Wendy's employee shot

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — An employee of a West State Road 434 fast-food restaurant was wounded in the foot during an apparent holdup attempt early this morning.

It was the second time in three weeks the restaurant was targeted by robbers. Michele Bisconti, 25, Apopka, was wounded in the leg as she fled two gun-bearing men, said a dispatcher with the Altamonte Springs Police Department. Another employee was not wounded.

The shooting occurred shortly after 3 a.m. as the two employees walked from the Wendy's restaurant at 2200 W. S.R. 434. They reported two masked men confronted them in the parking lot and chased them, firing at them. The two suspects fled before police arrived. An Orange County canine unit assisted in searching for the two suspects but did not find the suspects.

Police spokesman Officer Stan Phipps said a similar incident involving two masked, armed men occurred May 29. Bisconti was taken to South Seminole Hospital where she was treated for a wound to her foot.

Meyers defense underway

SANFORD — The defense began presenting its case today in the first-degree murder trial of Anton Daryl Meyers. The state rested its case outside the presence of the jury Friday afternoon. Defense attorney Ed Leinster estimates it will take two days to present his case. Meyers is charged with the 1987 disappearance of Lake Mary teen-ager Kathy Engels.

Review of beer-labeling law

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court today agreed to decide whether the federal government may prevent brewers from labeling beer bottles and cans to show how much alcohol they contain.

The court said it will review an invalidated 1935 federal law that allowed brewers to advertise their beer's alcoholic content only when required by state law.

The federal law, successfully challenged by the Adolph Coors Co., was intended to curb beer "strength wars" that broke out after the repeal of Prohibition.

Justice Department lawyers say the law still is needed, but a federal appeals court ruled it unconstitutional in a restrained commercial speech.

Ten states require beer bottles and cans to show whether they contain alcohol above or below a certain level, usually 3.2 percent. Those states are Arkansas, California, Colorado, Kansas, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Oklahoma and Oregon.

Outside those states, the federal law aims to keep beer from being sold based on its alcohol content. Most beer contains 3 percent to 5 percent alcohol, while malt liquor usually contains 7 percent.

'Save Our Homes' Tax cap could increase property taxes

By NICK PFREIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Disagreements continue over how high property taxes might be allowed to go up, even with approval of the so-called Save Our Homes amendment.

Some officials say homeowners could end up being hurt by the amendment that voters apparently thought would put a lid on increases in residential property assessments.

Seminole County Property Appraiser Bill Suber explained, "People think this will put a cap on how much they are taxed. Wrong. It is supposed to be a cap on increases in homestead-exempt property only. Non-homesteaded property could have their assessments increased beyond that level."

Work is now underway at fine-tuning the wording of the amendment which would be added to the Florida constitution.

"I've given a number of talks before homeowners groups and other gatherings," Suber said. "And before I discuss the proposal I ask my audience how many people voted for this constitutional amendment."

"Most of them raise their hands," Suber continued. "Then my next question is how many people think it will put a three percent limit on any tax increase. Again, a majority of people will put up their hands."

Gov. Lawton Chiles and the Cabinet must approve rules for implementing the amendment, adopted in November 1992 with 54 percent of the vote.

The so-called Save Our Homes amendment could actually trigger a 3 percent assessment increase — even in a year when the property value goes down, said state revenue officials and some property appraisers.

But the measure's main architect disagrees. Lee County Property Appraiser Ken Wilkinson said he is ready to challenge the rules in the Florida Supreme Court if necessary. "They're trying to water down the tax benefits," he said.

Meanwhile, other property appraisers say Wilkinson is all wrong. "If you read what they wrote, it allows for this to happen," said Volusia County Property Appraiser Morgan Gilreath.

The amendment, which takes effect Jan. 1, limits property assessment increases to 3 percent a year or the rate of inflation, whichever is lower.

It also says assessments for people who qualify for the $25,000 homestead exemption "shall be changed annually on January 1st of each year."

Taking a break to chit, chat and chew

When you're playing hard with your friends in the park you need to take a break from time to time. Good friends Chalandra Taylor, Abby Walden and Stephanie Foreman needed to relax as they blazed through their day at Park on Park in Sanford on a recent hot afternoon. A drink, a snack and a tire on which to rest their weary bones was all these girls needed to rejuvenate for another round of play at the downtown fun facility.

SANFORD — With the transition still being made to the year round schedule, most schools are unprepared for the intercession times between the end of this school year and the start of the next year on July 18.

Many schools are depending on traditional summer programs set up by other organizations.

Most schools do not have academic programs prepared, but are encouraging the youngsters to get involved in other activities.

Boys and Girls Club of Central Florida — Educational and cultural enrichment programs will be offered at a variety of locations, including Midway Elementary School, Milwee Middle School and the West Sanford Boy's and Girls Club.

The activities cost $10 per week and take place from 7 a.m. to 2 p.m. After 2 p.m., the club is open to all members to play in a safe environment.

School lunch program tops Seminole trailblazer in nutrition, taste

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — While the rest of the country tries to catch up, Seminole County schools are blazing a nutritional trail to give students meals that are healthier, tastier and even more attractive.

For the last couple of years, the school district food service department has been making improvements in the lunch offerings they have for the students who patronize their lunchrooms.

Foods lower in fat and sugars have replaced the heavier food items of bygone days. Fresh fruits and vegetable are a common item on the menus. And chef's salads are always available for purchase in the cafeterias.

New rules from the Agriculture Department intend for the 25 million children who get school lunches to receive less fat, cholesterol and sodium and more fiber through fruits, vegetables and grains.

The rules, being formally announced today, take effect in four years.

"I believe we are fully in compliance now," said Dan Andrews, director of the district food service department. "I haven't seen the exact figures from the government yet, but if we are not in compliance already, it wouldn't take much to get us there."

Under the rules, schools will have to make sure that no more than 30 percent of lunch calories come from fat and no more than 10 percent from saturated fat.

"We knew this was coming," Andrews said. "We have been preparing for this for a few years, but there was no need to make the schools wait until 1998 for this."

The targets established for fat content and other nutritional goals can be met over a week rather than each day. Computer software with food information will help schools plan menus.

"We are doing all of those things now," Andrews said. "We are pleased to see the direction they are taking."

The way the rules could work, children still might get some of their favorite foods, like pizza and hamburger, but not all on one day.

Rather than a side of fries with a burger or pizza, children might get carrot sticks. The fries might show up later in the week — alongside melon, salad and grilled chicken.

Children might get one chocolate cake a week for dessert, with fruit served the other four.

"We have been using this sort of menu," Andrews said. "It offers the kids balance and variety and teaches

Valerino seeks county judge post

By SANDRA ELLIOTT
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — An attorney who has practiced law in Central Florida for about 21 years has announced he will seek election as judge in the newly created county court.

James R. Valerino, 47, has been in private practice since 1981 and is now with the Winter Park law firm of Cotter, Valerino, Zelman and Farr, P.A. Prior to entering private practice, Valerino was an assistant public defender in Orange County from September 1973 through August 1981.

Valerino is a member of the Florida Bar, the Seminole County Bar Association, the Orange County Bar Association, the Florida Association of Criminal Defense Lawyers and its Pro Bono Committee, and the Central Florida Defense Attorneys' Association.

"We need experienced and qualified people sitting as judges in Seminole County," Valerino said. "I believe that my 21 years of experience as a trial attorney, handling a variety of different types of cases, qualifies me to sit as a county court judge."

Valerino practices in all Florida state courts, United States District Court for the Middle District of Florida and the United States 11th Circuit Court of Appeals in Atlanta, Georgia.

The candidate serves on the Sanford Planning and Zoning Board, is a member of the Sanford Historic Trust and Sanford Rotary Club. Formerly, he served as a commissioner of the Sanford Housing Authority and was commission chairman from May 1991 until May 1992. He is also a past member of the Altamonte Springs Code Enforcement Board.

He and his wife, Charlene, reside on South Park Avenue in the historic district. They have three children, Ryan, presently in the U.S. Navy, Rayna, who just graduated from Seminole High School and will be attending the Culinary Institute at Walt Disney World and Drew, a fifth grader.

Second captain in oil spill suspended

TAMPA — A second captain involved in last year's fiery Tampa Bay ship collision that led to a big oil spill has had his license suspended.

Capt. Charles Chapman pleaded no contest Friday to charges leveled against him by the U.S. Coast Guard for his role in the Aug. 10 wreck near the mouth of Tampa Bay. The crash resulted in hundreds of thousands of gallons of oil being dumped into the bay; most of it ended up on Pinellas County beaches.

Chapman's federal license was suspended for six months, beginning Friday and continuing through Dec. 10.

"His no-contest plea is not an admission of fault," said his attorney, David McCreddie. "It's a pragmatic personal, professional and business decision."

If Chapman had gone to trial before the Coast Guard on the charges, the process could have dragged on for months, McCreddie said, adding that Chapman would have had to surrender his license anyway during that time.

Evert home with newborn son

FORT LAUDERDALE — Retired tennis star Chris Evert says she won't be going to Wimbledon this year. She'll be too busy with the newest member of her family.

Evert, with 2-year-old son Alex and husband Andy Mill in tow, left the hospital with newborn son Nicholas Sunday. Nicholas, born Wednesday, weighed 8 pounds, 7 ounces.

Asked whether she planned to have a third child, she responded she just wanted to go home and enjoy her new son for the time being.

Evert said she would resume her job announcing tennis later in the year.

Fifth-grader's free speech violated

LAKELAND — A school district's decision to prohibit a fifth-grader from distributing religious pamphlets on school premises is a violation of her First Amendment rights to free speech, a federal judge has ruled.

The case is the first in the nation dealing with a student distributing religious material on a public school campus, said Matthew Staver, the girl's attorney.

"The principal's actions in confiscating and destroying the literature simply because it was religious is reprehensible," Staver said.

A lawsuit on behalf of Amber Johnston-Loehner, 13, was filed in U.S. federal court in Tampa in November, claiming her rights were violated Oct. 30, 1992.

Officials at the Lime Street Elementary School struck down her wish to distribute pamphlets that discussed alternatives to Halloween, the Jews for Jesus group and other religious issues.

Amber's mother, Marian Johnston-Loehner, a founding member and former president of the Polk Chapter of the National Organization of Women, filed suit less than a month later. The court ruled Thursday in Amber's favor.

U.S. District Judge Robert Merhige said the policy violates the First Amendment to the U.S. Constitution by requiring prior review before distribution.

The judge also said the policy violates the equal protection clause of the Fourteenth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution because it discriminates against a particular type of material, in this case religious.

Rail line startup money delayed

TAMPA — A congressional panel has dealt a blow that probably will delay a planned commuter rail line connecting Tampa, Plant City and Lakeland.

Instead of a proposed $16.3 million in startup money, the U.S. House Appropriations Committee voted last week to spend $1 million for engineering and design work.

The hitch could delay what proponents hoped would be a 1997 startup for the rail line.

"The real problem is that we just don't have any money in Washington," U.S. Rep. Sam Gibbons, D-Tampa, told The Tampa Tribune for a story Sunday.

Gibbons, recently elevated to Ways and Means Committee chairman, said he was confident the area eventually will get all of the $16.3 million authorized by another committee last month.

But it might take a couple of years, he said.

Voices of Florida

Government spending tops voters' list of concerns

By Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE — Florida's social service programs make close to $1 billion a year in erroneous payments.

The state's $1.8 billion meat inspection program duplicates a federal program.

There are more than $40 million worth of "turkeys" in the Florida budget, according to the watchdog group Florida Tax-Watch.

These are just three of the many examples of government waste that have angered Florida voters that some are pushing for a constitutional amendment that would require the state to get voter approval before raising taxes.

To Jamie Featherstone, an anti-tax activist in Okaloosa County, and others backing the amendment, the state doesn't need to raise taxes to meet its financial needs. All it needs is to stop wasting the money that's already there.

"It's distressing," Featherstone said for a story on voter concerns that ran in six newspapers today. "The taxpayer does not have unlimited resources."

Government waste was a top

At a glance

The Voices of Florida project asks Floridians to evaluate the worries that affect their lives, their view of the state's future and what they believe should be on the political agenda in 1994.

The surveys are an attempt to give voters more input into the political debate and rely less on horse race-type polling that reports who is ahead in a race.

The newspapers participating in the Voices of Florida Project are The News of Boca Raton, the Bradenton Herald, The Florida Times-Union of Jacksonville, The Miami Herald, The St. Petersburg Times and The Tallahassee Democrat.

concern in a recent poll conducted for six Florida newspapers, who've decided to ask voters their concerns and accordingly tailor their coverage of this year's governor's race. About 72 percent of respondents listed government waste as a "critical concern."

Legislators are aware of the problem. They are proposing their own version of a spending cap and are hesitant to raise taxes. They are also considering unconventional revenue sources such as casino gambling, and urging various cost cutting measures such as eliminating administrative positions.

But all the talk is unlikely to cut government spending — or waste, experts say.

For one thing, the budget document itself is so convoluted that it tends to hide areas of waste. For another, doing away with a program means making enemies, something politicians are loathe to do.

"The reality is that certainly dollars can be reallocated from lower to higher priority uses, but that is very difficult for government decision-makers," said Glenn Robertson, a budget director for two former governors. "Seemingly wasteful spending in low-priority areas is continuing."

To control spending, the state needs to examine which programs are meeting their goals and which aren't, critics say.

Residents concerned with crime

By Associated Press

The fear of crime among Floridians is soaring from Miami to Monticello — and for good reason.

Florida has had the worst crime rate in the nation for more than a decade, and the state is likely to remain No. 1 as long as it has many of the elements that invite crime — warm weather, a coastline that welcomes drug trade as well as easy-prey tourists, vulnerable retirees, waves of immigrants, and a volatile blend of races and cultures.

Auto theft boosts Florida to the top of the crime charts. Since 1983, the number of reported stolen vehicles has leaped by 165 percent.

The single biggest reason for Florida's high crime rate is the increase in juvenile crime, following a national trend. Juve-

Military-backed leader declares state of emergency in Haiti

By DAVID BEARD
Associated Press Writer

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti — The army-backed president declared a state of emergency Sunday, invoking voodoo deities and Haiti's long battle for independence in hopes of uniting the country to withstand tougher economic sanctions and a possible invasion.

The videotaped message, broadcast before dawn on national television, brought denunciations from the United States and other backers of Haiti's exiled president, Jean-Bertrand Aristide, ousted in a 1991 coup.

It was unclear what measures would accompany the state of emergency. There was no sign of increased military patrols in the capital Sunday and streets were calm.

Emile Jonassaint, installed as provisional president by the military May 11 in a move internationally condemned as illegal, ordered the military to "prepare for every eventuality."

The 81-year-old former judge said Haiti "is faced by extreme danger — denigrated, ridiculed, humiliated, strangled. Haiti now risks invasion and occupation. It will be defended. ... Haiti must not die."

He said the United Nations was persecuting Haiti because it did not have the atomic bomb, an allusion to North Korea. But, he added, "Haiti has protectors they don't know about," ending the speech by invoking the voodoo god Agawou.

Tracy Langston Robinson, 851 Jerico Drive, Casselberry, was arrested at her place of employment Friday afternoon by Oviedo police and charged with grand theft. Her employer alleged that Robinson, a bookkeeper, had taken, over the past eight years, $37,958.60 in payment for cash invoices without entering the amounts into the journal. The arrest report said that Robinson said that she had taken money but had paid it back.

