AFL-CIO Matter Race Dispute

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The AFL-CIO matter race dispute was a bitter dispute over racial segregation within the giant federation.

The AFL-CIO constitution prohibits discrimination on the basis of race, but it is rarely used for this purpose.

Meany, backed by most of the labor leaders, defeated Randolph in an attempt to get the convention to threaten two all-white unions with expulsion unless they made good on pledges to drop their color bars within six months.

The two unions are the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, which have a total of 200,000 members.

Meany, who has often voiced opposition to racial discrimination, said it would be wise to end discrimination by keeping the brotherhoods within the AFL-CIO and working with them patiently.

While the race issue disrupted labor unity, which Meany considers to be the top AFL-CIO problem, the seven-day convention made a gain toward that goal by adopting in principle a plan for settling jurisdictional disputes.

The convention worked out a plan for "a supreme court of labor" which could make final decisions in these disputes.

Spending Budget Bureau Charges

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Budget Bureau said today that the Democratic-controlled Congress didn't cut the President's budget after all but actually increased government spending.

The bureau said the lawmakers added $97 million in the current fiscal year and $1,300,000,000 for future years.

The report by Budget Director Maurice H. Stans was the administration's answer to claims by Democratic leaders that they had trimmed the president's appropriations requested by $1,000,000,000 and lifted another $700 million off his planned "budget" financing.

Labor Secretary Faces A Hat-Eating Promise

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The odds are increasing that Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell will be called upon to eat his hat.

Labor Department economists said today chances were growing slimmer each day the steel strike continues that unemployment in October will fall below three million.

Mitchell, predicting that it would decline below this level, pledged to an AFL-CIO unemployment rally last April that he would eat his hat if his forecast did not come true.

The secretary has been silent on his five-month-old promise recently, but it's a topic of lively interest among the statisticians who work on the monthly job report.

Unemployment was estimated at 3,280,000 in August, the latest figure available. Normally it would decline in September and hit its yearly low in October.

But the steel strike has disrupted "normal" trends because of its job-destroying secondary effects in steel-using and steel-serving industries. This is true even though the 200,000 strikers are counted as having jobs.

As a result, Mitchell's hat trouble. Even if the strike ended abruptly, it might take some time for laid-off workers to be recalled. And there's no guarantee that the strike will end in the immediate future. Federal mediators have reported "absolutely no progress" in negotiations since it began last July 15.

Mitchell's own fact-finding reports show that the effects of the 71-day-old walkout are beginning to snowball in industries depending on steel supplies. Caterpillar Tractor, for example, announced it will close its plants and lay off 11,000 workers on Oct. 3 unless the strike ends before then.

Aside from the strike, one labor department economist said, Mitchell's prediction undoubtedly would have been correct. Even now, he added, it will be "touch and go" whether the jobless figure is above or below the three-million mark.

Residents Stay Put In Flood

GREAT BEND, Kan. (UPI) — Flood waters of rain-swollen Walnut Creek rolled into a 10-block residential area of this oil city of 17,000 today, but most residents decided to stay put behind sandbags.

Cy Miller, civil defense director, said "we worked all night and everyone was ready when the water poured into the town."

Water rose to more than a foot in some residences. But residents had sandbagged around the foundations and moved furniture up stairs. Only a few persons left home.

Methodist Men To Discuss Varied Activities For Year

Transporting church members to services is among the projects of the First Methodist Church's Methodist Men's group of the coming year.

The men will be assigned times to transport certain individuals who don't have transportation, says project chairman, E. D. Kirchhoff.

Calling on men for the church and for the Methodist Men, furnishing greeters for Sunday services, and organizing elderly church members into a special group to foster mutual development of their common interests, and to provide recognition of their attainments are also among the group's projects.

Support of the church Boy Scout and Cub Scout troops by supplying committees and transportation for camps and outings is another item on the Methodist Men's agenda.

These projects will be considered at the next meeting Oct. 2, says Kirchhoff.

The Christmas party at the Enterprise Methodist Home will be something in December. Stockings, a tree and a Santa Claus will be provided by the local men's group, which will hold its December meeting at the home.

