U.S. Urges 4-Power Program To Keep Japanese Disarmed

Plan Calls For U. S., Britain, Russia And China To Sign 25-Year Agreement

WASHINGTON, June 21. (AP)—The United States is urging that a four-power commission be set up to prevent any revival of Japan's military power. Invitations to join in the plan have been extended to Britain, Russia, and China—and the word from London is that Britain warmly approves the idea, in principle. A Foreign Office spokesman said that Britain will have to consult with the dominion governments, especially Australia and New Zealand, before any decision is made.

Although it was not announced until today, the plan was put forward by Secretary of State Byrnes last April, in conjunction with his similar proposal for Germany. It calls for the United States, Britain, Russia and China to sign a treaty to keep Japan disarmed for at least 25 years. They would do it by creating a joint commission to keep a constant check on Japanese disarmament.

The treaty would not begin to operate until Japan has been completely disarmed and demilitarized by the occupying forces under General MacArthur. It would mean, in effect, that at the end of the mass occupation, the United States would give up its dominant role in Japan. Small forces of troops especially trained in disarmament control would take over.

Under the treaty, Japan's armed forces would be demilitarized and to have no weapons and no explosives, except those needed in industry. Neither could they have any military bases or war plants. If any violation should be discovered, the four powers would move in with the necessary forces to remedy the situation.

At the close of the period covered by the original treaty, the agreement could be renewed for 25 years more, if necessary. Any modifications to be made then would depend on the progress made by Japan toward a peaceful and democratic life.

MacArthur Urges Consideration Of New Constitution

TOKYO, June 21.—(AP)—General MacArthur told the Japanese Diet today the nation was confronted with one of the most vital moments in its life. The Supreme Commander urged the Diet, therefore, to give full consideration without political bias to the new "no war" constitution it is studying. The constitution renounces forever Japan's sovereign right to wage war, said MacArthur.

"It is for the people of Japan, acting through their duly elected representatives, to determine its form and contents—whether it be adopted, modified or rejected," MacArthur's formal statement was read to the Diet.

The Supreme Commander said last March when the constitution first was proposed that it had his full approval.

Tribunal Head Finds Jap Movie Not Convincing

Presiding Officer Halts Prosecution Showing of Film

TOKYO, June 21. (AP)—The presiding officer at the Tokyo war crimes trial has found a 12-year-old Japanese movie not very convincing evidence against high-ranking Japanese war lords. The picture had been exhibited by the prosecution as evidence of an early effort to spread military propaganda among the Japanese people.

One reel had been shown when the president of the international military tribunal, Sir William Webb, was ordered to halt the showing of the film.

The International Commission on the Spanish Problem, which is presiding over the trial, has found the movie not very convincing evidence against high-ranking Japanese war lords.

City Now Spraying In Negro Sections

City Sanitary Director E. H. Johnson announced this morning that the City truck and DDT spraying outfit is now progressing rapidly in spraying garbage cans in negro sections.

Much demand for new garbage cans is reported since the spraying crew went into action. Some persons have made the excuse that they were unable to secure garbage cans. One of the largest hardware stores in Sanford reported this morning that they had from 30 to 40 such cans in stock and that they had not been short of them at any time lately.

Union Official Proposes Unity Labor Movement

Says Congress Bent On Undermining Labor Organizations

TAMMINGTON, Pa., June 21. (AP)—An A. F. of L. union leader, Max Zaritsky, today proposed that President Truman call a unity labor conference. He suggested that representatives of the A. F. of L., C.I.O., the railroad brotherhoods and other rival labor groups be called together and compelled to unite in a movement to serve the best interests of the nation.

Zaritsky is president of the A. F. of L. Cutlers, Cap and Millinery Workers International Union. He made his remarks today in an address before the 12th annual Tammany Social and Economic Institute.

Zaritsky asked that labor leaders be summoned to Washington, that they be locked in a room and compelled to stay there until they can come out as a united labor movement.

Congress — said the labor leader — seems bent on undermining, if not destroying completely, any effective organization of the working people.

DIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY: THERE IS A CUMULATIVE QUALITY IN RIGHT LIVING. IT GROWS IN SPREADING. THE DAWN: The dawn of the righteous is as the changing light, that drenches more and more into the perfect day. Proverbs 5:18.

The General Federation of Women's Clubs asks continuation of wage ceilings and other controls. The trouble is wage controls were removed six months ago.

Both St. Petersburg newspapers severely condemn the action of the State Democratic Committee in moving to obtain control of the Democratic primaries, says the Tampa Tribune. So do most other Florida newspapers.

