Library Journal Carries Article On Rollins New Professorship Of Books

WINTER PARK, July 9. (AP)—As one of the features of the July issue of the Library Journal of the American Library Association, there appears an article about the new professorship of books at Rollins College. The article points out that the chair was suggested by Ralph Waldo Emerson some 50 years ago and that Rollins College was the first to take steps to materialize the suggestion.

The discussion follows:

Rollins College at Winter Park, Florida has announced the establishment of a professorship of books. This new chair is based on a suggestion made 50 years ago by Ralph Waldo Emerson. It has remained for the Rollins College under the leadership of Dr. Hamilton Holt to be first to recognize in this way the need for directed recreational reading and the forming of reading habits while in college.

The class work will be largely free discussion by the students themselves under the guidance of the professor of books. There will also be lecture courses on the history of books and book making. The Rollins Press associated with the college, will provide an opportunity for the publication of a few beautiful books each year.

Edwin Osgood Grover has been appointed to the new chair. Professor Grover has been active for 25 years in books publishing and had contributed not a little to raising the artistic and typographical standards of book making. He is also a poet and a writer and contributing editor of the World Review.

SPANISH TRAIL WORK IS PUSHED BY STATE BOARD

Advertisements For Bids On Stretch Between Suwannee River And Madison Will Be Inserted Within Few Days

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., July 9.—(AP)—Florida is pushing forward with its work of hard surfacing one of the most important highways of the country—the Old Spanish Trail.

The State Road Department has announced that within a few days advertisements for bids for the paving of that stretch of the trail between the Suwannee River and Madison will be inserted. By July 21, the department will consider bid for that portion between Lake City and Live Oak.

When the hard surfacing reaches Madison, Jefferson, Leon and Gadsden counties will doubtless be ready to go on westward with the paving. Dr. Fone A. Hathaway, chairman, noted.

It was erroneously stated in a previous announcement that Columbia county had been unable to dispose of its bonds with which to hard-surface the trail. The reference would have been made to Madison county. Reports from Columbia county are to the effect that there has been no trouble in disposing of all its bonds.

Madison and Suwannee counties, however, according to a report from the road department, have been unable to find a market for their bonds, and the highway officials have announced that they could consider as an emergency stretch of the trail in those two counties, which were declared to be in bad condition, particularly following rains.

An agreement was recently reached, however, whereby Madison county would be given an opportunity to again offer its bonds for sale. Within a period of two weeks after the decision was reached, the road department planned to go ahead with its request for bids.

In commenting on the necessity for immediate action in hard-surfacing the Old Spanish Trail, which is State Road Number 1, Chairman Hathaway declared that the highway is in no sense a local one, but that there was a state-wide demand for its paving.

"It has been and is being subjected to a tremendous traffic," Dr. Hathaway pointed out, "and the experience of those whose business carries them over it, particularly after a hard rain, steadily increases the demand for its paving. That portion of the road between Lake City and Madison, due to its longer age and to the use of poorer material, makes it the worst stretch on the route; in fact, it has just about lived its life of usefulness, and must either be hard-surfaced or reconstructed. In this situation, of course, wisdom dictates the paving of the road."

The department is confronting a condition which must be relieved, and it does not feel justified in waiting until the bonds authorized by these counties can be sold and the proceeds received. The work should commence at once, and it is believed that by the time it has made material progress, the bond market will have improved and the county funds will be available. During the progress of construction, the department will maintain detours in as good condition as possible.

"The Old Spanish Trail is the only

Florida Delegation At Education Meet Unusually Large

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., July 9.—(AP)—Florida's delegation to the annual convention of the National Education Association, just held at Philadelphia, numbered between 15 and 20, considered a splendid representation, according to W. S. Cawthon, state superintendent of public instruction, who headed the party.

The national gathering, Mr. Cawthon said, was an inspiration to everyone, and was considered by all to have been one of the best ever held.

Mr. Cawthon was one of the speakers at the superintendents' dinner, held as one of the convention's features. The affair was wholly an informal one, however, the superintendents taking no particular subject for discussion.

Florida's delegation traveled by bus from Jacksonville to New York and then by rail to the scene of the meeting. The boat ride was described as one of the most entertaining features of the trip.

trans-continental highway open the year around. It traverses the southern half of the United States, winding its way through Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Texas, California and other states. The opening of the Escambia bay bridge, and construction of the 9 mile Mobile bay bridge are two tasks now being placed, and Florida's decision to speed up the hard surfacing is considered by highway officials as no less an important step towards putting the finishing touches upon one of the greatest road projects of the nation.

