

ABOUT PEOPLE AND EVENTS

BEING A RESUME OF SANFORD HAPPENINGS
UP-TO-DATE

Thimble Party

A delightfully informal event of the week was the thimble party, Tuesday afternoon, at which Mrs. Anna Walker was hostess to her old friends and neighbors of the West Side, at her new home on Magnolia avenue. An interesting guessing game, the Bell contest was enjoyed by the guests, Mrs. Harvey Renfro and Mrs. Deane Turner tying for the prize. In the cut Mrs. Renfro won, the prize being a dainty linen handkerchief.

Miss Eva Walker was assisted by Miss Beattie Williamson in serving the delicious refreshments, ice tea, cake and sandwiches. An amusing coincidence of the afternoon was the fact that it was the third time Mrs. Deane Turner had tied for the prize in this house and always lost in the cut.

Mrs. Walker's guests were Mesdames Harvey Renfro, Deane Turner, C. R. Walker, Savage, A. D. Smith, W. H. Peters, Ensminger, Terheun and Pattie Renfro.

Supper Party

An old fashioned birthday party was given by Mrs. W. H. H. Allen on Wednesday evening, complimentary to Mr. Allen.

The supper table was dainty and attractive with its display of snowy linen, silver and glassware and bountiful spread of good things to eat, served in the good old fashioned way. The supper was savory and appetizing and consisted of fried chicken, creamed potatoes, potato salad, sliced tomatoes, hot buns, assorted pickles and preserves, ice cream and cake, to which the guests did full justice.

Those invited were Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Hawkins, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Duncan and children, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Powell, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Balk and little daughter, Mrs. May Dickins, Mr. Oscar Vernon and Mr. L. P. McCuller.

Auction Bridge

The Wednesday auction bridge club was entertained by Mrs. R. E. Tolar, Wednesday afternoon. There was one table of players, Mrs. John Bennett making top score and winning the club prize, a fine deck of cards.

Vanilla-ice cream in cantaloupes was served at the close of the game.

Those present were Mrs. John Bennett, Mrs. Deane Turner, Mrs. G. Speer and Mrs. Tolar.

Fourth of July Party

Mrs. Deane Turner was the gracious hostess at a patriotic party Thursday afternoon, complimentary to her mother, Mrs. M. C. Savage.

The rooms were lovely in their decorations of flags and cut flowers artistically arranged together. Jardiniere's of red Altheas with flags waving above them were placed about the rooms; upon the piano a graceful bit of color, was a fern dish of red geraniums, flags and ferns; upon the music cabinet and other available places vases of red flowers, ferns and flags carried out the pretty conceit. Large and small flags were upon the walls and in the graceful folds of the window draperies.

A patriotic guessing game occasioned much laughter and fun. The prize, a dainty cup and saucer fell to Mrs. W. H. Peters, who guessed correctly seven out of eight answers. A pleasing feature of the afternoon was the playing of patriotic airs on the Victrola, followed by selections of Nordica, Caruso and other famous artists.

Sherbet and cake were served. Upon the plates were pretty little favours of red cherries and ferns as a memento of this happy occasion.

The hostess was assisted by Mrs. W. H. Peters, Mrs. A. D. Smith and Miss Martha Fox.

Other guests were Mrs. J. K. Mettinger, Mrs. J. C. Ensminger, Mrs. C. R. Walker, Mrs. C. E. Walker, Mrs. Anna Walker, Mrs. H. H. Hill, Mrs. W. H. Hill, Mrs. T. S. Davis, Mrs. Harvey Renfro; Mrs. Charlotte Smith, Mrs. M. C. Tolar, Mrs. R. E. Tolar, Mrs. J. D. Parker, and Mrs. Terheun.

Happy Little Orphans

A delightful feature of the "Smugglerman" matinee Wednesday afternoon was the presence of fourteen children from the Methodist Orphanage at Enterprise, as guests of the Junior Civic League, through Mrs. Gertor who extended the invitation in behalf of the League. After the matinee they were taken to the Seminole Pharmacy as guests of the Welfare Department and treated to ice cream, and then an automobile ride through the city was given them by Mayor Thrasher, Messrs. A. D. Smith and Volle Williams, who generously loaned their cars for this purpose. It was a happy set of youngsters that boarded the boat for the return trip to Enterprise, cordially expressing their appreciation of the courtesies received. Capt. Allen gave the children free transportation. They were accompanied by Mr. Lash. The committee regrets so few of the orphans responded to their invitation as they had included the sixty inmates of the home.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Pattishall and family of Geneva were the guests of Mrs. B. E. Tolar on Tuesday. They came over to see Dr. H. B. Pattishall off for Atlantic Beach, where he goes to attend a meeting of the Dental Association.

Mrs. Ed. Randall will leave for Orlando Sunday to spend three weeks, visiting among friends. Mr. Randall will visit his mother, and father in her absence. Upon Mrs. Randall's return they will move into their pretty new bungalow on First street.

Mrs. Susan Yowell and Mrs. J. D. Barnes of Orlando spent a day in the city last week, the guests of Mrs. J. K. Mettinger.

Miss Beattie Williamson is spending the week end with the Misses Lettie and Annie Lee Caldwell.

Mrs. John Merriman, who has a winter home in Eustis was the guest of Mrs. C. E. Walker several days this week, while enroute to her summer home in Meridan, Conn.

Among the many parties planning to spend the Fourth at Daytona Beach will be Mrs. D. A. Caldwell, Misses Beattie Williamson, Lettie and Annie Lee Caldwell and Mr. David Caldwell. They will motor over this afternoon and remain at the beach over Sunday.

Tall Wagging Muscles.
The wearing of tails is no longer considered fashionable, but that we did once have tails, and are prepared to grow them again should the fashion change, is shown by remains in our pelvis of tall-wagging muscles, now rudimentary and degenerative from lack of use. Wiedersheim calls attention to the remains of arteries and veins which formerly nourished the tail. Gould and Pyle's "Anomalies and Curiosities of Medicine" gives a picture of a child born with a tail. These modern tails, however, are too short for any use, unless it is to make the father stop drinking.—New York Medical Record.

A Calendar for Guest Room.
A special calendar is a splendid thing for the guest room of the country house. A small daily calendar is mounted on a heavy cardboard or leather-covered board, and below it is printed in good-sized but perfectly legible type, or gilt lettering, "Breakfast," "Luncheon," "Tea," "Dinner," "Last Mail Leaves," and any special information the hostess desires her guests to know. The hours for meals and departure of mails are plainly marked, thus saving many questions and often embarrassment on the part of the guests.

Medieval Theaters.
National theaters—of an open-air kind—at one time existed in England, at Parran Round, in Cornwall, testifies. Here we have a vast amphitheater, turfed to seat over 3,000 persons. The beginnings of British dramatic art sprang from these open-air theaters, where the medieval plays were produced—and forgotten. The sands of the Cornish coast may have covered more than one specimen of these pioneer temples of the dramatic art.

Court Sustained!
A Washington chauffeur has been sent to jail for three years for taking a joy ride in his employer's automobile without permission. Courts and public are realizing that drastic measures are necessary to break up the joy-riding practice and the stealing of motor cars for this purpose. The jail sentence is a good experiment along this line. It might be extended to take in all speeders on the public highways.

Happiness Only Comparative.
We may anticipate bliss, but who ever drank of that enchanted cup unlabeled?—Colton.

Tilted Hat for Those Who Can Wear It

THE hat worn at the much-tilted pose shown in the picture is not for every one. It takes a woman whose style is so balanced and pronounced that she can carry off this smart and rakish angle without looking in the least bold. But when the wearer is equal to the emergency there is no getting away from the fact that she has demonstrated that style is a very subtle thing. A means of expression, it is to her, by which she conveys something of herself to those who behold her, even though they may never speak to her.

Many hats of all sorts of materials have been turned out in this shape, or shapes similar to it. They cover nearly all of one side of the face and form a background against which the other side is sharply silhouetted.

The hat pictured this left side is trimmed with a very full ruching of maroon, fitted in tiny side plaits and supported by an upstanding fan of-plaited maline. There is a facing of black velvet all about the underbrim. It forms a piping which outlines the brim edge of straw. The combination of natural leghorn color with the deep black of velvet is very fine. The very low crown in this hat is set into the brim with a second piping of velvet.

The trimming consists of a flat cluster of lovely pink roses shading to a deep rose color at the heart of the flowers. A half dozen half-blown roses are circled round the base of a jet spike, which complete the garnishing of a simple but striking effect of the millinery artist.

The prettiest, or rather the most satisfactory hats in this shape, are those made of black high luster straws or fabrics, trimmed with black maline and a few compact high-colored flowers, or else finished in all black, substituting fruit or ornaments for the flowers. There is something in the brilliant black of Jacquered or high-luster silk surfaces that goes with the pose for which this hat is made. And as a background for a well-modeled profile there is nothing like black velvet. The side face is set in relief like a tinted cameo.

But it is wise to consider whether the style is suited to one, before indulging in it. So there is no harm in reiterating that this hat is not for every one, but for her who can carry it off.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

THE NEED OF BRIDGES OVER THE ST. JOHNS

AUTOMOBILE RACES AT THE BEACH CHOKED TRAFFIC BADLY

INADEQUATE FERRIES DEMAND THE BRIDGES

PEOPLE OF TWO COUNTIES SHOULD GET TOGETHER ON PROPOSITION

The rush of automobiles at the two ferries across the St. Johns river, one at Monroe and one at the Osteen ferry last Friday and Saturday demonstrated more than words the need of one bridge and perhaps two bridges at these points.

This great rush of cars may never take place again or it may again occur during the summer, it all depending on whether the beach offers attractions to the automobilist or not.

Aside from the special occasions the regular travelers to the beach in the summer and the tourist travel in the winter is certainly entitled to something better than the ancient ferries that now attempt to carry the cars and wagons across the river.

It is estimated that at least four hundred automobiles were ferried across the river Friday and Saturday and part of the day and night they stood in long lines waiting for the ferryman to take them across. It is said for the men in charge of the ferries they certainly worked the Trojans and the automobilists have no kick coming on the service, except that it was too primitive for the present time.

With all the crowds only one accident is reported, that of the Marauder car of Orlando, that was ditched on First street near the bridge in attempting to pass some other cars. It was hauled out of the ditch and proceeded on the way.

The county commissioners of Seminole county and Volusia should get together on the bridge question and erect a bridge at the Monroe ferry or at the Osteen ferry or at both. They could make them toll bridges and they were paid for and then make them free. The great amount of travel on these roads and the coming of the brick roads should call for the erection of these bridges this fall, for only by these improvements can our section hope to become a part of the National highway.

The ancient ferries should go.

R. Y. B. U. Encampment July 12-17

The Florida B. Y. P. U. Encampment of this year will meet on the grounds of Columbia College July 12-17. An excellent program has been prepared and half a thousand delegates are expected to attend. Mr. George Hyman of our city is the manager of this Encampment. The following will attend from Sanford: George Hyman, Mrs. Hyman, John and Virgie Horne Hyman, Miss Clara Millen, Edwin Millen, Miss Ruth Stewart, Miss Minnie Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. L. Park, and possibly others.

BRICK ROAD WORK IS HELD UP THE COUNTY COMMISSIONERS DO NOT LIKE THE QUALITY OF BRICK BEING USED

At the meeting of the Board of County Commissioners yesterday it was decided that the work of laying the brick roads would be held up for a period pending the litigation on the width of some of the roads and also on account of the quality of the brick now being shipped. It was the consensus of opinion of the board yesterday that under present conditions the people would be better served if the shipment of brick could be held up until a better grade of brick can be procured and the manufacturers will be required to give a maintenance bond good for a period of five years that will bind them to replace the bad bricks that have been laid and all of these will be thrown out as they are found and good ones put in their place. The manufacturers have signified their willingness to do everything in their power to give good brick and the fact that so many poor bricks have

OUR BUSINESS COLLEGE

Will Remain Open During the Summer Months With Many Scholars

Prof. G. E. Bynum of the Sanford Business College has determined to keep the college open all during the summer and has just started another large class in bookkeeping and stenography. The college has been a success from the start and having been in operation for the past two years has now demonstrated that it will prove a good investment for the promoters. There have been many successful business men and women graduated from the institution and they are now holding good positions in Sanford and other cities.

There was a rumor that the college would close during the summer months as Prof. Bynum was desirous of visiting Texas with his wife, but the large number of new scholars coming in last month made it necessary to keep the college running full time and Prof. Bynum informed The Herald today that the college would remain open all the year round and that he was well satisfied with the good showing being made. This Sanford Business College gives our boys and girls a grand opportunity of attending day or night school right at home and acquiring a good business education, something that is needed by the young men of today regardless of the nature of their business or profession. The rates of the Sanford school are very reasonable considering the excellent course of training.

Postmasters Raised

Washington, D. C., July 7.—A number of Florida postmasters received boosts in the annual readjustment which has become effective, including the following:

Tampa, from $3,500 to $3,600; Bradenton, from $2,100 to $2,300; St. Petersburg from $2,800 to $3,000; Ft. Myers, from $2,300 to $2,400; Wauchula, from $2,000 to $2,400; Daytona, from $2,500 to $2,600; Tallahassee, from $2,600 to $2,700; Plant City from $2,200 to $2,300. St. Augustine is reduced from $3,100 to $3,000. The Jacksonville postmaster's salary remains stationary at $5,000.

