

DR. L. F. LAMB Which Fish Has Most Fat?

DEAR DR. LAMB—You had a column about salmon. I am on a low-fat and low-cholesterol diet. On the list given to me by my doctor it states to "avoid any canned fish in oil." It seems most fish are canned with oil added, and it is usually soybean oil. Now, I usually have fresh fish, halibut or turbot. But occasionally I find it inconvenient to prepare fish, and I have purchased canned salmon. The cans do not include any statement that oil has been added so I presume it hasn't been. Right?

You stated that different kinds of salmon had different amounts of fat. The salmon here is labeled "Alaska Sockeye" or "Pink." I would like to have you clarify your fat statements. My nutritional book doesn't break down canned salmon into varieties but simply states "canned salmon is 13.2 per cent fat by weight."

DEAR READER—First, canned salmon does not have added oil. You are right on that. Many fish are very low in fat, and when canned, oil is added for the taste. But, you can get water-packed tuna in most places.

It makes a lot of difference whether you are talking about the percentage of the weight as fat or the percentage of the calories that are fat, because a gram of fat contains a lot more calories than a gram of protein. Here's how the main types of canned salmon stack up (values include liquids and solids in the can):

1. Chinook (king)—14 per cent

2. Coho (silver)—7.1 per cent of its weight is fat; 42.2 per cent of its calories are fat.
3. Chum—5.2 per cent of its weight is fat; 30.4 per cent of its calories are fat.
4. Pink (humpback)—5.9 per cent of its weight is fat; 38.1 per cent of its calories are fat.
5. Sockeye (red)—9.2 per cent of its weight is fat; 49.4 per cent of its calories are fat.

These figures are based on the U.S. Department of Agriculture. For more information on composition of foods you can get my book, "What You Need to Know About Food and Cooking for Health" (Viking Press).

DEAR DR. LAMB—Perhaps the reader who wrote about his periodontal problem with his teeth would be encouraged to know that in 1934 I was also told that I would lose all my teeth in three months. I went to another dentist who gave me the treatment you described in your column. After 40 years of treating my teeth every six months, I finally had to get a partial denture for only four molars at the age of 69.

DEAR READER—Thank you for your thoughtful letter. Other readers have also written to tell their experience of losing the bone around their teeth and reported having saved their teeth for 20 years or longer.

The point is that if you have loose teeth, bleeding gums, and bone loss, something can usually be done about it rather than have your teeth pulled.

DEAR DR. LAMB—The proposed neighborhood shopping center on State Road 434 will not proceed until the developer feels that the population warrants the size of the proposed center. With development slowed to a snail's pace, that anticipated population could easily be several years down the road.

The only public building in the city is the police trailer. The city's first public school is under construction and occupation is expected by January of 1975. Another public building, the Fire Station-City Hall is proceeding according to schedule. Scheduled completion for that building is December of this year.

An application will be presented to the Board of Adjustment for a proposed Cumberland Farms building which will include two additional rental units. It is to be located east of the police trailer and south of State Road 64. Although that site has a commercial zoning designation, a special exception is needed because the city codes do not provide for grocery or convenience stores in commercial areas.

The school situation here in Winter Springs is still controversial. Parents of children who will be based 23% (round trip) miles to Jackson Heights Middle School are not taking the School Board's rejection without protest. They are still asking for additions to either the Teague or South Seminole Middle Schools.

Gathering momentum in the elementary school age group, is the request for a bus for the children in Meadowlark and Hacienda Village who, because they live less than two miles from the school site, will be forced to walk a busy highway which will be under construction according to state plans.

The only battle Winter Springs citizens have successfully fought with the school board involves the high school group. The board had first proposed that all grades in the city be transferred to Oviedo, or supply their own transportation, but after protest, finally agreed that remain at Lynnman to be provided, and a bus would be provided.

The Winter Springs Youth Group is having a problem finding a place to hold their meetings and dances. They had been using the Winter Springs Community Association Recreation Building, but according to that group's president, Howard Alford, it is inconvenient to keep the building open while the association does not meet during the summer.

