CORN BREAD WAS A FAILURE

But Husband Tried to Be Discreet in His Remarks, to the Discomfiture of the Guest.

They were a newly married couple. The wife though a fair cook, did not know how to make things his mother had prepared. And this vexed the husband, although he was disposed to be indulgent for the sake of harmony. But there was one point upon which he sorrowed not a little. His wife could not make edible corn bread, and corn bread was the food upon which he was reared.

One day a girlhood friend of the wife visited her and, after assisting in the preparation of luncheon, accepted an invitation to stay and eat it with the newlyweds. The husband arrived and the guest and he took their places at the table while the wife went to the kitchen to bring some forgotten dish.

Before his plate was the husband's corn bread, but it was a miserable failure, sticky yellow, fat and heavy. He became confidential.

"There is one of the trials of a husband whose wife can't cook," he said apologetically to the guest. "Just have a look at that corn bread. But you mustn't let the wife know what I said, for it would hurt her feelings."

When the wife entered the room a few moments later she noticed that a deep blush suffused the guest's face.

"Why what is the matter, dear?" she asked.

"It's nothing," the guest replied hurriedly.

An hour later, after the husband had gone to the office the chorus of two laughing women's voices merrily resounded through the household of the newlyweds.

But the wife has not yet told the husband that her guest made the corn bread on that day she stayed for luncheon. In fact, asked the privilege because she considered herself an adept at making corn bread.

She Knew Amos

The man who takes trolley rides through the country, says a writer in the Boston Advertiser sees and hears much that is amusing. A few days ago while I was riding through the outskirts of Amherst, an old lady, but a decidedly spry one, hailed the car. She was accompanied down to the road from the house by a young woman, possibly her daughter.

The older woman put her foot on the lower running board, grasped the upright and was about to climb into the car, when she turned to the young woman and said:

"Don't forget that gingerbread in the oven, Lisa. You know you just baked burnt gingerbread."

"All aboard!" shouted the conductor. But the old lady paid no attention to him.

And Lisa, she continued, when you pick the eggs, kindly look out for that Rhode Island Red that wants to get in. She'll pick you if you ain't careful."

"All aboard!" again shouted the conductor, but as the old lady proceeded to climb on to the car she paused long enough to say to him: "You can't scare me Amos. I've known you ever since you was knee-high."

Amos grinned, pulled the bell and we were on our way. Youth's Companion.

Buy Junk, Get Famous Bell.

One of the most historic bells of the South American churches was discovered and brought to San Francisco by two Oakland junk dealers, William Rosenzweig and Lewis Rothenberg, who have just arrived from South America on the steamer Cuzco. They have been on a buying trip in Peru and Chile for two years.

The bell is 325 years old and hung in the cathedral of San Augustino at Lima for more than two centuries. In the revolution of 1895 the cathedral was wrecked and the bell disappeared.

The two Oaklanders bought the debris of the cathedral and in excavating among the ruins found the bell. It was thought in Lima that it had been stolen twenty years before.

Peruvians wished to buy the bell, but the new owners thought it would be worth more in this country and refused to sell. The relic weighs 500 pounds and is of bronze, with inscriptions in gold. San Francisco Chronicle.

Teddy's Good Shot.

One of Colonel Roosevelt's first hunting instructors was old Bill Sewall, a Maine guide, whom, when president, the colonel rewarded for years of friendship and advice by an office.

When he was a boy the colonel went into camp with Sewall. Deer season came along and they went out to give the youthful Stued his first chance for a shot. After a time the colonel says, they saw a stag.

"Shoot!" shouted Sewall and the future president let go with his rifle.

"The stag ran a little way and dropped."

"You've got him! You've got him!" shouted Sewall as he ran forward to investigate. "How did it happen?"

"Well," replied young Roosevelt, "drawing himself up proudly, I aimed for his breast."

"You done well," said Bill. "You done well. You hit him in the eye."

Power of Politeness.

"Honesty is the best policy," said the ready-made philosopher.

"Of course, it is," replied Mr. Dustin Stax. "But the public doesn't always realize it. Most people would rather be cheated a little in an affable way than do business with a person whose conscience keeps him in a state of irritation."

Chit-Chat of the Play Houses in Sanford

Freckles

Those who have read Gene Stratton Porter's charming story "Freckles" and loved the nameless wail for his marly spirit, his light wit, lush lore, and his beautiful songs, and who reverence the "Scamp Angel" for her beauty and her chaste, womanly character will meet no disappointment in the play.