Readjustments are made on the postoffice receipts. Where gains are shown the salary is increased. Lessening of receipts means decrease in the salary paid.

The changes are:

	New	Old
Alachua	$1,800	$1,200
Arcadia	2,300	2,200
Bartow	2,400	2,300
Bradenton	2,300	2,100
Daytona	2,600	2,600
Fort Myers	2,400	2,300
Fort Pierce	2,200	2,100
Live Oak	2,500	2,400
Madison	1,900	1,800
Orlando	2,700	2,600
Palatka	2,500	2,600
Plant City	2,300	2,200
St. Augustine	3,000	3,100
St. Petersburg	3,000	2,800
Sanford	2,600	2,500
Tallahassee	2,700	2,600
Tampa	3,600	3,500
Tarpon Springs	2,000	1,800
Wauchula	2,400	2,000
West Palm Beach	2,300	2,800
Winter Haven	2,000	1,700

been discovered is as disconcerting to them as the county commissioners. The defective bricks are laid to the door of the foremen in charge of the brick kilns and as they have been shipped here in large quantities and hauled to different sections of the districts the manufacturers will be at some loss, but they have agreed to meet the commissioners half way and make the brick good.

The litigation on the different widths will also be settled next month and by that time the work of making all the roads should start and it is hoped that all difficulties can be settled and our roads be built as the majority of the taxpayers want them built. The commissioners are to be commended upon their action of yesterday as the roads are built for permanency and only the best grade of brick should be used.

BIG CROWD AT BEACH WITNESSED AUTO RACES

JULY FOURTH FITTINGLY OBSERVED AT DAY- TONA BEACH

AUTOMOBILE RACES WERE FEATURED

ESTIMATED THAT A THOUS- AND CARS WERE IN ATTENDANCE

Daytona, July 6.—A record breaking summer crowd celebrated the Fourth of July at Daytona, Daytona Beach and Seabreeze beaches Saturday and far into the evening. It is estimated there were a thousand visiting cars and nearly three thousand people took part in the sports of the day.

The program was opened with beach races, held under the auspices of the Orlando Automobile Association, of which Leon B. Fort is secretary and chief promoter. On account of the condition of the beach and also the crowds which would congregate opposite the towns, the races were made from the automobile clubhouse south. It was a pretty and unusual sight to see 80 cars drawn up in symmetrical line along the shore just north of the clubhouse and the cheerful holiday crowd which waved and cheered and enjoyed the passing show whether they heard the announcements or not.

The first race, one mile, a flying start, was won by William Warren of Bradenton in a National car.

The second race, a five mile standing start, was won by Steve Hutto of Orlando, in a National car; O. P. Herndon of Sanford was second in this race in an Overland car.

The third race, twenty miles, standing start, two ten-mile laps, was also won by Steve Hutto in a National car. Mr. Herndon came in second in this in an Overland. The prizes were two small silver cups for the first and second race and a large cup for the twenty mile race. The judges were S. A. Johnson and Seth Woodruff of Orlando and Harry Thompson of Daytona.

According to the program those who wished at the close of the races went to Daytona to a grand picnic dinner on the city island with free barbecued meat, pickles, watermelons, with a ball game between the home team and Orlando to be pulled off at 8:30 o'clock. Daytona did herself proud in the way the committee handled the crowds and there was plenty of well barbecued meat and condiments for all. Just as the dinner was concluded a big rain cloud, which had been skulking around the horizon for an hour or less, precipitated in a light shower, sufficiently dampening to drive everybody from the picnic grounds. This was rather a partial and peculiar shower. It developed into a heavy but short downpour at Seabreeze and Daytona Beach, but the north end of it stopped at the river line, and the rain at Daytona extended to Hankins' drug store, "where Volusia meets Beach." From that point north and west it was still as dry as a powder house, while the street car which came up from Orange avenue had shed its beautiful Fourth of July paper decorations, which oozed down in gory red on the sides of the car and the streets. The rain was just what was needed, however, to cool the atmosphere and lay the dust.

By 8 o'clock the ball grounds were sufficiently dry for the players to match their skill in the presence of plenty of rosters for both sides. Orlando won, 10 to 6, in the game, and seeing that Orlando had been so generous in contributing to the success of the Fourth the home people were rather glad than otherwise of this.

The big feature of the day came off at the Nautilus casino in a grand opening and fireworks display from 8:30 to 1 o'clock in the evening. This was a local affair in which several communities took part as well as the crowd of visitors and was the grand climax. The new dance hall was dedicated, the refreshments and fireworks were greatly enjoyed.

The day throughout, marred by one unfortunate occurrence, was most creditable to the three towns, their public spirited citizens and the excellent beach hotels, which so ably took care of such unusual crowds.

AT ENTERPRISE

The Encampment of Campfire Girls A Great Event

Rev. J. H. Cellar of Sanford spent a few days at Enterprise last week. When asked about the Campfire girls encampment he said in part:

"The idea of having the encampment was suggested by Miss Emma Tucker, an enthusiastic Christian worker of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. The encampment includes the Campfire Girls, Y. W. C. A. girls and Sunday school girls who could not afford an expensive vacation elsewhere. The inexpressiveness of the vacation, together with the Christian influence and associations are some of the best features of the encampment.

During the morning there were held, under competent leaders, Bible and Mission Study classes, both junior and senior. The afternoon and evening were given over to rest, recreation, entertainments and lectures.

I believe the idea of combining the Campfire Girls and the Bible and Mission Study classes into one conference or encampment is the best that could have been suggested to meet the needs of the girls in our churches. Both organizations are good, but each needs the other. The Campfire Girls provides for outside sports and physical development and the Bible and Mission Study classes provide for the spiritual development, but it takes the combination of the two to make a fully developed Christian girl.

The Sanford girls do not realize what they miss by not being a part of this encampment. Girls who leave the Christian religion out of their lives are missing the best things of life.

The Encampment is a great success in many ways and the management expects to make it still greater next year."

Mr. Cellar is making a special study of young people's work in all its departments in the church and takes every available opportunity to study it "as it is."

Watch the Fords Go By

Detroit, Mich., July 6.—Sales Manager N. A. Hawkins of the Ford Motor Company has some interesting figures in regard to Ford mileage. He says:

"There are now 500,000 Fords in use. Each one certainly averages no less than 20 miles daily for twelve months in the year. These 500,000 Fords therefore are travelling and showing themselves over a stretch of 10,000,000 miles each day, or 300,000,000 miles each month—or thirty-six hundred million miles each year.

This is a distance equal to 144,000 times around the world.

If these 500,000 Model T's started on a tour around the world and kept within a half mile of each other they would encircle the globe ten times.

Every city street, boulevard, parkway; every village street, every country road is lined with Fords.

So persistent is this constant and ever increasing parade that men, women and children who never knew anything about motor cars, can pick them out.

The Ford is the easiest car to think about, because it is seen most frequently."

Sell Drainage Bonds

Tallahassee, July 6.—Advertisement for the sale of a million dollar issue of Florida State bonds were prepared for publication today by the State Drainage Board.

This step was taken by authority of an act of the legislature providing for the issuance of six million dollars in bonds to complete the drainage of the Everglades.

Fans Installed

Two large fans of the best make have been installed in the Baptist church. This church has as its slogan this summer "Come to the Baptist church and keep cool." A large cooler of ice water is in easy access upon entering or leaving.

KILLED ON BEACH BY AN AUTOMOBILE

S. B. MELVIN RIDING A BICYCLE COLLIDES WITH AUTO

MCCORMICK DRIVING CRAZED WITH GRIEF

OTHER NEWS OF STATE AT LARGE COMPILED FOR OUR BUSY READERS

Daytona Beach, July 6.—S. B. Melvin of Holly Hill, about 55 years of age, was run down and killed about 8:30 Saturday night on the beach, a short distance above the automobile club house, by an Overland car, driven by R. S. McCormick of Leesburg. Mr. Melvin was riding a bicycle.

At the time of the collision the bicycle and automobile were both being driven in the same direction on the beach and completely toward them was a car carrying a brilliant electric light. Mr. Melvin was probably confused by the approaching car, and it is possible he did not hear the car coming behind him in the noise of the other car and the roar of the surf, however he turned directly across the path of the automobile, to the right, when it is usual to turn to the left, which was seen too late by the automobile driver to avoid the crash. On it came with a terrible impact, completely demolishing the back wheel of the bicycle and lifting both man and wheel on the fender. Mr. Melvin's head struck the wind shield, which cut a deep gash through his skull at the back and broke his neck. Death was instantaneous. The friend, who was with Mr. McCormick, ran for assistance, thinking to get a physician as soon as possible. Dr. B. B. Hannon was first to reach the scene and pronounced the man dead. The body was taken to the undertakers at Daytona and a search was made for his daughters to notify them. Marshal Fuquay and deputies were soon on the ground and questioned those who witnessed the accident, deciding that no inquest was necessary as the accident was declared by all to have been unavoidable.

Mr. McCormick is nearly beside himself with grief over the sad accident and has the sympathy of the community, as also have the two daughters of the deceased.

The project of continuing the brick road to the Osceola county line will be urged before the board of county commissioners of Orange county when that body convenes again on the 8th inst. The sentiment in both counties is very strongly in favor of the extension, especially as this road will form a very important link in the through line from Jacksonville to Tampa. The present plan for the Orange county road leaves a gap of four miles from the end of the brick road as provided for to the line of the Osceola county. It would prove a bad advertisement of the enterprise of Orange county to leave this gap in the path of motorists travelling through this state.—Tampa Times.

An interesting trial has been concluded at West Palm Beach, being that of John Ashley, a white man, for the murder of DeSoto Tiger, a Seminole Indian. The crime was committed about two years ago, and Ashley eluded arrest and was not apprehended until he gave himself up. Several Indians were introduced as witnesses at the trial, which resulted in a disagreement; the jury standing three for conviction and nine for acquittal. Judge Perkins presided.

The news reached Stuart Friday afternoon that the Supreme Court of Florida had knocked out the new court house for the time being, and there were no regrets among the taxpayers, either who have stated all along that $250,000 was five times too much for a county of the size of Palm Beach with scarcely 6,000 inhabitants. Such a court house would cost more than the court houses of St. Lucie, Brevard and St. John counties combined. Of course it would be a great advertisement for West Palm Beach but would not do the outlying towns any good. Let us have a $50,000 court house and spend the balance on good roads. Hard roads will bring new settlers in by the hundreds but whoever heard of a big costly court house bringing any body in to settle.—Stuart Times.

Howard S. Kerner, a well known sportsman, whose residence is at Great Barrington, Mass., where he is now on a short visit, and who has spent many winters and the past two summers here, cruising on his handsome yacht, expects to return to Fort Myers in the very near future for the purpose of tackling the wily tarpon or Silver King.

Mr. Kerner is a great believer in the wonderful future of Florida as a summer resort state and believes that when the fact is known to the tourist and sportsman that the finest weather and fishing in the world is to be here in the good old summer time.—Ft. Myers Press.

Banquet to Clergy

Bishop M. J. Curley was host Tuesday afternoon at a banquet to the visiting prelates and clergy attending the consecration. The affair was splendidly planned and proved most delightful and enjoyable. It was served at the Ocean View Hotel.

The table banquet was arranged in the customary manner. Bishop Curley being seated in the center of the table at the end of the dining hall with the prelates upon his right and left. The clergy were seated at the two long tables extending down the hall from each end of this table. Green and purple constituted the chief decorations, ferns, bougainvillea, palms and other flowers and green contributing to a most beautiful effect. A splendid menu was served and fine speeches made.—St. Augustine Record.

Father P. J. Bresnahan of this city was present at the consecration and banquet.

W. T. CURRY SURRENDERS HIMSELF

LEARNING OF THE WARRANT CHARGING MURDER HE CAME BACK FROM GEORGIA

W. T. Curry voluntarily came back to Sanford last night and again surrendered himself to Sheriff Hand and is now in jail, pending the preliminary hearing, this time on a charge of murder.

The case now assumes a different aspect. Last week Curry killed W. F. Bryan at the Curry turpentine still near Chuluota and claimed self defense. At the inquest the jury rendered a verdict of manslaughter and Curry was released on a bond of $18,000 furnished by Z. Spinks of Oviedo.

Meantime the relatives of the deceased had an autopsy held and discovered that the shooting must have been done from behind, as the skull showed that the bullet had entered from the back of the head and also showed that Bryan had been struck a blow on the head. A brother of the deceased immediately swore out a warrant for murder and the sheriff was instructed to serve it. Curry had gone to the home of his sister in Waycross, Ga., and the rumor spread that he had fled the country.

Hearing that the sheriff wanted him Curry came back at once and arrived here at midnight Sunday. He went to the home of Sheriff Hand and surrendered himself and is now in the county jail awaiting the preliminary trial that will decide whether he is to be allowed his liberty on bail or that he will be remanded to jail to await the term of Circuit Court that meets here in the fall.