Rescued Sailor Tells Thrilling Story Of A Battle With Shark

BOSTON, July 9.—(AP)—A thrilling story of a two-hour fight for life against sharks and birds of prey in the pitchy blackness of a tropical sea at midnight was being told today by officers of the British steamer, Ripley Castle.

The big freighter was just south of the Equator, bound from Philadelphia to Capetown when Tony Madison, 26-year-old seaman who had come to the deck for air, lost his balance and fell into the water. In the darkness his fall was unobserved and he was not missed until an hour later. Capt. George Sinclair immediately ordered the ship to go back and it slowly retraced its course. About 2 o'clock in the morning faint cries were heard. Two buoys with flares were tossed overboard and Madison was seen struggling in the water.

When the seaman was pulled aboard, both legs were bleeding from shark bites and his face was torn and pecked by birds which had swarmed down upon him.

In definitely deciding to provide hospital treatment for little Edward Barnes, ten year old infantile paralysis victim of Wagner, the club glorified the principle of Kiwanis, the intangible yet powerful spiritual union which links Kiwanians the world over in the bonds of brotherhood.

Forced by poverty and inconspicuousness to live a youth of endless misery, the little Barnes boy would in all probability have grown to weary manhood a helpless invalid but for the practical, financial assistance offered by the Kiwanis Club. The son of a poor laborer, removed from the beaten paths of life, the little farm boy had a life of darkness before him until Sanford Kiwanians opened his door to the sunlight.

And in benefiting the boy, the club is rendering a worthwhile service to his little sister, a child with a mind untrained because of her refusal to attend school while her brother lay helpless at home.

Physicians who have examined Edward are optimistic concerning the cure that special treatment will effect, and the patient will be sent to a hospital immediately, and everything possible done for his benefit.

It is actions like this that account for the high place that the Kiwanis Club occupies in international life today. It is useful worthwhile charities like this that compensate for the weekly luncheon nonsense which has invoked the sarcasm and ridicule of many too blind to see the splendid active service lying beneath.

The financial help given the little Barnes boy is but the first of a series of similar charities planned by the Kiwanians. The club's under privileged child program is the most commendable system of practical charity ever undertaken locally, and in the furtherance of it Kiwanians should receive the full moral support of the community.

Again The Bath Tub

Broadminded optimists have long averred that something good may be found in most actions catalogued as rotten, but it is only recently that optimism has reached that stage of fanaticism where its proponents seek to prove any measure of good existing in such odious orgies as Mr. Earl Carroll's recent bath tub party.

A disgusted press had thought the matter closed, and a surfeited public sighed thankfully when accounts of the artistic debauch ceased to appear in the papers. But now a controversy awakened by Miss Joyce Hawley's champagne dip is raging anew, and the reading public faces the distasteful prospect of tuning in on the absurd opinions of people who claim that the bath tub party focused attention on bath tubs, and was, therefore, in a way beneficial to civilization.

In England the reaction of the refined entertainment staged by Mr. Carroll is finding expression in a bitter press battle over the exact date marking the era of bath tub bathing in the Kingdom. Indignant old timers with more money than brains are awakening echoes of the early eighties to refute the contentions of those who claim that no bath tubs existed in London homes prior to 1886, and the papers of the country are filled with histories, biographies and eulogies of the inventor and manufacturers of the famous bath room essential. Which all seems highly absurd in this advanced age of education.

One English writer declares that in 1872 his family owned a tub with a strap and lid, a "natty" invention which was used as a trunk when the owner desired to travel. It was also recalled that the late Earl of Dunraven visited America in 1886 and returned with one of the finest tubs the states could offer. This, and like rot, is the aftermath of the Carroll episode in England and other nations of the continent.

It is a poor commentary on twentieth century culture to say the least, and it is regrettable that the distorted appetite of the public requires the press to give further attention to such a delicate expression of the "new America."

The contentions of fanatics who see the degenerate, bath tub actors as missionaries of cleanliness are too absurd to merit serious consideration. If the people of this nation are not civilized enough to bathe without the impetus given to bathing by a party like Carroll's, there is no hope for the world.

