Mexico Says It Won't Pay For Oil Slick Clean-Up

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Mexico has flatly rejected a request by the United States to help pay for the millions of dollars in damages from the massive oil slick spewing from a Mexican well that is fouling the Texas coast.

Mondale Leaves For China

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vice President Walter Mondale left for China today on a mission he said would lead to a relationship "very similar to relationships that we have with other major powers of the world."

Skyjacker Gives Up

LARNACA, Cyprus (UPI) — A 28-year-old student hijacked a Libyan Airlines Boeing 727 over Libya today but surrendered without a struggle minutes after the plane landed at Larnaca airport in Cyprus, a government spokesman said.

Vesuvius Eruption Date

POMPEII, Italy (UPI) — Exactly 1,900 years ago today, Mount Vesuvius exploded over the streets of Pompeii, turning the pleasure resort into a fiery killing ground but preserving intact a remarkable example of a rich civilization.

Stablemates Drop Dead

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (UPI) — The odds against it happening were incredible. Gonzans and Sky Lastra thundered neck and neck down the back stretch during a Thursday morning workout at the Milnerton race track.

Three Injured As Car Battery Explodes

Faulty wiring on the passenger side of a 1969 Pontiac has been determined as the cause of the fire which injured two Seminole County firefighters Thursday.

CIVIL SUITS

The following civil suits have been filed with the office of Seminole County clerk Arthur Beckwith seeking damages in excess of $2,500.

Energy, Housing Pace Inflation Rise

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Americans got no relief from oppressive inflation last month as consumer prices shot up another 1 percent, the government reported today.

2nd Accident At Nuke Site

CRYSTAL RIVER, Fla. (UPI) — Florida Power Corp. today said it was investigating today the second accidental discharge of radioactive material into a holding pond in the past week at the utility's Crystal River nuclear generating plant.

A spokesman confirmed Thursday that 27,000 gallons of water containing a small amount of radioactive elements were discharged into the holding pond Wednesday without first going through sampling tanks.

That discharge was not revealed until Tuesday and a company spokesman said it was a result of an apparent operator error.

No Suspects Yet In Fatal Sanford Fire

There have been a few calls to the police with information concerning the Aug. 1 blaze that killed Sanford firefighter William Lloyd Price, but nothing disclosed thus far has produced any suspects, Sgt. William Bernosky said today.

Doctor Sobs Recalling Murdered Family

RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI) — Slowly, reluctantly, Dr. Jeffrey MacDonald leaned forward in his chair and began reading a letter from his wife Colette, written seven months before she and their two daughters were beaten and stabbed to death at their Fort Bragg apartment.

At one point he covered his face and cried steadily for a half minute when she told of a story he had written her and asked "Do you remember?"

How new Watt-Wise Living homes save up to 25% on electricity.

EXAMPLE 4:

Glass.

What makes a Watt-Wise® home a Watt-Wise home? The proper and efficient use of glass, for one thing. The warm Florida sun can be blamed for almost half your cooling costs. Which means that 40 to 50% of the money you're spending on air conditioning is due to the fact that you have windows.

To cut these costs, Watt-Wise homes offer practical suggestions on window treatments and the type of glass that should be used.

Like reflective glass for unshaded windows facing east or west. And tinted glass for other windows exposed to the sun. In addition, your Watt-Wise home can have extended overhangs shading the exposed glass.

To meet FPL's recommended Watt-Wise standards, glass should be limited to the following percentages of floor space: clear, 11%; tinted, 13%; reflective, 13%; and shaded glass, 15%. (These figures apply to single-pane glass.)

But the more efficient use of glass is just one of the features of a Watt-Wise home. Others can include an energy-saving water heater, higher-efficiency air conditioner or heat pump, proper insulation, and more efficient appliances.

The Watt-Wise Living home. It costs a little more now, but in the long run it costs a whole lot less.

Chicken Is More Than Edible Entree

While most people recognize chicken as an edible entree only, a Longwood resident, Tris McCall, has a working relationship with them that has turned into a fascinating hobby.

Tris raises show chickens, known as Exhibition Birds, and travels to different areas of the state and country where shows are held.

Tris and his wife, June, were in the poultry business in Greenville, S.A., during World War II. "We raised hundreds of chickens to sell because of the meat shortage at that time. When we were raising all these chickens, it was such a pretty sight, to see all those white, fluffy chickens with their bright red combs. Now, with the tremendous rise in the cost of feed, things have changed. Used to be $90 a ton, now it's $12 a hundred for laying mash," he explained.

