Workshop Hears Of Battles Against Use Of Drugs

By LEE DANCY
Herald Staff Writer

Tommy first smoked marijuana during recess at school when he was a fifth grader.

This morning he recounted an arduous battle with drug use and the problems it caused him before an auditorium full of Seminole County school administrators, teachers and concerned parents.

Ruth is the mother of two boys who kept leaving little "surprises" around the house. Sandwich bags, elaborate pipes and "bongs," larger pipes filled with water to help cool the smoke, rolling papers and burned matches kept turning up in her boys' bedrooms.

The anxiety she experienced and personality transformations Ruth watched her boys undergo was the other side of the story heard on the final day of Workshop on how to effectively deal with drug and alcohol use on the school level. The workshop is concluding today at Lake Mary High School. It was sponsored by the Seminole County schools.

"We finally came to the realization that we had a couple of sick kids," Ruth said. "They were psychologically hooked on marijuana."

One of Ruth's two sons has successfully completed treatment through Al-Anon, a nationwide program to help people face their drug or alcohol problem and give it up. Her other son is slowly improving, "but he still has a very bad attitude," Ruth said.

Tommy has not used drugs or alcohol for almost six months. He participated in The Grove's treatment program. The Grove is in Longwood and is sponsored jointly by the Seminole County and the state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services.

After the three-month program was over, Tommy had a new challenge. He re-entered high school to complete his senior year and was forced to deal with all the old friends with whom he once shared drugs.

Tommy said he does not ignore his old friends, but prefers to associate with "straight" kids, those who do not use drugs. He said he did not make friends with straight youngsters prior to going to The Grove because he did not understand them.

Now he realizes what interests "straight" kids, and he wants to associate with people who are doing things, he said.

"With drugs, my interests dropped off to zero," Tommy said. "I stayed in my bedroom most of the time and only came out if I wanted to eat, watch something on TV, or go out."

Tommy has recently begun to draw again. He hardly picked up a drawing pencil for a long time, and when he did, he thought his work looked strange, he said.

"Now, I'm becoming more involved in mechanical drawing and have a chance at an art scholarship," he said.

Ruth's son who participated in Al-Anon dropped out of high school and is now working as a painter's assistant. He loves his work and is taking night classes in preparation for gaining a General Equivalency Diploma, she said.

Both Ruth and Tommy said they had to face their problems honestly. The drug problem in their lives, Tommy's and Ruth's son's, would not go away, the people with the problems had to work toward abstinence.

Tom Roll, the Seminole County schools' chemical-abuse counselor, said people with drug or alcohol problems can never learn to use the substances moderately.

"You cannot learn how to drink again," he said.

Many people attending the meeting will go back to the 42 Seminole County schools to establish a drug abuse prevention program there. Each school will have a team composed of a teacher, administrator, counselor and parent.

Those 42 teams each submitted an "action plan" to Roll today. The plans each outlined the programs the teams will establish at the schools.

"You people have all the skills necessary to bring about effective change in Seminole County," Roll told the workshop participants. "If there's going to be anything meaningful done, it must come from a coordinated, community effort."

"There are three essential ingredients to getting sober," he said. "Honesty, openness and willingness."

Polk Joins Fight To Retain Crime Lab

Seminole County Sheriff John Polk has a personal interest in seeing that the state crime laboratory remains in Seminole County, and is joining the lobbying movement to have the new $4 million facility built in Lake Mary.

"A lot of blood and sweat went into getting the lab started in the county in the first place," Polk said, noting it was created in 1970 at his behest and with federal funds his department applied for.

"We hired the first chemist and assistant and leased a small metal barracks building at the Sanford Airport for the operation," Polk said. "We used in-kind services — employees' salaries and other items — to match the federal money."

"After three years each one of the agencies in the state using the service paid a prorated share for the operating costs. In 1975, when the federal grant ran out and we couldn't come up with the money to keep the lab operating independently, we turned it over to the state," Polk said.

The sheriff said that when the lab was begun it was intended to serve a seven-county region. When the state took it over, it was serving 34 counties and "was and still is the only crime lab in the state to do toxicology."

He said that when the laboratory was operated locally employees worked weekends and nights — whenever it was necessary — to do the job, and with its location at the Sanford Airport law-enforcement people flew in to the airport to have their work done.

Polk said the proposed two-acre Lake Mary site off Interstate 4 is the best under consideration. "If a downtown Orlando site is approved, those using the lab will have parking problems and face traffic congestion," he said.

During the five years the lab was operated in Seminole County independently with federal and local assistance, more than $1 million was spent on equipping and manning the facility, plus local money. "The cities, including St. Augustine, Jacksonville and Palatka, chipped in with a pro-rated share of the cost," Polk said.

He said he plans to go to Tallahassee Dec. 14 with a Seminole County contingent led by industrialist Jeno Paulucci and including county commissioners and Lake Mary Mayor Walter Sorenson and other city officials to lobby the House Appropriations Committee on behalf of the Lake Mary site.

He said that at the Seminole County Police Chiefs meeting in early January he will call on other law-enforcement units in the county to get involved in the movement.

Meanwhile, the Lake Mary City Council on Thursday night unanimously approved an agreement with Paulucci to settle out of court their differences over the Rinehart Road property. The city purchased the 10-acre tract from Paulucci two years ago for $50,300 as a future site of a city government complex.

Under the agreement, the city recognizes the tract is to be used for governmental functions and gives Paulucci first choice on repurchasing the property at "market value" if the city decides to sell.

With approval of the agreement assured, Paulucci earlier this week began the move with state officials to have the Lake Mary site approved for the proposed new crime lab.

The County Commission unanimously adopted a resolution earlier this week supporting the Lake Mary site. The Council of Local Governments in Seminole County voted to support the plan Wednesday night.

CLEARING IT AWAY

Work crews have begun clearing the land for Casselberry's new $1,082,390 municipal complex, scheduled to be completed by Sept. 22. According to City Councilman Bill Grier, when the complex is completed "there will be no mortgage. It'll be paid in full." Financing for the two-story, 23,000-square-foot complex next to the present City Hall is provided solely by the city Finance Department which will, in turn, lease space for city use.

The proposed $1 million Feather Edge six-unit condominium complex and four single-family homes development on 10 acres off Rinehart Road at Sun Drive received site-plan approval from the Lake Mary City Council Thursday night.

Ed Koch, representing the Lake Mary Development Co., said construction is to begin in mid-January.

The development plan previously was approved by the city's Planning and Zoning Commission. The council approved the plans on a vote of 4 to 1. Only Councilman Ken King opposed the plan, citing his concern about drainage plans at the site.

In other business, the council unanimously adopted an ordinance amending the city's personnel policy after Police Officer David Higginbotham, four days before his resignation was to take effect Sept. 1, reportedly was involved in a shooting incident with a pair of assailants.

Higginbotham was hospitalized for several months as a result of his injuries and was released from the hospital in mid-November. While he was hospitalized, it was reported that while he was a police officer in charge of evidence for Lake Mary, guns in the department's evidence locker were sold. The council also approved a request from Al Wallace for a permit to create a six-acre borrow pit off Country Club Road near the Mayfair Country Club. Wallace said he will be removing 51,000 cubic yards of dirt from the pit, which is a dried-up lake bed, to create a pond.

While the borrow pit is in operation, the property is to be entirely fenced in. Wallace is to post a $10,000 bond before the city releases the permit.