"Freckles" is proving still a great success as a song play than the novel which has been read by millions of people.

It must not be understood that "Freckles" is a play essentially with a love motive, because it is not. There is plenty of action in the working out of its theme of the kind that "makes the pulse beat faster."

The play is great in its simplicity, the story is of absorbing interest, and an estimable example of the value of doing right against all temptation.

The Broadway Amusement Company's scenic production with an exceptionally strong cast of players at Allen's Theatre next Saturday.

The Greater Will

Featuring the celebrated Gladys Anderson, supported by a superior cast, including Lois Meredith, at the Star Theatre Saturday, Jan. 29th.

Years ago Peggy Stone, a daughter of old Corchlin Stone, a miller, met a millionaire, named Stuart. When she was a girl she had a habit of going through a mill race, and one day she was caught by him. A week passed and she returned looking a good deal better. When she was a baby was born she died.

She met a man named Watson, who was a doctor, and he was a very good man. He was a very good man. He was a very good man. He was a very good man.

TO PRESENT SHIP BILL IN HOUSE TODAY

THE MEASURE HAS BEEN REVISED TO SUIT THE KNOCKERS-

Washington, Feb. 1.—Details of the new administration ship bill to build a merchant marine and naval auxiliaries, revised to command the dissenting Members, were made public last night for the first time. The bill will be introduced today by the House by Chairman Alexander.

Public hearings, at which President Wilson and others will be asked to testify, will begin in a few days. The striking differences between the new bill and the one which failed in Congress last year are made apparent by the government's new features and broadening of the scope of the shipping board's powers.

The bill is expected to regulate all foreign commerce. It will give the government authority to charter and operate all the ships which will be entered upon only if private owners fail to respond to the government's call.

Mrs. Overman Here The many friends of Mrs. J. H. Overman will be delighted to learn that she has decided to return to Sanford and hereafter will be with the millinery store of Mrs. Grace Williams. Mrs. Overman was a resident of this city for many years and was engaged in the millinery business, afterward removing to Tampa, where she had the misfortune of a broken leg and a long illness in the hospital. But she is herself again and her smiling countenance will greet all her old friends and acquaintances at the Williams Millinery Parlors next door to L. P. McCuller's Grocery on First Street.

Pink Rose Luncheon A charmingly pretty affair was the pink rose luncheon with which Mrs. R. E. Tolar entertained the Book Lovers Club at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The dining room was pretty with a profusion of pink roses and asparagus plumosa that adorned the mantel and tables. A seated luncheon was served at the dining table over which was spread a linen cover. In the center stood a shining brass basket, the tall handle of which was ornamented with a big bow of pink tulle. Within the basket was a vase of pink roses and ferns. The favors at each place were tiny pink baskets in the form of a rose, that held dainty candles. Scattered over the white cover were nests of white ferns in the center of which were pink rose buds. A seven course luncheon was prettily served by Misses Virginia Brady, Fern Ward and Georgia Pattishall of Geneva. The living room was attractive with a variety of attractive plants and ferns. After luncheon Mrs. Tolar invited the guests to the Star Theatre, where a special reel was run in their honor through the courtesy of Mr. Osborne Herndon.

Maxwell Run Ended Officially the run was declared ended. Practically it will continue for many more days as the car was immediately re-started and left for a triumphal tour through Southern Florida and Arizona where it will be shown to the great advantage of the Maxwell. The car has averaged 24 miles per gallon of gas and has covered 2675 miles.

The end of the run was almost a civic holiday in Los Angeles. Thousands gathered at the appointed place, choking traffic and to do the new endurance champion and its crew an ovation new in the annals of motoring. Mayor Sebastian of Los Angeles himself stopped to the driver's seat and switched off the ignition. For the first time in nearly 44 days, the Maxwell motor missed its life giving spark and stopped.

Woman's World

An American Novelist Finds a Paying Workroom in Paris.

EDITH WHARTON.

Mrs. Wharton, author of "The House of Mirth," tells how a paying workroom for war sufferers is founded. When the war broke out an immense number of benevolent and occupied women in Paris felt a violent but vague impulse to "help." This impulse found its chief expression in the traditional pursuit of making flannel, hemming towels, and crocheting baby bonnets. So kind friends are busy in days of peace, but in wartime any unpaid, unskilled, unskilled, on the rights of the moment, and it is for a time a relief to find a way to help.