Nancy's Newsnotes

In June of 1972 Winter Springs was in the middle of a building boom. By November of that year, 60 houses a day were going up with revenue to the city reaching the neighborhood of $3,000 a month from building permits alone.

By July of 1973, things had slowed to the point that six houses, four condominiums and five miscellaneous permits for building were issued. Revenue for that month for building permits dropped to approximately $500.

In July of this year there was only one house, eight pools and six miscellaneous building (enclosures, additions) in progress for a net total in building permits of around $300 in revenue.

A tour of the city reveals that development is almost at a standstill. Tight money and inflation are blamed.

Developments in progress such as Windaood, Highlands, Indian Ridge, Terraces, and Ponce are proceeding at an extremely slow pace.

Western Lands 998 unit called Crooked Creek, has been approved, but no building is in progress at this time, although the approval was granted six months ago.

Commercial development remains dormant. There are still only three convenience stores in the city and according to the city's building inspector there are no plans for commercial development.

This Gal's Got Answers

NEW YORK (AP)—Lila Burkeman, one of a select group of persons who know where to get bagels in London on Sunday.

In many careers she has had during her 30-year career, Mrs. Burkeman has been everything from fashion model to literary agent. Last January she combined her varied experiences to create "Everything You're Always Wanted to Know About London and Didn't Know Who To Ask," a referral service for the American in London for business or pleasure.

For a yearly subscription fee she and her one assistant will answer questions about London that would likely stump the Queen: What do you wish your mother were doing? Where to get a landau in a hurry? How to rent a screening room? Who is Michael Caine's agent; and practically everything else you may think to ask. Mrs. Burkeman will also plan any type of party, move you into a house, escort you around the city personally and, she promises, "save you money." Non-subscribers can be helped for a special fee.

"So far I've not been stumped," reports the vivacious brunette, who looks much like Barbra Streisand, though she admits she herself cannot sing. There's good reason for her being an aficionado of London life. Her life began there, and she has lived it all there, through a marriage which ended in divorce, two kids and a slew of odd jobs, including a year as assistant to Broadway and Hollywood producers and directors working in London.

The referral company evolved out of boredom, Mrs. Burkeman explained in an interview here. "I'm asked to do a lot of different things," she says happily. "One day I'm asked to find someone an apartment and the next day I'm out hunting for antique fur jackets. I'm kept very busy, but most important of all, I'm having a ball."

"I've found that I'm not as ambitious as I thought I was. My lifelong ambition is to have a life-long ambition. I don't plan next week, much less forever. I love what I'm doing, but the minute it stops being pleasant, I'll do something else."

"Also, I know many people in different businesses who came over from New York and wanted me to help them set up work in London. I got to thinking there must be some way I could formulate a service to help people who are not native Londoners to get around the city."

For it seems that the star-witness, the victim, in fact, had decided two days prior to the trial that a little fortifying at a local watering spot would be necessary.

Just a medicinal potion, mind you.

Her husband managed to reach the state attorney's office the morning of the trial to warn that, well, all might not flow smoothly. By that time the gentle lady had removed herself to the rear of the courtroom.

When her case was called, the startled ears of prosecutor Miller, Judge Johnson, and the assembled jurors were treated to a verbal display normally reserved for presidential transcripts.

Plas for restraint fell on deaf ears, and the judge was forced to declare the witness in contempt of court, and have her removed to the tender care of Sheriff John Polk and the gentlemen in charge of the county jail.

Howard Miller, his first case shot higher than a moon rocket, stood silently for a moment, then decided to view the event as another of the character-building episodes a Divine Providence seems to supply on occasion.

"But I can honestly say that I didn't expect to have to put my own first witness into jail," he added.

A familiar sight to Florida motorists is a large truck heavily laden with sand making unscheduled deliveries along the highway—usually in your face (windshield).

Help is coming soon. Oct. 1 an amendment to the Florida law takes effect, requiring that haulers of dirt, sand, lime rock, gravel, silica, trash and garbage "cover their load with a tarpaulin."

Until then, only vehicles under the jurisdiction of the Public Service Commission (PSC) are required to have coverings.

