County leader tapped

Democrats gain strength; principal fills seat vacated by Sturm's death

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — Not since the mid-1970s has Seminole County had two Democrats on the county commission. It does now.

Wednesday afternoon, Gov. Lawton Chiles appointed Lyman High principal Carlton Henley to fill the term of the late Bob Sturm who died two weeks ago. A long-time resident, the 66-year-old Henley of Lake Mary has 38 years experience as an educator. He has not been politically active in the county's formal party group, the Democratic Executive Committee, and is largely unknown outside school circles.

Although nearly a dozen people applied or were promoted for the job since Sturm's death, only three names were considered, said Chiles' appointments spokesman, Molly Payne. Only Henley, Lake Mary commissioner David Meador and Altamonte Springs businessman Winfield Adams responded to a questionnaire required for consideration to the appointment, Payne said.

Not since 1974, when then-Democrats Sid Vihlen Jr. and Mike Hattaway served on the commission, did the Seminole County Board of County Commissioners have two Democrats. Now, Larry Furlong, himself the first Democrat on the commission in more than a decade, is joined by a fellow party member.

"I think it will be nice to have him up there," said

County expects to meet recycling goals

By SHERRY NEWKIRK
Special to the Herald

It's that time of year, again! Time to report Seminole County's recycling figures for July 1, 1992 through June 30, 1993 to the State Department of Environmental Protection. The results are very positive for the residents of the county.

The 1992-93 adjusted recycling rate is 27 percent of the total waste stream. This is a 4 percent increase from last year.

"Adjusted" refers to the state's half-and-half formula for calculating the recycling rate. Each county is mandated to reach a 30 percent recycling rate in 1994. Of that 30 percent, only half can come from recycling special wastes, such as yard waste, tires, white goods and construction and demolition debris. The other half, or 15 percent, can come from all other recyclables.

This reporting year finds 50,515 tons of material recycled through public recycling programs (curbside recycling). Another 71,911 tons were recycled by private companies.

In addition to the recycling rate, the state is requiring waste reduction figures from each county. The state requested the county compare the total amount of solid waste generated in 1992-93 with three earlier years.

The waste reduction comparisons, and the resulting tons of solid waste generated per person, in Seminole County are impressive.

To help achieve the 30 percent recycling rate in 1994, the county will soon begin operating a small materials recovery facility (SMRF).

Special Education allegations Charges of not enrolling disabled students denied

By VICKI DeBORNIER Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Seminole County school district officials are awaiting state and federal reports on separate complaints regarding allegations students with disabilities are not being enrolled in the special education classes they need for their particular handicaps.

"I'm just expecting that everything will be just routine and everything we did was done appropriately."

School officials have denied the charges, saying all students who need special education are getting it. The ESE (Exceptional Student Education) program individualizes the learning program for each of the approximately 5,600 students with disabilities who are enrolled in Seminole County schools.

complaint was filed on Sept. 20. "We would be extremely shocked if it comes back with anything but confirming our position," Hagerly said. "We are doing a better job, we think, than most if not all of the counties in the state of Florida, and we are one of the tops in the country."

Puzzle in sex surveys when those with many partners respond

By MALCOLM RITTER
AP Science Writer

NEW YORK — Heterosexual sex requires one man plus one woman, so in a given population, the men and the women should have the same total number of opposite-gender sex partners, right?

Right. But survey after survey has found that men report more opposite-gender sex partners than women do. One recent set of surveys found that men report three times as many sex partners over a lifetime.

It's long been a puzzle, but in today's issue of the journal Nature, a researcher says she may have figured it out.

Sociologist Martina Morris of Columbia University, who analyzed the recent surveys, said most people polled seemed to give accurate answers. But the 10 percent who reported at least 20 opposite-sex partners tended to express the totals in round numbers, suggesting they were largely just guessing, she said in a telephone interview.

Apparently, such active people simply lose track of the real answer, she said. And when they're forced to guess, gender-role pressures may lead men to overestimate, and women to underestimate, she said. That explains much of the male-female discrepancy, she said.

Another factor is that the most highly active women, prostitutes, are probably excluded from such surveys, she said Wednesday.

Tom W. Smith of the National Opinion Research Center at the University of Chicago, who directed the surveys Morris analyzed, said he believed Morris had found "at best a partial explanation."

Smith said his research suggests that the discrepancy comes not just from inaccuracy by the most active people, but from a far more general tendency of women to under-report their number of sexual partners and a tendency of men to over-report.

It's hard to say which gender has a greater impact on the discrepancy, he said.

Morris said her analysis found that the 3-to-1 discrepancy is too large to be explained solely by such a general tendency to fudge the numbers.

She found that among the 80 percent of respondents who reported fewer than 20 partners during their lives, there is only a 19 percent discrepancy. Morris said that could probably be explained by the gender-related tendencies to exaggerate or minimize.

Violence feared if Denny defendants convicted in L.A.

By DEBORAH HASTINGS
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES — The Rev. Cecil "Chip" Murray, pastor of the city's biggest black church, calls it "thinking the unthinkable, speaking the unspeakable." He also worries that the unthinkable might be the inevitable.

If a jury convicts two black men of trying to murder white truck driver Reginald Denny during the opening moment of last year's riots, violence is sure to follow, some community activists say.

None condone it and none fear a repeat of last year's deadly riots. But many say there is smoldering resentment about what some see as a racist double-standard in the criminal-justice system. And this week's surprise decision by a federal judge in the Rodney King beating case only worsens it.

On Monday, U.S. District Judge John Davies allowed Sgt. Stacey Koon and Officer Laurence Powell to remain free for two more weeks while the Supreme Court decides whether to let them stay out on bail during their appeals.

In the Denny case, the defendants are being held on $580,000 apiece, and it is unlikely they will be allowed out on bail if they are convicted. The officers got 2½ years in prison; the Denny defendants could get life.

"The potential for violence is there, especially because the cops haven't done their time yet," said Nat Williams, spokesman for a leftist activist group called Refuse & Resist! "People are upset about that."

The Police Department is concerned, too. Jury deliberations were expected to begin this afternoon, and the department was expected to go on alert.

under which officers are kept on overtime duty, vacations are canceled and police maintain a heavy presence on the street.

"It's going to be very similar to what you saw during the King trial," said Officer Arthur Holmes, a police spokesman. "We have a plan and we're ready."

In April, every available officer was deployed the night before a federal jury convicted Koon and Powell in the King case. No violence broke out. A year before, 54 people died during three days of rioting that erupted after the four white officers charged in the beating were acquitted in state court.

Holmes said the department hoped to get advance notice of a Denny verdict, though the court has not promised it.

The jury — four blacks, four Hispanics, three whites and one Asian — will decide the fates of Henry Keith Watson and Damian Williams, accused of trying to kill Denny.

The truck driver was pulled from his rig and beaten bloody in an attack that, like the King beating, was captured on videotape.

"Less attention is being put on it because the state would like to punish these guys in secret," said Nat Williams, who is not related to the defendant. "They are being made scapegoats of the rebellion."

Activist groups including Refuse & Resist! and The LA 4+ Defense Committee have staged sparsely attended demonstrations since the defendants' arrests last year, claiming the case is riddled with acts of racial discrimination.

"Even as we answer there is a potential for violence, we quickly add that when we say this we are thinking the unthinkable, speaking the unspeakable," said

Proechel's new position in schools

Law enforcement's loss is the school system's gain.

Spokesman for the Seminole County Sheriff's Office, George Proechel, will leave that post to assume duties as the school district security officer Oct. 18.

For the past three years, Proechel disseminated information as the spokesman for the sheriff's department, ranging from details of heinous crimes to particulars about programs benefiting youths, such as the Police Athletic League.

He was good at his job. If Proechel couldn't answer a question, he was always quick to say "Let me find out. I'll get back to you." And he always did.

Proechel brings to the position an aura of accessibility to children and adults, expertise in matters of crime prevention and a background in advertising and public relations.

We feel the title "security officer" may imply to children that school is a fortress, a jail, and infractions from truancy to real criminal activity will be met by a stern-faced adult, ready to punish them.

Proechel can overcome that image with kids. He's diverse enough to be an investigator into criminal matters because he served in that role for the Casselberry Police Department. But his enthusiasm for youth programs and the tenacity for answers he has displayed in the past should allow him to function as a safety educator concerned with better schools. The school experience can become less violent and more productive with his leadership.

Donating plasma

As an employee of the commercial plasmapheresis industry for 23 years, I read with great interest a recent column (Sanford Herald, Sept. 16, 1993) in which Dr. Gott responded to a grandparent's inquiry as to the safety of frequent plasma donations for their grandson. While we are pleased to have a syndicated columnist of Dr. Gott's stature comment on our industry I feel it imperative that we respond to some of the statements.

In 1973 the plasma industry came under the regulations of The Food and Drug Administration. Regulations pertaining to our industry can be found in the Code of Federal Regulations - Parts 200-299 and 800-799. In addition we are regulated by the Health Care Finance Administration, OSHA, individual states' health agencies and our own internal Compliance Department. My company is also a member of the American Blood Resources Association and as such voluntarily participates in the Quality Plasma Program. This program has expanded standards which represent the most effective way to ensure the highest quality source plasma collected from stable members of the local community who are plasmapheresed in well-managed, community-accepted collection facilities. Our number one priority is the health and safety of, not only our donors, but the recipients of our products as well.

