Years of dedication

The City of Longwood proclaimed an "Ed Myers Day" this month to honor a long-time employee. Myers, seated, received the plaque from Longwood Chief of Police Greg Manning. During the ceremony Manning and Fire Chief Charlie Chapman expressed the appreciation of the city for the long service and many contributions of Myers.

Lake Mary turkey day

LAKE MARY — A traditional Thanksgiving event will take place this Wednesday in Lake Mary. It's the annual turkey cooking day, sponsored by the Lake Mary Civic Improvement Association.

According to CIA member Randy Morris, "We have held this for many years, and people really seem to look forward to it, not only those who will buy the turkeys, but to the CIA people who get involved in doing the work."

Morris said, "We have 110 turkeys, 10 to 12 pounds in weight, that we'll be smoking over live oak wood all Wednesday morning, from about 6 a.m. on."

"Then, from noon until 6 p.m. Wednesday," he said, "people who have ordered the turkeys can pick them up at the CIA grounds and take them home."

The CIA is charging $20 per turkey. "In addition to handling those that are pre-ordered," Morris explained, "we'll be giving a number of turkeys to the needy. The money we make from the regular sales will go to pay for those we donate," he added.

The gift turkeys will be allocated through names supplied by the Lake Mary police department and area churches.

Chief cook this year will be John Connelly, who will be assisted by other CIA members, as well as a number of city government volunteers.

"It's important that people order their turkeys as far in advance as possible," Morris said. To order, contact Vern Fedderan, 322-2872.

The Lake Mary CIA building is located at 260 N. Country Club Road.

Correction

In comments attributed to District 1 City Commission candidate Lon Howell, reported Friday, Nov. 20, three words were omitted from his comments regarding code enforcement in the city. Howell had said, "The lack of strong code enforcement makes many people unhappy."

Festival draws thousands

Longwood showcases arts, crafts

LONGWOOD — An early afternoon shower didn't discourage the crowds from browsing and buying at the Longwood Arts and Crafts Festival, which continues through 5 p.m. today.

Parking lots close to the festival, which was located on Church and Warren streets in Longwood, were filled more than an hour before things got underway.

The city has estimated that more than 30,000 people will attend the SANFORD — A resolution from three counties, headed by a Seminole County man, will travel to Tallahassee Monday to request a state investigation into the shooting death of a black man by a deputy sheriff in Volusia County.

Johnell Jackson, chairman of the coalition, is also calling for a state probe.

The coalition was formed to address the shooting death of an African man, Leonard Acker, 33, by Volusia County Deputy Sheriff Michael Phillips, although it

SAFE keeping culture in school

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Parents and community members are concerned that the students of Seminole County no longer have the opportunity to sample presentations of the performing and visual arts.

Last year, when the state legislature cut money to the school districts across the state, Seminole County chose to make cutbacks in the area of field trips to arts presentations and exhibits rather than make further cuts in the classroom.

"They took away an important aspect of their education," Jack Cushman said.

A group calling itself Seminole Arts For Education (SAFE), organized by Cushman, has been working both as a fundraising body and as a liaison between the school district and United Arts of Orlando.

"We are educating government about the needs of the students in the area of the arts," said Jim Elliott, a director with the school district's curriculum services department and a member of SAFE.

The group has already raised $10,000 from Seminole County, $3,000 from the City of Altamonte Springs and $2,000 from various SAFE fundraisers.

They are still accepting donations. The money that they have raised has been matched by the United Arts organization.

Cushman said that the group is not resting on its laurels.

"We've had some real successes," she said. "However, we're looking for some long-term funding so that we can ensure these field trips into the future."

Cushman said that district cut $30,900 from the budget that would have been used to pay for elementary students to travel to Orlando to see the Florida Symphony.

Stenstrom addresses puzzling questions of the yesteryears

Morning folks! Now that you've finished those breakfast grits and groceries, warm up your coffee and let's go back to the yesteryears with questions and answers. Ready?

Question: Who was the Atlantic Coast Line's company physician back in the 1920s?

Answer: The earliest ACL physician we could determine was Dr. Oliver Miller. He was the son of Sanford businessman, T.J. Miller. The latter owned a furniture store at the southeast corner of First Street and Park Avenue where the First Union Bank now stands. In addition to furniture we found out the store also sold caskets. This explains how Sanford's first funeral home, now Brisson's, was known as "Miller-Erickson."

Q: Who was the very nice nurse who each year would visit all the schools. She would give shots, vaccinations, have students read eye charts, give hearing tests and what have you?

A: I cannot recall her first name but we always knew her as Miss Lamb. I'm pretty sure she lived in Geneva. Can anyone help me with this?

Q: Who was the fellow who once pitched for the Sanford baseball team and went on to the major leagues to play for the old Boston Braves?

A: His name was Ben Cantwell. He hurled for the Braves for almost 10 years. I understand he was released just months before he would have qualified for his major league pension. He married Clare Jones, the attractive daughter of Mrs. Minnie Jones who resided next door to F.D. Scott's service station on the southeast corner of Third Street and Park Avenue.

Q: Recently you wrote about the time Stetson University whipped the Gators in a season opener at Florida Field in Gainesville. Who were some of Gator coaches back in those days and down through the years?

WAY BACK WHEN

JULIAN STENSTROM

A: Try these on for size: Charley Bachman (who went from Florida to Michigan State and coached there for almost a quarter century), Josh Cody, Tom Lieb, Bob Woodruff, Ray Graves, Doug Dickey, Charley Pell, Galen Hall and now Steve Spurrier. You old Gator fans let me know if I've

Fine for trying to beat trains

FORT LAUDERDALE — There's an added risk now for motorists who decide they can beat approaching trains by driving around lowered crossing guards. If they make it, it may cost them $1,500. A change in state law requires drivers ticketed for running a crossing gate to appear in court, where a judge can fine them up to $1,500. Before the change, drivers ticketed for a crossing violation could avoid court by pleading guilty and mailing in a civil fine of $57. The state Department of Transportation announced this week it will mount a statewide effort with law enforcement agencies to crack down on drivers who run the gates or stop on the tracks.

Teens arrested for murder

TAMPA — Hours after a 27-year-old restaurateur was shot to death, police say his killers went shopping at a mall and used the victim's credit card. The shopping spree led police to charge two teen-age women and two men with murder in the shooting Monday of Nam Quach. Tampa Police spokesman Scott Guffey said two Clearwater women were arrested Wednesday night at East Lake Square Mall after they tried to use the credit card again. The women, Redonna C. Johnson and Tiffany M. Jenkins, both 18, led police to two men from out of state they met about a week earlier. They men were identified as Avery Brian Strims, 28, of New York City and Omar Konata Allen, 20, of Baltimore, Md.

Psychic came close

JACKSONVILLE — A court document released this week in the Gainesville student murders has a psychic coming pretty close to predicting the correct name of the prime suspect before he was identified by police. Sharon Carroll told investigators on Nov. 7, 1990, that her extra sensory perception powers told her that the killer was a man named "Rollings." Danny Harold Rolling, 38, a Shreveport, La., drifter, was identified in January 1991 as a suspect in the killings. He was charged in November 1991 with five counts of first-degree murders for the gruesome slayings of five Gainesville college students in late August 1990.

God and Moses appeared in court

JACKSONVILLE — God and Moses made appearances in a Duval County courtroom this week. Kriecita Moses was charged with public assistance fraud, while Andrew God was charged with writing bad checks. At one point, prosecutors were considering working out a plea bargain with God. Assistant Public Defender Robert Mason said the judge should make it a special condition of probation that God bring world peace.

County building starts up

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Seminole County ended its fiscal year in September with a 7 percent increase in new home starts and a 15 percent increase in new commercial starts and is on its way to beginning the new year in a similar trend.

"It's a heartening sign," said County Manager Ron Rabun. "I think things are going to turn up. I think we'll have a cautious recovery." A total of $205.4 million in construction activity occurred in the unincorporated areas of the county during the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1, 1991 and ending Sept. 30, 1992. By comparison, $183.7 million in construction activity occurred the year before, 11 percent less, according to the report released recently by the county Building Division.

Overall, the number of permits issued increased by 175 percent during the year. But that figure is largely skewed due to the huge number of roofing repair permits that were issued following the March hailstorms in the southern sections of the county. The "other" category that includes roofing permits increased from 3,607 permits during the 1990-1991 fiscal year to 12,961 during the fiscal year that just ended.

The permits generated nearly $1.9 million in permit fees, about $306,000 above projections. Rabun said the overage will be placed in the division's reserve fund to pay for operations expenses during a future dip in activity.

The county issued 972 permits for new homes in unincorporated areas during the 12-month period. For the year beginning Oct. 1, 1990, the county issued 808 permits, 7 percent less.

The county issued 61 new commercial construction permits for the year that just ended, compared to 63 the year before.

a 17 percent increase. The reports show the new fiscal year has begun on a high note. A total of 86 new home starts were permitted in October, compared to 84 new home starts during October 1991, a 2 percent increase. New commercial starts were up to 10 in October, compared to only three during October 1991, a 233 percent increase.

Threatened tariff not expected to help tiny business

By GILL KASSIN
Associated Press Writer

DEPUNIAK SPRINGS, Fla. — Florida's tiny but diverse wine industry isn't counting on help from a threatened tariff against European white wines in its struggle to gain acceptance.

Steven R. White, general manager of Chautauqua Vineyards and Winery in this Panhandle city, said a 200 percent tariff that had been proposed would increase prices of some competitors and make his products more attractive.

But he expected the tariff would have been short-lived, if put into effect at all, because a compromise was likely in trade negotiations between the United States and European nations.

"I don't think it is going to affect us one bit," said Keith Mullins, White's counterpart at Lakeridge Winery and Vineyards in Clermont. "In the ocean of wine we are a very small fish."

He pointed out the 30,000 gallons sold by the Central Florida winery every year amount to only 0.1 percent of the 30 million gallons consumed annually in Florida, the nation's third-largest market after California and New York.

Chautauqua's sales are only slightly greater at 41,280 gallons for the year through last week.

Florida's only other commercial wine producer, Eden Vineyards and Winery in the Southwest Florida town of Alva, expects to sell between 40,000 to 50,000 gallons in 1992. But at least half that amount is made from tropical orambola fruit rather than grapes.

All three wineries are newcomers although Florida has had a long but faded history in wine making. Eden opened 13 years ago. Lakeridge began selling wine in 1989 and Chautauqua opened the following year. Lakeridge's owners had another winery, Lafayette in Tallahassee, but closed it in April to concentrate on the larger Central Florida market.

French Huguenots made the first American wine in Florida from native muscadine grapes, found throughout the Southeast, in 1563. Since then, Southerners have been making wine from the same type of grapes, also known as scuppermonia.

"That's the first thing you hear, 'My grandparents used to make this wine,'" White said. "Maybe they'll try our wines because of that."

But the earlier wines weren't very good, and modern vintners must live down that reputation as they use improved hybrids developed specifically for wine-making.

"The only way we overcome the critics ... is to let people sample the product," White said. In two years, Chautauqua's muscadine wines have won 60 medals at contests across the nation, competing in separate categories from most European and California wines. Muscadine wines have a fruity flavor and tend to be sweet, although dry varieties are produced from both white and red grapes.

"We have gotten into the major retail chains by one thing — persistence," White said.

He is blatantly parochial, telling Florida retailers: "You have Australian wines out there, you have Chilean wines, you have wines from France and Italy, California, but you are a Florida grocery store chain and you do not have a Florida product."

The muscadine wines and a limited-production blueberry dessert wine made by Chautauqua are available at the winery, but most sales are through grocery and liquor store chains in Florida, Mississippi and Alabama. Chautauqua plans to add Georgia in the near future. See Wine, Page 10A

Grape expectations

Life expectancy and per capita wine consumption in Mediterranean countries and the U.S.

The so-called "French paradox" has received a lot of press lately. But many nutritionists believe more facts are needed before confirming a correlation between greater wine consumption and increased life expectancy.

POLICE NEWS

Battery charged

Terry Charles Boucher, 33, 420 Lake Ruth, Longwood, was charged with battery/domestic violence when he was arrested by Seminole County sheriff's deputies on Friday morning.

Deputies said his wife told them that he had hit her and pushed her to the floor where she hit her head on a large metal bucket.

When deputies found him in the house, he was in a bedroom eating and watching television with sound turned off.

They said that he told them he would only talk to the judge and refused to give them information about himself.

He was taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility and held on $2,500 bond.

Retail theft alleged

Tony Anthony "Gut" Brown, 34, 61 Lake Monroe Terrace, Sanford, was charged with retail theft when he was arrested by Sanford Police on Thursday.

Police said that an employee at the Winn Dixie, 1514 French Ave., Sanford, saw him put two packages of New York strip steaks in a brown paper bag and leave the store.

The steaks were valued at $17.50.

Another employee saw him place the bag behind a mailbox outside the store and detained him.

He was transported to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility and held on $100 bond.

Gas theft alleged

Joel Richmond, 26, 1701 13th Street, Sanford, was charged with retail theft when he was arrested by Altamonte Springs Police on Thursday.

Police said Richmond had put $11.85 worth of gasoline in his car at the Mobil station 2040 State Road 434, Longwood, and had left without paying for it.

He was caught when he hit a stop sign several blocks away.

The clerk at the station positively identified him as the suspect.

He was taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility where he was held on $100 bond.

Man threatens wife with kerosene

Jeff L. Stanley, 35, 1720 W. 14th St., Sanford, was charged with domestic violence when he was arrested by Sanford Police on Thursday.

Police said he and his wife became involved in a verbal dispute and during the argument, he poured kerosene on the bed and threatened to pour it on his wife as well.

