LINOTYPE EQUIPMENT FOR HERALD

HERALD PRINTING COMPANY GETTING READY FOR BIG BUSINESS.

The Herald is making great preparations for the daily and for every department of the business during the coming season, for we expect this city to grow as never before during the next five years and when we have 10,000 people here The Herald expects to be the best daily in this part of the state.

In keeping with this idea we have installed one of the latest quick-change Model 5 Linotypes. This will give our office quick service and more type and be of great benefit along every line. The monotype machines will be sold and later on a Model 14 Linotype will be added to our equipment making this office complete in every detail for the taking care of the great volume of business that is coming to our door every day. We want to give the people of this section of the state the best weekly, the best daily and the best service in job printing that it is possible to give and many changes will be made in The Herald office during the summer months.

H. A. Neel, that veteran newspaperman and all-around printer, has come to us as foreman from the Paragon Press and to demonstrate his versatility we have only to say that along with his duties at the Paragon he is setting time on the linotype, getting the job work, has charge of The Herald office, and if there are any other jobs loose he will have them before another week is over.

Nothing will be left undone to make The Herald office complete in every department and "service" will be the slogan for all to follow. It will take several weeks to get our equipment in shape and get the men in their places, but after that we expect to never have any more delays of any kind and The Herald and the job printing department will be up to the minute in every particular.

We could not get going good this week, as the linotype had to be set up and adjusted and there were delays of all sorts, but in the future we hope to have the paper filled with all the news and have it to the subscribers promptly.

DEATH OF N. J. STENSTROM.

N. J. Stenstrom passed away at his home on Eleventh street in this city Sunday morning after an illness of several months.

Of robust frame and having lived out of doors most of his life, Mr. Stenstrom hardly knew that sickness meant until a few months ago when he began to decline, and at his age but little hope could be held out by his physicians and, although knowing that he had but a short time to live, he was ready and willing to meet whatever awaited him in the Great Beyond, being fortified by his strong faith in the religion of Jesus Christ, and having lived an exemplary life, surrounded by his family, until the time of his death. Everything that loving hands could do softened the blow when the summons came and he passed away peacefully and contented as he had lived.

Mr. Stenstrom was born in Stockholm, Sweden, October 22, 1847, coming to America in 1875 and a short time later being engaged in orange growing and gardening, occupations which he followed up to a few years ago, when he retired from active life.

He was married to Miss Josephine Jacobs, of Topeka, Kansas, in 1877, and from this union ten children were born, among those living being Mrs. N. R. Reynolds of Tampa, R. R. Stenstrom of Buford, S. C., Leon W. Stenstrom of Zellwood, Mrs. Edward K. Rocky of Jacksonville and Oren S. Stenstrom and Miss Avis Stenstrom of this city. His devoted wife passed away several years ago and husband and father goes to join her in the realms above after a life well spent.

The funeral occurred from the late residence at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon, Dr. Walker, of the Methodist church, officiating and interment was made in Lakewood cemetery. A large concourse of friends and relatives followed the remains to the cemetery, where the beautiful floral offerings at the death of the deceased was held in this community. The sympathy of many friends go out to the family in their bereavement.

CARD OF THANKS.

We wish to express our heartfelt thanks to our friends for their kindness and sympathy during the illness and death of our father, Mr. N. J. Stenstrom, which occurred on the morning of August 1. Also for the many beautiful floral offerings.

The Family.

Miss Bonnie Mae Kinlar spent Sunday at the beach with friends.

The Wonderful St. Johns River

One of the greatest assets of Sanford is the St. Johns river and Lake Monroe at the head of navigation on the St. Johns river. The Clyde Line is running summer excursions from Jacksonville to Sanford and the rate is so attractive that many people are taking their week-end outings via the beautiful St. Johns river from Jacksonville to Sanford. The boat leaves Jacksonville Saturday afternoon about 4 o'clock, arriving in this city about 11 Sunday, staying here one hour and giving the excursions about one hour to get off the boat and ride or walk about the city, viewing the immense fields where the celery and lettuce and other winter vegetables are grown and where there are more vegetables shipped than from any other point in the South. The above picture gives a partial view of Lake Monroe in the background and the Clyde Line-steamers, Ocala, coming into the docks at Sanford with the many passengers and freight on board.

The people of America are just now engaged in figuring the costs of transportation and freight rates and with the present rate that is expected they will turn more and more to the cities that have river transportation and the government will begin operations along the water routes in dredging and filling and making navigable all the available streams in this country. By the competition of water rates only any relief from the excessive freight rates be obtained, and on this score Sanford, among other river cities, is coming into the public notice for investors and manufacturers and big business of all kinds, for it will be the cities with water transportation that will be built up in the next ten years.

It behooves the Board of Trade and every citizen of Sanford to help along this great work in widening and deepening the channel in the St. Johns river and make it the great inland water way through this great fertile and prosperous section of Florida. Every bit of work done in this direction is work that will mean a greater as it should have been although C. R. Walker, E. T. Woodruff and many other members of the Waterways Committee of the Board of Trade worked unceasingly to make the St. Johns river the real artery of trade and travel but the need of cheaper and better transportation will call official notice to our river now, the tourists will demand boat basins here and quarters for their boats and crews, the business men who are seeking locations will demand deeper water and ware houses, the visitors will demand a large tourist hotel on the lake front and having such a location puts Sanford away ahead of those less fortunate cities that are marooned inland with no chance for water rates. But this lake and river must be supplemented by the hand of man and man must do his part in making it what it should be, the end of the rainbow with the pot of gold and all the other big things in store for the traveler who makes this wonderful trip for either business or pleasure.

For years this great asset of Sanford languished and was never boosted

COUNTY TO RAISE THE VALUATIONS

FLAT INCREASE OF 10 PER CENT MADE TO MEET HIGHER COSTS.

Everything is going up and nothing is coming down and along with the high price of automobiles and grates our taxes are bound to be raised. The city and the county cannot be operated upon the same basis as formerly; for it costs more to make improvements and keep the various offices than it did formerly. Labor and materials are higher and it is a clear case of raising the ante all along the line. The county commissioners find they cannot operate the county on the same valuations as formerly, for they must have more money and have raised the valuations on a flat increase of ten per cent. They set forth this fact in the following explanation to the public:

We, the undersigned, the County Commissioners of Seminole County, Florida, and the Tax Assessor of the County of Seminole, take this method of explaining to the tax payers of this county the flat increase of ten per cent of the assessed valuation of all taxable property in this county as appears on the assessment roll for 1920. We found that the business of the county could no longer be run on the old assessed valuations. The cost of everything has increased, and notwithstanding abnormal conditions we have struggled along during the past several years without any increase in the assessed value of property in this county. Finding it no longer possible to finance the county's business, after deliberate consideration, we concluded that the only thing that could be done by us would be to slightly increase as a whole the assessed value of all taxable property in this county, which we have done to the extent of ten per cent.