A review of the aforementioned regulations will reveal that donors may donate at a frequency of two times within any seven-day period with a minimum of 48 hours between donations. The physical condition of plasma donors is closely monitored. At each donation the prospective donor is subjected to pre-donation testing which consists of hematocrit, total protein, body weight, blood pressure, temperature and pulse. In addition, a series of medical history questions are asked. The donor is subjected to a physical examination prior to his first donation and a minimum of annually thereafter. A Serum Protein Electrophoresis and STS is performed initially and at subsequent four month intervals. Our physicians must evaluate all clinical data prior to a donor's participation in a plasma program.

Donors come from all walks of life and include students, teachers, city managers, housewives, medical personnel, bank tellers, laborers, white collar workers, blue collar workers, etc. Because this is a time consuming procedure (sometime taking 90 minutes to complete), we attempt to reimburse our donors for the time involved. This is yet another positive aspect of our operations since both the donor and the community benefit from this reimbursement.

Plasma donors provide source plasma for the preparation of plasma products for the diagnosis and treatment of many diseases; rabies, hepatitis B, hemophilia, burn and shock victims, heart surgery, as well as many diagnostic products.

We invite you and your readership to visit our facilities and learn more about the plasma industry. We are excited about what we do. Donating plasma is indeed giving an extraordinary gift. The gift of life.

Father of health care unveils myth

I have deliberately refrained from writing about President Clinton's health plan until he officially announced it. The long striptease conducted with trial balloons - one rumor after another as to what the plan contained, followed by swift denials when determined opposition reared its head - seemed too vague to bear the weight of serious comment.

But now Mr. Clinton has revealed his plan, and we are almost as much in the dark as we were before. Worst of all, there is no plausible explanation of where the money is to come from to finance the vast bureaucracy that will administer the program, or to support those who cannot afford medical insurance now. Huge savings on "waste" are promised - but we've heard that before. We don't even know how much the vastly increased tax on cigarettes is going to be.

Finally, the whole plan is being put forward as highly tentative - little more than an outline, to stimulate suggestions. This, of course, is simply realistic: Any resemblance between the Clinton plan and what emerges from Congress a year from now will be purely coincidental.

But Mr. Clinton probably couldn't care less. Whatever Congress comes up with, he will swiftly claim paternity, and no one in the Democratic Party or the media will contradict him. There will be a grand signing ceremony on the White House lawn, with the president handing out fountain pens to leading congressional Democrats (and a few especially tame Republicans). Mr. Clinton will be introduced to the 1996 Democratic Convention as "the man who brought universal health care to America," and hailed as such thereafter by every Democratic orator for decades.

Politically speaking, it will be an impressive achievement. It will swing into place the last big piece of social engineering needed to make America a fully functioning welfare state, socialist in everything but name. The glitches, the ham-handedness, the corruption, the favoritism, the overwhelming cost; the doctors who will retire rather than battle the monster; the rationing of care, the long waits for treatment; the gradual coarsening of American medicine into a village idiot like the U.S. Postal Service - these consequences will begin to appear only in Mr. Clinton's second administration, when it's far too late to turn back, let alone retaliate against him.

One other point. Thanks to the huge deficits generated by previous bouts of spending on "entitlements," the liberals have largely been frustrated in their desire to impose further taxes on the American people, or to pay for various boondoggles by inflating the currency. But by "mandating" that businesses must pay directly for this latest entitlement conferred on the public by our compassionate government, the liberals have broken new ground. From now on you can expect the Democrats to come up with one law after another, "mandating" that this or that "benefit" shall be conferred on the voters by business or some other fall guy out there in the private sector. This technique has all the advantages of taxation without the perils.

We are present at the birth of a great new popular myth.

And we are almost as much in the dark as we were before.

JOSEPH SPEAR

Rush defenders need originality

Dear Dittoheads: I want to thank you for all the cards and letters you've been sending. Your cerebral comments have been ... uh ... colorful. Like the person from Blackfoot, Idaho, who informed me I am a brash fellow "to be bad-mouthing an outstanding personality such as Mr. Rush Limbaugh." Or the patriotic gentleman from Scranton, Pa., on whose flag-embossed stationery I was informed, "You are small, very small. You are scum."

It's so nice to know you care.

When your cultured musings first started coming in, I was mystified as to the reason for all the attention. Then I recalled nominating Limbaugh for an Outrageous Personage award. Actually, what I said was that "right-wing motor-mouth Rush Limbaugh has been suggested ... for simply being his nasty self."

Pretty mild stuff by Curmudgeon standards, but you'd think I had blasphemed the Messiah. "You detest the truth - that's why you detest Rush," opined another Scranton reader, who also saw me as a threat to the national security: "You are a radical Socialist (almost Communist)." A Salisbury, Md., man informed me I am a "pompous jackass," and added: "Like Rush says, you leftists have a perverted sense of humor."

"Like Rush says," I like that. Reminds me of Mao's little red book full of sayings. It also brings to mind my biggest complaint about Hardcore Dittoheads: They are like sheep being herded into a pasture by a border collie. Has it ever crossed their minds that as free Americans they aren't required to chant Rush's buzzwords like a bunch of Hare Krishnas running through their mantras? They really ought to try and have an original thought once in a while. Get a life, ditto.

The truth is, I don't "detest" Rush. When I strip the bull off his points, I find he's usually talking common sense. The problem is in his delivery. He greases his points with so much venom and vitriol that he tends to turn the stomach.

Another thing: Where do you get all this "leftist" and "liberal" stuff? I am a deficit hawk. I would freeze the federal budget until the national debt is paid off. I am in favor of a balanced-budget amendment and a flat-rate income tax system. I defended Clarence Thomas. I advocate term limits for members of Congress. I believe in more police, tougher judges, bigger prisons and the death penalty. And I listen to country music. How do you make a liberal stew with those ingredients?

Never mind, I know how. Hardcore Dittoheads are fanatics. There's no room in your world for moderates. Anyone to the left of Genghis Khan is a - what's the word Rush likes? - a commie-lib.

You are scary people, know that? One of my sympathizers (there were a few) from Waycross, Ga., appended his letter with these words: "Please do not publish my name." A reader from Las Vegas, Nev., who described Rush as an "outrageous, hysterical, bigoted egomaniac (who) preaches daily to his swarm of brainwashed ditto-heads," wouldn't even sign his or her name.

Your editorials show that you have such hate in your mind, perhaps you need psychiatric help," writes a woman from Sayre, Pa. Hate, you say? Well, how do I compare to Hardcore Dittoheads? Here's what my Salisbury, Md., correspondent had to say about Joe Spear: "Bigot, queer lover, free speech nemesis & entrepreneur (sic) of liberal vomit."

Can't wait to hear from y'all, so send your cards and letters to that address. I'll read every one of them. Promise.

It's so nice to know you care.

Reviving America's inner cities

Just when you'd think Washington was up to its aspirations, what with reinventing government and reforming health care, the nightly horror of TV newscasts forced officials to face anew the rampant crime in our cities.

And a strange thing happened: Uncommon common sense was uttered, right in our nation's capital.

It was uttered first by an unlikely source: former Federal Prisoner 10126-084, who just did time for security fraud at a California prison camp. He is financial wizard and multi-millionaire Michael Milken - a most impressive witness before the Congressional Black Caucus.

The next burst of common sense was uttered in a different context - in union, no less - by a former adviser to President Kennedy, a former adviser to President Nixon, a former professor, a former ambassador, a former hero of conservatives, whom William F. Buckley's National Review hailed as 1975's Man of the Year, and a current hero of liberals, who in 1976 unseated Buckley's brother, James, to become New York's Democratic senator. Daniel Patrick Moynihan, who is all of the above, delivered his common sense soliloquy on NBC-TV's "Meet the Press."

Stitch together the comments of Milken and Moynihan and we can create for President Clinton a grand new, reform-minded approach for our crime-infested inner cities.

The bottom line: Don't start by throwing bushels of tax dollars at the problem. Do start by revitalizing two strong, support-giving institutions - the financial markets and the family.

Milken challenged banks to invest significantly in inner cities and minority-owned businesses. He said, according to The Washington Post: "We create legislation and rules that redline America." We must change regulations that now force banks and pension funds to invest on the basis of past performance rather than potential. Milken said, adding: "You can't have a strong financial institution in a weak society."

(A Brief Digression: Milken's testimony was welcome and clearly overdue. On April 16, 1991, I wrote that by sentencing Milken to do manual labor in prison, society committed a crime of missed opportunity: "He is a financial genius; and he should be laboring today to reshape ... the South Bronx with the same zeal that he reshaped Wall Street.")

Now hear Moynihan, once the darling of Democratic neo-conservatives, who approaches the crime crisis from its other common sense solution - restoration of the family:

"We have had a behavioral sink in the last 30 years that ... has no counterpart in our history. ... The breakup of family inevitably, predictably ... will lead to the growth of large numbers of predatory males ... (and) imitative behavior, like drive-by shootings and car-jackings. We saw it coming. It's come. Now, are we going to get out of our denial phase and say: Do something about this...?"

"We (must) state, right now, the principal social objective of American national government at every level to be ... to see that children are born to intact families and that (the families) remain so."

In the book "Mandate for Change," which offered prescriptions for the new president from the Progressive Policy Institute think tank that was his roots, two experts, Elaine Ciulla Kamarck and William A. Galston, presented a chilling correlation between family disintegration and the rise of poverty (and all the ills that come with it). They also proposed eight specific pro-family recommendations for the incoming president. Then, their chapter written, Kamarck and Galston moved on to new jobs - in the Clinton White House, where hopefully they can push what they published.