He was transported to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility and held in lieu of $1,000 bond.

Suspended license leads to arrest

Michael K. "Boo" Holder, 26, 1207 E. Central Ave., Orlando, was charged with driving with a suspended license and possession of a controlled substance when he was arrested by Longwood Police Thursday.

Police said he was stopped on a traffic violation and it was found that his drivers license had been suspended for financial responsibility last month.

During an inventory check of the car after his arrest, a green leafy substance was found in a bag in his ash tray.

A test of the substance showed it to be marijuana.

He was taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility where he was held without bond.

Air Patrol searching for missing plane

By Associated Press

BLAIRSVILLE, Ga. — Rescuers spent Saturday searching north Georgia for a missing airplane that never made its scheduled arrival in Florida.

The single-engine Piper Arrow had two men on board when it left Andrews, N.C., at 3 p.m. Friday, headed for Ocala, Fla. A relative reported that the men never arrived.

The Georgia Civil Air Patrol tracked a strong signal beacon emitting from the small plane that indicated the aircraft was somewhere between Blairsville, Dahlonega and the Chatahoochee National Forest, said CAP spokeswoman Trini Marez. Tracking the beacon could be tricky, Ms. Marez said. "The signal can bounce off things so in the mountains it's sometimes like chasing ghosts," she said.

The pilot didn't file a flight plan so rescuers didn't know which route the plane took, but began searching in north Georgia because Andrews is just 30 miles north of the state line.

The flight originated in Avon, Ohio, and apparently stopped for fuel in Andrews, according to Lt. Col. Eric Karnes of the North Carolina Civil Air Patrol.

Two CAP planes were participating in the search, but cloudy weather kept visibility low, he said. Ground teams planned to search all night, if necessary.

Mall name change proposed

By BOB SPERAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — A move is underway to have the Magnolia Mall renamed. The proposed new name is Magnolia Square.

The area, at the intersection of East First Street and Magnolia Avenue, has been given a brick base, and beautifully decorated with planters and trees. It is also the home of the Sanford town clock.

Weekly activities, Market on the Mall, have been held there for over a year on Fridays and Saturdays.

During a meeting of the Sanford Historic Downtown Waterfront Association this past week, Kay Bartholomew explained that the name change might be advisable.

"The use of the word 'mall' might not be a good description for the area," she said. "For many people, a mall has a completely different meaning, and we should probably consider changing it now, in preparation for the big mall to be built west of the city."

Based on an article by Donovan Rypkema in the November Historic Preservation News, she suggested the name change should be to Magnolia Square.

Rypkema had written that malls were forcing many downtown areas to close, and cities could prevent this by promoting their downtown areas through other means which would promote an improvement in community pride.

Bartholomew explained that Sanford City Manager Bill Simmons had suggested SHDWA consider endorsing the name change, and forwarding it to the Historic Preservation Board for their consideration.

"From there on," Bartholomew said, "I expect it will be up to the City Commission to make the final decision, but we hope our endorsements will help bring this about. We have been considering it for a long time."

SHDWA co-chairman Chris Cranias explained, "If we endorse this, it would be an excellent starting point."

Members of SHDWA voted unanimously to endorse the proposed name change.

SHDWA's meeting also saw a new list of officers elected. Cranias, who has served as chairman for the past two years, was re-elected, but in the capacity as co-chairman, to serve jointly with newly elected member Helen Baird.

Two additional officers were added. Carol Kirchoff was named secretary and Rod Layer will serve as treasurer.

Added to the board of directors were June Marshall, Martha Yate, and Libby Voltoline.

Judge clears woman of flashing policeman

By Associated Press

CORAL SPRINGS — A judge has cleared a woman jailed for flashing a policeman who gave her a parking ticket, saying the act of protest was constitutionally protected.

Maria DiPierri was arrested in March in front of her two young children when a police officer said she "flashed" him by lifting her Garfield the Cat nightshirt to protest a parking ticket.

DiPierri denied flashing anybody and said she was only adjusting her underwear as she walked away from Coral Springs officer Lawrence Saxon.

But as far as Broward Circuit Judge Peter Skolnik is concerned, it wouldn't have mattered.

Skolnik has thrown out charges of lewd behavior and resisting arrest without violence against DiPierri, ruling that even if she had exposed herself to protest the ticket, her constitutional right to free speech allowed her to do so.

"I feel relieved that it's over and something good did come out of it," DiPierri, 31, said on Friday.

"That kind of action is just stupid nonsense and it should have never gotten that far," DiPierri's attorney, Ross Zimmerman, said. "I'm glad we stopped it dead in its tracks."

The incident started one morning when DiPierri saw a police officer writing her a ticket for parking on the grass across from her apartment.

DiPierri tried to tell the officer she had permission to park in the spot because the apartment parking lot was being paved.

Saxon arrived as the two argued, and DiPierri decided to sign the ticket and walk away. As she did, DiPierri said, she reached inside her nightshirt to adjust her underwear.

Saxon ran across the street and grabbed her in front of her children, ages 2 and 4. DiPierri said Saxon threw her against a fence and told her she was under arrest.

Although the other charges were dismissed, DiPierri will still have to pay $25 for the parking ticket.

Salvation Army Red Kettle: Sign of the season

This season the Salvation Army, with the help of local communities, will be helping those less fortunate until New Year's Eve. The organization's Red Kettle Drive, which collects money for the Christmas assistance program, kicked off this past week at Kmart, Wal-Mart, Public grocery stores and the Sanford Post Office.

There is no program more worthy of support than the Red Kettle Drive and related functions such as the "Angel Tree," where families can pick a child's name off a tree in area Kmart and other locations. Families return wrapped gifts of clothing suitable by age and gender for each child chosen to the Salvation Army at 700 W. 24th St.

Through the Kettle Drive, the Salvation Army provides food, toys and clothing to needy families at Christmas.

Families meeting the Salvation Army criteria are invited to keep an appointment on distribution days prior to Christmas. Every family receives a Christmas ham and food bag and two brand new toys for each child 12 and under.

Of course, the Kettle Drive and the "Angel Trees" need community support. Seminole County residents should provide all support possible. Probably nothing else consumers spend money on can give as much satisfaction. Your donations are also a gift that will never have to be returned.

Residents, visitors and tourists should contribute generously when they see the red kettles. Each donation counts with another to help our needy families and their money, small as it may be, is appreciated. Contributions to the Santa Kettle Drive are tax deductible. For more information, call 325-8811.

My special Florida favorite, Sanford, was born in 1885. It was a small town, but it has grown to be one of the largest in the state. It has a rich history and a beautiful landscape. It is a town that is proud of its heritage and its future.

Some thoughts on Thanksgiving

I imagine in many classrooms and auditoriums throughout Seminole County excited students will be participating in plays and pageants about the first Thanksgiving.

It has been almost 400 years since that first Thanksgiving celebration took place. Governor William Bradford of Plymouth initiated the celebration in the autumn of 1621. He invited the neighboring Indians to join the Pilgrims in celebrating the bountiful harvest.

This tradition that began in New England became a national holiday in 1863. President Abraham Lincoln by presidential proclamation declared it.

All of us who live in America should be especially thankful. We are citizens of the number one country in the world that people from many, many lands long to make their homes.

America is still celebrating the bountiful harvest and we have multiple blessings corporate and individual for which to be thankful.

Among our corporate blessings are: the beautiful, bountiful land; our form of government which permits each individual equality at the ballot box; the standard of living that a majority of Americans enjoy; universal education for our children and the freedom of religion.

LURLENE SWEETING

LURLENE SWEETING

Individually, we need to reflect upon the position in our lives. If we awaken each morning with our basic needs for food, shelter and clothing met, we are blessed. If we are a member of a family that nurtures individuality, preserves dignity and affirms each member's self worth, this is a blessing.

Additionally, each of us can think of other blessings not commemorated here for which we are thankful. Let's pause and remember them.

Celebrating Thanksgiving also means caring and sharing, caring about our neighbors and sharing our material goods with them. Thanksgiving signals the beginning of the holiday season that lasts until the New Year.

The holiday season may be a particularly lonely time for people who live alone. Extend a warm welcome to share your holiday celebrations with these individuals.

Caring and sharing should also take a very tangible form. There are families in the community experiencing economic woes. A loving, caring attitude will make it possible to offer assistance and preserve their dignity.

Being thankful for our corporate and individual blessings does not absolve us from the responsibility of eradicating the problems of: hunger, homelessness, and lack of medical care; that are faced daily by our citizens. The area of race relations also needs improvement. We need to learn to relate to each person's humanity with honesty and respect. The fact that our crime rate is the highest among the industrialized world speaks to the need for preventative strategies to decrease the number of alienated citizens in our midst. There is definitely a correlation between social ills and the high crime rate. Let's be thankful we are Americans and let's help each other.

FEMA flagging on its disaster effort

FLORIDA CITY, Fla. — Len DeCarlo, spokesman for the Federal Emergency Management Agency in Miami, says there are no homeless people that he "knows of" in the town of Florida City, Fla., one of the communities hardest hit by Hurricane Andrew on Aug. 24.

That depends on how one defines homelessness.

Relief workers on the front line, for example, relate the story of an elderly woman found lying in the remains of her bedroom, gazing at the sky through a gaping hole in her roof. She couldn't reach the local FEMA office because she was a double amputee.

Why would FEMA deny the existence of homelessness in Florida City? It seems to come almost reflexively to an agency that is forced to devote so much time to damage control of the P.M. variety.

The embattled agency has received better reviews here than for its work following 1989's Hurricane Hugo in South Carolina. FEMA has cut more than 44,000 checks for some $99 million as part of its disaster housing program alone.

But in a town where the welfare office is double the size of city hall, many of Andrew's victims are still spending their nights in cardboard boxes, lean-tos, or in the dilapidated remains of their former homes. Some still sleep in their cars. Further down the road, in places like the predominantly black town of Ocala, conditions are bleaker than those in Florida City.

One local minister in Ocala claims FEMA was invisible until 12 weeks after the hurricane. Like a scene out of some foreign war aftermath, children play in the broken remains of their homes, running around the ubiquitous piles of trash. The groves and nurseries there were the lifeblood to this region's economy like wood chips strewn in a haphazard mass.

Driving through the stricken area, there are eerie signs of humanity, but no habitat. Those who lived in trailer parks before the storm are the lucky ones — most evacuated the area as their former homes were reduced to scrap metal by Andrew's wrath. In some cases, the twisted ruins lie undisturbed, looking to the untrained eye like a junk yard until one realizes that people lived there just three months ago.

For an area that never had much faith in government to begin with, there's alarm that the death toll from Andrew has been minimized by federal authorities. Nearly everybody believes the number runs in the thousands, while the official count is less than a hundred. People here talk of friends and relatives who have simply vanished without a trace.

Relief volunteer Kim Terry, who waited out the storm in the Florida Keys, says that he doesn't believe the death toll, and cites the fact that authorities evacuated more than 300,000 people from the Keys straight into the eye of the hurricane. A red flat belonging to a close friend was found twisted into a "hoorific stick" along the highway heading north from the Keys. This friend is among those listed as "missing."

Ocala's believe the number is low because many residents are accounted in census figures. Many in their rural communities, including the migrants who arrive each winter, live on or near the ground in under tents or huts far from census takers or relief workers.

To be sure, Florida City was a disaster area before the hurricane, consistently rated as among the 10 least desirable places to live in the United States, and plagued by drugs and believe it's time this city did a turn-around and started working on projects."

Among the most prominent problems and needs she envisions are unemployment, the need to improve law enforcement, and imaging.

"We can't separate the three," she said. "If we have better law enforcement, we'll have a better image which could produce new business and industry, and end up with better employment opportunities."

Regarding imaging, she commented, "I'm not referring to beautification, but working on making the city appealing for residential as well as industrial development."

In order to accomplish imaging as well as other projects, she suggested the best approach is to have the community more involved. "I would like to have members of the Commission, the city staff, and planners, meet in workshops with citizens to learn the needs of the residents," she said. "We need input from managers and owners of both small and large businesses, as well as from residents."

"In the past eight years," she said, "our taxes are higher, the water bills are higher, and downtown stores are half empty. Given all the work that has been done, nothing is better. It's time to have a change in direction or Sanford could become a slum district."

Regarding the Seminole Towne Center Mall project, Jacobson said, "I think the present mayor doesn't have much respect for the city, the way she has allowed things to be given away in order to attract the mall."

"The mall was attracted here because of our population," she said. "We didn't need to give it all away."

Among her other objections to the present condition of the city, she listed a lower than national average unemployment rate, poor law enforcement with only three police cars patrolling the entire city at night, the low percentage of arrests for a high level of crime, and the need to develop the downtown area.

"We have the Duany project and the Main Street Program," she said. "Mr. Duany is supposed to have sent us plans, but I haven't seen any results yet. All I know of is a list of codes he suggested."

She observed, "I believe the mayor may have these plans stashed away to be brought out only after the election."

"There is a lack of vision and plans for the city," she said. "If there are major projects to be done, they must be part of an overall plan. A leader should lead."

"If a good leader has a good idea," Jacobson added, "the idea should be presented, and when people come along to help and everyone pulls together, it can be accomplished."

Orchestra, the Southern Ballet, the Orlando Opera Company and the Orlando Museum of Art.

Because of the efforts of SAFE, at least some of the students will be able to take part in those field trips this year.

About half of the district's 5,000 fourth graders have attended a concert by the Florida

Symphony Orchestra this month. The third graders from across the district will be going to the Orlando Museum of Art in January.

In addition, the Southern Ballet Theatre will be presenting eight performances for the fourth and fifth graders in April.