NOTES FROM J. E. INGRAHAM'S TRIP THROUGH FLORIDA EVERGLADES

Editor's Note:—The original record of the first white expedition to cross the Everglades in 1892 was secured by The Herald through the courtesy of Frank P. Forster and will be published in serial form daily in this paper.

"March 19.
"Broke camp at 6:20 a. m. Mercury at 38 at 5 a. m. Heavy gale from north west all night. Began wading 200 feet from camp; water very cold. Country wet but ground firm and open prairie. Cypress heads and sloughs; open country; grass good; water high. Went into camp at Fort Shakelford at 11 a. m. Mr. George Hendry says his father, who has resided in this country many years, pointed out this pine island as the site of the old fort. Only a few supposed rifle pits now show. We start survey of line to Miami from here Monday. "At moon Lucy, an old Indian squaw and her grand-daughter came into camp to dinner. Lucy is 75 years old—bright and talkative. Says she was a wife of Oseola, the great chief. The grand-daughter is the daughter of Billy Bowleg."

"Two Indian villages or camps are near; one a mile and a half north, the other two miles southwest. "Mr. Hendry says Jack Robeson located Sam Jones Old Town two miles north of Shakelford. "I launched our boats at the Indian landing on edge of Everglades 2 miles and half east this afternoon. Weather very cold—wind northwest and half a gale." (To be continued tomorrow)

A NEW SPECIES TAMPA TIMES

A poet will soon be needed to sing the song of the passing of a race—the American harvest hand. Time was when the scorching summer sun of the western wheat belt beat down upon a migratory horde of adventurous men bound on a mission both economic and romantic. They led a hard life, as one correspondent said, "followed the harvest from Kansas, Nebraska and the Dakotas into Canada, blazing sun and intense heat to fight all the way; dust of threshers, dust of many a weary mile of the country roads to a new stand."

These harvesters spent oppressive nights in barns, traveled in box cars often were robbed of their earnings while on the road—but the harvest hand took his bumps without great complaint. His spirit grew as hard as the callosities on his hands, and as rough as his tanned skin. Today this species is rapidly dwindling. Farm machinery has wrought a great change in the farm labor situation on the wheat plains. Distance at harvest. Those that many farms require no outside aid are supplied by motor car hands—a new genius that infests the grain belt highways in dilapidated flivvers.

The government maintains permanent employment bureaus in many towns throughout the wheat country, but machinery has displaced about 75 per cent of human help.

Kansas has a banner crop of wheat, it is reported. It may be the greatest in its history, and 80 per cent of it will be harvested by motor car hands, the product of an efficient era. It takes few of this species of harvest hands to handle the grain, because they can get about with greater ease. They can do more work with less labor than their romantic predecessors, but even they will grow fewer and fewer with the passing years as the use of machinery spreads throughout the wheat country.

YESTERDAY JOHN D. Rockefeller celebrated his eighty-sixth birthday at a small family gathering and played his usual nine holes of golf, in excellent health.

Those that waste energy, envying great wealth, may find comfort in the fact that Mr. Rockefeller gets no more out of life than any other man of his age, except the satisfaction of knowing that a fortune accumulated in his youth is doing good work all over the world, now, in his leisure.

A beautiful German poem tells of an old vine on the hill in winter, stripped of its leaves and grapes, while the wine from the grapes was making men happy far away.

RUDYARD KIPLING says that only twelve among all the writers of 2,500 years can be called "immortal." But does not name the other eleven. What would be your list? Homer, Dante and Shakespeare the first three probably. Goethe and Cervantes the next two perhaps. Many would put Goethe next to Shakespeare.

NO LIST could satisfy the opinions of a majority. Villon wrote a prayer to the Virgin for his old mother who could neither read nor write, as beautiful as anything in any of the greatest writers. And how many know Villon?

TEN HIGH school boys of Detroit, selling sandwiches in the Ford factory and selling soap everywhere, saved $600 in a year each, and will travel abroad "for to admire and for to see."

The fact that ten boys could each save $600 in a year tells how times have improved. Only a few years ago there was only one mechanic in the United States able to earn $1.00 a day all year round. It would have taken him two years of 300 work days each to save $600, allowing nothing for living expenses. This is now the real, Sinbad the Sailor valley of diamonds.

When John D. Rockefeller went to work seventy-one years ago, he was paid six cents an hour, then very good pay.

