Human Declares He Will Continue To Fight Taft-Hartley Labor Bill

WASHINGTON, May 5—(AP)—President Truman declared today he will continue to fight for the bill of the Taft-Hartley Labor bill. Truman said repeal and a law was pledged by the Democratic Party platform. He released a news conference that his administration is in power for years. And he said he still backs an acceptable bill to enact new labor law can be passed. He said he wants the Democratic Congress to carry out the program made in the Democratic platform.

Truman said he is very happy over the Big Four agreement to the Berlin blockade and consider the whole German problem a session of foreign ministers' Paris.

Asked if the foreign ministers' meeting might be followed by one between Premier Stalin and Prime Minister Attles, he told his news conference he sees no necessity.

A meeting of heads of state,

The President would not comment on a report that General

Gen. D. Clay, retiring U. S. commander in Germany, had expressed fear the present agreement with Russia might be a temporary truce.

We made it clear that all negotiations leading to the agreement lift the blockade were conducted by roving Ambassador Philip C. Jessup and that he had no personal communications from

The President announced the nomination of undersecretary of Navy W. John Kenney.

He said that Kenney, who has been trying to resign for some time, will remain on duty until his successor is appointed. He said had not decided on a successor. On Capitol Hill, strategists in the branches of Congress already are charting new battle plans even as the smoke of the hectic House trap on labor legislation still smoked.

Administration supporters in the House managed yesterday to save the so-called Wood bill which would have repealed Taft-Hartley in name, but kept many of its chief features.

Mr. Truman said he regarded House action as a victory for Administration.

That, he said, he means it as the Administration a chance start over.

At one point of the scrap over Wood Bill, Speaker Rayburn other Administration supporters favored a compromise measure usually known as the Sims Bill. Rep. Sims (D-SC), the forerunner.

Mr. Truman said this bill was submitted to him for approoval. The original Administration, which Mr. Truman supported, have restored the old Work Act, with some modifications, indicating its basic labor law.

Indicating he still stands by it, President said he is not concerned that the Administration has to make concessions to the out-repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act under the Democratic platform formula.

President said he thought Kosinski (original administration) was a good bill. But added Congress has a right to bills any way it sees fit.

He also said:

warning that votes on legislative such as the Taft-Hartley should be considered a test of loyalty is working. He is a little too early to say he might make a campaign swing around the

in behalf of Administration. There has been a slight make such a tour,

Speaker Rayburn said yes,

he was sure no such trip

be taken while Congress is in session.

U. S. To Maintain Airlift Machine To Avert Trouble

Air Force To Start Analysis Of Lessons Work Taught

WASHINGTON, May 5—(P)—The airlift machine—its planes, men and directors—probably will be kept in standby condition in Europe until it is reasonably certain Russia has no plans to set up another sudden roadblock to Berlin.

This was indicated today by Air Force officials who were still awaiting details on the general Four-Power agreement reached yesterday.

It took the Air Force, Navy and Army six months to create the intricate system of hundreds of planes and thousands of men to carry supplies in unending stream over the Russian blockade and into the former German capital. There was no immediate disposition to tear it down in any sudden and possibly premature move.

By continuing to exist for a time, it could serve as an inspiration for the Russians to live up to the agreement.

With "operation vittles" apparently drawing toward a close, the Air Force prepared to start an exhaustive analysis of the strategic lessons learned in the greatest air supply operation of history.

The experience value already had been emphasized by various Air Force officials. Assistant Secretary of Air Eugene M. Zuckert said of the airlift:

"We have gotten something that a military force rarely receives in peacetime—an opportunity to accomplish a task when the chips are down."

He noted that "we have learned a lot—for example, about maintenance, supply lines and bad weather flight control," and have received "an intense, practical test of our trained manpower and our staying power."

American planes in the airlift have flown more than 65,000,000 miles—which means that the planes and their crews were in the air under some of the worst weather and air traffic conditions the world affords, for 275,000 hours. They had carried 1,189,946 tons of cargo into Berlin from June 26, 1948, until the close of business at midnight Tuesday. The cost, in dollars, is $173,408,800; in men killed, 27; in planes wrecked, 28.