If the OPA's anti-hold-up laws Secretary of Wallace of the Commerce Department, the country is heading for a boom or a bust. In other words, business is either going to get better or it is going to get worse. A typical Wallace conclusion.

The advantages of Florida's three days cooling off period on marriage licenses, a law sponsored by Senator Boyle of Sanford, is admirably illustrated by yesterday's news that two sailors who were in New Orleans to find themselves married to two total strangers. Both the sailors were 19 years old and neither could tell which of the girls was his wife.

Dr. Swader, State Health Officer, denies there is any polio epidemic in Florida, and probably on a statistical basis he is right. However, there is a darn sight more polio in this state than we can comfortably read about at this time of year. Polio is a hot weather disease and the hot weather is just beginning. Unless we miss our guess, or unless the public is particularly carefully and co-operates better than ever before polio is going to be a mighty disagreeable subject before this summer is over.

The inability of many boys and girls to read plain English has caused doubt in the minds of many Florida parents about the job being done by the schools, writes J. A. Murray in the Tampa Tribune. And the director of elementary schools in Duval county adds, "We take the position that a child who can read well can master anything else in school time." But the inability to read is not all the fault of the schools. A large part of the blame rests with the parents, who allow their children to spend all their spare time listening to the radio or looking at the pictures in the comic magazines. You don't learn to read that way.

That's a hot idea of the Russians, who have been threatening and bullying every other nation in the world ever since the German menace was removed from their borders. They think that the proper solution for the atomic bomb problem is for the United States, the only nation which has any atomic bombs, to destroy all of them and to agree not to make any more. Well, they have a good precedent to go on. After the last war we took most of our warships out into the Atlantic and sank them as an example in our peaceful intentions toward other nations. But that didn't stop war. And we sure needed those warships after Pearl Harbor. We may yet need our atomic bombs.

The Louis-Corn fight reminds one of the first heavyweight championship bout after the first World War. It was held in Toledo during the summer of 1918 and saw the giant 6 foot 7 inch champion Willard hammered into a helpless pulp by a young dynamite-laden upstart who had gained a reputation as a slacker for working as a longshoreman during the war. People who saw the Louis-Corn bout think they were typed because the fight went only eight rounds and hardly a score of blows were struck. Some people thought the same thing after the Willard-Dempsey fight because, through a thousand blows were struck, Dempsey threw them all and the fight lasted less than three minutes.

The Supreme Court's Sad Plight

What happens when improper means are used to reach a desirable end is illustrated by the present political controversy raging within the membership of the Supreme Court of the United States and the low esteem into which that formerly august body has fallen in the public mind. Once considered high above party politics, the Court now finds itself a political tool of one party and divided within itself by petty bickering.

When President Roosevelt first moved into the White House he found himself supporting certain legislation, which however desirable in itself, was clearly against the Constitution, as that greatest of all world documents had been understood for 150 years. And since the Supreme Court, as it was then constituted, had no other alternative than to declare the legislation unconstitutional, President Roosevelt, in effect, fired the members of the Court, and appointed men who he thought would declare constitutional measures which were clearly unconstitutional.

But now, that the lack of wisdom in this policy is better understood by large numbers of people who see that un-American measures did not work for the betterment of America and are anxious for the laws of this country to stand upon firmer constitutional grounds, a movement is getting underway to "unpack the Supreme Court." One suggestion is to force the retirement of Justices Black and Jackson, who have been most recently involved in charges and counter-charges. Another proposes a constitutional amendment to limit the number of appointees by any one President to three and thus to force from the Court four of Roosevelt's appointments.

But two wrongs do not make a right. And it would be just as bad to "unpack" the Court now through political pressure as it was to pack it in the first place. If this point of view prevails and the Court is turned upside down every time a new administration is voted into office, or every time Congress or the administration does not like some decision of the Supreme Court, then that body will soon become a judicial Tammany Hall and the Constitution will have no more meaning than a party platform.

The damage to the Supreme Court has been done. The way to repair it is for Congress and the President, whoever he may be in the future, to leave it alone. Time is a great healer of all wounds and the Supreme Court will recover in public estimation if no new injuries are inflicted upon it. Resignation, retirement and death will gradually sweep the bench clean and as time goes on it should be possible to restore to it the prestige it enjoyed under John Jay, John Marshall and Charles Evans Hughes.

Accessible Learning

It is sometimes an advantage to have an uncommon name. The late Ernest Rhys, founder of "Everyman's Library," was a young English coal miner with an urge toward a literary career. He was starving in London when a publisher's representative called on him, having confused him with a noted historian, John Rhys. Once the contact was made, however, the young Ernest made such an impression on his caller that he got a place as one of the firm's editors. With that his success started.