The council tabled consideration of placing a charter amendment on the ballot to change the city election date from December to November until additional information on the cost of the proposal can be obtained.

City Attorney Gary Massey told the council to consider when the elected officials should take office if the election time is changed. He suggested they take office in December rather than in January, if elected in November.

He said that if the council approves the charter amendment by ordinance it will be placed on the ballot in the 1982 city election.

Massey was instructed to review Seminole county's development regulations as a guide to preparing a similar law for the city banning development on flood-prone property.

The Economy

Car Sales At Worst Level Since 1959

DETROIT (UPI) — Domestic auto sales in November were the lowest for the month since 1959, down 16.4 percent from a year ago, with one analyst blaming the drop on consumers' economic fears.

Ford suffered the biggest decline — a 20.2 percent drop — with General Motors falling 20.2 percent. Chrysler's sales were down 15 percent for the month but managed to keep its sales for the year up more than 14 percent above 1980.

Domestic automakers sold 431,726 cars in November, down from 529,288 a year ago. This was a daily rate of 17,968 cars — the lowest since the rate of 15,985 recorded in November 1959.

Overall, the industry recorded sales of 581,726 cars last month, down 16.4 percent from the 696,050 sold in 1980. The combined daily rate of 24,439 was the industry's lowest since 1974.

Imports grabbed a 25.6 percent share of the market.

A Ford analyst said the figures were better than expected but that customers were still too worried about their economic futures to make major investments such as car purchases.

In the final 10 days, 140,637 domestic autos were sold compared to 150,075 in the last third of November 1980 — a drop of 6.3 percent, far lower than the 30 percent decline recorded in the middle 10 days of the month.

Ten-day figures for foreign automakers were not available.

Total domestic sales to date were 5,848,276, down 3.9 percent from last year. Import sales through Nov. 30 were 2,414,340, up 10 percent from the 2,192,399 sold last year.

Chrysler continued its customer rebate program and posted the smallest sales drop of the Big Three automakers. General Motors Corp. and Ford Motor Co. ended their rebates during the month.

Chrysler managed to keep its sales for the year up 14.2 percent from a year ago, or 681,828 units versus 596,890.

But the struggling automaker saw its sales dip for the second straight month after posting sales gains in the first nine months of 1981. November Chrysler sales of 45,011 were down 15 percent from the 52,740 sold last year.

Ford sales were down 20.2 percent last month, dipping to 97,646 from 122,356 in 1980. The automaker sold 30,365 cars in the last 10 days of the month, down 14 percent from 35,498 sold in the final third of November 1980.

GM sales dipped 18.1 percent in November. The automaker sold 270,198 cars last month compared to 329,793 a year ago.

GM has already sold 3,578,026 autos this year, down 6.9 percent from the 3,844,478 sold in the first 11 months of 1980.

The industry giant offered no direct customer rebates during the month although dealers were offered incentives to get rid of 1981 X-cars. GM's 12.9 percent auto loan financing program expired Nov. 31.

American Motors Corp. recorded a 30 percent sales slide in November. AMC sold 9,448 cars down from 13,561 a year ago. Sales for AMC were down 10 percent in the last third of the month to 3,948 from 4,385 a year ago.

So far, the automaker has sold 128,941 autos, a drop of 8.9 percent from the 166,003 sold to date in 1980.

Volkswagen of America, Inc. sold 9,423 autos in November versus 10,383 in November, 1980 — a 13.1 percent drop.

In the final 10 days of the month, VW sold 4,031 autos — down 3.6 percent from the 4,137 sold in the last third of November, 1980. So far this year, the newest domestic automaker has sold 150,971 autos compared with 166,003 in 1980.

Unemployment Rises Again, To 8.4%

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Unemployment continued its rise in November to 8.4 percent, with more than 9 million Americans out of work and joblessness among teenagers reaching a record high, the government reported today.

The overall rate was the highest since the 1974-75 recession.

The Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said nearly all groups of workers were affected by the over-the-month increase, but the jump was especially large for workers in blue-collar occupations. The unemployment rate for adult men rose to 7.3 percent, just below the post World War II high.

The number of Americans classified as unemployed rose 485,000 during the month, most because of losing their jobs due to layoffs or other reasons.

The total number of unemployed people was listed at 9,004,000, not including about 1 million others that are considered "discouraged workers" — persons who have given up looking for a new job.

The rate increased 0.4 percentage points from October's 8 percent rate, continuing the surge upward since July when the rate stood at 7 percent. The number of persons unemployed has risen by 1.5 million since July.

For teenagers, the new figures were particularly depressing. November's 21.8 percent rate was the highest since the department began keeping monthly records in the mid-1940s. The previous high was 20.9 percent in June 1975. There were nearly 1.9 million teenagers, aged 16-19, out of work in November.

Nevertheless, the rate for black teenagers dropped slightly from October's 46.3 percent to 45 percent.

The new figures for November came a day after the department released data on persons receiving unemployment insurance benefits that also showed an increase.

Delusion On Neutrality

Thanks to the Communists' well-oiled propaganda apparatus and the confused, wishful thinking so widespread in Europe now, Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev arrived recently on a state visit to West Germany as a benevolent giver of peace.

Playing to the spreading pacifism in Europe, President Brezhnev promised the West Germans a few days ago that their country will be spared from a nuclear attack if they refuse to deploy U.S. medium-range missiles on their soil. And West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt, the pro-American strongman of Europe, recently sought to calm the rising missile controversy, which threatens his own political survival, by stating in a national television interview the Soviet Union could not be considered an enemy.

So, why should NATO deploy defensive nuclear missiles in Western Europe? This is precisely the seductive point being made by unilateral disarmers with such stunning effect as to win thousands of converts. The peace movement spreading through England, Germany, Holland, Italy, and elsewhere, including U.S. campuses, is a phenomenon. Skillfully spurred by Moscow's propaganda network, the movement includes disciplined Communist agitators, pacifists, idealists, fashionably leftist students, average citizens, and even the elderly who remember first-hand the horrors of two world wars. Massive peace demonstrations have been staged in nearly every major European city. Ironically, the U.S. missiles that exist only on blueprints are denounced as a greater menace to peace and survival than some 600 land-based nuclear missiles deployed by the Soviet Union and aimed at targets throughout Western European cities. President Reagan, not President Brezhnev, is held aloft in placard parades as the warmonger. At best, the United States and the Soviet Union are equated as co-villains threatening the peace of the world.

Such perverted reasoning bears out the contention of Leon Wieseltier of Harvard that neutrality is a "species of anti-Americanism" because it assumes that, as between the United States and the Soviet Union, it makes no difference who wins.

The result, as Dr. Wieseltier emphasizes, is that the neutralists, pacifists, and unilateral disarmers are, wittingly or not, instruments of Soviet foreign policy. And while these people assume a condescending attitude of moral superiority over the NATO defense concept, they actually indulge themselves in a cowardly retreat from reality as well as duty. The peace apostles do not enjoy spiritual superiority but suffer from a sort of spiritual fatigue induced by a long peace and a security safeguarded by the NATO alliance and the United States.

Chancellor Schmidt has assured the world that the demonstration of 250,000 peace marchers recently in Bonn did not reflect the views of the majority of West Germans, who, he said, still recognize that the new NATO missiles are the best insurance against war. Undoubtedly, this is true. But the peace movement appears to have a life and momentum on its own that, unless checked, can convulse the democratic processes in Western Europe and particularly in West Germany.