Studying all the technical details behind these overall costs and accomplishments, the Air Force now will set up an operational plan for any big-scale airlift needed in a future war. Its biggest previous yardstick came out of World War II—the cargo-carrying job over the Himalaya "hump" from southeast Asia into China. In the last six months of the "hump" operation, the planes made an average of 12,260 trips a month, carrying a total of 61,000 tons per month. Operation vittles has averaged 17,000 trips a month (with bigger planes), carrying 134,000 tons a month.

Today, the United States has about 820 four-engined aircraft on the Berlin air lift, toting cargo. If these planes were used to carry troops, they could move 15,000 men in a single mass flight.

However, the lesson learned in operation vittles is one of supply, not troop transport. And, fortunately, the experience has not included operation of a large-scale airlift against enemy aviation and anti-aircrafts.

But the Berlin lift has provided the Air Force with a laboratory to determine just how many planes, how much concerted effort of all the military forces, would be required to supply a large forward position cut off from normal sea or land supply lines.

The Air Force has learned, among other things, precisely how many tanker ships and freighters are needed to feed fuel and food to a big airlift operating from bases 6,000 miles distant from the homeland. It found that while some of the simpler maintenance work—the 50 and 500-hour checks of planes and engines—could be done by Air Force personnel at a base in Burtonwood, England, the more extensive, 1,000-hour overhauls required that the planes be flown back to the United States.

NUMBER RACKET

AUGUSTA, Ga., May 5—(P)—Four high city officials and a barroom operator were arrested yesterday and charged with bribery in connection with the numbers racket.

Police Chief O. J. Wilson was suspended for 90 days pending the outcome of an investigation.

CROSSED BORDER

SHOUYU, May 5—(P)—A force of 500 North Koreans crossed the border northeast of Kansong last night. Some of them, they said, were new arrivals from Manchuria, others from Korea.

Korean forces claimed they had driven the intruders back across the border, but the Chinese Communists denied this.

Scientists Send Lowly Mouse For Carousel 'Ride'

Test Is Being Made To Determine Potency Of Chemicals

By ROBERT E. GRIGG
WASHINGTON, May 5—(P)—A Washington mouse is riding a merry-go-round in the interest of science.

His bosses, scientists at the Department of Agriculture, are playing like he is a cow. But the stake is real—$10,000 or more. Every time the miniature animal revives, the mouse gets—not a brass ring but a spray of chemical. If it will kill flies on a mouse the researchers figure it will knock them dead on a cow.

The chemical may be any one of 6,000 mystery chemicals on the scientists' shelves. Any one may be more potent than DDT.

When the merry-go-round stops the mouse pays his fare—in mouse blood.

He's put in a cage with 20 hungry stable flies. If the chemical repels them it is thrown out. But if the flies bite the mouse and then die within 24 hours the stuff is worth trying on cows. (The same mouse is used over and over.)

Where does the $1,000,000 come in?

Some scientists estimate the important insects cause far more than a thousand times that much damage in one year. If only one insecticide as good as DDT comes out of the 6,000 mystery compounds, the saving could be well worth far more than $1,000,000.

Where does the mouse on the merry-go-round come in?

The scientists are seeking an insecticide to kill stable flies which DDT doesn't always kill.

Most stables then are found around stables and cows and horses. But to test all of those 6,000 compounds on cows and horses in stables would be a long drawn expensive job.

The scientists say one compound a day can be tested with a mouse but that it would take two weeks if cows were used. The cow might be 100 times as much.

These 6,000 compounds come from various places. Some are by-products of some scientific project, or were produced for some other purpose but are believed to have big killing possibilities. Others were put together by chemists who thought the combination should be a blockbuster.

Some are brand new. Others have been sitting around in laboratories for years—just as DDT did before it was found to be a fly and house-killer.

Dr. Edward F. Knippling, director of the study of insects affecting man and animals, says about a dozen chemical compounds have been earmarked for further testing after showing promising results with the mouse carousel.

The merry-go-round may go on for years. Even after a stable fly insecticide is discovered, there will be other experiments to find more potent killers of other insects.

Once people were used in the tests. They let the flies bite them. Now the mouse takes the bites.

What does the mouse get out of it?

The scientists swear the mice like their free merry-go-round rides and enjoy every whiff of the scented chemicals shot upon them.