According to Elliott, several schools have contracted with the Orlando Opera Company to take part in their presentation "Monkey See, Monkey Do," an interactive presentation about what opera is all about.

"It is a lot of fun for the students," Elliott said. "But it's educational as well."

Cushman said that the public feels very strongly about the work SAFE is doing.

"They feel strongly that the field trips are vital to the education of our children," she said.

downtown development, the Mainstreet Program and the Duany Project.

"I've devoted the past eight years of my life to these projects," she said, "and I would like to remain as mayor and see them through to completion."

"In the past eight years of service," she said, "the city has made some mistakes, but we have been going through a long period of transition, and everything cannot always be perfect. But we have a stability of government with very little infighting, and I believe that's beneficial."

"My critics say change has not been fast enough in Sanford," she observed. "But I don't think the city could ever go anywhere as fast as some people might want."

She continued, "The mayor and city commission set policy in cooperation with other people, whether they are staff or the general public, but to do it properly, legally, and for the benefit of all, swiftness is not always the best policy."

"People have told me they are frustrated over the lack of improvements in Sanford," Smith said. "Most of it however, is because of the lack of money. There are many projects we could undertake, but the economy will not permit it at this time."

Smith is well aware of the crime problems. "We aren't alone," she said. "Crime is everywhere, in all cities, in all parts of the nation. That doesn't mean it's OK. The Sanford Police Department takes the largest part of our city budget," she added, "and yet people wonder if we don't have enough officers patrolling our streets."

"It takes money," she said, "but whenever we can, we are doing everything possible to help improve our law enforcement."

"I have personally marched with people in some of our neighborhoods in their fight against drugs," she said, "and I have seen and heard of the problems. I plan to continue doing this as well as working directly with groups and individuals, and help bring about a reduction in the drug and crime scene."

One of the improvements that has already been brought up for consideration is the development of the lakefront area. "The lakefront is one of our greatest assets," she said. "I want to see a boardwalk along the lake with pretty landscaping. This has already been proposed, and it's in the future, but it cannot be done overnight, and it cannot be financed overnight."

Smith said after the first of the year, she intends to closely examine a new master plan for development of the lakefront. "Overall," she said, "I would hope the lakefront, especially west from the city area to the zoo, would remain passive rather than be developed. I believe that beautiful approach will help draw people here."

She added, "Sanford is a beautiful city already, and I want the opportunity to help."

Festival

festival by the time it closes tonight.

"This is one of the best festivals," said Halley Binder of Longwood who said she has been doing her Christmas shopping at the festival for more than a decade.

"There are so many crafters here with cute little gifts for everyone," she said. "I like this better than the other arts festivals because there is an emphasis on crafts not fancy arts."

Mary Lane came from Ocala for the festival.

"It's worth it," she said. "There's such a variety here."

The Longwood Arts and Crafts Festival was begun 16 years ago as a fundraiser to help pay for the restoration and upkeep of the city's downtown historic district, especially the Bradlee-McIntyre House.

That house was moved to Longwood from Altamonte Springs in the early 1970s when it was nearly a century old and had fallen into disrepair.

The large 13-room house was built in the 1800s by a prominent Boston businessman to be used as a winter cottage for his family when this area first became a mecca for northern tourists.

Angela Wise, one of the crafters who is at the festival this year, was pleased with the number of people who were making purchases.

"They are really buying quite a bit this year," she said. "I'm really pleased with the sales."

Wise's wood Christmas accessories were selling briskly.

Other crafters sold cloth Santa and hand-painted signs to eager shoppers.

"I've got a little bit of money to spend this year," Jon Smith of Lake Mary said. "I guess I can spend it on my kids and grandkids. That's what it's all about anyhow."

Members of Christ Episcopal Church, which stands at the heart of the historic district, worked hard cooking and serving breakfast foods, barbecue chicken dinner, hot dogs and burgers, selling crafts and household items and other gift items.

Stores in the district opened their doors to those who attended the festival.

As the rain started to fall, umbrellas popped open, but the crowd remained heavy, moving past the booths.

"So, what's a little rain?" Betty Little of Longwood asked. "I'll dry off."

The festival will continue from 10 a.m. through 5 p.m. today.

missed somebody. And, of course, we don't want to overlook Judge Samuel A.B. Wilkinson — one of Florida's earliest coaches. Judge Wilkinson settled in Sanford and became an attorney. Later he was appointed to the bench. Oh, yes, we mustn't forget that Wilkinson was also the coach when Sanford had a semi-pro football team in the late 1930s called the "Blackcats."

Right after World War II when Jackie Robinson broke baseball's color line in Sanford, who were the members of the Sanford city commission?

At The mayor was H. James Gut, owner of an insurance agency; George D. Bishop, president of the Crown Paper Company; W.C. "Billy" Hill, owner of Hill Lumber Company; Lea R. Leaser, part owner with Zeb Ratliff of the Celery City Printing company; and R.A. "Bob" Williams, owner of Seminole Dry Cleaners.

Mentioning the Celery City Printing Company made me realize the firm has been in business in Sanford for the past 72 years. It was founded in 1920 by Ratliff and Walter Haynes. For a number of years it was known as Haynes & Ratliff. When Haynes sold his part of the business to Leaser it became the Celery City Printing Company and has operated under that name ever since.

Please settle a question for me. I've got a friend who claims when the late Dick Alken sang on national radio in New York City right after World War II, he appeared on the Major Bowes Amateur Hour. I say he sang on the Arthur Godfrey Talent Show. Who's right?

At You are! Our late friend Dick Alken sang on Godfrey's weekly nighttime talent show. When he won that competition he stayed in New York City for a week and appeared every day on Godfrey's daytime show.

Let me ask you old timers if you remember the name of the song Dick sang that night in the mid-40s to win the Godfrey Talent Show. It was "My Diane." Where did that name come from? It was the name of one of the 10 children reared by Dick and his super wife, Ann (Wright) Alken. There are many of us who still miss Dick.

What was the building on the northeast corner of First Street and Sanford Avenue used for before it became the Sanford Chamber of Commerce?

That building was erected to serve as a USO for military and naval personnel during World War II. Before that the site was partly in Lake Monroe and a couple fish houses occupied the property. For the benefit of you young timers just about all of what is now known as Fort Mellon Park was once in Lake Monroe. When the sea wall was built Fort Mellon Park was created by dredging sand from the lake bottom.

We saw that photo of the 1961 Sanford Rotary Club The Herald ran several weeks ago. There were two "unknowns." One of them I'm sure was the late Dan Wright who was associated with the Patrick Fruit Corporation. However, we can't tell which of the two "unknowns" was Dan. Can you?

I'm sure you're right about one of the two "unknowns" being Dan Wright. But, like you, I can't tell which one was Dan. Maybe Orville Touchton, the president of the club that year and who provided the photo can tell us.

Enjoyed my visit in your home this morning. The good Lord willing we'll be back with you next Sunday.

coroner's inquest last month cleared Philbrick of any wrongdoing.

Jackson said his group was waiting to see the transcripts of the inquest.

"There are things we need to know to satisfy the doubts. In 2,000 pages (of transcripts) that may answer a lot of questions," he said.

Jackson pointed out that the deputy has three previous complaints of brutality against him, including an incident in Allentown, N.H., where he was investigated for beating a prisoner in a jail cell.

Philbrick claimed he shot in self-defense, claiming Acree took a metal baton and beat him to the ground. The deputy was treated for wounds after the attack.

Jackson said the deputy's action was provoked, but questioned if deadly force was used when it wasn't necessary.

"There's no doubt in my mind that the deputy was mistreated. He was justified to defend himself, but we're talking about the possibility of excessive force being used," Jackson said.

In addition, Jackson said he wanted clarification on if some of the shots the deputy fired hit Acree from the back.

The coalition has also written the Justice Department asking for a federal investigation of the incident.

In addition to good support from Seminole County ministers and churches, the coalition includes families from Volusia and Lake Counties who would be represented on the Tallahassee trip.

"Somebody is going to give us satisfaction," he said.

Coast Guard resumes search for yachtsman

By RAY FORMANER Jr.
Associated Press Writer

PROVIDENCE, R.I. — The Coast Guard announced Saturday it would resume its search for a missing yachtsman because of his past successes in overcoming hardships at sea.

"Because of his reputation we will continue the search," said Petty Officer Paula Tomaselli, a spokeswoman at the Coast Guard's Atlantic rescue center in New York.

"We're considering that he was not in the area searched," Tomaselli said.

Michael Plant, who has sailed solo around the world three times, left New York on Oct. 18 for Les Sables d'Olonne, France. He was due to arrive on Oct. 30 in preparation for a solo around-the-world race that begins from the French town on Sunday.

The last known contact with Plant, 42, of Jamestown, was a signal from an automatic emergency beacon picked up Oct. 27 by the Canadian Coast Guard. Such beacons automatically transmit a distress signal when a craft takes on water or capsizes. He had earlier reported losing most electrical power.

Residents fight to rid neighborhood of crime

By BYRON WEISS
Associated Press Writer

TOLEDO, Ohio — Ray Simoni was angry. Prostitutes and drug dealers had taken over. Then he and his neighbors decided to reclaim their streets by going after not just the criminals, but those who patronize them.

The north-side neighborhood was littered with condoms and IV drug needles. Gunfire rang out at night as pimps and dealers fought over turf. Prostitutes had sex with customers in front of children.

"I just got fed up," Simoni said. "Every day, I'd see these businessmen from affluent areas coming into our neighborhood, picking up these women, buying drugs, doing things they wouldn't tolerate in their own neighborhoods. It was ridiculous."

So Simoni, 50, went door-to-door in the gritty blue-collar neighborhood of about 5,800, seeking recruits for a citizens' group.

About 300 people joined the North Corridor Coalition and the group started regular meetings in June. It organized two marches on the city's municipal building this summer to demand more police protection.

The city responded. Under a program that started in September, police seize the cars of those arrested for hiring prostitutes. Eight cars were seized in the first month.

Members of the coalition videotape prostitutes and their customers and give the information to police. Although it can't be used as evidence, police say it helps them keep tabs on things.

The citizens' group has another weapon. It tries to embarrass customers who are arrested by circulating fliers revealing their names, addresses and telephone numbers.

Other towns have tried similar tactics. In Newark, N.J., the City Council publishes a quarterly newspaper listing the names and addresses of alleged prostitutes and their customers. It also lists people arrested for drug offenses.

In Toledo, the group is focusing on the customers.

"We believe that if we want to eliminate the problem, we have to eliminate the demand," said Joey Crawford, a community organizer.

Kevin O'Neill, a spokesman for the Ohio chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union in Cleveland, said the residents were within their rights to take such action.

Shirley Adams, a 31-year-old mother of two, said she's tired of being solicited for sex by men in their cars as she walks in her neighborhood.

"It's just not safe. It's not safe for me. My children. Anybody," she said.

Ms. Crawford said some people in affluent neighborhoods have criticized the group's efforts by calling some of the offenses victimless crime.

"Prostitutes are victims. The residents are victims," Ms. Crawford said. "I don't care if you're nine months pregnant, 80 years old, pushing your baby carriage down the street, there are guys driving through this neighborhood all the time just stopping and asking you, 'How much? It's a humiliating kind of thing.'"

She said police have been making progress in stopping crime in the area, but more needs to be done.

Police Chief Marti Felker said he would like to assign more officers to the area but doesn't have the manpower. Mayor John McHugh said he welcomes the residents' help in fighting crime.

Simoni said there are fewer prostitutes in the neighborhood now.

"The city has been responsive. We're making progress. We're not going to end it overnight," he said.

Judge bars White House from destroying tapes

By LARRY MARSHAK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — The Bush administration is barred under a temporary court order from destroying material in the White House electronic mail system.

U.S. District Judge Charles R. Richey, in the 10-day injunction issued Friday, said his order applies to backup computer tapes of President Bush, the president's staff, the National Security Council and the Archivist of the United States.

White administration officials "contend they are not currently planning any wholesale purge of their electronic records, they are unwilling to guarantee that such a purge will not take place," Richey said.

"In fact, history is full of instances where the outgoing president has decided to erase, burn or destroy all or substantially all presidential ... records before the end of his term," he said.

In a related matter Friday, an anti-establishment magazine and a government watchdog group accused the Justice Department of undertaking "massive shredding" and "wholesale destruction" of documents in the days following Bush's Nov. 3 re-election defeat.

Congressional panels are pursuing similar allegations, but Justice spokesman Frank Schultz described the shredding as routine.

"The charges are laughable," he said. "Stuff is shredded all the time."

The court case began in 1989 when another federal judge ordered the Reagan administration not to destroy its computer records. The central issue in the case, still unresolved, is whether the backup tapes must be preserved under federal records law.

The Bush administration contends the tapes, principally electronic mail between White House staffers, aren't official records. Nonetheless, government investigators learned a great deal about the Iran-Contra affair from former national security aide Oliver North's backup computer records.

The lawsuit was filed by private groups interested in preserving the records, including the National Security Archive, the American Library Association, the American Historical Association and the Center for National Security Studies.

Noting that part of the lawsuit involves a Freedom of Information Act request for specific records, Richey said the claims must be given priority because of "the fear that these electronic records will be lost before the end of the Bush administration."

The plaintiffs also want the executive branch to issue clear rules to identify what records must be saved.

Their attorney, Michael Tankersley of the Public Citizen Litigation Group, said the electronic mail is saved automatically on a backup system unless an employee immediately erases it.

Sheryl Walter, general counsel of the National Security Archive, said the document-collection organization is looking for records on administration policy toward Iraq, the administration's drug war, CIA Director Robert Gates and policy on resolving low intensity, non-nuclear conflicts.