While Washington is reinventing and reforming, surely the Clinton White House can muster enough zeal to:

- (1) Hire the wise ex-con - Milken - to redesign the refinancing that can rehabilitate our inner cities and his own reputation;
 - (2) Heed the wise ex-neo-con - Moynihan - and promote pro-family policies.
- And set about reclaiming our inner cities, block by block, family by family.

Uncommon common sense was uttered, right in our nation's capital.

Recycling efforts drop slightly

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — Recycling efforts dropped slightly in August, but the amount of garbage diverted from the county dump continues to grow.

Residents and businesses in the county recycled or otherwise diverted 27 percent of the garbage produced between July 1, 1992 and June 30, 1993, according to a report released Tuesday by the Seminole County Recycling Office.

The figure is only 3 percent shy of the state-required 30 percent reduction rate which must be met in 1994. Last year, the county diverted 23 percent of the garbage from the dump through recycling. A total of 50,515 tons of household garbage were recycled. Another 71,911 tons were recycled by businesses.

A total of 387,026 tons of garbage was generated by county residents and businesses last year. Of that amount, 246,600 tons were buried at the county dump and two smaller landfills in the county. The difference is actually 32 percent, but not all of the construction debris and other special categories of garbage can be counted towards the 30 percent reduction goal, said county recycling coordinator Sherri Newkirk.

In August, county residents and businesses diverted 7.6 million lbs. of garbage from the dump, about 100,000 lbs. less than July. Curbside residential recycling increased from about 2 million lbs. in July to 2.2 million lbs. Curbside yard waste disposal remained steady at 2.6 million lbs. during the two months.

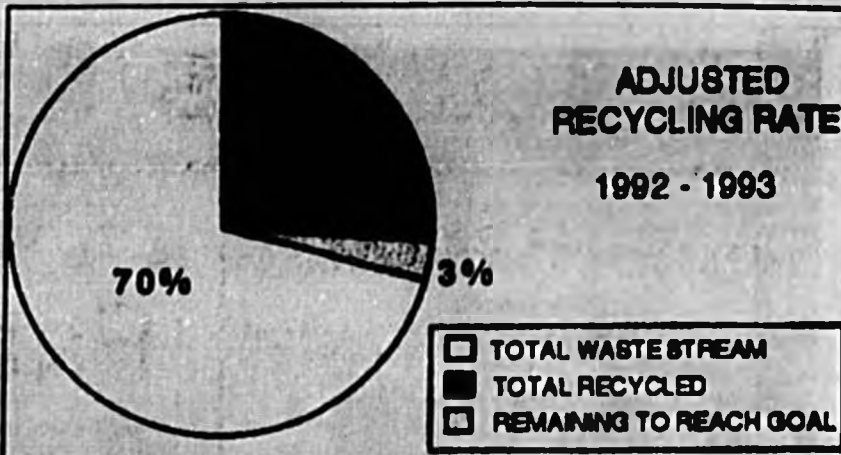

Last month, residents separated more newspapers from their garbage. Newspapers account for about 60 percent of the curbside recyclable waste. More than 1.3 million lbs. of newspaper was collected, compared to 1.2 million lbs. in July.

In the unincorporated areas, curbside recycling increased from 1.2 million lbs. to 1.3 million lbs. Curbside yard waste collections dropped from 606,480 lbs. to 405,780 lbs.

In Sanford, curbside recycling collections increased from 137,714 lbs. to 152,140 lbs. City yard waste collections perked up to 501,820 lbs. from 359,700 lbs. In Lake Mary, curbside recycling collections increased from 34,559 lbs. to 55,379 lbs. and yard waste collections dropped to 71,860 lbs. from 89,960 lbs.

In Longwood, curbside recycling collections dropped from 114,188 lbs. to 95,725 lbs. City yard waste collections declined slightly from 280,680 lbs. to 274,440 lbs.

With the SMRF (pronounced smurf), condominiums, apartments and businesses can bag their recyclables. These co-mingled recyclables will then be sorted at the SMRF, located at the central transfer station on State Road 419.

With all county recycling programs in place, including construction and demolition debris, yard waste, phone books, waste tires, used oil, and white goods, plus curbside residential recycling and commercial recycling at the SMRF, Seminole County expects to meet the state recycling mandate by 1994.

Gill bumps Brooks from country music pinnacle

By JOE EDWARDS
Associated Press Writer

NASHVILLE — Satiny-voiced Vince Gill bumped Garth Brooks from the top of the country music hill, winning entertainer-of-the-year honors at the Country Music Association awards.

Gill, 38, won or shared five honors Wednesday night at the CMA's 27th annual awards, including top male vocalist. His poignant "I Still Believe in You" won best song and top album.

Brooks, country music's top seller and concert draw, had also been nominated as entertainer of the year, an award he won the previous two years.

"I never cared where I sat on the totem pole," Gill said afterward. "I'm just glad to be part of it."

Alan Jackson won three honors. Brooks one and Willie Nelson got the biggest ovation at the Grand Ole Opry House as he was inducted into the Country Music Hall of Fame as its 54th member. The 60-year-old Nelson was decked out in formal attire instead of the usual bandanna, T-shirt and jeans.

"I really thought you had to die to get here," he said. "So I went ahead and dressed up just in case."

Gill, who led the nominations with eight, said he was surprised to win best entertainer.

"I've always operated under the theory that I don't feel like I'm an entertainer. I just feel like I'm a musician and I sing songs," he said. "I don't have the big stage show. I don't run around and do a lot of those things. I've got a killer band and it's just great singing and playing."

Gill and Brooks were among 11 stars who shared the vocal event of the year award for "I Don't Need Your Rockin' Chair." The contingent was led by George Jones, who missed the presentation because he was in the bathroom.

Others who shared the award were Mark Chesnutt, Travis Tritt, Joe Diffie, Pam Tillis, T. Graham Brown, Patty Loveless and Clint Black.

Alan Jackson won three awards, including single of the year and music video of the year for his rollicking "Chattahoochee," about summer fun on a Georgia river. He also shared the vocal event of the year honor.

Mary-Chapin Carpenter won her second straight award as top female vocalist, telling the audience, "This is an incredible surprise... I'm overjoyed."

Brooks & Dunn were voted vocal duo of the year for helping inspire the country dance craze. Diamond Rio was voted to vocal group for the second straight year and Chesnutt won the Horizon Award for most promising artist.

Fiddler Mark O'Connor, who plays classical and country, received the instrumentalist of the year award.

troops." There will not be presentation of the Union and Confederate flags to avoid the possibility of controversy. In other areas, some people have objected to the display of the "Stars and Bars."

No one raised any objection to the display of the historic flags on the main flag pole at the museum. However, Tucker said there was not adequate time to go through the approval process required by the county.

"We decided that we are going to have it (Confederate flag) in the battle," Tucker explained. "If we were going to have a formal ceremony, as far as I'm concerned, it's part of history. We're in the Deep South, you can't get much deeper than this."

The fictitious battle will be staged on Saturday and Sunday afternoons and the boys in the Blue and the Gray will each take turns being victorious. An 11 a.m. skirmish is planned Saturday.

Tucker explained the Civil War buffs equalize their number for battle re-enactments. One group is Union, the other Confederate and a third group has the gear of both, allowing members to portray either Northern or Southern soldiers to equalize the battle ranks.

This year's battle will feature six cannons, Tucker added, last year, there were two.

This is the eighth year for the festival. Money raised at the event supports the county museum.

Mutual fund invests only in companies that help women

By JAMES G. CLIFFORD
Associated Press Writer

SAN FRANCISCO — A new mutual fund investing only in "women-friendly" companies has joined the growing number of funds seeking to combine social activism with plain old capitalism.

The Women's Equity Mutual Fund, unveiled Wednesday, expects to have assets of $1 million by late next week. But so far, it has found only 10 companies that meet its standards on issues like family benefits and the promotion of women executives.

Linda Pei said she designed the fund to help women achieve equality in the workplace and to support their efforts to gain financial independence.

"Historically, companies have had few real incentives to create women-friendly workplaces unless a woman was at the helm," she said. "Eventually, we think other companies will see the wisdom and benefits of changing their policies."

The 10 companies were selected from 300 screened by Kinder, Lydenberg, Domini & Co., which specializes in socially responsible investing.

Finding 10 companies that met the fund's standards — in addition to financial criteria — was a challenge, said Steve Lydenberg, who handled the screening for the Boston-based firm.

The companies that made the list include Piper Jaffray Inc., a Minneapolis-based stock brokerage that contributes to women's shelters; Edmark Corp., a Redmond, Wash., educational-software business that has seven women among its top 10 officers; and media giant Gannett Co., which ties managerial pay to success in meeting goals for hiring and promoting women and minorities.

The other companies are: Federal National Mortgage Corp. in Washington; Advanced Tissue Sciences Inc. of La Jolla, Calif.; Avon Products Inc. of New York; Corestates Financial Corp. of Philadelphia; Lillian Vernon Corp. of New Rochelle, N.Y.; Scholastic Inc. of New York; and UNUM Corp. of Portland, Maine.

The companies meet most of the following criteria:

- They have a high percentage of women executives and directors.
- They offer family-oriented benefits such as child-care, flexible scheduling and family leave.
- They use a substantial number of female-owned suppliers.
- They contribute to organizations that promote women's independence.
- They present positive images of women in their advertising.