During the summer months, Tris and June skip the hot Florida weather and relax in their North Carolina home. Carrying his prize chickens in a luggage rack on top of his car, the birds apparently are not harmed by their travels. "However, in hemoglobin tests, the chickens' blood seems to thicken in the mountains," he stated.

This is looking forward to entering his birds in one of Florida's largest exhibition shows, Florida Sunshine Classic, to be held next in January.

When traveling to an exhibition, Tris generally takes a few hens and his top prize rooster. Who who is beautifully feathered in DEAR WIFE: Your husband gave her up, how do you figure he still has both of you? No need for you to feel uncomfortable. She's working because she needs the money, and your husband needs her. His reaction was unreal! They said their son had never smoked pot, and our children are trying! Now my brother and his wife are angry with us.

DEAR ABBY: I am married to a dentist who makes a pass at every new girl he hires to work in his office. He's 49 and thinks he's irresistible. I think he's entering his second childhood.

Hulbert Quits Phone Post

Russell P. Hulbert, 60, of 230 Lake Seminary Circle, Maitland, board chairman of The Winter Park Telephone Company, announced his plans for retirement and submitted his resignation at this month's meeting of the company's board of directors.

Hulbert's retirement from active service will be effective Oct. 31, however, he will continue to serve as a director and vice chairman of the board, he said.

Edward P. Kittinger, chairman of the executive committee and chief executive officer of the company, was elected to succeed Hulbert as board chairman. Kittinger presently serves as chairman of the board of the United Telephone Company of Florida and Florida Telephone Corporation which along with The Winter Park Telephone Company comprise the United Telephone System—Florida Group.

Hulbert has been chairman of the board since March 1978 when he succeeded the late J. K. Galloway, eldest son of the company's founder. Prior to his election as board chairman, Hulbert served 11 years as the company's president.

Hulbert's career began when he joined the company in 1943 as a lineman. He served in many positions including: installer repairman, plant engineer, general plant manager, vice president operations, and executive vice president.

During his career, he served as president of the Florida Telephone Association, president of the Florida State Chapter of the Independent Telephone Pioneer Association, and in 1977 national president of the Independent Telephone Pioneer Association.

He serves as director of the Barnett Bank of Orlando-Winter Park, director of the Barnett Mall Bank and trustee of the Winter Park Memorial Hospital.

"My decision to retire is solely a personal one," said Hulbert. "After 36 years in the telephone industry, I feel it's time to step aside and let other leaders guide the future of this strong corporation."

Thursday In Casselberry Democrats Set Forum

A public forum will be sponsored by the Seminole County Democratic Executive Committee at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the Casselberry City Hall.

It will be open to all residents of Seminole County regardless of political affiliation.

They will have the opportunity to voice their opinion on any issue they feel should be brought to the attention of the national government.

In addition, all organizations (civic, veterans, fraternal or religious) are invited to send representatives.

The forum is an attempt to get grass root reaction to current issues. Input gleaned from this and mandatory forums through-out the state will be presented to the State Democratic Platform Committee to assist in preparing the party platform.

For the first time this year, the state Democratic organization is allowing the county executive committees to choose 25 percent of the county's allotted delegates to the convention, to be held Nov. 16-18 at the Bayfront Center in St. Petersburg.

At the last meeting of the Seminole County Democratic Executive Committee, Richard Russo of Casselberry, Nancy Booth of Winter Springs and Myra Eisenhoff of Sanford were named as delegates. The remainder of the county's 12 delegates and six alternates will be elected at a caucus open to all Seminole County registered democrats. It will be held at noon Oct. 13 at the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 8297 post home on County Road 427 in Longwood.

The Seminole Democratic Executive Committee has published three editions of its partisan newspaper, "The People's Voice," according to the editor, Nancy Booth, and has been so successful it may go statewide in cooperation with the state organization and other county executive committees. The first issue was published in April, with 300 copies printed. In August, 4,000 copies were printed and distributed, and this will be increased to 10,000 for the next issue, according to Mrs. Booth.

Delaware To Priest: 'Sorry'

WILMINGTON, Del. (UPI) — All charges against the Rev. Bernard T. Pagano were dropped Thursday when another man pleaded guilty to the "Gentleman Bandit" robberies for which the Roman Catholic priest was on trial.

The courtroom crowd gasped as all charges against Pagano were dropped and Delaware officials publicly apologized for his arrest and subsequent trial.

In an agreement with the state, Ronald W. Clouser, 38, of Brookhaven, Pa., agreed to plead guilty to second degree robbery for three of the six crimes Pagano was accused of committing during a two-week trial.

Clouser's attorney, Saul H. Segan, said Clouser "asks to plead guilty because he is guilty. He came here to exonerate another man and, if I may say so, he showed a great deal of courage."

