Grads busted

By David Frazer
HERALD STAFF WRITER

SEMINOLE COUNTY
Last week at a press conference, Seminole County Sheriff Don Ealinger announced the implementation of the "zero tolerance" philosophy. Tuesday night at area hotels in Altamonte Springs, it was enforced.

The "zero tolerance" philosophy is designed to discourage underage drinking and drug abuse. Ealinger said, "If a minor knowingly possesses alcohol or a controlled substance, he'll be incarcerated." Forty-eight were taken into custody during the bust Tuesday night. Travelodge and Residence Inn were the two hotels that the arrests took place.

Chief Deputy Steve Harriett of the Seminole County Sheriff's Office said that Altamonte Springs police had been receiving numerous complaint calls from the aforementioned hotels about loud parties. Teens were found to be having post-graduation parties. He said that in one room there were nearly 70 kids with beer bottles found around the room, a bag in the bathtub and marijuana buds on tables. The charges included possession of alcohol by a person under the age of 21 and possession of marijuana. Harriett said that about 10 were arrested for the marijuana charge. The teenagers were sent to John E. Polk Correctional Facility and the Seminole County Juvenile Assessment Center according to their age.

A task force made up of approximately 18 officers from the various law enforcement agencies in Seminole County enforce the "zero tolerance" policy. Harriett said that the task force was designed to target the areas where teens gather to make sure there are no violations. "This is not specifically a graduation-only situation."

The chief deputy called the arrests an anomaly. He said that the task force did not target the post-graduation parties on purpose. He also said that proactive operations will continue with scheduled checkpoints at strategic locations being initiated this week.

"This is just a kickoff," said Harriett. "These operations are designed to heighten the awareness of the dangers and hazards of under age drinking and drug use."

Pacitti: Lakefront park can stay

Sanford business leaders back developer's plan

By Russ White
HERALD STAFF WRITER

SANFORD - Developer Joseph Pacitti has offered a compromise he hopes will help people approve the city's proposal to build a waterfront hotel/conference center on 20-plus acres of city-owned land that includes Fort Mellon Park.