Furlong. "I've never subscribed to the theory that the only people who want to cut waste and lower taxes are Republicans. That's a myth, when Republicans say Democrats are for tax and spend. Well, doesn't that mean pay as you go, not steal and borrow?"

Furlong, who was elected in 1990 on a strong pro-school platform, said he welcomes Henley's educational background on the board. "He may be able to make the case better than most about the impacts we have by adding subdivisions."

James Purdy, chairman of the Democratic Executive Committee in the county, said he was pleased to see Democrats gain support on the commission, although disappointed Chilea selected a candidate without involving the DEC, the formal party organization in the county. Purdy had sought the post himself.

"I'm ecstatic," said Purdy. "But it was embarrassing we were not contacted by the governor's office. It tells me outsiders are stronger than the party structure. It will remain that way if the formal party structure remains apathetic and lacks the abdominal fortitude to get out there."

Perhaps the most influential Democrat in Seminole County is former state legislator Bobby Hattaway. Hattaway entered Henley's name along with those of Perry and Meador. Hattaway said each had strengths. "I'm very pleased with what the governor did," said Hattaway. "I'm confident Democrats will be successful during the next election. I just hope Randy's the nominee. I'm going to do everything I can to help."

Former Lake Mary Mayor Randy Morris, a Republican, has opened his campaign account for the District 2 seat.

Hattaway said he didn't believe the selection of a non-DEC candidate represented a non-support message from Chilea to the local party.

Poll: most willing to pay for health coverage for all

By HOWARD GOLDBERG
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK — Almost two-thirds of those polled on President Clinton's health care plan are willing to pay $100 more in taxes each year to secure health coverage for all Americans.

About 30 percent — representing more than 55 million adults — remain unsure whether they support the program, but the rest favor it 2-to-1, according to the Associated Press poll.

The poll found 48 percent in favor and 22 percent opposed, a measure of the success of the sales campaign that began with Clinton's televised speech Sept. 22. Nearly all those in the Sept. 22-28 poll were interviewed after the speech.

Supporters and opponents of Clinton's plan differed dramatically in their views of how much it would cost the country and their families.

While 30 percent thought Clinton was underestimating the program's cost, opponents of the plan were twice as likely as supporters to have that suspicion. And 78 percent of the plan's opponents expected that health care would cost their family more after Clinton's changes, while 28 percent of supporters expected to pay more.

The telephone poll of 1,004 adults was taken by ICR Survey Research Group, part of AUS Consultants. Results have a margin of sampling error of plus or minus 3 percentage points.

The results also can change over time. When Clinton offered his program of tax increases and budget cuts in a speech to Congress in February, initial polls showed widespread support, but it fell sharply in May and June.

In the health care poll, upper-income respondents were more willing than those of more modest means to pay additional taxes for a plan in which all Americans have coverage even if they lose their jobs, change jobs or have a serious illness.

Overall, 64 percent said they would be willing to pay $100 more in taxes each year. That share varied from 47 percent of those earning under $15,000 to 80 percent of those earning above $50,000.

Only 26 percent of those polled said they would be willing to pay $250 more. Those willing to pay $500 more were a scant 7 percent overall.

Clinton contends his program will squeeze enough savings out of a wasteful health care system to pay for itself without any broad-based new taxes. Critics say it is impossible to harvest that much savings.

Powell leaves military with future bright

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — In a town that delights in tearing down reputations, Colin Powell walks on water.

As he leaves office Thursday after four years as the nation's top military officer, Powell's job approval rating towers above that of President Clinton, Ross Perot and Sen. Bob Dole. In a country that reveres its military leaders but rarely elects them, he is often compared to Dwight D. Eisenhower. He admires Eisenhower, Grant and Washington, all three generals who became president.

No one is sure whether Powell is a Republican or a Democrat, a mystery that only adds to his allure.

"Active-duty military officers have no business talking about partisan political matters, and so nobody knows what party I belong to or don't belong to or may belong to," Powell told the National Press Club this week.

"There is total confusion as to what my political philosophy might or might not be. This is the way it should be."

Two inches over six feet tall, Powell has shoulders that easily accommodate four stars, and a bearing that turns heads. He calls the Army's rank-and-file his kids and has convinced countless privates this is a general who understands and cares about them.

"If you want to see Colin in a cold fury, it is when he thinks somebody is making recommendations that he thinks foolishly put his kids at risk," said former CIA Director Robert Gates, who worked with the general during the Reagan and Bush administrations.

This week Powell turns in his Army greens for the business suit of the private world. He'll write his memoirs, for a reported $8 million. He'll almost certainly hit the lecture circuit. But he is just 56, and his future is wide open and bright. He speaks of "an obligation on me to do something in public life" but says that doesn't necessarily mean politics.

The American people associate Powell with wars that lasted days and weeks, not years: Panama, the Persian Gulf. His reassuring countenance became a familiar sight on television.

20-somethings talk responsibility, politics, not MTV

By NITA LELYVELD
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Not all 20-somethings are hooked on MTV. Not all like to sit and reminisce about "The Brady Bunch." Some care about the world they live in and want to fight to make it better.

That's the message of "Third Millennium," a group of clean cut, deadly serious young people who went to Capitol Hill on Wednesday to set lawmakers straight on what it is they believe in.

This summer they banded together to form their organization, and wrote a detailed manifesto. They handed out copies at a breakfast held by a bipartisan group of lawmakers.

"You all look a little perplexed," 25-year-old Jonathan Karl told the lawmakers, who included Reps. Joseph Kennedy, D-Mass., Gary Condit, D-Calif., Pete Geren, D-Texas, Jon Kasich, R-Ohio, and Christopher Shays, R-Conn.

"It seems like you might have been expecting Beavis and Butt-head," he said, referring to an MTV cartoon that features two degenerate teen-agers who cause trouble and chuckle demagogically. "But we are not here to demand our MTV."

What they did demand was fiscal responsibility in government — so they won't have to spend the next century paying for today's government spending. They said they're worried about the future, about the environment, about education.

Their demands — in the manifesto — include cutting the fat from government entitlement programs, improving education by lengthening school years and recruiting highly educated professionals to be teachers, and holding companies responsible for the pollution they produce.

"This is fundamentally not about protecting what's ours," said 29-year-old Bob Lukfahr, a business student who told lawmakers about his worries for his 2-year-old son.

A lot of people come to Washington to plug their causes, but few fall in the Third Millennium age group, said Rep. Harris W. Fawell, R-Ill.

"You young people, I just haven't seen you much interested in government," he said. "This is music to my ears."

Kasich immediately tried to sign them up to help fight his causes.

"It is knee-jerk around here against anyone or anything that represents change," he warned, adding, "You've got to scare the living daylights out of the dinosaurs up here."

Third Millennium began with meetings of friends — in their apartments, offices, coffee shops. Friends told friends and so on.

They released their manifesto July 14 — and two months later, they say they're closing in on 1,000 members.

The founding members include graduate students, lawyers, bankers, writers and entrepreneurs. Many are involved in community service projects as well as their fledgling movement.

The late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy's youngest son, Doug, 26, helped draft the manifesto.

They say they are ready to take responsibility for their futures. They want to help make decisions that will affect them.

"We seek no sympathy and we ask for no handout," reads the preamble of the Third Millennium Declaration. "We know solving our problems will be tough, and we reject demagogues who tell us they can be solved without breaking a sweat."

On Wednesday, they promised to throw their support behind any lawmaker who makes tough decisions with the future in mind. That support may be small now, but it is growing fast, they say.

The group is diverse. Some are conservative. Some are liberal. They describe Third Millennium as "post partisan." They don't want to be known as Generation X.

Silver Hawks hooded

ORLANDO — Despite a strong performance by Jackie Kill, the Lake Howell Silver Hawks suffered a 15-7, 16-14 defeat at the hands of the host University Cougars in a high school girls volleyball match Wednesday night. Kill had four blocks to highlight her effort. Lake Howell (3-7) plays tonight at Oviedo.

Players, coaches needed

SANFORD — Players between the ages of 7 and 12 and coaches are still needed for the Sanford Recreation Department Flag Football League that plays its games on Saturday mornings at McKibben Park. For more information, call Jim Schaefer at (407) 330-5697.

Cheerleading classes offered

SANFORD — The Sanford Recreation Department is conducting cheerleading classes for participants ages six and over. The class runs every Thursday from 5 p.m. to 6 p.m. at the Downtown Youth Center, first floor of Sanford City Hall, on North Park Avenue. Cost for the class is $20 for the first month, which includes Pompons and T-shirt, and $12 each month thereafter. For more information, call 330-5697.

AROUND THE STATE

Nabholz, Expos best Marlins

MIAMI — Chris Nabholz had a season-high seven strikeouts in five scoreless innings and the Montreal Expos turned a triple play Wednesday as they clinched second place in the NL East with a 7-1 win over the Florida Marlins. The victory was the 91st for the Expos, who tied the 1987 club for the franchise's second-best record. With four games to play, Montreal can tie the 1975 franchise record of 95 victories. Florida starter Chris Hammond (11-12) took the loss, allowing four runs in 4-2-3 innings. The Expos turned their second triple play of the season — the fourth in the major leagues — in the third inning.