The main reason for the merry-go-round device is efficiency, speedily spraying of the mouse, who passes a stationary jet every time around.

Indications are that Stuart Symington will stay on as Secretary of the Air Force. Friends say Symington has the president's ear and his confidence.

Gallalee To Speak At Alabama Meet

WASHINGTON, May 5—(UPI)—Dr. John Gallalee, president of the University of Alabama, will address more than 200 alumni at a dinner meeting of the Washington chapter tonight.

Dr. Gallalee will be introduced by Senator Spaulding (D-Ala.), former president of the student body.

Senator Hill (D-Ala.), another graduate and Dr. George H. Denny, former president and now chancellor of the university, also are on the program. Dr. Denny will come from his home in Lexington, Va.

Three other senators who are alumni will attend. They are Senators Mc-Kellar (D-Tenn.), Pepper (D-Fla.) and Eastland (D-Miss.).

All Alabama members of Congress have been invited, as well as those from Mississippi, Arkansas and New York state who are alumni.

Tax Revision Group Makes State Report

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., May 5—(FNN)—The Florida Tax Revision League, Inc., recently prepared figures showing the total government, comparing the year 1940 with 1948.

The total for 1948, including federal taxes collected from Florida, and the state, county, school and municipal expenditures, amounted to $211,513,582, while the figure for 1940 amounted to $776,413,550. The per capita income for people of Florida was $523, while in 1940 it had reached $1,010.

The per capita cost of government was $111.19 in 1940 and $345.05 in 1948. The ratio of government cost to total income was 21.3 per cent in 1940 and 34.4 per cent in 1948.

Leftover potatoes are usually eaten with relish if they are sliced, spread with butter or margarine and broiled until lightly browned on the sides. They may be dusted with paprika, if you like, before they are sent to the table.

A delicious dessert can be made by lining sherbet glasses with lady fingers (sifted or halved) then filling the glasses with chocolate-fudge cream and topping with whipped cream and maraschino cherries.

Keeping a loaf of bread in the refrigerator will help to prevent molding.

Ingredients: 2 cups soft bread-crumb, 1/4 cup butter or margarine, 3 cups pared thinly sliced apples, 1/2 cup firmly packed brown sugar, 1/2 cup water, 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg, 1/2 teaspoon mace, grated rind of 1 lemon, 1 1/2 tablespoons lemon juice.

Method: Add the bread-crumb to a skillet in which the butter or margarine has been melted. Place about a third of them in a buttered baking dish. Add half of the sliced apples; sprinkle with half the brown sugar, water, cinnamon, nutmeg, mace, lemon rind, and lemon juice. Repeat. Cover top with remaining third of bread-crumb. Cover and bake in a moderate (375°F.) oven for about 30 minutes. Remove the cover, and bake about 30 minutes longer or until apples are tender and crumb-topping is browned. Serve with cream if desired. Makes 4 servings.

CHECKS ATOM RAYS
LONDON, May 5—(UPI)—The British Navy's first test of the effect of atomic rays on ship armor was postponed today. The weather was too bad.

The test had been arranged near the Isle of Wight. Scientists on a moored pontoon had prepared to bombard the Cruiser Ardent with gamma rays like those that radiate from an exploding atomic bomb. The admirals said the high wind and waves tossed the pontoon too much for effective use of the scientific instruments.

PAINLESS TEST
BUFFALO, N. Y., May 5—(UPI)—A simple, painless test for cancer, using a sponge as detective, was described today by Dr. S. A. Gladstone of New York City.

The test is made by rubbing a gelatin sponge firmly against the part of the body being examined. An expert then checks the sponge to see if it picked up any cancer cells.

The test has been used on 700 persons and has not yet missed finding a cancer if it existed. Dr. Gladstone told the New York State Medical Society.

FLASH FIRE

JERSEY CITY, N. J., May 5—(UPI)—Five members of a family were killed and two injured early yesterday as a flash fire shot up the stairwell of a three-story brick building here.

Fire Chief Frank Little said the blaze started in the ground floor hallway and mushroomed out on the top floor of the building.

A family of 11 on the second floor got out uninjured by climbing through a window onto the roof of an adjoining building. The structure is surrounded on three sides by one-story buildings.