We hope that the general public will appreciate the position in which we, as public servants, are placed, and will not condemn us for what by necessity we have been compelled to do.

E. H. Kilbee,

Tax Assessor.

EX-GOV. HANLEY KILLED

Well Known Prohibitionist Killed in Auto Accident.

Dennison, Ohio, Aug. 2.—The body of J. Frank Hanley, former governor of Indiana, killed in an automobile accident yesterday, was taken to Indianapolis today.

Hundreds of Sanford people will be shocked to learn of the death of Ex-Governor Hanley who was killed last night in an automobile accident at Dennison, Ohio, when a train struck the automobile in which he was riding. Gov. Hanley had lectured here several times as member of the Flying Squadron, and this section mourns with hundreds of other communities in the death of this splendid man. Of this accident, a dispatch in the morning papers, sent from Dennison, Ohio, says:

J. Frank Hanley, former governor of Indiana and candidate for president on the Prohibition ticket in 1912, and Dr. and Mrs. C. M. Baker of Kilgore, O., were killed six miles from here early today when a Pennsylvania freight train struck the automobile in which the party were driving to Kilgore.

All three suffered fractured skulls and crushed bodies and neither recovered consciousness after being brought to a local hospital. Mr. Hanley died at 9 a. m. Mrs. Baker at 11:30 and her husband at 5:30 p. m.

Dr. and Mrs. Baker had met Mr. Hanley in Dennison at 6:45 o'clock this morning and were driving him to their home in Kilgore, twenty miles from here.

The automobile drove across the Pennsylvania tracks back of one freight train and directly in front of another. The automobile was struck squarely.

Mr. Hanley was enroute to Carrollton, where he was to have delivered an address tomorrow. He had intended spending the day with the Bakers at their home in Kilgore.

the purchase price demandd. George E. Herring, of the local bar and Cooper & Cooper of Jacksonville, represented the complainant, J. P. Felt, and Massey & Warlow, of Orlando, represented the defendant, Chas. H. Morse.

The case was argued in Orlando in December, 1917, by Judge Herring (who was home on a 10 days leave) and Mr. Osborne, (as representative of Cooper & Cooper) for the complainant, and by Massey & Warlow for defendant. Judge Perkins in June 1918, decided the case for defendant. An appeal was taken to the Supreme Court by Felt, and the judgment of the Circuit Court reversed.

COUNTRY'S COMMERCE INVOLVED

INCREASE EFFECTIVE SEPTEMBER 1 AND WORK ON RATES STARTED

Washington, August 2.—Reasons explaining an increase of interstate rates are very persuasive of the need for increase in intrastate rates, declared a report sent to the various railway commissions today by the three representatives of these commissions who sat with the interstate commerce commission during the hearings of a billion and a half dollar rate increase.

"When all matters are considered," says the report, "and remembering that 13 men are considering controverted questions and proposed changes we give this decision our approval."

"The increased rates permitted under the ruling in ex parte 74 probably go into effect September 1, 1920. The operating revenues of the railroads under present rates and conditions are recognized by all persons as insufficient. A part of the increase made in intrastate rates should if possible be made effective September 1, 1920 also."

"The report is signed by Wm. D. B. Aimey, chairman of the public service commission, of Pennsylvania; Royal C. Dunn, of the Florida Railway commission, and John A. Guyher, of the Iowa Railway commission.

"We participated in the conference of the commission," the state commissioner's report declares, "being invited in the same manner as members of the commission and were invited by them to take part in the discussions and express our views with full freedom. The members of the commission gave to the case intense and efficient application, examining and discussing it with the evident desire to reach correct conclusions and apply the increase in such manner as to deal justly with the whole country. The questions presented were very numerous, involving the commerce of the whole country, many of these questions being of complex character. Any decision of the case looking to the observance of the statute affects in some way every rate now effective.

"Speaking generally, every controverted question concerning all classes and commodities and all rates, rules and practices of rail carriers and all the theories of shippers and carriers were presented and urged in the testimony and in argument before the commission and given careful consideration in conference.

"The commission were not of one mind on all questions and in conclusion many cases were those of recognition that each must make some surrender before an agreement could be reached. In some instances the conclusion of the majority in the view expressed in the ruling. On some of the questions our views were not in full accord with the majority and in some instances we three state commissioners did not have unity of view."

Jacksonville, August 2.—The Florida railroad commission today announced that it had set August 18 to hear the application of railroads operating in this state for increase in intrastate rates to conform with the increases announced Saturday by the interstate transportation charges.

The hearing will be held at Tallahassee and will bring together representatives of every steam railroad in the state. Representatives of the public also are invited to be present.

BOARD OF TRADE BANQUET.

The next monthly meeting and banquet of the Board of Trade will be held at the Valdez Hotel at eight o'clock on the night of Thursday, August 12. The banquet will start promptly at eight and every one should be there at that time. Many matters of interest to the community at large will be taken up at this meeting and every member and every man who wants to become a member should be at his place at the table.

Tickets for the banquet are now on sale at the three banks, the First National, the Semieale and the Peoples bank and you can get them early and avoid being left out.

YOWELL MAKING IMPROVEMENTS

Putting in Elevator for Second Floor of the Big Store.

Arthur Yowell, of Yowell & Co., is a busy man these days getting the second floor of the Yowell building ready for the departments that will be placed in this new annex to the big store.

All the office rooms of the second floor are being torn out and the elevator is here ready to be installed that will carry the customers to the second floor and, as Arthur remarks, he hopes it will soon carry them to the third floor that will have to be added ere long. The second floor, which made ready, will contain the ladies' ready-to-wear and the corset department of the Yowell store and this new department will give this excellent store all the facilities needed to make it one of the largest stores in this vicinity.

The gallery that now contains the ready-to-wear on the first floor will be given over to the Victrola and record department of the store, this move being necessary by this constantly growing business. Mr. Yowell and Manager Harvar are having all the details of the big store worked out and all the latest wrinkles in store equipment and decorations will be placed in the new department, giving the buying public the best possible service at all times.

Yowell & Co. believe in advertising down to the last letter and as usual will keep the daily and weekly Herald filled with store news during the winter season.