Sheffield signs four-year deal

MIAMI — The Florida Marlins agreed to let Gary Sheffield play basketball for fun, and he agreed to keep playing third base for them. Sheffield's love of hoops was one of the few hangups in negotiations that led to the $22.45 million, four-year pact he agreed to Wednesday. At age 24, he becomes baseball's highest-paid third baseman and Florida's best-paid player. Sheffield grew up in Tampa, where he still lives and plays pickup basketball games with such All-Star friends as Fred McGriff, Derek Bell and Dwight Gooden. The Marlins sought a clause in the guarantee language that would have prohibited Sheffield from playing basketball because of the injury risk, but he balked.

McDougall, Lightning tie Stars

ORLANDO — Bill McDougall's power play goal at 17:38 of the third period lifted Tampa Bay into a 5-5 tie with the Dallas Stars in an NHL exhibition Wednesday night. Defenseman Bob Beers led the puck in front of the Dallas net to McDougall, who deflected the puck past goaltender Darcy Wakaluk. Russ Courtnall added a goal and three assists and Neal Broten scored twice for Dallas (4-2-1). Beers scored twice and Brent Gretzky had three assists for Tampa Bay (4-1-2).

'Thanks for the help' Illusions' win leaves Heilig Meyers alone in first

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — Heilig Meyers moved into first place in the Sanford Recreation Wednesday Men's Slowpitch Softball League a week sooner than it might have expected.

With both Heilig Meyers and Neth & Son/Crazy Wings carrying 3-0 starts into play last night, it looked like their game next Wednesday, Oct. 6, would determine the league's early front runner.

That was before Illusions decided to take a hand in matters.

After Heilig Meyers improved to 4-0 with an 18-2 four-inning rout of Sportsmart in the first game of the evening, Illusions dealt Neth & Son/Crazy Wings a 14-2 setback in a game stopped by the 12-run mercy rule after six innings.

In the nightcap, Continental Express outlasted the Briar Corporation 14-12.

Trailing Heilig Meyers are Neth & Son/Crazy

Wings (3-1), Illusions and Sportsmart (both 2-2), Continental Express (1-3), and the Briar Corporation (0-4).

Next week, Heilig Meyers will meet Neth & Son/Crazy Wings at 6:30 p.m., Illusions takes on Continental Express at 7:30 p.m., and the Briar Corporation challenges Sportsmart at 8:30 p.m.

Everyone in the Heilig Meyers starting lineup contributed at least one hit and either scored a run or drove in a run in their rout of Sportsmart. Tony Smith led the attack with a double, two singles, three runs, and three RBI. Arthur Barnes doubled, singled, scored three runs, and had an RBI.

Also contributing were Sam Raines and Calvin Bryant (each with two singles, two runs, and an RBI), Joe Lipscomb (two singles, run, three RBI), Robert Alfonso (two singles, run, two RBI), Dale Peters (double, run, two RBI), Aaron Johns (single, three RBI), Robert Stevens (single, two runs, RBI), Greg Hardy (single, two runs), and Mike Merthle (single, run).

For Sportsmart, Kevin Julian tripled and scored a run while Jim Berg singled and scored a run. Rocky Ellingsworth and Dwain Towery each had an RBI.

Illusions also used a balance attack, getting at least one hit from nine of the 10 players in the starting lineup and scoring at least one run in every inning but the fourth. John Haddock was 4-for-4 with four singles, three runs, and an RBI to lead the assault. Brian Jones added three singles, two runs, and four RBI.

While Seminole wasn't able to do much attacking Wednesday night, Nathan Morgan (foreground) and the rest of the Seminoles were able to stay with the Lake Mary Rams by playing tenacious defense. As a result, the Rams had to scrap for every point in a 15-12, 15-7 win over the Tribe.

Ram, Tribe netters keep improving

By TONY DeBORMIER
Herald Sports Editor

SANFORD — Unless there's a substantial period of time between observations of the sample, improvement often is made in minute amounts, a little at a time.

Such was the case in the Lake Mary/Seminole high school boys volleyball match Wednesday evening at Seminole's Bill Fleming Memorial Gymnasium, where both coaches said their teams continue to get better day by day.

"We're playing more consistent for longer periods of time," said Lake Mary coach Bill Whalen, whose team won its fourth match in a row with a 15-12, 15-7 decision over Seminole. "We still haven't put a whole match together."

"We want to win seven matches in a row going into the next Lake Howell match (next Wednesday, Oct. 6). We're not there yet, but we're getting there. We're getting better. Some of the kids who normally don't play much got some playing time tonight and did real well."

What impressed both coaches was the mental stamina both teams showed throughout the match.

"I'm real proud of the mental effort tonight," said Seminole coach Beth Corso. "We're coming along. I'm real pleased with the mental toughness we've shown this week. I wish we would have had it last week. If we had, I guarantee we would have won one of those matches last week."

"I just hope they can keep it up. We have DeLand coming in tomorrow and they're tough. But so are we."

Young Guns get drop in co-ed play

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — After spotting Carter and Sons a 15-13 win on their beat-of-three showdown, the Young Guns came back to win the next two games, 15-9, 15-13, to complete a near-perfect effort on the first night of the Sanford Recreation Co-Ed Power Volleyball League at the Sanford Middle School Gymnasium.

The Young Guns (3-1) won all three of their matches while dropping just the one game to Carter and Sons to take the early lead in the four-team circuit. Carter and Sons, which won its first two matches of the night, is off to a 2-1 start. They're followed by the Wanna-Bees (1-2) and Crazy Wings (0-3).

In the first matches of the evening, the Young Guns swept the Wanna-Bees 15-7, 15-6 while Carter and Sons took care of Crazy Wings 15-2, 18-16.

Carter and Sons also won its second match, topping the Wanna-Bees 15-6, 15-5. The Young Guns continued their winning ways by besting Crazy Wings 15-4, 15-5.

While the Young Guns were rallying for their 13-15, 15-9, 15-13 win over Carter and Sons, the Wanna-Bees notched their first win of the season with a 15-8, 15-5 decision over Crazy Wings.

League play will continue next Wednesday night at Sanford Middle School.

Strike Force rallies in sixth to clip Toucan Willie's

From Staff Reports

OVIEDO — Six outs away from laying sole claim to first place in the Wednesday Night Men's Class C Slowpitch Softball League at the Oviedo Sports Complex and suddenly, it was gone.

That's what happened to Toucan Willie's last night as the Strike Force came from behind to post a 10-9 victory and hand Toucan Willie's its first loss of the season.

Trailing 7-5 after five innings, the Strike Force struck for five runs in the bottom of the sixth inning to take a 10-7 lead.

Toucan Willie's pushed across a pair of runs in the top of the seventh inning and had the tying run on third base with one out, but couldn't bring him home as the next two batters flew out.

The Strike Force improves to 5-0 while Toucan Willie's falls to 4-1 despite outhitting the Strike Force 17-11.

Ronnie Gardner was 3-for-3 with three RBI to lead Toucan Willie's offensive effort. Harold Hitt added a triple, double, and a single. Contributing two hits each were Ryan Alkire and Kenny Tuttle.

Chipping in with one hit apiece were Randy

Ramroth, Eddie Norton, Lance Abney, Chuck LaPeters, Rick Tribbit, Greg Register, and Billy Stripp.

Earlier in the evening, Toucan Willie's defeated Capital Gale 14-2. Register was winning pitcher for Toucan Willie's, tossing a five-hitter.

Alkire was 4-for-4 with two RBI to pace the Toucan Willie's 21-hit attack. Adding three hits each were Gardner, LaPeters, and Norton. Hitt and Abney each had two hits. Tuttle, Ramroth, Register, and Stripp each had a hit.

Next week, Toucan Willie's plays The Wise Guys at 9 p.m.

Alcohol guards against swimmer's ear

DEAR DR. GOTT: I've had an outer ear infection known as swimmer's ear since October 1992. I've been to seven doctors, four of whom were ENT specialists, but none of them have helped me. I now understand there is a new medicine given by injection into the arm for control. Have you heard of this, and can you tell me how I might go about getting it?

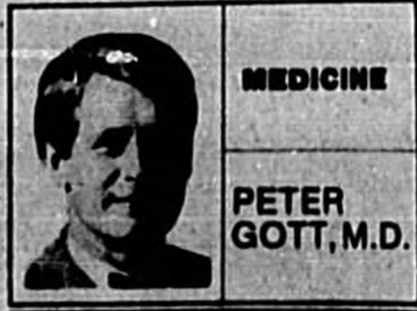

DEAR READER: I've never heard of an injectable medicine to cure swimmer's ear and, really, I don't see how it could. This common and painful summertime affliction is due to a mixed bacterial infection in the ear canal, which is aggravated by water that may remain after swimming.

It is almost always curable by using ear drops, such as Cortisporin.

I've used a method to prevent swimmer's ear. Perhaps it will help you, too. At the end of the day, pour half a cupful of rubbing alcohol into the ear, wait a few minutes and then shake it out.

Not only will the alcohol act as an antiseptic, it also holds water. When the alcohol evaporates, the ear canal will be dry, making an inhospitable environment for bacteria. This is a cheap and efficient way to prevent an infected ear canal from developing. Try it.

To discover (and correct) any of the common causes of glossitis, see a dentist. If he is unable to determine the source of your problem, you should see a doctor for an examination and blood tests. In the meantime,

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

At the end of today's deal, I expect West felt like Longfellow's stanza:

Slips the girl on the night, and speak each other in passing, Only a signal-shown and a distant voice in the darkness: So on the ocean of life we pass and speak one another.