Pagano showed little expression before the crowd of about 150 in the courtroom.

Problem With TV News: They Aim For Ratings

DEAR DICK: I almost never miss the early evening news. The three biggest (networks) are not in love with each other, are they? When you finish watching the news on any one given network, you can bet the other two will almost be a duplication. Aren't there enough interesting happenings to take up an hour and a half? They are almost exact copies of each other. LEE PHILLIPS, Scottsdale, Neb.

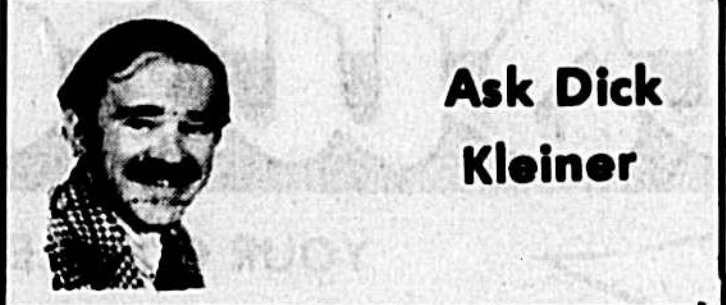

You are asking the wrong person, because I am emotional about the subject of TV news coverage. As a newspaper-trained journalist, I feel TV does a rotten job. TV newscasts are entertainments, not news programs, aimed primarily at grabbing ratings. Their judgment of what is news is pretty generally governed by what makes the flashiest and most exciting film, not what is of greatest importance to the public. Local newscasts often are more guilty of this than are the network newscasts. To answer your question, generally each network sends camera crews to the same events, and so you see the same film, or very close.

DEAR DICK: I would like to know if Laura and Luke in "How the West Was Won" are married in real life. BRENDA TAYLOR, Turkey, Ark.
Yes— Bruce Beresford and Kathryn Holcomb are Mr. and Mrs.
DEAR DICK: We recently watched a good late movie, "Dr. Scorpion." Could you please tell me what the name of the person that played Shock was, and the name of his lady central agent? Was the man who played Shock in any more movies? CURIOUS GEORGE, Geleson, Kan.
Nick Mancuso played Jonathan Shackleford—Shack—in that film, and Christine Lahti was his agent, Tania Roden. Mancuso is presently to be seen (if the film doesn't close before you get a chance to see it) in that bit-movie, "Nightwing."
DEAR DICK: I heard some time ago that Lawrence Welk and his wife were divorced. Is this true? MRS. G., Stockton, Calif.
No. Fern and Lawrence Welk celebrated their 48th anniversary this past April and are still going strong.
DEAR DICK: What ever happened to the early 1960s show "The Beachcomber," which starred Cameron Mitchell. I don't think there were too many episodes, but I thought the ones I saw were good and it would be a welcome change from the tiring plots of today's TV fare. R. MCPHERSON, Ventura, Calif.
I have looked and looked, scoured and searched and asked around, and can find no record of any show called "The Beachcomber." And Mitchell has only done two series—"High Chaparral" from '67 to '71, and "Swiss Family Robinson" in '76-'78. But, even if there was such a show, it won't come back—TV never brings things back. Once dead, always dead.
DEAR DICK: A couple of weeks ago, we saw something on TV called, "His Honor, the Mayor." We thought it sure was a riot. What we would like to know, who starred in it, and does he do other shows perhaps under other name? J.A.B., Jensen Beach, Fla.
I think you mean a little gem from NBC called "Hiszoner" which was the lowest rated show of all. It was dropped, with hardly even a thud. David Huddleston, a fine, veteran actor and a nice person, starred in it. He will survive. The show won't.
DEAR DICK: Could you please settle an argument. Is Bernaby Jones (Buddy Ebsen) Jed Clampett of "The Beverly Hills Cop"? I say he is, but my sister says he is not. JOHN DRAGKOVIC, Edinburg, Mich.
John wins this time. Buddy Ebsen played Jed Clampett for nine years, that's all.
DEAR DICK: Is Jackie Smith going to quit "Charlie's Angels"? EDGEMONT HARDY, Orem, Utah, Ky.
Not this season. Jackie, the grand old Angel, will still be there aided by Charly Ladd and the new Angel, Shelley Hack.

Best Investments For Your Money
Old coins used to make a good hobby; now they make a good investment.
Following are the compounded annual rates of return for the past decade on coins and others of the increasingly popular tangible assets, according to U.S. News and World Report:
Chinese ceramics, 18.0 percent.
Rare books, 14.5 percent.
Stamps, 14.4 percent.
Coins, 13.0 percent.
Diamonds, 12.4 percent.
Paintings (old masters), 11.5 percent.
Meanwhile, the rates of return were 6.1 percent on bonds and 2.9 percent on stocks. But the magazine cautions against blowing your wad on collectibles without knowing exactly what you are doing.