Churchill Charges Back To Oratorical Wars

LONDON (UPI) — Sir Winston Churchill charged out of semi-retirement with oratorical guns blazing Wednesday night to come to the aid of his worried Conservative party.

The 84-year-old former prime minister, the oldest candidate up for a parliamentary seat in the Oct. 8 general elections, told voters in his constituency in the suburb of Woodford that Prime Minister Harold Macmillan was the only man to represent Britain in forthcoming crucial summit talks.

Macmillan and the Conservative Party, which began the election campaign with a comfortable edge over the Laborites, are reported "running scared" in their bid for re-election because public opinion, polls and private reports showed an alarming drop in Conservative popularity.

Churchill, wearing his usual black overcoat, black hat, cigar and sternly benign expression, made one of his rare public appearances to demand that the voters keep his party in power.

"To build may have to be the slow and laborious task of years," Churchill said. "To destroy can be the thoughtless act of a single day."

"Let us pray that Oct. 8 is not such a day."

Churchill made it clear he fully approved of Macmillan's foreign and domestic policies. He said he regards a summit meeting with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev as "desirable" whether concrete results come from it.

Air Force Super Jet Plane Cancelled; May End Era

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Air Force cancelled development of the F-105 jet plane yesterday in a move signaling the end of the line for piloted interceptors.

The service made clear that the cancellation was dictated by a money squeeze. The alternative was to eliminate long-range missiles or reduce combat readiness of present forces.

BY ED HERRERA

WASHINGTON — What were the plump little Communists' first impressions of America? I tagged along the first 120 minutes of Nikita Khrushchev's tour of the U. S. and saw what he saw, and imagined what he thought.

Whatever else he would see, those first views of life, of action, of the attitudes of our people would certainly make the deepest imprint, hold the most lasting flavor.

First, the long, long walk down the Andrews Air Base runway — a long pass — on this sunny, picnic-like day with a hard, warm southern breeze blowing his hair back. His stride was like a rapid waddle, to keep up with the loping stride of the President. My eyes followed his squinting face as he walked, walked, walked into the sun. I detected an expression which seemed to say, "So, so this is America!"

As the motorcade swung out of Andrews, past a pale bearing 48-star U. S. flag, I watched the crowd from the same parade, in a press bus 17 vehicles back.

In the parking lots stood hundreds of shiny automobiles.

Khrushchev couldn't miss seeing them wondering how more servicemen could afford such luxuries.

Clusters of folks stood as if in a quiet whisper. He sensed this same attitude at the welcome ceremony — a quiet whisper among the crowd, and very little other reaction.

Now the cavalcade swung out on Sulland Parkway, a dual ribbon, and dipped and curved across rolling green hills. The sweet freshness of this free, wide countryside must have impressed him as something wonderful. There was the odor of pine in the breeze and a few leaves had turned on the oaks and some fluttered on the grassy slopes.

Most people in small groups, and every few hundred yards a man in a business suit telling a walkie-talkie. He was a security policeman, his back to the procession, scanning the brush and coking an eye to the trees for a possible sniper.

As Khrushchev's lead limousine crossed into the city limits, the Russian saw a sight that must have shocked him. In view of all the vicious stories he read about Little Rock.

There on the embankment stood hundreds — thousands — of spectators, both colored and white standing side by side.

At precisely 1:30, one hour after his arrival, his black limousine curved left over a network of new roads onto the South Capitol Street Bridge, and there was his first view of America's symbol of democracy, The Washington Monument stood as a challenge, and the dome of the Capitol glinted in the high sun. Then came the mob of downtown Washington. The size of the crowd must have lifted his sense of self-esteem a few notches. Mostly, though, there were only curiously stares. You found a few happy-go-lucky with the "I-love-a-parade" look. But, largely, you knew that Khrushchev got the message. It was a message of tolerance, of guarded tolerance.

Khrushchev tried to be amiable, but his security police constantly eagle-eyed the crowds. When they'd pass a skull and bones flag-waver, they'd snap a picture of him.