If the new Papandreu government of Greece, elected on an anti-NATO platform, should become the model of other European countries as a result of the peace movement, it could mean the end of NATO and a relatively defenseless continent. Even though the United States has recognized in two world wars that its security is inextricably involved with that of Europe, there are limits as to what this country can do to defend nations that refuse to be defended.

President Reagan's recent address on the nuclear arms issue, which was too long in coming, seems to have given some pause to the peace movement. We must hope the administration has now effectively joined the peace issue in Europe and will stay on the offensive in the struggle for the heart and mind of Europe.

By LEE DANCY

One of the most maligned animals on earth is the dachshund. The other day at a County Commission workshop I overheard Commissioner Barbara Christensen admit to owning one of these elongated, short-legged hound dogs. My ears immediately perked up.

"Oh, you have a dachshund?" I queried.

"Yes, I do," Mrs. Christensen smiled.

"We've had dachshunds in our family for as long as I can remember," I admitted proudly. "I think they're very bright animals."

Mrs. Christensen just gave me a slightly broader smile and nodded lightly. I knew immediately I had erred. Few people ever admit to a dachshund's resounding intelligence.

Many people won't even concede to the little squat-bodied animals' being dogs, let alone brilliant.

Mrs. Christensen ended our little conversation saying something about loving her dachshund very much. She refused to credit the dog with intelligence.

For the record, dachshunds are bright dogs. My dachshund, Pretzel, is a classic example of the breed's subtle brilliance.

When he was a puppy he saved my life. Pretzel knew those rubber Japanese sandals I bought were unsafe, so he quickly chewed them up before I could wear them.

I must admit I was peeved when I first caught sight of 56 little pieces of rubber strewn across my bedroom floor.

I forgave the little long-eared, sad-eyed fellow the next day. However, when I saw some poor slob yanked across a wet terrazzo floor by his idiot German shepherd. Zooooooo...CRASH!

The poor guy slid on those rubber thongs for 20 yards and crashed into a wall. His morose dog stood looking at the crumpled heap his master had been reduced to, and began barking.

Thanks, Pretzel.

Other people have told me dachshunds are useless; the best purpose they can serve is keeping your lap warm while watching TV.

Take this conversation as an example.

"Dancy, don't you know dachshunds are about as useless as any breed going?" my friend with the abrasive wit said to me one day.

"Useless!" I said with appropriate indignation. "Do you know what hunters use dachshunds for in Germany?"

"I don't know," he said. "Bait?"

The fact is, ladies and gentlemen, dachshunds were originally bred to hunt badgers, one of the meanest, most vicious little mammals on earth. A dachshund's shape comes from weasels who wanted a dog that could fit into a badger burrow.

Pretzel's father, Zapple, was bred in Germany specifically for badger hunting. Zapple had a tail nearly 1 1/2 inches in diameter at the base, specifically designed for use if the poor fellow found himself stuck in a badger burrow. All the hunter had to do was grab that thick little wagger and yank Zapple out of the burrow.

Pretzel is aging now; he is 14. Senility is not part of the plan, however. He has managed to secure a nice little bungalow on Fort Myers Beach as his retirement home.

My good-hearted, unassuming sister doesn't know how the dog has manipulated her into creating this ideal "dog retirement heaven."

Pretzel gets an abundance of love from my sister, has her trained to feed him every day at 3 p.m., gets her to bathe him twice a week and expects regular "doggie bags" with steak scraps from the restaurant where she works.

Pretzel's only responsibility is to let out a few authoritative barks when someone comes to the door. With a life like that, I wish I were as "dumb" as he is.

DON GRAFF Losing Numbers Game

It is not easy to take one plus one and still come out with just one, but Big Labor has done it.

At its recent national convention, the American Federation of Labor and Congress of Industrial Organizations doubled the representation of both women and blacks on its Executive Council.

It did it the easiest way — by selecting Barbara V. Hutchinson, vice president of the American Federation of Government Employees and black, to join the one woman and one black already on the 35-member body that calls the policy shots for the multimillion-member organization.

That may sound like playing a numbers game in response to longstanding pressure from minorities within the membership for greater representation at the top, but it is nevertheless thoroughly appropriate. For numbers tell much about the AFL-CIO today, 26 years after its two feuding houses became one.

In 1955, unions represented 25 percent of the total national labor force of close to 70 million. Of the total union membership of some 18 million, AFL-CIO affiliates accounted for 15 million.

Today, union membership is up to more than 22 million. But the labor force is up even more steeply — to 107 million — and organized labor's share is down. To 21 percent. AFL-CIO membership continues to hover around 15 million.

Instead of doubling its membership in short order, as ambitiously pledged by the late Walter Reuther of the United Auto Workers, the amalgamated federation has lost organizational ground in an expanding, rapidly changing economy and labor market.

That market shows a massive shift toward service, technical and professional occupations. It also has been characterized by the rapid growth of minority group employment and by the appearance of millions of women in jobs that were either male preserves or did not previously exist.

But for most of the past quarter of a century, the AFL-CIO has seemed to be only distantly aware of that shift, continuing to focus its organizing efforts on the old-line, blue-collar heavy industries and crafts that had been the origin of the union movement. Industries and crafts, however, that were of declining importance to the economy and where the work force was shrinking.

And among blue-collar workers, a minority — 39 percent — is currently unionized by Bureau of Labor Statistics' count.

Some organizational ground has been gained in two of the most important developing employment areas, education and government service. And it is noteworthy that new council member Hutchinson's government employees are right up there with the old-line auto workers and steelworkers among the AFL-CIO's largest affiliates today.

But Big Labor has done poorly in other vital areas such as the burgeoning high-technology industries that are already shaping the economy's future.

The numbers have been bad not only on the membership rolls but in the election returns.

The American Plan For The Middle East

WASHINGTON — The Reagan administration is publicly committed to the Camp David peace settlement in the Middle East. But privately, administration officials have reached a consensus that some modifications will have to be made after the scheduled return of the Sinai to Egypt in April.

The negotiations over autonomy for the West Bank are at a dead end. U.S. officials agree, though no one is willing to say so for the record. It is in this area of the Camp David accord that the toughest issues remain to be resolved, and Reagan's advisers have concluded that both sides will have to give a little before a lasting settlement can be made.

Both the death of Anwar Sadat and Israeli nervousness over Reagan's apparent desire to improve relations with so-called moderate Arab states have made it necessary for the administration to keep mum about its interest in new approaches. But U.S. planners have arrived at a general outline of the points they will bring to the negotiating table next spring.

The "American plan" contains elements of the "Saudi plan," which Israel rejects, as

ROBERT WAGMAN Japan's 'Mafia': U.S. Threat

LOS ANGELES (NEA) — Japanese crime families have been operating for some years in several West Coast cities, say state and federal law-enforcement officials. But now these families have begun to extend their activities outside the Asian-American community.

The law-enforcement officials (most of whom would talk on the record only if not quoted by name) say that the Japanese crime lords are becoming major underworld figures in Los Angeles, Las Vegas, San Francisco and San Diego.

What they consider even more ominous is the mounting evidence that these families have begun to channel millions of dollars in illegally derived funds into legitimate businesses and real estate.

The Japanese crime families — collectively known as the "yakuza" — are composed of fierce gangsters known for their tattooed bodies and their adherence to ancient Samurai-like behavior codes. Japanese officials estimate that some 2,500 yakuza organizations with a total membership in excess of 200,000 may be involved in drugs, gambling, extortion, loan sharking, prostitution and blackmail in their country.

