Woman Of Year

Bettye Smith Honored For Community Service

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

The 1983 winner of the Roberta Gatchel Woman of the Year Award is Bettye Durham Smith.

The coveted award, which is annually presented by the Kiwanis Club of Sanford, was announced at the club luncheon Wednesday at the Sanford Civic Center.

Mrs. Smith was selected for the award for her dedicated service not only to the women's organizations to which she belongs, but also for her efforts for worthy causes such as the Salvation Army, Cancer Society, Mental Health, the Youth Council, aiding victims of abuse and as a school volunteer.

"It was a unanimous choice by the awards committee," said chairman Robert Daehn, "and probably the easiest decision we've ever had to make."

Mrs. Smith was nominated for the honor by Pankhurst and her nomination was seconded by the Woman's Club of Sanford.

Established in 1969 in memory of Sanford Kiwanis Club benefactress Roberta Gatchel who catered the club's luncheons for 20 years, the award is presented to the Sanford area woman who has done the most for her club and community. Each woman's club is given the opportunity to nominate one of its members. The final selection is made by a special committee of Kiwanians.

On her death, Mrs. Gatchel willed the residue of her estate ($27,000) to the Kiwanis Club to be used to aid underprivileged children.

In addition to a plaque, Mrs. Smith will receive her choice of a painting by former Woman of the Year Rosamond Chapman. The winner's banner will go to the nominating organization for the year, but because Pankhurst does not have its own building, it will be displayed in the Woman's Club building.

Mrs. Smith is the 1982-83 Pankhurst president, vice chairman of the Salvation Army Advisory Board, residential chairman of the 1983 American Cancer Society Sanford-Lake Mary Unit Crusade, is Sanford Woman's Club entertainment chairman and serves on the CIP (Community Improvement Program) Branch.

She teaches at Seminole Community

College and was a candidate for the Florida House of Representatives in 1982. She attended the University of Tennessee and received her BA degree in 1973 from the University of Central Florida. She received her master's degree in teaching from the University of Florida in 1977. She holds a Florida Teachers Certificate Rank 2 and is a certified Florida law enforcement officer.

She and her husband, Sanford physician Dr. Robert Smith, have lived in Sanford for 25 years. They have three sons.

In 1980, she was director of Victim Services for the Seminole County Sheriff's Department and has participated in various seminars on child and sexual abuse.

In 1980, she was chairman of the Seminole County Mental Health Citizens' Advisory Committee; president of the Seminole County Youth Planning Council; and organizer of the Seminole County Task Force on Sexual Abuse of Children.

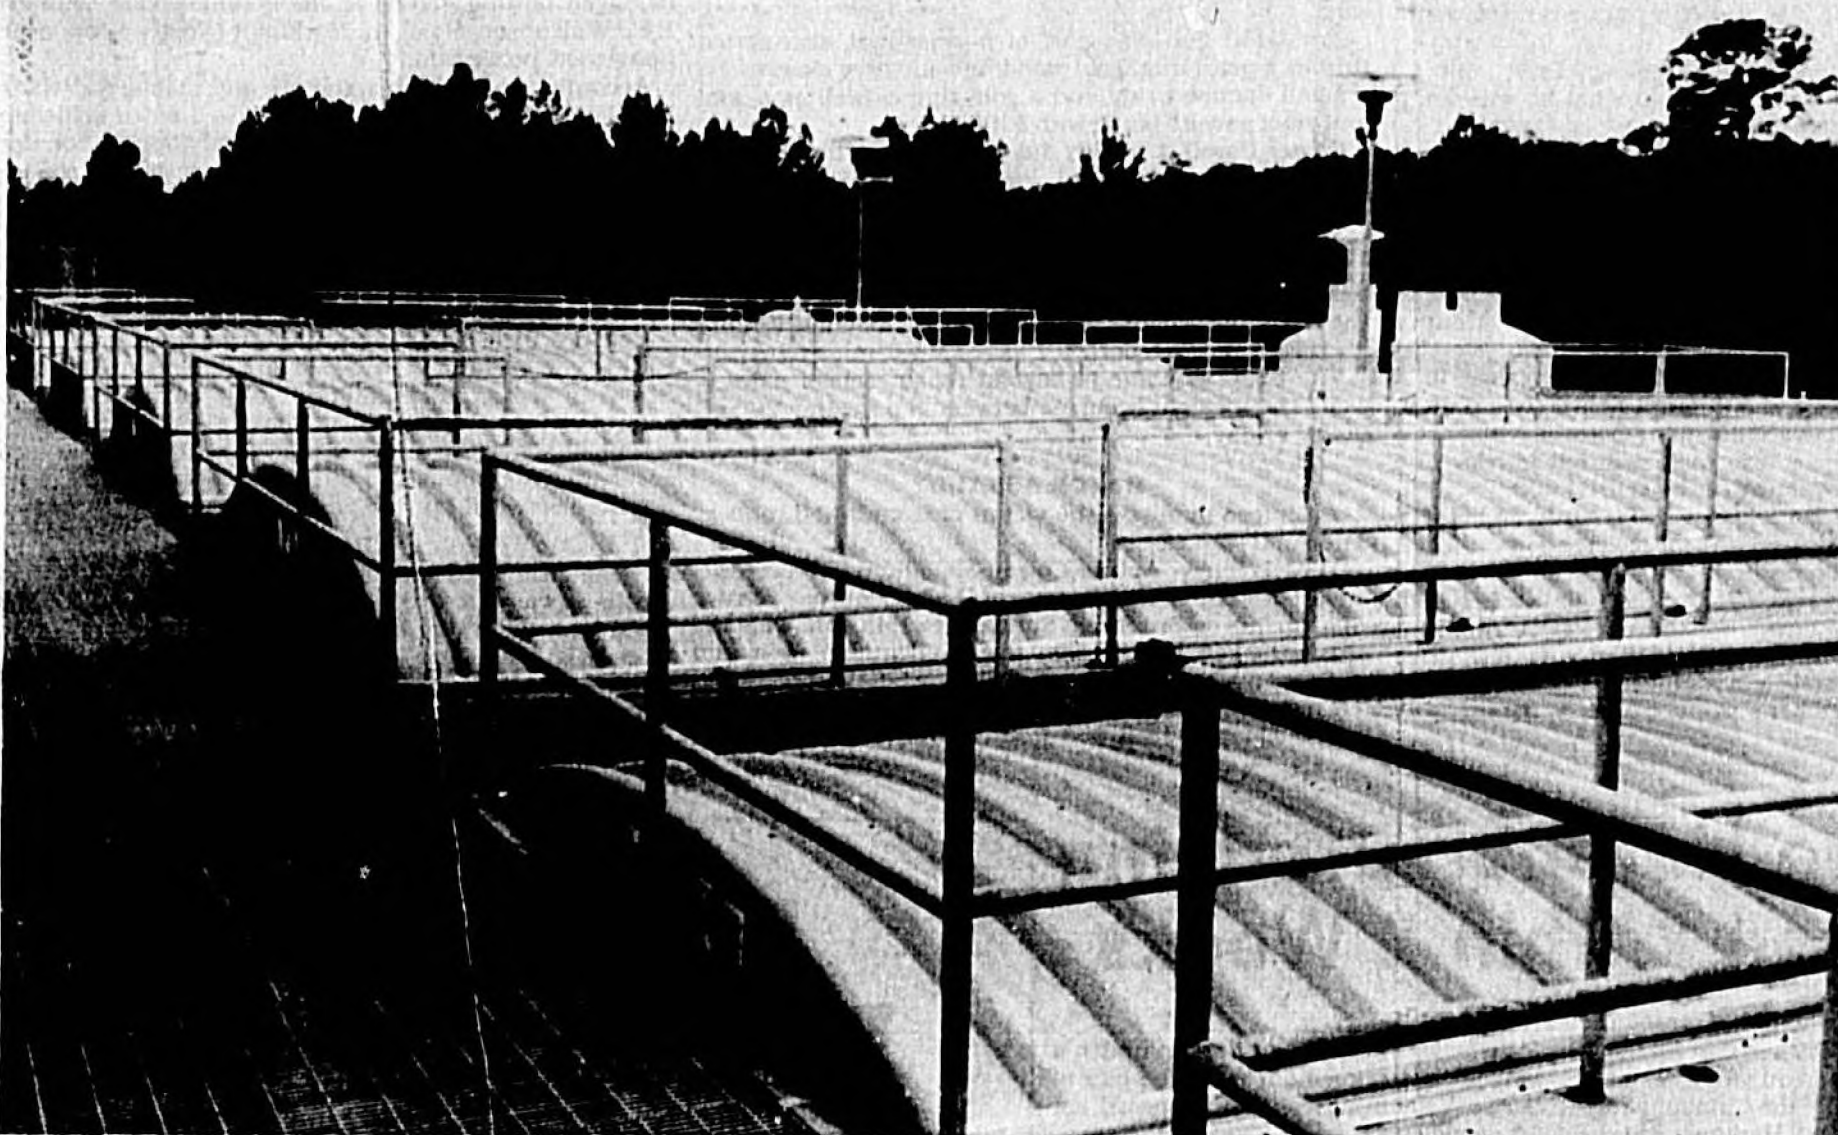

She is a past president of the Seminole Mutual Concert Association and past

Installation of caps was completed Tuesday on the primary sludge pond at the Iron Bridge Regional Sewage Treatment Plant near Oviedo. The synthetic caps cost Orlando officials more than $200,000. The caps are designed to eliminate the odor problems which have plagued area residents since the plant opened early in 1982. The foul smell of the sludge pond should be eliminated within a few days, according to Michael Hanlon of Orlando's public works department.

Deadline Is Met

Iron Bridge Sewage Smells Capped

By Michael Beha
Herald Staff Writer

It may be a few more days but neighbors of the Iron Bridge Regional Sewage Treatment Plant near Oviedo should soon notice the odors coming from the sewage plant have been eliminated, according to an Orlando official.

Michael Hanlon of Orlando's public works department said the city's commitment to have odor problems corrected by May 31 has been met. Neighbors of the plant have complained since the facility opened last year of foul odors coming from sludge ponds and dryers.

Hanlon said construction was completed Tuesday on caps which were placed atop the primary sludge ponds at the plant. Hanlon said sludge is now being transferred to the pond and odors coming from the sludge should be eliminated within a few days.

The cost of the caps was in excess of $200,000.

As soon as materials are received, work will begin to cover pipes which bang against each other, Hanlon said. The noise from the pipes has been another complaint of the residents.

Orlando operates the 24-million-gallon per day sewage treatment plant which serves the city, Orange and Seminole counties and municipalities within both counties.

At a public hearing in March, county commissioners delayed implementation of a plan to expand the plant's capacity by 4 million gallons by using water hyacinths to "polish" the effluent. The hyacinths will improve the quality of the effluent so that the additional 4 million gallons can be discharged without increasing the amount of nutrients discharged into the Little Econlockhatchee River.

Commissioners delayed until Dec. 13, a decision on the expansion to give Orlando officials time to come up with solutions to the odor and noise problems.

But they left open the possibility of moving up the hearing date if the problems at the plant are corrected.

Hanlon is trying to set up a meeting with county officials to discuss exactly that possibility. He's been trying to set a meeting of the county's Utility Steering Committee to iron out problems between the county and the city.

However, he's not going to push for the meeting unless the plan has a reasonable chance of approval.

"We're not in that big of a hurry, even though we all need that extra capacity," Hanlon said.

"We're not preparing to go before them until they give us an indication they're willing to grant the amendment to our special exception," he said. "We feel we've held up our end of the bargain by installing the odor and noise controls."

Gas Tax Opposed By Cities

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

Despite the fact that most of Seminole County's city commissions or city councils haven't formally voted on whether the county should impose a 4 cent per gallon gasoline tax, the consensus is negative.

This is the message received by County Commission Chairman Sandra Glenn at the Wednesday night meeting in Winter Springs of the Council of Local Governments in Seminole County.

Mrs. Glenn said she will take the word back to her fellow commissioners, who will make the final decision on whether to impose the tax and, if so, how much.

"We really need a concrete proposal we can work for or against," said Sanford City Commissioner Eddie Keith.

Mrs. Glenn, who headed a team which included County Engineer Bill Bush and County Administrator T. Duncan Rose in visits to each of the cities, admitted that she and Commissioners Bob Sturm and Barbara Christensen have agreed "to look at a gas tax." She added Commissioner Bill Kirchhoff has said he hasn't seen a proposal on the tax that he could support and Commissioner Robert G. "Bud" Feather has said he could support a tax only if certain projects were included.

Those projects Feather outlined in letters to the cities included buying right-of-way for a cloverleaf intersection for Lake Mary Boulevard and Interstate 4; right-of-way for Center Street in Altamonte Springs which has been talked about for years as a way to divert traffic from State Road 436, or providing for an overpass at Red Bug Road and SR 436. None of these projects are included in the county's list of 14 priorities which would be accomplished with revenues from a new gas tax.

In their talks with city officials, Mrs. Glenn and her team had pointed to using resulting revenues from the tax to buy right-of-way, provide drainage and to widen critical segments in several roads included in a 14 item priority list.