Herring was charged with possession of drug paraphernalia.

False prescription

Domestic violence

The following charges of battery/domestic violence were made:

• Wayne Milton Wilhelm Jr., 34, 641 Riverview Ave., Sanford, was arrested Saturday by Seminole County Sheriff's deputies after his girlfriend reported that he had bitten her on the cheek, pushed her into the shower, injuring her back and pulled her out of the shower by grabbing and twisting her mouth, at the residence they shared, following a verbal argument.

• Mark Owne Fleig, 27, 488 Cypress St., Altamonte Springs, was arrested early Saturday morning by Seminole County Sheriff's deputies after an argument with his girlfriend, that started Friday night, became violent. They were returning from Orlando, when the argument began. He reportedly backhanded her in the mouth. She exited the car and walked home. The suspect returned to the home and started pounding on the bedroom door. When she opened it, he pushed her against the door, threw her to the floor and started punching her and yelling at her.

Aggravated battery

Linda Jo Mercer, 53, 2821 1/2 Palmetto Ave., Sanford, was arrested Friday by Sanford police and charged with aggravated battery/domestic violence after she allegedly stabbed her boyfriend in the arm with a broken bottle. The boyfriend, Walter Robert Wagner, 53, same address, reportedly struck Mercer in the eye. He was also arrested and charged with aggravated battery/domestic violence.

Traffic stops

The following persons were charged with driving with a suspended driver's license:

Single car accident

Tony Clayton David, 32, 103 Sugar Maple Court, Sanford, was arrested by Florida Highway Patrol early Saturday morning for driving under the influence after he crashed his car into a brick wall at Dike Road and Howell Branch Road.

Warrant arrests made

The following wanted persons were taken into custody:

• Annette Ford, 25, #7 Higgins Ter., Sanford, for failure to appear on a charge of driving with a license suspended or restricted.

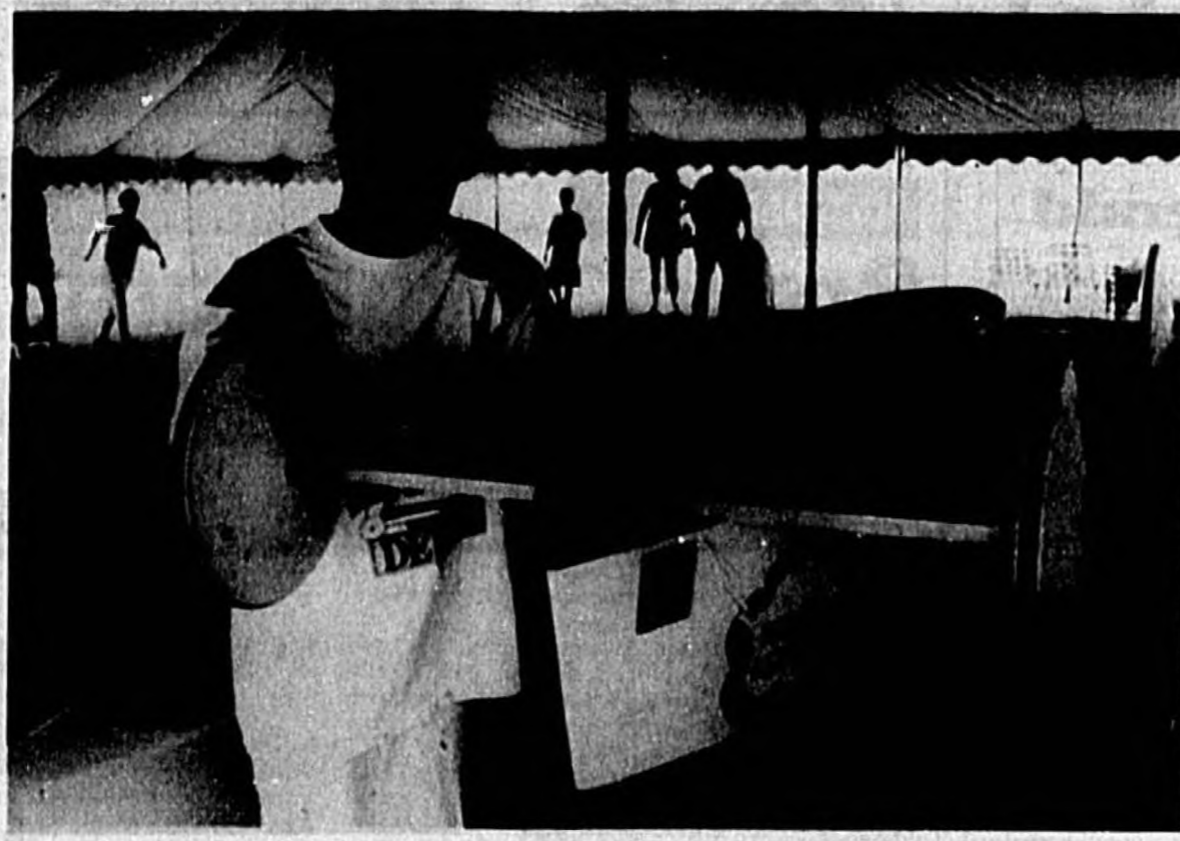

• David Phillip Mahoney, 19, 930 Little Fawn Road, Geneva, for violation of probation for charges stemming from possession of cannabis, less than 20 grams.

Sanctuary problems surface Wildlife sanctuary under fire by USDA

By Associated Press

NORTH FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP) — Octagon Wildlife Sanctuary is no Busch Gardens, no Lowry Park Zoo. It may not be a sanctuary for much longer either.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture has closed it down.

The 15 acres of hot, barren, poorly drained scrubland near the Charlotte-Lee County line is home to more than 100 injured, sick, abandoned or unwanted — mostly exotic — animals.

Founder Peter Caron, who lives in a small shed on the property, says if he had the money the animals could roam in large areas filled with fancy landscaping and be cared for by a staff in white lab coats.

But Caron doesn't have the money.

So the animals pace back and forth in cages — or pens fenced with chain link — and Caron and his corps of volunteers do the best they can. For the USDA, it's not good enough.

The sanctuary is now closed to the public and barred from accepting additional injured or unwanted animals by a court order obtained by the USDA's Animal and Plant Health In-

Immune poachers face more counts

By Associated Press

FAKAHATCHEE STRAND — Three Seminole Indians who say state law shields them from charges of poaching rare Everglades plants will face other charges, a prosecutor says.

John LaRoche, 32, Vinson Osceola, 24, Dennis Osceola, 34, and Russell Bowers, 41, were arrested in late December on second-degree misdemeanor charges.

Mike Petty, a park ranger at Fakahatchee Strand State Preserve, said they were caught bringing bags and pillow cases full of plants out of the preserve.

The rare plants included nine species of native orchids and five species of rare bromeliads, all considered threatened or endangered under state law.

Three of the accused men are Seminole Indians, and they said LaRoche, who is not a Seminole, was working for the tribe.

Therefore, they contended that state law exempted them from penalties for harvesting endangered plants.

"If you buy into their opinion, then the Indians can clear-cut the state parks of Florida and there's nothing we can do about it," Randy Merrill, assistant state attorney in Collier County, told The Tampa Tribune for a story Sunday.

"I don't think that was the intent of the legislation," Merrill argued.

He said he will charge the men with violating state rules that protect all plants and animals in state parks and preserves, regardless of whether they are endangered.

Defense attorney Allan Lerner of Fort Lauderdale said if the law wasn't intended to shield the Seminoles, the state should change the law, not prosecute the Indians.

A hearing is scheduled in early July on a motion by Lerner to dismiss the case.

Inspection Service.

A USDA inspection resulted in a laundry list of violations of the federal Animal Welfare Act. The sins ranged from poor record-keeping and sanitation to having too few employees to carry out ongoing programs of disease control and prevention, euthanasia, pest control. Too little running room for animals in the dog family was another problem the USDA cited.

There was no suggestion of mistreatment of the animals, no allegations of cruelty or even serious illness or disease.

It's just that at Octagon, being behind is a way of life.

For 15 years, people have been bringing animals from roadside zoos that close, injured or untrainable circus animals, pets that were cute as cubs or kittens, but lost some of their furry fascination when they gain 500 pounds and an insatiable taste for raw meat.

Caron has just two employees. Their chief job is raising money to buy enough meat to feed 45 cougars, 11 tigers, four leopards, seven bears, four coyotes, three lions, three foxes, a jackal, a serval and a wolf. The baboons, skunks, ringtail lemurs, goats, coat, pigs, gerbils and the prairie dog aren't nearly as expensive to feed.

There are special events, such as the annual telethon to raise money. And the sanctuary asks all adult visitors for a $5 donation, which helps pay the bills.

But if these findings are not corrected, the USDA will not let Octagon reopen. If Octagon can't reopen, it won't have the money to make the corrections. Octagon spokeswoman Alene Greto said recently.

If the place passes the reinspection, reopens, and fails a follow-up inspection, a $10,000 fine will be imposed.

The violations cited by the USDA — and the sanctuary is not contesting them — sound serious.

But Greto, one of the two employees, contends the specific violations that inspired the general statements in court documents, actually were nit-picking.

Smokey the leopard had a thin coat. Clyde, a cougar, had a bum leg. And there were no records to show they'd received veterinary treatment, although they had.

"This is all so terrible," said volunteer Lynn Wittmeir. "When the government does something like this and costs us money, it's the animals who suffer. It's in their own regulations: We should not be shut down if the animals are not in jeopardy — and they're not."

"You Can Lead a Horse to Water..."

Kudos to derby participants

There are several dozen very happy children in Central Florida today. They are the participants in Saturday's Central Florida Soap Box Derby.

Naturally, some of the youngsters and their parents may be happier than others due to the fact that they won. Yet each of the children had a day in which they were the featured players.

No doubt, Sanford Recreation and Parks Director Mike Kirby and his staff are worn out today. They have been knocking them selves out for many weeks in helping to train youngsters, building some of the cars, giving technical inspections, and conducting trial runs a week ago.

Now that it's over however, we know they are as pleased as the children who were entered in the competition. Anyone who makes another person happy receives many happy returns. The Recreation and Parks people did just that.

The city also deserves a round of applause. They helped in creating the new Derby Park, with its ever growing facilities, parking areas, and excellent track. People who have attended the races during the past years are well aware of the constant improvements.

The Sanford derby races started on French Avenue. A few blocks of the street had to be closed for most of the morning hours. Businesses in the area often suffered from a lack of drive-by customers. Yet it was the best arena available, and everyone worked together to make the races successful.

Now with the new track specially dedicated to the small cars for small people, this annual Sanford event is gaining in popularity and is becoming one of the featured attractions of the year.

This year, the city went beyond what has been done in the past. A new classification was added to the races, and special double-passenger cars were built for use by the handicapped.

Regardless of the heat or weather, regardless of winning or losing, every person who attended Saturday's racing event as well as all those who helped bring it about, are to be commended.

Our city employees were paid their regular salary for this week, but reimbursement is not enough for the smiles they gave to hundreds of faces, young and old alike.

Call the city or Recreation and Parks department and say thank you. Those people certainly deserve it.

Health insurance

During the current special session, Florida lawmakers are considering a plan to expand the availability of health insurance in our state. This plan is of particular interest to maternal and child health advocates because mothers and babies comprise a key group of beneficiaries in state health care reform. Women and children make up the largest component of the uninsured. They are the group which has experienced the effects of costly dependent coverage. They are part of young families which frequently include wage-earners who work part-time or in jobs which do not offer health care benefits — about 45 percent of employees in Florida.

Yet, mothers and babies need health services. Pregnancy and related diagnoses are the most frequent reasons for hospitalization under employer and other private health care plans. And poor birth outcomes, which require expensive treatment, are directly linked to access to prenatal care and related maternity services.

Florida Health Security, the governor's plan for providing coverage to the uninsured, is an important strategy for increasing access to maternal and child health services. This program would provide subsidies for more than one million Floridians with incomes below 250 percent of the federal poverty level, enabling them to enroll in managed care plans offered through community health purchasing alliances. About 800,000 children would be eligible to participate in this program.

While some have criticized the scope of the proposed program, it is worth noting that a family of four at 250 percent of poverty has about $80 left after monthly expenses and cannot afford to purchase health insurance on their own. If they choose to participate in this program, this family and their employer will pay for 85 percent of the cost of their coverage. By including families up to 250 percent of poverty, the state will qualify for $2.5 billion in additional funds over the next five years.

Florida Health Security, as proposed, will ensure young, working families have access to insurance coverage during their prime childbearing years.

Breyer favors order over dissent

Federal sentencing guidelines greatly limit the ability of judges to determine punishment despite what they have recently learned at the trial of a particular defendant and the particular circumstances of his or her crime. A growing number of judges around the country have passionately criticized these guidelines. Federal District Judge Jack Weinstein in Brooklyn, N.Y., for instance, claims that the guidelines "require, in the main, cruel imposition of excessive sentences."

Moreover, Professor Albert Alschuler of the University of Chicago Law School points out, "You scratch the guidelines anywhere, and you get a horror story. Judge Stephen Breyer is as responsible for the mess as anybody else."

Breyer, the president's nominee for the Supreme Court, was indeed a principal architect of the sentencing guidelines, and he is proud of that accomplishment. As for the protesting judges, Breyer has said glibly that they are disappointed only because the guidelines have caused them to lose some power.

Particularly revealing of the way Breyer's judicial mind works is a compromise he accepted while serving on the United States Sentencing Commission from 1985 to 1989. In the Legal Times, Natani Hendavid begins by reporting the glowing descriptions of Breyer that were similar to the hosannas that were heard on his appointment to the court from an extraordinary spectrum of senators, among them, Ted Kennedy, D-Mass., Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, and a n d S t e f e n Thurmond, R-S.C.

Breyer is almost universally described as a "brilliant and a wonderful consensus builder." On the Sentencing Commission, the compromises created by Breyer's required delicate tap-dancing around issues that were complex legally and sensitive politically — much like those facing the Supreme Court.

I have spoken with law professors who know Judge Breyer and with attorneys who have appeared before him. All are impressed by his intelligence; nearly all describe him as a "technocrat," a term never used, as far as I recall, by the media.

Breyer, to be sure, has company in believing that it is fair to add prison time for offenses that did not result in a guilty verdict. All the circuits, except the Ninth, have approved the concept of including in a sentence some charges for which the jury has acquitted the defendant. This, of course, significantly nullifies the purpose of having a jury, but that does not appear to disturb the future addition to the court.

Rosty may have sacked an innocent

WASHINGTON — Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., deserves the presumption of innocence on 17 felony counts. But in the matter of Rosty, the congressman's guilt is beyond question.

Rostenkowski recently replaced a defense team headed by Robert S. Bennett, the third case lawyer to represent Rosty during a federal investigation that preceded his May 31 indictment. Afterward, Rostenkowski promised to present a vigorous defense against charges that he engaged in a two-day pattern of extortion in exchange for meat or other protein source; two servings, measured at three-quarters of a cup, of fruits or vegetables, bread or an alternative, such as cash chips; and milk.

Schools, for example, can serve a 1.5-ounce hamburger and can afford leaner meat because of the smaller portion. The rest of the protein could come from the yogurt or some other food.

The rules follow that spirit of making what students seem to crave with what they need — refusing to target meat, processed foods or milk as products to be shunned.