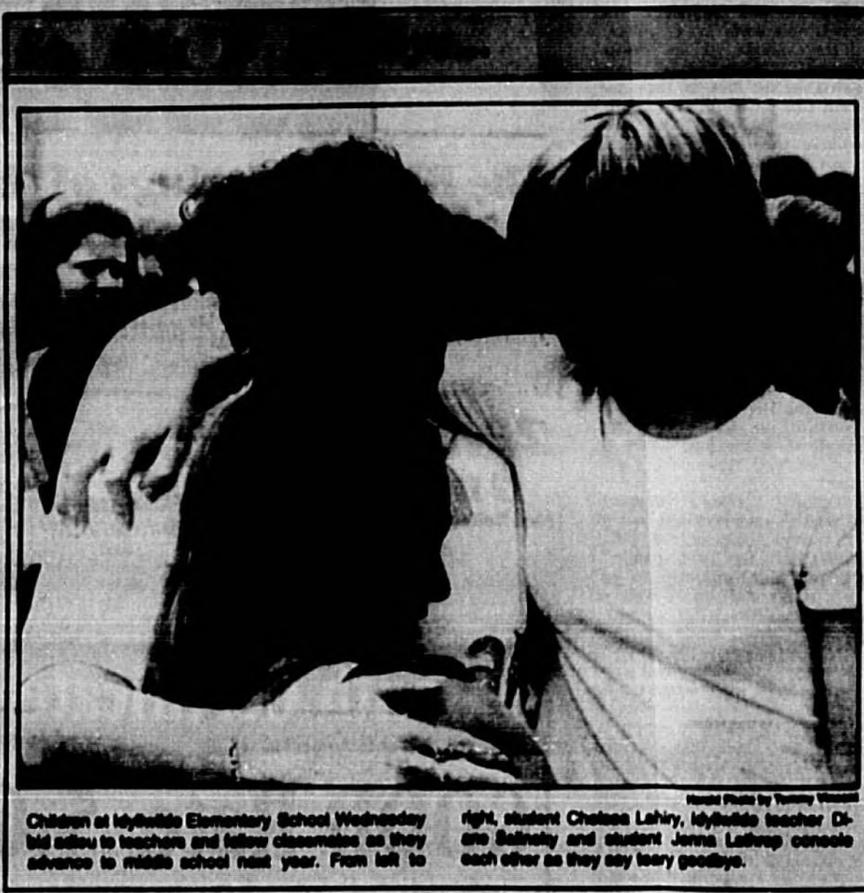

The park is going to stay, Pacitti told members of the Downtown Business Association who met at the Times Square Bistro Wednesday night. "I'm willing to leave 6 acres on the east side just as they are," he said. This Mayor Larry Dale said today, has been the city's intention all along. "We're prepared to spend $3 million to enhance the park, not destroy it," Dale said. "Much of the confusion and opposition stems from some downright lies. We're not selling any of this land - we're leasing it. We're not destroying the park - we're enhancing it."

Pacitti met early Wednesday with a task force of business leaders that included Bob Parrell who owns Ace Hardware and is director of Main Street. Parrell was enthused about Pacitti's offer and shared it with those at the Downtown Business Association meeting. "We can do this and satisfy just about everyone," Pacitti said. Developer Joseph Pacitti tells members of the Downtown Business Association of Sanford his plans for a waterfront hotel/conference center complex. The group voted to back the proposal.

County, city water restrictions differ

By Nick Pflaum
HERALD STAFF WRITER

SANFORD - Mandatory water restrictions are continuing in Seminole County and its cities. Several cities, such as Sanford, have established their own restrictions which are slightly different than those county wide.

In Sanford, Project Administrator Bill Marcous said the city is presently adhering to restrictions set forth by the St. Johns River Water Management District (SJRWMD) several years ago, which prohibits watering on a year-round basis from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. every day. "But we are on the threshold of having more serious problems," Marcous said, "and we may have to expand the restrictions even more."

Marcous said while there is presently no prohibition on using reclaimed water for lawn watering, "we are asking people to conserve even that to conserve our resources until this problem has been resolved through an increase in rainfall."

In the city limits, Marcous said, until restrictions are tightened, people who want to wash their vehicles on their private property should consider parking the car on the grass to serve a double purpose, and to use a shut-off spigot to conserve water.

The SJRWMD restrictions do not pertain to persons who may have new plantings to water. Marcous said at present, this is allowed.

The city of Lake Mary says it will abide by the restrictions established by Seminole County.

The county had declared a water restriction Wednesday. Commercial establishments in the county however, are not presently affected by the mandate.

County spokesman Michael Ertel explained, "We are overloading our pumping systems, which risks service interruptions and a possible decline in fire protection capabilities."

Even numbered houses may water their lawns only on Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 8 p.m. to 6 a.m. Odd numbered houses may water Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday during the same hours. No lawn irrigation is allowed on Sunday.

Even though rain showers are expected, Ertel said the restrictions may remain in effect for possibly another 30 days. Please See Water, Page 2A

Commissioner chastises police chief with no comment

By Nick Pflaum
HERALD STAFF WRITER

SANFORD - A dispute arose during Tuesday night's Sanford City Commission meeting on whether or not a response must be given in public regarding one person's objection to law enforcement tactics.

For the second consecutive meeting, Goldboro resident Tom Alexander addressed the commissioners with objections regarding the city's police department. On May 11, Alexander spoke concerning Officer Arthur Barnes, who has been fired and is currently under disciplinary hearings. Tuesday, while again alluding to the Barnes situation, Alexander focused his comments on what he believes is insufficient police protection and surveillance in the West 16th Street area of the city.

He told commissioners he has no difficulty in observing drug transactions and other crimes being committed in his area of the city, and complained that there never appears to be any police concentration to help reduce the crimes, even though he said he calls for them often.

Alexander invited members of the commission to ride with Please See Chief, Page 2A

A Navy A-4 Skyhawk fighter-bomber and an Army 8-inch howitzer arrived by rail in Sanford Tuesday, on route to their permanent home at the National Vietnam War Museum in Orlando.

Remembering Vietnam War

By Nick Pflaum
HERALD STAFF WRITER

SANFORD - It was a night that perhaps brought back memories, good or bad, for veterans of the Vietnam war. Two displays, destined for a memorial museum, were transported to Central Florida by train Tuesday morning.