Exhaust fumes are one of the drawbacks of jogging along the roadside.

Staying In Shape Can Be Fun, But...

Kids run; adults jog.
Kids have fun running and, for the most part, stay in shape. Adults work at jogging to get back the shape they had when they were kids who had fun running.

Any dedicated jogger will be glad to tell you all the benefits he derives from pounding the asphalt: the fresh air, the exercise, the weight loss, the stronger heart, the improved muscle tone.

Press a jogger hard enough however, and he may confess to experiences that are far from the healthful kind. "I have had kids throw beer cans at me from the back of a pick-up," said Herb Birch of Longwood. "Sometimes I feel like I'm a target for passing cars, and other times they've almost run me off the road."

Blisters from improperly fitted shoes, heat stroke, twisted ankles, breathing the fumes of passing cars and heart-pounding sprints through dog-infested neighborhoods are all some of the joys joggers sometimes forget to mention.

Lake Mary's Sandy Jeno jogs at night and has had very few problems. "Sometimes they'll (motorists) honk just to aggravate, or maybe it's just to let you know they're there. The only thing that I worry about is snakes, that's the only thing."

Karen and Ren Werrenrath jog a mile or two every morning with their dog Casey. While running through the Bear Lake area of south Seminole Karen's only complaint is "the Great Dane down the road who is as big as I am. He comes out to protect his yard."

"Our dog attracts other dogs," explained her husband Ren.

With years of jogging under the soles of their shoes and so few problems Karen feels their success lies in the fact they are out so early every morning. "I don't think anybody is around the time we jog," she explained.

Well, 'Nobody's Perfect'

By JOAN HANAUER
UPI Television Writer
NEW YORK (UPI) — The first new show of the season to be canceled — before it ever appeared on the air — was aptly titled "Nobody's Perfect."
It also was one of the most promising, to judge by the pilot.
That, apparently, is what fooled ABC — the network judged by the pilot when it scheduled the half-hour sitcom starring British actor Ron Moody as an elegant Scotland Yard inspector on loan to the San Francisco Police Department.
Moody's Roger Hart reads Sherlock Holmes, but at work he resembles Peter Seller's Inspector Clouseau, breaking as he enters.
The pilot has a delightfully zany quality, and a leading character who the audience can laugh with as well as at — a man who can humble with the best of them but who obviously wasn't AWOL when the brains were passed around.

ABC discovered, however, succeeding installments of the sitcom did not live up to the opening episode's promise.
It happens all the time — television land has a whole group of writers who specialize in pilots, because those are the scripts on which series are sold. Once a show is bought, the quality often goes down.
In this instance, rather than accept a weak half-hour, ABC shelved the show's premiere while production work continues.
"Nobody's Perfect" probably will be an early winter replacement.
That left a hole in the ABC schedule, which will be filled by the "Detective School" run by James Gregory, aka Inspector Lager on "Barney Miller." Originally Record-Breaker?

Steve Martin's one-week engagement at Las Vegas' Riviera Hotel, which starts Sept. 6, may topple the box office record now shared by Kenny Rogers and Barry Manilow. "This has been amazing," says maître d' Rudy Guerrero. "They call from places like Ohio, Georgia and Massachusetts. One group in Texas said they wanted to bring in a plane load 'if we could assure them of rooms and show reservations. We took care of them."

More Than One FCC

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Mention "FCC" and one thing comes to mind — the Federal Communications Commission.
That's why music industry lawyers advised a record company not to name its group from Muscle Shoals, Ala., "FCC." The lawyers said naming the rock 'n' roll group after the federal commission might cause problems.
The group went through 150 other possible names and finally chose Funky Communications Committee. Albums were pressed, publicity releases were printed and T-shirts were emblazoned with the Funky Communications Committee name.
"Last week we talked to some people from the FCC when they came to our concert at Washington's Bayou Club. They said they thought naming the group FCC was a gas," says Dennis Clifton, lead guitarist and co-writer of the group's first hit single, "Baby I Want You," from the album of the same name.
"So, we started using FCC again," Clifton says. "Elkie said that done. The record company, for lack of new album covers with FCC-linked FCC on publicity