Her revelation concerning Kirchhoff and Feather's positions made it clear that the proponents of the tax may not have the votes necessary to approve more than a 2 cent gas tax. The state law authorizing counties to levy the tax requires a simple majority of three to approve 2 cents in tax and an extraordinary majority of four to approve a third and fourth cent.

To Keith's complaint concerning a concrete proposal, Mrs. Glenn said, "The proposal is about as concrete as you can get. I do not see that the commission is going to come back with another proposal. You've got as concrete a proposal as you are going to get."

Only two city governing bodies have voted on the issue.

Winter Springs City Commissioner Burley "Buck" Adkins said his City Commission voted to oppose adding a new gas tax.

While Keith said the Sanford City Commission some weeks ago voted to endorse Mrs. Glenn's original proposal that a 3 cent tax be imposed to be split 1 cent for the cities, 1 cent for the unincorporated areas and 1 cent for the county, he added the matter has not been discussed since. Keith added his personal opinion is that levying the gas tax "will raise the price of gasoline and hurt the working person who has to use his car to go back and forth to work."

Mrs. Glenn countered that levying four cents additional tax would cost the average motorist about $1 more per week or $52 per year. Keith contended, however, that "all taxes drive the price of gasoline up further" and have far reaching effects including turning Americans away from American made cars to foreign made economy cars.

CFR Hospital Observes First Anniversary

Today, June 2, marks the first anniversary of the opening of the $26 million Central Florida Regional Hospital, labeled by Jack Horner of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce as "the best thing that has happened to Sanford since Seminole Community College was built."

The hospital has drawn other construction. So far, construction of a radiation therapy clinic and physicians' offices totaling more than $9 million have been built adjacent to the hospital.

Hospital Administrator James Tesar said there has been a 10.3 percent increase in the number of patients at the hospital during the first three months of 1983. Tesar said the second quarter of 1983 should reflect a 16 percent increase over the same period a year ago.

Tesar said the Hospital Corporation of America affiliate has been a catalyst for improved health care through the addition of 16 physicians to the medical staff in six specialized areas. He said five new services made possible through acquisition of state of the art equipment has also increased the level of care at the hospital. In addition to CT scanning, the hospital also has modern heart and brain recording equipment. Radiation therapy is available at the Central Florida Radiation Therapy Center just south of the hospital.

The brick and mortar complex is tangible evidence, Tesar said, of growth in the Sanford area. Additionally, funds spent so far are from the private sector and are on the county tax rolls.

The hospital has also made an investment in human resources, Tesar said. The payroll has increased to $8.3 million annually, up more than $2 million from last year. The hospital employs 626 people.

The nursing staff has increased from 278 in January 1982 to 346 in January 1983. Most of that increase is an increase in full-time registered nurses. The hospital now has 259 full-time nurses.

The hospital has also instituted classes in coping for cancer patients and their families as well as a nutritional fair during March.

Looking over the accomplishments of the hospital during the past year, Tesar said, "We have come a long way. Our employees are more attuned to our patients and their needs. As for escalating costs, an overriding concern, I believe our efficiency as managers is paramount. Management ability and techniques will make the difference there."

Tesar said the hospital has "attempted to meet the community's expectations, we have kept faith with our promises, but we will continue to refine our program and services. I don't want the people to think we are through improving."

Reagan Discusses New Nuclear Arms Proposal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan, having instructed arms negotiator Edward Rowny to deal with the Soviets in good faith, heads for a four-day Camp David vacation today to rest up from the rigors of the Williamsburg summit and other global problems.

Reagan touched base with Rowny Wednesday to discuss a revised proposal the U.S. will lay on the table at Geneva next week when the Strategic Arms Reduction Talks resume.

Before giving Rowny his final marching orders, Reagan will meet the National Security Council to formulate a modified arms offer to the Soviets.

The president said the new proposal will conform to the recommendations of the MX Commission, headed by former national security affairs adviser Brent Scowcroft. The blue ribbon panel urged that warheads instead of missile launchers be counted in arms negotiations, and that the United States move toward development of a smaller, single-warhead weapon.

These changes would require revision of the limit on launchers of 850, proposed previously by the United States.

Stone Faces Tough Job

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Richard Stone begins his mission to El Salvador today, promoting negotiations to end the country's political and military violence, but only under terms the guerrillas reject — democratic elections.

Secretary of State George Shultz says the administration will not accept negotiations that allow the leftist guerrillas to "shoot their way into the government," or talks that involve "power sharing" without elections.

The guerrillas argue they cannot enter the negotiations or election process because of reprisals by rightist forces. With a military stalemate at hand in El Salvador, the hard line being followed in Washington and the guerrillas' distrust make Stone's mission a test of his negotiating abilities.

Stone, a conservative Democrat who served one term in the Senate from Florida, was sworn in Wednesday as President Reagan's special ambassador to Central America, although his mission will focus on El Salvador.

President Reagan agreed to appoint the special negotiator for the region as a condition set by Rep. Clarence Long, D-Md., the chairman of a House Appropriations subcommittee, to release $30 million in military aid for El Salvador.

WEATHER

NATIONAL REPORT: National Guardsmen with bulldozers and children with garden hoses joined ranks today to fight a 30-foot wall of mud that forced 1,100 people from their homes in Bountiful, Utah. Flooding from melted snow spread as far east as Nebraska, out of the people evacuated in Bountiful, and another 1,000 who had to flee new slides in nearby Farmington Wednesday, were back in their homes by Wednesday night — but poised to flee again. Ogden residents piled sandbags to protect their homes against the rising waters of the Weber River. Utah Gov. Scott Matheson called National Guardsmen back from summer camp in Colorado to help fight the "unimaginable" destruction in his flood- and mud-battered state. Hundreds of homes have been damaged or destroyed since Monday by mud, trees and debris. Thunderstorms that drenched the flooding Great Basin Wednesday night moved into the central Plains today. Mountain snowmelt caused flooding all the way to the high Plains of southwest Nebraska, where several roads were under water along Lodgepole Creek. Cooler temperatures and lesser winds helped firefighters from six states control a timber blaze that destroyed 405 acres in Idaho's rugged Panhandle National Forest. A Boise, Idaho teenager was killed and two of his friends were injured Wednesday when lightning struck them at a reservoir near Cascade, Idaho. Flooded streams across Colorado were closed to boats and rafts Wednesday after five people were dumped into the icy Las Animas River near Durango. All survived. So far floods and mudslides in the West have killed three people and injured at least 13.

AREA FORECAST: Partly cloudy today. Highs around 90. Light easterly wind. Tonight and Friday partly cloudy. Lows in the low 70s. Highs mostly low 90s.

BOATING FORECAST: St. Augustine to Jupiter Inlet out 50 miles — Wind easterly around 10 knots through Friday. Seas 3 feet or less. Partly cloudy.

S&L Robbery Suspect Sought In Longwood Heist

The FBI and Seminole County Sheriff's Department have released a picture of a man suspected of robbing a Longwood savings and loan.

The robber, described as dirty and unshaven, was last seen running east through Albertson's parking lot in the Springs Plaza seconds after the 10:30 a.m. Tuesday robbery of Freedom Savings at State Road 434 and Montgomery Road. Police believe the bandit was heading toward Interstate 4.

Seminole County deputies report the man approached the window of a 22-year-old teller and demanded she put money in a black bag. He said he was armed although no weapon was displayed.

After having him repeat that it was a hold-up, the teller placed an undetermined amount of cash in the bag and the robber fled out the front door.

An earlier report that he turned and left without receiving any money was in error.

The FBI is seeking a white male described as approximately 25 years of age, 5-feet-2 and 135 pounds. The robber was further described as having deep sunken dark brown eyes. At the time of the holdup, he was wearing a red and white plaid shirt and dark pants.

Anyone with any information concerning the robbery or suspect should contact Seminole County investigator Jack Cash, 322-5115.

This is the man the FBI and Seminole County investigators are seeking in connection with the robbery of a Longwood savings and loan.

Oviedo Hitchhiker, 20, Raped At Gunpoint

A 20-year-old Oviedo woman was raped at gunpoint in rural Seminole County early Wednesday morning.

The victim told Seminole County sheriff's deputies that she was walking east on Red Bug Road at Howell Creek about 12:35 a.m. when she was picked up by a man driving an older model Volkswagen. The man initially told her his name was Matthew and he was enroute to Cocoa.

After a while, the man stopped at Mickler Road, police said, produced a small chrome-plated handgun and drove down a dirt road off Florida Avenue where the woman was forced to perform sex.

He then drove to a yellow barn on State Road 419, one half mile west of Wagoner Curve, where the victim was raped.

Police said the man then drove to Florida Avenue and Elm Street and forced the victim out of the car and drove away.

SURPRISE

A 22-year-old Casselberry woman came home to her apartment just after 5 p.m. Tuesday and found a man in her kitchen holding her cassette tape case and some jewelry.

Sandra Kay Masten, 101 Georgetown Drive, Apt. C, told police she then asked the man what he was doing there and he said he was a neighbor.

Not recognizing the man, Ms. Masten went out to call police. But before she could find a phone she saw a screen had been removed from her kitchen window. Assuming the intruder had left via the window, she returned to her apartment to call police.

GUNS STOLEN

Thieves netted guns in three Seminole County burglaries.

A loaded Beretta .25-caliber pistol was taken in a burglary of the Claude H. Wolfe residence, 204 O'Brien Road, Fern Park, between 6 p.m. Saturday and 2:08 p.m. Monday. Thieves also took assorted jewelry and money bringing the value of the heist to $4,000.

Also taken was a $995 RCA video recorder, $2,500 in cash from a dresser drawer and the jewelry.

Police theorize the crime may have been committed by a juvenile who could squeeze through a 6 to 8-inch opening in a rear window.

While David Kennedy took a 15-minute test drive Tuesday, someone stole a .38-caliber Derringer from his car parked at Fletcher's Auto Sales, U.S. Highway 17-92, Longwood.

Kennedy, of 101 Partridge Circle, Winter Springs.

parked his car at the lot at noon and returned just 15 minutes later. The gun was gone.

Kennedy told police he left the car keys in the ignition but the gun was in the glove box which was locked.

He said he made no other stops without locking the car before he noticed the $80 gun was missing.

A gold-plated Smith and Wesson .357-magnum and its black leather police-style holster were taken in a burglary at 436 E. Oakhurst Street, Altamonte Springs, between 2 p.m. May 24 and 10:15 a.m. Monday, police said.

The $450 gun was part of a heist that also netted thieves a pearl ring, gold wedding band, two class rings, a small diamond ring and a gold ring as well as a gold and onyx novelty bottle with $100 in it.

Owner Carol J. Smith did not estimate the value of the rings.

UNDER THE ROCKS

An ice machine at Lake Brantley High School was destroyed by vandals who dropped large rocks on it from the top of the school's stadium stands, Seminole County sheriff's deputies report.

The $530 machine is beyond repair, school officials said. The incident occurred between 5 p.m. May 20 and 9 a.m. Friday.

RAZOR ASSAULT

A Sanford man was the victim of assault and robbery late Sunday, police said.

Ford Freney, Apt. 6, Cowan Moughton Terrace, was reportedly in a dice game at Lake Monroe Terrace apartments on 3rd Street Sunday at 11:45 a.m. when he was attacked by three to five unidentified men and suffered a razor cut to the chest.

Freney said after the men jumped him they grabbed his wallet, removed $68 from it and threw it back at him.

Monroe Harbour Dredging Expected Within 2 Weeks

Final passage by both houses of the Florida Legislature of a corrected legal description could mean that a long-awaited state permit for "maintenance dredging" at Monroe Harbour will be granted.

Charles Volk, owner-operator of Monroe Harbour, said special legislation correcting a legal description of the city-owned Monroe Isle property could be the final detail to encourage the state Department of Environmental Regulation to issue the permit.

The property on which the marina stands, the lake bottom, was given to the city of Sanford by special legislative act several years ago. In recent months, the city found, however, that the "eastern most break water" was excluded from the state land grant via an error in the legal description.

The Seminole Legislative delegation agreed to sponsor a bill in the Legislature to correct the legal description and that bill passed the House of Representatives some weeks ago and was approved by the Senate last week.

Volk, who leases the harbor under a long-term arrangement from the city of Sanford, said passage of the special act "is good news."

He said he expects to receive the dredging permit from DER within the next two weeks.

Once the permit is issued, Volk said that he will begin the dredging around in the harbor that plagued the cruise ship "Bay Queen" while it operated there. The ship got stuck on a sandbar at least twice.

Cost of dredging the harbor and channels out to the St. Johns River to remove silt that has accumulated is estimated at $100,000. The project also includes extending the sea wall. The city has agreed to back Volk's loan for the work, but probably would not be held liable for repayment.

At the same time, Volk is planning to spend about $400,000 to build 82 more slips for boats at the harbor, bringing the total number of slips to about 200.

SCC Offers Analysis Class

The Office of Community Instructional Services at Seminole Community College will offer a Personal Growth and Transactional Analysis Class beginning June 15. Class will meet for 10 consecutive Wednesday evenings from 7 to 10 p.m.

According to an SCC spokesman, the class is designed to give people insight into their behavior. It provides an opportunity for individuals to change their lives by taking responsibility for themselves and accepting a position of

"I'm okay — you're okay!"