Investigators here say that the yakuza are so numerous and so competitive in Japan that they have been virtually forced to expand outside their native country. Evidence indicates that members of several families began arriving in Hawaii and San Francisco in the mid-1960s.

Federal immigration agents and Japanese investigators have been able to identify at least 80 yakuza members who arrived in the United States just since the start of 1980. Many reportedly enter this country on short-term tourist visas and drop out of sight. Others carry visas that allow them to stay here for much longer periods as long as they are not involved in criminal activities.

Until recently, most of the yakuza activity on the mainland has been confined to the large Asian communities of San Francisco and Los Angeles. Reportedly the most active yakuza organization in California is one called Yamaguchi.

Investigators for the Western Regional Office of the Drug Enforcement Administration think that yakuza organizations and their associates have dominated many segments of illegal drug trafficking in Hawaii for years. This is especially true of the heroin traffic that originates in Southeast Asia; the yakuza control many of the sources of heroin in that region.

Organized-crime investigators from the Los Angeles Police Department say that the activities of the yakuza within the close-knit Asian-American communities mirror their activities in Japan. There the yakuza have been deeply involved in extortion, gambling and illegal narcotics.

Recently, however, investigators have obtained evidence that the Japanese crime families are becoming major factors in the illegal drug trade throughout the West Coast. The yakuza are also thought to have become involved in prostitution, illegal gambling and loan sharking in the non-Asian community.

Harvest And Cure Herbs Properly For Best Flavor

Herb gardening is becoming more and more popular among home gardeners and it's not too hard to see why. Most herbs do not take up much space, are fairly easy to grow and have few pest problems. I don't think that there is much confusion as to which herbs to select or their culture, but when it comes to harvesting and curing, well that's a different matter. As most of us know the seeds, leaves, flowering tops, and occasionally the roots of various herbs are used for flavoring. However, to receive the best flavor you must harvest and cure your herbs correctly. The flavor of an herb is primarily caused from a volatile or essential oil that is in the leaves, seeds and fruits. The flavor is retained longer if the herbs are harvested at the right time and properly cured and stored. The young, tender leaves of herbs can be gathered and used fresh at any time during the season, but for winter use they should be harvested when the plants begin to flower. After harvesting, dry the leaves quickly in a well-ventilated, darkened room. If the leaves are dirty or gritty, wash them in cold water and thoroughly drain before drying. Herbs with tender leaves — such as basil, rosemary, tarragon, lemon balm and the mints — have a high moisture content and must be dried rapidly and away from the light if they are to retain their green color. If they are dried too slowly, the leaves will turn dark and probably mold. The less succulent-leaf herbs — sage, rosemary, thyme and summer savory — contain less moisture and can be partially dried in the sun without affecting their color. However, very long exposures to the sun should be avoided. I would also suggest leaving a few plants of the annual herbs undisturbed to flower and mature seed for planting each season. Seed crops should be harvested when mature or when the color changes from green to brown or gray. After collecting the seeds, dry them completely before storing. This prevents loss of viability for planting and also prevents molding or loss of seed quality. After curing the seeds for several days in a dry, airy room, you might want to dry the seeds in the sun for a day or two to insure high-quality seeds. When the seeds of herbs are dry, you should clean them by separating them from stems and other foreign matter. Then pack them in suitable containers to prevent loss of essential oils that give herbs their special flavors. Glass, metal or cardboard containers that can be closed tightly will preserve odor and flavor. Glass jars make satisfactory containers, but they should be painted or stored in a dark room to prevent bleaching of the green leaves by light. Some of the best herbs to plant in the fall and winter months are sage, dill, coriander, anise, sweet marjoram, chives, thyme, rosemary and fennel.

Urban Horticulturist

Metta Mitchell, R.G. Schurdell Exchange Vows

Metta Annette Mitchell and Robert Gerard Schurdell were married Nov. 28, at 7 p.m., at St. Augustine Church, Casselberry. The Rev. Father John Deary performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Mitchell, Longwood. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Margaret Schurdell of Winter Park, and the late Mr. Walter Schurdell.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose for her vows a candlelight Georgette gown by Bainche, fashioned with a lace bodice and lace cuffs on the long sleeves. She carried a cascade of white roses and stephanotis with apricot accents to blend with the bridesmaids' attire. Shirley Conley attended the bride as maid of honor. She wore a mint green Qiana dress and carried a nosegay of Sonja roses with matching streamers.

Bridesmaids were Cathy Sippie, Donna Kern and Dawn Skinner. Their apricot gowns and flowers were similar to the honor attendant's.

Mike Kroger served the bridegroom as best man. Ushers were Jeff Lovell, Dee Kern and Jimmy Skinner. Flower girl was Leah Mitchell, niece of the bride. Ringbearer was Chris Truesdell, nephew of the bridegroom.

A reception followed in the church social hall. After a wedding trip to Daytona Beach and Georgia, the newlyweds will make their home in Winter Park.

The bride is secretary for Altamonte Eye Clinic, Altamonte Springs. The bridegroom is employed by Norton Tire Co., Orlando.

Oviedo Band Rated 'Tops'

Congratulations to the Oviedo High band on the superior rating received during the 1981 Florida Band Masters Association District 8 Marching Band contest.

The Oviedo Marching Lions participated with 24 other bands at Apopka High School on Nov. 21.

The band and dance corps units had to pass "muster" — military style inspection — with the judges looking for clean instruments, pressed uniforms, discipline and the general attitude of the band.

Then the band was judged on musical performance, marching ability and showmanship.

The Marching Lions are under the direction of Richard A. Feinberg and Ms. Connie Clark.

The Winter Springs Extension Homemakers will hold installation of officers at the Dec. 9 meeting, to be held at the Winter Springs Community Church on Wade Street, at 9:30 a.m. The new officers being installed are Mrs. Bernice

Bereaved (?) Widow Kicks Up Heels Night Of Funeral

DEAR ABBY: Recently my husband attended the funeral of a fellow Legionnaire. (I was informed that my presence wasn't necessary.) Services were at 2 p.m., and afterward the relatives and members of the Legion met at the Legion Hall for a supper with the widow and her two teen-aged children, which was all well and good, but then they proceeded to dance!

I don't know how many other members of the funeral party were dancing, but I am told it looked like some kind of celebration! Well, as luck would have it, my 19-year-old daughter and her boyfriend just happened to drop by the hall at 11:30 p.m., and the first thing my daughter saw was her father dancing with the bereaved (?) widow!

Abby, is this something new, that people have so little respect for the dead that they would bury a spouse in the afternoon and dance the same evening?

I am no prude or saint, but I can't imagine anyone doing this. I am ashamed of my husband for being a party to this disgraceful scene.

Please give your deep-down "put" feelings about this.

CONFUSED IN INDIANA DEAR CONFUSED: On the face of it, it would seem most inappropriate for mourners to dance only hours after burying a loved one. Your husband is the only one who knows what really occurred and why. I suggest you ask him for an explanation.

DEAR ABBY: I think this woman's lib thing has been carried too far. When I took my children (ages 2 and 3) to see Santa at our local department store, we found that was unreal.

What do you think?

HORRIFIED DEAR HORRIFIED: Traditionally, "Santa" is not a lady's bag.

DEAR ABBY: We have a beloved family member (I'll call her "Aunt Letty") who poses a rather sticky problem for us all. She's widowed, no longer young, but she's spry and good company.