At first the work was done in the homes of the women, but as the number of workers increased, it was found that the most productive means of doing the work was to have a large supply of materials, made arrangements to have my women fed in a comfortable restaurant and put over to bed at night. This system of the Red Cross was adopted.

When a woman applies for work she shows her pockets, gives references and is fitted to the piece that she is not leaving either the military allowance or the Red Cross. Her statements are checked by the inspectors at her home and if the report is favorable she is engaged for two months.

The two big things which she has to leave, but if she chooses will give her place work at home for a month. At the end of the month, if there is no work, she is engaged for another two months, and so on. This system of rotation was established as soon as it became evident that the war was to last a long time and the result has been satisfactory.

So Transparent!
The transparent hat has been such a welcome comer that its popularity has extended for more than the usual one season run. This is also true of the transparent hem which has had such a vogue during the fall and winter, while the transparent frock that reveals the silken trousers beneath is a creation of this season. Transparent scarfs, too, of white or flesh colored tulle, so wrapped that they cover the chin, are also receiving a great deal of attention by this year's debutantes. So it will be understood that the advent of a coat which reveals the frock beneath and such a coat trimmed with fur to give the luxurious effect will not be such a startling idea as it sounds on first hearing.

O'Brien Potatoes.
Boil potatoes with the skins on till tender, then peel and cut into dice. Make a white sauce according to usual manner and add to it a teaspoonful of onion juice and a large tablespoonful of chopped green pepper. Pour over the potatoes and simmer for five minutes.

The Woman of Today

The wise ones who look at the age and would diagnose its ills call one symptom a "sense of restlessness." Women are restless, yes—but more than that it's a restless age. Everybody is trying to do something, to get somewhere, to change over from the old order to the new, but just what the new is they cannot tell you.

And we would hold no argument for stagnation or for that listlessness which lets well enough alone and leans back comfortably on the past and is content with what is.

But it is possible that in this very quest for the next thing, or the new thing, we are but providing for our selves ingeniously enough a cloak to cover our excuses for not doing the thing that's here today.

We are all very eager and very restless and so sure that the big thing is just ahead or somewhere else. We could do this all so well if we were just in a bigger city or at a bigger job, sadly forgetting that the job of today is, after all, the thing we have been given to work with.

"Will you seek afar off?" writes Walt Whitman in a "Song of Occupations." "You surely come back at last."

In things best known to you finding the best is as good as the best. Happiness, knowledge, not in another place, but in this place, not for another hour, but for this hour.

Such was the strong philosophy of Whitman, wholesome medicine for a restless age which wants always the thing that is just beyond the proxy reality of today.

Ever-hisly we mark time waiting for a chance to be contented of the fact that in the very act of making time we are doing the living. Sooner or later we shall find that the place of the hour is in another hour, but this hour.

No matter how busy the life of a woman, there is no time to be lost. No magic makes the big metropolis hold together, but that is not really the case. It is the work of the day, the work of the hour.

Two Styles of Winter Glove Popular For All Sports.

REAL COMFORT.

Plummy as mittens while just as warm. The other pair is heavy brown leather, with gauntlet tops. The strap is especially good for motoring, as it keeps out the wind, while for rough sports these gloves are attached in such a way as to prevent splitting.

Sandwich Fillings.
Pimento cheese and thinly sliced tomatoes.
Tomatoes, sliced thin, with mayonnaise dressing and English walnuts.
Sardines made into a paste spread on white bread and dotted with thin bits of lemon and ripe olives.
Pepper butter and paprika.
Cottage cheese and minced onion.
Stuffed olives, oil and mayonnaise.
Chicken, finely minced, bits of celery and mayonnaise.
Brown Bread Sandwich: Jelly mixed with wet ground raisins and candied orange peel.
Bananas—sliced thin, dipped into juice of lemon mayonnaise dressing and nut meats.

Ham—sliced thin with hard boiled eggs, mayonnaise dressing.

COUSINS CAUSE A MIX-UP

Marriage Makes Children of Pennsylvania Couple Third Cousins to Their Grandmother.

Reading, Pa.—Edgar L. Tyson, twenty-three years old, of Kutztown, finds himself in a peculiar position as a result of his marriage to Florence D. Wessner, twenty years old, of Kempton. Tyson and the girl's mother, Mrs. Jeremiah Wessner, are first cousins. It was not until a court order was obtained that Register Newman would issue a marriage license to the couple, because close relatives are forbidden to wed under the Pennsylvania law.