TIMI BIMBO, king of the gypsies, rules gypsies all over the world. His fellows revere him because he is the seventh son of a seventh son. Tell a gypsy that the seventh son of a seventh son occurs millions of times among mice, cats and rabbits, and he will say you don't understand the importance of magic figures. It is not so long since the wisest men attributed a third power to certain numbers and words.

DARTMOUTH COLLEGE, in intelligent university, will establish a course of "comparative religion," showing how various religious ideas have cropped up through the ages, repeating themselves along the same lines. The students will hear of good fighting evil and having a hard time, miraculous birth taught in many religions before Christianity, many trinites having their origin in the family group around the cave fire, mother and child, etc.

ONCE SUCH a course would have been, literally, a burning matter. But now you can discuss the growth and similarities of religion if you are a little careful about it, and seriously offend no one.

The deeply religious Christian may object to President Hopkins' selection of Dr. S. L. Joshi, a native of India, to conduct the course, but the selection guarantees impartiality.

HOLLYWOOD AND the moving picture world, which mean $5,000,000 in the United States, will learn with interest, that F. W. Murnau, the brilliant German genius who directed "He Who Laughs Last," soon to reach California, will make his picture in "America." People of the screen will be amazed to learn that for his work Murnau sold men and women with "no screen experience." The Marguerite in Murnau's "Faust," owned in this country by the Marcus Loew organization, is a girl never photographed until Murnau took her up.

Murnau strives to make his pictures tell a picture story without words. There is only one caption in "He Who Laughs Last."

WHILE PRESIDENT Coolidge fishes, baiting his own hook and economically using little ones as bait for bigger ones, Washington discovers that the country has a president who has never sought to impose his will on congress, never mistakes the executive for the legislative branch of the government.

MARY SULLIVAN votes that the president "holds a job" from congress and its politics. He is responsible for what he does, congress is responsible for what it does." Wise Calvin Coolidge.

MRS. ROBERT E. Spear, national head of the Young Women's Christian Association, says "neck-tie is on the decline," on the authority of 800,000 young women Christians in the girl reserves.

"The young women respect themselves too much to permit boys to become familiar," she says. "They will help them to get well married later and is a welcome proof of self-respect."

TEACH THE PEOPLE TAMPA TIMES

The subject of law is as much discussed at the present time as it was in the days of the Pharisees and Sadducees. There are today about the same differences and about the same divisions.

There have always been the extremists, or the two classes representing the extreme views or theories of law. One class advocates a law for every imaginable thing and a law to regulate all human conduct. The other class of extremists doesn't want any law at all. That is the view of the anarchist. Two classes should be added at this time. One is known as the compromising class, the other as the conservative class. The compromising class has no definite object in view. It simply does not want to take a firm, positive position on anything. It always drops in between and tries to get on a middle ground. The conservative class is the one that has always made the fight for human rights and for liberty. It has been in the forefront of every battle for freedom since the world began. This class believes and teaches that government is best which governs least. It wants all the necessary safeguards thrown around the people to protect them and their property, but further wants the individual left free to control his own habits and his own conduct and to enjoy the fullest freedom consistent with self government.

The mere mentioning of the names of the classes shows that there is an irreconcilable conflict among them and continuous warfare. Hence, to the one class there is too little law, while to the other there is too much.

The compromising class does not want to "hurt anybody's feelings," and it prefers to modify this, that or the other just law "to set things right." There has been entirely too much compromising already. Conditions were never improved by a compromise. A compromise will not preserve a principle.

At the present time the law extremists are in the ascendancy. They have found something wrong and their remedy is more law. They do not believe in teaching the people to govern themselves. They believe that self government means the privilege of enacting laws. With legislatures, the congress, bureaus and commissions grinding out laws and regulations every day no man can know what the law is, and it is impossible for him to dodge all of them. He cannot do it. He inevitably gets in the way of, or "tramples on," as the legalists say, some law. He does it unintentionally, and when he is haled before some court, he is punished for an unintended act. He then becomes, in a sense, an anarchist. He despises all the law. It is a misguided view, but how can you convince him when he has suffered for something he knows is not wrong in itself? Thereby hangs the tale.

There is another and more serious trouble with the legalist. Under his view the people are made to think and they do think that there is no personal responsibility. The true and correct rule is that guilt is personal and, likewise, wrong is personal. But under the rule, according to the theory of the legalist, man is not capable of controlling his own habits and his own conduct and he must, therefore, be controlled by law. The law is a committee for him. Hence the man can do no wrong because he is irresponsible. The moment personal responsibility is destroyed that moment society is thrown into a chaotic condition.