The class will teach transactional analysis theory with time for discussion to reinforce the course content. This class will deal with topics such as: communication and structure of time. The textbook used is "Born to Win."

The instructors for this class are Peter and Margaret Gray who are members of the Central Florida Study Group and have taken advanced training with Dr. Kenneth Sowers, former director of the Mental Health Association.

SCC is currently offering an "Effective Parenting" class. Class meets for five consecutive Wednesday evenings from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Location is SCC Adult Education Campus, Building 8. There is no charge.

All parents interested in discovering effective ways to raise their children should attend. Topics will include understanding your child's behavior, developing a method of discipline that encourages the child and develops responsibility, and developing a personal plan for improving parenting skills.

For additional information, call the office of Community Instructional Services at SCC, 323-1450, ext. 304.

Senate OKs Prison Reform Bill

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Legislation that may make Florida's corrections system one of the most progressive in the country is on its way to Gov. Bob Graham.

The Senate completed legislative approval Wednesday of a bill intended to eliminate prison overcrowding by jailing only dangerous criminals and putting non-violent criminals in community-based programs.

It accepted some minor amendments to the bill made by the House earlier this week then passed it 32-3.

The House and Senate reached agreement recently on a related proposal establishing guidelines for judges to follow in handing out sentences and eliminating parole as it currently exists.

The two proposals together make a fundamental change in the criminal justice system that has been advocated by prison reform groups for years — mainly for economic reasons rather than new philosophical thinking.

Florida's prison population has been growing so fast that the Legislature can't fund and the Department of Corrections can't build prisons fast enough to keep up.

The result has been severe overcrowding and an order from a now deceased federal judge that could force the state to release 4,000 prison inmates in two years.

"This is a piece of legislation that is among the most progressive in the nation," said Dunedin Sen. Gerald Rehm, chief Senate sponsor of the proposal.

"We're trying to move the non-violent criminals out of prison," says Sen. Mattox Hair of Jacksonville, who played a key role in development of the two criminal justice bills. "We have a lot of people in prison who ought not to be there. We're trying to get them out and into what we're calling community control programs."

"Instead of locking them up and throwing the key away, regardless of the offense, which really has been the philosophy over the years, we're saying there has got to be a reasonable limit on what the state can afford to spend," Hair said.

There are over 27,000 inmates in state prisons now and the population is going to rise to over 31,000 in four years if it continues to grow at the present rate. The state must either do something different or build nearly $250 million in new prison space.

The prison bill, based on recommendations by a prison overcrowding task force established by Graham last year, gives the state power to locate a prison over the objection of city and county officials because some new prisons will continue to be required.

But it also establishes a policy on what the prison system population ought to be in relation to the state's population and establishes programs to meet that policy, including a plan for emergency release of selected prisoners when the prison system reaches a critical overcrowding point.

The plan increases the time off for good behavior offenders can earn, establishes a new form of probation that will include 24-hour supervision, reduces substantially the number of cases to be handled by state parole officers.

The proposal abolishes the Parole and Probation Commission in 1987, although the Legislature is likely to decide before that time to continue the agency, but reduce its size and change its duties because traditional parole will be eliminated through the sentencing guidelines.

UF Students Breaking Law By Misusing Computers

GAINESVILLE (UPI) — Some University of Florida students are unknowingly breaking the law by unauthorized use of computer systems, according to university administrators.

Mike Rollo, student judicial affairs director at the university, said student abuse of the computer systems has been increasing with the abuse ranging from tampering with class grades to comparing homework by swapping computer account numbers.

Such use of the computers at the university is a felony under state law, but so far officials have chosen not to prosecute the few who have been caught, electing instead to discipline them.

"Over half of the people I've dealt with for computer fraud have been suspended from school from a semester to a year," Rollo said.

Only 10 to 12 people have been caught misusing computers at the university during the past three years, but Rollo said there probably are many more than administrators know about.

FLORIDA

IN BRIEF

Split City Council Urges Citizens To Purchase Guns

OAKLAND PARK (UPI) — After three hours of heated debate, the City Council has voted 3-2 to approve a resolution encouraging all adult citizens to buy guns and learn how to use them.

The stronger of two anti-gun control propositions was passed at the meeting Wednesday night. Supporters at first had proposed a law demanding that all residents own guns, but legal advisers said that would be illegal and the proposed ordinance was turned into a resolution.

The resolution said the city "recognize the rights of individuals to keep and bear arms," and that "every citizen, especially heads of households, has the responsibility to possess firearms."

Bank Robber Kills Self

ORLANDO (UPI) — Authorities say a 44-year-old Vietnam veteran so distraught over money problems he held up a savings and loan association, shot and killed himself after sheriff's deputies and fatigue-clad SWAT teams surrounded his house.

Police said Jimmie Paul Burris, who had a history of alcoholism, was traced to his home by a description of his car after the holdup at the Pioneer Federal Savings & Loan and police moved in.

Orange County Sheriff Lawson Lamar said Burris apparently shot himself shortly after deputies whisked his wife Laura and son Michael out of the house about 1½ hours after the holdup early Wednesday afternoon.

Kidnapping A Hoax

MIAMI (UPI) — A mother who told authorities that her 2-year-old daughter was kidnapped actually made up the story to stop her husband from running off with another woman, police said.

Metro-Dade County detectives — who worked around the clock for nearly four days to find 2-year-old Mitchell Gallego — said the kidnapping never really occurred.

The child's mother, Isabel Gallego, 28, was arrested Tuesday and charged with perjury and filing a false police report. She was released from the Dade Women's Annex after posting $1,500 bond and will be arraigned June 21. She could be fined and sentenced to a year in jail if convicted.

Professor: Teachers Not Taught How To Instruct Racially-Mixed Classes

GAINESVILLE (UPI) — A University of Florida professor says the nation's school systems have done a good job in achieving racial balance but teacher training is still a critical problem.

Dr. Roderick McDavis, who testified in the recent Tampa trial on the state's functional literacy test, said teachers have not been taught properly to teach racially mixed classes.

He said the problem is so great, black youngsters may have been better off educationally before the Supreme Court ordered schools to desegregate in the mid 1950s.

He said teachers expect less from black students, exploit black athletes and even call black students by derogatory names.

"When you're in college, you can hear about the difficulties in integrated schools but until you've worked in integrated schools, it doesn't really hit you," McDavis said.

As a youngster, McDavis attended an all-black school in Dayton, Ohio, until a desegregation program was launched when he was in seventh grade.

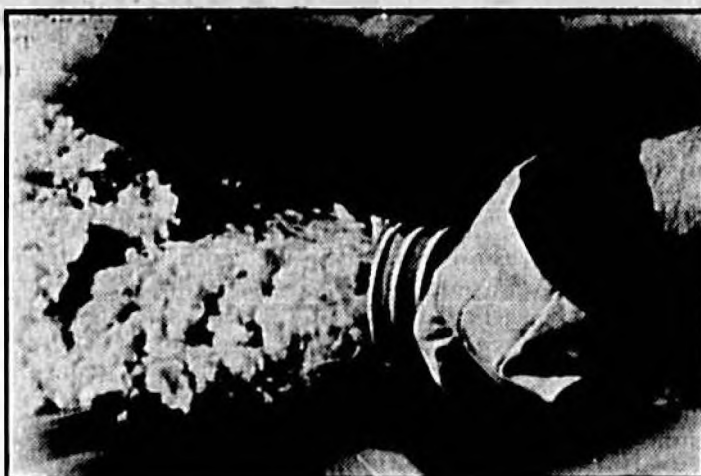

"There is a sense of security that many minority children can develop in a segregated school that they can't develop in a predominantly white school," he said.

"But the question is, is it more important for them to develop that security than to experience reality?" McDavis asked.

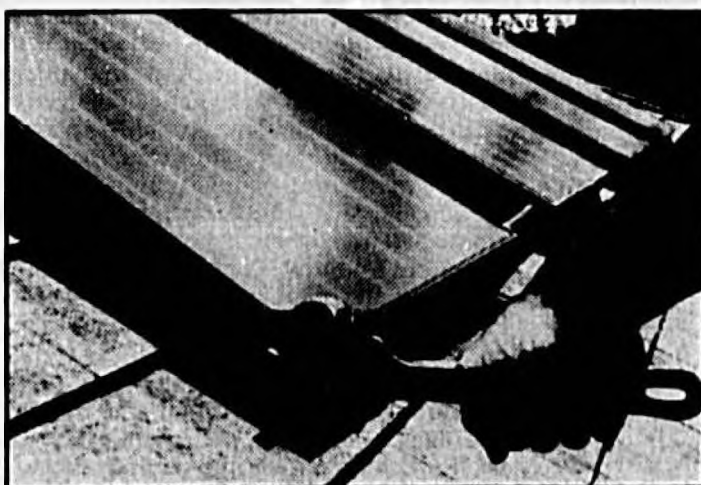

Black parents agree that integration has been a mixed blessing, McDavis said.

"The biggest complaint I hear from black parents about integration is that they feel their children are not being adequately prepared by some white teachers," McDavis said.

FPL will actually pay you to conserve electricity four ways:

Our Cooling & Heating Incentive. FPL will pay up to several hundred dollars towards the cost of having an older, inefficient air conditioning system or heat pump replaced with a qualifying high efficiency system.

Our Ceiling Insulation Incentive. FPL will pay up to $300 towards the cost of having ceiling insulation installed.

Our Water Heating Incentive. FPL will pay up to several hundred dollars towards the cost of having an inefficient water heater modified or replaced with a solar water heater, water heating heat pump or heat recovery system.

Our Solar Film Incentive. FPL will pay up to $150 towards the cost of having solar-reflective film installed.

To qualify for the last three incentives, work must first be recommended by an FPL Home Energy Audit.

Will everyone benefit from Watt-Wise™ incentives?

Yes. This program benefits you and all our customers. Because it costs less than the oil necessary to generate the extra electricity used by inefficient homes.

We're working hard at being the kind of power company you want.

Court Upholds Liberty And Law

In a statement on the U.S. Supreme Court's 8-1 decision that racially discriminatory private schools are not entitled to federal tax exemptions, Attorney General William French Smith declared that the decision "resolves a difficult question."

It is a question that should not have reached the Supreme Court at all. President Reagan, who acknowledged that he was "the originator of the whole thing," reversed a policy that the Internal Revenue Service had been following for a dozen years. That policy, as Chief Justice Warren E. Burger pointed out in his majority decision, had been upheld by "actions of Congress since 1970 that leave no doubt that the IRS reached the correct conclusion in exercising its authority."

If Mr. Reagan's reason was the one he gave — that the policy had "no basis in law" — it is difficult to understand why he did not consult the professionals of the Department of Justice. 200 of whom signed a letter, after his order, taking exactly the opposite view. Instead, he followed the urging of the likes of Rep. Trent Lott, R-Miss., Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., and the political geniuses in the White House entourage who wanted to make points with the religious right.

Is the Supreme Court's decision, as a leading fundamentalist spokesman, the Moral Majority's Rev. Jerry Falwell, declared, "a blow against religious liberty?" Is it true that, the president of Bob Jones University of Greenville, S.C., one of the institutions involved in the case, told students there, "Our nation from this day forward is no better than Russia insofar as expecting the blessing of God is concerned" and that "you no longer live in a nation that is religiously free?"

As to the blessings of God, that has to be determined by a Higher Authority, but as to the blessings of liberty, the authority of the Supreme Court has reinforced them.

Those whose religious faith holds that some races are inferior to others (and where in the Old Testament can they get such an un-Christian idea?) can go on believing what they wish. "This court," Burger declared, "has long held the free exercise clause of the First Amendment an absolute prohibition against governmental regulation of religious beliefs."

Indeed, those who wish to discriminate in private schools may go on doing so. What the court has ruled is simply that "racial discrimination in education violates a most fundamental public policy, as well as rights of individuals," and that those who practice it cannot expect to be subsidized by the taxpayers.

When It Wants To

It took less than 35 minutes for the House of Representatives to debate whether to raise the debt ceiling of the U.S. government. Then, avoiding the embarrassment of a roll-call vote, the House shouted approval of a bill to raise the federal debt ceiling from $1,290 trillion to $1,389 trillion. House Speaker Tip O'Neill ran through the formalities so quickly that a TV film of the event resembled an old-time movie where the action is speeded up.

This wasn't the case last year when the House debated the amendment to require Congress to balance the budget. Then, congressman after congressman got up and explained to their constituents how the federal debt was ruining the country and how the profligate government must be reined in and made to pay its debts.

This goes to prove that when Congress doesn't want to do something, it wastes days explaining why it shouldn't and can't do it. But when Congress wants to act and not to talk, it can move like greased lightning.

BERRY'S WORLD

"I have decided to give up materialistic ideas. I'll need your moral and financial support, of course..."

By Jane Casselberry

This country has been hit by one natural disaster after another this past year including hail and tornado damage in Seminole and Orange counties. As always, the American Red Cross was there to help, but the cost has been staggering — more than $33 million. A sum that has wiped out disaster funds.

"The Red Cross will continue to meet the needs of disaster victims, but we urgently need your help," says Donald R. Barnes, director of marketing and financial development for the Central Florida Chapter.