"The department continues to believe that it is not necessary to obtain essential nutrients from a variety of foods," the rules say, calling for "moderation" in consumption of such foods.

That kind of language gave comfort to the National Food Association, which had feared the department would take aim at ready-made foods in other food.

"Angels" brings Kushner second Tony in two years

By MICHAEL KUCHWARA
AP Drama Writer

NEW YORK — "Angels in America: Perestroika," the second half of Tony Kushner's epic drama about the politics and anguish of AIDS, won the 1994 Tony Award for best play Sunday, the first time in Tony history that a playwright has taken the top drama prize two years in a row.

"Passion," a musical about obsessive love by Stephen Sondheim and James Lapine, was chosen best musical, beating out Walt Disney's "Beauty and the Beast," in a hotly contested battle.

Said Kushner, "Twenty-five years ago on June 27 ... was the Stonewall uprising which marks the official beginning of the gay and lesbian liberation movement. I'd like to dedicate this award to my gay and lesbian brothers the world over who are fighting for both a cure and for citizenship."

Kushner picked up the same best-play award last season for "Millennium Approaches," the first part of "Angels."

Sondheim and Lapine each won Tonys — the composer receiving the prize for best score, while Lapine won the award for best book of a musical. "Everyone deserves an award who's written a book for a musical," sighed Lapine as he graciously accepted his honor.

"Passion" tells an adult story of the desire by a plain, unhappy woman for a handsome military officer in 19th century Italy. Donna Murphy, who plays the tormented woman, was named best actress in a musical.

"God has blessed me with so many opportunities," said an emotional Murphy after yelling, "Hi, Mom and Dad," to her parents who were sitting in the balcony.

"Beauty and the Beast" managed only one award — the costume-design prize given to Ann Hould-Ward.

Boyd Gaines, the giddy romantic hero of "She Loves Me," was chosen best actor in a musical.

Diana Rigg, the vengeful title character in "Medea," was named best actress in a play, while Stephen Spinella, the AIDS-afflicted hero of "Perestroika" was chosen best actor.

"I shall carry this home, not only this, but the wonderful memories of American audiences and playing on Broadway," Rigg said.

"It's been an incredible year," said a subdued Spinella who then named four actor-friends who had died during the year.

For Spinella, it was his second consecutive Tony win. He captured the featured-actor prize last year for playing the same character in "Millennium Approaches," the first half of the epic "Angels in America."

"Carousel" and "An Inspector Calls," two productions from England's Royal National Theater, were chosen as the best musical and play revivals.

"Carousel," the Rodgers and Hammerstein classic, won a total of five Tonys, more than any other show. Its other prizes were for director-musical, Nicholas Hytner; choreography, given posthumously to Sir Kenneth MacMillan, who died in 1992 before the revival opened in London; featured actress-musical, Audra Ann McDonald, who plays the chipper Carrie in the show; and scenic design, Bob Crowley.

"An Inspector Calls," an English drawing-room detective story by J.B. Priestley, won four awards. Besides revival, it took prizes for director-play, Stephen Daldry; featured actress-play, Jane Adams, and lighting design, Rick Fisher.

Jarrod Emick, the strapping young baseball player in "Damn Yankees," picked up the prize for featured actor musical. In the play category, the featured-actor award was won by Jeffrey Wright who plays a sassy, tart-tongued nurse in "Perestroika."

The evening's most poignant moment was the appearance of director George Abbott, who will be 107 years old on June 25. Abbott was accompanied by Gwen Verdon and Jean Stapleton, two of the original performers in "Damn Yankees," which Abbott directed in 1955. He brought a cheering audience to its feet.

Gary Smith, producer of the Tony Awards telecast, proclaimed the theme of the show as "Past, Present and Future," but it was the past that prevailed over the last 12 months. Seventeen old shows — 10 plays and seven musicals — opened on Broadway during the season that ended May 31, compared with 20 new shows and special attractions.

It didn't hurt the box office. Buoyed by such crowd-pleasers as "Carousel," "Abe Lincoln in Illinois," "Damn Yankees," "Medea," "Grease" and "She Loves Me," Broadway attracted more than 8.1 million theatergoers during the season, the highest attendance level in five years. Grosses climbed to $356 million, up from $327 million the previous year.

Jessica Tandy, Broadway's original Blanche DuBois in "A Streetcar Named Desire," and Hume Cronyn, Tandy's actor husband, were the first recipients of a special Tony Award for lifetime achievement.

The award for regional theater, based on a recommendation of the American Theater Critics Association, was given to the McCarter Theater of Princeton, N.J.

Fun for all

Lawrence Overton, 2, and Michela McConnon, 3, had a spectacular time playing on the playground equipment at Ft. Mellon Park with their classmates from the First United Methodist Church Day Care in Sanford. The youngsters took a break from their every day activities at the day care center to spend a few moments in the sun, enjoying the view, the breeze and the thrill of outdoor activities. Overton climbed a geodesic sphere looking to get a global look at his world. McConnon slid into her fun a little hesitantly, but she ended up having a good time.

The Navy on a diet? Middies don't like it much

By TOM STUCKEY
Associated Press Writer

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — Give us back our food, one midshipman pleaded. You're starving us, another complained.

What's this? A food shortage at the U.S. Naval Academy? Hardly, says Lt. Cmdr. Michelle McAtee, who just completed a tour of duty as food service officer, with the task of feeding 4,100 healthy, active and generally hungry young men and women.

The target of complaints sent to Ms. McAtee on her electronic mail was a low-fat diet initiated by the academy in January.

The diet means fewer hamburgers, less ice cream and fried food, smaller portions of meat and more grains and vegetables.

But it doesn't mean a shortage of food or starvation, said Ms. McAtee, who enjoyed sparring with midshipmen by E-mail.

"I told them, 'You can't tell me you're starving. We don't have chinchangas today, and that's what you wanted to see. But we have scallops and ham casserole. We have a salad bar,'" she said.

The Naval Academy began taking small steps toward a lower fat content several years ago, Ms. McAtee said. But the big change came last winter under prodding from the academy's Board of Visitors, the appointed civilians who oversee academy operations.

The board had been hearing complaints from some midshipmen — especially athletes and women — unhappy with the food served in the academy dining hall.

"We started to bring our policies in line with recommendations of the National Academy of Science," Ms. McAtee said.

The biggest difference is probably in the meat portions. The old servings of 8 to 10 ounces of chicken have been cut to 4 ounces.

"There is quite a bit of difference visually. ... The mids just look at that and say, 'Oh, my! You are starving us,'" Ms. McAtee said.

With new menus, the academy also changed its shopping list.

Less fatty cuts of meat have replaced rump roasts. Scrambled eggs at breakfast are made with a supplier's batch that provides three egg whites to every single egg yolk. Breakfast sausage is turkey, not beef or pork.

Even the old Maryland favorite crab cake has changed. It has more crab, less fatty filler and a special breading so it can be baked, not fried.

The fat count? One gram instead of 12.

Many midshipmen like the new diet.

"It doesn't bother me, I eat smart," said Ryan Smith of Trenton, N.J. Smaller portions aren't a problem because "if you want more, you can always get it," he said.

But Greg Martin of Windsor, Vt., is unhappy.

"I can't stand it," he moaned. "They stopped giving us a lot of the food we like, like hamburgers."

The diet was quite different in 1987 when Lt. J.G. Rodney Ward, now a member of the academy's public relations staff, entered the academy.

Milk shakes and ice cream were served frequently. Midshipmen got lots of quarter-pound hot dogs and the very popular quarter-pound hamburgers, which "made you tired in the afternoon because they were greasy and really good," Ward said.

He began to notice changes his senior year when waffles and pancakes began to replace some of the usual breakfasts of eggs, cheese, bacon and sausage.

The academy now offers lots of low-fat choices: a potato bar with 1,500 baked potatoes, 8,500 low-fat "good morning muffins" each day at breakfast, a salad bar with 400 pounds of lettuce and 125 pounds of tomatoes.

Meat sauce for spaghetti is served on the side so midshipmen can control the portions. Milk with 2 percent fat is the standard, and skim is available.

But in the end, the academy can only do so much to control what a midshipman eats, Ms. McAtee said.

It costs more to hit the road

LOS ANGELES — With more drivers hitting the road, the price of gasoline at the pump has risen 2 1/2 cents a gallon nationwide, an industry analyst said.

"The rise in prices started in mid-March and it has taken on much more speed. This is the largest yet," Trilby Lundberg said Sunday. "There are two reasons here: the rise in crude oil prices passing through into the gasoline market and a very vigorous summer demand. A lot of people are on the road."

The average cost at the pump, including all grades and taxes, rose from 114.06 cents on May 20 to 116.32 cents Friday, when the latest Lundberg Survey of 10,000 stations was completed.

The survey found the average price of gas at self-serve pumps was 109.46 cents for regular unleaded, 120.12 cents for mid-grade unleaded, 128.51 cents for premium unleaded. Regular leaded was 112.83 cents.

New 777 jumbo jet successful in test

By GEORGE TIBBITS
AP Business Writer

EVERETT, Wash. — The Boeing Co. put its new 777 jumbo jet in the air on a successful test flight, reporting only minor glitches after spending about $4 billion on four years of development work.

Sunday's three-hour, 48-minute flight "was not perfect, but as close as they come," said a jubilant Capt. John Cashman, the jet's chief pilot.

Cashman and his co-pilot were the only people on board, but the hopes of Boeing's workforce were riding along: the company has announced 147 orders for the new jet, which sells for $116 million to $148 million. Boeing also spent billions to build new factories and assembly lines for the plane.

"I'm pumping enough adrenaline now to fly without an airplane," Boeing President Phil Condit said.

The pilots performed more than three dozen tests. They stopped and restarted an engine, flew at near-stall speeds and raised and lowered the landing gear several times. At one point, they simulated landing on a cloud.

The 209-foot-long plane is nearly as large as a Boeing 747-400 but with two engines instead of four. Even at full throttle, its engines were no louder than a throaty hum and didn't drown out the cheers of thousands of Boeing employees and family members watching at Paine Field, at the company's headquarters.

Cashman said the only glitches were a tripped circuit breaker, a cabin pressure relief valve that stopped working, a backup flight deck instrument that went out and some minor vibration on landing gear doors.

AMA picks first black president

By BRENDA C. COLEMAN
AP Medical Writer

CHICAGO — A California internist was selected Sunday to be the first black president in the American Medical Association's 147-year history.

Dr. Louie R. Bristow, who is currently chairman of the AMA board and its only black member, will take on the largely speech-making role of president a year from now. The AMA selects its president-elect a year ahead.

Bristow said race would not define his role, "because, quite simply, it has not happened once in all the years that have been leading up to today."

He was unopposed for the position and his selection met with a standing ovation at Sunday's opening day of the AMA's annual five-day policy-making meeting.

"He's a good, skilled, compassionate physician ... and he functions extraordinarily well in group dynamics," said Dr. Alan R. Nelson, a fellow internist, former AMA president and former board chairman.

"He's a visionary," Nelson continued. "He was certainly influential in having the AMA develop strategic planning that went five and 10 years into the future."

Bristow, 64, has never made race an issue working his way up in the nation's largest organization of doctors, which 25 years ago had local chapters that excluded black members.

Dr. Louis W. Sullivan, former secretary of health and human services under President Bush, said his friend Bristow has an approach to business similar to his own.

"If I had a disagreement with the president, I determined that the most effective way to ... get a change was not to go public with that, but to have private discussions within the organization," he said.

Under Bristow's leadership, the AMA's board has refined its national health care-reform proposal to call for a blend of insurance coverage mandates. Employers in companies with 100 employees or more would be required to buy insurance for their workers. For firms with fewer than 100 workers, employees would be required to buy individual coverage, with the help of sliding-scale subsidies.

The AMA's 430 policy-making delegates, who represent the organization's 294,000 members, will vote this week on whether to accept that proposal.

"It is not likely there will be a major change in policy regarding health-system reform," Bristow said Sunday.

AROUND THE NATION

Tabasco Cat wins Belmont

NEW YORK — Tabasco Cat, who won his first race at Belmont without much fanfare, got a lot of attention with his second victory at the track because it came in the Belmont Stakes.

Tabasco Cat stalked Kentucky Derby winner Go for Gin for much of the 1½ miles and put him away in the stretch to become the ninth 3-year-old to accomplish the Preakness-Belmont double. He had finished sixth in the Derby.

Tabasco Cat, ridden by Pat Day, took the lead approaching the eighth pole and won by two lengths over Go for Gin, who was 3½ lengths in front of Strodes Creek. Completing the order of finish were Signal Tap, Amathos and Ulises.

The time was 2:26 2/5, the fifth fastest running in the 126-year history of the race.

Oklahoma denies Tech

OMAHA, Neb. — Damon Minor and Rick Gutierrez had three RBI each, and Oklahoma's record-setting performance gave coach Larry Cochell his first College World Series title in a 13-5 victory Saturday over Georgia Tech.

The run total was a record for a championship finale and a 16-hit assault, matching another title-game record, denied Georgia Tech's Danny Hall a spot in the record book. He had a chance to become the only coach ever to win a national title in his first year at a school.

Oklahoma (50-17) entered the game as the hottest-hitting team in the NCAA tournament and the Sooners didn't let up. Aric Thomas and Darvin Traylor had three hits each, and four others had two apiece.

Georgia Tech (also 50-17) got homers from Lake Brantley graduate Jason Varitek and Nomar Garciaparra.

Hot, humid conditions perfect for Irish squad

By TONY DESORMIER
Herald Sports Editor

SANFORD — Jack Charlton finally got what he came to Florida for: heat and humidity . . . breath-robbing, brain-swimming, spine-wilting heat and humidity.

Perfect.

As the head coach of the Republic of Ireland's national soccer team, Charlton and his squad are training at the Seminole Sports Training Center in preparation for their upcoming World Cup matches. A big part of the process is getting used to the weather.

"We want the players to get into the heat and sweat so that we can adapt to the loss of fluids," said Charlton earlier in the week. "We want it as hot as possible."

"I want the players to lose a few pounds each day through sweating. Most of these players have come off a football season and are in top shape. This training is to get them acclimated."

But the first few days, marked by early morning thunderstorms, frustrated Charlton's plans. The weather pattern finally broke Thursday and the heat and humidity began to climb.

"I'm enjoying the heat," said Charlton after Friday morning's session. "The players, they're moaning and groaning. That's what we're here for, to acclimatize. It's good for them to moan and groan."