A U.S. Navy A-4 Skyhawk and a U.S. Army howitzer cannon were brought south by rail Saturday, and unloaded in Sanford. The two items are to be refurbished and placed on display at the new National Vietnam War Museum being established at 3400 North Tanner Road in Orlando.

The wings of the Skyhawk, not shown in the photo, were also on a flatbed rail car. They had to be removed in order to load the entire aircraft for shipment. The long-range 8-inch howitzer artillery gun was in original assembly, but will be restored prior to being placed on public display at the museum.

Mark Bernhardt, who heads the museum's acquisition team, explained that these historically significant items are to be showcased, with other Vietnam-era war artifacts in a realistic setting designed to make people and events of this Please See Vietnam, Page 2A

Teaming up: Relay for Life slated for Friday

From staff reports

SEMINOLE COUNTY - The American Cancer Society will host the second Relay for Life event in Seminole County this Friday. Teams from numerous businesses and government groups will walk and/or run the track at Lake Mary High School in a fund raising event.

The trek around the track will begin with cancer survivors completing the first lap. They are to be followed for one lap by various dignitaries in honor of the American Cancer Society's fight to obtain funding in the fight against cancer. Dignitaries invited to be on hand and take that second lap include Seminole County Sheriff Don Eslinger, Sanford Police Chief Joe Dillard, Lake Mary Police Chief Richard Beary, Seminole County Commission Chairman Randy Morris, Sanford Mayor Larry Dale, Lake Mary Mayor David Meador and Seminole County Property Appraiser Bill Suber.

At last Thursday night's Lake Mary City Commission meeting, Mayor Meador announced that the city would be putting together a team in honor of Sue Thorne. Thorne serves as Administrative Assistant to City Manager John Litton. Having been diagnosed with cancer, Thorne is expected to participate in the Relay for Life in running the opening lap. All Lake Mary department heads have been encouraged to urge employees to enter the relay event in honor of Thorne.

Officials say that although the relay is a fund raiser, it is also an opportunity for the businesses and governmental agencies involved to team-build within their organizations. The teams are to "camp out" on the football field while other members walk or run on the track. Each team will have a campsite theme. Teams are expected to continue on the track from the beginning of the event at 6 p.m. Friday, until 10 a.m. Saturday.

The general public is urged to attend this Relay for Life event, to be continuing all night.

him. "I'll show you drug activity going on all over the place," he said. "But you won't see any police."

He said that Sunday morning he even saw a deputy sheriff riding past his home on a bike. "This was a deputy, but there were no city police around," he added.

Following Alexander's comments, Commissioner Whitey Eckstein asked if Police Chief Joe Dillard wished to speak on the matter. Dillard, in the audience, chose not to give a response, and the citizen participation continued into other matters.

A few moments later however, Commissioner Velma Williams requested to speak. "Since day one, when I first took my seat on this commission, I have been supportive of Chief Dillard. I have been on the police (reorganization) committee, and have pushed diligently for our police department and supported the chief," she said.

"But tonight, I am disappointed; overwhelmed, angered, at the lack of response from Chief Dillard when Commissioner Eckstein asked response to a citizen concern," she continued. "We, as the city leaders, are obligated to respond, whether we agree or don't agree."

Williams continued, "We're talking about the evaluation of Chief Dillard next month. He knows that. I'm amazed he wouldn't take this opportunity to step forward and respond. Now, I'm asking the commissioners to ask Chief Dillard to respond to Mr. Alexander's concern. This is the chief's opportunity to shine, but if you don't, when the time comes to evaluate you, this wouldn't look good."

Dillard came forward. "Commissioner Eckstein asked if I wanted to speak, but said I didn't have to," he responded. "I don't think the time to get confrontational is during a public meeting. It's inappropriate."

"As far as police visibility on the west side, we're doing what we can with what we have," he continued. "Yes there was a deputy on his bike but the sheriff has over 600 deputies and I have less than 100 in all, so you can see the difficulty in patrolling all of the city all of the time. But we do have people on the west side, but again I say, I'm doing what I can with what I have. If that's not enough, then I'm sorry."

Dillard said he would be happy to meet with Mr. Alexander. "But during a public meeting at this time is not appropriate," he added.