WELAKA APARTMENTS GETTING FURNITURE

Welaka Apartments are now receiving the finishing touches and the furniture is arriving daily, and the apartments will be ready for occupancy about the 1st of September if possible, as many of them have been rented for that date.

The new furniture is the best of the kind that can be purchased, being of the most serviceable and that will take the least space. These splendid apartments, when ready, will be the best of the kind in the state and under the competent management of Mrs. W. E. Watson should prove the most attractive and home-like.

SUPREME COURT DECISION

THAT EFFECTS CONSIDERABLE VALUABLE PROPERTY IN THIS SECTION

The Supreme Court has just returned to the Clerk of Seminole county its mandate and decision in the case of Felt vs. Morse.

This is a very sweeping decision and sustains the decision of counsel for the complainant, J. P. Felt, throughout.

The case grew out of a sale of an orange grove at Paola, Seminole county, in 1916 by A. P. Connelly, representing as agent Mr. Felt to Chas. H. Morse, of Fairbanks & Morse.

The grove was sold to Morse the latter part of December, 1916, for the sum of $28,000.00, and Morse took possession the first of January, 1917. After some delay in procuring quit claim deeds to cure two defectively acknowledged deeds, Felt tendered deed March 1st, 1917, and Morse declined to accept the deed, and attempted to rescind the contract. In the meantime, in February, 1917, the heavy frost had done very serious damage to the grove.

The evidence showed that the two objections to the title made by counsel for Morse were not vital defects; that Felt had proceeded, with the knowledge and consent of Morse, had, without any previous notice to Felt, attempted to repudiate and rescind the contract, because of a hard freeze and on account of the delay on the part of Felt in curing the defects in the title.

The court holds that the damage to the grove on account of the freeze was a risk that Morse assumed when he purchased it; that it was a matter of common knowledge that orange groves were damaged by a hard frost; that Felt had fully complied with his contract on March 1st when the deed was tendered to Morse and

BALKY JUROR THRASHED

Man Who Refused to Convict Negro Slayer Whipped and Ducked.

When a dissenting juror refused to agree to the verdict of guilty in the trial of Monroe, La., of Alvin Calloun, negro, following the murder of N. H. Arnold at Tallulah, La., he was publicly whipped and then dipped in a mud hole.

When the jury returned to its quarters in the courthouse, escorting the unconvicted dissenting juror, a verdict of guilty was agreed upon. It is said that the dissenting juror was later visited upon by a committee and ordered to leave Tallulah.

Calloun expressed the number of verdicts amounting to twenty verdicts.

Probably First Moving Pictures.

America is not the original home of the moving picture. This assumption is disproved by an apparatus of ancient Chinese civilization recently discovered. The apparatus consists of a number of ancient movie machines unearthed at the National museum in New York, where they had been hidden away in boxes since their presentation to this country by the king of Siam in 1875.

The cinematic art as practiced hundreds of years ago in Siam was carried on as follows: The proper number of figures, designed from leather by hand, were mounted on rods and projected on the screen by the hand of the operator. The screen was a white cloth hung between the audience and the light. The shadows were manipulated by the operator's pushing the tankins along in a trough. As action advanced through climax and anti-climax, the operator recited in a singsong voice five-reel dramas of the love and wrongs of the kings and queens represented.

Sports Among Citizen Soldiers.

Australia's cadets, the citizen soldiers who are trained under her compulsory home defense system, have a warm-hearted friend in Brigadier General Brand, state commandant and one of the most distinguished Australian leaders in the late war. General Brand recognizes that routine is tiresome and he is popularizing senior cadet work by combining with P. sports programs whereby the keenest rivalry in athletics will be encouraged throughout Victoria. General Brand's scheme has been enthusiastically welcomed by the boys and by citizens' committees, who have joined heartily in the sporting competitions between battalions, brigades and training areas. This new way of making soldiers means the introduction of a common interest among the units, skill, discipline and clean rivalry.

Belgrade Hit Hard by War.

Belgrade, the capital of Serbia and Jugo Slavia, is now a mere shell of its former self. The Serbs used to be remarkably proud of their metropolis. Did they not possess a city with first-class hotels, electric cars, a boulevard, good shops and all other modern conveniences, not to mention a profusion of the coffee houses and gardens so dear to the heart of the Serb?

The coffee houses of Belgrade are more of an institution than the tavern ever was in London. A cupful of black coffee in a public garden, a military band playing the weird Slavic songs, and the young people dancing the old folk dances on the grass—these represent the height of contentment to the Serb after a day's work.

FOUND CARDS WERE MARKED

Revelations That Came as a Shock to Wounded Soldiers in Hospital at Washington.

Here is a melancholy story about "markers."

"Markers are marked playing cards so that he who plays may read the backs of the cards. Wounded soldiers under treatment in the Walter Reed hospital in Washington play cards continually. They use decks which are given to the hospital, not new decks, but those which have been used once by Washington clubs, especially bridge-club whist clubs of women in society.

Keen-eyed soldiers, as the story now goes, were surprised to discover one day that some of the cards were marked by small knife point indentations on the border of the back. The marking was not accidental.

Scrutiny showed that the high cards—eight spot up to ace—were carefully marked. The marks were so faint as to be almost imperceptible, but the person familiar with them could read the backs.

Immediately there was a search for the card marker, for the soldiers may gamble a bit now and then—legally they don't, but actually they do—well, it's nobody's business if one wounded back private wishes to wager another wounded back private that his five cards beat another chap's five cards.

Anyhow, if somebody was marking cards in the hospital the boys wished to talk to him. But investigation revealed—and this is where the hospital soldiers were shocked—that whatever marking was done took place before the cards arrived at the hospital. Not all decks were marked, only a deck now and then.

The inference seems to be that somebody in Washington club life, woman's club life at that, is graciously giving the wounded soldiers once used card decks which have somehow been knife-pointed. The war veterans say that they have been shell shocked and otherwise startled, but they are vastly amazed at a phase of society life in Washington.

Thrift in France.

The Scots and the French had better look to their laurels as saving peoples. Chile bids fair to rival them. During the last ten years savings institutions have risen considerably in number. In 1910 there existed in the entire country but a dozen independent institutions carrying the accounts of some 200,000 persons; their complete savings amounted to only $1,000,000 in American money. In 1917 deposits rose to 10,000,000 Chilean pesos, which would equal about one-fourth as many American dollars. To this, in the year 1918, were added 50,000,000 more Chilean pesos. The nation has encouraged savings, through stamps and other substantial inducements. Incidentally it is worth while noting that lotteries are not permitted in Chile, since there they believe in getting rich slowly and surely.