Europe's Recovery Efforts Reach Top Spending Heights

BY CLARKE BRACH
WASHINGTON. (Special) European money has gone to work on a vast scale to make the Marshall Plan a success. The $6,000,000,000 of Marshall Plan funds provided so far is only a sixth of seventh of what Europe itself is spending to get back on its feet.

Before the plan got started, the bulk of the European money supply was becoming drained up, idle, hoarded. Without the comparatively small leaven of dollars needed to buy certain essential western hemispheric products, native money resources could not go to work to rebuild the European economy.

In most of Europe the money was willing to work, but it needed help from the dollars. In some countries the native money had lost its nerve.

David Bruce, chief of the Economic Cooperation Administration's (ECA) special mission to France, says that economic reconstruction cost France in the 1930s.

The value of the franc kept falling until the last few months. Not wanting to keep their money in France, the investors bought bonds of goods such as rugs, jewelry, and paintings. Some rich people shipped goods abroad on consignment. The shippers kept title while the commodities were held for them in foreign warehouses. The idea was to eventually follow the goods out of the country.

The big change in France came early this year. The government announced it would seek new money in a $300,000,000 franc bond issue. Friends of France held their breath. If the people failed to subscribe to the loan, it would show they had no faith in their own government's financial stability. The value of the franc might have dropped out of sight, and the recovery effort would have been dealt a serious blow.

But the bond issue was a huge success. The value of the franc immediately began to rise. Another good sign. The price of gold on the French black market has been falling ever since the bond issue. The price had been boosted by farmers who had chosen to buy gold rather than risk holding on to francs. Now it seemed they were abandoning gold and choosing francs.

Up to now most of the recovery plan investments in France have been made by the American government because private capital was unwilling to take the chance.

Now the experts expect to see private investors get into the field.

In Italy the investment situation has been much the same as in France. No marked improvements has been noted yet, although the lire have held its price for about 8 years now.

In Western Germany there has been a scarcity of investment capital, but in ECA officials the money supply seems to be increasing as the balance of exports over imports continues to rise.

Greece alone of the countries being helped has shown no improvement on the investment side, according to ECA officials. The continuing wartime three-drives the resources of the nation.

But for the Marshall Plan countries as a whole there is great outgoing of native investment capital. They will spend about $30,000,000,000 this fiscal year to modernize factories and farms, build new plants, homes and transportation facilities.

This means they will be taking about 20 percent of their national incomes and plowing it back into business. In average periods of prosperity such investments are usually around 15 percent of income. To raise it to 20 percent, the countries will have to eliminate reduced living standards for some years yet, denying themselves a lot of consumer good.

The business outlook has to be good, and the people's faith in their countries' future must be strong.

CATCHES "FISH AND CHIPS" mountain fisherman Arne Wiley went fishing at Minewillumbi, New South Wales, Australia, and caught a meal of fish and chips. Wiley threw his net into Indgen Creek and immediately caught a large trout which landed in the middle. The trout was captured by a large potato five inches long.

To compel them to invest on such a scale here in the United States in some years of the depression the depreciation of plant values was larger than the total of foreign investment.

them. They require replacement parts and constant service. Both parts and service become more costly as the vehicles grow older.

The importance of these overage units as a potential market for the carmakers cannot be overestimated. In numbers they represent more than one-third of all the vehicles now in use. Most of them eventually must be replaced.

Aside from the replacement market there also are millions of persons who deem it economical to buy a new car every two or three years.

The surest thing the carmakers know is that they have not built enough cars since the war to meet the demand accumulating since the end of 1941. One passenger car were made for civilian use during the war.

In 1941, however, the industry has built only about 10,000,000 passenger cars for the domestic market since the end of

State's Hiring Special Legal Aides Slowed

29 House Members
Put In Bill To Legalize
Bookmaking Offices In Florida

TALLAHASSEE, May 6.—(P)—In a fight generally along pro and anti-Administration lines, the Florida House voted today to put the brakes on hiring special attorneys for State agencies.

The vote was 51-29.

Rep. McClure of Pinellas, who hasn't been timid about his stand against the Administration, led the fight to pass the measure.

Chief opposition to the proposal came from his Pinellas county colleague, Rep. Schuh, who said the bill was a move to "change the form of government."