According to Charles Roan, investigator for the PSC, commission started the crackdown for the covering of "topsoil trucks." Roan said that after trucks were being singled out for each trip and neither drivers nor owners have received tickets for having debris fall on the road.

Under the present law, citations may be issued only if the officer sees the matter fall or blow from the vehicle, but "any device" may be used to keep it from doing so.

D. L. & M. Landclearing Co. drivers have not received tickets, according to the spokesman. Their nine trucks usually travel short distances, said the spokesman, and one was stopped on SR 400 but was given a warning.

The spokesman added that "whenever the load requires covering, it's covered." The company is based in Longwood.

Jim Keane, dispatcher for Allen R. Pyle Landclearing Co., Altonville Springs said that in the last two weeks, their drivers have received 12 tickets from area law enforcement agencies.

Keane stated that some of the tickets specifically stated "load not covered," despite the fact the law had not gone into effect.

"It's cheaper for us to pay the fine than to fight it," continued Keane. "The police officer testifying usually says that the load was blowing anyway."

Keane added that the usual fine is $30, "but if we bring in a truck and show the judge, he will cut the fine in half. But it saves us only $15 dollars which we lose when taking the truck off service."

They said Ford won't disclose the name of his choice vice president in the address. The search for his successor won't be complete until late in the week, one aide said.

With a whirlwind series of 11 White House meetings on Sunday, Ford accelerated his consultations with congressional and political friends, who said women and Democrats are among those being considered for the No. 2 post.

After the meetings, Ford told a newsmen "I'm not ruling out anything or anybody." Other sources said it was highly unlikely that he would stray from a list of about a dozen GOP leaders in making his selection.

Republican national chairman George Bush emerged from Sunday's meetings with the backing of an influential conservative, Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz.

"He's Mr. Clean and that's what the country wants," Goldwater said of Bush, a former Texas congressman and U.S. ambassador to the United Nations.

Goldwater, one of the 11 friends and advisers Ford met with in the separate meetings, also ranks high on the list of possibilities. He said he hasn't seeking the job but "sure, I'd accept it."

Bush's name also was mentioned by House GOP Whip Leslie C. Arends of Illinois after his meeting with Ford.

Ford To Call For Unity, Pledge Inflation Battle

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Ford goes before Congress tonight to call for national unity after the splintering era of Watergate while pledging his administration to fresh efforts to combat inflation.

Pausing briefly in his broad search for a vice president, Ford conferred with his advisers and worked on the speech as he began his third full day in office.

His address before a joint session of the House and Senate, scheduled for 9 p.m. EDT, is to be telecast and broadcast nationally.

Aides said the new chief executive would promise "full, fresh efforts" to stabilize the economy. In the words of one spokesman, Ford sees inflation as "Public Enemy No. 1."

Arriving from his suburban home at 7:25 a.m., Ford beat many of his White House aides and went directly to his Oval Office, where in the next three hours he held meetings with transition adviser Donald Rumsfeld, holdover White House staff chief Alexander M. Haig, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and Press Secretary Jerald F. terHorst.

Aides indicated Ford would not set out a specific anti-inflation program in tonight's address, though detailed proposals will follow soon.

His address was expected to stress the need for national conciliation and would outline the "spirit and the tone of his administration," aides said.

Honest, I'm Not The President!

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (AP)—From the barrooms in Middle America to the salons of Paris come the telephone calls to Gerald T. Ford on who should be picked as vice president.

The leading contenders? California Gov. Ronald Reagan and Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz.

But groaned Gerald T. Ford: "I try to tell them I'm not the President. I'm Gerald Terney Ford—the accountant. I'm young and I've got my hair."

The 21-year-old Ford has an Alexandria address—as does President Gerald R. Ford, who lives 5 miles away from his home. He has an unlimited telephone number. Bachelor Ford said his phone began ringing, and hasn't stopped, since the eve of Richard Nixon's resignation.

"The first few times I thought it was a joke," said Ford. "I played along. But now they're calling at two or three o'clock in the morning. It's a pain in the neck."

State Cuts Welfare Rolls; Buys Land

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—Nearly 60,000 persons have been cut from Florida welfare rolls since the state Family Services Department stopped accepting an applicant's word that he needs help.