In the Justice Department shredding matter, Mother Jones magazine and the Government Accountability Project asked U.S. Archivist Donald Wilson to investigate the charges, which it attributed to department employees.

"The government has no authority to erase the history of its own misconduct," Thomas Devine of the Government Accountability Project said in a petition to Wilson. He said Wilson's office agreed to meet Monday with representatives of the project and of Mother Jones.

Susan Cooper, a spokeswoman for the archivist, said the matter would be referred to the Justice Department.

In a Nov. 10 letter, Rep. Bob Wise, D-W.Va., chairman of a House Government Operations subcommittee, urged Attorney General William P. Barr to take "pre-emptive action ... to prevent any deliberate or accidental disposal of agency records."

A Senate Governmental Affairs subcommittee said this week it heard of Justice Department shredding, particularly of documents relating to the 1990 nomination of Supreme Court Justice David Souter. It panel asked the congressional General Accounting Office to investigate.

Police academy in search of a few drinkers

By Associated Press

DOUGLAS, Wyo. — Wyoming's Law Enforcement Academy is looking for a few good drinkers.

The academy would like to see seven volunteers willing to get drunk in the middle of the day Dec. 1 to serve as class subjects for prospective law enforcement officers, said John Rabun, an instructor at the academy. The subjects will be paid $35 each.

It's an annual exercise to help the students develop a sense for whether a person is drunk.

The volunteers are given drinks containing varying levels of alcohol and police trainees treat them as if they are motorists who have just been pulled over.

"What we do is ask the student 'Would you have arrested this person?'" Rabun said.

Rabun said he rains out liquor in varying doses to achieve a good mix of the legally drunk and the legally sober.

Volunteers must be 21 and must have arranged for a ride home from the academy, Rabun said.

Rabun said that in the three years he has worked at the academy, no volunteer has gotten sick.

"We don't want them to get sick," he said. "We'd have to clean it up."

Post-Cold War soldiers turn to elementary school teaching

By BOB LIBBY
Associated Press Writer

MANHATTAN, Kan. — Ralph Bodenner and George Price were combat infantry soldiers in Vietnam and military instructors after that. They say that helped prepare them for their new mission — facing third-graders in the classroom.

They are among the thousands of soldiers mustering out of the armed forces following the end of the Cold War. And since they spent so much of their careers instructing soldiers, the education field seemed like a logical next step.

"I bring the advantage of being a 48-year-old with hard knocks and common sense and the ability to deal with stress," said Bodenner, a lieutenant colonel at Fort Leavenworth who plans to retire next summer.

"But I know that third-graders are a different kind of stress."

To help prospective soldier-teachers, the Army has set up a hot line for information about teaching jobs. In the past two years, it has received more than 14,000 calls, says Patricia Hines, deputy assistant secretary of the Army for education and training in Washington, D.C.

"We've found that individuals who call want to serve the country," she said. "They're looking to do something worthwhile. They're not just looking for a check."

Robert S. Silberman, assistant secretary of the Army for manpower and reserve affairs, says soldiers make good teachers — about 3,000 former soldiers have been placed in teaching jobs in the last two years.

"So much of the Army is about training and teaching. They take and give instruction and do so in areas where there's no margin for error, like tank training for combat," Silberman said.

By the end of this fiscal year, there will be nearly 300,000 fewer men and women in uniform, and 100,000 fewer civilians employed by the Defense Department than three years ago.

Price, 42, retired from the Army last year as a sergeant first class.

"I spent the biggest part of my career in some kind of instruction," he said. "It was something I really enjoyed doing."

Bodenner graduated from many of the Army's toughest training schools during his 23 years of service and has spent the last four years teaching young officers.

He has a bachelor's degree but is attending St. Mary College part time to complete requirements for certification as an elementary school teacher.

Price spent most of his career in the infantry, with assignments in Berlin, Fort Hood, Texas, and Fort Riley. As a squad leader, platoon sergeant and drill sergeant, he was responsible for educating and training soldiers and making sure they met testing standards.

He took a few college classes during his 21 years in the Army and now is attending Kansas

State University full time. He plans to graduate in May 1994 with a degree in elementary education.

Bodenner and Price are using veterans' benefits to help pay for their schooling, although they are not receiving money from the military earmarked for retraining.

Kansas State University professor James B. Boyer encouraged Price to consider teaching. "These men could provide a phenomenal image and role model for young males who simply don't know how to relate to adult males," he said.

Then there are women like Regina Frayberger, 39. She spent four years in the Army, including service in the Persian Gulf War. She had taken a few college courses before enlisting and now is working on an elementary education degree.

Frayberger credits the Army with teaching her the importance of discipline and hard work. "I know if I can go through a war I can go through anything," Bodenner and Price acknowledge teaching third-graders will be different from teaching soldiers.

"Kids will test you," Price said. "It's in their nature. But when you interact with kids and learn about their home situations, you understand why they have problems in class. I feel those things more than anything else."

Former top teacher promoted to dean

LAKE MARY — Lake Mary High School hired its second new dean of students when it announced on Nov. 17 that Boyd Karna was being promoted.

Karna, who had been promoted to dean less than a month before, moved up to assistant principal.

Karna won the Teacher of the Year honors at the school for 1990-91 and has always had the reputation for being a creative teacher who has a positive influence on his kids.

Now Karna faces the challenge of utilizing the same qualities that made him such a popular teacher in his new role as dean.

"My main qualities have to do with communication," he said. "I think I communicate well with students and I'll be able to use that quality as dean. And I think the way I relate to kids is to show them

'Noles end season and learn much

SANFORD — Everything has to come to closure, whether it is good or bad.

On Friday night, the 1992 Fighting Seminole football team ended its seemingly short season against rival Lake Mary.

After last week's defeat by the Leesburg Yellowjackets, Seminole's hopes of a state title were dashed, but the 'Noles were not to give into neighboring Lake Mary and ruin Senior Night at Thomas E. Whigham Stadium.

The Seminoles wanted to end their season with as much pride as they started it.

In order to do that, they wanted to punish Lake Mary and they accomplished that feat.

Sam Becker and Claude Hittell, senior members of the varsity football team, both have gained much from Coach Ermy Blake and his coaching staff.

"I'm going to feel sad when it's over," Becker said before Friday's game. "I played every game the last couple of years and enjoyed the team bonding and unity."

"No matter if we win or lose on Friday, we still have had a winning season," Claude Hittell commented. "I felt like we could have done better, but I will never forget the great memories."

One of the most memorable events was when Seminole beat Lake Howell on Homecoming Night.

It was the first time Claude and Sam had beaten Lake Howell in their high school careers.

Both players praised their coach.

"We have a lot of respect for Coach Blake and the way he coaches," they said. "He has taught us patience and a love for the game."

Read any good grocery bags lately?

SANFORD — The 8th grade students at Hamilton Elementary School in Sanford are excited about learning and excited about the books that they are reading.

And they want the shoppers at the Winn Dixie store on French Avenue in Sanford to know about it.

"We wanted them to have a fun way to express themselves and to show their talents," said Sarah Freeman, guidance counselor at the school.

The students, under the direction of their teachers and fifth grade team leader Debi Hoyle, worked out an arrangement with the Winn Dixie store.

In exchange for the blank brown paper bags, the students would decorate approximately 150 bags.

"The kids loved it," Freeman said.

David Chiles, manager of the Winn Dixie store manager said he thought the idea for the students.

"I think they need an opportunity to show off what they are learning," he said.

During the past week, which was the celebration of American Education Week, the students drew illustrations and wrote book reviews of the books they have been reading.

With colorful strokes they have also made the shopping experience for those who make their purchases at Winn Dixie a little brighter.

"These bags were absolutely beautiful," Freeman said. "The

School has small, strong classes

SANFORD — Charlene Luna believes the students at her school have a greater opportunity for learning in the smaller classes at the Page Private School.

Page Private School, part of a family-run organization with schools in Sanford, Orlando and California, involves the students and their parents in the learning process.

The teachers at all levels are certified and teach within their own areas of expertise.

"We are completely experimental," Luna said. "That means the students get the best from each teacher."

The students at the Page School begin to learn Spanish at the Pre-Kindergarten level and there is instruction in the language throughout the school through the seventh grade.

"An extensive computer lab at the school not only offers the students instruction in essential computer literacy, but is also used as an instructional tool in other classes as well."

Luna said that new software has been added to the system recently.

"We are always updating it," she said.

Luna said that the parents at the school are very involved in the educational process though they do not have a formal parent-teacher organization.

"They run our library, they do fundraisers, they help us whenever they are needed," Luna said.

Last year, she said 150 parents were given awards for their service to the school.

"Not bad for a school with 170 students," she said.

Tuition at the school is $310 a month for the Pre-Kindergarten students and $325 a month for the elementary students. For an additional $30 a month, the students will receive a hot meal each day. And an additional $30 a month will get them extended care from before and after school from 8:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m.

Giant garage sale planned

By World Desk/Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — The Lake Mary High School Band will be holding its annual garage sale on Saturday, Dec. 5 at the school.

With contributions from members of Lake Mary High School, the garage sale is one of the largest sale of new and used items in the city.

A wide variety of items, including household items, electronics, furniture, and tools, will be available for purchase.

The sale has become an annual tradition at the school and is very popular within the community.

All proceeds from the sale will benefit the Lake Mary High School Band. The money will be used to help defray expenses for uniforms, transportation and the band trip to Washington, D.C. in the spring.

The garage sale will take place from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday and 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Sunday.

Smokers' hearts starved for blood

By Paul Robinson/AP Science Editor

NEW ORLEANS — Smokers' hearts are starved for blood during times of physical and emotional stress because of previously unsuspected damage done by smoking to tiny blood vessels, a study shows.

The condition does not show up on conventional heart tests, however. That means smokers could be wrongly told they are healthy when in fact they are at increased risk of a heart attack, the study's author said.

A combination of smoking and stress pushes the already elevated heart attack risk of smokers even higher, said Dr. Robert L. Minor of the Iowa Heart Institute in Des Moines.

He and his colleagues at the University of Iowa found that life-saving blood flow to smokers' hearts through tiny blood vessels called arterioles falls well below the flow to nonsmokers' hearts at times of stress.

That's true even when a smoker is not smoking and it gets worse when a smoker lights up, Minor reported at the American Heart Association's annual scientific meeting.

"Smoking may lead to severe limitations of blood supplied to the heart — particularly during exercise or emotional stress — and make it easier for a heart attack to occur," Minor said.

Minor threaded an ultrasound probe into the arteries of 31 smokers and 28 nonsmokers to estimate the amount of blood flow to the heart through arterioles, which are too small to be seen in conventional examinations.

When the heart is stressed, arterioles can open up and

NEW ORLEANS — Exposed rabbits to second-hand cigarette smoke nearly doubled the accumulation of fat in their arteries, helping explain how second-hand smoke causes more than 50,000 deaths annually in nonsmokers, a new study found.

The study, the first to examine how passive smoking affects hardening of the arteries, backs up the statistical studies that have linked second-hand smoke to heart disease in nonsmokers, said the study's director, Stanton A. Glantz of the University of California, San Francisco.

Get the facts

An "HIV/AIDS Facts & Issues" course will be offered at the Holiday Inn, 1300 N. Atlantic Ave. in Cocoa Beach Monday, Nov. 30. The class is being co-sponsored by the Brevard County Public Health Unit and the American Red Cross. Therefore, it will satisfy the requirements for cosmetologists, physical therapists, funeral directors, and nurses. CEU's will be offered by the American Red Cross.

The $15 fee will include course materials, a commemorative certificate, and a luncheon buffet. The seminar will start at 10 a.m. and conclude at 3 p.m. Advance registration is recommended for this special event. To register, call 242-0309.

Hospice video a winner

Hospice of Central Florida, Inc., celebrated National Hospice Month in November. They were honored at a special awards ceremony in Nashville by The National Hospice Organization recognizing Hospice of Central Florida with the prestigious President's Award for their new video, The Hospice video tells the real story of how Hospice meets the needs of patients and families who are facing a life-limiting illness.

The Galaxy of Loving Stars Conference and the Bereavement Recovery Through Education and Involvement program also received special recognition.

Doctors attend Family Practice Weekend

SANFORD — E. Kenneth Fraser, M.D., and Gary Snell, M.D., both of Sanford, recently returned from the Florida Academy of Family Physicians 61st Family Practice Weekend at Amelia Island.

More than 650 family doctors attended the continuing medical education program organized specifically to provide Florida's family physicians with sessions to update, validate and improve their medical knowledge, expertise and skills.

Subject material was chosen based on assessed needs, future trends, and relevance to quality patient care and included among other topics sessions on sexually transmitted diseases, sleep and aging, recurrent vaginitis, congestive heart failure, common foot problems, and how to be a healthy weekend athlete.

Leavitt named VP

HEATHROW — Dr. Matt Leavitt, medical director of the Advanced Dermatology and Cosmetic Surgery Center in Heathrow, was elected vice president of the American Osteopathic College of Dermatology at its annual meeting in San Diego.

It was the first time Claude and Sam had beaten Lake Howell in their high school careers.

Both players praised their coach.

"We have a lot of respect for Coach Blake and the way he coaches," they said. "He has taught us patience and a love for the game."

When the signs of aging set in

Facial aging begins when people are in their 30s and accelerates in the 40s. These aging changes include "jowls" which develop over the jaw, cheek sag near the upper lip, deepening of the creases from the side of the nose to the side of the mouth, and thinning and sagging of the lower outer eyelid region. These changes are due to loss of support of the muscles, connective tissue (collagen) and fat beneath the skin as well as loss of elasticity of the skin of the face.