In exactly two hours, the Premier reached Blair House. He ascended the stairs and turned to face the crowd. There was a cockiness in his grin, as if his march into Washington was triumphant. But, on second look, there was a doubt in that grin.

Steel Strike Pact Prospects Dim

NEW YORK (UPI) — David J. McDonald, president of the United Steelworkers Union, said he was cold water on prospects for settlement of the nationwide steel strike which is now in its 11th week.

The union president blamed the impasse on industry's "arrogant adamancy."

McDonald told newsmen he had consulted with the union leaders of the 12 subcommittees which for the past two weeks have been discussing local problems on a company-by-company basis and that they reported "absolutely no progress of any kind."

"They said that the arrogant adamancy of the industry remains," McDonald said. "The situation is the same today as it was on May 5."

Snake Up A Tree

BOMBAY, India (UPI) — A woman and her two sons spent two days in a tree with a 12-foot-long cobra who also sought refuge from swirling floods which inundated a village near Surat this week, it was reported today. The snake slipped away after the water receded and the family was rescued unharmed.

Americans spent about two billion dollars on foreign travel in 1958, approximately one third of it for transportation, reports the National Industrial Conference Board.

WASHINGTON GOING

BY MARSHALL CHILDS

THE MOWER, Iowa — Nikita Khrushchev has a chance at any time in his frantic tour of America to break through the barrier of policy, security, speculation, suspicion and antagonism and really hear something about Americans and how they live. It would be here in Iowa.

His host in Iowa is Gov. Raymond (Ray) Garret, Jr. In that over-arching, an American to court on the case. What Khrushchev might learn from this is the Iowa in American life of husband-and-wife idealism. One of the strong currents that has shaped the nation, it is too often overlooked or ignored by the distinguished foreign visitor who sees only the glitzy surface of the big cities.

Garret is a product of world peace through agricultural plenty. He talks with a fervor and a pride of Khrushchev's love for Iowa that he has not met by the new farm techniques that science has made possible. At the same time he is a successful businessman and farmer, whose firm, the Garret and Thomas Hybrid Corn Company, sells its product in every corner of the globe.

When the Russian first spoke, the Iowa people were so glad to visit this country, that to Iowa in 1959 they met Garret and were greatly impressed by the productivity of the good corn. He returned the visit and in Moscow he met Khrushchev and ultimately got an something like friendly terms with him. Khrushchev was then beginning to prepare his big dream of opening up the virgin lands of Siberia to intensive modern cultivation. Part of the dream was to grow corn and feed it to cattle and hogs and thereby give the Russians a lot more milk and meat. Khrushchev is often called by his own people in humorous fashion the "corn king."

So he and Garret had this bond in common. The Garret and Thomas company said the Russians hybrid seed corn. Some say the orders amounted to $2,000,000.

In any event, as Garret points out, it was not long before they got their own hybrid seed production going following a visit to this

Worry Clinic

Irene has a wonderful idea, so post this case along to your column. Or, if you have married children, you might get out of case and start guaranteeing them young couples a longer, happier marriage. Mr. Neiderman no one can be up to par if answered specifically.

DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE C-68: Irene G., aged 29, is the mother of two youngsters. "Dr. Crane," she begins, "my mother-in-law is a marvelous person and so very understanding. "Last Christmas she sent me the most wonderful present, so I wish you'd tell the millions of your readers about it, so other in-laws could imitate this idea."

"Instead of giving me a dress or some article of furniture, she sent me a letter, saying she knew I was in the down a great deal with the two youngsters."

"So she said she was sending a check for $6 on the first of every month just to be used to pay a baby-sitter twice per month so Tom and I could go out for a date."

"And she insisted that we write and let her know where we went so she would realize we were having fun together. Then she'd send another check for the following month, etc."

"Well, it has been wonderful. Tom and I 'keep' our romance revived by this outside date twice per month."

"And Mother enjoys hearing us describe where we went, so it helps insure more regular writing back and forth. That is a valuable by-product, too, wouldn't you agree, Dr. Crane?"