Checks for the Emergency Disaster Relief may be sent to the Central Florida Chapter of the American Red Cross, P.O. Box 6726, Orlando, FL 32803 earmarked Disaster Fund.

Now that Memorial Day has come and gone, can the Fourth of July be far behind? Plans are already underway for Sanford's annual family celebration to be held beginning at 11 a.m., Monday, July 4 in Fort Mellon Park. The day's events will be capped off with a fabulous fireworks display on the lakefront at about 9 p.m. The pyrotechnics always attract a big crowd, but fireworks cost money, and this year's display has a $3,000 price tag, according to Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce President Jack Horner, chairman of the Fourth of July festivities.

A special account has been set up for the fireworks and donations are needed from individuals, businesses, and organizations. Contributions designated for the Fourth of July Fireworks Fund may be sent to P.O. Drawer CC, Sanford, FL 32771. The Over 50 Club was the first group to contribute this year.

Clubs and organizations with booths at the festivities contribute a portion of their receipts to the fireworks fund with the rest going to the group's own projects. Any organization interested in taking part may call the chamber office at 322-2212 for information and date of next planning meeting.

Have you noticed how many more folks seem to be reaching the age of 100 and over these days and enjoying it? When you see alert and lively gentlemen such as Jimmy Birkenmeyer of Casselberry, thought to be the nation's oldest municipal employee, and his friend, August Wieboldt, both of whom celebrated their 100th birthday recently, it makes you wonder if they don't have a private supply of water from the Fountain of Youth.

It reminds me of the late Billy Bowlegs, who at 104 was the oldest living Seminole Indian when Chief Billy Osceola took us to meet him about 15 years ago. Billy lived alone in an oak hammock in the middle of a prairie miles from the nearest neighbor.

When we arrived at his camp he was lying on a wooden door taking a nap. He apologized for having been asleep but explained he had a cold. He ordinarily walked about 8 miles a day to purchase a soft drink at the nearest store.

ANTHONY HARRIGAN

Stop Waste, Spending

Writing in the 19th century, Lord Macaulay wrote that the U.S. Constitution "is all sail and no anchor." One is reminded of this by the depressing debate over the federal budget.

The founding fathers, who drafted the Constitution thought of the U.S. Senate as a steady force in the nation's legislative system. With six-year terms, the senators weren't supposed to yield to popular pressure. Unfortunately, it hasn't worked out that way in modern times. It isn't working out that way in the budget debate. A sizable number of senators are as determined as their colleagues in the House to re-start spending programs.

The latest proposal, which could become a massive entitlement program, calls for federal assistance to persons who may lose their homes in foreclosure proceedings. Given enough time, this program could become one in which Uncle Sam makes the mortgage payments for millions of citizens. Remember: food stamps started on a small scale.

The Senate, which is supposed to be responsible, wants to spend billions of dollars more on domestic programs than President Reagan has recommended. And it has no intention of introducing the cost-cutting measures which have been recommended.

The President's Private Sector Survey on Cost Control, headed by J. Peter Grace, chairman of W.R. Grace & Co., has cited potential savings in excess of $30 billion. Mr. Grace told a news conference: "The waste down here is unbelievable. It's over $100 billion a year."

In discussing wasteful federal spending, Mr. Grace said that the government has no bottom line philosophy at all. "A business has to survive," he said. "It has to make some money, at least break even, otherwise it goes out of existence. The government has no survival situation at all. Survival in government is to spend more."

The unhappy truth is that a very large number of congressmen have reelection as their primary goal. Right now, they are worrying about 1984. They are planning to spend their way back into office by catering to every special interest and pressure group. The purse strings of the nation are in the hands of people who don't put the national interest first. Obviously, this is a very dangerous situation for the United States.

During the Eisenhower administration, the United States had a balanced budget. For some years, the federal deficits were on a modest scale. Now, we are faced with deficits in the $200 billion range. This is a surefire prescription for renewed inflation, a massive credit crunch and depression.

JACK ANDERSON

New Book Reveals Kissinger's Past

WASHINGTON — The indefatigable investigative reporter Seymour Hersh has been rummaging in Henry Kissinger's closet for four years and has rattled loose some fascinating skeletons.

Hersh's findings can soon be read in a new book, "The Price of Power." From an advance copy, here are some devastating examples of Kissinger at work:

NUCLEAR TAMPERING: Richard Nixon and Henry Kissinger tampered with the safety catch on the nuclear trigger, Hersh alleges. Their action was cynical; they did it in secret; and they lied about it to the American people.

They began in March 1969, by dropping tons of bombs on neutral Cambodia, without the advice and consent of Congress. They were determined to conceal the bombings from Congress, the press and the public. "Kissinger's overwhelming concern was secrecy," Hersh writes.

Perhaps worse, Kissinger "insisted that the missions had to be conducted without the knowledge of the Strategic Air Command's normal command and control system... (and) wanted the Cambodian bombing arranged so that crew members aboard the B-52s would not know they were bombing Cambodia," Hersh reveals.

So an Air Force colonel, Ray B. Sitton, worked out a complex system of last-minute target changes controlled by radar personnel on the ground. Although it was impossible to fool the B-52 crews, they were debriefed after each mission as if they had dropped the bombs on South Vietnam.

Concludes Hersh: "Nixon and Kissinger were casually tampering with the command and control system of America's nuclear deterrent." — the Strategic Air Command's B-52s — "a system necessarily under constant high-level analysis to prevent accidents or unauthorized nuclear bombings." In effect, they were writing a primer for any loony general who might contrive a "Dr. Strangelove" scenario.

MIRV MISTAKE: In mid-1969, the Soviets ran a series of missile tests in the Pacific. The Pentagon concluded, wrongly, that the Russians had tested a MIRV — that is, a "multiple, independently targeted re-entry vehicle" — in other words, a missile whose several warheads could be steered to separate targets.

What they had actually tested, it turned out, was merely a MRV — a missile capable only of scattering its multiple warheads like a shotgun blast in the same general area. But it suited Kissinger and Nixon to portray the Soviets as bogymen and their MRV as the more menacing MIRV.

The CIA refused, however, to alter its assessment of the MRV. This integrity was treated by Kissinger and Nixon as "disloyalty." Their response was to reduce the CIA's influence and to demand that raw intelligence be turned over to Kissinger for interpretation.

Even after the truth became indisputable about the Soviets' phantom MIRV, Kissinger and Nixon went ahead as if the Russians in fact had such a sophisticated weapon, and insisted on making this fantasy a matter of U.S. policy.

KISSINGER'S KISSINGER: Henry Kissinger's dealing with Alexander Haig, a young, ambitious colonel wise in the ways of Washington, began as a master-servant relationship. Hersh quotes a Kissinger aide at the National Security Council as describing it this way:

"Haig moved in on Henry and he moved in from the very beginning. First of all, he was Henry's butler and his

DICK WEST

Have Jaw; Will Travel...

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Anyone who still believes talk is cheap probably hasn't heard a U.S. senator make an after-dinner speech recently.

Most of the heavy hitters in the Senate have squads of staff assistants, also paid from public funds, who can double as ghostwriters.

Why, you may ask, would anyone pay to hear a senator when they can wait until he becomes a presidential candidate and then hear his campaign speeches for nothing?

For the answer to that question, let us wire-tap a conversation between the executive director of the National Conglomeration of Swizzle Stick Manufacturers and the program chairman for the organization's forthcoming convention.

Executive Director: Very well, that takes care of arrangements for the closing banquet except for the after-dinner speaker. I recommend trying to get Senator Crashbore.

Program Chairman: Crashbore? Is he an eloquent orator?

ED: No. As a matter of fact, the senator has a bad speech impediment. But he is the ranking member of the subcommittee that handles swizzle stick legislation.

PC: That's eloquent enough for me. Would he be offended if we tendered him an honorarium?

ED: I said he had a speech impediment; there's nothing wrong with his reach.

PC: How large should the honorarium be?

ED: That depends on how long the speech is.

PC: How long do you suggest?

ED: That depends on the size of the honorarium. For the maximum speaking fee, we are entitled to a speech of minimum length.

PC: What about the topic?

ED: Winter is a good time to have a convention because the senator will have just returned from a fact-finding mission to Jamaica. Therefore, he will be loaded with information.

PC: But they don't make swizzle sticks in Jamaica.

ED: I know, but they sure have nice winter weather down there.

PC: Is it hard to get an airline reservation that time of year?

ED: Not to worry. The senator will be traveling by Air Force transport after a stopover in Paris.

PC: Why Paris? France isn't on the way to Jamaica.

ED: You're right, but there is no congressional fact-finding mission to any part of the world that doesn't require a stopover in Paris.

chauffeur. Henry never knew the kinds of perks that could be arranged — private planes for trips to New York for dinner, limousines — and he loved it. When Henry had to wear a white tie and tails for his first White House dinner, it was Haig who went to Henry's house and helped him dress."

But Kissinger's military aide was more than just a dogrobbler. He was politically astute where Kissinger was, at first, naive. Haig had military expertise where Kissinger was essentially disinterested. Hersh reports that Haig even claimed to have gone on a highly secret reconnaissance mission into Cambodia though "no record has been found that Haig did in fact participate."

But Haig went too far, Hersh reports. "Eventually he would accomplish the one thing Kissinger found intolerable — a separate relationship with Richard Nixon — and the two men would become bitter enemies. And eventually Kissinger would come to realize that Alexander Haig was not Kissinger's Kissinger, as the newspapers would later characterize him, but Haig Haig."

Who We Are: The Melting Pot

WASHINGTON (UPI) — About 50 million Americans claim full or partial English heritage — the largest single ethnic group in the United States and more than the total population of England.

The Census Bureau also reported 49.2 million Americans list their ancestry as full or partly German.

It said 12 times as many Americans — or roughly 40 million — claim Irish descent as there are people in Ireland.

"And these figures were not even collected on St. Patrick's Day, when almost everyone claims to be Irish," said Census Bureau Director Bruce Chapman. The statistics were based on responses from the 1980 census forms.

On the long form, people were asked to identify their ancestry, regardless of how many generations removed from the country of origin. Chapman noted that the definition was up to the individual, and in cases where a person's ancestors came from several nations the person may have listed just one.

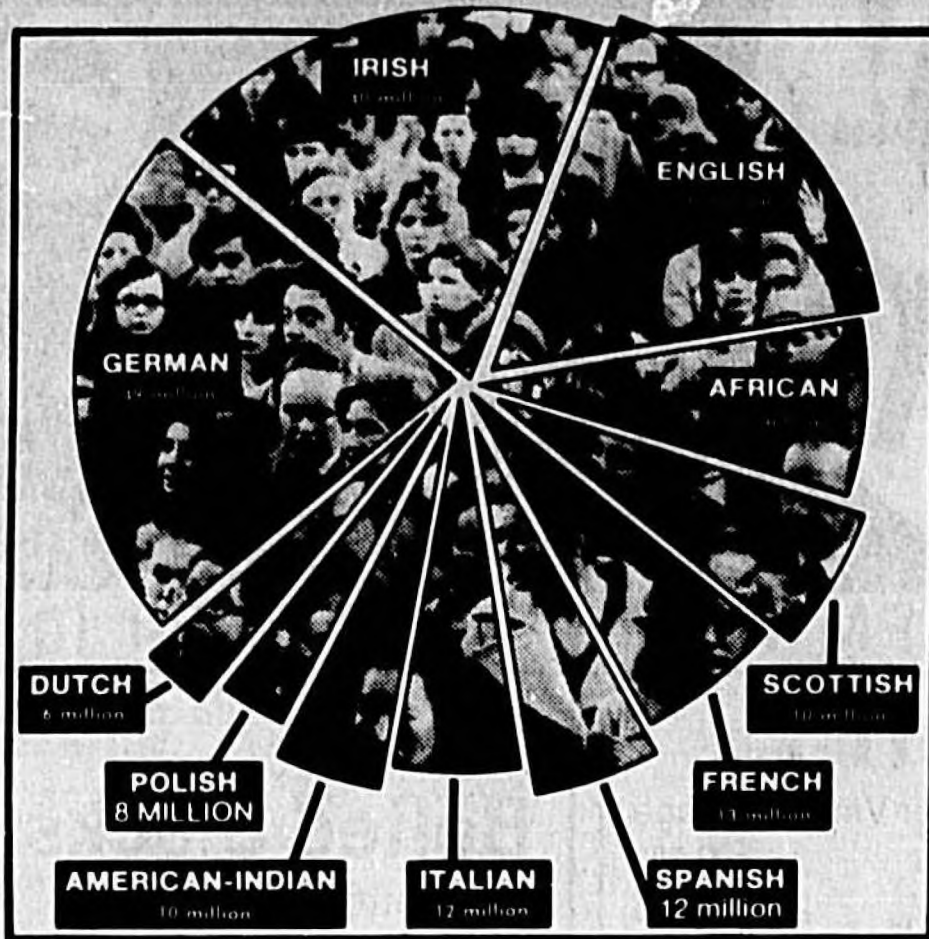

The statistics showed 49.5 million Americans reported at least one English ancestry, or about a million people more than the current English population.

The report also showed that more than 83 percent of the nation's population identifies with at least one ancestry group, with 52 percent claiming a single ancestry and 36 percent claiming two or more.