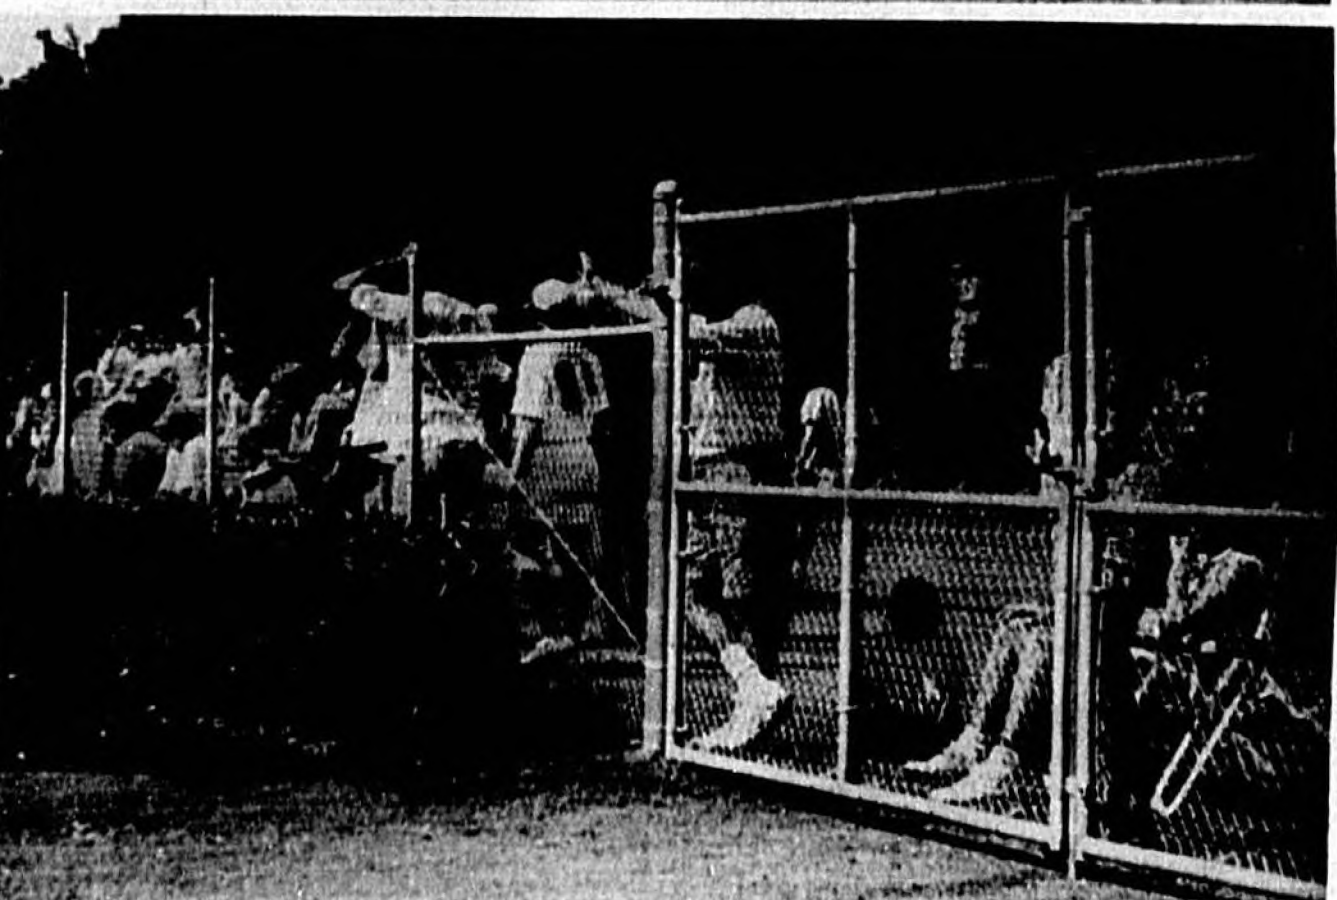

The Irish team, which is listed as a 40-to-1 shot at winning the World Cup, went out for another session Friday afternoon. They were scheduled for two workouts Saturday and one today.

Then, as Charlton described it, three hard days of two-a-day workouts (10 a.m. and 2 p.m., subject to change) Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday.

Grouped with Italy (6-1), Norway (30-1), and Mexico (50-1), Ireland will play Italy next Saturday (June 18) at Giants Stadium; Mexico on June 24 in the Citrus Bowl; and Norway on June 28 at Giants Stadium.

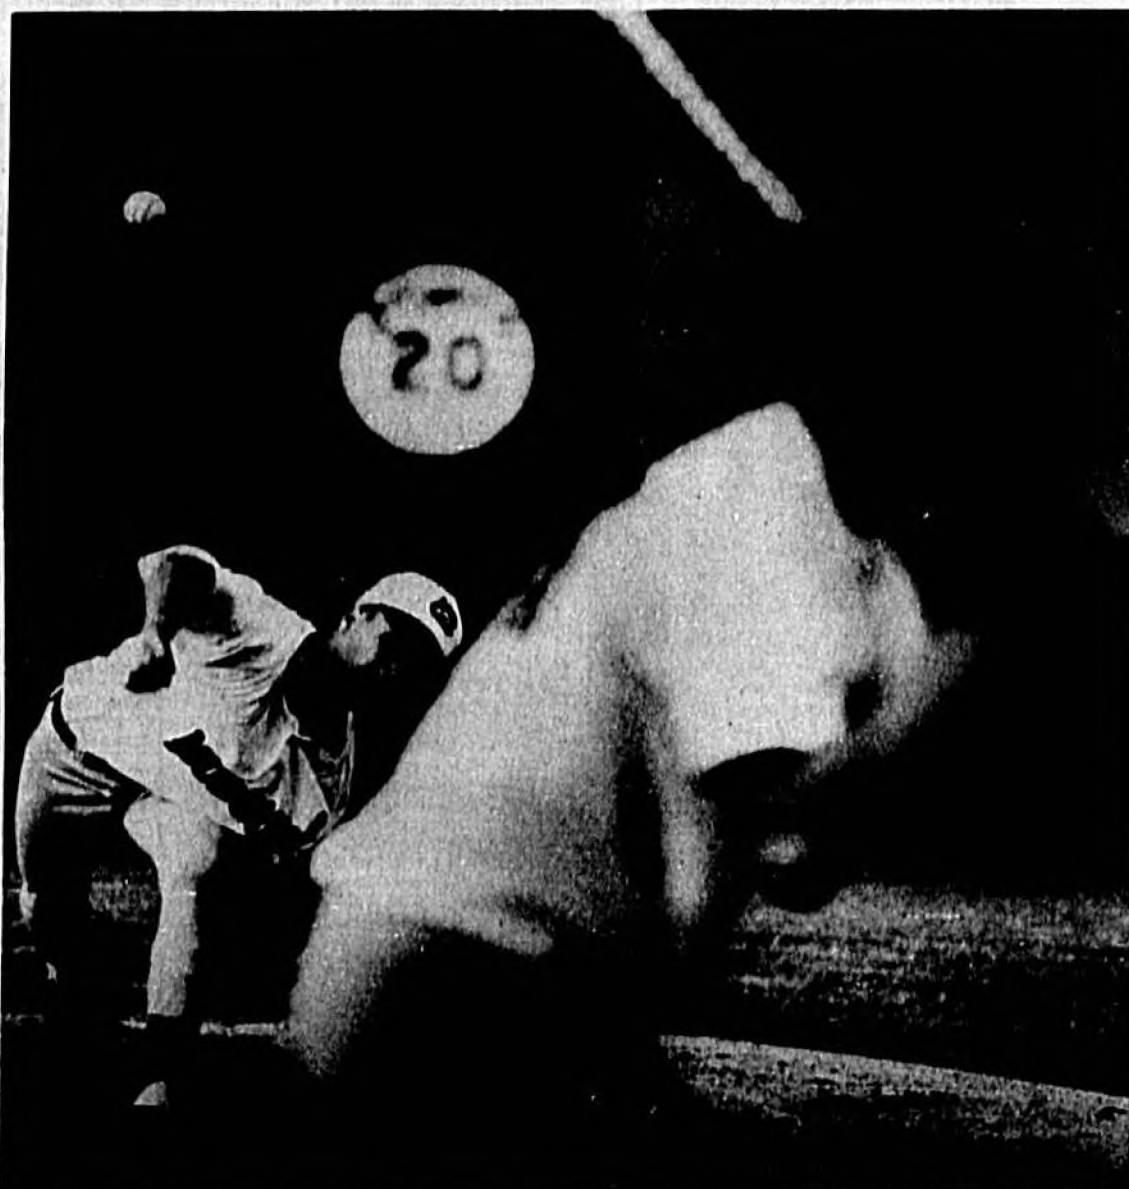

Playing what one Irish reporter described as "total soccer" — everyone attacks and everyone defends — superior fitness is key part of Charlton's game plan.

"Thursday was our first experience with the heat," Charlton said. "But the players realized right away that they don't recover as quickly in heat like this. As one of them said,

Mudcats combine pitching, homers in winning opener

From Staff Reports

LAKE MARY — You can not beat clutch hitting and outstanding pitching.

Friday at the Lake Mary High School baseball field, the Lake Mary Mudcats' NABF (National Amateur Baseball Federation) A-team got a combined one-hitter from three pitchers and timely home run hitting from their offense in besting the Sanford Post 53 B-team, 11-1, in the summer opener for each squad.

Carlos Colon, Luis Rivera and Robert Vessey tossed the gem as the Mudcats of head coach Allen Tuttle finally got in a game after having a pair of contests with Apopka rained out the past week.

The Mudcats got three runs off Sanford starter Jimmy Rabun in the second inning, then increased the lead to 5-0 in the third as Jason Yero took a Rabun offering out of the park for a two-run home run.

Rabun and reliever Chris Youmans then settled down as Post 53-B held the Mudcats scoreless again until the bottom of the sixth, when the home team exploded for six runs off Youmans and Brad Jenkins.

The big blow of the inning was a grand slam off the bat of Bryan Shumaker.

For Post 53-B, which has had four games washed out by the recently persistent rains, its lone run came in the top of the seventh inning against Vessey.

Sanford's lone hit was a single off by Alan Gehr.

Providing the offense for the Mudcats were Yero (home run, single), Jay Reynolds (two singles), Shumaker (grand slam) and Scott Bryan and Rene Perez (one single each).

Planning time for hunters

Summer is almost here, and for sportmen who hunt the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission's public wildlife management areas, it is time to make plans for the 1994-95 hunting season.

The first phase of the quota hunt program will begin June 1. Regular and special quota hunt applications for the coming hunting season are available from the agency's regional offices, county tax collectors and their subagents.

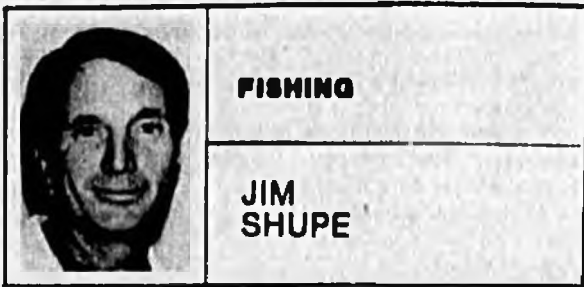

The quota hunt program is a tool used by the commission to control and distribute hunting pressure in order to prevent overcrowding and overharvest on Type I wildlife management areas during specific time periods.

The quota, or maximum number of hunters allowed on an area, is based on each area's size, type of habitat, game populations and types of regulation restrictions.

Sportmen wanting to hunt on a wildlife management area during a quota hunt period must submit an application. The regular nine-day application is for permits to hunt the first nine days of the general gun season. The special hunt application is for permits for archery and muzzleloading gunhunts. The special hunt application also includes some short two- and three-day general and modern gun hunts. Hunters may submit one regular nine-day and one special hunt application.

To apply for quota hunt permits, hunters must purchase a 1994-95 wildlife management area stamp. These licenses and stamps also will be available June 1. Hunters must provide proof of purchase as instructed on the application form.

Permits are issued during the first phase based on a random selection of applications received (not postmarked) in the commission's Tallahassee office from June 1 through 4:30 p.m. EDT, June 13. Applications received after June 13 will compete on a first-come, first-served basis for permits left unissued after the random selection.

FISHING

SHUPE'S SCOOP

Hunting season is closer than you think. In the southern portion of South Carolina, gun season begins August 15! Bucks are still in velvet, and this is the only opportunity in the entire country to harvest such a trophy during gun season.

FISHING FORECAST

Bass fishing has slowed down considerably in lakes, but still remains fair in the river. Passaic Lake will continue to be the hot spot as long as the water remains in the banks. Bream and catfish will be the two most reliable species throughout the summer months.

As you may well expect, snook are really hitting at Sebastian Inlet now that the closure has begun. Tarpon will be showing up soon, and bluefish, jack crevalle, redfish, ladyfish, and flounder are also biting.

Captain Jack at Port Canaveral reports spotty dolphin and wahoo action offshore. Some boats are doing very well, while others only catch barracudas. Last weekend, the action was taking place from 140 feet out to the Coacs. Inside the Port, expect flounder and sheepshead to be cooperative. Trout and redfish are rated as good on the flats of the Banana and Indian Rivers.

Sheepshead, bluefish, drum, redfish and jack crevalle have been thick at Ponce Inlet. Live or dead shrimp is the best bait for all species. Trout and redfish are rated as good in the Mosquito Lagoon area.

Gamble paying off for Varitek

By TOM VINT
AP Sports Writer

OMAHA, Neb. — The gamble for Georgia Tech catcher Jason Varitek seems to have paid off.

The senior from Altamonte Springs turned down a reported $400,000 to sign with the Minnesota Twins, who picked him in the first round of the major league draft a year ago. He elected to return to Georgia Tech, hopefully to lead the Yellow Jackets to a College World Series berth, continue his education and take aim at being a No. 1 draft pick again.

It has all come true for the switch-hitting slugger, who slept in his car last fall while awaiting scholarship help for one more year as a Yellow Jacket.

A consensus All-American, Varitek was selected the college player of the year by the American Baseball Coaches Association and Baseball America, and the Seattle Mariners made him their No. 1 draft pick the day before the College World Series.

Saturday, Varitek ended his career on a strong note, personally, going two-for-three with a home run and a pair of walks, but it was not enough to reach his goal of a national championship as he and his Tech teammates fell to Oklahoma 13-5 in the finals of the College World Series.

There were some who scratched their heads over the gamble Varitek took to return. "It gave me a chance to go further my education," he said. "That was the main thing. Things just weren't ready at the time and things didn't work out with Minnesota."

"It makes it that much easier of a gamble for us to be here, but if you say it's the wrong thing to come back, I'd like to know what's wrong about it."

Coach Danny Hall — who came to the school from Kent State in December to take over for Jim Morris, who went to Miami — said the transition to a new team was made easier because of Varitek's presence.

"I think our chances of being here had not been as great had he signed a pro contract," Hall said. "We're talking about a guy who is the hardest worker on the team, makes everyone else go a little harder, is an inspirational leader, just a tremendous player, plus he's a catcher."

"He's involved in almost everything defensively from calling the pitches to keeping guys from stealing on us. He's just an invaluable asset to our team."

Hall said Varitek is like a player-coach. He helped smooth the transition, gave the new coach insight on the team, communicated what worked well for them in various plays and what the players liked to do.

"It makes it a lot easier," Hall said. "For me, it's been an easy transition. He's got a lot of leadership capability."

While Hall has said all week that he has a trio of gifted athletes with outfielder Jay Payton and shortstop Nomar Garciaparra joining Varitek, his catcher is something special.

"I think he certainly is deserving of every award he has gotten," Hall said.

when you make a run, you have to give yourself a few seconds to recover.

"But they're getting used to it. They'll get over that, which is why we're here."

Charlton's staff is taking every precaution to make sure the team doesn't feel the effects of the heat too severely. The players are weighed four times a day, before and after every practice, and are instructed to drink fluids continually.

The beverage of choice is Ballygowan Irish Spring Water. According to a member of the Irish entourage, an estimated 30,000 liters is being trucked, shipped, and air-freighted in for the players (and Irish media's) consumption.