Sounded Like a Curse.

A spinster of about forty years or a bit more recently had a house to rent. Now her last tenant had three healthy American sons and they had done a great deal of damage to the house so she had firmly declared that she would tolerate no children this time. So when a man responded to her advertisement, she asked him whether he had any children. "Seven," he returned and then went on to tell how good they were.

But the spinster informed him that she would not rent her house to a family in which there were so many children. Angriely the man turned away, but returned over his shoulder: "I only hope some day you'll have seven children. Indly, and can't find a house, either."—Indianapolis News.

Humor in a Bank.

The first day I worked in the bank in which I am employed I was given a sealed package marked "$10,000 in gold," which was in the form of a brick. I presented it to the downtown bank for payment and was sent from one teller to the other, each one keeping his discovery to himself, until I got sore because of the fact that they had me going around in a circle and discovered I was the goat.

I might add that it was not a gold brick—it was a red one. C. B.

Snake Charmer's Fake.

Ignorant people in India, are easily duped by the tricks of snake charmers, says the Detroit News. One of the fakes practiced is the putting of a harmless snake in a stupefied condition in a house. The people in the house are told of the presence of a snake by the snake charmer's companion, thus causing alarm. The charmer, who asks money to remove the reptile, begins to play on his bagpipes, whereupon the snake begins to crawl into the middle of the room, and the charmer catches it. It is catching the reptile the charmer says he has bitten and falls senseless. His examination comes forward and puts a snake stone on an incision previously made for the purpose on the man's finger. The snake charmer recovers, gets up to the astonishment of his audience and receives a big present, finally departing with the snake and the profit he has made.

Devilish Ugly Customer.

There are plenty of monsters in the sea, such as the giant devilfish, or manfish, which grows to be over 20 feet between the tips of its great flat wings. The manfish has hornlike processes directed forward, one at either side of its broad head and there are well-authenticated instances of a devilfish "dying" through the water, catching a boat's anchor between its horns, a chance killing the anchor and towing the astonished boatman out to sea. At certain seasons the devilfish is common along the Gulf coast of Florida, where it furnishes exciting sport for fishermen.

Get Sun and Fresh Air.

As much outdoor life as can be recently crowded into a day, with agreeable forms of diversion that make muscle and encourage deep breathing, should be a part of the daily routine. It is of the greatest value to the increased oxygen supply turns up the poison of the body. If it is not possible to spend some part of the day out of doors open wide a window and stand before it and breathe deeply twenty or thirty times a minute before an open window and in the direct sunlight is good if one cannot go out.

Matters of Taste.

"A man wants to laugh at the clothes his wife buys for him," remarked the citizen with the high-spirited countenance. "I have observed that," responded Miss Channing. "And she goes out and selects dresses that her wife wants to cry."

First Reformatory.

For a long time the underlying purpose of penal institutions was reformatory punishment. The idea of reforming criminals was of late origin and of slow growth, beginning with the treatment of juvenile offenders and extending later to the treatment of hardened criminals. The first state juvenile reformatory was established in New York in 1825 and this was followed by others a year or two later in Boston and Philadelphia. Many of the states now have reform schools for juvenile criminals and reformatory methods in the treatment of old offenders.

LIKED HIS "BATH"

Rabbit Seemed to Enjoy Powerful Electric Shock.

Experiment Recently Made Shows Great Possibilities in This Form of Treatment for Toning Up the Nervous System.

It is almost sure death to step upon a third rail of an electric road, for who does it will get a shock of at least 500 volts. But you can jump on a third rail and stand on it with both feet and feel nothing. You must, however, jump off with both feet or you will get the shock. The reason is that when both feet are on the rail there is no current.

if he were to stand on the pole of a very powerful Tesla coil. He went to where there is one of the electrical testing laboratories, where there is one of the most powerful high frequency machines in the country, giving 500,000 volts and using 20 kilowatts. This machine throws streams of electric fire six to seven feet long, the noise of which can be heard several blocks away. Mr. Gornsbuck wanted to stand on the metal plate of the "high" terminal of the transformer, but the managers would not let him, for fear of an accident. He had with him, however, a live rabbit, and they let him put the bunny on that perilous spot.

about 20 seconds, taking the full charge of 20 kilowatts at 500,000 volts. Long spark streamers, four or five feet long, shot from the rabbit's nose, ears and back, and, curious to note, immediately above the eyes, and after that the rabbit took the full charge, never moving once for 20 seconds at a time. After a while the rabbit seemed to enjoy the performance, and right after his seizure he was as lively as ever, eating a bit carrot at once.

Mr. Gornsbuck points out that there is a practical value in this experiment, for a charge of electricity such as the one described gives a dry bath which removes every particle of dead skin, dust and dirt and burrs them far from the body. Such electric baths also soften hardened arteries, tone up the nervous system and "make the old feel younger and the young younger and more aggressive."

Spitzbergen Explorer.

Charles Rabot, French physicist, with a reputation for arctic research, has been elected honorary member of the Christiania Geographical society. In 1892 Mr. Rabot participated in the French expedition of La Mantele to van Maren and Spitzbergen. He was the first to travel extensively over west Spitzbergen and to form correct conclusions as to its glaciological relations, viz: that west Spitzbergen is not covered by a connected inland mass of ice as is the case with Nordland and Greenland. Among his many works the most important is "Des Variations de Longueur des Glaciers" (Paris, 1897 and 1900). He was the first to make a survey map of the black ice between Saltenford and Ranford, for the time pointing out that at Glanndalen the black ice is cut into two parts known as Vestbrøen and Ostbrøen.

Have Cried Their Eyes Out.

"The City of the Blind," the Armenians and Syrians call Aleppo in Syria, for nowhere else in the Orient today is the percentage of blindness so high. Every sixth person on the street is afflicted with eye disease. These Armenians and Syrians, the oculists say, in the years of terror and suffering just passed under Turkish oppression, have literally "cried their eyes out."

Trephena is found in all degrees of severity among infants a few months old, and advanced cases among children from three to six. Such a condition exists nowhere else, except in such lands as Egypt and India, and nowhere there is it so severe as in Aleppo at present.

GREAT IN SERVICE

Type of Idealist Worthy of the Highest Praise.

American in the Philippines Was Forwarding the Cause of Civilization, With Krag in Place of Shepherd's Crook.

I first met him in the brush, a thousand yards north of Dagupan, in Pangasinan, lying on his belly and watching me through the sights of his Krag. It is indeed startling to discover the silent menace of a rifle muzzle protruding through the tropical undergrowth, especially at 20 yards range.