FROM THE NATION'S CAPITAL

NEWS FROM WASHINGTON BY THE SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT OF THE HERALD

Washington, D. C., July 7.—(Special).—Senator Burton's criticisms of the River and Harbor bill, now under consideration by the Senate, are not directed so much against the merits of the several projects as against the "piecemeal policy" of amking appropriations for the various projects. The Senior Senator from Ohio, who was chairman of the Rivers and Harbors Committee of the House for nine years, said, during the discussion on the bill that it had been the aim of his committee to get away from the old method of making appropriations and that a new policy was definitely adopted in the bill of 1907, which was one of the largest river and harbor bills ever enacted into law. "We turned our backs on the old custom of piecemeal appropriations in that bill," said Senator Burton, "and had the courage to adopt new ideas. If we adopted a project we pushed it to completion and the amount of the authorization was stated in the bill."

Senator Burton, who is regarded as one of the best informed men in the nation on the waterways of the country does not belong to that class of individuals who denominate the river and harbor appropriation bill as a "delusion and a steal," but on the contrary defends it in a most unstinted manner, believing with the late head of the Corps of Engineers that there is less than one-half of one per cent of "pork" in the bill now under consideration, and which will pass the Senate in due season.

At midnight of June 3, the Cherokee Indian nation of Oklahoma ceased to be a tribal government, thereby marking the passing of the largest tribal organization of Indians in the United States. The Cherokee will exist no more except as a citizen of the Republic.

All tribal property had been converted into cash and each Cherokee had received his allotment previous to midnight of June 30. Indian Commissioner Cato Sells will now distribute the remaining cash on hand—$6 0, 00—or about $15 per capita to the 41, members of the tribe, thereby terminating the nation and closing the books.

Plans to restock all trout streams and lakes throughout the national forests of Colorado, Wyoming and South Dakota within a period of nine years are well underway, as the result of the approval by the Federal Bureau of Fisheries of a plan prepared by the Forest Service. The Bureau of Fisheries has promised to furnish the necessary fish fry for distribution to the various forests, the shipments of fry to be directed to railroad stations nearest the waters to be stocked, so that as many streams as possible may be supplied from a central point. The planting of all fry will be performed by forest officers who will keep close check on the results of the work.

According to the estimates of the forest officers, approximately 20,000,000 trout fry of the brook, rainbow and black spotted varieties will be needed to meet the requirements of all the waters adapted to the production of trout. Of this great number the Bureau of Fisheries is prepared to supply something over four and a half million this year, and a gradually decreasing number each successive year for a total of nine, at the end of which time it is expected that the complete restocking will have been accomplished. The estimates are said to cover 273 streams and lakes in the three states.

A little more than 33,000 acres in the White Mountains have just been approved for purchase by the Government, at a meeting of the National Forest Reservation Commission. These areas are in two separate tracts, both in Grafton county, N. H., the larger containing 31,100 acres on the watershed of the Pemigewasset river, a tributary to the Merrimac. The smaller purchase consists of several areas lying on the watersheds of Little river and Gale river, both tributaries of the Connecticut. At the same time that these White Mountain areas were approved, the Commission also approved the purchase of the Pisgah Forest in North Carolina from the Geo. W. Vanderbilt estate. These tracts bring the total eastern forests up to 1,007,000 acres.

Picnic Party

Among the many jolly picnic parties on the Fourth that celebrated the glorious day of the water was one complimentary to Miss Annie Renfro. A congenial crowd boarded the Chloris at an early hour, quite gay with flags and bunting, for a run to Blue Springs and all report a fine time. The party included besides the honor guest, Dr. and Mrs. C. E. Walker, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Randall, Mrs. Charlotte Smith, Mrs. Ensminger, Mrs. Renfro and children, Mrs. W. H. Peters and children, Miss Carrie Ensminger, Messrs. Beecher Kent, Harry Pilkington, Henry Nickel, Hess, Malm and Royal Clintworth.

Mrs. Will Hand was hostess at a most enjoyable luncheon Friday. Her guests were Mesdames Findlay Munson, Jewett, C. E. Walker, Ensminger and Charlotte Smith.

Mr. Horace W. Way of Savannah is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Terheun. This is Mr. Way's third visit to Sanford and he claims that it is the most ideal summer resort on the map. Mr. Way is being cordially greeted by friends made on former visits.

Mrs. M. C. Savage, after a most delightful visit to her daughter, Mrs. Deane Turner returned to her home in Jacksonville Monday afternoon.

Miss Annie Renfro has returned from a pleasant ten days' visit to Mt. Dora and will remain several weeks longer in Sanford before returning home.

Miss Mary Elizabeth Reasoner, who has been the charming guest of Vera Terheun returned to Jacksonville last Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Couch and little Lois are established in their pretty new home on First street.

Genial Fred Polhill is up from Tampa on a visit to the home folks.

A pleasant party that motored over to Daytona for the races on Saturday was Mrs. S. O. Chase, Miss Mell Whitner, Miss Mabel Bowler, Misses Eleanor, Lillian and Griffin, Herring and Randall Chase.

Sanford Library

Librarian's report for June: Twice Mr. W. J. Hill has made donations to the fiction department. The list below is made up mainly from his contributions:

Fiction:

The Third Degree, by Klein and Hornblow.

Light Fingered Gentry, by D. G. Phillips.

The Spoilers, by Rex Beach.

The Bandbox, by Louis Joseph Vance.

The Crossing, by Winston Churchill.

Hilda of the Hippodrome, by Dorothy Payne.

Postage Stamp Catalogue (1908), published by Scott, Stamp & Coin Co.

Thirteenth Census of the United States, taken in 1910, an abstract of statistics of population, agriculture, manufacturers and mining, for the U. S.

Theology:

God and the Future Life, by Charles Wordworth.

Voices of Comfort, by T. V. Tobey.

Starlight Through the Shadows, by Frances Havergal.

Meditations on Life, and the Religious Duties, by Zachokke. This translation is by Frederica Rowan.

Book of Common Prayer (Spanish).

Hebrew Bible, containing the books of Genesis, Esther, Lamentations, Song of Solomon and Ecclesiastes.

Biography:

Talks in a Library, by Laurence Hinton. The author of these talks was co-laborer with the men and women of literature and art of whom he writes. It is a delightful volume of anecdotes and reminiscences. The illustrations are unusually interesting, being, e. g., the original ketchikan associations, and we feel gratified that Mr. Hinton was pleased to give us a peep.

Yesterday with Authors, by James T. Fields. Mr. Fields, publisher, has many good stories to tell of our old friends. Nathaniel Hawthorne, Charles Dickens and many others he knew intimately.

The Childhood of Dickens, by Robert Langtoo. A recent publication; it will be welcomed by those who haunt the Dickens shelf; well illustrated.

Literature:

A volume of "Southern War Songs," full of old familiar poems and songs, collected and arranged by T. L. Fagan.

The library management appreciates the generous contribution of books that came from various sources. The reserve fund for books is exhausted, therefore Mr. Hill's donation and the one, two or more volumes from other friends keeps up the interest, and is also building up the more serious classification for reference and study.

Getting Back to the Soil

There is a general belief that the American people are getting back to the soil. From the United States census bureau we get statistics which are not compiled often enough, however, to enable interested persons to know year by year the movements of the population, but it seems to be certain that the families of the country once more are turning to farm life.

What may be called a country sentiment is growing. City people are moving into the suburbs, many of which supply conditions which can be found only as attendants on the free and open life. While some city dwellers who are moving out of the heart of things crowded go only a few miles into the green fields, others continue their journeyings and become actual farmers, at least for a part of the time. The country is regaining its hold on the affections of men and women.

The growth of agricultural education in the United States has been so great that it can be taken to mean only one thing, a revived interest in farming pursuits in the young men of the land. We are turning out soil students by the thousands where ten years ago we were turning them out by the hundreds. It cannot be supposed that young men are spending the time and money necessary to learn how to farm unless they intend to put the knowledge to use.

The signs of the times are reassuring. The multitudes are not turning to the country, but an increase is shown year by year in the numbers of those willing to forsake the city to get back to the type places where man really belongs.

Biggest Rubber Tree of All.

What is believed to be the largest rubber tree in the world stands in the Brazilian territory of Acre, on the frontier of Bolivia. Its stem is 27 feet 2 7/10 inches in circumference at the base. For 136 days every year this colossus gives 12 pounds of rubber a day. At present prices this brings in $2,160 a year, or a fair interest on about $25,000, to its owners, a family of seven seringueiros.

The Immediate Closing of the Great Hoosier $1 Summer Sale

IT IS ONLY FAIR to tell you that your last chance to buy a NEW HOOSIER on the Club Plan this season cannot possibly extend beyond this week. It may end tomorrow. We regret that we cannot supply an additional lot of cabinets for this sale so that the opportunity might be held open for your later decision. The enormous demand makes it impossible to get an extra allotment for anybody. THIS HOT SUMMER YOU WILL NEED A Hoosier every day to save hours out of your kitchen. There is no good reason why you should wait. See the new Hoosier tomorrow.

THE HOOSIER MFG. CO., New Castle, Ind.

"WHITE BEAUTY"
ADVERTISED IN LEADING MAGAZINES

Tomorrow, Only $1 Puts This NEW HOOSIER in Your Home—Don't Wait!

The mid-summer sale terms are:

1. You may choose any of the new Hoosiers—"White Beauty," or "Oak Interior" at slightly less price.
2. $1 puts your Hoosier in your home at once.
3. $1 weekly quickly pays for it.
4. The low cash price fixed by the factory prevails strictly.
5. No interest—no extra fees.
6. This sale is under direct supervision of the Hoosier Company.
7. Sale is strictly limited to our small summer allotment of new Hoosiers.
8. Your money back if you are not delighted with your Hoosier.

This is your opportunity—if you act quickly—to own this wonderful Hoosier on the most liberal terms ever offered. You may search the whole world and find nothing that will save you so much labor in your kitchen as this new Hoosier.

White Beauty is a wonder of convenience. It combines three roomy cupboards, a large work table and package pantry in one spot so you can sit down at work and save miles of steps.

You have places before you for 400 articles, all at your fingers' ends. You save most of the weary hours other women spend in their kitchens.

This new Hoosier on these terms is the greatest kitchen bargain you have ever seen. The few we have will be sold in no time at all. Only those women who grasp this opportunity tomorrow can be sure of getting one of these cabinets on the liberal Hoosier plan.

Read about these conveniences that made the HOOSIER necessary to over 700,000 women.

(1) Mrs. Christine Frederick's famous "Housekeepers' Food Guide"—on the upper left door—answers the eternal problem: "What shall we have for dinner?"

(2) The Cook-book Holder on the middle upper door holds your cook book securely when not in use. When you are cooking, simply open up the book to the proper page behind the holder. It is on a level with your eye, always—lean, never in the way.

There are 40 special conveniences in the NEW HOOSIER—17 are entirely NEW.

(3) The Hoosier Metal Flour Bin holds fifty pounds. It is low and easy to fill. The sliding glass-front enables you to clean the entire bin easily. The inside is entirely of metal, with no corners to hold flour. First flour in is always out first.

(4) The New Shaker Flour Sifter is the most wonderful of all the new Hoosier inventions. It is the only flour sifter ever made on a kitchen cabinet that shakes flour through instead of grinding it through. It cannot wear out and cannot grind through any grit or foreign substance that might be in the flour.

OUR WINDOW DISPLAY is the talk of the town—come and see it.

(5) A new feature in the Base Cupboard is a narrow shelf conveniently located for the storage of canned articles. Most women will find this a great convenience as an "emergency shelf." It will save many trips to the cellar or pantry.

TOMORROW YOU may examine all the new features. You incur no obligation. But you should come early. You may be too late to get one on the HOOSIER PLAN if you delay. Come and SEE this remarkable NEW Hoosier tomorrow.

THE SANFORD HERALD

DISTANCE TO THE STATION

Several years ago when the question of the removal of the passenger station was broached in Sanford many of our merchants thought such a removal from the center of the city would react against the business interests and the tourist travel and that Sanford would miss many shoppers from the country that formerly came here for the one fare and now would have to pay fifty cents extra hack fare.

Opinions vary in respect to the removal of the stations from the business centers and yet in the rapid growth of cities such changes are often found, necessary and to say that the removal of a passenger station would militate against any town is fallacy.

Depots, postoffices and court houses are often moved and the cities usually grow to them expanding and growing larger and perhaps better for the change. The DeLand News is also of the opinion that the station a mile from the business center of that city would have but little effect upon the trade and sets forth reasons as follows:

"The DeLand News is in favor of a site for a new passenger station that is somewhat removed from the center of the town. There are arguments, apparently, for the placing of the station near in, but the News favors a site about 2 1/2 miles from the business section. Referring to the fact that the station in Jacksonville is a mile or more from the city hall, the News says: 'In this day of automobile transportation one mile means one minute—and what is a minute compared to the many advantages that may be acquired by the location proposed?'

ON A BUSINESS BASIS

It is fortunate that a vast majority of publishers and the people of the United States generally do not share the view of Vice President Marshall, who has just told the editors of Virginia that 'there is no free press, no public opinion and no free speech any longer in America.'