"We went to the FIFA doctors for advice (on training in extreme heat) and they suggested what should be done," Charlton said. "We took that and balanced it out with our own experience and put that into operation."

While the weather typically proved to be uncooperative, the morning storms that pelted the area driving the Irish indoors twice, the Seminole Sports Training Center's facilities proved equal to the task.

The fields, which have sugar sand as a base, drained quickly and remained firm, while the main building allowed Charlton to give his squad a substantial workout.

"We don't deserve such great fields," Charlton said earlier in the week. "We may learn to play football with all this. And this (building) is something. We don't have anything like this back home."

Late bloomer Jeff Conine becoming a star with Marlins

By STEVEN WINE
AP Sports Writer

MIAMI — Batting practice is over, and the Florida Marlins' hottest hitter wants to cool off. Sapped by another steamy evening at Joe Robbie Stadium, Jeff Conine rests in front of the clubhouse TV. A weatherman announces that the humid June air feels like 102 degrees. "Feels like 102? No kidding!" Conine says. The Marlins' left fielder has reached the verge of stardom, but not without a sweat. Conine was a mediocre pitcher at UCLA, finishing his career with an ERA of 6.06. He went in the 58th round of the amateur draft, became an everyday player and spent two undistinguished seasons in Class A. Unprotected by the Kansas City Royals in the 1992 expansion draft, Conine was chosen 22nd behind such suspects as Eric Helfand, Kevin Reimer and Scott Aldred. Two years later, Conine has played every game in Marlins history and reminds his manager of Joe Rudi, a three-time All-Star left fielder for the Oakland A's in the 1970s. "Joe Rudi — what position did he play?" Conine says. "I didn't follow baseball much when I was a kid." And he never dreamed of a professional career. Conine was 24 when he realized he had a shot at the majors, and 27 by the time he completed his first full big-league season last year. Now, the late-bloomer ranks among the National League leaders in hits, RBIs and total bases. Conine's consistency has helped keep the Marlins around .500 during slugger Gary Sheffield's two stints on the disabled list. Persistence, rather than natural ability, makes Conine a potential All-Star. "He just keep grinding and grinding," manager Rene Lachemann says. "He has turned himself into a very good hitter and an above-average outfielder." "I obviously don't have as much natural talent as a lot of other people," Conine says. "So I have to make it up with hard work." Conine has physical skills, holding his own in the weight room and exhibiting the hand-eye coordination of a world-class racquetball player, which he is. He plays in tournaments during the offseason and, with his wife, finished third in the U.S. mixed doubles championships last year. "The pros now are hitting 160 mph," he says. "So to track that ball at 160 mph has to help you track a fastball at 90." Conine can do both. Going into the weekend, he was hitting .321 with 10 home runs, 46 RBIs and a .483 average in the previous week. He hit .292 as a rookie last year but lacked power. Now he says he may be capable of a .35-homer season. "I wouldn't rule it out sometime in the future, but it's not a goal I'm aiming to obtain," he says. "I'd be happy to hit 20 to 25 and drive in a hundred. Then I've done my job the majority of the time." Conine turns 28 this month and says he's still maturing as a player. But he's already consistent at the plate, steady in left field and even better at first base, if the Marlins decide to move him there. "Every time I go out on the field, I'm looking to impress someone," he says. "Whether it be myself or my peers or my manager."

Near perfection in Playtime Darts

Special to the Herald

SANFORD — Ken Strawn wasn't perfect, but he was close, real close.

Strawn, the team captain of Nice & Easy's Real Easy in the Playtime Darts Men's B League, had a near-perfect eight wins in play last week to top Playtime's Hot Shot list.

The week's top performance by a female league member was turned in by Jan Barineau, the captain of Uncle Nick's D.J.'s in the Women's A League, who won five games and had a turkey.

Also making the men's Hot Shot roster were M.T. Muggs' Nathan Fodrie (seven wins and a bull); T.J. May (six wins, three bulls, a turkey, and an eight-throw and a nine-throw dart out); Nice & Easy's Henry Exposito (six wins and a bull); and Dennis Adams of Quivers (six wins).

Other women earning Hot Shot status were Quivers' Judy Telsa and Lesa Rhodes of the Touchdown Pub (both with 4 1/2 wins).

LADIES' A LEAGUE
Things got tight last week, when the front-running Wastabees out of the Bamboo Cafe (86 wins) saw their lead sliced in half. Score at Touchdown's No Answer (79 wins), which moved from third to second last week, now trails by just seven games.

Tied for third at 75 wins apiece are Bamboo Magic from Bamboo Cafe and D.J.'s out of Uncle Nick's.

They're trailed by Uncle Nick's Kat W/2 Tails (58 wins) and M.T. Muggs' Mugg Shots (58 wins).

LADIES' B LEAGUE
With three weeks left in the season, the races in this five-team circuit are for second and fourth place.

Quivers' Unpredictables (100 wins) continues to enjoy a reasonably comfortable lead over the rest of the pack. Team No. 5 from Score At Touchdown (85 wins) is 15 games back, just one game in front of Whiskey River's Leather & Lace (84 wins).

Battling for the fourth and final playoff berth are Nice & Easy's Good Answer (80 wins) and Bad to the Bone from Time Out (59 wins).

MEN'S A LEAGUE
Heading down the home stretch of the regular season, league-leading Blind Darts of Quivers (108 wins) continues inch away from the field and now leads Q-Biz's Oops (89 wins) by 19 games.

The loop's other four teams are scrambling for the third and fourth spots in the playoffs. Currently, Bamboo Cafe's Bad Attitude (88 wins) and We're Back from Sir Walter's (83 wins) has the advantage over Da Bulls from Nice & Easy (62 wins) and Bamboo Cafe's BRJ (60 wins).

MEN'S B LEAGUE
Nothing's been decided in this division, with 17 games separating the top six teams.

Heading into play this week, Bamboo Cafe's 2 Big, 1 Old (99 wins) is in first place, just in front of S.O.L. from Nice & Easy (98 wins). Right behind them are the Cobras out of Quivers (96 wins) and Nice & Easy's Real Easy (94 wins).

The lead quarter followed closely by Score At Touchdown's War Eagles (88 wins) and the Muggs Studs out of M.T. Muggs (82 wins).

Completing the circuit are Team No. 6 from Quivers (88 wins); Bamboo Cafe's Youngblood (87 wins); the Bonecrushers out of Quivers (57 wins); and Sir Walter's entries Bushwackers (49 wins) and E.M.T. Pockets (27 wins).

MIXED A LEAGUE
Enjoying the highest win total and largest lead of any first-place team in the organization are The Untouchables from Nice & Easy (109 wins), who have all but clinched the regular season championship and the No. 1 seed in the playoffs.

In second place, 29 games off the pace, is Bamboo Cafe's Team No. 2 (80 wins).

Rounding out the standings are Pointe-R-U from Bamboo Cafe (76 wins); Uncle Nick's Ron's Kids (63 wins); the Dart Deputies from Nice & Easy (55 wins); and Bamboo Cafe's Slowly But Surely (54 wins).

MIXED B LEAGUE
Score at Touchdown's Team No. 6 (91 wins) added two games to its lead and now leads the Bullshooters from Q-Biz (80 wins) by 11 games.

Right behind the Bullshooters, who jumped from fourth to second last week, are Team No. 4 from Q-Biz (79 wins); M.T. Muggs' Mom's Muggers (77 wins); Good Question from Nice & Easy (74 wins); and Bamboo Cafe's Bamboo Bees (72 wins).

Trailing the pack are Stingers N Tweekers out of Bamboo Cafe (54 wins).

Seniors shine at BowlAmerica

Special to the Herald

SANFORD — Barbara Richards had the best series of the week, but it was Mary Bangs, Don Bangs, Buck Benton and Ted Shontz that were the most consistent stars in a week that belonged to the senior league bowlers at BowlAmerica-Sanford.

Richards was the only kiegler to top the 580 mark for a three-game series, posting a monster 604 series in the Saturday Senior Citizens League on June 4th.

She was also the only woman bowler to top the 200 mark in a single game, rolling a 211 during her 604 series. The next highest game was a 194 turned in by Pat Saylor as she was rolling a top series of 480 during the Wednesday Senior Citizens League on June 1st.

But for the second straight week it was Mary Bangs dominating the action on the women's side, posting the top series score in two leagues and the second best series in the other two leagues in which she competed. In addition to her adeptness in series play, she also had the top individual game in one league (a 189 in the Senior Citizens Pinbusters League on June 3rd) and the second best individual game score in another league.

On the men's side, Benton had the best week, posting the top series score in two leagues (the Wednesday Senior Citizens League on June 1st and the Monday Senior Citizens League on June 6th), including tying for the week's best with a 580 in the Monday Senior Citizens League on June 6th. He also had the second highest individual game in two leagues.

Equaling Benton for the best series was Gene Rogero, who also had a 580 in the Monday

Senior Citizens League on June 6th. Rogero also had the best game of the week, rolling a 247 on June 6th.

Shontz also had a good week, throwing the best series with a 547 in the Senior Citizens Pinbusters League on June 3rd and finishing second to Benton in the Wednesday Senior Citizens League. He also had the top individual game in one league.

Don Bangs only placed in one league, rolling a second-best 557 series in the Saturday Senior Citizens League on June 4th.

But he had the best individual game in two leagues (the Wednesday Senior Citizens League on June 1st and the Saturday Senior Citizens League on June 4th) and the second best game in a third. His best was a 215 in the Wednesday Senior Citizens League.

School year ends with celebrations and recognitions

Fifth graders at Lake Mary Elementary School have enjoyed quite a number of activities to mark the end of their primary years.

The entire class participated in graduation ceremonies from the D.A.R.E. program in early May. They cut loose at a dance sponsored by the school's HIP Club (Healthy Involved Peers) and traveled to Silver Springs on a field trip.

The annual Fifth Grade Celebration was held Friday, June 3 at Semoran Skate Way. The students were served a continental breakfast and a hot dog lunch. The day full of activities included the signing of a "Class of 2001" T-shirt by friends and teachers.

Most of the classes held ice cream socials on the last day of school.

Mary Rowell & Shari Brodie

The Fifth Grade awards ceremony was held Tuesday night, June 7. Parents and family of the students gathered to see several honors conferred. Certificates were presented to students who had participated in Math and Science Summer Seminar (NAESS), June 8-11 in Annapolis, Md. Terrence is on track to earn a Gold Seal Scholarship which includes maintaining a 3.5 or above grade point average in the following classes: accounting, typing and business computer applications.

He is active in varsity football, wrestling and weightlifting. Terrence is a member of Future Business Leaders of America, National Honor Society, Alpha American United, and Beta Club (an honor society). Terrence says his favorite organization is Christians in Action headed by Pastor Merrile of the New Life Word Center.

Lash installed as club president PEO members sponsor and endorse education

DeLores Lash was installed president of the Woman's Club of Sanford Inc. at the June meeting. Installing officer was Midge Giddens, past president of District VII of the Florida Federation of Women's Clubs.

The installing officer used fruits to represent the various duties of the officers and department chairmen, and upon completion, the combination of fruits made a tempting fruit basket. Officers installed with the president were: Fran Morton (in absentia), first vice president; Faye Siler, second vice president; Phyllis Conklin, third vice president; Ruth Gaines, treasurer; Libby Prevatt, recording secretary; and Polly Pezold, corresponding secretary.

Department Chairmen installed were: Pat Brooks, Arts; Rose Jacobson, Public Affairs; Eve Rogero, Home Life; Pat Foster, Education; and Viola Frank, house chairman.

President Jean Metts conducted the business meeting and following installation ceremonies after lunch, she relinquished the gavel to President Lash.

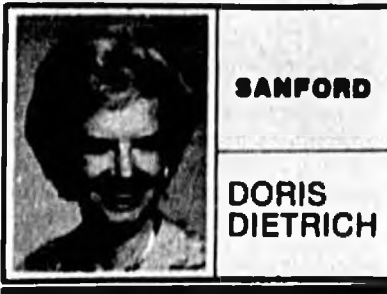

Ann Brisson introduced the following new members: Gloria Black, Sylvia Franks and Kathy Kraanoff. Doris Stein was welcomed as a new member at a previous meeting.

Mary Anne Cleveland, chairman of the Education Department, presented a $500 scholarship to Cheryl Haley. Annually, the club presents this scholarship to a deserving young woman returning to the classroom. Haley attends Seminole Community College and has her goals set on law school. The club presents a fashion show and luncheon annually to finance this event.

President Metts presented the club's "Others" award to Tawana Metts for her outstanding contribution to the club as well as to the community. The retiring president's gift to the club was a beautiful silver service.

Motifs synonymous of a light and airy summer picnic decorated the clubhouse at the final meeting of the season. The fall season will resume in October.

Luncheon hostesses were: Patti Ferrero, chairman; Jane Porter, Joanne Lucas, Karen Richardson and DeLores Lash.

PEO members endorse education

Pam Bach, Connie Williams and Linda Benck recently attended the PEO State Convention in Fort Lauderdale. President Mary Nancy Terwileger was unable to attend since she was in Baltimore attending the 80th reunion of her class from the University of Maryland School of Nursing.

The PEO (philanthropic education organization) is an international society of women who own and support Cotley College in Nevada, Mo. The group awards scholarships and arranges loans and grants for deserving women to attend this college. There are three Sanford chapters which meet at members' homes.

The Friday, June 3 meeting was held at the home of Patty Speer with Margaret Vitale as co-hostess. Following the meeting, several gathered at the charming, newly opened "The Rose Cottage" on Park Avenue for a delightful luncheon.

Among those attending were Nancy Morgan, Ruth Lee, Ada O'Neil, Elaine Mero, Miriam Andrews, Doris Brumley, Jean Fowler and Mary Lou McDonald.

Two former church members, Jim Thomas and Kip Younger, were among 22 in the state ordained as elders and Mabel Chapman Thomas was the recipient of the coveted Harry Deerman Award for Evangelism. On May 25 Mabel received the Laywoman of the Year award from the church.

Pam Hale was overall chairman of a celebration luncheon at the civic center for about 80 from Sanford along with former church pastors who sponsored the two elders. Assisting Pam were Carol Peagram and Marian and Lester Rethwill.

Wives of the elders, Elaine Thomas and Sherry Younger, were among the special guests. Jim Thomas is married to the daughter of Ginny and George Chapman who also attended the event.

Choir members of the church joined other choirs from All-Florida on opening night of the annual conference.

2 ordained elders; 1 wins state award

Following the closing session of the Florida Methodist Conference last Sunday at the Lakeland Civic Center, members and former pastors of the First United Methodist Church gathered to honor three of its own.

Two former church members, Jim Thomas and Kip Younger, were among 22 in the state ordained as elders and Mabel Chapman Thomas was the recipient of the coveted Harry Deerman Award for Evangelism. On May 25 Mabel received the Laywoman of the Year award from the church.

What started out as a trip to their second home at Fairfield Mountains on Lake Lure in North Carolina to see the dogwood and laurel in April, expanded into a six-week vacation for Jean and Richard (rear admiral, U.S.N., ret.) Fowler.

McMillan attends Naval Academy program

Congratulations to Terrence McMillan, an 11th grader at Seminole High School and migrant student who was chosen to participate in the Naval Academy Engineering and Science Summer Seminar (NAESS), June 8-11 in Annapolis, Md. Terrence is on track to earn a Gold Seal Scholarship which includes maintaining a 3.5 or above grade point average in the following classes: accounting, typing and business computer applications.