Now Tyson finds his first cousin is his mother-in-law and his second cousin is his wife. If they have children, some genealogical experts argue, they will be third cousins to their grandmother and second cousins to their mother.

AGED WIDOW WEEDS YOUTH

Wealthy Woman of 73 Marries 25-Year-Old She Hired as an Overseer.

Wilmington, Del.—This vicinity has been taken by surprise by the announcement of the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Lightcap, as the marriage plans had been kept secret, even from close personal friends. Mrs. Lightcap is seventy-three, owns a big farm and is reputed to be wealthy. Her husband is twenty-five.

They became acquainted in Inn last, when Lightcap was hired to act as overseer of her farm. Friendship ripened into love and their romance was culminated one night recently when they slipped into Townsend after dark and went to the Methodist parsonage, where Rev. Warren Burd tied the knot. Immediately after the ceremony they hurried back to the farm.

STAMPS NOW CASH IN RUSSIA

Usage Comes Through Scarcity of Coin. New Issue in New Zealand.

Landed in excess by the shortage of small coin in Russian postage stamps of the value of 10, 15 and 20 kopeks are in use as paper money. At the same time they can be used for postage, but they are printed on a special paper and have an overprint on the back in black which denotes the new use to which they have been put.

Philatelists will also be interested to know that the new war stamp now in use in New Zealand. The old one penny stamp with the head of King George is overprinted with the words "war stamp" and two stars. It is used in reality as a war tax in addition to the ordinary postage.

PRETTY CHINESE PRINCESS

Princess Jue Quon Tai, a Chinese princess, posed in her oriental garb especially for this picture in her suite in a New York hotel. The princess is only nineteen years old and is traveling unchaperoned through this country, having left China six months ago after she had refused to marry a wealthy man. Her father was the matchmaker in the case and she did not admire his choice. During her stay here she has already spent $10,000 and whenever she goes short all she does is to cable home and mother sends her some more spending money. Her father says she won't have anything to do with her because it is a terrible thing in China for a girl to travel alone. The princess speaks English fluently and is a subscriber to many American newspapers and magazines so she has a reading knowledge of modern America.

One-Piece Frock for Business Wear

Although a better combination than the well-known shirtwaist and the well-fitting cloth skirt for business wear is yet undiscovered, the one-piece frock is just as appropriate.

The waist is an easy fitting plaited blouse set off to the shallo yoke. The skirt is laid in platts, also, and these are stitched down to a point below the hips but are only pressed in for the remaining length of the skirt.

Distinctly a Design for the Matron

Lightness and sparkle are featured in the fashions of the hour in much of the lace employing tulle, light laces and nets embroidered with pallettes.

Older women have the privilege of appropriating to themselves the handsomest laces and richest fabrics. Besides, they may look to intricacy and beauty of design for effects more permanently fascinating than those accomplished with airy tulle and glittering spangles.

A CHIEF IS AMONG YE TAKING NOTES AND FAITH. "HELL PRENT 'EM"---SO SAYS SAUNTERER.

This is my town. I live in this town. I earn my living here. My family is here and my friends are here.

It is a good town. It might be a better town if I would do my part to make it a better place for myself and my family and my friends to live.

I can make it a worse town than it is, if I choose to do so, by doing my part to add to the things that are bad for it, and to abstract the things that are good for it.

There are children in this town---boys and girls who are growing here to womanhood and to manhood. They are the life of the town. I would like to make this town a good place for these boys and girls to live in. I would like to make it not only a pleasant place to live and a happy place to live, but also a good place to live. But I cannot, one person and so I cannot do much. But there is one thing I can do that is to lead my influence to what is good for the town and nothing can be good for the town that is bad for the boys and the girls of the town.

There are many people in this town who do not know what it is to be a citizen. They are not interested in the town. They are not interested in the people of the town. They are not interested in the things that are good for the town.

If I cannot do more for the town, I can do less. I can do less by not doing what is bad for the town. I can do less by not doing what is bad for the people of the town.

There are many people in this town who do not know what it is to be a citizen. They are not interested in the town. They are not interested in the people of the town. They are not interested in the things that are good for the town.

Hard to Outguess Frenchman When He Was at His Best.