Unique Gifts

Yes, and I think Irene's mother-in-law is a very good psychologist.

For the knows that love must be nurtured to remain strong and healthy.

Most people realize that muscles must be kept in trim by regular use or they will shrink and atrophy. Your physical strength wanes from inactivity.

Well, your love will shrivel, too, unless you keep it exercised regularly and that also is true of religion, idealism, musical appreciation and those other cultural attributes of the human brain.

It would be wise "millions of in-laws followed the same policy so well illustrated by Irene's mother-in-law."

Collins To Sign Assessor's Suspension Order Today

United Press International
 Gov. LeRoy Collins was scheduled to sign papers today suspending Tax Assessor Mary Earle Walker from her office for "neglect of duty and incompetence."
 The governor's action came after a three-hour meeting yesterday at Tallahassee with Mrs. Walker, County Atty. Mack Cleveland Jr. and School Board Atty. Douglas Stenstrom.
 Mrs. Walker said today that the governor's action "is the result of politics" and that she could not possibly agree to accomplish what Collins asked in the time he allotted her.
 Collins asked Mrs. Walker at yesterday's meeting to assure him that she would prepare a 1959 tax roll by Dec. 1 which she would certify as a competent one, "representing the performance of her duties as required by law pertaining to evaluation of property for assessment purposes."
 He said that she refused to assure him that this would be done, saying only that she would prepare a roll "to the best of my ability."
 The governor did not name a replacement for the assessor's job.

Names of possible successors in the assessor post to be considered by Collins are expected to be submitted to the governor by county officials, the legislative delegation and his political supporters in the county.
 Collins said yesterday the county "faces an emergency" and said he wants to make an interim appointment as soon as possible. Mrs. Walker's term has about one more year to run.
 Mrs. Walker is the first tax assessor suspended by Collins since he started a drive for property evaluations throughout the state that would more nearly meet the full cash value requirements of law.
 The State Railroad Assessment Board said Seminole County property is valued for tax purposes at just over 80 per cent of its actual worth.
 But Collins made it clear this was not the specific failure attributed to Mrs. Walker, although he conceded it constitutes part of the reason.
 Mrs. Walker said after the meeting she would not be "intimidated" or make a promise to the governor which she knew would result in "exorbitant and unfair taxation" to many taxpayers of Seminole County.
 The governor said he did not ask her to take the reappraisal made by Dowling Appraisal Co. but to make her own appraisal based on her own independent judgment.

 "I did require that she give the people of Seminole County and me assurances that on or before Dec. 1, she would submit an assessment roll which she would certify to be a competent one, representing the performance of her duties as required by the law pertaining to the evaluation of property for assessment purposes," Collins said.
 "She refused to give such assurances, contending only that she would prepare a roll 'to the best of my ability.'"
 The roll she prepared last year was found by the state comptroller to be a patently incompetent job and the simple truth is that in the emergency this county faces, the quality of Mrs. Walker's work which has been the result of the best of her ability in the past is inadequate," Collins said.
 "I frankly advised her if she would not give assurances that a competent job would be done, I felt it my duty to ask her to step aside so we could put somebody in the position who would."

Mrs. Walker claimed the private appraisal, done by a Bradenton firm, was a "grossly inaccurate and inadequate job," Collins said.
 "In the meantime, she has not prepared her assessment roll and unless the roll is completed and filed with the county commission for equalization by Dec. 1, grave and serious injuries would likely result," the governor added.
 In summing up her side of the story, Mrs. Walker told reporters:
 "The governor was not interested in listening to my problem and why I could not do all that he demanded."
 "He refused me a public hearing before suspending me."
 "He said he would remove me if I did not promise a competent appraisal by Dec. 1 in accordance with the legal requirements of full cash value and all other requirements of law."
 "I have conscientiously done all I could to improve the tax roll under the conditions to which I was subjected."
 "I told him I would to the best of my ability prepare a competent 1959 roll by Dec. 1. The governor said this was not enough and suspended me."