He is active in varsity football, wrestling and weightlifting. Terrence is a member of Future Business Leaders of America, National Honor Society, Alpha American United, and Beta Club (an honor society). Terrence says his favorite organization is Christians in Action headed by Pastor Merrile of the New Life Word Center.

Marva Hawkins

Terrence will experience a military and academic environment. It will indeed be an unique mission; he will be exposed to the way midshipmen are developed during their four years at the academy. They are developed morally, mentally and physically and they are imbued with the highest ideals of duty, honor and loyalty. The Naval Academy has a high level academic program. There is a great emphasis on sports and physical conditioning because they teach team work, leadership, appreciation for fitness and the ability to cope with stress.

After returning from Annapolis, Terrence will prepare to attend the U.S. Coast Guard Academy at New London, Conn. where he will get the experience of that small armed service. This rewarding work will give Terrence a great sense of accomplishment. It will be challenging says his teacher.

Terrence McMillan lives with his aunt, Hattie Byrd, East Sanford. Family and friends and the Seminole High School family wish Terrence the very best.

SANFORD — One of Jeff Drennen's favorite pastimes is going to a pow-wow or just discussing the customs and the old ways of the Indians. His ancestry is from the Cherokee tribe, although he is actually a native of Virginia. Drennen has been in Sanford for 27 years. He considers himself a "single dad of two children and a struggling artist." As much as he would love it, all his time is not consumed in his art. He is a welder by trade and employed at ABCO Fabricating in Winter Springs.

Drennen enjoys etching into bone which is an art called scrimshaw. "Scrimshaw is an art of ancient lore," he said. "What interested me in it were the tiny minute details. It's an art that started over 200 years ago on the whaling ships. The men that did it were called scrimshankers because the shank they used to sew the sails is what they used for their bone work."

Sometimes entire voyages would be recorded on bone. They'd do scenes recording their whole voyage as stories on the bone." He said another thing that sparked his interest was that it is such a vanishing art. "People do laser etching that's computerized and fake. This is handmade and true to the work." Going professional and full time with his art is one of Drennen's aspirations. He jokingly added that he'd appreciate anyone that could help him do that. His creations are very impressive and always originals. "It allows you to put whatever you want on that piece of bone. I like to do a lot of my work with the Native American flair. I guess since my ancestry is

Jeff Drennen with some of his art: scrimshaw on bone chokers/necklaces, tomahawks and arrows.

Native American, I tend to create that way. I've really given away more than I've sold."

He mentioned that he is starting to keep a record of each piece he makes by signing and numbering it. "I don't want to be one of those artists who has to die to gain recognition," he said. "I hope my work will not go unnoticed and by keeping track of the pieces maybe one day they'll be collectibles. It's just still such a vanishing art and years from now they may be even harder to find." Drennen also has plans to go with a more nautical side in his scrimshaw work. "I'd like to do pieces for boat owners and personalize the piece with a picture of their boat. I know how men feel about their boats. Sometimes they treat their boats better than their wives."

Drennen spoke of the other things he creates, and his spiritual life. "A lot of my spiritual roots tend to come from the Indian people and their teachings, the old people and their old ways. Their beliefs tend to boil down to a respect for every living thing on the planet." His handmade necklaces are made from buckskin or leather lace tied. Glass beads and feathers are sometimes added. The bone used is either cow or horse bones. "I cut the bone with a band saw," he said. "I normally cut them in an oval or circle, but I can cut it in any shape. I use a hand drill to cut the hole in the blank (bone) and then put it on the leather or buckskin. I always use tile or glass beads and never the cheaper ones." His Indian art also includes arrowheads that are cut with a special tool. "I knap them of flint, like the old ways."

Mandellas and Dream Catchers are more of the detailed work he does. He spoke of the history and meaning behind them. "Mandellas are made from hidden feathers, sheep's wool and wooden beads. Mandellas are an Indian house blessing for prosperity and for good fortune to help bring peace to your house. Dream Catchers, according to legend and the old ways, are to catch the good dreams and the good aspects, qualities and thoughts, and let the bad pass through."

Drennen admits the real drive in his work is his passion for small, intricate detail. "Like the bone chokers and such that I make. It really makes my heart beat fast and want to make more when people notice the detail that I put into them." He also spoke of the fact that many of the gifts he liked to make he creates personally for people and each have a spiritual significance. He said that someone has found their Indian name, he can personalize the bone choker with the animals such of that name. He gave examples such as Running Wolf or Wolf Eagle. Painting cow skulls is another facet of his work he enjoys as well as making handmade tomahawk bows and bow sheaths. A carving from driftwood was another of his unique creations. "I carve them and then shellac with clear coat."

Away somewhat from his Indian creations is his welding sculptures. "I know some buildings are actually built around centerpiece," he said. "I like to get with the architects and design the sculptures."

Drennen's ancestry and beliefs were quite evident through all of his work. He can also be seen frequently wearing a baseball cap and denim jacket also with his Native American style of painting on it. Many have been pleased by his intricate and personalized work.

Spice 'Up' your language

DEAR ABBY: Some time ago, you published an item on the word "up" — how frequently it is used, and how comical it sometimes sounds. Will you please publish it again?

MRS. F.M. DRUMMER, KNOXVILLE, TENN.
DEAR MRS. DRUMMER: Your letter was a real "upper." Many thanks. Here's the piece:

ADVICE

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

WHAT'S UP?
 "We've got a two-letter word we use constantly that may have more meaning than any other. The word is UP.
 It is easy to understand UP, meaning toward the sky or toward the top of a list. But when we waken, why do we wake UP? At a meeting, why does a topic come UP? And why are participants said to speak UP? Why are officers UP for election? And why is it UP to the secretary to write UP a report?
 "The little word is really not needed, but we use it anyway. We brighten UP a room, light UP a cigar, polish UP the silver, lock UP the house and fix UP the old car.

 "At other times, it has special meanings. People stir UP trouble, line UP for tickets, work UP an appetite, think UP excuses and get tied UP in traffic.
 "To be dressed is one thing, but to be dressed UP is special. It may be confusing, but a drain must be opened UP because it stopped UP.
 "We open UP a store in the morning, and close it UP in the evening. We seem to be all mixed UP about UP.
 "In order to be UP on the proper use of UP, look UP the word in the dictionary. In one deak-sized dictionary, UP takes UP half a column; and the listed definitions add UP to about 40.

"If you are UP to it, you might try building UP a list of the many ways in which UP is used. It may take UP a lot of your time, but if you don't give UP, you may wind UP with a thousand."

 I was raised to respect my elders by calling them "Mr." and "Mrs." and I don't feel comfortable calling them by their first names.
 They have asked me not to call them "Moin" and "Dad." Please advise me in your column, which they read religiously.

Little League closing day

The last games of the season for Lake Mary Little League were played Sunday, June 5. Closing ceremonies were held and awards were given out. The Lake Mary Little League is a relatively new organization. This has proved to be a phenomenal season for recruitment. There were a total of 33 teams in the league this season, four in T-Ball, ages 5-6; ten in T-Ball 2, ages 7-8; six in the Minors, ages 9-10; six in the Majors, ages 9-12; three in the Juniors, ages 14-15; and one in the Big League, ages 16-18. Registration has already begun for the fall season.

In an effort to raise money for the league, a go-cart was raffled off Sunday and for a mere quarter, little leaguers could practice their pitching by throwing at the dunking booth.

A season of practice produced some very good throwing arms and the Reds coach, Vic Elyca, spent a lot of time in the water.

YOUR BIRTHDAY
June 12, 1994

In the year ahead, you might find yourself to be more daring and enterprising than you have been in the past. This could be a marvelous asset, provided you don't become reckless or foolish.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If you're counting on others to do for you today things that you should take care of yourself, you could be barking up the wrong tree. Be self-reliant and responsible. Gemini, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $1.25 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 4465, New York, N.Y. 10163. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Even though material conditions could be improving for you, this does not give you license to be wasteful or extravagant. Don't spend now what you might need later.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Today you might be a shade too opinionated for your own good. You may feel you're impressing others, and you are -- but in the wrong way.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) There is a possibility you might let the cat out of the bag today pertaining to something significant you promised to keep secret. Be mindful of what you say and to whom.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Don't let your extravagant whims gain control of your purse today. This might happen if you pal around with persons who can afford what you can't, or if you're trying to make an impression.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Usually you have an appreciation for the virtues and abilities of persons with whom you're involved. Today, however, you might feel your way of doing things is right, and theirs isn't.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) In your haste today to promote issues or interests about which you're enthused, there's a chance you could leave out lots of pertinent information in your presentation.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

How do you view trust? To my mind, it is one of the most important attributes in a marriage. If the spouses don't trust each other completely, they might as well pack up and head to the divorce court.

Also, as Harold Macmillan, former prime minister of Great Britain, said, "A man who trusts nobody is apt to be the kind of man nobody trusts."

In bridge, it is important to trust your partner. When something weird happens, it is comforting to know that you can rely on your partner's bidding or play. Then you have a better chance of correctly working out the position.

In today's deal, cover the East and South hands. Against four hearts, you, West, lead the spade four. East wins with the ace and returns the club seven: eight, acc. two. Should you switch to the diamond jack or give partner a club ruff? Why?

North's three-spade cue-bid showed a hand worth a high-card raise to four hearts.

After a spade to the ace and a club to the ace, West saw that if his partner could ruff the next club, it would be the third defensive trick. Where was number four? Surely it could only be the diamond ace. But if partner had the diamond ace and a singleton club, he would have cashed the diamond ace before leading his club, to clarify the situation.

So West switched to the diamond jack at trick three, defeating the contract by two tricks.

Note that if West leads a club at trick three, declarer will come home with an overtrick: a difference of "only" three tricks.

More money from the IRS for you?

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

More than 14,200 workers in Seminole County will qualify for the Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) this year. Many workers however, don't have to wait until next year to get it.

Advance EITC payments allow low income workers to increase their take-home pay by as much as $102 per month, starting with their next pay check.

"For the 1992 tax year, 14,008 taxpayers in Seminole County claimed the credit on their tax returns," said Dale Hart, district director for the IRS in Central Florida. To qualify for the EITC in 1994, a taxpayer's income for the year must be under $23,755.

According to the IRS, fewer than one percent of workers eligible for the credit are getting the advance payments. "Our studies show that many employees are unaware of how to get this extra money in their paychecks," Hart said, "while others fear their employers' reaction if they ask for the credit to be added to their paychecks."

A number of employers however, view the advance payment as a means to increase their employees' take-home pay almost immediately without increasing their payroll burden. Employers also appreciate the advance payments easing of employees day-to-day financial concerns and the stream of additional funds into the local economy in a matter of weeks.

"Major efforts are underway to educate taxpayers and eliminate their fears. The government is encouraging public interest and advocacy groups, business associations, CEOs, and federal agencies to promote the credit and put the advance EITC in the pockets of the American people now," Hart said.

To help notify taxpayers about the advance payment option, the IRS has begun sending notices to all taxpayers who received the credit on their 1993 return. The notices include a Form W-5, "Earned Income Credit Advance Payment Certificate," and information advising taxpayers who may qualify to return the completed four-line certificate to their employer.

Write A Want Ad That Sells!

YOUR CLASSIFIED AD works best when it contains what the reader wants to know.

GIVE FACTS Put yourself in the buyer's place. What would you want to know? List the item's age, condition, size, brand name, model and approximate value. If you're selling a car, state the type of transmission, mileage (if it's low) and special equipment.

DON'T EMBELLISH! It's risky business to exaggerate and it won't increase your chances of success. Misleading information may get a buyer to your house. It may also get you a punch in the nose.

AVOID ABBREVIATIONS: While a few abbreviations can save you space, too many of them strung together can create confusion. A confused reader won't take time to sort out your meaning.

INCLUDE PRICE: Surveys indicate that buyers are more interested in the merchandise when they know the price. This applies to everything from household furnishings to automobiles. Good merchandise, priced fairly, is the best guarantee of success.

BE AVAILABLE: A telephone number is fine if you're at home when your ad runs. If you're not going to be home, state the time you will be. Most people won't call back twice.

USE YOUR NAME: Put your name in your ad. It gives credibility to the item you are advertising. You may even get results when someone who has read your ad sees you in a restaurant or walking down the street. That's the advantage of being in a small community such as ours.

NEED A NEW ROOF?

GET A FREE INFORMATION KIT

Before you contract to put a new roof on your home, there are several things you should know....

1. Deal only with a licensed, insured, experienced roofing contractor.
2. Check out the roofer you decide to use with your local Better Business Bureau, Department of Professional Regulation, and trade organization.
3. Make sure your roofer used only quality materials -- think about it, you're going to all the trouble to contract with the right roofer, the least you should do is make sure that he uses the best quality shingle your budget allows...and a quality shingle is only pennies more. Not much when you think that the shingles we sell are warranted by the manufacturer for 20 years or more...some for as long as 30 years.
4. Sunniland Corporation has been serving the people of Florida since 1884, and we are roofing specialists, stocking only quality shingles and tiles.

Send for a free kit with important information on such things as:

- How the home owner can be liable if an unlicensed, uninsured worker is injured at the site.
- How to avoid property liens if your roofer does not pay his bill.
- How to get the best value for your roofing dollar.
- Why now is probably the best time to re-roof your home.

Winter Springs warm, friendly place to settle

By SUSAN WENNER
Herald Correspondent

WINTER SPRINGS -- For the past six years, Sue Coffman and her husband, Gary, have lived in Winter Springs. They have been married for 37 years and have three sons, Jim, Mark and Scott, and six grandchildren. Coffman said the thing that attracted her most to Winter Springs was its friendliness and convenience. "It's also one of the most economical places to live in central Florida."

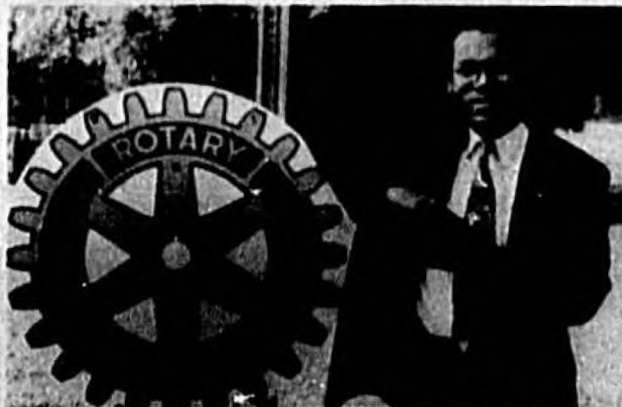

They originally came here from Illinois and moved to another area of central Florida but didn't find what they were looking for there in the type of city they wanted to stay in. "We were looking for a place where the people were warm and friendly," she said. "We also wanted an economical place to live. That's what we found when we came to Winter Springs." Coffman was active with

Banker banks on kids in the future

By SUSAN WENNER
Herald Correspondent

LONGWOOD — Leading an active single life was the best way to describe Hannah Miller. Her involvement led her down many avenues in the Longwood area. She found some time after her busy schedule to spend time with her three cats at home.

Miller is the vice president and banking manager at the Nationalbank in Longwood. She's in-involved with the government task force with the Longwood/Winter Springs Chamber of Commerce. "We try to address issues that are important to the business people and work with the city to make changes,"

she said.

