

Losing Weight? Better Be Wary

DEAR LAMB - In reply to a reader who requested some advice on weight control, I would like to pass on two words: be careful!

The reader spoke of losing 35 pounds in four months after solving a weight problem all her life. I too found myself confronting the same situation after losing a great deal of weight in a short period of time. After reaching weight I thought was adequate I tried to find a plan to maintain my weight. I counted calories and weighed portions of food. I exercised vigorously. I drank coffee constantly to avoid the hunger pains.

I found myself getting very upset, bewildered and confused. I continued to lose weight, all the while becoming more depressed and frustrated about what I could or could not eat.

The saga lasted for nearly nine months. At this point I weighed 10 pounds I'm 113. I was so confused that I tried to commit suicide. Luckily someone cared enough to send for professional help. It was then that I learned of an illness called anorexia nervosa.

A few comments from you could help to clarify the disease and its symptoms for your readers, but I would like to continue to everyone who diets excessively. If you find that this disease has set in that parents of young girls in particular can be aware of it and be on the lookout to see if that any do-it-yourself dieting program is carried to extremes.

When is a depressive mood important? Readers who want information on this and related problems can send 30 cents to Dr. George Lamb, 1000 University 16, Depression: The Up and Down of Life. Send your request to Dr. Lamb in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 326, San Antonio, TX 78292.

It usually occurs in young girls in their teens. It can occur in males as well, but it is rare.

Yours truly,

Dr. Lamb

Top Korean Aide Also Gave Money To Officials?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House investigators now believe one of President Park Chung-hee's top current aides gave out even more money than rice dealer Tongju Park in South Korea's efforts to buy friends and influence in Congress, sources said today.

But they also said House ethics committee investigators might never be able to interrogate the high-ranking suspect, former Ambassador Kim Sung-joo, even if Seoul's government allows them to question Tongju Park.

Oil Lease Sale Stopped

BOSTON (UPI) — Interior Secretary Cecil Andrus has postponed indefinitely today's planned sale of oil and gas exploration leases on more than 700,000 acres of rich seabottom off the New England coast.

Andrus' action came Monday night, just hours after a federal appeals court judge had upheld a lower court's order delaying the sale until Congress implements safeguards to protect the fishing industry from possible hazards related to offshore drilling in the Georges Bank area.

Can Ed Bomb Target

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two small bombs early today blew out a window at Consolidated Edison's headquarters in Manhattan and slightly damaged a police car parked several blocks away, police reported.

Shortly after the blasts were reported, an unidentified man with a Spanish accent telephoned United Press International and said the bombs were the work of the Puerto Rican terrorist group PALN.

Historic Theater Destroyed

ATLANTA (UPI) — A glittering segment of Atlanta's history went up in flames Monday. Fire destroyed Loew's Grand Theater, where Rhett Butler abandoned Scarlett O'Hara for the first time in the 1939 premiere of "Gone With the Wind."

Key Canadian Official Admits To Sex Scandal

OTTAWA (UPI) — Solicitor General Francis Fox, widely regarded as a possible future prime minister, has resigned his cabinet post, admitting he made a married woman pregnant and forged her husband's signature to an abortion certificate.

The 38-year-old former Rhodes Scholar announced his resignation Monday to a stunned House of Commons.

Satellite Debris Found

EDMONTON, Alberta (UPI) — An international nuclear task force camped on a remote ice field in the Northwest Territories today to begin cleaning up the radioactive debris from a fallen Soviet spy satellite.

Two members of a six-man wilderness expedition Saturday found a large chunk of the nuclear-powered Soviet satellite in a nine-foot crater on an ice field near the Thelon River, 240 miles southwest of Baker Lake.

The Canadian-American nuclear task force also reported they had located two other crash sites of the nuclear-powered Cosmos 954 at the northeastern edge of Great Slave Lake.

Mideast Talks Resume

CAIRO, Egypt (UPI) — Israeli Defense Minister Ezer Weizman arrived today to resume military negotiations with Egypt, saying "a lot of problems lie ahead." An American envoy met with Foreign Minister Mohammed Kamel to try to narrow Egyptian-Israeli differences on the broad lines of a Middle East settlement.

Weizman said his talks with Egyptian War Minister Gen. Mohammed Gomaa this evening would form "another link in what unfortunately is a difficult road."