"Friend!" I called across to him. "Sure, come on over," he laughed back, and his rifle muzzle slipped across a point or two, covering the trail I had followed over the skyline.

Though it was but a chance meeting, he trusted me as one of his kind, and there was no "glad-to-meet-you" talk or the reluctance of Manila.

His name is no matter; it was Harvard-Boston-Irish of four American generations. But it is vital that his eyes were blue and that he was one of those suburban American idealists whose success is not gauged in dollars, but in service rendered to civilization, to sanitation, to health and to decency. Why, then, was he civilizing with a Krag? I thought of the head-hunters of the northern mountains, not far away, and of native insurrection, now a thing of the past.

"What's the trouble?" I asked when I reached his nest in the undergrowth. "Nothing, just precaution," he answered. Then I heard in the valley behind him the rhythmic pounding of boring machinery and saw the top of a timber scaffold for well digging.

He explained, as I crouched beside him, that a certain ex-convict, in a fit of pique, had thrown a dog into the village well, thereby contaminating the supply. This had happened three villages up the road and sickness had spread throughout the valley. To dig another well in the near neighborhood seemed inexcusable to the natives. Not that trouble was really expected, but machinery cost cash and guards had been posted at the hill trails. His village nestled water, and water they would have, pure and cold from the 200-foot level, whether the natives opposed the work temporarily or not. Those things he told me, and more, while we sat and brushed away the flies.

This man was no engineer and no sanitary inspector. He was no N. C. O. of the Philippine constabulary. He thumbed the bolt of his rifle and admitted he was a teacher! I had heard often of his type. Indeed, I had come to the Philippines for the sole purpose of making his acquaintance, and to meet him in the equality of the brush was indeed good fortune, for men of his kind the world over are prone to be as uncommunicative as the Englishman at the frontiers of empire. Here he was at work at one of the strong contacts of civilization and of education in the Philippines—the development of water supply.—Paul Monroe in Asia Magazine.

Birds Increase in Numbers.

The beneficial effects of the migratory bird treaty net are beginning to be felt. The United States department of agriculture, through its bureau of biological survey, has conducted investigations of the breeding areas of ducks in North Dakota and Nebraska. Compared with former years, a gratifying increase of breeding waterfowl, particularly in North Dakota, is evident. The fifth annual series of counts of birds of all species breeding on selected areas in various parts of the United States contained a large proportion of reports showing increases in bird population. The total number of reports received however, was not large. Many of the persons who had formerly taken part in the annual bird counts were unable, because of extra duties assumed during the war, to find time for the work required by the fifth count.

Men Who "Know It All."

Some folks are "canned" because they are too self-satisfied. It's a common thing in life to find folks too big to take orders. They know the game and refuse to take orders. That is confession they belong to the small class and never will be fitted to lead. The good boss is a master of obedience. He commands because he has learned to obey. He's never satisfied. There are always new goals to strive for. He rises because he sees things from a different angle. It's different with the fellow who is self-satisfied. He sees only what he wants to see, and holds his opinion above that of everybody else. You can't do much with him.—Exchange.

War Services Recognized.

Miss Maud Cleveland of Berkeley, Cal., graduate and member of the faculty of the University of California, recently received the D. S. M. at the American Woman's club in Paris for "conspicuous service" while serving as head of the Red Cross home communications department of the A. E. F. Miss Cleveland had charge at Brest of the war brides who married American soldiers.

MADE BIG "DAG" OF GERMANS

Fold of Doughboys Within Hun Lines One of the Most Brilliant Exploits of the War.

It was the most audacious night hike of the great war. The infantry brigade of the Second division American army, was making it. Platoon after platoon of rain-soaked, mud-painted Yank doughboys, in columns of two, marched silently straight through the strong German line, a distance of four miles—like a huge khaki-colored monster ready to spring at the throat of the German defense. They did.

Joseph Mills Hanson, former American field artillery officer, gives this graphic description in the Home Sector, the ex-soldiers' weekly conducted by the former editorial council of the Stars and Stripes, of how the midnight surprise experts of the A. E. F. floundered and struggled up the hill toward La Tuillerie farm on the night of November 4, 1918, where German officers were living close to Beaumont, thinking that the nearest American soldier was eight kilometers away.

He says: "Silently the Americans, panting from their long march, formed and closed in upon the farm, as old Mosby's men used to close in on some devoted federal outpost in Virginia, or as George Rogers Clark's grim frontiersmen closed in on the British at their ball in the wilderness fort at Vincennes.

"There was a pause as they crept up close. Then a sudden rush, a gust of cries, and through the doors and windows they burst in. Knots of German officers, bending over maps and dispatches, looked up in horror into the muzzles of rifles and the stern white faces behind them; men curled up in blankets in the corners staggered to their feet and held their hands aloft. This sort of warfare had a tang of the new-world daring in it that the disciples of Von Clausewitz and Ludendorff could not comprehend. It set German legs at naught, but they were obliged to yield to it. La Tuillerie farm, a German headquarters, four miles from the front, had been threatened by a hand reaching out of the darkness. Many of its imperial majesty's trusty officers and men had been made prisoners in a flash, though unfortunately two generals made their escape by darting out of back doors."

Memorial Cottages.

The number of lives the war took has not been adequately reckoned. The number of families it broke up is likewise uncounted. Yet right after it we have a greater shortage of housing than ever. There is interest in this connection in a letter to the London Spectator, evidently from one of the sufferers of the war. It contains a suggestion which may or may not be new in this country.

The writer calls attention to an article in the London Chronicle telling of the building of 120 cottages for ex-servicemen in Westmoreland, called war memorial cottages. It is not clear to him whether these were built by public or private funds, but never mind that. "Would it be possible," he asks, "for individuals to do likewise? What more practical memorial of any fallen hero than to provide a home for a disabled soldier or sailor or for his widow and children?"

How She Knew.

A Hoosier school teacher received a very indignant note from one of her patrons, demanding that she stop some boys from annoying her tiny daughter on the way home from school. Immediately after she had read the note the teacher began an investigation. She asked the little girl, "How do those boys annoy you?"

"Why, they talk awful about me and to me," explained the youngster. "They cuss me and say terrible things."

"But how do you know they are cursing and the things are really terrible?" persisted Miss Teacher.

Even she was stunned by the wee child's answer, "Because," she reasoned, "they are just like the things my papa says when he gets mad at my mamma."

Difference in Situations.