"Everyman's Library" had the noble ambition of ultimately embodying all the world's good literature. By making this cheap and easy of access Rhys performed a service which will long outlast the personal memory of himself. His was the seed which has blossomed so profusely in this country into the innumerable "pocketbooks" to be found in drug stores, dime stores, railway stations and other places strange to the reader of a generation ago. "Everyman's" has become a word for standard literature in the inexpensive form. The pocketbooks go further—they print everything from poetry to science, from mystery to history.

He was shot by a patrolman. (Interaction)

DEER, DEER

KIRUNA, Sweden, (AP)—A Lapplander, whose people are accustomed to count their wealth in numbers of reindeer with the owner of a medium sized herd rated a rich man, made his first acquaintance with a bank. Having completed a large sale of reindeer meat he was given his money over the counter of a Kiruna bank. The cashier suggested that he deposit the large sum in the bank and draw interest. Learning that this would mean, in other words, that the bank would be borrowing his money, the Lapp asked: "How much interest do you have as security?"

GOOD SALES POINTS

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va. (AP)—A salesman's demonstration of a tear gas gun proved a "far cry" from what he had intended. With Sheriff Porter Richards he went outside the Marshall County court house for the test. The weapon was fired, the wind shifted and fear gas fumes swept through the court house. Red-eyed clerks, stenographers and other employees tearfully testified the gun was very effective.

WANTED: SPONSOR

BALTIMORE, (AP)—The sandwich men are in for some tough competition from the animal kingdom, says Felix A. Leiser, new director of the Druid Hill Park Zoo, who is busy telling advertisers that there is nothing like an endowed cage of lemons for sales promotion. Overstocked on lions, Leiser is determined to get a greater variety of animals. All the businessmen has to do is present the zoo with a pair of kinkajous and their cage will bear a plaque inscribed with whatever superior brand he sells. A dozen swans are being ordered by one company already, Leiser reports.

WRITE THIS DOWN

BALTIMORE, (AP)—The ancient Egyptians were troubled with baldness, too. Their prescription for falling hair, as quoted in a John Hopkins journal, was: "Toes of a dog, one part; ripe dates, one part; ass's hoof, one part. Boil carefully in a pan of oil and use to rub in." If that didn't help, they had an alternate remedy: "Equal parts of writing ink and cerebrospinal fluid."

SHEVEN PLUSH SHIX

JOHANNESBURG, (AP)—When a South African miner was arrested for driving a motor car while under the influence of liquor, the Rand district surgeon tried his own test for sobriety on the man asking him to add seven and six. He got 46. Told to add five and five, the man came up with 45. The magistrate then did some addition and made it $200 or six months.

The ancient Egyptian prices used blood baths to regain their youthful strength.

PORTLAND, Ore., (AP)—C. W. Johnston, Portland manufacturer, has started mass production of what he considers an "unswallowable" safety pin. It's really two pins, fettered together by a chain. M. M. Parrish, Director, Federal Housing Administration, announced the appointment of Mr. William F. Keehan as Assistant Director for the Jacksonville FHA Office, which serves the 53 north Florida counties, including the Tampa Receiving Office. Mr. Parrish states that due to the tremendous increase of work and responsibility placed upon the FHA organization by the Civilian Production Administration in handling all priority applications for home construction it was necessary to increase the members of his staff and to appoint an Assistant Director to enable the giving of increased service to the 53 counties served by the Jacksonville Insuring Office.

Plenty Of Produce Available To Meet County Food Needs

Seminole County residents will offset short supplies of meat, wheat, fats and oils by consuming nearly 12,000,000 pounds of the nation's bumper fresh fruit and vegetable crop to maintain high nutritional standards this year, it was predicted today by a leading food distributor.

"Fresh fruits and vegetables will adequately supplement the limited supply of meat and fats now available," said Harvey Baum, head of A & P Food Stores' produce-buying operations. "Increased use of perishable produce will permit shipment of other foods to those hunger-ridden nations now subsisting on daily rations ranging from 1,000 to 1,500 calories, as compared with an average of 3,300 calories for this country."

Part of the fresh fruits and vegetables consumed by Seminole residents comes from this county's 700-acre fruit and vegetable groves. Large amounts of perishables are received from other sections to meet the county's year-round needs. The development of more efficient distribution methods, Baum said, has helped double fresh fruit and vegetable consumption in the past 25 years and makes possible a greater selection of food necessary for a well-rounded diet and a higher standard of living.