Miller also works as a mentor once a week at the Longwood Elementary School. "We have several employees at this branch that go and help," she said. "We try to help the kids see that there is a bigger world out there. The teachers submit names of students that they feel could use extra attention. The parents sign consent and agree to the help."

The March of Dimes board was another group that shares her time. "I'm on the committee that plans a national event of wine tasting. Donations are paid to come to the event and the money goes to the March of Dimes," Miller also works with the capital funds portion and the funds allocation of the United Way organization. "I'm involved with two different committees," she said. "We visit agencies and see if they are working within the guidelines of the organization."

With the very little spare time that Miller has, she enjoys scuba diving in Key West, jazzercise and reading.

WINTER SPRINGS — Art Hoffman was born in the Bronx, moved to Pennsylvania for some time to work with Westinghouse as an electrical design engineer, then was transferred to Florida in the early '80s. He helped form a credit union while he was employed by Westinghouse. After retiring from Westinghouse in 1986, he really stepped up his work in the community. He has been very involved and devoted to the Winter Springs community. He said, "We have a mixture of age groups and lifestyles here. There's something here for everybody. I think the town is going in the right direction. I'd like to see people more involved in the community from a social aspect as well as politically."

Hoffman and his wife, Eleanor, have been married almost 50 years. They have three children, Glenn, James and Janet, and four grandchildren. In his spare time, Hoffman cited his love of biking and photography, hobbies which help him to wind down. His list of efforts for Winter Springs are countless. From 1984 to 1990 he served on the city commission. He's presently involved with the Winter Springs Civic Association and writes a column called "Meet Your Neighbor" for their quarterly newsletter. He also works yearly with the civic association to help schedule and plan the holiday parade and raise funds to send children to summer camp. SWOP (Seminole Work Opportunity Program) was another venture Hoffman mentioned. "The group helps with the mentally handicapped," he said. "I've been with them since 1986." Hoffman was on the board with the Longwood/Winter Springs Chamber of Commerce.

Hoffman said he has been involved twice with the city Code and Enforcement Board. The city has used his services with the board of trustees and city employment pension fund. His membership with the Bahia Shriners dates back to 1970.

Hoffman concluded, "I think Winter Springs is a rural area even though it's getting chilled. It's a quiet area. The people are proud of what they have and take good care of it. I'm happy to live here."

LONGWOOD — June Lorman has been in the political eye since the 1950s. Her late husband, Al, was mayor of Longwood in the late '50s and '60s. He passed away in 1968. She was interested in bettering Longwood so in the '80s she ran for the office of mayor and won. After serving three terms she decided to turn the political arena over to others. To be exact, before her terms as mayor, her son, Jim, was the mayor of Longwood from 1976 to 1978. She also has two other children, Sandee, and, Lynda, who is the twin of Jim.

Lorman fondly spoke of her four grandchildren. She has been in the same house in Longwood since 1957 and raised her family there and continues to work in her daughter and son-in-law's business, also in the Longwood area. "I love the politics," she said. "It was nice being able to do something for the community while I was in office."

Busy was the best word to define Lorman's life. Besides her job with her daughter and son-in-law, she has a real estate license and an extensive background in banking. She attends the United Methodist Church in Casselberry. The Longwood Woman's club has held her allegiance for many years. She's a former trustee and was president in the '80s of that group. Lorman is on the board of directors with RSVP (Retired Seniors Volunteer Program) and has worked with them for several years. She was previously on the board of directors for the Longwood/Winter Springs Chamber of Commerce. While serving as the mayor of Longwood, she was the president of the Tri-County League of Cities organization. "That office is what I am most proud of," she said. Also while mayor of Longwood, Lorman was chairman of CALO (Council of Local Government).

The very little spare time that she is allowed, Lorman enjoys reading books and newspapers, but for a get-a-way, she said, "I just love the beach!"

Lorman holds a special place in her heart for her town of Longwood. "Whatever is best for my city is what I like best." The only words she knew to describe Longwood was, "It's just home to me."

His belief is giving back to community

Cover story

By SUSAN WENNER
Herald Correspondent

LONGWOOD — Ken Pedlow has been a longtime resident of Longwood. His motto is, "I believe in giving back to the community. This is the way to get others to do the same." Pedlow has certainly given a lot to his community.

Pedlow has been married to his wife, Terri, for 25 years. They have one daughter, Jessica, who is 11 years old. In fact, Pedlow said his favorite hobby is his daughter. "My 11-year-old daughter is someone I really enjoy being with. I chaperoned her class to Universal Studios." He then said jokingly, "We even came home with the same number of kids that we left with." Pedlow and his wife are active in the PTA at their daughter's school, Woodlands Elementary.

The family works together in their three businesses, Altamonte Florist, Longwood Florist and a specialty advertising company they began three years ago. He did admit that in those rare moments of boredom he enjoys golf.

A big pat on the back was given to the Police Department for their yearly Halloween spook house and the fun it gives the kids in the town. "I really appreciate that involvement." Another good job comment was made on behalf of the law enforcement agency in the fact that Pedlow felt there was not a lot of crime in Longwood.

Pedlow was the past president and chairman of the board for the Longwood/Winter Springs Chamber of Commerce in 1993. He also served as the past president in 1992 for RSVP (Retired Seniors Volunteer Program) and just finished his term as director. He is on the board of directors with the Central Florida March of Dimes.

He spoke at length about his work on the board of directors with Leadership Seminole. "We get corporate sponsors for the program," he said. "We then get people who are interested in learning about getting more involved in the community to commit to an eight-month program. It's a way to teach people to get more involved in their communities. Sometimes people want to be involved but don't know where to begin. This program offers suggestions to explore and gives the contacts and details about where to begin. Seminole Community College initiated the program sometime in 1992. There are classes on health care, law, justice and other topics. It's only a day for eight months. We went on a helicopter ride to show the participants the area too."

Pedlow concluded by saying, "I think Longwood's strong point is that it still has that small town feeling but the goodness of the big town. It has an excellent school system. It's friendly and convenient."

RSVP (Retired Seniors Volunteer Program) but recently resigned from the board of directors because her job was consuming more time.

Speaking of her job, it's one she dearly loves and spoke affectionately about the members she works with. "I'm considered a city employee," she said. "I work with the Winter Springs Senior Center. There are 295 members at the center that I really care a lot about. I put in a lot of extra time and effort with them, even beyond my specified working hours."

She listed the schedule of events for the center: Monday: line dancing, beginners; Tuesday: bridge, canasta and pinochle. The second Tuesday of the month there are Paragon Nurse services available such as blood sugar tests and blood pressure tests which are free; Wednesday: a catered meal and following, bingo; Thursday: creative clay, advanced line dancing, bridge, canasta and pinochle; Thursday evenings, Coffman herself teaches ceramics; Friday: mornings, yoga and afternoons, bingo. Once a month there is a banquet planned with food and entertainment.

Coffman expressed that she felt it was important for seniors to stay busy and that is why so much is planned. "I think seniors need to stay active," she said. "If they don't, they often get depressed, homebound or become reclusive. I see so many retreat when their spouse dies. The center helps them get out and meet others and enjoy life or learn a new thing. The thing most people like about the Winter Springs Senior Center versus other centers in the area is that it's so upbeat. Any seniors in the area are welcome to come."

For further information, call Coffman at the Winter Springs Senior Center by dialing 327-4031.

Winter Springs: 35 years old

By SANDRA ELLIOTT
Herald Staff Writer

WINTER SPRINGS — It was a year marked by changes, some large and some small. Alaska became the 49th state on Jan. 3 that year. Eight months later, Hawaii became the 50th state on Aug. 21, adding two more stars to "Old Glory."

The St. Lawrence Seaway opened in the spring and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev paid an unprecedented visit to the U.S. in September making a transcontinental tour.

1959 was also the year the Village of North Orlando, which later became Winter Springs, was chartered. The little village of about 200 people has grown to 23,000 population today.

To mark the 35th anniversary of being a chartered municipality, Winter Springs is having a party June 25 with a day-long celebration. The city became Winter Springs in 1972.

Historian John Baker said the festivities will begin at 10 a.m. with displays set up in the lobby of city hall by Winter Springs civic groups and businesses, including homeowners' associations, the YMCA and Lynx.

"There will be displays by virtually any group that works or functions in the city," Baker commented.

City officials will be on hand to greet visitors and everyone attending will receive a small memento.

There will also be an archaeological exhibit of Indian artifacts from the area around Winter Springs.

From 3 to 4 p.m. there will be presentations by Clifford Jordan and Irene Eepoel, both former mayors of the Village of North Orlando. A host of dignitaries, including the Seminole County Commissioners, have been invited.

"We have invited a whole bunch of people associated directly or indirectly with the city and its history," Baker said.

A plaque will also be presented to a civic official for long service to the city.

A catered reception is planned at the Winter Springs Civic Center on North Edgemon Road from 4:30 to 6 p.m. for anyone who wishes to attend and about 75 invited guests.

Baker said two developers began building homes in the late 1950's. "So that they could control the building and evolution in the village," Baker said, "they chartered themselves as the Village of North Orlando."

representative for Florida Power Corporation, the company he is employed with, as the Seminole County area manager.

A part of the Dividend program called the COMPACT mentor was another of his services that he was very excited about. "I'm a COMPACT mentor at Lyman High School," he said. "It involves one day a week of volunteering and mentoring a student. We help, at-risk kids, for example, those having trouble in school or at home, those from broken homes or with other troubles. It's an agreement between the mentor and student. We help them set goals. Our role is to help them meet those goals. It's very rewarding."

Blanden spoke of how he viewed the community he lives in and works with. "I enjoy working and living in the community of Longwood. We've got the type of people to improve things; I think that's what we're doing."

IN BRIEF

LOCALLY

Cubs best Tsamis

ORLANDO — Paul Torres' two-run homer in the bottom of the ninth snapped a 2-2 tie and gave the Orlando Cubs a 4-2 victory over the Jacksonville Suns in Southern League play. David Swartzbaugh (1-3) was the winner. George Tsamis (2-3), a Stetson graduate, took the loss for the Suns.

AROUND THE STATE

Grayhound continues streak

WEST PALM BEACH — Pat C. Rendezvous ran her record winning streak to 34 races with a five-length victory at Palm Beach Kennel Club. The star greyhound known as Rhonda was as far back as third early in the race, but drove by CM Misty and Continental Cal. On June 4, Rhonda set a world record with her 33rd win in a row, breaking a 1986 mark set in England by Ballyregan Bob.

AROUND THE NATION

Marlins activate Sheffield

PITTSBURGH — Gary Sheffield, one of the National League's home run leaders before going on the disabled list May 10 with a bruised rotator cuff, was activated by Florida. Sheffield, who has 12 homers and 33 RBIs in 33 games, initially came off the disabled list May 25, but returned three days later.

Pirates sweep Marlins

PITTSBURGH — Dave Clark went 4-for-4 and drove in four runs and rookie Jon Lieber pitched five-hit ball over eight innings Sunday as the Pittsburgh Pirates finished off a four-game sweep of the Florida Marlins 5-1.

Clark hit a two-run homer and two doubles and is 8-for-10 lifetime against Marlins starter Dave Weathers (6-5), who is 0-3 against Pittsburgh. Clark's homer was the fourth of the series for the Pirates, whose 35 homers are by far the fewest in the majors.

The Pirates' sweep ran their winning streak to five games and came almost a year to the day they were swept in Miami, the first four-game sweep in the expansion Marlins' history.

Cassell leads Rockets

NEW YORK — The Houston Rockets avoided another fourth-quarter fade Sunday night and guaranteed that if the Knicks come back to win the NBA championship they'll have to do it away from the raucous New York crowd.

Rookie guard Sam Cassell, from Florida State, scored the Rockets' last seven points of the game as they hung on for a 93-89 victory and a 2-1 lead in the best-of-7 NBA Finals.

His 3-pointer with 32 seconds left gave the Rockets the lead for good at 89-88 and he added four free throws as Houston regained the home-court advantage it had lost in Game 2.

Hakeem Olajuwon had 21 points, 11 rebounds, seven assists and seven blocked shots for the Rockets, while Robert Horry had 16 points and Cassell 15, nine in the fourth quarter.

Derek Harper led New York with 21 points and John Starks had 20 and nine assists. Patrick Ewing finished with 18 points, on 9-for-27 shooting, 12 rebounds and seven blocks.

Another Penske weekend

DETROIT — Paul Tracy and Rusty Wallace gave owner Roger Penske his second straight weekend sweep in Winston Cup and IndyCar.

For the fifth straight race, the powerful Penske team dominated Indy-car racing as Tracy ran away from the rest of the field in the ITT Automotive Detroit Grand Prix.

Tracy finished 9.25 seconds ahead of teammate Emerson Fittipaldi. Robby Gordon was third in a Ford-Cosworth XB.

Wallace passed Dale Earnhardt in a one-lap showdown to win his second straight stock car race in the UAW-GM Teamwork 500 on the Pocono International Raceway.

It wasn't supposed to be that hard after Ernie Irvan, the series point leader and Wallace's only real challenger, fell out of contention with a dropped cylinder. Wallace, who led 141 of the 200 laps, was more than 21 seconds ahead of Earnhardt when the fifth caution flag of the race — the first in more than 250 miles — came out for Mark Martin's torn up tire on lap 194.

Ken Schrader finished third, followed by Morgan Shepherd and Martin.

ASU's Brock passes away

TEMPE, Ariz. — Jim Brock, the Arizona State coach whose battle with cancer forced him to miss much of the recent College World Series, died Sunday night of liver and colon cancer. Brock, 57, won two national titles and was 1,100-440 in 23 years at the school.

Final games will decide church softball races

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — Things continue to get more and more interesting in the Spring Season of the Sanford Church Softball League. With one week (and four make-up games) left in the regular season all three of the divisions are still up for grabs.

Saturday at Chase Park, the two teams representing the Lake Mary Nativity Catholic Church, the Crusaders and the Disciples, won their fourth and third consecutive games, respectively, to keep their title hopes alive in the Competitive and Fun divisions.

Meanwhile, Sanford Christian No. 1 and Sanford First Nazarene both registered wins to keep the Fellowship Division race alive.

The Crusaders scored nine runs in the second inning and cruised to a 13-1 victory over Sanford Central Baptist to get within a game of the Competitive Division-leading Sanford First United Methodist Flames.

In the other Competitive contest, Deltona Trinity Assembly of God-Majesty scored three runs in the bottom of the seventh inning to claim a 12-11 victory over Central Baptist in an excellent see-saw battle.

The Disciples erased a 2-0 deficit by scoring four runs in the bottom of the first inning and went on to end Sanford Assemblies' seven-game winning streak, 9-3, to put the two teams into a tie for the Fun Division lead.

The other Fun game found Sanford Christian No. 2 using a six-run and a five-run inning to outscore Sanford First United Methodist, 19-13, to win their first game of the season.

In the Fellowship Division, First Nazarene jumped out to a 13-0 lead after two innings and went on to whip Lake Mary Grace United Methodist, 17-4, and Sanford Christian No. 1 got a 7-0 forfeit victory from Oviedo South Seminole

The Flames lead the Competitive Division with a 7-1 record, while the Crusaders are 6-2. Majesty is 5-3 and Central Baptist 4-5.

Nazarene is 5-2 and holds a slight edge over Sanford Christian No. 1 (5-4) in the Fellowship Division. South Seminole Christian is 2-7 and Grace Methodist is 1-8.