Only a look and a voice; then darkness again and a silence.

The deal occurred during the Icelandic Air Pairs Championship, held last February in Reykjavik. The winners, Larry Cohen from the United States and Zia Mahmood from Pakistan, benefited when Zia successfully unscrambled both North's and West's messages.

East traded on the vulnerability for his one-heart overcall. When West raised to four hearts, Cohen, North, under pressure, jumped to six clubs. West made a Lightner Slam Double, asking for an unusual lead, normally the first suit bid by the dummy. And here, as you can see, the diamond ace and a diamond ruff defeats six clubs.

However, Zia was also listening. And Zia assumed that Cohen, for his sudden leap to six clubs, had some tolerance for diamonds. So Zia retreated to six diamonds: an unbeatable slam.

Dummy's spade loser was discarded at trick one, while declarer won with the heart ace. The diamond king won trick two. Declarer unblocked the club queen before continuing with the diamond queen. East won with the ace and returned a heart, but declarer ruffed in the dummy and led winning clubs. Whenever East ruffed, South could overruff and return to dummy with a spade to the ace.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) It won't hurt your image today if you fess up to situations you feel you can't handle. It could arouse associates ire, however, if you pretend to be able to do something you can't.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Instead of treating fun, competitive activities for what they are, which is merely a game, you might be inclined to take things far more seriously than you should.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Respect the talents and abilities of others, but don't credit them today with assets they don't possess. This could cause you to feel unnecessarily inadequate.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Persons who usually accept what you say verbatim might challenge your statements today. Don't spread it on too thick and make sure you have the facts to back you up.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Today if you feel required to make a choice between paying an old obligation or buying something new, you'd be wise to try to rid yourself of debt first.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Persons who are usually supportive of you might not be as forceful on your behalf today, plus those who are against you might be a bit more vehement than usual. You're on your own.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Make a list of your duties today and try to eliminate them in an orderly fashion. If you let things pile up, they could exceed your abilities to handle them.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You could make both parties angry today if you let yourself get caught in an arrangement where you feel compelled to side with one friend against another.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Success is possible today, provided you rely more upon yourself and less upon Lady Luck. When you need her the most she might be coying up to your opposition.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Tell it like it is today, even if it presents you in an unattractive light. If you boast or exaggerate, there's a strong possibility your statements will not be believed.

VERGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You might not be as sharp a horse trader today as someone with whom you'll be doing business. This person could end up with the farm if you're not careful.

sounds and aromas of this year's Lake Mary Heathrow Festival of the Arts is here...now!

The fabulous sights,

More talented artists than ever came forward early this year as word spread about the popular festival. Not only does this seventh art festival have more artists than last year, 330 compared to last year's 260, but the 1993 festival will include 80 fine crafts people. These artists are from around the world and will be competing for $15,000 in prizes.

On the advice of many fine artists it was decided that the festival needed crafts people to participate this year. With that in mind, Joanne Lucas, chairman, along with DeLores Lash and Suzanne Stanford, started attending all the art festivals they could find since January. They visited the Mount Dora Festival (280 artists), the Coconut Grove Festival and St. Stephens Festival (580 artists), the Miami Art Festival (300 artists) and many others. They also spoke to 2,400 artists asking for their opinions and recommendations to make the Lake Mary Heathrow Festival of the Arts the largest and best ever.

Lucas said that this year "we hope to increase the scholarship funding from $15,000 to $25,000 to be awarded to graduating high school students, the amount to be determined by the success of the festival." She continued, "We feel

Vice chairman adds a special touch to event

Business owner and vice chairman of the Lake Mary Heathrow Festival of the Arts, DeLores Lash has achieved a new goal for the 7th Annual Festival. For the last three years she has envisioned "fine crafts" as being a valuable asset for the festival.

Finally, with the advice of many of the fine artists in the area, the festival board of directors agreed to give it a try. As a result, 80 fine craftsmen will show their wares for the first time Oct. 2 and 3 along with 250 fine artists from all over the world.

Lash says "Art lovers and browsers alike are in for a special day. What awaits people is a healthy, clean, educational environment for our young people, parents, grandparents, uncles, aunts, cousins, as well as all other festival-goers."

There is something for everybody.

Lash is also credited for involving the entire Seminole school system in the art festival. She is a member of the scholarship committee and has been responsible for bringing to the festival with the help of Fran Kemp, 2,000 students to display their art. Last year 1,000 students participated and were awarded certificates.

DeLores Lash, vice chairman of the festival

Three art students will receive cash awards for the "Best of Show." Last year 10 teachers participated in the Children's Tent from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. both days with ongoing creative activities, weaving, origami, watercolor resist, stitching, sculpture, and jewelry. This year, 20 teachers, with Carol Gentry in charge, volunteered to assist in that area. The festival will reward them with cash donations for their classrooms. Thus, the festival funds are funneled right back into the community.

This idea came from Lash and the enthusiasm and support received from teachers from all of Seminole schools is overwhelming. "The partnership between kids and teachers is important," Lash feels.

Lash said she never questioned her participation nor the amount of work she

CHAIRMAN'S MESSAGE

Look behind scenes at the people who make festival happen

By JOANNE LUCAS
Festival Chairman

The last week before the Lake Mary/Heathrow Festival of the Arts has been one of the most exciting I have ever experienced. The weekend of Sept. 18, the vice chairman, DeLores Lash, and I visited the 27th Osceola Art Festival on the banks of Lake Tohopekaliga, Kissimmee.

It was a wonderful day and the art was exceptional. Reading my name-tag stating "Chairman of the Lake Mary/Heathrow Festival of the Arts," many artists who have never attended our festival before enthusiastically informed me that they were participating for the first time on Oct. 2 and 3. Others had heard of our festival and asked to be put on mailing lists to be considered for the 1994 festival. Eleven of the prizewinners were in our festival in 1992. Clearly the Lake Mary Heathrow Festival is developing and maturing in quality to become a Number #1 festival.

1993 has been a busy year for me. I attended Mt. Dora, Winter Park, Miami Beach, Coconut Grove, St. Stephens, New Smyrna Beach, Palm Beach, Artigas festivals and too many others to mention.

I attended the Cherry Creek Art Fest in Denver and the "Tapestry in Talent" in San Jose, Calif. and personally persuaded the prizewinning artist to come to Lake Mary to be a part of our festival. After all of that, I am convinced that central Florida has the finest artists in the United States!

These multitudinous, enlightening experiences have persuaded me that the Lake Mary/Heathrow Festival of the Arts will sometime in the near future be "the festival" to attend. Watch out Coconut Grove!

This will only take place if the Vice Chairman, Terry Pyle, who handles contributions, radio and television, insurance, advertising, kills fire ants at the festival, maintains his support. (I am not going to mention DeLores Lash. I depend on her for everything.)

Also, Directors Joe and Shell Williams, who are responsible for the site plan, tents, portolets, golf carts, walkie-talkies, and many other time-

Chairman Joanne Lucas displays the painting chosen to represent the festival this year. Florida Lifestyle was consuming functions will continue on.

Director Joe Deboch is my inspiration. He advocates that the scholarships he received when he was a student is what enabled him to achieve his station in life today. He works with Joe and Shell, and fills in all the voids.

Director Buck Mullins has an answer to every problem. Be it mulch, electricity, staking sites, telephone lines, it would be impossible to be without him. We call him "The Buck Committee."

Anne Marie Solomon

Watercolorist different than the traditional

By SARABECCA ROSIER
Herald Columnist

Anne Marie Solomon has been a professional artist since 1970 and presently resides in Longwood. Solomon says she is a "watercolorist who is different than the traditional, as I paint on Masa paper. My teacher/trainer, Hsiao-Yew Hsu of Taiwan, taught me to master the art of painting on rice paper in the oriental technique." The oriental techniques result in the uniqueness of her watercolors. Solomon is an avid conservationist and naturalist who believes in the unifying pattern of life in all natural forms. A deep love of nature and the natural world is reflected in her watercolors.

Solomon has owned a retail gallery in underground Atlanta. She also owned a gallery-studio in Coconut Grove, Florida. However, she "prefers to go to juried art festivals and shows nationwide." When asked why she prefers the juried art festivals over the ownership of an art gallery, she replied, "One, because I sell the work I made myself; two, because most people like to meet the artist, and three, artists tend to be introverted and at art shows, craft shows and festivals, it forces us to interact." "In the summer months I usually go up North to shows and to New England and Cape Cod and the Midwest where my work is sold at art festivals and I live and work out of a motor home."

Solomon does a lot of Florida shows such as the Baptist Hospital, Las Solas, Vero Beach, Melbourne, Naples, Space Coast and "Anna Marie Island, because it sounds like my name and is a really nice place," the Winter Park Art Show and the West Coast of Florida. "I do a lot of tropical birds and plants that sell very well in that area."

Dark past inspired bright future

by SARABECCA ROSIER

Judi Mofazali is a very unique artist who will be shown at the Lake Mary Heathrow Art Festival. Mofazali was born in Erie, Pa. in 1963. Artistic endeavors were the main focus of her life since elementary school. In late 1990 "my work turned to the exploration of my history as a survivor of child sexual abuse. For the first time I painted the human figure and these women's and children's faces mirrored the pain, anguish and frustration I felt as I tried to make sense of my life. The riotous colors and fluid forms were a complete departure from my previous restrained style, and from the earth tones I had formerly favored. I felt an incredible sense of relief even as I delved into the hurt and betrayal of my past."