The surgery consists of freeing and repositioning the skin, subcutaneous fat, fascia, and muscle, as well as removing excess fat and skin.

-By Bruce E. Walton, M.D.

Modern plastic surgery derived from the care of facial war wounds of World War I and II. Techniques used to reconstruct loss of facial tissues were adapted to improve appearance. From these, facial cosmetic surgery has evolved to its current advanced state.

Initially, facelifting consisted of removal of various sized and shaped skin elements. These techniques are still utilized today but all too frequently lead to unsatisfactory results in which a "mask-like" appearance results.

Approximately 30 years ago, techniques were introduced whereby the muscles beneath the skin of the neck were returned to their "youthful position." This resulted in marked improvement without tightness of the skin.

Today, with continuing improvements, the surgery consists of freeing and repositioning the skin, subcutaneous fat, fascia, and muscle, as well as removing excess fat and skin.

In the past few years further improvement has been obtained with return of the cheek fat to its youthful position so that the "sagging cheek" look is overcome.

Additional methods are available to repair sagging forehead and eyebrows as well as the "turkey gobbler" under the chin and "bags" under the eyes. The result is that safe, reliable, and lasting methods are now available to improve one's facial appearance, whether man or woman. Secondary facelifts are rarely required.

The patient's general health profile is studied prior to surgery and certain specific recommendations are made. Smoking is to be avoided. Supplemental vitamins may be recommended.

The surgical operation appropriate for the patient is selected during a consultation with your surgeon. The operation may be done under local or general anesthesia in an office or hospital operating room. It requires surgical incisions in the scalp and around the ears. The surgery usually requires two to four hours depending on the number of corrections, i.e. forehead, eyebrows, eyelids, cheek, neck and under the chin. Recovery is rapid and there is little pain. You may return to normal activity in 1 1/2 to 3 weeks.

It is prudent to ascertain that your surgeon is board certified by the American Board of Plastic Surgery and that the surgeon has privileges to perform this surgery at an accredited local hospital.

Bruce E. Walton, M.D., is a plastic surgeon. His office is located at 288 International Pkwy., Heathrow. He is a member of the American Society of Plastic Surgeons. For more information, contact his office at 870-0228.

Gay men in small cities still having unsafe sex

By Brenda G. Coleman/Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO — Getting gay community leaders to preach the dangers of AIDS may help cut the rate of small-town homosexual men who are practicing unsafe sex, a researcher says.

The first large national study to look at gay sexual practices outside major urban areas found 31 percent of the gay men surveyed reported engaging in high-risk behavior — anal intercourse without a condom — in the previous two months, and each man averaged eight encounters.

That compares with only about 10 percent of men in San Francisco, where AIDS does and education campaigns have persuaded many gay men to use condoms, the lead author said.

Dr. Leavitt has offices in Orlando, Heathrow and Deltona.

France stands firm but keeps veto as trump

By ELAINE GANLEY
Associated Press Writer

PARIS — Caught between its angry farmers and its European partners, France stood firm against a ballyhooed agreement over farm subsidies. But Paris won't say whether it will use its trump card — a veto.

A veto would rekindle chances of a trade war with the United States.

It also would wreak irreparable damage to the unified Europe that President Francois Mitterrand has fought hard to help create and hopes to leave as a monument to his presidency.

But playing global hardball would avert potential social unrest with the nation's 1 million farmers that could escalate to other disgruntled sectors.

Agriculture Minister Jean-Pierre Soisson kept everyone at bay, saying France would take a definitive stance only after parliament is consulted next week.

He also said the EC must show that the agreement with the United States is within bounds of the Community accord reached last May imposing subsidy cuts and other sacrifices on farmers.

EC negotiators said the accord to limit EC production of oilseeds and cut its overall subsidies does not exceed the cuts specified earlier.

Soisson suspects that is not the case.

"The conditions of the French government have not been met," he said after the agreement was announced. "I cannot accept it."

No one in France, the European Community's biggest agricultural producer, underestimates the strength of the farm lobby, or its ability to foment trouble.

The memory is still vivid of farmers spraying manure on government ministers, roasting alive imported livestock and driving their tractors through Paris in a summer revolt over the EC pact.

Two days before the accord with the Americans was concluded, farmers burned the Stars and Stripes near the U.S. Embassy and ran a pitchfork through the hunt remains.

Farmers promised new protests.

Soisson stressed that the EC-U.S. agreement was but a "proposal" that needs to be ratified by all 12 EC member nations.

EC negotiators may try to delay a formal vote until after an overall world trade agreement is reached in Geneva.

Agriculture represents only 10 percent of the stakes in a 108-nation trade accord, which also involves services and industrial goods. France has stressed the need for a "global and balanced" agreement in all sectors.

The Socialist government may be looking at that option even as it sounds off.

Washington set a Dec. 5 deadline before it levies punitive tariffs on white wine and other products. With an initial agreement in hand, a trade war with has been averted — for now.

It remains unclear how far the government will go to defend French interests.

Mitterrand is likely to counsel prudence about wielding the veto. But the 76-year-old leader, plummeting in the polls and with his Socialists facing defeat in March legislative elections, could be overtaken by political forces.

Wine

Lakeridge produces wines from muscadine and Florida hybrid bunch grapes developed in the 1930s by the University of Florida. It relies primarily on sales at the winery although its products also are available at some stores in Central Florida.

The only grapes Eden uses are the hybrid bunch types. They were created by crossing vinifera, the most popular European family that also is grown in California, with a native variety found in South and Central America, said Earl Kiser. His family owns the Eden winery.

They were developed to resist a disease that quickly kills viniferas in Florida's humid climate yet retain qualities that make the European grapes so popular.

While the University of Florida's agricultural laboratory at Leesburg has focused on improving vinifera hybrids, Florida A&M University has been turning out muscadine hybrids and there has been a struggle over research dollars Kiser said.

"There is a dichotomy of interest," Kiser said. "I am of the strong opinion Florida's industry will not succeed unless there is a better grape, a form of the vinifera."

Chautauqua will live or die with the muscadine, White said.

"We take grapes that are indigenous to this area, that Mother Nature has given us, that were here before we all got here and will be here when we are all gone, and we have improved them to make quality wine," he said.

Eden's prospects for growth may rest with the blush wine it reluctantly began making from carambola two years ago at the urging of growers with surplus crop.

It was a surprising success, rated acceptable by 87,000 of 27,000 consumers who participated in tastings at the winery. Resorts have begun serving it to guests, restaurants are using it with Caribbean cuisine and retailers are starting to put it on their shelves, Kiser said.

"It's Florida's tropical alternative to the California blush," Kiser said.

Ozone-depleting substances may be phased out

By JAN M. OLSEN
Associated Press Writer

COPENHAGEN, Denmark — Responding to evidence that Earth's protective ozone layer is thinning, environment officials from 81 countries may accelerate the phaseout of chlorine-based chemicals this week.

The 41 environment ministers and 40 senior officials were to hold a three-day meeting beginning Monday in Copenhagen to revise the Montreal Protocol on the control of substances that attack the ozone layer.

According to scientists, the ozone is disappearing at a much faster rate than was forecast. A recent British study said the thinning over the Arctic is now similar to the "holes" over Antarctica.

The ozone layer shields the Earth against damaging rays from the sun. The holes are expected to increase the incidence of skin cancer, blindness, vulnerability to disease, and to damage marine food chains.

The main point of the meeting, sponsored by the U.N. Environment Program, is to set an exact timetable for the phaseout of chlorofluorocarbons, or CFCs, halons and carbon tetrachloride.

The Americans propose phasing out CFCs by 1995. A more ambitious proposal by the Scandinavian countries, Switzerland and Austria was to set a target of 1994.

CFCs are used in refrigeration, air conditioners and aerosol spray cans.

Other proposals involve accelerating the phaseout on halons and carbon tetrachloride, to eliminate them from use by 1995 or 1996.

AROUND THE STATE

FSU in NIT semifinals

TALLAHASSEE — Bobby Sura scored a career-high 34 points as ninth-ranked Florida State moved into the NIT semifinals with a 109-86 victory over No. 19 Iowa State.

Doug Edwards, making his first appearance after missing the first game because of an academic suspension, added 22 points and Sam Cassell 20 as Florida State shot 60 percent for the second straight game.

The 6-5 Sura made 14 of 20 shots, including four from 3-point range to go along with a game-high 10 rebounds.

FSU (2-0) will meet Indiana at Madison Square Garden in New York Wednesday.

Iowa State (1-1) had four players in double figures, led by Ron Bayless' 16. Fred Holberg added 15 and Howard Eaton and Julius Michalik 14 apiece.

Valvano returns

TALLAHASSEE — Jim Valvano was right at home, interrupting his commentary to salute Florida State students with the tomahawk chop.

Valvano, locked in a death-struggle with bone marrow cancer, was back at work calling the color for ESPN during the NIT quarterfinal game between Iowa State and Florida State.

"Five months ago I wasn't sure I'd be standing here," said 46-year-old Valvano, who coached North Carolina State to a national championship in 1983.

"This is a huge goal for me," he said. "I'm happy more than anything else, just to be here. It's special for me and my family. It's like being at home."

During ESPN's pre-game preparation, about 1,000 Florida State students chanted "Jimmy V., Jimmy V."

AROUND THE NATION

Gators rout Vandy

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Shane Matthews threw for three touchdowns and 343 yards as Florida beat Vanderbilt 41-21 to set up the Southeastern Conference's first championship game.

The victory clinched the SEC's Eastern Division title for Florida (8-2, 6-2 SEC) and put the Gators into the title game Dec. 5 at Birmingham against the Western Division champion, No. 2 Alabama.

Vanderbilt (4-6, 2-5), needing a victory to keep alive hopes of its first winning season since 1982, wouldn't give up. The Commodores opened the second half with an 80-yard drive capped by Marcus Wilson's 4-yard TD dive to pull to 21-14.

Florida came back with Matthews' third touchdown of the day, a 36-yarder to Jack Jackson, for a 28-14 edge with 5:24 left in the third quarter. The Gators led 31-14 three minutes later after Judd Davis' first career field goal, a 46-yarder.

Bethune-Cookman gets forfeit

BALTIMORE — Morgan State University, faced with a potential halftime demonstration by players against head football coach Ricky Diggs, on Saturday forfeited its final scheduled game against Bethune-Cookman.

"The university made an assessment, based on our concern about public safety," said acting Athletic Director Joe Melver.

"It wasn't the threat of a demonstration, but our concern about people who are not part of the university becoming part of this. It only takes one person to start something," Melver said.

The decision to forfeit the game was made at "about 9:30 this morning," Melver said.

A petition seeking the dismissal of Diggs, signed by 69 members of the team, was presented to administrators on Wednesday.

Heat lose marathon

PHILADELPHIA — Tim Perry hit a driving layup with 14 seconds left in the third overtime to give the Philadelphia 76ers a 129-128 victory over the Miami Heat on Friday night.

Jeff Hornacek had 32 points for the 76ers, which won its first home game in keeping Miami winless at the Spectrum in 10 contests.

After Perry made the game-winning shot, Glen Rice, who had 35 points for Miami, was fouled with five seconds to go. He made his first shot but missed the second, Miami rebounded but Rice missed at the buzzer.

Hornacek, who forced the game into a third overtime with a jumper, made another jump shot with 1:14 to give Philadelphia a 127-125 lead. But Rony Selkaly, who had 26 points for Miami, then made two foul shots to tie the game with 31 seconds left.

Andrew Lang had 18 points and a career-high 20 rebounds for Philadelphia, while Hersey Hawkins added 17 points and Armon Gilliam 16. Vernell Coles had 16 points and Harold Miner 16 for Miami.

It's Seminole by a toe

Walraven boots Tribe to SAC crown

Jason Walraven

By DEAN SMITH
Herald Sports Writer

SANFORD — This game followed the script perfectly. For most of the season, Seminole has relied on a tremendous defense and the strong right leg of Jason Walraven to win its games, while Lake Mary has also had a strong defense, a good passing attack and very little running game.

All of these factors reared their heads Friday night as Walraven nailed a 37-yard field goal in the fourth quarter as the Tribe edged the Rams 3-0 at Thomas E. Whigham Stadium in the first annual Optimist Bowl.

The victory gave the Tribe a county best 7-3 record overall and a 4-1 Seminole Athletic Conference record. Seminole's victory, coupled with Lyman's loss, gave the Tribe the SAC championship, but no post-season play, so far. The lineup for the Runquat Bowl in Orlando has not been announced. Lake Mary concludes its season at 5-5.

"It wasn't pretty, but it was a 'W,'" said Seminole head coach Emory Blake. "We've relied on our defense all year. We figured if our offense could keep us out of bad position, we would be alright. We go 7-3 and don't make the playoffs, unbelievable."

The Rams' Jason Rasmussen did pass for 120 yards against the Tribe defense, but never really came close to scoring. Most of the game the 5-foot, 7-inch quarterback was running for his life.

"We knew they had to throw to be effective," said Blake. "So we needed to keep a lot of pressure on him. He did a good job of getting away from the rush on occasion. He's a tough quarterback. If he was 6-foot-2 or so he'd really be bad."

Despite the loss, Lake Mary head coach Doug Peters felt his team played well.

"We moved the ball fairly well on offense," said Peters. "I'm proud of my guys for the effort they put forth against one of the toughest defenses in the area."

Patriots hammer 'Hounds

By RYAN ANDERSON
Herald Correspondent

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — What a difference a week makes.

One week after defeating the Lake Mary Rams in the Rams homecoming game, the Lyman High Greyhounds got a taste of their own homecoming medicine, losing to the Lake Brantley Patriots, 49-13 in the Patriot homecoming game at Tom Storey Field Friday night.