Committee OKs Canal Treaties

Senate Passes Criminal Code Revision

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With the massive revision of the U.S. criminal code set on its way to the Senate, the Senate now can prepare for the debate on the Panama Canal treaties.

The code revision was final Senate approved Monday. Earlier in the day, the Senate Foreign Relations voted, 94-1, to recommend approval of the canal treaties, with only a few key changes.

In addition, the Senate Judiciary Committee began hearings on the nomination of Walter C. Weller to be the next FBI director, and the House Ways and Means Committee opened its hearings on President Carter's $65 billion tax overhaul package.

Weller received a friendly reception of his hearing, but the reception was less cordial for Carter's tax plan.

The criminal code bill, the product of some 12 years of work, revisions, modifications and consolidations since 2,000 federal criminal laws into a more easily understandable code. It now goes to the Senate where recommendations already have begun.

Committee approval of the Panama Canal treaties without major revisions was an important victory for the administration. The action came after the committee was assured that Panama's leader, Gen. Torrijos, did not object to changes spelling out U.S. rights to defend and use the canal after the United States and other major world powers should take firm steps to ensure neutrality.

A date for the Senate to vote has not yet been set.

FBI Director-designate Weller appeared before members of the Judiciary Committee with his answers to a long list of their questions. The members praised Weller for answers that he would not allow the agency to be led into any illegal activities. On the first day of hearings on the tax bill, Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal was called on to defend the plan from a variety of critics. He was due back for more questioning today.

Blumenthal told the Senate Governmental Affairs Committee the United States and other major world powers should take firm steps to ensure neutrality.

Cleanup Efforts Continue In Midwest

By United Press International

Light snow hit the Midwest-battered Midwest today, freezing streets, roads, streets, airports and many areas still under water from last Friday's severe storm.

Millions still live in frozen homes because the polar vortex that caused last week's blizzard, residents of Illinois and Michigan are facing a deadly new blizzard.

Traveler's advisories were posted through the Great Lakes region and Middle Mississippi Valley. The predictions were for 1-4 inches or less — relatively mild compared to last week's travels but enough to further impede cleanup operations.

Official travel advisories reported a combination of snow and ice still left on streets and highways. Cook County crews were still completely Chicago's major arteries, running perfectly free. Several auto-laden barges were reported slowly plowing north through the ice floes on the Mississippi River.

Many Chicago drivers reported they were out of snow, however, and over snow shovels and expected to go no more this year.

"The last time I had anything to do with a heavy truck was in 1967," said the owner of a North Side business. "Now? No snow shovels. We need shovels. I've started calling a lot of parts."

In Michigan, the Army Corps of Engineers said there were 65,000 miles of snow-clipped roads that probably will not be cleared for another 10 days — even if there is no more snow. At least 50 school districts were still closed.

Olli Gov. James A. Blanchard and Monday the state had suffered at least $6 million in agricultural losses during the blizzard. New revised and revised numbers would cost the state $5 to $6 million, he said. His agenda included President Carter to declare the entire state a disaster area to allow more federal aid.

The economic loss to the state is "astronomical," said Carter. "The widespread shutdown of business and the loss of income for hourly workers will cause a significant hardship for families."

And the death toll mounted. At least 24 Mississippians died more reported in Ohio, 21 in Illinois, 16 in Indiana, 12 in Michigan, and between 9 and 15 in Wisconsin.

Meanwhile, freezing rain hit late Monday, causing highways with a dangerous icy glaze across Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas. Winter storm warnings and traveler's advisories covered much of the South.

The second straight night of freezing temperatures worried Florida citrus growers, but severe damage to the fruit and vegetables was not expected and winter weather was due to return.

Another 10 days — even if there is no more snow. At least 50 school districts were still closed.

Heading For The Rapids

With delivery of his $20.2 billion budget to Congress Jan. 21, President Carter completed the unveiling of what he calls his "overall economic strategy."

He answers us that this budget, along with the tax cuts and tax reforms he proposed Jan. 21, will produce "steady, sustainable and non-inflationary" economic growth; he is relying on expansion of business and industry to pull down the unemployment rate to six percent or less by the end of 1979.

Maybe our calculator is off, but we're having trouble making it all add up.

To find a "non-inflationary" economic strategy in a budget carrying a $20.2 billion deficit — the third highest in history — is hard enough.

To find credible incentives and inspiration for business confidence in the administration's tax program, even with a promised reduction in the overall tax burden, is not much easier.