Some of Mofazali's works are rather controversial and do tend to inspire discussion. Two people viewing the same painting might have entirely opposing reactions to the same piece. "Nothing could please me more," said Mofazali. "Those opposing viewpoints will encourage discussion and greater understanding of all the courageous individuals who call themselves survivors." Her portraits of abuse help quench the pain and heal the childhood sexual abuse that began when she was eight years old.

In 1991 Mofazali was Director Mary Otto, artist support, handles 330 artists, mails out the applications, and is responsible for judges, booth spaces, and has a full-time job with Arvida at the same time. She spends hours of her sparse free time taking care of the artists. During the festival and the week before it is a 24-hour-a-day responsibility.

Directors Janet Flowers and Don Wiggs work diligently all year and are responsible for the posters, T-shirts and all items for sale at the festival. Their Lakeside Gallery is sometimes neglected because they support the festival completely. They donate their time and effort toward our scholarship program.

Director Bud Raihl of Florida Power, has been a director for seven years, chairman of the scholarship committee and the site plan coordinator. During our board meetings his common-sense approach gives us the guidelines to succeed.

Director Rocky Ford has been utilized as a traffic director and is presently engaged at the chairman of concessions. This year Ken Stark, supported by Sheriff Don Eslinger, controls the traffic from I-4 to the festival.

Director Tony Senador is the entertainment chairman. He schedules dancers, singers and is responsible for sound and staging. During the festival he fills in the judging and awards.

Director Leo Trepanier owns the land the festival utilizes, and you just can't put a price on that contribution. You can always count on him being supportive in anything extra you might need. He makes a mean Bloody Mary too!

Ki Stevenson and Suzanne Stanford are new directors this year but Suzanne has been with the festival for seven years as the financial assistant. She is now secretary and handles the festival proceeds. Ki is artist support and during the festival she keeps 330 artists happy with the help of Betty Carroll, volunteer chairman.

Arvida JMB Partners has been a "main" festival supporter for five years and I can't relate how much this has meant to us in dollars and cents for our scholarships. They have given us man-hours, equipment, office support and moral support. This community has benefited from this firm.

Recently, I was called by the Winter Park Art Festival and was congratulated for being the chairman of the successful Lake at the present time she paints at the oval table in her small dining room in her Altamonte Springs apartment which she shares with husband, Ali, and their two children, Reza and Nedda.

One of the newest honors to come Mofazali's way happened quite recently when Batchelor decided to use one of Mofazali's paintings as T-shirt art to be worn for the 13th Annual Run for the Children. This Oct. 30 benefit is for the Child Protection Team at the Arnold Palmer Hospital for Children and Women to help raise funds for sexually abused children. Batchelor has raised about $50,000 doing this benefit for abused children. Mofazali is extremely "excited he has chosen my painting."

Mofazali's dream 'Making Butterflies'

When I awoke in the morning I had this feeling of profound knowledge, that this dream had been given to me for a reason. I immediately wrote down the details of the dream in my journal because I was afraid that they would disappear later. I have never had a more vivid, marvelous dream. The feelings of foreboding, wonder, and resolution were all so powerful — I was left feeling a little stunned as my mind cleared that morning. I knew almost immediately that I needed to paint this image for myself, because this dream said so much about my past, my fears, my commitments, and my unflinching hope. I'd like to share my dream with you.

My children and I are coming back from a visit to my parents' house in Tallahassee. I am driving an orange VW Bug and I have lost my way. We stop at a gas station to get directions and as I walk back to my car I notice a man nearby leaning into his car, as if to help his children. Out of his car come four or five little monkeys and they caper all over the parking lot, as if happy to be out of the car. One comes over to sit on the hood of my car, another stands by the door as I get in, wrapping his small hand around the door frame. I can't close my door for fear of hurting him, and finally the man gently moves him away.

We drive away from the dusty parking lot and under the overpass to the highway on-ramp. The kids remain safely in the car while I stop to help an old man. He wants to check his mail but now there is a thick layer of snow that impedes his progress. His mailbox stands at the end of a big, round oil pipeline that he must walk on, so I will shovel a path for him so that he can walk without slipping. The old man follows me and he is pleased that I have tried to help him.

I now notice a group of young men coming toward me from the overpass. I feel threatened and shovel faster, but they keep coming. There is a feeling of foreboding. I shovel faster and then just start to jog, clearing the path for the old man with my bare feet. I don't want them to know that I am scared. They are very close now and I know that they won't let me get to my car. I jump down from the pipe and the snow melts into a puddle. I stand in this puddle and bend over to scoop up handfuls of water which I throw into the air — where each droplet becomes a glorious butterfly. I do this again and again, and the air fills with these colorful creatures. These men don't notice the butterflies, they only see me scooping up water. One of their mothers then appears and she says, "Look, look — don't you see? She's making butterflies."

The entire tenor of the dream changes, I am no longer afraid. I make more butterflies and there are not words to describe how achingly beautiful they are. I walk back to my children who still sit safely in the car and I drive back up to the highway. We are going to get home.

THE YEAR IS 2003

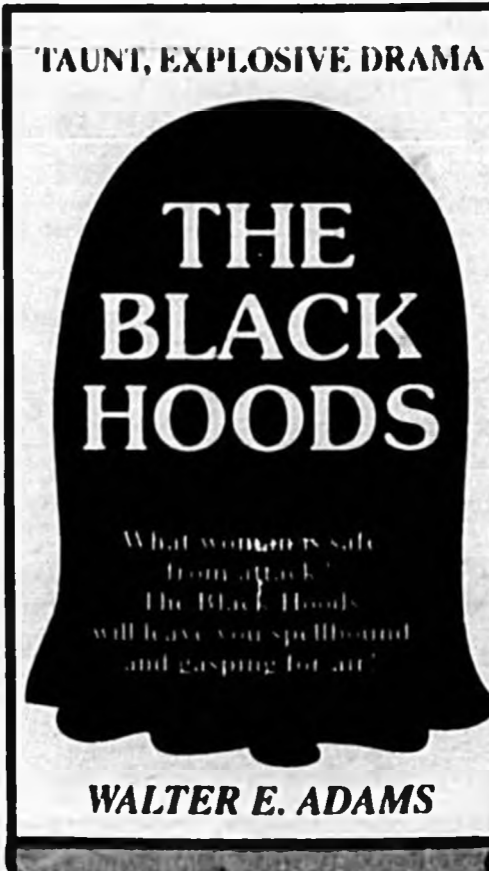

America's cities are filled with electrifying new terrors as vicious iron fisted inner city street gangs are now raping women in public, in broad daylight.

Look at tomorrow!

The Black Hoods will send shock waves skyrocketing throughout your entire being. The breathtaking fury of this book never ends.

Meet poster artist

By SARABECCA ROSNER
Herald Columnist

Alice Bach Hyde is the artist for the poster chosen for this year's 7th Annual Lake Mary/Heathrow Festival of the Arts. The original watercolor is entitled "Florida Lifestyle."

Hyde moved to Orlando from Alabama in 1986 and began exhibiting her work in juried outdoor art festivals in 1987. "The Winter Park Autumn Arts Festival was my very first show and the Lake Mary/Heathrow Festival of the Arts was my second. I have participated in the Lake Mary/Heathrow Festival of the Arts show every year since its inception. Four of these six years I have received awards. In 1988 I was asked to do the poster and I feel very honored to have had my work selected once again for the 1993 poster," said Hyde.

She chose to do a tropical theme for the poster design this year. "I enjoy painting foliage and felt the picture which I did reflects Florida lifestyles."

Hyde earned her bachelor of arts degree from Auburn University with a major in art. After working 17 years as a commercial artist she now devotes full time to painting, primarily in pastels. She has won numerous awards for her paintings and drawings and is a member of the Pastel Society of America. She has been selected to appear in Marquis Who's Who in America and Bowker's Who's Who in Art in America.

Hyde's print "Beach Break" appeared in Spiegel's Fall/Winter 1992 catalog, and her might have to do to make the festival a success. She believes in what the festival stands for and is thrilled to be a part of it.

Lash is absolutely capturing the community support and the community is turning out to be the winner.

Medical doctor's second career: art

By SARABEGGA ROSIER
Herald Columnist

Dr. Larry Cahall, one of the exhibitors at the Lake Mary Heathrow Festival of the Arts, is also a Heathrow resident. This is Dr. Cahall's fourth year as an exhibitor in the show. He has won awards in the past three shows.

As a teenager, Cahall's original interests were in the art form of photography which he pursued by developing and enlarging his own pictures. He feels that painting was just a natural evolution of his photography interest. Cahall participates in about 10 art shows per year since he began to paint in earnest about nine years ago. "I've always liked art," said Cahall who formerly was a medical doctor. During his years as a doctor, he never had enough time to pursue this interest and it had to remain on a back burner for years. But he certainly has no regrets now that this is given top priority over his other interests. He has enjoyed much success in art shows. His painting media is acrylics and he is inclined to do large pieces of art, 30 to 40 inches in size.

Cahall chose expressionist art for his theme which he said is different from abstract in that abstract is not usually recognizable and does not seem to resemble anything while expressionist is generally recognizable as something.