Away out in a remote and snow-drifted draw, separated from the herd, an old cow stands between a fir tree and a hawlder, her calf behind her, desperately defending it against a ring of wolves capable of playing a waiting game through the long night. This is a scene common enough in the West, about which artists painted vivid pictures and authors wrote stirring stories, mighty good press-agent material for the department of agriculture's predatory animal campaign. But who would write a thrilling story or paint a picture about a prairie dog running out of its hole and filling its stomach with grama grass?—Exchange.

A Speedy Metc.

"Hallo" came the female voice over the telephone. "Is that the gas company?"

"Yes, madam!" replied the clerk. "I want to know when the entries for the autumn handicaps close."

"The autumn handicaps?" said the startled clerk. "This is the gas company's office," he replied clearly.

"That's right," said the unseen lady. "I want to know when the entries for the autumn races close, as I'd like to enter my gas meter."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

LINE TO A MOTHER

A few days ago the mother of W. M. Pepper, publisher of the Gainesville Sun passed away. This tribute appears in that paper over the signature of the son:

From the earliest recollections of boyhood to the last days of her prolonged illness, which finally broke down the earthly tabernacle I have been privileged to know a beautiful exemplification of the Christian life.

There is a couplet which has fastened itself in my memory and which has often been repeated in moments when I wonder would he be in my thought:

"God made you, dear mother, And then broke the mold, And gave you to me with your heart of pure gold."

A lifetime of love at my feet you have had. The best little mother that God ever made."

TALK UP YOUR TOWN

Of course every day the big chips talk about town. That hardly needs to be said as it is almost an axiom.

But in most matters we are not satisfied to be content in thought. To be positive is an American habit, and the average American citizen is very loyal to his home town, whether it be a metropolis or a one horse town in the sticks.

In the first place most American communities are worth talking up. Then again, a live man would hardly settle down for good in a no-good town.

But sometimes pretty good citizens fail to talk their town up to the stranger who is a visitor or when he himself is abroad.

Sometimes these silent citizens are modest and shun anything that seem like boasting. They dislike "talking big" and swing to the other extreme. They are so modest as to fail to do justice to their home town.

Advertisement for B. & O. Motor Co. featuring a cartoon character and the text: "DON'T DAMAGE YOUR CAR! B. & O. Motor Co. Auto doctor service."

LET us remove the carbon that is interfering with the power punch of your cylinders. While we are about it we might find a nut or bolt that should be tightened.

Advertisement for "ENERGIZER" medicine, claiming to be a "LOGICAL TREATMENT" for rheumatism, stiffness, and neuritis.

Then too, there are those who are wont to see the excellencies of other towns sooner than their own. Modesty is such an admirable trait that we sometime forget that it may be overdone.

Perhaps you do not know your own town. Look it over. You may be surprised at the "selling" points you will run across.

It's a pretty bum town that hasn't a lot of assets worth enumerating, more than a few strong points, attractions enough to make a good story. The blow-hard is not popular but there is a happy mean between him and the person who rarely has a good word for his home town.

QUIT FINDING FAULT

We are acquainted with a few people in Orlando who are continually finding fault with everything. They find fault with improvements already done. They usually cannot wait until someone with whom they are talking finishes a conversation until they begin criticising.

We do not expect to cure this situation by referring to a trial we preached against it every day in the year, until we were black in the face. This class of people would not feel they are apparently on guard to stay for it. As soon as some fall by the wayside another one comes up to take his place.

More and more, though, our people are coming to realize that the fault-finder is after all a community's greatest drawback. They are learning to look down upon them as well as to ignore them.

THE EDITOR

The editor is popularly supposed to see everything, hear everything, know everything and publish everything that is going on. But sometimes he doesn't see it. He doesn't want to see it because being an editor and trained to view all angles of every question, he knows that it is better for the community if he does not see it.

VIEWS OF GOVERNOR COX

We can't have a worth while nation unless we have vitality in the affairs that bind it together. In the states that are tied together every time you add to the federal authority you subtract from local authority and you displace independence with dependence.

The framers of the constitution feared government terrorism over the public. That is the danger we are in now. We must not terrorize, we must teach and assimilate.

There is one thing that we have got to begin attending to. That is conniving and terrorizing groups which make the balance of power and control elections.

There comes a time when you have too take dynamite to break the hardpan.

Prisoners in our penitentiaries are a good deal like ships battered by the storm, which needed to go into dry dock for repairs.

It there is one thing which I have contended for more than any other, it is that we must hold to the will of the majority.

You will never demonstrate the wisdom or fault of a law until you enforce it.

MORE FARMING IS NEEDED TO SAVE THE WORLD

The world is always within a year of starvation. Were there to be universal failure of crops for a single year in normal times the cities of the world would be swept bare of life, says the State Marketing bureau.

American landed area is not increasing—except in Florida along the south in the keys or coral islands—and the fertility of American soil in cultivation is being depleted. Despite lectures, arguments, editorials and advice on the subject of thrift and economy, Americans are a wasteful people.

We say millions of dollars every year for phosphates and nitrate to get the very elements from which nature originally built up the soil. The leaves and grass are being destroyed by fire, instead of being turned into compost heaps to supply one of the best of nature's fertilizers.

ADVICE TO MERCHANTS

Losses very often are favored with advice as to how a newspaper should be conducted, and they, in turn are constantly handing out advice to others. Here is some of it: Merchants who wish to succeed should advertise. We have said this before, but it is a truth that loses none of its force through repetition.

"There is no case on record of a merchant who has tried advertising (tried it right), and then quit," stated Salem N. Bakin, advertising manager of the House of Kuppenheimer.

"Many merchants have tried advertising and quit in disgust. They found that it did not pay. Such an experience may be traced to the experience of the unnamed merchant who was ensnared by his desire to buy the city and induce the incogenerating crisp air of the mountains.

"The young man went to the mountains and, noticing no change in his condition after the first day, returned to the city, satisfied that he had given the doctor's suggestion a fair trial, and that it had failed.

"Advertising does not pay unless it is advertising in the fullest sense of the word.

"Do you think of your occasional advertising, disconnected, unrelated, as 100 per cent. advertising?

"Your advertising must function just as regularly and just as systematically as the opening and closing of your store, with as much attention to the details as you lavish on your windows.

"Do not play with advertising and do not let advertising attack you for an expenditure at odd and uncertain intervals. Employ advertising as you employ a salesman in your store, and keep it busy. Know what your advertising for the year will cost you, and know that far from saving you are losing money when you conserve a dollar of that appropriation."

IS SEARS' SEAT IN DANGER?