In isolated instances it may be true that papers are dominated by their advertisers, as Mr. Marshall suggests, but we are thankful to say that the rank and file of publishers, particularly in the country sections, say what they want when they want to say it. And why is the vice president of the United States sad because publishers are today selling their space instead of giving it away to a lot of grafters who think they have a mission?

Mr. Marshall in order to prove his statement asserted that 'hardly a modern newspaper could stop printing murders, crime stories and scandals without going to the rocks.' We do not intend to defend the publicity given to murders and other crimes, much less the space given to so-called scandals, but we will remind Mr. Marshall that the press serves the public what the public demands. The day of leadership by the press is on the wane, we admit. The press as the days pass is exerting less and less influence upon public opinion.

Each day sees a step forward, a step in advance, a step into the future. And at every step they acquire fresh knowledge—knowledge which in itself advances them yet another step on the road to superior intelligence. The most noticeable feature of this awakening is the wide interest that is being taken in the advertisements of mercantile houses. This is an advertising age, and the 'ad' habit has gripped not only the merchant, but the consumer. It is growing with leaps and bounds. It is a hopeful sign, a sign of expanding intellect on the part of the wrong, however, when he declares that the 'newspaper business is like law in that it has ceased to be a profession and has become a trade.' Our esteemed vice president would have been more fortunate in the choice of 'business' instead of 'trade.' If he means, however, that the newspaper man and publisher is tired of being penurious, if at last he has determined to sell his wares—that is, the paper in his newspaper, just as any other business man does—he has hit the nail on the head. Because the editor enjoys the reputation of being one of the leaders in his community is no reason why he should be willing to go without the comforts of life and a little of its pleasures. The day of attic poets and sockless editors has passed, Mr. Marshall; and there is no use in being sad about it.—American Press.

PARTISAN POLITICS

'Forrest Lake of Sanford is seeking to be elected as Speaker of the next House. Florida legislators should turn him down. He is the enemy of the citrus fruit industry of this state. With this man in the chair the growers of Florida could hope for no legislation in their behalf. Write to your representatives asking them not to vote for Forrest Lake.—Florida Grower.

Editor Wright has the 'right' to criticize the actions of Forrest Lake or any other legislator, but he does Forrest Lake a grave injustice when he cautions the growers of Florida about the Speaker and asks them to use their influence to defeat him for that position. Forrest Lake voted on the green fruit bill as he thought was best for the majority of the orange growers of Florida and voted as his people in Seminole county asked him to vote. He represented his own constituency first and the whole state second. The majority of the growers of Florida were not in favor of the acid test as it appeared in the Worley bill presented to the legislature. Voting for what he believed to be right was the privilege of Forrest Lake and every other legislator and neither the Florida Grower or any other paper can influence his vote upon any question. Partisan politics will not gain any place in the councils of the people and the question of the acid test is only agitating a chosen few in Florida who want to rule or ruin the growers of oranges. Probably this is one of the main reasons why so many of the largest growers of Florida fruit do not join the Florida Citrus Exchange. Mr. Lake will be the next Speaker of the house even if the entire Citrus Exchange and Editor Wright are against him. The majority of the people and certainly the majority of the legislators resent the partisan tactics of any organization that would attempt to force legislation of any kind by the use of the political Big Stick.

NOT FOR RAILROADS

The people of New Smyrna are disappointed in not being able to get an excursion train between this place and Sanford on the Fourth. The people of New Smyrna are preparing to treat the visitors royally if they had been able to come. Just why we are unable to get the excursion train we have not been able to learn, as we understand that over a thousand people expected to come over from Sanford and other interior towns.—New Smyrna Breeze

Don't wait for the railroads to operate excursions to the beach. They will never do it if they think the people want it. What the New Smyrna people ought to do is to make a decent road from New Smyrna to Sanford via the Osteen ferry and the people will go in their cars and not wait for the pleasure of the railroads to do something. The railroads never did anything yet for the people of Florida and they will not start at this late date. If the people of New Smyrna know what is good for them and their town they will make some effort to get the people of interior Florida to Coronado. As it is now the bulk of the people are going to the mountains where they can get accommodations just as cheap and live more comfortably. No one cares to rack their cars and their frames to pieces trying to get to a place on the beach.

WAKING UP

The people of the community are waking up. Each day sees a step forward, a step in advance, a step into the future.

And at every step they acquire fresh knowledge—knowledge which in itself advances them yet another step on the road to superior intelligence. The most noticeable feature of this awakening is the wide interest that is being taken in the advertisements of mercantile houses.

This is an advertising age, and the 'ad' habit has gripped not only the merchant, but the consumer. It is growing with leaps and bounds. It is a hopeful sign, a sign of expanding intellect on the part of the people, for in no other way can the consumer hope to acquire that degree of commercial knowledge necessary to a judicious expenditure of funds.

There are merchants in this town who are meeting this desire of the people, who are alive to the requirements of their patrons, and who are doing their quota of the good work which is making of this a community of superior intelligence and worth. And this is yet another hopeful sign.

A FRUITFUL EDITOR

Speaking of the Putnam county camphor farm recalls an incident of winter before last. A Florida editor, whose name must not be given, was coming down from Jacksonville to Sanford. (N. B.—He was not Bob Holly of the Sanford Herald, who is one of the most truthful men of the state.) He was sitting vis-a-vis with a gentleman from West Virginia and another from Salt Lake City, while on his right was a visitor from Chicago. It was their first visit to Florida and all the newcomers were asking questions about the state. The editor patiently and gladly answered every inquiry.

Presently the train passed that camphor farm, which the editor had never seen and could not recognize. The trees were about three feet high and were beautifully set, about a hundred acres of them being in sight from the car windows. 'What is that—what kinds of trees are those?' immediately inquired the strangers. 'Strawberries,' promptly replied the editor.

'Gracious,' exclaimed the West Virginian, 'Do strawberry plants grow that large in Florida?'

'Sure,' answered the scribe, 'and that's not half the wonders you'll see in Florida.'

Then being a truthful man, as all Florida editors are, the editor's conscience smote him and he hunted up the conductor of the train and asked what in the dickens are those trees back there? The conductor told him and he hurried back to the strangers and said, 'Gentlemen, I am a Florida editor and we are all sworn to tell the truth. When you asked what those bushes back there were I really didn't know, and so I told you quite a fib. The conductor says they are camphor trees planted by the federal government and so I hasten to tell you the truth. I would not tell you a lie about anything in the world except those things I know nothing about. I beg you to forgive me and I wish to assure you that Charlotte Harbor at Punta Gorda is the finest fishing ground in the world.'

As the scribe supplemented this declaration by the statement that he didn't have any land to sell, the three strangers voted unanimously to forgive him and also that he was the only really truthful man in Florida they had found. 'As they had just left Jacksonville, it is presumed that they expressed their honest opinion about him, for everybody knows the quality of the veracity to be found in Jacksonville.—Punta Gorda Herald.

THE EASIEST BUSINESS

The local liquor interests are said to be organizing a stock company to publish a daily newspaper in Plant City and are reported to have raised the stupendous sum of four thousand dollars to float the venture. With all that vast amount of money it seems to us that it would be much better to start a bank and trust company to loan money on the farms of the plain people. The Tampa Morning Tribune pays something like nineteen hundred dollars a week for pay roll alone to print the Tribune, the Lakeland Telegram daily gets off with about three hundred dollars a week. The Courier, printing a paper twice a week, finds it necessary to pay seven thousand dollars a year for labor. Rent and paper stock cost a little unless you can beat the landlord and the paper houses. Power, light, interest and depreciation are little incidentals. They always pay advertising, printing and subscription bills promptly and without any expense of collection, and this fact alone makes the life of a newspaper man one glad, sweet song. Four thousand dollars will carry a daily newspaper a long, long time. About as long as Tom King or Billy Tappan can go without a drink.—Plant City Courier.

In Lakeland life is worth living—especially with a 82-lb melon grading our sanctum, the gift of one of our sovereigns of the soil, who frequently bring the best they produce, in token of their appreciation of the attitude this paper ever maintains as the friend of the grower and producer. Sixty-two pounds of matchless flavor, joyous juices and unalloyed sweetness, combined in one package, is a testimonial to the riotous generosity of the soil of this vicinity sufficient to convince the most skeptical that if this is not the garden of the gods, then the gods

They have already settled in Sanford, Bro. Hetherington. We have that first line copyrighted and the largest watermelon of the season has already been brought to The Herald office by a Sanford grower and duly noted. You can't change the map of heaven at this late day.

Clarence Woods of the Eustis Lake Region is the silver tongued orator of the Florida Press and was the orator of the day at the big Bartow Fourth of July celebration. The Lake county people lost a good opportunity of boasting their section when they turned Clarence down for the legislature. Clarence Woods in the house would have had the members drinking the limpid waters of Lake Eustis, listening to the songs of the mocking birds and gathering roses from the pine trees of 'Eustis, the place for Love' before the session was over.

Lakeland certainly entertained a bunch of brains last Friday, when twenty editors of South Florida's leading newspapers gathered there and organized a press association. But what puzzles us is, how was the stunt pulled off without Bob Holly being present.—St. Cloud Tribune.

The idea of a ferry boat between two progressive counties like Seminole and Volusia counties at this age and time is nothing short of foolishness. We can hardly boast our good roads unless we have a steel bridge across the river at Monroe and at the foot of Celery avenue. The ferry is a relic of by-gone ages and our citizens will soon be placed in the same class unless we do something.

The brick being shipped to Seminole county for paving purposes are not up to standard and no more of them will be laid until a better grade can be furnished by the manufacturers. The county commissioners will not stand for any more of the poor ones.

With the advent of sidewalks to Sanford Heights and the prospect of brick streets that beautiful suburb is coming into its own and many people are turning their eyes that way for lots on which to build homes. It is estimated that a dozen new homes will be built there in the fall.