Twenty-one million Americans listed "Afro-American" ancestry, a number greater than the black populations of all but four African nations.

Other ethnic ancestries, both single and multiple designations, included: French, 13 million; Italian, 12 million; Scottish, 10 million; Polish, 8 million; Mexican, 8 million; American Indian, 7 million; and Dutch, 6 million.

The next largest ethnic groups, in descending order of size from 4 million to 1 million, were Swedish, Norwegian, Russian not elsewhere classified, and Portuguese. The Russian not elsewhere classified category includes those who reported as Russian, Great Russian, Georgian and other related European or Asian groups.

The report provided a look at the geographic distribution of ethnic groups, showing a number of concentrations.

More than half the Italians and Norwegians live in the Northeast and North Central regions respectively, and almost half the Portuguese and 48 percent of the Russian not elsewhere classified group were concentrated in the Northeast, with almost half the Czechs in the North Central region.

California portrayed the nation's ethnic diversity in 1980, with more people of English, German, Irish, French, Scottish, Dutch, Swedish, Danish and Portuguese origin living there than any other state.

New York, the traditional "melting pot" port of entry for many immigrants, showed the largest numbers of people of Italian, Polish, Russian and Hungarian ancestry, while Minnesota ranked first for Norwegians, Illinois for Czechs and Pennsylvania for Welsh.

The report also showed that about 70 percent of the Slovenes lived in the North Central region, mostly in Ohio, and high proportions of people of Croatian, Serbian and Finnish ancestry were in the North Central region.

Those reporting as French Canadian or Canadian resided largely in the Northeast, primarily Massachusetts and New York.

Court Rules 'Mercy Will' Allows Life Support Cutoff

WEST PALM BEACH (UPI) — If a patient who lapses into a coma has written a "mercy will," family members can ask a judge for permission to have his life support shut off, an appellate court has ruled.

Lawyers are calling last week's ruling by the 4th District Court of Appeal a "landmark decision."

The case involves Francis Landy of Lantana, Fla., a 79-year-old electrical engineer who lapsed into a coma in April 1981 at John F. Kennedy Hospital. He died a few days later of gastro-intestinal bleeding and other causes, but Circuit Judge Timothy Poulton decided to rule on the case anyway.

Poulton's decision last year that relatives could present "mercy wills" permitting the cutoff of support systems was upheld by the appeal court.

Appellate judges George Hersey, Gavin Letts and James Walden ruled the court-appointed guardian of a comatose patient can petition a judge to have life-support systems disconnected if the patient has been found to be terminally ill by two doctors.

The patient also must have written a "mercy will" — indicating a desire not to be kept alive by life support systems. In 1975, Landy wrote a "mercy will" asking he not be kept alive by life-support systems if he ever became terminally ill.

The appellate judges, however, rejected a request by lawyers representing Landy's widow that would allow comatose patients to have life support turned off without a court order.

Under the new ruling, medical personnel who turn off a life-support system under a judge's order cannot be prosecuted.

Attorney John R. Day, who represented Mrs. Landy in the appeals court, said the decision made legal history in Florida.

"Any case that fills a void, that establishes law where there is no law, is a landmark case," Day said. "People came into my office and said they wanted to sign a living will and before, you told them, 'I really don't know what the effect of this is.'"

"Now you can say, 'This is what will happen.' So it is important not only for the people in the hospital but their relatives."

The latest ruling came three years after a landmark "right-to-die" decision by the Florida Supreme Court in the case of Abe Perlmutter of Lauderdale Lakes.

In 1980, the justices ruled terminally ill patients like Perlmutter who were conscious and declared legally competent could request that their life support be taken away without a judge's consent.

Perlmutter, a 73-year-old retired New York cab driver, died Oct. 6, 1978, at Florida Medical Center after winning a three-month court battle to have his respirator turned off. He was suffering from "Lou Gehrig's disease," an incurable, muscle-debilitating illness.

Before straining a hamstring muscle while trying to beat out a bunt, Tim Raines had five hits in his last six at bats to raise his average to .286, the highest it's been since the fourth day of the season. Raines, who had played every inning of every game until he sat out Tuesday's game at Padre first baseman San Diego, injured his hamstring while trying to dodge a tag by day night's game at Padre first baseman Steve Garvey.

Raines And Howe: 2 Stars Going Opposite Directions

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

It was a strange coincidence. Los Angeles Dodger relief pitcher Steve Howe admitted that he still had a drug and alcohol dependency and would enter another rehabilitation center. Then, two days later, Tim Raines missed his first game of the year for the Montreal Expos.

Howe and Raines have a lot in common. Their careers paralleled. They were rising stars. Howe was the National League Rookie of the Year in 1980. Raines received a similar honor from The Sporting News in 1981.

Last year, each nosedived, literally. Both developed a dependency on cocaine, entered a rehabilitation center and came out pronouncing themselves clean.

During spring training, Howe and Raines both got off to fast starts. Everything seemed to be going well for the two, young comebackers. Once, at Vero Beach, Raines and Howe spotted each other after a game. They embraced. It was an emotional meeting. "I know what you're going through," said Howe. Raines nodded in agreement.

The meeting seems ironic now. Howe returned to his drug and alcohol when things started getting rough. His wife had their first child and there was a chance that the baby may have birth defects was one theory. Whatever, Howe, unbeknown to his closest friend, reliever Dave Stewart, was hooked again. Hooked after producing a league-leading seven saves and not giving up an earned run in 22 1/2 innings. Now, that's a problem.

But what about Raines, why did he miss that game? Even the closest of his friends in Sanford feared for his well-being after news of the Howe story broke. It couldn't happen to him, too, could it?

"They need not worry," said

Raines who sat out Tuesday's game in San Diego because he strained a hamstring muscle trying to dodge a tag by Steve Garvey at first base. "I'm through with that stuff. I have no desire to do that stuff again. And the people that do it stay away from me."

Raines, understandably, has grown tired of discussing last year's problem. He was bombarded with questions about it every time he hit a different city. Now, though, it has faded and he can get down to playing baseball.

The difference between the two, though, has been substantial. While Howe has not followed through on his post-rehabilitation treatments, Raines has. He gets counseling in Montreal and on the road.

"Once you have a problem like this, it's always in the back of your mind," said Dodger team physician Dr. Robert Woods. "People think you undergo a four-week program

Kendall Earns Distinguished Cordell Award

Seminole High Juniors Arlene Jones and Genene Stallworth along with seniors Dion Jackson and senior Aubrey Kendall came away with the top awards Wednesday evening as the high school honored its top spring sports athletes with a hamburger and covered dish dinner at the Police Benevolent building.

Jones, a three-sport star in volleyball, basketball and track, was presented the Female Athlete of the Year award by Principal Wayne Epps. Stallworth, who played volleyball and basketball, was named the Female Scholar-Athlete for her 3.5 grade point average. Jackson, who excelled in football and track, was the recipient of the Whitney McLucas Memorial Award as the top male athlete.

Kendall, who played football and soccer, received the distinguished Terry Cordell Memorial Award from Barbara Ray, a graduate of the 1953 class at Seminole. The intelligent senior, who was unable to attend because he was attending a church convention, also won the U.S. Army Reserve National Scholar-Athlete award which was presented by Sgt. Ken Brown.

Kendall's mother, Hope, and brother, Alan, were on hand to accept the awards for him.

Cordell was a four-sport athlete at Seminole and also an excellent student. He was one of the first casualties of the Vietnam War.

Seminole coach Beth Corso was the first speaker of the evening with her softball awards. Janet Hauck was the most valuable outfielder and Paula Ritchey was the most valuable infielder. Terri Hardy, Katy Barbour, Alecia Dixon, Angie Carpenter, Rhonda Shull, Ginger Fussell, Christy Gonzales, Hauck and Ritchey were all letter winners.

Coach Whitney Eckstein presented his golf awards next. Tom Galloway was most valuable and Robert Capko was most improved. Robbie Miller and Brian Nulty also lettered. Nulty was also cited for joining the team which allowed it to compete in the conference and district tournaments.

Coach Bobby Lundquist's baseball awards included Greg Hill as the most valuable. Andy Griffith for highest batting average and Chris Colon for the Bob Robinson Memorial Sportsmanship award.

Boys' track coaches Hank Daviero and Ted Tombros were next on the agenda and they presented seniors Mike Wooten (runner) and Dion Jackson (field events) with the most valuable honors. Billy Penick was named the most promising freshman while Clifton Campbell was the most improved.

Letter winners were Louis Brown, Penick, Leo Peterson, Dexter Jones, Deron Thompson, Anthony Hall, Campbell, Ken Troutman, Willie Bass, William "Mr. SHS" Boyd, Jackson, Marvin Pringle, Rendell Manley, Joe Whack, Tim Herring and Wooten (four-year letterman).

Bass, Jackson (twice), Brown, Whack and Wooten were All-Five-Star Conference selections.

Seminole's most successful program of the year — the girls' track team — was next. Coaches Emory Blake, Nate Perkins and Lionel Southward guided the Lady Seminoles to the school's first region championship. They won the district for the third straight year, too.

Junior Crystal Caldwell and sophomore Katrina Walker were selected co-MVPs while Glenda Bass was named the most promising and Lisa Grant was honored as most improved. Seminole's only two seniors, Jackie Fort (captain) and Sharon Lawrence, were given special recognition.

Letter winners were Walker, Lovisa Strickland, Bass, Tonya Payne, Traci Brown, Lawrence, Sharon Jenkins, Jones, Grant, Charita Medlock, Fort, Caldwell, Jackie Johnson and Diedre Hillery.

Walker, Johnson, Caldwell and Jenkins were two-event All-Five-Star Conference choices.

Burger King, the driving force behind the funding of many athletic events in the Central Florida, presented several achievement awards. Winners were Joe Whack, Brian Nulty, Terry Russel, Charita Medlock, Susana Huaman, Paul Griffin and Jon Hobbs.

Seminole trainer Jim "Doc" Terwilliger present awards to four trainers. Seniors Jon Hobbs and Chon Gann were given special recognition for a prep career of service. Hobbs has been with Terwilliger since his eighth grade year. Jim "Doc Jr." Terwilliger and Tim Cambridge were also honored.

The coaches were presented with a plaque or some other memento of esteem from their teams.

The frustration shows on the face of Railroaders' catcher Chuk Roll as the throw arrives too late to stop Andre Collins from scoring the winning run Wednesday night. Collins scored on a single by Hubert Williams to give Cardinal Industries a dramatic come-from-behind 18-17 victory. It was the hard-luck Railroaders third straight one-run loss in what has been a winless season for them.

Disabled American Veterans scored seven runs in the bottom of the sixth inning Monday en route to a 11-10 comeback victory over First Federal in Sanford Little National League action at Bay Avenue Field.

First Federal held a 10-4 lead going into the bottom of the sixth, but things got a little shaky when Cliff Sims singled and both Mark Barrett and Elliot Brownlee walked to load the bases with no outs. Kevin Nathan then struck out the next hitter for the first out, but walked Randy Anderson to force in a run. Joe Barrett then ripped his fourth single of the game to drive home two runs and cut First Federal's lead to 10-7.

Still with one out in the inning, Brooke Winn looped a double to drive home two runs and make the score 10-9. Kerry Wiggins then stepped up and drilled a single to drive home the tying and winning runs.

Barrett had four hits for D.A.V. which didn't score until the fourth inning. For First Federal, Mike Rumler had three hits including a double and a triple while English Morgan, Dorian Brundidge,

Sanford Baseball

Leonard Williams and Floyd Henderson all had two hits apiece. First Federal outhit D.A.V., 13-8.

At Fort Mellon Park, Mike Merthie tossed a one-hitter and cracked a home run as Sunniland slid past Rinker Materials, 11-4. Tim Graham added a double and a triple for Sunniland while Anthony Merthie also added a pair of hits.

Sunniland capitalized on two Rinker errors for three runs in the top of the first inning. Graham drew a walk and Mike Merthie reached on an error with one out. Dwight Brinson then reached on an error and Graham scored. Rick Taylor then walked to load the bases and Mitch Wright was hit by a pitch to force in another run. The third run scored on a wild pitch.

Rinker struck back with four runs in the bottom of the first to take a short-lived 4-3 lead. With one out, Brian Grayson and William Warren were issued free passes and Tony Curry followed by belting a three-run homer, the only hit of the night off Mike Merthie. David Wright then reached on an error and scored the go-ahead run on a passed ball.

Sunniland answered with four runs in the second to take a lead it never relinquished. The key hit in the inning was a two-run double by Graham and Sunniland benefitted from another Rinker error and two wild pitches.

Mike Merthie came back after the first inning to shutout Rinker the rest of the way. Merthie struck out 13 and walked four.

In Wednesday's first game at Fort Mellon Park, Cardinal Industries scored nine runs in the fourth inning and survived a late Railroaders rally en route to a slim 18-17 victory. Hubert Williams singled home Andre Collins with the winning run in the bottom of the final inning. The frustration continues for the Railroaders who have lost their last three games by only one run and have yet to win a game this season.

Cardinal Rally Tips Railroaders, 18-17

Denny Clayton went 3 for 3 and also picked up the pitching victory for Cardinal Industries while Carl Ruffin, Shawn Washington and Andre Collins added two hits each. Scooby Donaldson had a pair of hits for Railroaders and Patrick Mike was tagged with the pitching loss.

