THE CHURCH FOR ALL ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good eitizemhip. It is a sterehouse of spiritual values, Without a strong church, neither democracy nor civilization con survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the ehurch. They are: (1) For his ewn asks. (2) For his chil-dren's asks. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the church (4) For the same of the courtmitself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

"Don't forget Tippy's treat!" Even if we're a hit late leaving for church, Susan and Mark must take their paper bag of surprises for Tippy the squirrel. Tippy lives in the park beside the church, and he's one of many happy, heart-warming things that our family looks forward to on Sundays.

We are rearing our children in the Christian faith because we know from our own experience how much it means to young people growing up. Without a right sense of values, youngsters are so likely to get into trouble.

Already Susan and Mark are learning to trust in the loving protection of God, and to turn to Him with their little problems. Through the stories of Jesus they are beginning to understand what it means to follow Him. We pray that this childhood pattern will strengthen and form a steadfast foundation for the whole of their lives. No parents could ask for more.

side of the two-day visit of the Shriners . . . the serious (and closed to the public) side was Saturday afternoon when 100 candidates "walked the hot sands." In other words, 100 Masons also became Shriners in an initiation at Seminole High School.

On the fun side, some visiting Shriners paraded ducks and donkeys. Among other places they called at Penney's . . . and the ducks left their "trade marks. "The donkeys were trick animals . . trained to buck and throw anyone who tried to ride them.

Cotton Brown was worn to a frazzle Sunday . . . he kept his restaurant open on a 24-hour basis for the convenience of the Shriners. . . .

Capt. Arnold Williams and Lt. Ben Butler, police officers and Shriners, started the shenanigans Friday afternoon by handcuffing John Kader to a pole on West First Street. It wasn't ever learned what John promised to gain his ·freedom.

President To Meet People Despite Risks

WASHINGTON (UPI) President Johnson says he is not unduly concerned about his safety and he is going to continue to meet and speak with the American people in public.

"I am exercising all the precautions that prudent men, responsible for my safety, recommend," Johnson told his news conference Saturday.

"But the President is still going to speak to the people of this country and necessarily is going to associate with them."

"My intentions are to see the people, to talk to them," the President said. "I will be on open platforms. I will be on an open stage. I will be at an open desk, I will be in an open car on occasions, depending on the circumstan-

This ever-present creeping socialism demands our constant vigilance. We must defend our freedom of individual initiative and enterprise if we are to keep America Powerful.

Way With Words

It was Robert Browning who exclaimed, "Oh, to be in England now that April's there," but the words might well be echoed by the shade of William Shakespeare-especially this April marking the 400th anniversary of his birth. What would the Bard think of the much ado being made over him, not only in England but around the world, as schools and colleges and dramatic groups perform his plays in greater profusion than ever be-

"O, wonderful," he might say, "wonderful, and most wonderful wonderful! and yet again wonderful, and after that out of all whooping."

No doubt he would be impressed to hear his words bounced trippingly off a circling satellite — though it was his Puck who said, "I'll put a girdle round the earth in forty min-

No doubt it would amaze him to learn that in the barbarous wilderness of America a magic box will carry the voice and face of the eminent Dr. Frank Baxter in 26 half-hour broadcasts devoted to him, and that one electronic performance of a play will reach millions more than all the groundlings who ever cheered a Hal or hissed an lago at ye Globe Theatre.

He would be no less astonished at the many volumes written by generations of pundits to prove he did not write his plays at all. One suspects, however, that Will's sympathles would be with "the whining schoolboy, with his satchel and shining morning face, creeping like a snail unwillingly to school" to struggle, as countless others have before him, over Shakespeare.

As every Schoolboy knows, English literature means Shakespeare. It is often overlooked, though, as writer John Greenway has pointed out, that the England of Elizabeth I, with a population half the size of metropolitan New York, most of it illiterate, produced half a dozen playwrights of the same class as Shakespeare.

But this is Shakespeare's year, and it may surprise many to learn he was not always held in such esteem. The prudish 19th century did not think him quite nice.

One Thomas Bowdler added a word to the language — bowdlerize - by preparing sterile, expurgated versions of Shakespeare fit for proper young gentlemen and ladies .

In colleges, he was studied, if at all, under the subject of philology, where his grammar and syntax were analyzed to death.

It was not until the latter part of the century that he was appreciated again for what he was - a poetic genius, an amazing man of an amaz-

We like to think that Shakespeare would be pleased to learn that we of the 20th century are perhaps spiritually closer to him than even his contemporaries were and that to us, as it was to him, "the play's the

LET'S TALK DRY CLEANING"

By - WOODROW CASH

The moth always seems to get the blame for chewed-up holes in a fa-vorite sweater, suit, or dress. Of course, he is not innocent; but the moth has many companions in crime. Beetles, carpet beetles, silver fish, crickets, and roaches also enjoy a good fabric meal.

This month many homemakers are getting ready to protect their winter garments from these hungry villians during the ecming warm weather.
And what better time to undertake this project than Good Grooming Week?

Clothing care experts at the National Institute of Drycleaning say that proper storage will safeguard a garment's well-groomed appearance and extend its life. They cite five major hazards to avoid in properly storing garments: insects, soil, heat, humidity, and light. Those who plan to store their winter garments at home must first take precautions against insect damage. All garments must be clean and stain free, Insects will not munch on any clean fabric except wool—and dry-cleaners protect wools by mothproofing them during dry-cleaning.

Cleaning will also destroy insect larvae that may already be hiding in the fabric, and will eliminate sharp sell particles that cut a garment's tiny fibers.

Next step is to rid your storage space of insect larvae. They can hide in corners or cracks of floors, so dust closets or storage chests thoroughly. Insect larvae are especially likely to hide in dust, where particles of

One of the most popular professional storage plans is "box storage." Drycleaners provide boxes to customers and offer to clean and store all garments placed in the boxes. Drycleaners also may provide insurance for stored garments.

DEAR ABBY: When I was 17 I married a man I did not love just to get away from my mother. I thought I would learn to love him, but now I know that I never will. Believe me, I have tried.