Aunt Letty is adored by us all, but when she is invited to dinner, she always brings at least one person along — and very often two or three! She never rings up to ask, or even to tell us she's bringing someone — she just appears with her "guests." This, of course, creates problems with place settings and food portions for a planned dinner.

As a result, we have omitted Aunt Letty at times, but we always feel a touch guilty because she's such a dear. How is this best handled?

THE RELATIVES DEAR RELATIVES: Lovingly, of course. But in the future when she invites Aunt Letty, she should be given a stern warning that she is not to bring anyone along without first consulting her hostess.

DEAR ABBY: What is the difference between a psychiatrist and a psychologist?

KANSAS CITY QUESTION DEAR QUESTION: A psychiatrist is a medical doctor (physician) in addition to being trained to treat mental and emotional disorders. A psychologist is trained to treat mental and emotional problems, but is not a medical doctor.

Do you hate to write letters because you don't know what to say? Thank-you notes, sympathy letters, congratulations, how to decline and accept invitations and how to write an interesting letter are included in Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Send $2 and a long, stamped (37 cents), self-addressed envelope to: Abby, Letter Booklet, 12060 Hawthorne Blvd., Suite 5000, Hawthorne, Calif. 90250.

Trimble Shoots Down Lyman; Ovidio Wins; Rams Unbeaten

Lake Brantley's Linda Trimble tossed in 26 points Thursday night to pace the Lady Patriots past Lyman, 44-40, at Lyman High School. Brantley broke to a 21-12 first half lead and withstood 26 points by Greyhound sophomore Valerie Jackson to improve its record to 3-1. Lyman is 0-2. In junior varsity action, Brantley plastered Lyman, 42-14. In another county matchup, Ovidio evened its record at 2-2 by disposing of Lake Howell, 47-42. Fayette Robinson had 13 points for the Lions. Howell lost three players via foul. In junior varsity action, Bill Moore's Lake Mary Rams clubbed Daytona Beach Mainland, 53-22, at home Thursday night. Michelle Schwartz led the charge with 14 points for the Rams who remained unbeaten at 2-0. Lake Mary travels to Lake Howell tonight and Lyman Saturday.

'Smokeless Joe' Inhales Draw

CHICAGO (UPI)—Smokin' Joe Frazier, the fire having faded from his punches but not from his desire to regain the heavyweight title, says he is ready to continue his comeback with another fight in three or four months. But Frazier conceded he will have to go back to the drawing board to rethink his plans about regaining the championship after managing only a draw with Chicago journeyman Jumbo Cummings Thursday night. Frazier, ending a 5½-year retirement, looked out of shape in his return — but claimed he was encouraged by the results, adding he thought he should have won the 10-round fight.

Howell Honors Fall Athletes

Lake Howell High honored its Fall sports performers with an awards program recently. Award winners included Kerry Ryter (Most Outstanding) and Kathy Compton (Most Dependable) in girls cross country and Keith Compton (Most Improved) and Dan McDyer (Most Dependable) in boys cross country. In volleyball, senior Jane Yearick was Most Valuable and Dawn Crawford was Most Improved. In football, Jeff Hughes (Most Outstanding Receiver), Scott Grant (Most Outstanding Offensive Back), David Ornstein (Most Outstanding Offensive Lineman), Joe Hunt (Most Outstanding Defensive Back), Doug Fugleberg (Most Outstanding Linebacker) and Jim Cook (Most Outstanding Offensive Lineman) picked up the laurels.

'Old Men' Grey, Smith Pace Tribe Past Boone

By SAM COOK Herald Sports Editor Much has been made about the young Fighting Seminoles which adorn the Sanford basketball squad this year. Thursday night at the Tip-Off Classic at Winter Park, however, it was a couple of the "old men" which directed the Tribe past a Metro Conference team for the first time this year and into the consolation championship Saturday night at 6. Seniors Stuart Smith and Richard Grey combined for the guiding touch as Seminoles placed five players in double-figures en route to a 70-58 demolition of the Boone Braves.

Sanford will play the winner of tonight's game between Leesburg and Titusville. Colonial whipped Titusville, 52-44, and Evans clobbered the Yellow Jackets, 60-24. The two Thursday losers play at 6 p.m. In winners' bracket action, Winter Park and Blahop Moore go at it at 7:30 p.m., while the Grenadiers battle Metro rival Evans at 9 p.m. Titusville is a big, beefy club that had originally placed reservations for the 3A football playoffs tonight. Lake Wales, tough, knocked off the Terriers for the second time this year and sent them into a different game. They should have no trouble with Leesburg.

Anyway, Seminole will battle the survivor Saturday at 8 p.m. Sanford had dropped its first two games of the year the past two nights to Colonial and Winter Park. Veterans Smith and Grey, however, saw to it that there would be no Metro sweep Thursday night.

"Stuart rebounded better, scored better and hustled better," coach Bill Payne said about his 6-6 pivot man. Smith hauled in 14 rebounds and scored 12 points, including six straight free throws when the pressure was on. Mitchell, who was an overgrown Crooms ninth grader last year (See Crooms story, same page), hit four fielders and three free throws for his 11 points.

Sanford started slowly, hitting just 5-of-16 shots to fall behind, 17-12 at the quarter mark. In the second quarter, Mitchell and senior guard Marvin Butler cooked things up a little to pull the 'Noles within 32-31 at intermission. Mitchell hit for eight points as the Seminoles connected on 7-of-12 second period shots for an improving 13-of-27 (48 percent). Boone, meanwhile, went the other way. After 5-of-6, the Braves fell to 4-of-9 for a still good 9-of-15 (60 percent). The difference was at the foul line. Boone was 14-of-19. Sanford just 5-of-10.

The 14-5 bulge brought more than the customary moans from Payne during the first half, who on several occasions pointed out what he thought was the error in the officials' ways. "I wasn't yelling," he said defensively when questioned on the matter. "I was pleading. I don't know if it did any good or not. You'd like to think it would. They'd been to the foul line 10 times and we hadn't made a trip yet."

Whether it was a sympathetic officials' ear or not, the free throw shooting and foul trouble did even up in the second half — much to the chagrin of Boone's wily, veteran coach Wayne Rickman. "We had a good foul situation in the first half, but we didn't take advantage of it. We should have played smarter," said Rickman. "We got in foul trouble in the second half and kind of fell apart."

Boone's demise came at the 3:48 mark of the third quarter. Two Bryant free throws pulled Seminoles to 42-39. When the 6-1 junior missed his second attempt, though, there was Mitchell spearing the ball and dropping it back in for a 42-41 ball game.

Smith scored on a nice move to the basket the next time down the floor and the Tribe took a 43-42 edge it never relinquished. Vernon Law and threaded passes to blow up the bulge to 10 points. Law finished with six assists. Andy Hungerford was the only Brave in double-figures with 10 points.

Bryant added jumpers to make it 47-46 after three periods. In the final segment, the Braves turned the ball over seven times against a pesky Seminole press and Law found Grey, Smith, Bryant and Grey again with several well-

Seminole sophomore Willie Mitchell (no. 54) fired in two of his 11 points in the Tribe's victory over Boone last night. Sanford plays for the consolation championship in the Tipoff Classic at Winter Park Saturday at 6 p.m.