Department spokesman Rex Newman said the state began requiring documents and pre-employment information on all applicants in January 1973 and checking on eligibility has increased every since.

State records show the number on the welfare rolls was reduced from 84,822 cases involving 331,172 persons on Jan. 1, 1973, to 79,225 cases involving 271,940 persons on June 30, 1974.

Newman said if the biggest reduction among any of the large states surveyed recently was Florida's, Newman said the state Health and Rehabilitative Services Department. The stiffer eligibility requirements have also led to an increased number of prosecutions for welfare fraud.

Newman said more than 2,000 cases were referred to local prosecutors for possible fraud action during the fiscal year ended June 30, he said.

The state attorneys have followed up and obtained guilty pleas or convictions in approximately 95 per cent of those cases, he said.

The crackdown followed the PSC's decision not to use the federal "simplified eligibility" plan which required only an applicant's word, Newman said.

Instead, social workers double check information and, since last January, have compared the applicant's reported income with the earnings his employer reported, for workmen's compensation purposes, Newman said.

There's no shortage of proposals on spending the money but it has taken up to a year to complete action on any one of them. By last week, 466 proposals had been made to the Department of Natural Resources.

The Cabinet, meanwhile, has limited development of 830,820 acres of the Big Cypress Swamp and 322,650 acres of the Green Swamp by designating each an area of critical state concern. A 1972 law allows the state to limit development on 5 per cent of its land area, or 1.67 million acres, by such designations.

Another 1972 program, a $40 million bond issue to buy park and recreation lands, is nearly completed.

The Department of Natural Resources has agreed to spend $26 million for park lands near Fort Pierce, Fort Lauderdale and West Palm Beach and is authorized to spend $10 million on two projects in the Tampa Bay area.

The critical state concern program under the Department of Administration moves slowest, taking two years or more from the time a project is suggested until state and local planners finish development negotiations.

John Squire, a Natural Resources outdoor recreation planner, said speculators cause problems for the endangered lands program by jacking up prices when they learn the state may acquire a particular site.

No Shortage Of Proposals

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—Two years after Florida voters authorized $200 million in bonds to buy environmentally endangered lands, one-third of the money has been spent or committed.

Tired of having sand kicked in your face? When you're not even at the beach?

Or if you live in Florida are you tired of having sand thrown at your automobile?

Well, the ball is still control the beaches, but the legislature is coming to the aid of your automobile.

Crocheted Poncho Has Fringe Benefit

By JUDY LOVE
The poncho has lots of fringe benefits and you may want to start making one for fall. It's got the big, free-swinging collar that's this minute's fashion "must." It pops over layers of bulky sweaters, shirts, pants or skirts, getting it all together with dash and snash.

Here's a perky fringed poncho with lots of fashion punch. It's a natural with blue jeans, a great warm-up on cooler days. Best of all, it's easy as can be to crocheted. You could get "hooked" and make two or three.

The yarn for this caper is perfect for the creatively casual crocheters who love to put a lot of themselves in the work. It's Malina's denim look yarn, in three year-happy outdoor shades. You do a variegated tie-dye effect yourself using 8 ounces each of blends 1, 2 and 3. Work a few stitches in one color, then change to another, for an effect that's individually yours.

A bouancy pompon and a flutter of fringe finish off your poncho. You'll need a size 1 or J pompon maker, 2 1/2 inches in diameter.

For crocheting instructions for the poncho, send 50 cents to Stitchin' Time, in care of the Evening Herald, Radio City Station, Box 582, New York, N.Y. 10012. Ask for leaflet CS97 and be sure to enclose your name, address, and zip code.

KNITKNACKS
Dear Judy Love: You're just beginning to learn how to knit and I find one of the hardest things about it is judging how much yarn to use for casting on. So often I'll run out of yarn before I have enough stitches cast on the needle. Is there some way of knowing how much yarn to use for casting on?—J.G., Lincoln, Nebraska.

Dear J.G.: I have found one way to eliminate this problem by using two skeins of yarn. Use one skein to form the loop, the other skein to pull through the loop, thereby forming the number of stitches needed, just break off one skein—it really doesn't matter which one. Judy Love.