The bill as passed, however, was considerably weaker than the original proposal.

As approved today it authorized special attorneys for the Road Department, Beverage Department, Railroad and Public Utilities Commission, Citrus Commission, Improvement Commission, Board of Administration and Industrial Commission.

The bill also gives the cabinet authority to permit State agencies to hire lawyers when they need them.

Passage of this bill came after 29 members put in a bill to legalize bookmaking in Florida, placing a tax on books and betting in an estimated $35,000,000 yearly.

The State would levy a license tax of $15,000 per year on each off-track betting establishment. These tracks would be permitted to accept bets on Florida and out-of-state race track bets.

The betting stations would pay an 8 percent tax on races run in Florida, but there would be no levy on races run outside of Florida.

The House also passed, 71-6, a bill calling for the establishment of a hospital for alcoholics. It would be financed by a two and one-half cent-per-gallon tax on liquor.

Representatives gave in to a demand from Rep. Powers of Jackson to keep the House Education Committee from considering two of his bills affecting the 1947 school law.

Powers succeeded in having sent to the committee on local government, where a "legislative courtesy" prevails, bills to exempt the college education requirement for the school superintendent of Jackson county and permitting the county to have as many school districts as it wanted. Education Committee argued such a move would wreck the 1947 school law.

Rep. Luckie of Duval, sponsor of the original cattle fencing bill, protested to Speaker Murray that he had "loaded" the House's side of the conference committee to consider the amendment cow bill with "ridiculous support."

'Cracker Day' Will Be Held Sunday By Dusty Boots Club

Horse racing and novelty riding events will mark the celebration of "Cracker Day" Sunday afternoon at 2:00 at the Dusty Boots Riding Association track near the Municipal Airport, and in addition to local entries, a number of horses from neighboring cities are slated for entry.

Only one event, a 600 yard race, will draw a cash prize, $25. All entries have been challenged by Sigh Earnest, local blacksmith, to beat his "Daylight Grits" in this event.

Members of the association met last night to plan events. It was decided to eliminate the scheduled calf-rope due to difficulty in securing calves for the event.

Prizes which will be awarded for racing events are now on display at Hobson's Sporting Goods Store. First, second and third place will be awarded for one pony elimination races; giving two ponies and free for all three. Third and second prizes will be awarded to winners under 12 of the children now.

A new novelty race will be the water bottle filling race for which two prizes will be given.

Prizes on display at Hobson's include a saddle, martingales, spurs and reins, bridles and riding crops.

Spain Is Being Armed By U.S. Soviets Charge

Britain Assists In Plan To Kill U. N. Attempts To Stop Franco, Red Says

LAKE SUCCESS, May 6.—(P)—Russia's Andrei A. Gromyko charged today that United States and Britain are strengthening Franco Spain by supplying arms and giving it economic and political assistance.

The Soviet deputy foreign minister spoke before the 58 nation political committee of the United Nations Assembly.

He accused the two big Western Powers of thwarting U.N. attempts to bring about the downfall of Generalissimo Francisco Franco.

"They have done everything possible," Gromyko said, "to prevent the implementation of assembly resolutions."

Gromyko addressed the committee as it neared a showdown vote on the question of the top-level diplomatic boycott on the Franco regime.

The Russian said Britain and the U.S. "from the very beginning have put their faith in the continuation of Spain as a Fascist state."

"This," Gromyko went on, "is a continuation of the policies of (Premier) Chamberlain and Baldwin whereby British and French non-intervention helped crush the Spanish republic. Now the United States and the United Kingdom are singing the same old tune of non-intervention."

Gromyko cited figures which he said showed an increase in trade between the U.S. and Spain and an increase in American credits to expand economic projects in Spain. He then turned to the political aspects of U.S.-Spanish relations.

Many political figures in the United States, he said, have stressed the "strategic use" of the Iberian peninsula "in the preparation for a new war." He mentioned the visits of former Democratic Chairman James A. Farley

New $100,000 Piggly-Wiggly Store To Hold Open House On Sunday

Sanford's new Piggly-Wiggly self-service supermarket at 300 East Third Street, completed at a cost of more than $100,000, will hold open house Sunday afternoon from 2:00 to 6:00 o'clock, and will open for business Monday morning. J. H. Lyles, district manager for Winn-Dixie Company of Jacksonville, announced today.