Hardy Hits 35, Lady Tribe Rips Oak Ridge

Tony Hardy poured in 35 points Thursday night to help Sanford's Lady Seminoles blast Oak Ridge, 93-52, and make a successful coaching debut for Ron Merthle at Orlando. Hardy, a 5-11 senior, dropped in 15 field goals and added 5-of-8 free throws for a career-high 35.

"She had a super night," Merthle said Friday morning. "She also played a very strong part on our press which allowed her to get a lot of layups." Oak Ridge pressed first, but the Seminoles broke it easily as senior Robin Higgins handed out five assists and Sabrina Melton three.

In the second period, Sanford went with its press and blew the game open, 46-23, at halftime.

Riggins added 12 points and six rebounds for a strong effort to complement Hardy. Sophomore Maxine Campbell popped in 11 points, while Dielre Hilliary and freshman Mona Benton each chipped in eight. Hilliary had a team-high seven rebounds.

Point guard Johnnie Bennett missed the game because she didn't have her physical completed, but Merthle said that will be taken care of today. The Seminole junior varsity lost, 63-39.

Monday, the Lady Seminoles are on the road again, playing Boone in a junior varsity and varsity game at 8:15 p.m.

Setup?

Panthers Pummel Yellow Jackets, 79-34

It may be tough to get Leesburg coach Tom Spradling back to Sanford to play the Crooms ninth grade Panthers. You see, Spradling had a little trouble believing Crooms was a ninth grade center. He took a look at the likes of Donald Grayson, James Rouse and Jo Jo McCloud and did a double take.

He had a little trouble believing the score, too. The Panthers ran Leesburg out of the gym, out of town and out of the county, 79-34, for their second win of the year against no losses Thursday night. "Yeah, that's right," confirmed Crooms coach Chris Marlette. "The guy (Spradling) got a little hot. He told our scorekeeper, 'he thought he'd been setup. There's no way these kids are in ninth grade'."

"I doubt if he'll come back." The way Crooms has played the last two nights, it's doubtful very many teams will want to come back. The Panthers have outscored the opposition, 144-57.

Thursday night, Crooms hit up the scoreboard for 23 points in each of the first two quarters en route to a 46-13 halftime bulge. Reserves filled the floor during the rest of the game. Rod Alexander had an excellent all-around night with a game-high 14 points and six assists. Rouse, a 6-0 leaper, collected six rebounds to go with his 12 points.

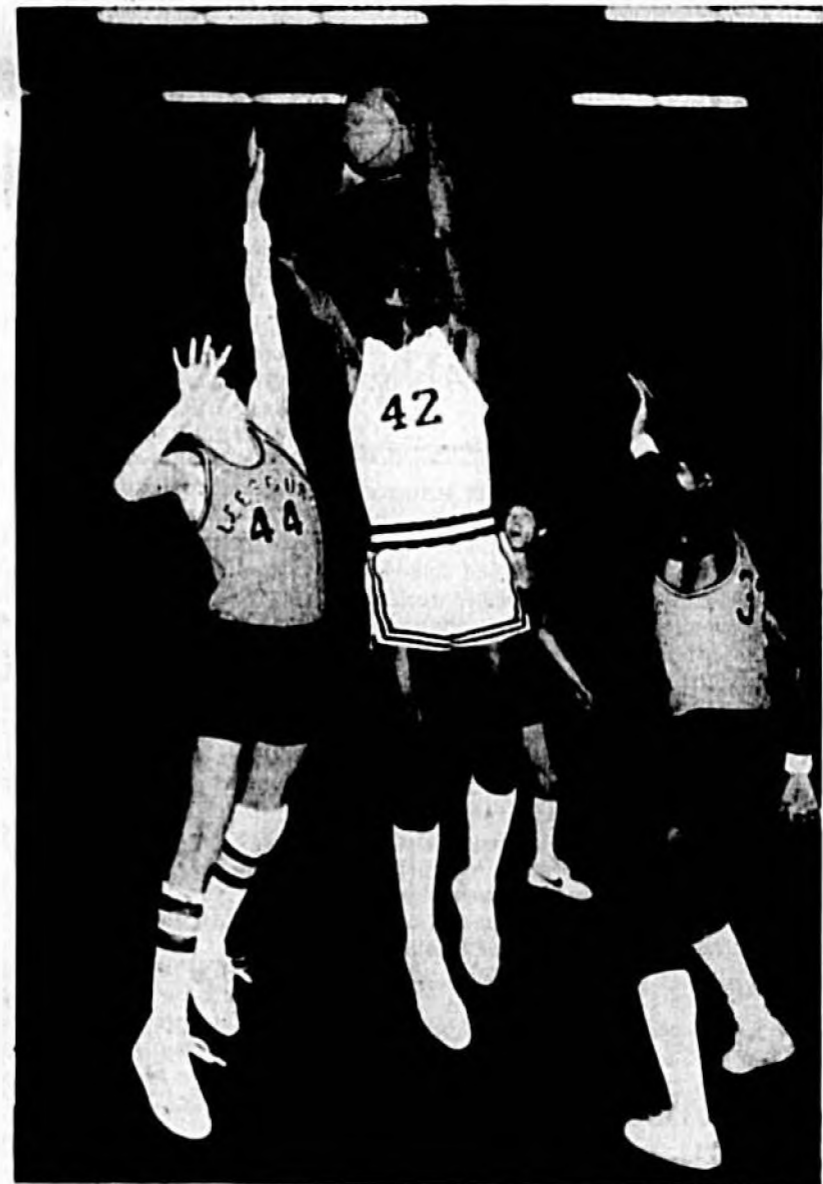

Grayson, a muscular forward, snatched eight boards and added seven points. McCloud fired in eight points coming off the bench and Michael Debose clutched six caroms and four points in less than a quarter's action. "Alexander had a real good game," lauded Marlette. "We pressed in the first quarter and it was all over after that. We cleared the bench and went man-to-man."

Darion McPhee and Fred Coleman led the Yellow Jackets with 12 and 10 points respectively. Monday, the Panthers take on Lake Mary at Seminole High School beginning at 6:30 p.m. The young Rams of Don Smith are 2-0 and captured the Lake Brantley Freshman Basketball Tournament last Tuesday.

Bass Fishing Tournament At Osteen

We didn't plan it this way, but the fishing is so good that Sunday the Osteen Bridge Fish Camp will have an "Open Bass Fishing Tournament." The tournament will be held at 2 p.m. It will be an open buddy tournament. Each person pays $12.50. There will be trophies for the biggest bass along with trophies for first, second and third place. After the trophies are paid for 90 percent of the money will go back to the winners. Fifty percent will go to the first place winner, 30 percent to the second place winner and 20 percent to the third place winner.

Fishing has been good for specks and blue gills underneath the bridge out here. Bass has been good in "Bass Alley" and "Brickyard Slough." Elsewhere in the area, Marina Isle's Sue Hill reports the specks are doing very well off the banks. At Black Hammock, Fran and Nancy say the specks are a little slow, but the catfish is very good. Any of the fish camps will be glad to give you a barometer on how the fish are doing. Just call Marina Isle (322-4788), Black Hammock (385-7186) or Osteen Bridge (322-3823) anytime for an honest appraisal.

Hunting has also been good at Osteen, but the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Committee makes a few points with this little story that everyone should follow. Here's what they have to say: On the first day hunting was allowed on wildlife management areas this year, a woodsman jumped from his vehicle in south Florida and the pistol he was carrying discharged, with the bullet hitting his leg. "It was another example of a moment of carelessness which can lead to injury or death," said Capt. Edwin Tyer, Sr., who heads up the Hunter Education Section of the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission's Office of Informational Services.