It is time to place more responsibility on the individual and less on law. We have too much law. It is folly to talk of law enforcement when guilt is not personal. Who would speak of law enforcement in a lunatic asylum, or with a herd of cattle? The very idea of law presupposes a being capable of obedience or disobedience. Unless there is responsibility there should be no penalty. It might be a good idea to stop making laws and turn to teaching and training the individual. Then responsibility will rest where it should.

FLORIDA BARGAINS TAMPA TRIBUNE

Forrest Crissey is just like all the other well-known writers. He says there is no need to worry about Florida's future. That's what they all say. Mr. Crissey plays no originality in his attitude, as expressed in his article, "What's Next in Florida?" in the Shrine Magazine for July.

It is not to the discredit of any reputable writer that they uniformly concur in praising this state. Their originality rests in their different personal observations and methods of expressing the same conclusion. The only shortcoming of Mr. Crissey's piece in the Shrine's publication is that its specific references are to only one section of Florida, although the conclusion is fully as applicable to other sections.

Speaking of what has been variously called a slump, a slowing down, and a period of stabilization, the author says, "My best guess is that this is bargain day in Florida and that the bottom has by no means dropped out of the Peninsular State and is not likely to until the time when the entire country suffers a severe financial setback." He recognizes the appeal of Florida to the old folks, to the sportive young people, to the farmers and business men and every other class, concluding:

"No; as I see it the bottom has not dropped out of Florida—far from it. She is merely changing from projected development to actual development, from building to building, from promised getting in to actual getting in. Values are being set and some long-time investment basis. Sell the binder-boys!"

METHODS AND MEN ASHEVILLE CITIZEN

A Chicago grand jury proclaims its discovery of the cause of the Windy City's orgy of crime. It is says this body of profound investigators, the parole system, wholesale freeing of habitual criminals and convicts, it asserts, turns so many murderers and thieves upon the city that the police have not a chance to cope with them. And all this is bolstered up by the findings of the Joliet grand jury that the worst type of convicts in that penitentiary dominate the gangs and the entire prison population.

But the Chicago grand jury is pathetically and entirely mistaken. Not the parole system, but the class of men administering the provisions of the parole law is the cause of the freeing of the wrong type of prisoners and, therefore, perhaps a contributing cause of Chicago's criminality.

To say that the parole law is the cause of crime is exactly as sensible and persuasive as saying that the election laws cause election scandals. The parole law is a good law, and it is not made there it is administered by corrupt, conscienceless and grafting officials. If "repeaters" are being let out of the Illinois penitentiaries, if habitual murderers are being turned into the streets while serving their terms, if life-long thieves are sent back to thieves some more before their punishment is worked out, it is evident that the men responsible for parole law enforcement neither understand the principles upon which it is grounded nor have proper respect for the importance of their work.

This is an ancient trick, this thing of attacking a system because a few men temporarily entrusted with its execution are either crooks or failures. Many a time before this the method has been assailed when, as a matter of fact, the men should have been fired. The parole system is an excellent thing when conscientiously handled.

Sanford Girl Visiting In Virginia

Miss Maudie Lake, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Lake, left recently for Culpepper, Va., where she will be the guest for several weeks of Miss Nancy Miller, who has visited Sanford on several occasions and has many friends here. Before returning home, Miss Lake will visit friends at other points in Virginia and at Washington.

Mrs. Miller Is Hostess At Lovely Courtesy In Honor Of Miss Neville

One of the loveliest social events on Friday was the bridge party given by Mrs. Paul Miller at her home in Rose Court, honoring her sister, Miss Emma Neville of Kansas City, Mo.

Quantities of zinnias in the brilliant shades of red, orange and yellow were artistically used in baskets and vases in the rooms where the card tables had been placed.

Quaintly dressed maidens adorned the tally cards and after a most enjoyable game of bridge, scores were collected and prizes were awarded. Mrs. Noble King holding high score, received a China tea ball in the form of a flower. In cutting for the consolation, which was a vase, Mrs. Paul-Dooley was the lucky one. Miss Neville, was presented a trump in diator.

After the prizes had been presented, the tables were laid with dainty covers and refreshments of frozen fruit salad with accessories were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. W. D. Gardiner and Mrs. Eugene Tittle.