Hoffa Seeks 'Every Non-Union' Man

ATLANTA (UPI) — James R. Hoffa said Thursday night the goal of the Teamsters Union is to organize every American worker who does not carry a union card.
 Hoffa said that he would like to have policemen and firemen in the Teamsters Union. But he said he feels they should not have the right to strike.

Hoffa explained why he thinks his union should go after members in non-related fields. He said the Teamsters Union is "flexible."
 Hoffa again said he would remove four teamsters illegally on the payroll according to the new labor reform law. He would not name them.
 Hoffa said he is aware of the tremendous responsibility he has as leader of a union that could tie up the nation's transportation. But he said "there are enough laws on the books to cover any illegal actions by the unions."
 The return of the International Longshoremen's Assn. to the AFL-CIO did not end his efforts to get the ILA into the Teamsters Union, Hoffa said.
 Hoffa also said Sears Roebuck is the Teamsters' "prime target" in the South.

Public Invited To Bible Study

 The conference's two sessions to be held in the Sanford's First Methodist Church will begin at 3 p. m. and 7:30 p. m.
 Dr. Elmer A. Leslie, who recently translated the Book of Isaiah, will use this Old Testament book as a conference basis. Dr. Leslie was at the American Institute of Oriental Studies when the "Dead-Sea Isaiah Scroll" was discovered. The scroll was brought in the institute for analysis.
 Each enrollee at the conference will pay a $1 registration fee.

Voters To Choose School Millage In Nov. 3 Vote

Seminole County voters in the Nov. 3 district school and special reappointment elections will choose between voting for the millage recommended by the school board or suggesting another figure, School Supt. R. T. Milroy explained today.
 A millage rate will be placed on the ballot and property owners may approve this figure, or if against it, may write in a millage rate they do favor. A majority of the voters choosing a certain number will establish that figure as the district school millage rate for the coming year.
 The county commissioners may add up to 10 mills to this figure later.
 Results of this election will be known the night of Nov. 3.
 The three county school trustees to be elected the same day will advise county school officials and recommend employment or dismissal of school instructional staff members.
 To be nominated for trustee, a person must present a petition signed by five or more persons qualified to vote in the election. The petition must be filed with the county school board office 15 days before the election and must request that names of persons nominated be placed on the ballot. Petitions may be obtained at the School Board office, 202 Commercial Ave., Sanford.
 To vote in the election, people must be residents of the district in which they are voting, have been in the state for a year and in the county for six months. They must be properly registered or furnished legal evidence of registration and must pay tax on real or personal property.

Tour Eases Tensions, Khrushchev Believes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev said today he thinks his tour of the United States contributed to a lessening of international tensions "to a certain extent."
 But the Soviet leader added that he will know more about that after his face-to-face cold war talks with President Eisenhower beginning tonight at Camp David.
 Khrushchev also told an impromptu news conference outside the Soviet embassy that he hopes the president will make an extensive trip through the Soviet Union — a trip longer than he took in the United States "since our country is bigger."
 Khrushchev and Eisenhower held separate strategy conferences with their top advisers during the morning to prepare for their talks.
 The two-top-level buddies took place about 200 yards apart—the president meeting with his aides in the White House while Khrushchev talked with his in Blair House, just across Pennsylvania Avenue.
 After asserting that he thinks his tour lessened international tension "to a certain extent," Khrushchev added, "We will know more about after my discussions with the president."
 The White House announced that Eisenhower and Khrushchev would fly to Camp David by helicopter, taking off from the White House lawn at 4:15 p. m.

"WONDERFUL SAUSAGE" — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev bites into his first American hot dog — which he called a "sausage" — and pronounced "wonderful." The Soviet leader ate all of the hot dog and told operators of a Des Moines, Iowa, meat packing plant, "Don't change the formula."

The idea should be sent on a postcard also bearing the contestant's name and address. Numerous entries have been received, Klingensmith said.
 Themes may be of a religious nature or may deal with any other subject suitable to a Christmas parade. Last year's entries included "Keeping Christ in Christmas" and "Christmas Through a Child's Eyes."