Bedtime Buddies For The Wee Ones

By DENISE MURCKO WILMS

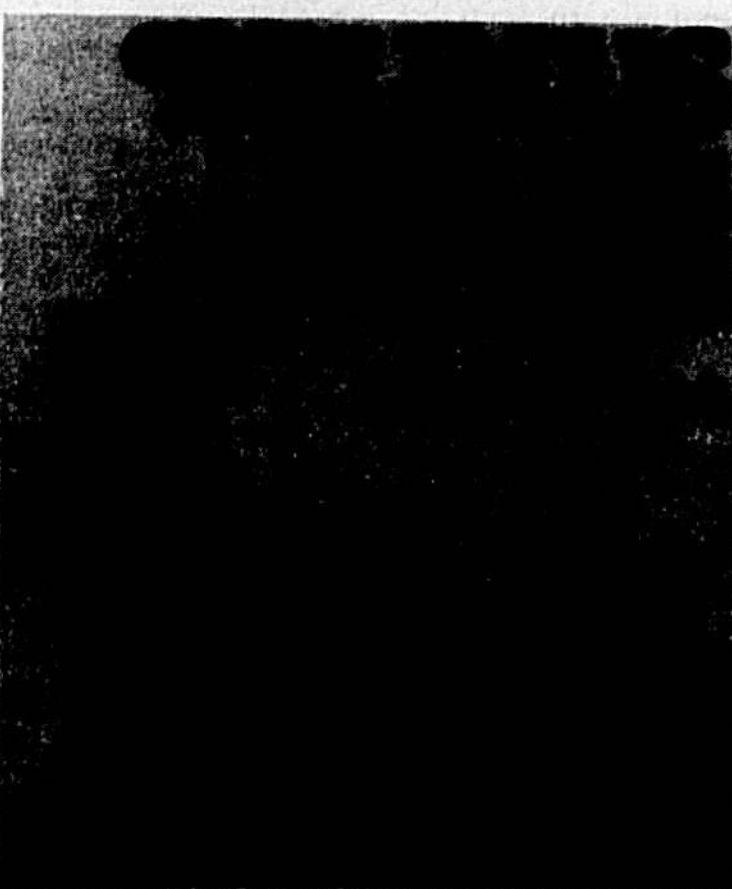

American Library Assn. Bedtime stories are a ritual in many households. They offer times of quiet, private sharing between parent and child, and, in the case of very young ones, the first steps along the way to reading. Here are some fresh picks from the spring and summer publishing season.

"Maggie and the Pirate" is a welcome new offering by Ezra Jack Keats, a well-known and much-admired children's author-illustrator. His "Snowy Day" won the Caldecott award in 1963. Its water-front setting is a departure from the cityscape that has been the backdrop for his recent work.

Maggie returns from shopping for her mother to find Niki, her pet cricket, missing and in place of his cage a scrawled note, "The pirate was here." Maggie begins a worried search that sets the culprit, "that new kid around here," but costs her Niki, who drowns in the chaos of Maggie's riverside confrontation. The villain proves a sympathetic sort, though, hungry for love and friendship, which Maggie and her friends extend when he returns the cage with a new cricket inside.

There's a surprising range of emotion within the confines of the brief text, and good pacing as well. The warm village and country waterfront settings take shape via green, blue and yellow washes and unexpected bits of bright collage. It's a good visual and verbal combination.

"We Hide, You Seek" by Jose Aruego and Ariane

Shining Rivalry, the theme of "Brutus and the New Bear" by Ellen Stole Walsh, is put in comfortably distanced guise so the message is clear but entertaining as well.

Lionni's mice may already be familiar to veteran picturebook readers. Here they cross the pages in subdued tones of gray, beige and gold for a soft, open look that matches the story's mood.

Two stories with sibling rivalry as their theme will strike a common chord with younger children. The first, Ellen Stole Walsh's "Brutus and the New Bear" stars Brutus, a stuffed bear who has been Benjamin's friend "since before they could remember." But when Heidi, a tiny new bear, arrives to claim Benjamin's attention, Brutus jealously plots Heidi's disappearance until some special loving from Benjamin puts his old friend's mind at ease.

fantasy that's slightly illogical but well-paced and lovely to look at. It's the story of a giant cheese mouse sculpted by a small mouse named Geraldine as she nibbles off pieces to give to her hungry friends.

The sculptured mouse is magical and comes alive in the night to play music on its tail, which is fashioned to look like a flute. Geraldine knows that the mouse's tail is a flute, though she has never heard music; sharp children might want to know why. Nevertheless, they'll be intrigued at Geraldine's pleasure in learning about music through her mouse's nocturnal concerts. They'll be pleased that because she now has the music inside her, she can give up her treasure to feed her hungry friends.

illustrations are striking in their projected warmth: soft tan-yellow pages and brown ink lines sparsely with splashes of color — the pattern in a quilt or a rug, or Benjamin's ice blue pajamas. This is a well-tuned work, with theme, story and art that fit precisely.