In Sanford Junior League action, what little there was, Knights of Columbus won by forfeit over Rotary while Kiwanis won by forfeit over Ball Motor Lines after Ball Motor Lines had taken a 13-12 lead in the fifth inning.

KOC now stands at 5-0 in the second half, one game ahead of Moose, while Rotary fell to 2-3. Rotary manager Ed Korgan warned five of his regulars that if they didn't run five laps for disciplinary reasons, they wouldn't play. When the players refused to run, Korgan didn't have enough of his reserves show up to field a starting team.

Ball Motor Lines, which had taken a 13-12 lead with six runs in the fifth inning, wound up forfeiting to Kiwanis after Steve Williams was ejected from the game in the sixth inning.

Kiwanis was without one of its top players, Arthur Hersey, who has been suspended indefinitely by league officials. Kiwanis now stands at 3-2 in the second half while Ball Motor Lines, which has forfeited its last two games, fell to 0-5.

Anderson's Power Show Brightens Up Express; Miller's 3 Homers Lead Bears

The expression on the faces of the Express always brightens when slugging second baseman Leonard Anderson wanders onto the Pinehurst Field in time for a game in the Sanford Men's Softball League.

And why not? The powerful Anderson, who can't make all the Express games because of his job, definitely makes a difference when he appears. Playing about half the games, Anderson has 22 hits in 32 at bats for a sizzling .688 average along with 10 home runs, second in the league.

Anderson smashed two of those round-trippers Wednesday night and drove in three runs as the Express knocked off floundering S & H Fabricating, 9-5. In other games, the Pookie Bears won their sixth straight, hammering Harcar, 18-3, and Uncle Nick's Oyster Bar dropped Season Time, 9-2.

It didn't take Anderson long to make his presence felt. Line Larson reached on an error but was forced at second base by Sonny Eubanks. Anderson followed with a homer for a 2-0 lead. Donnie McCoy then singled and scored two batters later on a base hit by Jay McClure.

In the fourth, Anderson struck again. Eubanks reached on an error by the shortstop and Leonard popped his second homer for a 6-2 lead. McCoy followed with a double and after a walk to Frank Turner, who enjoyed a 3-for-3 evening, winning pitcher Wayne Gager tripled home two more runs for a 9-2 bulge.

Don Waterman had three hits and three RBI for S & H while Barry

Graham rapped two. Carl Manning Jr. was the loser.

In the Bears romp over Harcar, Teddy Miller clubbed three home runs and drove in eight runs for winning pitcher Mark Smith. Mark Whitley had four hits and three RBI, Bobby Kelly had four hits and two RBI while Wayne Crocker had two singles and two RBI as the streaking Bears roughed up losing hurler Bruce Davidson for 18 hits. Eddie Warren and Mark Steffas had two base hits apiece for Harcar.

In Wednesday's first game, Don

Hibbard homered and singled to drive in three runs as Uncle Nick's used a five-run third inning to cruise past Season. Bill Miller doubled in two more runs during the frame and Mike Laubert added an RBI-single. Don Llewellyn and Dan Cannon each had two hits as did Laubert. Rich Balazentis drove in a pair of runs with two sacrifice flies. Hibbard was the winning pitcher while John Myers took the loss. Season could muster only four hits. Robbie Hanrahan had the lone RBI.

Thanks To Phillips, Umps No Longer Back Off From Anybody

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stop and think for a minute. What one over-riding characteristic did John McGraw, Leo Durocher and Earl Weaver, three managers who made such great names for themselves, have in common?

All three were umpire batters. Billy Martin is right up there with them. He's in the same boat. He claims he has nothing against umpires and respects them, but that only makes them laugh. He's not fooling them.

In Martin's defense, it should be said umpires have their faults. They're human and they make mistakes. Managers make as many if not more, so actually they have no kick.

Talk to umpires sometimes and if they level with you, you'll find out they have certain favorites. Players who accept decisions, even bad ones occasionally, and never say a word or give them any trouble. In that connection, I've heard umpires say Ted Williams was "a sweetheart," and Dick Allen another one because they took the good with the bad and never said boo.

Billy Martin isn't constituted that way. He sees something he thinks is wrong, he believes in doing something about it, making himself visible and making himself heard. He was that way when he played for the Yankees and he's still that way managing them — a third time.

The only trouble is he was born a little too late.

Earl Weaver, who now can be located every day approaching the green on the 14th or blasting his way out of the bunker on the 17th, was the last manager capable of intimidating the umpires. He got out just in time. If he comes back, he'll find out quickly he can no longer browbeat them the way he did managing the Baltimore Orioles.

Weaver battled the umpires so effectively that league president Lee MacPhail had to switch umpiring crews around so that at least one group wouldn't officiate any of the Orioles' games. Talk about John Elway calling his shot: how about Earl Weaver calling his?

The reason Martin is unable to call his, not with the umpires, anyway, is because the men in blue, through their Association and their spokesman, Richie Phillips, have grown so powerful they no longer back up for anyone. Not for the commissioner, not for the league president and certainly not for any manager.

Back in John McGraw's time, he was such a commanding presence and had so much influence as manager of the mighty New York Giants, he sometimes was able to bully certain umpires. Not all of them, though.

Angered by one of Bill Klem's calls that went against the Giants one day, McGraw came storming out of the dugout, pointed a finger under the umpire's nose and angrily threatened him:

Milton Richman
UPI Sports Editor

"I'll get your job for that."
"If you can get it, then I don't want it," Klem squelched him.

That exchange was so unusual, especially for its time, that it became something of a classic illustrating, as much as anything else, how managers, particularly those with the kind of imposing reputations McGraw had, tried to bring pressure to bear against the umpires.

No more. Now it's the other way around. The umpires felt they had enough clout to strike the game twice and although baseball kept going, it didn't go that well. There were complaints from all quarters, players, management and fans.

If there's any question in your mind how far the pendulum has swung the other way, how much power those who officiate the game now exert, you need only look to the NBA playoffs presently going on between the Philadelphia 76ers and the Los Angeles Lakers.

Besides the umpires, Phillips also represents the NBA referees. He put enough pressure on the league in the referees' behalf so that Commissioner Larry O'Brien had to jump in and come up with a settlement. Otherwise, there might've been no playoffs.

The umpires are equally strong. Commenting on the objections of some of them to the showing of instant replays on those huge electronic screens at the ballparks, Buzzie Bavasi, general manager of the Angels, said the other day:

"First, it was the players and now it's the umpires. It's about time we started running baseball again."

It strikes me the umpires have the bit in their teeth now and they're not going to let go. Billy Martin doesn't worry them. Nor does his boss, George Steinbrenner, who talks vaguely about going to court against the umpires. He'll have to wait his turn in line. For awhile, the umpires considered taking him to court, and Eddie Sapir, Martin's attorney, insists the baseball powers-that-be are likely to wind up in court one day themselves because the type action they keep taking against his client when Martin gets into some of those beefs with the umpires. Sapir claims the action in behalf of the umpires was "unconstitutional" and contrary to all laws of the land.

What a mess! The umpires say nobody loves them. Nobody even cares whether they're there or not until a decision has to be made. Then everybody makes a beeline for them to hear what they have to say.

Somewhat this all reminds me of the time Marty Marion was managing the St. Louis Browns and he had to go into the clubhouse for a few minutes while a game was in progress to answer an emergency phone call. When he got back to the dugout, he saw all his players ganging up on the first base umpire, screaming and waving their arms at him.

Marion had no idea whatsoever what the whole thing was about, but figured he'd better run out and become involved.

The umpire saw him coming and made up his mind to get in the first word.

"Marty, I just blew it, that's all," he confessed.

Martin still didn't know what the ump was talking about but he played it perfectly cool.

Turning on his heel, like the gentleman he was and still is, he comforted the man in blue:

"Don't worry about it. We all make mistakes."

Dempsey: Dignity, Class, As Always

NEW YORK (UPI) — Dignity and class — as always.

The body of Jack Dempsey, who died of natural causes at the age of 87 Tuesday, was placed on public view at the Frank E. Campbell Funeral Home in mid-Manhattan from 4 p.m. to 7 p.m. EDT Wednesday and today. Funeral services and burial will be private, as the former heavyweight champion wished.

The day of the funeral was not revealed.

A spokeswoman for the funeral home acknowledged the possibility of a large public turnout such as accompanied the 1948 wake of Babe Ruth, perhaps Dempsey's only rival as an American sports hero prior to World War II, but said the family hoped to avoid it. Ruth's wake was held at Yankee Stadium and thousands of people filed past the bier far into the night.

"There will be no late vigil," she said. "We will close at 7 p.m., or shortly thereafter, each night. No photographers will be permitted inside the home and there will be no facilities for newsmen."

She also said the home had not asked the police for any form of crowd control near the building.

"All this is as the family wishes," she said. "Also, there are other persons being waked here and the feelings of their families must be respected."

Meanwhile, the death of one of the greatest heroes of the 1920 sports scene often called "the golden era of sports," brought forth a continuing series of accolades from public figures with whom Dempsey mingled and the common people with whom he identified.

President Reagan memorialized Dempsey.

"Jack Dempsey was a champion who never lost his title in the hearts of the American people," Reagan said. "He was a true winner — remembered as much for his dignity, easy manner and generous nature as for his remarkable skills in that boxing ring."

Dempsey reigned as the heavyweight champion of the world from 1919 to 1925 but always remained "Champ" to thousands of sports fans during the last 58 years. Easily accessible, he literally shook "a million hands" of persons he hosted in his Broadway restaurant for more than 30 years. The tough kid who fought his way out of the hobo jungles and was criticized as a draft dodger during World War I became like Ruth an authentic folk hero.

Dempsey's health began to deteriorate in 1979 when he suffered a mild stroke. He suffered a heart attack in 1981 while exercising in his mid-town home and wore a pacemaker for the last two years of his life.

Born William Harrison Dempsey in 1895 in Manassa, Colo., the young Dempsey fought for small stakes in the gin mills of Tonopa, Nev., before turning professional in 1914. Dempsey won the heavyweight title by knocking out Jess Willard in 1919. He became a popular champion after a sensational defense of the title against Luis Firpo of Argentina in 1923.

His fame increased after two losing bouts with Gene Tunney, in 1926 and 1927, the second of which resulted in the famous "long count," with which both men were identified for the rest of their lives.

Win Or Lose, Erving Is A Champion

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Julius Erving had scored seven of his team's last 11 points — proving, win or lose, that despite what his critics said, he was a champion.

But even in victory, the Philadelphia 76ers' all-galaxy forward refused to gloat.

"I'm not overjoyed right now... not out of control," an almost solemn Erving said Tuesday night after the 76ers, the NBA's perennial bridesmaids, had removed the stigma with 115-108 victory over the defending champion Los Angeles Lakers.

Erving, 33, kept reminding everyone within earshot in the 76ers' dressing room that there were more important things in life than basketball, his family for instance.

"Last year was the first time I cried (after they had lost the championship series to the Lakers in six games) since I lost my brother in 1977," he said. "Things like that make you put moments like this in perspective. I'm not saying this isn't a great moment, but it's not one of the great moments in life. It's only one of the great moments in my basketball life."

The come-from-behind victory gave the 76ers a 4-0 sweep over the Lakers and brought the city of Philadelphia its first NBA title since 1967.

Moreover, Erving had earned his first NBA championship ring in seven years with the 76ers. Philadelphia had finished runner-up three times during that period.

"Not bad for someone who came out of college weighing only 195 pounds," the 6-foot-7 Erving said, breaking momentarily into a smile. "(Boston president and general manager) Red Auerbach even said I was too light to make it in pro ball."

AAU Cage Tourney Opens Tonight

The Seminole County Sub-district AAU Basketball Tournament will open play tonight when Oviedo ICBA plays Lake Howell Nautilus at Oviedo. Tip off is 8 p.m. for the 17-year-old and under competition which will determine the district representative for Tuesday's tournament at Kissimmee.

The winner of the the Oviedo-Lake Howell game will play Seminole Cook's corner at 8 p.m. Friday. The other semifinal round game pits Lyman Ahmann's Sporting Goods against Lake County Mickey T's Sports. Both games are at Seminole High.

Basketball

The two winners Friday play for the district berth on Saturday at 8 p.m. at Seminole. The two losers play a consolation game at 6 p.m. The winner of the district tournament will represent Central Florida at the Sunshine State Games at the new Orange County Civic Center in late July.

Lake Mary, expected to compete in the tournament, withdrew on Tuesday because of a lack of interest by the players, according to one coach.

...Raines

and you've got it licked. That's only the beginning."

Ex-Los Angeles pitching great Don Newcombe agrees. "What bothered me about Steve Howe was the fact he did not continue with the after-treatment program," said Newcombe who speaks across the country about drug-related and alcoholism. He is also in charge of the Dodgers' rehabilitation program. "He (Howe) completely ignored that. If he had continued with the after-treatment phase, he would still be pitching today."

Prior to his injury, Raines was on his hottest streak of the year. He had five hits in his last six at bats including his first home run of the year. His 20 runs batted in are an excellent figure for a leadoff hitter and his average has risen to .286, the highest it's been since the fourth day of the season.

