegates of the 29-nation conference so Chou could reply to it at tomorrow's committee session.

In earlier debate the committee heard Chou express the opinion that peaceful coexistence between nations of different systems was possible.

Sir John, who had already taken the spotlight with a proposal made outside the conference for creation of an independent Formosa, took the committee there were two forms of colonialism and the Asian-African nations should oppose both equally.

Another attack on colonialism came from Prime Minister Said El Islam El Hassan of Yemen, who questioned the right of Britain to maintain her colony of Aden, which adjoins Yemen.

He raised also the question of colonialism in Africa and hit out at support given by the United States and European countries to creation of Israel.

London's Papers Greet Their Public

LONDON (AP)—A columnist in the Daily Sketch started off today: when I was so rudely interrupted. . . .

The News Chronicle stoutly denied that it is dead.

A Daily Express cartoon showed a gentleman in a bowler hat crawling around with a newspaper in his mouth while his wife explained to a neighbor "He has to teach rovers—all over again—how to fetch our paper."

And the Daily Telegraph gave thanks that Britons now can stop trying to dig such Yankee live as "Redwings rip Leafs as Canadians blank Bruins."

The great London newspaper strike was over.

After 26 days in a muddle, the nationally distributed dailies, most of them in expanded editions, set out to tell their 15 million readers what they had missed.

TRAINER DROWNS PORT MARNOCK, Ireland (AP)—Racehorse trainer Tim O'Sullivan was thrown by a skittish two-year-old he was exercising on the beach yesterday. O'Sullivan fell into the Irish Sea, was swept out by the ebbing tide and drowned.

National Guard Praised For Alert

With speed and efficiency, Co I, 124th Inf. Florida National Guard, Sanford's own National Guard unit, was mobilized last night at 6:30 o'clock as Major General Mark W. Lance, Adjutant General, gave the order to start "Operation Minuteman."

Capt. Joseph D. Bryant, commanding officer of Co. I, expressed himself as well pleased with initial results of the test alert in this area.

"As a whole," Operation Minuteman proceeded according to schedule. We received the alert order at 6:30 and immediately sent out a hurry call to officers and men of the unit to report at once to their assigned stations. In one hour Co. I had 18 enlisted men and four officers present and by 9, 61 enlisted men and six officers were present, the unit was in formation and ready for any orders to move out. This represented 100 per cent of the officer strength of the unit and over 81 per cent of the enlisted strength. Other members of the company who were out of town reported to different units when the alert came and counting these men, over 90 per cent of company I's total strength was mobilized in less than three hours.

"We are grateful for the fine spirit of cooperation shown by our fellow citizens and their interest in this exercise which is such an important part of our training," he declared.

"We are also highly pleased with the splendid cooperation and attention to duty of all personnel of Company 'I'. Each of our local Guardsmen and those from surrounding areas responded to the alert, promptly and most enthusiastically and made every effort to carry out his assigned duties to the best of his ability.

"Of course, there were some mistakes, as to be expected, but

Gang-Style Killing Of Tampa Resident Studied By Police

TAMPA (AP)—Police today studied meager clues in the gang-style killing of Charlie Wall, black sheep of a prominent Tampa family and admitted one-time head of this city's gambling rackets.

Wall's blood-drenched body was found in his home yesterday. Coroner W. Marion Hendry said the 74-year-old man's throat had been slashed, he had been stabbed several times and beaten savagely on the head with a blunt instrument.

State Atty. James M. McEwen said the large end of a baseball bat found in the Wall back yard contained a smudge that "might be blood."

McEwen also said Wall was reported to have been showing "quite a bit of folding money" at bars Monday night but that no money was found.

Wall was in his night clothes and his pistol lay unfired on a table.

Labor Relations May Be Affected

WASHINGTON (AP)—The outcome of the wave of strikes now sweeping the South is likely to have a profound and lasting effect on labor relations in that area.

If employers win, it will discourage the unions. After years of trying they have to date been largely unsuccessful in organizing Southern workers, although they've made some progress.

If unions win, it will prime them into a fresh drive to win bargaining rights from reluctant employers. Right now the unions admit they are pretty well on the ropes.

They're still trying but they say they represent only about 10 per cent of the South's workers.

The region's two most significant present strikers are those at the Southern Bell Telephone Co. and the Louisville & Nashville Railroad.

Seaboard Railroad Service Canceled

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—The Seaboard Railroad today canceled service on its Birmingham-Atlanta line as picketing began at its yards.

A Seaboard official said the pickets "are not Seaboard employes," but that union members had declined to cross the picket lines.

The Seaboard yards in Birmingham interchange freight with the strike-bound Louisville & Nashville.

Passenger service canceled temporarily on the Birmingham-Atlanta leg only, included the Cotton Blossom from Birmingham to Washington; and the Silver Comet, the Birmingham-New York streamliner.

Pickets at the Seaboard yards bore signs reading: "Seaboard RR officers unfair. Strike breaking against L&N employes."

Birmingham is the terminus of Seaboard operations into this area. Presumably service north of Atlanta will continue.

Operation Minuteman

"Operation Minuteman" so far as we are concerned, was one of the finest training exercises we have ever engaged in. We learned a lot from it and feel that now we are even better prepared to be of service to community, state or nation when and if our services are needed."

The order to put "Operation Minuteman" in motion was given to Florida National Guard units by Major General Mark W. Lance, the State Adjutant General.

Members of Company "I" reported from their homes in Sanford, Lake Mary, Osteen, Enterprise, Geneva, Oviedo, Lake Moore, Apopka, and Maitland.

Participating in "Operation" with Company "I" were more than 4,000 other Army National Guard units in almost 2,300 other communities throughout the State, the 47 other states and in the District of Columbia, Alaska and Puerto Rico.