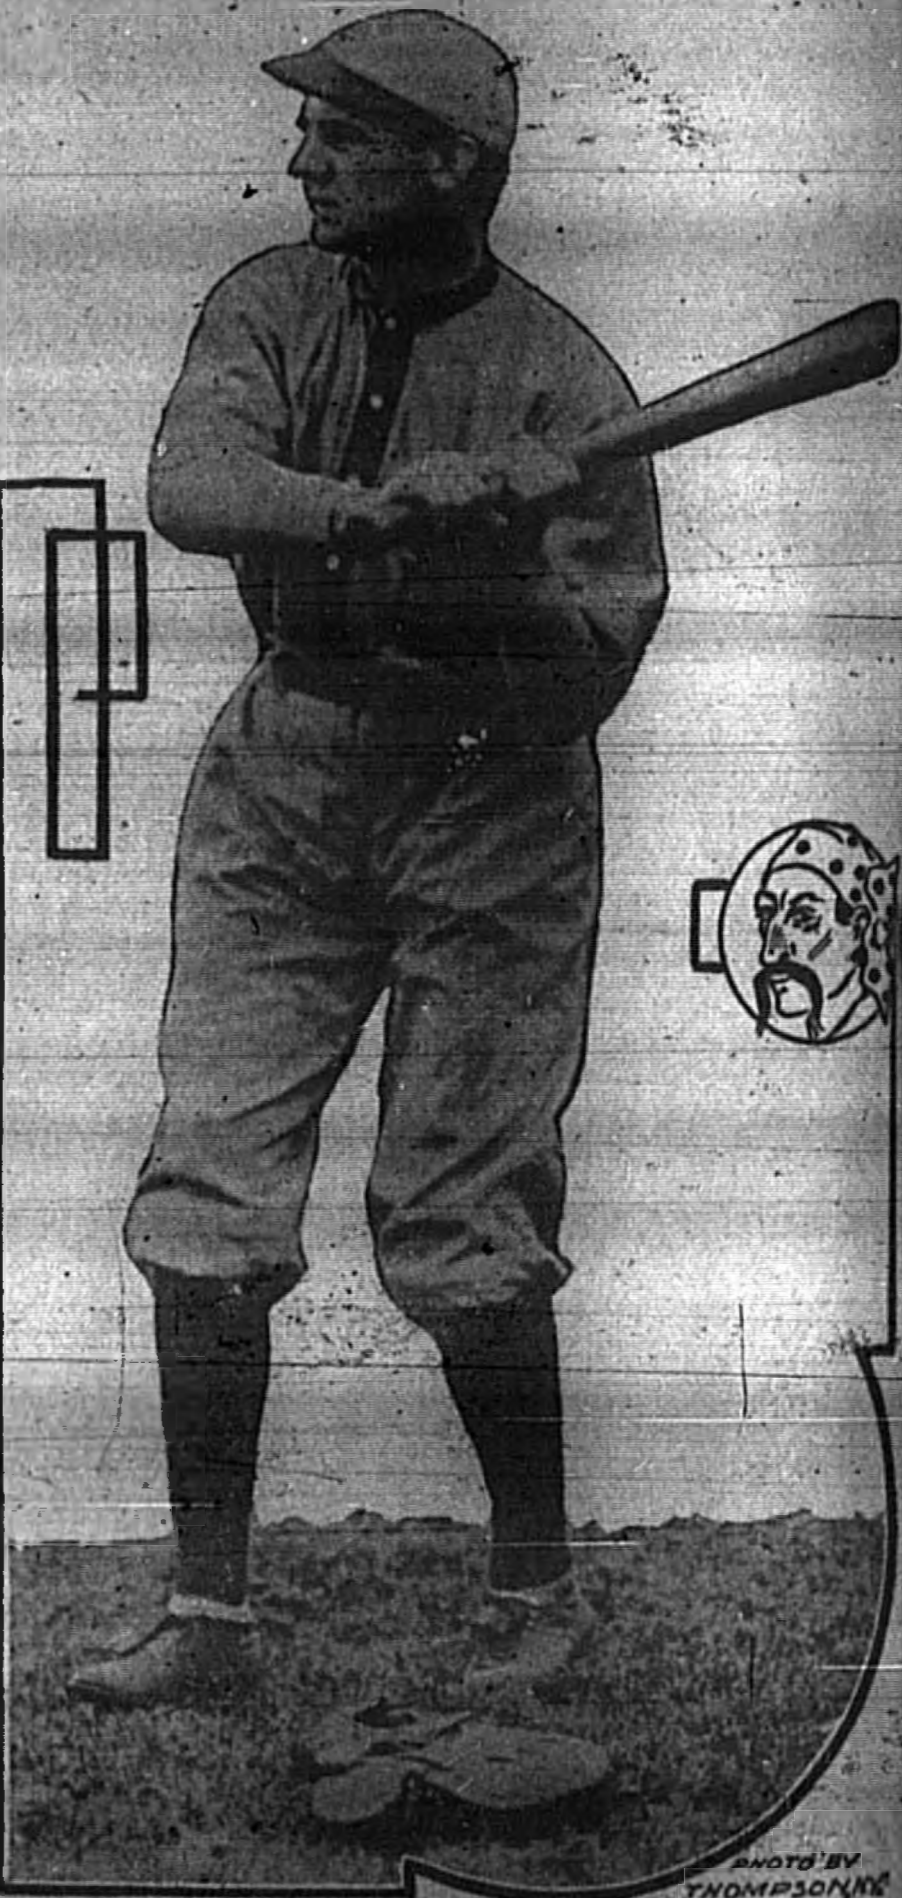

Clarence Woods pulled a few feathers from the tail of the proud bird of freedom at Bartow on the Fourth, much to the admiration of the big audience who gathered to bear the eagle scream. When it comes to orating, Clarence can make all competitors take to the woods.—Lakeland Telegram.

There will be but little travel to the beach this season unless the bridges are built across the river and better roads are provided in Volusia county. People go to the beach for a day's outing and hate to wade their way over sand bank.

Sanford's postoffice is improving under the Democratic administration even with a Republican postmaster and his salary has been raised accordingly.

UNUSUAL FEAT RECALLS FEW ODD RECORDS

Max Carey, Pirate Outfielder.

Outfielder Max Carey of the Pirates turned in one of baseball's most remarkable performances at Forbes field recently, when he scored 47 runs without making a hit. Carey was charged with only one time at bat, reaching first base on a fumble by Otto Knabe, the Phillies' second sacker, and the four times on bases on balls. His first walk came in succession; Carey stole second base, twice and third twice, a total of four steals, a feat in itself worthy of special mention.

In the first inning Carey reached first on Knabe's fumble, moved up to second on Kommer's walk, to third when Wagner was hit with a pitched ball, and scored on a passed ball by Calober Killefer. In the second round Max walked, took third on a wild pitch, and crossed the plate on Kommer's single. In the fourth he stroked again, stole second and scored again on a sacrifice by Kommer.

In the fifth he drew another pass, stole second and also third and completed the circuit when Wagner poked a single to left. In the eighth he got his fourth successive walk, advanced to second when Kommer also drew a pass, reached third by working the double steal with Kommer and registered on Wagner's single.

Carey's four bases on balls do not establish a record, even in the major, the high mark being six passes, scored to Walter Wilton on August 21, 1891, when he was a member of the Chicago Nationals.

The two runs scored by Carey also fell short of the record. In fact, his performance has been surpassed and by a Pittsburgh player, Clarence Maxmuth, at Exposition park on July 21, 1899, when he scored six runs and made six hits in six times at bat, and one of his hits going out of the field. Maxmuth, who was a left-handed batter, made the record against a left-handed pitcher, Wiley Platt being on the slab for Philadelphia that day.

No other Pittsburgh player has stolen four bases in a game in a long time, but Carey did not approach the major league record when he pilfered a quartet of bases.

The best performance to that time on record is seven steals, which record was first established on June 15, 1881, when George Gore of the Chicago Nationals stole second base five times and third base twice in a game against Providence. This record of seven steals has been equaled by only one man in the major, Billy Hamilton, the once famous base runner for the Phillies and New York.

He says the Republicans are trying mighty hard to make it appear that times are hard, but money is plentiful all the same and the country is moving forward beautifully in spite of Woodrow Wilson and the Democratic administration. —Reporter-Stat.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Molnar have returned from New York city where they spent the past four weeks. The only incident to mar the pleasure of their stay in the metropolis was the fact that Mr. Molnar underwent two very painful and very difficult operations upon his left eye, and while it still pains him to some extent, he is steadily improving and his complete recovery will be but a short time. Mr. Molnar states that the weather in New York was, during most of his stay, delightful. They have had but few sultry days this summer, but many nights the atmosphere is chilly enough for wraps and is withal exceedingly bracing.—Gainesville Sun.

Mr. Hanson and family have left for a month's sojourn at Coronado Beach.

B. Y. P. U. Meeting The B. Y. P. U. held their regular devotional meeting Sunday evening at 8:45.

The subject was the Transforming Power of Friendship. The program was well carried out by members of Group No. 1, of which Miss Cora Lee Hamrick is Captain.

After the program was rendered each Captain of the companies formed in line and led by the Junior B. Y. P. U. marched into the church where an excellent program was arranged for the installation of the officers for the ensuing six months.

First on the program was a report read to the church from the union by our Past President H. E. Tolar. Then Mr. John D. Jenkins made a few remarks on how he is well as the church was pleased with the work done by our union in the last six months. Then came the awarding of the banner which was given to the company rendering the best program during the month of June. Company D was the winner of pennant, of which Miss Ruth Stewart was Captain. A song of thanks was sung as the company formed in line and marched up to receive the pennant.

We then had an address by our new president, Miss Clara Milten, and in her closing remarks in a few well chosen words she presented our Past President, H. E. Tolar with a solid gold B. Y. P. U. pin as a token from the union for its success during the past six months.

We hope that the ensuing six months will be as successful as the past and we all feel that with the newly elected officers it will. The new officers are as follows:

Miss Clara Milten, President; S. G. Kennedy, Vice Pres.; Miss Minnie Stewart, Sec. Mrs. Loretta Brotherton, Cor. Sec.; Forest Gatchel, Treas.; Oscar Spear, Librarian; P. S. Fortson, Chorister; Miss Ruth Stewart, Leader of Bible Readers Study.

The Captains are as follows: Group 1, Miss Cora Lee Hamrick; Group 2, Miss Ruby Betty; Group 3, Miss Edith Stewart; Group 4, Miss Martha Fox.

We hold our meetings every Sunday evening at 8:45 in the Shack. Everybody is invited to attend and we assure you a hearty welcome. LORETTA BROTHERTON, Cor. Sec.

The Kitchen Cabinet

Kitchen cabinets are often considered luxuries when they ought to be looked upon as necessities. No woman should walk a mile when she could accomplish the same, or perhaps better results. It might be possible to bring all the materials at once on a wheel tray if they were all kept in the same place, but they are not, cannot be, even with things arranged in the best possible way. They can be grouped, however, and the storing places so arranged that there is a system and actual saving of steps, and a kitchen cabinet in the kitchen helps to do this amazingly. The advantages of a kitchen cabinet are convenience, a possible grouping of different things within a limited space and in many cases the sanitary aspect needs to be thought of as well. In a large kitchen the cabinet saves the labor and time previously lost in travelling so many extra feet; in a small kitchen it saves space. The cabinet—a portable cupboard—may be placed where it is needed, and it is open to light and air in a way that many cupboards and pantries are not. Kitchen furnishings include, in addition, the stove, refrigerator, tables, possibly a wheel tray, often a fireless cooker, ice cream freezer and a steamer. These are the large items which belong in the list of utensils that make for adequate equipment.—Economy in the Kitchen, in Woman's World for July.

Work on the new artesian well to be made for Wauchula and to supply water for the people of that city is expected to begin within a few days. The Wauchula Advocate says that the machine for drilling the well has arrived and that sewer work has progressed very favorably. Before long Wauchula will have a first class water supply and sewerage system, and these two necessities will add immensely to the attractions of the place.

Christian Endeavorers Dear Florida Friends of C. E. By invitation of "Secretary Grace" I am sending this greeting to Christian Endeavor friends in Florida. We are apt to grow weary in well doing these summer months, but now is the time to lay our plans for aggressive work next winter.

A hundred C. E. Societies in Florida is not too large a mark to set for this coming season. It calls for the true missionary spirit to be extended toward neighboring churches and communities now without this C. E. blessing. In the churches of my own denomination, for which by call and responsibility I have special opportunity, I am setting the goal of one or more Christian Endeavor Societies in every church. A year may be too short a time to accomplish it all. But if there is a Congregational church near you that has no C. E. Society I ask you to make that your special field. Besides this, I stand ready to help in any way I can to broaden and strengthen Florida Christian Endeavor in every church of every name, to the end that we may help to fulfill the prayer of Jesus "that we all may be one" in Him.

From Norfolk Mr. Tenny went to Washington, where he conferred with the Interstate Commerce Commission in regard to several matters of interest of the growers.—Reporter-Stat.

STATE NEWS

The growth of a city can always be gauged by its postoffice receipts. The postoffice receipts of St. Cloud for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1913, was $4,918.31. For the fiscal year ending March 31, 1914, the receipts were $6,082.43. The receipts for the month of June, 1914, are 34 per cent greater than those of June, 1913, and when it is taken into consideration that June is the dullest month in the year it is conclusive evidence that St. Cloud is taking on a wonderful growth.—St. Cloud Tribune.

"Every car, light, motor and other electrical appliance in the city using current from the dynamos of the St. Petersburg Investment Company is being supplied by the new $150,000 power plant just completed," says the Independent. The transfer was made from the old to the new plant without any inconvenience to patrons, and everything is now running smoothly and well in the new and greatly improved quarters. The St. Petersburg company had hardly expected, when completing his plant recently abandoned, that there would be such demand as to call for changes in many years. But the growth of the city made the improvements imperative and now the city is better able than ever to offer inducements to new comers.

In several of the cities of Florida special attention was given to 4th of July celebrations, and crowds from nearby sections came in to help make the day memorable. In Palatka and Bartow and other points elaborate preparations were made and the occasion made one of general jubilation. The weather was warm and in some instances the demonstrations were noisy, but as a whole the events of the day were enjoyed by thousands. The beach resorts near Jacksonville had the greatest crowds ever known, and it may be decided that the glorious Fourth was properly celebrated in Florida.

Catalogue is Printed The catalogue of the Florida State College for Women which is now being distributed by that college, is of interest not only to every citizen who has a daughter to send to college, but to every one who takes pride in the progress of his state educational institutions. The book gives the History of the college and shows the substantial growth it has made since it was founded. The list of the faculty and other officers, exclusive of the state boards comprises 42 names. The plant as described consists of a campus of 103 acres and seven buildings, including a new $30,000.00 dining room. Information is given also concerning the terms of admission to the college and the work of the various departments, viz., the Graduate School, the College of Art and Science, the Normal School, the College of Art and Expression and Music, as well as concerning the work carried on throughout the state by the Extension Division of the Home Economics Department. Among the items of interest to those who expect to go to college soon, are the calendar for the academic year, and the statement of expenses, which for regular students in the college and normal school are kept within the modest sum of $124.00 for 36 weeks. Not the least interesting part of the catalogue is the register, which shows that during the past year there were in attendance at the college 418 young women from Florida counties and 12 states. The catalogue shows clearly that young ladies of Florida who wish to receive educational advantages of the highest type and at the lowest cost can do so within the borders of their own state. Young women who are thinking of attending college in 1914-1915 should write the president of the college for a copy of this catalogue.

Unintentional Humor. At the last meeting of the Maine Laundrymen's association a motion was made and carried that a fine be imposed on any member making use of the word "mangle" because of the impression it was liable to make on the uninitiated.

Thought They Were Natural. Tommy—"You're a coward. My brother made faces at you yesterday, and you didn't durst to fight him. You pretended you didn't know he was makin' faces." Eddie—"I didn't, neither. I thought they was natural, like yours!"

The Unreturning Step. There is much in an unreturning step. Stanley every morning began where he left off the night before. He explored Africa. The postman today began where he began yesterday; he renews acquaintance with Tompkins square.

News to Him. "Why is it that they never place the pictures of living men on bank notes?" asked the fellow who had become rich by writing the words of "popular" songs. "Don't they?" the poet replied.

Contagious. "Tis strange," muttered a young man, as he staggered home from a supper party, "how evil communications corrupt good manners. I've been surrounded by tumblers all the evening, and now I'm a tumbler myself."