The victory, coupled with Seminole's win, gave the Patriots second place in the Seminole Athletic Conference. Lake Brantley finishes the season 6-4 overall and 3-2 in the conference, while Lyman, which would have won the SAC with a win, finishes with identical 6-4 and 3-2 record. The Patriots earn second because of the head-to-head victory.

"We played a pretty good football game tonight," Lake Brantley coach Fred Almon said. "The two or three plays we had we didn't play real good but tonight we were a better football team. We should be going to a bowl game. I think we showed them what defense is all about. They (Lyman) had two big plays and that was it. We probably played the best we've played all year."

A look at the number of plays run by the two teams shows just how dominant the Patriots defense was. Lake Brantley ran 46 plays as compared to only 19 for Lyman and outgained the visitors in total offense 375-144.

A pregame fireworks show that featured a special presentation to Olympians Wendy Bruce and Jason Veritek was nothing compared to the fireworks on the field provided

See Patriots, Page 2B

This was the story of Friday's game, Lake Brantley's Jeff Butler (35, above) racing for a score and Lyman's Mike Krupa (3, below) punting out of his end zone.

Krupa averaged 43.2 yards per punt, but it was not enough as Butler scored twice and ran for 148 yards to lead the Patriots to a 49-13 victory.

Duncan, Pats runners-up in 4A swimming

From Staff Reports

ORLANDO — Lake Brantley's Cara Duncan won both the 50 and 100 freestyles to lead the Patriot girls to a second place finish at the Class 4A state swim meet Friday at the YMCA Aquatic Center.

Duncan, who also swam the anchor leg of the Patriots' state championship 200 medley relay (1:38.99), won the 50 freestyle with a time of 24.10, beating Lyman's Nicole Freda (24.63) and Lake Brantley teammate Melissa Bateman (24.82) to the wall.

In the 100 freestyle, Duncan set the pace with her winning time of 52.78 while Freda took third (53.50) and Bateman finished third (54.31).

Lake Brantley, which had won the last four girls' Class 4A state championships, were a second to Winter Park (219-151) in the team standings. Lyman (94) was seventh while Lake Howell (11) finished 40th.

Joining Duncan on the Patriots' first-place 200 freestyle relay were Bateman, Sandra Spiller and Kristi Duncan. Lake Brantley's 200 medley relay finished third. Individually, Spiller was 11th (1:57.90) in the 200 freestyle while Kristi Duncan came in 14th in the 100 backstroke.

Lyman's Sara Cline, who won the diving championship at the Seminole Athletic Conference meet, finished 14th (304.20) at the state meet. The Greyhounds were fourth in the 200 freestyle relay and finished sixth in the 200 medley relay. Mandy Mossman finished 15th in the 100 freestyle (56.59) for Lyman.

Michelle Boyle finished 10th in the 100 backstroke for Lake Howell, which also had its 400 freestyle relay team place 15th (3:55.56).

Among the boys, Lake Mary came in fourth (176) behind Winter Park (239), Sarasota (217) and Seminole of Pinellas County (179). Lyman finished fifth (143) while Lake Brantley claimed 10th (84).

Lake Mary's Chad Christopher was second in both the 50 freestyle (21.43) and 100 backstroke (52.40) while his brother Todd came in third in the 100 butterfly (51.99) and eighth in the 100 backstroke (54.12).

Also for the Rams, Lee Calvert was second in the 100 freestyle (47.09) and eighth in the 200 freestyle (1:45.50) while Chip Polito took 14th in the 200 individual medley (2:02.78). Lake Mary was fourth in the 400 freestyle relay (3:17.13), fifth in the 200 medley relay (1:40.52) and sixth in the 200 freestyle relay (1:30.58).

For Lyman, Mike Ek finished third in the 50 freestyle (21.61) and 11th in the 100 backstroke (54.97) while Joey Frey took fourth in the 100 backstroke (52.65) and sixth in the 100 freestyle (48.86). Josh Metzendorf was sixth in the 100 butterfly (53.30).

In the relay events, the Greyhounds were fourth in the 200 medley relay (1:39.87), sixth in the 400 freestyle relay (3:18.02) and seventh in the 200 freestyle relay (1:32.46).

Lake Brantley's Matt Ogawa took fifth in the 100 freestyle (48.50) and eighth in the 50 freestyle (22.32). Mike Capelli claimed 14th in the 200 freestyle (1:47.37). The Patriots' 200 freestyle relay finished second (1:29.60) while the 400 freestyle relay took eighth (3:20.63).

No doubt about it, Courier is world's top player

By NESHYA STARCEVIC
Associated Press Writer

FRANKFURT, Germany — No matter what happens in the last two days of the ATP Tour World Championship, one thing is clear: Jim Courier will finish the year as the No. 1 tennis player in the world.

A little friendly help from Boris Becker and Goran Ivanisevic, and his own victory, combined to produce a set of favorable circumstances that made Friday a big day for Jim Courier.

Courier, from Dade City, became the first American since John McEnroe in 1984 to finish the year as the No. 1 tennis player in the world.

He also moved into the semifinals of the ATP Tour World Championship.

Courier, who was born in Sanford, began the last day of round-robin play by beating Michael Chang (0-3) 7-5, 6-2.

He then had to wait until the last match of the day to find out if he'd made it to the last four of the season-ending $2.5 million event.

When Ivanisevic took the first set against Richard Krajcek, Courier knew that he was in. Ivanisevic went on to win 6-4, 6-3.

In between, Becker helped Courier retain the top ranking by beating Stefan Edberg 6-4, 6-0, eliminating the second-ranked Swede from the tournament and ending Edberg's bid to finish as No. 1 for the third year in a row.

Courier, the only player to win two Grand Slam titles this season (the Australian and the French Open), became No. 1 on Feb. 10 and held it for six weeks, before Edberg regained it.

The American took the top spot again on April 13, held it for 22 weeks, and regained it from Edberg

Call FGAFWFC when wildlife problems arise

In cases where nuisance situations arise between humans and wildlife, there is usually something that can be done to resolve the conflict. The Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission is responsible for the regulation and management of all wild animals and freshwater aquatic life within the state, and a phone call to any regional office will bring assistance.

Many types of feral or semi-domesticated animals which have been released by people often create nuisance situations, but these species are not regulated by or under the authority of the Commission. Such species as feral hogs (where they are not considered legal game animals), Muscovy ducks, domestic barnyard geese, white Pekin ducks, dogs and cats are not under the Commission's control, but are usually subject to city or county control.

Any species may become a nuisance, but certain ones are more commonly involved. Raccoons and opossums sometimes ransack garbage, while armadillos and pocket gophers disturb lawns or flower beds. Bobcats, foxes, hawks and owls often disturb or destroy domestic fowl, and some bird species create noise problems and potential health hazards by their gregarious, roosting habits. Deer, black bears and hogs frequently cause economic losses, most frequently to agricultural interests by destroying seedlings, crops, beehives and pasture lands.

Florida's most viable and highly documented nuisance wildlife species is the American alligator. Do not feed alligators. This is against the law in Florida, and may cause them to become dangerous to people. A statewide program of nuisance alligator control is administered by the Commission, and a brochure which explains more about alligators is available from any regional office.

SEUPS'S SCOOP
Cooler weather is finally here, and this is a reminder to always wear additional clothing when going fishing or hunting. It is always colder in the woods or on the water, and it's better to have on too much clothing than too little.

FISHING FORECAST
Bass fishing is gradually improving with cooler temperatures and dropping water levels. Bass-offs are a good bet to fish in the river as falling water levels flush minnows out of hiding into the main channel. Some good catches of bass are coming from the weed beds in Lake Monroe.

Sebastian Inlet continues to be good for snook, with one-ounce jigs catching most of the fish at night. During the daytime, live shrimp or finger mullet are the best producers. Big winter flounder are hitting finger mullet bounced slowly across the rocky bottom.

Captain Jack at Port Canaveral has little to report in the way of offshore action due to high seas. Inside the Port, it has been mainly flounder and sheepshead. Trout and redfish are still rated as good in the Banana and Indian rivers.

Peace Inlet continues to be slow, with small to medium-sized sheepshead biting regularly. Schools of redfish are moving in and out, but cannot be counted upon for steady action. Cooler weather will soon bring in the big flounder and huge sheepshead from the ocean.

again on Sept. 14. Courier shares the lead on the tour with Sampras at five tournament victories this season.

Edberg said Courier deserved to finish the year as No. 1 because he was the only player to win two Grand Slam titles.

"Looking back, he has been the best player," Edberg said.

With the round-robin portion over, Pete Sampras (3-0) and Becker (2-1) advanced from the Ken Rosewall Group, while Ivanisevic (3-0) and Courier (2-1) qualified from the Rod Laver Group.

Saturday's semifinals will see a rematch of last year's final when Sampras won his first ATP Tour World Championship by beating Courier. In the other semifinal, Becker meets Ivanisevic.

Becker's awesome display against Edberg made him a favorite to win the tournament for the first time since it moved to his homeland in 1990. He won in 1988 in New York, but has been unable to repeat in Frankfurt.

The seventh-ranked Becker demolished Edberg with an amazing series of sizzling returns and powerful serves.

He broke Edberg at love to take a 4-3 lead. But he had trouble putting away the set.

Although he had given up only two points in his previous four service games, Becker was taken to duce twice before thundering an ace and scoring with a backhand volley off a good serve.

He immediately broke the Swede in the second set, when Edberg double-faulted and then sent a weak volley into the net.

Edberg never recovered. He double-faulted again to go down 3-0, and Becker romped through the rest of the set.

Becker's 10th ace gave him a match point and another good serve that Edberg returned wide gave him the victory in one hour and five minutes.

"He was just too good today," Edberg said. "Once he got on top he just did everything right."

"He's peaked just at the right time of the year, and he has a very good chance of winning here," said Edberg, who had won the title in 1989 by beating Becker in the final.

Becker's four titles this year all came on similar indoor surfaces, including the Paris Open earlier this month when his victims included Ivanisevic and Courier.

Courier took time adjusting to Chang's game.

"It's difficult to play someone who changes the pace so much," Courier said.

"By about 5-4 in the first set, I finally released and started to go for my shots," he said.

The first set went with serve until the last game after Courier saved off three break points in the seventh game.

A Chang forehand that sailed long gave Courier the first set.

A double-fault by Chang gave

Courier a 3-1 lead in the second, and he never looked behind.

IN BRIEF

Realtors food drive

SANFORD — The Sanford Christian Sharing Center will be among organizations receiving benefits from the Greater Orlando Association of Realtors Thanksgiving food drive.

The food will be donated Monday, Nov. 25, at the Orlando office, 621 E. Central Blvd. In addition to food, the association will also be presenting checks to the organizations, for the purchase of perishable foods and turkeys.

In addition to the Sanford Christian Sharing Center, other organizations include the South Seminole Sharing Center, Second Harvest Food Bank, Coalition for the Homeless, and the Mustard Seed.

The money and food has been donated by members, families, friends and staff of the association.

Oviedo firm makes list

OVIDEO — Century 21 Oviedo Realty, Inc., was listed among the top producing franchisees in the Century 21 of the Southeast region, during the month of September. The announcement was made by President and Regional Director George Hensley.

Specifically, the Oviedo-based franchisee was listed among the top 50 offices in the region based on both gross closed commissions and total closed, during the 90 day period.

Century 21 of the Southeast has approximately 218 offices throughout Georgia and Northwest Florida. The Oviedo office is located at 238 S. Central Avenue.

New office opens

WINTER PARK — Ron Clark, executive vice president and general manager of the Prudential Florida Realty has announced the opening of a new office in Winter Park, at 1031 W. Morgan Blvd., in the new BankFirst building directly across from the Winter Park Civic Center.

According to Clark, "The new Winter Park location will be strategically located to better serve both the Winter Park and Central Florida markets."

He continued, "The new facility will offer plenty of parking space and a base of two-story office on the recently opened three story brick office building."

December 1 is the expected date for the occupancy.

Countrywide releases mortgages

LONGWOOD — Countrywide Funding Corporation, with local offices in Longwood and Winter Park, are offering home buyers a new loan package. According to Countrywide's Finance Department, "Home owners who want to pay off mortgages faster than the traditional 30 years can now benefit from a new 20-year, fixed-rate loan being offered."

Payable mortgages, which are structured to pay off the mortgage in 20 years, are available to home owners who have a good credit record and a stable income. The program is available to home owners who have a minimum credit score of 640.

Countrywide Funding Corporation, a national mortgage lender, employs over 2,000 persons across the United States. Countrywide is located 1215 W. U.S. 90 in Longwood, and 2250 Lee Road, in Winter Park.

Employment Administrator at Village

LONGWOOD — Three companies from Village on the Green in Longwood, invited department managers in October by celebrating their 5th anniversary of employment at the Village Mall and shopping center.

David Wright and Robert Smith, vice presidents in the marketing department, and International Department's Barbara Long join a select group of employees at Village on the Green who have five years of service or more.

All were recognized at an employee appreciation Halloween Party at Village on the Green, which featured games and pumpkin carving contests.

The celebration is held by over 200 employees, and costars approximately 200 guests in a variety of activities.

Sanford company, international entry

SANFORD — Ace Home Service Ltd. moved in the 1-4 Industrial Park, west of Sanford, to expand international market recently. The business was mentioned in a local article in the Florida version of Business Week, Nov. 9, 1992.

Introduced in the story was a photo of Robert O'Brien, an executive at the firm, which offers services for electrical, plumbing, and heating. The firm was founded in 1970 and has been successful in the New York market.