Malachi Kittredge, Veteran Catcher, Relates Two Anecdotes to Illustrate Point---Knocked Hill Out of the Big League.

If Napoleon Lajoie has an admirer among the baseball men of the past and present it is Malachi Kittredge, the veteran catcher, who now is making his residence in Cleveland. According to Kittredge it was almost impossible to outguess the Frenchman when the latter was at his best. To illustrate his argument Kittredge relates two anecdotes.

"When I was with Washington we had a lefthander named Jacobson," he said. "One day when we were playing Cleveland he told us before we took the field that he had solved Lajoie's weakness.

"What is it?" we asked.

"A curve ball rather slow," he told us.

"Larry came up with three on. Jacobson gave him that slow curve rather low. Larry swung. Away went the ball over Charley Jones' head. It hit the old center field fence out on Dunham avenue, bounded back and bit Jones on the head, knocking him down.

"Say," said Jones when he came in when the inning was over. "If when you pitch Larry's weakness to him and he hits it so hard it knocks an outfielder down after it hits the fence I'd hate to be playing center if you pitched one in his groove."

"Then there was a Hunter Hill. We had him on third base. The third sacker used to play a short left field when Nap Lajoie came to bat, and so did Hill the first few games he played against Cleveland. Larry of course took advantage of it and used to lay him down and beat it to first. This got Hill sore and he came to a point where he announced he had pitched Lajoie out of the big league. He pitched a curve ball that was intended to hurt.

He won't fool me any more," said Hill. "I have him pitched and you'll see me right on top of the plate by the time the ball leaves the bat."

He did it all right and Larry bounded one off his knee into the third base bleachers. Larry got a home run and Hill did not put a uniform on again for five weeks. In fact that blow he got practically put him out of the big league."

REMEMBERED THE GLASS BAR

McGovern Couldn't Recall Name of Saloon Where He Pawned Watch, But Thought of Fishes.

Terry McGovern was in St. Paul with a theatrical troupe along about 1901 or so. That was after the Irish terror had lost his title to Young Corbett. Terry was far from right, either mentally or physically.

McGovern didn't have much money to spend, in fact, he was treated somewhat in the manner of a child. It was while playing in St. Paul that the show was canceled and Terry taken to a sanitarium.

One afternoon McGovern and some hangers-on were drinking in a saloon in Robert street. Underneath the bar and running its entire length was a glass tank filled with fish.

Running out of funds, McGovern soaked his watch not in the tank, but with the owner of the place. In order that he and his newly made friends might imbibe more of the wares of the joint.

Some time after leaving St. Paul McGovern desired to redeem his watch and sent a letter to St. Paul, making inquiries about his timepiece. This is the way the letter was addressed: "To the Saloon Where the Fishes Are, St. Paul."

Billiard Champion Goes Through Movements of Athlete.

Secret of Willie Hoppe's Success as Billiard Player Attributed to Thorough Preparation---Must Love Sport.

In any game practice makes perfect but there remains one more essential point after the practice reaches the stage of perfection, and Hoppe adds his physical condition. To some this sounds silly, especially for a billiard star. We know a fighter takes a course of exercising punches the bag, skips the rope and otherwise trains himself to take a punch and give a punch. And would you believe that Willie Hoppe goes through almost the identical movements of a great athlete in preparing for a championship billiard match? It's a fact.

There you have Willie Hoppe's secret of success. We do not know if Willie is a model man of the rest that smokes, drinks, nor shows. But we have it from Robert Benjamin, manager of Willie Hoppe, that Willie does not lounge around various billiard halls with a cigarette in his mouth or play the cabaret home post the closing hours.

Hoppe attributes his success to his daily living," remarked Benjamin. "And I tell you he'll be the billiard champion until the day he announces his retirement. They'll never take the crown away from him. He's the manter of the field at present, still I do not believe he has reached the zenith of his career. He'll always find Hoppe practicing, and you'll always find Willie in perfect condition physically. Success for any champion usually causes him to indulge in many of the entertainments for him. But not Hoppe. Every morning it is a ten-mile walk, part of the way a trot, he takes his rubdown and bath, and then it is four or five hours on a billiard table. He gets the required sleep, and this, with his natural ability, makes Willie the king of 'em all."

Willie Hoppe is an example for the present-day cueists. We have stars of the cue in the field today tralling Hoppe and in every match they have run second to the champion. Why?

"You've got to love sport like a boy to win any championship," says Willie Hoppe.