Shell Game Tells Personality

New York (NEA)—One of the easiest, most fun and least expensive ways to put some zip into your wardrobe is with a collection of shells. There's a wide range of colors, neckline treatments and styling detail in the new shell line. Jewel, turtle, cardigan, V and mock turtle. Newest note is a neckline accentuated with Belgian loop stitching.

As to your selection of colors, psychologists say you project different facets of your personality via color.

Red — dramatic, dynamic and outgoing.

Yellow — sunny, gay and cheerful.

Green — serene and calm.

Blue — airy, cool in light shades, serious and aloof in navy.

Orange — exciting and vivacious.

Lavender — romantic and sensitive.

Pink — feminine, coquettish.

White — elegant, classic.

Primary color choices, say experts, denote extrovert characteristics, the muted and pastel shades project a more discreet, circumspect personality. And, of course, as everyone knows every woman is secretly, if not openly, an actress. So here's your chance to indulge your actress nature.

Raid your jewelry box to get in character with the fashion personality you want to project. If you choose a red shell, add more drama with a gold filigree lace bracelet and a jeweled chain belt with chunky colorful stones for drama.

NATION IN BRIEF

Nixon Remained Aloof

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — As President Nixon possibly remained aloof from dozens of rarely and lower level White House staffers and only rarely socialized with his top aides, says John D. Ehrlichman. Only two or three times in the four and one-third years that Ehrlichman was a top aide to Nixon did the Nixon and the Ehrlichmans get together socially, Ehrlichman says. Ehrlichman added in an interview Sunday that Nixon's relationship with his then-chief of staff H.R. Haldeman was about the same. Numerous contacts during the working day but only rare private social gettogethers. "That was not because of a character flaw necessarily, but because of his sense of what the relationship ought to be between the President and his staff," he said.

Campaign Paths Cleared

WASHINGTON (AP) — Richard M. Nixon's resignation as President has removed the prospect of long impeachment proceedings and apparently will enable congressmen to do more campaigning for re-election in the fall. This week, Congress intends to maintain the momentum it built up trying to clear the decks for the expected impeachment debate, now canceled.

Pat Nixon's Home Set Afire

CERRITOS, Calif. (AP) — A mysterious firebombing has scarred the green-shuttered home where Mrs. Richard M. Nixon spent her girlhood. Police said they had neither motive nor suspects for the early Sunday firebombing, but said "an unidentified flammable liquid was poured on the south wall of the recreation hall attached to the home." The fire, spotted by a paper boy, was extinguished by Los Angeles County firemen in about five minutes, doing only about $1,500 damage, a spokesman said. "The home where Thelma 'Pat' Ryan lived as a child stands in the center of a 4-acre historical park named for her and dedicated to children. Mrs. Nixon was born in Ely, Nev., in 1912, but the next year her family moved to this little house in Cerritos when her father started farming in nearby Arroyo.

Will Ford Boost GOP Chances?

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford will have two early chances to show whether he takes the task of building a strengthened national Republican party more seriously than his two GOP predecessors. The first will come when he picks a vice president, the second in his approach to November's midterm election. For all of their own personal success at the polls, neither Dwight D. Eisenhower nor Richard M. Nixon paid much attention to restoring the national Republican dominance that prevailed before Franklin D. Roosevelt's election to the presidency in 1932. Eisenhower, the war hero turned statesman, had little interest. Nixon, a party man all his life, became more and more interested in his own political fortunes exclusively. One of the legacies of the 1972 campaign, besides the scandal that ultimately drove him from office, was the bitterness in the GOP over the President's party moderate, either an established figure such as Nelson A. Rockefeller or a younger Republican such as Gov. Daniel J. Evans of Washington, Sen. Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon or Sen. Edward W. Brooke of Massachusetts. If GOP liberals feel a great chance would be wasted if Ford picked a fellow conservative, such as Sen. Barry Goldwater or Gov. Ronald Reagan, especially since the choice must be approved by the Democratic-controlled Congress, rather than a conservatively based GOP National Convention.