Later, Alexander returned to the podium to say he had attempted to meet with Dillard in the past but was unsuccessful.

The business leaders voted, 18-4, in favor of the project as it has been proposed and only 4 members said they would prefer it at a different location on a second vote. City Manager Bill Simmons had told the group there really aren't that many different locations that would be feasible.

"This is your site, this is the reason I'm here," Pacitti said. "I could be 1,000 other places but I'm here because of the water. This is very unique. This is where you want to have your hotel and conference center. It has the ambience."

Rami Yosefian, the Downtown Business Association president, said that the city needed help and Pacitti was exactly the developer to do the work. "I asked him to come look at this little town. He could have gone anywhere - he doesn't need Sanford but we need him."

Dale, who did not attend the meeting, has rallied the city commission and the Seminole County commissioners to support the $70 million waterfront complex proposal. The city vote was 5-0, the county vote 4-1.

"There are those who either don't like me or what we're doing, who oppose this effort," Dale said. "Many have lived in Sanford a long, long time. If they think back they'll realize when the town was going great guns was when there was a hotel here. The hotel was the catalyst. And it can be that way again."

Sanford native Millard Hunt, 71, is one of those opposed to the complex. He told the business leaders Wednesday night that he wasn't opposed to the city taking steps to improve itself. "But this is a step in the wrong direction," he said.

"Fort Mellon Park is a central city park that is a great gathering place for everyone," Hunt said. "There's a racial and economic diversity that does not exist anywhere else. This very room is filled with nothing but pale faces."

Hunt, the president of the Sanford Historical Society, wants the citizens to be able to vote whether they want the new complex and is gathering petitions to force the city to have a referendum so they can choose.

A new resident, Lynda Stefani, said she would be one of those to vote against the complex. "If I knew this was happening, I would not have come here," Stefani said. "It seems to me the city is selling its soul for money."

Simmons said that there are a number of things that have to fall in place for the proposal to become a reality. He said Pacitti has to agree to any changes that may have to be made and that a long-term land lease be arranged. There has to be rezoning and a new comprehensive plan.

"It's not a done deal," Pacitti said. "But we're now in a position to take the next step. I want to help the city in its resurrection and I'd like to see everyone happy. Most of the people are satisfied and behind us."

The project is part of a 14-month long effort by the museum's acquisition team. To complete the project, he said strong links had to be forged with many organizations including the Navy, Northrop Grumman of St. Augustine,

Lakeview hosts forum for innovative middle schools

Special to the Herald

SANFORD - Each year, Pete Kreis from the Florida Department of Education selects a core group of the most innovative middle schools across the state. These schools then meet at a showcase school to articulate and share their best practices. Lakeview Middle School in Sanford served as host school for this annual event.

Principal Jim Shupe said he felt both honored and humbled for Lakeview to be selected as the showcase school for the entire state. "Many good things are happening in the Sanford area schools, and the word is just beginning to get out."

The afternoon of the meeting, Shupe and Kreis gave an overview of the agenda, and Shupe went on to share some data and school initiatives with the participants. The group then split up into "Think Tank" sessions to share best practices.

The next morning began with different groups of participants rotating through three concurrent sessions at Lakeview. Lakeview's featured programs at these sessions were the Magnet Program for 1998-99, the Immersion Program of Basic Skills, and the Teach/Re-Teach instructional strategy. The visitors also toured the campus during breaks. Shupe reported that the participants were very impressed with the innovative practices at Lakeview. "Quite a few of our guests also made it a point to make comments to me about how friendly the staff was and how the school was so well-organized."

At the conclusion of the workshop, Shupe felt very good about what Lakeview was doing in relationship to other middle schools in the state. "It is like a barometer, because you are standing shoulder to shoulder to the most innovative schools in the state and other schools are coming to our school to replicate what we are doing."

Kreis said that the Florida Department of Education sponsors the Innovative Practices (Break-the-Mold) workshops in order to stimulate change and innovation in Florida schools. "Real change takes place one school at a time", Kreis commented. "We need more schools like Lakeview to set the pace for other schools to follow."

When it comes to Shaq, sometimes the truth hurts

This is gonna hurt. But sometimes, you gotta give credit where credit is due.