Movies in German Schools. The moving picture has been introduced as a permanent feature of the German schools. Films for courses of bacteriology, anatomy and biology are already available in that country.

Why March is Shortest Month. A Kansas girl observes that March is the shortest month of the year "because the wind blows three days out of every week."

Like an Infant. "Was the bridegroom (humorous) during the ceremony?" "Not a bit. You see he has taken a great many holes degrees."

Webbly. "What is your attitude on the tariff?" "Something" replied Washoe Borghum. "Like a man who is walking a tight rope."

AGAINST HER PARENTS' WISHES.

I have heard—or dreamt, it may be—
What love is when true,
How to test and how to try it,
Is the gift of fate.

Who does not know of the family with an only daughter, who rules with a high hand the home and the hearts of its inmates? She dresses to suit herself, despite the mild protests of her mother and the annoyance of her father. She entertains a set of young folks she likes best, goes where she pleases, and with whom she accepts invitations from escorts whom she has met but once or twice at a girl friend's home, without taking the trouble to mention it until the day of their going out together arrives, lest her parents might make objection, and she would have the trouble of talking them over to her view and wishes.

The wilful girl is usually overromantic. She considers herself as capable of choosing her own lover in the face of any opposition, just as she has always exercised opposition in selecting her hats and gowns of bizarre slit. She intends to please herself. She will have no interference in her love affairs.

The dashing young fellow who is living on expectations, visits her home regularly. He is not the type of man her parents would wish for, yet they hope against hope that love will spur him on to get into some successful business, and thus prove his worthiness of her, or, if he fails to make good through not trying, that the glamour will fall from her eyes—and she will see him as others see him.

They do not favor a sporty young man, with a handsome face, who intends that his good looks should do the work for him and earn as a reward a comfortable home to step into and a wife's well-filled, open pocket-book.

In homes where father rules the household, he does not make himself scarce in the parlor when a young man calls upon his daughter. The self-willed daughter is not averse to letting father know that they can get along without him; that she can never hope for a proposal of marriage under such conditions.

The parents, to whom their daughter's happiness is above all else, allow her to overrule their judgment as to what is best for her by permitting his continued visits. It is not until a girl sees such a fellow in his true colors that she realizes the grievous wrong she did her parents in encouraging the young man against their wishes.

Remember, it matters not to what extent a girl may have her own way in the household in most instances, she should be governed by her parents' wishes in her heart affairs. Earnest parental eyes look through the most clever ruse's disguise. They are quick to discover "the wolf in sheep's clothing, or the satanic lover with the cloven foot."

WHAT BRIDEGROOMS THINK OF HOONEYMOONS.

When two that are linked in one heavenly tie,
With heart never changing, and brow never cold,
Love on through all ills, and love on till they die—
One hour of passion so sacred is worth
White ages of heartless and wandering bliss.

It is not the thought of supporting a wife that causes some men to hesitate to wed; nor is it the fear of getting a bride who will not be congenial to his home folks; nor yet the worry over the possibility of having to keep the wife's family; but the dread of the honeymoon, which plays havoc with a man's matrimonial resolution.

If his sweetheart is one of those fair goddesses of girls who has never known what it is to be without that thorn, the ever-present chaperon, and he has had to court two, as it were, to gain the love of one, he wonders how they would get along when they depended entirely upon each other's society during the honeymoon.

No matter how little a man may love of this world's goods, where is the bride who does not think that the going-away trip, be it for a month, a fortnight or a week, is a very essential part of the program?

Of course, they go to a strange city. They know no one to call upon them or whom they may go to see. It is the newly-made husband's intention to lay aside all thoughts of business and devote his time to his bride's whims. He who studies the program out in advance knows that it would be the theater for them each evening of the week, the sightseeing automobile just as soon as they finished breakfast, with an hour for lunch, at some high-priced restaurant, where all the rest of the night—signified their intention of stopping. Every place of interest would be stopped at and dollar souvenirs spoons would have to be purchased at two dollars each.

No man can afford to be stingy before his bride, especially while they are away on their honeymoon.

In his ruminations he concludes that no matter how sensible and prudent a girl may be the fact of acquiring a man who is all her own must surely mean that she would have some one to take her everywhere she wished to go, never questioning the cost. It would be very well if the sun shone every day so that they could get out of doors. But, great Scott! what would a man do if a continued storm should set in to keep them hotel-bound? It would be either the overcrowded parlor for them or their room, where she would write letters from morning till night to the home folks, friends, every one she could think of. He wouldn't have the temerity to smoke in so dainty a room. Pacing up and down, with his hands in his pockets, glancing from the pretty head bent over the writing desk to the falling rain splashing against the window pane, might soon get on the nerves of the bridegroom most deeply in love.

He knows that no bride could be asked to play a game of poker or billiards to put in the time. There would be the papers to read to her. But she'd want to read aloud about fashions. If he didn't have a bride to please, he would be looking over the page devoted to sporting items. In summing up the matter, he would propose marriage to the girl who would cut out the honeymoon or consent to a belated one two or three years later.

HOODWINKING A HUSBAND.

We school our manners, act our parts,
But He who sees us through and through
Knows that the best of both our hearts
Was to be loving, honest, true.

There is no one to pull against the loosened purse strings if a single man chooses to spend all he earns. The married man who has but recently taken a wife, and with small income in most instances, concludes if he is to get ahead he must look after the pennies. Such a man does not intend to be stingy; far from it. He means only to be frugal. It never occurs to him that his helpmeet may not take the same view as he does. If a man weds a woman who has been used to economy, juggling successfully with the nimble sixpence, there is harmony in the household. If he marries a girl who has had all her wants plentifully supplied by her parents, she may secretly rebel against being stinted down to a small amount—a fixed price to live on.

If her husband finds fault with her for buying too expensive tablecloths and napkins, in short, reads her a sharp lecture on extravagance, he is apt not to know from her the true cost of anything in future.

Of course, she cannot make the merchants come down in their prices. Hubby is fond of good living. She wants peace. Therefore, she does her best to stifle her conscience cry, to beware! take care! There should be no fibbing between husbands and wives.

No wife is justified in an attempt to hoodwink her husband by telling him that this or that is so much cheaper than it really is; or adding to the price of some article to eke out a little money to buy some bit of finery she craves, and after she has bought it fearing to show it up before him. Like many a woman, the weight of a secret in her heart is a heavy load—it hurts. When she confesses her little misdoing, wise is the husband who takes it good-naturedly.

Wiser, and more sensible still, is he who seeks her entire confidence and adds a little to her allowance to buy a bit of finery, or whatever she wants, rather than have her resort to even the least deception to satisfy his inquiries. It is always the wife who thinks most of her husband who believes that it is for his best interest not to be told anything which might annoy him. Her intentions are always well-meant. All wives should remember there is a world of truth in the lines:

Oh, what a fatal web we weave,
When first we practise to deceive.

The wife who condones her own first offense in misleading her husband may soon find herself sliding down a slippery road, which ends in her destruction. A husband may forgive, but will he forget an untruth? Or will he have full confidence in one, no matter how dear, that would conceal the truth from him concerning any subject? While this is meant as a gentle reminder to wives, it is also intended as a warning to the husband who is unnecessarily close in dealing with his wife financially. He should study her nature and her needs.

Getting in Line.

The late Cy Warner, who deserted railway literature for a real railway job in Montreal, told this story at a luncheon not long before his death.

A Scotchman came upon an automobile overturned at a railway crossing. Beside it lay a man all smashed up.

"Get a doctor," he moaned.

"Did the train hit you?" asked the Scotchman.

"Yes, yes; get a doctor."

"Has the claim agent been here yet?"

"No, no; please get a doctor."

"Move over, you," said the Scot, "till I lie down beside you."

RADIUM AS CURATIVE

Long Known to Possess Great Remedial Powers.

English Scientist Says South American Natives Heard of It Many Years Ago—Used, in Many Cases, to Heal Wounds.

London.—An English scientist, T. Thorne Baker, has just published some interesting data regarding radium and its curative effects.

Radium, says Mr. Baker, has been a thing of extreme fascination to the scientist, while the general public have regarded it with mild curiosity. But its recent effects in the treatment of cancer have made it a thing of absorbing interest to the whole world.

There are various sources for obtaining radium, for it occurs always in a fixed proportion with the metal uranium. Wherever we find uranium we are sure to find the one-three-millionth part of radium with it. Pitchblende is the richest mineral, but certain other substances, as autunite, torbenite and carnotite, contain small quantities of uranium, and it is from these three poorer minerals that the future supply of radium will very largely come, unless, of course, unforeseen fresh supplies of pitchblende are discovered.

The chemist finds himself with one ton of ore, and he knows by measurement with delicate instruments that it contains about ten milligrams, or less than the sixth part of a grain, of radium! Imagine trying to extract a grain of something from six tons of solid rock! But modern chemistry, to which the name of radio-chemistry has now been given, has enabled this problem to be solved with such complete success that by the most recent methods hardly any of this single grain is lost during the tedious and long process of extraction.

The result is that some months later nearly the whole of the priceless grain of radium is extracted in an almost pure state, and its purity can be measured against a special standard sample prepared by Mme. Curie, which is kept jealously guarded at the international bureau of weights and measures at Sevres, near Paris. This standard sample of pure radium chloride contains nearly twenty-two milligrams sealed up in a thin glass tube, and three other international standards are kept at the Academy of Science in Vienna.

It is quite a common thing when buying a large quantity of radium—by this is meant a grain or two—to buy it on condition that its purity be "first tested against one or other of the international standard specimens."

Radium water is being largely tried now in the treatment not only of cancer, but of various rheumatic and gouty troubles, and this water consists of ordinary water charged with the gas given off by radium and known as "emanation." If some radium salt be dissolved in water and left in a sealed vessel in about a month the "emanation" gas which it produces reaches a state of equilibrium and it can be expelled by boiling and passed into water, which then possesses radio-active qualities. This "emanation water" only retains its activity for a short time, and in less than four days has become impoverished to less than half its original value.

At the radium institute two lots of radium are kept continually in use for making the water and while one is resting, so to speak, for its month, the other has produced enough water to go on with for this month. One way of overcoming the difficulty of the lessening effects is to increase the dose day by day, so that if you were to start today taking doses of a table-spoonful on the fourth day you would take two table-spoonfuls, and so on. But after the fourth day the radio-active activity diminishes so rapidly that the water is of little more use and fresh must be secured.

This is the reason that spring waters, which may give beneficial results on account of containing radio-activity, must be drunk at the spring, for if bottled and drunk perhaps weeks afterward the radio-active properties have vanished.

Many years ago the natives in some South American district used to cover their wounds with dust which they got in the neighborhood made with water into a kind of poultice, and recently it was discovered that there was radium in the locality, so that years ago, quite ignorantly, the curative effects of radium were already being employed.

The residues obtained after all the radium has been extracted still contain minute traces of radio-activity and are used as good deal on the continent for plasters and baths. One of the uses to which they are most likely to be put, however, in the future is the acceleration of the growth of crops. Thorne Baker described recently at the Royal Society of Arts experiments in which he had obtained 100 per cent increase in weight in radishes and the surveyor to the board of agriculture at Truro, Mr. Henderson, repeated these experiments with, in one case, even better results.

Aged Couple Wed.

Port Monmouth, N. J.—John L. Covert, seventy-three, and Mrs. Josephine Mertz, eighty-five, who have a offspring of 43 children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren, were married here. It was the bridegroom's third marriage and the bride's second.

It Pays to Buy Good Printing

Your correspondents in business judge you by the stationery you use. They have no other way of judging in many cases.

You cannot afford anything but the best in printing, whether it be Letter Heads, Envelopes, Statements or Advertising Matter.

We are equipped to handle your work of any nature whatsoever in the line of printing. Our specialty is high-class printing, and we have the equipment and the skilled labor to turn out as good work as can be had anywhere.

During the summer months is the best time to lay in a supply of printing for the coming winter. Your work will be rushed through the shop and special pains will be taken to see that the very best work is put on your order. Then too, it can be thoroughly dried on our drying racks and will be delivered in a perfect condition—every piece perfect.

Come in today and give us your order.

Don't forget that we are headquarters for Writing Ink, Carbon Paper, Blank Counter Pads, Cardboard, (in all colors) Loose-Leaf Ledgers for merchandise stores, and Typewriter Ribbons.

We are closing out a large stock of typewriter carbon of the very best makes, usually sold for 2 1-2c per sheet. While they last 1c per sheet. (Black, Blue and Purple).

BUDGET OF OPINION "JUST BETWEEN YOU AND ME."

EVEN THE GATE POST NOT IN IT

A CHIEF IS AMONG YB TAKING NOTES AND FAITH. "HELL PRENT 'EM"—SO SAYS SAUNTERER.

The Candidate
Who am I that I should speak
Condemnation of another?
He who sells his vote is weak,
But—how much is wanted, brother

Something you would have me say
Of the "wickedness of princes?"
Well, then, be that as it may,
Truly, 'tis the galled jade winces.

Backward? Nay; I do not lag!
Of the issues now before us
I am for that grand old flag
That is proudly waving o'er us.

Of the tariff you would bear?
I believe, friends, in this crisis—
Do I make myself quite clear?
In high wages and low prices!