Fred Vinson Sworn In As Chief Justice

Former Treasury Secretary Is 13th Supreme Court Head In History

WASHINGTON, June 24 (AP)—Former Treasury Secretary Fred M. Vinson became the 13th Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court today, at an impressive ceremony on the porch of the White House. The 56-year-old Kentuckian was flanked by members of the Supreme Court, congressional leaders and members of the cabinet, and thousands of spectators crowded the White House lawn.

In a brief address, President Truman expressed confidence that respect for the Supreme Court will be enhanced by Vinson's leadership. The casting of the ceremonial globe with the inscription, "one promising to uphold the constitution, the other promising to administer equal justice to rich and poor" were administered by Chief Justice Earl Warren.

Lawrence G. Brown, chief of the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, Vinson's former law partner, administered the oath.

A concluding prayer was offered by the Rev. Charles H. Johnson, pastor of the Episcopal Church of the Holy Trinity, and the singing of the Star Spangled Banner.

During his brief speech, President Truman made reference to the recent attacks by Supreme Court Justice Hugo Black, his colleague, Justice Black, he said, however, that he had labored long and faithfully in making his selection. His only regret, Mr. Truman said, was that by elevating Vinson to the Supreme Court bench, he was losing him from the cabinet.

Daniel G. Senkarik Is Discharged By United States Navy

A veteran of more than two years sea duty in the Atlantic aboard Admiral Ingersoll's flag gunboat Vixen, Daniel G. Senkarik, 21, 114 West Second Street, was discharged from the Navy at Jacksonville Naval Personnel Separation Center last Thursday.

Senkarik entered the Navy in November, 1941, just a few months after graduating from Seminole High School. He went aboard the Vixen for duty with Admiral Ingersoll, commander of the Atlantic Fleet, the following July.

In September, 1944, Senkarik was transferred to shore duty and reported to Kansas University for midshipman training. In the near future, the veteran plans to continue his studies at Kansas under the GI Bill of Rights.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Senkarik.

Bolls Returns From Northern Buying Trip

Fletcher E. Bolls of the Sanford Paint and Glass Company, returned Friday by plane from a buying trip to Pittsburgh, New York and Boston, where he sold shales of paint and glass are greater than during the past several years. He left Monday by plane from Orlando for his trip.

There seems to be lots of talk about the shortage of building materials, he declared, but they don't seem to take into consideration that it takes paint and glass to complete any building. The government does not seem to take this under consideration when they make their allotments of oils and pigments to the factories.

Mr. Bolls stated that about the only thing he found that could be bought in any quantity was in the entertainment field and that everybody who is traveling is trying to travel by plane if he can get on. However, the trains and buses are just as crowded, and all the hotels in the East are so crowded that they are sleeping people in the halls.

PURCELL RESIGNS

WASHINGTON, June 24 (AP)—President Truman today accepted the resignation of Ganson Purcell as chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission. The resignation will be effective on June 30. Purcell's resignation comes several days after the appointment of Edmond Hanrahan of New York for Purcell's unexpired term as a commission member. The Hanrahan nomination went to the Senate early this month under what the White House called a "misapprehension." It then was discovered that Purcell had not resigned and no S.E.C. vacancy existed. The White House said Purcell had indicated orally that he wanted to resign. The Hanrahan nomination later was withdrawn.

Heavy Rainfall Sunday Floods Streets, Farms

Downpour Is Reported By B. F. Whitner

Sanford and Seaside County had their heaviest rainfall yet today since the heavy downpour of last year which came on the same date, June 24, at the time of the hurricane when 8.51 inches of rain fell, causing extensive flooding of farms and streets.

The rainfall in Sanford yesterday totaled 5.25 inches, according to B. F. Whitner, weather man, and at the Central Florida Experiment Station, 4.65 inches of rain was recorded.

No particular damage to crops has been reported as the rain and tomato plants are about to start showing signs of rot and are not yet started.

Water washed over the gutters in the downtown section but no damage was reported to buildings. The water was quite a bit muddy on Eighth Street and Ponce de Leon, and on French Avenue and Laurel Avenue between Tenth and Thirteenth Street at San Juan street including Plunosa Drive, Melville, Avening, between Tenth and Twelfth Streets and other areas. Considerable churning and splashing accompanied the rain.

Rainfall in Sanford since the first of June has totaled 15.50 inches, according to Mr. Whitner. This is 4.25 inches above the normal of 11.25 inches. Temperatures for the first three weeks of the month have been right under the normal, with the highest about 75 degrees, but on June 1, June, the thermometer shot up to 102 degrees. This year there have not been so many days in the nineties as during last June.