Last year we blamed the war for the small tourist crowd and this year we are blaming ourselves.

There is no use denying a fact that there are only about half as many tourists in Clearwater as at the same period two years ago.

And there will be fewer still next season, and the season after, if we sit around jingling the dollars we made two years ago and hold on to them with a death grip, trusting to luck, wishing that something would happen.

Within a stone's throw of the city of Clearwater is the Belleview Hotel.

It never stops advertising.

It spends money to make money.

Last year, in spite of an eighty-five room addition, it turned away about $500,000 worth of business. The war did not hurt its business.

This year seventy-five per cent of the rooms were engaged by Oct. 1st, 1915, and although the hotel opened Jan. 7th it has turned away hundreds from its doors, because every room was either taken or reserved.

Many of these people, some of them worth millions upon millions of dollars, will never get accommodations at Clearwater so they could enjoy the society of the folks.

It is necessary for the people that get accommodations at Clearwater to be able to pay for their accommodations. They must have money to pay for their accommodations. They must have money to pay for their accommodations.

SCOUT HAD ALL THE "DOPE"

At the New York American League clubs offices is probably the most complete catalogue of "hot tips on the bushers" that is in possession of any baseball club. A big cabinet is filled with cards on which are written reports covering every promising player in the minor leagues last season.

So thorough were the New York scouts that they reported on every player who even was suspected of being a baseball player. These cards contain blanks rating the player as "fast," "medium" or "slow," "married" or "single," his "nationality," "habits" and "disposition." On the back of the cards are written "General remarks."

One scout was sent to the far West to look over a pitcher. Here's the way the scout was impressed: "Medium---very medium; married (poor woman's), nationality, Limburger, habits, supports several widows, disposition, disposition I recommend is to leave him there."

That's All. "I did not think you would associate with such a man. I shan't associate with him much. I am merely going to mark him."

GOODLY SUM FOR ROADS IN CONGRESS

CARRIES APPROPRIATION FOR QUARTER OF A MILLION FOR THE STATE

Washington, Feb. 4.—Highway improvement in the state of Florida will be given a big boost if the good roads bill, which has just passed the house of representatives by a majority of 281 to 81 becomes a law.

Under that bill the state of Florida is to receive from the Federal Treasury $220,000 per annum to aid in the construction and improvement of roads. Of this amount $65,000 is a specific annual appropriation, such as goes to every other state, and the balance represents Florida's pro rata, based on population and mileage of rural and star mail routes, the theory of the bill being federal aid in the construction and maintenance of rural post roads.

Florida, by the last census, had 222,619 inhabitants, or 82 per cent of the entire population of the United States. Its pro rata share of the $25,000,000 (earned by the bill, on the score of population is $89,708.

Of rural free delivery routes Florida has 243 with an aggregate of 5,546 miles. It has 176 star routes and their aggregate length is 1,716.59 miles. Of the total combined rural routes and star routes in the United States Florida has 60 per cent, which entitles the state to $65,640 per annum from the $25,000,000 good roads fund.

The Jacksonville Mystery Jacksonville, Feb. 1. Police authorities are still busy trying to clear up the mystery surrounding the robbing of the baggage office and the attempt to burn the union depot early Thursday morning.

While nothing definite has developed the police say they are certain they will solve the mystery of the case.

F. B. McNeely, assistant baggage agent, who was found bound and gagged on the station platform shortly after the fire was discovered is still held at the police headquarters. McNeely was told that he must remain at the police station until the case has been completely investigated. "McNeely has been repeatedly interrogated. He is not hooked in a cell, but is held in the baggage room. He is in a comfortable position. He is treated with every kindness and consideration, and Lieutenant W. B. Cahoon of the detective department, who has been with him almost constantly, has prepared for him anything he desires for his meals from downtown restaurants.

Heads of the police department say they regret the detention of McNeely seems necessary in connection with the investigation of the during crime. McNeely has, it is said, been connected with the baggage service here for the past two years. He is a young man and has relatives in North Carolina. Formerly he was in the same service in that state and also lived in West Virginia.

Open Dining Boom The new hotel Carnes has opened the dining room and with the competent chef and full corps of waiters is ready to serve the public. The Hotel Carnes is taking care of the crowds these days and with the many improvements being made is exciting most favorable comment from the travelling public. We expect great things from the Hotel Carnes in the next few months to come and every citizen of Sanford should assist the hotel in every way possible.