Currency, my views are sound,
Though to some they may seem funny;
Wealth for all men should abound,
I believe in—ready money!

There! I trust you're satisfied
I will serve in any station;
What I think you may decide—
Just give me the nomination!

People are prone to be eager for something that they cannot get and this seems to hold good in everything. If the people know that a store will close at a certain time they are almost sure to rush in the last moment and keep that store open for a few minutes after time just to see how the clerks will take it. I noticed this on Saturday last. The Herald office was closed all day to give the employees a day off and a sign on the door so stated. Standing across the street I noted no less than fifteen people trying to break into The Herald office for no purpose whatever than just to see why they should want to close on a holiday. Some of them probably wanted to pay a bill, in fact several of them told me so and if I had anything to do with it I believe I would tack that sign on the door every day just to stimulate business.

You tell the people they cannot have their customary drink and they immediately think they must have it or die. They do not get it and they do not die. You inform them that they cannot get a newspaper or cigar on Sunday and they go through the same process of dying and come to life again and the world goes on just the same. It is certainly the truth that we never miss the water until the well runs dry and many of our citizens never miss The Herald office until the doors are closed for a day. My advice to them is to come in more frequent when the doors are open and take a greater interest in the paper than is taking such an interest in their welfare and that of the city of Sanford.

Oftentimes it has occurred to me that the packers who wrapped about sixteen different wraps of paper around a small piece of bacon or ham were doing the ultimate consumer a grave injustice. Actually it has seemed to me at times that there were five or six pounds of paper around a few pounds of meat. It has also seemed to me that the proper authorities of the different states could take up this matter and force the packers to stop this practice. Especially have I been sanguine of success in this regard since the government has been after the meat trusts lately and the question of making the consumer pay a big price for meat and then give them half paper has seemed one that should be stopped.

It is refreshing then to note that way up in Michigan they have a Deputy Dairy and Food Inspector who has the nerve to jump on the big meat trusts and stop this paper business as the following despatch from the Owasso Press American would indicate:

"Deputy Dairy and Food Commissioner Burr Lincoln has incurred the wrath of the Armour Packing Company of Chicago by advising meat dealers not to pay for the extra weight of hams and bacon caused by wrapping the meat in heavy paper.

Lincoln claims that the meat dealers are compelled to pay for about four pounds of paper in each 10-pound shipment of ham and he points out that the ultimate consumer has to pay for the wrapping paper when he settles his meat bill. Commissioner Helm has received a letter from the head attorney of the big packing house in which he urged Helms to cut off his deputy as he said that it was necessary to wrap the meat in several thicknesses of paper in order to prevent shrinkage.

However, Deputy Lincoln refuses to be bluffed and will continue to sic the butchers on to the packing house. He says that he will advise them not to pay for their shipments of ham and bacon wrapped in this manner and thereby get the case into court to determine whether the packing house has the right to charge for the additional weight."

Is there an officer in Florida who will dare take up this matter and force the meat barons to give the people full weight in smoked meats?

A few weeks ago it was too much Huerta, but now Carranza seems to be rocking the boat.

Huerta appears willing to retire from the dictatorship of Mexico, and apparently is endeavoring only to save as much as possible of his face.

But Carranza has shown his hand. He is the fly in the ointment of peace, and unless he is summarily swatted he will upset every effort in that direction.

If the United States government wants peace in Mexico it must clip Carranza's wings, for that bewhiskered patriot has his optics firmly focused upon the battered presidential chair of the land of the Montezumas.

Swat Carranza.

I see by the Reporter-Star of Orlando that H. Ohsé and D. Awdó are selling coffee in that city, in fact have started coffee mills and are putting out a good article. Nothing odd about this, only the names struck me as funny. "Oh-Say 'Ow Awd."

Joe Flores of the Orlando Reporter-Star is agitating a union station for his city and his efforts deserve success. If there is one place in Florida that needs a union depot Orlando is the place, for that beautiful city is crowded to death with tourists in the winter and certainly the travel wants something better from the two railroads than Orlando can now boast. Sanford secured one without a struggle and its one of the finest stations in the state.

My old friend Arthur Glass, who formerly was superintendent of the A. C. L. and at one time was in this city has been miraculously cured of cancer of the throat and during his operation in the hospital at Baltimore became convinced that he should seek religion as the only solace in the hour of trouble. Since he has been able to resume his duties as president of a large banking firm he makes public his profession of faith in the power of the Lord and his letter is certainly an inspiration to others who are standing outside of the church looking in and smug in the satisfaction of thinking that they are good enough to die because they are living right in other ways. Mr. Glass says that some of his friends will no doubt criticize his statements made public but that he takes pleasure in the public announcement that he has found the true religion and only the church and the public profession of faith can save you. He is honored by his public announcement and feels that only by divine interference was his life spared. He asks God to pity and have mercy on those who may be unable to see His wonderful ways and believe.

SIRE AND SONS.

Philadelphia has three living veterans of the former Mexican war. J. B. Wilson, ninety; I. Williams, eighty-eight; and O. Manypenny, ninety.

J. C. Chatterji, one of India's most distinguished scientists, will shortly visit Japan to carry out research work in the interests of Shintolism and Buddhism.

Myron T. Herrick, United States ambassador to France, has been given a gold medal by the French Natural History association for "international service in the protection of wild life."

Sir Charles Wyndham, the veteran actor-manager, who is seventy-seven, is still hale and hearty, and has no intention of retiring yet. He is now preparing to bring out a new play. Before going on the stage he served as an army surgeon.

Captain Hugh Rodman, U. S. N., who will have charge of all the details of putting shipping through the Panama canal, graduated from Annapolis in 1880, and with the exception of six years has been at sea ever since. He has been around the world five times and has commanded ships in nearly every big port.

Forest Notes.

Results from western white pine plantations three seasons or more old show an average of 97 per cent success. On average white pine soil planting can be conducted for from $5 to $8 per acre.

Western yellow pine cones to the amount of 4377 bushels, obtained on the Bitter Root national forest, Montana, yielded 1482 pounds of seed. The average cost of the extracted seed was 41 cents per pound.

Forest botanists recognize only one cypress in the United States. Its range extends from Delaware, southward around the coast into Texas and up the Mississippi valley to Illinois and Indiana. It is one of the few trees bearing cones which drop their leaves in winter. The heart wood of cypress is noted for its decay resistant properties.

Aviation Notes.

Provided its builder accepts certain conditions, the British war office will put any aeroplane through the military acceptance test.

One of the French manufacturers has produced a hydroaeroplane so powerful that it is in reality little less than a flying tugboat.

FIGHT AT VERA CRUZ

Chicago Woman Gives Vivid Picture of the Capture.

Narrator, While on Deck of Steamer in Harbor Watched Assault on Town by United States Guns—Mexican Women in Fray.

Chicago.—Vivid description of the capture of Vera Cruz was given by Mrs. Frederick J. Stevens, wife of a former Chicago automobile agent, shortly after her arrival here from battle-torn Mexico. Mrs. Stevens, her mother, Isabella W. Olin, and her four-year-old daughter, Esther, were the first of Chicago refugees to reach this city. From a porthole in the bow of the refugee ship Esperanza Mrs. Stevens and her mother had watched the conflict at Vera Cruz—saw the steel-jacketed bullets drop from parapets, heard the sharp rattle of field guns and the incessant roar of "three pounders" as they played with terrific effect upon the white walls of Vera Cruz. Mrs. Stevens' story was a tribute to American bravery.

"We had been warned the night before at Vera Cruz to hasten aboard the Esperanza," said Mrs. Stevens, "and all American civilians packed their valuables in the night and made for the boat. The women slept in the cabin and the men on the decks that night. When I awoke the fatal Tuesday morning I shuddered to see the ominous warships around and to hear the bugles blowing. The Esperanza was in line with the Prairie and the Chester, only a stone's throw away.

"I was watching from the deck when there was a bustle aboard the warships and men began crowding over the sides into boats. Bugles were blowing everywhere, and we could hear orders shouted by the naval officers. Then as in answer to this action, a shot rang out from the shore, and the battle was on.

"Immediately the machine guns on the Prairie and the Chester opened fire on the city. At first it looked as if there was nothing to shoot at for we on the Esperanza could see no Mexicans, but later we were told this fire was to protect the marines who were landing.

"Then little puffs of white smoke began to shoot out from the housetops. We could see the Mexicans swarming up there like ants, and we know they were firing on our men. From behind palisades and ledges on the custom house, churches and business blocks they shot at the United States marines, who were marching on undaunted.

"Then the machine guns were trained on them, and the marksmanship of the American gunners was proved. Repeatedly I watched them with a single shot cut away a church tower or corner of a building where the Mexicans were 'potting' our men. Once, with a beautiful shot, they cut a tall bellry, and I saw the Mexicans catapulted to earth amid the ruins.

"With field glasses I got intimate glimpses of the enemy ashore. Many of them looked to be no more than boys, and there were also a great many women. The women would fire from windows, apparently without taking aim. Others ran wildly through the streets, shooting in the air.

"Finally, when our boys got a base on shore and began their advance we could see the Mexicans fleeing in every direction. There was no order among them. We saw many of them shot down as they fled. Occasionally we could see one of our boys fall."

The position at the porthole was a precarious one, too, according to the narrator. Mexican bullets constantly were thumping against the side of the refugee vessel and once one whistled through an open porthole striking the steward.

The family had been in the capital of the southern republic about a year and was among the first to hasten to Vera Cruz when war threatened.

CAT AND HEN FIRM QUILTS

Owner of Quiser Combination Dissolves It to Save Litter of Kittens.

San Jose, Cal.—Without the formality of going to court, Will M. Beggs, San Jose attorney, has dissolved a partnership which has had even the nature factors guessing of late. A house cat and a pet hen at the Beggs home started housekeeping on the partnership plan. When the cat wished to go out and make a call on the back fence the hen would spread her wings over the litter of kittens.

When Mrs. Beggs had a date it was the accepted thing to see the cat mothering a brood of young chickens.

The rough feat of the hen, however, threatened to do serious damage to the tender care of the young kittens, and Beggs decided to separate them. He established two households in separate inclosures.

Husband Painted Wife's Face.

New York.—In her suit for divorce, Mrs. Joseph Hyama charged that her husband painted her face while she was sleeping and then called her son to see the "Indian." Hyama replied that she made up to win the attentions of other men.

Pantaloons Gowns Cause Arrests.

New York.—Vivian, Florence and Ida Perry, sisters, were arrested for wearing pantaloons gowns in the Brooklyn shopping district.

World's Darkest Moment.

The darkest moment is said to be just before dawn. This is now 43° covered not to be so. The darkest moment, relatively speaking, is when the noonday sun shines. Then it is that living things on the earth are blinded by the dazzle of the sun and fail to recognize the light that never falls out in space.

Quits Right.

Earth's Temperature. It has long been known that the temperature below the earth's surface increases at the rate of about one degree per hundred feet, or 60 degrees per mile. If the rate of increase were constant, the temperature at the relatively small depth of 700 miles would be above the melting point of all substances under ordinary surface conditions.

CAMP CONFERENCE ENDS MOST HAPPILY

THE GIRLS HAD A BIG TIME ON THE FOURTH

THE SESSION CLOSED ON WEDNESDAY

THE GIRLS HAVE HAD TWO WEEKS OF PLEASURE AND CHRISTIAN TRAINING

Enterprise, July 10.—The glorious Fourth was most appropriately celebrated at the girls' conference which is now in session at Enterprise.

In the morning the customary routine, Bible reading by Miss Emma Tucker and mission study class led by Mrs. Salley for the older girls and Bible study class led by Miss Ethel McCoy for the juniors was carried out.

Under the direction of Miss Katherine Searing, physical director of the Jacksonville Young Women's Christian Association, a series of contests of various sorts had been planned.

The contests opened with a tennis tournament. Miss Gertrude Hutchinson of DeLand and Miss Ella Blake of Tampa played against Miss Carrie Shedd of DeLand and Miss Beulah Nell Harvey of Jacksonville.

The second feature was a relay race. Entries for this contest were Miss Ruth Minium of Jacksonville, Miss Doris Newman of Jacksonville, Miss Arlene McCoy of Jacksonville, Miss Jean Waterbury of Jacksonville and Miss Annie Hogan of Eustis.

THE CURRY CASE IS POSTPONED AFTER SPARRING OF LAWYERS HE WILL AWAIT IN JAIL UNTIL MONDAY NEXT

The second hearing of the killing of W. F. Bryan by T. W. Curry, which occurred near Chuluota several weeks ago was held in the court of County Judge Herring today at ten o'clock.

Curry has been in jail here since last Sunday night and the hearing this morning was held in the presence of a large crowd, many legal cases from adjoining counties being present.

Miss Crim and Miss Gertrude Hutchinson of DeLand and Miss Katherine Searing of Jacksonville. Miss Searing was declared winner.

The sack race came next and was one of the best appreciated races. Entries for this were Miss Clara Welch of Jacksonville, Miss Reba Harris of Eustis, Miss Marguerite Webb of Eustis, Miss Doris Newman of Jacksonville, Miss Dora Newman of Jacksonville, with Miss Webb a close second.