Tyer said that throughout last year's hunting season there were 29 firearm-related hunting accidents reported and investigated by the Commission.

Saltwater Aquarium

Your Own Piece Of The Sea

It's More Than Just
Some Fish And Water

By LEE DANCY
Herald Staff Writer

Owning a saltwater aquarium is similar to capturing the ecosystem of a coral reef in your home.

Ed Burke, owner of an aquarium shop in Casselberry, uses this analogy when talking about one of his favorite subjects — starting a saltwater aquarium. During the first four or five weeks, daily attention is required. But after the initiation, keeping a saltwater aquarium is no more work than a tank with freshwater, Burke says.

One of the crucial visual differences between saltwater and freshwater aquariums is color. Saltwater fish are vibrant — crimsons, blues, golds, greens, blacks and whites lunge against the retina of an observer as if the marine organisms were illuminated from within.

To develop your own slice of ocean life, the first thing you need, obviously, is a tank. Burke recommends a long, low one with a capacity of at least 30 gallons. Clean the tank with pure water and paper towels, never use detergents or window cleaner.

Next on the list is an undergravel filter system. This unit pulls water through the gravel to keep the fishes' fluid environment as clean as it would be were they swimming in the south Pacific.

A pump to run the filter system is also needed. A unit providing at least 100-hours-per-gallon output is necessary to ensure properly oxygenated water for the fish.

Another important part of the tank is the "gravel" used to cover the filtration system. Actually, it's not gravel at all, but either crushed coral, dolomite or both.

Burke recommends either all crushed coral, or a mixture of 33 percent dolomite on the bottom and 66 percent crushed coral above it. Rich Swartz, also the owner of an aquarium shop in Altamonte, recommends using only dolomite. He said dolomite maintains its PH level better.

Swartz's and Burke's shops are the only two pet stores in Seminole County dealing in saltwater aquariums. Both of the stores' proprietors recommend dealing with knowledgeable individuals using only the highest quality equipment and supplies when creating your aquarium.

Next on the list are good artificial sea salts for the aquarium water and a good hydrometer to keep tabs on the water's salinity. "Neutralized" decorations, such as coral, sea shells and plastic plants should be used.

When decorations are naturalized, they have no foreign substances on them which can pollute the water.

Other necessary equipment includes a good nitrite test kit and another to test the pH level, a heater if needed and a thermometer. The heater should not be the type which goes under the gravel because it interferes with the

Starting a saltwater aquarium requires patience, maintenance and high-quality equipment. Anyone interested in assembling their own marine environment will need at least $250 for all the components necessary for filtration system, Burke said.

Fish population in your tank is another important factor to consider. Burke uses a rough guideline of one three-inch fish per five gallons of water. If you have a 30 gallon tank, consequently, the "home" you create will only tolerate six small fish and fewer if you have larger ones.

Water to fish is the same as air to humans. If the water doesn't have the proper salinity, pH, oxygen and algae levels, fish may not be able to live in their man-made homes.

Consult a dealer knowledgeable in the proper levels of all these elements. Do not just introduce your fish to untested water, it could mean the loss of beautiful marine animals and the expense of replacing them.

a 55-gallon tank. Saltwater fish and other forms of aquatic life used in the aquariums are infinitely more colorful and diverse than freshwater species, experts say.

'Liz': Hatchet Job Or Biography?

By Richard Rothenstein

"If I had handed in this book as fiction," says Kitty Kelley, "I would never have sold it."

She is talking about her best-selling "Elizabeth Taylor: The Last Star" (Simon and Schuster), the unauthorized biography that chronicles the actress's 55 films, 32 operations, seven marriages, six divorces, four children and two Oscars. Not to mention her sexual appetite, suicide attempt, foul language, excessive drinking, jewelry fetish and — perhaps the most shocking vice — not cleaning up after her pets.

The book reads like an epic mini-series a la "Masada" or "Roots," but this time the heroine is contemporary and the setting is klieg-lit Hollywood.

From "National Velvet" to national institution, from "Virginia Woolf" to Virginia's senator, "Elizabeth Taylor: The Last Star" is chock full of gossip morsels. One reviewer called it "an assassination attempt." Tom Snyder on "The Tomorrow Show" wanted to know: How can anyone write a biography without actually speaking to the subject?

"Look," Miss Kelley says in her St. Regis Hotel suite during a recent visit to New York. "Is Liz going to tell me everything? Is she going to admit she had a love affair with Frank Sinatra? I'm always dubious of people who write their own memoirs, because they can edit. I'd much rather read an unauthorized biography. It's more honest."

Miss Kelley — who also wrote an unauthorized biography of Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis, "Jackie Oh!" — says that she began her research by reading 60 books and every article ever written about Miss Taylor.

She also watched all of the actress's films and conducted 400 interviews — with former co-stars (including Roddy McDowall), tutors, hairdressers, bodyguards and even the couple who met Miss Taylor and Nicky Hilton (husband No. 1) during their 1950 honeymoon on the Queen Mary.

The two-year coast-to-coast investigation proved to be much more difficult than researching "Jackie Oh!"

"Jackie didn't have the movie side to her," Miss Kelley explains while downing a room-service breakfast of Raisin Bran and fresh strawberries. "With Liz, it's a whole new cast for each film. And Jackie didn't have all those husbands."

Miss Kelley wrote 15 personal letters to the actress, explaining that she wanted to write "a wonderful book" that would be more meaningful if they could meet. Miss Taylor wrote back two months later: "What I have heard from acquaintances (not great friends) reveals you have been asking questions that I find very peculiar and personal. I see no way how your approach could be a meaningful book since substantial amounts of the alleged facts sound fabricated."

"When you write an unauthorized bio where the star won't talk to you," says Miss Kelley, "you try to use the two-source rule." In other words, the incident must be confirmed independently by two people.

How did the author unearth the affair that she says took place in the early '60s between Miss Taylor and syndicated columnist Max Lerner? Alice Everitt, a labor arbitrator in Washington, D.C., told Miss Kelley that she had heard the story years ago from Lerner.

The author swears that Lerner confirmed the story. There have been rumors that he is unhappy with the book and is planning to sue. That could be difficult, however, as the book was inspected by three sets of lawyers before publication.

B.J. Wilkins, an assistant at Chen Sam Associates (Miss Taylor's public relations firm), says: "Elizabeth is not taking it seriously. There's only one thing that's accurate in Kitty Kelley's book: Liz is the last star."

Miss Kelley's agent, Lucianne Goldberg, predicts that the book will make more than $2 million.

Does she have any guilt feelings about writing a book that is hurtful to Miss Taylor's reputation?

"Hurtful?" she asks, in wide-eyed mock surprise. "What could be hurtful? Lies are hurtful. Liz is a complex woman, and I show that. If you're writing about someone's life, you have to be honest and straight."

How would Miss Kelley feel if an author decided to write her unauthorized biography?

"It would be very dreary," she sighs.

Bill Murray Had Only One Role In 'Caddyshack'; The Fonz No Singer

Ask Dick Kleiner

By DICK KLEINER

DEAR DICK: Please settle a bet. My friend says that in the movie "Caddyshack," Bill Murray had only the one role of the gopher-crazy groundskeeper. However, I say that he had two roles — he was also the head of the caddies. Who is right? JAMES PAVLIK, Medway, Mass.