Raines has a simple explanation for his turnaround — patience. "I've started taking more pitches and started walking a lot more," he said. "Remember, I got off to a slow start last year. I'm not going to worry about it. As long as we win, I'm satisfied."

While the hits have come slowly, so have the stolen bases. Only 13 in 17 attempts. Not bad for the normal thief, but Raines has already shown (71 steals in 1981 and 78 steals in 1982) that he is not the normal base stealer.

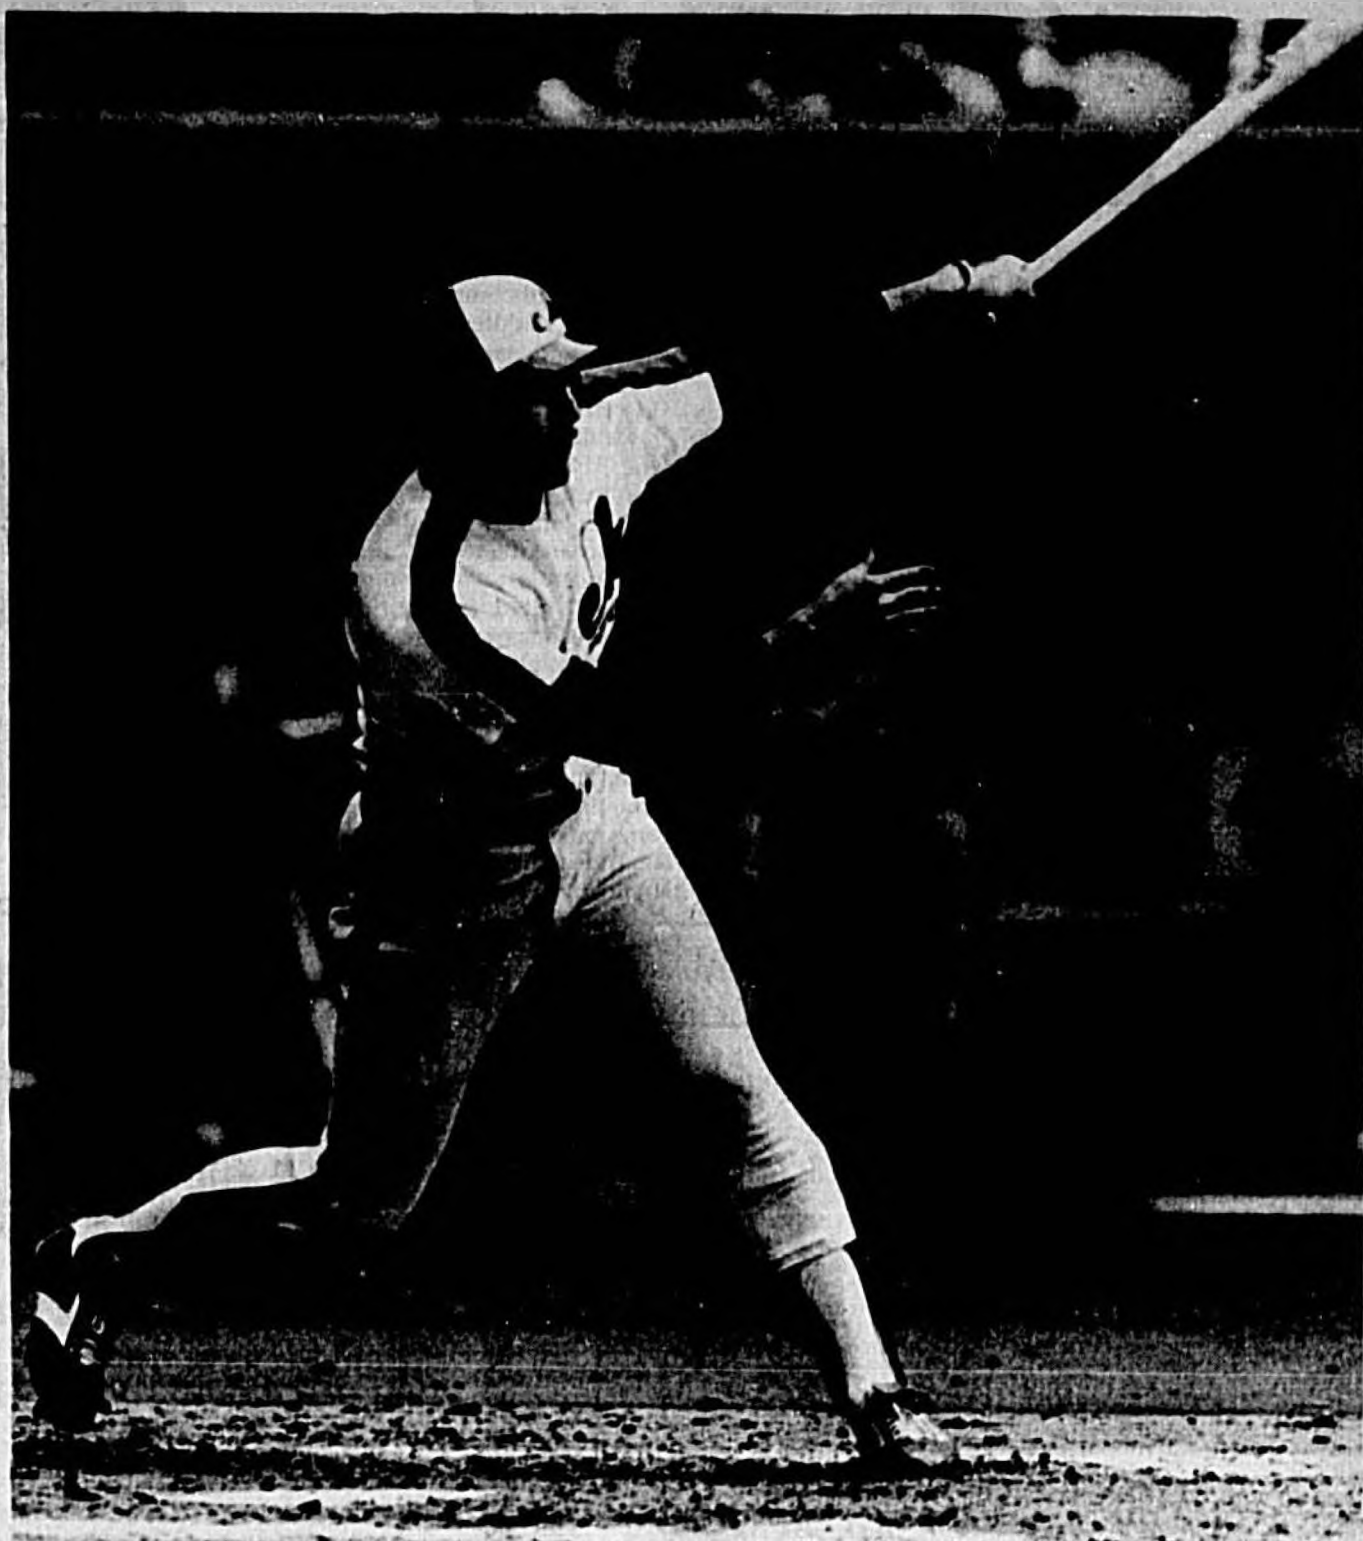

"The pitchers are watching me too close," Raines said. "They don't use a windup when they go to the plate. Three or four times they'll hurry it to the plate so the catcher can have a good pitch to throw. Pitchers are doing things to me this year I didn't even know existed."

Raines said he misses Steve Boros, too. The astute former Expo first base coach spent long hours with Raines refining his technique until it became almost impossible to throw him out with the correct jump. Boros is now managing the Oakland A's. "I'm not down on anybody, but Boros spent a lot of time with me."

"But, we've been in a lot of close games. I don't want to get thrown out and cost us a chance to win. They're some real good hitters behind me. I guess I'm not as aggressive as I was," he admitted.

Raines, though, is on a roll now. The injury, which wasn't deemed serious, should be well soon and he can continue stroking the ball. "Our relief pitching has been great," Raines pointed out. "As soon as the middle of the lineup (Gary Carter, Al Oliver and Tim Wallach) start hitting we'll start scoring runs like we're capable of. Then, we'll see who's in first place."

RAINES RAP — Tim was presented with the Lou Brock Award during the Expos swing through St. Louis for leading the N.L. in stolen bases last year with 78. Despite having just 13 steals, he only trails Lee Lacey, Steve Sax, Omar Moreno and Mookie Wilson by three stolen bases.

Tim Wallach clubbed a three-run homer Wednesday as the Montreal Expos whipped San Diego.

Welch 1-Hits Philadelphia

United Press International

When opposing Steve Carlton, a pitcher has less margin for error than a handcuffed lion tamer. But Bob Welch made pussycats of Philadelphia.

Welch allowed one hit — Von Hayes' two-out single in the fourth inning — and Pedro Guerrero singled in a run Wednesday night to lift the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 1-0 victory over Carlton and the Phillies.

"I watched Steve pitch and it helped me," said Welch. "I watched how he prepares and how he takes his time and concentrates on every batter and I decided that I would slow myself down and be relaxed on the mound."

"In my last game against the Giants I beat myself by rushing and overthrowing, but now I know it pays to be patient."

Welch, 4-4, walked four but fanned eight in hurling his second career one-hitter. It was the right-hander's second complete game and second shutout of the year. Hayes lined a clean single to right field, spooling the 26-year-old right-hander's bid for a no-hitter. Welch's first one-hitter came on May 20, 1980, against Atlanta.

Cubs 3, Astros 2
At Chicago, Keith Moreland drove in two runs with his seventh homer and a single to lead the Cubs. Chuck Rainey lost his bid to pick up Chicago's first complete game of the season and first since last Sept. 15 when Terry Puhl and Dickie Thon touched him for back-to-back singles with one out in the ninth.

Braves 6, Pirates 3
At Pittsburgh, Pascual Perez, 6-1, combined with Terry Forster and Gene Garber on a five-hitter and Terry Harper clubbed a three-run homer to lead Atlanta. The loss went to John Candelaria, 3-6, who gave up six runs on eight hits and two walks in five innings.

Cardinals 8, Reds 3
At St. Louis, John Martin, 3-1, pitched a five-hitter over 8 2-3 innings and drove in three runs with a single and double for the Cards. Mario Soto, 7-3, had his winning streak stopped at four games as he lost for the first time since April 24.

Expos 6, Padres 6
At San Diego, Tim Wallach drove in four runs, three of them with his seventh home run of the year to cap a four-run fifth, helping the Montreal snap a four-game losing streak. Reliever Bryn Smith went five innings and allowed two hits in flipping his record to 1-2. Elias Sosa, 0-1, took the loss. Tim Raines sat out the game for the Expos, still suffering from a strained hamstring he received Monday night.

Baseball

Giants 4, Mets 2

At San Francisco, Jack Clark hit a two-run homer in support of Allee Hammaker, lifting the Giants. Clark's homer, his eighth of the season, came off loser Tom Seaver, 3-5, in the third inning. Hammaker, 6-2, who reduced his league-leading ERA to 1.20, gave up two unearned runs.

White Sox 8, Red Sox 3

Chicago rookie Ron Kittle hit it all figured out way ahead of time. American League pitchers, however, haven't figured him out yet.

Kittle hit his AL leading 12th home run Wednesday night — a two-run shot in the sixth inning — to lead the homer-crazy Chicago White Sox to an 8-3 victory Wednesday night over Boston.

Tigers 3, Blue Jays 1

At Detroit, Kirk Gibson grounded a single up the middle with two out in the eighth to score Lou Whitaker from second and lift the Tigers. Dave Rozema, 2-0, rebounded after giving up a leadoff homer to Damaso Garcia to start the game.

Yankees 3, Angels 0

At New York, Bobby Murcer and Oscar Gamble cracked sixth-inning homers to break a scoreless tie and Ron Guldry, 7-3, fired a five-hitter to lead the Yankees to their sixth straight victory. Dave Goltz, 0-3, was the loser for California, which has lost three straight games.

Indians 5, Mariners 2

At Cleveland, Toby Harrah led off the eighth inning with his first home run of the season and rookie Neal Heaton picked up his fourth victory against one loss. Gaylord Perry, 3-7, took the loss.

Rangers 7, Royals 4

At Arlington, Texas, Billy Sample collected three hits, including his sixth homer of the year, and drove in two runs to help the Rangers snap a four-game losing streak. Rick Honeycutt, 7-3, recorded his first triumph over Kansas City in three years.

Orioles 6, Twins 3

At Minneapolis, Gary Roenicke went 4-for-4, including a homer, and drove in four runs to spark Baltimore. Winner Scott McGregor, 6-3, allowed 11 hits in 6 1-3 innings and Tippy Martinez finished for his sixth save.

A's 7, Brewers 5

At Milwaukee, Rickey Henderson's RBI single in the eighth inning broke 5-5 tie and helped Oakland snap a six-game losing streak. With one out, Tony Phillips walked. Pinch hitter Mike Davis was hit by a pitch and Henderson singled in Phillips.

SPORTS IN BRIEF

Weger, Thurston Pop HRs As Astros Outslug Cards

Wes Weger and Jerry Thurston each slammed two-run homers while Trevor Moore added a solo shot as the Astros knocked off the Cardinals, 8-3, in Altamonte Major National League playoff action Tuesday night.