Entries for the 50-yard dash were Clara Welch of Jacksonville, Miss Ella Blake of Tampa, Miss Ruth Minium and Arlene McCoy of Jacksonville. Miss Minium was declared winner.

The hurdle race was perhaps the greatest test of skill, the girls being compelled to run some distance and jump two benches. Entries were Misses Gertrude Hutchinson of DeLand, Miss Elinor Middlekrauf of Jacksonville, Marguerite Webb of Eustis and Ruth Minium of Jacksonville, Katherine Searing of Jacksonville, Annie Hogan of Eustis. Miss Webb was declared winner with Miss Hogan a close second.

The trip to Boston race was the funnest of all. Each girl entering this was provided with a suitcase closed containing a skirt, hat and coat, and carried a parasol closed in her hand. After walking the prescribed distance she set her suitcase down, donned all the clothes, closed the suitcase, opened the parasol and started back. Needless to say some scurrying was done and the impossibility of putting on a present day skirt in a hurry was demonstrated.

Entries for this were Miss Mary O'Brien of Jacksonville, Miss Jean Waterbury of Jacksonville, Miss Lizzie Teate and Miss Bertha Polard of DeLand. Miss O'Brien won, with Miss Teate a close second.

The next event was a potato race. Entries for this were Misses Helen Minium, Jean Waterbury, Jennie Goin and Annie Hogan on the first team. On the second team were Miss Ruth Minium, Carrie Shedd and Elinor Middlekrauf. The first team won.

Next to the trip to Boston the backward race was the most highly entertaining. Entries for this were Misses Mary O'Brien, Mary Powell, Ruth Minium, Miss Bailey Stone and Marguerite Webb. Starting backwards most of them landed on their backs the first little rising they came to. Miss Webb won, being the only one who kept her feet.

The field sports closed with a three legged race. Entries were Miss Reba Harris and Marguerite Webb, Arlene McCoy and Helen Minium, Jean Waterbury and Clara Welch, Mary Bailey Stone and Ella Beck. The race was won by Misses Harris and Webb, who made extra good time.

Several other events had been planned but could not be carried out on account of darkness. After supper the young women all went down to the dock for the vesper service. With no other light streaming down on the beautiful water the service was most impressive. The meeting was conducted by Miss Brokaw, general secretary of the Young Women's

TAX COMMISSION RAILROAD DEAL

THE PEOPLE ARE LOSERS AGAIN AND THE RAILROADS WINNERS

WAS COMMISSION A PUT UP JOB

QUESTION NOW AGITATES THE MINDS OF THE PEOPLE WHO FUZZER AS USUAL

The following from the Reporter-Star is pertinent and very much to the point:

Was the legislation creating the Florida State Tax Commission designed and pushed through by a railroad lobby for the benefit of the railroads?

This is a question which seems pertinent in view of the developments of the past few days.

Soon after the creation of the commission an order was issued to all tax assessors to enter property on their books at the real cash value; in short, to raise the valuations to one hundred per cent. In view of the fact that no county in the state was paying on a hundred per cent valuation and that a sudden increase of this kind in the valuations without a proportionate reduction in the millage would have worked a tremendous hardship on the taxpayers, there was a general protest from the assessors, some of them going as far as to defy the tax commission.

Seeing that their order was too revolutionary, the tax commissioners eventually agreed to a fifty per cent appraisal. This was done at a meeting held at Jacksonville between a large number of the assessors and the chairman of the commission.

A previous meeting of the assessors and the commission had been held at Tallahassee when the proposed increase was discussed.

At that meeting some of the assessors made the point that it would be manifestly unfair for the real and personal property of the tax payers to be increased if the railroad property was not raised in due proportion.

The assessment of the railroad and telegraph lines is in the hands of a board composed of the Comptroller, the Attorney General and the State Treasurer. The work is really done in the Comptroller's office.

While this subject was under discussion the assessors called for the Comptroller, Mr. W. V. Knott, and he was asked pointedly, it is said, if he would make an increase in his railroad assessments proportionately with that to be made on the real and personal property. Such a promise was made at that time by the Comptroller, it is stated, and it was because of this promise that the assessors agreed to increase real and personal valuations.

What was the result? While the tax assessors have been raising valuations all over the state the Comptroller has been busy in lowering the railroad valuations, although such valuations were already lower in proportion than were the other valuations.

Another thing which seems to bear out the idea of jobbery:

It is usual for the assessor in Orange county, and presumably the other assessors also, to receive in June from the Comptroller the railroad and telegraph assessments, to be duly entered upon his books before being submitted to the county commissioners for equalization at the July meeting.

This year the railroad assessments were received from the Comptroller only a few days ago, too late for the assessor to go over his books and change his figures.

Whereas the Atlantic Coast Line has been assessed previously at $7,500 a mile, the assessment this year is $7,300 a mile. No change was made in the assessments of the Seaboard, which stands at $8,000 a mile and the Flagler system at $2,750 a mile.

The gist of the matter is that while the ordinary taxpayers will pay on increased valuations the Coast Line railroad will pay on a smaller valuation and the other railroads will pay just the same, being unaffected by the order of the tax commission for an increase.

City Council Proceedings

The city council met in regular session July 6th, 1914, at 7:30 p. m. Present, B. W. Herndon, president; C. H. Dinger, J. Adams, W. W. Abernathy, R. C. Maxwell and H. E. Tolar. Absent, J. D. Davison. Minutes of last meeting read and approved.

T. J. Miller asked that the council change the width of the sidewalks from Tenth street to Hughey street to four feet. No action.

Mr. Fuessle asked that the city finish filling the abandoned ditch near his place. Referred to the street committee.

The mayor recommended that the council pass an ordinance governing the operation of pool rooms in the city of Sanford.

It was moved and seconded that the city pay Mr. T. K. Bates the sum of $60, toward defraying the expenses of a man who had been helping himself and Mr. Preston, the city assessor in the assessment of taxes. Carried.

The matter of approving the bond of the Seminole Dredging Co. was postponed.

The bill of L. P. McCuller for groceries and the bill of A. E. Irwin for rent, account of Mrs. Simpkins, pauper, were ordered paid.

A petition signed by W. R. King and ten others asking that a street be opened from Hughey street south to Mary L. Evans street was received and referred to the street committee.

A petition signed by a large number of the citizens of the city asking that the assessment for 1914 be based on a 70 per cent valuation and the millage increased from 14 mills to 20 mills was received. The matter was considered, and Mr. Bates being present, said that it would make no difference with the county assessment. Petition not granted.

A petition largely signed asking that the city have a certain ditch in the new territory in the western part of the city cleaned was received and referred to the street committee.

The reports of the Chief of Police, Treasurer, Collector, Sanitary Inspector and Fire Department read and ordered filed.

Moved and seconded that the bills assigned by the president and approved by the finance committee be paid. Carried.

Council adjourned until 7:15 July 6th to continue the equalization. M. W. LOVELL, Clerk.

Porch Dance

Mrs. A. P. Connelly entertained with a delightfully informal porch dance last evening for her house guest, Miss Eugenia Maulden of Washington, D. C., and Miss Mabel Bowler, the guest of Mrs. J. W. Dickins. The beauty and charm of the attractive house was enhanced by a profusion of red roses, ferns and potted plants. Carrying out the color scheme of red, the chandeliers were garlanded with sprays of red roses, white bowls and vases filled with the red beauties were placed about the rooms.

Delicious red punch, was served throughout the evening by Mrs. J. W. Dickins and Mrs. D. L. Thrasher.

Besides the honor guests those invited were Mrs. Lester, Dr. and Mrs. Puleston, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Newman, Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Herndon, Misses Peaches and Linda Lester, Belle Smith, Annie Lee and Lettie Caldwell, Mell, Annie and Alice Whitner, Lillian Herring, Anna McLaughlin, Charlotte and Mabel Hand, Florence Frank, Gessie Wicker, Helen Rowland, Gladys Morris, Essie Purdon and Mrs. Williams, Dr. Tolar, Messrs. Joe, Ned and Roy Chittenden, W. J. Thigpen, J. D. Roberts, Braxton Perkins, Gns. McLaughlin, Will Watson, Archie Betts, Clarence Mahoney, Eugene and Karl Roumillat, Ernest Housholder, Henry Purdon, Randall Chase, David and William Caldwell, Benjamin Whitner, Mr. Galloway and Hon. Forrest Lake.

EUGENICS NO PLACE IN THE SCHOOLS

NATIONAL EDUCATIONAL SOCIETY SWATS THE SAME

MORE HARMFUL THAN BENEFICIAL

DISCUSSION OF THE QUESTION IN THE SCHOOLS WOULD CORRUPT MORALS

St. Paul, July 10.—The teaching of sex hygiene will never be delegated to the American teacher if it can be prevented by the National Educational Association. This was evidenced at Wednesday's session when speaker after speaker denounced such a course and found themselves greeted with ringing applause.

"We should have but the stronger condemnation for the wealthy club woman who has not time to teach her child fundamental truths of life and would throw the responsibility on a teacher or on a football coach" shouted Dr. Charles H. Keen, of Minneapolis, supervisor of hygiene and physical training.

"Such shiftlessness is outrageous," he said. When the tumultuous cheering had subsided he went on: "Sex instruction placed on the same plane with spelling and arithmetic will rob it of its sacredness. We talk about the inability of the poor mothers to teach their children hygiene, but it is not for these children we need to have all this fear."

"Knowledge will never compel purity. Sex hygiene in schools will but tend to lower the standard of morality."

"If we take up sex hygiene in our schools the homes of America will continue to lose, and will give up the few privileges they now have to train the children."

N. D. Showalter, president of Cheney Normal School, Cheney, Wis., said:

"When a father or mother turns aside a child's natural question or deals dishonestly with sex questions, he lays the foundation of an immorality which may develop into a tremendous force."

Dignan is Confirmed

Washington, D. C., July 9.—Notwithstanding the opposition of Senator D. U. Fletcher, the senate in executive session Tuesday afternoon confirmed the nomination of Peter A. Dignan to be postmaster at Jacksonville.

Senator Fletcher made a lengthy statement before the committee and again to the full senate. But inasmuch as the senior senator would not state that Dignan was personally objectionable to him the senate decided there was no good reason for holding up the nomination.

Neither Senator Fletcher nor Senator Bryan had any statement to make tonight.

Mr. Dixon, formerly with F. F. Dutton has recently located in Lakeland where he is engaged in the insurance business.

PEPPER PROVES PROFITABLE A SENSITIVE PLANT THAT FLOURISHES AS LONG AS THE MARKET IS GOOD

There is but little still being created here over the shipment of the summer crop of vegetables. Sanford having the reputation of being the greatest center in the world for the growing and shipping of winter vegetables seems to need a vacation in the summer and the majority of the growers having cleaned up on celery and lettuce have taken to their automobiles and gone to the mountains and seashore to take a well earned vacation.

But there are others who perhaps did not make enough out of their lettuce and celery and some of them have lagged behind to cultivate melons, eggplants and peppers. All of us know that tomatoes and eggplants are good spring crops and have been for many years, but the newest rival for honors is the green pepper, something that was but little known in the northern mar-

SPARKMAN FOR GOVERNOR

And Trammell for Congress in Some Political Dope

Tuesday's Jacksonville Times-Union carried the following story prominently displayed:

That Congressman Stephen M. Sparkman has decided to retire at the expiration of his present term and that Gov. Park Trammell will be the next congressman from the First Florida district, was the statement made by a Hillsborough county man in the city yesterday.

"Mr. Sparkman, he said, is now sixty-five years old, and when he serves out the term for which he was recently nominated, he will have been more than twenty-two years in congress and having served the people faithfully and well during that time, he declares the congressman feels like he wants to have a little time for himself in his own state which he has helped to develop. "This information is said to have come from one of Mr. Sparkman's close personal friends, to whom he had confided his desire to retire from active public life so far as national politics is concerned.

Urged for Governor
"He also stated that friends of the congressman declare he shall not retire from public life until he has served the state as its governor and they believe he can be persuaded that all Florida wants to honor him and will allow himself to be named for that position, that he will have no opposition whatever, for Florida realizes that it owes a debt to Mr. Sparkman which it can never fully repay, but which it will delight in liquidating in part by placing him in the governor's mansion.

"If Mr. Sparkman does decide to retire from congress the Hillsborough county man declares that Gov. Park Trammell will be the choice of the district and the stress brought on him will be so great and so convincing that the governor must feel that he has received a call from the people of the First district to serve them in Washington and that he will not refuse the call.

"Mr. Sparkman was elected to the Fifty-fourth congress and has been re-elected every two years since and is now completing his service in the Sixty-third congress and will be elected this fall to the Sixty-fourth. He is one of the ablest congressmen in service and one of the most popular men in the state. His efforts for the development of the harbors and waterways of Florida have resulted in thousands of dollars annually for improvement and at all times he has had the interests of the state and constituents in hand and at heart."

The burning of a bridge on the Coast Line between Bartow and Winter Haven was the cause of considerable inconvenience on the part of the travelling public and trainmen throughout South Florida yesterday.

Col. A. M. Thrasher calls from New York today for Europe and expects to be absent in Switzerland with his family during the winter. He remarked on leaving Sanford that he would endeavor to bring them all back home next spring to make their home in Sanford again.