I was lucky and didn't see the movie, but the cast list has Murray playing only one part, Carl Spackler, the greenskeeper.

DEAR DICK: My brother and I are having an argument on who sings the theme song of "Happy Days." My brother says nobody on the show sings, but I say the Fonz is the lead singer. Could you please help us out? EVELYN LANGSTON, Trenton, N.J.

Your brother may be right. Or he may be wrong. But certainly you are wrong. The people at Paramount say the theme was recorded so long ago that they have forgotten who recorded it, and there are no records of it. It was, they think, just some studio singers, but it is possible some of the cast may have been there. But not Henry Winkler.

DEAR DICK: We are a group of retired women. We are four widows and we are anxious to know: Does Phil Donahue wear a wig? J.E. KENNER, Hopewell, N.J.

It's nice to know that you ladies turned to something important after you retired. This question has come up before, and when Jackie Cooper went on Phil's program, to promote the book he and I had written together, I commissioned him to make a study of the situation and report back. And he returned to state, quite baldly, that, no, Phil does not wear a wig. That, of course, is not the last word, merely the opinion of a close observer.

DEAR DICK: How are extras or walk-ons selected for a prime-time TV series? MRS. JOANN DONNER, Kalamazoo, Mich.

The usual procedure is that, the day before a scene is shot, the assistant director contacts the Screen Extras Guild and says he will need, say, a dozen extras of such-and-such type — maybe eight young men, a couple of young women and two kids. And the SEG sends them over. Sometimes, especially if they are filming on location, they will bypass the union and hire locally. If crowd scenes are needed, they may advertise. But nine times out of 10, it is done through the union.

DEAR DICK: I would like to know why Irlene is on the show with Barbara Mandrell if she is not a Mandrell.

The reason Barbara and Louise consider Irlene their sister is that they all had the same mother and father. Where did you get the whacky idea that Irlene was not a genuine Mandrell? She is every bit as Mandrellian as Barbara and Louise.

DEAR DICK: Could you please tell me what book the TV movie "The Two Worlds of Jenny Logan," was based on? MELISSA BURKEY, Scottsbluff, Neb.

That came from David Williams' novel "Second Sight."

DEAR DICK: Carole Landis. She was with Bob Hope in Lae, in New Guinea. What happened to her? I never did see or hear of her after that. VETERAN, Williamsport, Pa.

Carol was only 29 when she died, in 1949, which is probably why you never heard of her again. There was a lot of hullabaloo when she killed herself, on July 5 of that year, because the rumors were that it was because of her affair with Rex Harrison — who denied any love affair then.

Dickens' Readings

Charles Dickens' "A Christmas Carol" was as much a hit with its first publication at Christmas in 1848 as it is now.

An animated version of "A Christmas Carol" will be re-broadcast on the "Famous Classic Tales" series of specials, Sunday, Dec. 6 on CBS.

When Dickens first agreed to do public readings of his work he chose "A Christmas Carol" as his first selection. The hall was packed that night (Dec. 27, 1854) with 2,000 people who greeted the author's performance with tumultuous applause.

The public loved the readings. In 1866, when Dickens brought his readings to the United States, he opened in Boston with "A Christmas Carol." The night before the box office opened, a line formed that stretched half a mile by morning.

Anne Murray Is Home For The Holidays

By Peter Meade

Going home to family and friends is an important part of the holiday season and it is the theme of "Anne Murray's First Christmas Special," Wednesday, Dec. 9 on CBS.

Miss Murray will team with special guest star Kris Kristofferson on "Could I Have This Dance?" Holiday favorites from her recent "Christmas Wishes" album will be featured along with many of her past hits.

Anne Murray has always been a family-first person. The special, filmed entirely on location in the Canadian maritime province, features a reunion of the Murray clan — including her five brothers — at the Keltic Lodge on Prince Edward Island.

Growing up in a small Canadian coal-mining town, Miss Murray always competed with her brothers until she found the one thing she could do better than they — singing

"Songbird," her first hit, flew to the top of the charts over a decade ago. While occupying "one hit wonder" status, Miss Murray met singer Kenny Loggins as she prepared to do the zillionth "medley of my hit."

Loggins wrote the Grammy-winning "A Love Song" and "Danny's Song," which became her "middle career" hits. Miss Murray laughs when she says, "People listen to those songs now and say, 'That was you?'"

In her 1971 debut in Las Vegas she shocked audiences by appearing barefoot and in hot pants, performing with Glen Campbell. "When I first got into the business, I decided I'd try anything. I didn't think it made any difference what you looked like as long as you could sing."

Later she realized dressing up made her carry herself differently and be better received by the audience. "I enjoy Vegas now. It feels good to dress up and go out on stage."

The cover of her "Where do you dream?" album is uncharacteristically provocative. It features the singer dressed both as an angel and a devil.

Take 'Jessica Novak'...Please

By DAVID HANDLER

Why does a series get canceled? Take "Close Up: Jessica Novak." Please.

Comparisons between "Close Up: Jessica Novak" and "Lou Grant" are hard to avoid. Both are one-hour TV series about modern journalists. Both air out complex social issues for 50 minutes only to oversimplify them detestably in the final 10 as to milk a happy ending. Both are on CBS.

But there's one big difference. Like most long-term successes, "Lou Grant" makes up for its plot shortcomings by offering us a nice family of nicely played characters. "Jessica Novak" has no family. All it has is Jessica, which means it lives or dies on who plays her. Helen Shaver plays her. It dies.

Miss Shaver, the husky-voiced Canadian with the plowman's hands who starred last year in NBC's aborted adult comedy, "United States," just hasn't got the talent or the appeal to carry an hour show. What she is, is a capable, hard-working actress who happens to look and sound a little like Patricia Neal. What she isn't is a star.

So we're forced to pay more attention to what's going on than we would like to. "Close Up: Jessica Novak" turns out to be not so much an hour drama as a bunch of commercials strung together.

Jessalca's life as a feature reporter for a local TV station is modeled after the station break glimpses of reportorial life we get courtesy of Milky Way. You know the commercial — ace newshound dashes from one exciting event to the next, pauses only long enough to fortify himself from a desk drawer loaded with Milky Ways.

Jessalca's love life comes by way of Harvey's Bristol Cream. She's a liberated gal who isn't afraid to ask a handsome young lawyer over to her palatial pad for a drink, or to kiss him on the first date. "It's on the second and third dates that I play hard to get," she coos seductively.

Jessalca's personality is tailored by and for network promo spots. The line, "She's a reporter who leads with her heart" sets it up completely. Everything about Jessica is established in five seconds. Here's a typical exchange with her boss, Max Kenyon (David Spielberg), who we see occasionally in these short bursts. She: "You don't have a heart, Max. Just a miniature teletype machine inside your chest." He: "Don't try flattery." Good bit for a commercial, huh? Or how about this line: "Max, this is a chance to turn a statistic into a story." Human, huh?

Once you get past all this punchy commercialese, "Jessica Novak" turns out to have the same thing on its mind as "Quincy." The world, you see, is simply an awful place to live in. Nobody cares. Nobody will do anything — not the cops, not the government agencies. Only Jessica can save the world. Only Jessica has a conscience.

When, for instance, an unemployed, frustrated father grabs his two kids and holes up in a motel room with a shotgun, it is Jessica (not the entire SWAT team on the front lawn) who grabs the megaphone and asks to come in and talk to him (which she does, with a live mike in her lapel, so the story can go out on the air).