The store will replace the present Piggly-Wiggly store at First Street and Magnolia Avenue and the Lovett's and Table Supply Stores at Fourth Street and Saint Cord Avenue. The Table Supply Store on First Street will remain in its present location.

R. W. Chasuble, grocery manager of the First Street store for the past three years, will manage the grocery department of the new store. The meat market will be managed by W. C. Rule who has been in this work for 10 years. Eight more employees will be added to the personnel from the three stores, making a total of 50 employees.

Modern to the last detail, the one story building is of concrete block construction with steel reinforcement and has an interior of 90 by 130 feet. The two shopping entrances and exits are on the Third Street side at the west end of the building. The exterior sides of the building are a coral shade and the front, or Third Street side, is a pastel shade of green. The reinforced concrete marquis in front is cream colored.

The building was located in such a way as to provide parking space for 60 automobiles in the large cemented area on the Palmetto Avenue side and a small space on Third Street. The parking area has entrances from both streets.

The interior of the store impresses one with its roominess. Ablies between display counters are eight feet wide and are covered with linoleum in contrasting squares. It will be a rule of the store not to place merchandise in the aisles, said Mr. Cassabe.

Since the store is entirely of the self-service type, goods have been made more accessible to customers by placing large signs of red plastic reflecting material above each category of food. Cabinets are also numbered for convenient location.

Natural daylight lighting is supplemented with fluorescent lighting of the "slim line" type.

The refrigerated self-service meat counter stretches the full width of the rear of the store. Back of this counter behind a partition in the meat cutting and wrapping room where the meat is cut, weighed and priced, wrapped

4th-Round Labor-Management Fight Being Joined Earlier Than Expected

NEW YORK, May 6.—(P)—The fourth-round labor-management battle is being joined even earlier than expected. And this year it may be the real thing.

Management feels it's in a good tactical position to fight. Labor feels it must push new demands, mainly for Social Security, to save face.

In Ford's acceptance of the "big high in a sellers' market" gage of battle, many see signs that this time management plans to stand firm. Four big industries are set for labor disputes between now and mid-July—auto, coal, steel and electric appliances. In all four, labor's demands have been tentatively outlined. In all four, management has said the demands are unacceptable.

Of course, the same executives said the same thing just a year ago, before the third-round of wage hikes. However, when General Motors signed up with labor at the higher level, the other industries fell in line. At that time management had more to lose from strikes than from granting pay increases. This year it hasn't.

Last year they were still rid-

U. S. Proposes Relaxation Of Japan Controls

State Department Requests Freer Hand In International Affairs For Nation

WASHINGTON, May 6.—(P)—The United States declared today that Japan should "be given an increasing direction of its own affairs in the international field."

A policy statement by the State Department said that beginning this month under the occupation has "obvious advantages in developing a healthy international outlook" and "averting the confusion that might well arise from any abrupt removal of current restrictions after a peace treaty."

The statement added:

"The immediate resumption by Japan of some international responsibilities in such fields as trade promotion, citizenship and property problems, cultural relations, technical and scientific arrangements and exchanges would provide a substantial contribution to the economic recovery of Japan."

The statement was issued in explanation of a new proposal to the 11 nation far east commission to permit the Japanese to accept invitation to attend international conferences.

The proposal, submitted last month, has met with objection from several of the Pacific Allies, including Britain, France and the Philippines. It has not yet been acted on by the commission which fixes Japanese occupation policy.

Air Force Opens Drive To Expand Reserve Training

135,000 Men To Be Provided Schooling Under Program

WASHINGTON, May 6.—(P)—The Air Force announced today an expanded training program for Air Force reserve officers and men.

It will provide training for more than 135,000 reservists and offer inactive and active duty training pay to over 75,000 of them. At present only about 42,000 reservists are receiving training, with only 25,000 drawing pay.

"The air strength of the nation will be increased as a result of the new training programs," said an announcement from General Hoyt S. Vandenberg, Air Force chief of staff. "The regular Air Force, including major commands and individual units, will have greater mobility (mobilization day) capacities of trained reserves when
