A Matter Of Discipline

In secret testimony before Senate Commerce and La-bor committees, an American sest captain, whose name was not revealed, was later reported as having said that discipline aboard sea-going ships has broken down com-pletely in the U. S. merchant marine.

The captain was also reported as saying that "our ships are infested with thugs, thieves, gamblers, dope-runners, drunkards, and recesteers of all descriptions. These constitute one of the three types of seamen who man our boats. The second type is the man whose only aim is to cheat the ship out of an housest day's work, whether it be for his safety or not—constantly complaining and demanding overtime pay for almost anything he does. This type is in the westeries."

ing overtime pay for almost saything he does. This type is in the majority."

The third type, the captain is reported as saying, is the old type of seaman, be he sailor, steward, or fireman. "It is this pitifully small group which keeps our ships running in any semblance of order at all." Then having had his say, not talking to his men aboard ship, but in the comparative safety of a Senate committee room, the sea captain begged that his name be kept secret as he was "liable to get a bullet in my back."

Since when has a sea-faring man with the fortitude to command a ship been affaild of getting a bullet in his back? It is not recorded that Christopher Columbus sailed from Palos with a crew of Sunday school teachers.

from Palos with a crew of Sunday school teachers, and he did not hide benind an anonymous communication when he told his men they would sail on, "or else."

If Sir Frances Drake had been afraid of giving orders lest he get a bullet, or worse, a knife, in his back, the pack of thieves, cut-throats, and murderers that sailed under real a matter a little fire him would have scuttled every ship he took out of London if And the tongue is a fire, before he had gotten out of the Thames River.

As we recall our sea-faving lore, most of the crews which have sailed the seven seas were a pretty tough bunch of hombres, and their captains were able to maintain order only because they were a little bit tougher and a little bit rougher in a fight than anyone else aboard. If the skippers of today can't keep their men from getting drunk while on duty, or maintain discipline on their ships, it's because they've gone sissy.

Imagine a sea captain afraid to tell his men they're the louriest bunch of white-livered, black-hearted, double-crossing cuttlefish that ever infested the hole of a ship. . .

thi, by such a balance for fear of getting a bullet in his back. No wonder there is mutiny abroad! What we need is a rea captain.

A Bad Time To Run

During the past few months a number of prominen persons have made public announcements that they will not be a candidate for the presidency in 1940. So far as we know, no one has indicated that he would like to run, or could even be induced to run. One thing is certain, no superstiticus man will be a presidential candidate in The next election. And here's the reason, according to the St. Petersburg Independent:

In 1840 William Henry Harrison, "Old Tippecanoe, was elected president. He died 3f days after his maugura-

In 1900 William McKinley was elected for his second term in office. Six months later he was shot by a demented anarchist.

In 1920 Warren Gamaliel Harding won the presidential election. Two years and five months later he died under oday no mysterious circumstances which have never been fully if vestigated.

MORAVIANS or UNITED BRETHREN; In a history of this movement by Rev. A. Bost; The famous Zinzendorf writes "We have had undeniable proofs in the healing of maladies in themselves incurable, such as cancers, consumption.

The SCOTCH COVENANTERS tell with the utmost detail in their book, THE SCOTS WORTHIERS. the greatest testimonies of healing of any church.

Records of holy ROBERT BRUCE; "persons distracted and those who were past recovery with falling sicknesses, were brought to him and were restored from their malady.

METHODISTS; JOHN WESLEY remarks in his notes on James 5:14 "This was the whole process of physic in the Christian Church till it was lost through unbelief."

BAPTISTS; It is recorded of VAVASOR POW-ELL, the morning star of the Welsh Baptists; "Many persons were recovered from dangerous sickness through the prayer of faith which he offered." He wrote: "Visiting the sick and for the elders to annoing them in the name of the Lord is a guspel ordinance and not repealed."

CHARLES SPURGEON: RUSSEL CONWELL in his life of Charles Spurgeon says: "There were more people raised from sick beds to health in answer to Spurgeon's prayers than the noted physician of London could possibly claim."