Cahall exhibits

throughout the state of Florida and has been in about five one-man exhibitions and many group exhibitions such as Maitland Art Center.

and All Media Competition at Seminole Community College, and many more. Most of these exhibitions have been from the years 1985 and up to the present. Cahall was in a four-person exhibition, Barnett Bank All-Florida Invitational at the Daytona Beach Museum in 1992. He has won a myriad number of awards. To name only a few: Mt. Dora Art Festival, Award of Merit, Award of Distinction 1991 and Award of Excellence, 1992; Images, New Smyrna Beach, Award of Commendation, 1988 and 1989; Award of Distinction 1992 and Award of Commendation, 1992 for "The Kiss;" Polk Museum Biennial, Lakeland, 1993 is a very recent award.

At the present time he has two pieces of art in the show now going on in Gainesville.

Don't miss this powerful and vibrant expressionist artist, and if you do not understand his art, stop and talk to him. He loves to discuss his paintings and hear your opinions.

The SODA Pop dancers

Wherever they go, things are poppin'

They're the SODA Pops (School of Dance Arts Performers on Parade) and wherever they go, you can be sure things are poppin'. Expect things to pop at the Lake Mary Heathrow Festival of the Arts when the SODA Pops take center stage.

This talented group of performers is comprised of dancers ranging in age from 8 years and up. Since a mother-child number is often included in the show lineup, the upper age level will remain a well-kept secret. Also included in this dance ensemble are members of the Ballet Guild of Sanford-Seminole.

Variety in song and dance is always the order of the day when the SODA Pops perform. Whether it's tap, ballet or jazz, the results are guaranteed to be audience pleasing.

Having only recently danced their way to the top of several prestigious national dance competitions, the SODA Pops proudly represent their dance studio, Miriam and Valerie's School of Dance Arts. They have been national grand champions of Danny Hctor's Dance Caravan "Stars of Tomorrow," and first place over-all winners in both the National Dance Spectrum and Show Stoppers dance competition.

Flying taps, hot jazz, lilted ballet and show-stopping numbers from Broadway will be in store for you when you catch the SODA Pops at the Lake Mary/Heathrow Art Festival on Sunday, Oct. 3.

You don't want to miss this fast-paced mini show filled to the brim with maximum entertainment and family fun.

Chairman for the Children's art tent is Carol Gentry, an art teacher at Lake Mary High School. Gentry said the "art tent will be manned by elementary and secondary art teachers from the Seminole County School system." Also, "there will be a different event every hour and they will provide all the supplies; just bring the children."

Both Saturday, Oct. 2 and Sunday, Oct. 3, the hours will be from 11 a.m. until 4 p.m. Gentry further stated that "all parents are truly encouraged to bring their children to the art tent as it gives them a very positive attitude about attending cultural events."

Another one of the special features at the Lake Mary Heathrow Festival of the Arts is the student exhibit. Creative work from many of the 47 Seminole County public schools will be on display. Painting, prints, crafts, and sculpture are just a few of the exciting visuals presented by elementary, middle, and senior high student artists.

This exhibition is located in their own tent beside the adult festival area. Everyone is encouraged to experience the exhilarating events happening inside art classrooms in the Seminole County public

They all have worked diligently to insure the success of the festival. The enthusiasm and energy they have generated for the festival has made the job of chairman enjoyable and rewarding. I am sincerely happy and proud to be a part of it.

Art must feel right; looking good not enough

Artist Karen-Ann S. Windchild does earth spirit art. She is a full-time ceramic and mixed media artist. Expressing spirit in material form is her artistic focus. She has resided in Florida since 1986.

Her work is influenced by the spirit of nature. She often incorporates natural and found objects into her "celebrations of the mystery of life." Her imagery is often figurative, with human and animal elements or artifact-like ritual objects such as shields, wands and masks. Her palette runs from the earthy and natural to the brightly vibrant.

Windchild completed her undergraduate work in three-dimensional design at the University of Michigan, and received her masters of Fine Arts degree from Pennsylvania State University. She has also studied at Alfred University, Alfred, N.Y.; Sacramento State University in Grass Valley, Calif.; Hartford Art School in Hartford, Conn. and Florida Atlantic University in Boca Raton, Fla.

Windchild has taught at Penn State University, State College, Pa.; SUNY, Fredonia, N.Y.; Community College of Rhode Island, Warwick, R.I.; and Florida Atlantic University in Boca Raton as

Performers brings theatre to festival

At the Lake Mary Heathrow Festival of the Arts on Sunday, Oct. 3, Wekiva River Players will perform several well-known musical selections showcased in their upcoming production of "Oliver." The full-length musical runs Nov. 5-7 at Eastmonte Civic Centre. WRP is scheduled to go on stage at 11 a.m. on Sunday, Oct. 3.

The Wekiva River Players gear up

WRP is a semi-professional theatre group which was formed over six months ago. It began with the idea for fresh community theatre. The idea found many supporters; in a matter of months, the organization blossomed from only a handful of enthusiastic individuals to an organization of over 50 members of all ages. In the words of the president, Chris Sollmene, WRP aims to perform "theatre by the community, for the community." As such, it incorporates people with all levels of acting and performing experience. "Oliver" is WRP's first production.

This lively, highly entertaining musical is based on the Charles Dickens classic entitled "Oliver Twist." It is set in the gray streets of London, England in the 1850s. The musical opens as Oliver (played by Benjamin Walters) and the other poor orphans dream of "Food, Glorious Food" in the dismal workhouse dining hall. Oliver's mishaps lead him right into the hands of the smooth-talking Artful Dogger (Matt Gummo) and the crafty old Fagin (Eric Kuritzky), who teach Oliver to pick rich gentleman's pockets as deftly as Fagin's gang of nimble-fingered young thieves. Nancy (Natalie Dollner) will delight audiences with her wit and her strong will, while the fearsome Bill Sikes (Daniel LoPresto) makes Oliver and all of London tremble with fear. Don't miss this unforgettable story of the lovable young orphans!

Raton Museum of Art in Florida and the Wadsworth Athenaeum of Hartford, Conn.

Art, the Arts Festival of Atlanta, Ga. and many others.

Windchild says "art is spirit materialized, matter spiritualized. Looking good is not enough; for me, art must also feel right."

Artist Laurie Dyer creates festive hats.

Artist says hats off to art

By SARABECCA ROSIER
Herald Columnist

So many of us love hats. We like to try them on, look at them, parade around in them or watch a parade sporting all kinds of colorful hats.

So if the latter description sounds like you, come by to see Laurie Dyer of WAZ Hats who has certainly taken that love many steps further than any of us.

Dyer's WAZ Hats come in such styles as Jester, Applejack, Top Hat, Shortstack with brim, Bolero, Hipple, a Cat in the Hat style, a regular Stove Pipe, or an extra large Stove Pipe, a TLC large, and a Mad Hatter extra large. All the colorful hats, with the exception of the Jester hat and the Mad Hatter hat, are reversible. Dyer says she has "loved hats since I was 5 years old."

Dr. Seuss' "The Cat in the Hat" is to today's hat makers what Franz Lehar's "The Merry Widow" was to milliners of 1910. Some of the amazing hats with almost yard-high crowns being worn these days in Greenwich Village, New York City resemble Dr. Seuss' stovepipe creation. These lightweight cotton creations with wired brims are sold at street fairs and village boutiques.

Now

Continued from Page 2 that Seminole County as a whole and all the chambers of commerce and many civic groups have been very supportive."

Art teachers from all Seminole schools will participate in the "children's area" and cash awards will be presented to their classrooms. Two thousand elementary students will present their art, and cash prizes will be awarded to four student artists.

One of the different approaches this year occurred when Lucas and her committee contacted various artists, circulating the Sanford Herald festival pull-out section from 1992, which pictured and featured some of the participants. They then prequalified artists from the festivals they visited.

Jeanne said that "for the past seven years, my approach to this festival was as a business challenge as my background is as a successful business woman, and my motives were less than altruistic, however, this year when I presented the scholarships to students that otherwise couldn't attend college and they cried in my arms when they received these scholarships. I suddenly changed my viewpoints drastically."

That is also the reason Lucas is so supportive of Seminole Arts for Education to restore cultural arts field trips to Seminole County elementary-age schoolchildren. These trips were cut from the school budget.

Festivals should be bright, lively and exciting places and that's exactly what the 7th Annual Lake Mary Heathrow Festival of the Arts promises to be. See the wonderful oil, acrylics, watercolor paintings, decorative arts, tent walls, easels and booths; look at the fabulous sculptures from wood, clay and almost any substance that can be molded, cut, scraped, bent and soldered. So many artists are at home with nature and use materials found in their environment and natural habitat. Tables and showcases will be filled with eye-catching, sparkling or unique styles of jewelry, both fine and costume. And even the costume jewelry is "real," made from gems and other natural sources. Look for the ceramics that get more colorful and daring year by year.

Chairwoman for the Children's Art Tent is Carol Gentry, an art teacher at Lake Mary

High School. Gentry said, "There will be a different event every hour and they will provide all supplies; just bring the children. This gives children a very positive attitude about attending cultural events."

The watercolor on canvas chosen to represent the festival in the form of posters, T-shirts and calendars was painted by Alice Bach Hyde, an award-winning Alabama native who has resided in Florida since 1986. She chose to do a tropical theme for the poster design this year because she felt it reflected Florida lifestyles.

A lot of work goes on behind the scenes to prepare for a festival of this magnitude. When it comes to the board members and committees getting down to the nitty-gritty staking out the exhibitors' tents, food concessions and entertainment, there has to be a pervasive air of cooperation and love for one's co-worker. The board members and committees are well deserving of praise.