The Astros, winners of the second half, and the Cardinals, winners of the first half, go at it again tonight at 5 at Altamonte. If coach Wayne Weger's Astros win tonight they earn the playoff spot for the Top Ten Tournament. A Cardinal will force a winner-take-all game Saturday.

Weger's son, Wes, survived a shaky first inning when the Cards scored all four of their runs. He blanked them over the last five frames while striking out 11 and surrendering just four hits. Mike Luke was the loser.

Thurston slugged his two-run blast and Moore added his solo homer in the first as the Astros crawled to within, 4-3. They added two more in the fourth as Sotty Cooklin had a key single and three more in the fifth as Weger unleashed his round-tripper. Jeff Burton also added a single.

Evert Is In, McEnroe Out

PARIS (UPI) — One down, one to go. Chris Evert Lloyd has already defeated one of the two players who have kept her out of the French Open Tennis Championships final since 1980 and today she takes on the other — Andrea Jaeger — in what should be the toughest of this year's women's semifinals.

Evert, the second seed, is aiming for a fifth French title — just as she was two years ago when eventual winner Hana Mandlikova downed her in the semifinals just as she was again last year when Jaeger whipped her 6-0, 6-3 in the same stage.

The men's semifinal lineup was completed Wednesday with second-seeded John McEnroe joining Andre Agassi and top seed Jimmy Connors on the sidelines.

McEnroe fell 1-6, 6-3, 6-4, 6-0 to Sweden's reigning champion Mats Wilander, who won 25 consecutive points midway through the match.

Wilander, seeded fifth, will meet either fourth-seeded Argentinean Guillermo Vilas or eighth-seeded Spaniard Jose Rivas, who were scheduled to compete their quarterfinal Thursday.

Fabricating Belts Elkettes For Title

S & H Fabricating banged out 15 hits and played flawless defense Monday night in a 17-2 rout of Elkettes at the Fort Mellon Park softball field. With the win, S & H Fabricating clinched the Sanford Women's Softball League title.

Cindy Bungo went 4 for 4, all singles, to lead the way while Joie Boyles added a single, double, triple and four RBI. Dee Hogan also stroked three hits and she also picked up the pitching victory, allowing just six hits to Elkettes. Cathy Griffith added a pair of hits for S & H. Diane McKinney had an RBI double for Elkettes.

Trailing, 1-0, S & H Fabricating scored all the runs it needed with three runs in the bottom of the first. Bungo led off with a single and Hogan followed with a base hit. Bungo scored when Griffith reached on an error and two more runs scored on a single by Jamie Hart. S&H Fabricating added four runs in the second inning and put the champagne on ice with eight runs in the fourth.

S&H Fabricating holds a two-game lead with only one game left to go in the season. S&H stands at 10-3 while Elkettes and Shoemaker Construction stand at 8-5 and The Barn is 1-12.

Shoemaker Construction has pretty good power with the likes of Maxine Campbell, Janet Hauck and a few others. But, Monday night, Shoemaker suffered a power shortage. However, there was still enough voltage left over for a 10-7 victory over the Barn.

There were no home runs, no doubles, no triples. Instead, Shoemaker Construction rapped out 11 singles with Katy Barbour and Angie Carpenter leading the way with two each. Betty Turner allowed only four hits in picking up the pitching victory for Shoemaker. Bonnie Mickey had a triple and a single for The Barn while Debra Campbell and Judy Walthers each had a single.

Israeli Troops Accused Of Abducting Lebanese

United Press International

The Beirut government charged that Israeli troops have abducted scores of Lebanese civilians "for no apparent reason," and said the machine-gun ambush of an Israeli convoy may have been in retaliation for the roundup.

The roundups occurred both before and after gunmen in a yellow Fiat attacked an Israeli convoy Wednesday on the southern outskirts of Beirut, Lebanon's official National News Agency said.

One guerrilla was wounded and captured after the ambush, an Israeli military spokesman said. No other injuries were reported. The Israeli military had no comment on the reported detention of civilians.

Congress Moves To Help Lebanon Recover From War

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House prepared to join the Senate today in approving a $251 million emergency aid package to help Lebanon rebuild its shattered economy and armed forces.

The aid bill includes a provision requiring the president to get congressional approval for any substantial increase in the number of U.S. troops in Lebanon or change in their role.

The bill, almost identical to one passed by the Senate May 20 on a voice vote, provides $150 million in Economic Support Funds, $100 million in loan guarantees to buy military equipment and $1 million for training of Lebanese military personnel.

During debate on the bill Wednesday, House Foreign Affairs Committee Chairman Clement

Zablocki, D-Wis., said the U.S. aid is urgently needed to help Lebanon recover from nearly eight years of civil war and the fighting that took place during the Israeli invasion last year.

The economic aid is needed to help restore basic public services and facilities, including water, sanitation, transportation and medical.

The military aid will help rebuild Lebanon's army so the Lebanese government can "re-establish effective sovereignty over all its own territory" when foreign forces withdraw, said Rep. Larry Winn, R-Kan.

Winn cited estimates that it may cost as much as $15 billion over the next decade to rebuild the once prosperous nation.

Rep. Lee Hamilton, D-Ind.,

chairman of the House Foreign Affairs subcommittee on Europe and the Middle East, said the U.S. aid would serve as a catalyst for others, particularly the World Bank, to join in the rebuilding effort.

Zablocki, recalling the bombing of the U.S. embassy in Beirut, said congressional approval of the aid would "show forcefully that we will not be intimidated by terrorists and violence."

The United States has assigned 1,200 Marines to the multinational peace-keeping force operating in Lebanon and another 600 are on ships standing offshore. Most members of Congress supported Reagan's decision to send U.S. troops to the war-torn nation, but are concerned about the possibility of those troops becoming involved in hostilities.

New Factory Orders Strong

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government reports factory orders rose 2.1 percent in April to their highest level in more than a year and a half.

Inventories, which eroded throughout the recession, began to accumulate again slightly, but perhaps enough to signal a turnaround.

Aircraft, machinery, automobiles, communications equipment and computers showed hefty improvements in the latest report, the Commerce Department said Wednesday.

The gains more than offset declines in the iron and steel industries and in construction materials.

New orders for manufactured goods, necessary to keep factories humming faster as the recovery continues, climbed $3.5 billion to $166.1 billion in April, the highest level since September 1981.

"Big ticket" orders for durable goods like automobiles, heavy appliances and machinery jumped 3.8 percent and also reached their highest level in slightly more than a year and a half.

Robert Ortner, chief economist at the Commerce Department, called the report "very robust." With the increase in orders, he said, "I think that manufacturers will feel quite free to step up their production and hopefully their employment as well."

The report also showed shipments of factory goods already manufactured climbed 1 percent in April, the fourth month in the last five in which orders exceeded shipments.

The value of inventories increased only slightly, 0.1 percent.

Lake Mary To Review Land Buy, Salary Plan

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

The possible purchase of a block of property owned by the Sjoblom family in the downtown area of Lake Mary, directly across the street from City Hall, will be considered by the City Commission at its 7:30 p.m. meeting today.

Also to be considered at the meeting at City Hall, 158 N. Country Club Road, are: the search for a new city manager, a salary study of city employees and a request from the Lake Mary Civic Improvement Association for a waiver of the $30 site review fee for its proposed new community building.

Ottis Sjoblom, member of a pioneer city family, offered the land and buildings for sale to the city three months ago for a total price of $200,000.

The sale offer includes eight lots on the east side of Country Club Road. Five of the lots are 116 feet long by 33 feet wide and bounded by Lakeview Avenue. The other three lots are also 116-by-33 and bounded by Crystal Lake Avenue. The two parcels are separated by a 20-foot alleyway.

Also included in the sale offer are the two lots adjacent to City Hall which are being used by the city for parking.

The city bought the 1920's vintage City Hall from Sjoblom two years ago and he has been allowing them to use his property for parking purposes.

Several businesses operating in the buildings on portions of the property Sjoblom is offering for sale are paying rental fees of $1,495 monthly.

Mayor Walter Sorenson has reported to the City Commission that Sjoblom wants a down payment of 10 percent or $20,000 and is willing to carry a mortgage for the $180,000 balance at 8 1/2 annual interest. City Treasurer Madeleine Minns has figured that over the life of a 15-year mortgage, monthly payments of $1,775 would be required, much of which would be defrayed by the rental income.

Businesses currently operating from the buildings include a casket company, laundry, carpet shop, church, beauty shop and print shop. In addition, the site contains two houses, one of which is used for an office.

Mrs. Minns also noted that the city would lose only $488.90 in tax revenues annually from the property if the city purchases it.

City Commissioner Ray Fox has expressed concern that if the city buys the property it will be competing with private developers who are building rental property in the area.

While City Manager Phil Kulbes' resignation is effective June 30, he will effectively be leaving the city's employ in the next two weeks as he takes vacation and compensatory time due him.

The City Commission two weeks ago talked about advertising for a replacement, but delayed the action at Commissioner Burt Perinich's behest. Perinich insisted that the commission had to decide on a salary range and specific duties of the office.

Kulbes' salary is currently $21,982.75 annually.

The commission will also consider a salary study and pay plan for city employees being conducted by City Commissioner Russ Megonegal who said he has prepared a plan from a salary schedule compiled by the Florida League of Cities.

director and accompanist of the Central Florida Choral. She has also been involved in We Care training for volunteers and the Seminole County School volunteer program.

Carolyn Graham, new president of Pankhurst, in her remarks called Mrs. Smith "a concerned human being, who puts her talents to active use to try and better conditions in the community." The Sanford Woman's Club was represented by Mrs. Ann Brissom. Rupert Strickland gave a short review of Mrs. Gatchel and her life.

Former recipients present for the award luncheon included Irene Rancey, Val Colbert, Rosamond Chapman, Dr. Maria Perez, Doris Dietrich, Vivian Buck, Ruth Swinney, Ada Reiley and Martha Yancey.

...Cities Oppose Gas Tax

Longwood Mayor June Lormann said although the Longwood City Commission has not voted on the tax, a poll conducted by City Administrator David Chacey showed the majority of the commission is opposed.

Oviedo Mayor Robert Whittier said the Oviedo City Council also has not voted on the issue, but some members "feel we are riding automobiles to death by raising taxes. If we are to load more taxes on the people, they should have the opportunity of voting on it," he said. Whittier added when the Oviedo council does formally discuss the issue, he will make his opposition known to the group.

Casselberry Mayor Charles Glascock said while he could support a gas tax, one city councilman is definitely opposed to the tax, one said he needs additional information and the others want to see a "definite priority list of roads that would be improved."

Lake Mary Mayor Walter Sorenson, noting the Lake Mary City Commission has not voted on the tax, said he could personally "support a gas tax in some form." He said one city commissioner has made known his opposition to the tax.

Altamonte Springs City Commissioner Lee Constantine, chairman of the council, talked in favor of the tax, but he added that while the Altamonte commission had a meeting earlier in the day, it also did not take a position and he hinted that when it does the majority will probably be opposed. "But they are open-minded," Constantine said.

Three members of the Altamonte Springs commission were in the audience. Commissioner Cheney Colardo "doubted" the county commission could set a definite priority list on road improvements for a five year period that would be binding on future county commissions. "I would like to see an opinion on whether the county commission can bind future commissions for five years," he said.

Rose said County Attorney Nikki Clayton has "waived" on whether the current commission could bind future commissions to a course of action.

It has been the opinion of the county as expressed by Rose that if the county commission votes for a gas tax, it can be levied for a five year period on the basis of that single vote.

Mrs. Glenn insisted that the first issue that had to be voted on by city officials is whether the cities would support a gas tax and then the county commission would vote on how much would be levied.

After that, if agreement is reached by the county commission, would be the time to negotiate over which roads would be improved, she said.

"The county commission will be the one taking the vote on whether to pass the tax. The political heat is on the Board of County Commissioners and we are willing to share that," Mrs. Glenn said.

Adkins responded the county is willing to share the political heat, but not the responsibility of setting a priority list of roads on which the resulting revenues from a gas tax could be spent.

Mrs. Lormann said the bottom line in the issue is that the people have spoken against any more taxes.

To continued insistence by city representatives that Mrs. Glenn get a definite consensus from the County Commission on the amount of tax it plans to levy and the projects that would be undertaken with the resulting revenues, Mrs. Glenn said, "If the county commission votes on projects it supports, why come to you at all? We did not have to come to the cities until after a vote."

She chastised the cities for failing to hold public hearings to "give the people an opportunity to speak for or against" the taxing proposal.

Saying in the past 6 weeks she has talked to all the cities, and to 18 civic organizations about the tax, Mrs. Glenn said she has received some heated letters and irate telephone calls.

"But I get more complaints about a traffic signal that is broken. I feel if we are successful, we can show an improvement in roads in five years," she said.

Sorenson said many "of the no tax people feel they are not getting the most bang for the buck."

The meeting concluded with Mrs. Glenn's statement that she was charged by the County Commission to seek opinions from the cities on the issue. "It would appear the general consensus is 'no.' I'm comfortable with what I've heard here and will express it to the board."