Will the Republicans be able to poll a vote strong enough in the November election for the Fourth District to endanger the seat of Congressman Sears. It was a noticeable fact during registration time that more Republicans had registered in Orange County than ever before, and the greater part of these registrants for the Republican ticket were negroes. Florida is fast filling up with people, who are making this state their permanent home, seven out of every ten are from the North and more than likely are of Republican affiliation, so the Republican vote may become a real power in the future, where it has been negligible in the past.

The Times Union views the situation in the following manner:

"Florida Democrats who voted in the recent primary and after the votes were counted heard the announcement that Congressman Sears of the Fourth District, had been chosen as a candidate for re-election may have thought at the time that all anxiety on this score was settled with the official report. The Democratic nominees in Florida have been considered the same as elected for many years. Whatever may be the intention of the leaders, who certainly understood the proportionate registration of the parties, it is certain that a strong effort is going to be made in several counties and at least one congressional district to elect a Republican vote.

"Because of the considerable registration of Republicans in the Fourth District it is understood that a strong play will be made for the coveted seat of Congressman Sears. In that county, with a larger population than the others, has also the largest number of qualified Republican voters. Other counties in the district have lists of Republican voters. They are all planning to come out in November and make the best showing possible. A few years ago it was only necessary for the Republican to get a handful of votes in the South in order to make a contest in congress. To the credit of that body it may be said that minority candidates, from the South, striving to win by charges of interference or coercion, have seldom been seated. There still may be those that such a course could win, and it makes the news by great for a display of strength in the November election.

"Campaign clubs organized and being brought into existence in the Democratic party in Florida at this time have much work to do; for there is the natural apathy which follows the primary to be overcome and the education of the voters to their course on election day. A single item in this line can be mentioned that of picking at the Democratic electors on the presidential section of the ballot. There will be no mistakes made in marking the candidates for congress, but having gone to the polls it would be a pity if Democrats voted for Republican presidential electors.

"In Duval county an independent candidate has been nominated for sheriff, and it is noticed that the Republicans are invited to vote for him! This is plain enough attempt to swing something over on the regular party nominee scheme that is possibly financed or planned by the Republicans and they are plotting to send J. L. Skinner as state senator to Tallahassee. He has been a life-time Republican. The Republican nominee for the United States Senate, Judge Cheney, of Orlando, is actively campaigning although it must be well but little hope of personal success.

"Politics, normally dormant in July of an election year, are sizzling and sputtering everywhere, and the campaign season is being more active in the progress of a party that there must be no faltering or diluting on the part of the Florida Democracy if it proposes to retain its control of affairs in the state. Wherever meetings are held and the important information is being given out by accredited members of the Democratic party, it should be the duty and pleasure of the men of the state who want good government to attend and learn whatever can be imparted. Newspapers of the state are active in the good work and now devote all the space desired to information and advice. They must keep up the good work until after November, for never was their educational work more needed." Reporter-Star.

BAD WEEK FOR FEDS

Some might say that our alibi all season was that luck was against us, but this time we say it strong, for luck was against us in the last six games.

This past week, or since this paper went to press last, we have played six games up until today and out of those six games we have won one.

Friday we were rained out and a double header was staged for Saturday. In those two games with Tampa we out-played them all the way through, but the jinx got us and we lost both, the first game 3 to 1 and the second 3 to 0. That makes twelve times we have tried to bring the Smokers down and we haven't did it yet.

Monday the Fed's played in Bradenton. Reports from these games show that the Fed's were at their best and won the game, but Umpire Kubat called one wrong in the ninth inning and let Bradenton get away with it. There was a man on third base and two out, when Smith put one right over the pan. Even the batter himself was surprised when Kubat called it a ball. The next ball Smith pitched was right over again and this time the batter knocked a sharp one between third and short. McCullough made a wonderful stop of it but threw it a little high to Green. Green then made a wonderful catch of the ball and came down on the runner's shoulder, having him out by two feet. The runner, however, knocked Green off his feet and in the mix-up, Kubat saw fit to call the runner safe, allowing the man on third to romp home with the winning run.

Tuesday, Sanford and Bradenton played the only game in the league and even Bradenton fans and Bradenton players, as well as our own players, say that the game should not have been played. Manager Larisey, of the Bradenton club, was stubborn and made them play, using twenty-six balls. Manager Brown refused to pitch one of the regular pitchers and left Brown, an out-fielder, to do the work. This, together with the fact that a Bradenton player did the umpiring and the field was like a duck pond, Sanford lost, 0 to 1.

Both games in the double-header today were good games. The first game being lost by the score of 1 to 0 and the second won by the score of 4 to 2.

Tomorrow (Thursday) Sanford plays Bartow again and then comes home to take the Caps over for a two-game series. That means, that whether we win tomorrow's game or not, business will pick up Friday and we will get started to winning again.

DAYTONA'S MISTAKE.

Just why Judge Titus, of the Daytona Club, saw fit to let Shortstop McLaughlin go we have never been able to understand. As far as shortstops go in this league, we believe that Mac is hard to beat. There is plenty of talk about the circuit in regard to LaMotte, of Tampa, being such a wonder and covering the whole infield, but these critics fail to see all that is going on, if they leave Mac out, because the territory that he doesn't cover.

Mac has been with us now since the close of the first half of the season and the speed that he has shown makes us feel that we have landed a "big leaguer" and we are sure that he is bound to go up.

Imman, whose place it was up to Mac to fill, landed a job with the Live Oak club and we hear, through "Red" Davis, in the Jacksonville Times-Fine, that he is to be given a try-out with the Memphis club in the Southern Association, and all we have to say is that if Imman can make good in the Southern Association, we will be glad to take him with the new York team.

CELERY SEED

EDITED BY
CHAS. L. BRITT

Orlando here today.

And from past experience pickings will be kind of easy.

Orlando crows about beating Tampa, but take it from us they had to have a lot of help from the umpire Tuesday to keep from getting a bad beating.

They made Tampa play in the fourth inning in the rain and Tampa got mad and piled up four runs. In Orlando's half of the fourth, there was one out and two weak hitters up and then Manager Donnelly and his crowd lost their nerve and had no trouble whatever in talking his umpire into calling the game on account of rain.

But, couldn't expect anything else in that town. We wouldn't have been surprised if his umpire would have forfeited the game to Orlando, instead of just calling it.

But there is one thing sure and certain—they have got to get their heads up if they expect to beat Sanford.

We hear from our old friend "Red" Davis once in a while. "Red" writes the "Amateur Dope" for the Times-

Union and he has never forgotten the good old days of 1916 when we used to beat the Orlando club. He also remembers the way those birds down that way used to weep and wail. We extend "Red" an invitation to come down and watch us how we lick Orlando right on.