Invited to meet this charming visitor were: Mrs. Paul Dooley of Geneva, Mrs. Noble King, Mrs. James I. Wells, Mrs. Grant Wilson, Mrs. W. D. Gardiner, Mrs. Eugene Tittle, Mrs. Frank Scruggs, Mrs. Donald Whitcomb, Mrs. Harold Vile, Mrs. Braxton H.gett, Mrs. William Gibson of Orlando, Miss Cary of Orlando and Mrs. Rossiter of Orlando.

Paul R. Forber returned home Friday from Virginia and other points where he spent several weeks.

Mrs. Clyde Byrd and children leave Sunday for Wilbur-by-the-Sea where they will spend the summer.

F. H. Brown, a former resident of Sanford but now of Winter Park, was in the city Friday afternoon on business.

MRS. JOHN LEONARDI ENTERTAINS WITH LUNCHEON IN HONOR OF MESDAMES STRAWN, ROSSITER

The Orange and Black Hotel dining room with its brilliant hangings and softly shaded lights is an ideal place for entertaining and was especially attractive with cut flowers and ferns on Friday when Mrs. John Leonardi entertained at luncheon complimenting Mrs. Theodore Strawn of DeLand, past regent of the Florida State D. A. R. and regent of the State Kenilworth Association, and Mrs. A. T. Rossiter who leaves soon for Warren, Pa., where she will spend several weeks.

Low bowls of zinnias and sprigs of asparagus ferns centered the daintily appointed luncheon table, and were also placed at each end. At each place were nosegays of pink roses buds with frilly lace paper holders. At the honor guests' place were wrist bouquets of roses, baby breath and ferns.

Marking the places were fairy dolls on pedestals wearing butterfly wings, in the pastel tints. At 1 o'clock a tempting six-course luncheon was served.

Sub-Deb Bridge Club Entertained By Miss Ruth Henry At Dinner

The members of the "Sub Deb" bridge club were pleasantly entertained at dinner Friday evening by Miss Ruth Henry at her home on Magnolia Avenue.

Baskets of beautiful cut flowers and ferns adorned the rooms of the lovely home and formed a pretty setting for this delightful affair.

Centering the lace-covered dinner table was a Dresden china bowl filled with zinnias in the pastel tints and surrounding this were Dresden candlesticks holding lighted pink tapers. At each place were miniature baskets filled with salted nuts and mints. The place cards, done in floral designs, completed the attractive table decorations.

Dancing, bridge and games were indulged in after the dinner until a late hour.

Those enjoying the cordial hospitality of Miss Henry were: Miss Margaret Peters, Miss Margaret Anderson, Miss Beulah Anderson, Miss Rebecca Stevens, Miss Elizabeth Knight, Miss Elizabeth Turnbull.

Mr. and Mrs. N. H. Garner and little son, Douglas, leave Sunday for their cottage at Coronado Beach where they will spend the summer.

We wish to thank our many friends and acquaintances for thoughtful-ness in giving of their sympathy and floral offerings during our recent bereavement.

GULLS NOSE OUT SANFORD IN SECOND GAME

LATE RALLIES OF CELERYMEN SHORT ONE RUN

Brower Keeps Sanford Hits Scattered And Works Himself Out Of Several Bad Holes

Bailey, Meyers And Dunbar Lead At Bat

Frisbie's One-Handed Stab Of Grounder Is Feature Of Game

Bailey, Dunbar and Bill Meyers did their best yesterday to save the day for Rogers Williams, but in spite of their efforts, the Gulls were led away with the second game of the series by a one run margin. Brower, who occupied the hill for the Gulls, kept the eight hits registered off him well scattered and pulled out of danger on several occasions by masterful pitching.

Playing an uphill game, the Celerymen showed the stuff which brought victory to them in the first half. They did splendid work in supporting their moundman and with the exception of a couple of slips by Bailey in the field, the story might have been an entirely different affair.

Frisbie at short, and Meyers at second, gobbled up everything that came within reach. Dunbar, in left field, captured six flies. Frisbie made a beautiful one-hand stop at the start of the seventh to throw out Brower. It was easily the best play seen on the local field this year.

In the sixth Frisbie led off by beating out a bunt toward the third base line. Manush was under Dumas' long fly to center and Crowe popped to Hornick. Meyers slipped a hit to center and Frisbie raced to third from where he scored on Dunbar's rousing one-base hit to right field.