The second tale, for slightly older listeners (or readers), unfolds in biting tongue-in-cheek style. You meet little Becky Bunting, a "Very sweet child" who nonetheless thinks nothing of leaving her baby brother in the care of an admiring stranger while she rides that stranger's brand new blue bike. You also meet her mother, who is understandably outraged ("How could you do such a terrible thing, you bad child!"), and father, who spins Becky at the police station where they're waiting for baby brother to turn up.

He does, and later on Daddy apologizes for the speaking and Mrs. Bunting makes strawberry shortcake for everyone. The moral? "Don't trade your little brother or your little sister for anything. You'll have nothing but trouble and they always come back in the end."

The illustrations are grotesque caricature. Heads are oversized and deliberately unattractive, though background settings and detail are realistically proportioned.

Exports account for 46 percent of Belgium's gross national product and 33 percent of West Germany's. The Conference Board observes, in the United States, exports comprise only 8.4 percent of the GNP.

U.S. auto trade was $6.6 billion in the hole last year, making cars second only to oil in the nation's deficit column. Experts say that Europe is the prime place to lack up sales of American-made cars. But 1977 sales of U.S. cars to the European Economic Community came to only $3,000 — slightly less than sales in Sacramento, Calif. A major problem is that European tariffs on automobiles are substantially higher than tariffs in this country. The Conference Board notes,

BREAKING AWAY (PG) — Dennis Christopher, Dennis Quaid, Daniel Stern, Jackie Earle Haley (Romantic comedy) This American-made movie is the kind of film the French always do so well: warm, funny, a little romantic, tied up just right. It's set in Bloomington, Ind., a college town, the summer the local boys finally realize they don't mind being "townies." Briefly, it's the "Rocky" of bicycle racing — but so much better. A fine job by these four young actors. GRADE: A

GENERAL RELEASE

MORE AMERICAN GRAFFITI (PG) — Ron Howard, Cindy Williams, Candy Clark, Paul LeMat. (Comedy-drama) We re-visit most of the original "Graffiti" people several years later, to see what's happened to them. A neat idea, and it works well, but they've tricked it out with a self-conscious camera stunt that looked good on paper but is very disconcerting to the audience. It's like a visit with old friends who live in a house with purple-and-green wallpaper. GRADE: B

CONCORDE: AIRPORT '79 (PG) — Alisa Delon,

Susan Blakeley, George Kennedy and a cast of thousands. (Adventure) This time, it's the supersonic Concorde that's in trouble — one of its passengers is carrying a secret and the bad guy tries missiles, sabotage and everything else to bring it down. It's all exciting, but more sensible than earlier "Airport" films and this has some people you care about. GRADE: B

MOONRAKER (PG) — Roger Moore, Lois Chiles. Spy adventure. James Bond is back and that's about all you need to say. This one is the most illogical, ridiculous, senseless Bond film of all — but it's still great fun, stylish, witty and full of extraordinary gimmicks and special effects. Ignore the plot, just sit back and have a good time. GRADE: B

JUST YOU AND ME, KID (PG) — George Burns, Brooke Shields, Earl Ives, Lorraine Gary. (Comedy) Innocuous little item — more of a TV sitcom than a real movie — about the kindly old ex-soldier who befriends the put-upon unhappy teen-ager, and vice versa. It can't hurt you. GRADE: B-minus

The 'Swan Song' Of Andrew Young

Confrontation Delay Is Only 'For Andy'

U.S. Policy On PLO Called 'Ridiculous'

CORLEY NEWS SERVICE / SAN DIEGO UNION © 1979 JUDE

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Andrew Young has won postponement of a confrontation between the United States and the Arab world over a resolution on Palestinian rights.

But there's a rub. The Arabs said they agreed to the postponement only "for Andy," and Young, who resigned as U.N. ambassador over an unauthorized meeting with the Palestine Liberation Organization, will be gone next month.

Arab officials made it clear Friday the confrontation over a resolution calling for "self-determination, national independence, and sovereignty" for the Palestinians was put off, not canceled.

The officials said the Palestinian issue will arise again in the Security Council, most likely in early October — after Young's successor is named.

Friday's decision to avoid a vote and a veto — which Young as the American delegate would have had to cast — was made by PLO leader Yasser Arafat in the Middle East.

"We cannot let circumstances push Andrew Young, this great man, to cast the veto," said Arafat in a telegram read in the Council by Kuwaiti Ambassador Abdullah Yacoub Bisharra.

Young's possibly final public appearance in the chamber was in keeping with his stormy stay in the sensitive U.N. post. He gave a blunt statement of the international scene, criticizing the State Department, Israeli settlements and Palestinian violence.