In the Fun Division, both the Disciples and Sanford Assemblies are both 7-2, while First United Methodist is 2-7 and Sanford Christian No. 2 is 1-7.

Next week, First Nazarene faces South Seminole Christian at 8:30 a.m.; the FUM Flames play Central Baptist at 9:30 a.m.; the Nativity Crusaders take on Trinity-Majesty at 10:30 a.m.; the Nativity Disciples battle Sanford Assemblies at 11:30 a.m.; Grace Methodist challenges Sanford Christian No. 1 at 12:30 p.m.; and Sanford Christian No. 2 vies with First United Methodist at 1:30 p.m.

Braves rally for NABF win over Patriots

From Staff Reports

ORLANDO — Three runs on three hits weren't enough for the Lake Brantley Patriots Saturday afternoon.

The host Boone Braves rallied from a 3-0 deficit with a run in the fifth inning and a four-run outburst in the sixth to knock off Lake Brantley 5-3 in a National Amateur Baseball Federation contest at Boone High School.

Bryan Grassing singled in two runs for the Patriots (2-4) while Taylor Viersen hit a double and scored a run. Neal Castaldo contributed a single, a run scored, and an RBI. Matt DeSart also scored a run.

Steve Small led the Braves by going 2-for-4 with a double.

de Bruin, Lewis help South to finals

From Staff Reports

ST. LOUIS — Thanks in no small part to a pair of Seminole County players, the South played for the championship of 1994 Puma Cup Invitational Saturday.

The Puma Cup Invitational is an all-star boys' soccer tournament for graduating high school seniors. Base on "superior soccer skills, academic excellence, and outstanding character." 64 of the nation's top players were selected and named to four regional teams — South, East, Midwest, and West.

Playing for the South are Lake Mary striker Jody de Bruin and Lyman goalkeeper Chris Lewis, both of whom passed up their respective graduation ceremonies to participate in the tournament.

The South advanced to the finals against the Midwest by winning all three of its games in the round-robin phase of the tournament. After beating the East 2-1 on Thursday, the South ripped the West 5-1 Friday morning and knocked off the Midwest 1-0 Friday night.

In its other two games, the Midwest played the West to a 2-2 tie on Thursday and bested the East 3-1 Friday morning. The West and East, who were to meet in Saturday's consolation game, played to a 1-1 tie in the final game of round-robin play Friday night.

de Bruin, coming off a nagging torn groin muscle that sidelined him for nine weeks, scored the first goal of the tournament for the South when he converted on a pass from Georgia's Clint Mathis at 37:42 in the win over the East. Lewis was the winning goalkeeper in that match.

Mathis netted a hat trick and Tampa's Mike McIlwain added a goal in the rout of the West. Pensacola's Britt Young, who will attend Stetson, contributed an assist.

The championship game, which was played Saturday night at the St. Louis Soccer Park, will be televised by ESPN at 1 p.m. EDT on Wednesday, June 22.

International visitors are more familiar than not

Curious is as curious does. For the last week — and for much of this week — the Republic of Ireland's national soccer team has been working out at the Seminole Sports Training Center in preparation for its upcoming World Cup matches.

And how does a national team train for international competition? Much the same way a high school team does for its next game. Regardless of the age or skill level, the game remains the same.

Jack Charlton, the coach of the Irish team, also provided entertaining evidence that things aren't as different on the opposite sides of the Atlantic as we might think, clashing briefly with the media.

A couple of times during the training sessions, Charlton chased the photographers away from behind one goal, saying, "We're not responsible for your safety. We can't have you getting hurt."

According to one member of the Irish media contingent, Charlton also became frustrated at the uneducated queries of a local media representative during a press conference.

"There was a fellow who was

SPORTS

asking some daft questions," said John Brennan, reporter for the Irish Press. "Charlton finally glared at him and asked, 'Have you ever seen us play? Have you ever seen one of our matches?' And when he said he hadn't, Jack just rolled his eyes."

Fan attendance and participation at the training sessions were familiar with a few interesting twists.

According to SSTC administrator John Giantonio, over 300 fans attended the Irish national team's sessions (those that weren't rained out) last week. Giantonio expects that number to be surpassed this week at the team's sessions today, tomorrow, and Wednesday.

"There are a few more Irish tourists here than we had anticipated," said Giantonio. "It seems that there are a number of them who happened to be in town by chance this week and came out when they learned that the team was training here."

Most of the fans were dressed in variations of home team apparel — some in national team jersey replicas, others proclaiming their support of the team. They watched closely, applauding outstanding plays and pointing to their favorite player.

After the sessions, the fans scrambled for photos and autographs. One group of young men carrying the flag of Norway (Ireland's first-round opponent on Tuesday, June 28) and wearing Viking helmets managed to get Charlton to stop and pose for a group photograph.

Som of the differences between this side of the Atlantic and that were apparent in how the fans filled the lulls in the action. And there was even something familiar about that.

When not taking photos of the players, the Irish tourists were busy taking pictures of and with the Seminole County Sheriff's Deputies who were there to help with security. Particularly popular were the department's motorcycles and the deputies who rode them.

"That's because of the American cop shows, like CHIPS," explained Brennan. "And we don't have the roads or the long distances of highways like you have here. A lot of Irish are fascinated by the idea of being able to get on a motorcycle and ride for a distance on such high quality roads."

"It's like the Americans who are astounded by the greenness of the fields in Ireland. We see it all the time. I'm Dublin born and bred, but I've never taken the Guinness (brewery) tour. But when I was in Colorado, I took the tour of the Coors brewery."

And while the World Cup largely remains an oddity for most Americans, it's serious business for the Irish and the rest of the countries represented in the 24-team field.

"The entire country will come to a halt for the matches, much like I imagine it does here for the Super Bowl," said Brennan. "All the matches will be on at prime time back home. And on every pub, every club, every hotel will have some sort of party organized for every match."

Safety tips for a good summer

Power mower, pesticide precautions should be taken

By AURA BORNAS-ROSELLO
Seminole County Master Gardener

Summer is upon us and the grass is "riz" as they say, so our chores of mowing and trimming or edging our lawns are increasing by the day.

Every year thousands of people visit hospital emergency rooms for the treatment of injuries from power lawn mowers. Some of these injuries include the loss of toes and feet and even fingers and arms.

Sometimes, we can only hope — rarely, death has occurred as the result of flying objects thrown out by the blades of a lawn mower.

At this time all new rotary lawn mowers have a number of safety features which protect the operator such as a blade clutch, a safety starter and a deck which provides more protection from the blade. Still, injuries occur because we get careless or fail to leave safety devices in place because they are too bothersome to use.

Also, now that children are out of school and frequently take over lawn mowing chores and/or help out in the garden, we need to emphasize safety rules.

Because of the above and because statistics show that many injuries occur as the result of lawn mower use — particularly in connection with contacts with the rotary blades, this is a good time to look at the safe way to use a lawn mower.

Here then, are some safety tips that you can follow to prevent lawn mower accidents: Begin by getting the lawn mower out and replacing whatever safety shields and/or devices that were removed because they were bothersome.

Be certain that your children, or any other child who is going to use it, is mature enough and thoroughly trained in its use, before using the lawn mower.

Locate the operator's manual and review all the safety instructions, and impart them to all who will be using the lawn mower.

Take the time with the family to inspect all areas to be mowed. This is very important in order to be sure that all dangerous debris has been removed.

Make sure children and bystanders are away (far away) from the area to be mowed. This is not time for small children to be helping out.

Wear sturdy leather shoes to mow. It is very dangerous to mow barefooted or wearing sandals of any type or thong shoes. This is one way you could easily lose a toe, a finger or even a foot.

Never, never make adjustments to the mower, or empty the bag, when or while the engine is running.

Never mow backwards — one misstep and your foot will be under the mower.

Never mow wet grass.

Mow slopes laterally, never up and down.

Instill in others the importance of following safety rules. They can save you and all concerned from a lot of grief, pain and injury.

Pesticide safety

Pesticide safety is the responsibility of each and every person using chemicals. The following are some tips for the safe use of pesticides in your home.

The first rule in using pesticides is to make sure that it is absolutely necessary to use one. Pesticides may be harmful not only to yourself, your family and pets but to the environment as well.

Never forget that when you use a pesticide to kill a harmful element in your yard you may also be killing good and helpful insects as well.

Make sure that there is no other alternative you can try before using pesticides — you can easily do this by consulting your extension service agent.

All the above having been considered and no further alternative having been found — follow these rules:

1. Read the label. Look for any warning words such as Danger, Warning and Caution. Follow them to the letter. The label will also tell you which plants and insects you can use it on.

2. Know all the safety precautions and follow them before you get started — i.e., do you need to wear rubber gloves, safety goggles or avoid breathing the spray mist?

3. Know exactly where you can spray and where you cannot — for instance, is the pesticide labeled for indoor use? If not, spray the plant outdoors.

4. Be prepared for accidents — always fill your sprayer with water first, then add the chemical to avoid splashing pure pesticide on yourself or the surrounding area.

5. Have a safe mixing area — one that is well ventilated and well lit.

6. Have a safe storage area — make sure it is out of the reach of children and pets.

7. Check the amount you will need to spray prior to mixing same — unused spray cannot be stored and using too much in order to dispose of it may be harmful to what you are spraying. You might consider spraying with plain water first to see whether you will need one gallon or two.

8. Before spraying check out your spraying equipment to make sure nozzles are clean and unclogged. Never try to clear clogged nozzles with your mouth.

9. Never re-use old containers or put pesticides into another container. The next person who comes along when you are not there may not know that the coke bottles have pesticide in them or have been used for this purpose.

10. Lastly — read the label again — it contains all the information that you will need for proper and safe use of its contents.

False positive on AIDS test shakes donor

DEAR ABBY: I have been a blood donor for many years but this year, after I donated blood, I got a call from the blood bank asking me to come in and talk to their doctor about a possible problem with my blood. I went immediately. This doctor informed me that my last test was HIV-positive, and advised me to have another test in six months. I was terrified, but I didn't tell anyone for fear of losing my job. I decided to get a second opinion, so I went to an out-of-town doctor who specializes in infectious diseases. The doctor said that because I had no real risk factors, the HIV-positive was probably a false positive, and he repeated the tests. My life was pure torture until I got the results which, to my relief, were negative. I later learned that several factors can cause false positives — flu shots and pregnancy, for example. Abby, please print this to alert people that false positives on AIDS tests are not uncommon. It could save many people from the frightening experience I needlessly endured.

ADVICE

NO NAME PLEASE
DEAR NO NAME: It's unfortunate that a retesting was not ordered immediately to confirm the original results because, as you pointed out, these tests are occasionally in error. Your letter will undoubtedly encourage others to demand retesting promptly. Thank you for sharing your experience.

DEAR ABBY: I am worried, upset and at a loss as to what to do about my 88-year-old grandfather, who can't seem to keep his hands to himself. I am a female in my early 30s, and he has tried to fondle me several times. After the second time, I found out that he has done this to other women in my family. Grandpa is in fairly good health. Grandmother is a few years younger, but her health is failing. I worry about what would happen if she should find out what is going on. His behavior has caused a strain in our relationship. And I know Grandma is hurt because I don't see them anymore. Abby, this is causing everyone pain. What can I do to keep this from happening to other women he comes in contact with?

IN PAIN IN TEXAS

DEAR IN PAIN: Tell Grandpa "hands off," in no uncertain terms. His inappropriate behavior and lack of judgment could be due to senility. Grandpa should be examined by a gerontologist (a doctor who specializes in people who are aging). Ask your grandfather's physician for a referral, and tell him why.

Doctor should examine bruises

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm 75 and question the large purple blotches that appear on my forearms. They look like bruises, yet I haven't bumped myself. My medications are Maxzide and Persantine.

DEAR READER: Spontaneous bruising (without antecedent injury) is always a red flag for doctors, because it may reflect a serious affliction such as a bleeding disorder, a vitamin deficiency or leukemia. You should be examined by your family doctor.

I am further concerned that you may have developed early signs of an allergy to your medications, especially Maxzide, a diuretic used to treat hypertension and heart conditions. Moreover, you may be taking too much Persantine, a drug that is supposed to aid circulation by interfering with coagulation.

Check with your physician, who should be able, by using blood tests, to diagnose the reasons for your bruising.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Is it possible for the liver to repair itself when there is a minor problem from years of heavy drinking? If so, how long does it take for some change, if any, to take place?

DEAR READER: The liver possesses remarkable regenerative properties; it can completely repair itself within months of an injury or infection. How fast this process occurs (and how successful it will be) depends on the extent of the original liver disease.

For example, advanced cirrhosis from chronic alcohol abuse will not repair itself, whereas minor alcohol damage ("alcoholic hepatitis") can be totally reversed if a patient permanently abstains from drinking.

I have difficulty accepting your statement about "a minor problem from years of heavy drinking." In my experience, "minor" problems, such as alcohol-induced hepatitis, occur early in one's drinking career; years of over-indulgence will almost certainly result in serious

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

The Japanese think of everything. Now they have a Wife Adaptation Guide. I can hear the men chuckling at that, but just think how barren their lives would be without women. And women can play excellent bridge too. Today's deal was declared by Rixi Markus.

Rixi opened one club because she was playing the Vienna System, in which a one-diamond opening guarantees at least a five-card suit. North's three spades was game-invitational.

West led the heart king; two, jack, nine. Unsure who had the singleton, West switched to the diamond nine. Knowing this couldn't be a singleton, East encouraged with the 10. East returned a heart to West's ace. Now came a diamond to East's ace and a club exit, covered by the jack, queen and king.

Having lost three tricks, Rixi had to play the trumps without loss. This would normally entail finessing through West. However, if West had the spade queen, surely he would have made a one-heart overcall. If East had Q-10-x, there was no hope. So, did East have Q-x or Q-x-x?

To test the water, Rixi called for dummy's heart queen. East discarded a club. A club to the ace was followed by the diamond queen. West defended well, discarding a club. Yet Rixi felt sure she knew what was happening. She played a spade to dummy's king and called for the jack, pinning West's 10 to make her contract.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Financial conditions could be a mixed bag for you today. On one hand, your earning abilities look promising, but on the other, your extravagance may go unchecked and dissipate what you gain.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Conditions over which you'll have no control might prevent you from fulfilling your personal intentions today. Rebelling against these trends might only add to your frustrations.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You might be more strongly influenced by something unpleasant from the past than by today's fresh developments. Reliving yesterday inhibits success.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Strive to reduce your expenses at this time where nonessential interests are concerned. Don't make commitments today that you can't afford.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) The results could turn out undesirable today if you try to bulldoze your way through situations that affect your career. Be able to define the difference between aggressiveness and assertiveness.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Information that comes your way today through questionable sources could turn out to be distorted or severely biased. Don't believe everything you hear.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You'd better review your motives today if you hope to profit in some manner at the expense of another. Chances for personal gain are nil when operating along these lines.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Have a clear-cut understanding in partnership arrangements today regarding who is responsible for what. Without ground rules the venture could veer off course.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) If you fail to approach your work in a positive manner today, you might make the tasks with which you have to contend much more difficult than they actually are.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Lady Luck might not be around when you need her the most today, so don't depend upon her as backup. If you knowingly buck the odds, you may have to pay the consequences.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) It's best not to bring up an old, unresolved domestic issue at the dinner table this evening. It could parallel the opening of Pandora's box. Copyright 1994 NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.