All over Central Florida, we all laughed at just about any dirt we could find on Shaquille O'Neal over the past two years since his ugly defection from the City Beautiful.

(By the way, what is so beautiful about Orlando? A bunch of billboards with mice on them?)

Anyway, it's been fun. It was fun when he drove around the O-rena in a limo two years ago when he was injured, afraid to come inside when the Lakers returned to face the Magic.

It was also funny when the Lakers got bounced early in last year's playoffs.

Then, we all sure did get a kick out of it when Nick Anderson lit up Shaq's world and Danny Schayes got the job done when the Magic pulled out an upset over Shaq and the Lakers this year.

Remember all the Take The Money And Run signs? All the photos of Shaq with dollar bills all over them?

Remember all that perverse joy we got when his movies bombed at the box office?

Well who's laughing now?

The Magic have Schayes and Derek Strong in the middle. The Lakers now have The Best Center In Basketball.

There, it's said.

Better than Robinson. Better than Olajuwon. Better than Ewing.

The best and maybe now the most dominant center since, who, dare we say Chamberlain?

Blasphemy. But think about it. Shaq still can't hit his free throws, but look for another weakness. He's got quickness and is now one of the best passing centers in the NBA. He may only have two shots - the dunk and the monster dunk - but it doesn't matter what you have in your repertoire as long as you stick it in the basket.

Quick, name one center who can honestly stop Shaq consistently. Olajuwon has lost a step. Robinson can be overpowered and Ewing has seen his best years. Who else is out there? Vin Baker? Rick Smith? Alonso Mourning?

About those free throws. Let's say a team plays Hack-a-Shaq in the last two minutes and Shaq hits 50 percent of his free throws. If you're a coach, do you take one point, or take a chance on someone else hitting a field goal?

We all probably got a nice little laugh out of the Lakers' humiliating four-game sweep at the hands of the Utah Jazz, but it could have been ugly if it hadn't been for Shaq. Except for the Game 1 blowout, the Lakers were in every game and that's because of Shaq.

Eddie Jones played marginally well for the Lakers. Nick Van Exel barely showed up. No one else seemed to care, including Robert Horry, Eldon Campbell and the over-hyped, over-rated Kobe Bryant.

So it was up to Shaq to play one-man basketball and he almost pulled it off.

It was funny to see Shaq sulk off the court after Game 4. That makes four playoff sweeps against Shaq, including three in Orlando, during Shaq's young career.

But remember, Shaq is only a kid. He's improving each year and that's dangerous for the NBA. Like it or not, he's the league's next superstar once Michael Jordan decides to retire. When that happens, expect a long line of MVP's and some more banners to hang in Los Angeles.

It's easy to think about what could have been. He could still be in Orlando, playing with a healthy Penny.

Then again, the Magic could have used another lottery minute and gotten Antwan Jamison and we could be looking at a dynasty.

But none of that's happened. And because of it, the next Best Player In The NBA is in Los Angeles.

Building for the perfect future

Seminole honors two seniors, winning record at banquet

By Jeff Berlinicke
ASSISTANT SPORTS EDITOR

In some ways, the Seminole softball team said goodbye to each other for the final time at last week's season-ending banquet.

Thing is, not too many of them are saying goodbye forever.

The 1998 Seminoles will be remembered for a lot of things, most notably as the first team in nearly 20 years to advance to regional play and posting the first winning season of coach Dave Rogers' regime.

It will be remembered as the team that weathered a devastating injury to its best pitcher, yet found a way to make it to the district finals, playing on its new field for the first full season.

Only two seniors - Kelly Langton and Sherril Eiland - graduate from this season's team and the Noles should be a lock to make a return to the playoffs next season as well as making a run at the states.

Of the seniors, Langton is headed for Florida State where she may try to walk on with the Seminoles and Eiland should be playing junior college ball somewhere. The pair were among those receiving special honors from Rogers at the banquet.

Langton was named the team's Most Valuable Player. She was the most potent in a strong Seminole attack and anchored the outfield defense all season.

Eiland was Defensive Player of the Year. Despite getting run over twice by opposing baserunners, Eiland was a true team leader and ace and pitcher Maria Duval were battery mates until the very end of the season.