He called the State Department's order to ban meetings between the PLO and the United States "ridiculous."

"I have no regrets about violating the ridiculous rule about not communicating with the PLO," he said. "I walked into it with my eyes open. I had a fundamental disagreement with the policy and I kept quiet about it for two and a half years. Now in some small way I may have opened up a channel of communication."

"It is a ridiculous policy for the United States not to speak to the PLO. It's also ridiculous for many of you sitting around this table not to have relations with Israel."

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Andrew Young, controversial to the end, disagreed openly with his government in his swan song at the United Nations, telling the Security Council the United States is pursuing a "ridiculous" policy by ignoring the Palestine Liberation Organization.

But Young, who resigned after being censured for misrepresenting an unauthorized meeting with a member of the Palestine Liberation Organization, pulled off a major diplomatic breakthrough Friday for the Carter administration by obtaining a postponement of the vote on a resolution the United States was committed to veto.

The resolution called for "self-determination, national independence and sovereignty" for the Palestinians, and a veto would have further alienated its Arab oil suppliers. And the Arabs, announcing the postponement, said, "We are doing it for Andy."

"It is a tribute to Young ... it has nothing to do with the State Department," Kuwaiti Ambassador Abdullah Yacoub Bisharra, a spokesman for the Arab bloc, said.

He said the order for the postponement came from PLO leader Yasser Arafat. "We cannot let circumstances push Andrew Young, this great man, to cast the veto," said Arafat in a telegram read by Bisharra.

As Young, Security Council president for August, rose for his possible last public appearance in the chamber, a hush fell on the room.

"If I may take the liberty, I would like to express some personal thoughts," he said stressing he was speaking to his "delegate" friends and not as the American envoy.

"I have no regrets about violating the ridiculous (U.S. government) rule about not communicating with the PLO," he said. "It is a ridiculous policy for the United States not to speak to the PLO. It's also ridiculous for many of you sitting around this table not to have relations with Israel."

It was the first time in U.N. history a council president has told that body — the top decision-making unit at the world organization — that he disagrees with his government.

County Residents Will Get Credits On Power Bills

By DONNA ESTES
 Herald Staff Writer

Residents in the unincorporated areas of Seminole County who have been paying franchise fees as part of their power bills from the Florida Power and Light Co. will be receiving credits on their November bills said Scott Burns, district manager of the utility, today.

How much will the credit to each customer in the unincorporated area be? That will not be known until the order is received from the Florida Public Service Commission (PSC), Burns said.

The Florida Supreme Court gave the PSC an opinion that it is improper for customers living in non-franchise areas (the unincorporated areas) to pay franchise fees to be returned to city government.

The order means only customers living within franchise areas will pay the fees.

"We (FPL) have received notice the ruling will be to collect franchise fees from city residents only, and by November to credit the power bills in the unincorporated areas," Burns said.

The Supreme Court opinion and PSC order does not affect the amount of franchise fees the city of Sanford will receive, Burns said. The city has budgeted to receive $400,000. The amount collected by the city in the 1979-1980 fiscal year to begin Oct. 1.

Burns said the Supreme Court directed FPL in January to continue using the "spread" method in collecting franchise fees from its out of city residents and to use the "direct" method in collecting the bills of city residents. All of the fees collected under both methods, Burns said, were ordered placed in escrow.

The spread method, he explained, calls for franchise paid to cities to be levied equally over a service area without regard to whether the electrical service is within or outside a city. The direct method, he said, calls for all the franchise fees paid to a city to be collected as part of the power bills of residents of that city.

The franchise fees collected by FPL during the past eight months was ordered placed in escrow pending the decision by the state Supreme Court on which method was appropriate.

"It appears the credits will be made in the month of November. The length of time and the amount of the refund is awaiting the final order," Burns said.

The Supreme Court opinion and PSC ruling ends the two-year battle waged by residents of unincorporated areas against the method of collecting franchise fees for city government.

In Seminole County Commissioner William Kirchhoff, speaking before the Seminole County Legislative Delegation, sought legislation outlawing the practice. He called the fees to out-of-city residents "taxation without representation."

Fred J. Harris of 3104

County Club Road also complained to the PSC about the practice. He complained as well to the Florida Public Service Commission (PSC) at the time.

The PSC at the time ruled that the franchise fees were part of the FPL's cost of doing business and collected from all its customers. The Supreme Court at that time upheld the practice.

100 Juveniles Repay Misdeds By Work

During the past four months 100 juveniles charged with offenses ranging from misdemeanors to felonies have contributed 4,000 hours of labor, valued at $14,000, to six governmental and civic activities in Seminole County.