For all the rhetoric that preceded and accompanied the barrage of economic messages, the administration is disappointing those who expected a visible turn in its approach to economic problems.

There's always something to be said for not rocking the boat, and $25 billion in net tax cuts might be calculated by the White House to be necessary to head off an economic slowdown in 1978.

But if the boat is heading into the rapids, some rocking might wake up the people at the oars. The administration's fiscal and tax policies are aimed at keeping everyone comfortable in spite of the ominous roar of inflation in the distance.

Mr. Carter himself discerned the danger of habitual deficit deficits when he told us a year ago that the budget could and should be balanced by 1981. But his flirtation with a genuinely non-inflationary fiscal policy is over, apparently, and he is now trying to justify a deficit that even die-hard Keynesians will find hard to swallow when the economy is performing as well as it is right now.

The last sentence omitted from the budget, however, GOP Chairman Bill Brock pointed for a full sentence: "I think it went very well, but it did, unfortunately, 'flirt'."

Then, taking a wobbly and winging trajectory from his base, he broke into an ear-to-ear grin and exclaimed, "Flirt!"

Brock had good cause for both celebration and relief.

During a Tuesday meeting of the Republican National Committee hosted by former Indiana Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, the chairman of the Senate Consumer Protection Committee, who sought to keep his leadership team members stymied at every turn, Brock's impudent exclamation, "Flirt," easily deflected Ronald Reagan supporters.

Conservatives argued by Brock's refusal to allocate $60.00 to party funds in a "truth squad" campaign against President Carter's proposed Panama Canal treaty arrived at the national committee meeting Friday for a fight.

For hours on end, GOP committee members from Indiana, Tennessee, Utah, Washington, Michigan, and elsewhere in the West and Western states engaged in bitter debate over whether their chairman would change the party's long-standing position.

But the last battle, Brock's allies pointed out at least of the right side, had ended on a 114-87 vote margin for "Flirt."

'Intrinsic Factor' Absorbs B-12

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 17 years old. My doctor tells me I have pernicious anemia and that my stomach does not produce enough folic acid to digest my food. So I have to take B-12 injections every other week. I would like to know if it is necessary to have a B-12 injection.

Why wouldn't it do just as well to take B-12? My doctor tells me I have to have the shots for the rest of my life. What is B-12 in a vitamin? My blood count is okay now. It's up to where it is supposed to be.

DEAR READER — You shouldn't criticize success and it sounds like your doctor has solved your problem.

You, B-12 is a vitamin. It is absorbed from your small intestine with the help of substances the normal stomach manufactures called "intrinsic factor."

DEAR READER — The question from the doctor's report indicates that your leg cramps and cold feet are probably caused by poor circulation — the obstruction to the blood flow to your legs. This is a mechanical defect. You'll get some relief from your medicines, but you basic problem still remains.

I note you live in Alabama. You have an outstanding cardiovascular unit at the University of Alabama, and you should ask your doctors to refer you there for a complete evaluation. If you have a local obstruction and the arteries below the obstruction are open you may be able to move by bypass surgery. A graft would be put in to route the blood around the obstruction to the open arteries further down in your thigh.

The catch is that those lower arteries must be open enough to carry the blood flow from the detector. If they are badly obstructed then putting in a graft might not be used at all. In any case, consult your physician to determine what your best course of action is.

Cancer can cause permanent damage to the spinal cord that folic acid doesn't prevent. That is why folic acid is not an adequate substitute for B-12. To give you more information on this see The Health Letter number 4-4, Vitamin B-12, Folic Acid, Pernicious Anemia. Others who want this issue can send 90 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for one in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1441, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10114.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) The role of the muddler is a starring one for you today. You're good at arbitrating, negotiating, peacemaking, or facilitating.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) Enjoy yourself if it feels like it today, because you're restricted to a good time. Don't get out on the dance floor and then worry about the work.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 22) The ideas you have will be laid, original and clever today. It's really out of character, but you may be ready to try them out.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) Being generous, you may accumulate some gulf because today others do things for you that you can't reciprocate. Don't fret, you're sharp. Evening business sessions may find you dull.

T A U R U S (April 20-May 20) You're still at figuring things out today, so try to stave off any outside influences. Lengthy discussions will only serve to confuse you.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Duality is one of your traits and it may be a fortunate one today. You could be able to bring in