Tax Assessor Mary Earle Walker issued a prepared statement today about the action of Gov. Collins suspending her from office after their meeting yesterday. She said she had no other comment to make. Here is her statement in full:

The governor's unfair action in suspending me is the result of devious and unavowed political strategy.
 There are 33 counties which had a 40 per cent or less assessment level for 1958. Many of the assessors of these counties have been in office for several terms, while I have served less than three years of my first term, yet the governor singled me out for summary removal without a public hearing on the ground that I refused to promise him a competent 1959 assessment roll at full cash value within a period of approximately two months. It takes an appraisal company of trained workers, devoted to reappraisal work alone, approximately one year to do what he demanded that I do in two months, and in addition thereto, I would have had to get the roll compiled and perform all the other duties and services of this office. The governor simply gave me a task that no one aware of the work involved could conscientiously agree to accomplish in the time allotted.

It is of first importance to me that no one's taxes shall be exorbitant and excessive. Obviously, it is the view of the governor and those behind his action that the total sum of the tax roll is the essential criterion of evaluating a valid tax roll; that individual exorbitant and excessive taxes are deplorable but of a secondary nature and pamphphage a necessary evil in the desire to raise more money to spend.

With the money and trained personnel available to my office, I had been making steady progress in adjusting and bringing current the assessment values. Last year, however, upon the county commission ordering an appraisal of the property of the county, I curtailed sharply this work, expecting to use this appraisal in compiling my 1959 assessment roll. Because of this long delay in delivery and the incompetent and unreliable nature of this appraisal, I reluctantly concluded that I could not possibly use these appraisal figures without reviewing them by inspection in the field, and that time prevented this being done this year. At this time, I have the preliminary 1959 assessment roll nearly completed, and expected to deliver the same to the county commission on or about Oct. 1st. This work has been done accurately, competently and to the best of my ability under the circumstances.

I resent the governor's suspension on the grounds of "incompetency and neglect of duty." I have been engaged in this work for over 25 years in the Seminole County Tax Assessor's office, and there are too many people who know I am not incompetent and that I have never neglected the duties of this office. It is ironic that if I did the governor's bidding I was competent, but if I didn't I was incompetent.

I deplore the fact that the school and county functions will be seriously affected by the delay in receiving tax monies this year. The governor's action, I feel was uncalled for and a disservice to the people of Seminole County.
 It was brought to the attention of the governor at our conference that under the Statutes of Florida, Chapter 475, Robert L. Dowling and his company were not licensed or qualified to appraise real estate; that the contract entered into by the Seminole County commissioners with the Dowling Appraisal Company was illegal and that Dowling was prohibited by law from doing such appraisal work and from receiving or being paid for such appraisal services, and it is ironic that as a result of such an illegal appraisal, unreliable in fact, I should be suspended by the governor.

The governor quoted the comptroller as finding that my 1958 roll was patently incompetent. However, Mr. Ausley, who made the inspection of this 1958 roll for the comptroller, said yesterday in the governor's office that there was nothing derogatory in his report of his investigation of my 1958 roll, and said that Comptroller Green had been misquoted.

I wish to thank my friends for their loyal support, encouragement and confidence. I have been unjustly removed but I hope to return with your help.

14,500 Get Driver Permits In County

Seminole County's sale of driver's licenses seems to be running ahead of the average Florida county's issue.
 Seminole sales are "progressing satisfactorily," courthouse reports said yesterday. Issue of licenses is running about 2,300 ahead of the same time last year, with more than 14,500 driver's licenses sold so far. Sale of 20,000 permits is expected by the end of selling, Sept. 30.
 The Seminole license sale office is open in the courthouse lobby from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. Monday through Friday, and from 9 a. m. until noon on Saturdays. Examinations for people who don't have licenses are given Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday each week from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. at the VFW Building, on the lakefront near the zoo.
 Persons pending in for licenses should send the entire original license, and keep only the green carbon copy from the certificate, otherwise a new license cannot be issued.
 The Florida Highway Patrol may start a drivers' license check after the Sept. 30 deadline. Drivers who don't have their permits then, will be subject to a penalty.