Some efforts this fall in behalf of Republicans seem inevitable, and an extended Ford honeymoon could be a big boost to GOP candidates. Before that, however, Ford must pick his No. 2 man, and the choice will tell much about his views on the party. In the past, Ford has talked of the need to broaden the GOP base, a view that led him to help liberal Republicans as well as conservatives and to suggest in 1968 that Nixon choose a liberal running mate. Such a view now would appear to dictate the choice of a Teamsters chief Frank E. Fitzsimons, a staunch ally of former President Richard M. Nixon, said his union is "ready to unite" behind Ford. President Jerry Wurf of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees union, referred to Ford's conservatism but said "we are willing to work with him on the very real problems facing the country." "He was a man you could see and understand," Wurf said. "This was not a man who was unapproachable."

Both Ford and labor regard inflation as the No. 1 problem facing the country and the new President is expected to call for reduced government spending while urging business and labor to restrain wage and price increases. Despite the promised cooperation, workers are unlikely to react too favorably.

Organized Labor Supports Ford

WASHINGTON (AP) — Organized labor has pledged support for the new President despite Gerald R. Ford's nearly solid anti-labor voting record in Congress. President Jerry Wurf of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees union, referred to Ford's conservatism but said "we are willing to work with him on the very real problems facing the country." "He was a man you could see and understand," Wurf said. "This was not a man who was unapproachable."

United Fund Sets $125,000 Goal

United Fund of Seminole County has set a goal of $125,000 for its fund raising campaign to begin Sept. 24, according to Thomas E. Hunt, Sanford Southern Bell Co. manager and this year's campaign chairman. Hunt, calling the goal "realistic," said the total is necessary if the county's 12 member agencies are to be maintained. United Fund president Jack Horner said the goal was set by the 58 member board of directors after requests from the agencies were reviewed. Member agencies include boy and girl scouts, USO, YMCA, Salvation Army, Good Samaritan Home, the Seminole Mental Health Association, the Children's Home Society, Red Cross, Mid-Florida Center for Alcoholics, Central Florida Sheltered Workshop and Catholic Social Services. "Thanks to you, it's working," is the theme of the 1974 campaign. Leonard F. Urinas is president-elect of the organization.

Parrot's Chatter Treetop Diversion

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — Patrick the parrot whistles, talks and sings Spanish arias from his treetop perch. It may be a pleasant diversion for the neighborhood, but it's driving the bird's owners crazy. Patrick used to perform in the screened-in backyard of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Ingle. Last Friday the yellow Amazon parrot found a hole in the screen and flew out. Now, perched high in a treetop down the block, Patrick refuses to come home. Mrs. Ingle says the fire department, telephone company and municipally owned electric utility have refused her pleas for assistance. She said a professional tree climber came out Saturday but couldn't get to the bird before it flew into an even higher tree. The same thing happened Sunday when a zoo worker who does tree topping tried to get Patrick down. Mrs. Ingle said, "Why, he must be 70 feet up... and he doesn't have very big feet, up there in those little branches." She's also worried about high winds, nighttime temperatures and lack of food or water for the five-year-old parrot.

Tightened Military Belt Foretold by Ford Aide

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although a strong defense advocate, President Ford will make the Pentagon pull in its belt to save money, close associates predict. The first belt-tightening move may come within two months. A source familiar with Ford's thinking says the Pentagon "probably will have to eat" a pay increase of about $1.5 billion due in October for more than 2,160,000 military men and women and about one million civilian employees. "By this, the source said, he meant the Pentagon will have to absorb the increased cost, perhaps by cutting the number of personnel below levels planned by the Nixon administration. Some of those advising Ford believe the biggest spending cuts should come in manpower costs, which now account for about 45 per cent of the defense budget. Besides pay, such costs cover housing, food, clothing, medical care and other support of military personnel and their families. A new White House push to trim military manpower further could bring the first strain between the new President and Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger, who has said U.S. forces already are thin. Associates of both men say Ford and Schlesinger agree on most major defense questions, including a cautious approach to a new strategic arms limitation agreement with Russia. Like Schlesinger, Ford has called attention to the pace of Soviet weapons developments and said that "to prevent a serious imbalance, we must continue to modernize and improve the readiness of our combat forces." While supporting détente as a goal, Ford has said, "we must insure that our good will is not misinterpreted as lack of will." "I, sure, who served for years on the House Defense Appropriations subcommittee, supports many of the key weapons programs which have been urged by Schlesinger and former President Richard M. Nixon.