The growth of Ace Home Service is attributed to new markets in the area, such as the West Coast from Hong Kong to the Philippines.

Gorbachev invited to Rollins biz symposium

By Mike Pappas
Herald Staff Writer

WINTER PARK — The Russian President, Mikhail Gorbachev, is invited to address a major business symposium, it was the top item of the agenda for the April 8 through 9, 1993 session, which has already been revealed.

The annual Rollins College Business School Symposium, Soviet Premier Mikhail Gorbachev to be co-chairman of the event, and former member of the number one position position report has been sent to former President Jimmy Carter.

Dear Sam: Our committee that he had requested an official invitation to participate, as well as a reading of the Rollins President's letter, which is an "I wish" statement, signed against Gorbachev in August.

"Gorbachev, under the name of the Rollins College Business School, is invited to participate in a symposium, which will be held by a single government, as Certe explained. "An up-to-date on a very good and one can see a new generation moving to take its place on the world stage," Mr. Gorbachev's perspective is particularly important.

Mr. Gorbachev, "The world should know what he has to say. The world should hear what we can offer to him."

The Rollins College Business School will host the symposium, which will feature business leaders and faculty from England, Switzerland and other countries.

"Gorbachev has a different perspective and more in common with us than we think," said Carter. "The presence of Mr. Gorbachev will be a major event in the Rollins College Business School's history and will be a major event in the Rollins College Business School's history."

Mr. Gorbachev will be invited to give a keynote address at the symposium, which will be held at the Rollins College Business School. The symposium will be held at the Rollins College Business School, which is located at 1000 Rollins College Road in Winter Park, Florida.

County unemployment down

By Mike Pappas
Herald Staff Writer

Unemployment rates for the month of September in Seminole County are the lowest in the metropolitan Orlando Area. The figures have been released by the Dr. Phillips Institute for the Study of American Business Activity, at the University of Central Florida College of Business Administration.

In the Orlando metropolitan statistical area, MSA, Seminole County shows an unemployment rate of 7.1, indicating 13,161 persons unemployed in September.

The figures were lower than the four county average of 7.9 percent.

During August, Seminole's unemployment rate was also lower, at 7.3 percent, with the average of 8.0 percent in the area.

Although individual county breakouts were not immediately available, October also showed a decrease for the total four county area to 7.4 percent.

According to David P. Scott, Jr., "One month decline of this magnitude are most unusual and have to be viewed skeptically." He added, "Only 2,500 households comprise the monthly employment figures in Florida, so a significant amount of sampling bias can contaminate the data."

For the August through October period he observed, "Central Florida business conditions appear to have turned a positive corner. More indicators produced positive changes than has been previously experienced during 1992."

He continued, "This is good news as retailers head into the Christmas buying season."

For specific occupations, the Dr. Phillips Institute indicated nonagricultural jobs improved in the MSA only slightly during September compared to a year ago. The estimate showed a gain of 1,400 jobs, which translates into a tiny gain of 0.25 percent of the non-farm workforce.

Hotel occupancy rates continued to look good compared to 1991. The Sept. 1992 rate is estimated at 69.2 percent, versus 63.9 percent last Sept.

Income is also increasing through taxable sales through the first nine months of 1992 compared to the previous year. The Institute figures show, statewide, an improvement of 5.22 percent, with each month reflecting a better performance than the comparable month of 1991.

In this area, taxable sales for August were 15.7 percent higher than last August, and September figures showed an increase of 6.6 percent from the previous year.

As for the remainder of the year, Scott predicted, "Measured improvement in overall conditions is the likely tone for the next few months, not dramatic improvement."

After hours

The Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce enjoyed Business After Hours this past Thursday evening, at the Sanford Flower Shop, 209 E. Commercial Ave. in downtown Sanford. Kit Thompson, left, and Tim Donatpe, along with Charlotte Gustavson, were hosts for the chamber event, displaying floral and greenery ideas designed in keeping with the holiday spirit.

IN BRIEF

Kell Sullivan

Dazzler of the Week

SANFORD — Kell Sullivan, an eleventh-grader at Seminole High School, has been selected by the school's Dazzler Dance Team as Dazzler of the Week. A member of the dance team for two years, Kell is the junior squad leader.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Sullivan, Kell has studied dancing for nine years and likes to water ski and snow ski.

Kell said she joined the dance team because she wanted to be a more disciplined person. "The dance team has not only helped me in school but also in everyday life," she said.

She added, "One of my team goals is helping the team win in national competition at Sea World in the spring. After I graduate, I hope to go to college to major in physical therapy and minor in dance."

CHARITIES

SOS grants wishes

In its fifth year of service, the Seminole Ornament Society (SOS) has plans to continue to provide Christmas gifts for area children and seniors who might otherwise go unnoticed for the holidays.

SOS was established in 1988 for the purpose of making the holidays merrier for others. They obtain the names and desired wish lists from numerous agencies, including HRS, Foster Care, school district social workers and the Good Samaritan Home for Seniors.

The names of the recipients are matched with sponsors who are able to purchase those "wished for" items.

On Dec. 6, SOS will sponsor black tie Holiday Ball at the Orlando North Hilton and Towers where corporate sponsors and their guests bring gifts to representatives of the agencies who will distribute them.

The Bob Cross Orchestra will be the featured entertainment for the evening.

Anyone interested in granting a wish should call the SOS Santa Headquarters at 682-1717.

Benefit for Snowbabes

WINTER PARK — Snowbabes, Inc. will have a shopping party to benefit their community projects.

The party will be at Scott Laurent Galleries, 348 Park Ave., North in Winter Park, on Saturday, Dec. 5 from noon to 7 p.m. There will be refreshments and prizes.

Snowbabes will receive 20 percent of all purchases.

Please call Dawn or Tammy to RSVP at 695-9770.

Scouts collecting food

SANFORD — Members of Boy Scout Troop 34 and Cub Scout Pack 34 will collect non-perishable food items on Saturday, Nov. 21 as part of the Scouting for Food Program.

They will be located in the Farmers Furniture parking lot at the corner of 25th Street and U.S. Highway 17-92 in Sanford, from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

The scouts will also be going door to door picking up the food distribution bags that they left at many Sanford homes.

SANFORD — New York, New York! It's a wonderful city for Jennie, Reil and Amanda and the Macy's Thanksgiving Day parade.

Jennie Strickland, 17, Reil Myles, 16, and Amanda Cutter, 16, anxiously waited for Nov. 20, the day they flew to New York and began their preparation to be in the famous Thanksgiving Day parade. They have been working to pay for the week-long festivities since they were awarded the special invitations at the NCA Superstar camp they attended.

The ambitious girls have danced at Church Street Station, collected donations, borrowed from their parents and stood collecting money at various intersections to help with their expenses. Jennie exclaimed, "It is a most humbling experience to stand out there and ask for money. It is also scary. We still have to pay people back because the money had to be in ahead of time and we had to borrow it. I am so deep in debt to them I don't know how I will ever pay them back."

With all the hard work behind them the girls are now setting their sights for the big week. They are looking forward to meeting the noted New York choreographers and the new choreography they will have to learn. The week is filled with dance classes they can attend, sightseeing and practice for the parade.

When asked what they would like to see in New York.

Reil replied, "Well, first of all, I am looking forward to the dance classes. I would like to talk to some of the top choreographers and ask them what I can do to help my career. I also want to see all the different monuments in New York and maybe go shopping."

Jennie excitedly exclaimed, "I guess when you start dance when you are little, you always hear New York as being a place where you can go to start to see what dancers are really about." She continued, "You can pick up a lot of different styles in street dance, jazz and tap and it's just a place where I have always wanted to go."

Amanda, who seems to be the quietest of the three girls, said, "I want to be in the parade. I hope we get on television because I think it will be real neat and I am looking forward to meeting all the other girls that we met at the superstar camp."

The girls plan to have a good time on this once-in-a-lifetime trip but all of them agree they are going to bring back to their dance group some of the experiences they receive. Reil related, "I want to be enriched more about dancing, like right now I want to know a lot more so I can bring it back to the team."

Amanda was in agreement with Reil but added, "I will take down every bit of technique that I can learn up there. It will be wonderful to bring back the

Cheerleader among 525 in US to 'Rah, Rah, Rah' at parade

By BOB FREEMAN

SANFORD — Start spreading the news: 16-year-old Heather Youmans is off to the big apple to march in the Macy's Day parade.

Heather, a varsity squad cheerleader at Seminole High School in Sanford, won the honor in competition with 40 other cheerleaders at camp this summer. A cheerleader since the seventh grade, winning isn't anything new to Heather, who participated in national cheerleading competition with her squad last year in St. Petersburg.

Camp is held each summer at Texas College and the Seminole High School cheerleaders have distinguished themselves repeatedly there, including securing the bid to compete in national competition in Houston, Texas, this December.

"We did really well," she said. "We got all superior ribbons, a bid to go to the national competition and one of the more prestigious awards, 'most spirited.'" Heather explained that "getting a bid" means the team is automatically accepted for national competition without entering a series of competitions along the way to that honor, a repeat of their efforts the previous year which snagged the invitation to St. Pete.

Her trip to New York, however, was an individual win and Heather could have elected to go to events in both Ireland and Hawaii, but chose the Big Apple instead. She has already received her uniform, her carry-on bag, pom-poms and the purple jacket, emblazoned "NCA Professional Competition." She will be required to have both the bag and jacket on her person at all times, as a security measure, she said.

Her squad held a car wash to raise funds for the trip. Heather has solicited funds from sponsors to offset her costs, and there have been collections to help fund the trip at football games, Heather said. Basic cost of accommodations for the trip

Fosters celebrate golden gala in style

By BOB FREEMAN
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The day was golden — from the glorious sun-kissed outdoors to the glittering gold decorations gracing the charming interior. It was Sunday, Nov. 15, Patricia and William M. (Pat and Bill) Foster's golden wedding anniversary.

About 125 guests filed into the distinctive Sanford Woman's Club on the made-to-order afternoon to join the Fosters in a gala golden celebration. The halls were decked with large gold bows and greenery entwined with gold metallic tinsel.

Centering the stage was an ornate white wrought iron arch, decorated with greenery, gold streamers and two large wedding bells, under which the couple repeated their wedding vows, performed by the Rev. Robert Paul. Standing up with the bride and groom of 50 years were her sister Nancy Spear, Pompano Beach, and his brother, Carl, from Miami.

Two standing wicker baskets on each side of the stage held clusters of fern. Jenn Metta played background music on the stage and later "The Wedding March" as Pat and Bill approached the stage.

After the vows were exchanged, Pat and Bill were ushered to a table where a bottle of fine imported champagne had been chilling in a black top hat container. Bill popped the cork and the celebration got under way after Bill embraced his wife and they danced slowly — while perhaps reminiscing about yesterday and today.

Pat was stunning in a seafarer mist designer creation fashioned with a lace skirt and rippling chiffon tunic accented with matching lace. She wore three strands of pearls and her white corsage was lavishly tinged with gold accents. Bill wore a white boutonniere in the lapel of his tailored business suit.

Guests helped themselves to the bountiful buffet where a variety of hot and cold foods were attractively displayed. The large tiered cake, decorated in purple with purple and white flower sprays, was featured on an adjoining table.

The celebration was hosted by the couple's five children who presented their parents with a beautiful portrait which was on display at the celebration. Easy Bill read a love poem written by Barbara Lee Cochet of Key West, the Fosters' daughter who was unable to attend.

The other children are: William Patrick Foster. □ See Foster, Page 6B

Kristin Hale

12-year-old beauty queen finalist in national pageant

SANFORD — Kristin Hale, 12, daughter of Pamela and James Sipes of Sanford, and a straight A student at Lakeview Middle School, was crowned Miss Florida American Pre-Teen Hostess at the annual state American Coed Pageant in Tampa in August.

Kristin will be in Tampa at the Hyatt Regency, Nov. 24-27 competing in the national competition of the Pre-Teen Miss America Pageant. She has also won the Miss Photogenic title for Florida and was named one of the top five in the talent competition. The Pre-Teen age group is for outstanding girls between the ages of 8 and 12 years old.

Kristin graduated from Barbours School of Modeling and is an accomplished clarinetist. At the Nationals she will compete again for the Miss Photogenic and National Talent titles. She will be performing "Somewhere Over the Rainbow" on her clarinet.

On Thanksgiving day while most young teens are relaxing with their families at home, Kristin will take a couple of hours from her busy schedule to have a Thanksgiving meal with her family and then be back to work practicing for the production number, the parade of evening wear, and her schedule of competition.

About 100 girls from across the country will be traveling to Tampa Thanksgiving week to compete in this competition for the coveted titles.

At the end of the week they will have a gift exchange party. All the girls take a gift for each girl who represents their state or home town.

Kristin received from Gov. Lawton Chiles 100 Florida replica pins for the girls' banners, and locally, Dave Farr of the Sanford Chamber of Commerce, donated Seminole County pins. Kristin's school has also helped with a donation of pencils for all the girls attending the competition.

Ad sales to support the National Pageant are mandatory at this level and several local businesses helped to sponsor Kristin for this competition. Finding donations to help her get to the Nationals was particularly difficult this year as fund-raising was begun after the devastation of Hurricane Andrew. Kristin spent hours in the kitchen with her mom baking cookies and then they spent the next two days knocking doors in the neighborhood selling the cookies for donations. Because of the generosity of her community, Kristin was able to raise the needed funds.

Kristin, as Florida's Pre-Teen Hostess, is available for parades and grand-openings.

Garden Club sets Christmas Bazaar

The Garden Club of Sanford has been working the entire fall season getting ready for the Christmas Bazaar. Members have gathered at workshops to brush up on their expertise at craft-making for the annual event.