Andrea Garcia received Rogers Team Player of the Year and was one of the most vocal of the Seminoles who showed a spirit not shown in recent years.

Tamara Sleep, who really came o at the end of the season, was given the Hustle Award for her outfield play and Mandy Priddy got the rookie of the Year prize as a second baseman.

Most Improved went to Katie Hoffman. She came up from the junior varsity after the injury to Duval to pitch her first varsity games at the end of the season when every game counted. She also showed a strong bat during her brief varsity stint.

Eiland and Langton were also awarded letters for being

Winter Springs caps off inaugural softball season

By Jeff Berlinicke
ASSISTANT SPORTS EDITOR

It didn't take long for the Winter Springs softball team to establish itself as a Central Florida force.

Despite having only ninth- and 10th-graders at the brand new school, the Bears pulled off the upset of the season in girls softball and advanced farther than any other Winter Springs team during the inaugural season with a trip to Hollywood, Fla., and a date in the regional tournament.

The highlight of the season was a 4-3 win over eventual state Class 8A champion Lake Mary which also happened to be Winter Springs' best-ever win.

There was also a no-hitter from Aimee Nettles and an entire season that built the foundation for what looks to be as strong a program as any in the county by the time the first senior class takes the field in the year 2000.

The Bears got together one final time for an awards banquet, hosted by coach Jill Conk.

Five awards were presented to the Winter Springs players as Conk complimented her players on a successful year.

Catcher Leslie Helms was named the teams Most Outstanding Player. Throughout the season, Helms displayed a gun to fire out any would-be base stealers and acted as the team leader, working with the freshmen pitchers.

Michelle Solano, earned Most Improved honors and right fielder Eileen Hatfield won the Coaches Award.

Becky Mangino, who, along with Nettles, made up the Winter Springs pitching staff, and played second base, won the Scholastic Award for her 4.0 grade point average.

It was Mangino who pitched the Bears into the regional semi-finals as they won 5-1 over Pope John Paul. Mangino gave up three hits and a run before retiring her first batter, but was nearly untouchable after the slow start.

The Bears finished the season at 15-11, but set the

Hard work pays off for Seminole's Williams

By Kellie Werner
Herald Correspondent

Hard work and dedication always pay off in the end.

Just ask Seminole High School senior Nate Williams.

He's on his way to Connecticut to attend Fairfield University on a full college scholarship, where he will study computer science and play football.

"Nate is an extremely hard worker," said Seminole football coach Jim Worthington. "If he doesn't understand something, he will ask questions. Nate has always worked toward doing things exactly the way we want them done. He's truly a great kid."

Not only did Williams stand out on the football field, he also maintained a 3.1 grade point average while participating in football, weight lifting and wrestling.

Williams is proud to wear the Seminole name and to represent the school on the football field.

He doesn't talk a lot, especially on the football field. He Please see Williams, Page 8A

Skin condition is harmless

DEAR DR. GOTT: My husband is just finishing a bout with what his internist calls "pityriasis." Is this caused by a virus? Does it signal something wrong?

DEAR READER: Pityriasis rosea is a common and harmless skin condition. It is marked by the sudden appearance of an oval, scaly, pink area (the "herald patch"), followed by a generalized eruption involving the trunk and extremities. The cause is unknown and no treatment is needed. Pityriasis, although cosmetically troublesome, does not reflect a serious underlying disease.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I am a 74-year-old man who has had two brain operations for cancer. Apparently, the original brain tumor grew back and now the doctors want me to undergo chemotherapy and radiation treatments. The whole process seems experimental to me.

DEAR READER: Unquestionably, you are suffering from a serious disorder. Experimental or not, your best chance for cure lies with the two methods you mentioned. While no one eagerly anticipates the discomfort, inconvenience and expense of chemotherapy and radiation, these treatments seem preferable to the alternative: procrastinating until the cancer has grown too large to be treated.

If I were you, I'd place myself in the hands of the most able oncologist in your community. Such a specialist can discuss with you the pros and cons of therapy. If you decide to proceed, he will organize and develop a treatment plan that is best suited to your care.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm an 84-year-old man with skin cancer on my cheek. Two doctors have recommended surgery, but I am reluctant to have an operation. Are there other choices?