The eighth saw another run come over the pan when Dumas, runner up, drew a free ticket to first. After Crowe and Meyers had gone out in regular order, Dunbar poked a hot single past third, Dumas stopping at the keystone sack. Bailey came through with a long single that tallied Dumas and sent Dunbar to third, taking second himself on the throw to the plate. Dawson fouled to Biggs to end the rally.

Pitcher Emmett Stout, who left the club a few weeks ago, will be able to return by Monday. In view of the fact that Wilson is crippled this is good news. Stout was a winning pitcher and looked like a great sale prospect.

Bensley will probably be able to return to his post in left by Monday and this will serve to further strengthen the club.

Latzo Wins On Foul From George Levine

NEW YORK, July 10. (AP)—Pete Latzo, minor league champion, remains the king of the welterweight class after defending his title successfully for the second time in 11 days.

The 23-year-old champion won on a foul from George Levine, New York challenger, last night at the Polo Grounds in a bout which ended suddenly at a time when the title-holder had his opponent in retreat under a battering two-fisted attack.

Many in the crowd of 25,000 failed to discern the low blow delivered by Levine and hooped the champion as he sank to his knees. Latzo's superiority, however, was convincing in both the third and fourth rounds.

Light Cigarette Tobacco Production In Florida Is One Of Newest Industries

QUINCY, Fla., July 10. (AP)—Light cigarette tobacco production in Florida is of recent origin. The first curing barns were erected in Gadsden county in 1921, but present development did not take commercial proportions until 1924. The movement followed the Georgia development and is tied up with it. Its success is dependent upon the continuation of the Georgia situation. This latter represents the greatest achievement in the introduction that recent rural history reveals. The 1926 season opened most favorably. True, the average was diminished, but there has been a growing interest and knowledge among the farmers who continue to plant this variety of tobacco and who have made adjustments in the type. So many favorable comments have been made about Florida leaf and so well at first were the buyers with the quality of tobacco produced here that the permanency of the industry in this section is assured to parallel the continued success of the Georgia development. Aside from the bright, or cigaret tobacco, Gadsden county is the original home of the world-famous Florida Shadegrown wrapper, and is also noted for its production of sun filler tobacco. The method of growing cigar wrapper tobacco under a combination cheesecloth and shut shade was originated and developed in Gadsden county. Two factors are responsible for the present Georgia Bright leaf industry. The first and foremost is the ravages of the boll weevil over the cotton belt, bringing about a bad situation and necessitating the discarding of cotton production over wide areas of Georgia farm land. The farmers had no way to turn. They knew how to raise cotton, and could not find another staple to produce that would furnish the ready cash that cotton had done for generations. The agricultural departments of a number of the railroads traversing southern Georgia, in co-operation with the state and federal agencies, introduced the flue-cured tobacco in 1912. After a variable acreage the present forward movement began about 1920, spreading from the central southern and southeastern Georgia, across the southern part of the state, entering Florida in 1924. Besides the boll weevil, it is granted that the organization of the bright tobacco pool in the Carolinas and Virginia had been a very stabilizing influence in sustaining a continued spread of the bright tobacco acreage. For even with the tremendous increase in cigaret production, the acreage adaptable to bright leaf production in the Carolinas and Virginia is sufficient to take care of the increased demands for the leaf. It is, perhaps, the biggest effort in organizing one group of farmers to compete with another group already organized on a production basis. The continuation of the Georgia-Florida industry will parallel the ultimate success to be achieved in the control of the boll weevil, and the success or failure of the bright tobacco pool. It was with the desire to help the small farmer of west Florida, and particularly of Gadsden county, that a group of public spirited citizens of Quincy and adjoining territory studied the situation in southern Georgia in 1922 and 1923. Much cotton had heretofore been raised over the territory and the situation in the production of cigar leaf, at that time, made it desirable that another staple crop be introduced in the territory. The adjoining counties in Georgia were then producing flue-cured leaf.

"a bit of ground and four stout walls"

Nature has placed within the breast of man a passion for some bit of ground and four stout walls that he can call his own. And this desire, once achieved, has ever made of him a finer husband, a prouder father and a better worker for his fellow men. Today, as in the past, man lives in the hope of ushering his family over the threshold of his own home—of sharing with his wife the fulfillment of their fondest dreams. Today, unlike the past, the attainment of your dearest hopes is quite within the bounds of reason. A fuller, richer living—a new and greater happiness—begins for you when first you hear the click of a lock in your own front door.