About the sorriest part of the Florida State League this season is the way President Rose handled the umpire situation. We believe that he has had trouble all right, but still, this is the only league that we can learn of that doesn't have umpires of some kind.

And while we are talking of umpires it is plain to be seen that Mr. Rose is looking out for Orlando's interests all right, because he has seen to it that Orlando has an umpire for every game whether the rest do or not.

And the umpires then see to it that Orlando is well taken care of. The way it was handed to Tampa last Tuesday proves that.

He Deserves Recognition.

Mr. McLaughlin says he hopes will get enough influence in politics to get some kind of recognition for the chap who has devoted most of his energy in life to being a good father and a kind father.

Ancient Uses of Rings.

One of the earliest uses to which rings were put was to make an impression of an engraved design or device upon letters or documents. Whenever an ancient monarch wished to give validity to a certain royal decree, he would take off his huge seal ring and make an impression with it upon the document. A curious superstition used to which signet rings were put is told in Plutarch's Lives. A number of signet rings were thrown into a heap, and one was pulled out at random, the design which the signet bore being interpreted as a favorable or unfavorable omen.

To Open New Books.

Teach the children early how to flatter up the bindings of their new books. Don't let them crack the binding open, to the ruin of the book. Rest the book back down on a table and, holding the body of the leaves firm, open first a page or two at the front, then a few at the back and so on till the volume lies easily open to the center. A book put into commission in this scientific fashion has a fair chance of long life.

Curiosity Rewarded.

Walking along the sands of Weymouth this autumn (writes a correspondent), I saw a corked bottle which had been washed up by the tide. There was a piece of paper inside, so I drew the cork and tried to extract it; but at last, getting impatient at the way it eluded me, I broke the bottle and the message was revealed: "Whoever finds this bottle will find all the beer gone."—London Post.

Anesthetics for Trees.

The theory that trees should be treated with anesthetics to enable them to withstand the shock of transplantation has been advanced here by Sir Jagdish Chandra Bose, an Indian scientist. Sir Jagdish showed photographs of large trees which he had successfully transplanted in Calcutta in spite of their age. Realizing, he explained, that the difficulty of successful transplantation lay in the shock of removal, and that nerve of roots in plants and animals were on similar lines, he treated these trees with anesthetics and they bore the uprooting and removal well.

FORFEITED GAME THUR.

And once again we were the victims of an umpire. In this case, however, can we really say that it was an umpire, for is Jim Beard an umpire?

It happened in Bartow and it happened like this:

Sanford was playing the second day of the series with the score standing 4 to 0 in favor of Bartow in the first of the fourth inning. It was raining and raining plenty hard to have the game called. But Jim Beard recognized the fact that he was working in Bartow and he just had to satisfy the home fans regardless of any rules and he says play ball. It was Ollerman's turn at the bat and as he was not as anxious as the Bartow club and Umpire Baird, he didn't rush to the plate as fast as Baird thought he should. Baird ordered the pitcher to throw the ball and one strike was called on Ollerman before he had time to reach the plate. Dutch missed this up, however, and struck at the next one and missed. The next one he hit to short and was brown out at first. He then made some remark to Baird about him being wrong in calling the strike before he had a chance to get up to the plate. Baird says that he then cut him out of the game, but Dutch didn't hear him.

It then began to rain harder and the people began to leave the field and bleachers to crowd into the stands hunting shelter. Harry Burke then goes into the field to ask Baird if he went call the game long enough for the heavy rain to let up but Baird, showing how much base ball sense he has, ordered the pitcher to throw the ball with Burke still on the playing field, in fair territory.

After the third out Brown goes out to argue with Baird on the grounds that he should have waited until Burke was off the field and Baird then says that if the game didn't go on in five minutes he would forfeit to Bartow. About that time he noticed Ollerman out in the field and he again informs him that he is out of the game and before Burke had time to replace him with a man, Baird forfeited the game.

Just how long we are going to stand for this kind of stuff we don't know. We are handed the lemons all over the circuit and if we appeal to the head office we get a bigger lemon, because it is already understood that from that office we get nothing.

We won't kick on having to use Baird as an umpire, because we feel that if you can't get a loaf of bread take a crumb, and in this case we took the crumb.

Burke protested Baird's decision and we expect to hear more about it later.

Chinese New Year.

For several weeks before the New Year, Chinese business men do everything in their power to get money to pay off all their debts, for a Chinese cannot pass over the year until all his obligations are paid or provided for. The New Year celebration usually ends with the Feast of Lanterns on the fifteenth day of the first moon. Lanterns of all sizes and descriptions are displayed, some representing animals, some flowers, some fruit, some in the shape of dragons. The lanterns are made of silk, cotton or gauze, painted in beautiful colors.

Draw Anything.

You need never hope to get on, if you are the least anxious that this drawing you are actually at work upon should look nice when it is done. All you have to care about is to make it right, and to learn as much in doing it as possible. So then, though when you are sitting in your friend's parlor or in your own, and have nothing else to do, you may draw anything that is there, for practice, even the eyebrows on the pattern on the carpet; be sure that it is for practice and not because it is a beloved carpet, nor as friendly paper and tongs, nor because you wish to please your friend by drawing her room.—From Ruskin's "The Elements of Drawing."

Cleanly Wild Animals.

Animals, says a French savant, furnish man an example in the matter of hygiene. They were the first creatures who made use of the sponge, soap and even of the toothbrush. From time immemorial they cleaned themselves by using the tongue as a brush, their saliva as soap, their tail as a towel, their claws as a comb. Furthermore, they bathe themselves frequently.

Colonies of monkeys locate those among them who refuse to observe the rules of cleanliness. It has been remarked that monkeys with well-cared for heads take the precaution when drinking of never letting them get wet. Chimpanzees almost invariably rinse out their mouths after eating, and a certain young orang-outang always used a toothpick.

On the Wrong Track.

A prominent young actor, on being introduced to the late Reginald de Koven, greeted him enthusiastically. ## SPECIAL NOTICE

In order to comply with an ordinance of the City we have been forced to tear down a part of the building in the rear of our store that we have been using as our Cleaning, Pressing and Tailoring department. The building was already too small to handle the large business that has been coming our way, and rather than take chances on giving poor service, we have decided to quit the CLEANING and PRESSING Business. We have leased the entire works to C. A. Whiddon, who formerly owned this Pressing Club, and we want all our friends and customers to understand that on and after