They didn't volunteer to do the variety of jobs which included cleaning out ditches, assisting police officers and clerical work. They really had no choice.

The 40 to 120 hours labor of each was meted out as "sentences" (penalties) by 11th Circuit Judge Kenneth Laffler acting as juvenile judge.

"The sentences are intended for swift consequences. The consequences have to be immediate, positive and carried out. The purpose is to show young people they cannot break the law and trespass on other people's rights without suffering the consequences," said Eugene D. Minietta, executive director of Youth Programs Inc., a non-profit organization.

The organization has been charged by Judge Laffler with supervising the new program. Ma. Phyllis Oliva is work program director for this Sanford police department.

"If the sentence is enough to straighten out the youths, we have accomplished what we wished to," Minietta said. He said the program is not designed to rehabilitate. "There is not enough time for that. But the judge believes that young people can be turned around with a sanction so there will be no need to send them away," Minietta said.

The governmental and civic organizations participating in the program by providing useful work for the young people are the Lake Mary Public Works Department, Alamosa Springs streets and parks department, the Sanford police department, Samaritan Home, Good Samaritan Home, Renaissance Exceptional Child Center, and the Seminole County Sheriff's Department.

"The work is not heavy work," said Minietta. The young people are split up into supervised groups to do the various jobs for the agencies. In exchange for their work, the young people maintain the grounds around the office, Minietta said.

"They have done one tremendous job in our city," said Lake Mary City Manager Phil Nelson. "I've never seen them so clean and so well dressed as they are now."

Maxine Richardson, work supervisor, observes as young people clear underbrush for a public service project in Lake Mary.

"They have cleaned out some ditches, cleared some brush, trimmed trees where branches were low and scrubbing cars parked underneath. They are saving Lake Mary a lot of money. We couldn't have done these things with our budget as tight as it is," he said.

Minietta said the program was recommended by Judge Laffler's community control advisory group. The group helped develop and obtain a contract for personnel to supervise the youth under the federally funded Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA).

The youths are selected for the program by Judge Laffler, Minietta said, based on the judge's own judgment and a recommendation from the state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services (DRHS).

Where the young people have full time jobs, Ma. Oliva said, they work in the program on Saturdays and Sundays. When school starts, she said, the youths in some instances will work in the early evening right after school.

"There are very few girls in the program," Ma. Oliva said. "Most of the participants are boys."

The program inhibits the young people's freedom for a given number of hours doing jobs they have not elected to do. But they are working hard," she said.

Ma. Oliva added that counselors are available to speak to the participants, and the program requires a consultation once every week with the youth, his family and the counselor. At the same time, she said, the counselor encourages high school dropouts to go to classes to obtain their high school equivalency certificate.

"We have to keep track of the hours the kids work and they come under our organization's workmen's compensation program," Minietta said.

Among those who assisted in creating the program, Minietta said, was Casselberry Police Chief George Karcher. "Chief Karcher has also brought our need for a vehicle to transport the young people to job sites to the attention of the Rotary Club," he said.

Was District 'Arrogant'?

By SHARON CARRASCO
 Herald Staff Writer

The Seminole County school district is busily taking depositions and gathering information in preparation for its suit against architects and contractors for leaky roofs of 12 county schools, Ned Julian Jr., school district attorney, said today.

The school district filed suits in 1977 and 1978 against architect Eoghan Kelley who designed the roofs for the schools. The school district according to Julian, is paying $5.5 million to correct the roof situation. A host of other defendants are named in the suits.

Julian would not speculate on when the trial would be held before Circuit Judge Robert McGregor.

Friday, McGregor refused to dismiss the school suits, as requested by the attorney for Kelley and roofing manufacturer W.R. Grace on the grounds the school district failed to supply information at a time designated by the court, Julian said. The court now has that information.

McGregor is reported to have called the school district's failure a case of "outright arrogance."

Julian, who said he failed to ask the court for an extension, was "relieved" by the judge's ruling.

The judge did order the school district to pay the defense attorney's fees and transportation costs as a penalty, Julian said. He said he didn't know how much the school district would be billed.

Hugh Carlton, director of auxiliary services, was also accused of being "arrogant" in gathering the information. Carlton said the demands of his other duties pre-empted him from completing the task on time.

"My responsibilities are many and varied and I worked on them every time I had slack room," Carlton explained. "... I am required by the state, for example, to inspect every capital outlay project once a week. Who am I going to slide, the state or the court?"

Carlton said the judge was supplied with 16 volumes of information, some measuring 1 1/2 inches thick. "We were asked literally thousands of questions," he said.