According to Mary MacTavish, president, the bazaar will be held at the clubhouse, 200 Fairmont Drive and U.S. Highway 17-92 on Friday, Dec. 4, and Saturday, Dec. 5. The Friday hours are 10 a.m. to 7 p.m., and the Saturday hours are 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

All of the garden circles are participating and the bazaar promises to be outstanding. In addition to the lovely assortment of handmade crafts, a Christmas Tree Lane will also be featured with trees provided by Mike Martin, Urban Forester. There will also be a variety of delicious freshly baked goods for sale as well as jellies and candies. A Country Store will feature a variety of items including coffee and sweets for refreshments.

The bazaar is open to the public. For information, call Mary at 322-5546.

Club on tour

Members of the Sanford Woman's Club are excited to be on Sanford's Tour of Homes Dec. 5 and 6. A club member, Julia Goeb, is chairman of the event.

Under the direction of President Jean Metta members are working their nimble fingers overtime to create lovely Victorian decorations to match the architecture and decor of the handsome old building which was a Presbyterian Church at the turn of the century.

The Sanford Junior Woman's Club volunteered to landscape the grounds with Ann Brisson, a master gardener and past president of the senior club, as the liaison. Representing the juniors is Kathy Krausoff, also a master gardener.

Ann said, "It's coming along pretty nicely. We have the front looking pretty good."

Many Sanford residents have never seen the interior of the quaint clubhouse. Everybody's invited to attend the historic tour.

George turns 70

Over 70 friends and relatives gathered on Saturday, Oct. 31, at Sylvan Lake Park, to wish George Hughes a happy 70th birthday.

The celebration was hosted by his wife, Jean, and their three children, Jeana Perneatti and son Alton, from Sanford, and Lisa of Atlanta, Ga.

Three sisters attending to help their brother celebrate were Dorothy Martin, Boynton Beach; Bertie Wright, Sebring; and Thelma Walker, Jacksonville.

Other relatives came from as far away as Thousands Oaks, Calif., and Lake Worth. The honor guest's brother, Jack, from Tampa, was unable to attend.

The guests were served a delicious lunch of barbecued chicken and beef, garlic bread, colelaw, baked beans, potato salad and birthday cake. The food was provided by Gary Ganas, caterer, and Glenna Hood made the birthday cake.

Guests enjoyed reminiscing with many playing horseshoes and volleyball.

As a final farewell with lots of good wishes included, George, his two sisters and families met the next morning for breakfast at Denny's.

Sanford: John Wayne Foster, Orlando: Janet Wathen, DeBary: and Deborah Edge, Lake Monroe. There are 19 grandchildren and 4 great grandchildren. A granddaughter, Valerie Wathen, sang at the celebration.

The children planned the event as a surprise but there was no surprising Pat and Bill about the party. They had planned to return to Virginia Beach where they met and fell in love, so in order to keep them on the homefront, the children were forced to reveal their plans.

But the afternoon did end on a surprising note. After a story-book celebration, when Pat and Bill departed the building after 5 p.m. to return home, a white stretch limo was waiting for them to whisk them away to Buena Vista Palace where the children had arranged an overnight stay with dinner at the prestigious Arthur's 27. Ac-ording to Pat, the view was breathtakingly beautiful and the food was marvelous. She said the dinner started at 9 p.m. and ended at 11:30. The service and accommodations were the last word in luxury, Pat said.

Pat and Bill met at Virginia Beach when he was in the U.S. Navy stationed nearby and Pat was a hostess at the USO. "I danced with him and it all started from there," Pat said. After about three months, when she was only 17, they eloped to South Mills, S.C. on Nov. 17, 1942. Bill had borrowed a car, but it broke down so their trip continued on a Greyhound bus. Subject to motion sickness, Pat became quite ill but their wedding vigil continued. They eloped because Pat was fearful that her mother would object to the wedding during the dark and uncertain times of World War II.

Bill spent more than 27 years in the Navy and a lot of that time away from home. He saw com-

Exploring the world of work

Career awareness, "Explore the World of Work," sponsored by the Southeastern Consortium for Minorities in Engineering and co-sponsored by Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority recently explored careers in many fields at Sanford Middle School. Students from various schools and grades listened to the speakers who were introduced by Soror Dorothea Fogle.

A synopsis of the SCME was presented by Cynthia Holt-Miller, assistant principal of Sanford Middle School, "Careers 2000." Fitting into the workforce of the 21st century was given by Ruby Smith, career specialist of Lake Howell High School.

Other careers outlined were given by Southern Bell Telephone by Barbara Jones and Dan Siplin, service representative; Lt. Joe Dillard of the Sanford Police Department, law enforcement; Colonel Charles Gibson, ROTC instructor, Seminole High School; Don Miller, Seminole County director of the Boys and Girls Club.

All of the students were encouraged to 'stay in school,

Homecoming

There's an old-fashioned homecoming praise celebration this morning at 11 a.m. at Allen Chapel AME Church, West 12th St. and Olive Ave. The morning speaker will be the dynamic Dr. John Mainer, presiding elder of the Orlando Florida District. The Rev. John Woodard is pastor.

Choir sings today

The Sanford Alumnae Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Inc. presents a pre-Thanksgiving concert featuring the fabulous voices of the Sanford Community Workshop Choir today at 4 p.m., Allen Chapel AME Church, Olive Ave. and 12th Street. The Community Workshop Choir is under the direction of Vernon "Papa" Jones and Mary Liggins DeBoe is president.

Come and enjoy this ministry to the community through song and praise. Come and begin your spirit of Thanksgiving. Let's all give thanks.

Meditation hour

Annual Harvest Meditation Hour at the St. Paul Baptist Church, Pine Ave. and 9th St. will be held this evening at 6 p.m. The meditation hour will feature R. Bruce Brown of DeLand, Patricia Hitchmon's golden voice, Gloria Williams at the console and the now famous Seminole Community's Boys' Glee Club.

Host has right not to pray

DEAR ABBY: Here is a problem I have never seen discussed in your column, although I am a daily reader:

My son and I are both Christians, and we never sit down to eat without offering a prayer of thanks. On past occasions, when visiting a friend, we have been disturbed to be told, "We don't say prayers in this house."

The man is fairly intelligent, but portrays a typical heathen. How should we handle a situation like this?

GOOD CHRISTIANS IN VAN NUYS, CALIF. DEAR GOOD CHRISTIAN:

This is America, and your friend has as much right to be a heathen as you have to be Christians.

When you are a guest in the home of another, simply offer a silent prayer of thanks before the meal. God will hear you, and your host will not have his Godless feathers ruffled.

DEAR ABBY: I need your advice on two matters that concern me and my children.

1) My husband refuses to leave the family room to smoke a cigarette, not caring about my health or the health of our two young children.

2) If I do not agree to have sex

ADVICE

with him because I am too tired, he tells me that he will "go up the road and find some." He has said this to me ever since our marriage seven years ago.

Is this ultimatum a form of spousal abuse?

LOSING PATIENCE DEAR LOSING PATIENCE: I would call it verbal spousal abuse. Furthermore, it is clearly a form of coercion as well as a warning.

If you fail to accommodate him (for any reason) and he goes "up the road and finds some," you had better be tested regularly for sexually transmitted diseases.

As for his subjecting you and the children to secondhand smoke, if he refuses to leave the room to light up, you and the children should move to a smoke-free room.

Your husband appears to be a very selfish and inconsiderate man. My condolences.

State 1991 TOPS king visits area chapter

Gerald Cuda was the speaker at the TOPS (Take Off Pounds Sensibly) #FL 232 Altamonte meeting which meets at West Lake Hospital in Longwood. Gerald is the Florida 1991 TOPS King, having lost 125 pounds to attain the title.

After passing out a couple of times, Gerald decided to seriously consider losing some weight, as he weighed around 383 pounds. Cuda had tried other diet programs but without success, so both Gerald and his wife Ely, who also had a weight problem, decided to attend TOPS with some urging from one of their daughters. Gerald lost 125 pounds during the first nine months. The size of his pants went from 64 to 48 and his jacket size dropped from 68 to 50. Gerald and Ely together have lost 180 pounds and have maintained their weight loss for over a year.

Gerald and Ely are both very serious about maintaining their weight loss. They eat primarily chicken, fish and turkey with lots of fresh vegetables and fruit. Ely says that everything is steamed, boiled or broiled. They also drink eight glasses of water a day.

The TOPS #232 Altamonte meets at West Lake Hospital in Longwood on Wednesday night at 8:30 p.m. TOPS provides group support and fellowship to members in attaining their physician-prescribed weight goals. TOPS is the oldest major

Missionaries honored

Historic St. James A.M.E. Church's Annie McGill Missionary Society will host all missionaries, Sunday, Nov. 29, at 3:30 p.m. The theme is "One Hundred Christian Women and Men, Called, Committed, Compelled to Serve." The words of inspiration will be delivered by Missionary Shirley Guy Williams, a member of New Life Word Center. The community is invited to worship.

"I Love Jesus Day" celebration will be observed at the 11 a.m. worship service, Sunday, Nov. 29. Pastor Nolan Pitts will deliver the message of the hour.

Burning rites set

The Mortgage Burning ceremonies for New Mt. Calvary

Missionary Baptist Church, West 12th St., will take place Sunday, Nov. 29, at 11 a.m.

Church turns 113

Trinity United Methodist Church celebrated its 113th anniversary. The Rev. Walter E. Monroe and Ebenezer United Methodist Church led the worship celebration. The occasion of praise and worship brought back old former members Thelma Deboe Hall, Mr. and Mrs. James M. Thornton; former pastor, Dr. and Mrs. J. Otis Erwin, and Mr. and Mrs. Tim Raines Sr.

The Rev. Eddie J. Rivers Jr. and the Trinity United Methodist Church "Where Love and Concern Greet You at the Door," welcomed the community.

Congratulations, Trinity United Methodist Church, you are still one of the beacon lights in the Sanford community. "Reaffirming the Faithful Legacy of Our Forefathers" you still have members such as Ada G. Dennis, 113 years old, oldest member in age, and Louise Robinson Mitchell, oldest member from the age of 10. A special honor to the pastor and members of Trinity.

By Bernice Bode Cool YOUR BIRTHDAY Nov. 22, 1982

The possibilities for increasing your earning power look very good for the year ahead. The type of income you'll be able to produce will have long-range probabilities.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Conditions in general look good for you today, but there's a chance you might be prompted to create a problem where none should exist. You'll be sorry if you do. Scorpio, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for Scorpio's Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Generally speaking, you're more of an optimist than a pessimist. However, this could be one of those days where the gloomier facets of your personality prevail.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) If you do a favor for a friend today, do so in a way that does not make this individual feel obligated to you. If you don't handle this matter tactfully, it could mar the relationship.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your friends will be glad to see you today, but your welcome could wear out quickly -- if you start tossing your weight around by telling others what to do and how to do it.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) In order to accomplish your aims today, alternative courses of action may be required. To be on the safe side, have back-up plans ready -- just in case you need them.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) At a gathering today, one of your friends might be more of a manipulative busybody than a conversationalist. Don't let this individual use you for personal purposes.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Be sensible regarding the objectives you hope to achieve today. You have substantial potential, but if your expectations are unrealistic, you could be disappointed.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Do the hard stuff first today; if you delay doing them, chances are you won't get them done at all. You need an agenda that's industrious and productive.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If your demands stem from an unrealistic perspective today, it will be very difficult for a loved one to live up to your expectations. Be considerate.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) If a disagreement arises between you and your mate today, take actions to rectify it promptly. A misunderstanding could fester and grow worse with time.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Guard against the inclination today to criticize the efforts of those who are trying to help. If you aren't grateful, they might find excuses for putting down their tools.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Usually, you're a generous person who has no reluctance about sharing things with others. Today, however, you might be so protective of your own interests, you'll behave in a stingy fashion.

your life, such as business and social situations. When you take charge, things start happening.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Substantial accomplishments are possible today, especially in developments where your compassionate instincts are aroused to do useful things for those you love.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your best asset today is your ability to deal effectively with others. You'll know how to bring out their finer qualities and they'll make you feel appreciated.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Devote your efforts and energies today to ways and matters that help you careerwise or add to your resources. These are your strong suits if you apply yourself properly.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Instead of wasting time today worrying about whether your ideas will work or not, try them, and if they fail, try again. Action begets success.

If you enjoy reading about World Bridge Championships, buy the book of the 1981 event. It is published by Apobridge Services Limited, a British company, and is available for $24.95 from The Bridge World, 39 West 94th Street, New York, NY 10025-7124. The text was written by Englishman Brian Senior and Canadian Eric Kokish.

The winners were Iceland in the Bermuda Bowl, and USA II in the Venice Cup (the women's event). Even though today's deal from the Venice Cup Final resulted in a game swing to Austria, I liked the way the declarer, Doris Fischer, took her chances.

South's balancing two no-trump after she had passed showed a minor two-suiter. Perhaps piqued that her partner hadn't doubled (which she might well have done), North raised to three no-trump.

The opening lead was won with dummy's heart jack. Declarer called for a low spade, finessing her eight when East incorrectly played the four rather than the queen. In with the spade ace, West switched to the club six. Fischer won in hand with the ace, played a club to dummy's king, cashed dummy's heart ace (discarding a diamond), and played off her other three club winners. This brought East down to five cards. When she opted to keep the Q-10 of spades and A-K-9 of diamonds, Fischer played a spade to dummy's king and another spade. Back came the diamond nine, but Fischer had no choice: She put up the queen and made her game.

If East had retained the Q-10-6 of spades and A-K of diamonds, declarer would have exited with a diamond and collected two spade tricks.