DEAR READER: Surgery is usually the most efficient way to treat skin cancer. Therefore, I urge you to follow your doctor's recommendations. However, some skin malignancies respond to the use of anti-cancer creams, such as Efudex. While this option might not be appropriate for you, I suggest that you ask your doctors about it. Perhaps they could try it as a prelude to surgery.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm a 60-year-old woman. My doctor told me that I have Heberden's nodes. Should I be concerned?

DEAR READER: Not in the slightest. Named after William Heberden, a distinguished 18th century physician, these "nodes" are the harmless knobs that many of us notice on our finger joints as we age. Heberden's nodes are merely a sign of osteoarthritis. The nodes reflect the changing bony architecture around the joints, as a consequence of the arthritis that eventually affects most of us.

Heberden's nodes are painless and require no specific therapy, although the arthritic pain and stiffness may require treatment with medicine such as ibuprofen.

DR. GOTT

PETER GOTT, M.D.

Your doctor was probably showing off by using an obscure medical diagnosis when a straightforward explanation was all that was needed.

WHAT AT BRIDGE

The best climate, a great player

By Phillip Alder

Which city in the United States has the best climate? Several places would receive votes, but surely the runaway winner would be San Diego. It has a stable climate, not too hot, not too cold, with lots of sunshine.

Today's deal was declared in San Diego in 1979 by Mary Jane Farrell. She was recently elected into the American Contract Bridge League's Hall of Fame, along with Dorothy Truscott, Billy Eisenberg, Johnny Gerber, Alvin Landy, Sonny Moyse, Peter Pender and Dave Truedell.

Mary Jane's play was relevant only because the deal occurred in a pairs event. At most tables, East was in four spades, scoring 630 after a normal guess in diamonds. (As South had bid at the two-level, he was more likely to have the diamond ace.) So, if Mary Jane went only two down, losing 500, she would receive a "top," whereas three down, minus 500, would be a "bottom."

After cashing the spade ace, West switched to the diamond three. Reading the position correctly, Mary Jane played low from the dummy and ducked East's 10. A trump back now would have collected 800, but East tried to cash the spade king (which was silly, given West's jump raise).

Mary Jane ruffed, played off the club ace, and led her heart queen. When West played low smoothly, dummy called for the ace, ruffed dummy's final spade in hand, and exited with a heart. East was endplayed. Whether he led away from the diamond king or conceded a ruff-and-discard, Mary Jane had only one diamond loser and a cold top. Or should that be "comfortably warm top" in San Diego?

LOOK UP

Friday, May 29, 1998
Persons you meet and become friends with socially in the year ahead could play constructive roles in your career, especially if you enter into new endeavors.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Wide swings are indicated today in the management of your resources. You'll either be far too extravagant or a trifle too tight-fisted. Get a jump on life by understanding the influences that'll govern you in the year ahead. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions by mailing $2 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 1788, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10158. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Try not to be too restrictive of people in your charge today. Your measures may be well-intended, but they won't be well-received.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 23) Someone close who has recently done something that hurt your feelings might try to discuss the matter with you today. Listen carefully to what is said, because no ill-will was intended.

ASTRO-GRAF

VIROO (Aug. 23-Sept. 23) Be mindful of the activities you get involved in today. There is a possibility you might select something that's over your head.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) If you are unwilling to share the spotlight with a person who recently helped you achieve something of note, hard feelings could be the by-product. Don't let this happen.
SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Persons with whom you'll associate today might have greater faith in you than you have in yourself. Replace self-doubts with feelings of self-worth.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If you become involved in some type of romantic intrigue today, your secret will be detected and become a topic of conversation for others.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) In career developments today, weak associates could turn out to be a liability. Try to operate independently of these allies.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) People with whom you associate today will have a strong influence over your productivity. If you hang out with idlers, you might become one yourself.
PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) Guard against possessive inclinations today if someone you like appears to be paying attention to someone else. It could make you look childish.
ARIES (March 21-April 19) Avoid over-reacting today if someone you like doesn't show adequate appreciation for something special you did for him/her. You could be missing the message.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You're very observant today and this could work for or against you. Focus on the virtues of others, not their faults.