WORLD IN BRIEF

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — The Cyprus peace talks among the foreign ministers of Britain, Turkey and Greece nearly collapsed Sunday over Turkey's demand that the island be divided among its Turkish and Greek populations. But at the last minute Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger intervened, telephoning Turkish Premier Bulent Ecevit in Ankara and urging him to keep the talks alive. The peace talks finally convened late Sunday but little progress was reported.

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union affirmed Sunday its intent to pursue the process of U.S.-U.S.S.R. detente with President Ford. "The destiny of the world depends to a large degree on U.S.S.R. and the U.S.A. and the process of detente." Pravda stressed that the changing of presidents was an internal American affair. But it added that the event could not be ignored by the world.

Nixon Key Suspect In Tape Erasure

WASHINGTON—The Watergate prosecutors are investigating the possibility that Richard Nixon himself may have erased the famous 18 1/2 minute segment from the tape of his June 19, 1972, conversation with H.R. Haldeman.

The missing discussion, according to Haldeman's notes, dealt with the Watergate break-in.

55 Mile Per Hour Limit Fast Enough

The National Safety Council has estimated that 6,000 fewer persons were killed in automobile accidents in the first half of the 1974 than in 1973.

The council, whose statistics and predictions have been amazingly accurate over the years, attributes a significant percentage of the decrease to the 55-miles-per-hour speed limit imposed during the gasoline shortage.

How Long Can Teddy Cover Up?

The fifth anniversary of Senator Kennedy's aquatic misfortune at Chappaquiddick has touched off a round of retrospective pieces in the press which bode very ill indeed for the presidential prospects of the young son of the House of Kennedy.

Do you remember the "New York Times," which does nothing by accident, commemorated the event with a long article in its Sunday magazine section, going over the whole episode in excruciating detail and raising just about every imaginable question concerning Kennedy's behavior before, during and after the tragedy.

To date, Senator Kennedy has insisted that the truth is "all in the record" — meaning presumably, his television account to the nation on July 25, 1969 — and has steadfastly refused to budge when that account was questioned concerning it.

The analogy to Nixon's famous tactic is more apt than it may at first appear. Chappaquiddick and Watergate are of course, widely differing episodes, both in their essential scope and perhaps (though this is less clear) in their moral implications.

Better Way

The government is initiating the first phase of a program which demonstrates sound thinking and good administration. Social Security recipients will be given the option of having their checks deposited directly in their checking or savings account.

My own guess is that Kennedy will not in fact be able to resist forever the demands for total disclosure, and that the damage such disclosure will ultimately do him increases with every month that is delayed. Of course, Kennedy knows very well that his enemies would not settle for the whole truth even if he told it, like Nixon's in his political consequences, and these will be stretched out, in the form of further invidious questions and damaging speculations and hurtful hypotheses, to the crack of doom.

Big-League Numbers Game

By IRA BERKOW The Herald Services NEW YORK — (NEA) — The single most prestigious thing to happen to the black man in baseball may be that he has never been chosen a big-league manager.

changes at such a top level of management would be destructive. Internal morale owners bumble, the game, incredibly, survives. Apparently, the product is so good that it team has kept on with one manager. That is the Los Angeles Dodgers, with Walter Alton. The Dodgers have new pennants, come close to owners, fallen into the second division, returned to the top of the standings. Alton has remained. It may be more than coincidence that Doger owner Walter O'Malley has by far the most successful operation in baseball. He draws more fans, makes more money, pleases more customers (with the cleanest and best-appointed park), and his team wins as many or more games than any competitor.

When you are a kid, and playing Little League baseball in New York, you worship winning. I can honestly say that with the exception of the time the Dodgers beat the Yanks in the World Series, I can't really recall seeing the Bombers lose a game until Pittsburgh beat them in 1960.
